Solar Wolf Energy gives back to community

DOUGLAS — For Solar Wolf Energy Chairman and CEO Ted Strzelecki, giving back to the community is an integral part of any successful business. And since his company opened its doors at a new location in Douglas, he has strived to do just that.

Solar Wolf Energy recently hosted its grand opening celebration at the company's new headquarters at 100 Davis St. in Douglas. At the event, local members of the community were invited to celebrate with food, kids' activities, building tours, and more. One highlight of the event, for Strzelecki, was donating $3,000 to both the Douglas Fire Department and the Police Department.

"Fire and police are a necessity," he said, adding that on top of the donation, the company is happy to help with department facilities in the future should the need arise. "We like to do what we can; we've been having a great couple of years and I think it's important to share that."

"The donation from Great Wolf Energy is greatly appreciated, and will be used toward the restoration of the Police Department entrance," added Douglas Chief of Police Nick Miglionico.

Sutton Police hosting open house at new station

BY KIMBERLY PALMUCCI
TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENT

SUTTON — The Sutton Police Department will host an open house and ribbon cutting ceremony at its new location this weekend on Saturday, July 13, at 10 a.m. Members of the public are welcome to join the ceremony opening the town's new police department at 489 Central Turnpike.

After the ribbon cutting, a tour will be provided of the new facility. And after more than a year and a half of construction, the Sutton Police Department is ready to start its next chapter.

The Sutton Police Department became a full-time agency in 1968 and had been stationed alongside the municipal center at 4 Uxbridge Rd. since 1982, according to the town's Web site. The department is responsible for patrolling 140 miles of roadway and currently services more than 15,000 calls annually.

The town of Sutton is experiencing exponential growth as a result of the Route 146/ Massachusetts Turnpike connector. With the town's population now more than 9,600 citizens, this growth has brought an increased demand for police service, reads the website.

According to Sutton Chief of Police Dennis Towle, the department's old facility, logistically, had problems, including no public interview lobby, no public restrooms, and more.

"Although we've managed to work out of that building for a number of years, this new facility will make it easier for the public," he said.

The project started at the end of November 2017; Towle said that after the project was approved, the department expected the year-and-a-half timeline for everything to be complete.

Towle described the new dispatch center as "state-of-the-art." The lobby has public restrooms, and there is a larger community room which Towle believes could be utilized by other organizations across town. There will also be designated parking spots for Craigslist or other transactions in which individuals have a mutual and safe place to meet.

"All these things we never had simply because of our facility," he said.

Sutton Town Manager James Smith added that it was the residents of Sutton who deserved thanks for approving the funding for the new police station.

"It was almost a unanimous vote at town meeting," Smith explained. "I believe they saw the inadequate space, approximately 2,500 square feet, a lobby that fit one person, offices that were built out of closets and in the end, they felt this was insufficient for the department to do their job."

"The new police station was built not only for today, but for the future of Sutton. We believe this space will be appropriate for the next 50 years," Smith added.

Douglas police host second annual barbecue for seniors

The Douglas Police Department recently held its second annual Senior Citizen Barbecue at the Adult Social Center, formally known as the Senior Center, in Douglas.

BY KIMBERLY PALMUCCI
TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENT

DOUGLAS — The Douglas Police Department recently held its second annual Senior Citizen Barbecue at the Adult Social Center, formally known as the Senior Center, in Douglas. Members of the Police Department prepared, served, and enjoyed lunch with the seniors.

The Douglas Police Officers Association provided the food and members of the department, such as Sergeant Aaron McLaughlin, cooked, according to Director and Outreach Manager Patrice Rousseau.

"All the officers come in uniform, cook everything, and set up. It's a really nice group and they love to give back to the community," Rousseau said. "The seniors really look forward to it; I didn't have one seat left."

The barbecue started last year with Douglas Chief of Police Nick Miglionico, who Rousseau said would come to the Senior Center and have lunch with the seniors about six times a year. A barbecue was discussed, and the idea started as a way to start the summer in a festive way.

At the barbecue, one officer sat at each table, giving the seniors an opportunity to talk about the community and their own families.

"It's very important because they love getting that one-on-one time to ask about things in the community. There's a great sense of pride in the police officers," Rousseau said.

Miglionico said the barbecue is one of the department's favorite things to do together.

"We really enjoy spending time with the seniors," he said. "It is a great way to get to know them personally and hear any concerns they may have."

Rousseau added that what she loves most about Douglas is the sense of community throughout all the departments, including the police department, fire department, highway department, and more.

"It's really special to have that connection

Strzelecki said this donation was especially important after seeing the response from the community to the recent Depot Street apartment fire, which happened shortly after Solar Wolf moved into its new location.

"I basically sprang into action and turned our front office into a drop-off center for everybody in town to donate articles of clothing, toys, toothpaste—things people would need after a fire," Strzelecki said, adding that he spent 10 years on the Millbury Fire Department and had lost his own home to a fire as a child.

"We had a whole community dropping off; it was quite impressive, and the community embraced us after that," he recalled.

Solar Wolf Energy is a nationwide solar energy installer with years of experience in construction planning, installment execution, and energy and utility implementation, both residential and commercial. The company has offices in Millbury and Marlborough, with its new headquarters located in Douglas, and will be opening an additional office in Worcester in the coming months.

in the congressional record by senator Markey for their efforts through the MWT.

These artists blend distinctive voices with rich tantalizing harmonies and a wide range of accompaniment (Guitar, Harmonica, Ukulele, Clarinet, Penny Whistle, Electric Bass, Upright Bass, Piano, Mandolin, Dobro and Pedal Steel) featuring original and traditional acoustic Folk/Americana songwriting.Transcending the genre of folk Americana, their music echoes inspiration from traditional folk duos and singer/songwriters like Ian & Sylvia, Kate Wolf and Neil Young – combining beautiful harmonies and a lyrical intensity, while establishing a unique sound of their own. They have been well-received by audiences around the United States and Canada since 2010. Between tours, Mark and Raianne serve as music educators at Blackstone Valley Music in Uxbridge.

with the authority in town. Now, if 911 is called, they know all the paramedics and firefighters and the police because they see them consistently," she explained. "It makes them feel very, very safe when someone they met is going to be helping them."

