

The Tavern opens in Bristol

BY DONNA RHODES

BRISTOL – LinCross Roast Beef and More, a sandwich and baked goods shop in downtown Bristol, just added a little “more” to their service with the opening of The Tavern, a comfortable place where adults can enjoy a cold mug of beer, a glass of wine and some of the delicious foods they also offer through their abutting restaurant.

Co-owner Jodi Lingsch said the opening for The Tavern was scheduled to take place last Friday and the family was glad to meet the deadline they had set for themselves.

“We’ve been working on this for months and pushed to open today because it’s National Beer Day,” said Lingsch.

While the family-owned restaurant has been at the downtown Pleasant Street location for over a year, The Tavern was a new concept for their ever-growing business venture.

Lingsch said her husband Christopher built the beautiful wooden bar while her brother helped with the tables and benches that created the comfortable atmosphere.

“After that we all chipped in for the painting and decorations and I think it came out nice,” said Lingsch.

Customers on Day One agreed with her assessment.

“I give this place five thumbs up. The people who work here are absolutely wonderful and make you feel comfortable when you stop in. It’s a great addition to Bristol,” said Nora, one of many people on hand for opening day at The Tavern.

While The Tavern offers wine and a broad selection of domestic and imported beer for their customers, they also have a new brew on tap that locals may appreciate even more.

“Shackett’s Brewery made us a special LinCross Lager that is available in 16- and 23-ounce glasses,” Lingsch said.

And when it’s time for something to eat, The Tavern offers a full menu from LinCross’s sandwich shop, which specializes in their delicious roast beef, pulled pork and steak sandwiches. There is also a “Build Your Own” option for sandwiches, along with homemade soups, side dishes, salads and baked goods that go well with any menu choice. They even provide a take-out option for those who prefer to enjoy their meal at home on the road.

LinCross Roast Beef and More is located at 16 Pleasant Street in downtown Bristol. They are open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. and offer local delivery services from 11 a.m. –

6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Tavern will also be open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, and “late” on Friday and Saturday nights, with no specific time designated at the moment.

Bristol’s fourth annual Making It In Bristol event featured many local home businesses or those off the beaten path and included young entrepreneurs Aya and Kaiya who sold lemonade to benefit a project to build a new kitchen facility in the community’s Old Town Hall.

Bristol Historical Society not only sponsored the annual Making It In Bristol event last weekend, but Julia Long and James Caldwell were among the volunteers who manned a booth for the society, filled photos and books on the town’s historic past, along with a donation jar for improvements to the Old Town Hall.

BRISTOL – Last Saturday’s Making It In Bristol showcase fell prey to some summer rains but the swift move to Bristol’s Old Town Hall provided everyone with cover from the weather and room for shoppers to browse all the items that community crafters and artists had to offer.

Presented for the fourth year by the Bristol Historical Society,

Making It In Bristol organizer Lucille Keegan was pleased that people were adaptive to the change that day.

“It was a hard decision to make. We all watched the weather on Friday and finally decided to move it to the Old Town Hall. Despite that, only one vendor decided not to come,” said Keegan.

Twenty-one others did make the show though, bringing all of

PLYMOUTH – Health care representatives and community members gathered together at Bridge House in Plymouth last week as Pemi-Baker Community Health presented a check to Bridge House to support their new hospice room, the first to be available for low income residents in the region.

Pemi-Baker Community Services offers in-home care for the critically ill and Program Manager for their hospice services, Mary Francis Drake, was excited to finally have a place where people in their last stages of life can be comfortable and receive the care they need.

“This is a unique experience that everyone can benefit from,” she said.

When Drake moved to the area several years ago she noted that there were no hospice care facilities for people in need, nor were there any

Ashland School Board appoints new board member

BY DAVID RUELL

At their August 1 meeting, the Ashland School Board appointed a new board member, confirmed the hiring of two new teachers, recognized a retiree, set aside money for roof work, and heard reports of past and future school activities.

Following the resignation of school board member Jamie Lyford, the Board advertised for volunteers to take his place until the next local election in March. Only one person responded, but that candidate, Steve Heath, is well qualified for the position. He spent 42 years as an educator, the last 24 years of his career as a teacher and coach in the Ashland middle school. He now serves as the town’s Fire Chief. The School Board decided to look no further and voted

Ashland selectmen discuss bridges and budgets

BY DAVID RUELL

At their relatively short August 7 meeting, the Ashland selectmen held a public hearing on the repainting of the I-93 bridges over Collins Street, approved one contract and dealt with other issues ranging from the budget to port a-potties.

Jerry Zoller, an engineer from the N.H. Department of Transportation, presented the state's plans for repainting the two I-93 bridges that span Collins Street and the Squam River. The goal is to repaint 13 bridges between exit 19 in Northfield and exit 24 in Ashland. On all of the bridges, the old lead based paint will be blasted off and replaced with three coats of new high performance paint (dark brown in color). The bridge painting will be put out to bid in September, with bids due in October. The work will be completed by October of 2018. It is expected that most of the work will be done in 2018.

During the blasting, the metal bridge beams will be enclosed in an airtight compartment with negative air pressure, so that the old paint can be safely collected and will not damage the environment or people. The equipment involved will take up some 200 feet of roadway under the bridge. So, to provide for that equipment, Collins Street will be reduced to one lane of traffic for the four to five weeks the work will take.

Traffic in the remaining lane will be controlled by automatic traffic lights. These lights will not interfere with traffic to the transfer station, but they will control travel to the wastewater treatment plant. Water and Sewer Commissioners David Toth and Alan Cilley attended the meeting. They explained that the construction of a septage receiving station at the plant next year, starting in April or May and lasting for at least three or four months, will increase the traffic on Collins Street. Toth added that summer is a busy time for septic haulers using the plant, with 20 to 30 trucks arriving every day. Zoller felt that there was enough road way width under the bridge to accommodate that traffic and the equipment needed for the painting project, as bridge painting contractors are used to working in tight spaces.

The selectmen approved and signed an agreement with NHDOT to allow them to control traffic on Collins Street during the project.

At a previous meeting, the selectmen had reviewed a contract renewal with Certified Computer Solutions, which provides IT services to the town, and had asked then for a one-year contract instead of the proposed three-year contract. Town Administrator Charlie Smith reported that the company had agreed to the shortened term. So, the selectmen approved the contract.

The Water and Sewer Commissioners reported that Vernon Marion, owner of the Ames Brook Campground, has offered to donate to the town the sewer line that he built from the campground across other properties to Washington Street. The line, with one pumping station, was designed by engineers and approved by the NH Department of Environmental Services when built. The 1800 foot line serves not only the campground but the other properties that it passes through. The Commissioners examined the as-built plans, and sent their superintendent Rusty Cross to inspect the line. They voted to accept the donation of the line, subject to the approval of the selectmen who have the final say in the matter. The selectmen will have to hold a public hearing on the proposal and directed the Town Administrator to schedule one.

Craig Moore has been appointed interim Public Works Director following the resignation of Tim Paquette, who will become the Maintenance Manager at the Ashland School following the retirement of Garry Hamm. The selectmen decided at this meeting to set Moore's wages at $18 per hour while serving as interim Director. The Public Works Director position has been advertised, with applications due by the end of August.

Looking over the Town Hall parking lot with other members of the Town of Ashland Appreciation Day committee, Chair Fran Newton noted large cracks in the paving. She discussed them with Craig Moore, who told her they were too big to be sealed by volunteers and that the parking lot had not been sealed for many years. The selectmen agreed to Newton's suggestion that estimates be obtained for sealing the cracks and seal coating the parking lot. Moore was asked to get three quotes. Moore also reported that the vandalized speed bump at the town beach had been repaired and has remained in place. Another issue is two portable toilets that were rented for the Fourth of July, but have yet to be removed from the ball field. Fourth of July Chair Amanda Loud and Fran Newton, acting as health officer, have both contacted the toilet rental company asking for their removal, so far without success. Moore said that the grass beneath the toilets has died.

Selectman Tejasinha Sivalingam was unable to attend the meeting, but he did make a written citizen's inquiry in his capacity as a private citizen. The inquiry, which was read aloud by Newton, expressed his concern that the diversion of water by the Town from Smith Hill Road onto neighboring properties could be considered a "taking" of private property without due process or compensation, and therefore unconstitutional. Town Administrator Charlie Smith reported that the NH Municipal Association lawyer that he contacted had explained that such diversion of water is not considered a "taking" of private property. There was no further discussion by the selectmen of the issue after Smith's report.

