Chasse named New Durham Parks and Rec Director

NEW DURHAM — The New Durham Select Board and the New Durham Parks and Recreation Commission would like to welcome New Durham's Parks and Recreation Director Celeste Chasse. Chasse, a resident of New Durham, is no stranger to New Durham's Recreation activities with her long-standing involvement as a coach, referee and a previous Parks and Rec Commissioner. She holds an Associate's Degree from NH Community Technical College and is certified in CPR and First Aid.

Town Administrator Scott Kinmond stated that the interview process consisted of an interview panel with representatives from the town's select board, parks and recreation commission, the past parks and recreation director and the town administrator. He commented that all the candidates were strong contenders with a great sense of community. The New Durham Select Board continued the position as a part time position at 28 hours per week to continue to manage the budgeted levels for that department. The board further stipulated when developing the job qualifications that the parks and recreation director must have a strong sense of community and the ability to foster and build a collaborative network to help support the recreation program for all ages in New Durham. Additionally, the board wanted to make sure the director is able to continue to develop a strong network of volunteers, as these are critical to the department's success.

Town Administrator Kinmond said that Chasse will work with past Parks and Recreation Director Nichole Hunter to receive orientation of the department and current programming schedules. The select board unanimously thanked Hunter for her excellent leadership over the past several years in developing multiple valued programs to New Durham residents of all ages.

Chasse has been a lifelong resident of New Durham, raised a family here and operates a successful childcare business in the community. The select board and Town Administrator

Parker hired as new finance manager

ALTON — The Alton Board of Selectmen is pleased to announce the appointment of Laura Parker as the town's new finance manager. Parker, of Middleton, was selected from a pool of approximately one dozen applicants. The board of selectmen confirmed Parker's appointment at a selectmen's meeting held earlier this month.

Parker comes to Alton after six years with the Middleton Board of Selectmen managing the day-to-day financial responsibilities for the town. Her background includes the Middleton Fire Department, the Farmington School District, and Unum Provident. Parker's education is with Southern Maine Tech, Penn Foster, as well as constant local municipal training.

Parker resides in Middleton with her husband Eric and two children, Jacob and Chance. Parker's interests are outdoor activities and staying busy with volunteering with the Middleton Recreation Committee.

Selectman Cydney

Shapleigh stated, "Having sat on the interview panel, I can say that she will do a great job for the town of Alton. Her current background and responsibilities with finances will be an asset."

Town Administrator Elizabeth Dionne said,

"Laura's knowledge of municipal government particularly in a finance office is valuable. I look forward to working with her."

Dionne invites the public to stop in after Aug. 1 to welcome Parker.

Winner selected in logo contest

MIKE DURKEE of Alton was the winner of the logo design contest.

ALTON — The Alton Business Association is pleased to announce the winner of its first ever logo design contest. The ABA sought artwork that would be featured on fundraising caps to support the ABA's Alton Old Home Day parade and other community events. After putting a call out for designs, the organization received several amazing submissions. Voting was conducted online, and a winner has been chosen.

Mike Durkee of Durkish Delights of Alton submitted the winning design.

"I moved to Alton with my family in 2014 after spending years traveling abroad. As a kid, New Hampshire was the place to go for vacations. We would camp, kayak, swim, and live the rustic life," Durkee said. "There was always something so magical about this part of the country for me. As I got older and started to look at colleges I knew exactly where I wanted to be. I got my degree in fine arts from Chester College in 2008. It was here that I met my lovely wife who is a New Hampshire native and self-proclaimed Granite State fanatic.

"When we got back from our globetrotting, we needed to find a place to settle down and start a family. I owe it to my wife for bringing me to this amazing town where everybody seems to know each other but simultaneously accepts transplants like myself.

"Alton embodies everything I love about this state. It's the mindset, the outdoorsy lifestyle and the way people seem to never hesitate to help their neighbor. There is a true sense of community here that seems to get lost these days.

"I am very grateful for the opportunities I had to travel and to see different cultures all over the world. When I consider the people and places that have touched my life along the way I always find myself drawn to this community. There isn't a place I would rather call home than Alton, New Hampshire."

The ABA offers congratulations to Durkee and a big thank you to all those who submitted. Those interested can follow Durkee online at DurkishDelights.com or on Instagram at DurkishDelights

Old Home Week

Last week's front page had the schedule for Alton's Old Home Week, as provided by the Alton Business Association. That schedule runs again in this week's paper, while the front page contains a little more information on the parade, which has been a highlight of the celebration for a few years now.

Alton Old Home Week is a busy time in the community and we couldn't be more grateful to all those people who dedicate their time to help make this event a success year after year.

