Sanbornton's Old Home Day celebrates delayed anniversary

Magician BJ Hickman performed a little patriotic magic as part of his act for Sanbornton's Old Home Day and 250th Anniversary celebration last weekend.

ton would agree that their Old Home Day/250th Anniversary celebration was well worth the wait as they gathered together last Saturday for food, fun and entertainment.

The day began with breakfast from the Sanbornton Historical Society outside on the library field and continued throughout the day with events all around the town square. Kids enjoyed free pony rides and a visit from Wildlife Encounters. Sanbornton Fire and Rescue had an open house and there were tours of Lane Tavern where people could also purchase a cookbook filled with local favorite recipes. Also included in the daytime activities was a car show, an open-air market, Old Home Day tee shirts sales, 3B Creative Carving's chainsaw carving demonstrations, and raffles for some great prizes as well. One popular raffle benefitting the Historical Society was a beautiful Friendship Stars quilt made by Nancy Durgin. Durgin also made other special quilts that she presented to two of the town's military veterans. The UCC Church provided organ music throughout the morning and Mohawk Trail Riders snowmobile club held a very successful barbecue when lunchtime rolled around.

Sanbornton resident Andy Jerry recently completed a bicycle tour through of all New Hampshire's

Sanbornton resident bikes across New Hampshire

SANBORNTON Upon retirement in 2020, Andy Jerry of Sanbornton decided that he needed to have a project. Because of the pandemic, it had to be something long term that he could do independently and safely. One his greatest passions is bicycle riding.

Jerry had an idea. Why not celebrate NH and cycle to each and every town and city in the State? He named it "Tour of NH Bike Challenge." His journey on his trusty electric bicycle took him to all 234 cities and towns. He began November 2020, and ended victoriously in his home town of Gorham on June 28.

Jerry's planning required setting some guidelines and rules for each of his daily trips. He identified towns which were within proximity to each other so he could visit four to seven towns in one day's ride. Each new day, he would drive to the last town that he visited and cycle

Veterans Home bids fond farewell to Mishcon

BY DONNA RHODES Contributing Writer

TILTON – Wednesday, June 30 was a bittersweet day for residents and staff of New Hampshire Veterans Home as they bid farewell to Dr. Merrit Jonathan (Jon) Mishcon after 37 years of looking after their health and wellbeing.

Mishcon became somewhat emotional as he walked to the Pavilion outside NHVH that day and saw the crowd who waited to see him one more time.

"Thank you everyone. I appreciate all the time we've spent together, and I can't tell you how difficult this is for me," he said.

Commandant Margaret LaBrecque told the doctor that they couldn't let nearly four decades of his care go by without celebrating all he had done for the residents and staff of NHVH.

"We're not going to say goodbye, though. We'll say we'll see you soon," she said.

Mishcon first arrived at the veterans' home in 1981 when he began assisting Dr. Frank Robinson in his coverage of the residents there. In 1979, however, he had also establish a private practice of his own in a refurbished Sunoco station in downtown Tilton. He was one of several young Family Practitioners who came to the area hoping to make a difference in a rural community. In the 1980s, those physicians also took shifts at Franklin Regional Hospital until they began hiring ER doctors. And, as part of his mission of commitment and care for his patients, Mishcon was one of a very few doctors who made house calls.

Bank of New Hampshire helps Harbor Care expand food provision

LACONIA — Bank of New Hampshire is grateful to donate $5,000 towards Harbor Care's expansion of their Food Provision Program.

Harbor Care helps atrisk families solve some of life's most challenging issues, particularly those that lead to homelessness. They provide high quality housing and residential services, primary and behavioral health care, substance use disorder treatment, home care, HIV/AIDS care, veteran services and support to individuals and families who are experiencing or at risk of homelessness. Harbor Care connects each client with the tools to manage their individual challenges and to promote a healthy life - including easy access to food. Their programs operate on-site food pantries and kitchens that make more than 100,000 meals available annual-

"Harbor Care thrilled that Bank of New Hampshire has made funding available to help the families of New Hampshire access food," said Kyle Farrell, Senior Grant Writer for Harbor Care. "The pandemic has thrown up barriers to life's most basic needs—breathing, socializing and working. Many of the low-income families that Harbor Care serves are also finding it more difficult than ever to access food. With the support of Bank of New Hampshire, Harbor Care will provide thousands of meals across our programs. We are all awaiting the end of the pandemic, but now our clients can wait with less worry about their next meal."

