Newfound volleyball sweeps its way to second-straight Division III title

The Newfound volleyball team celebrates its second-consecutive championship on Saturday in Derry.

DERRY — The Newfound volleyball team was up 2-0 in sets but trailing by an 18-5 score in the third set of the Division III championship match on Saturday. But as they have done for most of the season, the Bears were able to come charging back, eventually pulling even with Mascenic at 23-23 and getting the final two points for the 25-23 win and the Division III championship for the second year in a row. “That was better than I expected,” said coach Amy Fairbank, noting she expected the match to go four or five sets. “They have been working really hard. “Mascenic, they have some big hitters,” the Newfound coach continued. “I expected a great match and told the girls that they are going to have to work hard for it.” The first set started evenly, but the Bears eventually pulled away for an easy win. A Jamie Norton block helped get Newfound out to a 2-0 lead before the Vikings came back and tied the game at three. A hit from Malina Bohlmann got the Bears back ahead before Mascenic got a couple of points in a row to take the lead. Mia LeBrun came through with a key point and Paulina SEE CHAMPS, PAGE A15

Local runners tackle elite Meet of Champions

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

NASHUA — The best cross country runners from around the state descended on Mines Fall Park at Nashua South High School on Saturday for the annual Meet of Champions. Two local teams, the Newfound boys and the Kennett girls qualified to compete and a number of local athletes qualified as individuals. In the boys’ race, Newfound finished in 15th place overall, with Bishop Guertin, Coe-Brown and Concord taking the top three spots. Gilford’s Patrick Gandini, who won the Division III championship last week, finished in third in the Meet of Champions with a time of 15:27. Aidan Cox of Coe-Brown got the win and Torin Kindopp of Keene finished in second place. The Newfound boys were led by Connor Downes, who finished in 54th place overall in 16:59. Ryder Downes came in second for the Bears, finishing in a time of 17:26 for 89th place and Evan Foster was 114th overall with a time of 18:07. SEE MEET, PAGE A15

Soap felting is a technique that uses wool roving to cover a bar of soap. The felted soap bar is a little coarse to the touch and can provide light exfoliation. Use a felted soap bar in place of a washcloth or a loofah. Library volunteer Donna Luti will lead the soap felting session. She suggests that participants bring rubber gloves from home as the technique involves hot water and soap and “it frothes up very quickly!” Participants may also want to bring an apron or wear clothes that they won’t mind getting a little wet. Minot-Sleeper Library receives grant funding

BRISTOL — The Minot-Sleeper Library has been awarded $12,750 in Sustaining the Humanities through the American Rescue Plan (SHARP) grant funds from the New Hampshire Humanities and the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH). Funds will be used for exciting initiatives including a newspaper digitization project, StoryWalks, and outreach efforts. In October, NEH announced that SHARP funds will “support the completion of New Hampshire Historical Society’s ‘Moose on the Loose’ virtual field trips to teach elementary school students about American history and civics ... the expansion of library services in multiple languages at the Englewood Public Library in New Jersey, and allow the American Philosophical Society and The Library Company of Philadelphia to retain staff and early career scholars to digitize manuscript, newspaper, and broadside collections related to Revolutionary-era Philadelphia.” The Minot-Sleeper Library staff and Board of Trustees are proud to be selected alongside these and other organizations to receive SHARP grant funds. The majority of the $12,750 awarded to the Minot-Sleeper Library will pay for the digitization of the library’s microfilm, which currently serves as the only format for viewing the library’s collection of the Bristol Enterprise newspapers. The library’s newspapers on microfilm cover the period from January 1878 through December 1996. Using grant funds, the library will digitize all 75 rolls of microfilm, making the 100-plus years of Bristol history freely available to the public. A new website with the digital versions of the newspapers will allow the public to search by keyword, date, and other categories. The staff and trustees are thrilled to expand access to an important part of the library’s collection. I can't say enough about our Fall athletes this year. There were great successes on and off the fields and courts by these hard-working students and the rewards were many. It takes a lot to accomplish so much with all they have to do, and I think after our pandemic year, they are enjoying the activities offered and responding with vigorous results. Congratulations to all involved.

The changing of the clocks always causes some folks concern, especially if you forget to do it! The disruption of our daily responses to the angle of the sun and the amount of sunlight at different times of the day can be unnerving, I guess. The saying attributed to indigenous people whereby if you cut off a foot of your blanket and sew it on to the other end seems like a foolish custom always makes me chuckle. Enjoy your time in the sun!