The Alton Business Association, Alton Parks and Recreation and a lot of local businesses all step to the plate and sponsor different events throughout the week, including a block party for families, the annual 5K road race, craft fair and boat show in Alton Bay, the parade, concert and fireworks, a cribbage tournament and a softball game between the Alton Fire Department and Alton Police Department. And that's just in the first weekend of the celebration.

The celebration continues throughout the week with a chili cook-off, a motorcycle ride, a spaghetti supper, a hymn sing, silent comedy night, dog show and ice cream buffet throughout the week leading up to the second weekend of events.

The second weekend includes a scavenger hunt, two more concerts, including one on the water bandstand, Puppies in the Park, a chicken barbecue, the monthly Masons breakfast buffet, a car show and the annual Barbershop jamboree.

That's a lot of stuff, probably too much for any one person to tackle by themselves. But that's the joy of an event like this. There is literally something for everyone.

It seems that every year we come away more and more impressed with what these tireless volunteers and generous local businesses are able to pull off for residents and visitors alike. We always want to laud local businesses, particularly those that do good for the community (and especially those that advertise on these pages, thus keeping your local newspaper alive). Over the last few years we've received a few complaints following our Old Home Week coverage because we didn't get to one event or another or didn't mention one business or another. Unfortunately, it's impossible for us to see everything going on during the week. We hope our contributing writers are able to get to as many different events as possible, but they also have their own lives and jobs to take care of in addition to helping us put together a solid newspaper. We never intentionally leave anyone out and we invite local businesses to submit press releases regarding any of their participation in Old Home Week, or really, in anything they have going on in the community.

We wish everyone the best as they head into the busy Old Home Week and we hope for plenty of success on all levels at this annual celebration of all things Alton. Enjoy it and remember the many local residents and businesses that helped to make it all possible.

Letters to the Editor

Update from the State House

To the Editor:

This the latest State House update from one of New Durham's State Reps, Mike Harrington. The legislature recessed at the end of June after passing a budget strictly on party lines (no Republicans voted for it) and it was promptly vetoed by the governor. In anticipation of this veto, the legislature passed and the governor signed what is called a Continuing Resolution. This will fund state government through the end of September at present levels (the only change is the addition of funds to cover the already approved state employees' raise).

Over the summer, all the parties will sit down an attempt to negotiate a compromise budget. If this is not completed by the end of September, a second Continuing Resolution will be passed.

The legislature will be back in the fall not only to deal with the budget but to address the many bills that the governor is expected to veto. The estimated number of vetoes range from 60 to 100 and will most likely set a record for the number of vetoes in one session. Many of the vetoes will be for bills that add new or increased taxes and fees, add additional gun control laws and increase the subsidies for specific types of renewable energy.

Each of the vetoes will be addressed by the legislature in the fall (there is no end of September deadline for this) and it requires a 2/3s majority of both the House and the Senate to overturn a veto

One veto has already been overturned and New Hampshire no longer has a death penalty.

Also in the fall, legislators will be able to file new bills, which will be taken up in January when the legislature begins the second year of this session.

Should you have any questions on these or any other state issues please contact me at 942-8691 or harringt@metrocast.net (please put "New Durham resident" in the subject block.

Enjoy your summer.

Mary Baker Eddy presentation is tonight

NEW DURHAM — The New Durham Historical Society is excited to be hosting a presentation by Linda Salatiello and Evelyn Auger on "Mary Baker Eddy: An Extraordinary Life Told in Ordinary Terms" on Thursday, Aug. 8, beginning at 7 p.m. in the New Durham Public Library.

The presentation will provide a personal historical perspective of a "local girl" who became the founder of the Christian Science movement. In a re-imagined interview, the presenters, wearing period appropriate attire, will appear as Boston Herald reporter Sibyl Wilbur (Salatiello), seeking the life story of Mary Baker Eddy (Auger).

The presenters are fonts of local lore, with historical costuming being their particular forte. The society is pleased Salatiello and Auger are returning to New Durham for this program. Their program regarding Victorian morning customers, presented last year, was very engaging and informative.

This program is free and open to the public. For more information, please call Catherine Orlowicz at 859-4643.

Locke Lake board meets Aug. 15

BARNSTEAD — The next public Locke Lake Colony Board of Directors meeting will be held on Thursday, Aug. 15, at 6:30 p.m. at the lodge. These meetings are open to LLCA members only.

Stop blaming gun violence on mental illness

To the Editor:

In the six days between July 29 and Aug. 4, in three separate events, gunmen opened fire on innocent people, killing 34, injuring 65, and destroying countless lives. In the 48 hours it took me to research for this letter, four less advertised shootings occurred injuring 17, killing two. While writing this letter, in Brooklyn N.Y., four people were injured by a single gunman. By the time this goes to print it is estimated that at least 37 more will be injured or killed just for being in public.

