

District officials cut the ribbon on new biomass heating plant at Sanbornton Central School

BY DONNA RHODES

SANBORNTON — On March 9, students at Sanbornton Central School helped Winnisquam Regional School District Facilities Director Rob Berry and SCS Principal Kathy Pope cut the ribbon on the new biomass plant that will now be heating their school.

With the success of the biomass heating system that serves the Winnisquam Regional Middle School and High School, and the success of the solar array powering Southwick School, voters in the district last year approved a new biomass heating plant for SCS as well, which was put online last week.

Berry said he found that the underground fuel tank and the two boilers inside the Sanbornton school were in poor condition. Rather than replace them with other oil burning equipment, the district opted for an eco-friendly wood pellet burning plant.

With the green light from the district in March of 2016, Ian Raymond, a state representative, former member of Sanbornton's Energy Committee, and the driving force behind the first biomass plant for the district, pitched in to help once again.

Raymond filed an application on behalf of the school for a $2,500 feasibility grant for the project. The grant they received also provides a 40-percent rebate, up to $65,000, for the wood

Giant NH map makes social studies class fun for fourth graders at SCS

dhrhodes@salmonpress.news

SANBORNTON — Thanks to the National Geographic Society, social studies class for fourth graders at Sanbornton Central School took on a whole new dimension last week through the use of a giant map of the State of New Hampshire.

Teacher Jackie Blake said her students have been studying all about New Hampshire since the start of the 2016-17 school year and when she learned about the NGS State Giant Map traveling project she immediately signed on to bring it to Sanbornton.

After attending a required course on ways students can utilize the 17-by-20-foot map in their studies, it then arrived at SCS for a week's worth of interactive class time.

Due to its size, the map is spread out on the floor of the school's gym where boys and girls then are tested on their knowledge of the state. The map comes with a number of accessories, including laminated hand maps for the students to reference before stepping out onto the giant map itself.

Throughout their classes last week, Blake arranged the students into groups and stationed them all around the map where they were then challenged with a number of questions on a variety of historical and geographical topics.

"Who can find Surry Mountain Lake for me?" she asked, then selected a child to stand on that location on the map.

After locating a number of the state's lakes, she then moved on to using coordinates to identify other locations. While one team stood on the E coordinate along the side of the map, another moved to 8 and walking together they found they met up at the state capi-

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

BY LARRY SCOTT

Because my life has been influenced by the church from my earliest days, it has been surprising to me how little influence it has over most of my dearest friends. In a survey taken by Gallup some years ago, it was determined that between January 2004 and March 2006, the 68,031 people surveyed and asked if they attended church or synagogue “at least once a week,” told the tale. New Hampshire and Vermont came in at 17% and to many of us, even that seems high. What I do know is that most of the people I talk to openly admit that they give God no thought whatsoever and have little interest in knowing who Jesus Christ was and what He stood for. Many don’t even own a Bible and, frankly, couldn’t care less.

Such was not the case this week-end in Toms River, New Jersey. When Pastor Jason and the newly formed congregation of Wellspring Church held their first Sunday morning service, meeting for now in the impressive, new auditorium of the Toms River Intermediate School East, the audience was electric. The project, several years in the making, was the vision of Pastor David Ridder of Bayside Chapel in Barnegat, New Jersey. Pastor Jason had served as his youth leader for some eight years and Pastor Ridder sponsored the project with financial support, a segment of their congregation, staffing, and a whole lot of encouragement.

When Pastor Jason walked up on stage for his first sermon as the Pastor, he looked out over an audience of over 430 adults – and these folks had their Bibles in hand, they were open to its message, and they cheered more than once as Jesus Christ was highlighted as their object of worship.

To those who have little interest in developing the spiritual side of their lives, and who have never had the opportunity to attend a service like this one, the dynamic and the excitement Christians find in uniting in worship is difficult to understand. Perhaps the sense of Divine presence (which, I know, sounds very superstitious), the assurance that whatever life dishes out, God knows and promises to see us through, the conviction that eternity beckons and we can face it with ardent anticipation – that is something to get excited about.

One lady told Pastor Jason that she had not been in church, except for funerals and weddings, for the last ten years. She was so moved that she promised, “Next Sunday, I will be back!”

The source of our excitement is at once profound and yet so simple. We make much of Jesus Christ, but that is merely our point of departure. Every one of us, without exception, have been profoundly changed. Our outlook on life, our manner of facing the crises that inevitably come our way, our priorities and the fundamental qualities of character to which we all aspire – all changed when we welcomed Jesus Christ as the primary influence in our life. The Apostle John put it this way, “In Him was life, and his life was the light of men.” When one finally decides to do some research, read the New Testament record, and then take Jesus seriously, what happens changes everything!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We have to be able to trust!

To the Editor:

I have personally wrestled with what I am about to write since I attended an informational meeting on a warrant article at the Sanbornton Town Office on the evening of Feb. 22. There was a follow-up front page article in the [Laconia Daily] Sun on the 23rd.

The article opened with an account of a terrible, life threatening equine accident experienced by Jackie Riendeau, Jan. 1, on the property of a neighborhood church. A representative of the Fire Department stated, in an interview by the Sun, that there were no witnesses to the accident. I was one of several folks who either witnessed the accident and/or the actions that led up to the accident.

Jackie Riendeau stated in her emotional testimony at the meeting on the 22nd, the EMTs were on the scene in seven minutes. I know that Jackie was not cognizant while she lay there waiting for the ambulance, so she did not know how long it actually took. The fact is (I verified with the 911 caller who timed the duration from hang up to arrival), it was 23 minutes. I am certain that Jackie had no intention of misleading anyone. She was simply repeating what she was told.

