Students then went off into different groups to do various tasks around the building and the grounds. "Really, just all good stuff to add to that climate and sense of community," Lalibete said.

She said kids who are more hands on could rake leaves or paint the baseball field dugout. Those who enjoy art crafted a banner with the school's motto LEAD (Learn, Excel, Achieve, Dream).

Freshmen also met in a group and talked about ides for acts if kindness and made cards with encouraging sayings. In the Home Economics room they made baked goods to give to faculty and

Interact Club carrot harvest helps farm, teaches lessons

Members of Gilford High School's Interact Club literally got their hands dirty this week helping a local farm harvest carrots, getting a direct lesson in how food is grown.

On Monday, afternoon students and other volunteers traveled to Winnipesaukee Woods Farm and pulled up carrots with help from farm owner Aaron Lichtenberg. The activity was a community service project for Interact members.

Notes from the Gilford Public Library

BY MARK THOMAS

Library Correspondent

Phew! We just finished up doing book talks with almost the whole middle school. They like stories, that was clear, though I was amazed at how focused some of their interests were. "Who likes fantasy?"-- one set of hands go up. "Who reads realistic fiction?"--another set of hands. On it went as I asked about sports, science fiction, historical fiction... They knew what they liked.

Though I was glad that they have interests, it was a shame when I saw some eyes glaze over when I talked about a book that didn't match what they think they would like. Arielle and I handpicked the books we talked about, so obviously they are wonderful to the letter. It pains me to see someone miss out on a read that they might love, or that might have a profound effect on them, just because they haven't given the genre a chance.

The same phenomenon happens when adults are trying out the reading challenges. The first ten or so so categories are easy, but then you get to the 'odd' stuff. What's odd to one reader is not necessarily odd to another, however. One person does the High-Fantasy book first, while another leaves it until last. The genre that I think is most divisive or hate it, in my experience.

I don't mean realistic thrillers where someone is being chased by someone else with a gun. I mean the kind of story where a house has old grudges, where ghosts are in the walls and they don't like you, where fog is coming over the horizon and it portends death. Horror is fun for some readers-they enjoy the chills, the feeling that something supernatural is happening. For me, I either get scared and hate the feeling, or I embrace my disbelief and mock the story. Nonetheless, the occasional horror keeps me on my toes and keeps me open-minded, especially atmospheric horror.

So maybe, since Halloween is near, try something different and see how it suits you. "Fever Dreams" is an eerie novel written by Samantha Schweblin. The story takes place in an emergency clinic, where a young woman and a child talk in almost panicked, confused tones as the woman tries to remember what happened to her, and what is happening.

"House of Furies" by Madeleine Roux is cataloged as a Young Adult book, but it is more than horrifying enough for adults. A young woman leaves a hostile school only to find work in is Horror. People love it boarding home that is weird, murderous, and vengeful. Those who have been wicked in their past are drawn there to be punished.

> "I'm Thinking of Ending Things" by Iain Reid will give you chills, chills that will linger long after you finish reading. The narrator known only as 'The Girlfriend' describes a trip she takes with her boyfriend to a family farm, but she has been thinking of ending the brief relationship even before things got strange. Going from snowy roads at night, to a farm with massive, empty buildings in the middle of nowhere, to another place (no spoilers) that would freak out even the most stable minds yields psychological horror in its essence.

If you're already a reader of horror, power to you (Pst, try something else)!

Cadet Captain Joel Chick receives Earhart Award

LACONIA — Cadet Captain Joel Chick receives the Amelia Earhart

Award from the Hawk Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

The second milestone of the Cadet Program is the Amelia Earhart Award, which is earned after the receipt of the General Billy Michelle Award and the completion of the first 11 achievements of the Cadet Program. In addition, the cadet must pass a comprehensive 100 question examination covering aerospace

topics, leadership theory and staff duties

"The Earhart Award honors late Amelia Earhart aviatrix, advocate, and a pioneer, who set many records for women aviators in aviation's infancy, and who was lost while attempting to be the first woman to circumnavigate the globe."1

A home schooled student Joel is attending the Blake Hill Academy of Homeschooling and takes many of his course through the on line program of VLACS. He is in the class of 2018 and is involved in the sports program at the Kingswood High School. Despite what many may believe, homeschoolers do socialize and make tons of friends in shared classes in a classroom setting.

Inspired by Search and Rescue and emergency medial experience, he enjoys helping others even though he is under 18 years old he has taken, passed the EMT Basic, but he has to wait for the legal age to obtain his certificate. Joel's future plan is to become an inflight nurse in the U.S.

Civil Air Patrol, the official auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, is a nonprofit organization with 58,000 members nationwide, operating a fleet of 550 aircraft. CAP, in its Air Force auxiliary role, performs about 85 percent of continental U.S. inland search and rescue missions as tasked by the Air Force Rescue Coordination Center and is credited by the AFRCC with saving an average of 70 lives annually. Its unpaid professionals also perform homeland security, disaster relief and drug interdiction missions at the request of federal, state and local agencies. The members play a leading role in aerospace education and serve as mentors to more than 24,000 young people currently participating in the CAP cadet programs. Performing missions for America for the past 73 years, CAP received the Congressional Gold Medal in 2014 in honor of the heroic efforts of its World War II veterans. Local Scouts enjoy the trip of a lifetime

LACONIA — Boy Scout Troop 68, Laconia, experienced the trip of a lifetime in August 2017. Twelve Scouts and four adult leaders spent an exciting week at the Boy Scouts of America high adventure camp, Sea Base, located in the Florida Keys.