Once again, we immediately searched for a reason. What could make a person commit such a heinous act? As often happens, American mass shootings (defined as four or more people shot at one event), the discussion turns immediately to mental illness. It comes from the President, from multiple lawmakers and lobbying groups. But there is a big problem with blaming

America's gun violence on mental illness, the evidence overwhelmingly doesn't support it.

Only four percent (source: MacArthur Research Center) of violence, not just gun violence, but any kind of violence in the United States is attributable to schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, or depression (the three most-cited mental illnesses in conjunction with violence). In other words, 96 percent of all the violence in America has nothing to do with mental illness.

Additionally, according to the National Center for Health Statistics, fewer than five percent of the 120,000 gun-related killings in the U.S. (2001-2010) were carried out by individuals diagnosed with mental illness.

Blaming mental health problems for American gun violence gives the false impression that people with mental illness are dangerous, when in fact the opposite is true and a vast majority will never commit violence. Even if one person with a mental illness commits a mass shooting, that person is not representative of others with mental illness. All kinds of people have committed mass shootings, yet we single out 'mental illness.' After all it's easy to associate those with mental illness with doing irrational things, and it's easy to extrapolate that to killing others. But there is no data to back it up.

If lawmakers need to blame gun violence on mental health, why are those same lawmakers not supporting health-care for all Americans that includes mental health and prescription drugs? Why not support a working minimum wage, or public education for all that includes grades K-12+4? For these are well documented as underlying components that are tied to poverty, personal feelings of inadequacy, stress, and hopelessness that are frequently the foundation for antisocial disorders that can predispose to violent behavior.

There is no one factor that leads to lethal violence. Focusing on mental health discounts the impact family, friends, and local communities have on gun violence. Substance abuse, poverty, a history of violence, and access to guns are much better predictors of violence than mental illness (source: American Journal of Public Health). Mental illness can lead to suicide, but seldom leads to homicide.

Would more restrictive gun laws prevent mass shootings? Maybe, maybe not. That is a topic for another letter on another day. But a wealth of research demonstrates the flaws in blaming mental illness. So, strike that one off the list and let's recognize the real causes and find real solutions.

Huggins Hospital Alton employee honored for excellence

WOLFEBORO — Huggins Hospital's Jenn Abbott, LPN, Practice Coordinator at Alton Family Medicine, is the 2019 recipient of the Huggins Hospital Board of Trustees' Roy B. Carder Service Excellence Award. The award is named in honor of the late Roy B. Carder, who dedicated his energy, time and talents as a member of Huggins Hospital's Board of Trustees. It recognizes an employee who personifies the best of the best, every day.

"Jenn is a phenomenal leader and provides excellent customer service and patient care," Amanda Norton, Physician Practice Director, wrote in a letter nominating Abbott for the award. "Jenn holds herself to very high standards, and because of that, she motivates the entire staff at Alton Family Medicine to be the best versions of themselves. Jenn is highly committed to this organization, doing whatever it takes."

Abbott, who will pursue her associate degree to become an RN at New Hampshire Technical Institute starting in the fall, was chosen by the board of trustees because of her outstanding leadership qualities.

She is crucial to the day-to-day operations at Alton Family Medicine. She helps improve workflows at the practice through pre-visit planning, referral processing and prescription refills. On busy days, she helps find creative ways to make sure every patient gets seen, and she works closely with other practice coordinators at Huggins Hospital to make sure things go smoothly for the entire organization, not just Alton Family Medicine.

Abbott is dedicated to helping others. During her five years with Huggins Hospital, she has helped mentor new staff members, providing them with encouragement to grow and succeed. "She is always looking for ways we can improve, both in terms of patient care as well as workflows, team building, and efficiency," Jennifer Tedcastle, PA-C, a provider at Alton Family Medicine, wrote in her nomination letter. "However, she always has the time to help a patient who is having difficulty."

Abbott is the fifth recipient of the award, which started in 2015. "I am honored the staff feel I deserve the award and that so many

Legion open to any military veteran

ALTON — More than 1,600 members of the U.S. Armed Forces were killed or wounded in periods of time not designated as war eras since the end of World War II. The newly signed Let Everyone Get Involved in Opportunities for National Service Act of 2019 – The LEGION Act – honors those veterans, their spouses and descendants, extending membership eligibility in the American Legion family to hundreds of thousands who had previously been excluded.

The LEGION Act offers American Legion membership eligibility to any U.S. military veteran who served at least one day of active military duty since Dec. 7, 1941 and was honorably discharged or is serving now. The act also affects membership in the American Legion Auxiliary and Sons of the American Legion, expanding eligibility for those groups as well.

Please contact the American Legion, Claude R. Batchelder, Post 72, 164 Wolfeboro Hwy, Alton, NH 03809 at phone number 875-3461 or stop the post if you are interested in becoming a member.

