The fallen shall always be remembered

Annual parade marks Memorial Day with dignity

BY MARK FOYNES
Contributing Writer

ALTON — At the close of Monday's Memorial Day parade, there was a remarkable sight visible skyward from Monument Square.

Circling up on high - in a widening gyre, and in plain sight against a pure azure sky - there was a bald eagle that soared above. Flying with absolute freedom, the eagle was like a sentient that was dispatched to remember those who served and sacrificed.

Many folks who congregated in the village on Monday to honor fallen heroes noted the symbolism.

This was also the 100th anniversary of the Legion.

"It's like he knew what today's about," remarked one female spectator, regarding the iconic raptor's impromptu appearance.

The eagle did its flyby just moments before veterans, Scouts and other volunteers returned from their route. The eagle was like a harbinger of heroism.

The parade route is relatively short. It stretches from Monument Square to the Riverside Cemetery; the paraders make the same trek back.

Veterans and civilian volunteers - many of them youth - crowded by the Civil War statue in the Square at the onset of the parade. Everyone gathered and organized to march step by step.

Participants and observers included WWII, Korean and Vietnam

BOY SCOUT Cole Hikel stood proudly with his grandfather, Thomas Conrad, just moments before the ceremonial procession began on Memorial Day. After gathering at Monument Square marchers proceeded down to Riverside Cemetery. The flag in the background was at half-staff in honor of the holiday. By the end of the event, the breeze had kicked up enough to fully reveal its broad stripes and bright stars.

vets who were honored for their personal service - and the sacrifice of their fallen colleagues. Youngsters present had the opportunity to learn the values of heritage, service, and honor.

Volunteers and drivers rallied at the American Legion hall well before the 10 a.m. start time. The American flag flew at half-staff in honor of those who sacrificed in battle. The same gesture was mirrored at Monument Square, with the stars and stripes hoisted only halfway up.

The parade also marked the Legion's 100th anniversary. Inside the hall, there is an embossed plaque commemorating the service of Alton Civil War veteran Moses Savage.

Out in the parking lot, there were vehicles ranging from the 30s to 1970 on display prior to taking part in the procession.

Also on display was a new float built by volunteers. Auxiliary member Kathy Randall said the structure was built in six weeks with a lot of volunteer assistance.

"It was organized chaos," Randall laughingly recalled. "But it needed to be done, and we did it."

The float would be manned by members of each branch of the service.

The convoy of vehicles departed Legion 72 up Route 28 and then down Old Wolfeboro Road to Main Street to get in position for the procession. Vehicles included a 1953 Army transporter, a 1970 Plymouth Sport Satellite, and a 1930s era coupe that looked like it could have been driven by a member of ZZ Top.

Once at the Square, the veterans were joined by the youth brigades. The PMHS marching band provided harmony, melody, and rhythm for the marchers. Members of the Alton Dance Academy strode with pride. Boy Scout Troop 53 carried the banner.

Alton-area residents played a key role in saluting all American veterans. Bedressed in a jacket and tie, Russ Sample led the returning marchers in the National Anthem, after providing some War of 1812 context.

"Bullet-holed, at the end she still waved," Sample noted in reference to a Baltimore battle that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the Anthem.

Dozens of volunteers contributed hundreds of combined hours of service. With such a large event, not everyone can be acknowledged in such a small space here.

ALEX LUDWIG checks the status on a flag holder at Old Riverside Cemetery in Alton before Memorial Day. As part of an Eagle Scout project, the Prospect Mountain High School sophomore did research to discover previously unrecognized veterans in cemeteries in town, and cut and installed flag holders to mark all veterans' graves with American flags.

Eagle Scout project honors local veterans

BY CATHY ALLYN

ALTON — This Memorial Day, with Old Riverside Cemetery as a backdrop for the annual parade, more American flags than usual fluttered amid the gravestones. Boy Scouts placed them at the graves of veterans the previous weekend, but the reason there are more than ever before is due to the efforts of one Scout.

Alex Ludwig, a sophomore at Prospect Mountain High School, has been working with the American Legion Post 72 and Alton Parks and Recreation Department to accurately identify, catalog, locate and mark with flag holders all of the veterans in the cemeteries in town.

And it has been surprising how many have been missed in the past.

Alex joined the Scouts in primary school in his home state of Wisconsin. An Alton resident since 2010, he has stayed with the program because "it's fun. It's good to learn everything it offers with all of the merit badges and you get to go on camping trips. I see it as being good for later on in my life."

