STUDENTS WORK ON CLEANUP PROJECT AT WBES

Cub Den summer program students at West Brookfield Elementary School work hard to clear the courtyard as part of a service-learning project.

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

WEST BROOKFIELD — Most area schools sit idle during the summer months, but West Brookfield Elementary School has seen plenty of student activity in preparation for the upcoming year.

As part of a new service-learning component for their group this year, student members of the Cub Den summer program were taken on a tour of their school and asked which underutilized area they wanted to refurbish. After a careful evaluation, the kids ultimately decided to take on the overgrown courtyard at the center of the school as their service-learning project.

Over the last few weeks, the kids have been working hard to spruce up the courtyard. Debris and weeds have been removed, the grounds have been raked, and the previously neglected courtyard will look brand new by the time September arrives.

White's Landing permit decision reversed

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

BROOKFIELD — After a lengthy legal battle, a Worcester Superior Court judge has reversed the 2014 Zoning Board of Appeals decision denying the owners of White's Landing a special permit to renovate and expand their property.

White's Landing owners James Correia and his wife, Patricia White, maintained that all of the uses listed in their application for the permit were legitimate. Moreover, they contended that there were ulterior motives behind the ZBA decision that stemmed from an incident in 2012.

Superior Court Judge Daniel Wrenn agreed with the owners on both accounts.

"The court finds that the plaintiff's application for special permit presented a legally appropriate request for special permit," wrote Wrenn in a statement following his ruling in February. "The Board is directed to issue the requested special permit within ninety days."

White said town officials waited until the 90-day period had nearly expired

SPENCER — Summer has cruised into high gear, and so have classic vehicles dating back decades. Each Wednesday evening, Cruising for Charity holds an event on the field adjacent to Klem's.

Last Wednesday, July 6, some of the oldest vehicles around made an appearance. Pictured, Joe Leaming, of Brimfield, began restoring this 1978 Pontiac Trans Am when he was 14. Five years later, it's ready for the road. For more photos, turn to page A5!

BELANGER ENTERS RACE FOR 17TH DISTRICT

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

LEICESTER — After his bid for representation of the 17th Worcester District fell short by the narrowest of margins two years ago, Leicester Board of Selectmen Chairman Doug Belanger is determined to finish the mission in 2016.

As he prepares for the upcoming Democratic Primary in September, Belanger has been inspired by reflections on the life and service of his friend and mentor, the late state representative, John Binienda. After gaining countless insights from watching Binienda serve the district, Belanger wants to use his knowledge to assist residents and improve communities.

"He was a strong and effective voice for the district. To John, serving as state representative was more than a job – it was his passion," Belanger

Spencer man arrested after Express Mart robbery

SPENCER — A Spencer man has been arrested in connection with the July 10 robbery of the Express Mart on Main Street.

Joshua Jordan, 27, of 4 Powers Street, was arrested on July 12 after police received several tips on the photos they released of the robbery suspect. The incident occurred just after 4 a.m. on July 10, when the suspect entered the store in an orange hooded sweatshirt and demanded cash from the register.

No weapon was shown during the robbery, and the suspect fled down Main Street with an undisclosed amount of cash. Over the next 36 hours, tips poured into the offices of Spencer Police Detective James Murray and Officer Christopher Inzerillo, and two days later Jordan was arrested.

Jordan was arraigned last Wednesday, and he will return to court next month to answer to charges of unarmed robbery and larceny over $250.

Police thanked all residents who sent in tips to assist them in the investigation.

Local kids show off their creations after tie-dying T-shirts during a Richard Sugden Public Library program.

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

SPENCER — The Richard Sugden Public Library has been a cool spot for kids to hang out this summer — both literally and figuratively.

Last week, area youngsters were treated to a special visit from Jerry Schneider ("The Butterfly Man") for an interactive program. A big crowd of 42 kids attended the event, learning a great deal about butterflies and then tie-dying shirts with creative butterfly-themed designs. At the conclusion of the event, kids were able to wear their newly made T-shirts.

The library has several more events this month for guests of all ages. Next up, officials invite residents to take part in the library's latest Cookbook Creations event on Thursday, July 28. Set for 6-7 p.m., participants will make a dish and share it at the program. This month's theme for recipe inspirations is The Summer Book by Susan Branch.

Registration is required for this event, and the Friends of the Library will provide beverages.

To learn more about upcoming events at the library, or to register for a program, call 508-885-7513 or send an email to dfarmosa@cwmars.org.

LAKE TREATMENT

Following the treatment of Lake Wickaboag for nuisance aquatic vegetation, West Brookfield officials remind residents that the lake will be restricted for direct drinking through July 22.

Additionally, the lake will be restricted for irrigation through July 24.

For more information, visit www.wbrookfield.com.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Are you interested in getting involved in a committee to help improve your community? If so, North Brookfield officials have a few opportunities available.

Volunteers are needed to form a commission on disabilities, as well as to serve on the Worcester Regional Transit Authority Advisory Board. Individuals interested in either opportunity are asked to send an email to selectmen@northbrookfield.net.

BREAKING GROUND

Leicester residents and first responders have eagerly awaited construction of the new fire and EMS headquarters, and the time has almost arrived to break ground.

The Fire Station Building Committee has tentatively selected Tuesday, July 26, as the date for the groundbreaking ceremony at the site. The event will begin at noon, though this time is subject to change based on weather.

Residents are invited to attend the program and take part in an important town milestone as fire and EMS officials begin the next chapter.

SUMMER CONCERTS

East Brookfield residents have officially kicked off their summer concert series on Thursday nights. All events are at 6 p.m. at Connie Mack Field.

Upcoming events include July 28 (The Bad Tickers); Aug. 4 (The Island Castaways); Aug. 11 (Doolin Traditional Irish); and Aug. 18 (Quaboag Choral Society).

For more information about the series, check out the EB summer concert series Facebook page.

ADVANCED SLEEP APNEA TREATMENT

Nighttime snoring is not only annoying, but it may also be indicative of a far more serious problem. "Sleep apnea" is a common sleep disorder characterized by pauses in breathing, snorting and choking noises, and instances of shallow breathing. "Obstructive" sleep apnea occurs when muscles at the back of the throat (which support the soft palate, the uvula, the tonsils, the side walls of the throat, and the tongue) relax to the point where the airway narrows/closes when breathing in. To treat this form of sleep apnea, the dentist can make a "mandibular advancement device," which works by moving the jaw forward and increasing the size of the airway, thereby reducing the air resistance that causes snoring and sleep apnea.

This week's column on the progress of finding better help for patients who suffer with sleep apnea is brought to you by 9 W. MAIN DENTAL. We stress the importance of preventive dental care for the entire family. When was the last time you had your teeth checked by a professional? Call us now at 508.867.2777 and schedule an appointment. Your total emotional and physical well-being is as important to us as your teeth. We will do what is best for you and we will not compromise. We're located at 9 West Main St., West Brookfield.

P.S. Recent research suggests that mandibular advancement devices are effective at reducing blood pressure in patients with hypertension.

An opportunity to 'bring some beauty'

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

SOUTHBRIDGE — Not every child has the opportunity to visit art museums, but many children and families visit the Tri-Community YMCA every week.

With that in mind, the Quinebaug Valley Community for the Arts & Humanities (QVCAH) Board President Julie Prohaska and YMCA Director Glenn Juchno came up with the idea of getting artists from the community to adorn the walls of the YMCA with their artwork, one every month.

The community collaboration will allow children, families and visitors of all ages a chance to see local artists' work, which is important, said Prohaska, especially now that art is being taken out of a lot of curriculums in schools. Seeing younger artists' work can be a source of inspiration or encouragement.

"I think this is so exciting," said Prohaska. "I think this a really great outreach. We hope to extend it to other communities and facilities in the future. It's an opportunity to get artists and QVCAH out there and bring some beauty to the area."

The first artist to be featured at the YMCA (Simone Germaine already has more than six months of artists lined up) is 19-year-old Spencer resident Halie Smith, who said she is glad to have her artwork in a public place that will reach so many people in the area.

Said the young painter: "It's reaching people I wouldn't normally be able to reach."

