Adventure on the high seas for local Boy Scouts

It started with a 2 a.m. park and ride and found them in the Bahamas, to learn to live and work aboard a sailing vessel as 16 Boy Scouts and Scout leaders from Millbury, Douglas, and Holden gathered at the Park and Ride on Route 20 in Millbury as they set off on the journey of a lifetime.

The group flew from Boston Logan to Marsh Harbor, Bahamas where they would spend 10 days at one of the Boy Scouts of America's High Adventure bases.

The Florida National High Adventure Sea Base is a unique Scouting program that offers aquatics programs found nowhere else. Activities include sailing, scuba diving, rustic camping on an undeveloped barrier island, fishing, or a combination of all. The base has programs in the Florida Keys, St. Thomas, and the Bahamas.

"It was awesome. I never imagined Scouting would teach me to sail a boat." Said Life Scout Ryan S. from Douglas.

"It's about getting them to experience new ways of life and to explore new boundaries." Said crew leader Peter Boll of Millbury. "My favorite part about leading these big trips is watching the boys be completely taken back by what they're doing."

The Sea Base was hit by Hurricane Irma on Sept. 10, just 18 days after the group's return. It sustained minimal damages to its properties. All programs were suspended until further notice.

Patti Dougherty (seated in front), program leader at All Out Adventures, leads Margaret Carroll (seated at back) over the bridge at Factory Pond in Blackstone along a portion of the Blackstone River bikeway.

It was a 'bucket list moment' for Millville icon Margaret Carroll to be able to experience the 3.7 mile Blackstone River Bikeway extending from Blackstone to Uxbridge, and it was a partnership between Blackstone Heritage Corridor, and the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation visitor services office at Blackstone River & Canal Heritage State Park.

Margaret is a lifelong resident of Millville, is BHC's longest serving volunteer with more than 27 years of volunteer service, and contributed greatly to the Blackstone Valley National Heritage Corridor and the development of the Blackstone River Bikeway.

At the September ribbon cutting ceremony for this new segment of the bikeway, Margaret revealed she had a 'bucket list' and on it was to be able to see the stretch for herself. Due to physical constraints, she was not able to make it happen on her own. BHC's

Community input still needed

The Northbridge School Building Committee continues to seek community input on the Balmer School project as it prepares its recommendation to the Massachusetts School Building Authority. The committee released a survey which will be available online and in paper copy in various locations throughout town until Oct. 26.

The short survey will help guide the decision-making process as the School Building Committee continues to evaluate the options toward a final recommendation to the MSBA.

The survey can be found online at the School Building Committee's website at www.nps.org/sbc.

Additionally, paper copies for the survey are available at the Whitinsville Social Library (17 Church St.), the Whitin Community Center (60 Main St.), the Northbridge Senior Center (20 Highland St.) and at Northbridge Town Hall (7 Main St.).

The Northbridge School Building Committee is currently working on its Feasibility Study to determine the best course of action to address deficiencies with the Balmer School, in partnership with the Massachusetts School Building Authority. The study, conducted by the committee's project team from Dore & Whittier Architects, Inc. of Newburyport, and led by owner's project management firm Symmes Maini & McKee Associates of Cambridge.

The MSBA has offered the town of Northbridge a base reimbursement rate of 57.11%

BVT to host gender documentary screening

UPTON — The Gender-Sexuality Alliance Club at Blackstone Valley Tech is hosting a special one-night only, free screening of "Gender Revolution: A Journey with Katie Couric" on Thursday, Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m.

In addition to the screening, the club will do a short presentation defining relevant terms, answering questions, and discussing how each person can be an ally to the LGBTQ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer/Questioning) community. The group will also be collecting monetary donations to give back to local and national LGBTQ organizations including the Trevor Project, an organization that provides crisis intervention and suicide prevention services to LGBTQ youth.

The film covers a wide range of topics including sexual orientation, gender, transgender conversion, and more. Through interviews with people of different ages and cultures, the documentary gives a comprehensive look at the complexities of gender identity.

The old school was built in 1858, and is now preserved as the Upton Grange Hall

Upton Grange explained and celebrated

On Thursday, Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m., the public is invited to hear Joan Burrell, a member of the Upton Historical Commission, talk about the history of the Upton Grange Hall. We will meet at the Upton Grange Hall, on 26 School St., which was built in 1858 as one of the town's first public schools.

The Grange Hall/Center School building thus has been a part of Upton activities for 159 years and is one of the better kept historic buildings in Upton thanks to the efforts of the Grange. Unfortunately, significant deterioration of the wood sills that support the Grange Hall building on the foundation was discovered. Upton Grange has already spent over $27,000 repairing the foundation under the back of the kitchen area. They accomplished this repair with a grant of $20,000 from Massachusetts State Grange and took out loans for the balance.

The building still has some other deteriorating sills and floor joists, needs new windows, has bathrooms in need of repair, needs new roofing tile, and the hall needs a good exterior paint job among other things. Repair costs have been estimated at over $75,000. Your help is needed to assist the Grange meet this goal and keep this historic Upton building for the future.