During the meeting, the question was asked, in regards to the demand of EMT service during the summer months, “How many people are there in Sanbornton during the summer months?” The Town Clerk said 10,000. Now, can you even imagine the traffic jams in Sanbornton, a population of 2,977 (2014 figures), growing to 10,000 in June, July and August? I asked the manager of the transfer station about the increase in trash during June, July and August. He said there was no significant increase. Where does all the trash produced by 10,000 people end up? Maybe the town clerk meant 10,000 people as a collective number, even though she didn’t clarify? Five hundred a week for 12 weeks is 6,000? I could accept that. If so, that would mean 3,300 people on average June through August. That would justify the jump from an average of 19 calls per month September – May to 23 calls per month June – August (County statistics). We need to be able to trust!

Thank you, Belknap County Delegation

To the Editor:

We wish to extend a sincere Thank You to the Belknap County Delegation members who “listened” to the public taxpayers of the county in passing, recently by a super majority vote, the 2017 Belknap County Budget. A budget process often is very challenging and a very important process of decision making where true leadership emerges. Our Representatives stood tall to this test. Their plan will not raise your county taxes for the second year in a row.

Thank you, Chairman Rep. Herb Vadney and Vice Chairman Ray Howard, for your strength, as well as, courage in leading the delegation to a successful and reasonable spending plan. Budget preparation involves many long volunteer hours for the delegation and each member should be acknowledged for his or her efforts in their contributions towards crafting the approved plan.

Being “good stewards” of the people’s money is what you were elected to do and as residents and taxpayers we very much appreciate your willingness to keep your promise. Listening is defined as, “to hear something with thoughtful attention and to attend closely for the purpose of hearing.” Listening is a difficult gift to acquire and practice. We all have room to grow in this area.

The fire station proposal, and how we got here

To the Editor:

The Tilton-Northfield Fire District fire station proposal, and how we’ve arrived at this point. Two years ago, at the 2015 Fire District meeting, the voters approved funding for the purpose of hiring a Fire Station Consultant to work with the District to develop a plan for our facility needs. The Commissioners formed a Facilities Committee and hired Warren-Street Architects of Concord. The Facilities Committee is made up of members of both towns and has been meeting over the past two years. Our goal has been to bring a comprehensive and affordable plan to the District that best meets our needs both now and years into the future, that is affordable both at its inception and each year thereafter, that enhances our ability to serve the needs of the community and that maintains the professionalism, quality and responsiveness we have come to expect from the department.

Currently the fire department has two stations. The main station on Center Street in Tilton houses our administrative offices, living quarters for the full-time fire fighters and two of our front line trucks. The original part of this building was built in 1867, with an addition added in 1895. A second facility on Park Street in Northfield garages the rest of our vehicles and other equipment that doesn’t fit at the Center Street station. The Park Street Station was built in 1986 with the thought that it could be upgraded and added onto in the future as needs changed.

Since that time, the towns have grown, most notably the expansion of commercial businesses at exit 20 and east towards Laconia on Route 3 and toward Belmont on Route 140. We now staff 3 full-time fire fighters seven days a week, 24 hours a day to meet the increasing call volume. Also during this time the call type has changed to where nearly two thirds of the calls are for EMS related needs. This is also a result of our aging population that tends to require more services. We’ve also seen growth in traffic through the towns as our institutions grow such as Tilton School, the New Hampshire Veterans Home, Spaulding Youth Center and more, not to mention those who drive through on there way to Franklin, Sanbornton or Laconia from the Interstate.

As the needs and responsibilities of the Fire Department have grown and changed with the times, our facilities and operations have not kept up. At the Center Street Station we deal with ADA accessibility issues and lack of public spaces. We struggle with the secure storage and monitoring of EMS drugs and supplies. We lack proper decontamination equipment and spaces for both fire fighters and their equipment. There isn’t proper storage for equipment and maintenance. We have limited access at Center Street both due to the location and the size of the building. We have limited size for our equipment, including having several trucks that won’t fit into the Center Street station and the need to special order new trucks small enough so that they will fit.

This is where the Facilities Committee comes in. Over the past two years, the committee has become familiar with the various equipment and vehicles, as well as the staff and the administrative and living areas. We have inventoried the vehicles and equipment currently owned by the District. We have reviewed historic “Call” data, including such things as call type, call location and response time. We have learned how the department is staffed and the different roles of the career and call fire fighters, and how they respond to calls. We have visited other fire departments around the state that have newer facilities to review and discuss with them the reasoning behind their facility development and deployment. We determined the space needs for all the areas within the department and how that relates to the current buildings, as well as a potential new building and the lot size need for such a building. We looked into the future population growth data for the towns, as well as the projected property valuation growth and how these items might affect future tax rates. We looked into possible locations and available real estate for a new station. We developed plans and reviewed cost estimates for the selected sites and buildings. We looked at how to fund any project proposed and the impact on the tax payers.

During this process, we looked at several options. These included moving the entire department to a rebuilt Park Street location, or rebuild the Center Street station, or building a new station in East Tilton, or having two manned stations to name just a few. What we determined was that while two manned stations would be the best solution for improving response time, it would require hiring at least 4 new fire fighters in addition to rebuilding the Park Street station and building a new station and that this solution wasn’t cost effective. Moving to one station at Park Street moves the fire fighters away from the majority of calls resulting in increased response times so this solution wasn’t deemed viable. Rebuilding Center Street isn’t workable as there isn’t enough land at that location. After many different scenarios the committee came to agree upon a single manned station replacing the Center Street station and keeping the Park Street as it is. This new station would be located somewhere between the current Center Street station and Exit 20.

After looking at property that was large enough for our needs and looking for possible partners within the community that could potentially work with the District we found Tilton School and property that they were willing to make available. The location is within the area we were looking at, the amount of land needed was available, and the property doesn’t require the removal of multiple buildings currently on the Town’s tax roles. Again the Committee was in agreement of the location.

It was at this point that WarrenStreet Architects was able to design a building that included all the spaces we had determined were necessary, that sits nicely on the property, that limits the impacts on the neighborhood and the balance of the land owner’s property and provides good access to Main Street. The site was evaluated and costs estimates were gathered for the site improvements, driveway installation, intersection improvements, drainage and wetland impacts, and utilities access.