Right now, however, it's an avenue for doing good for others.

Like other members of Alton-New Durham Troop 53 before him, Alex is working on his Eagle Scout project, and because much of it is completed, the cemeteries in Alton are covered in waving flags.

Selectmen change way supervisors of the checklist are paid

BY KATHERINE LESNYK
Contributing Writer

ALTON — The May 20 Alton Board of Selectmen meeting featured a wide variety of topics, with several highlights ranging from fire department grants, to hawker and vendor permits, to a change in the distribution of wages to the Supervisors of the Checklist.

Chairman Reuben Wentworth, Vice Chairman Virgil MacDonald, Cydney Shapleigh, Philip Wittmann and Paul LaRoche were present. After the Pledge of Allegiance and a moment of silence, Wentworth praised the Alton police and fire departments for their work over the weekend.

Virginia Bergeron of the Mount Major Snowmobile Club discussed the placement of a small bridge for snowmobilers during the appointments segment of the meeting. Highway Manager Kenneth Roberts was asked by the board to offer his input on the subject as well. Roberts talked about the requirements for the bridge according to the state and the need for a Department of Environmental Services permit in order to build in the brook. The Mount Major Snowmobile Club will be discussing the potential installment with Roberts more and then returning to the board of selectmen with updates.

Town Clerk Lisa Noyes then gave her annual update. She said that on June 30, the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) will be discontinuing the printers that are used for vehicle registration and that the DMV will be sending out the re-requirements for the new printers soon so that the new printers for the town hall can be ordered. Among other updates about the number of vehicles registered in the town, the number of dogs registered and the town and state auditors' results, she stated that property tax bills would be sent to residents on Wednesday, May 22.

In quick succession, three agenda items under new business were approved: the town dock usage request by the New Hampshire Boat Museum for the boat show from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Aug. 10, the renewals of the health officer and the deputy health officer and lastly the Old Home Week parade special event application.

Roberts returned to the microphone to propose an inspection of private winter-maintained roads due to damage that he reported has occurred to Highway Department vehicles because of branches leaning into the roads and rocks in the way of the vehicles. He proposed that the inspections would occur in June and the residents would be notified of any needed improvements to the roads. Wentworth recommended that the improvements would be due by Oct. 31 so there would be ample time before the highway department would need to begin maintaining the roads for the winter.

The next item of new business regarded the approval of the use of $1,500 in the fire department budget for a contract with a grant-finding company. The company will assist the Alton Fire Department with finding grants that could fund up to 100 percent of the cost of a ladder truck to replace one that has been deemed too costly and old to continue fixing. The department can receive up to four grants per year, and they expressed interest in potentially working toward finding a grant to pay for a new boat for the department as well.

In the category of old business, it was first decided that an ambulance that is no longer in use will be scrapped, and the highway department will tow it away. The topics that followed all resulted in lively debate. The first regarded a change in the way that the Supervisor of the Checklist wages are received — making it into an hourly wage taken from the allotted $3,000 versus a fixed $1,000 stipend per Supervisor of the Checklist — without a change in the amount paid to each employee. MacDonald expressed that he felt it should “go back to the people” for a vote, because he believed it would be likely that the wages would inevitably increase as time goes on, but the three Supervisors of the Checklist reaffirmed that it would only be changing the way the current $3,000 is distributed.

“This isn’t for me; this is to pave the way for other Supervisors of the Checklist,” one said.

The change was ultimately approved for the 2019 calendar year.

Next came a discussion about the vendor application for Baked, Brewed and Organically Moo’ed, a traveling food and ice cream truck from Barnstead.

No hawkers and vendors fees were charged to the vendor last year, and the discussion subsequently became not only about the approval of the application, but also what fee to charge for the vendor.

“I think there should be some fee,” Wentworth said, offering a suggestion of $500 per calendar year.

Shapleigh asked about what would be charged for a one-day event or a non-profit organization, and Wentworth said that he feels the fee should be waived for a non-profit.

After more discussion about types of traveling vendors and how they are regulated, an amended motion was approved to set the fee for vendors to $500 annually or $100 per “special event.” The board then approved the vendor application by Baked, Brewed and Organically Moo’ed for May to October for a fee of $500.

Wentworth announced that the Alton town offices were set to be closed for Memorial Day on Monday, May 27. He also said that there was going to be a discussion about the rumble strips on Route 28 with the board of selectmen and the New Hampshire Department of Transportation on Wednesday, May 29.

