Solar farm sparks discussion at GWRSD Deliberative Session

BY ELISSA PAQUETTE
Contributing Writer

WOLFEBORO — The Governor Wentworth Regional School District (GWRSD) reviewed five warrant articles at the Deliberative Session on Saturday, Feb. 1, in the Kingswood Arts Center. All emerged from scrutiny without modification. The operating budget, at nearly $54 million, is close to one percent lower than last year's budget, therefore if by some chance it does not pass, the default budget would take its place at a higher number.

Among the usual articles presented — the $60,000 turf field capital reserve and the $200,000 for repairs and improvements of buildings and grounds throughout the district, Article V, a non-money article asking for authorization to enter into a 25-year solar agreement with Barrington Power Effingham, LLC for electric generation to power Effingham Elementary School and then some, received the most interest.

Voters will be asked to authorize the school board to lease a rectangular piece of land located south east of the school building of approximately 197 feet by 148 feet to the company for the purposes of installing, maintaining and operating the electric project.

New Durham board member Julianne Cardinal presented the article, stating that it would not only lower the district's carbon footprint but would reduce its energy bill. The Barrington Power representative explained that the parcel where the solar panels will be installed used to be a sand pit, therefore it is flat, and ideal. It is mostly scrub growth with trees growing very close to one another, too close to grow well, so there is no valuable timber.

Since it is on school property and close to the school, the company will install a fence around the entire perimeter.

Asked where the panels would be made, he said that most solar panels are made in Asian countries and prices are dropping. They are generally unavailable in the United States. The school will receive credit for its kW production at a slight discount. At the end of six years, the GWRSD can buy back the system at half price or choose to maintain the same relationship for the remainder of the 25-year contract.

A question about who would rake the snow off the panels revealed that the panels are angled to shed snow and are sufficiently raised above the ground that raking is unlikely to be necessary.

Maintenance under the panels will be minimal because clover will be used for the ground cover. He said sometimes they have used sheep.

David Bickford of

New Durham asked if the system could become obsolete in 12 years or so. The answer is that it is in the company's financial interest to keep the equipment updated in order to produce as much power as it needs. What if it had to be decommissioned, Bickford asked, and would there need to be money held in escrow? The spokesman said the system is made of aluminum and steel, which are recyclable, obviating the need for an escrow account.

When asked if other schools within the district would be under consideration for solar projects, Cardinal answered with an emphatic, "Yes."

The school ballot will be presented to voters at all the towns in the district on Election Day, March 10.

KINGSWOOD Regional High School student Jenna Hanson opened the Governor Wentworth Regional School District Deliberative Session on Saturday with a solo performance of the National Anthem. Moderator Randy Walker stands at the podium in the background. Hanson was recently accepted into the NH Music Educators Association All-State Festival. Of all the clarinet students who auditioned, Hanson scored the third highest.

Bed race returns to Winter Carnival

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School's Future Business Leaders of America (PMHS FBLA) chapter is challenging local residents to a bed race on ice. This year, the Alton Business Association and PMHS FBLA are bringing back an event to the Alton Winter Carnival that unfortunately did not occur last year. If this event is going to work, they will need your help. Bed races will begin Feb. 16, at 1:30 p.m. and the cost for this event is minimal. For this event, you will need to create your own bed to race with.

Make sure to get creative. Decorate your own bed with your team name on it. The point of this day is to have fun. Top three fastest teams will receive cash prizes sponsored by Meredith Village Savings Bank.

If you wish to take on this challenge or have questions or concerns, please reach out to Alexa Carpenter at 20acarpenter@pmhschool.com or Jiana Kenerson at 21jkenerson@gmail.com. For those who wish to participate, they can send a package of information and forms for you to fill out to you. Registration closes Feb. 10.

PMHS celebrating FBLA Week

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School's Future Business Leaders of America (PMHS FBLA) chapter is taking on FBLA Week this week. Every year, PMHS FBLA is highly active and brings the entire school together for this event. This week, it all goes down. Students started the week off answering FBLA themed questions for the weekly quizbowl. The week as a whole incorporates each state officer project. Tuesday was all about healthy eating. PMHS FBLA provided each sport team with their very own healthy food gift basket. Wednesday was Dress for Success Day. Students dressed up in FBLA appropriate business clothes. Today (Thursday) is one of the school's favorite days. It's America Day where everyone dresses up in red, white and blue. After school, PMHS FBLA will be gathering for a backyard barbeque with other chapters across the state. Friday is Team Jersey Day. The chapter will be teaming up with the unified sport teams at Prospect Mountain to create their very own Hall of Fame. This day shows PMHS FBLA's support to the Special Olympics program.

Primary time

It seems that the primary season in New Hampshire lasts forever. It felt like about two weeks after the last presidential election, candidates were making appearances in New Hampshire in advance of the 2020 election, testing the waters and putting a plan in place for this election.

In some ways this is an incredible opportunity. It's been said that New Hampshire has a higher rate of residents who have met a president than any other state and that seems to make sense to us. We've personally met more than one president and plenty of candidates for the position and it's always interesting to hear what they have to say when they are here on the ground, meeting people one-on-one and not in large made-for-TV events.

The New Hampshire Primary gives residents of our small state a chance to meet candidates, hear what they have to say and make their informed decisions. Candidates often find their groove in New Hampshire if they are good with one-on-one situations and connecting with people that way.

And while it's great that we here in New Hampshire get a chance to see and hear so many candidates, after a while, it gets to be a little much. When we've been listening to radio and television commercials for seemingly years and the daily newspapers have new reports every day of this candidate or that candidate in appearances around the state, there's a lot of information out there.