The Grange is conducting a fund-raising 50-50 raffle, $5 each, $20 for five. The raffle will be drawn at our annual Upton Agricultural Day on April 28, 2018. If you want to purchase tickets or have questions contact: Bob Perkins, (508) 529-3557 or donations may be mailed to: Upton Grange, PO Box 116, Upton, MA 01568.

The mission of the Upton Historical Commission is to protect and preserve the community's historical assets for the education, enjoyment, and benefit of current and future generations. The Grange is the oldest family organization in town. "Upton Grange is one of the few remaining Grange Halls in the Blackstone Valley." http://www.preserveamerica.gov/6-25-04PAcommunity-uptonMA.html.

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: Should I buy a new or used vehicle?

The RIGHT answer: This is a question that people have asked for years. The answer is one that is dependent on a number of factors. Some people are concerned about potential problems when buying a used car. At Place Motor we complete a 172 point inspection of our used vehicles. We make sure that our customers can feel confident they are getting a good car or truck when they do business with us. While an extended service plan can help alleviate these concerns it doesn't always do enough to make a customer happy. New Vehicles carry the factory warranty to solve these issues.

Usually a defining factor is budget. Customers must consider what they can comfortably afford. Buying a used car or truck saves customers thousands of dollars as compared to a new vehicle. Sometimes when buying a used car payments can still be a problem for a customer's budget. Many banks will shorten available terms or require more money down and this can strain anyone's budget. We work with several lenders and offer certified used vehicles so in most cases we are able to help customers achieve their required budget. While new vehicles are more expensive than used, new vehicles generally have rebates or special finance rates to make them more affordable. We have seen cases where the monthly payment for a new car is very close to that of a used car. With the availability of leasing programs a new car payment could even be less than that of a used car.

Here at Place Motor our goal is to help you get the RIGHT vehicle for your needs and budget. We will spend some time with you to make sure we understand your needs, offer you affordable solutions and make sure that you get the RIGHT vehicle at the RIGHT price. Come see why at Place Motor we are the RIGHT PLACE SINCE 1923.

Chamber plans annual meeting

The Blackstone Valley Chamber of Commerce has announced that John Esler, CEO of Esler Companies, will be the keynote speaker at its annual meeting and awards breakfast, Nov. 16 at Pleasant Valley Country Club, Sutton.

Esler Companies owns and operates four of the fastest growing, most innovative and profitable Renewal by Andersen regional affiliates (Colorado, Philadelphia, Phoenix, and southern New England) and their marketing engine, Telefluent Communications.

The title of Esler's remarks is "The Customer Comes Third."

John explains, "I've been an entrepreneur since I was a teenager. I've never had trouble recognizing a good idea and turning it into a successful business. What came late to me, 30 years and four businesses later, is that the most important piece of being truly successful was missing. Not anymore. My philosophy for business is centered on love. Love of self first. Love of associates second. Love of customers third."

"We are so pleased to present John as our keynote speaker," says Jeannie Hebert, president and CEO of the Blackstone Valley Chamber. "Not only is his entrepreneurial spirit to be admired but more importantly is his philosophy of leadership through service, which I believe "The Customer Comes 3rd" represents."

John lives locally with his wife and two children. He is active with many local charities and organizations.

For information, contact Jeannie Hebert: (508) 234-9090 x 106 or email: jhebert@blackstonevalley.org.

Immigrants from a different era

Northbridge Historical Society will meet Monday, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. at the Whitinsville Social Library.

Speaker will be Yvonne LaFleur, a Northbridge resident, adjunct professor of French at Worcester State University and researcher of the narratives of French-Canadian immigrants and their descendants in films, documentaries, literature, poetry and music.

The topic of the evening is "Becoming American: the joy and anguish of the Franco -American experience." Their presence is everywhere in the Blackstone Valley with their churches, schools and businesses. From where did the French-Canadians come? Why did they settle in the Blackstone Valley? What were the trials and tribulations which transformed them? This story of cultural identity and assimilation will be told through one family's history that begins in northwestern France and ends in the Blackstone Valley.

This program is free and open to the public.

Impressionists highlighted at garden meeting

The Blackstone Valley Gardeners will present on Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. Two Seasons in Monet's Garden by Barbara Hall. The artist Claude Monet painted and gardened at Giverny, his country home outside Paris from 1883 until his death in 1926. Here, he found inspiration for many of his most spectacular paintings.

Our own Barbara Hall's first visit to Giverny was in May 2008 when iris and tulips lined the walkways. She captured the late season magic in the garden in September 2016.

BVG meetings are held at the Blackstone Valley United Methodist Church, 61 Linwood Ave, Whitinsville. Parking and the entrance are in the rear of the building. For more information go to BVGardeners.com. Admission for nonmembers is $5. All are welcome.

Features that add value to a home

REALTOR'S REPORT

JAMES BLACK

There are many features that add value and others that just help the home to sell quicker. Depending on the location, size and price range some of these features may be less or more important. If we had a 3 bedroom 1 bath home and compared it to a 3 bedroom 2 bath home I would add 10K in value for the 2 bath home. If the market is flooded with 1 bath homes and there is only one home with 2 baths you may have several offers pushing the value up even higher. Another great example is a garage which I typically give 10K in value per garage stall. However, if your home does not have a garage and every other home in the neighborhood has garages you may lose more than 10K per stall due to functional obsolescence. Where someone moving into that area would expect a garage.