LACONIA — Two Lakes Region Community College (LRCC) students have been awarded $500 scholarships each. Elizabeth Hallee (Merrimack), a dual major in Culinary Arts and Pastry Arts, was awarded the Mildred A. Beach Hospitality Scholarship. Hallee, a senior and LRCC Student Senate President, completed a cooperative education program over the summer with the Lakehouse Grille in Meredith. “I’m very excited about the scholarship,” said Hallee. “My ultimate goal is to be able to open my own bed and breakfast, and this will help me get closer to my goal.”

was awarded the Mel Borrin Family Scholarship. Page is a senior in the Business Management program at LRCC and currently works for the Italian Farmhouse in Plymouth. He is exploring possible careers in hospitality, marketing, and accounting. “Josiah has shown great promise as a student, whatever he decides to pursue”, said Carlene Rose, Department Chair of the Business Management program. “He is enthusiastic, analytical, and a pleasure to work with.”

The Mildred A. Beach Scholarship is given annually to a student at a college, university or technical college who is pursuing a degree in a tourism or hospitality-related field. “This scholarship was established more than 20 years ago to recognize our dear friend, Mildred Beach,” said Amy Landers, Executive Director of the Lakes Region Tourism Association. “Mildred served in the state legislature and as a past director of the Lakes Region Tourism Association for more than 45 years.” She continued, “I established the Mel Borrin Family Scholarship in honor of Mel Borrin who I knew for over 25 years. Mel was a devoted business owner who supported his community, the tourism industry, and area businesses through leadership, volunteerism, and hard work.”

Chef William Walsh, Department Chair of the Culinary Arts, Pastry Arts, and Hotel and Restaurant Operations program at LRCC added, “We take pride in the partnerships we have developed with members of our community, and in the efforts they make to help develop our students so they can further contribute to our community”.

The Lakes Region Tourism Association is a non-profit tourism marketing organization that promotes the Lakes Region and Central New Hampshire in state, out-of-state, and internationally to bring more visitors to the area. For more information, visit www.lakesregion.org/.

Lakes Region Community College offers many associate degree and certificate programs, including Business, Accounting, Culinary Arts, Hotel and Restaurant Operations, Electrical, Automotive, Nursing, Graphic Design, Advanced Manufacturing, and Fire Science, just to name a few. In addition, LRCC provides a strong background in Liberal Arts for students who choose to do their first two years at a community college and then transfer to a four-year college or university for a baccalaureate degree. Business and industry training programs are also available. For more information, visit www.LRCC.edu.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

Financial tips for new veterans

On Veterans Day, we honor the men and women who have served in our armed forces. If you’ve recently separated or retired from the military, or you will be leaving soon, you can be proud of the service you’ve provided to your country. But once you’re a veteran, away from the structure and imperatives of the military, you may need to take greater control over managing your finances and protecting your family. For starters, consider housing. When you were on active duty, you may have moved around frequently and found it more convenient to rent, but you may now want to purchase a house. Assuming you meet the eligibility requirements, you could apply for a VA loan, which typically does not require a down payment and is usually offered at a favorable interest rate. Make sure that you only take out a mortgage you can afford – you don’t want to become

“house poor.” You’ll also want to save and invest for retirement. While on active duty, you could invest in the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), but when you separate from service, you can no longer contribute to it. Now, if you get a job in the civilian sector, you may have access to a 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored retirement plan, and you might be able to roll your TSP balance into your new employer’s plan. If you become self-employed or open your own business, you may be able to choose from several retirement plans, including a SEP-IRA, a SIMPLE IRA or an “owner-only” 401(k). But no matter what plan you have, try to contribute enough to meet your income needs in retirement, which could last two or three decades. Furthermore, once you become a civilian, you may need to consider two topics that have special importance to you and your family: health and life insurance. Regarding health insurance, you should be able to get coverage through TRICARE and/or the Veterans Administration, but you also may want to take advantage of employer-sponsored health coverage. As for life insurance, you will lose the coverage offered by the military (Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance, or SGLI) shortly after you separate from active duty, so you’ll want to consider your options for your SGLI, such as converting it to either Veterans’ Group Life Insurance or a civilian policy. Your new employer may provide some form of insurance as an employee benefit, but it might not be sufficient for your needs. In any case, if you have dependents, it’s essential you don’t lose life insurance coverage, even for a short time. Finally, be prepared for one negative aspect of becoming a veteran: fraud attempts. It’s unfortunate, but scam artists frequently target veterans. Scammers may tell you that you qualify for “secret” government programs, but you must first pay a fee or provide personal information, which can then be used for identity theft. Or they might try to charge you for access to your service records, even though you can get them free from the Department of Veterans Affairs. As a general rule, be suspicious of anyone you don’t know who seems overly eager to help veterans. Entering a new phase in your life can be exciting and rewarding – and you’ll enjoy it even more when you get comfortable with your new financial arrangements.