Bank of New Hampshire is proud of this partnership as we aspire to remain an independent mutual financial institution, delivering innovative solutions and exceptional while assisting our employees, customers and communities to build brighter futures.

Jewish Food Festival sees record setting response

LACONIA — The 2021 New Hampshire Jewish Food Festival, a celebration of the Jewish foods that come from recipes handed down from generation to generation, will go down as one of the most successful in its 24-year history.

On Tuesday, June 1, the Jewish Food Festival opened for online orders on the Temple B'nai Israel Web site. As the orders started piling up, the emails and texts were bouncing between food festival committee members who were astounded by the immediate and overwhelming number of orders placed on just the first day. The ordering process continued until June 28th when the website officially closed after 233 orders were placed. The success of this year's Jewish Food Festival has been over the top, with thanks to the Lakes Region community and beyond.

This year, TBI introduced our own "Bubbie" (Yiddish for grandmother) to the Lakes Region with stories of the old country and tongue-in-cheek descriptions of the recipes and cooking processes. (The stories are still available to read on the TBI Web site, www.tbinh.org.) As much fun as "Bubbie's Kitchen Adventures" are to read, the real story behind the scenes in the TBI kitchen is an unfolding drama worthy of its own reality TV show. Teams of congregation members, women and men, enjoy the camaraderie that naturally results when people come together with a purpose, for a cause. Each recipe is carefully executed with precise proportions and exact processes in the small temple kitch-While the blintzes are frying or the strudels are baking, there are stories shared and world problems solved. Mahjong helps pass the time as the aromas from the hot oven fill the adjacent social hall, waiting for the timer to ring. Take out one batch and put in the next. After the baking, cooking, or frying is done and the foods are cool enough, they must be packed, labeled and carefully stored in the many freezers which are located in closets, the basement, a wall here and a nook over there. The location of each food, which freezer it's in, and how many of every item is strategically noted and managed. When the time comes to pick the orders for curbside, drive through delivery, there is no question the appointed day and where to find the matzah ball soup, the brisket, or the rugelach.

Before any cooking can begin, there is shopping to be done. Cooking for a crowd takes on a new meaning when the partial grocery list includes 250 pounds of raw brisket, 80 pounds of russet potatoes, at least 20 pounds each of carrots, celery, and onions, 45 bags of egg noodles, 120 eggs, 30 pints of sour cream, 60 cups of whole milk, and 60 pounds of farmer's cheese. A daunting task that is undertaken by several volunteers who shop, schlep, and stock the pantries and refrigerators.

Later this month, the final step of the online order process will happen when the customers arrive at the temple, on time, for curbside pickup. The ordering process allowed for appointment requests on specific days and times which has resulted in a carefully mapped out schedule designed for maximum efficiency. Each order will be picked and packed upon the customer's arrival then whisked out to the car as the driver proceeds from the checkin door at the back of the building to the pick-up door on the side of the building.

Then the work for next year begins. The committee will review the orders, the process, and most importantly the feedback from the patrons.

Food Festival committee chair, Stu Needleman says, "it's always a work in progress. We look for ways to improve, streamline, and make the experience the best it can be for the customer and our members who volunteer to organize, shop, cook, pack and freeze and finally, to hand out the completed orders to the customer."

So it goes, year after year, for 24 years now. Even a pandemic couldn't stop the Jewish Food Festival which necessitated that it become a "take out" event with curbside pickup. Next year, 2022, TBI will be celebrating the 25th silver anniversary of the New Hampshire Jewish Food Festival. Look for a special celebration, a nostalgic look back through the years and a few surprises to commemorate this special milestone.

LRMFA awarded nationally recognized APCO agency training program certification

LACONIA — Lakes Region Mutual Fire Aid provides 24x7 professional Fire/EMS Emergency Communications Dispatch services and mutual aid coordination to 35 communities more than 1,800 square miles in the Lakes Region of New Hampshire.