Water quality goals committee to discuss Merrymeeting River

ALTON — A sub-committee of the Cyanobacteria Mitigation Steering Committee, called the Water Quality Goals Committee, will meet Thursday May 30, at 6:30 p.m. in the Gilman Museum in Alton. This committee will listen to watershed management planners describe the issues that are contributing to impairment of the Merrymeeting River and ask the sub-committee to decide what level of the nutrient phosphorus they would like the river to return to in the future. Based on the recommendation made by the Water Quality Goals Committee, the watershed planners will determine the maximum phosphorus load that can be discharged from the Powder Mill Hatchery and the maximum loads that can enter the river as stormwater runoff, in order to meet this goal in the future. The Gilman Museum is located at the intersection of Main Street and Route 140 in Alton Village and curbside parking is available.

Volunteers needed to help keep Alton's waters clean

ALTON — Alton is looking for volunteers who want to keep Alton's water bodies clean to serve in any of three areas: Water monitoring, weed watching, and joining the Alton Milfoil Committee.

In the water monitoring program, volunteers take water samples from rivers and lakes to assist in evaluating water quality. Regular gathering of water quality data from water bodies creates a baseline of chemical and biological data enabling biologist and lake associations to make educated decisions regarding the future use of the water bodies.

Water monitoring is a key in early detection of water quality changes, allowing health authorities to trace potential problems to their source. Volunteer are trained to use monitoring equipment to collect water samples.

Sampling is flexible but usually monthly during the summer season and whenever else needed. For information about the water-monitoring program, please contact Gene Young, Alton Conservation Commission, at 776-6068, or e-mail gyoung@world-path.net.

The weed watcher program, sponsored by the NH Department of Environmental Services, could also interest those seeking a hands-on approach to problem solving by monitoring invasive species in any of Alton's bodies of water. You would need access to a canoe or kayak. Volunteering involves a monthly survey of a section of the shoreline of your lake or river from May through September. For weed watchers information, please visit the NH

DES web site, www.des.nh.gov

The Alton Milfoil Committee is looking for residents who want to keep Alton's water bodies clear of invasive species to join the committee. The milfoil committee meets monthly during the season and as needed, with some meetings also in the spring and fall. For information, please e-mail Alton Milfoil Committee at parksrec@alton.nh.gov.

The first thing many people think of when they think of Memorial Day is the long weekend. After all, many businesses (including ours) were closed on Monday in observance of Memorial Day, so that's understandable.

However, the reason for Memorial Day is not so that people can enjoy the unofficial start of summer but rather so that people can take a little time to remember those who sacrificed everything in honor of their country.

Our front page this week includes a couple of stories that focus on Memorial Day and the many people who have fought and died for our country. Kudos to local Boy Scout Alex Ludwig for his work in making sure all veterans are honored in Alton cemeteries. And kudos to the Alton Legion for its work in getting the annual Memorial Day ceremony together.

These are just the people that we should be thinking about during our long weekend. Those that gave their lives in the line of duty, serving their country and fighting for freedom around the world.

We have the utmost respect for everyone who steps up to serve their country and of course we want everyone who steps up to serve to return home safely. But the reality of the situation is that sometimes that does not happen. Serving your country can be a dangerous proposition and the fact the soldiers that serve their country stepped up and did so of their own volition makes their sacrifice even more impressive.

We know that there are plenty of soldiers serving who came from our local communities and we extend our gratitude to them as they do their work protecting all of us. Memorial Day is the day set aside to remember those who have fought and died protecting what we all take for granted and we extend our deepest gratitude to everyone who has stepped up to serve and we honor those who have given their lives in defense of our freedoms.

While Memorial Day is indeed the day set to remember those that have died, we believe there should be more than just one day a year when we think about those who have given so much to our country. So we hope that as you set about on your long weekend, you took the time to remember those that have given their lives so you can enjoy your cookouts, your boat rides or your day at the beach. Take some time to appreciate that so many died keeping this country safe.

And when the long weekend was over, we hope you continue to think about those people and remember the sacrifices they made. Don't let Memorial Day be a one-time thing, take those thoughts with you as you move about your life on Tuesday and beyond.

And remember, if you see someone who is serving or has served, thank them for their service.

Free speech should be truthful and accurate

To the Editor:

When individuals tell lies and thereby mislead innocent individuals, that speech is not free speech nor is it protected by law.