This strong sense of community is just the Douglas way, she said, adding that "Everybody works so well together, and everybody is just so willing to help another department."

PAXTON SENIORS

Are you interested in joining another wonder trip in 2019?

A group of Seniors from Paxton and surrounding towns are planning a trip this year to Italy. The group plans to leave Paxton on Sept. 9, with transportation provided to Logan and return. Our flight will take us to Rome, Italy for 10 days visiting many historical sites of Italy. Rome has many beautiful attractions that many of us have not seen on previous visits. After two nights in Rome, we will move on to one night in Perugia where we will have the opportunity to visit Assisi, the birthplace of St. Francis of Assisi. Following our stay in Perugia, we move on to Florence, "the Cradle of Italian Renaissance," where we will view Michelangelo's incredible statue of David. After two nights in beautiful Florence, we will move on to Venice. On the way to Venice, we will stop at a 12th century castle and learn about the famous Tuscany wines and enjoy a cooking class and lunch. Next we are off to Venice for two nights. During that time, we have an opportunity to visit many of the wonderful sites of the Canal City.

After Venice, our next and last night will be Milan where we will have an opportunity to visit and shop at the"'Quadrilatero della Moda," Milan's high-fashion district. We will depart for home from Milan.

Friday's Child

Makayla ~ Age 15

Hi! My name is Makayla and I am very adventurous!

Makayla is described as being a smart, helpful, adventurous, and inquisitive fourteen-year-old girl of Caucasian descent. She is currently learning how to ride horses but she also enjoys drawing and writing. Makayla likes going to school and spending time with her peers. She interacts well with others, and the adults in her life say Makayla is pleasant and considerate.

Makayla is legally free for adoption and can be placed in an active one or two-parent family with at least one female caretaker. She will need to be the youngest or only child in the home. The ideal family for Makayla is one that is patient, and provides consistent structure and follow through in her everyday life. It would also be beneficial if her future family supported ongoing contact between Makayla and her sister.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

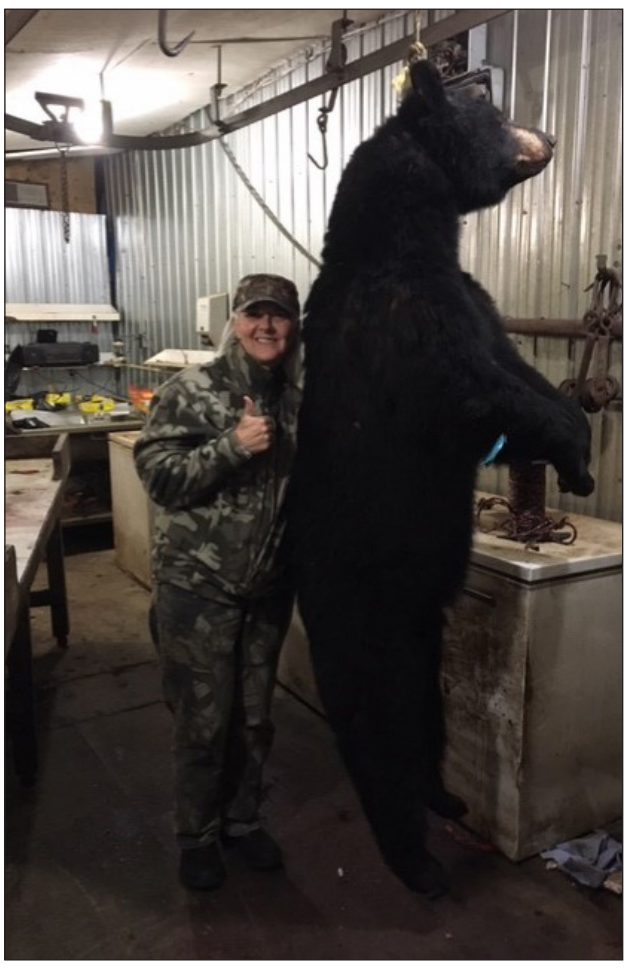
The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

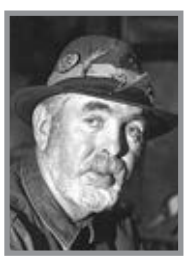
To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org.

The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

To sponsor Friday's Child call Patricia at 508-909-4135 or email patricia@stonebridgepress.news

The joys(?) of boat ownership





The Great Outdoors

RALPH TRUE

So, you want to buy a boat? Buying your own boat to fish from can be exciting but expansive. As the old saying goes, "The happiest two days of owning a boat are when you buy it and when you sell it." Another saying is "A boat is a big hole in the water that you keep pouring money into." They are both true, but they can also provide a family with a lot of fun on the water, and fishing from your own boat can also be exciting and rewarding.

Before you purchase a boat, you need to have a person that knows about boats with you before you put down you hard earned cash. What size boat do you want and can afford. Purchasing a big boat that needs a slip requires finding a slip first, as they are in high demand. Slip fees are also very costly, and the price is set by the feet of the craft , and vary depending on the location. Purchasing a boat that can be trailered in the 18-to-28-foot range requires a vehicle that has the power to safely transport it to and from your home.

Trailering your boat will require you to purchase insurance for both the boat and your trailer. Purchasing "SeaTow" or similar insurance will be necessary to provide help on the water in case you break down. Taking a course in navigation is extremely important. and having a (GPS) Global positioning system , or similar device is recommended for safe navigation on the water. Radar is another device that is extremely important especially when a fog banks moves in. The ocean is no place for armatures in a boat especially when the fog moves in.