The selectmen had already signed a purchase order for a $3000 lawn mower for the town parks, and approved a pay increase for a police officer who had completed his probationary period. While reviewing the minutes, the selectmen agreed that they should show, except when votes were unanimous, how individual selectmen voted or abstained. Most of the department heads have completed their 2018 budget proposals. The selectmen discussed when to meet to review those budget requests and work on the budget they will present to the Budget Committee. The selectmen decided once again to not send annual inventory forms to taxpayers. The practice of allowing citizens at the meeting to comment only on agenda items was questioned. Newton explained that she would allow simple inquiries, but that the policy was created so that the selectmen would not be blindsided by complaints without advance notice. Those with complaints are asked to submit written inquiries before the meeting, so that those issues can be placed on the meeting agenda and be investigated beforehand.

Explore Campton Day spreads cheer throughout town

Despite the gloomy weather, there was a noticeable cheer in Campton as Explore Campton Day commenced. The events ran from 8:00 am to 2:00 pm and ranged from a fire-house breakfast to bike tours and yard sales. The businesses and institutions of the town came together to put on a fantastic day for the people of the community to mark the town's 250th anniversary.

"COW PATTY BINGO" COMING TO HEBRON THIS SATURDAY

All "Bingo" tickets have been sold, but raffle and silent auction ongoing

HEBRON – Parts of Hebron's beautiful town common will be converted into a cow corral as part of a fundraiser sponsored by the Friends of the Hebron Library.

The "Cow Patty Bingo" event has been so successful that all available 255 tickets have been sold in advance. With that in mind, the fundraising committee wants to remind everyone that a large raffle and silent auction will be taking place during the afternoon as well.

The "Bingo" event will take place at 4PM, but folks may take advantage of the raffle and silent auction during the afternoon as well. The committee wants to thank the many friends and businesses that have contributed to both the raffle and silent auction, and those who have purchased tickets in support of the Hebron Library. With just 255 squares in the grid, the early birds got the tickets.

How does a cottage rental on Newfound Lake sound? Or a two night stay for two at the beautiful Meadow Winds Bed and Breakfast in Hebron? These are just two of the many items available to you and yours during the raffle and silent auction.

Come to the Hebron Common this Saturday to experience the "Sweet Smell of Success" and enjoy the raffle and silent auction.

kicked off the day with an early morning community breakfast. Kids could be found chomping down on their morning meal, while adults chatted and laughed with neighbors. Meanwhile, the department was also selling a wide assortment of gear including shirts, frisbees, and water bottles to raise money. After the breakfast, the Fire Department hosted another event where people could check out all of their equipment, including the brand new truck that they received on Friday. It certainly was a big hit. According to Lieutenant Dan Custance, "All the kids came out and toured the trucks and equipment and they love it."

The Fire Department, a pillar of the community, hosted many of these events with the intention of giving back. Chief Defosses said, "The 250th isn't something that happens everyday. We wanted to do our part in supporting the community because they support us so much."

Two doors down from the Fire Station, the people of Campton were able to enjoy live music and a great lunch right in their police station. The Just Because Band played fun tunes as the people of Campton chowed down on their meal. There was a large buffet for all to enjoy, including particular crowd-favorite brownies. When asked about her favorite part of the day, Angela Bain of Campton stated, "The whole day, really. But the fireman's breakfast started off the day and then the community lunch and just eating together."

Additionally, the Explore Campton Day celebration was marked with the release of the Historical Society's new book, Images of America: Campton. This book is a compilation of images kept in the society's archives. It presents a detailed narrative of the town's history through images and captions of old Campton families and depicts the changes in the town over time. People came down to the police station to get their books signed and to purchase merchandise in support of the town and community.

Explore Campton Day was the first of three separate days to celebrate Campton's 250th anniversary. This day was intended to celebrate the history of the town and the current pillars of the community. On August 26th, Campton will host an all-nations dinner with live entertainment, country dancing and an open mic. The Grand Celebration will be on September 30th, which will include a large gala, in addition to the day time events.

All in all, Explore Campton Day was a huge success filled with lots of history, joy, and community. It allowed seasonal residents to feel a sense of unity with the town as well as giving an opportunity for full-time residents to gather with neighbors. Resident Mary Durgin says, "The events for People to see what the history of the town is and to get together with the old timers and just reminisce." The day-long event educated people, even life-long Campton residents, about their town's rich history. Neighbors explored together the town's covered bridges and the great institutions that provide so much to the people of Campton. Angela Bain put it well, "To bring the community together and enjoy the birth of our community-- It's nice to have a sense of community"

New England prepares for solar eclipse

REGION – On Monday, August 21, New Hampshire will be treated to a rare meteorological event when the moon will cross in front of the sun, causing a partial solar eclipse throughout most of New England.

Gene Bank is a local amateur weather buff from Bridgewater who keeps a close eye on the sky year round, and he is excited about the upcoming eclipse.

“This is much rarer than a lunar eclipse (when the earth shadows the moon),” Banks said. “We’ll have a partial solar eclipse here in New England, where about 60-percent of the sun will be covered. About a 70-mile wide swath from Oregon to North Carolina will see the total eclipse however.”

This time the real East Coast show, he said, will be in the southern states, but even a partial eclipse is still a most unusual and interesting sight to behold.

On March 7, 1970, a total solar eclipse on the East Coast was memorialized in the Carly Simon song “You’re So Vain,” when she sang about a former wealthy lover who flew to Nova Scotia to see the total eclipse of the sun. The last solar eclipse of any kind in New England however, was a partial eclipse, sometimes technically called an annular eclipse, which occurred in May of 1994. At that time the moon didn’t block the entire sun but passed before it, leaving a “halo” of light around the perimeter.

“As luck will have it, we’ll get to enjoy another solar eclipse in April of 2024 though. This time we’ll be very close to the path of totality, which will pass northeast from Texas and reach across northern Vermont and New Hampshire. That’s going to be huge,” said Bank.

This year’s solar event will begin at about 1:45 p.m. on August 21, and peak at approximately 2:45 p.m.. If skies are fair in the northeast, residents may notice sunlight dwindling during that one-hour period, but as a partial eclipse for the region in 2017, the sky will not become completely dark this time around.

While Bank strongly

cautions that people not stare directly at the sun, there are ways people can observe this unique solar eclipse. Welders’ goggles are one safe means to look at the sun for more than a few moments, but special solar glasses are also being sold for a low cost at local businesses and Walmart stores. The glasses provide the proper protection for a good look at the sun as the moon moves slowly across it.

On Saturday, August 26th, the Hebron Historical Society will sponsor a presentation by local archaeologists Doug and Ben McLane entitled “Native American Finds from Hebron and the Northeast”. The program will be in a “show and tell” format featuring decades-worth of finds from the Hebron Beach and Grey Rocks areas as well as thousands of museum-quality artifacts from the Howard Sargent collection. Focus will be not only on the simple utility of these objects but also on their significance as art. Most of these treasures may be handled by the audience so the presentation will be especially interesting for young people.

The featured talk will begin at 6:30 pm preceded by a pot luck supper at 5:30. The public is welcome and there is no charge for admission, but donations would be appreciated.

The program will be held in the Hebron Community Hall (16 Church Lane in the basement of the Union Congregational Church) which is directly across North Shore Road from the Hebron Common. Some suggestions have been received to convert the bridge behind, constructed in 1886, into a foot observation deck. It is believed to be the only surviving bridge of its kind left in the U.S.

DCYF under fire

It's been asked once, and it will continue to be asked until the current law changes its language. Why, when a child is removed from their home by the state due to abuse or neglect, are remaining children permitted to stay with said unfit parent?

This has been a question that was high on our radar after the death of an infant in Lisbon. Currently there are changes being made to DCYF after a recent independent audit report, including more in home prevention services and support. More funding has been made available to hire much needed case assessment workers and child advocates to tackle the large case load.

A series in the Concord Monitor revealed that several red flags were discovered regarding DCYF procedures and policies. The article stated, "Outside reviewers found that many cases reported to the agency were not brought forward for further action, even when the agency's own assessments found that kids were at high risk of harm. An outside review of New Hampshire's child protective services agency, the Division of Children Youth and Families, identified a number of red flags in how abuse and neglect reports are handled. Outside reviewers found that many cases reported to the agency were not brought forward for further action, even when the agency's own assessments found that kids were at high risk of harm."