Former Congressman Jason Lewis hosting The Rush Limbaugh radio program Friday April 5:

Democrat politicians and liberal media people lied and mislead Americans when they said the Republican health care bill had no provision for guaranteeing individuals with pre-existing medical conditions could get health insurance when the fact is that a pre-existing medical condition insurance guarantee provision was written in the bill.

Those misleading lies are not guaranteed free speech.

If radio and TV stations are issued licenses in part because they are to provide truthful and thereby objective coverage of important newsworthy people and issues then when radio and TV media people lie and mislead innocent individuals those licenses can and should be taken away.

Mark on the Markets Three baskets

BY MARK PATTERSON
Contributing Writer

The term “don’t put all your eggs in one basket” has been around for as far back as anyone can remember. Typically, this relates to how you invest or save money. What I want to point out is a concept that is very simple but often times not considered when we are in the asset accumulation phase of our lives.

A simple and often painful truth is that you are going to pay taxes on your investments at some time before, during or after your stewardship of these assets. So, let’s create a basket for each of these.

Let us call the first basket “pay as you go” an example would be stocks, mutual funds, CDs, and bonds. The income taxes are paid yearly and reported on a 1099.

Then there is the “pay later” basket that would be 401(k), Traditional IRAs, some annuities. Taxes are deferred and paid when the money is withdrawn. Qualified money is subject to required minimum distributions at 70 and a half. Third basket is the “pay now” receptacle that would include Roth IRAs, cash value life insurance or municipal bonds. You pay the taxes now and enjoy tax-free growth, and withdraw tax free income.

Let me be clear that I am not a tax professional and not attempting to advise you on what to do in the tax realm. Everyone has a different situation that you should discuss with your tax pro regarding these investments. But I do know a bit about economics and Washington.

As the baby boomers move towards retirement, Social Security and Medicare, there will be less revenue going into the treasury and more coming out. There are fewer producers paying into the system placing a larger tax burden on younger working people. While it has improved over last couple of years, labor participation is coming off its lowest rate since the late 70s early 80s, so there are fewer working people. Our national debt is over 20 trillion dollars.

Not knowing what tax rates will be in the future; my guess is higher; I want to plan for retirement income that has a mix of deferred and tax-free money. Traditional thinking was that your tax rate would be lower in retirement with less income, but that may not be true depending on your income, tax rates and policy in the future. This money can also affect the taxes you pay on your social security benefits. Much of this ties into the Social security planning in this column a couple of weeks ago.

Statistics show that most people are not financially prepared for retirement and running out of money is a bigger concern than death itself. Actively planning should not only help with accumulating assets for retirement, but planning seems to alleviate the worries that keep us up in the night.

complishment. In addition to earning 21 merit badges, an Eagle Scout must plan and lead a major service project, and undergo a lengthy review process.

John Keslar, committee chair for Troop 53 who oversees the scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster, is Alex's Eagle Project advisor.

"I'm the mentor," Keslar said, "the one who leads him to get things done. If he has questions, he comes to me."

Alex said Keslar had several suggestions for an Eagle Project, but finding and listing all of the town's veterans, and creating flag holders for them struck him as being the best, especially since he had a comfortable amount of time to complete it.

"I want to apply to the Naval Academy," Alex said, "and this seemed like a good way to pay it back."

His intent was to ensure no veteran is ever forgotten and left unrecognized, but the project involved many elements.

"It is time-consuming," Keslar noted. "Our main goal was to find all of the veterans. The Legion had done some of the work, but it's amazing that we found some who have gone unrecognized for years."

"I got the Legion's side of things," Alex said, "and had to talk with the Parks and Rec Department. Before I could start, I had to get the board of selectmen's approval."

Creating a proposal and standing before the five-person select board was a little daunting, but after working closely with a variety of groups involved with the project and meeting so many people, Alex said he grew quite accustomed to speaking with adults and organizing things.

The cemeteries include Old Riverside, what is known as New Riverside on Route 28, and seven others on private land.

The research was the first thing to get done, and he tackled that during the winter months.

"There is a book of veterans and where they are," he said, "and I started with that. Then I checked with the Parks and Rec Department because they knew veterans who were added after the book was published."

He and his mother Kirsten Ludwig went through past issues of The Baysider back to 2008 and read all of the obituaries. "If it mentioned the person had served, we wrote it down."

Searches on the Find a Grave web site that has photos of gravesites also yielded some previously unknown veterans.

"You still have to walk the rows," Alex said, explaining that groundstones that mark veterans' graves can be hard to see or not close to the headstones. "Sometimes I had to run my hands over the stones to feel the names on them."

