What I miss about my life's work is running presses. I still get to write, which I love, but the mechanical end of things, which I loved too, is all memory.

People picturing someone running a country newspaper most naturally focus on the paper itself. The owner always seems to have a notepad and camera. Somewhere back at the office there must be a big machine like a meat grinder. In go news and ads and comics, and out come the papers.

But at a country newspaper, a job-printing shop often comes right along with the newsroom. This means that if the owner-publisher-editor-reporter cannot afford to hire a printer, he has to be one.

At a small shop, "printer" means doing it all--typesetting, arranging and locking lines of

There was a bit more to it than getting the paper out type in a heavy metal frame, setting up a press for a particular job (stationery, business cards, envelopes), locking the frame into the press, stacking the paper onto the feed-tray, and making sure everything is ready for the run.

I remember going to New England Press Association publishing and printing shows at the Prudential Center in Boston. Vendors had hospitality events for pooh-bah publishers. There were always a few with ink on their thumbs.

I dream of many things from my newsroom and ownership days, but most often it's about running a press. This can be the big newspaper press we set up in Lancaster in the late '70s at the old railroad junction just south of the Fairgrounds, called (of course) Coös Junction Press, or the elegant Heidelberg down at the job-printing shop, or maybe the Chief 15, a hardy little offset. Most often, it's the Heidelberg windmill.

I pick up the composing stick. For some jobs, we set the lines of type one character at a time, reverse-cast foundry type pulled from oak or chestnut cases, the order of which I remember to this day. Four cabinets contained around 80 different kinds of type.

But in the dreams, it's my favorite type-face, Garamond, an old and elegant family, named for the Frenchman who designed it, its roots dating back to the Roman.

I finish the top line. The job is, oh, half-sheet-sized stationery, and it says something like "Willard's Will-o-the-Wisps." And the next line says, in italics, "Vagaries of Weather Captured on Film." And then the address. And if I'm clever about things, I can use the same setup for the envelope.

I add spacing to each line so the whole forms an oblong, and then lock it into a metal frame, called a chase. I lock the chase into the press, a beautiful Century Model made to mark Heidelberg's first centennial (today it is an industry giant).

I turn the press over a few times, to ink the type and make sure all is ready. And then I begin the job, slowly at first, and then cranking up to speed once all seems well.

The phone is ringing, the front-office crew are back and forth, Albert is coming through with a load of wood for the office stove, which by roundabout flow of air (up the front stairway, down the back) can heat the whole place. The wryly named office cat, "Typo," appears for a stretch.

I notice it all, but see and hear nothing, caught up in the job at hand.

Fighting pandemic fatigue

While more and more people are getting vaccinated, and hospitalizations and deaths are down, the numbers of COVID cases, especially in some rural areas, are climbing. This pandemic is not over, as much as we all want it to be. Life seems to be slowly getting back to normal, however many restrictions, including travel bans and masking are still in place leaving some of us a bit deflated a year later. The number of individuals choosing to vaccinate is hope that there is a light at the end of the tunnel, yet COVID fatigue is still affecting many.

One thing to remember is that we're all in this together, and will all make it through together. Many of us have learned quite a bit about ourselves having been faced with this once in a lifetime scenario. We now know just how extroverted or introverted we all are. Perhaps changes have come by way of new or different opportunities.

Silver linings are still a part of the chatter about town. This is a good sign; however, for those who are gripped by pandemic fatigue, we have a few tips to share. We've all felt it at one point or another over the past year, you are not alone.

Last year, everyone was isolated as businesses and schools closed. We all stayed home for months as the virus took hold of the world. During that difficult time, we all found ways to cope, together. The summer months brought some reprieve, with outdoor events being dubbed 'OK' as long as safety protocols were adhered to. During the winter months we saw another surge that made us all feel as though it would never end.

It's important to talk about and acknowledge just how tough things have been for each and every one of us. The unexpected changes the pandemic delivered were a doozy. Over the past year, we have all worried about loved ones and the burden that comes along with potential changes in finances. Isolation is never easy either. Despite these challenges we are all here, in this together and accolades should be given to everyone who did what they could to help stop the spread, encourage friends and family and for keeping yourselves upbeat as much as possible.

Remember to check in with yourself and take note if you feel impatient, angry, depressed or irritable. Those feelings are normal and make sense given the circumstances, but experts say it's important to be aware.