Troop 68 has been serving the Lakes Region community for 79 years. Currently chartered by St. Andre Bessette Parish, the Troop began its charter with St. Joseph Church in 1938. Today, Troop 68 follows the Missions and Aims of the Boy Scouts of America under the leadership of Lenny Miner, Scoutmaster, Larry Poliquin, Troop Committee Chair, Tricia Poliquin, Troop Advancement Chair and Nathan Papavlo, Senior Patrol Leader. They are joined by a large number of dedicated parents, local citizens and 25 active scouts that have helped the troop become the strong community focused presence in our city that it is today.

The group traveled from Laconia to Boston and flew into Miami. Florida on Aug. From there, they made their way, by bus, to the Brinton Environmental Cenin Summerland Key, Florida. Once checked in and tested swimming abilities the group canoed five miles through the Atlantic Ocean to Big Munson Island. Three nights and four days were spent exploring the island, snorkeling, kayaking, and deep sea fishing.

"Our boys experience deep woods camping, cold weather camping and hiking in the beautiful area of New Hampshire where we live all year long. This was a very new and exciting experience for

Ben Cone shows off his catch of the day during a deep sea fishing excursion in the Florida Keys while attending Sea Base with Troop 68, Laconia in August 2017.

Tara Shore, Committee Member, commented, "We have been blessed with the community we belong to. There is no way these scouts would have been able to make this trip without the assistance of so many local businesses and organizations."

In April, with the assistance of Josh LeMire, Chef T-Bones in Laconia, the group was introduced to the taste of Mahi Mahi. Snapper Grouper, three possible varieties of fish they could have catch while deep sea fishing during their trip. In an effort to prepare the group for what they could be seeing, they were invited from start to finish.

"My son Tyler, has a very specific palette. Fish was never on his radar of foods to eat. until Andrew Wilkenson, from North Coast Seafoods introduced us to pan fried Mahi Mahi!" said Andy Lantz, Daniel Webster Council. Unit Commissioner.

The group toured the North Coast Seafood facility, learned how to handle and cut whole fish properly and were given a cooking instruction with focus on the limited materials they will have on the island.

Correction

LACONIA — In last week's article on the New Hampshire Pumpkin Festival held in Laconia Oct. 13 and 14, one of the local restaurants mentioned as having taken part in the Belknap Mill's Great Cook-Off event was misidentified as Between the Bagel of Moultonborough.

It was, in fact, Winnipesaukee Bay Gulls, with locations in Moultonborough and Gilford, that was on hand for the Cook-Off, serving bagels with a specially made pumpkin cream cheese. Between the Bagel is no longer in business.

The Gilford Steamer deeply regrets any confusion that may have resulted from this unintentional error.

Pet of the Week: Lucy

Lucy does not know she is a muted calico cat and should, by definition present an attitude of haughtiness and entitlement, rather, she is so glad to be cuddled by any humane, her purring demeanor wins over absolutely everyone!

We know Lucy is older, perhaps ten, but of course, a lady never divulges her age.

We know she was abandoned. We know she was desperately trying to survive away from the creature comforts she should never have been separated from. Lucy is so incredibly affectionate and likes to wrap herself around your shoulders, impersonating a warm, fluffy scarf.

She seems indifferent to life at the shelter, other pets do not register disgruntlement or ire. She truly could assimilate into any home, with one proviso, lots of laps, and cuddling, and cozy, comfy spaces with a family that will not let her wander off.

From opioids to Mountain Men, from freedom to perilous times

By John Harrigan

COLUMNIST

The opioid crisis, which is every bit as real in rural and small-town America as in the cities, has spawned a terrific kickback from the medical and law enforcement communities.

Rightly so, but there is a risk of throwing the baby out with the bath-water. Family doctors are getting close scrutiny on the prescriptions they write. But they need running-room to be able to use what are in fact wonder-drugs for people hitting "the wall," and beyond.

There is an "of course," of course, to the fact that so many North Country physicians write so many opioid subscriptions. Northern New England has a much higher percentage of elderly citizens than most other states. And let's not forget the Baby Boomers, who are all hitting the wall of turning 70 at just about the same time, a veritable tsunami in demographic terms.

I would hate to see friends, neighbors, or loved ones denied the full use of the very best pain-killers there are, when they are so obviously and so badly needed, all because of a societal knee-jerk reaction to unlawful misuse.

WOW Trail: What's next?

To the Editor:

"In the coming weeks, the WOW Trail group will submit a conceptual plan for Phase 3 to the Planning Board. This is not a final plan, it is simply a means for us to begin the conversation publicly, and invite every abutter along the state-owned land between Lakeport and Weirs Beach to provide input at public forums."

I wrote these words in the Laconia Daily Sun back in April, understanding that the expansion of the WOW Trail to Weirs Beach would attract tremendous public interest and wanting to make sure to invite as much public input as possible before any plans were formalized. Little did we realize that this public announcement would result not in conversations, but instead a lawsuit aimed to prevent the continued development of the WOW Trail on publicly owned land.

Thankfully, the lawsuit has been withdrawn for now, and we once again have the opportunity to commence constructive dialogue about how and where this regional trail project should be built. This time, we'd like to pause and follow the lead of the communities through which this publicly owned land trav-

Over the recent holiday weekend, we packed up our bikes and brought our kids to Burlington, Vt. to explore. Even on a somewhat rainy weekend, we parked our car and recreated solely on foot or by bike. We joined locals and visitors riding and running along Lake Champlain. We biked on the bike lane striped city roads. We parked our bikes at numerous bike racks throughout the city as we visited shops and restaurants. This ability to relax and enjoy a community built for people, bikes and vehicles was a simple pleasure and one that we've yet to capitalize on fully here in the State of New Hampshire.