Taking a Coast Guard Safety Course prior to purchasing a boat is highly recommended. Trailering a boat on the roads today is insane and extremely dangerous. If you decide to purchase your own boat and trailer it, be prepared to put up with a lot of "idiots" on the road and at the boat ramp. Keeping a cool head and driving safely will keep you and your family safe, and will give you many enjoyable days on the water. Always keep you VISA GOLD card available in case of emergencies. Good luck.

Striper fishing has been hot one day and poor the next. Being there at the right time and fishing with the proper bait or lures is important. A lot of bait fish are moving in and out of hot spots daily with a huge concentration of squid this year on the Cape. On angler reported being covered with squid ink even though he was not using squid. Bass were full of squid and were coughing them up when caught by anglers. Fluke & seabass fishing is holding their own, but no big bites reached this writers desk.

My brother Ken & his Wife visited the Quabbin Res. last week and caught a couple of lake trout and one bass. The second picture shows Ken with a nice lake trout. Although the fishing was slow they had a great time. Fishing the Quabbin anytime of the year is always a great day in the outdoors. The $25 fee for admittance and use of a boat and motor with a tank of gas is a real bargain.

Bear hunting can be dangerous, but exciting for some people and Janet Harper of Douglas loves the thrill of the hunt. As stated in last weeks column Janet & her husband Phil hunt all over the country and beyond, and they have plenty of mounts to prove there success hanging in there man cave and there woman's cave. Nice Bear.

Take A Kid Fishing & Keep Them Rods Bending!

Growing blueberries in honor of National Blueberry Month

Garden Moments

MELINDA MYERS

It's time to celebrate. July is National blueberry month so enjoy some of these nutritious berries and consider growing a few plants in your landscape.

Don't let a lack of space or poor soil stop you from growing blueberries. Simply plant a few blueberries in containers and enjoy their spring blooms, fall color and tasty and nutritional fruit for snacking, baking and including in healthful meals.

Blueberries prefer moist well-drained acidic soil. Most of us don't have this type of soil. We can, however, create the ideal conditions with a quality potting mix. Or make your own with a combination of sphagnum moss, pine bark and rice hulls or perlite for drainage. Incorporate a slow release fertilizer at planting to provide needed nutrients for six to eight weeks.

Grow one blueberry in a five-gallon pot with drainage holes. You only need one plant to have fruit but growing two blueberry plants more than doubles the harvest. Plus, you'll have more flowers and colorful fall foliage to brighten your patio, deck or balcony.

Select a blueberry suited to your growing region or one of the compact blueberry cultivars like Top Hat, Jelly Bean, Blueberry Glaze, and Peach Sorbet. Perpetua is not only compact but produces both a summer and fall crop.

Place your container in a sunny location. Check soil moisture in your container gardens daily. Water thoroughly and often enough to keep the soil slightly moist but not soggy wet.

Dress up the container and keep the roots cool and moist with mulch. Cover the soil surface with shredded leaves, evergreen needles, or shredded bark.

Birds are the biggest pest of blueberries. Simply cover the plants with netting as the fruit begins to develop to protect your harvest from hungry birds. This is a much easier task when dealing with a couple of potted plants versus a large in-ground planting.

You will need to provide a bit of winter protection if your winters are cold. Place your potted blueberries in a sheltered location and cover the container with woodchips to insulate the roots. Or sink the container in a vacant spot in the garden. You can also store your plants in an unheated garage for winter. Just be sure to water the plants anytime the soil is thawed and dry.

And even if you don't get a big harvest – the flowers and fall color make great additions to any landscape. Visit MelindaMyers.com for tips on harvesting, storing and preserving blueberries.

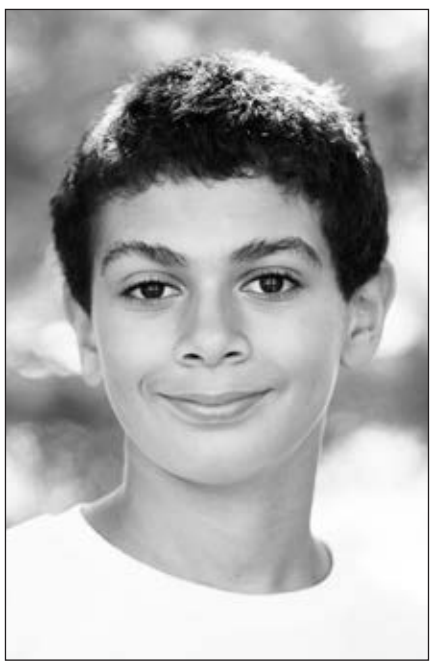
Friday's Child



Damon ~ Age 13

Hi! My name is Damon and I have a good sense of humor!

Damon is a loving and affectionate thirteen-year-old boy of African American and Lebanese descent. He can seem shy when you first meet him, but Damon thoroughly enjoys the company of others once he warms up and feels comfortable. Damon's favorite activity right now is playing video games but he is open to trying new things! He used to play flag football and enjoyed that very much. Damon would benefit from a supportive family that could expose him to different types of activities outside of the house. Damon is in the fifth grade this academic year and his teachers report he has great relationships with other students!

Damon is legally free for adoption and would thrive in a home with at least one male caretaker. Damon has the potential to be most successful in a family that can provide him structure, routine and predictability. Any interested family should also be willing to allow Damon to have ongoing contact with his maternal grandparents as they are extremely important to him.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org.

The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

GUEST COMMENTARY

JIM MESKIMEN

I started using marijuana in high school because I was nervous about girls.

At 17, I still had not successfully had a physical relationship with a girl, and the social and hormonal pressures were intense.

The '70's was a decade of a lot of moral "freedom", which basically amounted to "intimacy" being talked about in magazines, on TV and shown in movies with unprecedented frequency and verisimilitude.