Olivia Richman sat down with the artist as her artwork was being hung up to discuss her love of creating art, her plans for the future and other ways she has helped beautify her school and surrounding communities.

"I've always been making art," said 19-year-old Halie Smith. "I just think it's fun and relaxing. It makes me happy."

How long have you been an artist?

"Ever since I can remember. I've been doing everything — sculpting, graphite, painting. I do a lot of murals. I just do a little bit of everything."

What do you like about art?

"I've always been making art. I just think it's fun and relaxing. It makes me happy."

You said you haven't done a show in a long time.

"I did local art shows as a kid. I usually got a lot of ribbons for my artwork. It felt good. I would go to on StART on the Street in Worcester. I did that for a couple of years."

How does it feel to have your artwork at the YMCA?

"These [paintings and sculptures] are usually just around my house. It's nice to have different people see it."

What are some of your usual topics for your paintings? What inspires you?

"I really like birds and flowers and people. I like drawing hands. Usually nature is a big inspiration. I'm just really attracted to it. We live in the woods so I see a lot of wildlife and things like that."

Did you ever take classes?

"I'm an art major at MCLA. Hopefully I'll be an art therapist in the future."

Why do you want to be an art therapist?

"I really like art. I know I want to do something with art. I also like helping people. It's really interesting, too. I've done Why Me in Worcester and a few mission trips. I connected with kids through art. It's a good way of communicating, especially for me."

When you're not painting or creating art, what are some things you like to do?

"I don't know. I'm always doing art! I'm just always painting and creating things. I don't do anything else. Even my work is making candles all day. I work at Mole Hallow Candle Factory in Sturbridge. It's a fun job."

What are some things you're working on right now?

"I'm working on a few murals. I'm painting a mural at the Brookfield library. And murals for a few businesses in Thompson as well. It opens up a lot of doors for me. It gets spread around by word of mouth, which is good. At my school I do chalk murals on the sides of buildings."

North Brookfield man pleads guilty to child rapes

WORCESTER — A North Brookfield man was sentenced recently in Superior Court to 15 to 20 years in state prison after he pleaded guilty to several charges including four counts of aggravated rape of a child, according to Worcester County District Attorney Joseph D. Early Jr.

Matthew Clem, 31, of 14 Park St., North Brookfield, was sentenced by Judge Janet Kenton-Walker. Besides the rape charges, Clem pleaded guilty to three counts of enticing a child under 16 years of age and three counts of distribution of obscene matter. The judge sentenced him to 5 years to 5 years and a day in state prison on the enticing charges and 2 to 3 years in state prison on the obscene matter charges. All sentences are to run concurrently. A charge of assault and battery was dismissed.

A joint investigation by the State Police Detectives assigned to the Worcester County District Attorney's Office, Worcester Police Detective Bureau and the FBI led to charges against Clem in both Worcester Superior Court and U.S. District Court.

"I'd like to thank all of the law enforcement agencies who worked with us to take this predator off the street," Mr. Early said.

Assistant District Attorney Lina Pashou told the court that Clem used internet applications to communicate with children and arranged meetings with them.

Earlier today, Clem pleaded guilty to federal charges stemming from the same investigation in U.S. District Court. He was sentenced to 15 to 20 years in the federal case. Clem will serve his time in a federal prison.

VIEWPOINT

OPINION AND COMMENTARY FROM SPENCER, LEICESTER AND THE BROOKFIELDS

Pokémania is running wild

As I sat in my office last Thursday afternoon, little did I know that I was being stalked.

I was plugging away like every other normal day, answering e-mails, editing, typing and doing all the things I am paid to do. I didn't notice anything was wrong until a colleague came in and aimed his cell phone at me.

"What are you doing?" I asked.

"Playing Pokémon Go," he replied nonchalantly.

Of course, I knew exactly what he was talking about, as the game has been in the news ad nauseam over the past week.

Suddenly, he pointed the phone at me and smiled.

"Oh look, there's one flying around right behind you."

Instinctively, I looked behind my shoulder, as if I would see something in real life. Instantly embarrassed, I played it off like I was joking and looked at his phone, and sure enough, there it was, a cartoonish purple bat flying around in the corner behind my desk. I would soon discover that it was a Zubat — for any of my readers that play. He was soon caught by my colleague with a silky smooth swipe of the finger. All was restored back to normal. Whew, that was close!

THE MINOR DETAILS

ADAM MINOR

It was just another strange encounter with a game that has swept the nation, and our local area has been no different. Driving to pick up some groceries last week, I drove by two parks, both of which were swarming with men, women and children of all ages, with their phones out, either walking or hanging out in groups, swiping at their phones, and I can only assume they were battling each other for Pokémon supremacy. It was surreal to watch.

Pokémon is nothing new. I remember when the franchise was launched back in the mid-1990's. I was in middle school, and it took over my school much like this app is taking over today — only instead of cell phones, it was cards. Tons of cards. Overwhelming amounts of cards.

Now back then, I wasn't really into it as much as some people, but I'll admit, I dabbled. I knew the basic characters. I new the difference between a Charmander, Pikachu, Jigglypuff and a Squirtle. I knew the rarity of a Mew and knew what a Pokéball was. After all, it was kind of hard to miss, with everyone around you playing. At that time, I was more into sports playing cards, and I remember contemplating buying a pack of Pokémon cards or buying a pack of baseball cards, ultimately choosing the baseball cards. I guess my love for sports outweighed my desire to collect Japanese fictional monsters. After all, a middle schooler's allowance only gets you so far!

I never judged anyone for playing or collecting them though. I often would watch my friends battle each other, having no idea what was going on, but enjoying the competition of it. One of my friends gave me about 50 cards one time. They were probably doubles or triples of what he already had in his collection, but I thought they were fun to look at. I never once "battled" anyone, probably because my cards were far too common for anyone to want to win in a battle.

Fast forward nearly 20 years, and here we go again. Since middle school, Pokémon has continued to remain relevant, with countless video games and cards. In high school, I remember a particularly fun video game called "Pokémon Snap!" for the Nintendo 64, where the entire point of the game is to point a camera at Pokémon trying to catch them in great photos. It was a surprisingly addictive game!

These days, it's a mobile app, which shouldn't surprise anyone. I have to admit, part of me, being away from the phenomenon for so long, doesn't really get the appeal, but there's another part of me that thinks it could be worse. After all, it's getting people outside (safely, hopefully), being social and being somewhat active. I'm all for that. I've heard the haters too, but at the end of the day, how people spend their time is their business, and I'd rather them play a game than get themselves into trouble!

First, it was cards, then it was video games, now it's augmented reality on a mobile phone. I wonder what we will be talking about 20 years from now as our kids and their kids are trying to "catch 'em all."

Geocaching is Hot: Jump in to C-MASS GEOFEST in August!

Geocaching is a hot topic these days. Adults and kids are finding more reasons to get outdoors, exercise and explore by taking part in the exhilarating activity of hunting for geocaches. Our area's very first geocaching event, C-MASS GEOFEST, welcomed hundreds of people to explore our trails, find caches, enjoy fun events and socialize last summer. C-MASS GEOFEST returns for more fun in the summer of 2016.

What is geocaching? Geocaching is an outdoor recreational activity, in which participants use a Global Positioning System (GPS) receiver or mobile device and other navigational techniques to hide and seek containers, called "geocaches" or "caches," anywhere in the world.

Join us Aug. 17-21 in and around Sturbridge as enthusiastic geocachers comb our region in search of geocaches. Other events will entertain children and families between forays onto our abundant trails, scenic spaces, and even our waterways! Featured events planned throughout the 5-day fest include a bowling and mini-golf party at Bogey Lanes, a karaoke night (or "cachaoke" in this case) at Teddy G's Pub & Grille, a barbeque at B.T.'s Smokehouse, a stargazing event, a kayak cache event, an ice cream social at Jimmy D's Ice Cream, and much more!

C-MASS GEOFEST will be a celebration of activism in the outdoors and residents and visitors alike are invited to meet up, mingle and be a part of it all! Registration for the geocaching is completely free. The event takes place in many locations in Sturbridge. See the calendar of events at the website: www.c-massgeofest.org.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Brewer: 'Shike' would be proud of his daughter

To the Editor:

I read with great interest the opinion of one John McRae recently in this paper.