From here the Committee and the Commissioners looked at how to fund this project. There are three different areas for funds. There is the Land and Building Trust Fund that was established for just this type of expenditure, The Equipment and Apparatus Fund which can be used for some of the initial equipment needed to up fit a new build and which could potentially be used to fund part of an annual bond payment, and a Bond.

The plan the Committee and the Commissioners will be presenting at the District meeting includes a warrant article this year for $120,000 which will be used for the civil engineering to create the design and permitting for the driveway and building site, wetlands permits, design and development for architectural and engineering plans, for a construction manager, and for construction bids. This will provide a fully permitted and shovel ready project that will be presented at the 2018 District meeting.

The $120,000 this year will come from the Land and Building Trust Fund and will have no impact on the tax rate. Next year will require a Bond as the main source to fund construction. We are estimating that the tax impact for a resident of Northfield is $44.30 on a home valued at $100,000 and in Tilton it is $43.86 for a home valued at $100,000. The district will have a new station, we will retain the Park Street station to continue to house some of our equipment, and we will sell the Center Street location.

Early in this process it became clear that there was no easy solutions, that there were many different views on what was in the best interest of the District, and that the role, needs and services provided by the Fire Department have evolved. We learned that we were not going to be able please everyone or meet every need equally and that any solution would include compromises. Additionally, while the committee did not always agree on every solution or recommendation such as how many bays the new station should have, or how big the training room should be, we do agree that we must to something and that a one station solution is the most affordable way to achieve our goals.

The District meeting is Monday March 20th at the Winnisquam Regional Middle School Gym starting at 7:00 pm. Information on the building as well as a site plan will be displayed. I invite all residents to attend. Thank you.

Time to ease off the moose hunt, and the creation of ever more pets

By JOHN HARRIGAN
COLUMNIST

New Hampshire’s moose population seems to be about half what it was in its heyday. There is no way to be sure about any wildlife population, of course, because wild animals don’t exactly line up to go through turnstiles to be counted.

But the estimate back in the early 1990s was about 8,000. Today, it’s about 4,000. Owners of tourist destinations—cabins and lodges and motels and inns—will tell you that guests driving north to see moose along the roads around Berlin, Errol or Pittsburg often go home disappointed.

At one time, more than 12,000 people were coughing up $10 each to enter the moose permit lottery, in which more than 500 permits were chosen. This year, Fish and Game announced that it would issue only 51 permits for next year’s hunt, the lowest since the season was first established in 1988.

Although I’d never argue that New Hampshire’s moose population is endangered, hunters have long held that they would never be part of a hunt that would bring a wildlife population anywhere near such a condition. Hunters believe, and often state emphatically, that any decision should always be made in the best interests of the resource, not hunting.

Guildhall’s Roger Irwin took this fine head shot of a bull moose on a typical mist-shrouded North Country day.

In the public’s mind, I think, New Hampshire’s moose hunt has become pathetic. It’s time to pull the plug.

The Caledonian-Record is a feisty and well-edited daily newspaper out of St. Johnsbury, Vt. I say “feisty” because the Caledonian, along with the Keene Sentinel, the Union Leader and the Concord Monitor, can always be counted on to jump right in with court appeals or lawsuits whenever government bureaucrats try to suppress the people’s news.

The Caledonian runs a very good pet care and animal rescue column, titled this past week “It’s Hip to Snip.” The month’s topic was the drastic need to reduce new litters of cats and dogs, because there are already so many hapless and helpless pets tossed to the winds by their uncaring, unfeeling, and in my book just plain cruel owners.

Anyone in any kind of farming has stories about cats and dogs just “dropped off” in a box or sack along rural roads in the dark of night, as if they will magically go into some sort of Limbo safe haven. On working farms, there is often no more room for any more abandoned animals; and the best the dropped-off cat or dog can hope for is surviving a territorial fight.

Local vets typically jump through hoops to cooperate with animal shelters for periodic low-cost neutering clinics. You grab your dog or cat and stand in line, which is to say the least an interesting event. As dogs and cats get to know

This dog (my dog, Millie, who was once thrown out of the State House), has a warm, safe home, and plenty to eat. Thousands of abandoned, neglected and mistreated pets have little or none of that.

each other by nose and butt, so do their owners (not necessarily via nose and butt).

From time to time, I get a bit of pressure to have my dog bred, because puppies of her certain breed and type are hard to find. But I will not, because there are already far more dogs and cats than society cares enough to care for, and too many “surplus” pets dying horrible deaths.

Finally, this headline in the Union Leader a coupe of weeks ago caught my eye: “State Library, first in the nation, celebrates 300 years.”

Now, 300 years is a long time. Subtracted from now, it brings us back to 1717, almost half a century before the Revolution.

New Hampshire is first in so many things. For a long time, we were first (i.e., lowest) in the nation in unemployment, and may still be. Of course, we have the first in the nation presidential primary, and may it ever be thus. We were first in the nation with a workable Current Use property tax strategy to conserve forestland and open space, now copied by 25 other states.

Now it turns out that we were first in the nation with a state library. In 1717, the state’s General Assembly, meeting in Portsmouth, approved an act providing that certain reference books be maintained for use by the Legislature and the Governor and Council. This was the beginning of the great State Library we have today.

Michael York is the acting commissioner of the state’s Department of Cultural Resources, and is a familiar face I seek out whenever I have the chance. He and the Library crew have helped me out with research strategies for a book about my crazy time on the planet that I’ll probably never get the chance to write.

The State Library is a great institution, one that I worry is off the radar for many visitors to the Concord scene, which itself is wonderful for its rebuilt and pedestrian-friendly downtown.

So I encourage one and all to traipse up the stairs of the State Library’s marvelous building, immediately north of the State House, and swing open the doors, because you’ll find a wealth of documents and history, and a warm staff within to help find what you’re looking for.