Nowadays, it's commonplace to see graphic love scenes on TV, but back then it was new and electrifying to see people "making whoopie" in films without a fast cut to a scene of waves breaking on a shore, or logs burning in a fireplace, a euphemistic device brilliantly parodied in the comedy "Top Secret."

All this to say that sex was always top of mind for me back then. And my anxieties about it, about my performance, about the possible consequences, were also top of mind, and worrisome.

To ease the discomfort, I sought out someone who I knew was a marijuana user, with whom I also desired to have a fling. This girl was more than happy to get me "high".

(Marijuana was, of course, illegal back then. I don't know where she got her stash, but her older brother is a likely possibility. I recall months later trying on his leather jacket and finding inside the pockets two enormous plastic bags of pot.)

The effects of smoking were immediate. I was no longer nervous about anything. I was friendly, clever and amusing, untroubled by the possibility of rejection. I felt like the charming fellow I could never comfortably be in "normal life," but felt myself capable of being.

A few hours later, of course, I was back to my old confused, introverted self… but also ravenously hungry.

Pot became a staple in my life for many years, and it all started by "solving" my problem of anxiety over getting intimate. After a while, nervousness about sex was no longer my problem. Quite the opposite: irresponsibility about sex became my problem.

Today's medicos undoubtedly recommend drugs to teens for similar anxieties. Today's marijuana, as well as today's psych meds, are far more powerful and addictive than anything I would have been exposed to in 1977, so I am concerned about the 17 year olds of 2019 who might be as nervous about life as I was.

Here's the thing–drugs are a quick fix. They aren't based on or supportive of rationality. They don't cure anything. They are simply substances that affect the body in various ways, some of which can be pleasant, but always with a price.

Any pain diminished by drugs inevitably returns. Drugs rob your body of nutrients and, in many cases, can interrupt normal body function enough to make you ill or even do you in.

Pot smokers, back in my youth, were typified by the comedy of Cheech and Chong, (the Key and Peele of my day) who became famous with slapstick movies about stoners getting into ridiculous situations fueled by "Thai stick", "Panama Red" and other species of weed. (I recall them as hilarious, however, I don't think I'd feel the same about them if I watched one today; you never see any of their titles on "Best Comedy" film lists.)

Pot smoking was seen as unserious and innocent, nothing to get too worked

Garden Herbs: Proper Picking & Preserving

TAKE THE HINT

KAREN TRAINOR

Herbs not only bring essence and beauty to the landscape, they also provide an element of enchantment to a garden. Whether you grow herbs for their unique flavors, medicinal value, or just for the pure pleasure of it - the humble herb adds spice to any garden plot! Read on for some harvesting and preserving tips, plus few recipes to spotlight your fresh snipped herbs.

Harvesting Herbs

While snipping herbs daily for kitchen use is a common practice, the act of fully harvesting herbs regularly is also important to ensure new growth. For best flavor, cut or snip herbs in the morning, after the dew has evaporated from the leaves but before the midday sun heats the plant.

Most annual plants can be harvested twice during the planting season. Cut plants back to about five inches above the ground and feed after cutting. Annual herbs can be harvested until frost.

Perennial herbs may be harvested once during the first year and up to three times each season after the initial growth year. Harvest up to 75 percent of the top growth in late spring and another quarter in late summer. Stop harvesting about one month before the frost date. Late pruning could encourage tender growth that cannot harden-off before winter.

Flowering herbs should be harvested when the buds are apparent or when flowers are just opening. This is when their oil concentration is at its peak.

Preserving Herbs

While herbs for cooking should be used fresh for optimal quality and flavor, a zealous growing season can necessitate preserving the herbal plants. There are several methods to "keep" herbs for later use. Freezing: This is the easiest method to preserve herbs that are to be used in cooking. Herbs should be cut fresh and rinsed briefly in cold water. Chop herbs and spread out on a cookie sheet to freeze. Once frozen, transfer to a zip lock freezer bag. Another popular way to freeze herbs for uses in soups and other dishes that require liquid is to place pinches of herbs in water filled ice cube trays. Freeze and pack them into a zip lock freezer bag. Don't refreeze herbs after thawing. Drying: Drying is the traditional method of herb preservation. There are also several methods to dry herbs for later use. Air Drying: If the herbs are clean, do not wet them. Otherwise, rinse, shake off the excess water, and spread the herbs out to dry on paper towels or dishcloths until all surface moisture has evaporated. Remove any dead or damaged foliage. Then, tie the stems into small bundles with twine or string and hang them upside down in a warm, dry, airy place out of the sun. Be sure to make small, loose bundles and allow for good air circulation around each bunch. Dry indoors as sun and dew moisture can discolor and ruin the quality of many herbs. Hang and dry in the kitchen or even a garage or shed. Note: Some herbs, such as basil and mints may mold if not dried quickly. An alternative to hanging herbs to dry in bunches is to spread the herbs out on window screens. Suspend the screens over sawhorses or the backs of chairs. Turn the leaves often to ensure even drying. To air dry herbs with seeds, tie the herbs in small bundles and suspend inside a paper bag with holes punched in the sides. Suspend the bag in a dark area with good air circulation. Collect the seeds when they are dry, and store in rigid light-proof containers. Oven Drying: Traditional kitchen stoves can also be used to dry herbs. Spread the herbs on cookie sheets and dry at the lowest temperature. Home food dehydrators also do an excellent job of drying herbs. Follow the directions provided with the dehydrator. Herbs are sufficiently dry when they are brittle and crumble easily. When the leaves are dry, separate them from their stems and package the leaves in rigid containers with tight fitting lids. Glass or hard plastic are best, although zip-lock plastic freezer bags can be used. To preserve full flavor, avoid crushing the leaves until you are ready to use them. Store dried herbs in a cool, dry place away from sunlight, moisture, and heat. Many herbs ca keep for a year if stored properly.

Herbal Recipes

Below are some simple, yet delicious recipes that showcase the flavor of freshly picked garden herbs.