I believe Mr. McRae was indeed accurate about his kind words about a truly fine man, Reginald "Shike" Gobi.

The world needs more people like Shike Gobi. Mark Twain once said: "You can tell a lot about a person by the people that come to their funeral." When Shike passed away, they filled the church.

However, I will state without a hint of doubt that Mr. McRae is woefully incorrect in his depiction of the voting record and conscience of Shike's daughter, Sen. Anne Gobi.

Let the record show that Anne Gobi was my state representative (as I am a Barre resident) for 11 years.

As the state senator for 20 years for this district and eight years as the state representative i had the opportunity to work with Anne Gobi directly. I worked with her on hundreds of issues, big and small. I attended hundreds of events with Anne Gobi, in good times and in bad — both public and personal. And I am proud to have officiated her wedding to Bob Head.

As legislator, as a person and as a friend, I know she is a deep thinker. She takes information into herself, combines it with a lifetime of real life experience, adds empathy and historical wisdom, and then moves forward.

She is not impetuous, vain, or self important, much like her presidential role model Harry S. Truman. As Mr. McRae states, he may not know much about Senator Gobi's voting record, yet he is quick to vilify her for whomever was doing a roof project on a barn in Warren or any other gripes that may trouble him, be they local or global.

I would call to his attention that the Massachusetts Government website has recently been recognized as among the most transparent and informative sources of government information in the nation.

I urge him, and frankly all citizens, to inform themselves with the information and facts. I made over 10,000 votes in my career, even my own wife did not agree with all of them.

As has been said by others, "Being a legislator would be a good job if you didn't have to vote." But a legislator has to vote. And not just to always vote "No" or put on a "Show" and then take the "Dough."

When one has to take that vote, you need to combine your head, your heart, your values. Anne Gobi's values were indeed learned from that man who had grease under his fingernails and that special mother who has given care and love to far more people you will ever hope to know.

And I know, without a doubt, unlike Mr. McRae, that each day from his window in heaven, Shike Gobi beams with pride that his fair, compassionate, and well-reasoned daughter is working to make this a better world.

Sincerely, from one who has walked the walk…

STEPHEN M. BREWER

Be aware of challenges to managing retirement income

FINANCIAL FOCUS

JEFF BURDICK

When you retire, will your cost of living decline? Some of your expenses may indeed drop, but others won't. Plus, you may have some new ones to consider. So, all in all, it's a good idea to think about ways to boost your retirement savings now, before you're retired. And once you do retire, you'll need to be adept at managing your income. But whether saving today or planning for tomorrow, you should familiarize yourself with the key financial challenges you will face during your retirement years.

Specifically, consider these areas:

Longevity – Obviously, the longer your retirement lasts, the more money you'll need. And you could be retired for quite some time. A 65-year-old man, on average, is expected to live another 17.9 years, while a 65-year-old woman can anticipate another 20.5 years, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. With this type of potential longevity in mind, you'll want to contribute as much as you can afford to your retirement plans, such as your IRA and 401(k), while you're working. Then, when you are retired and start tapping into your investment portfolio, you will need to create a sustainable withdrawal rate – one that doesn't push you into the "danger zone" of possibly outliving your resources.

Health care – Once you enter your retirement years, your health care costs are all but certain to rise, even with Medicare. In fact, the average annual out-of-pocket health care cost for a household between 65 and 74 years old is $4,383 – about 11 percent of total household spending, according to the Employee Benefit Research Institute. And these costs rise substantially for those over 74. To help cope with these costs, you'll need a reasonable amount of liquidity in your portfolio.

Long-term care – You may never need to stay in a nursing home or receive services from a home health care worker. But you are taking somewhat of a gamble if you don't prepare for these long-term care costs – because they are high. In fact, the annual average cost for a private room in a nursing home is more than $92,000, according to the 2016 Cost of Care Survey produced by Genworth, a financial services company. Medicare typically pays very little of these expenses, but a financial professional can help you find an appropriate way of coping with these types of costs.

Inflation – We've had low inflation the past several years, but it hasn't gone away entirely, and it won't disappear when you're retired, either. Even a mild rate of inflation can, over time, seriously erode your purchasing power. To combat the effects of inflation, you'll need to own at least some growth-oriented investments.

Market volatility – The financial markets will bounce up and down during your retirement years, just as they did when you were working. The big difference? You have less time to recover – and you don't want to withdraw from your investments when their price is down. However, you can help avoid this necessity by maintaining enough income-producing vehicles in your portfolio; these types of investments usually fluctuate much less in value than stocks and stock-based vehicles.

By being aware of these issues, both before and during your retirement, you can prepare for them – and preparation is key to managing your income, as it is in all walks of life.

A READER SHARES HER STRATEGIES FOR SAVING MONEY:

If you suffer from allergies like so many of us do. Here is a quick and easy, and most importantly an inexpensive way to remove the pollen in your home. Pollen loves to gather on our window screens and curtains. And once it has penetrated the home you can find pollen scattered just about everywhere. Take a trip to your local dollar store and purchase a lint roller. The lint roller is sticky which makes it easy to roll your curtains and blinds and what have you. It is safe on most materials on couches and carpets too. These rollers usually include refills rolls as well. All for under a $1. Watch the pollen roll away.

A great effective penny pincher is to make your own ice packs. This can be done for very little money and effort and pays itself over and over again. Start by purchasing inexpensive bacterial dish soap and Ziploc or freezer bags. You can adjust the size of the bags to your own needs. At your local dollar store if you prefer (or sometimes large pharmacy chains have this even cheaper) squirt 50 to 75 percent of dish soap into the appropriate size bag. I use two or three Ziplocs for added protection from leaking. It freezes almost immediately. The nice thing is it is soft and fit shapes easily on things like, knees, shoulders or back. Take it to work, the park, or the beach. Gives you instant cold relief for things like sunburns, bug bites, cuts and scraps. And the uses don't stop there. Besides being an ice pack and keeping your items cold, it also works if you need to squirt a little on hands or knees if someone does get a bite or burn. Or just cleaning up your hands. And if you have a little pet like me and they like to come along for rides, just put one or two in an old pillow sheet. I leave this on the floorboards of car and my little dog loves to lay on it in hot days.

This unconventional gardening tip promises tastier tomatoes and more!

Mix 1/4 tsp. of powdered sugar with soil of tomatoes and peppers when planted. Water a week later with a warm beer water mix (add 1 teaspoon of liquid soap per gallon). This will give you the tastiest vegetables on the block!

GIVING OLD JEWELRY A QUICK MAKEOVER IS EASY WITH THIS READER'S IDEA;

I took some glitter and pastel rose nail polish last night to a couple pairs of inexpensive, (and not so shiny anymore) earrings. Now they all look like I have several new pairs. Girls and grownups alike could enjoy this or even paint earrings to match their pedicures and manicures.

Be prepared with this reader's "quick fix."

I have remembered something that I did a few years ago when I was working two jobs, when extra time was scarce. As I was on my way out the door to a job I sometimes suddenly had a button come off or seam come undone. I thought that if I would put thread through three needles (black white and maybe blue) and stick them into the pin cushion. Ready to go on short notice , they come in handy and save time.

No more burned fingers, thanks to this reader's repurposing tip:

I have a hint for the use of bamboo skewers. When you have a large candle that burns down low and it's hard to reach the wick, light the end of a bamboo skewer and use it to light the wick.

THIS RECYCLING TIP DOUBLE DUTY IN THE GARDEN:

Not only are newspapers a fine mulch for gardens, but they actually stop the weeds from growing too. Take several sheets, wet them down and lay them on the earth between the rows of vegetables. Weeds won't penetrate, and when the newspaper decomposes you'll have added a healthy touch to the soil.

The truth about sons

When I found out I was pregnant with a boy nine years ago, I was filled with excitement.

As a little sister, I always wanted to have a boy first, as there is something wonderful about a big brother. I may have thought otherwise when I was younger and had my own terror … er … big brother, but I knew my son would be everything amazing and more. I was told how rambunctious boys were, how emotional yet strong they could be, how their imaginations could run wild and keep them busy for hours! What I wasn't told though, was the truth … they can eat their weight in every grocery item you have, each hour, every hour, of every day … for years!

