some things about the job with the fire department that will be new to him.

"I've never had to deal with residents on islands and [be] in the lake, working on the boat...so that's all going to be new to me," he said.

Monday night, July 23, was Beaudoin's first official day working at the department.

According to Town Administrator Elizabeth Dionne, the process of hiring a new fire chief took several months. The nationwide search brought 22 applications from all across the United States, including California and Alaska, while most were localized to New England. The applications were reviewed by Dionne, retiring Fire Chief Ryan Ridley and the deputy fire chief, and

Selectmen continue library roof discussion

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

BARNSTEAD — The Barnstead Board of Selectmen started its July 17 meeting with a discussion about the repairs to the Oscar Foss Memorial Library (OFML) roof.

It has been between 18 and 20 years since the roof was last repaired, and Rick Simoneau, a resident with knowledge in construction who has looked at the problems with the roof, said that it should be done before winter, because "the only thing stopping it from leaking is the ice and water shield."

Chairman Rick Duane said that there is only $40,000 in the general government buildings fund, which may not be enough to cover the cost of repairing the roof.

While Simoneau did not endorse the idea, the board asked that he speak with a contractor to see if he would repair the worst side of the roof before winter and the other half after.

ACS students making a difference with Straw Free in the 603

BY DEREK PAPPACENO
Alton Central School

The seventh and eighth grade Diving the Depths class at Alton Central School is conducting a strawless campaign in the town of Alton to reduce the use of plastic straws. They have been supporting the Alton Business Association's mission, which is to "enhance the quality of life for the benefit of present and future residents, businesses, and visitors." The number of straws Americans use daily can circle around the earth 2.5 times. Thankfully, there are many solutions to save the planet from this growing problem.

The class has been learning a great deal about pollution in the ocean, and specifically how plastic is a major threat to the environment. They have decided to take a stand and make a much-needed change. With the support and inspiration from the Blue Ocean Society, and weeks of tireless research, they are finally able to start advertising this change with the strawless campaign. However, they cannot do this alone and would greatly appreciate all of Alton's business's support.

The greatest, yet worst creation ever made by man is plastic. While being convenient and having a use for everything, it also negatively impacts the environment. Since so much plastic ends up in the ocean, every year one million seabirds and 100,000 oceanic animals die from ingesting plastic. Plastic straws are an immense portion of the pollution in oceans. Every day, Americans use 500 million straws, which are only single-use items. It takes hundreds of years for the straws to decompose.

Fortunately, there are many other solutions to using plastic straws. You can switch to alternatives such as reusable metal and glass straws, or recyclable paper straws. Though they might be slightly more expensive than plastic straws, you can't really put a price on supporting the planet. Even if you decide to switch to an alternative straw or only use one every once and a while, you will be making a huge difference in saving the planet. The European Union is proposing to limit their plastic consumption, and Seattle is already on its way to becoming the largest metropolitan city to ban plastic straws. McDonald's is also taking a stand and trying to become a completely strawless food chain. You could be next, you could join the fight and influence all of Alton, and eventually New Hampshire to become strawless. Thank you to Alton Village Pizza, River Run Deli and Ackerly's Grill and Galley for supporting our cause.

You make a difference every time you don't use a plastic straw. It would even be beneficial for your Alton business to stop using straws because it would save you money and it could save a marine animal's life.

Marin Creteau says, "We hope you make a difference in the community and environment. We would appreciate your support in going strawless in Alton, New Hampshire, your help will make a greater impact than you may think. Do you want to be part of the problem or the solution?"

The students are still working on this campaign even though the school year has come to an end. They had a meeting and are planning on having more meetings to decide their next step. The class has organized a local gathering at Prospect Mountain High School on Wednesday, Aug. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m. The goal of this event is to raise awareness of the harmful effects of single-use plastic items. The Blue Ocean Society will present and show the film, Straws. This will also be a chance to meet the kids behind this potentially huge change.

Cyanobacteria committee to meet tonight

ALTON — The Cyanobacteria Mitigation Steering Committee will meet in Alton at the Gilman Museum on July 26, at 6:30 p.m. The meeting will address a conference call with the United States Environmental Protection Agency, a review of the water quality in the Merrymeeting River, suggestions from the Hatchery Best Management Practices

Working Group, an update on the Watershed Management Plan and beginning a survey of shoreline septic systems. The public is invited. Street-side parking is available.

Correction

The article on George Feeney that appeared in the June 28 issue contained a couple of errors.

Feeney's son should have been identified as Ryan. Feeney is a board member and does volunteer work at Alton Bay Christian Conference Center. And the group he plays trumpet with at the Gilman Community Church is the Dump Run Gang.

Barnstead resident opens food truck offering organic treats

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

BARNSTEAD — The summery nostalgia of an ice cream truck mixed with a trendy food truck has come to Barnstead. Baked, Brewed & Organically Moo'ed is owned by Barnstead resident Genevieve Michaud and focuses on organic and locally-sourced ice cream, other frozen treats, coffee and iced coffee, sticky buns, cinnamon buns and more.

"I just really wanted to do something that was my own," Michaud said. She has worked in the food industry for 30 years and knew she wanted to own a food truck.

Michaud and her family own an organic farm, and so she knew while brainstorming ideas for her food truck that it would be all-organic and all-natural.

"I just wanted to make sure that I could offer organic ice cream and everything else is either organic or all-natural," she said. "It's exciting to be able to offer... this kind of quality in this area where there isn't really a lot of options."

She discussed the difficulties that come with trying to find organic sweets.

"We only eat organic or all-natural things, so it's hard for us to go out to eat or go to an ice cream shop," she said. "I wanted to offer a variety for those people who struggle to find sweets that are appropriate and acceptable for their diet."

The ice cream truck

has partnerships with multiple local businesses. The coffee and iced coffee is from Lucas Roasting Company in Wolfeboro, and Moonbeam's Vegan Sweets in Barnstead. The organic soft serve chocolate and vanilla ice cream is Blue Marble, which is based in New York.

The menu consists of ice cream sandwiches, s'mores and strawberry lemon tartlets, popsicles, watermelon or orange freeze pops, ice cream sandwiches on Moonbeam's Vegan Sweets, gluten-free whoopie pies and ice cream sandwiches, dairy-free floats made with coconut-based ice cream, sticky buns and cinnamon rolls. The baked goods and the strawberry and chocolate syrup that can be added for 75 cents extra are homemade by Michaud. While Michaud said she doesn't have exact routes or schedules yet, she knows that she will be splitting her time between Meredith, Wolfeboro, Dover and Barnstead. On Saturdays and Sundays she will be in Barnstead, and she offers breakfast at her 373 Peacham Road location from 7 to 8 a.m. in Barnstead when she's there as a way to allow people to stop for coffee and fresh baked goods on their way to work. She plans on doing a quick route around Barnstead in the afternoons on those weekends.

While the regulations for running a food truck vary from town to town, because Michaud has a state food service license, she can do catering all over the state.

The truck was originally a food truck, so Michaud said that she only needed to make adjustments to be ice cream-friendly. Because the generator on the back of the vehicle is exposed to the elements, when it rains she remains on Peacham Road for the day and puts a canopy over the generator to keep it dry.

The truck opened for business on July 14, and Michaud said that the current plan is to run the ice cream truck until October and then focus on the baked goods during the colder months.

Michaud hopes that her business will bring the community, especially youth, together.

"I hope it starts to bring the kids out of their houses off their technology, meeting the other kids in the streets, being able to actually have community with each other," she said.

Come to the Meetinghouse on Saturday

NEW DURHAM — Celebrate New Durham Day perhaps has more meaning on the grounds of the 1772 Meetinghouse than anywhere else in town. Constructing a meetinghouse was a requirement before the handful of rough homes, acres of cleared land, and several sawmills could incorporate and become a town.

This Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., the 1772 Meetinghouse will once again participate in the Celebrate New Durham Day festivities, but instead of tours of the building, the Restoration Committee has some surprises up its sleeves.

The foundation/stabilization project is just beginning, so it is a perfect opportunity to gain a lesson on jacking up a historic building, timber framing, and masonry.

Celebration will be front and center beginning at 11:30 a.m. in the form of a free concert. A guitarist of international renown and New Durham resident, Pete Robertson will perform for a half-hour of music and good times.

An added treat will be a tour, led from the Meetinghouse grounds, of a nearby home important to the community. Several families have lived in the rambling house on the corner, but no matter if you know it as "the old Pike house," the "Harby home," or "where the Mouradians live," its history speaks for itself.

Once a refuge for itinerant artists during the Depression, the place offered a bed and some food. In payment, the artists painted murals all over the walls. The result is an art gallery without frames, featuring different styles and talents, that has rarely been opened to the public.

Residents will be able to appreciate the hard work of many volunteers who have begun work clearing the park grounds. The foundation project is just the start of bringing the Meetinghouse back to its status of an active community center.

THE BAYSIDER, THURSDAY, JULY 26, 2018

Welcome, chief

It's got to feel pretty good when a national search leads you right to your back door.

That was the case for the town of Alton, which recently conducted a national search for a new fire chief to replace the retiring Ryan Ridley. The town received applications from around the country, though as it turned out, the two final candidates had plenty of local connections.