Breathing exercises are always suggested as they are the fastest and easiest way to reduce stress. Relax your shoulders and slow your breathing. The physiological response centers on the nervous system.

Limit your screen time. We say this often. Some call it 'doom-scrolling.' Think of the good old days before social media when it was your choice about what you read. Seeing too much negativity can increase that feeling of dread and uncertainty. If you need some good news, simply Google "good news"; we promise, it's out there. If you're trying to unwind, listen to music or watch shows that remind you of simpler times. Some of our favorites include The Beach Boys, Led Zeppelin and The Doors. For a good reset, nothing beats watching re-runs of Three's Company, one the best sit-coms to come out of the 1970's.

In the words of Bernard Beckett, "Human spirit is the ability to face the uncertainty of the future with curiosity and optimism. It is the belief that problems can be solved, differences resolved. It is a type of confidence. And it is fragile."

NOTES FROM WINDY HOLLOW

What's the large square box about?

BY VIVIAN LEE DION
Contributing Writer

When my first vaccine shot appointment was made, the State of New Hampshire promptly returned the written confirmation including the date, time, and place. I was pleased nearby Wolfeboro was the vaccination site I selected. But, I couldn't help notice a big square black box on the paperwork and wondered what's this all about? The large box had smaller random black and white squares scattered inside. This brings back memories of my grandmother's ancient black and white checkerboard tile floor that was popular in 1950's. There has been a resurgence of black and white décor in kitchens and some designers are calling them Tuxedo kitchens.

Getting back to the big square box, I wanted to find out the purpose of it on the State of NH form. So I searched my computer for the answers, and learned it's called a QR Code. "A QR code is a type of matrix barcode invented in 1994 by the Japanese automotive company Denso Wave. A barcode is a machine-readable optical label that contains information about the item to which it is attached. In practice, QR codes often contain data for a locator, identifier, or tracker that points to a website or applicant." The symbol QR is further clarified; "QR means Quick Response, as the inventor intended the symbol to be quickly decoded. The data encoded in a QR-Code may include alphabetic characters, text, numbers, double characters and URLs." A URL is a web site address.

In talking with friends, I also learned that I could access the special code in the large black box by positioning my iPhone camera over the box. I aligned the square, and like magic the QR Code appeared on my phone, it stated Contents: "Recipient Name Vivian Dion...and other important information." This is a safety feature to ensure that I am the owner of this appointment, and no one else can use it. During the morning of my appointment as I made my way to the front of the line, the medical assistant verified my identity by looking at my current driver's license. The process at Walgreens went smoothly.

After given the Moderna shot, the final phase was to make sure there were no adverse side effects. Everyone waited for the technician to say, "OK, you can go now." The wait seemed long, so I mentioned the QR code to the young lady sitting next to me, and explained how I used my camera to access the information. She said, "I can help you further on this." Give me your phone, and I will download a free APP entitled, "QR Scanner". She tapped her fingers in the APP section, and like magic the QR Scanner appeared on my iPhone. Now, I can quickly scan the code when I see it in a magazine or newspaper without using my camera.

I never paid attention to the QR code, but I guarantee you one thing: after reading about it you will notice the black box in various publications, advertisements, and other items. And you will find important information written inside. The QR code is amazing and proves that computers are here to stay.

The value of quality

To the Editor:
A quality life comes down to one thought — what do you value? For some, it is money; for others it's, power, control, to rule over others...a lot of religious leaders value that. Then there are those who value art, music, movies, theater, science, politics, and education. Some are wrapped up with helping others, while some only wish to do harm to those they do not understand or agree with. While any of these topics in and by itself is a personal choice, the society that you live in should decide what is normal, create rules that all can benefit all of its members. Create rules which promotes health and wellbeing for all.
I believe education is the most important thing an individual can do for themselves. I believe this is how America became a great country; it was with their system of public schools. To have the masses learn to read and write and do basic math bought our population out of the dark ages of ignorance in the 18th and 19th centuries. During the 20th century, more people went on to higher education pushing the country onto the age of technology which help us overcome the dark forces of authoritarian powers that wanted to rule the world and send mankind back to the dark ages of ignorance. There seems to be a movement in this country to slow the push forward in a quality education; it has been a dumbing down of America. Some think this is to make a social system to control the thoughts of the individual, thus control how they vote for those who wish to rule the crowd. Some in the gun crowd might align with this kind of thinking, they do not want change, since they falsely think they will lose control of what they value, the power to control and rule over others. I trust that if you point a loaded gun at a person, they will react to it. There is only one way to change this. It is called education.