As strange as it sounds, the recent lawsuit was helpful because it revealed to us how many people enjoy the WOW Trail, believe in our mission, and are devoted to helping continue the trail to Weirs Beach and Meredith. Even more, it has renewed our commitment to helping transform this publicly-owned land into a spectacular year-round public recreation space for all State of New Hampshire residents and visitors to enjoy in the most cost effective and amenable way for neighbors. There's no doubt that a completed regional trail linking neighboring communities together and showcasing our three beautiful lakes would fast become one of the Lakes Region's best outdoor amenities while at the same time preserve public access to our beautiful public lands and waterways. In the coming months, let's recommit to having constructive dialogue and finding a way forward that will enhance our outdoor economy and make the Lakes Region of New Hampshire an even better place to live, work and raise a family. If you have thoughts on how this should be done, please let your voice be heard.

I look forward to the conversations. See you on the trail!

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

BY LARRY SCOTT

You are sitting there, deeply depressed because you have failed again. If you will let me, however, I would like to cheer you up for I do have something to say. No matter how great your failure, perhaps it is time, as you have done when your GPS has taken to you to a dead end, to recalibrate!

History tells us that many of the men and women society has most admired have been right where you are. Writing in Shrink, Tim Suttle makes this observation:

"Most of the lasting lessons I've learned in ministry have come through failure. ... We all fail. Failure is an inevitable part of being human. Even much of what high school basketball team. Albert Einstein didn't speak until he was four years old and was considered not very bright. Oprah Winfrey was demoted from a new anchor job because she was thought to be unfit for television. Walt Disney was fired from a newspaper for lacking imagination. Thomas Edison was called stupid by his teachers. ... If you poke around and study the great success stories, you'll usually find a truckload of failure somewhere.... Some of the most important moments of our lives will come through our failures. ... I think God uses our lives against us. ... He takes hold of the jagged edges of our lives erything that is killing us. God takes our failures in hand and makes them the instrument by which he can grind down our rough edges, peel away the death that traps us there, and free us to become fully human (pages 217-218)."

Unfortunately for us, hindsight doesn't count. Had I had the perspective thirty years ago that I have today, had I been able to mature without the disorientation and isolation of the 14 years I spent behind the wheel of a long-haul truck ... my life would have been dramatically different. But that is experience and the clock cannot be turned back. My track record, as a matter of fact, is a history of abominable failure, but it has

Peter Cushing on the "Horror Express"

LACONIA — Throughout October, join Lakes Region Public Access Television each Friday and Saturday night at 10:30 p.m. for a scary good time! "LRPA After Dark" celebrates Halloween with four frightening films from Hollywood's past. For our final weekend (October 27 & 28), we present the 1972 horror/ sci-fi thriller "Horror Express," starring Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing, with a cameo appearance by Telly Savalas. The year: 1906. While on expedition in remote Manchuria, British anthropologist Alexander Saxton (Lee) discovers the remains of a primitive creature that may be the "missing link" in human evolution. The specimen is packed in a crate to be shipped back to Europe on the Trans-Siberian press. Also boarding the train in Shanghai is Dr. Wells (Cushing), a colleague and friendly rival of Saxton's in the British scientific community. Saxton has some trouble getting his discovery onto the crowded train. While the crate sits on the platform waiting to be loaded, a thief dares to peek inside at contents. Minutes later he is found dead, his corpse bleeding from blank, white eyes. Panic ensues, and a Russian monk claims that the crate's contents are evil and must be destroyed. Saxton dismisses the monk's warnings and the train, loaded with passengers and the specimen, begins its long journey to the West. Dr. Well's curiosity about the crate gets the best of him, and he bribes a baggage handler to look inside and report back with his findings. The handler never gets to tell Wells what he sees, because staring at the creature's red eyes puts him into the same death trance that killed the thief on the platform. The creature escapes and begins a murderous spree. Saxton confesses his discovery to Wells together, they race against time to contain the beast and stop the killings. Yet carnage, someone else aboard the train gets drawn into the killings. How can one creature attack so many passengers? What is the secret of the mysterious creature?

When "Horror Express" was first released in 1972, it was all but ignored by critics. Yet over the years, it has grown into a cult favorite for its mash up of genres, including horror, sci-fi and period adventure-thriller. The story was loosely adapted from John Campbell Jr.'s novella

"Who Goes There?," which was the inspiration for the films "The Thing from Another World" and both versions of "The Thing." "Horror Express" is also notable for its two leads, British Hammer Horror greats Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing. The two actors were colleagues and friends. In fact, legend has it that Cushing, whose wife had died earlier that year, arrived on the set and told the director that he couldn't work on the film because he was still in each time they seem to mourning. Lee stepped get closer to stopping up and worked closely with Cushing to create a relaxed and supportive atmosphere on the set - and the film was finished on time. Fans return to "Hor-Express" again and again for its brisk pacing, quirky characters (Telly Savalas's cameo is a true 1970s pleasure!) and its comically dark humor. What's not to love? So grab your candy corn and join LRPA after dark on the train ride of your life – or death!

Most of us would agree diversification is a good thing as it relates to our investment mix but also as it relates to our income as we approach retirement. In all likelihood the tax code will change during our lifetime, so the ability to switch from least to most tax advantaged income sources as possible is a worthwhile

Tax free income can come in the form of a Roth IRA. You would not have had a deduction from taxes when you put the money in and likely would have paid tax on that income when received, but then the money could grow and after 59 and a half could provide tax-free income. While this is a great tool for retirement savings, it is not without limitations.

The maximum that you can contribute depends on your modified adjusted gross income. The Roth like other retirement vehicles does not allow, without penalty, for a withdrawal before 59 and a half under most circumstances. But what if there was a way to save for retirement that would not limit how much you could save annually while providing tax-free growth and future tax-free income? There is a financial tool that has been used for many years, but has recently, for a host of reasons, come back into vogue. That financial tool is maximum-funded life insurance.