We had a mom/son family who lived in the apartment below us. Once the boy hit about 11, I remember the mom saying how much he eats. My son went through similar stints but it was called "a growth spurt," "It wont last," and "You think that's bad? Just wait until he is a teenager!"

This young boy took my son under his wing, despite their 7-year age difference, and they loved playing together. One day the other mom and I noticed a pattern. Her son would knock on my door to play with Jordan, and slowly, slyly, ever so politely, make his way to my refrigerator on his way to my son's room. Jordan, who was only 4 at the time, wasn't as slick. He would simply go down to Michelle's house and knock on the door, and say, "Can Devin play with me? And also what do you have to eat?"

Fast forward and my son is now 8. He still eats pretty much nonstop. I easily spend at least $100 on food, each week, just for him. I have spent my time studying nutrition so I have opted for snacks that will fill him up. Fiber filled veggies, vitamin filled fruits, lots and lots of protein, and healthy grains. This morning, for example, I made him a "sushi roll," a wrap with hummus (I make my own), two pieces of deli chicken breast, shredded carrots, lettuce, tomato, and pepper. I made him twice as much as I would normally make my husband … who can eat! I cut them into little sushi pieces, and on the side I also added in grapes and carrots … mind you, this was after two bowls of oatmeal. I knew we would have to go grocery shopping, so my goal was to fill him up. I also gave him a 24 oz. bottle of water and told him to drink.

MOM IN MOTION

jill@stonebridgerpess.com

"But mommy, I need real food … solid food. I could die of hunger!"

I fed him and so far everything was good. This might mean I am cleared to rally up the minions and head to the grocery store. I am a regular at our store. Between both kids and running out of things, I can easily say I am there at least three times a week. I'm surprised that when I walk in they don't yell, "Hi Jill!" My son has managed to con the deli counter people to give him a slice of whatever I might be purchasing, and more. Both my kids also have the "I get a cookie from the bakery" smile down pat (God bless those bakery workers, I swear my kids are the ones who ask for sample cookie the most), and the ever-so-amazing sample lady. My son has no qualms going back for more, and more, and more.

I make my way through the grocery store, picking out good healthy foods, but also fillers like graham crackers and fruit snacks, while I am health conscious, I still can't afford my kids' appetites. We make our way to the checkout line, and I thank my lucky stars I made it once again on a grocery store trip alive. Get to the car and get home, which alone is about a 45-minute process.

Once I get home all I really want is a nap, but instead I feed my kids and plan something to wake us up like going outside and playing. I feed my kids again … and again … finally get them settled for an hour of relaxation, and while I have my hands full of laundry, my beautiful, smart, amazing, glutton of a son comes up to me…

"Mommy, I'm hungry. Like really, really hungry."

"Of course you are."

I challenge you, my readers, to find me a recipe that will actually keep my kids full for more than 10 minutes!

A brave new world

And the hits just keep on coming! When you thought it couldn't get any weirder than it is, sure enough, it can, and it does. Every morning, now, before I roll out of bed, I check my phone for overnight developments to see that the boys from the religion of peace haven't blown up Boston or Worcester or Springfield and that the entire state isn't on lockdown, in which case there would be no point in going to my job as a delivery man — and I might as well roll over and go back to sleep.

Every stinking day there's a new report to corroborate your suspicions that the western world, especially our little corner of it, has gone completely insane, and that we'll all, pretty soon, be put out of our collective misery.

One morning I read that 120 pound girls — who can't do a single pull-up — will be insinuated into Marine Corps infantry line companies, and, you are not to worry, they will certainly not be given any special considerations, nor will physical standards be lowered to accommodate them; no, sir, not even by a tiny smidgen.

Then I read that major corporations — and Obama's administration — have opened up their rest rooms and locker rooms to all comers, no matter what you might look like with your clothes off. It will be all one-sided, of course; no one, regardless of how they view themselves on any particular day, will want to use the typical men's room, men being what we are — incredibly unconcerned about basic issues of bathroom hygiene. Visit any public men's room after the day is a few hours old, and you'll know what I mean.

Then we have the "girl" who manages to get herself elected "Prom Queen" despite having the male accouterments that even a Harry Reems would admire. You go, girl! (Who was Harry? Don't ask. If you know, you're as bad a person as I am)

And then there's the Christian dating service which, one assumes, exists to serve the ever dwindling cohort of American singles who subscribe to a biblical world view of love and marriage and who now, thanks, yet again, to one elitist liberal judge's personal opinion, must include individual solicitations for same sex romance, or go out of business. What's that? First Amendment protection of religious freedom? Of freedom of association? Of freedom of expression? Sit down and keep quiet, you ridiculous bigot!

But, the news on this morning's screen was about as appalling as it gets. The British, who only a week ago had me singing their praise, literally, when, in a burst of unwonted pride in and love of country and culture, in their unprecedented Brexit vote, told their ruling class thug masters in Brussels to sod off, are back at it once again, making one-time admirers, like me, of the British spirit wonder if there are, actually, any men left in that "sceptered isle." The tune, by the way, we all know, and its refrain is still stuck in my head: "Rule, Brittania! Brittania rules the waves! Britons never, never, never.....will be slaves!" They had me believing, at least for a few days. Despite Brexit, the Brits are more enslaved to political correctness than even we here in the colonies, if that's possible.

YOUR TURN

JOHN McRAE
EAST BROOKFIELD

Now, the British Olympic Committee announces with great pride that not one but two (!) Englishmen, who for some reason wish to be seen as girls, will be competing in track events for Queen and Country this summer in Rio. That's right, British women who have trained for much of a lifetime to earn this shot at glory will be staying home and watching on the telly their "female" betters compete for the laurel wreath and its attendant acclaim. For dippy British leftists, it doesn't get any better than this. Oh, wait, it could. Maybe, assuming they get to the gold/silver/bronze medal winner boxes, these "girls" could, a la Tommy Smith and John Carlos at Mexico City in 1968, raise their clenched fist and chant "Alahu ackbar!!" as the band is playing "God Save the Queen." The left would experience paroxysms of joy across what's left of western civilization. And normal people could ask themselves, why am I wasting my time watching this dog and pony show anyway?

But, you know, it's all good, after all. You don't have to be prescient to see what's coming, and we can act now to save everyone time, money, and dreams. From here on out, there's no point in having girls teams at any level, from grade school to the pros. The door has been opened wide now, and it won't be closed. Any boy, who, from either a sad confusion, a psychotic self-absorption, or malice presents himself as a female — regardless of his undeniable biological nature — and who brings with him an inborn advantage in upper body strength, speed, endurance, and resiliency to athletic injury, will, all other things being equal, easily achieve superiority over his authentically female competitors — in virtually any sport.

So, what's the point — from middle school to the paid professionals — in having separate teams for the girls? Look at the money that will be saved when you have to support only one team and anyone regardless of gender is free to come out for it. Any girl who actually earns a spot on that team will have truly won the admiration of one and all. There won't be many.

But, that's the logical conclusion to which we are being led by these progressive idiots who have taken the reins of power in this sick and twisted culture of ours.

So, think twice, moms and dads, before you sacrifice a small fortune to send Susie off to some extravagant soccer or basketball camp this summer. Soon, when the progressives for whom you vote have their way, the only place she'll be show-casing her skills will be in the backyard with the neighbor kids. The brave new world is here; don't say you didn't see it coming.

Three local baseball players play for Central Mass. in Bay State Games

The baseball portion of the annual Bay State Games kicked off July 11-15 at BC High School. On the Central Mass. team, Leicester High was represented by Camden Hart and Christian Russo, who helped lead the Wolverines to the Central Mass. Division 4 district semi-finals this past season. David Prouty Regional was also represented, as Evan Fritze competed.

Hart pitched five shutout innings versus the Southeast squad, only allowing two hits while striking out four batters to earn the win in an 85-minute contest, improving Central Mass.' record to 2-1.