(This column runs in weekly newspapers covering two-thirds of New Hampshire from Concord to Lower Quebec and parts of western Maine and northeastern Vermont. Write to campguyhooligan@gmail.com or Box 39, Colebrook, NH 03576. Roger Irwin of Guildhall, Vt., a patient observer of animals and their habits, is now setting up and capturing some of the finest wildlife photographs in the field.)

Children’s Literacy Foundation funds partnership between BES, Senior Center, and library

BELMONT — This year, the Children’s Literacy Foundation (CLiF) offered a new grant opportunity to build community partnerships in Vermont and New Hampshire with organizations serving low-income, at-risk, and rural children. In a time of global unrest, CLiF decided to invest in bridging connections between generations and sectors of communities that might not interact regularly through reading and writing. In Belmont, the grant will fund a Reading Buddies with Seniors Program for first graders at Belmont Elementary School and Belmont Senior Center with the Belmont Public Library as the meeting location.

Eileen Gilbert, Belmont Public Library Director, wrote: “By holding the program at the public library, rather than in the school, our first-grade students would have the opportunity to visit the public library and see first-hand all that it has to offer. Because students who are six can have their own library cards, there is potential to combine a trip to the library with a library card drive, as well. Members of the Senior Center may already visit the BPL regularly, but this program would provide additional exposure the BPL for those who many not already be familiar with library programs and services.”

This grant provides an on-site children’s library valued at $500, a training session with a CLiF professional that gives tips for sharing books, a book giveaway where all program participants select two new books to keep, and additional funding (up to $250) to cover program expenses.

The kick-off for students and seniors will be March 14 from 12:30-1:30 p.m. at the Belmont Elementary School. CLiF’s Marv Klassen-Landis will talk to kids and seniors about sharing stories and then model the tips by telling a story. Then each child will get to select two brand new books to bring home or to school to practice their reading and to share with their reading buddy. They will use the on-site library books to build their collection with which to read with seniors.

Partners anticipate five visits to the Belmont Public Library from February to June 2017. This schedule would allow each of the five first grade classes at BES to participate in the program, along with a number of participants from the Belmont Senior Center. Ideally, each senior participant would work with just one or two students at a time, allowing for individual attention.

The application from partners stated: “There is much to be gained from senior members of our community sharing their life experiences with younger members; not only do the seniors have the chance to pass along their hard-earned wisdom and precious memories, but BES students truly enjoy hearing about what daily life was like when the seniors were their age. Both groups would enjoy hearing fresh perspectives, working to understand each other, and learning from each other.”

About the Children’s Literacy Foundation (CLiF)

CLiF is a non-profit organization whose mission is to nurture a love of reading and writing among lowincome, at-risk, and rural children up to age 12 throughout New Hampshire and Vermont. Since 1998, CLiF has supported and inspired nearly 200,000 young readers and writers through five literacy program grants and has given away almost $5 million in new, high-quality children’s books. For more information about CLiF, visit www.clifonline.org.

About the Belmont Senior Center

Belmont Senior Center is open three days a week, Tuesdays through Thursdays, and serves lunch each of those days. The Center provides door-to-door transportation for Belmont’s senior residents, and they enjoy a variety of activities at the Center. These activities include programs that address the need to stay current on senior issues, art classes, card games and Wii bowling, and a Bone Builders exercise class that promotes wellness.

About the Belmont Public Library
Belmont Public Library is located in a red brick building that has served as the town library since 1928. Located in the heart of town, it was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1985. In its 79 years of service, the library has been a beloved landmark and community center. In 201, locals visited the Belmont Library nearly 11,000 times and checked out almost 19,000 books, magazines, DVDs, and digital items. Library programs for all ages include: preschool story time; STEM activities for school age children; adult book, craft, and gamer groups; and seasonal and holiday events for all ages – to name just a few. Open six days a week. For more information about the Belmont Public Library, visit www.belmontpubliclibrary.org.

Sant Bani student and teacher to shave heads for charity

SANBORNTON — Seventh grader Olivia Mundahl started with a $250 fundraising goal to benefit the St. Baldrick’s Foundation, which funds research for cancers that affect children, teens and young adults. Volunteer fundraisers for St. Baldrick’s shave their heads in solidarity with kids experiencing baldness from cancer treatments.

Mundahl learned of St. Baldrick’s after a family member became a “shavee” a few years ago. She credits Sant Bani middle school language arts teacher Wendy Pietroniro, who talks with the class about inner qualities being more important than outward appearances, for inspiring her to change her looks in a way that would help others.

Mundahl said, “I decided to do this to help raise awareness for childhood cancer and to show people that our identity doesn’t need to be wrapped up in our hair. I’m showing myself and others that no matter how I look, I will always be me.”

Pietroniro was supportive of Olivia’s goal, and considered joining her as a “shavee.”

Mundahl said, “After I reached $700, I challenged her to join me if I got to $1,000.”

Pietroniro agreed, and when Olivia surpassed that goal, Wendy launched her own fundraising campaign and also exceeded $1,000.

Pietroniro said, “When I heard Olivia’s reasons for embarking on this endeavor, I thought, ‘Of course, I’m going to do this. There’s no way I won’t support a middle school student who’s taking action to make a positive change in the world.’ I also think it’s a good a reminder that what we say and do defines us, not our physical appearance. The bottom line is, Olivia’s strength of character and selflessness has inspired me to take action.”

Other middle schoolers have also been inspired; over February break, four girls in sixth and eighth grades cut their hair and donated it to organizations that provide wigs to cancer patients.

Mundahl and Pietroniro will be shaving their heads together at a Middle School gathering on March 17; donations in support may be made at www.stbaldricks.org.