Before investing in bonds, you should understand the risks involved, including credit risk and market risk. Bond investments are also subject to interest rate risk such that when interest rates rise, the prices of bonds can decrease, and the investor can lose principal value if the investment is sold prior to maturity.

encourage healthy risk taking

BY DEB NARO
Contributor

By guiding your teen toward healthy challenges, you can help them satisfy a desire for risk-taking, avoid negative consequences, and boost their confidence and leadership skills.

Teenagers engage in risk-taking behaviors to find out who they are, not necessarily to be rebellious or intentionally disobey their parents. Most parents are terrified at the thought of their teens taking risks. Rightfully so, as many parents think of teen risk-taking as binge drinking, using drugs, vaping or other potentially dangerous behaviors. However, risk taking is not always a negative thing; healthy risk taking can actually build confidence and help strengthen leadership skills among teens.

Healthy risk taking doesn't put your child in danger, but it does require them to risk something — such as failure or criticism. Taking risks is a natural part of teen identity development and helps them figure out who they are, while they are exploring boundaries. In the process of taking healthy risks, they'll gain confidence, courage, and the ability to make plans and resist impulses — all important skills they'll need in life.

Most parents understand that when they teach their child to ride a bike, there's a good chance their child will end up with a skinned knee — but that risk is worth the reward of motor skills, confidence and self-esteem that come with learning to riding solo. That's exactly what taking healthy risks is all about.

Most teens are full of enthusiasm, but some may have a hard time expressing that energy in a safe way. Brainstorming with your kids can help find the right activity and a way to direct their interests toward an exciting but healthy outlet.

To help kickstart the conversation, you can start by asking your child a few questions. What makes you the happiest? To you, what's the most valuable thing in the world? What's the most exciting thing you've ever done or can imagine doing? If you had eight hours to do whatever you wanted, what would it be? Once you know what makes your child happy and ignites their passion, together you can look for healthy risks.

Once you know more about what your child finds exciting, you can look for healthy challenges that produce the same feeling. As your teen settles on an activity, asking simple questions is a great way to help them launch a plan. How much time do you want to dedicate to this activity? How will you get there? What equipment or tools will you need? Who should you contact?

If they get off track, resist jumping in and taking over — giving them too much help negates the whole learning experience and their sense of taking on a risk or a new challenge. Let them navigate through the process of getting started, and then follow up on how they're feeling about the activity itself.

If they are hesitant to try something new, share your own healthy risk-taking and your successes and failures. Be sure to model the behaviors you want to see in your teen (whether they realize or admit to it or not, teens tend to emulate their parents).

For more information about how to talk to your child about healthy risk taking, visit www.cadyinc.org. If you, or someone you know, struggles with substance misuse or addiction, please call 2-1-1 or the Doorway at LRGH Healthcare (934-8905) for help. You can also connect with Plymouth Area Recovery Connection (PARC), our local recovery center, located at Whole Village Family Resource Center in Plymouth at info@parcnh.org or 238-3555.

“Yes! There it went! A zebra!”

By JOHN HARRIGAN
COLUMNIST

I have so many Notes to Self kicking around my desk that a gust of wind could start a blizzard. Thus, it was good to check my desk the other day and find a note from someone else.

“Enjoyed your story on possums in the North Country,” said a reader from Berlin. “I’ve been around for more than a few decades and had never seen one north of Ossipee until a few weeks ago when I caught one on a camera in my backyard on the east side of Berlin.

“Neat looking animal, and if they love to eat ticks, as I’ve learned, I hope they stick around.”

To me, opossums look like they were made by the same committee that designed platypuses, with their floppy pig’s ears, opposable thumbs on their rear feet, and tail so suited to hanging out. They eat ticks, all right, and just about anything else, including your garbage.