In my ideal world, starting at the very first schooling experience, each student, at the end of the school year, gets to do a private evaluation of all their classmates; thus, when a bully is exposed, there is a record of how his classmates thought of him/her in that given year, continue this though the whole educational process, your society will have a better picture of how the individual acts and what their potential for good will be, or not, as they move into adulthood. This would be a tool to help keep the society safe from people who want to do harm. Just an idea to help stop the crazy is as cray does.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN

I shouldn't have done this. I just got back from men's breakfast & Bible study, and I should be preparing to do some kind of work around the house. Lord knows there's lots to do. But it's still morning and plenty of Saturday left to do domestic.

Yesterday was a complete washout. I thought of doing work, but the weather forecast was for a good amount of heavy, wet snow, so I figured that I'd find something constructive to do at home.

Way back at the turn of the century, following the cultural guidance of the day, I set myself up a web site. There were links to pages for me and each of my kids to have their own page. One of them actually had one where he offered to wood burn signs for people for a fee. A budding businessman. When I started my handy man business, I added a page for that too. That was back in '06.

Well, it's been sitting there ever since and a while back, my host informed me that they would no longer support my site any longer because the technology used was so outdated. I needed to update my site. Another chore that has been on the "I'll get to it someday" list. I thought that this snowy day might be the perfect opportunity to get moving on that project.

I knew that I wanted to post some pictures on it so first thing, I needed to find some pictures. I went to my pictures and found hundreds of file numbers and hardly any descriptions. Now there was a secondary task that needed to be done too. I'm glad I'm old school and don't take five pictures of each scene. I spent the whole day going through my pictures.

As many of you, I have multiple cameras. The days of one 35mm are over. I have one early digital one that sequences all the pictures in a folder numbered from 001 to whatever and the folder gets date coded upon transfer from the camera. Luckily this camera knows what day the picture was taken.

My second camera needs constant power to remember the date, which does not get supplied by the USB connector. Not having the power supply, I'm relegated to batteries. And they don't last long, even when turned off. Needless to say, when I pick it up and throw in some batteries, it reverts to 1/1/99 date. I've taken hundreds of pictures with that date. The process to change the date isn't like my camera above, which upon power up, asks you what the date is, it's way down many layers in its setup routine and is extremely tedious. But it has a viewfinder so I don't need to deal with a screen and glasses. It numbers each picture by some magical unknown coding sequence which is not necessarily in order.

Then there is my cell phone, which is usually available but only has 3.2 Mega pixels of resolution so it's my poorest quality image taker. I still use it because of its convenience.

After going through all my pictures, I can't seem to find some I thought that I had. My last hope is to go out to the truck and look at what's in the little purple camera to see if they may not have been transferred to my computer yet. If not, at least I now have an idea what I have for pictures.

Once again, I've been sidetracked by all the other stuff that needs to get done. I could spend the rest of my life just catching up to all these loose ends. But it doesn't really matter really if you think about it. If the Lord calls me home tonight, I'm cool with that. Those whom I've left behind will have to deal with it however they will. I'll leave passwords and such because a lot of the pictures involve them and their friends from the growing up years. They might like to remember and laugh at them some day.

It's almost noon time and that list of get to's is grasping for my attention. I never did get to the web site. Maybe there will be another snow day soon. But then again, maybe not till November. That's soon enough. It's time to get to all the nice weather stuff.

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

If Mary had had an abortion

BY LARRY SCOTT

"If Mary had had an abortion," the sign posted on Facebook said, "we wouldn't be in this mess." To the two women holding up this large four by eight sign, it was hilarious. Fortunately, they hadn't made such a reference to the mother of the Prophet Mohammad. They would have been in deep trouble and might well have been threatened with death.

Christianity, however, is fair game in America. The media ignored the event so far as I can tell. No one seems to care, and some may even find it amusing. To millions of Christians, however, it is a sacrilege and evil.

No abortion was needed, of course; the Romans took care of that some thirty-three years later. They put Him down, but they couldn't keep Him down! Jesus arose from the dead. His message prevailed, His followers regained their faith, and the Church became a force for good.