Time for Some Financial Spring Cleaning

Spring is in the air, even if it’s not quite there on the calendar. This year, as you shake off the cobwebs from winter and start tidying up around your home and yard, why not also do some financial spring cleaning? Actually, you can apply several traditional spring cleaning techniques to your financial situation. Here are a few ideas:

- Look for damage. Damage to your home’s siding, shingles and foundation can eventually degrade the structure of your home. Your investment portfolio is also a structure of a sort, and it, too, can be damaged. Specifically, you may have deliberately constructed your portfolio with an investment mix – stocks, fixed-income vehicles, cash instruments, etc. – that’s appropriate for your goals and risk tolerance. But over time, your portfolio can evolve in unexpected ways. For example, your stocks may have grown so much in value that they now take up a larger percentage of your holdings than you had intended, possibly subjecting you to a higher degree of risk. If this happens, you may need to rebalance your portfolio.

- Get rid of “clutter.” As you look around your home, do you see three mops or four nonfunctional televisions or a stack of magazines from the 1990s? If these items no longer have value, you could get rid of them and clear up some living space. As an investor, you also might have “clutter” – in the form of investments that no longer meet your needs. If you sold these investments, you could use the proceeds to fill gaps in your portfolio.

- Consolidate. Do you keep your lawnmower in a shed, a rake in your garage, and your gardening tools in the basement? When working on your outdoor tasks, you might find it more efficient to have all these items in one location. You could also have your investments scattered about – an IRA here, a new 401(k) there, and an older 401(k) somewhere else. But if you consolidated all your investments in one place, you might cut down on paperwork and fees, and you wouldn’t risk losing track of an asset (which actually happens more than you might think). Even more importantly, when you have all your investments with one provider, you’ll be better positioned to follow a single, centralized investment strategy.

- Prepare for a rainy day. As part of your outdoor spring cleaning, you may want to look at your gutters and downspouts to make sure they are clear and in good repair, so that they can move rainwater away from your home. Your financial goals need protection, too, so you’ll want to ensure you have adequate life and disability insurance.

- Seal leaks. In your home inspection this spring, you may want to investigate doors and windows for leaks and drafts. Your investment portfolio might have some “leaks” also. Are investment-related taxes siphoning off more of your earnings than you realize? A financial professional can offer you recommendations for appropriate tax-advantaged investments.

This spring, when you’re cleaning your physical surroundings, take some time to also tidy up your financial environment. You may be pleased with the results.

Things to consider before choosing a summer camp

Though February does not often elicit images of youngsters building campfires or playing games in the pool, the month more synonymous with the Super Bowl and Valentine's Day is a great time for parents to start thinking about summer camps for their kids.

Summer camp is often something kids look forward to, and something they will fondly recall long after they reach adulthood. For many kids, summer camp provides a first taste of independence, as youngsters spend significant time away from home without their parents for the first time in their lives. But as great an experience as summer camp can be for youngsters, it can be just as difficult an experience if parents don't find the right fit for their children. That's why it behooves parents to start thinking about summer camps for their kids in winter, before camps start filling out their rosters, which tends to happen in early spring. The following are a few things parents should take into consideration when seeking a summer camp for their kids.

Staff
The right summer camp staff can make all the difference. Many children are understandably shy when arriving at a summer camp, as their friends from back home might not be joining them. That can make kids hesitant to participate in activities or less enthusiastic about those activities. But a good staff will know how to make kids feel welcome, which should help them come out of their shells and make the most of their summer camp experiences. The quality of staffs can vary significantly depending on the camp, so it's important that parents ask camp representatives about their staffs before making any commitments. Ask how long the staff has been together and the types of training new and even veteran staff members undergo before the start of camp season? Does the training include first aid and emergency medical training and certification?

It's also good to ask about the vetting process the camp employs before hiring new staff, including the extent of its background checks. Are criminal background checks conducted? How many references must potential staff members supply to be considered for employment? A good camp will be forthcoming with answers to all of your questions, so eliminate those that appear hesitant to share information about their staffs.

A day in the life
When vetting camps for kids, parents should ask what a typical day is like once the season hits full swing. Many parents want their youngsters to have a well-rounded experience, while others might want their kids to attend a more specialized camp, whether it's a sports camp focusing on a particular sport or a music camp devoted to helping kids become better musicians. Regardless of the type of camp parents are considering for their kids, they should ask about what daily life at the camp is like. Ask to see schedules and how strictly camps adhere to those schedules. When considering specialized camps, ask the staff representative if kids will have the chance to simply have a little fun and which types of recreational activities are planned to give kids a break from what are often rigorous schedules.

Camp goals
Another thing parents must consider before choosing a summer camp for their kids is the goals of each individual camp. A camp should be dedicated to ensuring kids have fun, even when kids are attending more specialized camps that tend to be more strict. In addition, parents should look for a camp that wants its attendees to foster relationships with their fellow campers. Camp can be lonely for some youngsters, especially those attending summer camp for the first time, but a summer camp that strives to promote friendship among its campers can reduce, if not eliminate, any feelings of homesickness.

Late winter is when parents should start looking at summer camps for their kids, and there are a host of factors moms and dads should take into consideration during the vetting process to ensure their youngsters have as much fun as possible.

literary knowledge. Another weeklong activity was a door decorating competition. From J.K. Rowling to Roald Dahl, James Dashner to Kate DiCamillo, authors of all genres were acknowledged by student art and creativity.

Adding to the fun were teachers who dressed as their favorite literary characters last Friday.

Special Education teacher Liz Plummer had a great week with her seventh grade students, Kristina and Dylan, who also celebrated Dr. Seuss’s birthday this month. When asked why Dr. Seuss was their focus, Plummer said it was her favorite author and the students really enjoyed reading a number of his classics.

“We even had a cake today with the Cat in the Hat on it,” said Kristina.

While Plummer and her class continued the Dr. Seuss theme on to their door decorations, down the hall there were many more books to celebrate.

paid tribute to that challenge.

son’s class decorations for “Where the Wild Things Are” were just a few of the examples.

Seventh grade Life Science teacher Alex Saltmarsh said his “Curious George” decorations were a real work of art that was developed entirely by his class.

“Some of my students drew all of this freehand and did a really terrific job,” he said, exhibiting Curious George and all of his literary friends on his classroom door.