And the person hired for the job, Jim Beaudoin, is an Alton resident, bringing the search full circle.

Our own Katherine Lesnyk was at the Alton Fire Department on Monday night when many members of the public came out to meet Chief Beaudoin and see his swearing-in ceremony and penned the story that appears on the front page this week.

Chief Ridley has done a nice job over the last few years in recruiting new talent and bringing the Alton Fire Department forward and we are happy to hear that the person slated to replace him is a local resident with plenty of ties to local fire departments.

As it turns out, both Beaudoin and the other final applicant both worked for the neighboring Gilmanton Fire Department, which says a lot about that town's fire department.

Being a department head in local government can often be a thankless job, as one has to be adept at managing budgets that can be restrictive some years and a bit looser in other years. And all public employees work for the residents of their community, which is important to keep in mind as one progresses in their job.

The story reported that Beaudoin walked around and talked with members of the community during the evening's events and we know that this is an important part of a public job like a fire chief or a police chief and we hope that Beaudoin will continue to keep that part of the job in the forefront.

Ridley praised the work of his successor, "I think personality-wise and training, his history in the fire service, Jim will be a really good fit here in Alton. With the officers here and the people in the department, we're approaching second base and it's up to Jim to take the department home."

And Beaudoin is looking forward to taking the reins of the department in his hometown.

"I look forward to serving the town, and I look forward to making sure that the men and women in this department always stay safe and do well for you and we'll do well to serve our mission and take care of the town and its residents," Beaudoin said at his ceremony on Monday night.

We urge all residents who might not have had the chance to meet Beaudoin, take the opportunity to stop by the fire department and meet the new chief as he settles into his job.

And we wish Chief Beaudoin nothing but the best as he assumes his new position and gets down to work for the people of Alton.

Inalienable rights and corporate personhood

COMMUNITY CORNER

BY DOUGLAS DARRELL

Barnstead

Inalienable rights are the rights that all people are born with through the understanding God or our Creator endowed us with. This right and taking this knowledge explains and defines the word of personhood and the meaning of person and personification confirmed in the truth that all of humankind were created equal under the law of right, human rights.

It should be said of course, We the People are all persons, but then to apply that concept that a corporation has personhood, personhood is applied to the plural of persons individual in the corporation. Corporation on the other hand is not a God given right but is man-made and it is unseemly to give the power of individual to a plural separate from the whole of individual citizens. The "Bill of Rights" was written for the protection of the rights of a sovereign individual or state, not a special class of men unified against the whole affording special privilege. Quoting "a house divided against itself will fall," not maybe.

Personhood of the corporation takes away the sovereignty of the citizen's public good who are termed as the body, not incorporated though "through the consent of the governed", citizens of the incorporated, "The United States of America." The Bill of Rights were written to secure and define and in addition, to strengthen these rights to be self-evident that "All men are created equal." This is a very founding building block of a "democracy with a republican form of government."

Putting all this aside, now ponder what is an authoritarian structure of rule. This comes by the contractual agreement not through the usurpation of inalienable rights pretext to all human rights and rights amended to the Constitution.

The Supreme Court decision of 1886, State of California vs. Southern Pacific Railroad created a ruling to a civil law suit in the structuring of language to argue a suite of back taxes on fences that the state of California was seeking to recover from the Southern Union Pacific Corporation. In this case, Article 14 from the U.S. Bill of Rights was used to grant the corporation personhood rights. There was dissent amongst the Justices of the ninth district court taking Article 14 that was written to amend Article 13, the rights of freed slaves to uphold the protection of property rights of a disenfranchised people but it was Justice Waite presiding on the district court that stated, "we all agree in this court that corporations are guaranteed the property right written in the 14th Amendment" and was never opened to discussion or debate.

Ever since that time corporate law has empowered itself with private property rights that followed many other corporate privileges like state pre-emption and Dillon's Rule. Corporations now have equal standing with the power of the state. We the people stand to lose in civil suits in the judicial court to protect ourselves from corporate projects that harm and undermine our rights as a collective body politic of our municipalities in which we live.

Since 2006, starting with Barnstead's first-in-the-nation water rights and self-government local law, a growing number of New Hampshire communities have pushed back with rights-based ordinances (RBOs) affirming their inalienable right to self-govern and calling for state constitutional change recognizing local authority to afford greater protections for people and planet where higher government is not doing so. Almost a dozen communities have adopted RBOs, elevating the rights of people and natural environments above corporate claimed "rights" to harm them and use them as resource colonies for profit.

ists are still seeking to press their corporate privilege against the people for their own profit, backed by a contingent of representatives and senators of an authoritarian ideal of state control over our municipalities. They exert this control by passing bills that infringe upon our sovereign rights as peoples of community, whittling away to create the path for corporate rights over real people -- otherwise called the corporate-state.

We the people can't remain stolid with a laissez-faire attitude. People are needed and to be heard in a civil exchange of ideas that are not innovative but are based on the original principal foundations of our governing body from the American Revolution. In New Hampshire we say, "live free or die." This is not brutish reasoning, it is transcendental.

To understand more about these issues and how to legalize a sustainable vision for your community contact the NHCRN at info@nhcommunityrights.org and visit www.nhcommunityrights.org. NHCRN is non-profit-volunteer organization educating communities and electeds in how to protect our right to self-determination, empowering them with authority to legalize the vision they have, free from private corporate controls and government overreach.

Celebration set for end of summer reading program

NEW DURHAM — The New Durham Public Library's end of summer reading program "Libraries Rock" will be a two-day affair, with a Wednesday session of activities, disco party and ice cream capped by a story teller and book give-away event the following morning.

"We were fortunate to receive a Children's Literacy Foundation (CLiF) Summer Readers' grant," Library Director Cathy Allyn said, "and we tacked it on to the end of our scheduled events. I can't think of a better way to end a summer reading program than with stories and free books."

The library is going all out for its next-to-last session on Wednesday,

Aug. 1. "We're focusing on the great things our particular facility can offer," Allyn said, "and we've tied those to this year's theme."

Children and their stories of life in New Durham will be included in the library's oral history project at a recording "studio," they will compose music by building with LEGOs assigned pitches, craft a short stop motion animation film, create artwork with mineral mosaics, make some noise with archery, and draw comics.

Pete Robertson, a professional musician who has given free guitar lessons at the library in the past, will perform at a disco party for the kids, before a make-your-own sundae extravaganza.

"We've had some super entertainment this summer," Administrative Library Assistant Sheryl Bansfield said, "and the kids have really been racking up reading times. We're excited that they're so enthusiastic about reading."

"We have lots of trophies, prizes, and awards for our top readers," Allyn said. "They have been reading so much that the totals far exceed the minimum needed to reveal the hidden notes of the library's mystery theme song. Because of that, they'll have no trouble figuring out what it is."

On Thursday, Aug. 2, at 11 a.m., everyone is invited back to the library to enjoy the magical tales of storyteller Simon Brooks. Brooks has appeared at the library before.

"What an amazing artist he is," Allyn said. "Everyone is spell bound once he begins a story."

Audience members will be lucky enough to choose two free books, courtesy of CLiF, following the performance. "The books are brand new and perfect for this age group," Allyn said. "It's a wonderful opportunity to add to a family bookcase."

For more information, call the library at 859-2201.

Year Rounders start bowling Aug. 30

BARNSTEAD — The Year Rounders candlepin bowling league is looking for new men and women to join their teams. They bowl three strings at Boutwells Bowling Center in Concord on Thursdays starting Aug. 30 at 11:30 a.m. and continue weekly into May.

A portion of the cost goes towards a late spring banquet. This is friendly non-serious competition with people who enjoy bowling and sharing good times with friends.

If interested, please contact Peter Rothwell at 776-1483. Come join the league and make some new friends.

Willette on Dean's List at Johnson State

JOHNSON, Vt. — Ryan Willette of Barnstead has been named to the Dean's List at Johnson State College in Johnson, Vt., for the spring 2018 semester. The Dean's List recognizes those who attained a GPA of 3.5 - 3.9.

On July 1, Johnson

State College and Lyndon State College will become Northern Vermont University, a two-campus institution of higher education that combines the best of both colleges' nationally recognized liberal arts and professional programs under a single administration.

Driven by a mission to provide a high-quality, accessible, inclusive education for students in the state, the region, the nation, and online, NVU is now recruiting for its first class starting in fall 2018. Learn more at NorthernVermont.edu.

Farmers continue to offer goods in Barnstead

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Barnstead Farmers' Market

BARNSTEAD — The seventh annual Barnstead Open Farm Day returned on Saturday, and the Barnstead Farmers' Market was a sponsor. On Open Farm Day, several Barnstead farms offer their Saturday to show visitors what they do, sell their products and educate about the importance of farming. Lorren Joyce Farm and Mountain View Farm, both regular vendors at the market, participated in Open Farm Day as two of the six stops on the route. Lorren Joyce Farm, owned and operated by Amy and Brian Matarozzo, also hosted a farm-to-table dinner to benefit the Belknap County Farm Bureau.