For certain clients this can be a powerful tool to amass income that can later be loaned back to yourself, tax free through the loan provisions of the policy. The insurance company uses the death benefit as collateral against the loan. Loans prior to 59 and a half are not penalizes as with qualified plans. These loans also would not affect Social Security benefits.

For clients near retirement or in retirement, assets accumulated may be used for legacy planning.

Structuring a policy to focus on accumulation as opposed to face amount or death benefit will often times increase the accumulation of cash to be distributed as a loan.

Because everyone's circumstances are different, life insurance as a financial tool may be exactly what you were looking for, but may not have considered it because of radio and TV personalities that try to convince their audience that anything other than "term" insurance is not good.

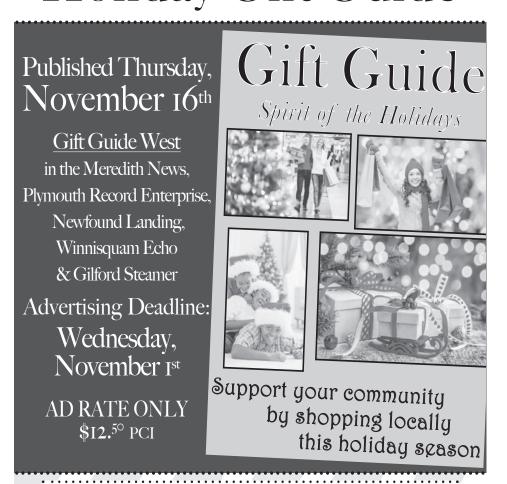

Reviewing some of the better companies Indexed Universal life policies, I have discovered that many IUL's have a better IRR or Internal rate of return than some mutual funds net of fee's plus a death benefit to your heirs!

To paraphrase Darwin; It is not the fittest or strongest that will survive, it will those who can adapt to change. Life insurance is an asset class that should not be ignored.

Many things that have worked in the past must be reviewed with an open mind towards changes for the better in a changing environment. Tax rates and policy will continue to change, we must find ways of mitigating these increases.

Marion Louise Wells Patterson, 94

MILFORD — Marion Wells grew up in Melrose, Mass. during the Great Depression. She had hoped for a career in nursing, but recognized that the cost of such an education might be too great a burden at a time when money was tight. Still, it was her wish to work in a profession, "Where you wore flat shoes and had a purpose in life." She turned her attention to nutrition and, after graduating with a BS in Home Economics from Simmons College, Marion began a life as a professional dietician and nutritionist.

After several years, she took a job as Chief Dietician at Syracuse University. It was there that Marion met a student who worked in the kitchen and was eager for them to date. She firmly told him that she had a rule never to date anyone who worked for her. The next day he asked again, and she reiterated her rule. He told her that was no longer problem, because he'd quit that morning. She and Bill Patterson went on their first date that night, and they spent 55 years together.

Marion Louise Wells Patterson passed peacefully away on Oct. 18, a few days shy of her 95th birthday. The daughter of Lewis and Helen Brown Wells, she was the second of six siblings. She was born on Oct. 23, 1922 in Melrose, Mass., graduated from Melrose High School in 1940, and took her degree from Simmons College in 1944. After marrying Bill Patterson on the last day of August in 1950, Marion remained at Syracuse for anothpleted his studies. The couple moved to Jay, N.Y. in 1951 and over the next five years they had three daughters - Janice, Marcia, and Judith. All three were born in nearby Saranac Lake, an area known for its winter sports. Marion and Bill were avid cross-country skiers and snow-shoers, as well as hikers and swimmers.

Much of Marion's love of the great outdoors came from spending summers at the family land, lovingly known as Wellswood, on Long Island in Lake Winnipesaukee. Marion was an acknowledged matriarch of the family, Aunt Mimi, much loved by a large and extended circle of relatives. Remarkably, in 1959, Bill was offered a job in Laconia, giving them a chance to spend most of the remainder of their lives very near their beloved summer home.

Ten years later, with the children now older, Marion returned to work as a dietician at Laconia's Lakes Region General Hospital. By the time she'd retired, in 1987, Marion had left an indelible mark on the hospital, her community, and especially with many friends. She was active within the Congregational Church, taught Sunday School, was a Girl Scout leader, served with The League of Women Voters, and er year while Bill com- worked many functions in Laconia. Her friendships spanned many decades, and she was even corresponding with friends from Simmons and her days in Jay until very recently. Not a milestone in the lives her friends and family would pass without a remembrance and kind word from her.

Following Bill's death in 2004, and a heart attack in 2009, Marion moved to Milford to be closer to her family. Still sharp, and with a keen laugh and bright smile, she played a mean game of Scrabble, cheered for her Red Sox, and stayed in touch with extraordinarily large circle of loved ones.

Marion is survived, and will be missed, by daughters Janice Locke, Marcia Patterson, and Judith Wing; her sons-in-law, Gary Locke and Michael Wing; granddaughter Mollie Wing; and great granddaughter Rylin.

LACONIA — For a fun-filled afternoon, come experience the Taylor Playreaders as they present a one-act comedy entitled, "Forever Yours," Monday, Oct. 30 at 2 p.m. in the Taylor Community's Building. Woodside The event is free and open to the public. The play opens in a funeral parlor after Emery Glass' death at age 65. His active life included eight marriages, all of which ended with his wives divorcing him. The marriages lasted between four months to two a half years.

Three of the exwives attend the funeral, meeting one another for the first time. This provides the women the rare opportunity to share and explore why each one ended their marriage. The funeral director maintains his professional attitude as Emery protests the comments others make about him. Emery's brother and sister, Howard and Ginny, present the history of his life. The siblings are caregivers to their mother Gertrude, who is often confused and outspoken. Emery's daughter, Sally, arrives with two young children who are heard, but not seen.