But why the antagonism? Never, but never, will you see or hear of such an insult publicly displayed toward Islam, or Buddhism, or Judaism. These religious faiths are treated with respect, or at the most, with benign neglect. They, also, claim to be exclusive, but they do not indict non-believers with sin; neither do they claim the rest of the world is going to hell. But Christianity demands a personal surrender to the will of God. Perhaps this is why the Christian faith generates such gross and insensitive opposition.

And, yes, Christianity does claim to be exclusive. Furthermore, Christianity has the audacity (or the honesty) to proclaim that there is no solution to the sin problem apart from Jesus Christ. On one occasion He said, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." I know that sounds self-serving. But Jesus wasn't being partisan; it's just the way it is.

The Bible gives us a number of pictures of both heaven and hell, but the bottom line is this: if we serve God on earth, we shall spend eternity with Him. That, however you visualize it, will be heaven. On the other hand, if we live without God on earth, we are going to spend eternity without Him. And that, however you visualize it, will be hell. You and I don't want to go there!

But God "so loved the world" that He proposed a solution. He sent His son -- through Mary -- and it is an honor to tell you Mary did not abort! The Perfect One -- the only human [Who was also Divine] to never have sinned -- lived to die in our place. Jesus did something about "the mess we're in." He gave His life that we might live.

We are not playing games here, and it is unconscionable to mock the life He lived and the sacrifice He made. If Mary had had an abortion, we would all be eternally damned. His death -- in our place -- was necessary to justify God's forgiveness. That was why the Apostle Peter said, "Salvation is found in no one else." Forgiveness, and heaven, is available to all, but it can be appropriated only through Jesus Christ. He is no joke! Don't treat Him like trash!

Wright Museum kicks off 2021 lecture series

WOLFEBORO — On Tuesday, May 4, UNH Advanced Master Gardener Christin Kaiser will kick off Wright Museum's 2021 Lecture Series, sponsored by Ron Goodgame and Donna Canney, with "Internment Camp Japanese Vegetables and Recipes."

In addition to explaining how to grow Japanese vegetables, Kaiser will share recipes and 'raffle' off a number of 6-pack veggie starts that will include everything from Italian paste tomatoes to pumpkins, kale and sprouting broccoli.

According to Mike Culver, executive director at The Wright, the lecture underscores a complicated part of American history.

"Under pressure from military and political advisors, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued Executive Order 9066," he explained. "This order sent 45,000 Japanese legal residents and their 75,000 Japanese-American children and grandchildren, who were American citizens, to internment camps."

Life in these camps was anything but "normal," but Culver said these Americans tried to make the best of the situation. Schools were established for the children, sport teams played and gardens were created.

"Like the Victory Gardens planted by millions of American citizens outside these internment camps, the Japanese Americans grew produce to enhance their diets," he said. "Their gardens would, of course, contain the kind of vegetables used in their traditional receipts."

As for what is planned for this year's Victory Gardens, which were created and are managed by Kaiser, visitors can expect variety.

"Peas, beans, carrots, cucumbers, lettuce, kale, beets, spinach and three types of Italian paste tomatoes will be the staple crops," Kaiser said. "Our educational planting will be giant sunflower with winter squash, pole beans and Indian corn, which are the three sisters of our native inhabitants."

She will also plant a section of Japanese/Asian cabbages and greens, peppers, cantaloupe, bok choy, broccoli and onions.

"We'll have an improved herb selection, too," she added.

Made possible by the generosity of Ron Goodgame and Donna Canney, the 2021 Lecture Series takes place every Tuesday through the end of the museum's season, which concludes Oct. 31.

Admission is $3 for members and $8 for non-members. Seating is limited, and reservations can be made by calling 603-569-1212.

The region's leading resource for educators and learners of all ages on World War II, Wright Museum features more than 14,000 items in its collection that are representative of both the home-front and battlefield.

Baseball Knights rally past Winnisquam

Stirt strikes out 15 in winning effort for Kingswood

WINNISQUAM catcher Chaz Hibbert fields a throw as Kingswood's James Yarling races home in action last week. Yarling beat the tag to score a run for the Knights.

WOLFEBORO — With more than five decades of coaching experience at the helm of their respective teams, Kingswood baseball coach Chip Skelley and Winnisquam baseball coach Fred Caruso have seen it all.

However, both coaches counted last Thursday's battle in Wolfeboro as the coldest game they had ever coached. With temperatures dipping below 40 degrees and wind gusts approaching 40 miles per hour, conditions weren't ideal, but the two teams went to work anyway.