There are other great features like being in a neighborhood rather than on a busy road. This will vary greatly but that neighborhood setting will get a higher value. Having a pool does not necessarily add value because some buyers will not want a pool and may look at the cost of filling it in. However some neighborhoods and in certain price ranges the buyer want a pool and the buyer may buy your home with a pool a pay a little more than the neighbors if everything else is the same. Having privacy vs. no privacy will typically help your home sell quicker and it wont necessarily add value unless there are multiple buyers for the home due to the privacy driving the value up. You will typically get more value for hardwoods and tile floors than carpet and vinyl as well as hard surface countertops rather than a laminate. Landscaping is crucial for the curb appeal just to have the buyers come into the home to view it and it will give them a feel about the home helping them to make a buying decision.

Since every market and price range is different, I suggest consulting with a local Realtor to ensure any improvement are a good return on investment and that your home is not getting overimproved for the neighborhood. Also keep in mind that the thoughts above are only my professional opinion and other agents opinion may vary as well as appraisers who determine the value of your home for the bank when the buyer is purchasing your home.

Signing off on one more bucket list adventure.

Surrounded by well wishers at every stop along the trail.

Suzanne Buchanan reached out to DCR to inquire about its universal access program, which works with a company to provide assisted rides on specialized tandem bicycles. With a couple of phone calls, the ride was arranged.

With friends, family and community members gathered at the former Blackstone Depot, the southern end of the 3.7 mile trail segment, Margaret was transported on a specialized tandem bike with a trained rider. She was joined in her ride by volunteers of the BHC Blackstone River Bikeway Patrol.

Along the way, Margaret requested stops at the Triad Bridge, the Millville Lock, Millville Center, and other locations to report the experience and to share the historical significance of those landmarks. Margaret is a charter member of the Millville Historical Commission and is dedicated to protecting the historic resources.

She is also passionate about the natural and recreational resources within the National Heritage Corridor and strongly urges everyone to get outdoors and enjoy them. While speaking during a stop on the ride, she referred to the Blackstone River Greenway, the stretch of state park through which this section of the bikeway was built, as a "Highway into Nature" and felt that so few people are aware of it. She hopes that, as a result of this event, more people will learn about it and get out and experience for themselves.

"We are surrounded by such incredible beauty," she remarked, noting she was awestruck by new discoveries along the trail.

Among those in attendance to celebrate with her were Millville Town Administrator Jen Callahan and Millville Town Clerk Diane Lockwood, who presented a proclamation on behalf of State Representative Kevin Kuros and DCR District Manager Christopher Hookie. BHC Executive Director Megan DiPrete presented a resolution noting the board of directors of BHC has declared the day "Margaret Carroll Bikes the Bikeway Day."

At the finish line, Suzanne Buchanan presented Margaret with a printed Bucket List so she could check off completing the ride.

Fall hunting sports are just getting started with a... bang

The Great Outdoors

Ralph True

Archery season for deer opened this past Monday, Oct. 16, in Massachusetts under above average temperatures. A good frost is needed to get the trees to shed some of their leaves, which will give the hunter a better chance of harvesting a deer. Hunting from a tree stand gives the hunter a good opportunity to harvest a deer, but ground blinds also work very well. Archers are a very serious group of hunters that take a lot of time prior to opening day to scout out an area and set out their tree stand or blind well in advance of opening day.

Archery hunters try to set up their stands away from other hunters and do not appreciate other hunter encroaching on their hunting sites. Always look around the area that you plan to hunt, to ensure that no other tree stands or blinds are in your area. There are a lot of woods out there to hunt, and there is no reason to set up on top of another archer.

Sunday hunting is being addressed by the Mass Fish & Wildlife board this year, and it has a good chance of passing. The crossbow bill is also being addressed this year and it too seems to have the backing of the Fish & Wildlife board. If passed any licensed hunter could purchase and use a crossbow while hunting. Both bills are long overdue.

Goose and duck hunting started off slow for some waterfowl hunters and was great for others. As soon as we get some cooler weather and more corn fields are cut, local geese should start to feed in them. Some geese are still feeding on grassy fields, and many are frequenting un-huntable areas. A good freeze up of local ponds will push ducks and geese into new areas, but the weather will need to change fast.

Pheasant hunting opened this past Saturday in Massachusetts. Unfortunately, a few hunters took their dogs out to the newly stocked areas prior to opening day, and flushed the birds out of the area as they like to train their dogs on the pheasant. When the hunters arrived to hunt on Saturday very few birds were found at two local covers. A new regulation needs to be passed prohibiting training of dogs on newly stocked pheasant prior to hunting season.

Coyote season also opened on Oct. 14, this year. Numerous complaints from residents of the valley area about coyotes killing family cats and small dogs have residents much more appreciative of hunting activities in their areas, and are much more inclined to give hunters permission to hunt their land. Asking private property owners for permission to hunt their land should always be a top priority for hunters. Giving the land owner some of your harvested deer and other wild game is a good way to insure hunting in the coming years.