Melted Cheese Spread with Yarrow

This is a great salsa alternative when served with Tortillas or corn chips)

Ingredients: one pound soft cheese; one tablespoon minced yarrow leaves; one half cup tomato soup two tablespoons whole Yarrow flowers; black pepper, onion powder and garlic powder to taste. Directions: Melt the cheese and add the tomato soup, stirring until well mixed. Add Yarrow leaves and spices to taste. Blend in one tablespoon of the Yarrow flowers. Use remaining flowers as a bowl garnish.

Quick Chive Biscuits

Bisquick makes it quick and easy to bake up a batch of biscuits laced with fresh chives.

Ingredients: two cups Bisquick; 2/3 cup sour cream; 1/3 cup water; one tablespoon chopped chives. Directions: Stir together all ingredients to a soft dough. Beat 30 strokes until stiff but still sticky. Knead dough ten times. Roll out one half inch thick and cut with a floured glass or biscuit cutter. ***

Cilantro Salsa

This spicy salsa is a tasty accompaniment to seafood.

Ingredients: one half cup minced onion; one half cup tomato (chopped small); one teaspoon minced Jalapeno chile; one teaspoon salt. Directions: Soak onion in cold water for a half hour, rinse and drain. Mix together all other ingredients and chill covered until serving time.

Life events can lead you to see a financial advisor

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

Over the years, you'll experience many personal and professional milestones. Each of these can be satisfying, but they may also bring challenges – especially financial ones. That's why you may want to seek the guidance of a financial professional. Here are some of the key life events you may encounter, along with the help a financial advisor can provide:

New job – When you start a new job, especially if it's your first "career-type" one, you may find that you have several questions about planning for your financial future, including your retirement. You may have questions about how much you should contribute to your employer-sponsored retirement plan. What investments should you choose? When should you increase your contributions or adjust your investment mix? A financial advisor can recommend an investment strategy that's appropriate for your goals, risk tolerance and time horizon.

Marriage – Newlyweds often discover they bring different financial habits to a marriage. For example, one spouse may be more of a saver, while the other is more prone to spending. And this holds true for investment styles – one spouse might be more risk-averse, while the other is more aggressive. A financial advisor can help recommend ways for you and your spouse to find some common ground in your saving and investment strategies, enabling you to move forward toward your mutual goals.

New child – When you have a child, you will need to consider a variety of financial issues. Will you be able to help the child someday go to college? And what might happen to your child, or children, if you were no longer around? A financial advisor can present you with some college-savings options, such as an education savings plan, as well as ways to protect your family, such as life insurance.

Career change – You may change jobs several times, and each time you do, you'll need to make some choices about your employer-sponsored retirement plan. Should you move it to your new employer's plan, if transfers are allowed? Or, if permitted, should you keep the assets in your old employer's plan? Or perhaps you should roll over the money into an IRA? A financial advisor can help you explore these options to determine which one is most appropriate for your needs.

Death of a spouse – Obviously, the death of a spouse is a huge emotional blow, but it does not have to be a financial one – especially if you've prepared by having the correct beneficiary named on retirement accounts and life insurance policies. Your financial advisor can help ensure you have taken these steps.

Retirement – Even after you retire, you'll have some important investment decisions to make. For one thing, you'll need to establish a suitable withdrawal strategy so you don't deplete your retirement accounts too soon. Also, you still need to balance your investment mix in a way that provides at least enough growth potential to keep you ahead of inflation. Again, a financial advisor can help you in these areas.

No matter where you are on your journey through life, you will need to address important financial and investment questions, but you don't have to go it alone – a financial professional can help you find the answers you need.

NORTHBRIDGE — At times, the game of baseball is exhilarating, exciting, challenging, graceful, cerebral and delightful. At other times, it is emotional, maddening and frustrating.

On Wednesday, July 3, after his Northbridge American Legion Post 343 team lost to Milford Post 59 by a 3-2 count at Northbridge Middle School, an emotional John Demagian was seeing, for the most part, just the maddening and frustrating part of Abner Doubleday's gift to America.

What was frustrating to Demagian were the three errors the team committed in the field.

What was maddening to the man who has been around the game for decades was the mental mistakes his team made, including: walking the first batter of an inning twice (once it was the No. 9 guy in the lineup; both scored); two players not covering third base on a sacrifice bunt, allowing the runner on first to advance all the way to third; not hustling after a passed ball that ended up only five feet from the plate; a player not knowing how many outs there were; and hitting a batter with the bases loaded.

"I'm at the top of my frustration level," Demagian said after the game. "You can't make those kinds of mistakes against a good team and expect to win. And the mistakes that we made, we've gone over and over and over those situations. We've gone over them 1,000 times; that's why they're bothering me so much. As a baseball guy I can't sit here and watch that and be OK with it. I'm not. It's not OK with me.

"Because we're a young team we're trying to get them to improve in every game. We know they're going to make mistakes, but what we want them to do is learn from their mistakes. Learn from them, go on and don't make them again," Demagian continued. "We weren't thinking a play ahead like you're supposed to and it cost us. I can get by the errors, the strikeouts — those things happen in a game. It's the mental part of the game I can't stomach. The mental mistakes bug me because they're mostly about hustle."

Post 59 (12-3) grabbed a 1-0 lead in the top of the third inning. No. 9 hitter Chris Brunt walked, went to second on a single by Ben McKenzie and advanced to third when Sam Parker was intentionally walked. Brunt scored when, with two out and the bases loaded, Brendan Kelly was hit by a pitch.

Milford increased its lead to 3-0 in the top of the fourth inning. Jacob Beder was walked to open the inning and went to second on a sacrifice bunt attempt by Lucas Basile. The play turned into a bunt single for Basile when Northbridge first baseman Jake Usenia tried unsuccessfully to beat Basile to the bag. While the Usenia-Basile footrace was playing out, Beder alertly advanced to third, which had been left uncovered by the Northbridge defense.