Many of those groundstones marked Civil War veterans. "There were even some from the Revolutionary War," Alex said. "Through the years, they have been missed."

The next step was providing the flag holders.

"Some flags get dinged up with mowing," Alex said, "so I wanted to make a flag holder that was protected. We came up with an 11-inch piece of conduit colored in green paint."

During a troop meeting, about a dozen workers helped him cut more than 500 holders.

Having located the veterans and with Memorial Day as the deadline to have the two Riverside cemeteries done, Alex and his mother spent two hours a day after his track practice for four days marking the graves with orange flags.

Once again with assistance from a dozen people, Alex put the holders in the ground by the gravestones the weekend before the Scouts placed the American flags. Those by groundstones are flush with the ground; those by headstones are raised.

Checking on the holders periodically during that week, the young Scout discovered that people unaware of what they were had removed some.

"We want to get the word out," Kirsten said, "so people understand what he's doing."

Alex continues to walk the cemetery to "ensure things are in good shape, so it's ongoing."

The project is not yet complete; that won't happen for months. He's scheduled to meet with the Town Historian to finish up the research at the seven other cemeteries.

"All of those names will be included in the list," Alex said, "and then I'll hand it over to the Legion, town, and Boy Scouts."

Speaking of the work done so far, Keslar said, "He set it up indicating how many in each row of the cemetery should get flags; very detail oriented. He ran into some complications and had to figure out how to make it work. Alex is ambitious and an all around good kid. It's great to see all of the good things he can do."

Involved in the Scouting movement for 10 years, Keslar called the Eagle Projects a great achievement for the Scout and a wonderful thing for their communities.

He'll be with Alex every step of the way on the boy's path to Eagle Scout. "At the final boards, they'll ask him a lot of questions. He should be all set."

Although the project is time consuming, Alex somehow packs his life with a variety of other activities. He takes Advanced Placement classes at school, plays basketball and runs track.

As an example of how he follows through on everything he's involved in, his father Dennis Ludwig said Alex earned a black belt in Tae Kwon Do two years ago.

The youngster said he feels his project is an important service because "if a groundstone isn't there or isn't easy to see, you don't know the person is a veteran."

He said the Legion members "seemed pretty happy to get everything marked."

"We're proud of the amount of work he had to put into it," Kirsten said. "At first it didn't seem to be such a big project, but the sheer number of veterans just in the two cemeteries was surprising."

She said she remembered "not a whole lot of flags out" last year, but "now the cemeteries are covered in flags. It's mind boggling that such a small town has that many who served. Many had been forgotten, since the Civil War."

Alex's catalog will ensure the graves will have flags from now on. "As new veterans are placed, the list will be updated, so it will go on in perpetuity," Kirsten said.

She added that a cemetery trustee told them some families of veterans have approached him, "so we've found out about several we did not have on our list."

The hope is that, as people understand Alex's project, "they'll notify the cemetery, Parks and Recreation, Boy Scouts, or Legion to ensure their family member is included. He is concerned he may have missed someone and would like to get the word out to the community that any omission was not intentional."

Alex said the biggest reward of this project has been the recognition of veterans.

"Some are acknowledged," he said, "because they still have families around who place flags. But other graves aren't taken care of. I focused on the unmarked ones that have been forgotten."

CLASSIC CARS were on display on Monday, including this 1970 Plymouth Sport Satellite - a cousin of the Roadrunner and the Dodge Dart. Satellite cruisers included (front to back) Lori Mahar, Kellie Boucher, Denis Boucher, and Ray Mahar. Denis explained that his vehicle is a re-branded Roadrunner, noting that some insurance companies didn't want to issue policies on the original name. The Plymouth bears the Legion logo.

MEMORIAL DAY

There are too many to mention all by name, but here are a few:

Fr. Robert Cole of St. Katharine Drexel, who led a pre-parade benediction;

APD Chief Heath, who was on hand and managed a staff that helped direct traffic around the parade route;

Ashley Dowling of Alton Dance Academy. There were upwards of 20 of her students who marched;

Troop 53 of the Boy Scouts, who wielded the parade banner;

Bill Connors of the Legion Riders. Many riders took part in the parade bearing black leather vests;

PMHS student Millie Snow, who read the Gettysburg Address;

Tom Stevens of the Prospect Mountain High School Band, who played "Taps;" and Lisa Rojek, the Auxiliary Chaplain who helped conclude the event with a benediction.