Christian Russo pitched one scoreless inning on in relief and started later in the week for Central Mass. versus Coastal. Russo pitched three solid innings giving up one run, however he did not receive any offensive support in a 4-0 loss.

Fritze played a solid and error free shortstop and third base throughout the tournament. All three players will be returning to their respective high schools next year looking to improve their skills while hoping to grab the attention of local college scouts.

Oxford High hosts inaugural Summertime Volleyball Clinic

BY GREG BARLOW
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — Approaching just its second season varsity volleyball season as a member of the Southern Worcester County League, Oxford High is already making an on-court regional impact.

A total of 21 girls, representing five local high schools, filled the gymnasium to prepare for their upcoming volleyball seasons. July 11-14 marked the inaugural Summertime Oxford Volleyball Clinic, where participants practiced and developed their volleyball skills and knowledge from 8 a.m. to noon.

Joe Cicero, head coach of the Lady Pirates' fall season varsity team, believes the first time hosting the summer clinic was a success.

"Volleyball is such a fun sport to play as evident with the growth in number of high school programs in Central Mass.," he said. "Unlike other sports, many girls don't start playing until they reach high school. With so many new teams in the Southern Worcester County area, it was great for the town of Oxford to offer this clinic. Everyone who attended improved their skills, prepared for the season ahead, and most of all, had lots of fun."

The list of participants consisted of a well-balanced range of new and experienced student-athletes from Oxford High, Shepherd Hill Regional, Bay Path Regional, Tantasqua Regional and Marianapolis Prep.

Attendees worked on their passing, setting, serving, hitting, digging, footwork, rotations, conditioning and numerous technical aspects of volleyball. Toward the end of each day, the group built up to a full-match simulation.

Oxford's 'big banging bats' come alive to win state title, advance to Eastern Regionals

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

Ever since the Oxford Little League Senior Division All-Star baseball team managed to beat Southborough once (4-3) and Charlton twice (5-4 and 7-4) in close fashion to win the District 5 championship, the local nine — which includes members from Leicester — have been on an offensive tear throughout the Sectional and State tournaments.

In fact, Oxford has scored in double figures all six times, averaging 13.33 runs per contest en route to winning the state championship last weekend.

"From top to bottom we have an absolute killer lineup," explained manager Jimmy Purretta. "We call them the big banging bats."

Purretta was quick to mention that each member of the team contributed throughout the run to the state title.

"Some nights it was the top that did a lot of damage," he said. "Other nights it was the middle of the lineup. Other nights it was the bottom that provided a lot of offense. For the most part it's been a complete team effort."

Oxford rolled through the Sectional tournament with a 14-2 victory over Westfield on July 6, a 13-2 triumph versus Plymouth on July 9 and a 12-2 decision against Swansea on July 11.

Courtesy photo

The Oxford Little League Senior Division All-Star baseball team recently captured the state championship over Wakefield.

Although the run-producing numbers immediately jump out, Oxford's pitching and defense was right there as well.

"We were building our confidence and I told these kids, 'pedal to the metal,'" explained Purretta.

And although Oxford lost Game 1 of the state championship series versus Wakefield (18-12) at Locke Field in Billerica on Saturday, July 16, Purretta's club scored seven runs in the final inning to not only make the final outcome closer, but to build confidence for later in the day when they played Game 2.

"I wouldn't let those kids quit," said Purretta.

He called the last inning Game 1 rally a "wakeup call" and a "huge jumping point for us in the last two games."

In Game 2, Oxford rolled to a 16-2 victory. Then, in the deciding Game 3 on Sunday, July 17, Oxford again played solid baseball to pull out a 13-3 win.

"The kids were overjoyed," Purretta said of winning the state title. "The kids worked so hard and I'm so proud of them. I've coached these kids since they were T-ballers and I've had almost all of them over for sleepovers. They're a tight-knit group. It's just a joy to coach — just a pleasure."

Purretta added: "Pitching was phenomenal. Defense was phenomenal. It works together as a unit."

The "big banging bats" have used the mottos "Rock the house" and "Train's rolling" as rallying cries, and Oxford's train will be rolling to Thorofare, N.J., site of this year's Eastern Regional, which begins on Friday, July 22.

"I want to see if we can cause some damage down there," said Purretta. "We have proven that we are the best in the state this year."

Purretta added that this title was the fifth state championship in Oxford Little League's history.

"For a little town, we've got a big bite. I want to see what we can cause for damage," he concluded.

School seeking Town Meeting vote for roof renovation

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

NORTH BROOKFIELD — After qualifying to receive significant assistance from the Mass. School Building Authority, school officials are seeking support from Special Town Meeting voters for an elementary school roof renovation.

At the July 29 Special Town Meeting, voters will decide whether to approve $60,000 in design, architect and owner's project manager costs for the renovation. If given the green light, officials would spend the coming months forming the construction team.

One of just 49 school projects statewide to qualify for MSBA assistance this year, the proposal has already undergone an extensive review and approval process to be eligible for reimbursements. The MSBA has committed to covering $37,602 of the total design and architect costs, leaving North Brookfield's share at $22,398.

School officials are urging residents to take advantage of the MSBA's offer and address the roof problems at the elementary school before they worsen.

"We can't wait for the roof to get so bad that it is beyond repair. The schools are the pride of the community, and we want to keep them that way," said Superintendent Marilyn Tencza. "We are lucky to have our project accepted by MSBA."

If the project proceeds to the construction phase in 2017, the total cost is estimated at $2,075,000 (based on similarly sized ongoing MSBA projects). With an MSBA reimbursement of 62.67%, North Brookfield's cost is projected to be $774,598.

Re-coated in 1990, the roof has far outlasted its 20-year life expectancy – but problems have arisen in several areas. There are multiple leaks throughout the roof, in addition to broken gutters and downspouts. The longer it takes to address these problems, the more costly the renovation could become, officials warned.

And if the project isn't approved at town meeting, there is no guarantee of MSBA assistance for it in the future. Though the MSBA's commitment to covering its portion of design analysis costs this year would still be honored, the qualification process for the overall project would have to start anew.

The school recently benefited from MSBA reimbursements in another major project from 2012-14, when the elementary school windows were replaced. Now officials are hoping to capitalize on their chance to further improve the building.

"We have already been deemed a feasible project, and the next step is approval at Town Meeting," said Jay Mooney, the school district's director of buildings and grounds. "This is a fantastic opportunity for the town."

Another benefit of the project is the possibility for future development, officials said. A newly renovated roof could eventually be used for a solar installation; however, no solar components can be included in the current MSBA-assisted renovation project – they would have to be added later.

If approved, officials would hope to seek support for total project funding at a May 2017 town meeting. Contingent on another affirmative vote, construction would last six to twelve months and conclude around June 2018.

"We definitely got our money's worth from the current roof, but this is a needed project," Mooney added. "It is the town's building, and our job is to take care of it the best we can with the funds available."

The MSBA's accelerated repair grant program is managed by its board of directors. All projects are evaluated based on their scope and impact on the respective school districts, with each project expected to be completed in under 18 months.

Friday's Child

Matthew is a twelve-year-old boy of Hispanic descent. He enjoys playing video games and playing outside. Matthew is a sports enthusiast and enjoys watching and playing all different types of sports. He also enjoys being active and participating in activities. Matthew has an Individualized Education Plan that assists him with some challenges in school.

Matthew has some cognitive delays but he has made great strides in the classroom. In the past, Matthew resided in a single parent foster home with older children where he overall did very well. He is good with animals and enjoys helping with them.

Matthew is legally freed for adoption. Matthew's clinician believes he would do best in a single female or same-sex female home with or without older children. If the family has other children, Matthew should be the youngest child. Matthew's future family should be open to maintaining contact with his older sister.

White's Landing regains permit after lengthy legal battle

before issuing the permit, describing their actions as the latest attempt to stall progress at the 7 Fiskdale Road property.

The battle began back in 2012, shortly after the renovation and expansion project commenced at White's Landing, which offers kayak and canoe rentals, group events and river tours, among others. Significant upgrades were made to the main building on the property in 2012, and a second building was slated to house the boat rental office and a visitor information center. This work coincided with a town-managed bridge construction project directly across from the White's Landing property on Fiskdale Road (the road crosses the Quaboag River adjacent to White's Landing).