With the bear population increasing every year throughout the state it might be a good idea to purchase a bear permit prior to hunting season. The second black bear season in Massachusetts opens on Nov. 6, thru Nov. 25 in zones 1-14, and is open from Nov. 27-Dec. 9 this year. Be sure to read all of the regulations before going out bear hunting.

Saltwater fishing for stripers and tautog should start to get into full gear this month as the waters cool and migration of both species have them in a feeding frenzy. Hopefully the wind will subside long enough to allow anglers with boats to enjoy some great fall fishing. Some of the best tautog fishing is in the month of November.

Mass Fish & Wildlife stocking trucks should be real busy stocking trout this week. Some ponds receive some fish last week. For a full report go to the massfishhunt web site.

It is not too early to get your ice fishing gear in order. Power ice augers need a bit of maintenance every year, and ice tilts and jig sticks often need new line and sharp hooks. I can remember ice fishing on the Meadow Pond in Whitinsville on Thanksgiving Day in my earlier years. Hopefully we will get some good ice to fish on this year. Cape ponds have seen very little ice in the past few years.

This week's picture shows Roy Underwood of Uxbridge with some of his harvested geese he shot while hunting with his buddy Bob Brooks. Roy is a bit under the weather this year but his friends are hoping he gets well soon.

Take A Kid Fishing & Keep Them Rods Bending!

Area Bazaars and Festivals

As the fall festivals and winter bazaars go into full swing, many people travel from town to town, scooping up the sales and gathering in the handcrafted items for gifts. In addition, the ethnic foods and mouthwatering baked goods add just the right touch for holiday entertaining. With that in mind, the Stonebridge Press newspapers are adding this listing of area events just for the upcoming couple of months so you can find the nearby festivals on a crisp Saturday adventure. Enjoy!

September 30-October 31

PUMPKINS, GET YOUR PUMPKINS HERE! The Pumpkin Patch at the First Congregational Church, 128 Central St., Auburn will be open daily 10 a.m. (11 a.m. on Sundays) 'til dusk Sept. 30 through Oct. 31. OPINION

Opinion and commentary from the Blackstone Valley and beyond

Editorial

Check the facts

We have let the voters of the Blackstone Valley Tribune down a bit because we didn't give you good preview coverage of the upcoming town meeting.

That is unfortunate, because there are several important articles to be addressed, as there always are.

We do notice there is a column submitted that urges voting against the Community Preservation Act, and while there are definitely some problems with how that self taxation program works, some of the information being provided isn't entirely on track.

The percentages aren't written in stone. They can be used when and where the needs of the town are identified. In the case of Uxbridge, the cause we suspect is more likely affordable housing and perhaps some preservation issues. This is where the funds can be applied; and there is a system to save the funds until enough is available to do the projects the town wants to do.

So the concept of a need to do dribs and drabs and "must" do projects is off on the table for the most part. The governance of the funds is on the town; with only the caveats that the money is designated for areas often neglected by towns because of lack of funds: recreation, preservation, open space acquisition (often for recreation), affordable housing and, yes, the town can deem a project worthy to fall under one of those categories even if an entire project doesn't quite "fit". So funds can be used as leverage for other grants as an example.

As for the charge that no town has gotten the matching funds from the state, that is not so. The CPA has not been entirely funded at its full capacity, true, but neither does every town or city in the Commonwealth have the CPA as part of its fiscal structure. So those towns that do have it, and are paying into it, are also getting the benefit back out of it.

All this information is readily available on government websites and at the Community Preservation Act site itself. They aren't hiding anything.

And they aren't pressuring anyone.

The offer is on the table. The explanations are made, the funding is explained. If Uxbridge chooses to do the necessary steps and become part of the program, then that will happen. If it does not, no harm no foul. And no one will be banging on doors trying to change the minds of the people. The offer remains on the table.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Uxbridge voters face another challenge

Your Turn

Michael R. Potaski

Uxbridge voters will be asked to adopt the Community Preservation Act at the October 24 Town Meeting.

This Article must be opposed as it is will increase taxes by imposing a surcharge on every property owner's tax bill. That surcharge will be a percentage of the tax bill so it will inexorably increase every year as the underlaying tax assessment increases.

Moreover, the law requires that at least ten percent of the money raised each year must be spent on or set aside for the acquisition of "open space". This means that the money must be spent to buy land from private owners which will remove it from the tax rolls. Thus, each year the Town will have a decreasing amount of land to tax and assessments on the remaining parcels will increase. Those tax increases will also result in higher flows of money into the Community Preservation Fund, which must, of course dedicate ten percent of that money to buy yet more land. This creates a vicious never-ending cycle of higher taxes and assessments on the remaining property owners while not increasing the overall general fund revenues by more than the statutory amount.

Does Uxbridge need more "open space"? The town already owns a fair amount of land and the Board of Selectmen regularly tackle the question of selling some to put it back on the tax rolls and increase revenues. The need for additional revenues is painfully obvious as the annual effort to raise and appropriate available money among the many Departments constantly results in them being short changed in the process. This Act will not increase the amount of money to be divided among the Departments so Department heads should line up in opposition.