Possums somehow remind me of armadillos. Maybe we’ll get those too.

When I worked for the New Hampshire Sunday News back in the ‘70s, I had the Fish and Game beat, and at this time of year (deer season) I had the habit of hanging out for an afternoon now and then at the Department’s old headquarters building at 34 Bridge Street in Concord.

The old brick building was cramped but comfortable in the way that only old buildings can be. It was destroyed by a fire in 1984, and the Department had temporary quarters until it could move into a new building on Hazen Drive, on the Heights.

Joe Wiley was a game biologist when I had the beat, and he used to keep an unofficial list of animals reportedly seen in the woods by hunters. Sometimes some pretty strange animals made the list. One year, for instance, several people saw a zebra, presumably all seeing the same zebra. I kept waiting for the hippopotamus.

Another year several hunters reported seeing a huge black bull, going pretty much wherever it wanted (after all, it was a huge black bull). This led me to the question, what does anyone do about this? In an official

The lure known as a spoon was not lead, but the small jig just above it was lead through and through, and it killed this adult loon found on Umbagog Lake. (Radiograph courtesy of Meadow Pond Animal Hospital)

capacity, I mean.

That was when I found out about a Round ‘Em Up, Get ‘Em Out service being run by a couple of experts at lassos and the like down around Milford. For a reasonable fee (they said), they would locate your wild-eyed, snorting beast, capture it, and bring it home, where it would kick your barn apart.

I wonder who’s doing that kind of stuff today. If you have a cow or horse that’s gone berserk, destroyed several fences, and run off to pick its feet in Poughkeepsie, who you gonna call? Not the Ghost-Busters, they’re probably busy with another sequel.

The Loon Preservation Committee says it’s making slow and steady progress in restoring loons to all of their available habitat, but would be much farther ahead were it not for lead fishing tackle still out there on the bottoms of lakes and streams.

The loons spot the objects, mistake them for pebbles, and pick them up as grist for their giz-zards.

In fact, the LPC says that during the past three decades, lead fishing tackle has accounted for 41 percent of all loon deaths, far ahead of any other factor.

Although tackle manufacturers quickly found other materials to use when lead was banned, plenty of old lead lures and sinkers remain in fishermen’s tackle boxes. That’s why the LPC began a program years ago to arrange swaps for gift certificates and the like to encourage trading in old tackle for new.

People who love to fish love seeing and hearing loons too. This year’s LCP buyback program ends December 31, and November is a double-voucher month, meaning that fishermen can receive a $20 purchase voucher for their old tackle. Details and a list of participating dealers can be found at loon-safe.org.

The people who live along the Mekong River in Southeast Asia are among the Earth’s poorest, with many families eking out a living fishing and farming. China controls the headwaters, and in the past 30 years has built 11 giant dams, the last of which has finally given it the ability to manipulate the river’s flow.

After it leaves China, the Mekong flows through Myanmar, Laos, Thailand, Cambodia, and on into Vietnam. For millennia, people along the river and its many tributaries have learned to live with and benefit from its seasonal flows.

In 2019, with the completion of its last dam, the Chinese chose an odd moment—the middle of an unusual drought—to shut the river down.

Was this a wagging of the ultimate Big Stick? China-watchers can’t see how China has much to gain by antagonizing its neighbors.

But one veteran observer had a simpler explanation: corruption. No-shows failed to collect rainfall, runoff and water-level data, he wrote, meaning that government officials and foreign policy-makers made decisions using faulty data.

Richard James Collins

Richard James Collins of Alexandria passed away after a brief illness on October 31, 2021.

Richard was born in South Boston, Massachusetts on January 27, 1959. Because he was born with multiple disabilities, he lived with his family until he was five, then spent 14 years living at Dever State School in Taunton Massachusetts. His life changed as a result of Congress passing the Education for All Handicapped Children Act (PL 94-142) in 1975. He left the institution and began living in community settings in Boston until his parents brought him to their retirement home in Bridgewater in the late 1990's. It was then that he began a relationship with Lakes Region Community Services. LRCS helped him find the life he wanted and helped him through the transitions caused by the death of his parents.

Richard thrived on creating social connections with people he met, particularly when delivering the Penny Saver around Plymouth. He had special connections that brightened the day of those who knew him. He was blessed to be a Boston sports fan and could be seen in Red Sox and Patriots gear year-round.

