BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

ALTON — To commemorate the 150th United States Memorial Day, the Alton American Legion Post 72 hosted a parade and services at Riverside Cemetery and Monument Square on Monday, May 28. The theme of this year’s event was World War I.

The procession began at Monument Square, where the American Legion lined up first, followed by the Grand Marshal, the police department, the Alton board of selectmen, the Alton Business Association, the Prospect Mountain High School (PMHS) band, youth groups such as the Alton Dance Academy and Boy Scout troops, and the Alton and New

Durham fire departments at the end. The PMHS marching band, led by Tom Stevens, performed a selection of patriotic songs, featuring their new baseball hats that they wore at their trip to Disney World this year and American flag sashes. Greg Neveu of Alton Central School’s music department was present as well. He said that several Alton Central School (ACS) students participated in the parade with the high school students as a “learning experience.” Neveu said that the goal is to get a ma-majority of ACS music students involved with the PMHS band when they are there. Some Alton Dance Academy (ADA) students wore shirts and parts of costumes giving a preview of their upcoming production of The Toy Story, premiering on June 22 at 6:30 p.m., according to the ADA web site. Once the parade arrived at Riverside Cemetery, Reverend Sam Hollo of the Alton Community Church said a prayer for those who have died in service and for their families, and American Legion chaplain George Fee-ney led a prayer as well. Returning to Monument Square, several members of the American Legion Auxiliary decorated the Civil War, World War I, World War II, Korean War and Vietnam War memorials. Despite a “zoning squabble” between American Legion Post 72 and the town of Alton, reported by the Union Leader on May 20 (see separate story), the activities went on without any changes or difficulties, according to Alton Selectman Virgil MacDonald. Selectman Philip Wittmann told a story called “Loyalty to SEE MEMORIAL, PAGE A8

Post 72 questioning planning board decision regarding lodge

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

ALTON — Members of the American Legion Post 72 attended the May 21 Alton Board of Selectmen meeting to express their disapproval of the planning board allegedly classifying the Legion as a “commercial” organization, despite the fact that the American Legion is a 501(c)(3) non-profit. Being this type of non-profit makes the organization tax-exempt.

The reason the planning board made the change, according to several members of the American Legion who spoke during the second public input session of the meeting, is increased activity at the Legion.

An Alton resident came forward to speak out against the planning board’s alleged claim of increased activity and commercialization of the American Legion Post 72 that warrant it being considered a commercial organization. He discussed how the American Legion assists veterans and provides scholarships for local students, among other charitable activities. He expressed concern about the cost of surveying the property as a commercial property, and provided documentation of all permits for events the Legion has held recently.

The next resident and member of the American Legion Post 72 to come forward detailed some of the ways the Legion has benefitted the community. The Legion fundraised $10,000 for the Prospect Mountain High School marching band uniforms that are still in use, according to the speaker. The Legion also holds a Thanksgiving dinner, provides American flags for veterans and allows the local Boy Scout troop to meet at the lodge, the speaker said. He went on to say that the Legion “had to borrow from the scholarship fund to pay the light bill this month.” Another resident quoted the 2012 Alton assessor’s report that lists the American Legion as tax-exempt. He ended his addition to the conversation with “As Gilligan said to the skipper...’uh oh,’” which garnered applause from the attendees and some laughter.

James Adams, an Alton property owner and the chairman of the New Hampshire Veteran’s Council, came forward in support of Post 72’s grievance. Referring to the classification of the Legion as a commercial organization, Adams said that “this would be a very wrong path for the town” and “it’s counterproductive for all the things that [American Legion Post 72 members] do.”

Also discussed at the meeting was the status of the West Alton Community Center. The building overall is in “pretty good shape,” accord-

A celebration of arts in Alton Annual exhibit at the Gilman gives young artists a chance to shine

BY MARK FOYNES
Contributing Writer

ALTON — It’s been said that art occupies a place at the intersection of life and inspiration. For two days late last week, it also occupied the intersection of Main Street and Route 140 for the annual Prospect Mountain student art show, which was again mounted at the Gilman Museum.

The two-day event took place last Thursday and Friday and was organized by the school’s art department. The exhibits attracted a mix of faculty and the artists themselves, as well as family and friends. There was also a smattering of Prospect alumni and members of the general public.

“This gives the students a way to showcase their work,” said art teacher Troy Corriveau. He and fellow faculty member Jesse Robidas were staffing the main entry to greet guests as they strolled in. Corriveau said the first evening drew about 50 attendees - approximately doubling last year’s day-one turnout. Robidas said that the wide array of work on display reflected the diversity of the students’ talents. Two-dimensional works in acrylic and pencil hung from temporary wall structures. There were also three-dimension-

Alton and New Durham continue joint work on cyanobacteria

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

ALTON — The Alton Conservation Commission met on Thursday, May 24, to discuss cyanobacteria in New Durham and why it's important for the Alton community to be paying attention to the problem too.

Fred Quimby of the Alton/New Durham Cyanobacteria Mitigation Steering Committee presented the committee with a PowerPoint about cyanobacteria, the research that has been done about the microorganisms in the Merrymeeting watershed area and what the plan is to fix the problem.

Quimby explained that cyanobacteria have the distinction of being the oldest known organism on earth, with fossils dating back 3.5 billion years. Cyanobacteria is found all over the world, but it remains dormant until it is stimulated to bloom. The criteria for a bloom are warm water (generally above 77 degrees Fahrenheit), sunlight that penetrates to the bottom sediment of the water body and levels of phosphorus in the water that exceeds 12 parts per billion. Once the cyanobacteria blooms and turns the water green, it becomes toxic to humans and animals.

According to Quimby, the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services (DES) is working on tests to measure the levels of specific toxins in cyanobacteria blooms. 70,000 cells per milliliter of water is considered dangerous, while 2,000,000 cells per milliliter was recorded at a site in New Durham.

It was noted that levels of phosphorus decrease through sites in New Durham, but increase in Alton "because Coffin Brook has a lot of phosphorus in it," Quimby said.

The Powder Mill Fish Hatchery, according to the data, is also a major source of phosphorus that contributes to cyanobacteria blooms. "Coffin Brook is contributing as large a load of phosphorus to the Merrymeeting River as the fish hatchery," he said.

"Once you have one source of water that's full of phosphorus, whether it be the [Powder Mill] fish hatchery or Coffin Brook, it appears that phosphorus is lowered as it continues to pass through the river, and that's a good and a bad thing. Some of the phosphorus is settling out in the sediment... the rest of the phosphorus is being taken up by plants and microorganisms, and we have a pretty good idea that that's one of the things that's saving the town of Alton right now," Quimby continued, going on to describe how the Merrymeeting Wildlife Management Area is so full of plant and animal life that the phosphorus is "assimilating" into the environment.

"What [New Durham has] is passed on to [Alton]," Quimby said.

Increased phosphorus increases the production of cyanobacteria, milfoil and other invasive and harmful organisms. Phosphorus is naturally in sediment, but becomes more prevalent during times of increased rainfall, snow melt, bank erosion and more. Quimby said that some results of increased phosphorus include a decline in swimming, fishing and boating use; a decline in property values; a public health risk; and an increased in public expenditures. In order to make an effort toward decreasing levels of phosphorus in New Durham and Alton waters, and therefore decrease cyanobacteria blooms, the Cyanobacteria Mitigation Steering Committee (CMSC) was formed. There are selectmen from both New Durham and Alton on the committee (Philip Wittmann from Alton and David Swenson from New Durham). The head of "Cyanobacteria Activities" for the state of New Hampshire is also on the committee, as well as Robert Craycraft, the lakes monitoring program coordinator from the University of New Hampshire, and several others.

"The goal of the committee is to make the [Merrymeeting] river free of any harmful cyanobacteria... all the way from New Durham to Lake Winnepesaukee," Quimby said.

Watershed management planners and the CMSC will be working on an action plan in coming months, and Quimby emphasized that public participation in future CMSC meetings regarding the action plan is "critical." The priorities in the action plan include estimates of costs to mitigate the problem, ways to get funding, creating a schedule of when tasks should be implemented, assigning tasks, and "re-assessing" the river periodically in order to ensure that the programs being implemented are working.

Quimby said that New Hampshire Fish and Game and Governor Chris Sununu himself are "behind" fixing the fish hatchery problems. He added that Merrymeeting River is a "priority river" for the state of New Hampshire because of its extensive wildlife.

The next meeting of the CMSC is May 31 at 6:30 p.m. in the community room behind the fire station in New Durham. The watershed management consultants will be present to discuss their plans.

Alton Garden Club's plant sale is Saturday

ALTON — The Alton Garden Club's annual plant sale will be taking place during the town wide yard sale this Saturday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Club members have been busy potting up their own perennial plants for this sale. Instead of the usual location at the Alton Community Center in the bay, you will find the club at the library in the center of Alton. They will also have an assortment of gardening tools, pots, etc., new or used for your purchase. All proceeds from the plant sale go to the Doris Barnes Scholarship Fund at Prospect Mountain High School.

Author to speak about motorcycling book on June 7

ALTON — The Gilman Library, at 100 Main St., Alton, is pleased to host an author visit with K. Peddler Bridges at 7 p.m., Thursday, June 7, in the Agnes Thompson Meeting Room on the lower level. K. Peddler Bridges (aka The Roadpoet is a Rock and Roll Bikerpoet and Motorcycle Historian), will visit the Gilman Library to talk about his book Laconia Motorcycle Week 1916, The Beginning ..., which gives a historical view of the motorcycling in the United States more than 100 years ago. It includes a brief history of Weirs Beach and a chapter detailing the event in 1916 that would become Laconia Motorcycle Week. One enthusiastic review on Amazon states that, "Laconia Motorcycle Week 1916" is a well-researched and documented history of the annual gathering of bikers in Laconia, New Hampshire. This is also a fun read, well-written, of personal experiences - great stories." Bridges is the publisher and editor of Roadpoet eMagazine, a longtime senior columnist for the Connecticut Cruise News Newspaper, the cable TV host for Roadpoets' Studio, featured in Beverly Mass., Ipswich Mass. and Laconia and the former Poet Laureate for The Connecticut Super Sunday Expo.