Proponents of the CPA insist that there will be matching funds from the State. However, all reporting about this aspect stresses that the State funds are limited, no town has received a matching grant in years, and as more towns adopt this Act the amount each receives decreases proportionally.

Renters will also be adversely impact as landlords feel the pinch of higher taxes and pass those costs on to their tenants. Landlords will have little recourse but to pass the CPA costs on to their tenants who already are burdened by the costs to build the new sewer treatment plant.

Town Meeting on October 24 must vote a resounding NO on CPA and voters must be prepared to vote it down at any subsequent ballot.

What's your stuff worth?

Antiques, Collectibles & Estates

Wayne Tuiskula

I get many calls and emails from people looking for appraisals. When looking for an appraisal, they often are asking for a variety of different things.

Much of the time, they are planning to sell their items. We advise them that they may not need an appraisal. If they sell items at auction or have us run an estate sale, evaluating their items is part of our services.

Many calls are from an estate personal representative or someone downsizing who wants to know what is treasure, what is trash and what is somewhere in between. We are often able to advise people whether their personal property is best suited for an auction, estate sale or a different option over the phone. We may ask them to email photos to help evaluate their items. When there are items that need closer evaluation, we schedule an onsite visit.

Estate personal representatives sometimes call to determine the value of the personal property in an estate for equitable distribution. They sometimes just need verbal estimates. Other times, they request a written appraisal that they can share among the heirs.

Others call us for insurance appraisals. It doesn't take a disaster like a tornado or fire to damage antiques and collectibles. A broken water pipe or excessive heat could ruin items in your collection. Your insurance may not cover a large and valuable collection. You may need to add a rider to cover these pieces. Your insurance company may request that these items be appraised before issuing the rider.

Sometimes people hire an appraiser because they want to sell personal property on their own. No one wants to sell an oil painting worth $4,000 for $10 at a yard sale.

Your tax preparer may ask you to get an appraisal when donating something of high value. The American Society of Appraisers lists some of the circumstances that require an appraisal. Artwork exceeding $20,000 and personal property exceeding $5,000 are two of the examples that they cite.

Estate personal representatives may need an appraisal for probate or tax purposes. Your attorney or financial advisor can determine if this is necessary. An appraiser should be USPAP certified when performing appraisals for insurance, probate or tax purposes.

USPAP is the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. USPAP was adopted by Congress in 1989 and contains standards for those who perform personal property, real estate and business appraisals.

There are some things that you should look for when hiring an appraiser. Along with being USPAP certified, you will want to make certain that your appraiser has knowledge of what they are appraising. Someone who appraises antiques probably won't also be appraising commercial aircraft and vice versa. Determine what the fees will be. Most appraisers are paid hourly. An appraiser's fee shouldn't be a percentage of the items' value that they appraise. It is also a conflict of interest for an appraiser to appraise your items and then buy them after the appraisal.

If you have something that you think may be valuable, you can also attend a local appraisal event. I announce upcoming events in this column. It is always nice to meet readers of this column at the events, and even better when I have good news about the items they brought to be appraised.

We have an estate sale scheduled in Lancaster on October 20th and 21st. The preview for our Duxbury online auction is on October 21st. Other events are being planned. See www.centralmassauctions.com for details.

Judge swears-in historic number of court appointed special advocates for children

Courtesy photos

The latest group of volunteer advocates.

The advocates at the swearing in ceremony

There are currently hundreds of children in Worcester County who have been removed from their homes because of abuse or neglect. Although Court Appointed Special Advocates continue to serve more of these children each year, the need for CASA volunteers continues to grow as more children enter the child welfare and court systems. On Oct. 12, the Worcester court swore-in 22 of the 30 new CASA volunteers who will advocate for the best interest of these children.

These advocates join our other dedicated Worcester County CASA volunteers who have passed a thorough screening process and completed comprehensive training in child development, the court and child welfare systems, interviewing children, and much more. In 2017 160 new volunteers were added to the team of dedicated volunteers at CASA of Worcester county.

CASA volunteers work one-on-one with an abused or neglected child, advocating for his or her best interests.

Essentially, CASA volunteers "speak up" for these children in the court and child welfare systems, making sure they are safe and well-cared for, are getting the services they need, and are placed in a permanent, safe, nurturing home as quickly as possible. These children may also have health, learning, emotional, or psychological challenges, and need special services that the court should be aware of via the CASA volunteer's updates.

"CASA volunteers don't require any specific educational or professional background. All they need is compassion, objectivity, and a commitment to children. We'll train and supervise them to be effective voices in court," says Doug Stark, director of community resources for CASA of Worcester County. "Our volunteers come from all walks of life, and diverse socio-economic and ethnic backgrounds. They are ordinary individuals who rise to the extraordinary by making a difference in the life of a child."

Anyone interested in volunteer opportunities should visit www.worcestercasa.org for more information, or contact Doug Stark at (508) TRY-CASA or volunteers@thecasaproject.org.