Perhaps you'll be able to figure out why the deceased's marriages failed. In any case, you'll enjoy trying.

Merrimack County Savings Bank and Meredith Village Savings Bank donate $100,000 to NH Community Loan Fund

MEREDITH — Merrimack County Savings Bank (the Merrimack) and Meredith Village Savings Bank (MVSB), sister banks and subsidiaries of New Hampshire Mutual Bancorp, have each donated $50,000 to establish a permanent fund at the New Hampshire Community Loan Fund. The $100,000 gift was placed in the Community Loan Fund's lending pool, and will be used many times over to finance local housing financing needs.

"We're incredibly grateful to the Merrimack and MVSB for championing our efforts to help underserved people and families become self-sufficient and gain financial independence," said Juliana Eades, Community Loan Fund President. "It's wonderful to be able to count on our corporate neighbors. We've thrived for as long as we have because donors feel good knowing their money is used wisely, responsibly and for maximum impact."

The Community Loan Fund encourages participation in New Hampshire's economy by providing financial and educational tools that help clients attain affordable homes, quality jobs and child care. This is done through loans as well as capital and technical assistance, and by complementing and extending the reach of conventional lenders and public institutions.

"Merrimack County Savings Bank is proud to support the NH Community Loan Fund, as they've made a tremendous difference in the quality of life for our friends and neighbors," said Philip Emma, President of the Merrimack. "It is for this reason that the Bank has partnered in various ways with the Community Loan Fund over the past 30 years."

"It's our pleasure to offer any assistance we can to further lohousing opportunities," said Rick Wyman, President of Meredith Village Savings Bank. "This permanent fund will have a significant impact for those who need affordable housing, which is a vital part of building communities."

Established in 1983 in Concord, the Community Loan Fund was one of the first Community Development Financial Institutions in the United States. The Community Loan Fund was founded on the belief that many people with low incomes can become more self-sufficient if they have access to fair sources of credit. The Community Loan Fund has loaned more than $220 million to thousands of New Hampshire individuals, organizations

Does Market Volatility Scare You?

Halloween is almost upon us. Of course, on Halloween night, you may see a parade of monsters, demons, Transformers and other frightening individuals stopping by your house, exercising their right to demand candy. Fortunately, their appearance will be unlikely to cause you unpleasant dreams. But some people seem to have real fears about other things - such as what may happen in the financial markets. One way to keep those fears at bay is to avoid certain impulsive moves, such as the following:

Avoid ducking out of the market - Consider this: In March 2007, the Dow Jones Industrial Average stood at about 12,275 points. Exactly two years later, in the immediate aftermath of the financial crisis, the Dow had fallen to about 6,500 - a drop of 47% and the Dow's lowest point in 12 years. By that time, a lot of people had gone to the investment sidelines. So, what did they miss? Depending on how long they stayed out of the market, they may have missed some, or perhaps most, of one of the longest and strongest bull markets in history, because, just eight years later, the Dow had soared to almost 21,000, a gain of 223%. Of course, investing does involve the risk of losing principal, and there is no guarantee the market will perform as it has in the past. However, it's fair to say that if you duck out of the market during its lower points, you might not benefit from the gains that may follow.

Avoid chasing "hot" stocks - By the time you hear about a supposedly "hot" stock, it may already be cooling off. Also, how trustworthy is the source? Does this tip come from an unbiased, knowledgeable individual? If not, you have reason to question its value. Even more important, though, you need to ask if the hot stock is appropriate for your needs, goals and risk tolerance. If not, it's not so hot.

$1.6 billion.

Avoid taking on too much - or too little - risk. If you feel the need to push your portfolio toward the maximum possible returns, you might invest too aggressively and take on too much risk. Conversely, if you are determined to avoid any amount of loss, at any time, you might invest so conservatively that your portfolio won't grow enough to help you achieve your long-term goals. You need to strike a balance between risk and reward that is appropriate for you, and you need to make investment choices suitable for your individual risk tolerance.

Avoid owning too many of the same investments - If you own a lot of one particular financial asset and a market downturn affects that asset class strongly, your portfolio could suffer. But if you spread your investment dollars among domestic and international stocks, bonds, U.S. Treasury securities, certificates of deposit (CDs) and so on, you may not be as susceptible to a downturn, because different types of investments often perform differently at any given time. (Keep in mind, though, that while diversification can help reduce the effects of market volatility, it can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses.)

No matter what you do, you can't take all the uncertainty out of investing. But by understanding market volatility and the composition of your portfolio, you can invest with more confidence.

National expert to speak at Laconia Library on the "real story" behind fake news

LACONIA — Have you ever wondered: "What is 'fake news' anyway?" On Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 6 p.m. the Laconia Public Library will host a non-partisan public discussion of this increasingly important topic, led by White House press veteran Randall Mikkelsen, now a managing editor at Thomson Reuters. The Library is located at 695 N. Main St. in downtown Laconia.

Big changes have overtaken the way we get our news in the United States, who reports it, and how it is produced. According to Mikkelsen, en us the opportunity to be better informed, but they also require us to be more careful consumers, so that we can recognize the difference between facts, distortion, propaganda, and outright lies.

"Especially in our current social-media-driven news landscape," says Mikkelsen, "we need to learn how to tell the real from the fake."

Randall Mikkelsen has worked as a political and financial journalist with Reuters since 1988. He has covered many of the major news stories of our era, including the fall of the Soviet Union, the war on terrorism, and the financial crisis. Randall was a front-row member of the White House press corps for nearly seven years, where he covered the Justice Department, the CIA, and other Washington agencies. He has won awards from the Society of American Business Editors and Writers, and from the North Dakota Newspaper Association. This event is jointly sponsored by concerned these changes have giv- citizens and the Laconia Public Library. The public discussion will be facilitated by local commentator Michael Kitch. formerly a reporter for the Laconia Daily Sun.