We hope that local residents take their responsibilities seriously when they go to the polls on Tuesday. We hope that residents have done their homework and aren't just relying on the sound bites they hear on their television. There is a lot more to all of these candidates than what can be revealed in a 30-second television ad.

In the grand scheme of things, one vote in a presidential primary that will include millions of votes from around the country may not seem like much. However, in New Hampshire, that one vote seems to be a bit more magnified. It seems that every voter in New Hampshire gets the spotlight.

As we write this, the Iowa Caucus results are being analyzed and discussed despite the fact that they haven't even been released yet. There is a lot to be looked at and a lot to talk about, but Iowa is not New Hampshire. New Hampshire is its own unique brand and it will be interesting to see how the results compare to those from Iowa.

Again, voting time is here. It's important that everyone, no matter who you support, gets out and votes on Tuesday. Alton voters can go to St. Katharine Drexel Church, New Durham voters can go to the New Durham School and Barnstead voters can go to Town Hall.

Make your voice heard. Nowhere in the nation is one voice among millions heard more than in New Hampshire and this is our chance to let the world know what we think.

Medicine collection is Feb. 15 in Wolfeboro

WOLFEBORO — The day after Valentine's, come to All Saints Church (next to Huggins Hospital) on South Main Street in Wolfeboro, 8:30 a.m. - noon. Enter the parking lot at the rear. The appropriate entry door will be signed.

The Lakes Region Household Hazardous Product Facility (LRHHPF) will hold the third annual mid-winter unwanted or expired medication collection. Safely dispose of prescription, non-prescription and over-the-counter pills, creams and syrups from your family, pets or farm animals.

The mid-winter collection of medications was started in response to high demand for a fast and convenient event prior to the special days held in June and August in Wolfeboro and September in Alton by the LRHHPF hazardous waste program. The large quantities collected the third Saturday in February has warranted continuation of the event.

Protect the ones you love from accidental ingestion by dropping off the medications in their original containers. Free passes for Alton and Wolfeboro are available at the collection. All others are welcome for a fee of (cash or check).

A founding member of the Alton, Barnstead, New Durham Centennial Rotary club, David Bloser (right), is honored as a recipient of his sixth Paul Harris Award presented to him by Rotary Club President Duane Hammond at the club's weekly breakfast meeting. Paul Harris founded Rotary International in 1905, and one of the highest accolades for a Rotarian to receive is to be honored in his name. Bloser, regrettably resigned his membership in the Alton club, because early this Spring he and his wife Cheryl are moving to North Carolina. He plans to rejoin another Rotary club there. Hammond closed his presentation to Bloser by acknowledging, "David is the best example of a dedicated Rotarian who always put service above self."

Letters to the Editor

Why do Republicans support Trump?

To the Editor:

Why do Republicans continue to support Donald Trump? Why? The Republican Party has always claimed that it is the party of "fiscal responsibility." Its members are quick to call Democrats "a bunch of tax and spend liberals," A few days ago, the Wall Street Journal reported that the Congressional Budget Office announced that the United States is currently running the highest national debt since World War II. The forecast is for national deficits amounting to more than a trillion dollars over the next 10 years. Is this fiscal responsibility? There will be a day of reckoning. Our children and their children will be saddled by our debt.

The budget office attributes this massive debt burden to Trump's tax decreases, 82 percent of which benefited the wealthy, including himself. Also, there have been increased expenditures, not the least of which are for Trump and family's frequent trips to Florida and resorts around the world.

President Trump has pressured the Federal Reserve to lower interest rates so he can claim our economy is "hot." Rates are now so low that if a recession should occur we would not be able to lower them further. But this is Trump's way and that of fellow Republicans. What about our country's crumbling transportation infrastructure? Health care? Climate change and the environment? We must think about our children. But Trump is so concerned about his political future that he strong armed a small nation like the Ukraine to help him get reelected. Then he lied about it, did a cover up. Will Republicans prevail in blocking John Bolton's first hand account of the President's bribe?

How many lies will we listen to? The list is long. Growing up in New Hampshire our Republicans were the party of honesty, truth and respect. What has happened? Perhaps the President's biggest lie was his campaign pledge to bring our nation together. Instead, we are more divided that at any time since the Civil War.

FROM ALTON TO NEW ZEALAND

An introduction

BY ALEXANDER AMANN
Contributing Writer

My name is Alexander Amann and I am a 2017 graduate of Prospect Mountain High School. I am currently a junior at the University of New Hampshire where I am majoring in Environmental Science: Ecosystems with a minor in Forestry. Over the next several months, I will be contributing a monthly column in which I share my study abroad experience in Aotearoa, New Zealand with you. This first contribution will serve as an introduction to my experience and what I hope to learn about myself, my studies, and the world from a fresh perspective.

I am participating in the UNH-EcoQuest: Ecology in Action semester abroad program. Founded in 1999, this program has a unique focus on education and research, as well as cultural connections with local iwi (tribes of the native people, the Maori). The program has built a strong relationship with the local community and the native Maori cultural perspective is integrated into the learning through community service. My curriculum will include courses in restoration ecology, environmental policy and biogeography, culminating in a directed research project. I will have approximately 25 teammates for the semester, most from UNH, but some from other U.S. institutions.