CARTER MOUNTAIN Brass Band will be playing Saturday in Barnstead.

Carter Mountain Brass Band performing Saturday in Barnstead

BARNSTEAD — Please join in on Aug. 10 on the Barnstead Parade for the Saturday evening concert series. Concert begins at 6 p.m. at 1 Parade Circle. This week, the Carter Mountain Brass Band will play in the bandstand.

The Carter Mountain Brass Band is modeled after both American and British brass bands of the 19th century. Brass bands became very popular in the late 19th century as mass production made instruments widely available and affordable. They could be found in almost any town or in factories that sponsored bands as a recreational outlet for their skilled workers. The Carter Mountain Brass Band has 32 members who play brass or percussion instruments. The band members come from all walks of life. Although skilled musicians, they are not professionals in the sense that they make their living making music. Rather, they have joined together for the sheer love of playing brass music at a high level. Named for Carter Mountain in New Hampton, this band reflects the rich heritage of brass music from the 16th century through the 19th century and into the present day's modern music.

This season's concert program includes music from a wide variety of genres and time periods, Gershwin, the Beatles, movie music, big band, Beethoven, Verdi, a Renaissance march and others.

Carter Mountain is a member of the Northern New England Brass Association, a group of musical ensembles that joined to form a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization to educate and entertain the public by the performance of brass band music throughout northern New England.

The Barnstead Historical Society will be selling refreshments. No alcohol is allowed on the grounds.

SUNAPEE — Alton resident and New Hampshire Art Association member Duane Hammond is exhibiting his paintings at the Sunapee Fair, Saturday, Aug. 3 thru Sunday, Aug. 11.

The Sunapee Fair includes works by both members of the New Hampshire Art Association and members of The League of NH Craftsmen. All works on sale must be one-of-a-kind originals and of the highest professional quality. The 2019 Sunapee Fair is celebrating its 86th year of exhibiting the best in arts and crafts in this highly juried 11-day event. The Sunapee Fair opens daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. drawing 10s of thousands of attendees.

The Sunapee Fair also offers people who attend the opportunity to meet many of the artists exhibiting there and conduct business hiring them to do commissioned work.

Wright Museum to honor Rosie the Riveter

WOLFEBORO — When visiting Wright Museum in Wolfeboro, one of the highlights for many people is the chance for a picture with Rosie the Riveter, the iconic image of hard-working women during WWII popularized in the 1980s.

"This is a great opportunity for anyone to be a 'Rosie,'" said museum Executive Director Mike Culver. "Visitors can have their pictures taken and then share it on their choice of social media platforms, it's been a great hit."

It has also been a hit for volunteers, including Linda Matchett, who said she loves the image itself and the photo opportunity at Wright Museum because "it reminds folks that 'We can do it.'"

"Rosie exemplifies all the ordinary men and women who did extraordinary things during the war, especially those women who went to work and juggled that responsibility with raising their families and keeping their households running," she said.

Matchett, an author of historical mystery and romantic fiction who additionally sponsored the museum's recent comedy show, volunteers her time there two days a week and said her life is more full because of it.

"I learn at least one new thing every time I go because the exhibits are well-presented and well-researched," she said. "The museum is a gem, and hopefully my support helps as many people as possible get to experience it."

For Culver, the 'Rosie the Riveter' photo opportunity at the museum serves as a fun, albeit poignant source of inspiration for many Americans.

"Women were an integral part of the war effort, and their contributions to the war and American society in general is captured in that iconic image," he said.

The region's leading resource for educators and learners of all ages on World War II, the Wright Museum features more than 14,000 items in its collection that are representative of both the homefront and battlefield.

MARK ON THE MARKETS

Advisor vs. robot

BY MARK PATTERSON

Contributing Writer
Robo-advising has become very popular because of the very low fees typically associated with this automated service. I believe there is some merit and a place for robo-advising. There are just some concerns that I have regarding ro-bo-advising, first being, we really have not seen how the robot handles a fast-moving downward market or an elongated bear market. I can see robo-advising being used by young people with a very long time horizon in the markets that are just allowing the robot to rebalance their portfolio and to make algorithmic choices for their money. Where I don't believe robo works well is for someone inside of 10 years of retirement or doesn't like equity market risk. As we get closer to needing our assets for income, or simply do not have time to recover from a correction in the equity markets, then an advisor that is skilled at structuring steady, sustainable and reliable income that mitigates market risk, sequence of return risk and longevity risk can be invaluable. I have seen many portfolios that were good candidates for robo-advising. Typically, these portfolios were made up of a family of mutual funds with attached commissions and 12b1 fees sold by "advisors" who did not take the clients best interests into consideration, but sold funds that their firm was paid to promote. In this instance, this client's money was being passively managed through high cost mutual funds whereas the robot could have done a better job for less fees. I guess what I'm saying is that given the choice of a robot or a typical broker connected to a firm or bank, I might choose the robo as well. Client money must be managed with the client's best interest first, but can only be done by an advisor who really understands how to manage that money for their client's needs. As I mentioned earlier, we have not really seen how the robot reacts in tough market conditions. The last eight years has seen a couple of bumps but not any major drawdowns in the equity markets.