He is survived by two brothers: James and his wife Kathie Gilmore of Fort Myers, FL and Brian and his wife Diane O'Hara of Canterbury NH, his nephew Kenneth and wife Debra and daughter Anna of Fort Myers, his niece Kerry and daughter Carrick of Fort Myers, his wife Bijaya Sharma and their son Rowan of Charlestown MA, and his nephew Emmett of Canterbury.

He is also survived by his friend Betty Loos and roommate Peter Gray of Alexandria NH. Betty's love and care for Richard brought him his greatest peace in life. Words alone cannot describe the nature of their relationship as Richard found happiness living in her home among her family and friends. The Collins family will forever be grateful for all her attention to his needs and to those in her circle who opened their homes and gave him friendship.

Due to Covid restrictions, the family has chosen a private burial at the Veterans Cemetery in Boscawen NH where Richard will be buried with his parents.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks for support of Lakes Region Community Services, 719 N. Main St, Laconia NH, 03246 or www.lrccs.com. To share a memory or leave a condolence, please go to www.EmmonsFuneralHome.com

PSU Advanced Educator programs earn national accreditation from Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation

Chris Stoddard, Psy.D., NCSP, Director of Plymouth State University's School Psychology program, discusses the topic of culture, diversity and intelligence testing in a recent class. PSU's School Psychology program is one of two advanced educator programs that recently earned accreditation from the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation, and it is the only accredited program of its kind in New Hampshire.

PLYMOUTH — After a rigorous audit and review process, two of Plymouth State University's (PSU) advanced educator programs have earned accreditation from the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP). The national accrediting organization reviews institutions that offer bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees and other programs to prepare teachers and other educators for certification and licensure in the United States and abroad. With the recent accreditation of its Library Media Specialist program and School Psychology program, PSU becomes the first institution in New Hampshire to be fully accredited by CAEP.

PSU's educator program includes undergraduate and graduate-level studies in elementary education, music and visual arts education, physical education, special education and other tracks to prepare educators for roles within elementary, middle and high schools. The University's advanced programs include library media specialist, school counselor and school psychology.

"Attaining advanced level CAEP accreditation of our educator preparation programs was a true collaborative effort made possible by the dedication, hard work and expertise of our education faculty, Holmes Center staff, our students and our partner school districts," said Brian Walker, Interim Director, Holmes Center for School Partnerships and Educator Preparation, Plymouth State University. "This accreditation demonstrates that PSU is committed to using evidence-based national standards to prepare our students to become outstanding K-12 educators who are equipped to meet the diverse needs of today's students."

PSU's Library Media Specialist program is the only accredited program of its kind in northern New England. The online master's degree program attracts students from New Hampshire and throughout northern New England.

"The traditional role of the school librarian has evolved dramatically with the onslaught of digital information that must be vetted and validated, and learning tools that must be integrated into classrooms," said Pamela Harland, Ed.D., Director of PSU's Library Media Studies and Digital Learning program. "Librarians are curators of mountains of information, and must be prepared to teach students how to think critically about the information they're accessing. This accreditation demonstrates that we are invested in continuous program evaluation and improvement, and to delivering relevant curriculum and coursework."

PSU's School Psychology program is an education specialist-level program, meaning between a master's degree and a doctorate. Like the Library Media Specialist program, PSU's School Psychology program is the only accredited program of its kind in New Hampshire. The intensive in-person program comprises on-campus classroom meetings and three field placements in K-12 schools, primarily in New Hampshire.

"CAEP accreditation affirms the rigor of our program, and ensures that our graduates are highly skilled and committed to adhering to professional domain standards in their practice," said Chris Stoddard, Psy.D., NCSP, Director of PSU's School Psychology program. "Our graduates are well-prepared to become comprehensive mental health providers in schools, and most have employment offers before they graduate."

To meet national CAEP accreditation standards, PSU demonstrated not only exemplary teaching and learning but also how PSU graduates impact students in the schools where they work.

Streetcar Company rehearses “All Together Now,” its first musical since the pandemic that salutes community theater.

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

LACONIA — This weekend, Streetcar Company will present a special show celebrating community theater, marking its first musical since the pandemic.

Streetcar will do a production of “All Together Now” at the Belknap Mill featuring 15 classic songs from different musicals tied together by a story of a telethon supporting a community theater company.