One may ask: Why study in New Zealand? As it turns out, New Zealand is an ideal location to study ecology and the relationship between humankind and nature. This is given by the fact that New Zealand has been ecologically isolated since it broke off from the supercontinent Gondwana about 85 million years ago. In the time since, life has evolved there in the absence of mammalian predators, giving rise to ground-dwelling, flightless birds like the Kiwi and the extinct Giant Moa. Similarly, New Zealand was one of the last lands settled by humans, further entrenching its isolation. The first people to successfully settle there were those from Eastern Polynesia in the 13th century. It was not until the late 18th century that the colonial influence of Great Britain reached the continent. Therefore, the settlement and development of New Zealand has happened on a brief timescale in comparison to other lands. However, even given drastic changes to the landscape with conversion to European-derived agriculture, many endemic species of bird, plants, reptiles and amphibians still exist. This presents the opportunity to consider the evolution and ecology of the life here in light of its relatively remote location. In terms of my own interests, I have tailored my studies to develop skills as a forest ecologist. This means that I am concerned with the fluxes and reservoirs of nutrients and energy, which are mediated by interactions in the forested community. In addition to this, over the last several summers I have become interested in water quality management. I have worked as a field and lab technician with the Lakes Lay Monitoring Program, a UNH Cooperative Extension service, which monitors water quality on NH's lakes and ponds with help from citizen scientists. You may be familiar with their work through the Cyanobacteria Mitigation Steering Committee, which has made great efforts to mitigate cyanobacteria blooms on Merrymeeting River and Alton Bay.

Throughout the course of my time abroad, I will be learning a great deal of relevant knowledge for my career path as a scientist. Alongside this academic growth, I hope to make strides in personal development by considering the conception of land, people and spirituality that Maori hold. For the reader, my purpose in sharing my time in Aotearoa is to foster an interest and care for the natural world, as well as provide an educational opportunity for those intrigued by science, study abroad, or travel at large. Finally, for the students of our community, I strongly encourage you to consider studying abroad or spending time abroad in your future. My voyage was made possible by generous family, the UNH Global Education Center scholarships, and the Benjamin A. Gilman Scholarship.

Biblical storytelling at Barnstead church on Sunday

BARNSTEAD — The Congregational Church of North Barnstead cordially invites the public to experience biblical storytelling during a workshop and worship service, Sunday, Feb. 9. Rev. Cynthia Maybeck has been an inspiring and accomplished ecumenical pastor for 23 years and is founder of Spirit Story Ministry. She designs original presentations blending scripture and storytelling that bring God's word to life and transform people's understanding of the Bible as a living instrument of God's grace. She tells the Gospel by heart with enthusiasm as it was first told in the early church.

During worship at 10 a.m., her theme is "Let Your Light Shine." Following worship, she will lead a workshop, "I Love to Tell the Story." You will learn to tell biblical stories by heart and how this practice will nourish your faith, hope and joy and enhance ministry in the churches. Please join in at 10 a.m. in the church, 504 North Barnstead Road. Take Route 28 to Peacham, turn right at the end of Peacham and the church will be on your left. All are welcome.

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

Faith or disbelief? Your choice

BY LARRY SCOTT
Contributing Writer

The year was 1949 and two young evangelists were about to launch a crusade, this time in Los Angeles, Calif., that was to have a historic and deeply personal impact on them and on the church.

Charles Templeton, who had been alternating preaching with his best friend, Billy Graham, was in the throes of a major, personal crisis. Sometime before he had read an article in Life Magazine featuring a mother in drought-stricken Africa carrying her dead baby in her arms. To quote from Lee Strobel, in his book The Case for Faith, page 14, Templeton thought, "Is it possible to believe that there is a loving or caring Creator when all this woman needed was rain?" That point of view obviously influenced Templeton's faith in the Bible and he made no secret of his feelings. As Graham recounts in his autobiography Just As I Am, Templeton challenged him. "Billy," he said, "you're 50 years out of date. People no longer accept the Bible as being inspired the way you do. Your faith is too simple" (p. 138).

Billy Graham, who had enormous respect for his friend, could not dismiss Templeton's argument out of hand. "If I was not exactly doubtful," he recalls, "I was certainly disturbed." Things finally came to a head for him during a quiet walk in the San Bernardino mountains. "Dropping to my knees there in the woods, I opened the Bible at random on a tree stump in front of me" and prayed, "Father, I am going to accept this as Thy Word — by faith. I'm going to allow faith to go beyond my intellectual questions and doubts, and I will believe this to be Your inspired Word" (Just As I Am, p. 139).

Little did Billy Graham realize what a profound influence that simple prayer was to have on his personal life. Charles Templeton was soon to withdraw from the ministry, move to Canada and become a writer and commentator. For Billy Graham, however, the Los Angeles crusade launched a ministry that was to enable thousands of people to discover a new relationship with the God Templeton had rejected. Amazingly, it all came down to a matter of personal choice.

Living by faith is, indeed, no "cakewalk" and it does demand that we accept the truth that God has chosen to reveal, yes, by faith. The evidence is there for anyone who is willing to study the

Elizabeth Ann O'Maley
Cherished time at Sunset Lake

ALTON — Elizabeth Ann (Scholl) O'Maley, age 89, of Alton, died peacefully, Jan 30, surrounded by her loving family, at Birch Heights in Derry, where she most recently resided.

Born Nov. 15, 1930 in Port Washington, Wisc., she lived in Chicago, Ill., raised her children in Reading, Mass. and retired at Sunset Lake in Alton.

A beloved mother and wife, she was the widow of Francis J. O'Maley, who died in 2005.

Bette was a remarkable woman to all that knew her. She had limitless energy and loved playing tennis, cross-country skiing, kayaking and playing games with the Ladies of the Lake. She was an avid sports fan. The Red Sox were her favorite and would routinely schedule her day around game time so that she could watch them. When the Red Sox were not in season she also enjoyed the Boston Celtics and New England Patriots. Watching tennis was also a favorite activity for her. Most recently she commented that she was impressed with the many young talented women joining the game.

Bette cherished her time at Sunset Lake. She and her husband Frank made building their lake home an act of love for the entire family. The property had been in the family since the 1940s. They spent nearly a decade building the home that will endure as a family legacy and meeting place for years and generations to come. She especially loved circling the shoreline on Sunset Lake in her pontoon boat with her family on board.