So, complacency is at an all-time high and money will chase a market nearing a top. Studies also tell us that investors will start to sell near the bottom. A robot will not have an opinion on the direction of the markets such as, if you should hedge, if you should raise cash levels or start to shift money over to bonds, fixed income or precious metals. It is a good thing that the robot takes your emotions out of the equation, but I'm not so sure that taking a qualified advisor or asset managers emotions, skill and knowledge is a good thing. Time will tell. Robo-advising may work for you if your time horizon long and you don't mind market risk in the equity markets, or it could work for a portion of your portfolio that is designated for growth but you will not need for income in the next 10 years. A good asset manager can manage your money using modern portfolio theory and very low-fee investments that are designed to maximize your returns and minimize your risk. Compare that to the low fee robot. It is all about net returns and risk. Mark Patterson is an advisor with MHP Asset Management and can be reached at 447-1979 or Mark@MHP-asset.com

Woods, Water and Wildlife Festival is Saturday

MILTON — Moose Mountains Regional Greenways and Branch Hill Farm will present the 17th annual Woods, Water and Wildlife Festival on Saturday, Aug. 10, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Branch Hill Farm, 307 Applebee Road in Milton Mills. This family-friendly celebration of the great outdoors provides children and adults an opportunity to enjoy, understand and appreciate the natural world.

An abundance of activities are available for grandparents, parents and other family members to enjoy time outside with kids, with an emphasis on having fun, exploring and getting a close look at nature. Families get to watch rescued wild animals and learn about their habits, try fishing in the pond, or take a hayride to the Salmon Falls River. Kids can venture on a discovery walk to find natural treasures in the woods, try out a logger's crosscut saw, meet Sunsquatch and Smokey Bear, build a bee house for native pollinators, or swing on a rope swing in the woods.

There's lots to learn for adults too, with demonstrations and information on permaculture gardening, apple tree grafting and cider-making, beekeeping and collecting honey, low impact horse logging, food composting, solar power, landscaping for pollinators and wildlife, controlling invasive species, and more topics in forestry, agriculture, and sustainability. Live fiddle and guitar music is also a big attraction.

The festival takes place rain or shine. All events included in the admission price, food concessions available. Rest rooms and most events are wheelchair accessible. No pets, please. A program of the day's activities is at www.mmr.org/festival.

In 2017, Walsh was invited to be soloist with the Portland Symphony in Clara Schumann's Piano Concerto, and again in 2019 in Chopin's Piano Concerto #2. She has collaborated with Juilliard musicians, travelled to Suzhou, China for master classes with gifted young pianists, and toured New Zealand with local composers, thereafter programming their avant garde music in concerts at home. Summer appearances are on Aug. 9 in Skaneateles, N.Y. at the festival's 40th celebration where Walsh was director from 2000 to 2005, and a return recital engagement on Aug. 28 in Casco Bay, Maine.

Walsh moved to Portland, Maine with her husband, the writer Richard Pollak, in 2014, joining Portland's Rossini Club, America's oldest civic music presenter, known for its platform for area professional and amateur classical musicians. The club also holds yearly competitions for aspiring young artists, awarding scholarships for advanced study.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, in advance at Black's Paper Shop and Gift Store or Avery Insurance in Wolfeboro, at Innisfree Bookshop in Meredith, online at www.friends-of-music.org, or by calling the Friends of Music at 569-2151. High school students with ID will be admitted free of charge and any child accompanied by an adult ticket purchaser will be admitted free of charge.

Project Backpack returns to Alton

ALTON — Alton's Project Backpack, now an annual event, is in full swing. The Alton PTSA is asking for the community's help in gathering new backpacks and water bottles to help families and students in Alton struggling with the burden of back to school expenses.

The drop off bin is, once again, at Profile Bank. It is requested that all donations be dropped off at Profile Bank by Sept. 3. Water bottles, lunch boxes and backpacks are what is most needed.

If you are not a shopper, please consider a donation to ACS PTSA c/o Project Backpack, PO Box 910, Alton, NH 03809. Organizers offer a heartfelt thanks, in advance, to those who will contribute to Project Backpack. Everyone remembers those first days of school and how exciting it was to have a new backpack. Donations to the annual drive mean so much to the parents and students who are feeling the stress of the current economy. Any questions, please call Kelly Sullivan at 875-2725.