CASA of Worcester County is part of a national network of community-based, non-profit programs that recruit, screen, train and supervise volunteers to "Speak Up for a Child" removed from home due to abuse or neglect. CASA is the only program in Massachusetts that uses trained volunteers to work one-on-one with children, ensuring that each one gets the services needed and achieves permanency in a safe, nurturing home. Visit www.casaworcester.org or call 508-TRY-CASA for more information about CASA of Worcester County.

Gobi bill would protect towns from electric bill surcharges

BOSTON – A bill filed by Senator Anne M. Gobi (D-Spencer) that would protect existing renewable energy projects from being assessed a surcharge was discussed by the Joint Committee on Telecommunications, Utilities and Energy.

The bill addresses the ability of utility companies to submit proposals to the Department of Public Utilities for what has been called a monthly minimum reliability contribution (MMRC). An MMRC is a month surcharge added to the electric bills for those receiving net metering credits.

"I am glad to work to offer protections to our towns so that they are receiving the intended value of their investment," said Senator Gobi.

Municipalities with existing projects, planned prior to the possibility of a monthly surcharge, would experience cost impacts that were not anticipated, negatively affecting their short and long term budget planning. The bill filed by Senator Gobi would exempt municipal ratepayers and community solar ratepayers from the monthly surcharge. The bill would also exempt low-income ratepayers, however existing law does allow DPU to choose to exempt or modify the monthly surcharge.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Senator Gobi's office at (617) 722-1540.

Keep orchids beautiful and blooming

Garden Moments

Melinda Myers

Lift your spirits, enliven your indoor décor or give the gift of beautiful blooming orchids. You'll enjoy these exotic blossoms for months with just minimal care – once you know what to do.

Start with a healthy flowering plant. The phalaenopsis or moth orchid is the most widely available and easiest to grow. It's similar to caring for an African violet. When you provide the proper growing conditions, maintenance is a breeze.

The challenge comes with less-than-ideal indoor growing conditions of low light and dry air. Fortunately, there are a few things you can do to create a better environment for your orchid.

Keep in mind that most orchids are epiphytes. In nature, they grow on other plants and obtain water and nutrients from the air, water and plant debris that accumulates in their environment. This is why they are grown in an orchid mix made of organic material such as peat, fir bark and perlite. This, or a similar combination, retains water while providing needed drainage.

Give your orchid a good soaking once a week. Pour off any excess water that collects in the saucer. Don't allow orchids to sit in water and don't water them too often. This can lead to root rot and death of your plant.

Further improve the environment by increasing the humidity around the plant. Group them with other orchids and indoor plants. As one plant loses moisture, or "transpires", the others will benefit from the increase in humidity. Plus, you'll create a beautiful display while improving the growing conditions.

Alternatively, you can create humidity trays. Place pebbles in the saucer and the pot on top of the pebbles. Allow excess water to collect in the pebbles below the pot. As this evaporates it increases the humidity around your plant. This also eliminates the need to pour off the excess water that collects in the saucer.

For larger plant collections use rubber humidity plant tray grids. These save space by allowing you to place several plants on one tray. These are perfect for growing on tables or light stands.

Place your plant in a bright location. Orchids do best with 12 to 14 hours of sunlight. Unobstructed south- or east-facing windows are usually the best. Or give plants a boost with artificial lights. Newer full spectrum LED lights provide needed light while using less energy.

And there's no reason to hide your orchid and light setup in the basement. Check out the attractive, new indoor grow light systems like the Coltura LED Grow Frame (gardeners.com). It can be mounted on the wall or set on a table. Either way, your orchids will be in full view for all to enjoy.

Fertilize actively growing plants with an orchid fertilizer. Michigan State University developed a fertilizer that efficiently provides the nutrients orchids need. They have "Orchid Tap Water" and "Orchid Pure Water Fertilizer" formulations. Just follow label directions for best results.

Once the plants are done flowering, you can keep them growing indoors. If you like a challenge, try reblooming. On phalaenopsis orchids, just cut back the flowering stem between the second or third node from the bottom. Or give the plant a rest and cut the flower stem back to the leaves. Continue to provide proper care and wait to see if you were successful.

You can also simply treat an orchid plant like a long-lasting bouquet. That way there's no guilt if you decide to toss it. And if the guilt is too much, just look for an avid gardener. There's always someone who would be happy to adopt and try to rebloom your non-flowering plant.

Orchids do best with 12 to 14 hours of sunlight and indoor light systems can help supplement the amount of light needed for the plants to thrive.

Take the Hint

Karen Trainor

It's the best time of the year for New Englanders, and thanks to all the readers that took time out from the busy leaf peeping season to share their favorite tips and tricks! From primping the pumpkins to perking up blooms, the following hints really do make life a little easier!

And remember readers, send in your best tips and you could win dinner for two at the Publick House!

This reader rediscovered an old tried and true tip for extending the life of fresh flowers:

Do you want to have your floral arrangements or your beautiful roses last longer? Instead of the old remedy of bleach or an aspirin in the water, try this - it works so great, making your flowers "perk up."

Try adding a teaspoon of sugar and a few copper pennies to the water and see how amazing the flowers react! Enjoy!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and this reader's foresight came in handy when her luggage was lost!