Survived by her five children, Kevin and wife Susan O'Maley, Mary and husband Frank Cirone, Colleen and husband Frank Maggio, Julie and husband Todd Davis, Eileen Bens-Burke and husband Bill Burke; 14 grandchildren, eight great grandchildren with twin boys on the way, two sisters, Joan Schlegel and Madeline "Mimi" Scholl, several nieces and nephews and two sister in laws, Maggie Scholl and Audrey O'Maley.

Predeceased by her brother, Walter "Sonny" Scholl.

Calling hours were Tuesday at Peaslee Alton Funeral Home, 12 School St., Alton. A mass of Christian burial was celebrated on Wednesday, Feb. 5, at St. Katharine Drexel Church, 40 Hidden Springs Road in Alton with Fr. Robert F. Cole, pastor, as celebrant. Interment will be in the spring at New Riverside Cemetery in Alton. Memorial donations may be made in her memory to Home Health & Hospice Care, 7 Executive Park Drive, Merrimack, NH 03054.

MARK ON THE MARKETS To fee or not to fee

BY MARK PATTERSON
Contributing Writer

When I started in the brokerage business 24 years ago, there were mostly commission-based brokers. So, when you walked in to one of the local brokerage houses, you knew what to expect for the most part. Most of the brokers at Tucker Anthony, where I started my brokerage career, were building portfolios with individual stocks or bonds, municipal bonds being a favorite. While mutual funds were becoming very popular, they were typically used in conjunction with the individual stocks and bonds. I myself used mutual funds for very specific reasons. Exchange traded funds were not even available at the time. If you are investing money in 1995 it was very likely that you are in a typical brokerage account as opposed to a fee-based or fee-only wrap account. The tide has shifted dramatically in the last 20 years towards fee or wrap accounts. Brokers were transformed into financial advisors with less ability to touch the money as opposed to delegating to mutual funds, managed money or variable annuities. While most brokers were persuaded to get their series 65 or managed money license, I recall most accounts at Tucker Anthony were commission based brokerage accounts. In 2020, we now have a variety of fee only, fee and commission or commissioned product sales. But it gets even more complicated by the fact that fee only, fee and commission, or commission product sales people are not all the same even within their own category. For example, a financial planning firm that is fee-only may charge for the creation of a financial plan and a fee to allocate those assets. But that same firm may not manage assets in house but designate to outside managers. They may recommend certain types of insurance but they do not sell you the insurance they may refer you to an insurance agent. A different fee and commission firm may manage your assets in house sparing your account of additional outside management fees. That firm may also sell the insurance recommended for that client. Then you have the “financial advisor” that is licensed differently than the investment advisor. That advisor is considered a registered representative that works for a broker-dealer, the investment advisor typically works for the client in a fiduciary capacity. Registered reps with a license to use a fee platform may have the ability to manage money on their firm’s platform but I believe they are more biased to product sales and commission business. You may find an advisor that is only licensed to sell insurance product. It can be very confusing to the investing public because, at times, the insurance salesperson holds themselves out as an advisor or planner but may not have that experience or training.

I could be biased and give you my opinion of what model is best, but I’ll will keep opinion to myself. What I recommend is that you review your account statements. Look at the advisor or your advisors firm, ask questions regarding how they are paid, how are they licensed or registered and don’t be afraid to talk with a couple of different types of firms. Look for your best fit and do your homework. Learn to find, read and understand the various disclosures regarding that firm and their practices.

It is a matter we each must settle in our own lives. The choice we make will inevitably impact the life we live

Here's what many establishment politicians won't admit:

Washington has been bought by corporations. To pass progressive policies on climate change, health care, and gun safety, we need to break the corporate stranglehold on our government. That's why I'm calling for big structural reforms, like term limits. Congress was never meant to be a lifetime appointment. Term limits will bring new ideas into Congress and ensure our representatives are accountable to the people, not the corporations, so we can pass the progressive policies this nation needs.

Co-Sign program offered at New Durham Public Library

NEW DURHAM — The New Durham Public Library is pleased to offer a new program for parents and their children that has a variety of proven benefits. Join in for Co-Sign, free classes in baby signs and sign language for young children, led by a certified instructor. Participants do not have to attend every class and to be accommodating as possible, the library is welcoming children to tag along to this informal program. “We have lots of toys and activities to keep kids busy,” said Library Director Cathy Allyn, “and we foresee that they’ll jump in and out of the instruction, also. Signs are fun for kids and the more interaction, the better. That’s the ‘co’ in Co-Sign.” Allyn said “co” also stands for communication. “Signing helps children communicate with their caregivers, so it can reduce frustration. They can sign long before they have the words to let us know what’s wrong or what they need.” Reduced frustration means fewer tantrums and more quality time together. Signing helps babies learn to talk and children who sign generally have larger vocabularies when they enter school than non-signers. “You’re not going to become fluent in sign language,” Allyn said. “That’s not the purpose.” The sessions will cover the simple signs that parents need the most, and that fit in with New Durham School’s focus on building emotional and social skills. “It’s huge,” New Durham School Principal Kelly Colby-Seavey. “The idea is young children can communicate with signs before they achieve speech. It’s awesome.” Co-Sign is scheduled for Tuesday mornings in March (3, 10, 17, 24 and 31) from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. and will run as long as there is interest. Intro to Signing with Kids will be held Thursday March 26, at 5:30 p.m. Children are welcome to attend, also. No registration is required for either free program. Let the library know at 859-2201 if morning or evening classes are best for you, or call for more information. The classes are appropriate for babies through children in the primary grades.\

PMHS forming Rock N Race team

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School is organizing a PMHS team to run/walk the 2020 Rock ‘N Race on Thursday evening, May 14, in Concord. For the uninitiated, this is a fun 5K that winds around downtown Concord with bands playing music all along the route. The race is a fundraiser for the Payson Center for Cancer Care. All proceeds go towards support of Payson Center patients and their families. The registration fee gets you dinner after the race provided by Concord restaurants, good karma and a Rock ‘N Race T-shirt. If PMHS fields a team with 10 or more athletes they’ll have the school name printed on the back of their shirts. The team will welcome staff, faculty, students, community members, friends and family of PMHS. Folks can register on the Rock N Race website (under “search for a participant ort” type in Prospect Mountain High) or contact school counselor Marie Daniels at the high school at 875-3800 ext. 3164 or mdaniels@pmhschool.com.