Granite Grown, a frequent vendor at the market, is an old-fashioned soda business owned by Bob and Wendy Kitson. Their sodas are bottled locally and sold individually or in customizable four packs. Although the business only started in February, they are already stocked in 22 stores across New Hampshire.

The company that bottles and distributes the beverages is based in New Hampshire, as the Kitsons like to work with small businesses based in the state.

Bob Kitson said that some of their best sellers are the root beer, raspberry lime rickety and orange cream soda. They also offer ginger beer, lemonade, strawberry soda, sarsaparilla, birch beer, diet root beer, iced tea and more.

Granite Grown also sells apparel and car window decals featuring their logo, an outline of the state of New Hampshire with several icons of the state such as the Old Man of the Mountain inside. They also would eventually like to sell canvas bags with the logo.

As an addition to the market for Open Farm Day, the Kitsons brought a bounce house that was inflated on the edge of the market, next to Granite Grown's tent. Blake, Wendy and Bob Kitson's 12-year-old son, owns Blake's Bouncy Business, a bounce house rental business that he started when he was eight years old.

Shari Andrews comes to the market every other week with gluten-free baked goods. Ever since she was told to avoid gluten for health reasons, she has been trying new recipes that are gluten-free. She said that it wasn't until very recently that gluten-free baked goods were commonly available in grocery stores, so improvising was necessary.

She said that regular flour can be replaced with rice flour, coconut flour and many other types that also contain no gluten.

Andrews is at the market on alternating weekends. She offers different products at every market, and on Saturday she had lemon poppy seed muffins, blueberry scones, banana bread, banana muffins and more.

Ann Cwik of Unless Flower Farm is not only the market manager at the Barnstead Farmers' Market, but a vendor as well. She has been farming for about nine years, but this is only her second year focusing on flowers and the first-year harvesting flowers to sell.

As she prepared a bouquet of flowers, she explained why she started her organic flower farm.

"I had always dreamed about having some sort of farm, and I loved growing organically... I've never known any other way to garden," she said.

Cwik cited Floret Farm's Cut Flower Garden by Erin Benzakein as an inspiration for making the switch from vegetable farming to flower farming.

She said that while some aspects of growing flowers were similar to growing vegetables, she learned a lot through reading the book and taking an online course in flower

Committee plans trio of events at Merrymeeting Lake

NEW DURHAM — The Preserve and Protect Committee of the Merrymeeting Lake Association is sponsoring several activities this summer, and the public is invited to participate.

A Paddlesports Demo Day is planned for Saturday, July 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the New Durham Town Beach on South Shore Road (only 0.1 miles from the State of New Hampshire Fish Hatchery). This event is in conjunction with New Durham Day and will feature canoes, kayaks and stand-up paddleboards for the public to try out and enjoy. The event is designed to provide participants with active, non-motorized options on the water. Time spent paddling is quiet, relaxing, and rewarding — plus has the added benefit of being environmentally friendly.

And speaking of environmentally friendly, Julia Peterson, UNH Extension Professor in the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture (<https://colsa.unh.edu/faculty/peterson>), will make a presentation on environmentally friendly gardening and landscaping techniques from 10 to 11 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 5. She'll focus on garden design to minimize water runoff, native plants and alternatives to chemical pesticides, herbicides and fertilizers. This event will take place at the Cove Cottages Meetinghouse on the corner of Merrymeeting Lake Road and Powder Mill Road.

These summer events will conclude on Sunday, Aug. 19, with a presentation by Robert Craycraft, New Durham resident and UNH Extension Lakes Monitoring Program Coordinator, from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Cove Cottages Meetinghouse. Craycraft's talk will focus on water quality testing results for Merrymeeting Lake, historical trends in test results, the encouraging and troubling aspects of these results, and comparisons to other New Hampshire lakes to put local testing into a broader perspective.

Everyone in the area is invited to attend these fun and educational events.

Candidates to address Democrats Aug. 6

BARNSTEAD — All local Democrats and left-leaning Independents are invited to attend August's meeting in the continuing series focusing on November's mid-term elections. Deaglan McEachern and Naomi Andrews, Congressional District 1 candidates, will speak at the August meeting of the Tri-Town Democrats of Barnstead, Gilmanton, and Alton.

McEachern is a New Hampshire native living in Portsmouth and working in the technology sector. He co-founded the NH Business Owners Organization that helps small business become established. In two years, the membership has grown to 2,000 members. He supports a fully-funded Planned Parenthood, protection of Social Security and Medicare, membership in the Paris Climate Accord and an end to gerrymandering. McEachern believes that all citizens should have a voice in their government.

Andrews grew up in Epping and has worked for over a decade as Congresswoman Carol Shea-Porter's campaign manager or chief of staff and is proud to have the Congresswoman's endorsement. She supports people of any age to buy into Medicare and the government's ability to negotiate the cost of prescription drugs. Andrews will work to re-introduce the Veterans Health Equality Act to restore the VA Medical Center in Manchester to a full service hospital. She is an advocate for renewable energy, safe water, and clean air.

The guest speakers will be followed by actions items and community organizing. These monthly meetings give you the opportunity to learn about local and state political issues and how you can participate in making a difference. You will share the evening with like-minded individuals and have the chance to express your opinions and experiences.

The August meeting of the Tri-Town Democrats on Monday, Aug. 6, at 6:30 p.m. will be held at the Barnstead Town Hall, 108 South Barnstead Road, Barnstead. Come for socializing and potluck any time between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m.

This meeting is open to all residents of Alton, Barnstead and Gilmanton who consider themselves moderate, liberal, or progressive Democrats or like-minded Independents. Potluck items to share are encouraged but not required. For more information, e-mail starryheather@hotmail.com or visit the "Barnstead, Gilmanton, and Alton Democrats" Facebook page.

This communication does not infer an endorsement or favorability of any kind to any Democratic candidates actively engaged in competitive primary contests.

Coyote presentation at Gilman Library Aug. 16

ALTON — Join in at Gilman Library, at 7 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 16, for an evening with Christine Schadler, Wild Canid Ecologist, Representative for Project Coyote in NH and Vermont, co-founder of the NH Wildlife Coalition and author of Becoming Wolf: The Eastern Coyote in New England. Her program, "The Real Eastern Coyote," begins at 7 p.m. in the Agnes Thompson Meeting Room on the lower level of the Gilman Library. Light refreshments will be served. All are welcome to attend this free program. For more information, call 875-2550 or visit www.gilmanlibrary.org/the-real-eastern-coyote.

New Durham Charitable Fund fundraisers this weekend

NEW DURHAM — Several years ago, when word went out about some neighbors' health issues, concerned residents formed the New Durham Charitable Fund (NDCF) to provide support for families in crisis.

President Susan Randall said the group delivers aid in forms "that the town and the families' insurance does not cover." Two fundraisers to benefit the NDCF are key components of the upcoming Celebrate New Durham weekend.

Cow Patty Bingo has long been a favorite event. This year the grid will be set up across the road from the Diamond B Farm at the corner of Main Street and Merrymeeting Road. A Diamond B Farm cow and her calf will be turned out there at noon this Saturday.

Purchase a square of the grid for either the cow or the calf and hope that nature will call when the animal is standing over your spot. Tickets are available before Saturday at the New Durham General Store and The Barn Doggie Daycare. NDCF members will be selling at the grid location from 10 a.m. until the winners are determined, if you held off buying tickets beforehand. You can help out others in your town while making some student's first day of school memorable by taking part in the Cruisin' Into School Raffle. One winner and a buddy will cop a ride to school in the New Durham Police Cruiser for the start of the 2018-19 school year. Tickets are available at the Barn Doggie Daycare before this Friday or at the Celebrate New Durham festivities at Merrymeeting Lake on Saturday between 4 and 9 p.m. You can also purchase them online at newdurhamnh.myrec.com.

farming from Floret Flower Farm. "The more I learned about flower farming in the U.S., the more I learned that there's this huge movement called 'slow flowers,'" she said.

The "slow flowers" movement, she said, involves increasing flower production in the United States, improving the conditions in which the flowers are grown and decreasing the preservatives used on the flowers.

Cwik sells several sizes of bouquets at the market, as well as flower fairy wands, straw flower combs and individual dried flowers that can be made into combs or other crafts.

She discussed the process of making the flower combs. She uses straw flowers, which have a naturally dry texture. They have to be harvested at the optimal time in order for them to last the longest with the post-harvest care, and once they are properly prepared they are glued onto a plastic comb with floral adhesive.

Cwik grows her flowers on about a tenth of an acre of land, and she recently got a flower cart on which she will sell flowers in front of her farm a couple days each week.

Katherine Lesnyk is on the Barnstead Farmers' Market Board of Directors.

Local volunteers bring hope to orphans in Haiti

ALTON — When returning to school in the fall, many teachers have their students write an essay entitled, "What I did on my summer vacation." This details what 12 folks did this past February vacation. Sponsored by St. Katharine Drexel Parish in Alton, six adults and six teens from Wolfeboro and Alton traveled to Les Cayes, Haiti, to volunteer at Pwoje Espwa (Project Hope), an orphanage begun in 1998 by Fr. Marc Boisvert, originally from Lewiston, Maine.