> "The event is free and open to the public," says library organizer Deborah Ross. "Please join us on Tuesday, Nov. 14, for an eye-opening explanation of fake news vs. real news, and a free-wheeling public discussion of how to better understand both."

As this event has grown, so has the Uncorked silent auction.

"We are grateful for the support we get from businesses near and far. Unique items and experiences have been donated this year including six special 2018 Boston Red Sox box seats; golf foursome at Candia Woods; overnight at a Mill Falls hotel; restaurant and retail gift certificates; lift tickets; private tasting tours; and cord wood!" stated Shannon Robinson-Beland, owner of Wood & Clay Fine Homes of Gilford and volunteer on the Uncorked Planning Committee.

Another Uncorked feature is the 'Wall of Wine' Pull, where guests donate $20 to pull a cork and receive a bottle donated by individuals, supporters and vendors. Many of the bottles on the Wall are valued much higher than the raffle ticket donation. This year, a second Wine Raffle has been added. 'The Best of Show-Blue Ribbon Raffle' allows anyone to purchase raffle tickets (maximum of 250 being sold) to win your own amazing wine collection and hand-crafted birds-eye maple wine rack made by Wood & Clay cabinetmakers. Leadership Group kicks off its 19th class year

GILFORD — Leadership Lakes Region recently kicked off its 19th class year with an orientation day at Gunstock Mountain Resort for the 25 class members.

Begun with planning in 1996 and a first class graduating 1998, Leadership Lakes Region has had a new class enrolled every year since except for 2007. That year the group conducted a program review with strategic planning sessions. This year's class was welcomed to Gunstock by General Manager Greg Goddard, a staunch supporter of Leadership Lakes through the years. Robin Rowe of Gunstock and Marius Rosioru of T-Bones/Cactus Jack's then facilitated a team building exercise to acquaint the class members with each other.

Bank of New Hampshire's Prestige Plus members travel to Robert Todd Lincoln's Hildene

LACONIA — Bank of New Hampshire's Prestige Plus members recently traveled to picturesque Manchester, Vermont for a quintessential autumn day in New England.

The first stop of the day was at the magnificent Hildene Estate. This historic home, formal gardens and carriage house are set up with breathtaking views of the valley and surrounding mountains of Vermont. Prestige Plus members enjoyed a brief video orientation, a self-guided tour of the Lincoln home, a demonstration of the 1,000-pipe Aeolian organ, Pullman Car exhibit, the formal gardens and the museum store.

Robert Todd Lincoln's father was born in a log cabin and called from the humblest rank in life to preside over our nation during the most momentous period of its history. One generation later, Robert Todd Lincoln, the only child of Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln to survive to adulthood, became Chairman of the largest corporation in America at the turn of the 20th century. He built his Georgian Revival mansion, called Hildene, in the scenic Vermont village of Manchester in 1905 and it became home to only Lincoln descendants until 1975. It is an example of the "Great American Story" and the story of the Lincoln fammont.

2004, Hildene's permanent collection of President Abraham Lincoln artifacts, including President Lincoln's famous stove-pipe hat, was put on display in a new and insightful interpretation of our 16th president entitled: "The Personal Abraham Lincoln."

The garden promontory, overlooking the Battenkill Valley, provides spectacular views of the mountains and the meadowlands 300 feet below. The cutting and kitchen garden behind the visitor center was restored in the spring of 2003, and the original potting shed now houses exhibits. The formal gardens include many of the original plantings from 1907.

After the morning visit to Hildene, a buffet luncheon at the historic Equinox Hotel in Manchester Village was enjoyed by everyone. Situated on 1,300 acres, between the Green and Taconic Mountains, The Equinox dates back more than 200 years.

The day was complete with a stop in Weston, Vermont and the home of the original Vermont Country Store, famous Longtime readers Hank and Jean-Marie Peterson of Littleton sent me a lovely photo of their beached canoe on Christine Lake in Percy.

Hank offered me the use of the canoe (that was nice, but I have three), and mentioned old shirts or something for soaking up bilge-water. And I wrote back that this would be particularly important to me because I hardly ever sit in a canoe, but kneel.

This is the way I was taught, at an early age--to kneel, with my legs under the seat. This affords far greater leverage with the big stern paddle, so vital in fast water, as the rocks and rapids swish

I've been re-reading "Journal of a Tapper" (1834-1843), by Osborne Russell. This is the original manuscript, obtained with some effort, and edited by Aubrey L. Haines. It is an insight on a very brief time in history before what passes for civilization swept over the vast lands west of the Mississippi.

Lest we be caught up in the romance of the era, it was also a time when tribes were at constant warfare, women were often treated as chattels, and American and Canadian fur-traders encroached on the land. But of course, there was the independence and grandeur that the Rockies and other high country had to offer, and the wayward freedom of it all.

Like many of the mountain men, Russell was quite literate, and carried in his packs (via a spare horse and a mule or two) a little library. These books would be shared between trappers at the annual summer rendezvous, usually held around the Fourth of July, so as to have even more to celebrate.

There came a time when, as he said, "We had nothing to do but to eat, attend to the horses, and procure firewood." He pulled from his packs "some books to read Byrons Shakespeares and Scotts works the Bible and Clarks Commentary on it and other small works on Geology Chemistry and Philosophy."

The Good News Community Church was cited by the town for having nonconforming signs, and the church and Pastor Clyde Reed sued the town for going against their freedom of speech. The decision was handed down on June 18, 2015, with the court ruling that the content restrictions imposed by Gilbert's officials were unconstitutional.