NEW DURHAM

ford said it was his understanding that when employees left the town’s workforce it was generally due to wage considerations. His amendment added $5,000 to the Personnel Administration line. Swenson reminded him that the money could go anywhere. With the amendment’s passing, the operating budget became $3,210,062. Following no changes to Article 5, regarding $330,000 for the purposes of a road program with $117,000 to come from Highway Block Grant Aid and the remaining $213,000 to come from taxation, the first of several “bundled” articles, Article 6, drew lengthy discussion. Article 6 would place the sum of $197,000 into previously established public works related Capital Reserve Funds (CRFs). Resident Marc Behr noted that the presentation of the articles covering CRFs and Expendable Trust Funds (ETFs) did not list all of the funds separately. “You’re not following last year’s vote to list them separately,” he said, questioning if the board of selectmen can ignore what the voters wanted. “Why vote, then?” “Several years ago we were asked to combine the funds,” Swenson said, adding that last year’s petition warrant article Behr was referencing was advisory. He explained that this year the board grouped the funds in related categories. Town Counsel Walter Mitchell stated statute grants certain responsibilities to the select board, and the manner in which articles are presented is the board’s call. “The selectmen have the authority to decide how to present the articles,” he said. Chase said the ballot would have been very long if the articles were all separated. “So we broke them into smaller groups. That’s why we’re here tonight. You’ll have more say on what we’ll be voting on.” Swenson said line items within the articles could be amended. Resident and past budget committee member David Curry said, “When the legislative body dictates part of the process, it affects the outcome. With SB2 there is little people can do to modify.” Bickford’s attempt at modification came with his concern about money for weight scales in the solid waste facilities equipment line of Article 6 and his amendment to remove $15,000 from it. “The public voted down the scales,” he said. Greg Anthes added that the scales would need to be maintained. Chase said the only maintenance would be an annual certification. “The fees assessed need to be assessed exactly the same across the board,” she said, “and it’s a revenue source.” Resident William Meyer took to the microphone to say purchasing scales was “to make it fair and to make money.” He then thanked the board for paring down 15 articles to five groups. Jarvis noted that other equipment, such as a compactor and hopper were included in the solid waste facilities equipment CRF. The amendment failed, and attendees then sailed through Article 7, to place the sum of $18,000 into previously established public safety related CRFs and Article 8, to place $20,000 into the Water Quality and Milfoil Treatment CRF. Discussion ensued again with Article 9, to place the sum of $35,000 into previously established facilities related CRFs. Chase said the board did not recommend the article in its current form, as it preferred seeing $25,000 put into the 1772 Meetinghouse Restoration CRF, rather than the $10,000 the budget committee proposed, and amended the article to reflect that. The Meetinghouse Community Center project is eligible for matching grants. Swenson said non-taxpayer funds should also be looked into. The amendment passed. Article 10, to place the sum of $55,000 into previously established computer systems and office equipment, records management, and town buildings and improvements Expendable Trust Funds and Article 11, to withdraw $7,200 from the J.C. Shirley Timber Trust to fund contributions to health and other agencies, such as Cornerstone VNA, CAP of Strafford County and Haven sailed through without comment. Discussion on non-financial articles at the deliberative session will be reported on next week. Voting on the Town Warrant will be Tuesday, March 10, at the New Durham School from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cadillac roads along old foot-paths and highways twixt house and barn

By JOHN HARRIGAN
COLUMNIST

The little things in life have a way of amalgamating into life as we know it, a general assessment of the times. Historical markers alongside the road would probably go into the Little Things basket, but not for Helen Pike or people who still pull over for picnics.

Now there's a thought: Pulling over for a picnic. Who does that any more? As a matter of fact, who reads roadside markers? To most people, the markers are a 58-m.p.h. blur. In the grand scheme of things, who cares?

Helen Pike does. Helen lives in what's left of Waterford, Vt. (specifically, Lower Waterford). Much of Upper Waterford is under Moore Dam reservoir, which flooded a major section of the fabled Fifteen-Mile Falls).

A writer in her own right, Helen is the daughter of renowned North Country author Robert Pike, best known for Tall Trees, Tough Men, and its companion book Spiked Boots. Both are a wealth of stories and data on loggers and logging in the late 1800s and into the next century.

The 58 miles an hour reference is a tip of the hat to steady commuters on Route 3, where in most stretches the posted limit is 50, but as the saying goes "They'll give you 58." This will be steadfastly denied by anyone in uniform.

This 58 business is in the Frequently Asked Questions section of the Law Book. Over a long career, searches for "The Law Book" have proved fruitless. (There are, of course, the Revised State Statutes Annotated, better known as RSAs, which come in about a dozen volumes and weigh a ton. They would be no fun to tote around. Besides, "Law Book" just sort of rolls off the tongue.)

Anyway, back to Helen, who has written to me a couple of times about the deplorable state of roadside markers. Their upkeep falls under the auspices of the New Hampshire Department of Transportation and the Division of Historical Resources. When I called the DHR a while back to check on the fairness of "deplorable," a pleasant but harried-sounding woman agreed that, alas, this was true of too many markers, but they are being cleared out and fixed up as steadily as possible.