The 2014 incident involving the murder of three year old Brielle Gage is one that stands out. Prior to the child's death there were ten cases of neglect brought against her mother, yet the child was able to remain in the home.

While the state can't save every child, stricter guidelines need to be implemented. It is our duty as adults to protect our children. Complicating things is the language of the current laws.

Instead of resorting to common sense in high risk cases, the law is interpreted in such a way that makes it harder for state agencies to step in and bring a child to safety.

As for children allowed to remain in the same home as one where a child is removed from is absurd. Each case is based on neglect and abuse against a specific child. If after one year there is no improvement on the part of the parent, the process for the termination of parental rights will begin. Isn't it likely that if a parent abuses one child, their subsequent children are also at risk? If you are unfit, you are unfit. If said child is removed from a home, and the parent has additional children with a new partner, the waters get muddied. That new child can not be removed from the care of that parent because a new parent is in the mix. The law protects those parents who do rehabilitate and change for the better, yet it does not protect the children who are left remaining in the care of an unfit parent. Why?

If after a year, a parent of a child who has been removed from their care, doesn't make the proper changes necessary to parent the child safely, then no children should be left in their care regardless of the fact that a new parent could be in the mix. This may seem severe, but it is a sure fire way to make sure New Hampshire's youngest residents are protected.

Simply put, the slaps on the wrists need to stop. If you abuse or neglect one child and lose custody, it should be law that you lose custody of all children in your care regardless of who the other biological parent is, until steps are made in a positive direction. If you have an issue with one child and not the others, enough to lose custody of said child, then yes, that deems you unfit. Unfit is unfit.

For members of state agencies to fall back on the law as is, is absolute nonsense. Who cares what the law says? The law as is, is ridiculously flawed. Common sense needs to be weaved within the language of child protection laws.

Currently there is a shortage of foster homes in the state of New Hampshire, however that does not give the state the right to brush off these cases.

First and foremost, above all other business currently taking place in Concord, this should be at the top of the list, without question.

Sununu Ignores Voters

To the Editor

Governor Chris Sununu just "kissed off" every Commoner, Sportswoman and Sportsman in New Hampshire in favor of the rich and in-famous who think they are entitled to their OWN Lake Sunapee.

Lake Sunapee is more than 10 acres or more public waters and owned by the State of New Hampshire and held in trust by the State for public use. That is the law, and over the last 20 years plus, the "high and mighty" of the Lake Sunapee elite have challenged by law and in kind the right of the Public to have their legal use of the Wild Goose Site on Lake Sunapee for Public access to the Lake.

We are all aware of politics and "big money" and the insidious disregard for the "working stiffs" that work hard and like to "recreate" and occasionally get on the water and relax; too bad the Sportswoman and Sportsmen are not treated in a way that politics and money are removed from the equation.

I find it a sad commentary that the Governor of the State of New Hampshire has totally ignored the will and the rights of the very people that voted for him. I am guessing that there are more Sportswomen, Sportsmen and just "we the people" than there are the "special class".

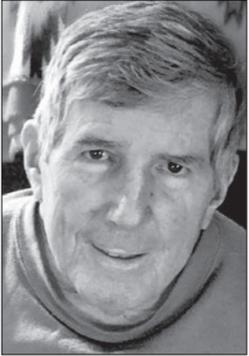

I love the lakes, the rivers, the ponds, and streams, and all of New Hampshire. I among many others ALSO VOTE.

North Country Notebook

From caves to billowing sheets, and the bliss of being an Elder

By JOHN HARRIGAN
COLUMNIST

New Hampshire is not exactly famous for caves. Oh, there are a handful of fairly well-known caves, but compared to other states, not many.

What brought this to mind was a conversation with a fellow heart-rehab participant who lives near a cave up back beyond Maidstone Lake, in nearby (as in "just across the river") Vermont. I've always wanted to visit that cave. It's on my Bucket List.

One of New Hampshire's more famous caves is the Paleo-Indian flint mine on Mt. Jasper in Berlin. Mined for 9,000 years or more, its signature material has been found in the Mississippi basin, evidence of the trade routes among the continent's first people so long ago.

There is a Cave Road in Stratford that makes me wonder, and there is a cave on the eastern slope of Magalloway Mountain, in eastern Pittsburg. In fact, there are caves all over New Hampshire, but most are quite shallow.

Dave Cook and I were fishing Boundary Pond one afternoon a few decades ago when I got sick of it, and decided to explore the pickup-sticks of huge granite boulders on the pond's eastern shore.

I found plenty of caves, made so by the sheer jumble, and one in particular was quite deep, and featured scattered piles of animal bones around its entrance. It furthered my curiosity, but not enough to go spelunking.

One of the simple pleasures in life is to hang out wash, especially when a breeze is blowing, which is almost always.

I was on the phone Sunday with my eldest sister Susan, who lives in Manhattan, and after exchanging news from a recent family reunion I said I had to go. I'd hung sheets around the rooftop deck, and they were at risk of blowing off to Bangor.

There aren't many Harrigans left, and so it was fun to get some of the remnants together at a rented house in Bartlett, although "remnants" is not fair, because the East Coast and West Coast cousins have sprouted new generations, and we haven't really been in good touch with the Littleton-area Harrigans.

Susan couldn't make it because of various ailments, and I barely did so, and was chagrined yet pleased to get treated with great deference as the eldest of the clan.

Lameness aside, there's something to be said about being the oldest at a family reunion.

For instance, you can't do a thing, not even dry a dish. "Oh no, Uncle John, you just sit down right here," an impossibly young person says, proffering a chair. They even gave me a quiet bedroom on the ground floor, to spare me climbing the stairs (even though I'm quite able, thank you).

The nice thing about the situation is that when you hold your hand up to speak, people go quiet because they think you might actually have something worthwhile to say.

It's almost Fair time. These great social events are in trouble in regions to the south, partly because of changing social attitudes and preferences, and relentless demographics.

(JOHN HARRIGAN PHOTO)

Both the bedding and Millie, the North Country's most-spoiled dog, were in danger of being blown off to Maine.

In just three weeks it'll be Labor Day weekend, and the Lancaster Fairgrounds will be full of parked vehicles, exhibits, the midway, 4-H-ers, and lots of people who just plain go to say hello.

The Lancaster Fair (over the Labor Day weekend) has always been, to me, one great big family reunion. The main reason I go is because I'm likely to bump into people I haven't seen for years – or fond faces from just the other day.

I remember grubbing for dropped coins under the more violent rides like the Twister, 60 years ago. A quarter back then would get you a hotdog. These days I settle for just meandering around the midway, savoring the Fair Food and enjoying the 4-H kids and the pride they take in their projects.

thirds of New Hampshire and parts of Maine and Vermont. Letters should include town and telephone numbers in case of questions. Write to campguyhooligan@gmail.com or Box 39, Colebrook, NH 03576.)

There was a Select Board meeting on Tuesday, August 1st at the Town House. It was voted to install electrical outlets in the park which will probably not be done before this year's Old Home Days, but will be quite convenient for activities planned at the park. The boxes will most likely be locked so permission will be needed to use the electricity for events there.

Several junkyard letters were signed and sent out to residents at Map 2, Lot 12 and Map 6, Lot 37. A building permit was signed for Map 5, Lot 102 and an issue was brought up about a duplicate address on Snoburk Lane and will be corrected with the State 911. The Assessing bid was given to Avitar. This was the only assessing firm that responded to our request for bids. A septic plan was signed for Map 5, Lot 140-5.

The New Hampshire Division of Motor Vehicle has announced changes in the inspection sticker and placement. The stickers will now show the month and year the sticker is good for and will have other security features. These new stickers will be displayed on the lower driver side corner of the windshield on the vehicle so as not to interfere with the crash avoidance technology installed on some newer autos.

Groton Historical Society calendars are now available. There will be a display at the Groton Old Home Days as well as the Rumney Old Home Days on August 12th. The GHS promises that Mother's Day will be added on the appropriate day this year. The calendars this year feature the journal writings of brothers Cyrus and Parker Blood who were residents and active members of the Town of Groton in the 1800's and early 1900's. I purchased one of these a week ago at the Select Board Meeting and found it very interesting. To get your copy, call Sherry or Slim at 744-9744, or Pam at 744-5747.

There will be a Cyber-crime Education Class at the Town House on Wednesday, August 16th at 6pm. Learn how to protect yourself and your family against cybercrime. Please contact the Groton Police Department at 744-3703 if you plan to attend so we may plan light refreshment for all. The Town House is located at 754 North Groton Road in Groton, NH.