Gilpatrick heading to Tuftonboro Central

TUFTONBORO — Ryan Gilpatrick, who for the past five years has served as Prospect Mountain High School’s assistant principal, has been hired by the Governor Wentworth Regional School District as the new principal and diagnostic prescriptive teacher for Tuftonboro

Central School. His new role begins July 1.

Gilpatrick, who holds a Master’s degree in Educational Leadership as well as a Master’s degree in English, began his career as a teaching assistant at the college level before moving from Colorado to New Hampshire. He taught English for seven years at Prospect Mountain High School before assuming his first administrative role there.

In addition to his background in teaching and administration, Gilpatrick worked as the after-school program director and paraprofessional in grades 2-6 at a school in Boulder, Colo., and then as after-school program co-director and kindergarten teaching assistant in Dover.

His minor in outdoor education during his undergraduate program at UNH has served him well, as he has also worked with elementary-aged children as a hiking and camp counselor. Currently, Gilpatrick is a Back Bay youth hockey coach as well as an Abenaki lacrosse coach. “We are thrilled that Ryan is joining our district,” said GWRSD Superintendent of Schools Kathleen Cuddy-Egbert. “With his collaborative nature and problem-solving mindset, he will be a wonderful fit with our administrative team. The Tuftonboro Central School community will welcome his calm, confident, student-centered approach. We are very pleased to have Ryan stepping into this role.”

Library friends accepting donations for annual sale

NEW DURHAM — The Friends of the New Durham Public Library are busy making plans for their annual book, bake and plant sale, which will take place at the library on Saturday, June 23, from 9 a.m. to noon. Anyone interested in donating may drop off books for the sale at the library during regular library hours, which are Monday through Thursday from 1 to 7 p.m., Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For more information, contact President Heather Wingate at 859-1274 or Secretary Marjorie Mohr at 859-6490.

Congressional candidate in Alton on June 4

ALTON — Congressional District 1 candidate Maura Sullivan will speak at the June meeting of the Tri-Town Democrats of Barnstead, Gilmanton, and Alton. All local Democrats and left-leaning Independents are invited to attend this continuing series of meetings focusing on November’s mid-term elections.

Sullivan is a former captain in the Marines and an Iraq veteran. After graduate school, she served in the Obama administration as assistant secretary in both the Department of Veteran Affairs. Sullivan continues to work on rebuilding veterans’ access to quality medical care, on gender integration in the Navy and Marine Corps, and family, mental health and LGBT policy reforms in the defense department.

The guest speaker will be followed by actions items and community organizing. These monthly meetings give people the opportunity to learn about local and state political issues and how you can participate in making a difference. You will share the evening with like-minded individuals and have the chance to express your opinions and experiences.

The June meeting of the Tri-Town Democrats on Monday, June 4, at 6:30 p.m. will be held at the Alton Senior Community Center at 7 Pearson Road in Alton. Come for socializing and potluck any time between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m.

This meeting is open to all residents of Alton, Barnstead and Gilmanton who consider themselves moderate, liberal or progressive Democrats or like-minded Independents. Potluck items to share are encouraged but not required. For more information, e-mail starryheather@hotmail.com or visit the “Barnstead, Gilmanton, and Alton Democrats” Facebook page.

This communication does not infer an endorsement or favorability of any kind to any Democratic candidates actively engaged in competitive primary contests.

Farmers’ market grand opening June 9 in Barnstead

BARNSTEAD — Please join in Saturday, June 9, from 9 a.m. to noonish, for the third annual grand opening of the Barnstead Farmers’ Market. The market is located on the corner of Route 28 and Maple Street in Center Barnstead. The market features more than 16 vendors and offers a wonderful variety of market goods such as vegetables, herbs, maple syrup, honey, various plants, local meats, smoked bacon and cheese, breads, jams and jellies, delicious baked goods and pies, beautiful flowers, homemade and unique crafts and always free coffee. New this year, please check the Baysider for your $5 coupon located in their ad. They accept MC/Visa and are a participating member of the food stamp program, accepting EBT.

The grand opening will have lots of surprises, including a petting zoo for the kids, free shopping bags, and don’t forget to ask the manager for your free magnet. The market will feature a special guest appearance by Chris Bonoli, who will be playing acoustic music all morning.

The Barnstead Area

Community Farmers’ Market was developed to provide a venue for local area agricultural business to expand their consumer base and also to provide the local and nearby communities to have a one-stop shopping place for their consumables. This market also supports local artisans, non-profit organizations and craftsmen. For more info, please contact Lori Mahar at 269-2329, e-mail lorimaha@tds.net or check the Facebook page/Barnstead Farmers Market and/or web site www.barnsteadfarmersmarket.club.

Boy Scouts accepting yard sale donations

ALTON — On June 2, the town of Alton will be hosting a town-wide yard sale. Every year, scouts and adult leaders from Boy Scouts of America Troop 53 participate in this event to help raise money for troop activities.

Troop 53 is looking for donations for the yard sale. Proceeds will go towards funding scouting activities such as summer camp and youth leadership training. If you have anything that you would like to donate to the troop for this fundraising activity, please contact Jamey Balint at jbalint_troop53@yahoo.com. They will make arrangements to pick up your donations if necessary or you may drop them off at the Alton Senior Center parking lot, located on Pearson Road at 8 a.m. on June 2.

They cannot accept upholstered furniture items and electronics will be accepted after examination.

Troop 53 thanks the community for its continued support.

Legion deserves support

This week's paper contains a story that came in just past deadline last week about the Alton Post 72 American Legion.

The story came out in the statewide paper, the Union Leader, early last week and Katie Lesnyk was on hand at the board of selectmen's meeting last week when the Alton Legion members were present to make their pitch to the selectmen.

We understand that the code enforcement officer is just doing his job in trying to determine what the use is for the Legion hall, which is located on Route 28, just north of the traffic circle. We are not going to get mad at someone for doing their job.

However, in this case, we would like to side with the American Legion.

There is no doubt in our mind that the American Legion is a non-profit organization. The members work hard to put on dinners and dances to raise money, which they then put back into the community in the form of veteran programs, holiday parties for local kids and scholarships to local high school students.

We understand that the Alton Legion Hall is a pretty busy place. Most days when we pass the building, the parking lot is filled with cars. And the reopening of the building next door as new businesses has certainly added to the activity in that parking lot. But that doesn't mean that the American Legion is a commercial entity.

The members of the Alton American Legion, like their brothers and sisters in posts throughout the state and the country, have sacrificed part of their lives to fight for the country. They've gone into battle and returned home and joined the American Legion to help serve fellow veterans and their communities at the same time. As we've just passed Memorial Day (see the other story on our front page this week), we feel it is an appropriate time to offer our thanks and appreciation to all of those who have served. We have incredible respect for everyone who has donned a military uniform to help protect the United States of America.

The Legion members are truly the best of the best amongst members of the community. They do nothing but good things for the community (check out the Memorial Day story for information about the Legion's role in this annual ceremony). They contact us regularly with information about another dinner or a raffle or a party, all to help the community and raise money that goes back to the community.

In fairness, the Legion also uses money raised at these events to pay for the upkeep of their building, but the majority of the money the Legion raises goes right back into Alton and the surrounding communities.

We urge the Alton Planning Board to allow the Legion to continue to do its good activities as they've done for many years without having to go through more regulations that will eventually cost the Legion more money, money which it will be forced to raise, eventually taking it away from the community members that the Legion usually supports.

Back from Africa

The Alton, Barnstead, New Durham Centennial Rotary welcomes its youngest member, Gabe Varney, back from Rwanda where he spent from May 9 - 22 as an ambassador of goodwill and providing technical support by building and repairing computers for school children there. He also helped village people with their goals of starting a business through the Microeconomic Loans Program. Rwanda is a nation on the mend after undergoing a tragic civil war where more than 1.2 million died. One of the major objectives of Rotary International is to spread goodwill and better understanding around the world by providing humanitarian services, encourage high ethical standards and bringing together business and professional leaders to advance goodwill and world peace. Rotary President Rich Leonard (left) thanks Varney (center) with President Elect Rick Fogg for his successful trip.

Letters to the Editor

Time to reacquaint rights and responsibilities

To the Editor:

The often repeated headlines or stories, "school shooting," "constitutional rights" or "thoughts and prayers" have proven that current ideas are not leading to successful outcomes for a problem.

Responsible ownership, training, reeducation and use of guns does not excuse the irresponsibility of "good guy with a gun" from ignoring the needs and application of a process to administrate gun ownership. Personal responsibility can not be guaranteed, but civil society requires the acceptance of limiting the danger from unencumbered rights. Current policies removing restrictions have been an abjectly inadequate response to a major American issue. Conversations based on politicized talking points constricts the dialog for a solution with a "one way or no way" attitude. It is time to find solutions to the epidemic carnage associated with weapons. Perhaps, it is time to make the constitution a living document. Time to reacquaint rights and responsibilities.

We can do better

To the Editor:

Memorial Day is a time when we remember lost loved ones and those who served and died to protect our freedoms. Some of us were lucky enough to survive our military service. As veterans, we are perplexed. One of the freedoms we fought for is the "right to bear arms." To us that freedom is being badly abused. Americans are killing Americans. More than 30,000 Americans were the victims of gun violence last year. More school children have been killed in the United States this year than service members fighting abroad. We can't imagine what it must be like to be a law enforcement person. Guns are so prevalent that when brave men and women put on a uniform each day they are not sure about returning home again. With freedom comes responsibility. With age, we get the opportunity to drive a car. If we abuse the privilege they take away the keys. No one is taking action in this gun crazed culture of ours. Certainly not any of our elected officials, most of whom have never worn a uniform. And certainly not NRA members whose only solution seems to be more guns. And that's not working. Our president had a "look good" meeting with grieving Florida parents, promised action, but then had lunch with billionaire representatives of the gun industry. So, what's the solution? We all know mental background checks are really a "smoke screen." Anyone can drop off the deep end at anytime, road rage, jealous lovers, hating the boss, co-workers, disliked classmates, teachers. Just pick up a gun and shoot somebody. How will arming teachers make a difference? Anyone who has been in combat situations knows about the element of surprise. By the time a teacher unlocks a weapon so much damage can be done.

This is a beautiful country. We should learn from our leaders how to treat each other with dignity, kindness and respect. Hate and bigotry are not the answer to an America we all care about and love. We can, and must do better.