It's that time of year and I just located in my phone and in the pocket of my carry on, photos of my checked luggage. This (identifying tip) came in so handy at the airlines once. And even the agent was impressed that I had a photo! Happy travels.

Baked goods are twice as sweet when batches are doubled and frozen to share:

Why didn't I think of this years ago? Now when I make my homemade breads I always make two at a time. After they cool, I slice the whole loaf and put in a zip bag to store in the freezer. This is so handy when anyone pops in for coffee and…

It thaws in five minutes and is quickly available. I do this even if I am giving the entire loaf as a gift, but I wrap in aluminum foil and put on a bow.

You could also do this when you buy homemade breads from the Church bazaars.

This tip not only preserves Halloween pumpkins and Jack-O-Lanterns, but it (literally) makes them shine!

Want to have the best looking and longest lasting pumpkins on the block? Coat your pumpkins with a thin layer of varnish or polyurethane --it makes them stand out (glossy) and prevents rotting, even in humid weather that we seem to often get in the early fall.

This mystery reader sent in this thrifty repurposing tip:

In magazines such as Vanity Fair, there are one or two pages featuring perfumes. You can cut these out, and put them in your dresser drawer or put them in your purse. The scent lasts for a few weeks.

Two quick fixes for a duo of common hassles:

I use Scotch tape to hold up a hem until I can sew it.

Also, I wash black pants inside out. It keeps the lint off.

Ground attack helps Beavers remain unbeaten (6-0), while Bay Path slips to 3-3

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

UPTON — Jim Archibald, head coach of the Blackstone Valley Tech varsity football team, took the famous mantra of "if it ain't broke, don't fix it" to heart when the Beavers hosted Bay Path Regional during their Monday matinee on Oct. 16. Valley Tech noticed early on that primarily running the ball versus the Minutemen was the way to go; so they ran, ran and ran some more on their way to a 41-6 victory.

"We felt like the stuff we were running was there," said Archibald. "Our line came to us early on and told us they felt like they had an advantage up front, so we were able to take advantage of that."

The Beavers totaled 332 yards on the ground on 34 carries and scored five of their six touchdowns that way. Leading the charge were Conner Polymeros (12 carries, 160 yards, 2 TD's), Joseph Antaya (7 carries, 86 yards, 2 TD's) and Aidan Fitzgerald (7 carries, 50 yards, TD).

"Any time you can rush for 300 I think your chance of winning is going to be good," said Archibald. "We broke some long runs, which we haven't been doing this year, which is good."

"We definitely have a nice rotation of backs right now, which is nice to have some depth," added Polymeros, who had long rushes of 45 and 61 yards, with the last one going for a score. "Our line, a big shout out to them because they just kept opening holes and I just kept hitting them."

It was Bay Path who scored first, though, when they received the opening kickoff and proceeded to march 65 yards on seven plays. Quarterback Christian Keeler (12 of 20, 83 yards; 3 carries, 32 yards) took that seventh snap and optioned the ball back to Pat Dyer, who then ran 40 yards to pay dirt as the Minutemen grabbed a 6-0 lead less than four minutes in.

"That first drive proved that we can play and then the final scoreboard showed that we really didn't belong here today," said Bay Path head coach Matthew Fall.

That was because the Beavers made the necessary adjustments and scored the game's final 41 points.

"I think that's the first time this year that somebody's got the ball and went down the field on us," said Archibald. "We had to make some adjustments defensively and we were able to do that. I'm proud of the way our guys battled back."

Fitzgerald scored from 31 yards out about four minutes later and quarterback Reece Hendriks — who doubles as the team's kicker — booted the first of his five extra points in six attempts to give BVT the lead.

The Beavers scored a pair of second quarter touchdowns — Polymeros from a yard out, and Hendriks (3 of 7, 40 yards) passing to Jordyn Amero from 20 yards — to up their halftime advantage to 21-6.

Valley Tech added a 10-yard touchdown by Antaya and Polymeros' 61-yard score in the third quarter before Antaya finished things off with a nine-yard TD on the first snap of the final frame to account for the 41-6 final.

The one possible downside to BVT's victory was the a fourth quarter injury to Hendriks, who possibly hurt his collarbone on his team's final kickoff.

"He's going to get checked out now," said Archibald. "It sounds like he's going to be out for a while."

Archibald added that Scott Mackay is the backup and will be ready to go in the Beavers' next game, as they are now 6-0 and hope to remain undefeated.

The Minutemen are now 3-3.

"Things got a little rough and I saw some leadership characteristics come out of some players and I saw the lack of leadership maybe come out of others," said Fall, whose team needs to regroup. "The goal right now is run the table and at the end let's just see where the chips lie."

Joseph Antaya of Blackstone Valley Tech carries the ball into the heart of Bay Path's defense.

Brandon Lira of Blackstone Valley Tech comes away with a first quarter interceptio

Blackstone Valley Tech's Aidan Fitzgerald follows the blocking of fellow tailback Conner Polymeros en route to a big gain.

Blackstone Valley Tech's Reece Hendriks made five of six extra point attempts during the Beavers' 41-6 victory versus Bay Path.