Work has begun on the River Road Cemetery expansion located one mile off Route 118 on River Road. Work will continue next spring to map out burial plots.

Greetings, everyone! I hope you all had a good week. Last week was busy for me, starting on Wednesday. I attended opening night of "The Graduate" at Winnepesaukee Playhouse.

What a wonderful show. Sets, music and actors all extraordinary. Thursday I spent the day in Ogunquit attending one of the preview performances of "Ragtime." What a wonderful, heartwarming, heartwrenching, emotional show! Very timely to today's world, as well! All was going fine until intermission when one of the steel girders lining the interior of the stage fell down. In all my years of going to the playhouse I have never seen anything like this happen. Of course intermission was elongated to nearly an hour while the tech staff undid the girder and got it off stage. Always something with live theater!

In WARREN, I don't have any Warren news at this time.

In WENTWORTH,

Story time is held on Wednesday mornings at 10 a.m. at Webster Memorial Library.

News from the Racetrack: Tanner Siemons Claims First Sportsman Modified Win

Peanut's Auto Sportsman Modified rookie Tanner Siemons took advantage of his pole position start to claim his first victory in a Sportsman Modified. Toby Stark made a late race pass to take the win in the Homestead Creation Sportsman Late Models with Rich Willey picking up the win in the Rand's Hardware Outlaw Mini Stocks. The Sprint Cars of New England were also on hand and it was wingless weekend. Kevin Chaffee dominated to take the win.

When the green flag flew in The Peanut's Auto Sportsman Modifieds rookie Tanner Siemons jumped into the lead from the pole position but the yellow flew before a single circuit was complete for Jeff Huntington. On the restart Siemons once again moved to the front with Jason Sanville in tow. The yellow flew for the last time only three laps later for Richie Gilpatrick. Once again on the restart Siemons held off the advances of Jason Sanville. Sanville did not make it easy for the rookie Siemons as he challenged for the lead on numerous occasions but could not complete the pass. When the Checkers flew it was Tanner Siemons with the win. Jason Sanville was second with Ricky Sanville bouncing back from flipping last week to finish third. Wayne Stearns and Jeff Huntington rounded out the top five.

The start of the Homestead Creations Sportsman Late Model Feature saw Hunter Nutter power into the lead from the pole position when the field took the green. Nutter held the top spot for three circuits before Bob Crawford worked his way by Nutter to take the lead. The caution flew for the first time with ten laps complete. On the restart Crawford once again powered into the lead and at the same time Toby Stark disposed of Nutter for second. Just a couple of laps later Stark started applying intense pressure to Crawford as he look to take the lead.. Stark was finally able to overtake Crawford for the lead with just four laps to go and go on to take the win. Bob Crawford finished a very strong second with Hunter Nutter third, Matt Pike fourth and Travis Smith fifth.

Rich Willey led all fifteen laps of the Rand's Hardware Outlaw Mini Stock Feature but it was no easy victory for him. The race featured five caution flags and on each restart Willey was able to retain the lead, no easy feat as over the course of the race five different competitors ran in the second spot, trying to unseat Willey. When the checkers finally flew it was Rich Willey with the win, Tyler Stygles was second in his first appearance of the year with Tim St. John third. Nick Comeau and Erin Aiken rounded out the top five.

The Sprint Cars of New England were wingless for the night in an event that was absolutely dominated by Kevin Chaffee. At the drop of the green Christine Boesch took the top spot on only held it for part of a lap before spinning in front of the field which resulted in a multi car pileup. On the restart Kevin Chaffee, who started initially in the 8th position, blasted into the lead never to really be challenged. Dan Douville was the man on the move as by lap five he had moved from his 12th starting spot to claim second. A late race restart after a Matt Hoyt flip found Douville picking the wrong line and fading back through the field. When the checkers flew it was Kevin Chaffee with the win, Clay Dow claimed second with Ryan Avery third. Will Hull was fourth and Dan Douville hung on for fifth,

"The Ladies Wreath"

While recently working on indexing the many artifacts and documents in the collection of the Rumney Historical Society we came across what appears to be an original copy of a handwritten publication called "The Ladies Wreath". The cover of the publication says it was "published semimonthly by the young people of West Rumney." It also identifies the "Present Editress" as Abbie L. Marston. The publication consists of about twenty pages and includes a variety of articles all of which appear to be the work of one or a few young people (probably young women) of high school age. Three "Mottoes" are cited on the cover consisting of: "A good scholar gains the approbation of his Teacher", "Knowledge is the treasure of the mind", and "Excelsior shall be the students motto".

Page 3 of "The Ladies Wreath" consists of "Poetry for the Wreath" and is devoted to a short and poignant poem that reads as follows:

Southward boys no longer tarry
Mid the granite hills
Nor upon the barren mountain
Where his nest the eagle builds
Southward boys ties must be severed
Which would keep you here
These rocky hills and quiet vales

Still to your heart are dear

But ambition bids you leave

All who love you now
And in the South a laurel wreath

Of fame shall crown your brow

Southward Boys but there's a land

Fairer than the mighty south

There the flowerets never fade

There the weary are at rest

This beautiful poem, (author unidentified) may be about a "loved" "Southward Boy" who is leaving or has left the granite hills of Rumney for "more". Or it may be about the widespread exodus from New Hampshire in the mid to late 19th century that resulted in the tradition of Old Home days that we still celebrate today. Possibly both.

Unfortunately, "The Ladies Wreath" is not dated and there are no clues that specifically place it in time. However, it includes one article called "Fate Leaves" which is a collection of "oracles" predicting what the future will bring for ten individuals who, presumably, were classmates of Abbie L. Marston in West Rumney. These names are: Hattie Simpson, Judith Harris, Warren Burnham, Sarah Buzzell, Annette Hardy, Howard Courier, Sarah B. Smith, Lewis Hall, Alonzo Foss(?), and Alice Simpson. These last names (most of which were common in Rumney over a hundred years ago, along with the name of Abbie L. Marston, may provide clues that would allow a publication date for "The Ladies Wreath" to be determined.

Starting, first, with the "Editress" Abbie L. Marston; a possible hint emerged in Jesse Barney's book "Rumney, Then and Now - A History". This hint is listing of an Addie M. Marston in the Genealogical Section (Chapter Seven) of Barney's book. Addie M. Marston is identified as the daughter of Archibald Marston and Elizabeth Haines (or Haynes) and the book lists her birthdate as 1853 and states that she married Albert C. Kenneson. Under the "Keneson" listing in the genealogy section of the Barney book the marriage of Addie to Albert C. Kenneson is confirmed as well as the birth (in 1876) of a son to Albert C. and Addie named Delbert C. Kenneson. This listing also indicates that Addie Marston died in 1889 and Albert C. Marsten then married Lucy A. Hardy in 1889.

is not a match for Addie M. Marston. However, this difference may be the result of a transcribing error in the old Birth, Marriage and Death Records for the Town of Rumney which appear to be the source of Jesse Barney's genealogical listings. Perhaps, however, the names of the classmates of Abbie L. Marston in the "Fate Leaves" article might help confirm both her identity and suggest the date of publication of the last issue of "The Ladies Wreath". Unfortunately this is not the case as there are few "matches" with the ten students for whom "oracles" were made in "Fate Leaves" and Barney's "Rumney Then and Now - A History" and other historical resources.

One hope for finding the answer to the question of when "The Ladies Wreath" was published is that a reader of this article has knowledge of "The Ladies Wreath" and its history or, perhaps, has information about Abbie L. Marston or one or more of her classmates as listed above. If this is the case, we at the Rumney Historical Society ask that you contact us and share with us any information you have that may help us answer the question of the publication date of "The Ladies Wreath".

Of course, the problem with this hint is that Abbie L. Marston

Alexandria United Methodist Church holds summer fair

BY DONNA RHODES
dhrhodes@salmonpress.news

ALEXANDRIA – Alexandria United Methodist Church will be holding their annual summer fair on Saturday, Aug. 12, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and among the many things to see and do that day will be a display from the Alexandria Police Department, called “Hidden in Plain Sight.” Its purpose is to help educate people on common items frequently connected to illegal drug use, much of which they may not ever have suspected in the past.

“We very often come across young adults living with family members who fail to recognize the signs of drug abuse that are out in the wide open,” said Alexandria Police Chief Donald Sullivan.