BARNSTEAD — The Barnstead Elementary School Board approved a revised contract proposal with the Barnstead Teachers' Association at its Tuesday, May 22, meeting. They scheduled a special School District Meeting for 6 p.m. on Monday, June 18. All registered Barnstead voters are eligible to participate.

The new proposal reduces the cost to Barnstead taxpayers from the original agreement that was defeated at the school meeting in March. The cost for 2018-2019 will be $89,864, down $33,920 from $123,784 in the original proposal. For 2019-2020 it will be $119,431, down from $124,128. And for 2020-2021 it will be $125,662 down from $131,099.

The board also approved a revised contract with the Prospect Mountain Teachers Association. The cost of the 2018-2019 contract will be $59,583 for Barnstead taxpayers. In 2019-2020 the cost will be $43,362. And in 2020-2021 it will be $47,888.

All costs for both the elementary and high school are estimates based on current staff years of service and the current ratio of Barnstead to Alton students in the high school.

Alton residents will also have a special School Meeting.

The other major item on the board agenda was the hiring of new staff to replace teachers who have left the school or whose contract was not renewed.

Chief among the hirings was the selection of Allyson Vignola to serve as Director of Student Services. This position has primary responsibility for the Special Education program.

Superintendent Brian Cochrane praised Vignola extensively. She began her career as a Special Education Case Manager and Preschool Coordinator at BES, working in Barnstead from 2004 to 2007.

She was then hired by the New Hampshire Department of Education, where she has worked for the last 11 years. She worked in the Bureau of Accountability and then in the Bureau of Special Education. Since 2013 she has also worked for ACT, Inc. in Test Development and Assessing Systems.

ACT is a private company. Some readers may remember taking the ACT test as a college entrance exam similar to the SAT. ACT provides specialized services to state, local and national public education agencies.

The letters of recommendation that are attached to her application can only be described as "glowing." One colleague rated her in the top one percent of education professionals in the state of New Hampshire. Superintendent Cochrane reported that another colleague, a person he knows personally, and has worked closely with in the past, told him he would be "stupid" not to hire her.

Cochrane noted that several school districts with higher salary schedules were also looking for the same position, including Concord, Bow and Wolfeboro. Some strong applications came in to Barnstead after Vignola was interviewed, but he felt none competed with her qualifications. He recommended quick confirmation of his hiring recommendation, noting that Vignola was already starting to work informally with BES. The board approved unanimously.

In other hiring action, the board approved Jean Schelb as a new second grade teacher, replacing Kris Roberts, who retired after 20 years with the school. Tara Brasley was hired as a first grade teacher, replacing Phil Guinta, who will stay at BES as the library media specialist.

Melanie Morin was hired as a third grade teacher to fill a position left empty through resignation. The board approved Cheryl Lyle and Christine Lyle for vacancies in the food service department.

At this time of year the administration is actively hiring and had several recommendations made in the last week since the board packet was distributed. The board approved all recommendations.

These included Emily Dube as a 1:1 paraprofessional in the BAZ program; Paige Davis as grade five teacher; and Peter Osiecki as an "Integrations Teacher" in the special education program.

The superintendent told the board that he was impressed with the quality of applications the school had received, and attributed that to the fact the school had started hiring for the fall two months earlier than in previous years.

He noted that most of the hires were brand new teachers who have just graduated with their teaching degrees. There is a pattern of these new teachers working in Barnstead 5-7 years, then moving on to better paying positions in other communities. Often a teacher can increase his or her annual income several thousand dollars with such a move.

He reported one situation in which a teacher candidate had walked out of the interview when told the salary, and another who withdrew her application the day after her interview.

Cochrane acknowledged a significant cohort of long term experienced teachers at the school and commented on how important these senior staff were to helping new teachers grow into good teachers. He expressed concern that many of these staff will be retiring in the next few years.

Most of these senior teachers are Barnstead residents for whom the commitment to their community as well as the convenience overrides the financial gain of working for another community.

In other actions, the board approved a $1,000 grant to the Prospect Mountain chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA). Tiffany White and Kacie Gilbert gave an impassioned plea to the board for support, emphasizing the many accomplishments and awards of chapter members. The funds will support travel to the FBLA national conference in California. The students were invited to attend the national conference after winning awards at the New Hampshire FBLA conference in the Spring.

BES Student Council members Emily Bunker and Kathryn Hamilton reported on teacher appreciation activities the student council had sponsored and the positive participation of many students in those activities.

Principal Tim Rice reported that the bus company serving the school is unable to fill a driver position for one of the afternoon buses. This requires the "blue bus" students to wait at school an additional 45 minutes while one of the other buses completes its delivery.

He told the board that Barnstead is not alone in this situation. Other school districts face similar problems as the job market has improved and full time or better paying jobs attract bus drivers away.

In Barnstead, two paraprofessionals are with the blue bus students for their 45 minute wait. The bus company reimburses the school for the additional cost of paying the paraprofessionals.

Former BES student Nick Fegley recently returned to the school as an "Artist in Residence." He worked with students to create video games. Rice assured the board that he had not personally played all the games, but he had tried a couple. He was impressed by the quality of the challenges offered to players and the quality of the art work that was done under direction of the art department.

All students in grades 5-8 had a chance to participate. Video game players, or curious parents and citizens can find the games at <http://www.arcadonauts.com/BES-2018/>.

Rice also informed the board that the school had collaborated with a community group that had approached him about creating a community garden on school property. He ruled out the best soil on the school grounds because it is located in the middle of the playing fields.

The group then came up with the idea of raised bed gardens, located near the school building. More information is available at the "Barnstead NH Community Garden" Facebook page.

The board approved three recommendations from the buildings and grounds committee. It formally approved a bid from Skyline Roofing to replace the roof on building wing D. The current roof has been in place since 1986 and is beginning to fail. Funds for the replacement will come from the Building and Maintenance Capital Reserve Fund, so there is no new tax impact.

It will contract with Ezra Burt for $6,600 to mow the fields and maintain the grounds. And it agreed to contract with Burley Enterprises for $16,500 to change one of the bathrooms into storage space. The board received a lower bid from Target New England but the bid was incomplete and did not include key components of the project.

The next meeting of the Barnstead School Board is Wednesday, June 20, at 6 p.m.

Off to the races

After their annual pizza luncheon, the Locke Lake Social Club went to the races. They had their own stall of horses, made by Dennis and Diane Norton. Pictured are the six horses used in the table horse racing. It was a fun time, betting which one would win, using the dice to determine the winning horse. The club's next event will be on Saturday, June 23, at Noon. It will be their wine and cheese party provided by the club. Members are asked to bring an appetizer or dessert to share.

Kingswood Youth Center visits Yoga 4 Life

WOLFEBORO — Jean Marie Bailey of Wolfeboro, and Saugus, Mass., passed away on March 16. In lieu of flowers, Bailey asked that donations be made to the Kingswood Youth Center. The KYC would like to express a huge thank you for the generous donations made in Bailey's honor. Bailey's family asked that the donations made in her honor be used to help provide yoga classes to local teens. Everyone at the KYC was thrilled to be able to provide teens with access to yoga instruction in honor of Bailey and in support of the KYC's mission.

On May 16, an enthusiastic group of students made the short walk from the KYC to Yoga 4 Life in Wolfeboro. The students' instructor was Pam Swanick, Yoga 4 Life's owner. Most participants had not been exposed to yoga, but were eager to learn. Swanick taught the group basic poses including mountain, pigeon, warrior one and two, downward dog, cobra, and table-top. Students assumed and held these poses and were taught to be mindful of their breathing. Modifications were taught to students who struggled with the poses in order to help them build skills and confidence and to reap the many benefits of yoga. Swanick challenged the students to perform a seated forward bend and coached them until they exceeded their individual expectations. The studio was filled with smiles and laughter as Swanick taught and bonded with the KYC's teens.

The KYC offers a year-round safe and positive place for teens and diverse programs that prepare local high school and middle school students for success in the adult world. If you would like more information about the KYC or would like to support the KYC's programs, please contact the KYC at 569-5949 or associatedirectorkyc@gmail.com.

OBITUARIES

Jonathon D. Drake
True New Hampshire man

NEW DURHAM — Jonathon D. Drake, 36, died suddenly in a car accident on Wednesday, May 23, on his way to pick up his two sons from school in New Durham where he has lived for the past 10 years. Jonathon was a man of immeasurable integrity, bottomless kindness, and genuine love. His lifework as a social worker at the University of New Hampshire’s (UNH) Institute on Disability was to help youth at risk – especially those with emotional and behavioral disabilities – and their families achieve their goals and dreams as a RENEW trainer, Wraparound coach, and direct support professional (see <https://iod.unh.edu/person/drake/jonathon>, <https://nwi.pdx.edu>, and <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YvHX-ZgKqLLs>). His influence as a champion for youth and schools and his talent for facilitating trainings for school and mental health agency staff was recognized across the state, the country and even internationally. Appropriately, Jonathon was honored as the first recipient of the New Hampshire Youth M.O.V.E. Rockstar Award in 2016. He was on track to complete his certification as a high school principal alongside his wife in the fall, and it was his dream to lead a New Hampshire high school one day.

A true New Hampshire man, Jonathon was born in Laconia and raised in the log cabin his father built in Alexandria. He later moved to Francestown and went to high school at Contoocook Valley Regional High School in Peterborough, where he was an active member of theatre and chorus. He attended college at UNH-Durham, where he majored in psychology and went on to earn his Masters in Social Work. During the fall of his junior year at UNH, Jonathon met his soulmate, Stefanie King. As husband and wife, their unconditional love and respect for one another guided their parenting, their friendships, and their lifelong mission to make the world a better place. Jonathon’s love for Stefanie and their two children, Timothy Atticus (age eight) and Lincoln Gaius (age six), was palpable to all who knew him.

A survivor of childhood cancer (osteosarcoma), Jonathon lived every day as if it could be his last and shared his love at every opportunity with others. He forged innumerable relationships through his passions for motor sports and cars, Dungeons and Dragons, sword history, fencing, hiking, birds, camping, Christmas, and a perfectly cooked steak. As a gatherer, Jonathon loved an ocean of family, and so many others considered him a part of their own.

Jonathon was a man of unparalleled character and heart who did make this world a better place with his booming laugh, his warm smile, and his uncompromising, unconditional love.