Maria Simoes’s class opted for Harry Potter, and as a big Harry Potter fan herself, she even jumped into the fun on Friday by dressing as a character from the series.

“We talked about what we would do for a door decoration and decided on the elements of the final chapter of ‘Harry Potter and the Sorcerer’s Stone,’” said Simoes.

Some classes decided to be more general in their love for literature, with students each pitching in with titles of their favorite books to decorate their door.

There was also A “READ Box” spinoff on “Red Box,” encouraging students to find a recommended book and just enjoy it.

Teacher Cennanne Sanders’ sixth grade English class however, didn’t think a door was big enough to celebrate their favorite book, “The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane.”

Based on the journeys of a porcelain rabbit named Edward Tulane, whose owner lost him at one point in her life, they not only decorated their door, but displayed Edward’s storied travels before he miraculously made his way back home. His adventures were portrayed all along the wall outside their classroom through the students’ art.

As many teachers dressed up as their favorite literary characters last Friday, Chapley herself dressed as not only Little Red Riding Hood but combined her clever costume to include Grandma and the Big Bad Wolf as well.

“I bet I’m the only one to dress up as three story characters,” she said. “It’s been a really great week and I was so glad to see so many teachers and classes participating in Read Across America.”

Another exercise tested their memory as boys and girls were asked to walk to the oldest towns in New Hampshire, stroll along the map that borders Vermont, and position themselves on the highest mountain peak.

Students challenged each other with questions about the map, too, such as “What is the river the mills in Manchester were built on?” Once the answer was identified as the Merrimack River, they then reviewed the reasons why that location was important in the early days of the state. Among the answers were that it powered textile operations and provided an electrical supply to the growing young city.

Math also was used in the lesson. Blake provided groups with strips of ribbon, each cut to represent 12 statute miles. Using the ribbons to measure, they then calculated the distance between two towns, such as Exeter and Wolfeboro.

Wrapping up the day, they all had fun standing on their favorite town and telling everyone what made that spot so special to them. Students then took turns giving other facts about New Hampshire, like the largest lake (Winnepesaukee), the state wildflower (Lady Slipper), state animal (White-tailed deer), state fruit (pumpkin), the state freshwater fish (Brook trout) and even the state dog (the Chinook).

The students were excited that they had the opportunity to use the map in their studies. Elise said she enjoyed working with her team

Raymond said wood pellets were the preferred source of heat for the school over the wood chips used for the high school and middle school facilities.

“The pellets are more space efficient for the limited room available here at Sanbornton Central School,” he explained.

Construction on the plant itself began last June and children at the school were fascinated by all the heavy equipment and work going on outside their classroom windows.

Winnisquam Regional School District Facilities Director Rob Berry, Principal Kathy Pope and State Rep. Ian Raymond were pleased to exhibit the new eco-friendly wood pellet system that will now provide heat to Sanbornton Central School.

not oil, which cannot be replaced once it is removed from the ground.

“Unlike oil, when you cut a tree down, you can plant another and always have wood as a source of heat,” he told the boys and girls.

He pointed out the three large bins of pellets that feed the boilers, saying that when filled, each bin weighed as much as four large cars or trucks.

The boilers have computerized systems that can call for more fuel as it is needed. Vacuum hoses then pull wood pellets from the bins and carry them to the boilers in the next room. There, they are burnt to heat water. That hot water is eventually pumped through underground pipes to bring warm air into the school building through the radiators.

Once it is cooled, Berry said, the water returns to the burners through a big loop of piping where it is heated once again before being sent out to provide more heat.

“Oh, so that’s why there were all those holes in the ground,” said one first grader as he listened to Berry’s explanations.

After all the younger students had a chance to visit the facility, fourth and fifth graders came out to officially open the new eco-friendly heating plant.

As Berry and Principal Pope held the ribbon, Johnny, representing the fifth grade, had the honor of cutting the ribbon.

“The district has seen a $1.3 million savings in heat at the high school and middle school since it was constructed in 2008 and hopefully we’ll be seeing a real benefit here as well,” said Raymond.

While exact figures on the smaller Sanbornton facility will not be known for awhile, it is projected that, like the district’s other biomass plant, the new wood pellet system will bring a significant savings to the district and its taxpayers in the years to come.

to find different locations all around the state while Jackson said he especially liked challenging other teams in his class to find a geographic location his team had identified.

“This is really cool,” said Brendan. “I like that we get to use this map because we get to have a little fun while learning at the same time.”

Blake was very pleased she was able to bring the map to SCS as it provided many opportunities to review her students’ knowledge of the state and expand on that in so many other unique ways.

While the map has now moved on to another school in the state, Blake’s classes will now look forward to a trip to the state house in May and another to the Flume and Cannon Mountain later in the year.

Ennis shines in Division 3 Nordic championship

BY BOB MARTIN
Bob@salmonpress.news

PINKHAM NOTCH
Mark Young of Gilford posted the top times in both the classic and freestyle races at the Division 3 Nordic Championship at Great Glen Trails on March 7 with times of 10:32.9 and 9:38.1 respectively.

In a rare occurrence, Young shared the title for the freestyle race with Zachary Ennis of Belmont, who posted the exact time of 9:38.1. Ennis placed second in the classic race with a time of 11:05.5.

"This doesn't really happen often," said coach Nina Gavrylyuk. "They didn't even have two medals to give them."

While the Gilford and Belmont boys' skiers placed at the top of the standings, they did not have enough skiers to qualify for the overall team win. Kearsarge came away with the win with 721 points, followed by White Mountains with 717.5 points, Bow with 709 points, Fall Mountain with 690 points, Gilford with 584 points and Belmont with 198.5 points.

Gavrylyuk coaches both the Gilford and Belmont Nordic ski teams and said she was confident that if Gilford had another racer they would have won the championship. In the classic race, Gilford's Sander Valpey's time of 11:14.2 was good for third place and Seth Valpey placed fifth with a time of 11:33.0.