Justin Stirt got the start on the hill for Kingswood and the Bears were able to get a run across in the top of the first inning. Garret Mango reached to lead off the game and one out later, Phil Nichols worked a walk before Chaz Hibbert delivered a base hit to plate the first run of the game. Kingswood got a double from James Yarling against Winnisquam starter Marcus Korenkiewicz but the Bear hurler got out of trouble with no runs crossing.

Winnisquam plated two more runs in the top of the second inning. With two outs, Mango and Kyler Boudreau both reached and Nichols drove one run home and after Hibbert reached, Nolen Perrino drove in the third run of the game for the Bears, giving them a 3-0 lead.

The Knights got a leadoff base hit from Cole Paro in the bottom of the inning but he was forced at second on a grounder by Calvin Kinville. Andrew Keniston worked a walk but Korenkiewicz started a 1-4-3 double play to get out of the inning.

Stirt found his groove in the third, striking out the side and his teammates got him a couple of runs in the bottom of the inning. With two outs, Yarling worked a walk and Drew Swinerton singled. A Christos Zavas base hit drove them both in and the Knights were within one at 3-2.

Winnisquam got two-out base hits from Nichols and Hibbert in the top of the fourth, but they were stranded.

Kingswood took the lead in the bottom of the fourth. With one out, Keniston hustled out a double on a pop fly that fell in shallow center. One out later, Jonathan Hossack had a base hit to tie the game and Sheahan followed with a base hit. Yarling then doubled two more runs home and Kingswood was up 5-3. Swinerton reached on an error to plate another run and after Zavas reached on an error to keep the inning going, Mango made a great grab on a line drive to second base to end the inning.

Noah Pearson led off the top of the fifth with a double and Korenkiewicz followed with a base hit. However, Stirt got a pair of strikeouts and a fly ball to center to end the inning.

Keniston had a one-out hit in the bottom of the fifth and one out later, Hossack had a base hit and a Sheahan double plated both runners for the 8-3 lead. Yarling reached on a dropped third strike and a pick-off error brought in two more runs for the 10-3 lead. Swinerton kept the inning going with a base hit but Nichols snared a pop up to end the inning.

Will Danais made a nice grab at shortstop in the top of the sixth inning and in the bottom of the inning, with Mark Labonville taking over on the mound for Winnisquam, Paro and Kinville had base hits to start the inning. However, Labonville got a pop up, a strikeout and a groundout to close the inning.

Pearson reached in the top of the seventh, but Stirt shut the door for the 10-3 win.

Stirt had 15 strikeouts and Korenkiewicz struck out five.

The two teams played extra innings to start the week, with the Knights scoring twice in the top of the eighth inning to pick up the 9-7 win.

The Bears scored two runs in the bottom of the first before Kingswood scored five in the top of the second. Winnisquam added one in the bottom of the second but Kingswood scored twice in the top of the fourth for the 7-3 lead. The Bears tied the game with four in the bottom of the sixth inning before Kingswood took the lead in the eighth and held on.

Sheahan and Swinerton each had three hits for the Knights while Mango had three hits for the Bears. Swinerton drove in three runs, Paro drove in two and Nichols drove in two for the Bears.

Tyler Sprince of Kingswood and Nichols were the starting pitchers and each went six innings. Keniston got the win, pitching the final two innings. Nichols struck out eight and Sprince struck out six.

The Bears are scheduled to be at Gilford on Monday, May 3, and to host Gilford on Wednesday, May 5, both with 4 p.m. start times.

The Knights are slated to visit Kennett on Monday, May 3, and will host the Eagles on Wednesday, May 5, with both games scheduled for 4 p.m. starts.

Softball Knights swing the big bats in pair of wins

JOSHUA SPAULDING

MAGGIE SHAW donned the winter hat to pitch for Kingswood last Thursday afternoon

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — The Kingswood softball team brought out its bats for a pair of big wins over Winnisquam before coming up short against a solid St. Thomas team to close out the week.

The Knights battled not only Winnisquam but Mother Nature on Thursday, April 22, as the game was played in chilly temperatures and strong winds. Jackets and winter hats were more prevalent than short sleeved shirts but Kingswood came out strong with eight runs in the first inning on the way to a 20-6 win.