Gilford has a sign

Through the summer, the town sought volunteer representatives for the committee, including representatives from a nonprofit organization, the real estate industry, and a member at large. The board of selectmen did have difficulty finding a representative from the real estate industry.

At the Oct. 11 selectmen's meeting, Board

Eddy said he would rather get started and then present their recommendations to the Planning Board sooner than later.

Eddy said he does not anticipate the committee will need a lot of meetings and said the matter could probably be discussed in three to five meetings. The date for the next committee meeting is pending.

In addition, BCCD hosts the New Hampshire Gleans Program in Belknap County which collects surplus produce from farmers and home gardeners with volunteers and distributes it to seniors and food pantries. So far this year, the program has collected and distributed over 9,000 pounds of produce to people in need.

"We've accomplished a great deal, but reductions in the County funding portion of BCCD's budget, down 38 percent from our 10 year average before 2015 are having a big impact. We can't fully fund our single staff, at this level and need this match for our grants. Grants rarely cover adminstrative costs, so public donations and the office space provided by the County and space for storage shed on County land help, but still fall short of our needs."said Hepp. The great response to the BCCD fund-raiser and support from local farmers, like John Moulton indicate that the community recognizes the contribution that the County Conservation District makes to help sustain soil, water and natural resources in Belknap County. Unfortunately Sawyer was diagnosed with cancer the year after and the activity did not take place as Sawyer battled the disease. Sawyer is now cancer free and healthy and wanted to make Interact more active, including bringing students back to the farm.

Lichtenberg described what goes into growing carrots.

"From the very beginning the first statement was, 'Wait, come on...that's how carrots grow?'" Lichtenberg said.

Lichtenberg said the growing process started in June and involved regular hand weeding, loosening them up in the ground, trying to keep deer away from them, and more. He said he does this with 1,800 feet of carrots.

He gave the students a demonstration on how to pull out the carrots. "When Aaron started pulling out carrots and he kids acted as if it's a magic show," Sawyer said.

Lichtenberg also helped out with the harvesting process. He said the students suddenly saw where their food comes from.

Senior Michele Young remembers pulling out potatoes her freshman year. "It's really fun, it's a great way to do community service,"

Senior Sophia Wrobel and freshman Madison Heyman also said this was a fun activity.

Young said.

"I've never done anything like this before," Wrobel said.

Lichtenberg said this is a great help, as he is generally the only one available to grow and harvest crops this time of year.

All the carrots from Winnipesaukee Woods Farm, including the ones harvested by the GHS students, will go to the Gilford Farmer's Market, the Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) program, and many other places.

GILFORD The fourth-ranked Golden Eagles field hockey team won a pair of tournament matches last week, including a 1-0 win over Berlin that moved the team to the semifinals to face top-ranked Newfound.

It was a tight matchup between the fourth and fifth ranked squads, which saw no clear advantage much of the game. Both squads moved up and down the field, having equal opportunities to put the ball in the goal. However, solid defense and good work in goal by Jenna DeLucca, gave the Golden Eagles a 1-0 shutout

It was 0-0 at the half and at this point neither team had managed to get a solid shot on net. Much of the first 20 minutes were spent in the Berlin zone with Gilford trying to find ways to attack, but this momentum switched a bit in the final 20 minutes with Berlin spending time near Gilford's goal. Neither team was able to capitalize before the half ended.

In the second half, Berlin came out firing but DeLucca had several nice saves to keep the team at bay. With 19 minutes remaining, Gilford got its only goal of the day at the hands of Laurel Gingrich, with an assist by Jillian Lachapelle who had an especially strong day leading the defense.

This would be the only score Gilford would need, as the defense managed to thwart any other scoring chances Berlin would have. Coach Dave Rogacki was very happy with the win, saying that Gilford faced a tough team in Berlin.

"With Berlin, it's always a pleasure to play them because these two teams respect each other," said Rogacki. "It was a physical game in the right way. That's why it is always fun playing them. The kids respect each other, too, and that is a big thing."

While it was a good win for Gilford, Rogacki sees that there is room for improvement for the Golden Eagles.

"We need to go to the ball better," Rogacki said. "There are times when we didn't go to the ball and we can't just dribble into people. We need to pass and find angles. That's what we have to do better. We also have to keep our feet out of the way and do a better job completing shots. Jenna did a great job today in goal so that kept things close. We kind of beat her up all the time."

Rogacki commended the overall play of the team, saying both substitutes and starters alike did a good job. He said Taryn Fountain did a great job moving the ball, as well as Laurel Normandin. He added that seniors Cloe Boucher and Callie McGreevy were two seniors who put in quality minutes.

"Now that we are in the final four we need to have better quality play," Rogacki said. "One of our goals was to get to the final four. We've been there five years in a row now. These seniors have been there every year so that is great for them."

Overall, I think we are playing well right now. We are playing with consistency and it certainly continued with the big Berlin game."

The Berlin matchup was a big one for Gilford indeed, as the two teams were tied going into the game. Gilford came away with a 3-0 win in the final game of the regular season.

The first goal came at 14 minutes by Connor Leggett with an assist by Patrick O'Connor. Then at the 24-minute mark, Gamache was hit in the box and Gilford was given a penal-GILFORD — Top ranked Windham came to town to face the Gilford-Belmont football team, and while it was a 46-8 loss for the Golden Eagles, coach Josh Marzahl said it was tighter than the score would show.

The Golden Eagles were only down 7-0 in the first quarter, and while Marzahl pointed out many teams wouldn't be happy about this, he gave credit where credit was due saying it was a good effort against an established program like Windham that has been undefeated this season.