This orphanage houses more than 300 children. It provides

Mark on the Markets

Unexpected money

BY MARK PATTERSON
Contributing Writer

There are times when we inherit, win the lottery or even sell an asset such as a home that provides a lump sum of money that we had not planned for. Often times that sum of money goes to a bank account while we strategize what to do with this money. Most banks today have an investment rep or annuity rep that will most likely alerted to the fact that a new sum of cash has been deposited and your name may be referred to this investment person. It is very likely that this Investment rep doesn't work for the bank, but for a broker-dealer that has an arrangement with the bank to share in commission from the sale of product. "Sale" of product is the key phrase in that last sentence. The best means of investing your money may not be with the purchase of product, but with fee structured portfolio management or fee structured asset management. Financial planning may be something that would benefit you a great deal but many bank reps may have little to no experience with planning, only sales. I am not picking on the banks for offering this service. It is up to you, the consumer, to do your due diligence. A good "financial planner" typically has a lot of education and experience as well as copious amounts of continuing education and seminars to stay on top of the most current planning information. Unfortunately, almost anyone with a license to sell insurance or mutual funds might use the title. A good financial planner may not manage assets, but allocates to funds. A good asset manager may not specialize in financial planning but may be a very good income planner, so you can see that people in our business are usually good at something, but not everything. You must also determine if the advisor is working for your best interest, or the firm they represent. The lines are very fuzzy on fiduciary obligation, so just be aware when you seek out help with your money. If you have a sizable portfolio, one professional may not suit all of your needs. It is ok to work with more than one financial professional but I would suggest letting them communicate with each other so they are not duplicating investment strategies.

I believe you will also find that a good financial planner or asset manager will not hesitate to refer you to another who specializes in what you may need to design the best plan for your money.

Another large firm will be introducing their version of "robo-advising," which is a low cost method of re-allocating assets into funds using artificial intelligence. What it can't do is financial planning, income planning or asset management. If you are just starting out or do not have a lot of assets to invest, robo may be the way to go. If you are looking for real financial planning or individual asset management you need to find the right fit for you.

Mark Patterson is an advisor with MHP Asset Management and can be reached at 447-1979 or mark@mhp-asset.com food and shelter. It has three schools on campus and educates not only the residents, but children in the surrounding community. It also has a clinic to take care of the medical needs of the residents.

The visitors from Alton and Wolfeboro taught English classes, played soccer, hosted a field day and generally showed the children that others really care about them. Visitors and residents alike learned about each other and came away with a greater understanding. Fr. Boisvert often comes to St. Katharine Drexel Parish in July to speak to the community about Project Hope and raise funds to help keep the orphanage going.

After Hurricane Matthew in 2016, many of the tin roof dwellings the boys resided in were destroyed. Rather than rebuild, they decided to replace those dwellings with dome houses, which resist the damage of hurricane force winds. Thanks to the generosity of the St. Katharine community and others, the boys and girls now all have dome houses.

Solar power is the next project. Electricity is government-owned and poorly run in Haiti. Since the hurricane, very little power has been available. Currently, the orphanage uses a generator and many faulty, ageing batteries for power, but this is very costly and unreliable. On an island in the sunny Caribbean, solar power would be able to provide more efficient and consistent power. This is an expensive project to undertake. Some of those who went to Haiti, as well as others, have decided to try and raise funds for the second phase of this solar project. This phase will provide power mainly to the dining hall and kitchen, which means refrigeration and cooking of food, the girls' residence and the "after school" building. The cost of this phase is $47,000.00.

In the United States, the fundraising arm of Project Hope is called "Free the Kids." If you would like to learn more about Project Hope, their web site is freethekids.org. There you can learn the cost of feeding or educating one child for a month, or a year. If interested, you can also contribute to Phase 2 of the solar project. If you would like to meet Fr. Marc and hear him speak about the children of Haiti, he will be at all the masses at St. Katharine Drexel the weekend of July 28-29.

Pianists to perform in August in Wolfeboro

WOLFEBORO — On Aug. 21 and 28 respectively, Eleanor Perrone of Boston and Steven Lubin of New York City will perform solo masterpieces at the fifth Summer Piano Concert Series at the Kingswood Arts Center of the Governor Wentworth Regional School District High School, starting 7:30 p.m. This classical experience will include a wealth of concert pieces from the rich piano repertoire.

Critics write that Perrone performs with an electric energy and technical audacity "that elicit a rousing standing ovation, from Brazil to the Merrimack Valley." In Wolfeboro they anticipate Albeniz' Iberia Suite Book One, Chopin's Scherzo No. 3, Samuel Barber's 'Excursions' and Bach-Busoni's piano transcription, the Chaconne in D minor.

Lubin, pianist, forte-pianist, scholar and recording artist, is admired by audiences and music critics worldwide, who write he brings out all the glory of Beethoven and Chopin, playing with "captivating brilliance and subtlety." Lubin's program will include Beethoven's "Appassionata" Sonata Op.57 and multiple pieces from his classical and romantic repertoire.

Lubin dedicates his Wolfeboro appearance to the late piano technician Lee Morton, his lifelong friend, first in New York at Juilliard, then in Sandwich. Morton's memory remains in the hearts of New Englanders as a quietly passionate and very busy artisan knitting together performers and their instruments whether in homes or in major concert halls. In Wolfeboro, Morton attended to concert and school pianos for many years. He is the technician who, starting in May 2011, guided the Wolfeboro Friends of Music in conjunction with the Governor Wentworth Regional School District in the 'seasoning' period of its present 1919 Steinway "D" concert grand piano when it arrived at Kingswood Arts Center. A totally rebuilt (but retaining the extraordinary wooden outer case) instrument from the studios of Lindeblad Piano Restoration in Pine Brook, N.J., the instrument's first concert sounds from the Kingswood Arts Center stage were heard by a large audience including Wolfeboro contributors who were responsible for mounting the campaign to underwrite the acquisition.

The Wolfeboro Friends of Music welcomes friends and neighbors, encourages students free of charge, and as usual lays a bountiful refreshments table during these summer evenings of musical artistry. Tickets are available at the door, at Black's Paper Store and Avery Insurance in Wolfeboro, at Innisfree Bookshop in Meredith, by calling 569-2151 or visiting the www.friendsofmusic.org. High school students with ID will be admitted free of charge and any child accompanied by an adult ticket purchaser will be admitted free of charge.

Opening night nears for A Fox on the Fairway

WOLFEBORO — As the month of July draws to a close, the actors in the Village Players production of Ken Ludwig's A Fox on the Fairway are gearing up to bring the comedy to Wolfeboro audiences for five performances.

A Fox on the Fairway brings together a veteran Village Players cast (and one relative newcomer) with a director making his solo directing debut.

Longtime Village Player actor Bob Tuttle, who has been on stage in numerous productions over the years, is helming his first show after teaming up with fellow Village Players veteran Russ Ellis to lead the way in last spring's Biloxi Blues. Tuttle put together a solid cast that has been working hard over the last few months to get the nuances and specifics of this hilarious farce in their heads leading up to the production.

The show takes place in the tap room of the Quail Valley Coun-steps up and shows his prowess on the course.

Quail Valley member Pamela Peabody (Joyce Wood), who certainly has her own attachment to Henry, gets involved and things continue to take different turns along the way. Justin's girlfriend, Louise Heindbedder (Emily Marsh) adds her own drama to the mix when she loses something that might have an adverse effect on Justin's golf game.

And if those crazy people aren't enough, add Bingham's wife, Muriel (Michaela Andruzzi) to the mix. She finds out that her husband's bet might just prove problematic to her, but she also finds herself drawn to her husband's rival at the same time.

Ken Ludwig's A Fox on the Fairway is on the Village Players stage on Friday, July 27, Saturday, July 28, Friday, Aug. 3, and Saturday, Aug. 4, all at 8 p.m. and closes with a matinee performance on Sunday, Aug. 5, at 2 p.m.

The air-conditioned Village Players Theater is located at 51 Glendon St. in downtown Wolfeboro. Tickets are available at Black's Paper and Gifts in Wolfeboro or online at village-players.com. Tickets will also be available at the door while supplies last.

Ken Ludwig's A Fox on the Fairway is sponsored in part by Dr. Richard J. Neal, DMD.