“All Together Now” is a musical review that Music Theatre International (MTI) has offered for free to community theater groups to help them get back on their creative feet after the pandemic. The entire live theater industry was especially hit hard during the pandemic. “All Together Now” features 15 different songs from different musicals.

“Basically, it was tailor made for us,” said director David Nelson of Gifford.

Theater groups had the option of presenting the show however they wanted, whether as a concert type performance or within the context of an original story. Nelson wrote a script about a telethon that helps raise money for a small New Hampshire theater group like Streetcar with the help of a big name announcer.

Nelson said he had never written a show before, and started putting ideas down.

Nelson plays Jimmy, a personal assistant to nationally known host Malcolm Palladium, who he convinces to host a telethon for a community theater group in his hometown.

Like many theater groups, Streetcar hadn’t been able to stage any productions since the COVID lockdown in the spring of 2020 forced the indefinite postponement of its planned 50th anniversary show, a revival of “The Wizard of Oz.” The company returned to the stage this summer with a production of “The Birds” (based on the short story by Daphne Dumaurier). “All Together Now” will be their first musical since 2019.

Nelson said this production has been going great leading up to opening day.

“(This) exceeded my expectations of what I thought the show could be,” Nelson said.

Brendan Berube of Laconia plays famous host Malcolm Palladium, who he described as “professional” from how the dresses to how he makes himself heard.

Berube has been in a number of Streetcar shows, recently performing in “The Birds.”

“I missed it so much,” Berube said. “That connection you have with a live audience, there’s nothing like that in the world.”

He will also be singing for the first time ever in this show. He was initially not going to sing, but was encouraged by Nelson, who convinced him to take lead vocal duties on the show’s opening number, “Be Our Guest” from Disney’s “Beauty and the Beast.”

Carey Hough of Gilman Iron Works plays Sara Dutile, Jimmy’s love interest.

“Sara is a small-town girl who is determined to help her local community theater organization come back after being closed for so long,” Hough said.

Hough returned to the stage after 21 years away. Hough said she started doing theater in eighth grade at Palmer High School in Massachusetts. She did some more theater in high school and started studying musical theater in college, but got into other things.

She said she has been missing it for a long time and decided to audition for the Streetcar show.

“It’s been amazing; it kind of fills like a place that I didn’t know was missing,” Hough said.

Hough said getting back to it was hard at first, but she got acclimated.

“I’ve found a great group of people here, and I’ve made some great friends,” she said.

Streetcar veteran Patte Sarauskys of Laconia plays Ethel Dingmeyer, an older lady who is hard of hearing.

Sarauskys is currently Streetcar’s longest serving active member. She first performed with the company in 1987 in its original production of “The Wizard of Oz,” and has been a regular performer over the past 36 years.

“People become part of your extended family,” Sarauskys said. “You grow together, and you help each other out.”

She said it felt great to be back in the process.

“It’s wonderful to be able to go out and to learn lines and memorize lyrics,” Sarauskys said. “It’s wonderful to go through the process of the show again.”

“All Together Now” will be performed at the Belknap Mill in Laconia Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 2 and 7 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Tickets are available at the door and online at streetcarcompany.com.

Danielle Walker returns a Portsmouth Christian serve in semifinal action last week.

DERRY — Despite not playing their best game, the Newfound volleyball team battled to a victory in the Division III semifinals on Tuesday, Nov. 2, knocking off fourth-seeded Portsmouth Christian by a 3-0 score, 25-18, 25-22, 25-7.

“We definitely did not play our offensive game in the first set and the first half of the second set,” said coach Amy Fairbank. “That’s not really us, we didn’t play as aggressively as usual.”

“The third game is pretty much how we start our matches normally.”

Malina Bohlmann, Danielle Walker and Mikayla Ulwick had early hits and Mia LeBrun added a service ace to get Newfound out to a 5-0 lead in the first set. A hit from Paulina Huckins and an ace from Bohlmann stretched the lead to 9-3 before the Eagles battled back. LeBrun and Huckins combined for a nice point for the Bears but PCA pulled to within one at 10-9.

Newfound put up three points in a row to open the lead again and an Ulwick hit pushed the Newfound lead to 14-11. PCA again got to within one, but Bohlmann delivered a hit to get the Bears back on track.

The Eagles kept on coming and pulled even at 16 and then took a 17-16 lead before Bohlmann and Emalie Ruiter had back-to-back hits and Ul-wick made a nice tip off a Bohlmann diving play to propel Newfound back in front 19-17. From there, the Bears closed things out for the 25-18 win and the 1-0 lead.