Jonathon is survived by his beloved wife, Stefanie; his two children, Timothy and Lincoln; his parents, David and Karen Drake of Florida; his dear sister, Kristen, and brother-in-law Dan Haggerty of Pembroke; his brother, Andrew Dematos, and sister-in-law, Carline, of Goffstown; his nieces, Emma and Seneca; his nephews, Alexander and Benet; his mother and father-in-law, Wanda and Robert King of Massachusetts; and his sisters-in-law, Angela, Teresa, and Caroline King, all of Massachusetts.

Jonathon is predeceased by his mother Jean Drake (Carlson); his brother-in-law David King; and his grandparents, Harold and Olive Drake and Raymond and Laura Carlson.

A funeral mass for Jonathon will be held at St. Katharine Drexel Church in Alton at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 2. A celebration of Jonathon’s life will be held later that day at 2:30 p.m. at the New Durham Elementary School. All are welcome to attend either or both of these memorials. In lieu of flowers, a memorial scholarship fund is being established to honor Jonathon’s life-work; information about how to donate to this fund will be available at his services.

Author next up in Wright Museum Lecture Series

WOLFEBORO — Nazi occupation spread far and wide during World War II, but the frightening circumstances allowed for heroes to be shown.

Such is the story of a group of young men and women who resisted Nazi rule in the Netherlands, recounted in the book “Defiance,” by author Titia Bozuwa, who brings to life the events from 1941-1945.

Bozuwa will discuss “Defiance” as well as sign copies of the novel Tuesday, June 5, from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Wright Museum in Wolfeboro.

“This story tells of how a brave group of Dutch students fought against Nazi occupation to save the lives of their fellow citizens and the country they loved.”

said Michael Culver, executive director of the Wright Museum. “Their story is not unique but was one recreated numerous times from 1939-1945.”

While “Defiance” is a fictional work based on the occupation of the Netherlands during World War II, Bozuwa intertwines plenty of historical context and events into the story. She writes from experience, as she detailed in another novel, “In the Shadow of the Cathedral,” her family’s endurance in the face of occupation. Bozuwa was eight years old when the Nazis invaded her homeland in 1940.

“‘Defiance’ was recommended to me by a Wright Museum member,” Culver said. “Although the Wright focuses on Americans during World War II, it is also our duty to remind our audience that many Allies lost their country and freedom during the war, making defiance an essential part of their lives and eventual liberation.”

The Wright Museum’s Lecture Series, sponsored by Ron Goodgame and Donna Canney, takes place every ALTON — Barbara J. Keniston, age 89, of Frank C. Gilman Highway in Alton, died May 24 at Wolfeboro Bay Center.

Born June 25, 1928 in Gilmanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Palmer, she grew up in Farmington and resided in Alton for almost 50 years.

A loving homemaker and mother, she was married to Elmer Joseph Keniston, with whom she raised a family of four children and also raised her grandson, Leon Ken-iston. She was a member of the Community Church of Alton and Order of the Eastern Star.

Survived by two sons, Dan Keniston and Scott Keniston; many grandchildren, including Leon Keniston, Kelley Keniston, Joseph Miller Keniston and Jeanette Keniston.

A graveside service was held on Wednesday, May 30, at John C. Shirley Cemetery in New Durham. Arrangements by Peaslee Funeral Home, to express condolences, please visit www.peasleefuneralhome.com.

Mark on the Markets
It shouldn’t matter

BY MARK PATTERSON
Contributing Writer

Many of my clients receive marketing materials, typically market commentary from broker-dealers who e-mail or mail a home office generated marketing piece that their financial advisors send to current clients and prospects. I get it, it’s a fast and easy way to stay in front of your current clients or maybe those prospects that you would like to turn into clients. I do appreciate that my clients send this information to me, and yes, I do read it.

As a registered investment advisory firm that specializes in portfolio construction and management, I have my own sources of raw data that I analyze to form my opinions that are the basis of how we create individual portfolios crafted with conviction and purpose.

So, when the market commentary created by the broker-dealers are talking about a rising interest rate environment, their clients can in fact be hurt because they are typically in bond funds. Bond funds are perpetual. In other words, there is no maturity date so as interest rates rise the value of the bond fund shrinks which affects the value of the fund and the current yield.

If that broker-dealers commentary is bullish or bearish on the equity markets, or stocks, and they offer commissioned, high fee mutual funds that you have paid the commission. You are really committed to stay in those funds. You might consider changing that strategy.

If you are properly invested, rising or falling interest rates and market volatility should not affect your portfolio to any great extent.

First let’s address bond funds. There are two types of risk with bond funds. Those are, interest rate risk and credit risk. If you are in a bond fund or ETF, you do not get the benefit of maturity dates. As interest rates rise bonds decrease in value. That is why we build our clients’ portfolios with individual bonds that have ladder maturity dates, where we know at bond maturity, we will get a return of our principal to be reinvested back into the bond market depending on the yield curve. We manage bond portfolios for short duration that effects convexity. You give up total control in a bond fund. I run across bond funds in brokerage accounts that I’m analyzing, where the broker is making more than the client.

For the stock or equity portion of the client’s portfolio, MHP Asset Management will only use very low-cost index funds, ETFs or individual stocks.

All the market commentary generated by broker-dealers really doesn’t matter if you are properly invested with good asset allocation, or in the case of many of my clients, proper income allocation.

I started with a retail brokerage firm 1994, so I can tell you that I understand why client portfolios coming out of the retail brokerage firms are constructed like they are. Many fund families that are found in most client portfolios pay a hefty commission to the “financial advisor” and broker-dealer. The fund company also pays a revenue-sharing kickback to the broker-dealer. These transactions are disclosed by the broker-dealer, it’s just that hardly anyone reads it.

If you are interested in having your current portfolio analyzed for fees, expense, allocation or purpose, contact me by phone or e-mail.

Lyman boat show June 9 in Wolfeboro

WOLFEBORO — If you enjoy looking at beautifully restored antique and classic wood boats then visit the Wolfeboro town docks on Saturday, June 9 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for the 19th annual New England Lyman Group boat show. Organized and sponsored by the New England Lyman Group, the show is free and open to the public. All Lyman and other lapstrake-style boat owners are encouraged to participate, and there is no fee for participation and dock space.

All are invited to walk out on the docks to visit and talk with the Lyman owners. Many of these boats have been in the owner's family for years and others have been lovingly restored and maintained. You can meet the region's best wood boat restoration specialists, and talk with owners of the area's top wood boat restoration shops.

You can watch the boats as they make high speed "figure-eights" and are professionally photographed by renowned area photographer Eric Sojka, and listen as the MC provides colorful commentary and describes the boats over the public address system. You can vote for the "People's Choice" award for the best boat.

You can help support the club's many youth scholarship programs by participating in the nautical-themed raffle and silent auction. Merchandise with the Lyman logo, the NELG club logo, and posters will be on sale. All proceeds go to help support and promote youth involvement in boat building, marine trades, apprenticeship opportunities, and after school programs.

The New England Lyman Group was founded in 1999 with the mission and purpose of not only promoting the use of Lyman boats, but also to support activities that promote youth involvement and interest in wooden boat building, repair and maintenance. To this end, the NELG contributes annually to scholarships funding young students in the New Hampshire Boat Museum's boat building program, apprentices at Lowell's Boat Shop and Maritime Museum in Amesbury, Mass., and students at The Landing School in Biddeford, Maine.

Children's Center cookbook signings June 9 and July 14

WOLFEBORO — The Children's Center in Wolfeboro invites members of the community to two signings for their recently published cookbook. The events will be held on June 9 and July 14 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Country Bookseller in downtown Wolfeboro. The original recipes were designed by the center's kitchen coordinator, Kelly Murphy, to be both easy and quick to make, all while fitting in a tight budget. Samples of recipes will be available at both events.

Sales will directly benefit The Children's Center, a 501(c)(3) non-profit. Copies are already available. Contact the Children's Center with questions at 569-1027.

a Brother" by Walter MacPeck, which he explained would probably be of particular interest to the Boy Scouts present for the service, because it comes from an old Boy Scout book. The story features two brothers, both of whom are fighting in the same company in France when one is injured. The uninjured brother asks his officer if he can take his brother to safety, but the officer says that it's too dangerous and the man's brother is "probably dead" already. The man persists and ends up reaching his brother just as he dies. The officer says, "you risked your life for nothing," but the man replies, "No, I did what he expected of me, and I have my reward. When I crept up to him and took him in my arms, he said, 'Tom, I knew you would come, I just felt you would come.'"

Wittmann also recited "In Flanders Fields" by John McCrae.

Chris Racine of the Alton Business Association spoke at the Monument Square service as well. She discussed the connection between freedom and being able to go about a day with an easy, carefree routine.

"This morning we all woke up, performed our everyday rituals... we did this without a second thought, a second thought that we have the freedom to do so. So many of our brothers, sisters, mothers, fathers, sons, daughters, aunts and uncles are not with us today because they answered the call and gave their ultimate sacrifice for us, so we can enjoy the treasures of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," she said. "Each of our loved ones gave us these treasures."

Gail Hoage, the American Legion Auxiliary president, discussed the theme of World War I. While the war was "one of the deadliest conflicts in the history of world war soldiers," she and the American Legion Auxiliary decided to "recognize a positive side today of history from this very deadly conflict."

Hoage told the story of Sergeant Stubby, a dog who helped in the trenches in France with the 102nd Infantry Regiment of the 26th "Yankee" Division. He would warn the troops of gas attacks and locate wounded troops on the battlefield.

She explained that Sergeant Stubby was the only dog to become an official member of the American Legion.

Hoage said that on the upcoming 100th anniversary of the American Legion, families of the American Legion Post 72 will be welcome to watch a screening of a new animated film about Sergeant Stubby called "Sergeant Stubby: An American Hero."

The service concluded with taps from PMHS students, a benediction from Lisa Rojek of the Legion Auxiliary, the retiring of colors and a gathering with refreshments at the Alton American Legion Post 72.

al pieces rendered in clay, papier mache, and ceramic. One of the unusual choices in medium was a sculpture by Melissa Rojeck depicting a giraffe that looked to be made from rubber bands.

Corriveau said that Prospect began using the Gilman Museum some years ago when he was approached by town historian Marty Cornelissen, who recommended the site as a venue.