Brunt was up next and during his at-bat, which ended in a pop-up to the shortstop, Beder scored on the aforementioned passed ball, to increase Milford's lead to 2-0. Basile scored later in the inning on an RBI single by McKenzie to give Post 59 a 3-0 lead.

Northbridge (5-9) scored both its runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Matt Ceruti got things started with a single to center field. Zack Roberts followed with a double down the left-field line, Ceruti moving to third base on the play. After a lineout by Derek Angell, Dave Meech plated Ceruti — to make the score 3-1 — with a sacrifice fly to right field. Jon Cray then drove in Roberts with a base hit to right field, cutting the Post 343 deficit to a single run, 3-2. Cray moved to second on a wild pitch, but was stranded there when the next hitter Jake Stuczynski, flied out to center field.

"We didn't quit," Demagian said about his team's two-run rally. "We didn't have many chances, offensively, today and the one we had, in the sixth inning, we came through on, just not enough."

Northbridge batters, early in the game, seemed to be doing a lot of first-pitch swinging.

"We're trying to get the guys to be aggressive with strikes; they've been taking too many and getting behind in the count," Demagian said. "We want them to be aggressive early in the count, but we want them swinging at good pitches. We don't want them swinging at bad balls — balls up in their eyes, or balls in the dirt. We're stressing to the players that they have to have a plan when they go to the plate."

Oxford puts it all together to dispatch Douglas

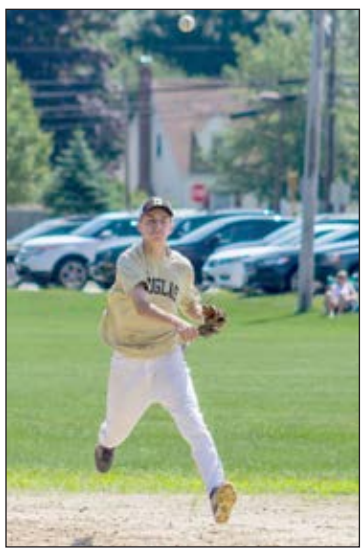
OXFORD — Dante Purretta and Ryan Parr each had a pair of singles and Jake Leone added an RBI triple as Oxford defeated Douglas, 12-1, in Game 1 of a Paul N. Johnson (PNJ) League Senior Ruth doubleheader played Sunday, July 7 at Oxford High.

Oxford, which swept the doubleheader by winning the second game 5-1, improved its record to 8-9. Douglas wound up 8-10. Game 1 was halted after five innings due to the league's mercy rule.

"The team that you saw today, that's the team that started out 4-0," Oxford coach Jimmy Purretta said. "It's been a tale of two seasons. It's all or nothing with us. In some games we're hitting a bunch and we're pitching well. In other games we're making foolish mistakes and making errors and that all spills over negatively to our hitting and pitching. That's not what happened today. Today we got good pitching and good hitting and — for the most part — played good defense."



Cam Toti of Douglas throws the ball over to first base while on the run.

In the Game 1 win Oxford had four players — Purretta, Evan Bond, Ben Grniet and Sawyer MacPherson — drive in two runs each. Also singling for Oxford in the eight-hit attack were Bond, Aidan Fahey and Jarod Mosley.

Dante Purretta also picked up the complete-game win on the mound for Oxford, allowing six hits while walking three and striking out five.

"Dante is pitching strong; he's getting stronger every game," said coach Purretta, Dante's father. "Dante was playing in college so we've had to build everything back up for him after the layoff at the end of his college season. We've been trying to build everything back up to full guns and he showed today he's back at full guns."

Oxford took control of Game 1 in the second inning, jumping out to a 9-0 lead.

The first nine Oxford batters of the inning reached base and all nine scored. The first two runs were scored on bases-loaded walks and the next two on Douglas errors. Runs Nos. 5 and 6 were scored on a single to left-center field by Bond, while runs Nos. 7 and 8 were scored on a single to right field by Dante Purretta. The ninth run of the inning was scored on a sacrifice fly by Parr.

"We were opportunistic, we were alive and we were aggressive at the plate," Jimmy Purretta said. "We put the ball in play and made them make plays. We had a lot of base hits [five] in the inning. We had a lot of key hits by a lot of guys. That's what did it for us. It was a complete team effort."

Oxford increased its lead to 10-0 in the fourth inning, Anthony Purretta — Dante's younger brother — working a two-out walk, stealing second and then coming home on Leone's three-bagger to right-center field.

Douglas scored its lone run of the game in the bottom of the fourth inning, cutting the Oxford lead to 10-1 when, with one out, Tyler Crandall tripled to left-center field and then came home on a two-out single to left field by David Prosser (two hits).

Oxford extended its lead to 12-1 in the top of the fifth, Parr leading off the inning with a single to right-center field and advancing to second when the next batter, Mosley, reached on a Douglas error. Both players then scored when the third batter of the inning, Grniet, singled to right field.

"The second inning was tough, but those things happen. You have games that get ahead of you and this was one of those games," said Tim Brosnahan, who co-coaches the Douglas team with Dennis Crandall.

Douglas finished with six hits including triples by Devon Paine (two hits) and Tyler Crandall.

"That's one thing about these guys; they always battle at the plate," Brosnahan said. "They bring a good mentality with them when they're at the plate."

Douglas' Emmett Berard sends a pitch on its way to the plate.

Join PinkHippy.org for a family event for cancer patients and survivors

Come join the fun. Paddle for Recovery with Casi, bring the entire family and play volleyball with the Holy Cross volleyball team, enjoy a potluck BBQ, hang out on the beach, swim and enjoy the end of summer!

It's no secret that Mother Nature can help heal. Just step outside after a stressful day and you immediately start to feel relief. Add in movement or exercise and the benefits grow. New studies have shown that outdoor activity can aid in recovery from disease, reduce stress, increase concentration, and improve your overall health and wellbeing. If you can enjoy these benefits while burning calories and building muscle, then that is what the doctor ordered.