Speakers at the ceremony also included other community leaders. They included State Rep Ray Howard, as well as Selectmen Paul Laroche and Phil Whitmann. During the speeches, Selectman Reuben Wentworth stood upright in respect. Selectman Virgil MacDonald was also present.

Rep. Howard noted that "it is impossible to understate the importance of those who have sacrificed for a higher cause."

Selectman Laroche added later - quoting President Truman - "Theirs' is a debt that can never be repaid."

Chris Racine of the Alton Business Association also spoke.

"This is not just a parade, but a parade of honor, it is a parade of respect."

Racine also said, "This is a celebration of a common cause - our belief in freedom."

During the ceremony, longtime Legion volunteers were acknowledged. Members recognized included Muriel Stinson for her 68 years of service, Steven D. Carr for his 50 years of volunteerism, and Donald E. Jordan's 60-year tenure. Combined, that's 178 years of service provided by just three people.

Seated next to the Baysider during the concluding presentation was two-time Iraq vet Vince Yliato. He was accompanied by his companion dog, Tippy. Vince said he'd actually had him DNA tested.

Tippy is half German shepherd, part lab, and other canine breeds.

"Tippy is totally a mutt," Yliato said with affection with loving devotion. He was proud of his puppy, but downplayed his service.

Tippy was donated at no cost via Operation Delta Dog. The non-profit donates service animals to veterans requesting canine companions.

THIS Memorial Day marked the first time in recent memory the Legion constructed a new float for the parade. The project was in the works for six weeks. The Legion ensured that members of all branches of the U.S. Military were represented on this rolling memorial. home to face the even greater challenges... Massachusetts and New Hampshire are home to about 500,000 veterans. If Veteran's Administration estimates are correct, that means that about 20 percent of those, or 100,000, of friends and neighbors are suffering with these invisible disabilities right now."

Gail Hoage of the Auxiliary noted in her remarks that all veterans of battle "suffered visibly or invisibly." She said that what is now known as PTSD was called "soldier's heart" after the Civil War. After the two World Wars, the condition was referred to as "shell shock." In WWII, during battle, there was what was known as the "thousand-yard stare" as soldiers marched to their next objective.

"Even those who survived carried wounds, and we memorialize their sacrifice," Hoage said.

A printed program that was distributed listed several conjoined organizational sponsors including Post 72, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Sons of the American Legion, and the American Legion Riders.

Among the more memorable post-parade sights we witnessed was a teenage Boy Scout accompanying an elderly lady - arm-in-arm - across Monument Square to ensure her safety.

A spirit of compassion and service thrives in Alton.

APD officers were present and they looked on with a sense of appreciation for the spirit of service that veterans have proven. Officers seek to uphold this spirit - and that Boy and Girl Scouts aspire to advance this sense of mission going forward.

Event co-organizer Kathy Randall wanted to ensure float volunteers were recognized. They include Peggy Culverwell, Lisa Rojek, Katherine Treadwell, Kathleen Anthony, Bob Stanley, Barbara Stanley, Bruce Cornish, Lori Mahar, Julie Connors, Bill Connors, Tare Schmelebeck, Stacey Schmelebeck and Bill Randall.

Many other volunteers contributed. Too many to list here, but the Boy Scouts helped distribute documents listing the dozens of names of those involved.

Japanese internment subject of next Wright Museum lecture

WOLFEBORO — On Tuesday, June 4, from 7 to 8 p.m., Dr. David Sakura will tell of his WWII experience as a third-generation

Japanese-American in "World War II Internment of Japanese Americans: A Family's Journey." Sakura and his family were part of the 110,000 Japanese-Americans who faced internment after the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Through his memories, father's letters, and other archival material, Sakura will discuss his family's experiences at a permanent internment camp in Idaho at which they spent more than two years.

"This lecture provides a first-hand account of an egregious period in our history," said museum Executive Director Mike Culver. "It's important we look at all aspects of WWII and not forget them."

Part of Wright Museum's Lecture Series, sponsored by Ron Goodgame and Donna Canney, the lecture takes place from 7 to 8 p.m. at Wright Museum, 77 Center Street in Wolfeboro. Seating is limited and reservations can be made by calling 569-1212.

Wright Museum's Lecture Series takes place every Tuesday through the end of the museum's season, which concludes Oct. 31.

Boat and car auction, regatta highlight busy year at Boat Museum

WOLFEBORO — On Saturday, July 13, the New Hampshire Boat Museum (NHBM) will host its annual New England Vintage Boat and Car Auction.