Maggie Shaw got the start in the pitching circle and worked her way around an infield hit and a walk in the top of the first inning. The bottom of the first saw the Knights swinging their bats with authority. Emelia Galimberti led off with a walk and scored on a double by Brooke

Eldridge, who in turn, scored on a base hit by Audrey Daggett. Morgyn Stevens followed with a triple to plate another run and she scored on a sacrifice groundout by Lindsay Desrochers. Shaw reached on an error and an Irena Pettit base hit was followed by a wild pitch and an error allowed both runners to score for the 6-0 lead. Allie Drew had a base hit and after Galimberti worked a walk, a wild pitch made it 7-0. Eldridge beat out an infield hit to push across the final run of the inning.

The Bears were able to push across a run in the top of the second inning on a couple of walks, a hit batter and a groundout, making it 8-1 before Shaw got a strikeout to end the inning.

Kingswood plated six more runs in the second inning and then added six more in the fourth inning, while Winnisquam added one in the top of the third and scored four in the top of the fifth inning.

Daggett and Stevens led the offensive charge with three hits each, with Daggett driving in five runs. Galimberti drove in three runs and Eldridge, Stevens and Danika Chominski each drove in two runs.

Shaw pitched the first two innings, giving up one earned run and striking out four while Abbie Heald finished up the final three innings, giving up two earned runs and striking out eight.

The Knights opened the week with a 32-0 win over the Bears in Tilton. In that game, Desrochers did the pitching, going all five innings, walking just two, giving up just one hit and striking out 11.

Eldridge drove in six runs on five hits, Desrochers drove in five runs on five hits, Drew drove in five runs on three hits, Shaw drove in four runs on three hits, Galimberti drove in three runs on two hits and Pettit drove in two runs on two hits.

AUDREY DAGGETT rounds third on the way to scoring a run in the first inning of last Thursday's game with Winnisquam.

Kingswood scored eight runs in the first, added two more in the second, six in the third and four in the fourth before putting the game away with 12 runs in the fifth inning. All told, the Knights pounded out 25 hits.

The Knights finished the week against St. Thomas, dropping a 7-2 decision on Friday. The first two innings saw the Knights give up four walks and commit four errors and they were down 6-0.

"We held them to one run after that," said coach Mike Shaw, who also noted that the Knights struck out 19 times against the Saint pitcher, who was throwing more than 60 miles per hour.

The Knights are scheduled to be at Kennett on Monday, May 3, and will be hosting their Carroll County rivals on Wednesday, May 5, with both games slated for 4 p.m. starts.

Masons complete roadside cleanup

ALTON — On Saturday, April 24, several of the Masons from Winnipisaukee Lodge did their first roadside clean-up of the year on the part of Route 11 from just east of the Alton Circle to the New Durham town line. The Lodge has been a part of the New Hampshire Department of Transportation (DOT) Adopt-A-Highway program for more than 25 years, and the members are pleased to make the "Gateway to the Lakes Region" clean and appealing. This clean-up yielded 26 bags of trash in the two mile stretch of highway.

It is amazing, and at the same time discouraging, to see the items that somehow appear on the roadside (yes, unfortunately, tossed there). While it is an eyesore, the Masons are glad to do what they can to make it beautiful again.

The Masons are hopeful that as COVID winds its way down locally, the Lodge will be able to again host dinners and the monthly breakfasts that were open to the public. Now that the warmer weather is near, they hope to start out with perhaps a ham and bean dinner, take out only, picked up at the Lodge parking lot. When they are able to do that, a notice of the event will appear in the Baysider.

If you have any questions about the Masons, please contact the Worshipful Master Kirby Wood at 875-2979.