In preparation for construction of the new bridge, the town moved forward with an eminent domain order of land acquisition for sections of abutting properties. White and Correia opposed the initial design plans for the new bridge, claiming it would be too large and obtrusive. That's when the trouble with town officials began, White said.

"We haven't done anything wrong. We spoke out against those plans, and they [certain town officials] didn't like that," said White, who first opened the business with her husband in 2001. "All we have ever wanted to do is be a part of this community and give back to the community every day. The time we've spent defending ourselves in court is time we can never get back."

Shortly after White and Correia expressed their opposition to the original bridge construction plans in Sept. 2012, town officials denied a renewal of the White's Landing beer and wine license. Then, in March 2013, White and Correia received a letter from Town Counsel explaining that all uses for the property had been removed. That meant no further inspections or approvals could be granted, thereby stalling the renovation and expansion project. The special permit was then denied by the ZBA in 2014, and it seemed no amount of appeals or explanations to town boards could make any progress.

Left with no other recourse, White and Correia brought the matter to superior court – but the case wouldn't be completed for another two years. During review of the case, Judge Wrenn examined 43 exhibits of evidence, in addition to hearing testimony from the White's Landing owners and Brookfield building inspector Jeffrey Taylor. Testimony was also heard from former selectman and current ZBA member, Nicholas Thomo.

Additionally, Wrenn toured the property to get a better understanding of the work being completed.

"Mr. Correia, when he bought the property and throughout the years that followed, had very specific and appropriate plans to renovate, upgrade and expand the existing structures and uses at the property," Wrenn stated. "Mr. Correia had a good working relationship with town officials in Brookfield, and from 2005 to 2013 he applied for a number of different variances, licenses and permits, all of which were approved by the town."

Added Wrenn, "This eminent domain issue coincided with an abrupt change in the relationship between Mr. Correia and the town. Thereafter, the town began communicating with Mr. Correia through counsel."

Wrenn also concluded that town officials had not acted in good faith when deciding to deny the request for a special permit.

"The court finds that the real reason for Mr. Thomo's 'no' vote was an improper motive of protecting the Town of Brookfield's financial interest in keeping the property value of White's Landing as a lesser amount, in furtherance of their eminent domain proceeding," stated Wrenn. "After considering the testimony presented at trial and the parties' submissions, this court concludes that the Board decision was arbitrary and capricious."

Selectmen declined to comment on Wrenn's ruling. Thomo could not be reached for comment.

Correia and White, meanwhile, will attend a meeting on July 27 during which they hope to have their beer and wine license reinstated.

"This has been such a long and challenging process for us," White added. "We've always tried to do the right thing, but the town made it as difficult as possible for us. We just want to be able to serve our community – it's the community that gets hurt the worst by this."

Cub Scouts work on service-learning project at WBES

"There are a lot of great things that can come out of this, including an outdoor classroom and maybe even a garden that we could use to grow food," said WBES Principal Colleen Mucha.

Each day, different members of the student group have worked on the project, sometimes with over a dozen students attending. Led by fifth grade teacher Karen Oliveira and substitute teacher Nick Frank, the effort has gone very smoothly. Next up, the group is hoping to install a bench and picnic table beside one of the trees and then move on to planning a garden.

"This is a nice service learning opportunity. It's important for us to let the kids come up with ideas on their own rather than tell them what to do. That keeps them engaged throughout," Frank said.

For the teachers, it has been a thrill to see the students embrace this service learning opportunity. Not only are they involved in a fun project, but they also understand that their efforts will benefit the entire school. The project has been great for team-building and communications skills as well.

In addition to their work in the courtyard, the kids have also been authoring a blog to keep track of their efforts and share them with the community. Working two hours a weekday over a six-week period has been a challenging undertaking – but it's also been a lot of fun.

"The kids have been working really hard on their project," Oliveira said. "This is something that students will be able to use every day."

Of course, depending on which student you ask, everyone has a favorite aspect of the project.

"I like taking pictures of everything we've done," said seventh grader Riley Oleski.

The students have also enjoyed taking turns writing the blog.

"It is not going to be easy," fourth grader Emily Savage said of the project when the group was starting out. "But with the help of our community partners and our blog to get caught up when we are absent, I think we can do it. After all, that is what service learning is about."

Students and staff thanked the many individuals and businesses that have made donations for the project. The school always receives strong community support throughout the year.

To view an ongoing collection of stories and photos from the students' blog, find yourself a pen and a lengthy stretch of blank paper. The website is: www.cubden2016servicelearningkids.weebly.com.

said. "He spoke up for us with the knowledge and understanding that came from a lifetime of living and working in the district. John's experience and conviction are sorely missed."

Also a lifelong resident of the district, Belanger not only knows what it means to grow up in the region – but to serve his community in several capacities. In addition to his roles on the Board of Selectmen and as the treasurer of the Worcester Regional Transit Authority, Belanger has served on dozens of other committees and boards over a 30-year career in public service.

With experience at all levels of municipal leadership, Belanger feels he is in the best position of all candidates to lead the district and advocate for residents' needs. He has grown frustrated with current leadership at the state level, and he is hopeful to provide the change many of his constituents are seeking.

"Unfortunately, a slim majority of voters decided to take a chance with a fresh new smiling face that had never even participated in any form of community or civic activity," said Belanger, who was defeated by incumbent State Rep. Kate Campanale by just 43 votes in the 2014 general election. "More unfortunately, that experiment has failed – and to the people of the district it matters."

If elected, Belanger has immediate plans ready for Beacon Hill. Among his priorities is fighting for increased school aid and local aid, as well as advocating for pay equity, family medical leave, and earned sick time. He vows to be an active and vocal representative for his district.

"I will make it my mission to be a workhorse and not a show horse when it comes to constituent services," added Belanger, who is eager to debate his opponents on several issues as the elections near. "As a lifelong resident of this district with an established history of effective and accountable leadership, I continue to be troubled by our current Representative's silence and/or missed votes on issues that have a direct impact on the quality of life of the people of Worcester and Leicester."

Not only has Belanger dedicated much of his life to municipal service, but his family has been heavily involved as well. His wife has served on the Leicester Personnel Board, while his son served on the Parks and Recreation Committee and now manages Belanger's campaign.

Having graduated from LHS and raised his children in the district, Belanger has a strong understanding of the importance of securing aid for schools. Local aid is vital for all communities, Belanger said, and continued cuts could result in the reduction of teachers, public safety personnel, and programs and services for residents. Belanger has been particularly displeased with the expansion of charter schools at the expense of public education.

To reverse the momentum of state cuts in his district, Belanger believes a new voice and vision are needed.

"I am running for state representative because the 17th Worcester District cannot afford to continue with this failed experiment or risk trying another one," Belanger said.

The Democratic Primary will be held on Thursday, Sept. 8.

Nuisance dog decision to help give 'peace of mind' to be nuisance animals. They are now required to be confined when on the Kerr property and restrained in accordance with town bylaws when walked outside the property.

Complaints were made concerning the dogs by residents of Siani Road, who alleged that the Kerrs continually failed to restrain the dogs over a two-year period.

"They both come through the woods to our property on 12 Siani Road in Rochdale," wrote James and Christine Robidoux in a May 2 complaint submitted to selectmen on the recommendation of Animal Control Officer Patricia Dykas. "When on our property, they fight with our two dogs and are not able to be controlled or restrained. We have a history of calls being logged with the animal control officer and police department."

The dogs, Jet and Rose, ages 8 and 6, respectively, are both German shepherd mixes. Police records indicate that James and Christine Robidoux reported the dogs to police at least six times dating back to 2013. During a few of the incidents, they reported of the dogs attacking their own dogs.

On Sept. 21, 2013, Christine Robidoux reported nearly being injured as the dogs attempted to attack her dog, a police report read. Most recently, on April 28, Robidoux requested police assistance following yet another encounter with the dogs.

Selectmen were disturbed by the frequency of the calls and the repeated failure of the Kerrs to secure their dogs. At the hearing, the Kerrs reported that they have recently built an enclosure to secure the dogs.