Featuring everything from vintage boats and cars to fiberglass boats, sailboats, canoes and memorabilia, the popular annual event highlights a busy season at NHBM capped off by the biennial Wolfeboro Vintage Race Boat Regatta in September.

"We have participants that consistently come from as far away as South Florida, the upper Midwest and Canada," said NHBM Executive Director Martha Cummings.

In total, nearly 50 vintage boats will compete in the Regatta, including small outboards, Grand Prix hydroplanes, Jersey Skiffs, and Gold Cup racing boats, in group heats on a one-mile oval-shaped course. The Regatta will take place on Sept. 13 and 14 preceded by a welcome reception for registered participants and sponsors on Sept. 11.

Both events underscore an unusually busy season for NHBM, which will open on June 29, as repairs are now under way at its current facility.

"Where the museum sits now is being re-purposed as a boat building and restoration workshop center," said Cumings, who noted NHBM is in phase two of a Capital Campaign. Its purpose is to actively raise funds to construct a state-of-the-art facility.

"A new facility would enable us to expand all facets of our operation and position us as a year-round destination and resource," she added. "2019 is a big year for us."

Founded in 1992 by vintage boating enthusiasts, NHBM is committed to inspire people of all ages with an understanding of, and appreciation for, the boating heritage of New Hampshire's fresh waterways.

If these creatures do return, an old saying will be at risk

"In the woods, the only thing that can hurt you is your own stupidity."

This old saying has been pounded into my head ever since I was first able to wobble away from the back yard. My mother, who had to hunt me down, said this happened when I was about two.

I taught my kids the same thing. Be prepared. File a flight plan. Leave a note. Take compass and map. Above all, have lots and lots of fun, because the outdoors is a great gift to all, never mind if presided over by a Mother Nature who tolerates no disrespect.

Still, I've met up with a good many people who seem to have an instinctive fear of the woods, or ask querulous questions that tip their hand about just not wanting to go there.

The first, of course, is the fear of getting lost. Like all fears this should be respected, and is too complicated to get into here. And it happens, whether for a few hours or days. One elderly hunter, as I recall, was lost in Vermont's North-east Kingdom a year or two ago and was found four days later.

Bears? Our bears are black bears, not the more aggressive brown bears of the Midwest and West, and definitely not grizzlies, and they wouldn't stand a chance of fading into the Arctic landscape (i.e., polar bear).

Rattlesnakes? Here, a fear bordering on instinct has been deadly--to snakes. There are and always have been people who will kill any snake they see. This is because some people just hate snakes, period. This is a great sadness that has decimated snake populations in New Hampshire, particularly as development creeps into ever more wildlife habitat.

When was the last time anyone you know saw a milk snake? Black snake? Hognose? Part of the problem is that people actually mistake these snakes for rattlesnakes. Human disturbance, ignorance (i.e., kill any snake, anywhere), and loss of habitat have brought New Hampshire's timber rattlers, in particular, to precarious numbers. There are small populations in the Concord and Manchester areas, and a small number down around Keene.

The wolf--ever the poster child of all things wild.

Timber rattlesnakes are so scarce that they are protected by state law. But really, who knows this, and how much does it matter? For all too many people, any snake is a dead snake, and for a rattlesnake, double down.

Even coyotes, which are almost defiantly called "coydogs" here and there despite compelling evidence otherwise (they breed back true to coyotes), are not a threat to people, wildlife experts are constantly saying.

(Okay, so I can kinda sorta get the "coydog" thing. I, for example, still stick to the old vernacular and use "fisher cats," even though I know full well that they're not in the cat family at all, not even close. Thank you, New Hampshire Fisher Cats, by the way, for a smidgen of vindication.)

Experts aside, given an ever-larger coyote morphing into a brush-wolf, I would not want to be a very slight child lost in the woods of northern New Hampshire on a moonlit night in March. This year, at that time, we were in the tail-end of the kind of winter when bobcats, driven almost mad by hunger, venture into towns. I've often written about cougars in this space--mountain lions, catamounts, panthers--and the fact that we once had them and the possibility that we might get them back.

Ditto for the wolf. I've penned soulful columns about this poster-child for everything wild, pined away that we once had them, with woodland caribou for seasonal supper, and yes, wondered if they might come back.

If either possibility pans out, we won't be able to tell our kids the adage of there being no danger in the woods. Even failing the return of the cougar or wolf, however, our own stupidity will always play a hand.