"I feel we came out to compete," said Marzahl. "The guys came out to compete and battle from the start of the game. It was a game where I left and felt the kids fought their hardest and battled hard."

Marzahl said the Golden Eagles were knocking on the door, with the ball at the 20 yard line, in the first quarter but couldn't capitalize. Windham took over and scored, with the team going on to score a couple more times in the first half on big plays. Marzahl said it was the big plays that killed Gilford-Belmont on Saturday.

"We were pretty solid on defense aside from a couple missed assignments that led to big plays," said Marzahl. "Offensively, it was just that we would grind out five yards a carry and then a false start or fumble would push us back."

Leading the offensive attack was Dylan Gansert with 134 yards on 20 carries. Quarterback Greg Madore was 2-6 for 50 yards on the day. Backup quarterback Alex Cheeks, a freshman, was 2-3 with a touchdown pass to senior Evan Merrifield. The touchdown was a quick hook route that Merrifield took all the

"The offensive line did a great job opening up the holes for Dylan and protecting the quarterback," said Marzahl.

He was quick to commend the senior group, saying that while the team might not be coming away with a good overall record, they are setting the foundation for years to come. Ethan Ormes was injured early in the season, but has turned into great asset helping the coaching staff from the sidelines.

"The effort they put forth for 48 minutes of football is what we need to show you need to battle to the last whistle," said Marzahl.

Marzahl said the freshmen for the team have had a solid season, noting that there has been strong play by the likes of Cheeks, running back Blake Descoteaux, who leads the team in rushing touchdowns, and wide receiver Brandon Gallagher.

On Oct. 20, Gilford played the final game of the 2017 regular season with a tough 3-2 win over St. Thomas Aquinas on the road. The Golden Eagles won the first set 25-18, lost set two 23-25, won set three 25-17, lost set four 23-25 and then won the deciding set five on a close score of 15-13.

This completed an eight-game winning streak at the end of the season, which put the team in a three-way tie for first place in Division 2 with Windham and Milford.

"We rise to the challenge of competition so the tougher the competition the tougher we play," Forge said. Almost all the teams we have faced this season have had a height advantage over us, but I believe it is our composure and gusty defense that keeps us in the

It took Gilford 53 assists, 57 kills and 111 digs to beat St. Thomas, who held the top seed going in. It is the third time Gilford had to play a fifth set this season. Previously, the Eagles lost the other five set matches even though they had tie scores late in the set against Windham and Milford.

Sanborn had a career high 46 assists, which was two shy of the school record. Mc-Neil had a career high 16 kills and 31 digs; Beaudet had a career high 23 kills along with 18 digs; Boisvert had eight kills and 18 digs; O'Connor had four kills and two blocks; Sanderson had three kills; McIntire had two kills and a block; Eldridge had four assists; Warren had a block and a kill; Moore had 15 digs; Hildreth had 11 digs and Holland was a key server on the day.

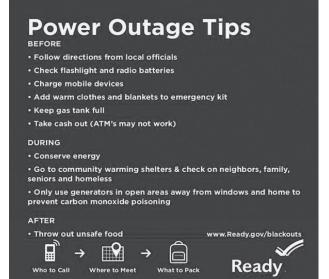

"This was a total team effort by going deep into the bench utilizing 12ers throughout the match," Forge said.

Standings were unclear at deadline, but Gilford will go into the playoffs a one of the top three seeds and will start its playoff run on Saturday night.

GILFORD — The Gilford girls' soccer team ended the regular season with a four-game winning streak, which came just in time for the playoffs. The streak included a 2-0 victory over Inter-Lakes and a 4-1 win over Newport on the road.

On Oct. 17 Gilford had its last home game of the season and celebrated the 16 seniors that will be graduating at the end of the school year. It was a solid 2-0 win where Gilford got all the goals the team needed in the first half.

Sarah Fillion scored six minutes into the game with an assist by Sam Knowles. Maddie Rechtor scored halfway through the first half with an assist from Julianna Colstring and Sophie Leggett.

"I think in the first half we played okay, but even though we didn't score in the second half, I think we played much better," said coach Tom Raymond. "It was nice to see the improvement in the second half. We had some nice chances but just couldn't finish in the second half. This was the sixth shutout of the season for Hannah Perkins and she made 14 saves in the game."

To close the regular season, the Golden Eagles traveled to Newport and won 4-1. Josie Curley and Shelby Cole scored in the first half, with an assist by Rechtor on Cole's goal. In the second half Lauren Dean scored off a header. Curley scored her second goal of the day also. Both of the final two goals were scored with less than 10 minutes left in the game.

Encouraging news:

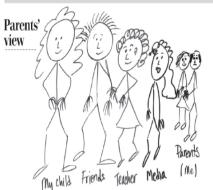

Central to this media campaign to eliminate underage drinking is the encouraging news that studies show parent disapproval is the No. 1 reason children choose not to drink alcohol. Parents empowered can trump peer pressure.

The most effective parenting techniques are among the most simple, including:

- Set clear rules about no underage drinking
- Know where your children are and whom they are with
- Know your children's friends
- Ensure your children's social environments are alcohol-free
- Have daily, positive communication and interaction with your children
- Eat dinner together

Most parents don't realize they are the No. 1 influence in their children's lives.

When parents were asked to draw the greatest influences on their teens, they placed themselves last.

When teens were asked to draw the major influences in their lives, they placed their parents first, before peers and activities.

Research shows

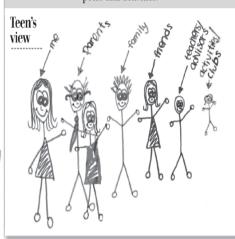

eat as a family

• teens who regularly

(5-7 times per week)

are 33 percent less likely to use alcohol.