As part of their presentation that day there will be officers on hand to discuss elements of the current drug crisis in the state and how the problem is affecting even rural, small towns like Alexandria. Sullivan encourages everyone to stop by the booth to learn more about this serious topic.

In addition to their display, the fair will feature other educational booths, host crafts and art vendors, have lots of great food available for sale, fun for the kids and live music, too. The ever-popular White Elephant Tent will also be filled with all types of great items available at bargain prices.

Alexandria United Methodist Church is located on Washburn Road in the heart of Alexandria Village, just a few miles off Lake Street in downtown Bristol.

On Saturday August 12, 2017 from 9-3, the Alexandria Police will have a display set up at the Alexandria United Methodist Church’s annual fair called “Hidden in Plain Sight”. The display is designed to educate people on items that are commonly found in connection to illegal drug use.

“We very often coming across young adults living with family members who fail to recognize signs of drug abuse that are out in the wide open” Chief Sullivan

There will also be Officers present to discuss the current Drug crises and how it is effecting Alexandria. Please stop by, meet the Alexandria Police Officers and take the chance to learn a little bit about what we are seeing.

Wayne and Alice King's Art on Exhibit in Rumney Aug 2-30, 2017

Celebration of Rumney's 250th Anniversary includes New Book

"A Spot on the Porch" is the title of an exhibit of photographic images and beadwork by Rumney-based artists Wayne and Alice King.

The exhibit is part of the town's ongoing celebrations of its 250th Anniversary. Wayne's images are on exhibit at the Byron G. Merrill Library and Alice's Gemstone Bead work at the Rumney Post office from August 2 - 30 2017.

As a part of the exhibit Wayne King has produced a book of the same title. A Spot on the Porch is available from Amazon.com in paperback and hard cover editions. There is also a card, a calendar and poster and postage stamp.

Wayne D. Kings images are a celebration of life, blending the real and the surreal to achieve a sense of place or time that reaches beyond the moment into what he calls "a dreamlike quintessentialism" designed to spark an emotional response. Using digital enhancement, hand-crafting, painting, and sometimes even straight photography, King seeks to take the viewer to a place that is beyond simple truth to where truth meets passion, hope and dreams.

Alice calls her work Gemstone Finery and

Frippery, which turns out to be a near-perfect way to describe the nexus of both beauty and fun that weave throughout her work. She creates bracelets, necklaces and earrings employing multiple strands of gemstones and recycled materials. Her hugely popular keepsake necklaces and bracelets employs a new twist on the age old charm bracelets we wore as children, gathering together symbols and tokens from our own lives and those dearest to us.

unanimously to appoint him to the Board. He was promptly sworn in by School District-Town Clerk Patsy Tucker and took his seat at the Board's table.

The School Board had authorized the Superintendent to hire teachers to fill any vacancies during their summer break. They voted unanimously to confirm the administrators' choices, Sarah Uhlman and Kenneth Ballou, described as enthusiastic young professionals. The Board also recognized Gary Hamm, who is retiring as the Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds after over 15 years in the Ashland schools. Principal Shannon Bartlett presented him with a granite plaque in the shape of the state in recognition of his service to the school, and thanked him for the work he had done to get and keep the buildings in good shape, and for caring as much as he did about the school. The school board also thanked him and wished him well in his retirement. Tim Paquette, currently the Town's Public Works Director, will take over Hamm's position, which now has the new title of Maintenance Manager.

The meeting began with a brief public hearing on the withdrawal of $60,000 for the new school roof from the School Safety, Security and Facilities Maintenance Trust Fund. After the hearing, which saw no opposition to the proposal, the Board voted to withdraw the $60,000 from the fund. Assistant Superintendent Trish Temperino explained that the books for the fiscal year ending on June 30 were now closed and that they showed a larger than expected surplus, thanks in part to changes in special education students and lower than anticipated legal expenses. She suggested and the Board voted to encumber $60,000 for the new roof, which, with the $60,000 from the Trust Fund, will cover the roof's $120,000 cost, as well as another $30,000 for the next school year's expenses. That will still leave a larger than budgeted surplus that can be used to reduce 2017 property taxes.

The principal presented the Board members with the proposed class schedules for the coming year. She explained that the middle school teachers decided to increase the time spent on academics in their schedule. The Board voted unanimously to approve the schedules as presented.

Principal Bartlett (now Dr. Bartlett, as she has recently completed her doctorate) reported on school activities. Enrollment figures are still volatile. Recently, two families registered seven new students in a ten-minute period. The kindergarten class now stands at 22 students, so two kindergarten teachers are now planned. The Summer Blast program was finishing soon. Busing the children to those classrooms have reached the Para 2 level. Planning is underway for teachers workshops, which will begin with three days, August 22,23, and 24, before school starts for the students on Monday, August 28. The teachers had their own summer reading program, as each was asked to read one of four books on their craft for discussion at those workshops. The fiber optic connection to the internet has been in place since July 1 and has proven super-fast and without any problems. The new server has replaced two older servers. The replacement computers will be coming soon. New software will allow parents to better track the learning progress of their children. The Title I program has received preliminary approval. Because the transition from second to third grade is often difficult, a team teaching approach will be used in the coming year, with two teachers sharing the grades. Coordinating volunteers to install the playground is still in process.

Superintendent Mary Moriarty shared a draft of a memorandum of understanding between the Ashland School District and SAU 48, which includes the high school most Ashland students attend. Recommended by the Withdrawal Study Committee, the agreement would codify the relationships between the two schools. The draft received the approval of the school board members.

Temperino updated the board on summer building projects. The gym has seen the installation of new LED lights and of new exhaust fans and louvers. The old gym ventilating fan on the roof will be removed soon. The new entryways at the Ober School were to be installed the next week. New classroom door knobs were being installed, a project that should be completed by the 18th.

Special Education Director Chuck DiCecca reported that the state Department of Education had determined that the Ashland school met the requirements of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act with a perfect score for the 2015-2016 school year.

Without much discussion, the School Board reviewed proposed policy changes. The board held third and final readings and approved revisions to three policies, on Advisory Committees, on the Method of Election and on the Resignation of school board members. Second readings were held on a new policy on Use and Possession of Tobacco Products Banned in/on School Facilities and Grounds, and on revisions to five policies. on Fundraising Activities, on Support Staff Professional Learning, on Substitute Teachers, and on the Qualifications and on the Removal from Office (again of school board members). First readings were held of three policies presented by the Policy Review Committee, a new policy on Public Gifts and Donations and amended policies on Strong Family and Community Partnership and on Use of Restraint and Seclusion. The board ended its meeting with a non-public session on personnel.

Bessie Symmington not only displayed some of her beautiful art during the annual Making It In Bristol event last Saturday, she even did individual sketches for her customers.

Society had a booth of their own where books on the history of the town were on sale while albums filled with photos from the past were also displayed for people to browse through.

Finally, outside the entryway were two ten-year-old Bristol entrepreneurs, Aya and Kaiya with their lemonade stand that was dedicated for a good local cause.

"We were thinking of what we wanted to sponsor (they sponsored the SPCA last year) and decided this year we wanted to help with this kitchen," said Kaiya.

places to provide shelter and aid for family members who may have to travel from out of state to be with their loved one as their health declined.

Mentioning her observation at a meeting with local health care agencies, it was Cathy Bentwood, the Executive Director of Bridge House, who quickly stepped forward and said her facility could fill that gap.

What Bridge House offered PBCH for their hospice program was a low-cost room that can accommodate a critically ill patient while providing many of the comforts of home. The efficiency apartment they had available is accessed by a private outside entryway and has a handicapped bathroom, kitchen facilities, a dining table and other basic amenities.

Since PBCH's acceptance of Bentwood's proposal, the room has been outfitted with a hospital bed, dresser, bookshelf, coffee table, lift recliner and flat screen television to make patients to feel at home. For family members who may wish to be near their loved one, there is also a futon for day visits or overnight stays.

"The furnishings were all donated by the Plymouth Rotary as well as some private residents of the community," Drake said. "This will mean so much to family members who just want to be close by a loved one in the end stages of life."

Ken Evans of Plymouth Rotary was one of several Rotarians on hand for the opening of the hospice room and said it was an endeavor his organization felt a real need to be involved with.

"We just really want to thank you all for your service to the community," Evans told representatives of PBCH and Bridge House.

Helping complete the project was the Sherwin Williams paint store in Plymouth and Marc Bissonnette of B&H Painting, who donated a finishing touch to the room with a soothing shade of light green paint.