Paddle for Recovery is a free SUP class for those currently undergoing or who have recently completed treatment for cancer. Our mission with this program is to provide an opportunity to escape on the water and maybe even find a new passion that can assist in recovery.

Join us on Tuesday, Aug. 27 at Lake Siog Park in Holland. Grills and picnic tables are on site. Bring your own chairs or blankets to sit on. Carry in carry out!

VickyD 3vs3 Basketball Tournament set for July 27

The third annual VickyD 3vs3 Basketball Tournament will be played at Sutton Memorial High School's Romasco Gymnasium (383 Boston Road) on Saturday, July 27. Family, friends and dozens of teams (grades 3 through adult) will once again come together to celebrate and remember Victoria Demers through her love of basketball. This is a fun, family-friendly event that includes food, prizes, raffles and of course some great basketball! Proceeds from the event benefit the Victoria Demers Scholarship Fund. Teams can register at vickyd3v3.org. Registration is $50 per team. Admission is free for spectators.

Demers was an exceptional young lady with drive, ambition and incredible heart. She was a 2016 graduate of Sutton High School, where she shined as a student, an artist and an athlete. Basketball was her passion and she gave all she had to the game and to her team. After high school Victoria continued her basketball career at Rhode Island College. On Tuesday morning, April 18, 2017, Victoria was involved in car accident on her way home from school and she passed away from her injuries two days later.

Vicky's high school teammates have organized The Vicky D 3vs3 Basketball Tournament to honor and always remember the contributions that Vicky made on and off the court. With the help of Victoria's family friends and community, the event is sure to be an ongoing success. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Victoria Demers Scholarship Fund.

Sophia Masciarelli wins Finish at the 50 10 K Road Race

FOXBOROUGH — Thousands of runners embraced their Patriotism and started their Fourth of July celebrations early on July 3 at the 10th annual Finish at the 50 road races presented by Harvard Pilgrim Health Care at Gillette Stadium and Patriot Place.

This year's races benefited Homes for Our Troops with a portion of the race registration proceeds being donated to the nonprofit organization dedicated to building and donating specially adapted custom homes for severely injured post-9/11 veterans. During the event, runners and their families enjoyed live music, delicious food, a new post-race celebration garden and a patriotic fireworks show.

Runners of all ages participated in three race options: a Kids Fun Run held entirely inside Gillette Stadium and a 5K and 10K. For the first time in the race's 10-year history, the starting line was inside Gillette Stadium on the main concourse with the finish line once again being staged at the 50-yard line of Gillette Stadium. The 10K race ran through Patriot Place and continued onto Foxborough roads before returning to the stadium grounds to celebrate their finish at the 50-yard line. And the women's top finisher was Sophia Masciarelli of Northbridge with a time of 39:17. Men's and women's first place finishers in the 5K and 10K received a pair of GEL-DS Trainer 24 Fourth of July shoes valued at $130 courtesy of Premier footwear company, ASICS.

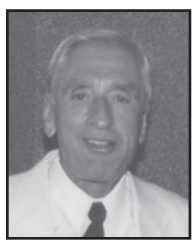
OBITUARIES

Leo E. DiDonato, 100



Leo E. DiDonato, 100, a retired property developer, died Sunday July 7, 2019 peacefully at his home in Uxbridge.

He is survived by his long time companion and fiancé, Charlene Kennan, son Richard DiDonato and his wife, Janice of Webster, brother Jeremiah DiDonato and his longtime companion Muriel of Webster, sister-in-law, Gayle DiDonato of Dudley, daughter-in-law, Viginia DiDonato of Dudley, grandchildren Debra Tagg and husband Michael of Charlton, Pamela O'Sullivan and husband Michael of Shrewsbury and Jeffrey DiDonato of Dudley and four great-grandchildren, Nicholas and Kristin Tagg and Julia and John O'Sullivan.

He is pre-deceased by wife, Pearl Ryan, son, Leonard, brothers Tony, Pat and Sam, sisters, Carol Dellomo, Rose Dufries and Clara and Armenia DiDonato.

Leo was born on October 12, 1918 on Williams Street, Worcester, MA. He began working in construction for his father, Emil, and later for A. Mason & Son and Clifford Hall.

In World War II, Leo served his country from 1943 to 1945 in the Pacific Theater as Carpenter's Mate First Class in the United States Navy Constuction Battalion (SeaBees) and found himself on the island of Iwo Jima. His unit was involved in building and maintaining the island's airstrip used for refueling. He earned the Asiatic Pacific, American Area & World War II Victory Medals & Seabees shoulder insignia.

In 1945, he returned to construction and in August, 1946, started his own business, Leo DiDonato Plastering and Masonry. Later he built single and multi-family houses as Leo DiDonato Builders. Eventually larger projects and developments led to Leo DiDonato Developers during which time he constructed a series of drive-in theaters stretching from Boston to the Cape and into Rhode Island.

He was a member of several civic organizations, including the Knights of Columbus (3rd and 4th Degree), was President of the Holy Name Society and Vice President of the St. Vincent DePaul Organization. Leo was Chairman of the Webster Housing Authority, Chairman of the Industrial Development Financial Authority, appointed by Governor Volpe to the Zoning Board of Elevator Appeals and member of the American Legion and VFW. Leo was honored (with his brothers) as Webster Man of the Year in 1986 and as Grand Marshall of the Webster/Dudley Memorial Day Parade in 2008.

As a youth, he was actively involved in basketball and baseball. He is especially proud of having competed in the 1932 and 1933 Oxford to Webster Marathon in which he finished 6th and 7th even though he was only thirteen years of age, three years under the age limit for the race.

Leo had a life-long love of golf that began when he was a golf caddy and continued throughout his life playing golf at many area courses.

up about. Overzealous educational films of prior decades which preached marijuana was a one-way ticket to insanity were rightly seen as exaggerated and inaccurate, playing on parental fears with laughably unrealistic situations.