The second set saw Newfound get out to a 4-1 lead and a Huckins block had them up 4-2 before the Eagles rallied and tied the score at four, at five and then take a 6-5 lead. A hit from Jamie Norton and a tip from Ulwick put Newfound back in front but the Eagles tied again at seven. After a Bohlmann hit, PCA pulled even at eight and again at nine.

A Bohlmann ace helped Newfound to create a little breathing room at 12-9, but the Eagles didn’t go away. Huckins had a nice get, but PCA pulled even again at 13. Bohlmann, Norton and Huckins had consecutive hits to give the Bears at 16-13 lead but Portsmouth Christian battled back. The Eagles cut the lead to 17-16 and 18-17, but Bohlmann added a big hit for the Bears to push the lead to two again.

Portsmouth Christian tied the match at 20 and took a 21-20 lead before Newfound ran off five of the next six points to close out the 25-22 win and take the 2-0 lead.

PCA got the first two points of the third set before Bohlmann had a hit to help Newfound pull even. The Bear went up 4-2 only to see the Eagles come back and take a 5-4 lead. A hit from Ruiter tied the set at five and Newfound got off the next six points, including a Huckins hit, to go up 11-5. After the Eagles got a point to make it 11-6, Newfound went on a 7-0 run to put the match out of reach. Huckins was a monster in the run, getting a couple of nice tips at the net and a big hit as Newfound went up 18-6.

The Eagles got another point but that was the final one, as Newfound got the final eight points of the match, including a nice tip at the net from Norton and closed out the 25-7 win and the 3-0 victory.

“I wasn’t afraid when we got behind because we do a good job coming back,” Fairbank said. “We can usually collect it again and get on track.”

“We’re happy to get here and I figured it would be us and Mascenic at the end,” the Bear coach said.

In the win, Bohlmann reached her 500th career dig, the second player this season (after Ruiter) to reach the career mark. She had nine kills, 25 digs and two aces, while Huckins had 12 kills and Ulwick had 14 assists.

The Bears moved on to face the Mascenic Vikings in the Division III finals on Saturday afternoon.

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Huckins added a hit as the Bears and Vikings battled back and forth. The two teams exchanged points before a hit from Bohlmann sparked the Bears on a run that took them from a 13-10 lead and got them to 20-10. In the run, Bohlmann chipped in with a service ace. Huckins came through with a couple more hits and Emalie Ruiter had a hit as the Bears closed out the 25-13 win. The Vikings started strong in the second set, getting out to a 4-0 lead and led 7-1 before the Bears battled back. Huckins and Ruiter each had hits and Bohlmann added an ace before a Ruiter hit tied the match at seven. Newfound continued going forward, propelled by the strong serving of Bolhmann, who added another service aces as the lead built out to 14-7. Mascenic came back with a trio of points before Huckins added a hit and LeBrun made a good dig as the Bears went up by a 19-10 score. Another Huckins hit kept the Bears charging ahead and they led 21-12 before the Vikings added a couple of points. A Danielle Walker service ace put the Bears on the brink of the win at 24-17 and after the Vikings got a pair of points, the Bears closed out the 25-19 win for the 2-0 lead. The Vikings came charging out of the gate in the third set, going up by a 10-2 score and stretched the lead to 18-5 before the Bears finally got going. Huckins added a hit to get the Bears on the board to start a strong run for Newfound. Bohlmann and Northon had nice tips at the net and Bolhmann added a couple of good hits as the Bears closed in, cutting the lead to 19-15. A After a pair of Viking points, McKayla Ulwick had a hit and Bolhmann added another, pulling the Bears closer. Bohlmann and Walker teamed up on a key point as the Bears closed the lead to 21-19. Mascenic got another point but Ulwick got a key hit and the Bears pulled even at 23. Huckins then got a pair of hits and Newfound had its second championship in a row. "We had an upper hand, we knew what it was like to be here, with plenty of returning players," Fairbank said. "That mental fortitude, we had it. "When you get down you have to plug away one point at a time," the Bear coach continued, noting that she has a game in practice that has the kids play from behind. "We teach them how to be down and get back up. You can't win if you can't handle losing. "We're just a team that doesn't give up," Fairbank said. "We have our games where we are up and down, but when they get down, they don't panic." In the win, Huckins reached her 500th career dig, the third member of the team to reach the milestone this season. Newfound finished the regular season undefeated at 16-0 and earned the first seed in the tournament. They beat Sunapee and Portsmouth Christian to earn their spot in the championship game. Sports Editor Joshua Spaulding can be reached at 279-4516, ext. 155 or josh@salmonpress.news.