In the freestyle race Sander Valpey had a fifth place time of 9:49.9 and Seth Valpey was tied for sixth with a time of 9:59.7. Ennis was Belmont's lone skier in the championship.

Gavrylyuk was also happy with the performance of Abigael Fillion, who was the only female skier representing Gilford. She finished in 10th place with a time of 15:07.4 in the classic race. Fillion was 23rd in the freestyle race with a time of 13:52.4.

Gavrylyuk said that

Zach Ennis of Belmont tied with Gilford's Mark Young with the top spot of the day in the freestyle race at the Division 3 state championship.

the windy cold weather made the day particularly difficult in the morning for the classic races. She was happy with how her racers did despite the conditions and not having a complete team. Josh Valentine, one of Gilford's top skiers, did not race because he was in Lake Placid, N.Y. for the Junior National Championships.

"I think we did pretty well," said Gavrylyuk. "Unfortunately three people is not enough to win."

Ennis, a sophomore at Belmont High School, said it was the first time he had ever won a state meet, which was exciting for him. He said the course was in great shape and he had a lot of fun skiing with his friends. He explained that he put a lot of time and training in while working with the Gunstock Nordic Association, which is also coached by Gavrylyuk. He plans to continue training throughout the summer by things like roller skiing, strength training and running.

Ennis has only skied for about a year, but he said he loves the sport.

Muskrats seeking host families for summer season

LACONIA — The Winnepesaukee Muskrats baseball club is looking for local families from Laconia and surrounding towns to host players for the 2017 summer baseball season. Muskrats players arrive the first week of June and play for approximately two months during the summer.

Each year the Muskrats rely on local families to come forward and provide accommodations for their 30-player roster. While many former host families are committed to housing players again this year, there are still more families needed.

“Without community support on many levels - fans, corporate sponsors and vendor partnerships - our organization would cease to exist,” stated Muskrats General Manager Kristian Svinland. “However, it is the commitment of host families that is vital to our ongoing success. We are a non-profit organization bringing a family-friendly, affordable entertainment option to the area, therefore renting apartments is not fiscally responsible.”

Players typically range from 18-23 years of age. Host families are asked to provide a spare room with a bed, access to shower and laundry facilities, and occasional meals for their player - typically breakfast. Transportation is not required. Host families are offered free season tickets for their entire household, two free weeks of baseball camp for their children, free admission to all other NECBL venues, and access to special events before and during the season.

“It’s an incredibly fun and rewarding experience. At this point we are in need of several beds,” said Svinland. “I understand people’s apprehension about taking in a player. In fact, our family was on the fence for a few years before agreeing to host, but it has been one of the most rewarding experiences in our lives. These young men are hard-working, motivated individuals and great role models for our son and the community. Now our eight-year-old gets a new big brother - or brothers - each year. We have kept in touch with our past Muskrats and track their careers through college and the pros, in some instances.”

The Winnepesaukee Muskrats baseball club is a member of the New England Collegiate Baseball League, a wood-bat collegiate summer baseball league. During this, their seventh season, they will play 44 games, 23 of which will be home games at Robbie Mills Field in Laconia.

For information or questions about the host family program please contact Muskrats Host Family Coordinator Carey Hough at 872-2068 or hosting@muskratsbaseball.com.

Hoops postseason continues at Tilton School

TILTON — Tilton School hoop teams battled in postseason action last week.

Varsity girls’ basketball

After earning the top seed in the Class B NEPSAC Tournament for the second year in a row, the Tilton School varsity hoop girls started their title defense with a convincing 67-34 win over the eighth seed, St. George’s School. Tilton has four in double-figures, including a season-high 10 points from junior Abby Settlemyer to go along with her nine rebounds. Senior Liv Orlando collected her 22nd double-double on the season, finishing with 12 points, 11 rebounds to go along with seven assists, while junior Maddie Clark was hot from behind the arc, finishing with 5-7 from behind the arc. Mayson Kimball finished with 15 points, seven rebounds and five assists. With the victory the Rams advanced to the Class B semifinals.

The top seeded

Rams earned a trip to their eighth straight championship game by completing an epic comeback versus the fourth seeded Pomfret Griffins. Finding themselves down 12 at halftime, Tilton entered the second half composed and confident, quickly erasing the deficit and grabbing the lead, which they would not relinquish. Orlando was outstanding, finishing with a season-high 28 points and 16 rebounds. Kimball had 14 points, six rebounds and two assists and Ashley Berube had 13 points and 10 rebounds.

Boys’ varsity basketball

The Rams hosted a NEPSAC AA first round match against a very strong and disciplined Lawrence Academy and fell behind in the first two minutes 11-2. By ratcheting up the defense, Tilton turned the tide and got ahead 39-31 at halftime. Lawrence did not go away easily and made it a one-possession game with under a minute to go. With a 67-65 advantage and eight seconds left in the game, Terrell Brown went to the line and nailed two foul shots to secure the win. Brown (18 points, eight rebounds, three blocks) capitalized on his post up opportunities all night often fed by Marcus Zegarowski (14 points, five rebounds, three assists). Ryan Layman (10 points, three rebounds, two assists) had a good game on both ends as did Drew Butler (nine points, five rebounds and four assists), Eric Beckett (nine points, three rebounds) and Max Zegarowski (seven points, three assists).

Tilton welcomed a big, aggressive and talented Vermont Academy to the MARC Saturday to decide who would play in the NEPSAC AA championship. From the start it was clear that it would be no easy task for the Rams and Vermont got shots in the paint off post ups and aggressive drives and complimenting that with timely three point shooting. At the half, it was Tilton leading 48-40. Vermont persisted in the second half but Tilton was able to gain a slightly comfortable lead and close the game 90-73. Marcus Zegarowski (28 points, seven assists, four steals) was terrific the entire game. Beckett (16 points, six rebounds, one steal), Brown (15 points, five rebounds), Max Zegarowski (14 points, two assists), Layman (11 points, three rebounds, two assists), Butler (four rebounds, two assists, two points) and Rob Birstonas also played extremely well.