A casual attitude about pot was partly the reaction to the obvious falseness of these "authoritative" films.

Marijuana didn't destroy me. It didn't turn me into a maniac, or ruin my life. But it didn't assist me in navigating the many challenges of life. In fact, it got in the way of me controlling my life.

Although I had innumerable stupid misadventures, the worst thing that happened to me as a result of marijuana was that eventually I did not care what I took into my body to feel better.

THAT opened the door to some very serious drugs which absolutely could have destroyed me and very nearly did.

That may be the most dangerous facet of smoking pot, one that is ignored today in the current wave of legalized weed; if smoking or eating pot to solve one's problems is acceptable, why stop there?

I don't have the hard statistics to hand, but I reckon most people that, like me, eventually turned to harder drugs to satisfy their pain or their boredom began it all by smoking pot.

Smoking pot was, for me, a surrender to something, a giving up on a problem, not a victory. It was an expression of throwing my hands up and saying, "I can't figure it out–I'll just be numb."

Once started down this road, I found it hard to resist other drugs that had equal promise to numb or to "enlighten". And those drugs being toxic, the more I took, the less physical energy I had to face and conquer my problems on my own.

Eventually I got to the point many drug users get to where a partnership of sorts with chemicals becomes a stated reality. "I can't be who I really am without them, therefore I won't even try."

It had all begun with trying to solve my nervousness with pot. That opened the door to a myriad of other dangerous solutions that stalled out my creativity and blunted my perceptions for a long time.

(By the way, when my nervousness came back, it was much worse than before. So much for the marijuana "cure".)

I eventually of course did straighten myself out and left the druggie life behind forever, but that's a story for another day.

You may be wondering why I am taking up this topic now, so many years later. I suppose it's a response to the rising number of pro-marijuana ads in places where it is legal, with their promises of health, happiness, inspiration or delight, (free delivery!) just a mouse click or a text away.

Marijuana is legal now in Massachusetts and in many other places in America. I'm not necessarily offended by this, as I consider sending people to jail or prison isn't a good solution and degrades people faster than pot.

But the lies about pot smoking are offensive to me. Claims about it being medicinal, the inference of the now ubiquitous "green cross" symbol, are falsehoods on the level of the timeworn "snake oil salesmen".

Claims about pot making one more tranquil, or more creative, or more productive are all spurious; they may sound good, but close inspection will prove them invalid.

The tranquility, creative spirit or increased productivity one may achieve with pot will not last, and in its place will follow the same obstacle one was originally trying to handle, only now bigger and more difficult to confront.

With any drug, eventually, the human body adjusts to the toxicity and balances itself, creating a tolerance. More and more of the drug is required to have the same effect. More and more, stronger and stronger, oftener and oftener, one needs to continually increase just to keep up. This isn't news.

Many addicts today take a variety of drugs just to get the effect they used to achieve with small doses of just one.

That's the way it always goes. Anyone saying otherwise, as did the doctors who dispensed millions of prescriptions of opioids to unwitting patients, making them addicts, is either lying or catastrophically ignorant. Either way, it's criminal.

There are safe, non-drug methods to deal with nervousness, pain, boredom, or any of the unpleasantnesses of life.

Marijuana does not provide all the answers to the pain, disappointments and confusions of life, no matter how trendy the billboards.

You're not fooled. You know.

Keep vegan guests in mind

From food allergies to dietary restrictions to conscious decisions to avoid certain foods for ethical reasons, peoples' diets tend to be as unique as they are. That can make it tricky when hosting a crowd and preparing a menu.

Variety is the spice to life, and having a go-to selection of recipes at the ready can make everything from sit-down dinners to impromptu backyard barbecues that much easier.

Vegans eschew all animal products such as dairy, eggs and meats. Vegans must carefully read the labels of foods that seemingly are animal-free, as even certain dairy-free cheeses may contain casein or other animal-derived products.

When grilling for family and friends, mushroom and tofu burgers can be prepared specifically for vegan guests, but a versatile salad can be enjoyed by all and make for a delicious side dish. This recipe for "Chickpea Salad" from "Vegan Cooking for Beginners" (Publications International) by the Editors of Publications International is sure to please vegans and non-vegans alike.

Chickpea Salad can be served on its own or as an accompaniment to grilled fare.please vegans and non-vegans alike.

Chickpea Salad
Makes 4 servings

1 can (15 ounces) chickpeas, rinsed and drained
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 dill pickle, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
1/4 cup finely chopped red or yellow onion
1/3 cup vegan mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
Black pepper
Whole grain bread
Lettuce and tomato slices

Place chickpeas in a medium bowl. Coarsely mash with a potato masher, leaving some beans whole.

Add celery, pickle and onion; stir to mix. Add mayonnaise and lemon juice; mix well. Taste and add 1/4 teaspoon salt or more, if desired. Sprinkle with pepper, if desired; mix well. Serve on bread with lettuce and tomato, if desired.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

BEST FARM FRESH MEATS IN CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS
PASTURE RAISED • NATURAL MEATS

Located in East Brookfield, Massachusetts, Crooked Creek Farm sells local and natural farm raised beef and pork.

Crooked Creek Farm ~ est. 1992 ~
Pasture Raised ★ Natural Meats

ASK US ABOUT OUR FREE LOCAL DELIVERY!

Our family farm produces the highest quality cuts of pork and beef.
With over 25 years of experience raising Beefmaster cattle around the U.S., you will find our grass-fed beef and locally raised pork's natural flavors are unmatched. Store purchased meats are raised with high levels of hormones, constant levels of antibiotics, and sit on the shelf for weeks.
Our meats contain no hormones or antibiotics and are as fresh as it gets.

To purchase your meat packages you can do so by Email, by Phone, or in person at the weekly Holden, MA Farmer's Market.