LRMFA Chief Jon Goldman is pleased to announce that LRMFA has received the Association of Public Safety Communications Officials (APCO) Agen-Training Program Certification (ATPC). Public safety agencies use the APCO International Agency Training Program Certification as a formal mechanism to ensure their training programs meet APCO American National Standards (ANS). Initial and continuing training for public safety telecommunicators is important as they provide essential services to the public in an expanding and rapidly changing environment.

"The nature of the performed by public safety telecommunicators continues to evolve, and effective initial training and continuing education are crucial to maintaining the skill set required to successfully execute day to day tasks," said APCO International President Margie Moulin. "Successfully attaining AP-CO's Agency Training Program Certification clearly demonstrates an agency's commitment to the citizens and fellow responders."

LRMFA met or exceeded 111 individual standards by submitting proofs and documentation to confidential peer reviewers through APCO. The certification process took more than one year to complete and was led by LRMFA Training Coordinator,

Lt. Erin Hannafin. Chief Jon Goldman said, "Training our staff based on national standards and best practices shows our commitment to, not only our staff, but to our member communities, the responders we serve and the residents and visitors of the lakes region."

LRMFA joins the ranks of only eight out of hundreds of emergency communications centers in New England, New York, and New Jersey to receive this certification. They are only one of three in New Hampshire to have become APCO ATPC Certified.

Keep it civil

One of the great things about being an American is the right to free speech. A recent uproar in a small community regarding a vulgar word prominently displayed for all to see on a main stretch of road prompted this editorial.

On commercial property, with specific sign ordinances, in a quaint New England town, there is a vulgar sign. One in which children of reading age, five and six years old, can easily look out the car window and sound it out and herein lies the problem. It's our job as adults, to set a high standard for our children and to protect them at all costs.

Now, while the First Amendment protects free speech, that does not include all speech, when it pertains to commercial or public property. Profanity is not always protected as well when it pertains to threats of incitement, fighting words, etc. or when used against a public official in a public forum.

Even so, just because you have the right to use profane language, does it mean you should? Can you get your point across without it? My father always told me there was a 'time and a place' for everything. If you know children could potentially see this profane language, is it the best choice to still put it on display? Further, not only should children not see this, but there are generations of people who come from a time when profanity could only be found in seedy areas of big cities. To them, it is even more offensive from the feedback we have received.

This is why movies, plays, music and books are given ratings, because then you have the choice on whether or not you or your children see it. In a public area, we think it's important to keep things classy, and set a better example as adults for our children. If you feel you need to use profanity in such a way, well sure that is your right, we all utter those words from time to time, however a display in a public place is a different animal.

Using a vulgar word, at the end of the day will not change anyone's mind about whatever it is you're upset about. It simply won't. Civil language is far more conducive to meaningful discussion and debate.

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

Life in the trenches

BY LARRY SCOTT

If you could live your life over again, would you?
Most of us, without further thought, would say, "Absolutely!" But are you sure? Do you think you would be happy being the person you were thirty years ago?

attitude. What to do?

They could ignore issue altogether and on with their lives. The could follow the exam of the religious est lishment and presure without warrant, the disciples had stored.

Each of us is the product of our past. We are who we are today because of the circumstances. experiences, and influences that have left their mark on our lives. If we could tailor-make our past, what would we do differently? Probably nothing, for our perspective has been determined by our journey, and without that journey, we would not be the person we are today.

We all have a past, and we only go around once. We can wish all we want, but it won't change a thing. To be mired in self-pity, to give up on life, to dream of what might have been, will get us nowhere. We must face the facts, deal with the heartache, recover from our mistakes, and build on the lessons learned.

Seldom has the issue of rethinking the past been more important than it was to those who had called for Jesus' crucifixion. But something had happened in Jerusalem that changed everything; within days of the crucifixion, a report began to circulate that could not be ignored. Like it or not, they had to account for an empty tomb, eye-witnesses who claimed to have seen

Him, and a group of disciples with a change of attitude. What to do?