With everything now in place, PBCH will be available for nursing and spiritual assistance once the first patient moves in, but Drake said families can also remain in control of the care of their loved one.

"The greatest part about this location is patients will have our LNA's stopping in to assist them and they'll have 24-hour care services through the Bridge House staff if needed. The difference from a hospital setting is that family members can stay here, make their own meals and do everything else they might do for someone at home," said Drake. "There were just so many things already here that made this easy to do. This hospice room is a dream come true for me."

Bentwood said that her residents were also excited to learn about the new hospice room and have even volunteered to help in anyway possible.

Last week's check presentation from PBCH was a retainer to help Bridge House cover any unexpected costs as they provide a room for people from 13 local towns who may one day need assistance in the final chapter of life.

"To see someone (like Mary Francis) bring forth an idea then watch everyone in a community pull through and do it collaboratively like this is a wonderful thing,"

PBCH's Executive Director Chandra Engelbert said as the group handed Bentwood their check.

To support Pemi-Baker Community Health in their home health care and hospice services, checks may be sent to Pemi-Baker Community Health, 101 Boulder Point Drive, Suite 3, Plymouth, N.H. 03264. Contributions are also accepted online at www.pemibakercommunity-health.org.

Bridge House is a residential facility located in Plymouth, which assists needy families but also has a bigger mission to help provide shelter and support for homeless veterans as they strive to become self-sufficient once again.

Donations of any size to support for Plymouth's Bridge House are also welcomed. Checks for that nonprofit organization can be sent by mail to 260 Highland Street, Plymouth, N.H. 03264 or made online at www.tbhshelter.org.

New England's Colonial Meetinghouses and Their Impact on American Society

Join the Campton Historical Society on Monday, August 21 at 7 p.m. for New England's Colonial Meetinghouses and Their Impact on American Society "presented by: Paul Wainwright. New England's colonial meetinghouses embody an important yet little-known chapter in American history. Built mostly with tax money, they served as both places of worship and places for town meetings, and were the centers of life in colonial New England communities. Using photographs of the few surviving "mint condition" meetinghouses as illustrations, Paul Wainwright tells the story of the society that built and used them, and the lasting impact they have had on American culture. Artistic photography and a love of history have been long-standing interests of Paul Wainwright, but he was captured by physics in high school and eventually wound up getting a PhD in the field from Yale. Wainwright worked for many years at Bell Labs, with photography being a continuing avocation. Since 2001 he has pursued his love of photography full-time, and is especially drawn to photographing historic structures in very personal and introspective ways. The presentation will be at the Old Town Hall in Campton, which is handicap accessible, and open to the public. Refreshments will be served. For information about the Society, check our web site at www.camptonhistorical.org. This program is made possible by a grant from the New Hampshire Humanities.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

How Can You Leave the Legacy You Desire?

You may not see it in the greeting card section of your local drugstore, but August is "What Will Be Your Legacy Month." So it's a good time to think about the type of legacy you'd like to leave.

Of course, "legacy" can mean many things. In the broadest sense, your legacy is how you will be remembered by your loved ones, friends and the communities to which you belong. On a practical level, establishing your legacy means providing your family and the charitable organizations you support with the resources you'd like them to have.

And that means you may need to take the following actions: create your plans, communicate your wishes and review and update your documents.

Let's take a quick look at all these steps:

- Create your plans. You will want to work with your legal professional, and possibly your tax and financial professionals, too, to draft the plans needed to fulfill your legacy wishes. These plans may include drafting a will, living trust, health care directive, power of attorney and other documents. Ideally, you want these plans to do more than just convey where you want your money to go - you want to impart, to the next generation, a sense of the effort that went into building the wealth they receive. Without such an appreciation, your heirs may be less than rigorous in retaining the tangible legacies you've left them.

- Communicate your wishes. It's important to communicate your legacy-related wishes to your family members as early as possible. By doing so, you can hopefully avoid unpleasant surprises and hurt feelings when it's time for your estate to be settled - and you'll also let people know what tasks, if any, they need to perform. For example, if you're choosing a family member to be the executor of your estate, or if you're giving someone power of attorney over your financial or health-related matters, they should be prepared.

- Update your documents. During your life, you may well experience any number of changes - new marriage, new children, opening a family business, and so on. You need to make sure your legal documents and financial accounts reflect these changes. For example, if you've remarried, you may want to change the beneficiary designations on your IRA, 401(k) and other retirement accounts - if left untouched, these designations may even supersede the instructions left in your will. And the directions in life chosen by your grown children may also dictate changes in your will or living trust. In any case, it's a good idea to review all your legacy-related documents periodically, and update them as needed.

In addition to taking the above steps, you also need to protect the financial resources that go into your legacy. So, when you retire and begin taking funds from your IRA, 401(k) and other retirement accounts, make sure your withdrawal rate is sufficient for your living expenses, but not so high that it eventually jeopardizes the amounts you planned to leave to your family or to your preferred charities. A financial professional can help you determine the withdrawal rate appropriate for your situation.

With careful planning, and by making the right moves, you can create the type of legacy you desire - one that can benefit your loved ones far into the future.

For God and Country 5K Run

September 2, 10 AM

Labor Day has been celebrated for 135 years and Rumney Bible Conference wants to get in on the celebrations. We have nearly 1500 young people here every summer from all over New England and then more come in the winter for youth retreat where they skate, snow tube, snowmobile ride, and spend time with God. These young people have such a good time and they keep coming back.

The youth, families and others return in part because of the laborers for RBC, Rumney, and the surrounding communities. The youth come to a safe, positive, welcoming environment.

That doesn't happen by accident. The laborers of Grafton County, such as the Rumney Police Department, the Rumney Fire Department, and the surrounding businesses are open, available and supportive. Three cheers for Labor Day and the laborers of the White Mountains!

Cheers for our country which has the motto, "In God we trust." Is it a coincidence that we are one of the top countries of the world? We have a democratic, stable economy. Initiative and creativity are welcome. Our forefathers adopted a motto that has served us well.

So, we have many reasons to celebrate and we invite Rumney and all the surrounding communities to join in with us on September 2nd here at Rumney Bible Conference. There are a lot of activities planned - a yard sale, a 5k Run or Walk, a spontaneous soccer game for all interested, a bake sale, a game room, kids' fun races, a lunch cookout for $5, and swimming opportunities. Lots of things to do and lots of things to celebrate, so we invite you to come and cheer, "For God and Country!"

Trinity Church

BY SHIRLEY SPLAINE

HOLDERNESS- Everyone enjoyed our visit to Trinity Church in Holderness on July 16. It was Samuel Livermore's wife Jane who was instrumental in creating a home for the Episcopal Church in this area. She was the daughter of Rev. Arthur Browne, Rector of the first Episcopal Church in N.H. in Portsmouth now known as Saint John's Episcopal Church. The Livermores read Episcopal services with their neighbors in the Livermore Mansion for some thirty years when 220 years ago in 1797 they helped to build Trinity Church. It is the second oldest Episcopal Church remaining in its original state in N.H. It is hoped that this will become an annual summer event. Punch and goodies were served outside under the trees by Deacon Maryan Davis and helpers. A very pleasant day indeed.

During Randy's vacation we will gather at 8a.m. at Holy Spirit in Plymouth and at 9:30 at St. Mark's in Ashland. We will welcome Rev. Susan Ackley on Aug. 6, Rev Jay Hutchinson on Aug. 13, and Bishop Frank Griswold on Aug. 20 & 27

If you have any extra greeting cards, the Postcard Ministry is running low. They are busy sending smiles to parishioners for their special occasions or if they are ill. Cards can be left at either church on the table at the back. Be sure to mark them "for the Postcard Ministry" The group is also looking for volunteers to help with writing cards. Please call Kathy Lennox (536-4770) to volunteer.

Readers and Coffee Hour Hosts are needed. There is a sign-up sheet at the back of the church at St. Mark's.

SouthDanbury Church

Thanks to everyone who supported, attended, and assisted the South Danbury Church Fair on July 29, as well as the Indoor Yard Sale (part of the Danbury Town-Wide YardSale) on August 5. Good fun, good food, good fellowship and good fundraising to keep our little church and its place in the community alive and vibrant!

During the summer months the South Danbury Church worship services will be a breakfast pot luck at 8:30 a.m. All are welcome and encouraged to attend. If there isn't time or opportunity to bring something, it's OK to come anyway -there is always more than enough food for everyone at the South DanburyChurch!