BELOW: Jake Leone of Bay Path (12) not only stripped the ball out of a Blackstone Valley Tech ball carrier's hands, but he also pounced on it for a fumble recovery.

Defensive struggle goes Rockets' way versus Northbridge in overtime

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

AUBURN — After 44 minutes of a defensive battle that caused both offenses to struggle mightily, the Auburn High offense put together three consecutive plays in overtime to defeat Northbridge High, 8-0, Oct. 13 at Memorial Field.

With the win the Rockets' varsity football team snapped a modest two-game losing streak and improved to 4-2. The loss snapped the Rams' two-game win streak and left them at 4-2 on the season as well.

The defenses dominated play throughout regulation, with both offenses gaining less than 150 total yards and failing to get into the end zone.

That brought on overtime and the Auburn offense came alive.

After a first down running play only got the ball back to the 10-yard line (which is where the drive started) Manny Rosario picked up nine yards, running out to the left side before cutting up and in, steamrolling a Northbridge would-be tackler and finally being brought down at the one-yard line. Rosario scored on the next play, plowing up the middle and into the end zone, giving the Rockets a 6-0 lead.

"I just saw my blockers all going to the left, so I followed them and then I cut upfield," the junior said about his clutch nine-yard gain. "Once I cut it upfield I saw a Northbridge player coming over to tackle me, so I just lowered my shoulder and hit him and kept my legs pumping and got as many yards as I could. I was hoping to get into the end zone on that play, but I got in on the next play so it's all good. The pulling guards did a great job on the play; it was an outstanding job by the whole offensive line, really."

Running back turned quarterback Joe Hopper then extended the Auburn lead to 8-0 on the two-point conversion, sprinting through a hole in the middle of the line and into the end zone.

"We ran wings and we ran power and Northbridge thought it was coming again because it had worked, so we faked it," the senior said of his stutter-step to the left — out of the shotgun formation — that froze the Rams' defense. "When I looked back the middle was wide open. I just said to myself, 'don't trip on your shoelaces and get into the end zone.'"

All that was standing between Auburn and a victory was Northbridge's overtime possession and the Rockets' defense, as they had done all night, came up big when they needed to.

After running plays netted five yards on first and second down for Northbridge, the Rams decided to pass on third down. But quarterback Jake Stucyznski's pass was intercepted by Rockets' linebacker Colin McKeon, ending the game.

"I saw the receiver go in motion and I saw the quarterback look right at him," said the senior, who decided to play football this year for the first time ever. "So, I slid out, sat on the play a little, and there it was. Plays like that in games like this make me really glad I decided to play football this year."

The perseverance the Rockets showed throughout the game and overtime left Auburn head coach Jeff Cormier shaking his head in admiration.

"Our kids played great, they played great. That's as gutty a performance as I've been associated with in a long, long time. I'm very, very proud of those kids," Cormier said. "We had a lot of guys out and more guys banged up as the game went along. We had guys playing positions they weren't in before and doing so under the pressure of a 0-0 game that goes to overtime.

"In overtime we had Joe Hopper at quarterback; it's probably the fifth snap of his high school career — including two snaps yesterday in practice," Cormier said. "That two-point conversion was a big play and it was a play he hadn't run before. We had some kids make plays when we had to make plays and I'm very, very proud of them."

Hopper was Auburn's third signal-caller of the night. With senior starter Coleson Hammond out due to injury, sophomore Mike Gardner started the game at quarterback. Gardner was replaced by classmate Griffin Handfield midway through the second quarter after taking a couple of punishing hits at the end of a pair of running plays. Hopper replaced Handfield late in the fourth quarter.

"This is a great win for us," Hopper said. "It's Senior Night and we wanted to win this for our parents and everyone that's here watching us. It's also a big win because Northbridge is a great team, they give us a good run every year."

Northbridge had a golden opportunity to break the scoreless tie on the final play of the first half. With Auburn driving the Rams' Brian Wildman intercepted a Handfield pass on his own 10-yard line.

As the clocked ticked off the final seconds of the second quarter, Wildman weaved his way from the left sideline to the right sideline and appeared headed to a touchdown when Auburn senior linebacker Jake Daniels — who never gave up on the play — tripped him up at the Auburn five-yard line. Wildman stumbled and valiantly tried to get into the end zone, but his knee touched down less than six inches from the goal line to end the first half.

Northbridge head coach Ken LaChapelle was dejected by the loss.

"It's just what it was," LaChapelle said. "Give Auburn a lot of credit; their defense really came off the ball pretty well and our offensive line had a tough time dealing with it. If I could explode right now I would. I'm disappointed and discouraged — in the offensive line especially. Our quarterback is being chased all over the place and when we needed something we didn't get it."

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

4	5	6	7	9	2	8	3	1
3	8	2	6	4	1	5	7	9
9	1	7	5	8	3	4	2	6
6	4	9	1	5	7	3	8	2
1	3	8	9	2	4	7	6	5
7	2	5	3	6	8	9	1	4
2	6	3	4	7	5	1	9	8
5	9	1	8	3	6	2	4	7
8	7	4	2	1	9	6	5	3