Girls’ JV basketball

The Tilton girls’ JV basketball team improved to 14-0, beating Cushing Academy 39-21. Olivia Hale led all scorers with 11 points. Aybala Yilmaz had eight points and 13 rebounds, Payton Crowley had six points and seven rebounds, and Kamila Hecka had six points.

One game short

Bulldogs fall to Berlin/Gorham in semifinals

BY BOB MARTIN
Bob@salmonpress.news

PLYMOUTH — When it comes to the matchup of Belmont/Gilford and Berlin/Gorham, there really isn't much better. Unfortunately for the Bulldogs, Berlin/Gorham came away with a 4-2 win to head to the state championship at Southern New Hampshire University Arena where they faced Kennett in an effort to repeat as state champions.

It was a tough loss for Belmont/Gilford, as the Bulldogs managed to inch their way back into the game through taking advantage of a couple of power plays. After being locked in a 2-2 tie deep into the third period, the nail in the coffin came when Mountaineer defenseman Noah Schoenbeck put a shot in the net on a rebound of a valiant effort by goalie Bailey Defosie. Defosie finished with 19 saves on the night.

The first period saw both Belmont/Gilford and Berlin/Gorham putting seven shots on net and scoring a goal apiece. In what was a physical game from the beginning, the first goal didn't come until about three minutes left in the period. Berlin/Gorham forward Owen Dorval got a shot on goal, which was saved by Defosie. Forward Hunter Fau-teux knocked in the rebound goal and Dorval was credited with an assist making the score 1-0 for Berlin/Gorham.

The fans on both sides of the arena were going nuts, with the glass boards in front of the stands looking like they might break off from the amount of slamming and cheering. Players on the Belmont/Gilford bench were yelling for their team to "wake up."

Berlin/Gorham, to this point, had been keeping the puck in the Bulldog zone for extended periods of time. However with about two minutes left in the period, Belmont/Gilford kicked it into high gear with a few scoring opportunities. A few close opportunities with the puck bouncing around the net didn't lead to a score, but with only 27 second left to go in the period, forward John Arguin was sent to the penalty box for two minutes for tripping.

The Bulldogs rose to the occasion with forward Alex Muthersbaugh scoring a power play goal, assisted by forward Chaz Hacking. The wrist shot from Muthersbaugh gave Belmont/Gilford a spark of life heading into the second period, tying the game 1-1.

The second period saw only three shots from Belmont/Gilford compared to 10 shots by Berlin/Gorham. This was a clear sign of how things were going for the Bulldogs. While Defosie had a few nice glove saves and knocked the puck away on numerous occasions, Berlin/Gorham forward Cameron Cochran scored a breakaway goal with 9:44 remaining to break the tie making it a 2-1 game in favor of Berlin/Gorham.

Young was also proud of his performance at the state meet, saying it was "pretty cool" to tie with Ennis. He said while Gilford and Belmont are technically two different teams, the skiers train

In the minutes following, Belmont/Gilford made some nice rushes to the net with close scoring opportunities by defenseman Ethan Becker, forward Hunter Dupuis and forward Harrison Parent. Muthersbaugh and Hacking had shots that went wide of the net, but ultimately the momentum shifted back to the Mountaineers.

With about four minutes remaining, Defosie and the Belmont/Gilford defense had their hands full with several shots on goal against them. However, with about 1:30 left in the period Belmont/Gilford moved the puck back into Mountaineer zone and had a shot on goal, as well as a thwarted breakaway opportunity.

For the second time in as many quarters, Berlin/Gorham shot themselves in the foot with a penalty as time was winding down. With 17 seconds left Arguin was charged with interference and was sent to the penalty box. The period ended at 2-1, but that didn't last long as it only took 51 seconds for the Bulldogs to capitalize on the penalty with a great goal by defenseman James Buckley. The goal was assisted by Parent and Ethan Becker.

The Bulldogs and the Mountaineers looked together as they have the same coach. This made the tie with Ennis special to Young.

"I was really happy to have the top times of the day," said Young. "I have never won one of these state meet races before. I think I had a couple of good races."

evenly matched at this point in the game. Then with about five minutes remaining in the third quarter the Mountaineers put a couple shots on goal and had the puck bouncing near the net on several occasions.

Defosie did his best to make some incredible saves around several Berlin/Gorham attackers, including one save that sent the puck flying up in the air above his head. Amid the frenzy, Schoenbeck put the puck in the low left corner of the net giving Berlin-Gorham the 3-2 lead. According to Bulldogs coach Dave Saball, Defosie separated his shoulder on the play and needed to leave the game.

"He got out and I thought there was a lot of black around him," Saball said referring to the Berlin/Gorham black jerseys. "But, it is what it is. I mean, they were all over him. Did they make contact?" Saball shrugged and continued, "He did everything he could to try to get it."

With a minute remaining, Belmont/Gilford pulled the goalie and Berlin/Gorham's Cochran scored an open net goal that was assisted by Dorval and Schoenbeck to make it a 4-2 final score.

Saball said after the game that he had no doubt in his mind that it would be a close, heated matchup against Berlin-Gorham, as it has often been between the two squads. The teams split the season series 1-1 and Saball said he and his team have a large amount of respect for the Mountaineers.

"They battle," said Saball. "They play real scrappy and they just don't give you anything. They outworked us a little bit. They worked a little harder than we did. They are a good, well coached team and they outworked us."

The loss blocks an attempt by Belmont/Gilford to make the state finals for three years running. The Bulldogs were state champions in 2015. Berlin/Gorham, which is defending its 2016 title, is making its third consecutive appearance.

"It would have been nice to make the finals three years in a row," said Saball. "We knew one of the two of us were not going to get the third one. Unfortunately it was us."

Saball said that while they won't be heading to the state championship, he is proud of his players and has high hopes for next year.

"There's no reason to hang their heads low," Saball said. "Losing's not fun, but they had a great year. They had a good run. We came up a little bit short tonight."