They could ignore the issue altogether and get on with their lives. They could follow the example of the religious establishment and presume, without warrant, that the disciples had stolen His body. But they knew better, and they knew that no man will ever recover from his mistakes by claiming ignorance or by denying what he knows to be true.

Many of those who called for Jesus' crucifixion would soon discover God is more than willing to forgive our past, no matter what. No sin is so despicable, no weakness is so glaring, but that God cannot give a man a new start in life. And if God can forgive those who crucified His Son, you know He can forgive anything!

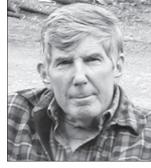

For us, as for the people of Jerusalem, our God is more than willing to take our failures, our ignorance, and our mistakes, and work them back into His plan. If you don't give up on God, I can assure you, He will never give up on you.

We can agonize over past failures, surrender to our weaknesses, and cloud our days with selfpity. Or we can come to God, invite His forgiveness, and trust Him to lead us and make the days ahead the best days of our lives! It's never too late to become what you might have been!

Farm museums depict a way of life we can scarcely imagine

By John Harrigan

COLUMNIST

New Hampshire's first European settlements were down around Portsmouth, circa 1623, and among the last were farms carved out in the upper North Country.

Farm museums exist in both places, but the buildings themselves could not be more different. One farm is spread out to the sun, and the other is tight as a drum.

The New Hampshire Farm Museum's buildings are set along a southern stretch of Route 16 in Milton, just north of Portsmouth. Far to the north, the Poore Family Homestead Historic Farm Museum's buildings are huddled like a horseshoe against a hill in Stewartstown.

Each tells a story of farms and farming, and each in a different way. They are opposite ends of the same picture.

I have some personal experience with the J.C. Kenneth Poore farm, long before it became a museum.

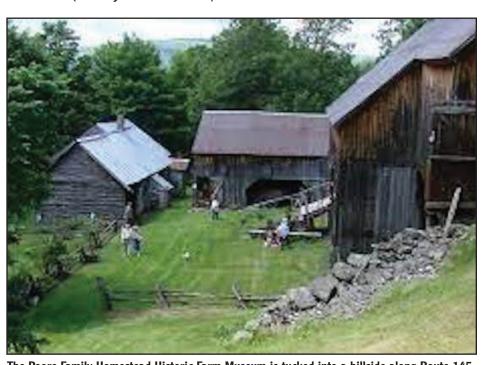

Near the last of my years living with Rudy and Joan Shatney at Clarksville Pond, I worked at the Lyman Forbes farm in East Colebrook. On days off, I hitch-hiked up to Clarksville.

The Poore farm was a frequent stop. At the least, I could get a dipper of ice-cold water. In a pinch, I could use the hand-cranked phone to call Rudy's for a ride.

The telephone was the sole modernity. The Poore house had no electricity. Lanterns served for light. The kitchen stove and a parlor stove provided heat. A hill-side spring sent water into the barn but not the house. Instead, water went to a trough in a shed attached to the house ell.

During my early years, Kenneth Poore was a frequent guest at the supper table. He would drive his team into town, and stable the horses just down the street while he ran various errands downtown. Our Mom would give him a ride home so he wouldn't be driving horses after dark, and he'd find a ride into town a day or two later to fetch his team.

Kenneth's father fought in the Civil War. His discharge from the Grand Army of the Republic hung on a living room wall. Around and around the same room grew the same ivy Kenneth's mother planted on the day his father marched off to war.

One day when Kenneth was still living in the house, and before it became a museum, I happened to stop by for a visit. Kenneth was in the barnyard, and wanted me to see a dump-cart.

This was a twowheeled affair, meant to be pulled by horse or ox. "Pull that pin there," said Kenneth, pointing to a hardwood pin on a cord, holding the dumpcart onto its draw-bar.

"Put your hand under the dump-body," said Kenneth, and I did, and on his direction lifted ever so slightly, and the dump-body tilted right up, as nice as pie.

Life in the snow lane

: Extreme skiing pioneer Dan Egan's new book full of skiing stories

BY JOSHUA SPAULD-ING

Sports Editor BRISTOL — Sprinkled throughout the local communities are people who have lived pretty extraordinary lives.