The historic church is celebrating its 150th anniversary with a historic preservation project assisted by the NH Land & Community Heritage (LCHIP) program. You can learn more about the project at the weekly potluck breakfast and see first hand what's being done. For more information or to volunteer time or skills, call or text 603-491-3196 or email southdanburychurch@gmail.com. They have to raise $80,000 to match the LCHIP grant; contributions are very welcome and may be mailed to: The South Danbury Church Preservation Fund, 1411 U.S. Route 4, South Danbury NH 03230. Thank you!

Grange Fair

The fair to be held on Sept 9th will feature day long activities, crafters and the Traveling Barnyard Petting Farm. Volunteers are needed for the household treasures sale. If you could donate a few hours setting up the indoor yard sale venue during the weeks before the fair or a two hour shift running the sale on fair day, please call Diane @ 493-3650. Danbury has good cooks so donations for the baked bean and ham supper featuring home baked beans, home made salads and pies are also needed. Call Donna @ 768-5579 to let her know what you can donate for the supper. The grange appreciates the support and encouragement from the community on one of Danbury's major events of the year. The profits from this event cover the commercial insurance for the Grange Hall, a necessary coverage necessary to keep the hall open and available to the community. Plan to spend the day at the Grange Fair.

Football camp gets Bobcats back in the swing of things

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

Sports Editor

PLYMOUTH — To George Zoulias Field the casual observer, may have looked a bit chaotic on Friday evening, Aug. 4.

But to coach Chris Sanborn and the rest of the Plymouth football coaching staff, it was a nice sight indeed, as the 27th annual Bobcat Football Camp wrapped up with the traditional scrimmages.

"We had a good camp," Sanborn said as he watched the players get ready to take the field.

The scrimmages were played with one team on offense for an entire quarter (12 minutes) while the other side was on defense. They would then switch sides. Teams could score points on offense by getting a first down, touchdown or two-point conversion. On defense, they could score by stopping the offense from getting a first down, a fumble recovery, an interception or stopping a conversion.

Because thunder and lightning brought proceedings to a halt for half an hour, there were two games played simultaneously, with the freshmen and sophomores playing in one direction and the older kids playing in the other direction. Coaches stood behind each group keeping an eye on things and state officials were on hand to officiate.

The football camp lasted for five days and Sanborn reported there were about 65 Plymouth kids there plus about 10 from Inter-Lakes-Moultonborough, aging from seventh grade through 12th grade.

"It's different going from playoff mode in November back to square one again," Sanborn said with a smile, likely still remembering Plymouth's wild Division II championship win last season.

"We had a great week of camp," the Bobcat coach said. "We have a lot of our skill guys back, we just have to put some kids together to block."

"If you want to win, you've got to execute up front," he continued.

"Everyone was here and they worked hard."

Sanborn said he came away with good impressions of a number of his newcomers, noting they could be playing roles when the season kicks off in a few weeks.

"It's about the skills," he said of the camp, which is held the week before official first practices of the season begin.

"You work out all the bugs," Sanborn continued. "It allows us to get time with the young kids and gets everybody in a football state of mind."

The first official practices of the season got under way on Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Following the conclusion of the scrimmage, the coaches and players headed to the snack shack where parents had cooked up hot dogs and cheeseburgers to help celebrate the end of the camp.

Off to the city for a little baseball under the lights

Before last week, I'd seen the Red Sox in person twice this season. Yet I hadn't been to Fenway Park yet this year and I had yet to see them win.

Last Thursday cured both of those, as I made a trek to Boston to see the Red Sox and White Sox and the good guys came out with the win.

Earlier in the year I made trips to Baltimore and Houston to see the Sox play and both times, they came out on the losing end. I was determined to break my bad luck and have them come out on the winning side, but I had a sneaking suspicion it wouldn't be easy, especially given the struggles this year's team has shown on the offensive side of the ball.

I left the office a little before 3 p.m. for the trek to Boston and cruised into the city without much issue, that is until it came time to exit Interstate 93 onto Storrow Drive, where the normal backup ensued. However, once that was cleared, I parked in my normal spot, one of the Boston University garages and walked over David Ortiz Bridge to the ballpark.

Since I was plenty early, I took a little time to walk around the perimeter of the park, finishing up with a walk up Landsdowne Street behind the Green Monster before heading in through the gate on Yawkey Way. I randomly bumped into a couple of local folks, Charlie Hossack and Heath Keniston, there with their kids celebrating a birthday. Always surprising to hear someone call your name when your walking on a random street in Boston.

For the third time this year in three games, there was a giveaway at the gate, which was cool. In Baltimore, I got a home plate shaped welcome mat with the Orioles logo on it. In Houston, I got an Astros duffel bag, which proved useful on the trip home. And Thursday night I got a Jackie Bradley Jr. bobblehead.

The game started out pretty well, as the Sox jumped out to a quick lead in the first inning, capped by a three-run homer by Rafael Devers.

It was great to see the youngster go opposite field for the dinger. However, Rick Porcello, who also started when I saw the Sox in Houston, tried to give the game back to the White Sox by allowing a couple of quick runs. Thankfully, his teammates picked him up, as Mookie Betts had a homer over the Monster and Andrew Benintendi had a couple of doubles and the Sox built a 9-5 lead. Porcello was lifted in the sixth and the bullpen was perfect from there, with Fernando Abad, Heath Hembree, Addison Reed, Matt Barnes and Brandon Workman shutting the door.

The biggest issue I had came when I was leaving. I usually head out of the parking garage, down Commonwealth Avenue and turn right onto Storrow Drive. However, construction had Commonwealth shut down before I reached the turnoff to Storrow Drive so I had to turn around and make my way back through the Fenway traffic before I could get back on the road to home.

I got home at 1:15 a.m. or so and the 5:30 a.m. alarm was a bit sudden, but I was out the door at 6 a.m. to the gym, laundromat and Lydia's Café for breakfast.

Sometimes long days are OK. Finally, have a great day Heath Keniston.

OLD TIME RULES WILL PREVAIL: THE FIDDLE CONTEST IN NEW HAMPSHIRE AND NEW ENGLAND WITH ADAM NOYCE (7:30 p.m.) Holderness Historical Society, 1089 US Route 3. Fiddle contests evolved from endurance marathons to playing a set number of tunes judged by certain specific criteria. Whether large or small, fiddle contests tried to show who was the "best," as well as preserve old-time fiddling and raise money for local organizations. In recent years, the fiddle contest has declined significantly in New England due to cultural changes and financial viability. The greatest legacies of these contests were recordings made during live competitions. A sampling of these tunes will be played during the presentation, as well as live fiddling.

KEEPING EACH OTHER WELL

To local control and local decision making!

BY ELIZABETH TERP

Our grass roots opposition to the Northern Pass finally has a chance to weigh in on the consequences of the current Northern Pass plan. On NHPR's "Exchange" (July 10), Gov. Sununu said, "Let's maintain local control and local decision making." He was referring to another town's decisions, but here's to equal rights for all towns in New Hampshire.

Perhaps the July 1 storm, which gutted roads the Northern Pass wants to bury the line under, could give Governor Sununu pause to realize that local citizens have valid reasons for burying the NP line down I93, where an intentionally designed median exists to house the underground line.

We all got a taste of the inconvenience of having commuter and school bus transportation roads torn up, detours and slow moving one-way traffic. Now, two weeks later, road crews continue with repairs just to make the roads passable. More time will be needed to finish the job.

Comment letters continue to arrive at the Site Evaluation Committee and appear on the SEC Web site:

www.nhsec.nh.gov/projects/2015-06-comments.htm. Local people continue to implore the Site Evaluation Committee to recognize the threat to the health and safety of Grafton County residents the current NP proposal promises.

Every season is unique here in New Hampshire, and draws visitors from all over the world. They always comment on the sheer beauty of a drive through our state, through our little towns. Summer visitors love our attractions, the chance to fish, swim, hike, bike, kayak. They enjoy our waterfalls, and especially our trees and the fact that it is so much easier to breathe up here.

To appreciate what we have here, all it takes is a drive south or west of New England to be met with a network of power lines in place of trees, lots of intersecting super-highways, and congested roadways.