Okay, so who pulls over for a picnic these days when so many people are evidently misplaced (polite term for "lost") and are always looking at their watches, evidently out of pathetic hope for the subway or a bus?

My experience is that it's like the mythical baseball field, if a pullout spot is attractive, picnickers will come.

All along Route 3, from Nashua north, hints and vestiges of these old places can be found. From Concord up through Woodstock, and from Franconia Notch to the Canadian border in Pittsburg, many of the old picnic pullouts are evident, and some are still used.

One of them, a beautiful pullout just north of the notch, is still popular, and the discerning eye can find many others along the old road all the way to Canada. Here, much of the existing Route 3 was actually built over the old cart-path, which followed the old foot-paths, which were first blazed with axes in settlement times, and so on into the mists of time.

Wait, wait, where were we? Being swallowed up by the mists of time again. Anyway, my grandparents on my mother's side used to stop at the above-the-notch pullout because it was about mid-point in their four-and-a-half-hour annual trip from Concord to Colebrook, to visit their kith and kin in the frozen tundra of Upper Slobovia, as some of us fondly call home.

These days, many of those old pullouts are besmirched by the ultimate insult of trash, from diapers to beer cans, and many are nothing more than tissue-strewn, barely screened latrines, in a territory where (to excuse visitors from afar) there are no public restrooms easily found. In fact, get this: Along the entire stretch of Route 3, from the Notch to the border, the only public toilets are just north of Colebrook.

Often the picnickers are Canadians, with Quebec plates outnumbering Ontario about two to one. Ah, those Quebecois. They seem to know how to slow down, if only for a moment.

Here and there along Route 3, the really old road can still be seen, the one-lane, two-wheel track that was there three-quarters of a century ago before the state began to replace it in sections after World Wars I and II.

One of the best-preserved pieces of old road, surviving more or less by accident, is in Columbia. Another is just above North Stratford, where the modern highway cuts off two graceful old curves that went right by the doorsteps of frontier homesteads.

People who scrambled to replace their settlement shanties with honest-to-gosh timber-frame houses truly wanted the trail, soon to be oxcart road, soon to be stagecoach route, to go right by their front porches, even between house and barn. Imagine.

That was when the rough north-south roads represented the only connection between the settlements in the howling wilderness and the cornucopia of "bought" goods from far down below.

THIS IS the case with too many roadside markers: Overtaken by trees and shrubbery, letters faded or missing. This one's in an old pullout overlooking the Connecticut River just below North Stratford and Bloomfield, Vt.

"Down below" is still in wide use in everyday northern life to refer, often with a good-natured, dismissive gesture, to everything down below the great notches, Franconia, Crawford and Pinkham. There are several "lesser" notches, which to many are not lesser at all, among them Kinsman and Grafton.

Notches are special places, especially the many wild and relatively untrammelled notches visited mostly by hikers and hunters.

I can think of several such notches, some of which are downright spooky, but in a good way, in the manner of fellow creatures and kindred spirits.

One of these is on the far edge of a bowl-shaped swamp in the northern reaches of the state, where I've hunted for partridge and deer. When I look at this place on a map, I wonder if a meteorite slammed in there long-ago, the notch formed by lava or muck.

The little narrow "gun-sight notch" can be seen from many places around the upper edges of the bowl, hardwoods up high, softwoods down in the middle. And so, one warm day, too warm to hunt, I took a compass bearing, and humped on up.

It was a narrow little defile, rock ledges on each side, maybe 20 to 30 feet high, with a well-worn path down the middle.

Well worn by whom, and what? By the occasional surveyor, timber-cruiser, logger and hunter, I thought, with maybe boot-leggers to boot, and wandering predators leaving old ground for new.

Spooky, as I said, but in a good way.

Bee winner

Casey Shea, a sixth grader at St. John Regional School, placed first in the annual school spelling bee that took place on Tuesday, Jan. 28, in Concord. As the winner, she will advance to the NH State Competition in March at Plymouth State University where she will compete against other NH school bee champions. “This was a big week for Casey,” commented principal Steve Donohue, “as Casey was also named to The Principal’s List on Wednesday for the second quarter in a row. The Principal’s List recognizes students that achieve 93 or better in every class and receive top scores in effort and behavior. Casey is a well-rounded student who also plays on the school soccer, basketball and track teams. She is a member of the SJRS math team and now will represent our school at the State Spelling Bee. We are proud of her efforts, her achievements, and her character and know that she will represent SJRS well in anything she does.” Shea lives in Center Barnstead and has attended St. John’s since kindergarten. She would like to thank all of her teachers at St. John’s, especially her Kindergarten teacher, Donna Samuel, and her first grade teacher, B.J. Joel, for teaching her spelling, phonics, and reading. # Prospect boys pull away from Bears

Free throws help Timber Wolves get first win

ALTON — The Prospect Mountain and Newfound boys' basketball teams both entered their game on Tuesday, Jan. 28, looking for their first win of the season.

The two teams met up during the Lakes Region Holiday Hoop Tournament in December and played a close game that saw the Timber Wolves come out on top.

The story was much the same in Alton, as the Timber Wolves and Bears went back and forth before the hosts were able to hit free throws down the stretch for a 51-40 win.

"It's nice to finally break the ice in the win column," said Prospect coach Joe Faragher. "But we have to earn every bit. It's in the details."

"It was a good game, we played very well defensively," said Newfound coach Jesse Mitchell. "We were there, we played a pretty good game all the way through, outside the first."

That first period proved to be a difference as the Timber Wolves outscored the Bears 17-6 in the opening frame.