Cyanobacteria warning issued for Jones Pond

NEW DURHAM — A cyanobacteria bloom has been reported on Jones Pond in New Durham. Based on visual evidence, the cyanobacteria bloom is accumulating along the dam and throughout the pond, appearing as dark blue-green blobs. Others have described bright green clouds and flecks throughout the waterbody. A sample collected July 20 was identified and enumerated. An estimate of more than three million cells/ml of Oscillatoria (a type of cyanobacteria) was found. The state threshold for a warning or advisory is 70,000 cells/ml of cyanobacteria in New Hampshire lake water. As a result, the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services (NHDES) issued a lake warning for those who use the waterbody for recreation. Please continue to monitor your individual shoreline for changing conditions. This warning is not based on a toxin evaluation and is intended as a precautionary measure for short term exposure. NHDES advises lake users to avoid contact with the water in areas experiencing elevated cyanobac-teria cell conditions typically where lake water has a surface scum, green streaks or blue-green flecks aggregating along the shore. NHDES also advises pet owners to keep their pets out of any waters that have a cyanobacteria bloom. NHDES routinely monitors public beaches and public waters of the state for cyanobacteria. Once a cyanobacteria lake warning or beach advisory has been issued, NHDES returns to affected waterbodies on a weekly basis until the cyanobacteria standards are again met. Cyanobacteria are natural components of water bodies worldwide, but blooms and surface scums may form when excess nutrients are available to the water. Some cyanobacteria produce toxins that are stored within the cells but released upon cell death. Toxins can cause both acute and chronic health effects that range in severity. Acute health effects include irritation of skin and mucous membranes, tingling, numbness, nausea, vomiting, seizures and diarrhea. Chronic effects include liver and central nervous system damage. The warning went into effect on July 20, and will remain in effect until additional samples reveal cyanobacteria levels have diminished. Visit the NHDES Beach Program web site for photos and more information about cyanobacteria at <https://www.des.nh.gov/organization/divisions/water/wmb/beaches/index.htm>. Updates on advisories and warnings may be obtained at http://www4.des.state.nh.us/WaterShed_BeachMaps/WaterShed_BeachMaps.aspx.

The Drunkard returning to Village Players stage

Auditions for fall musical are Aug. 5 and 6

WOLFEBORO — As the Village Players celebrate 40 years in Wolfeboro, the local community theater group will be bringing back one of the most popular musicals they've done over the last 40 years.

Veteran Village Players director Jay Sydow will be helming The Drunkard, which will be treading the boards of the theater for the third time. The Drunkard first appeared at the Village Players in 1987 and returned again in 2003.

The Drunkard made its premiere back in 1844 at the Boston Museum and had regular revivals in the following years and in 1964, Bo Herrod and a young Barry Manilow added music and brought the show to Broadway, where it ran for eight years. This temperance melodrama has a long history and the Village Players are excited to bring it back for a third time.

Sydow will be assisted in this production by assistant directors Michaela Andruzzi and Priscilla Adams, while Julie Carbone, who served as music director for The Music Man last fall, will be the music director and Kaylin Dean, who has choreographed many of the recent musicals, will be leading the choreography. Laura Cooper has signed on to lead the stage crew, with Catherine Collins as producer and Cate Poole running the lights. Auditions for The Drunkard will be held at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 5, and Monday, Aug. 6, at the theater. Those coming to audition are welcome to bring sheet music if they would like, but all those attending will be taught a song from the show as well as a short dance. And Sydow notes that if you are a tap dancer, feel free to bring tap shoes, as there will be a chance for those skills to be utilized. Those auditioning will also be asked to do some reading from the script as part of the audition process.

The directors will be welcoming any actors 16 and up for this show and there are parts for actors of different ages. The Village Players also want to let the younger actors in the community know that while there are no parts in The Drunkard for kids, they will be doing a Christmas show in December with many parts for kids (look for audition notices in early October).

Additionally, there will be some roles in the production staff available, including stage crew, set construction and more. Anyone interested in any behind the scenes roles is invited to come to auditions and meet the directors.

The Drunkard will take to the Village Players stage on Nov. 2, 3, 4, 9, 10 and 11.

Family Day a success at Wright Museum

WOLFEBORO — The Wright Museum of World War II's annual Family Day was a roaring success, according to organizers and sponsors with 487 people in attendance, which was 41 more than last year.

"Family Day continues to be a great feature of our museum," said Michael Culver, executive director. "It was great for adults and children alike to take advantage of the opportunity to have fun, learn, and participate in the interactive experiences provided by the Wright Museum."

Guests were able to enjoy the Wright Museum's unique collection of WWII vehicles and even take a ride in them throughout town. Music was provided by the New England Country Boys in addition to live animal shows from Squam Lake Natural Science Center.

"Family Day was a great success," added Donna Hamill, administrative manager and volunteer coordinator at the Wright Museum. "Everyone was happy and the weather was great."

Organizers and guests were not the only ones pleased with the turnout and attractions of Family Day.

"We were delighted to be a sponsor for Family Day at the Wright Museum," said Kathy Eaton, owner of Wolfboro Trolley Company. "Wolfboro is a family resort where multiple generations choose to gather and share vacation experiences."

In addition to Wolfboro Trolley Company, other sponsors included Black's Paper Store, NFP Insurance and Doran Independent Insurance.

"NFP Insurance sponsors Family Day to support an event that serves as a reminder of the sacrifices and contributions made during our country's history," said Rebecca Morris, Commercial Lines Account Executive with NFP Insurance. "I attended the event with my family and witnessed a fabulous turnout. I was able to bring my family along for their first time to explore the museum and enjoy all the festivities."

The Wright Museum is open daily through Oct. 31 and features more than 14,000 items on display within its exhibits from both the battlefields and home front of World War II.

Quilt sale set for Aug. 3 in Wolfboro

WOLFEBORO — The Ladies of the Lakes Quilters' Guild (LLQG) is sponsoring its annual quilt sale on Friday, Aug. 3, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the All Saints Episcopal Church on South Main Street in Wolfboro. The LLQG originated from a quilting class taught in 1978 and now has more than 130 members living in the Lakes Region.

The LLQG is well known for its traditional raffle quilt, which made its debut as a fundraiser in 1980. Proceeds from the raffle quilt, annual quilt sales, and quilt show are used for Guild expenses and charitable quilt-related projects. Projects include donating more than 300 children's quilts annually to David's House for children receiving treatment at the Dartmouth Hitchcock Hospital in Lebanon, comfort and police cruiser quilts for local folks who have suffered a personal disaster, quilts for youngsters seen at the Carroll County Child Advocacy Center, funding for children's quilt programs in the schools and, financial support to the New England Quilt Museum.

Don't miss this opportunity to purchase beautiful quilts, quilted bags, and other quilted items at very reasonable prices while helping to support the Ladies of the Lakes Quilt Guild's mission - to give comfort through the art and gift of quilting. Cash, personal checks, and credit cards accepted.

MMRG announces new effort to conserve 320 acres

BROOKFIELD — For more than 20 years, landowner Stephen Snow has been working to enhance the wildlife habitat and timber quality of his 320-acre property on Tumbledown Dick Mountain in Brookfield. Now, Snow is working with Moose Mountains Regional Greenways (MMRG) to place a conservation easement on his land, to ensure that it is protected from development, forever.

According to Snow, the 1,100-foot mountain became known as 'Tumbledown Dick' after a horse named Richard lost its footing and fell off one of the two steep cliffs that define the southwestern profile of the mountain. In addition to those cliffs and talus slopes with scenic views, Snow's property includes several acres of wetlands and a beaver pond, hundreds of acres of carefully managed forest, miles of grassy woods roads, and two converted grassy fields created by Snow inside the forest for the benefit of animals that use early successional habitat. The property is open for low impact recreation and responsible hunting, with easy-to-moderate trails from the east and more challenging climbs from the northwest. The mountain lies in the scenic backdrop of Lake Wentworth and Kingswood Lake from Route 109.

MMRG Executive Director Patti Connaughton-Burns explained the many positive impacts of this conservation easement. "Conserving land with a conservation easement means that the landowner has voluntarily agreed to forfeit future development rights and to protect the land, forever. As a working forest in current use, it will continue to provide tax revenues to the town from timber harvests, which will adhere to an approved forestry management plan. The easement will guarantee public access for recreation and hunting and will protect wildlife habitat, greenway corridors, water resources, historical features and New Hampshire's way of life. The view of Tumbledown Dick across the lakes will never be spoiled by residential or commercial development or mining on the property. Conserving Stephen Snow's land is also in accord with the town of Brookfield's Master Plan, which designates preferred land uses as conservation and forestry."

Wildlife need connected open spaces, called greenways, to find food and shelter, to escape disease or other threats, to ensure genetic diversity, and to adapt to the changing climate. Connaughton-Burns emphasized the importance of Snow's property for its contribution to a growing greenway. "His parcel abuts 360 acres of already conserved lands: Warren Brook Conservation Area with easement held by Wentworth Watershed Association and Split Rock Conservation Area with easement held by MMRG. The combined Ellis Hatch WMA and Moose Mountains Reservation make another 4,500 acres of nearby conservation land. In MMRG's new Conservation Action Plan, Stephen's land is doubly recognized for its conservation value; it lies within a Tier 1 Conservation Focus Area and is part of a Priority 1 Greenway extending from Ossipee south across Tumbledown Dick into the Moose Mountains, through New Durham, towards Strafford."

She went on to enumerate more conservation values. "In its natural and forested state, the land around Tumbledown Dick provides critical lake watershed protection for both Lake Wentworth and Kingswood Lake. Snowmelt from the steep southwestern slopes enters channels of intermittent streams that flow into Warren Brook, a major tributary to Lake Wentworth. The land is also the headwaters of the sole major perennial stream feeding Kingswood Lake, with seven acres of riparian buffer filtering the water that drains into over 1,000 feet of stream before it enters the lake. The conservation easement will ensure that future forestry practices continue to safeguard the streams and riparian buffers that preserve the water quality of both lakes."