O'Brien to address local Republicans

LACONIA — The next meeting of the Belknap County Republican Committee (BCRC) has been scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the Laconia VFW Post 1670, 143 Court St, Laconia.

The guest speaker for this month's meeting is former NH Speaker of the House Bill O'Brien, who recently announced his candidacy for US Senate. Speaker O'Brien will share his background and his reasons for running for the US Senate seat currently occupied by Democrat US Senator Jeanne Shaheen. O'Brien joins General Donald Bolduc as an announced US Senate candidate, and Bryant "Corky" Messner, who has created an exploratory committee to consider a run for US Senate. With a very recent announcement that former Trump Campaign Manager Corey Lewandowski is also considering a run for US Senate, this month's meeting is sure to be very interesting.

Also on the agenda will be discussion of participation in various town-wide events throughout the county as well as activities underway in support of the Trump Victory campaign including the visit by President Trump to New Hampshire on Aug. 15.

Belknap County GOP meetings are open to all Republicans and like-minded Independents.

The committee again encourages its members to continue to bring non-perishable food items for donation to local food pantries.

For more information about the committee, please check the committee's web site at www.BelknapCountyGOP.org or send an e-mail to alan.glassman@gmail.com.

Donna Reed film festival at Wright Museum

WOLFEBORO — In August and September, Wright Museum will host a film festival on Oscar-Winning actress Donna Reed.

The festival will begin with See Here Private Hargrove on Tuesday, Aug. 13. The Human Comedy will be shown on Aug. 20 followed by They were Expendable on Aug. 27 and From Here to Eternity on Sept. 3.

The festival, according to museum Executive Director Mike Culver, is not only notable because of the iconic status of the movies themselves, but due to the fact Reed's own daughter will be present.

"We are thrilled to have Mary Owen here," he said.

Although she won't be able to make it to every screening, Owen expressed excitement in speaking at and introducing the first film of the festival.

"I wish I lived closer," she said. "I would join you all for each screening, as I never tire of seeing her work on the big screen."

Whereas See Here Private Hargrove will be shown at Wolfeboro Town Hall, the other films will be screened at Wright Museum's movie theater.

In speaking on the festival's deeper meaning and accompanying Donna Reed exhibit (open through Oct. 31), Culver said it reveals how every homefront American of that era — even movie stars — did their part for the war.

"Like many of the Hollywood stars of the period, she received many letters from servicemen," he said. "Many even wrote that she was like the girl they had left behind and that she was what they were fighting for."

Reed began her acting career in the 1940s and was only 20 when the war started — the same age as many of the servicemen.

According to Owen, Reed personally replied to every letter she received. After her passing in 1986, Owen said she found more than 350 of the letters the servicemen had written her mother, which are now featured in the exhibit.

"It will no doubt be very emotional seeing mom's letters," she said. "I've been living with them since 2007, but it will be a very emotional experience seeing them on display."

When asked how she hopes people remember her mother, Owen highlighted her patriotism.

"I would want them to remember her as an actress who cared deeply about her country and used her influence to that end," she said. "And that, no matter who she portrayed in her films and the TV show, she represented the American heart."

The region's leading resource for educators and learners of all ages on World War II, the Wright Museum features more than 14,000 items in its collection that are representative of both the homefront and battlefield.

Victory Garden helps battle hunger

WOLFEBORO — Now in its fourth year, Wright Museum's Victory Garden continues to battle hunger while also paying special homage to Japanese-Americans.

In addition to the "usual" tomatoes, beans and cucumbers, the garden includes a vast amount of Asian vegetables like cabbage and snow peas.

"This spring in an exhibit, the museum paid tribute to the Japanese-Americans who were impacted by both racial hatred and wartime hysteria," said UNH Carroll County Advanced Master Gardener and museum volunteer Christin Kaiser. "Because of this, we are also paying tribute through the garden."

According to Kaiser, the garden follows the tradition of WWII Victory Gardens, which were planted at homes to increase food production during the war.

"We deliver the harvested food to our local food pantry, 'Life Ministry Food Pantry' at All Saints Church here in Wolfeboro," she explained. "The pantry serves several communities."

She also expressed gratitude for all the help the gardens received from volunteers over the years.

"I've been exceptionally fortunate to have every business or supplier I've approached donate what has been needed to build and continue the mission of the garden," she said. "Years of voluntary support speaks volumes about our wider community."

The region's leading resource for educators and learners of all ages on World War II, Wright Museum features more than 14,000 items in its collection that are representative of both the home-front and battlefield.

We've seen this film before and didn't very much like it

Note to new species: Get out of Dodge.

It would be nice if things were so simple, but no way.

I've been through one warming trend, after all, so at least I can claim some experience now that warming trends are in the news, and in some places are all the rage.