How to show your appreciation for the military in a unique time

United States military personnel serve both domestically and abroad. Active-duty personnel are following in the footsteps of retired veterans and protecting the freedoms of their fellow Americans while also playing a vital role in protecting millions of non-Americans across the globe.

United States military personnel make myriad sacrifices every day. Recognition of those sacrifices is just one of the many ways Americans can show their appreciation for the military, even during the era of social distancing.

- Help a veteran. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, as of 2019 there were 17.4 million military veterans living in the United States. More than half of those veterans are 65 or older. As difficult as social distancing during the COVID-19 pandemic has proven for everyone, perhaps no group has sacrificed more than men and women over 65, millions of whom have been separated from their families. Aging men and women spent a year or more isolated at home to protect themselves from a virus that public health officials acknowledged was especially lethal to people over 65. Adults who want to show their appreciation for military veterans can reach out to local veterans' organizations and offer to lend a hand. Such organizations may be delivering meals to vulnerable veterans, driving veterans to appointments to see their doctors or get vaccinated or organizing events for veterans who have already been vaccinated. Pitching in to help with such efforts is a great way to show veterans their efforts are still appreciated, even if it's been decades since they last served.

- Help a military family. Data from the Office of the Undersecretary of Defense indicates that there were roughly 1.3 million active-duty military personnel in 2018. Many of those service members serve overseas for months at a time. Their families back home can use a helping hand even in the best of times, but they might be especially needy while confronting the pandemic. Though vaccination projections suggest hundreds of millions of Americans will be fully vaccinated by mid-summer, in the meantime neighbors can help local military families handle life at home. Invite a local military family over for a weekly meal, offer to take kids to a sports practice if it's safe to do so or help out with chores like mowing the lawn or washing the car.
- Donate to charities that serve the military. Adults who have not been vaccinated and are hesitant to be around others can still show their appreciation for military service members. Various organizations help both active-duty military and veterans, and donating to such charities can be a great way to help an excellent cause. If you're unsure about which organization to support, visit Charity Navigator at charitynavigator.org. Charity Navigator evaluates hundreds of thousands of charitable organizations and can be an invaluable resource for prospective donors.

Veterans and active military personnel deserve support. There are various ways for people to express that support, even as the world continues to confront the pandemic.

PLYMOUTH — The Wound Care Center at Speare Memorial Hospital is raising awareness of diabetes-related wounds as part of the Healogics Eighth Annual Diabetes Awareness Campaign.

Throughout November, the Wound Care Center at Speare Memorial Hospital will educate the local community about the importance of awareness, early intervention and specialized care for diabetes-related chronic wounds, like diabetic foot ulcers. Local team members will also visit healthcare providers in surrounding areas to provide important information to help at-risk patients living with diabetes. These resources include the 2021 Diabetes Awareness Infographic and posters designed to encourage patients to take off their socks and shoes for foot exams at every appointment.

There are 34.2 million people in the United States currently living with diabetes. And, diabetes-related wounds are a leading cause of limb loss, accounting for 65,000 amputations annually. Early detection and specialized care from a Wound Care Center can reduce healing times and significantly reduce the risk of amputation.

Risk factors for diabetes include age, diet, activity level, obesity and heredity. Factors that may increase the risks of developing a chronic wound, such as a diabetic foot ulcer, include high blood sugar levels, poor circulation, immune system issues and nerve damage.

The Wound Care Center at Speare Memorial Hospital recommends the following to help prevent diabetic foot ulcers:

Stop smoking immediately

Comprehensive foot examinations each time you visit your healthcare provider (at least four times a year)

Examine your feet every day or have a family member inspect them

Take good care of your feet and clean your toenails

See your healthcare provider to care for corns and calluses

Choose supportive, proper footwear (shoes and socks)

Take steps to improve circulation such as eating healthier and exercising regularly

Contact the Wound Care Center at Speare Memorial Hospital to learn more about diabetic foot ulcers or if you have a wound that will not heal. To schedule an appointment, please call (603) 481-8780 or visit <https://spearehospital.com/wound-care-hyperbaric-medicine/>.