Connaughton-Burns added, "Wetlands are nature's cradle of life; they support algae, other microorganisms and the eggs and larvae of insects, fish, and amphibians. These life forms in turn feed reptiles, birds, and mammals. After spending several hours exploring the property and visiting the many wetlands and pond, it was clear why Stephen's land ranks so well in biodiversity by the Nature Conservancy and New Hampshire's Wildlife Action Plan."

Connaughton-Burns concluded, "Stephen Snow has chosen to put this land into conservation for the benefit of his family, friends, community, future generations, and for wildlife. We are grateful for his generosity and we hope the community agrees that it is a gift to know that this land will be protected forever."

Donations to help conserve the Snow Family Conservation Area on Tumbledown Dick may be made online at www.mmrinfo.org or by mail to MMRG, PO Box 191 Union, NH 03887.

Kurk Dorsey to speak at Wright Museum

WOLFEBORO — On Tuesday, July 31, from 7 to 8 p.m., Kurk Dorsey, who has taught history at the University of New Hampshire since 1994, will present "The Seoul Exception: The United States' Decision to Fight in Korea."

Part of the Wright Museum of World War II's Lecture Series, sponsored by Ron Goodgame and Donna Canney, the lecture will explore the events and thinking that led President Truman to unexpectedly involve the U.S. in the Korean War.

"His presentation is relevant to today given various world events, as he speaks about the causes of the war and its aftermath," said Michael Culver, executive director of the Wright Museum. "This is a presentation that should not be missed by anyone interested in history."

Prior to North Korea's invasion of South Korea, the U.S. had spent the previous two years not involved in the growing tensions in the region. Because of that, North Korea did not expect the U.S. to respond to its invasion, and most Americans did not expect it either.

The first military action of the Cold War saw 75,000 North Korean troops storm into South Korea. It began a conflict that lasted from 1950 to 1953 and cost the lives of 40,000 U.S. soldiers with more than 100,000 other U.S. servicemen wounded.

The Wright Museum's Lecture Series takes place every Tuesday through the end of the museum's season, which concludes Oct. 31.

Admission is discounted for museum members. Seating is limited, and reservations can be made by calling 569-1212.

Wright Museum is open daily through Oct. 31 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and noon to 4 p.m. on Sundays. For more information, visit www.wrightmuseum.org.

Wright Museum plans annual car show

WOLFEBORO — iconic transports on World War II vehicles display at the Wright Museum of World War

II, as the venue will host its annual antique vehicle show on Aug. 18.

The sixth annual Antique Car, Hotrod and Motorcycle Show will "Cruise Into the Wright" from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 18. Sponsors for the event are Sunday Paving, Edward Jones, Calico Graphics, and The Wolfeboro Inn.

"As a family oriented institution, the Wright Museum is proud to welcome back the annual Antique Car, Hotrod and Motorcycle Show," said Michael Culver, executive director of the Wright Museum. "In addition to the World War II exhibits inside the museum, visitors will have the chance to see and learn about some other amazing classic machines while enjoying a great day with their and other families."

In addition to the classic vehicles on display, the Bel Airs will provide live music of the doo-wop variety. Food also will be available for purchase.

The featured vehicle of the event will be the 1964-73 Mustang and the event will go on as planned, rain or shine. Space is only available for the first 100 vehicles that are registered, as space is at a premium. To register a vehicle, visit www.wrightmuseum.org, e-mail Donna Hamill at donna.hamill@wrightmuseum.org, or call 569-1212. There is a registration fee for each vehicle. Vehicles must be at least 25 years old to register.

Center Barnstead. Local students have also been named to the Plymouth State University Dean's List for the Spring 2018 semester. To be named to the Dean's List, a student must achieve a grade point average between 3.5 and 3.69 during the spring semester and must have attempted at least 12 credit hours during the semester.

Tyler Roberts of New Durham; Shayla Locke of Center Barnstead; Alex Bennett of Center Barnstead; Stephen Tyner of Alton Bay;

Fatima Areias of Alton;

Brennin Loring of New Durham; Lindsey Mucher of Alton.

Established in 1871, Plymouth State University serves the state of New Hampshire and the world beyond by transforming students through advanced practices where engaged learning produces well-educated undergraduates and by providing graduate education that deepens and advances knowledge and enhances professional development. With distinction, they connect with community and business partners for economic development, technological advances, healthier living, and cultural enrichment with a special commitment of service to the North Country and Lakes Region of New Hampshire.

Wolfeboro Academy of Music celebrates a successful season

WOLFEBORO — The Wolfeboro Academy of Music held its 2018 spring recital at Brewster Academy's Anderson Hall on Sunday, May 13, at 2 p.m. After a successful year of practice, the students' collective practice minutes reached nearly 30,000 since January. Director Candice Bellinger gave the students a challenge to beat 27,000 practice minutes and they won a special end of year party that was held at The Nick on Saturday, June 23. The students performed under the pavilion at The Nick, enjoyed pizza and ice cream and ended their party with a fun kickball game, which in the end was tied, fair and square.

The Wolfeboro Academy of Music is dedicated to giving the students an opportunity to get involved with the community by performing, volunteering their time throughout the year and teaching them how to perform in many different settings. In addition, they are learning that their practice time has great value, not only to themselves but to others. If you would like to learn more about the Wolfeboro Academy of Music, you may call 651-9116.

the board has already accepted multiple bids from contractors to repair the roof, but a contractor has not been chosen for the project yet.

The first part of a two-part public hearing began regarding the sale of a town-owned lot to an abutting lot on Holly Lane. Duane said that the planning board and conservation commission have both reviewed the proposed sale and approved it. He also said that the proposed buyer will be signing a lot merger form, merging the lot with their current property and making it so it can never be subdivided. With little comment from the public and no discussion among the board, Duane closed the hearing for the day, and it will continue on July 31. The board cannot make a decision until seven days after the second hearing.

Selectmen's administrative assistant/office manager Karen Montgomery then gave her reports. She discussed the upcoming closing on the current police station property. The dumpster needs to be removed from the property and other cleanup needs to be done before a closing date can be set.

Duane added that the Boy Scouts sign behind the current police department needs to be moved 10 feet back and a part of the jungle gym will need to be moved further back from the building before closing.

Montgomery also said that she investigated during the discussion about the library roof, and the repairs may qualify for use of funds in the emergency management expendable fund, since money from the fund was once used to repair the Pineo Road bridge after a washout. The fund currently contains about $64,000. She said that because it is an expendable fund, it only requires a vote from the board.

The public portion of the meeting ended with discussion of duties for the new parks and recreation part-time director, Maddison Foss, and clarification about the accounts from which money for certain aspects of parks and recreation come from.

Montgomery said that there are two accounts that can be used for different types of expenses when it comes to the parks and recreation commission and its activities. The discussion progressed into which account donations to parks and recreation programs go into, and if it's possible to offer "scholarships" to children whose families may not be able to pay the full fee for an activity. Montgomery said that fundraisers could not be held to raise money for scholarships, but the fees could simply be reduced.

"That would come within the discretion of the commission if you wanted to have some sort of sliding scale for programs," Montgomery said regarding the cost for low-income families.

Montgomery added that the at the last town meeting, "very specific" guidelines were made regarding the parks and recreation commission funds.

"Sometimes [in the past] it was a gray area of things that might come out of the check-book or things that could come out of the budget," Montgomery said.

FIRE

(continued from Page A1) the top eight were chosen. The fire department heads then created a series of questions to ask the applicants, and once the responses came back, the applicant pool was reduced to four. The first interview panel and assessment center followed, which established the top two, and the second interview panel, which occurred in June, chose Beaudoin, who was then approved and hired by the board of selectmen.

Dionne said that the fact that Beaudoin is from Alton was not a deciding factor in the decision at the end of the nationwide search.

Chairman of the select board Cydney Shapleigh and Selectmen Virgil MacDonald and John Markland attended the event. MacDonald said that the board was impressed by Beaudoin's resume, and Markland added that he hopes Beaudoin will "carry on a great tradition" at the fire department.

Markland also said that Beaudoin will be the first full-time fire chief the town of Alton has had for several years.

Alton Police Chief Ryan Heath was also part of the interview search panels. He said at the event that Beaudoin will be a "great addition to the town."

Heath also elaborated on the close relationship that is essential for a police department and fire department to have.

"We all have to work

KATHERINE LESNYK

NEW FIRE CHIEF Jim Beaudoin took time to chat with residents who turned out to welcome him to his new job on Monday.

together," he said.

Michael Gonynor, a firefighter and paramedic at the Southbridge, Mass. fire department, worked with Beaudoin in Gilman in the early 2000s. He applied for the fire chief position in Alton and ended up with Beaudoin in the top two during the search, unbeknownst to either of them because of the confidential search. He attended the dinner as a show of solidarity and camaraderie toward the new Alton Fire Chief.

Gonynor said that the fact that the two former members of the Gilman Fire Department were the top two choices for the fire chief position was "a testament to [Gilman's] program."

Also there to support Beaudoin was his family, including his wife Heidi Beaudoin, as well as Gilman Fire Chief Paul Hempel and lieutenant Randy Perkins.

"We're sure he'll do a great job here," Hempel and Perkins agreed.

Lieutenant Greg Trombi of the Alton Fire Department said that because the Gilman and Alton fire departments often work together, many people at the Alton Fire Department were familiar with Beaudoin.