"The owners seemed very sincere, and we hope there will be no more problems going forward," Board of Selectmen Chairman Doug Belanger said. "These residents shouldn't have to live in fear of the next time the dogs will come onto their property. This decision should give the people in that area some peace of mind."

Selectmen cited a lack of aggression toward people as an important factor in their decision to label the dogs as a nuisance rather than a danger. Yet they recognize that attempting to break up a dog fight could have led to personal injuries for the Robidoux family or their neighbors, and that the dogs must be contained from now on.

"They built an enclosure, which shows they are taking it seriously," Belanger added. "Residents in these situations need to be responsible for their pets and understand that this kind of thing can't happen again."

Reports indicated that the Kerrs have paid repeated citations following each incident with the police. The fourth offense – and all subsequent offenses – incurred a $50 penalty.

NORTH BROOKFIELD — The Class of 1981 from North Brookfield High School celebrated its 35th high school reunion last weekend. Classmates were invited to bring family members along for a meet and greet at 308 Lakeside in East Brookfield on Friday afternoon, July 8; about 52 people were in attendance. The reunion was held on Saturday evening, July 9, at Ye Olde Tavern in West Brookfield. Classmates who graduated with the class as well as those who were part of the class throughout the 12 years but graduated elsewhere were invited. Forty-five classmates attended, as well as four teachers and 28 guests. Some classmates traveled from California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Maine, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and Texas to attend. The class last got together for its 20th reunion in 2001 and is next planning to hold its 40th reunion in 2021. A great time was had by all!

Should I do a pre-inspection before I sell my home?

REALTOR'S REPORT

JAMES BLACK

Many times, this can be a great option — but not always.

Most relocation companies that I have worked with will require sellers to do a home inspection, well inspection and Title V inspection if the home has private water and sewer. Their thought process is to prevent any surprises and to get the repairs done prior to listing the home for sale. If you are thinking about selling your home and you have done everything to maintain your home over the years that home inspection may reveal things you would have never known about. Some examples I have seen are contaminants in your well water, termite or carpenter ant damage, and mold. This would give you an opportunity to make all these repairs and provide receipts to a new buyer to put them at ease and they may even decide not to do their own home inspection. The one other reason is that this pre-inspection could give you as a seller piece of mind that most likely nothing big will come up during the buyers inspection if your inspection came up OK.

The downside to doing this pre-inspection is that no home inspector will find everything. When the buyers hire their own inspector they may find other items that your inspector didn't find or may even just have a differing opinion on whether something is an issue or not. Also, if you are in a position where you cannot make repairs then doing the pre-inspection will just uncover issues that you will now disclose to any potential buyers but not be able to make the repairs. These buyers would be paying for an inspection anyway so it may not be worth spending your money especially if you are not in a great financial situation.

If you have a septic system, I always suggest getting the Title V inspection done prior to listing the home. I have many times had buyers ask me about a home that did not have the Title V completed and ask me what is wrong with the septic because they assume the seller did not test because they knew there was an issue. As always, I would suggest before you decide whether you should or should do a pre-inspection consult with a realtor who can guide you in the right direction for your specific scenario.

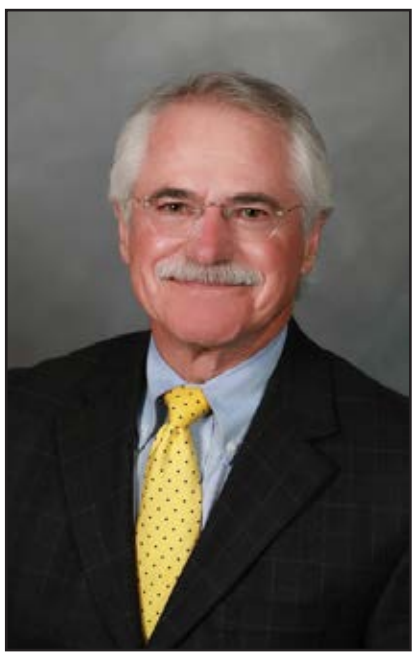
Harrington Physician Services welcomes Maloney to Spencer



Robert Maloney, MD

SPENCER — Robert Maloney, M.D., a primary care internist with more than 30 years' experience, will join Harrington Physician Services (HPS) Spencer office at 118 W. Main Street on August 1.

Dr. Maloney has been a private practice internist in Worcester for the past 23 years at the former Chadwick Associations Medical Group on Grove Street, acquired by Reliant Medical Group in 2014.

"We are excited to have Dr. Maloney join our primary care practice in Spencer as we believe he brings a high level of patient-centered care to the community," said Kristin Morales-Lemieux, chief operating officer for HPS. "He is well respected by his peers and will make a great addition to our office."

Dr. Maloney will join Drs. Talal Bou-Harb, Ryan Fillipon, and Nicholas Fillipon, as well as Nurse Practitioner Amy Robidoux in the Spencer office, which also has an on-site X-ray suite and several specialty physicians who see patients for consultations and follow-up appointments.

After receiving his medical degree from Catholic University of Louvain, in Louvain, Belgium, Dr. Maloney completed his internships and residencies at the (then) Worcester City Hospital in Worcester, MA. He also spent nine years as an emergency room physician at Lawrence General Hospital in Lawrence, MA, and four years as an emergency room physician at Wing Memorial Hospital in Palmer, MA.

Dr. Maloney is board-certified in internal medicine and a member of several professional organizations, including the American Medical Association, the American Society of Internal Medicine and the Massachusetts Medical Society. He is married with three children and lives in Spencer.

Patients who wish to schedule an appointment or follow Dr. Maloney to his new Spencer practice should call 508-885-3025.

Veterans' HOME Act signed into law

BOSTON — Sen. Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) announced that the so-called Veterans' HOME Act was signed into law by the Governor.

This legislation further strengthens the Commonwealth's commitment to its veterans, service members and their families by expanding benefits and services. The legislation also builds upon passage of the Valor Act I in 2012 and Valor Act II in 2014.

Focusing on housing and long-term support, the passage of the Veterans' HOME Act continues the strong reputation that Massachusetts has as a leader in understanding the sacrifice that military personnel and their families make not only while on active duty, but also after returning home.

"I am proud to have supported this legislation in the Senate which takes additional steps toward ensuring that all of our service members and veterans are provided with the assistance they need," said Moore.

Provisions of the newly signed law include:

• Establishing the Office of State Veterans' Homes and Housing within the Department of Veterans' Services serve as an advisor to the secretary on matters of veterans' housing and long term care.

• Requiring the office to annually report to the legislature on or before each November 1, with findings relative to the quality of care provided, financial status, the uniformity of policies and procedures, capital needs and the status of federal Department of Veterans Affairs accreditation.

• Mandating housing authorities exclude disability income in excess of $1,800 paid by the federal government for totally disabled and unemployable veterans from the gross income determination.

• Updating the veterans' preference so that all veterans have a preference in Ch. 667 housing.

• Expanding the Public Service Scholarship to provide for the children of all POWs.

• Clarifying the tax abatement for a surviving spouse following the death or MIA status of a soldier, sailor, or member of the National Guard so that it applies to a spouse of any active duty service member or veteran who suffers a service-related injury or illness.

• Fully abating any property taxes due by a surviving spouse following the death or missing in action status of a soldier, sailor, or member of the National Guard.

• Extending a total property tax exemption to 100% disabled service-connected blind veterans.

• Updating Chapter 151B so that Veteran Status is clearly a protected employment category.

• Exempting Silver Star recipients, the military's third highest honor, from civil service exam.

• Updating the provision on paid public service leave so that it applies to uniformed service and accurately reflects the modern approach to military training.

• Allowing municipalities to create a voluntary check off box to donate money to a municipal veteran's assistance fund to provide support for veterans and their dependents in need of immediate assistance with food, transportation, heat, and oil expenses.

• Providing excise tax exemption for veterans while deployed.

• Extending assistance from the Military Relief Fund to the National Guard.

• Businesses with 50+ employees must grant veterans a paid leave of absence on Veterans Day.

• Prohibiting municipalities from transferring the right to receive debt payments if the municipality receives notice that the debtor is a veteran.