Aaron Haynes got the first hoop of the game right off the opening tipoff for the Timber Wolves and then Ryker Burke added consecutive baskets, the second coming off his own steal.

George Belville got the first points for Newfound, putting back a rebound and then a Tyler Boulanger hoop cut the lead to 6-4.

Brandon Stellon got the next hoop of the Timber Wolves and then Keegan Unzen finished off a Seth Huggard steal by tipping the ball in for a 10-4 lead. Huggard sank a three-pointer and Haynes put back a rebound, stretching Prospect's lead to 15-4.

Jack Gosson got Newfound back on the board with a basket but Haynes got the last basket of the quarter, giving the Timber Wolves the 17-6 lead after one quarter.

It took a while for anyone to get the offense moving in the second quarter, as the first basket came 2:45 into the frame.

Malaki Ingram hit consecutive three-pointers and a field goal for the Bears, cutting the lead to 17-14 before Unzen got Prospect Mountain's first hoop of the quarter with 2:35 to go before halftime.

Unzen then hit two

Potenza's OT goal wins it for Knights

WILL DANAIS battles around a Winnacunnet player in action last Wednesday.
BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor
WOLFEBORO — Heading into a tough stretch of games, the Kingswood boys' hockey team needed to get a win against a struggling Winnacunnet Warrior squad at Pop Whalen Arena on Wednesday, Jan. 29.
And for the first period, it looked like the Knights would have no problems with achieving that.
However, the Warriors rallied to tie the game in the second and took the lead in the third, but the Knights got the tying goal to force overtime and then Nick Potenza fired home the game-winner in the extra frame for the 5-4 win.
“We definitely needed that one,” said coach Mike Potenza. “They (Winnacunnet) came in her with some confidence.
“This was a game that should not have gone to overtime,” he added.
“We were in control after the first and we let them back in it.”
The Knights got off to a fairly quick start with Potenza, Cam Kean, Will Danais and Cody Emerson all had good chances in the offensive zone while Oleg Sheahan made a save at the other end of the ice.
The Knights got on the board with 10:17 to go, as Logan McEvoy skated into the circle in front of the Warrior bench and fired a shot past the keeper for the 1-0 lead.
Colby Clegg, Riley Smith and Gavin Goodwin continued with chances in the offensive end while Sheahan also turned in a good stop at the other end. Emerson made a nice feed to McEvoy, who got in close but was denied.
The Warriors were able to tie the game with 7:03 to go, firing a shot through a screen in front of the net to make it 1-1.
Danais and Potenza

continued with some good chances in the offensive zone while McEvoy had a shot that Emerson tipped just wide of the net.
The Knights got the lead back with 3:05 to go in the first period, as Bailey Savage fired a shot from right in front of the Warrior bench that found its way through traffic and to the back of the net for the 2-1 lead. Clegg and Potenza picked up assists on the tally.
Cam DeVito got in close on a chance and Clegg and Josh Paraskos teamed up on a bid in close.
That bid led to Clegg collecting the puck beside the net and firing a puck across the goal line on an assist from Potenza for the 3-1 lead and the Knights held that lead to the end of the first period.
Clegg had an early chance for the Knights and the Warriors came back with a couple connecting with McEvoy on a centering pass and Goodwin had a shot stopped. Kingswood took another penalty with 2:42 to go and Sheahan made a number of solid saves and Potenza had a good clear as the period closed out with the game tied at three.

Kingswood came out strong in the third period, with Goodwin, Clegg, Emerson and Danais all firing shots on net but they were denied. Sheahan made a save at the other end and then Kean had a shot go wide of the net. McEvoy had a bid denied and Clegg and Potenza just missed connecting in front of the net.
Kingswood had a power play chance with 8:14 to go but couldn't generate any pressure in the offensive end and Clegg had a nice defensive play on a shorthanded Warrior bid.
The visitors were able to take a 4-3 lead with 4:28 to go but Kingswood came back with a power play chance less than a minute later.
And that power play lasted just 22 seconds, as Potenza fired a shot from the circle past the Winnacunnet keeper on an assist from Clegg to pull Kingswood even at four. Potenza then sent a shot off the cross bar and had another one denied by the goaltender.
The Knights took a penalty with 2:44 to go and Sheahan was solid in the net, turning away a number of chances to help kill off the advantage. However, Kingswood also took a penalty with 26 seconds to go and the game went to the overtime tied at four.
Clegg and Emerson had good clears as the power play was killed off early in the overtime and the penalty proved fruitful for the Knights.

As Clegg circled around the net with the puck, Potenza came out of the box and skated right into the zone, wide open near the edge of the circle and he one-timed Clegg's pass past the keeper for the 5-4 win. Danais also picked up an assist on the game-winner.
“We have to get some other people scoring,” Potenza said, noting he was happy to see Savage and McEvoy get on the board.
“It's frustrating when we have coaches go and scout and we don't take advantage of the information we have,” he said. “We need to take advantage when we take time to scout other teams.
“Everything we talked about them doing happened out there and we didn't take advantage,” Potenza said.
The Knight coach noted that the player of the game jacket was presented to Savage by the previous game's winner, Sheahan and Savage in turn walked over and handed it to Nick Potenza.
“That just tells you what kind of team-first guy he (Savage) is,” the Knight coach noted.
The Knights will be back in action on Saturday, Feb. 8, at Somersworth-Coe-Brown at 4:20 p.m., will be at Lebanon-Stevens at 5 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 10, and will be hosting Portsmouth-Newmarket at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 12.

Back Bay Peewees defeat Berlin

BY MICHELLE MORRILL
Contributing Writer

WOLFEBORO — The Bay Bay Peewees faced off against the Berlin Sabres at Pop Whalen on Saturday, Jan. 25. It was anyone's game until the last four minutes of the first when Ryker Booth netted the first of the game, assisted by James Rogers. Just 22 seconds later, Booth and Rogers switched roles, this time Rogers putting the puck in the net, with an assist by Booth.