The evening concluded with the official swearing-in of Beaudoin into the position of fire chief. Chief Ryan Ridley introduced Beaudoin as his successor.

"I think personality-wise and training, his history in the fire service, Jim will be a really good fit here in Alton," Ridley said. "With the officers here and the people in the department, we're approaching second base and it's up to Jim to take the department home."

Shapleigh took to the podium next, starting with a request for another round of applause for Ridley, who she said has "done an amazing job down here, bringing in a lot of new, young blood, and really has a team here that loves being together and really wants to see this fire department continue and succeed and be everything we know that it can be."

She went into detail about the search process, acknowledging those who were part of the search, including the Wolfeboro fire chief, Alton Deputy Fire Chief Evan Turcotte, Ridley, Police Chief Heath, Dionne, Gilford's town administrator and other local fire service professionals.

Shapleigh took the time to thank Beaudoin's family for "sharing" him with the department and the town of Alton, given the significant commitment to the town that he is making.

Shapleigh then had Beaudoin repeat an official oath, swearing him in as Alton's newest fire chief.

Beaudoin took a moment to give some final thoughts.

"I look forward to serving the town, and I look forward to making sure that the men and women in this department always stay safe and do well for you and we'll do well to serve our mission and take care of the town and its residents," he said.

Digging for some history and pirating the news

John Harrigan is off this week. This column originally ran on July 30, 2015.

NORTH COUNTRY NOTEBOOK

By JOHN HARRIGAN

Every now and then, when I'm heading home from Lancaster or Littleton and have the time, I swing over into Vermont to take Route 102 home to Colebrook. It is a bucolic drive, with some great corners if you like to corner, and a pace much less frenetic than over on busy Route 3.

The other day I came off the west end of Lancaster's Rogers' Rangers Bridge to see a bunch of people putting little red flags around on a small piece of 100-year floodplain between the road and the river, and digging here and there. The presence of a dirt sifter or two told me that it was, well, you guessed it, a dig.

The crew doing the digging and sifting pointed to the chief, Jake, who graciously answered a couple of quick questions before I had to go, promising to call the home office for more details.

They were from Independent Archaeological Consulting, LLC, out of Portsmouth, and I can only assume that they were searching the spot for anything smacking of important antiquity before some sort of nearby infrastructure work takes place. More on that in a forthcoming column.

But I'm fascinated by digs, whether required in advance of construction or solely in the interests of science. A dozen years or so ago I visited the famed Paleo-Indian dig in Jefferson, and later watched from afar (Route 3) as a similar dig was conducted just north of Colebrook, not because I was too lazy to down to go down there but because I didn't want to bother the crew.

The more such digs are carried out in ever more narrowly focused spots across the continent, the further the earliest dates of human habitation are pushed back. These dates, in several sites, have fetched up against (or in some cases perhaps surpassed) the supposed cutoff point, during the time of the last glacier roughly 15,000 years ago, when the exposed Bering land bridge served as the supposed only means for the peopling of the Western Hemisphere.

Right, some long-time students and experts think, when pigs fly. What about those much earlier radio-carbon-dated results from a steadily increasing number of sites? Many involved in lifelong studies on the subject believe that ultimately the theories about the Bering Strait being "the only answer" will wind up as so much hogwash.

JOHN HARRIGAN

AN ARCHAEOLOGICAL crew dug and sifted at selected spots on the west side of the Connecticut in Guildhall one bright day last week.

Even though I don't own newspapers or write editorials any more, except for maybe the occasional guest editorial, I remain a news junkie and still can't avoid the habit of scribbling little notes about something that piques my interest or arouses my ire.

Last week marked the reopening of full embassies in Havana and Washington after more than half a century of undiplomatic enmity. The Cubans made a big deal of it, hoisting the same flag that was hauled down when ties were severed in 1961, with a crowd hearing speeches and singing the Cuban anthem as the colors went up again.

As for the reopening of the U.S. embassy in Havana, almost nothing. The place simply reopened for business, stamping passports and the like. The official explanation was that the Department of State wanted to postpone any official celebrations or ceremonies until Secretary of State John Kerry's planned visit later this summer.

How bland, dry, lacking of any real human emotion, and utterly predictable.

Whether they're for resuming normal relations with Cuba or not, most people know about justly famed Cuban cigars, which have been smuggled with skullduggery otherwise reserved for drugs and diamonds but are, of course, readily available just across the border (the Other Border) in Canada.

What many people don't seem to know, unless they read niche magazines like Cigar Aficionado, is that artisans in a host of other Caribbean and Central American nations produce cigars every bit as good, which are easily available throughout the United States.

Every day I read the New York Times and the New Hampshire Union Leader, and every month the New Yorker, the Atlantic and Harper's, plus too many niche magazines and other publications to name. So when National Public Radio hyped a behind-the-scenes look at the secret preliminary trips to Tehran prior to negotiations and signing of a presumed non-nuclear-proliferation pact with the U.S., I hoped for something different, perhaps an in-depth look at the daily details of life for an international non-person. How was he received? Where were his lodgings? Was he free to go wherever he wanted? Was there time off relaxation or recreation? Are there, for instance, golf courses in Iran, and did he bring his clubs, in particular (of course, can't help this) his sand wedge? Were the pre-negotiations amiable? Did they take place in English or did he speak the language of the land or was an interpreter leaning over his shoulder? Did they break for lunch?

If so, what was lunch? But oh no, instead, after an obligatory intro segment about having to fly out of Washington in total secrecy, on a secret government plane, we were treated to the same old bland treaty details we'd been hearing and reading about for weeks.

No wonder so many people eschew the so-called traditional news sources and seize on more interesting ways to get their news instead.

And finally, furthering the news rant, there's the pirating of news stories about, yup, pirates, on the high seas.

Let's see, I think it went like this: The New York Times ran a big story about pirates on the high seas scoffing at the law and for all we know making people walk the plank, and then the very next day the story ran on NPR, without attribution and then ran as a feature story on assorted other media, ditto.

No, wait, maybe it was the breath-taking story on the apparently previously unknown fact that the lion's share of worldwide freight is, big surprise, carried on freighters, as in big ships that ply the seas, and that some of them actually sink, at the rate of a ship every three days or so.

News to me, but after nearly half a century in the business, what do I know about news?

This column runs in weekly newspapers covering two-thirds of New Hampshire from Concord to Quebec, and parts of northwestern Maine and Vermont's Northeast Kingdom. Write to campguyhooligan@gmail.com, or P.O. Box 39, Colebrook, NH 03576.

Doubleheader split keeps Post 72 out of tourney

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

FARMINGTON — With their playoff fate in their own hands, the Alton Post 72 Junior Legion boys took to the Farmington High School field on Saturday for a doubleheader with Merrimack. The team needed to sweep the two games in order to earn a place in the Junior Legion state tournament.

However, Merrimack proved to be the hungrier team, opening the day with a 5-3 win, keeping Alton out of the postseason tournament.

“It didn’t work out the way we wanted to,” coach Bubba Noyes noted. “But that’s the story of our season, errors that come back to haunt us.”

Ryker Burke got the start on the hill for Post 72 in the opener and a base hit and an error plated one run for the visitors in the top of the first, but Burke caught a pop up and got a strikeout to end the inning.

Alton then jumped on the board in the bottom of the first inning. Burke was hit by a pitch to start things out, but he was caught stealing. Hayden Drew beat out an infield hit, but he was picked off. Alton didn’t back down, even with the two outs. Austin Garrett had an infield hit, Garrett Smart had a base hit and Ryan Dube had a base hit, loading the bases. Austin Didsbury worked a walk to plate the tying run and then a base hit from Andrew Crowers gave Alton the 2-1 lead.

Burke worked around a walk in the top of the second, striking out two and his teammates got another run in the bottom of the inning. Nate Holiday reached on an error and one out later, Drew reached on an error as well, sending Holiday diving home with the third run of the game.

Merrimack threatened in the top of the third inning, with a base hit, stolen base and wild pitch putting a runner at third. A walk put another runner on but Burke got a pop up to Crowers at second to end the inning.

An error put a Merrimack runner on base with one out in the top of the fourth but a ball hit to shallow center forced the runner at second base and then Burke got a strikeout to get out of the inning.

Masonic Summer Cross Country Series wraps up tonight

WOLFEBORO — Wolverines fall softball will be having tryouts on Aug. 2 at 5:30 p.m. at The Nick.

They are looking to field three teams this year. The 12U team will be 2005 birth year or younger. The 14U will be 2003 birth year or younger and the 16U will be 2001 or younger.

Each team will consist of 12 to 13 players and follow ASA guidelines and rules. Games will start Aug. 26 and will run through Oct. 21 at Roger Allen Park in Rochester. Game times are Sundays at 9 or 11 a.m. according to your team's schedule. Practices will be held during the week at The Nick 5:30 to 7 p.m. They will determine practice days after the teams are formed.

If you are selected to a team, the registration is $150 a player. This fee goes towards games, uniform jersey and team insurance. This is a great way to play some competitive softball and keep your skills up for next spring.