"This is a perfect place," Corriveau said, noting that the fusion of artifacts from the past with contemporary art creates an interesting juxtaposition.

Some of the exhibit labels accompanying each work bore silver or gold keys, indicating that the piece had been recognized at either the state or national level - or both. Corriveau noted that one student received kudos at regional and national Scholastic Art & Writing Awards.

In terms of the art program at Prospect, it's pretty comprehensive given that the department only has two faculty members.

"We have everything from Basic Art 1 to PhotoShop," said Robidas. "So there are a lot of options."

Corriveau noted that arts education promotes a number of skills and attributes that the students will need as adults. He said that fostering an aesthetic sensibility is important. But he added that developing and executing a project promotes problem solving skills and the ability to develop creative solutions.

"Even if they don't go into design or a re-

Among the students present was freshman Maya Corriveau. She's the daughter of Troy Corriveau and had two pieces on display - a sculpture of a red balloon and a painting on acrylic. "We didn't do oils - they're too messy."

Friday was Prospect alumnus Liam MacStravic, who just completed his first year at the Maine College of Art. He's studying game design, which he described "as a growing field." He said he chose MECA based on the strength of its Animation and Game Art program.

Asked which gaming company he'd most like to work for once he gets his degree, he said, "Nintendo, because they hold a unique share in the market." He said that they develop a diverse array of games that "aren't just shoot-'em-ups."

Liam's dad, Chris MacStravic, who teaches math at Prospect, said that he is proud of his son for the path he is pursuing. "I've always said 'find something you're passionate about and go for it.'"

NOTES FROM WINDY HOLLOW

The toad under an oak leaf

BY VIVIAN LEE DION
Contributing Writer

Purple violets grow near my cellar and that's where the faucet hose sometimes drips. It's a moist area, and the accumulated leaves need a bit tidying up. With the little shrubby rake from our shed, I begin removing the decaying, brown leaves. Halfway through the first pile, I notice a slight movement among leaves, yet undisturbed. I stand completely still, and that's when I see a toad. His head is sheltered by a large oak leaf and he doesn't know I see him. He's just a big old toad seeking cover and the sides of his body moves like a dog panting. Doing the right thing I put some leaves around him, lift the rake up, and move away, saying, "I'm not going to hurt you little one." I feel silly talking to a toad, but at the same time it feels good, too. We have several toads in our yard, and they are nothing to be afraid of. In my research, I found a few interesting facts about toads: "While toads and frogs are biologically the same there are some key differences between them. Toads are associated with a dried, wart-covered, leathery skin, and shorter legs than frogs. They also can live further away from the water. Toads have a pair of parotoid glands on the back of their heads. These glands and the skin in general, contain a poison, which the toad excretes if feeling stressed or threatened. The poison has a different effect on various animals; some find it irritating to the eyes and mouth, while it may be fatal to others. Contrary to popular belief you will not get warts by touching the bumps wart-like skin or glands of a toad. The poison does not usually affect humans; however, you should always wash your hands after touching a toad." I'm reminded of the children's book, Frog and Toad are Friends, by Arnold Lobel. It's about a frog who is excited about spring. "Toad, Toad," shouted Frog, "Wake up. It is spring." "Blah," said a voice from inside the house. Frog continues to coax Toad. "Think of it," said Frog. "We will skip through the meadows and run through the woods and swim in the river. In the evenings we will sit right here on this front porch and count the stars." Turning the calendar to May, Frog said, "Look at your calendar." Toad looked at the calendar. The May page was on top, "Why, it is May," said Toad as he climbed out of bed. And the story ends, "Then he and Frog ran outside to see how the world was looking in the spring." Purple and white pansies are thriving near my mailbox, the bleeding heart plant is in full bloom, and a huge bumble bee buzzes around. I've counted 15 lady slipper plants budding in the backyard, and I'm sure little tadpoles or "pollywogs" will be at the water's edge soon. Famous New Hampshire writer Celia Thaxter tells of her spring encounter with a toad, "Early in April, as I was vigorously hoeing in a corner, I unearthed a huge toad, to my perfect delight and satisfaction; he had lived all winter, he had doubtless fed on slugs all the autumn. I could have kissed him on the spot." Ah, the wonders of nature.

Alexis Apholt on Lasell Dean's List

NEWTON, Mass. — Lasell College recently announced students named to the spring 2018 Dean's List. Alexis Apholt of Alton Bay was named to the Dean's List for outstanding academic achievement. Students with this accomplishment are full-time degree candidates who completed 12 or more credits in the spring semester, with a grade point average of 3.5 or higher. This semester's Dean's List encompasses a total of 707 students from all class years, including 126 members of the school's first-year class.

Taylor Durand graduates from Marist

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. — Taylor Durand of New Durham received a Bachelor of Science degree in Fashion Merchandising from Marist College the weekend of May 18. Located on the banks of the historic Hudson River and at its Florence, Italy campus, Marist College is a comprehensive, independent institution grounded in the liberal arts. Its mission is to "help students develop the intellect, character, and skills required for enlightened, ethical, and productive lives in the global community of the 21st century."

Marist is consistently recognized for excellence by The Princeton Review (Colleges That Create Futures and The Best 381 Colleges), U.S. News & World Report (9th Best Regional University/North), Kiplinger's Personal Finance ("Best College Values"), and others. Marist educates approximately 5,000 traditional-age undergraduate students and 1,400 adult and graduate students in 47 undergraduate majors and numerous graduate programs, including fully online MBA, MPA, MS, and MA degrees. www.marist.edu.

Drury graduates from WPI

WORCESTER, Mass. — On Saturday, May 12, on the Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) campus quadrangle, more than 1,000 bachelor's degrees were awarded during the university's 150th commencement ceremony. Benjamin Drury of Alton was awarded a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. The keynote address was given by Margot Lee Shetterly, author of Hidden Figures: The American Dream, and the Untold Story of the Black Women Mathematicians Who Helped Win the Space Race. The book, which was made into a major motion picture in 2016, shares the history of the black female mathematicians who were part of NASA's workforce from the 1940s to the 1960s. Shetterly told the graduates that the problems they will be asked to solve "will demand your skills as a professional, but they'll also require you to draw on your deepest well of humanity," saying that science and the humanities are "both rooted in the same motivation, which is to measure and understand the nature of the world, and to make the human world a better place." During the ceremony, Shetterly received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree, and Philip Ryan '65, former chairman of the Board of Trustees who served as interim president of WPI in 2013-14, received an honorary doctor of engineering degree. In her remarks, President Leshin reminded members of the Class of 2018 that she had arrived on campus when they did, having begun her presidency just a few weeks before their move-in day in 2014. Leshin concluded by telling the graduates, "With your talent and your WPI education, we know that you will do well in your career, and do well for your families. My charge to you, Undergraduate Class of 2018, is that you also be sure to do good-for your community, for your nation, for the planet, and for all those who will follow in your footsteps."

The curtain is "one of only two in New Hampshire" and is "pretty unique." Selectman Reuben Wentworth asked what the costs would be to bring the building to Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) standards. Bathrooms would be need to be enlarged and some flooring with need to be replaced, but there is a ramp. An Alton resident and member of the Alton Trustees of Trust Funds said that "to me, it's a tax burden." He concluded that the community center would be "a great burn exercise for the fire department," a suggestion that garnered some praise from attendees and some disapproval. A resident came forward in response to the suggestion and said that the community center has "significant historical value" and that she would like to see more use out of it. "I take offense to [the suggestion of burning it down]," she said. Under old business, the bandstand committee requested two additional members, bringing the committee from three members to five. The motion was approved, with one new member named. The other new member will be added from the pool of applicants to the committee. Also under old business, a construction company's bid for $144,012 was approved for the completion of the Harmony Park retaining wall in 2018. Vice-Chairman John Markland adjourned the public portion of the meeting, thanking the many veterans in attendance for their service.

Princesses and pirates take stage at PMHS Saturday

ALTON — Ballet North will be presenting a dance performance of Sleeping Beauty and Pirates of the Caribbean on Saturday, June 2, at Prospect Mountain High School in Alton with 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. shows. The production will be complete with beautiful fairies, exciting lifts and partnering, sword fights, and fun for all in a show full of princesses and pirates. Dancers from the towns of Barnstead, Alton, Pittsfield, Gilmanton, Epsom, Northwood, Chichester, Deerfield, Strafford, Nottingham, Pembroke and Concord have worked for months on this production and are excited to perform. Act I will be Sleeping Beauty, with Princess Aurora played by Lexi Carignan of Epsom, Maleficent played by Kirsten Gunderson of Nottingham and the Lilac Fairy played by Eva Roy of Northwood. Act II will be Pirates of the Caribbean, with Elizabeth Swan played by Megan Lawrence of Epsom, Jack Sparrow played by Logan Hales of Barnstead and the Lead Siren played by Abigail Giuda of Barnstead and Epsom. Both the 1 and 6 p.m. shows are the same and will have both Sleeping Beauty and Pirates of the Caribbean. Tickets can be purchased online at www.BalletNorthNH.com.

Laconia Eye and Laser Center finds new home in Clark Plaza

BY ELISSA PAQUETTE
Contributing Writer

WOLFEBORO — Laconia Eye and Laser Center is now situated in its new location, next door to the Wolfeboro Falls Post Office in Clark Plaza. The center began offering its services to patients in Dr. William Marsh's former location near the top of the hill on Center Street in December following Marsh's retirement; the sale of the building precipitated the recent move.

Ophthalmologist Dr. Douglas R. Scott, MD said the move down the street took place over a very busy weekend so that service was not interrupted. He is pleased with the new quarters, where he and optometrist Dr. Cynthia Lawrence hold office hours Tuesday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Laura Canelas, with whom many of Dr. Marsh's former patients are familiar, continues in her post, answering questions and scheduling appointments at the 569-1550 number. Technician Tina Chadbourne fills out the team.

Dr. Scott earned his medical degree at the University of Chicago, completed his ophthalmology training from Johns Hopkins University in Maryland and completed a fellowship in glaucoma at Harvard University in Massachusetts. He has practiced general ophthalmology with an emphasis on glaucoma in the Lakes Region since 1990 and has expertise in the latest diagnostic and therapeutic laser modalities used in its treatment. Surgical procedures, such as cataract surgeries, are performed at Hillside Surgery Center in Gilford.