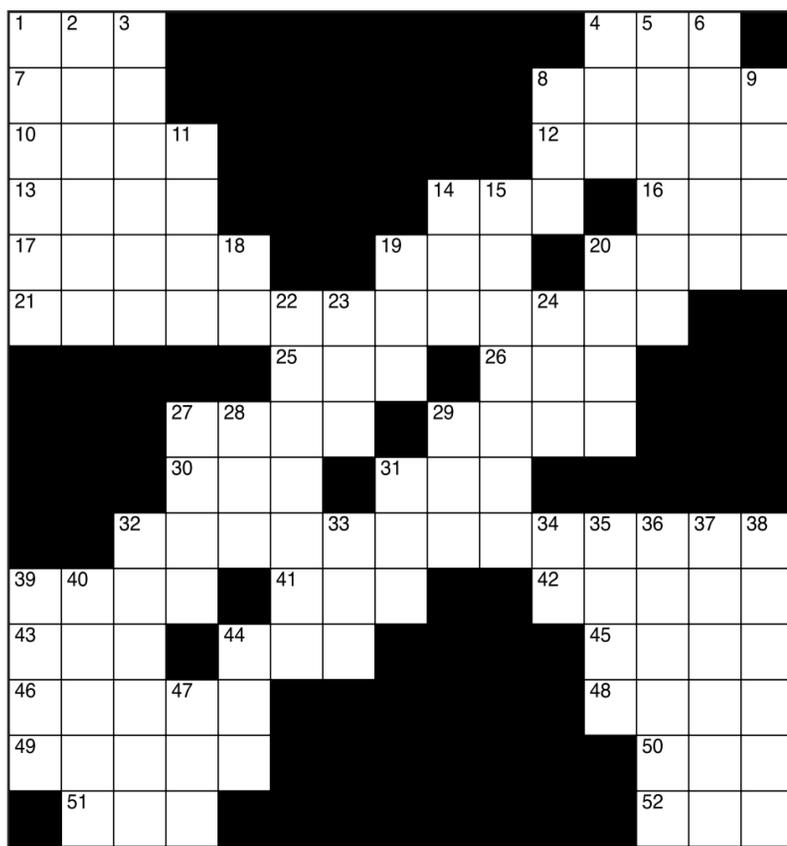

We need to stand up for this land, not just for ourselves and our livelihood, but for all the people who count on being able to come here to relax, reenergize and breathe.

Let Gov. Chris Sununu know your concerns at State House, 107 N. Main St., Concord, NH 03301.

Also the SEC, c/o Pamela Monroe, Administrator, 21 S. Fruit St., Suite 10, Concord, NH 03301 or email: Pamela.Monroe@sec.nh.gov.

PET OF THE WEEK—BEAR

The sweetest, cuddliness and sheer playfulness five-month old Bear, handsome little black kitten, will melt your heart when you see him. Found wandering by himself, he was brought in by a concerned citizen.

Somehow little Bear had become separated from his family.

We've provided vaccines, neutered him, and during the veterinary process found him positive for the feline Leukemia Virus. We've sent his blood for special testing to be sure it is the virus and not vaccine antibodies.

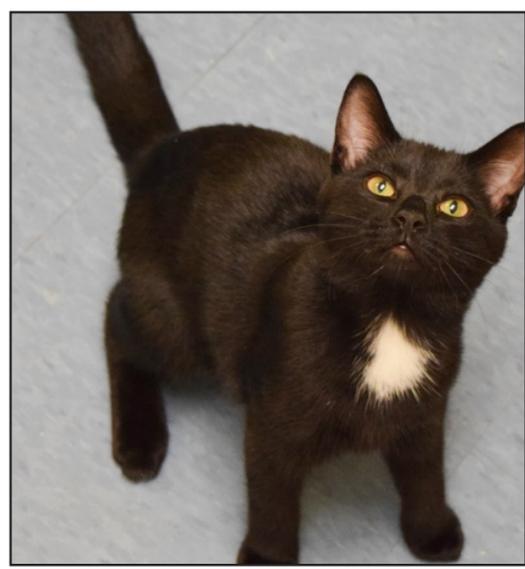

Bear is healthy now. He does have a virus present in his blood which presents zero health concern to humans. We strongly recommend that should he be adopted into a that already has cats, that they receive their leukemia vaccine as a precaution.

With a loving, indoor, safe home, we can expect Bear to lead a relatively normal life. It's true, he may not live to a ripe old age, but surely he can enjoy life to the fullest right now.

Bear would be happy in just about any home, friendly dogs, kind and respectful children, adults who can commit to an indoor only home, and yes, even other cats, as long as they are already vaccine against the virus.

Please come and visit this adorable fellow.

Trinity Church

HOLDERNESS- Everyone enjoyed our visit to Trinity Church in Holderness on July 16. It was Samuel Livermore's wife Jane who was instrumental in creating a home for the Episcopal Church in this area. She was the daughter of Rev. Arthur Browne, Rector of the first Episcopal Church in N.H. in Portsmouth now known as Saint John's Episcopal Church. The Livermores read Episcopal services with their neighbors in the Livermore Mansion for some thirty years when 220 years ago in 1797 they helped to build Trinity Church. It is the second oldest Episcopal Church remaining in its original state in N.H. It is hoped that this will become an annual summer event. Punch and goodies were served outside under the trees by Deacon Maryan Davis and helpers. A very pleasant day indeed.

During Randy's vacation we will gather at 8a.m. at Holy Spirit in Plymouth and at 9:30 at St. Mark's in Ashland. We will welcome Rev. Susan Ackley on Aug. 6, Rev Jay Hutchinson on Aug. 13, and Bishop Frank Griswold on Aug. 20 & 27

If you have any extra greeting cards, the Postcard Ministry is running low. They are busy sending smiles to parishioners for their special occasions or if they are ill. Cards can be left at either church on the table at the back. Be sure to mark them "for the Postcard Ministry" The group is also looking for volunteers to help with writing cards. Please call Kathy Lennox (536-4770) to volunteer.

Readers and Coffee Hour Hosts are needed. There is a sign-up sheet at the back of the church at St. Mark's.

Celebration of Rumney's 250th Anniversary includes New Book

"A Spot on the Porch" is the title of an exhibit of photographic images and beadwork by Rumney-based artists Wayne and Alice King.

The exhibit is part of the town's ongoing celebrations of its 250th Anniversary. Wayne's images are on exhibit at the Byron G. Merrill Library and Alice's Gemstone Bead work at the Rumney Post office from August 2 - 30 2017.

As a part of the exhibit Wayne King has produced a book of the same title. A Spot on the Porch is available from Amazon.com in paperback and hard cover editions. There is also a card, a calendar and poster and postage stamp.

Wayne D. King's images are a celebration of life, blending the real and the surreal to achieve a sense of place or time that reaches beyond the moment into what he calls "a dream-like quintessentialism" designed to spark an emotional response. Using digital enhancement, handcrafting, painting, and sometimes even straight photography, King seeks to take the viewer to a place that is beyond simple truth to where hope and dreams.

Alice calls her work Gemstone Finery and Frippery, which turns out to be a near-perfect way to describe the nexus of both beauty and fun that weave throughout her work. She creates bracelets, necklaces and earrings employing multiple strands of gemstones and recycled materials. Her hugely popular keepsake necklaces and bracelets employs a new twist on the age old charm bracelets we wore as children, gathering together symbols and tokens from our own lives and those dearest to us.

For God and Country 5K Run

September 2, 10 AM
Labor Day has been celebrated for 135 years and Rumney Bible Conference wants to get in on the celebrations. We have nearly 1500 young people here every summer from all over New England and then more come in the winter for youth retreat where they skate, snow tube, snowmobile ride, and spend time with God. These young people have such a good time and they keep coming back.

The youth, families and others return in part because of the laborers for RBC, Rumney, and the surrounding communities. The youth come to a safe, positive, welcoming, environment. That doesn't happen by accident. The laborers of Grafton County, such as the Rumney Police Department, the Rumney Fire Department, and the surrounding businesses are open, available and supportive. Three cheers for Labor Day and the laborers of the White Mountains!

Cheers for our country which has the motto, "In God we trust." Is it a coincidence that we are one of the top countries of the world? We have a democratic, stable economy. Initiative and creativity are welcome. Our forefathers adopted a motto that has served us well.

So, we have many reasons to celebrate and we invite Rumney and all the surrounding communities to join in with us on September 2nd here at Rumney Bible Conference. There are a lot of activities planned - a yard sale, a 5k Run or Walk, a spontaneous soccer game for all interested, a bake sale, a game room, kids' fun races, a lunch cookout for $5, and swimming opportunities. Lots of things to do and lots of things to celebrate, so we invite you to come and cheer, "For God and Country!"