Knights snag two wins over Lakers WOLFEBORO — The Kingswood boys’ lacrosse team continued its winning ways in the second week of the season, taking care of business against Inter-Lakes/Moultonborough. The Knights opened the week with a home game against the Lakers on Tuesday, April 20, and came away with a 15-9 win. Nick Potenza led the way for the Kingswood offense, as he scored four goals, with Davis Ekstrom, Rob Doherty, Brody Thomas, Reese Clarke and Myles Mayhew also contributing goals for the Knights. “The diversity in scoring is something that we’ll look forward to continuing throughout this season,” said coach Mike Manning. The Knights also got solid goaltending from Garrison Hendrickson and Josh Paraskos, who split the time in net. “Having a pair of goalies who are both capable of stepping in net at the varsity level has been an amazing asset to the team so far this season,” Manning said. The Knights made the trip to Meredith on Thursday, April 22, for the rematch and battled the Lakers in the wind and the snow, picking up a 14-4 win. “The Knights stuck to their game plan and worked hard on controlling the time of possession,” Manning said. Ekstrom led the way for the Kingswood offense with five goals on the day, with Potenza, Doherty, Clarke, Mayhew, Thomas and Declan Sluss also getting in on the scoring. Carter Morrissey had a strong game on defense, holding the Lakers’ leading scorer from the previous game to just one goal on five shots. Hendrickson and Paraskos again split the time in net for the Knights. Manning also praised the work of Gage Lamontagne, who stepped up big while taking the majority of the faceoffs for the Knights. “He continues to work hard to become a dominant force at the faceoff dot,” Manning said. Kingswood was supposed to play Laconia this week, but the Sa-

The Lakers got their first goal of the game with 16:01 to go in the first half, as Elliana Marchand-Correia was able to get in close and put the all in the net to cut the lead to 3-1. Marra had a bid as well but couldn’t connect. Peacock had a chance at the other end, while Marra and Maddie Colby had chances for the Lakers. Ana Ekstrom also had a bid for the Knights, but the shot went wide of the net and on another bid, Ekstrom’s centering pass was intercepted by Marchand-Correia in front of the net. Abby Kelly gave Kingswood a 4-1 lead with 10:39 to go in the first half on a feed from Meyer and Colby and Marra came back with chances for the Lakers that were denied. Abby Kelly got in close again but Sullivan made the save. With 6:57 to go, Ekstrom scored on a free shot to make it 5-1 and then Ekstrom scored again on a feed from

Abby Kelly just 25 seconds later. Colby had a bid stopped by Hailey Kelly. The Lakers scored their second goal with 4:28 to go when Colby made a nice feed to Velie in front, who buried the shot to make it 6-2. With 3:46 to go, Sarah Paraskos made a good run down the field and buried the ball for the 7-2 lead, but ILMA came right back and scored at the other end, with Velie making a nice move on the defense to cut the lead to 7-3. Kingswood got the final goal of the half with 3:16 to go, with Abby Kelly racing in off the faceoff and Kingswood took the 8-3 lead to the half. The Knights scored three goals in the first minute of the second half, with Abby Kelly scoring the first two just 13 seconds apart and then Cattie Clegg scoring off a feed from Peacock to make it 11-3. ILMA scored just 18 seconds later on another tally from Velie, making it 11-4. Peacock was awarded a free shot with 22:31 to go and buried it for the 12-4 lead and while trainer Alex Dria attended to Sullivan, the goalie switch was made and Hailey Kelly stepped in for the Lakers and Eldridge took over for the Knights. Peacock scored her second goal of the game with 20:33 to go but Velie came back with another good move through the defense to bury a shot for the Lakers with 18:41 to go. Ekstrom netted her third goal of the game on a feed from Shannon for a 14-5 lead with 18:31 to go and just less than two minutes later, Shannon scored again for the 15-5 lead. Hailey Kelly made a save on a bid by Rachael Paraskos and Cassidy Simpson had a free shot go wide of the net. With 11:18 to go in the game, Velie scored again for the Lakers and then just more than a minute later, Marra scored to cut the lead to 15-7. Rachael Paraskos had a couple of chances for the Knights that Hailey Kelly ly stopped. With 5:40 to go, Colby scored another goal for the Lakers and with 4:13 to go, Marchand-Correia scored the final goal of the game for the Lakers. Marra and Marchand-Correia had chances that Hailey Kelly stopped and the Knights scored the final goal of the game with less than 20 seconds to go, with Rachael Paraskos firing it home for the 16-9 final score.

“Any game we can play is a good game,” said Anderson. “It was good to get everyone in and playing.” “We tell the kids it’s about respecting your opponent and what they bring to the game,” Doda said. “We’re happy to be on the field.” Kingswood is scheduled to take on Kennett at home on Tuesday, May 4, at 6 p.m. and on the road in North Conway on Thursday, May 6, at 4 p.m. The Lakers are scheduled to take on Laconia at home on Tuesday, May 4, at 5 p.m. and will be at Laconia on Thursday, May 6, at 4 p.m. Sports Editor Joshua Spaulding can be reached at 279-4516, ext. 155 or josh@salmonpress.news.