Dr. Lawrence received her Optometric degree from the New England College of Optometry and then completed a primary care residency at the Boston Veterans Affairs Outpatient Clinic in Boston, Mass. She is board certified by the American Board of Optometry. She joined Laconia Eye and Laser Center in the summer of 2017 after practicing many years of medically-oriented and primary care optometry at the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center. Dr. Lawrence was also an instructor at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth throughout her time at DHMC.

Laconia Eye Optical, which can be seen in the center of the office as people go to and from the Wolfeboro Falls Post Office, offers the latest eye wear, fitted by optician Trish Domenichello. She may be reached at 515-2121.

Sliger graduates from Coastal Carolina

CONWAY, S.C. — Approximately 1,183 students were eligible to walk in Coastal Carolina University's graduation exercises, held on campus at the HTC Student Recreation Center and Convocation Center in three separate ceremonies May 4-5.

Head football coach Joe Moglia was the commencement speaker, and 12 students were recognized with the President's Award for earning a perfect 4.0 cumulative grade point average.

Moglia, also chairman of the board at TD Ameritrade, has been the head football coach of the Chanticleers since 2012.

In his first five seasons at CCU, he led his team to the national playoffs five times and was conference champion four times. He has also received multiple Coach of the Year honors, including the Eddie Robinson National Coach of the Year. He is the recipient of the Vince Lombardi Award and has been inducted into the Lombardi Hall of Fame.

Moglia has received the Ellis Island Medal of Honor and the Sharp Trophy for Leadership. He has been honored by the National Italian American Foundation, the Columbus Citizens Foundation, the South Carolina Football Hall of Fame, and the American Institute for Stuttering. He has also been inducted into six Halls of Fame and is the recipient of three honorary doctorates.

Among those students who graduated was Kayla Sliger from Center Barnstead, earning a Bachelor of Arts in Education in elementary education.

WOLFEBORO — For the 44th year, canoes and kayaks gathered on the shores of Lake Wentworth for the Great Smith River Canoe and Kayak Race.

While Saturday morning, May 19, came through with sunny skies, by the time the afternoon rolled around, the clouds had moved in and the wind was blowing across the lake. However, the rain that had been predicted for throughout the day held off until after the annual race concluded.

The race is sponsored by the Wolfeboro Lions Club and proceeds from the race benefit the Lions Scholarship Fund.

The fastest time of the day went to Brad Helfer of New Durham and Alan Paradise of Pittsfield, who finished in a time of 29:54, which was fastest in the racing long class.

Among women, the fastest time was posted by Stephanie Patton of North Easton, Mass., who won the women's kayak class in a time of 35:12.

Jon Patton of North Easton, Mass. won the men's kayak class in 31:08 as the fastest kayak time of the day.

The largest class of the day was the two-men canoe conventional class, which had 13 entries.

Race Director Roger Murray presented the Barry Lougee Award to Helfer at the conclusion of the race. The Barry Lougee Award is presented annually to the person whose consistent and selfless support of the Smith River Canoe and Kayak Race has exemplified the spirit of Barry Lougee. Helfer has competed nationally in both whitewater and flatwater races and has been a regular competitor in the Great Smith River Canoe and Kayak Race and has also got his wife and daughters involved in competing in the race.

Top finishers

Helfer and Paradise had the top time in the racing long class, with David Lamoureux of Newburyport, Mass. and Andy Ouellette of Salisbury, Mass. in second place in 33:45.

In the racing long whitewater class, Steve Nyman of Amherst, Mass. and Kory Skalecki of East Kingston took top honors in 32:51, followed by Nathan and Olivia Reil of Guilford, Vt. in 34:34.

For the racing family class, Mark Williams and Hayden Merrow of Wolfeboro took first place with a time of 32:30.

For the two-men conventional class, Mark Peters of Nottingham and Dan O'Reilly of Kittery, Maine finished in first in 33:31, followed by Scott Shallcross of Wolfeboro and Derrick Shallcross of Dedham, Mass. in 34:08 and Douglas and Kevin Smithwood of Wolfeboro finished in third in 34:17.

KATHY SUTHERLAND

With cowslips in full bloom, my head, at least, hits the trail

To me, the Memorial Day weekend has always been a particularly poignant time of year. Many of us can remember getting scrubbed up and dressed in our finest to pay homage to veterans and lost loved ones in the Memorial Day parade.

But that particular weekend is also a seasonal marker for an entire subculture: people who go to camp. In some parts of the state, places where wild and sparsely populated wild land is still within reach, “camp” can mean anything from a lavishly appointed vacation getaway to something little better than a horse hovel.

In some regions, mine in particular, it’s time to open up camp for the season. And no sane camp-opening crew travels without a chainsaw in the truck, for taking care of blown-down trees that can often bar the way.

Push or pull it aside with the truck, you think? Well, if you’re very lucky. And nobody wants a carefully planned expedition into camp to be thwarted by a blowdown. Thus, included in the freight is a sharpened and checked-out chainsaw, ready to go.

In our case, as it is

NORTH COUNTRY NOTEBOOK

By JOHN HARRIGAN

with many others, it’s not a matter of whether we’re ready for the road, but whether the road is ready for us.

In many cases, the road networks are primarily for logging, and the camp owner on a seldom-used skidder trail works with the landowner or the logging company to keep the road passable. Sometimes this means going fifty-fifty on a culvert. You never know. One hand washes the other.

In our case, the state owns and manages the roads, which on the face of things would seem to invite trouble. But late-season hunters, snowmobile club members, hikers and many others who use and love the back country have worked out a good relationship with road and timber managers to let them know what’s going on.

This helps crews get a heads-up on problem spots, places where a plugged or buckled culvert has caused a washout, or where beavers have flooded the road, or major blowdowns have left a serious mess.

There is a Concord phone number that “CAMP” means many things to many people. In this case, it means a 16 by 20 log cabin, almost shut off from the world, there being only a long footpath in.

camp-owners can call to get the most recent update on the roads before heading off to open up camp, and (surprise) it works. In some instances, in fact in many instances, Concord gets it right, and this is one of them.

Camp owners are indeed a breed apart. If you are out on a truck tour and just cruising by, and observe a gathering of one sort or another on the porch, they’ll often wave you in. There is a built-in camaraderie that’s hard to put your finger on, the kind of thing you don’t want to investigate too closely lest it disappear.

Yet owning a back-country camp may be losing some of its mystique and appeal. In past years, any spot in the Connecticut Lakes Headwaters Tract that came up for a new lease was snapped right up. This year, several went unclaimed.

In fact, some camp owners who don’t have family members or friends coming up through the ranks are finding it tough sledding to secure the camp’s future.

Sometimes, family members just don’t care about camp or have the time and resources to keep it up. This is a sad turn of events, given the happy times that have been had at any good camp. It’s the kind of life you think will never end.

Because we leave nothing whatsoever edible in camp, we are not likely to find that we’ve had unwelcome visitors. Oh, the mice will have been there, for sure, mainly seeking a sheltered place to build their nests.

They are impossible to keep out. Some people have surrounded every window and door with hardware cloth (small-gauge wire netting), and failed. The thing about a mouse, in common with most rodents, is that if it can get its almost flat head in, the rest of the creature, being squeezable, can follow.

It would be nice if the trail into camp was like that, if your head was there, you could be too.

more Thomas Howlett came through with an impressive performance to lead the Prospect Mountain track team at the Division III State Meet on Saturday at Winnisquam Regional High School.

Howlett finished as the Division III state champion in the 400 meters, crossing the line in 51.66 seconds, just ahead of Luke Hogan of Campbell. Howlett's points were the lone points earned by the Timber Wolves on the day, as they finished in 18th place overall, with Campbell and Inter-Lakes taking the top two spots.

Justin Perrin was the other Prospect boy qualifying for the Division III State Meet, as he finished in ninth place in the shot put with a toss of 39 feet, 8.5 inches.

Sophomore Grace Hardie was the only Timber Wolf girl to score points, as she finished sixth overall in the triple jump with a leap of 31 feet, 3.5 inches.

Timber Wolves come up short against Belmont

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

ALTON — The Prospect Mountain softball team spent the last week of the season playing against some tough competition, which could prove important as the team moves toward the postseason.

"Playoffs is a different ballgame," said JV coach Mike Christy, who joined with assistant coach Mike Brown to lead the team while coach Rick Burley was in Virginia watching his daughter, PMHS graduate Brianna Burley, and her St. Anselm College softball team in the NCAA World Series. "We have to figure it out right now."

The Timber Wolves surrendered one run in the first inning. After pitcher Megan Sarno got the first out on a ground-er to third, a base hit, stolen base and another base hit to plate the first run of the game. Sarno then got a strikeout to end the inning. Prospect went in order in the bottom of the first and then the Raiders went in order in the top of the second inning, including two strikeouts from Sarno and a nice play from shortstop Bekah Wheeler on a fly ball to shallow center.

The Timber Wolves were able to get on the board in the bottom of the third inning when Maddie Chase cranked a homer over the fence in dead center, tying the game at one, but the Raiders were able to take advantage of some Prospect Mountain mistakes in the top of the fifth inning, plating three runs to take the 4-1 lead.

Sam Weir had a double in the bottom of the fifth inning with one out, but the Timber Wolves were unable to get her home. Belmont used a walk and two hits in the top of the sixth inning to push another run across the plate. Sarno was able to get out of the trouble with a strikeout and a pop up to second base to end the inning.

Anna Brassaw beat out an infield hit in the bottom of the sixth inning but the Raiders turned a double play to get out of the inning. A leadoff walk got the Raiders on the bases to start the top of the seventh inning, but a pair of force plays and a strikeout got Sarno out of trouble and the game went to the bottom of the seventh inning with the Raiders up by a 5-1 score.

Raiders bring bats, roll past Timber Wolves

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

ALTON — The Belmont baseball team is one of the best teams in Division III and that was on display on Friday, May 25, as the Raiders had a few big innings and knocked off the Timber Wolves by a 13-1 score.

“We put the bat on the ball,” said coach Richard Fortier. “We hit him (Griffin Embree of Belmont) more than we did Sweeney (from Raymond on Wednesday).”