They have stories to tell, stories that when collected would make an interesting book.

One local individual with stories to tell has done just that, collecting those interesting stories into a new book that is available at retailers around the area.

In 1990, extreme skiing legend Dan Egan was lost on Mount Elbrus in Russia for 38 hours in a massive storm and the story of those harrowing hours serves as the base of his new book, "30 Years in a White Haze," which he wrote with Eric Wilbur, a longtime Boston Globe writer.

I always wanted to write a book, but not end it with that story," Egan said last Tuesday at a book signing event at Basic Ingredients Bakery in Bristol. "That was the beginning of my adult life, not the end.

"Everything today is a result of that trip, in one way or another," he continued. "And we weaved that story in throughout the book."

In that life-changing event, Egan's life was saved by a Russian and the next day, he and that Russian rescued 14 other people who had been lost in the same storm, just one of the many stories that dot Egan's life of extreme skiing around the world.

Egan notes that Wilbur approached him around the time he and his brother were inducted into the US Ski and and said he should write a book. The local ski legend at the time said that he had one in mind and a year later, he was on the phone with Wilbur ready to put something together.

Egan notes that the White Mountains Region is one of the best places to live when it comes to skiing because so many people care about the industry and there are so many people who have been incredibly successful in the industry.

"Around here, we care so much about the ski industry," he said. "We ski a lot of days and we ski in a lot of weather.

"When looking at that wall, I would see the three dead Dans," he said. "They all died under the age of 24.

It's safe to say that Dan Egan has lived an incredible life, one that

Gunner Olszewski gets nod to drive pace car at NHMS

LOUDON — On Sunday, July 18, Gunner Olszewski, all-pro punt returner and wide receiver for the New England Patriots, will trade the pigskin for the keys to the official Toyota Camry TRD pace car as he leads 40 of NASCAR's best to the green flag for the Foxwoods Resort Casino 301 - the 50th NA-SCAR Cup Series (NCS) race at New Hampshire Motor Speedway (NHMS).

A6

"This is a dream come true," said 24-year-old Olszewski. "My brother and I grew up watching NASCAR with our dad, and I'm still a huge fan today. I can't believe I get to lead the field to the green flag at 'The Magic Mile."

Born in Alvin, Texas, six-foot Olszewski will enter his third season with the New England Patriots this year. On Dec. 6, 2020, Olszewski scored his first NFL touchdown on a 70-yard punt return against the Chargers, which was the first punt return for a touchdown for New England since wide receiver Julian Edelman, who drove the official Toyota Camry pace car at NHMS in July 2014, returned a punt 84 yards vs. Denver on Nov. 2, 2014. Olszewski is the first player in Patriots history with two punt returns of at least 60 yards in a single game and the first NFL player to do so since Dec. 22, 2019. He finished the game with 145 punt return yards, the second-most ever in a single game by a Patriots player. He also hauled his first touchdown catch on a career-long 38-yard reception, added special teams tackles and was named the AFC

On Jan. 3, 2021, returned Olszewski three punts for 36 yards against the Jets. In doing so, he finished first in the NFL with a 17.3-yard punt return average, the highest in Patriots history, passing Edelman's previous record of 15.5 set in 2012.

"Gunner has proven himself on the gridiron and now is his chance to show New England race fans what he's got," said David McGrath, executive vice president and general manager for New Hampshire Motor Speedway. "We're excited to welcome him to 'The Magic Mile' and put him behind the wheel of the official Toyota Camry TRD pace car."

Patriots safety Patrick Chung (July 2018), offensive coordinator Josh McDaniels (July 2017), offensive tackle Matt Light (September 2016), linebacker Rob Ninkovich (July 2015) and Edelman (July 2014) have all served as pace car drivers, making Olszewski the sixth member of the New England Patriots to get behind the wheel of the official Toyota Camry pace car for a NCS race at NHMS. Other notable pace car drivers include Boston Bruins forward Chris Wagner (July 2019), Richard Rawlings of Discovery Channel's "Fast N' Loud" (September 2017), Dave Matthews Band bassist Stefan Lessard (July 2016), Olympic triathlete Sarah True (September 2015) and Boston Bruins legend Brad Park

ABBA tribute Dancing Dream brings the hits to Lakeport Opera House

LACONIA — You can dance, you can jive, having the time of your life at the Lakeport Opera House when Dancing Dream, an ABBA tribute band, performs top hits from one of the best-selling music artists of all time. On July 17, the tribute band will transport audiences back to the 1970's for two nostalgic shows at 4 and 8 p.m.

"Audiences of all ages know and enjoy the songs of ABBA," said Tim James Everett venue director at the Lakeport Opera House. "The thrilling show will have everyone dancing down memory lane and singing to songs that have been ingrained in their DNA. It will be an unforgettable night."

Created by the popularity of both the movie and broadway play Mamma Mia, the New York City-based touring act was founded by two European singers in 2009 as a tribute to the legendary Swedish supergroup. Every show electrifies audiences of all ages with best hits "Mam-Mia," «Danc-Queen," «Take a Chance," «Fernando," and many more.

The six-person group is known for beautiful harmonies, elaborate costumes and exciting choreography. The band has toured many US states with performances in theaters, colleges and popular clubs as well as outdoor concerts.

With a 200-seat layout built for comfort, style and mobility, every seat in the house has unobstructed views, cocktail service and the best sounds system for an experience unlike anything else in the area. More than $1 million was invested in the Opera House renovation which opened in June after being closed for 60 years. Originally built in 1882, this venue mixes modern design elements with historic charm for a unique cultural experience. The Opera House is once again home to live musical performances, theatre productions, comedians, magicians as well as being host to community-focused events, weddings, and private and corporate gatherings. munity is a lot like being adopted. Not all of my older patients could get to the office, so I went to them. They treated me like part of their family," he said. "It's the model of medicine I grew up with; it's a lifestyle."

Tilton Selectman Jon Scanlon helped orchestrate the celebration for Mishcon's retirement on June 30th and recalled hearing a former select-to take care of three to four generations of that family. "What you did meant a lot to the community, and I want to thank you on behalf of the Town of Tilton for all you've done," Scanlon said.

As if hospital rounds, a private practice and house calls weren't enough, when Dr. Robinson retired in the mid-80s, Mishcon took over the primary care of residents at the veterans' home as well.

Several NHVH staff members shared some of their memories of the doctor that day, too. Representatives of the recreation department appreciated how he strongly encouraged the veterans to remain active in order to better their health. He was praised for the way in which he helped incoming residents transition comfortably into their new environment and nurses recalled midnight pages that he would answer almost immediately, as if he never slept.

NHVH Clinic Coordinator Cindy Ferland had special memories though. When Mishcon opened his private practice, she worked in his office for 20 years and during that time became interested in nursing. With his encouragement she graduated from nursing school and went on to work with the veterans, too. While she didn't think the doctor was at median Steve Sweeney on Aug. 5, Recycled Percussion on Aug. 6 & 7, medium Maureen Hancock on Aug. 8, An Evening of Opera on Aug. 13, a Michael Jackson Experience on Aug. 14 and Femmes of Rock on her graduation, she later learned he had actually slipped quietly in the door to watch, then headed back to work.

"He's helped me in so many ways. He's a such a good man," Ferland said.

One other person who attended the retirement party was N.H. District 2 Sen. Bob Guida. Guida brought with him a special Senate Resolution signed by both he and District 7 Sen. Harold French, commending Mishcon on his 40 years of service to the community and wishing him well in his retirement.

Mishcon then took a moment to thank the staff of NHVH himself for all they do, most especially over the last year when the pandemic struck.

"People here have been under appreciated for the amount of risk and sacrifice we all went through during that difficult period," he said. He went on to say how very proud he was of their willingness to risk their health and well being to care for the men and women who had risked their lives in service to the country.

With commendations and gifts from the veterans' home piled before him, Commandant LaBrecque told Mishcon that with July 4 just a few days away, it was also quite fitting for them to celebrate a man who in turn served those veterans for 40 years.

"We're forever in your debt," she said.

How does Social Security fit into retirement?