When I was in my early teens, winters became milder for three or four years (1964-67, as I recall). The two things I noticed, and remember well, were suckers (the fish) moving much farther upsteam in the spring than before, and seeing earwigs under bark and in other moist and dark places.

Earwigs were a creature I'd never seen before. However, I read up on them, and found out, among other things, that urban myths aside, their "tarsal pincers" are not good for much except hanging off small limbs and stems of leaves--meaning that they cannot pinch very hard at all.

This time around, during a warming trend without any idea where it's going, we got ticks (ugh) and, it appears, armadillos (no judgmental utterings on that one). "Lawn-rats," an acquaintance called them, just one of this tough little creature's many terms of non-endorsement.

Septic tanks are like

NORTH COUNTRY NOTEBOOK

By JOHN HARRIGAN

anything else with moving parts (in this case, think "fluids," to put it as decorously as possible), in that they need proper maintenance.

One thing a septic tank needs is getting pumped out every now and then. When I put a new system in, back 15 years or so ago, I was getting a lot of company. These days, not so much (meaning that some of that company is in a new location) (hint: it's horizontal).

Anyway, the need to pump a septic tank often precipitates a mad dash for a map, or directions, or something, anything, that might give a hint as to where it is. In my case (surprise) I've actually got it covered, with maps and super-compasses and laser beams and that thing Captain Kirk and Spock use to get around the Galaxy.

Over the years I have heard about, and even lived in places, where the "septic tank" was actually a 55-gallon drum, or even (I'm not making this up) an old car or the cab of a truck. "Works pretty good," I heard when I was a kid. This was back when kids never seriously challenged adults, like, many decades ago.

If I ever lose my maps

JOHN HARRIGAN

ATLANTIC SALMON, researchers say, made it this far, the Connecticut River at Colebrook, with New Hampshire left, Vermont right and on up to First Connecticut Lake in Pittsburg. For generations, a big pipe collected most local sewage and emptied it into this pool on the Vermont side. It's long gone.

and lasers and transponders, I can just wait until spring and simply follow the grass, not the dope kind of grass, but the really green variety, which seems to grow in a straight line gradually downhill from the septic tank.

The Clean Waters Act has long been hailed as one of those few government initiatives that really works.

Well, yes, it does, and there are reasons.

First, there was plenty of money, and plenty of good reasoning. I mean, who could be against clean water? Greenbacks flowed like, well, water.

The strategy would make a football coach collection systems and secondary water treatment plants built (before this major initiative, there were only a scattering of large "settling" ponds overwhelmed by major cities, or huge pipes flowing straight out to sea).

And as efforts moved on downstream to bigger numbers and much more complex and costly treatment plants, who could deny them? What politician was going to stand up and say, "No, we're not going help you do your part and keep that water coming into your city clean, we're going to make you just keep right on making it filthy."

It sort of reminds me of how we got the federal government to pony up its share of money for the ocean-going salmon project, building fish ladders for the incredible fish that, in the Connecticut River's case, travelled at least as far up as First Connecticut Lake, almost 400 miles from the sea.

At one point, salmon enthusiasts said, to make salmon enthusiasts and conservationists prove their case, "So, show us your salmon bumping their noses against our dams."

And I was tickled to be able to write the rest of that sentence one day, which was "And boy, did they."

Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — The Kingswood fall sports season is coming up quickly and practice dates and times have been announced for the numerous teams.

Coach Bob Gagne will lead the bass fishing team, with practices to be determined starting on Aug. 12.

Corbin to be inducted into ABCA Hall of Fame

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Vanderbilt head coach Tim Corbin will be inducted into the American Baseball Coaches Association (ABCA) Hall of Fame as part of its six-member class of 2020, the organization announced last Tuesday.

Corbin is joined by John Casey (Tufts University), Wayne King, Jr. (Joliet Junior College), Mike Kinnison (Delta State University), Mike Metheny (Southeastern Oklahoma State University) and Dennis Rogers (Riverside City College).

The hall of fame induction ceremony will be held during the 76th annual ABCA Convention on Friday, Jan. 3, 2020, at the Gaylord Opryland in Nashville. Registration for the convention as well as tickets to attend the Hall of Fame banquet will go on sale Sept. 1.

Under Corbin, the Commodores have won two national championships (2014 and 2019) and made 15 NCAA Tournament appearances, including 14 straight — the longest active streak in the SEC. His teams have also advanced to nine Super Regionals and four College World Series.

In 2019, the Commodores tied an SEC record with 13 players selected in the Major League Baseball Draft. Overall, 16 Commodores have been selected in the first round since Corbin's arrival on the Vanderbilt campus in 2003, including eight in the past five years. In addition, 48 players have been named All-America, including 14 who have received first-team All-America recognition.

Corbin will begin his 18th season at the helm of the Commodores baseball program this fall. Corbin, and his staff are coming off a 2019 season that saw the Commodores secure the program's second national championship in six seasons and set an SEC single-season record with 59 wins.

Induction to the ABCA Hall of Fame is the highest honor bestowed by the organization. The ABCA was founded in 1945 and the Hall of Fame began in 1966.

Wolfeboro Lions Club golf tourney Sept. 10

Wolfeboro Lions Club golf tourney Sept. 10

OSSIPEE — The Wolfeboro Lions Club is sponsoring its 15th annual fundraiser golf tournament on Tuesday, Sept. 10, at the Indian Mound Golf Club in Ossipee.

The format is a scramble with a shotgun start and men's, women's and mixed foursomes are encouraged to participate. If you don't have a foursome, the Lions Club will arrange to place you in a friendly group.

The tournament is designed to encourage golfers of varied groups and abilities to get involved, as the scoring system creates a level playing field. So, regardless of your group make up, men, women or mixed, expert or novice, there is an equal opportunity to be competitive within your category.

The registration fee includes green fees, cart, breakfast, barbecue lunch, appreciation goody bag, prizes and a hole-in-one contest, which can win you $10,000 in cash, compliments of the Wolfeboro Lions Club.

All proceeds are 100 percent dedicated to supporting Wolfeboro Lions Club charities, which include the New Hampshire Sight and Hearing Foundation, sight and hearing support for those less fortunate in the greater Wolfeboro area, diabetes awareness and education, Camp Pride for handicapped and underprivileged kids, Operation Kid Sight and book scholarships for needs-based, deserving students.

For more information and registration forms, please call John Adams at 569-4670 or John Askew at 569 0199.

One year out from the trip home from Tokyo

This column goes to print in the first full week in August, which marks

SPORTING CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING

times. We were then asked to give our top three choices for lodging. My until the final days of the 2020 Tokyo Summer Olympics.

In fact, the Summer Olympics closing ceremonies next August will take place on Aug. 9, wrapping up what will (hopefully) be my first Summer Olympics experience.

Last month, I received my confirmation that I had been granted my first choice for lodging for the two-plus weeks I am scheduled to be in Tokyo. The lodging situation in Japan will be a little different than in my previous two Olympic experiences. In Sochi, the media housing was in what was essentially a hotel where I stayed by myself while in PyeongChang, the media housing was essentially apartments, where I had my own room, but shared a living room and kitchen with two other people.

In Tokyo, because the Olympics are happening in an already bustling metropolis, the media housing will be in existing hotels. Each media member was given a list of the hotels, which included the amenities available and travel choices were entirely based on price, since much of this trip I am funding myself (with the help of many wonderful people who have donated). I did receive my first choice, the Tokyo Inn Tozai-sen Nishikasai, which runs at $90 a night. So, the total price for the 18 nights I have reserved (the night before the opening ceremony to the night after the closing ceremony) is just more than $1,600. This actually comes in a little under the price for PyeongChang (if I remember correctly), which in turn was less than Sochi.

I've spent a little time looking at the schedule for next summer and it looks pretty daunting. In the Winter Olympics, my first choice about things to see was any local connections, so I saw a lot of biathlon, alpine skiing and freestyle skiing. I am anticipating fewer local connections in the Summer Olympics, so there might be more of a chance to see different things. In both Russia and Korea, I was able to see pretty much every venue and most every sport, but that certainly will not happen

JOSHUA SPAULDING

THIS WAS THE first Olympic flame I saw, in Sochi, Russia in 2014. The hope is that the first Summer Olympic flame will be next year in Tokyo.

in Tokyo, as the schedule includes a lot more different sports. All told there will be 33 sports and 339 events. That's a lot.

However, I will do whatever I can to see as much as I possibly can, hopefully giving the readers back home a first-hand look at some of the iconic venues, including many that were also used the last time the city hosted the Olympics in 1964. There is a total of 42 venues, 24 which are already existing, 10 that are temporary and eight that are brand new.

That being said, I am interested in any possible local connections that might be at these Summer Games. As the Olympics get closer and qualifiers are held, I welcome any e-mails or phone calls regarding local connections.

For those interested, there is a gofundme page set up for donations to support the trip at <https://www.gofundme.com/f/b4j4gq-tokyo-2020>. I appreciate any donations.

Additionally, in the time leading up to the Summer Olympics, I will periodically update my blog and when I (hopefully) make it to Tokyo next July, I will try to update the blog every day, as I did throughout the Sochi Olympics in 2014 and the PyeongChang Olympics in 2018. The blog can be accessed at <https://salmonsporguy.blogspot.com>.

A year from now, it will be time to start packing up for the return trip home. For now, there's plenty of work to do to prepare.

Finally, have a great day Kevin Malm.