Zack MacLaughlin got the start on the hill for the Timber Wolves and the Raiders were able to get a couple of runs in the top of the second inning. Prospect also got the benefit of a missed call by the umpires to help get them out of the inning. A fly to deep center went over the head of Ryker Burke in center. However, the umpire ruled that he caught the ball and the Timber Wolves got out of trouble with a grounder to second after that.

Richard Stevens was hit by a pitch to open the bottom of the second inning, but Embree came back with two strikeouts and a line drive to short to get him out of the inning.

The Raiders were able to string some hits together in the top of the third inning and combined with a Prospect Mountain error and a walk, Belmont put up three runs and took the 5-0 lead before MacLaughlin got a strikeout to end the inning.

Prospect Mountain answered with a run in the bottom of the inning. With one out, Ryker Burke had a base hit and then MacLaughlin came through with a double down the line in right field, sending Burke to third and then a sacrifice groundout by Drew Nickerson plated Burke with the first run for the Timber Wolves.

Belmont was able to put up four runs in the top of the fourth and four runs in the top of the fifth, upping the lead to 13-1 and the Timber Wolves were unable to generate any more offense against Embree.

“He’s great and switches it up,” Fortier said of Embree. “Anybody that can throw the off-speed or the breaking stuff no matter where he is in the count, is going to throw kids off.”

Before the game, MacLaughlin, Nickerson and Zach Thoroughgood were honored as they played in their final games as members of the Timber Wolves.

Prospect Mountain finished the season at 5-11.

Masonic Summer Cross Country Series returns in July

WOLFEBORO — The Morning Star Lodge will again be hosting the Wolfeboro Masonic Summer Cross Country Series. There will be a 3.4-mile timed course, a free one-mile short course and a free kids’ popsicle dash included in the three weeks of racing.

This is a family friendly event but also offers a fun and challenging course for seasoned runners. All proceeds will go to the Wolfeboro Free Masons and $1 from each runner will go to the Wolfeboro Cross Country Ski Association, which maintains the trails that the races will be run on.

This summer race series is for first time runners and seasoned runners. The goal is to create a non-intimidating environment that brings adults, children, families, new runners and fast runners together. Track teams are encouraged to come out and run too. With three different race options on well marked courses, there is something for everyone who wants to get out in the woods and make new friends. Socialization before, during and after the races will be encouraged and the last race will offer an awards ceremony for series winners as well as a potluck picnic. If anyone is interested in donating food for the last event, please contact them.

Save money by pre-registering online at www.rockhopperraces.com/wolfeforo-masonic-summer-xc-series/. Register for the entire series for $30 or for a single event for $12, while students can register for a single event for $7. Day of race registration is available at $40 for the entire series, $15 for an event or $10 for a student single event.

This year’s races will be held on Thursday, July 12, Thursday, July 19, and Thursday, July 26, at Abenaki Ski Area in Wolfeboro, with the kids’ run starting at 5:45 p.m., the one-mile race starting at 5:50 p.m. and the three-mile race at 6:15 p.m.

Kingswood Golf Club hosts Rotary tournament

WOLFEBORO — Kingswood Golf Club played host to the Rotary Club of Wolfeboro’s annual tournament on Monday, May 21.

In the men’s division, first place went to the group of Edward Gillespie, Greg Eldridge, Gary Frank and Thom Christian, who finished with a 62. Robert McCourt, Don Houle and Greg Lemay fired a 64 to finish in second and Jim Dearborn, George Pacheco, Fred Antonucci and Bill Antonucci shot a 65 and took third place in a card match.

In the mixed division, the team of David Conner, Vincent Cook, Patty Tombley and Dennis Tombley finished with a 63 for first place.

The overall skills competition winner was the team of Fran Phillips, David Vailancourt, John Hardenbergh and Sebastian Tordonato with an 87.

NORTH CONWAY — The Kingswood 4X800-meter boys fought off a tough challenge from Coe-Brown to run away with the Division II championship for the second year in a row.

The team of Cameron Stinchfield, Wyatt Pooler, Brent Coope and Jim Huckman finished in a time of 8:16.03, just besting the team's time from a year ago.

That win was the highlight of the day for the Knights at the Division II State Meet, as the Knight boys finished in 11th place overall, with Portsmouth and Windham taking the top spots.

The Knight team of Tucker Gosselin, Nick Duntley, Devan Wade and Huckman took sixth place overall in the 4X100-meter relay in

The lone point for the Kingswood girls came in the triple jump, where Caitlin Carpenter leaped to sixth place overall with a distance of 33 feet, 3.5 inches.

In the 4X400-meter relay, the team of Sarah Huckman, Rosemary Carpenter, Hannah Chatigny and Elizabeth Morrison finished in ninth place in a time of 4:23.25. Chatigny took 12th in the 300-meter hurdles in a time of 52.67 and in the 400 meters, Huckman ran to 12th place in a time of 63.8 seconds. The Knight team of Morrison, Caitlin Carpenter, Chatigny and Sarah Bellefleur ran to eighth place in the 4X100-meter relay in 54.61 seconds. In the 100-meter hurdles, Eileen McKenna finished seventh in the preliminaries in 17.44 seconds and finished in seventh in the finals in 17.61 seconds and Chatigny was 12th in 18.76 seconds. Mason Dumont finished 13th in the discus at 86 feet, five inches and was 17th in the shot put with a toss of 26 feet, 2.5 inches.

With their top-three performances, the Knight 4X800-meter team and Gosselin earned automatic bids to the Meet of Champions, which takes place on Saturday, June 2, at 2 p.m. at Merrimack High School.

In the 100-meter dash, Gosselin finished third in the preliminaries in a time of 11.5 seconds and then finished in third place in a time of 11.48 seconds in the finals.

Rian Russo finished in sixth place in the discus with a toss of 118 feet, eight inches to finish out the scoring points for the Knights.

Stinchfield finished 10th in the 3,200 meters in a time of 10:18.35, while Pooler took 11th in the 800 meters in a time of 2:11.33. Wade took 10th in the triple jump with a leap of 37 feet, 11.75 inches, Russo took 12th in the shot put with a toss of 34 feet, 11.5 inches and added a

Softball Knights rally, but Cougars get the win

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

WOLFEBORO — As they have for much of the season, the Kingswood softball girls battled in their season finale.

They fought back from an early 8-2 deficit then fought back from a 14-12 deficit, but they came up one fight short of a win on Wednesday, May 23, as the Cougars escaped town with a 17-14 win.

“Everything we’ve talked about all year, a little Jekyll and Hyde,” said coach Richard Arthur. “We can’t make plays for two innings then we’re turning double plays.

“As hard as it was on the scoreboard, they do a lot of good things that were impressive,” the Knight coach added. “They were willing to take risks and make plays.”

The Cougars put up four runs in the top of the first inning but Kingswood answered with a pair of runs in the bottom of the inning to cut the lead in half.

The visitors continued with their attack, scoring four more runs in the top of the second inning to open the lead up to 8-2.

The Knights woke up a bit in the bottom of the second inning, as they scored seven runs in the frame, highlighted by a base hit from Kasey Birth and RBI doubles from Sarah Bean and Jill Blattenberger.

After the Knights kept the Cougars off the board in the top of the fourth, they added three more runs in the bottom of the inning, led by a double from Shawna Knowles that drove in a pair of runs.

Con-Val wasn’t quite done yet, as the Cougars scored six runs in the top of the fifth inning. Pitcher Maggie Shaw hit the first batter of the inning, followed by a bunt hit, a base hit and a double to drive in two runs. A walk and an error plated two more runs to tie the game at 12 and after two strikeouts, another error allowed two more runs to score to take the 14-12 lead.

Kingswood battled back in the bottom of the fifth inning, Birth led off with a base hit and an error allowed her to take second. Brittany Lapolla then lined a base hit to plate Birth and cut the lead to one. Bean followed with a base hit and one out later, Allie Drew beat out an infield hit to load the bases. Maddie Shatzer grounded back to the pitcher’s circle, allowing Lapolla to score to tie the game at 14.

The Cougars came back and scored three runs in the top of the sixth inning to take the lead again, this time by a 17-14 score. Blattenberger had a base hit in the bottom of the sixth and Alahna Taves took over on the bases. She moved up on a ground-out by Birth but was stranded.

Birth took over the pitching duties in the top of the seventh inning and worked around a nice catch, with Sami Hotchkiss making a nice catch in left field.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Sarah Hotchkiss worked

Knights rally but come up short against Hanover

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — The Kingswood girls' lacrosse team showed the kind of fortitude it will take to win playoff games when the Knights hosted Hanover for the final regular season game on Thursday, May 24.

The Knights battled back from an 8-0 deficit in the first half and cut the lead to two at the halftime break but they were unable to get over the hump and the Marauders pulled away in the second half for the 22-14 win.

"They played hard," said coach Katie Rogers. "They played with a lot of heart."

"I'm proud of them and I'm proud of our season," the Knight coach added.

Hanover got off to a very strong start against the Knights, following the annual senior ceremony honoring the team's graduating seniors.

The Marauders scored just 47 seconds into the game for the 1-0 lead and then after another bid went high, added two goals in the span of 18 seconds before two minutes were off the clock, giving them the 3-0 lead.

Meghan Lapar came back with Kingswood's first chance but her free shot went off the post. The visitors came back and scored two more goals in the span of 15 seconds to up the lead to 5-0 with 20:50 to go in the first half.

Less than three minutes later, the Marauders added another tally for the 6-0 lead, though keeper Abby Koehler was able to come through with a couple of strong saves in the Kingswood net and Mackenzie Doran had a shot at the other end that was denied.

The visitors made it

7-0 with 15:26 to go and after Doran had a bid denied, they added an eighth goal with less than 14 minutes to go in the half. Annalise Cataldo and Lapar teamed up on a bid that was denied, but the Kingswood rally was just moments away.

With 11:32 to go, the Knights got on the board, with Lapar firing the ball home on a free shot to make it 8-1. After Jill Blocher and Cataldo had bids denied and Amanda Lapar had a nice defensive stand, the Knights cut the lead to 8-2. Doran had a shot denied and was able to get her own rebound. She circled the net and found Meghan Lapar, who worked her way through the defense and scored.

Amanda Lapar went end to end for a scoring bid that was stopped and Cassidy Simpson had a bid go wide of the net.