Here's something to think about: You could spend two, or even three, decades in retirement. To meet your income needs for all those years, you'll generally need a sizable amount of retirement assets. How will Social Security fit into the picture?

For most people, Social Security won't be enough to cover the cost of living in retirement. Nonetheless, Social Security benefits are still valuable, so you'll want to do whatever you can to maximize them.

Your first move is to determine when you should start taking Social Security. You can begin collecting benefits when you reach 62 - but should you? If you were to turn 62 this year, your payments would only be about 71% of what you'd get if you waited until your full retirement age, which is 66 years and 10 months. ("Full retirement age" varies, depending on when you were born, but for most people today, it will be between 66 and 67.) Every month you wait between now and your full retirement age, your benefits will increase. If you still want to delay taking benefits beyond your full retirement age, your payments will increase by 8% each year, until you're 70, when they "max out." Regardless of when you file, you'll also receive an annual cost-of-living adjustment.

So, when should you start claiming your benefits? There's no one "right" answer for everyone. If you turn 62 and you need the money, your choice might be made for you. But if you have sufficient income from other sources, you're in good health and you have longevity in your family, or you're still working, it might be worthwhile to wait until your full retirement age, or perhaps even longer, to start collecting.

Another key consideration is spousal benefits. If your own full retirement benefit is less than 50% of your This article was written by Edward Jones for use by your local Edward Jones Financial Advisor. Edward Jones, Member SIPC

Bond investments are also subject to interest rate risk such that when interest rates rise, the prices of bonds can decrease, and the investor can lose principal value if the investment is sold prior to maturity.

spouse's full retirement benefit, you would generally be eligible to claim spousal benefits, provided you're at least 62 and your spouse has filed for

Social Security benefits. Survivor benefits are another important consideration. When you pass away, your spouse would be able to receive up to 100% of your benefit or his/her own retirement benefit, whichever is higher. Thus, delaying Social Security could not only increase your own benefit, but also the benefit for your surviving

An additional issue to think about when planning for how Social Security fits into your retirement, is your earned income. If you're younger than full retirement age, your benefit will be reduced by $1 for each

$2 you earn above a certain amount which, in 2021, is $18,960. During the year you reach full retirement age. your benefit will be reduced by $1 for each $3 you earn above a set amoun ($50,520 in 2021). But once you hit the month at which you attain full retirement age, and from that point on, you can keep all of your benefits, no matter how much you earn (although your benefits could still be taxed).

One final point to keep in mind The more you accumulate in your other retirement accounts, such as your IRA and 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored plan, the more flexibility you'll have in managing your Social Security benefits. Sothroughout your working years, try to contribute as much as you can af ford to these plans.

St. Vincent de Paul launches 31st Annual Project Pencil program

LACONIA — The Children's Foundation of the St. Vincent de Paul Society is pleased to announce its Annual Project Pencil Program.

During the past 31 years, Project Pencil has continued to help approximately 600 Pre-school, Elementary, Middle and High school age children each September. This program is designed to assist area school children by providing them with backpacks, lunchboxes, and other back-to-school supplies. Project Pencil benefits students in public, private and parochial schools, childcare centers, nursery schools, elementary, middle and high schools, in Laconia, Gilford, Belmont, Gilmanton, Meredith, and Tilton.

This year, school nurses have again expressed a great need for basic school supplies, along with personal hygiene items, under garments, and sweatpants for students of all ages. The pandemic has left many working parents still struggling to make ends meet. By working with the area school nurses, childcare center directors and guidance counselors, the Children's Foundation provides children with the basic necessities and school supplies so that they may have a positive educational experience.

Backpacks and supplies will be delivered to the neighborhood schools during the second week of August. Families needing help may contact their child's school for information regarding available pick up dates and times. All names are kept confidential.

Donations of basic school supplies are being accepted and can be dropped off at the Thrift Store during their new store hours. Thrift Store hours are Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Anyone wishing to make a monetary donation to help support Project Pencil can stop by the St. Vincent de Paul Thrift Store at 1269 Union Avenue in Lakeport (next to McDonald's), or by mail to P.O. Box 6123, Laconia.