• Expanding eligibility for Gold Star Family license plate, and establishes Bicentennial Park in Fall River as the Gold Star Families Memorial Monument of the Commonwealth.

• Studying the implementation of a sliding scale property tax abatement for disabled veterans, costs of transporting incarcerated disabled veterans to VA medical facilities, and on implementing tax rebates for veterans who lease dwellings to veterans.

Moore secures amendment to municipal modernization bill

BOSTON — An amendment filed by Sen. Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) was unanimously adopted as part of an omnibus municipal modernization bill debated in the Senate. The amendment, which received unanimous support, would help reduce vacancies on housing-related boards in the Commonwealth.

Under existing law, local housing and redevelopment boards are comprised of five members, including one member appointed at the state level by the Department of Housing and Community Development. In many communities, this appointment has remained vacant for extended periods of time.

The Moore-sponsored amendment would allow a local board of selectmen, or a city mayor with city council confirmation, to fill a vacancy lasting longer than 120 days. The appointment would continue through the unexpired portion of the term.

"These volunteer boards serve a critical role in governing local housing programs in our communities," said Moore. "I have heard from numerous board members about how the vacancies make it more difficult to conduct business and maintain a quorum for meetings. I am hopeful that this commonsense provision will reach the Governor's desk during the current legislative session."

The legislation will now go before a Conference Committee comprised of six legislators to resolve differences between versions of the bill passed by the Senate and House of Representatives.

Meals on Wheels seeks volunteers

More than 10 million (1 in 6) seniors in the U.S. face the threat of hunger and more than 15 million (1 in 4) are living in isolation. In south central Massachusetts alone, more than 800 seniors are being served by Tri-Valley, Inc. to address these issues.

This summer, Meals on Wheels America, in partnership with the Ad Council, will launch its first-ever national campaign to recruit volunteers to serve the nation's most vulnerable citizens. With the senior population projected to double by 2050, Tri-Valley is joining the effort to help inspire a new army of volunteers to meet the growing need in its 25-town service area.

Every day, Tri-Valley's volunteers deliver 700 meals along with friendly visits and safety checks to those who need them most. As important as the meal delivered is the fact that, for many seniors, the volunteer who delivers it is the only person they will see that day. The delivery isn't just about nutrition; it's about the moments of human connection that nourish the senior and the volunteer alike. Tri-Valley relies on an army of 750 volunteers to pack and deliver meals, typically between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., five days a week.

The national integrated public service campaign, created pro bono by the ad agency, Anomaly, will invite America to "Do Lunch" by volunteering during the critical lunch hour period to deliver meals and a smile to seniors. The TV, radio, print, out-of-home and digital public service advertisements (PSAs) will tell the poignant stories of just a few of the 2.4 million seniors the national Meals on Wheels network serves each year, stories that celebrate their lives and show how inspiring, wise and charming they really are. To further highlight their stories, renowned celebrity photographer Mark Seliger – who has photographed some of our culture's most famous faces from Kurt Cobain to President Obama – will be turning his lens to Meals on Wheels seniors and creating a series of portraits for the campaign.

"We're so excited to be working with Meals on Wheels programs across the country to launch this national effort on the ground," said Ellie Hollander, President and CEO of Meals on Wheels America. "We hope that by sharing just a few of our seniors' amazing and heartfelt stories, we can inspire even more volunteers to lend a caring hand to the growing number of aging neighbors in need."

Here is what a Tri-Valley volunteer said, when asked why she volunteers for Meals on Wheels, "It's a chance to help those in need. I've been a volunteer for almost one year now. I cannot picture my days without doing this and helping people."

Ad Libs by June

Some people say that the web is replacing print advertising. I recently did a mailing using information that I got on the web. Out of maybe 30 addresses that I sent to, eight came back, "unable to forward." On the web these businesses looked like they are open, still in business, when, in fact, they are not. I almost drove all the way to Wrentham based on a web listing saying the store was "open today 10-9" but called just to be sure…phone number was disconnected. ALL the businesses that you see in the Spencer New Leader and all of our newspapers, are genuine, and you don't have to guess whether or not they are still in business. SPENCER NEW LEADER…GO!

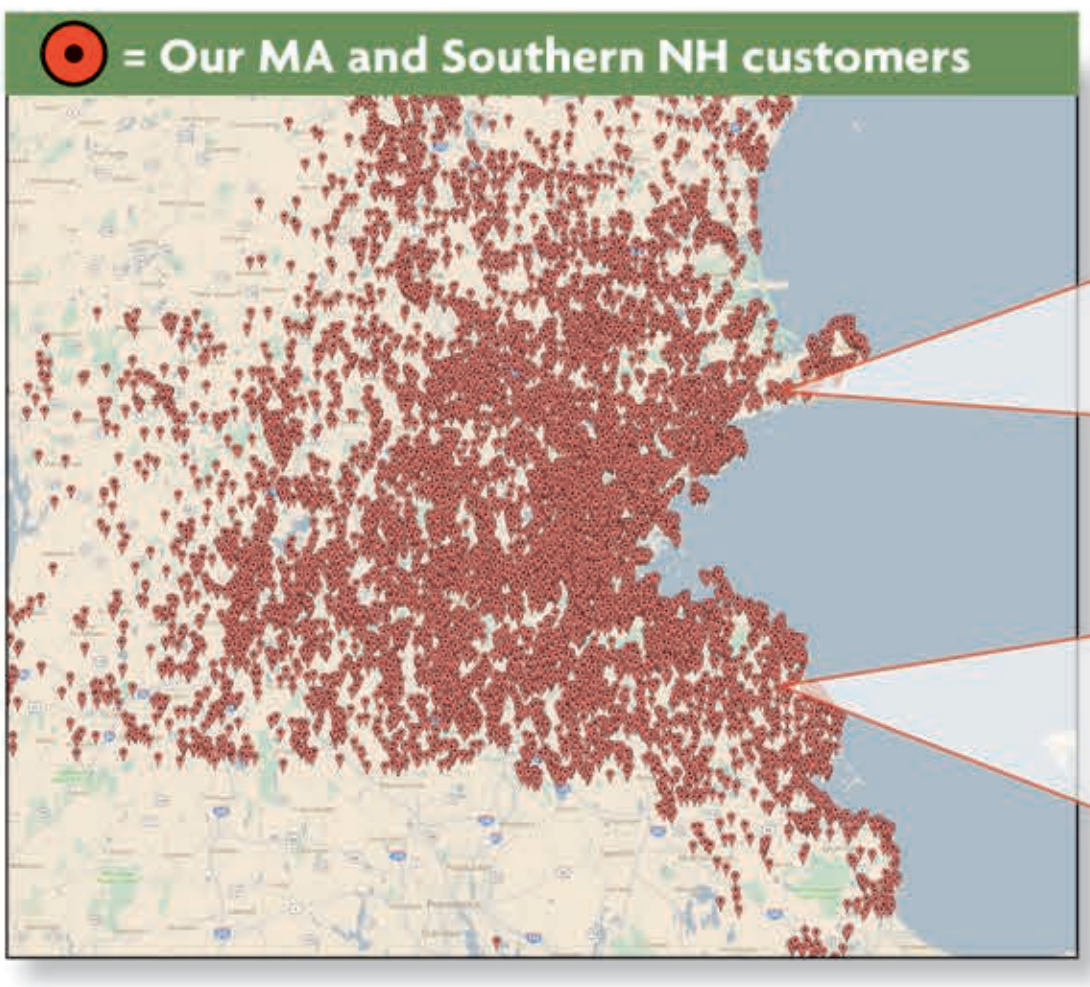
an Andersen Company



Why have 15,143 MA and NH homeowners chosen us?

No pressure. During your Free Window Diagnosis, we'll give you an exact, down-to-the-penny price that we'll honor for an entire year.

113 years of window expertise. We're the replacement division of Andersen, the window and door company that your dad told you to trust.

No middleman to deal with. We are the full-service replacement window division of Andersen. There's no runaround between the installer and the manufacturer because we handle it all, from custom-building to installing to warranting all our products.*

We won't sell you vinyl. We've replaced thousands of poor-quality vinyl windows and patio doors, so we made our windows with our Fibrex® composite material, which is two times stronger than vinyl.