Simpson was able to feed Meghan Lapar for Kingswood's third goal with 1:45 to go and after Koehler made a save at the other end, Bridget Coughlin scored with 48 seconds to go to make it 8-4.

The Knights weren't done, however, as Meghan Lapar scored again with 35 seconds to go and then Coughlin came from behind the net and fired the ball in with five seconds on the clock, sending the game to the half with the Knights down by just two, 8-6.

The Marauders scored first in the second half but Kingswood answered just 34 seconds later when Doran came from behind the net and fired the ball home. Hanover then scored twice in the span of 18 seconds to up the lead to 11-7 and then sent another shot off the post. A bounce shot made it 12-7 with 20:18 to go and a top shelf shot with 18:57 to go pushed the lead to 13-7.

Meghan Lapar was able to bounce a shot past the Hanover keeper with 17:43 to go and Sarah Hartford had a bid go wide of the net.

Hanover made it 14-8 with 15:46 to go but less than 30 seconds later, Meghan Lapar made it 14-9. The visitors scored two more goals in the span of 14 seconds for the 16-9 lead before Meghan Lapar found Sofia Marshall, who buried the shot to get the Knights in double digits.

Hanover scored three consecutive goals over the course of less than two minutes to go up 19-10 but Meghan Lapar answered for Kingswood with some nice moves through the defense and a shot to the back of the net. Hanover scored two more goals as the clock ticked less than nine minutes to play and then Coughlin scored one for the Knights with 6:21 to go. Hanover added a goal with 4:10 to go after a pretty passing sequence and the lead went to 22-

Meghan Lapar scored with 2:14 to play and Cataldo scored on a free shot with 1:20 to go to round out the scoring.

"We have to work on slowing down (the other team's) fast breaks," Rogers said as she looked toward the playoffs. "And our transitions were not strong today and typically they are a strong point."

"And we have to look at the placement of our shots," the Knight coach added.

Kingswood finished the regular season at 6-8. The Division II tournament began after deadline on Wednesday and continues with the semifinals on Saturday, June 2, at Stellos Stadium in Nashua at 5 and 7 p.m. and the finals on Tuesday, June 5, at 5 p.m. at Manchester Memorial.

a walk but was forced at second on a grounder to short by Drew. Arianna Dauost came through with a base hit to bring in the tying run to the plate, but senior Abby Coulter's line drive to the right side was snagged by the Con-Val second baseman to close out the 17-14 win for the Cougars.

Arthur noted there was a little frustration in the inconsistency in the season, simply because he knows that the players are talented and have abilities.

"I know what they're capable of," the Knight coach said.

The Knights finished the season at 2-14.

Kingswood baseball team earns win in final game of the season

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — All season long, Kingswood baseball coach Chip Skelley thought his team was close, ready to break through. But as games went by, mistakes would haunt the Knights and they struggled to find the win column. If they got good pitching, the bats and the defense struggled. If the bats came alive, the pitching struggled. It just seemed that nothing could come together. However, in the final game of the season, the Knights were able to put it all together and they finished off the season in fine fashion with a 7-3 win over Con-Val on Wednesday, May 23.

“It’s been a tough season,” Skelley said. “Anything and everything that could go wrong has gone wrong. “But the ability for the seniors to put a little toe into the end, it’s a nice answer for them,” the veteran coach added. “We’ve been pretty close.”

Skelley started all six of his seniors in the final game, including Dylan McCann on the mound and he delivered quite well, pitching into the seventh inning on his way to earning the win. McCann set the side down in order in the top of the first inning and the Knights came through with six runs in the bottom of the first inning to get things off on the right foot.

Chad Leigh led off with a base hit and stole second. He took third on a pickoff error and one out later, Sam Danais reached on a fielder’s choice. Bryton Clifford reached on an error to plate the first run of the game and then Kody Lambert worked a walk. McCann then helped his own cause with a base hit to drive in two runs for the 3-0 lead for the Knights.

Matt Drew then beat out a bunt hit and a base hit from Jake Jensen plated two more runs for the 5-0 lead. Cole Paro worked a walk to keep the inning going and a Leigh fielder’s choice plated Drew with the sixth run of the game. Brian Lindsay kept the inning going with an infield hit but the Knights were unable to get any more runs home and the Knights took the 6-0 lead to the second inning.

Drew made a nice play on a foul pop up to help McCann get through a perfect inning in the top of the second. Lambert had a one-out base hit in the bottom of the second and took third on a bunt by McCann, but the Knights were unable to get the run home. McCann was able to work around a walk and a base hit in the top of the third inning, striking out two in the process and then getting a foul pop up to Jensen at third base to close out the inning. Paro had a base hit in the bottom of the third inning but a double play ended the threat for the Knights. Con-Val was able to get on the board in the top of the fourth inning. A walk, stolen base, infield hit and wild pitch plated the first run and then two more walks and a passed ball plated two more runs to cut the lead to 6-3 before McCann got a grounder to Leigh at short to end the inning. Lindsay had a leadoff base hit in the bottom of the fourth but he was eliminated on a double play to close out the inning. McCann worked around a leadoff walk in the top of the fifth inning. The Knights added to the lead in the bottom of the fifth inning. With one out, McCann doubled and then came around to score on a base hit by Drew, upping the lead to 7-3. McCann worked around trouble in the top of the sixth with a little help from his friends. A walk and an error put the first two runners on, but McCann made a nice play on a grounder on the infield, forcing the lead runner at third. Jensen then made a nice play on a pop up at third base and Clifford snared a fly ball to center with a nice catch to close out the inning. Kingswood went quietly in the bottom of the sixth and McCann struck out the first batter of the top of the seventh. However, he reached the maximum pitch count and Matt Place took the hill. Place did his job, inducing two grounders to Jensen at third base to close out the 7-3 win.

“This is a game of pitchers and catchers and we haven’t had much of that this year, when both were on together,” Skelley said. “It was nice that it came together today.” The veteran coach said that his goal with the team each year always involves improving the program and he said that there is always a lesson to learn in everything. “As a coach, you hope the kids don’t pack it in and I never saw that,” Skelley said. “They’re not the type of kids who pack it in. “It’s about the program and hopefully this is a lesson learned,” he continued. “Just keep pushing and it’s going to happen, something good will happen.” The Knights opened the final week with a 13-3 loss to Bow. The Knights led 3-2 after two but Bow scored four in the third and one in the fifth to start to open things up and then closed out the game with six in the fifth to take the win. Clifford and Danais both had two hits, while Lambert went four innings on the hill and struck out two. Kingswood finished the season at 2-14.

Kingswood senior Zach Cray, who jumped in Lake Winnepesaukee to save a woman who had driven her car into the water at the Wolfeboro Town Docks, was honored by the Boston Celtics prior to game five of the Eastern Conference Finals on Wednesday, May 23, as a “Hero Among Us.” Since its establishment in 1997 by the Boston Celtics, The Heroes Among Us program has recognized outstanding individuals who have made exceptional and lasting contributions to their communities. The award is presented at every Celtics home game and pays tribute to the heroic achievements of these outstanding citizens.

Many thanks to whoever you might be

It’s really official now, the old age is catching up with me. A number of years ago, I drove to Concord to pick up my brother at the bus station. While I was in Concord, I decided to do some grocery shopping. My first stop was at Wal-Mart and after that, I traveled down Loudon Road to Fort Eddy Road, where I went to Hannaford. I went to grab my iPad, which is where I keep my grocery list. My iPad was nowhere to be found in the car. Now, the iPad I use is technically not mine, it belongs to the company and I use it to keep up with work while I am away from the office. Anyway, I realized pretty quickly that I had left my iPad in the grocery cart at Wal-Mart. I quickly headed back up Loudon Road and went to the corral where I had left my cart. It was obvious fairly quickly that the carts had not been collected from the corral and a quick scan of the carts revealed that my iPad was still in the cart where I had left it and nobody had run off with it. This past holiday weekend brought a little sense of déjà vu. I almost always do my grocery shopping on Friday mornings. Since I moved to the Meredith office a year ago, I have not been going into the office on Friday, unless of course, there’s a reason to. I traditionally will go to the gym, put my laundry in at the laundromat in Wolfeboro and have breakfast at Lydia’s Café. Then I’ll go to Hannaford in Ossipee and do my weekly grocery shopping and head home to take a few hours off. This past Friday was a bit different, however, as we had early deadlines for the holiday weekend, which meant I had to submit a few of my papers on Friday as opposed to Monday, so I had to go to work. I did the gym, breakfast and laundry, but from there, drove to the office. This meant that I had to do my grocery shopping on Saturday. Which was a true treat on a holiday weekend. But after the gym and breakfast on Saturday, I went to Hannaford, did the shopping and headed home. I sat down and watched a little television before heading out to the Division II track State Meet in North Conway. I walked out to my car and went to grab my iPad to check e-mails before leaving and it was not there. A little panic set in as I tried to remember where I had it last. I remembered using it at Lydia’s and that was my first thought but then I remembered the grocery shopping. Given how busy the store was on Saturday, I was pretty sure my iPad was done for, but I figured it couldn’t hurt to check, even though it had been a few hours at that point. The corral where I left my cart had obviously been emptied in that time, so I checked in at the service desk, resigning myself to the fact that it was probably gone for good. But sure enough, the woman pulled it out from under the counter, still in one piece. So, to whoever the Hannaford employee was who found my iPad and left it at the service desk, I thank you very much. You made my holiday weekend much more enjoyable and stress-free. Finally, have a great day Ellen Caputo. Reilly Gray had a one-out base hit in the bottom of the seventh inning and she took second on a wild pitch but the Raiders were able to come through with a strikeout to end the game. “Remove one inning defensively and it’s probably a one-run game,” Christy said. “We threw the ball around a little, a bit uncharacteristically. “We need to put a strong seven innings together to give ourselves a chance to win at the end,” the Timber Wolf coach added. Ali Brown, Leah Dunne, BettyJane Weir and Brassaw were honored prior to the game as they played in their final regular season game. The Timber Wolves finished the regular season with a record of 7-9 and were in action in the Division III playoffs after deadline Wednesday, May 30. The tournament continues on Saturday, June 2, at 4 p.m. at the home of the higher seed and Wednesday, June 6, at 5 and 7 p.m. at Plymouth State University.

SPORTING CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING
