2018 an "interesting year" so far for fire response

BY ERIN PLUMMER

mnews@salmonpress.news

With a higher volume of calls, especially in August, and some intense incidents Gilford's Fire Chief said the Fire and Rescue Department is having a "very interesting year."

Fire Chief Steve Carrier gave the board of selectmen an update on the department during the Oct. 10 meeting

Carrier said overall this has been a "very interesting year" for emergency calls. There have been 51 more emergency calls this year so far compared to this time last year.

"May was probably our slowest month we've had in the past 10 years, however August was our busiest month ever," Carrier said.

He said they had 208 incidents in the month of August alone.

"We really can't put our finger on it other than obviously the summer is always busy around here and our incidents are very population driven," Carrier said.

He said, however, 2017 had the major rain and wind storm in October that resulted in a high number of incidents and calls. He said with the rest of the year the average number of calls will lower in comparison.

Some major incidents this year have included a garage fire on Watson Road. Carrier said the fire was likely started by some lithium batteries that SEE FIRE PAGE A10

Notes from the Gilford Public Library

BY MARK THOMPSON

Library Correspondent

There are so many books. So many. As librarians, we see deep into the world of authorship, publishing, translation, and distribution. It is a tragic reality that many worthy books will never reach our notice. Debut and undiscovered authors don't always have the means to have their work expertly edited or marketed. The only way to find these diamonds is to look for them beyond the best seller lists. Sure, some will disappoint, but some will go beyond what you or anyone thought was possible with writing.

"Rogue books," we call them. The readers who try them are "rogue readers." The Classics Book Discussion pick this month is "As I Lay Dying" by William Faulkner, for example. Faulkner said that when he first wrote the book he wrote it all between midnight and 4 a.m. over six weeks, and he never edited a word of it. Stream of consciousness writing was hardly mainstream, but rogue readers gave books like "As I Lay Dying" a try anyway. Those who did discovered a mainstay of American literature. It is quiet proof that you don't need to be a best selling author to write something worth reading.

Here at the Library, We try to fill the shelves with books that Gilford patrons will read. That means paying a lot of attention to how popular authors and genres are and finding rogue books to pique readers' interest. If the books you have been reading are losing their interest for you, maybe it's time to go rogue and try something different. You don't have to get right into cerebral classics or poetry, but maybe try a darker novel if you've been reading light, or vice versa.

Go rogue and try Louisa Hall. She wrote "Speak," a story drawn from several stories across time and space. Each story is a different example of an attempt, successful or not, to communicate. Hall's brand new book "Trinity" is a novel about Robert Oppenheimer, father of the atomic bomb. It's told from seven perspectives-together they coalesce into one biography of an enigmatic and apparently conflicted man. Part history, part case study, part biography, Hall's literature shakes up what we expect from a novel.

Try a graphic novel biography. We have some incredible ones, like "Rosalie Lightning" by Tom Hart. Hart and his wife journey through the loss the their child, an experience so indescribable that he attempts to draw it. The death and birth of hope are vividly portrayed between comics and full page imagery. Try something from the teen room. Young Adult literature can be less reserved about addressing real issues. Markus Zusak just published his second book, "Bridge of Clay" coming out 13 years after his surprise hit "The Book Thief." Zusak is an inventive writer. He experiments with sentence structure and spacing to leverage the meaning of his words. Its surprising, which is part of the point! Let's go crazy. GO ROGUE!

LRGH Auxiliary celebrating 125 years of service

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

LACONIA – This weekend's craft fair at Laconia High School benefitting breast cancer patients was just one example of the work of the Lakes Region General Hospital Auxiliary. From purchasing equipment to offering special bags and clothes for patients, the LRGH Auxiliary has played an important role for people all over the Lakes Region and beyond for 125 years.

The LRGH Auxiliary is celebrating its 125th anniversary as an organization. Auxiliary member Barbara Tuttle said the effort started with different women's groups making bed linens and buying dishes for the hospital. These efforts were incorporated into a formal group in 1893 as the Women's Hospital Aid Association.

The Lakes Region General Hospital Auxiliary provides charitable support services to Lakes Region General Hospital in Laconia and its patients. The work of the auxiliary includes purchasing major pieces of equipment, which according to the LRGHhealthcare website, included scanners, blanket warmers, hospital beds, Staxi transport chairs, and others.

The auxiliary funds the LRGH Courtesy Golf Cart, which is driven by volunteers and transports patients between their vehicles and the hospital during the spring through fall.

The auxiliary also provides comfort bags for patients who have undergone a mastectomy, a Crisis Clothing Closet in the emergency department, and comfort dolls for children.

The auxiliary offers an annual scholarship for hospital employees and their families who are pursuing health-care studies.

The organization engages in a number of fundraising campaigns, such as the Red Dress Gala and the Holiday Tree of Love as well as the LRGH Auxiliary Annual Craft Fair.

The LRGH Auxiliary runs the gift shop at the hospital, which Tuttle said is their biggest fundraiser.

For more information on the LRGH Auxiliary call 524-3211, Ext. 3663 or visit <http://www.lrg.org/programs-services/lrg-h-auxiliary>.

Good sports

Life in the Lakes Region can be a tough and tricky thing. Some of our summer, spring and winter months have been known to deliver a lot of misery, with endless rain, snow, ice, and summer heat. Those seasons are definitely challenging. But there is an argument to be made that October is the hardest month....for a non-sports fan.

October hosts a “perfect storm” of post-season major league baseball, pre-season NBA basketball, and the promising early weeks of the National Hockey League and of course NFL Sundays (... and Mondays. And Thursdays.) And everywhere you go, people are talking about sports. The talk at the office and in line at the store is all about the Red Sox, Patriots and eventually the Celtics. How will Kyrie do with the Celtics this year? Can the Sox make it all the way? How long will Brady be able to make it happen? How about those Bruins? October is a buffet line filled with the best of professional sports and we are ready to dig in!

But what if you're the one person in town who doesn't know Tom Brady from Alex Cora? What if Monday morning finds you mumbling a sheepish hello to co-workers who can't stop high-fiving each other about the Patriots easy win and you think it's a Revolutionary War reference? How does a non-sports fan survive the month of October in a region steeped in professional sports greatness?

Well, first of all, take comfort: there's pumpkin spice and maple flavor – lots of it. There are also hayrides and harvest festivals, flannel shirts and cozy sweatshirts. There are craft fairs, warm cider, and cold crunchy leaves. There are football games - the fun high school type, complete with marching bands and drum battles. There's Halloween and trick-or-treat and spooky inflatable ghosts, pumpkins and spiders.

If Red SOX don't do it for you, how about the red leaves of the sugar maples? There isn't a more beautiful and colorful region in the country than the Lakes Region in October. The lakes and woods and mountains that surround us might not offer many “Bruin” sightings but they have their share of coyotes, bats, squirrels, raccoons, wild turkey and moose.

Taking nothing away from our friends and neighbors who spend October glued to any device that will live-stream the MLB playoffs, it is nevertheless great to remember that this region is our playground and it's there to be enjoyed all year long, in every season. But the colorful, magical, pumpkin-spice-scented month of October just seems to – well – hit a grand slam.

FROM OUR READERS

Vote for Eliza Leadbeater

To the Editor:

Experience in business, education, visionary leadership, economic development.

Cares about her community and is driven to help improve the lives of people in that community.

Honesty, no hidden agendas.

If these are the qualities and skills you consider important for your representative in the New Hampshire House of Representatives, and you live in Belknap County District 2 (Meredith – Gilford), then please consider casting one of your votes for independent candidate Eliza Leadbeater.

I have known Eliza for the past two years when we both moved to the same retirement community, Wesley Woods in Gilford. In the past two years I have come to know Eliza and have worked with her on a project to study the feasibility of developing a solar energy farm for the community in which we live. In working with Eliza on this project, and through getting to know her through other community activities, here are some of the things I have discovered:

Experience in Business – In the early 70's, Eliza founded her own manufacturing and mail-order business in England, with products from this business reaching over 35 countries. In 1982 she divided and sold the company as four separate businesses and returned to New England, founding an import business for European antiques, textiles, and other products.

Education – She has worked as a high school teacher, and in administrative capacities at New England College, Keene State College, and UVM.

Visionary leadership and economic development – Eliza served 15 years as the founding Executive Director of the Belknap County Economic Development Council. It is this position where she effectively helped fostered economic development in the Lakes Region by collaboratively working with diverse groups in business, government at the state and local levels, and education. Her efforts were key in developing financial resources to launch and expand businesses, non-profits, and community projects, creating training programs, and in bringing high speed internet to the Lakes Region.

Cares about her community and honesty – Here is where I can offer some personal experiences, and where I know Eliza first hand. Eliza was the inspiration behind an idea that our community might be able to stabilize our electric bills while reducing our carbon footprint by considering building a solar farm. She asked me to join with her and several other residents to begin exploring the benefits, costs, and ways to finance the project to make it feasible and cost effective. I have to say that she is good at gently motivating people and inspiring collaboration. Soon I found myself doing a lot more than I initially expected! And, I was enjoying it! Her vision and enthusiasm are infectious. As I have come to know her better over the past several years, I believe her to be a genuinely honest person. What you see is what you are going to get. She is interested in helping people and her community to collaborate for the benefit of all, and will listen to people. Without any reservation, I enthusiastically recommend a vote for Eliza to fill one of the NH State Representative seats for Belknap County District 2. Please consider her when you go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Lions Club Electronic Waste Collection Day was a great success

To the Editor:

The recent Laconia-Gilford Lions Club Electronic Waste Collection Day on Oct. 13 was a great success, and the Lions are grateful to all those who brought items and participated in it. Thanks to you, we filled up two large trucks with recyclable electronic items.

Special thanks to the owners of the Cinema's 8 plaza in Gilford, WJP Development, LLC, for allowing us to use their parking lot for this fundraiser.

The money that the Lions raised will allow the Club to meet pressing needs in our community including eye exams, eye glasses, eye screening in the schools, hearing aids, scholarships to graduating seniors, Christmas baskets, assistance to food pantries, Lakes Region Community Services, Community Health & Hospice, among many other local charities. The Lions greatly appreciate all of your support and look forward to seeing you on April 13, 2019 for our spring Electronic Waste fundraiser.

The Lions are looking for service-minded people to join us. We meet the first and the third Thursday of each month of the year except in January and February. For more information, call 528-2663.

Thank you all.

Vote for Rosemary Uiker

To the Editor:

We are witnessing a low point in American politics. Partisan politicians are destroying our country in their relentless pursuit of power and control. We need to take our country back again by replacing our hapless incumbents with hard working citizens determined to fix our broken system. Let's start at the local level. Residents of Meredith and Gilford, please vote to elect Rosemary Uiker to the NH House of Representatives.

A former educator, Rosemary and her husband Bill toiled countless hours managing a family business while raising five children in New Hampshire. Rosemary's intellect, integrity, matched with her boundless energy paid dividends when she entered the real estate industry and quickly became one of New Hampshire's most successful agents. The focus of her life, however, never strayed from family and her children are a testimony to that. Every one of Rosemary and Bill's children has achieved success. Many may know her son, Barry Uiker from Silver Sands or her daughter, Ellen Mulligan, who like her mother worked tirelessly to become NH's most successful real estate agent, while raising her own family.

We would be fortunate to have such an intelligent, hardworking, and ethical person represent Meredith and Gilford.

If you agree it's time to take our state and country back, let's start now. Please join me and send Rosemary Uiker to the New Hampshire House of Representatives.

How about considering an Independent?

To the Editor:

How many of us decry the partisanship, and nastiness of the current political scene?

Wouldn't it be nice if there were someone free to work across party lines, who had no agenda but the economic success of New Hampshire? Well we do! Eliza Leadbeater is running as an Independent for Belknap County District 2 Gilford and Meredith, and a vote for her would be a vote for a better future for NH and our country.

She has an impressive work background. After living in England for 15 years starting her own business there, she worked in Economic Development in Vermont. In the 90's she was hired as the Belknap County Director of Economic Development. On a shoestring budget she developed a revolving loan fund which brought millions of dollars to the area and helped numerous area businesses make a go of it, when banks had turned them down.

She has been the “go to” person to help get tax credits for start-up businesses, housing efforts, and arts organizations.

She understands programs of the federal government, that when combined with local resources can move projects forward. To coin a phrase, she “knows how to make deals.” She was behind many initiatives, including helping to put together federal, state, and local funding for the shoe factory building, which brought moderate income housing, the Lakes Regon Daycare Center, and the medical facility to the huge old mill at Busy Corner. The redevelopment of the old Allen Rogers building into Beacon Street West housing was a dream of hers. Her encouragement brought the Winnepesaukee Playhouse to Meredith, worked to see the complex in Lakeport converted to the Opechee Inn, and saved the former Endless Belt mill on the river in Tilton from demolition.

Back in the 90's she worked with local businesses and high school students in a program to encourage young people to stay local. She arranged for students to tour local factories and learn about jobs with a good wages, health benefits, and retirement options.

She was looking to make the “Stay, Work, Play” theme a reality years ago. Even in her retirement, she has been advising local businesses and organizations, as well as being a tireless volunteer/fundraiser for the Meredith Library.

Her creativity, and vast experience would make her an asset to our Belknap Legislative delegation, as well as the Legislature. I hope you'll consider her ability to bring people together to solve NH's problems. Gilford and Meredith voters look for her in the Independent column on your ballot.

18th Annual Community Spelling Bee: Pulling for the gold, who will win?

LACONIA – The Pleasant Street School “Word Builders,” are facing off against the “New Bees” from Woodland Heights as well as 23 other teams getting ready for the 18th Annual Community Spelling Bee sponsored by the Lakes Region Scholarship Foundation.

LRSF Assistant Director, Karen Switzer said “this year there will be an added incentive for each of the Bee teams. Not only will they be competing for the coveted Bee trophy and in the costume contests, but also the team with the greatest number of audience mem-

It appears there is a lot of advertising on TV and direct mail proposing final expense insurance. This final expense insurance is typically for a 10 or maybe $20,000 death benefit. Some of these policies are guaranteed issue which typically means if the insured passes in the first two years the beneficiary will only get the premium payments returned. Other final expense policies may ask questions about your health known as “knockout questions” whereas if answered with a no, the insurance company will then check with the medical information Bureau or MIB to determine if they should insure you. The premium payments of these policies can be very expensive because the insurance company is working with the law of large numbers and without a full para-med underwriting profile, that creates a “risk pool”. Insurance company actuaries are very good at determining risk providing that they are given enough information on the potential insured.

You should also be aware that the commissions to agents on these products tend to be very high compared to a traditional fully underwritten life insurance policy. Many people who apply for these final expense policies are looking for the simplicity of what amounts to a one-page application. Some people apply for the guaranteed issue because they think they may have a health issue that would prevent them from getting an underwritten life policy. Often these health issues may be addressed in a fully underwritten policy that potentially could have much more death benefit or a lower premium.

One thing that I’ve learned while helping clients obtain good life insurance is that most insurance companies underwriting criteria varies from company to company and even underwriter to underwriter within the company. The advisors in my office work with insurance companies that we can communicate with the underwriter evaluating our client’s application. Additional or clarification of information is often needed for the underwriter to properly classify or rate a policy.

In my opinion, the logical step for anyone wanting to look at a life insurance policy, especially if they may have potential medical issues should consider speaking with an agent who has experience in field underwriting and can communicate with underwriters at the insurance companies. This often gives you direction towards which type of policy you may be best suited to apply for.

While the insurance policy may be referred to as final expense or a burial policy, the need may exist for liquid assets upon one’s death. For example, your spouse has assets bers present to support them will win $100. She added that, “admission to the LRSF Community Bee is free and audience members have the opportunity to win some great door prizes between each round just for coming.”

Included in the lineup for the evening in addition to the teams pictured are the “Bewitching Spellers” from the Congregational Church, the “Collegiate Cowboys” from Stand Up Laconia, the “Cross Word Spellers” from Cross Insurance, the “Sanguine Sachems” led by LHS Principal, Frederickson, the “Killer Bees” led by the Superintendent of Laconia Schools Brendan Minnihan, the Laconia Librarians team, the Gilford Rotary Team and a team from the Laconia City Council led by Councilor David Bownes. A number of area high school teams are participating as well including: from Laconia High School, two teams from the LHS Band: the “Treble Makers” and the “Treble Clefs,” LHS National Honor Society “Notoriously Horrible Spellers,” the LHS Key Club “BEE-tles,” the LHS Senior Class Officers, the LHS “We Put a Spell on You,” and the “Educators Rising” from the Huot Center. From Gilford High School the Gilford Volleyball team will be present along with the “Three Stooges,” the “Three Blind Mice,” and the “Three Musketeers” from the GHS Business Department. Belmont High will be represented by the “Crimson Squids” and the “Vitamin Bees” from their National English Honor Society. Rounding out the roster for the evening are the “Blithe Spirits” from Holy Trinity School and the “Moosebusters,” from the Mousseau family.

LRSF Executive Director, Paulette Loughlin noted that the event is open to anyone interested in a unique and fun evening’s entertainment. Door prizes include gift cards for area restaurants, supermarkets, hair salons, and entertainment venues. So why not come, cheer on your favorite team and help them to win the supporters prize, and see who can win this

“o-r-t-h-o-g-r-a-p-h-i-c” competition, you might even take something home yourself.”

The annual event will take place on Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 25 at the Laconia High School Auditorium.

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

The Inquisition of My Self

BY LARRY SCOTT

One can scarcely imagine what it would be like, over a span of some 60 years, to house and care for 10,024 children. George Muller did so, and what was most outstanding, he did so without disclosing his financial needs to anyone but God. Self-interests were subordinated to the divine will, and God honored the effort. The secret of his success was disclosed when he made this observation:

“There was a day when I died; died to self, my opinion, preferences, tastes and will; died to the world, its approval or censure; died to the approval or blame even of my brethren or friends; and since then I have studied only to show myself approved of God (from AZ Quotes, George Muller Quotes). Additionally, he founded

117 schools, and provided education to more than 120,000 children prior to his death in 1898 (Wikipedia, George Muller).

It is almost impossible for any of us to reach that level of self-sacrifice, even when our surrender is to God. I believe it can be stated that, almost without exception, every human conflict comes down to the issue of self. Some call it the ego, the Bible calls it the flesh, but whatever you call it, self demands to be King! Self is in the docket; it has been tried and found guilty.

I have been humbled, shamed, and distressed beyond words to discover that after years of prayer, self-discipline and living by my Christian convictions, my self is still clamoring to believe the world revolves around me! I was, of course, born that way. Within just a few moments after birth, my doctor thought I needed a “good one” across the backside. Ten minutes old, and my temper exploded! I let the world know what I thought of these miserable creatures called people.

I began life demanding my own way. Although restricted by common sense, my parents, and the law, I have continued to demand my own way ever since. I want to play the fiddle; I want the rest of the world dance to MY tune!

“Every person ... is seeking to build and establish his own self-image, his own self, his own empire. The most naturally loving and kind are yet fully “selfish.”... [O]utside of the lordship of the Lord Jesus Christ, the flesh will rule and destroy (Sandford, Restoring the Christian Family, Ch. 11).

Many of us have a sincere desire to model the Master; we just want to do so on our own terms! Man’s way and God’s way have been in conflict ever since those heady days in the Garden of Eden. By nature, we don’t want anyone – including God – to tell us how to live. I, too, would enjoy a life of unrestrained freedom, if only I could avoid the consequences.

I am still motivated by the drive to be supreme. I am also pleased to tell you I am changing, and, despite the struggle, I remain positive. I believe in a God of the impossible, a God of second chances. As I have often signed-off in my journal, PBPGITWY! Please be patient; God’s isn’t through with me yet!

You want to talk about it? Hit me up at rlarryscott@gmail.com.

Local fundraisers recognized by Jewish Federation of New Hampshire

LACONIA – The Jewish Federation of New Hampshire presented their annual “Shem Tov” (good name) awards on Sunday, Oct. 7 in Manchester. Included in the 14 recipients were Karen Lukeman of Bristol and Barbara Katz of New Hampton, members of Temple B’nai Israel of Laconia. Lukeman and Katz were selected by the TBI board of trustees for their many contributions to the We Care fundraising committee, as well as other temple activities including the annual Jewish Food Festival. The Shem Tov awards were created by the Jewish Federation of New Hampshire to recognize volunteers from organizations across New Hampshire who have provided outstanding service to the Jewish community.

Karen Lukeman is a founding member of the We Care committee which was created in 2012. She developed and implemented the very successful marketing program currently being used. When Barbara Katz moved from the Baltimore, Maryland, area to the Lakes Region in 2013 she joined Temple B’nai Israel and was recruited by Karen Lukeman to be on the

Through nine different musical events over four and a half years, they have raised, and given away, to seven different local non-profits, nearly $60,000. These concerts, held twice a year in the spring and fall, have supported families, veterans, domestic abuse victims, children and the homeless.

The next We Care event takes place on Saturday, Oct. 27 when the Gathering Time Folk Trio performs in a concert benefitting Central New Hampshire VNA & Hospice. Enjoy an evening of memorable music from the 60’s and 70’s as well as complimentary snacks and desserts at the Inter-Lakes Community Auditorium in Meredith (Inter-Lakes High School, 1 Laker Lane). Doors open at 7 p.m. and the concert begins at 7:45 P.m. Purchase tickets online at www.tbinh.org. Arrive early for best seats and great refreshments.

Karen is still heavily involved in the We Care marketing efforts as Barbara pilots the ship. Their team approach, along with a small committee of volunteers including Rick and Molly Notkin, Jill Lieberman and Barbara Goren, is a critical path to the marketing success that We Care has experienced.

LRPA After dark celebrates Halloween with its third annual "Shocktoberfest"

LACONIA — It's baaaaack! Throughout October, join Lakes Region Public Access Television each Friday and Saturday night at 10:30 p.m. for LRPA After Dark's third Annual "Shocktoberfest," a scary celebration of the vintage horror films. This weekend (Oct. 26 and 27), we close out the month with a cult classic from 1968: "Spider Baby," starring Lon Chaney, Jr., Carol Ohmart, Beverly Washburn, Jill Banner, Sid Haig and Quinn Redeker. On the outskirts of town, a rundown mansion houses the Merrye family: three young adults named Ralph (Haig), Elizabeth (Washburn), and Virginia (Banner), plus an elderly aunt and uncle who live in the basement. They suffer from a genetic degenerative brain disease — "Merrye Syndrome" — that leaves them demented, regressively child-like, and occasionally murderous. Since the death of the siblings' father, the family has been looked after by their loyal chauffeur and caretaker, Bruno (Chaney), who loves them despite their many issues. Bruno protects them from the outside world as best as he can, but the progressive nature of their disease makes it harder and harder to cover up their misdeeds. The family's secretive existence is shattered by the arrival of distant relatives Emily (Ohmart) and Peter (Redeker), along with their lawyer and his assistant. The greedy cousins have learned of Mr. Merrye's death, and hope to gain possession of the mansion. The siblings don't trust these outsiders, believing that they want to split up the family. The cousins insist on spending the night at the mansion. When Bruno leaves to run some errands, the visitors get an unforgettable lesson on just what the "Merrye Syndrome" is all about. Will everyone make it out of the mansion alive?

In an article for Turner Classic Movies, film critic Richard Harland Smith wrote, "Regardless of what may have inspired it or what subsequent films it may have influenced, "Spider Baby" remains very much its own animal." Perhaps no truer words have ever been written about this blackly comedic horror film. "Spider Baby" has no graphic violence or nudity, but its creepy atmosphere and sexual innuendo definitely leave an impression upon its viewer. Director Jack Hill, a protégé of filmmaker Roger Corman and a UCLA film school classmate of Francis Ford Coppola, shot this film in a mere 12 days for $65,000. He got great performances from his cast, including the very young Sid Haig, who went onto a successful career in horror films, and particularly Lon Chaney, Jr., who many critics felt gave the performance of his career. Quentin Tarantino has listed Hill's movies (including the "Blaxploitation" films "Coffy" and "Foxy Brown") as being influential on his own. "Spider Baby" was shot in 1964, but sat unreleased for nearly four years due to bankruptcy and distribution problems. It was eventually released to drive-in theaters with other campy classics such as "Dr. Terror's House of Horrors." Many filmgoers and critics of its day had no idea what to make of it, but more than 50 years after its debut, "Spider Baby" is rightly considered a cult classic. This film can still divide an audience — viewers either love it or hate it. Watch it for yourself and choose a side! So grab your candy corn and join LRPA after dark for this funny, freaky and frightening film from the past.

You can't find television like this it anywhere but LRPA TV, Atlantic Broadband Channel 25. Not a subscriber? Then log onto Live Stream through our website (www.lrpa.org) where you can catch all the fun.

Boston's Vintage Vocal Quartet in concert, Nov. 4

LACONIA — The 1930's and '40's hit the sweet spot when swing, jazz and pop music were one and the same. It was a time when every radio blared out music that was danceable, but sophisticated.

The Vintage Vocal Quartet bring back that era with their sweet harmonies in the next Taylor Community Concert Series, scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 4 at 3 p.m. in the Woodside Building. The event is free and open to the public. Taylor O'Donnell, David Thorne Scott, Adam Gautille, and Paul Pampinella are all vocalists who double on piano, bass, guitar, and trumpet to delight the audience with the full, rich style of the big band era in a tight little package. Reminisce to the sound of Glenn Miller's Modernaires, the Nat King Cole Trio, the Andrews Sisters and Tommy Dorsey's Pied Pipers, as well as Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Ella Fitzgerald and Jo Stafford. This event is sure to bring back great memories.

Free financial planning workshops at Lakes Region Community College

LACONIA — Lakes Region Community College (LRCC) and Gregory Caulfield will be offering three financial planning workshops in November. The workshops will run Saturday, Nov. 3, Saturday, Nov. 10, and Saturday, Nov. 17. All three workshops are free, and will be in Lakes Region Community College's Center for Arts and Technology (CAT) Building, room 215 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Individuals interested in attending can pre-register for these popular workshops using Eventbrite. The first workshop is titled "Social Security and Medicare Planning" and will be offered Nov. 3. This workshop is for anyone, but specifically baby boomers who wish to have a better understanding of the Social Security System. "Retirement Planning" will be offered Nov. 10. The workshop will address such issues as why to develop a retirement plan, retirement strategies and planning topics, such as retirement income replacement strategies. The third workshop, "Investment Planning," will be held Nov. 17. The goal of this investing basics workshop will be to remove the intimidation factor that often comes with investing. Topics covered will include investing strategies, risk types, risk tolerance, and more. To pre-register and obtain more information about these workshops, go to www.lrcc.edu/workshops. Gregory Caulfield entered the financial industry in 1989 after serving in the United States Air Force. He has been with Morgan Stanley (formerly Smith Barney) in Gilford since 1991. Caulfield consults with clients to develop financial plans and strategies that guide them from working years through retirement and legacy planning. "I am committed to expanding my knowledge and mastery of the ever-changing financial industry and Firm resources to better serve all clients", said Caulfield. In 2016, he obtained the "Chartered Retirement Planning Counselor" designation, and in 2018 earned the internal designation of Portfolio Manager.

In September of 2009 Dudley was awarded the nation’s highest honor in the folk and traditional arts – the National Heritage Fellowship. The National Endowment for the Arts, which bestows the fellowships, presented the award to Dudley, only the third NH resident to receive such an award, in a Washington, D.C. ceremony.

Dudley describes himself as a self-taught musician, having learned by the oral tradition. Besides storytelling appearances at the Corner House, he appears regularly at kitchen junkets, barn dances, schools, weddings, summer camps, and elder hostels. Yankee magazine recently said “History owes Dudley Laufman a great debt, as do those of us who love to gather and dance and share music.” Ernest Thompson, New Hampshire resident and author of “On Golden Pond,” succinctly conveys Laufman’s contributions to New England dance: “I think Dudley Laufman belongs in the pantheon of genuine American artists. He belongs in Franconia Notch, the real Old Man of the Mountain.”

Come enjoy this fine evening of Yankee storytelling and music on Thursday, Nov. 1. Storytelling dinners are held at the Corner House Inn each Thursday evening beginning at 6:30 p.m. The cost is $25 per person (plus tax and gratuity). For more information and reservations contact the Corner House Inn in Center Sandwich at 284-6219 or online at info@cornerhouseinn.com.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

Pension Buyout Offer: Annuity or Lump Sum?

If you participate in a pension plan at work, you might be offered a buyout at some point. This could happen if your employer wants to shrink its future pension obligations or if your company has been bought, and your new employer decides to terminate your existing pension plan. In either case, you will likely have two main options: You can take your pension as a lump sum of your accrued benefits, or you can convert it to an annuity, which can be structured to provide you with a lifetime income stream. Which choice is best?

There’s no right answer, but here are some factors to consider:

Comfort in investing – If you take your pension as a lump sum, you can invest it yourself – but you’ll be solely responsible for making the money last throughout your retirement. To help ensure your lump sum is invested in a way that’s appropriate for your goals and risk tolerance, you may want to work with a financial professional.

Other sources of retirement income – If you don’t think you will have enough money from other sources – such as Social Security and your investment portfolio – to meet your essential living expenses during retirement, you may want to consider taking your pension funds as a lifetime annuity. (Keep in mind that the lifetime income payments from an annuity are subject to the issuer’s ability to meet its commitments.) Conversely, if you think your retirement income will be more than sufficient to meet your living expenses, you could take the lump sum and put it in a mix of investments, some of which could offer long-term growth potential.

Projected longevity – If you come from a long-living family and you are in good health at the time of your pension buyout, you may want to annuitize your pension to provide a source of income you can’t outlive. However, if you anticipate a shorter life span, possibly due to your family’s medical history, you might be better off by taking the lump sum.

Wealth transfer goals – You might not be able to transfer a pension’s annuity payments to your children or grandchildren. On the other hand, by taking the lump sum and investing it, you might have assets remaining at the time of your death – and you can include these assets in your estate plans.

Taxes – If you take your pension buyout as a lump sum, it will be taxable as ordinary income, unless you roll it over to an IRA or an employer’s qualified retirement plan. A direct rollover from your employer’s pension plan to your IRA provider won’t incur immediate taxes and can allow your investment to grow on a tax-deferred basis. Consult with your tax advisor before making this rollover. (Eventually, you will be taxed on the withdrawals, and withdrawals made before you reach 59 ½ may be subject to a 10% tax penalty.)

It’s worth noting that some pension plans may allow you to split your benefit between an annuity and a lump sum, although these plans seem to be in the minority. Clearly, you’ll have much to consider if you’re offered a buyout of your pension. So, take your time, evaluate all the factors, and work with your tax, legal and financial professionals to reach the decision that makes the most sense for you.

years ago Ginny Witkin, who is now the Breast Health Coordinator at LRGHealthcare, approached the auxiliary about making comfort bags, which cost around $40-$50 per bag. The fair started as a way to raise money for those bags.

The bags now cost more as they also include a camisole with a prosthesis as well as a teddy bear, a handbook, a stress ball, and other items. Thanks to this event, the LRGH Auxiliary provides 100 totebags a year to patients.

Tuttle said they will receive thank you notes from those who have received these bags.

"All it takes is one to make it worthwhile," Tuttle said.

A number of vendors are breast cancer survivors themselves or they are close to someone who has battled the disease.

Tuttle said turnout was really good overall.

"Many of our vendors have been here for 10, 12, 15 years," Tuttle said.

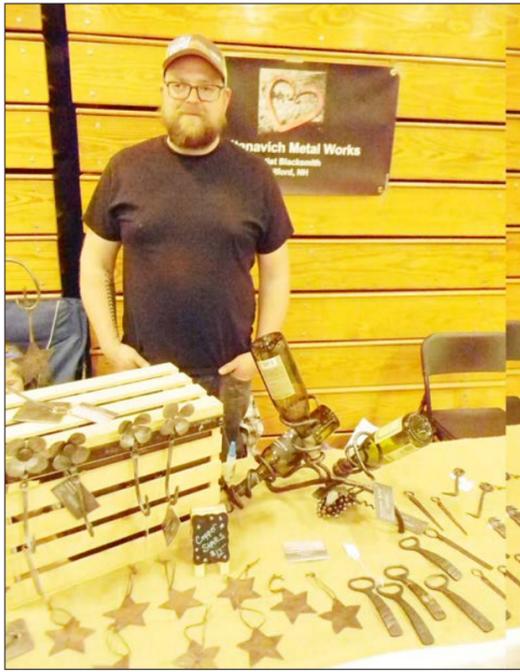

Jason Paltanavich of Gilford is a blacksmith who makes metal items for his company Paltanavich Metal Works in his home forge.

"I'd say I'm mainly inspired by nature," Paltanavich said. "I love dragonflies, I love flowers."

He said he also likes to put a whimsical style in his pieces.

Paltanavich has been doing blacksmithing for the past three years.

Paltanavich is a stay-at-home dad and blacksmithing is a way to be creative. He said he hopes his daughter will get interested in blacksmithing too.

This was his first year at the LRGHealthcare Auxiliary Fair and said he had a good time with it.

Susan Merritt of Laconia does watercolor paintings for her business Susan Merritt Watercolors.

"Painting has helped me to just relax

She said she has taken classes from many different artists.

"I am definitely a flower person," Merritt said. "I love anything outside, nature."

cards with Merritt's artwork can be found at Moulton Farm in Meredith where she works as well as Sunflower Natural Foods and New Leaf in Laconia, and the Lakes Region Art Association Gallery in Tilton. She also sells her cards and prints on her Etsy site, SMerrittWatercolors.etsy.com.

Selling at a craft fair is a new experience for her. She said her kids have gone to Laconia schools so she was already familiar with the school.

Merritt herself is a 10-year breast cancer survivor and received treatment at LRGH. She said the proceeds from this fair go to a good cause.

but primarily nonliquid such as real estate or a business. Even though those assets may be abundant you don't want to put the survivor in a situation where they must "fire sale" assets to raise cash. When speaking with clients whose children are older and not dependent on them anymore, the tendency is to think that they don't need life insurance. But you really must consider if you or your spouse passed unexpectedly is there enough cash in the bank or liquid investments that could hold them over if they needed to sell more non-liquid assets.

had been in storage. A backdraft out the garage door caused an explosion, though there was little overall damage.

A plane operated by a student pilot came into Laconia Airport hit the runway hard, doing some damage to runway itself and some lighting. Carrier said no one was injured and he was hesitant to describe it as a plane crash.

The department responded to a number of different search and rescue calls in the mountains, which Carrier said can be labor intensive.

Of the around 183,000 concertgoers at Bank of New Hampshire Pavilion this season, the department treated 206 and transported 20 from the venue. Carrier said most of the incidents were from falls with twisted ankles and knees as well as alcohol related illnesses.

"Really it's a fairly low percentage of people that we see and treat at those concerts, but its our pleasure to serve down there and to be the EMS caregivers for that venue," Carrier said.

The Gilford Fire and Rescue Department has been part of a number of Mutual Aid calls, including a four-alarm building fire in Bristol.

Carrier reported that the new fireboat has been delayed and is still being built. Carrier said Eastern Boats informed him they have been really busy this season, plus they have had some difficulties with employment over the summer months and could not keep up with the schedule. While the boat was projected to be in the water by the end of this season, Carrier said it will definitely be ready by the beginning of spring.

PENNY SALE

admission to the event is free.

Hundreds of local area businesses donate assorted prizes to support this fundraiser. The raffle prizes awarded range from the sublime to the ridiculous and have included such things as dining gift certificates, vaccinations for pets, ski passes, a kitchen sink and even dental work! Each item becomes part of a list of 50 prizes that is raffled off individually to the people who hold raffle tickets for that list. Each raffle ticket is purchased for 50 cents, with 50 opportunities in the round for that ticket to be picked as a winner, thus the name "Penny Sale". Several rounds of lists of 50 prizes are offered that evening, with the last round containing prizes each worth $75 or much more. Tension is high in the Plymouth High School gymnasium as tickets are drawn and the lucky winners are determined.

Eight Grand Prizes donated by Penny Sale sponsors will also be awarded to the lucky ticket holders of the Grand Prize Raffle Drawing, the final drawing of the evening. Prizes include: A 1-week stay donated by Cold Spring Resort (a $1,000 value); a 1-week stay on Newfound Lake donated by Debbie Hart (a $1,000 value); $500 cash donated by Bank of New Hampshire and Bridgewater Power Company; 100 gallons of fuel oil donated by Dead River Company;

100 gallons of fuel oil donated by Pemi River Fuels; a $200 Shop Local shopping spree; a handmade lap quilt donated by Sarah Bunkley; and various wood products donated by the Plymouth Regional High School Woodshop Class.

Grand Prize Ticket Holders do not need to be present to win a prize. Grand Prize Tickets may be purchased from any Plymouth Rotarian in advance of the Penny Sale, but will also be on sale during the course of the evening. Tickets are $2 each or three for $5. Another generous event sponsor is The Common Man, sponsor of our ticket printing and host for Plymouth Rotary breakfast meetings at Foster's every Wednesday morning at 7 a.m.

Fun is the order of business throughout the evening, as Rotarians sell "lucky" tickets to their favorite customers while folks in the audience heckle their hosts. And there are always surprises, too. Last year, many turkeys were given away as additional prizes to lucky ticket holders - ensuring a great dinner or Thanksgiving feast for the recipients. You can bet that the Rotarians will have some tricks up their sleeves this year again, with DJ Patrick Dunaway providing musical entertainment throughout the evening, and with food for sale by PRHS students out in the hall.

The Penny Sale is Plymouth Rotary's way of helping local students prepare for the challenges that lay ahead as they approach further education after high school. The Plymouth Rotarians annually offer scholarships to assist deserving students as they seek out traditional four-year colleges, vocational/technical training, or return to school after work experiences. Last year, 10 students received scholarships totaling $11,000.00.

Additional Penny Sale sponsors include Woodsville Guaranty Bank, Meredith Village Savings Bank, NH Electric Co-op, Laconia Eye and Laser Center, CMD Bookkeeping, and Squam Lake Financial Advisors, LLC. The Plymouth Rotarians thank the entire generous business community for its long-standing support of the Penny Sale.

The Plymouth Rotarians urge their friends and neighbors to set aside the time to enjoy a fun evening supporting a great cause. Come as a family, come as a group, or just come, it's guaranteed to be the best show in town!

A new 33 KW solar PV array is the centerpiece of energy efficiency improvements at the Whole Village Family Resource Center.

Whole Village energy makeover brings everyone to the table

PLYMOUTH – A one-of-a-kind partnership is saving thousands in energy costs and putting food on the table – literally – at a Plymouth area homeless shelter.

Extensive upgrades of the energy infrastructure at Whole Village Family Resource Center and the neighboring Bridge House shelter is projected to save up to $25,000 annually in propane and electricity costs, some of which has already been repurposed to start a nightly family-style meal for Bridge House residents and staff.

“It’s done wonders for the cohesiveness of the group,” said Susan Amburg, Director of the Whole Village Family Resource Center. “You have a different relationship after you’ve sat across the table from someone.”

It’s the culmination of a two-and-a-half year project that involved nearly as many partners as the number of solar panels installed on the roof of the two buildings. Local and state organizations, from the Granite United Way and NH Charitable Foundation to New Hampshire Electric Cooperative (NHEC) and Plymouth Area Renewable Energy Initiative (PAREI), joined forces to identify energy-saving opportunities and create a detailed project schedule. The result has been an overall 80 percent reduction in annual electricity consumption.

Sandra Jones, Director of PAREI and de facto project manager, said the Whole Village project was guided by a simple mantra: “Reduce Before You Produce.” Initial efforts focused on improving the energy efficiency of the buildings by retrofitting indoor and outdoor lighting with LED fixtures and timers, installing a new central air conditioning unit, reducing standby power loss, adjusting HVAC controls, and educating building occupants on behavioral changes that make more efficient use of energy.

With an efficient building shell and energy systems in place, construction was completed in May 2018 on a new 33 kilowatt (kW) solar photovoltaic (PV) array capable of producing enough power for eight typical homes. The new array on the roof of the Whole Village building joins a 25 kW solar PV array at the Bridge House which was one of the project’s first undertakings. At Whole Village the combination of the occupant’s energy conservation, the new energy efficiency upgrades and two month old solar PV array, have resulted in an annual electricity consumption drop from 122,610 kilowatt-hours (kWh) to 47,537kWh in July of 2018.

“And once the solar PV is on line for a year we expect to see their electric load at Whole Village drop to 22,200kWh annually. That’s an 82 percent drop”, said Sandra Jones. “The directors of both Whole Village and Bridge House came to PAREI asking for ways to reduce their energy and their costs. We made it happen one meeting, one step and one building at a time.”

The majority of funding for the project came from the generosity of local and statewide businesses who purchased $321,875 in NH tax credits provided by the New Hampshire Community Development Finance Authority (CDFA).

Businesses that donate to local projects that have received a CDFA business tax credit grant can get at least 75 percent of that contribution back in the form of a state business tax credit. A roster of local and statewide businesses stepped up to purchase the tax credits and donate to the project.

Also taking a lead role in the project was NHEC, which provided technical advice and incentives totaling more than $20,000.

“The amount of staff time the Co-op dedicated to this project was so appreciated,” Amburg said.

MANCHESTER — The Gilford High School volleyball team has been dominant all season and the Golden Eagles' record has shown just that as the team finished off an undefeated regular season with a win over Manchester West on Thursday night.

The Golden Eagles made it look easy in their final game of the season. Gilford won by scores of 25-7, 25-3 and 25-5 in a sweep.

Gilford field hockey heads back to semifinals

BY BOB MARTIN

Bob@Salmonpress.news

GILFORD- It was a great week for the Gilford field hockey team, which had a pair of gutsy wins in the state tournament to advance to the semifinals.

On Tuesday, the Golden Eagles advanced to their seventh straight quarter final round with a 1-0 dramatic win over Mascenic. In what was a very aggressive defensive game, Laurel Gingrich scored on a penalty stroke with three minutes left.

Coach Dave Rogacki said that both teams had opportunities to score throughout, but nobody could put the

at home against Plymouth. The seniors include Maggie McNeil, Lexi Boisvert, Jennie Gannon and Karly Sanborn.

"All four are integral to the success of GVT 18 and work hard every day to lead by example," Tripp said. "They display strong work ethic, determination and a deep desire to succeed."

Gilford won the first set 25-15 but lost 27-25 in the second set. The Golden Eagles bounced back with two straight wins of identical scores of 25-13.

The team was led by senior outside hitter McNeil, who was unstoppable on defense with 22 digs. Tripp said that she was also steady and strong on the serve receive. Middle blocker Abby O'Connor also had seven kills with no errors on the night. Senior outside hitter Boisvert had 11 kills and was praised for her strategic play in finding holes on the court to put the ball. She also had 19 defensive ups and was great on the serve receive, Tripp said.

Sanborn was strong defensively and ran the offense well with 19 assists. She had two setter kills, as well, which was a team goal for Gilford. Lindsey SEE VOLLEYBALL PAGE B3

Hockey community gathers to remember Ben Baldwin

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — When a young person is taken way too early, there's going to be a quest to try and carry on his or her legacy, but knowing exactly how to do that isn't always easy.

However, with young Ben Baldwin, it was pretty obvious that carrying on that legacy would involve ice hockey.

Baldwin tragically passed away in a car accident earlier this year and Kingswood hockey coach Mike Potenza, who is active in the hockey community in Wolfboro, knew the hockey community should honor the youngster.

This weekend at the Pop Whalen Arena, young hockey players from around the state gathered to pay tribute to Baldwin at the first Ben Baldwin Memorial Hockey Tournament.

"It's a perfect tribute to my son," said Rich Baldwin, who has been a coach with Back Bay Hockey and the Kingswood girls' hockey program for years. He noted that there were plenty of discussions about what to do to carry on Ben's legacy and this seemed like a natural fit.

"I knew I wanted to do something," Potenza said, noting that local hockey players had been doing things for the family over the course of the last few months and this was a continuation of them supporting one of their own.

"It fits into everything we do to help our community," Potenza said.

The proceeds from the tournament will go to the Ben Baldwin Memorial Scholarship, which is in place to help local athletes with expenses that come with playing sports.

"It's to keep kinds involved in sports, it doesn't matter what sport it is," Potenza said, noting that the scholarship is open to kids of all ages from around the local area. "If you're an athlete and need a little assistance, this is what the fund is for."

The tournament, which featured eight mite level teams, had cross-ice games on Saturday, with each team getting three games. On Sunday, the teams returned and each team got a pair of full-ice games. During a break in the action on Saturday, Potenza took to the microphone to thank the players for coming out and also revealed a framed Back Bay jersey with the number six and the name Baldwin on the back, which will hang in the Pop Whalen Arena lobby.

He thanked Rich and Kate Baldwin, Tom Cayon, Dave Richard, Sue and Keith Rogers and Peter Kelly for all the work they did in helping to organize the tournament.

Rev. Gina Finocchiaro of the First Congregational Church of Wolfboro did a blessing of the hockey sticks and said it was important to carry on Baldwin's legacy.

"This is a wonderful way for us to let his spirit carry on," she said.

The tournament was sponsored by the Yum Yum Shop, Peter and Grace Kelly, Carroll County Construction, Carroll County Cleaners, Baldwin Excavation, DF Richard Energy, T.W. Excavating, Image Awnings, Ken's All Season Maintenance, Avery Insurance, Mobility and More, Tracings Graphics and the First Congregational Church of Wolfboro. In addition, there was a raffle with donations from a number of local businesses.

And as the players took to the ice again, surely young Ben Baldwin was somewhere smiling down on the action with a hockey stick in his hand.

Gilford outlasts Somersworth in the rain

BY BOB MARTIN
Bob@Salmonpress.news

SOMERSWORTH — The Gilford girls' soccer team toughed out the cold, rainy conditions last week in a game against Somersworth with a gritty 3-2 win on the road.

"A very messy game," said coach Rob Meyers. "The weather was cold, windy and rainy. The field was in horrible condition, muddy with patches of grass."

Reece Sadler, who has also been a main contributor all season long, knocked in the game winning goal in overtime from 30 yards out in dramatic fashion. Earlier, Hannah

Perkins had a key save on a penalty kick in the game with 30 seconds left to send the game to overtime.

Vanessa Genakos had an assist in the game as well. The team was once again led offensively by Abby Jarvi, who had a pair of goals and an assist.

"This was a tough win," said Meyers.

Gilford controlled the game in the first half posting 11 shots to Somersworth's three. The Golden Eagles were able to capitalize near the end of the half on a broken play with a goal, and then followed with another goal.

Somersworth scored to tie up the game at 2-2 in the second half. Gilford then got a penalty called with 30 seconds left in the game and Perkins came up with the big save. This was the key moment of the game, Meyers said.

"That turned the game around," Meyers said. "We continued to control the ball and Reece scored an amazing goal about five minutes into OT to win the game. It was great to see the girls fight back in tough conditions, on a horrible field and against a very aggressive opponent to get the win."

At deadline the Golden Eagles were 12-3 and were ranked second in the standings behind rival Belmont.

it was very fast paced and exciting," said Rogacki. "The officials let the kids be able to play field hockey the way it should be played. As a coach, you enjoy seeing that."

Goalie Jenna DeLucca had four saves in goal in the win. Rogacki said the defenders all played very well, and he was also very impressed by Taryn Fountain's play at midfield. She has tremendous speed and can cover ground that other players can't, Rogacki said.

"She is only a sophomore and I think you can see there is a bright future for her at the position we have her in," said Rogacki.

On Friday, Gilford had a 3-2 upset win over Bishop Brady to reach its sixth straight semifinal. The two teams

"Then the defense of goalie Jenna DeLucca, Randi Byars and Taryn Gountain stopped Brady's attempt to tie to secure the Gilford win," Rogacki said.

Trout Unlimited wins Silver Trout award

PLYMOUTH — Trout Unlimited awarded the Pemigewasset Chapter the Silver Trout award for its work restoring the Beebe River watershed in Campton. The Silver Trout award recognized the chapter's dedication to conserve, protect and restore cold-water fisheries and watersheds. Dave Pushee, Pemigewasset Chapter's project manager, accepted the Silver Trout award from Mick McCorcle, Chair of the Trout Unlimited National Leadership Council in Redding, Calif.

Pemigewasset Chapter of Trout Unlimited recently won the Silver Trout award for its work on the Beebe watershed.

The Conservation Fund purchased the Beebe property in 2014. The Pemigewasset Chapter, NH Fish and Game and Plymouth State University began to monitor the brook trout population in the Beebe River and its tributaries. The stream habitat was found to be in fairly good condition. But high summer temperatures in the mainstem plus perched culverts blocking brook trout from reaching their spawning areas in the cooler tributary streams were problems. The Pemigewasset Chapter built a powerful partnership with other agencies to resolve some of the problems. Funds were raised, and work began. Thanks to a lot of volunteers, culverts were replaced with bridges and tributary streams were reconnected to the mainstem. In 2010, Todd Baldwin accepted the 1st Silver Trout award for the Pemigewasset Chapter for its restoration work in a section of the Pemigewasset River in Woodstock. The Silver Trout award will be on display at the Pemigewasset Chapter (pemigewasset.tu.org) meeting on Nov. 13, 7 p.m. at the Common Man Inn in Plymouth. Guest speaker is Tyson Morrill, a MS Biology student at Plymouth State University, whose study on the movement of brook trout and the influences of undersized road crossings contributed to Beebe project.