If you can not make the tryout date, please contact coach Mike Shaw at mikeshawpainting@gmail.com.

in the bottom of the fourth and then Merrimack came back and tied things in the top of the fifth.

After the leadoff batter reached on an error, he was cut down at third base on a grounder to short that Smart fielded and threw to Kody Hamel. However, a stolen base and a base hit plated the second run and after a strikeout, a double tied the game at three. Dube was able to get his team out of trouble by gunning down a runner stealing third to end the inning.

Drew was hit by a pitch to open the bottom of the fifth and he stole second and took third on a groundout by Smart. Dube was hit by a pitch to keep the inning going and a Didsbury walk loaded the bases. However, all three runners were stranded and the game remained tied.

Dube took over on the mound in the top of the sixth inning and retired the first two batters quickly. However, a walk, a double and a base hit brought in two runs before he got a strikeout to end the inning and Merrimack had the 5-3 lead.

Alton went in order in the bottom of the sixth inning and Dube worked around a base hit in the top of the seventh to set Merrimack down without any runs scoring. However, Alton went in order in the bottom of the seventh and Merrimack took the 5-3 win.

The second game saw Dinsbury take the hill for Alton and he retired the side in order in the first inning, including a pair of strikeouts. Burke worked a walk and stole second in the bottom of the inning and then moved to third on a groundout by Garrett, but he was stranded. Zack Russell made a nice play at third to help set the side in order in the top of the second. Smart reached on an error with one out in the bottom of the second, with Dube following with a base hit and Russell working a walk to load the bases, but Alton could not get any of the runners home.

Dinsbury gave up a leadoff hit in the top of the third but came back and struck out the next three batters to get out of the inning. Garrett was hit by a pitch and took second on a wild pitch. Dinsbury followed with a double to plate the first run of the game for the 1-0 lead.

Merrimack put two runners on base in the top of the fourth but couldn't score and Alton added to the lead in the bottom of the inning. With two outs, Logan Neathery worked a walk and Burke followed with a base hit. A double from Derek Dumont plated both runners to push the lead to 3-0.

The visitors came back and had their own two-out rally in the top of the fifth inning, with a pair of infield hits, a pair of walks, a double and a base hit to push four runs across to take the 4-3 lead. Dinsbury and Smart came through with hits to put two runners on with one out but they could not score. Dinsbury struck out two in the top of the sixth inning and then got the third out when catcher Peter Apgar tracked down a wild pitch and fired to Dinsbury at the plate to tag the runner out.

Drew reached on an error to start the bottom of the sixth inning and Burke was hit by a pitch. Garrett worked a walk and then a grounder by Crowers to third forced a runner at the plate but a throwing error allowed the tying run to cross the plate.

Smart took over pitching duties in the top of the seventh and worked around a base hit and an error, striking out the final batter of the inning. Smart then doubled to start the bottom of the inning and took third on a wild pitch. Russell walked and Holiday took over on the bases and promptly stole second. However, both runners were stranded. Smart worked around a walk in the top of the eighth and Alton got the winning run in the bottom of the inning.

Dumont led off with a walk and one out later, Crowers was hit by a pitch. Dinsbury then delivered a base hit to left to plate the winning run to close out the season with the 5-4 win.

"They're not bad baseball players," Noyes noted, pointing out that the team's record didn't reflect the talent on the team. "I think they all have college baseball abilities."

PMHS fall sports start on Aug. 13

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School has announced the start times for the fall sports season.

The first day of practice for the majority of the fall teams will be on Monday, Aug. 13.

The boys' soccer team will meet from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The girls' soccer team will be practicing from 9 to 11 a.m.

The cross country team will hold practice from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

For volleyball, the first practice will be from 5 to 8 p.m.

The golf team will have its first practice at 3 p.m.

The bass fishing team will be off the water from 3:15 to 4 p.m. and will be on the water from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The lone team to not start on Aug. 13 will be the unified soccer team, which will have practices determined once school starts.

Barnstead 5K set for Aug. 18

BARNSTEAD — The Barnstead Firefighters Association is pleased to announce its seventh annual 5K Road Race and Fun Walk to start at the Barnstead Parade grounds on Aug. 18 at 9 a.m.

The course is an "out and back" that follows the Suncook River from the Parade to the intersection with Route 126 and then returns to the Parade along the same route for the finish. The race course is USATF certified for accuracy and is considered flat and fast. Refreshments will follow the race.

Proceeds from this year's race will benefit the Barnstead Firefighters Association.

Pre-registration must be received by Aug. 14. Registration forms are available at www.bfr06.com, by e-mail at bfa5kroadrace@gmail.com or call 312-5648. On-line registration is also available at www.running4free.com. Race day registration will also be available.

PMHS soccer parent meetings are tonight

ALTON — The Prospect Mountain soccer programs have announced preseason parent meeting dates and times.

Both teams will be holding a preseason player and parent meeting on Thursday, July 26, at 5 p.m. The boys will be meeting in the auditorium and the girls in the cafeteria. Players who are interested in trying out for the fall season should plan to attend. New girls' coach Doug Cheney noted he will be discussing parental expectations and answering any questions from parents before the season begins.

Boys with questions can contact coach Cory Halvorsen at cory_halvorsen@icloud.com and girls with questions can contact Cheney at doug.cheney1@gmail.com.

Additionally, both squads are holding summer soccer sessions. The girls meet from 9 to 11 a.m. and the boys meet from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays throughout the summer on the back soccer field at the high school.

Prospect searching for coaches for next year

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School in Alton is searching for a few coaches for the upcoming school year. Positions being sought are JV volleyball, spirit and JV baseball. Call Corey Roux at 875-3800 for more information.

Facility Operations

We have a great opportunity for a full-time team player. What could you make of this job with varied tasks and responsibilities? Never a boring day at the office. This team member will give owners' unit linen change on Tuesdays. Friday is unit change over day with cleaning and laundry. The rest of the week is ongoing practical maintenance- paint a railing, clean a grill, minor appliance, electrical, and plumbing repairs. Wednesday spend the day outside and make the grounds look inviting- weeding, and planting. The key for the right person is to be an energetic self-starter with great customer service skills and knowledge of "how to" do repairs. Attention to detail, and a valid New Hampshire driver's license required with reliable transportation; a utility vehicle a plus. This is a full-time hourly position, pay commensurate with practical experience.

Please apply in person: 46 Packard's Rd, Waterville Valley, NH 03215. No phone calls please. EEO and drug free work place.

General laborers needed for Maple tubing systems installation. Must have a valid drivers license and good transportation. Work is outdoors in all weather conditions. To apply email joe@sweettreeholdings.com.

Looking back (and ahead) on a fun theater experience

A few times every year I hijack this space to talk about one of my non-work interests, The Village Players Theater in Wolfeboro.

I first became involved in the theater in the fall of 2009 when my college friend, John Savage, asked me to be part of the pit band for the theater's production of Mame, which he was directing. It's safe to say my performance in that show was not good (there's a reason I have not been involved in any pit band since).

SPORTING CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING

I was involved in drama during my senior year in high school when

I decided not to "play" basketball in the winter months, but I had very little experience in the theater world beyond that. Despite my shortcomings as a pit band member, it was a good experience being part of the theater world.

The next summer, Russ Ellis and Jay Sydow asked me to do publicity for the show they were directing, getting me back involved in the theater, as I put together press releases and photos for Unnecessary Farce.

I was away from the theater for all of 2011 before Jay roped me in to being part of his stage crew for Leading Ladies in the summer of 2012. And I've been there ever since.

I was on stage crew again for Gypsy that fall, my first backstage musical experience, then did publicity for Undeclared History the following spring. I also started "helping out" building sets on those two shows. I made my stage managing debut for Hello, Is There Any Body There?

that summer and was again on the stage crew for Fiddler on the Roof in the fall of 2013. In 2014, I was house manager for Death and Taxes and was asked by Village Players legend Carol Bense to produce her summer show, Caught in the Net. That fall I was part of the stage crew for Seussical, The Musical and also spent a little time on stage.

The spring of 2015 brought The Mousetrap, which I served as producer for and then worked as the stage manager for the summer comedy Boeing, Boeing. That fall, I made my speaking debut on stage as Sir Not Appearing in Spamalot, though my main job was working on the stage crew. I served as producer again in the spring of 2016 for Drinking Habits and then was assistant director for the first (and only) time for the summer production of Bathroom Humor.

Carol asked me to be stage manager for her fall musical, Kiss Me, Kate, which was my first stage managing gig in a musical (which remains my favorite job at the theater). I was producer again on Biloxi Blues in spring of 2017.

Last summer I went out of the comfort zone and sang and danced in The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee and then in addition to serving as stage manager again for The Music Man, I also had a small on stage part.

And this year, I produced Crimes of the Heart for the spring and am serving as producer again for A Fox on the Fairway, which opens this weekend.

I can't say enough about the Village Players as a community of people. I've truly enjoyed everyone I've met through this theater experience and I can't think of a better way to spend the little free time I get.

And I hope that anyone out there can find time the next two weekends to see this summer's comedy. It's a funny show with some great actors and I promise, you will not see me on stage, which is good for everyone involved.

Check out village-players.com for information on the show.

Finally, have a great day Bob Tuttle.