Back Bay continued their domination with a little more than two minutes left on the clock when Nate Cloos made a pass to Booth as he was going down with a trip and Booth sent the puck in the net for his second goal of the game, ending the period 3-0.

In the second period, Berlin struck back with their first goal of the game with 3:36 left. But Back Bay quickly responded with an unassisted goal by Ali Fleming. Berlin countered with another goal 41 seconds left in the period, cutting Back Bay's lead in half, 4-2.

Berlin rallied one final time with a goal four minutes into the third, but two minutes later, Back Bay squashed any hope of the Sabres catching up when Parker Aucoin found the back of the net, assisted by Cloos, making it 5-3 victory for Back Bay.

his own steal and then Jack Gosson converted a three-point play. Jake Judkins hit a hoop with 1:25 to go to cut the lead to three and then two Ingram free throws with 32 seconds to go cut the lead to just one at 28-27.

Unzen hit a free throw in the final 10 seconds to give the Timber Wolves a 29-27 lead heading to the final eight minutes.

And what a final eight minutes it was, as the two teams went back and forth the entire way.

Burke started the fourth quarter by finishing off a steal for the Timber Wolves but Ingram answered with two free throws for the Bears. A Huggard three-pointer and a hoop from Stellan pushed the Prospect lead to 36-29.

The Bears didn’t go away, as they went on an 8-0 run to take their first lead of the game with 3:28 to go. Boulanger had a hoop followed by Gosson putting back a rebound and Ingram finishing off a steal, cutting the lead to one with 3:45 to go. Gosson then hit a hoop just 23 seconds later to give the Bears the 37-36 lead.

A Stellan hoop gave the Timber Wolves the lead back but a Gosson free throw tied the game at 38 with 2:50 to go.

Stellan hit another hoop with 1:55 to go to give Prospect the lead and then the Timber Wolves started hitting free throws. Stellan converted four in one stretch and then Burke hit two. Stellan hit three more before Ingram hit a hoop for the Bears. Stellan then hit two more free throws down the stretch for the 51-40 win.

Ingram led all scorers with 20 points on the night while Gosson added 10 for the Bears. Stellan led the way for Prospect with 17 points, 15 of which came in the fourth quarter and Burke added 10.

“Newfound played tough, a couple bounces could’ve gone either way,” said Faragher. “The guys continue to fight and it’s good to see us hit some free throws.”

“It’s the 10th game of the year and I think Brendan made more free throws in the fourth quarter than he has taken all season,” the Timber Wolf coach added. “Hopefully it’s a sign of things to come.”

Faragher also gave credit to Mitchell’s squad for a tough game.

“Take nothing away from them,” he said. “We both knew coming in we needed a win.”

“It’s good to see the boys come out with a W,” Faragher added. “It’s just a little reward for all the hard work.”

“Different factors caused our momentum to drop,” said Mitchell. “Situations out of our control kept it dropping.”

“But our defense is fine,” the Bear coach continued. “We just need to get the offense flowing and get started earlier.”

“Our issue all year has been the first quarter,” Mitchell added. “We push and get it back but it’s too late.”

Flying Timber Wolf

When sports and tragedy come together

I was at the afternoon indoor track meet at the University of New Hampshire on Sunday when word of the helicopter crash that killed Kobe Bryant began making its way across social media.

As a Celtics fan, Kobe was usually viewed as the enemy simply because he played for the Lakers and the Boston-LA rivalry has been one of the fiercest in the NBA over the last few decades.

Of course, there were plenty of stories about Kobe off the court, both on the good side and the bad side and it is safe to say he was not a perfect person.

However, without a doubt he was one of the best players of the last few decades. His abilities on the court were fun to watch even if you weren't a Lakers fan.

And from all accounts, he was a good father as well and was enjoying his retirement with his daughters, coaching one of his girls on her travel basketball team.

SPORTING CHANCE

So, I was saddened to hear that Kobe and his daughter, Gianna, were killed when the helicopter they were in crashed in the hills outside of Los Angeles. Any time a sports legend passes away, particularly before his or her time, it's sad for sports fans.

Two of my most vivid memories of sports stars passing away before their time are of NASCAR drivers.

The first of those was Davey Allison, who died in a helicopter crash in July of 1993. I was in high school at the time and during the weekend I worked at the local racetrack, which helped to foster my enjoyment of NASCAR. Allison died in a helicopter he was attempting to land in a parking lot near Talladega Superspeedway in Alabama. Pilot inexperience with the craft he was flying was deemed the cause of the crash.

The other of those deaths was that of Dale Earnhardt Sr. in a wreck at Daytona International Speedway in 2001. At that time I was working part time at the University of New Hampshire in Philbrook Dining Hall and the manager was nice enough to put the race on the television in the lobby. I was going back and forth between working and watching as Dale Earnhardt Jr. battled for the win with his father (at the time, my favorite driver) holding off the rest of the field behind him. The crash didn't look any worse than any other crash, but I remember driving home that night listening to the radio and then watching television into the night.

Another big one came in 1993 (the same year as Allison) when Celtics star Reggie Lewis collapsed and died during an off-season game. He was the face of the future for the Celtics as they looked to move beyond Larry Bird, Kevin McHale and Robert Parrish. Also Celtics related, the Len Bias death in 1986 also came as a shock, though I was just 11 years old and at that time wasn't a huge follower of basketball.

The loss of people you view as heroes can be tough for anyone. While I didn't necessarily view these sports stars as heroes, I still remember their deaths and where I was when they happened. I am sure the same will be said about Kobe.