Trio of Timber Wolves moving on

Dowd, Smith and Clark all earn bids to Meet of Champions

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

DURHAM — The Prospect Mountain track team joined the other Division III teams for the state meet at the University of New Hampshire on Saturday afternoon.

It proved to be a good day for the Timber Wolves, as three different competitors earned the right to move on to the elite Meet of Champions this coming weekend. All top three finishers earned an automatic bid to the Meet of Champions.

Senior Garrett Smith earned a spot in the Meet of Champions in the shot put, as he tossed his way to third place overall with a distance of 42 feet, 10.5 inches. Teammate Justin Perrin finished in eighth place in the shot put with his throw of 40 feet, 7.75 inches.

Junior Gabby Clark punched her ticket to the Meet of Champions by clearing four feet, eight inches in the high jump, which tied her for third overall.

The final Timber Wolf to earn a spot in the Meet of Champions was Veronica Dowd. Running in the second-to-last event of the day, the 3,200 meters, the Timber Wolf freshman executed coach John Tuttle's race plan to perfection and hung with the lead group for most of the race and finished third overall in 12:00.61, a personal best by 34 seconds.

Grace Hardie also earned points for the Timber Wolves, as she leaped 31 feet, 10.5 inches in the triple jump to finish in fourth place overall.

Alexis Eckert ran to ninth overall in the 400 meters with her time of 65.52 seconds.

Hardie also finished in 14th place in the

Carpenter leaps to D2 triple jump title

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

DURHAM — While Caitlin Carpenter has jumped further than the 34 feet, 10 inches she jumped in the triple jump on Saturday, that distance gave her a memory she surely won't forget.

Carpenter topped the rest of the Division II field at the University of New Hampshire to win the triple jump championship.

"It's all hard work," said coach Lauren Brown. "She works hard and she's so coachable."

"And she's got a great attitude," the Knight coach said.

It was Carpenter's second scoring performance of the day, as she also leaped to sixth place in the long jump with a distance of 15 feet, 5.5 inches

Mason Dumont also picked up a point for the Knights, throwing the shot put 32 feet, a new personal best, to take sixth place overall. Dumont was also 12th in the discus with a distance of 76 feet, six inches.

The Knight 4X100-meter relay team of Elizabeth Morrison, Lizzy Wilbur, Rosemary Carpenter and Caitlin Carpenter finished in 12th place with a time of 54.58 seconds.

Kingswood finished 13th overall on the day, with Portsmouth, Oyster River, Milford, Sanborn and St. Thomas taking the top five spots.

Brent Coope had the top performance for the Kingswood boys, as he ran to third place in the 800 meters with a time of 2:01.

Rian Russo also picked up a point for Kingswood, finishing in sixth place in the discus with a throw of 121 feet, one inch.

The Knight team of Joshua Finneron, Lou Arinello, Joseph Wasson and Coope finished in 14th place in the 4X400-meter relay with a time of 3:47.77.

Jack Dales placed 12th in the high jump, clearing the bar at five feet, eight inches.

Russo added a 14th place finish in the javelin with a throw of 124 feet, four inches.

Overall, the Knight boys were 19th on the day, with Coe-Brown,

Softball Timber Wolves swept by Gilford

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

ALTON — The spring's unpredictable weather put the Prospect Mountain softball girls in a tough situation in the final week of the regular season.

The Timber Wolves had to play four games in the course of four days, including a couple without the team's seniors, who were away on the senior trip.

Those two games came on a windy Tuesday, May 21, as the Timber Wolves and Gilford Golden Eagles played a doubleheader. The girls from Gilford were able to come away with the sweep of the two games.

In the first game, the Golden Eagles started the scoring in the top of the first inning, using a double, a sacrifice bunt and a base hit. The visitors threatened for more but a 1-3-2 double play turned by pitcher Megan Sarno, Michaela Gates and Reilly Gray ended the inning.

Prospect answered in the bottom of the first inning. Gray worked a walk to open the inning and Hannah Capsalis put down a bunt to move her over, but the ball was thrown away and Gray was able to come all the way around to score.

Neither team was able to put anybody on bas in the second inning, with Noel Azzara making a nice play at second base for the Timber Wolves. Gilford put together a number of hits and a walk in the top of the third inning to plate five more runs, taking the 6-1 lead before another double play, this one of the 5-3-2 variety turned by Capsalis, Gates and Gray. Gray had a base hit in the bottom of the inning but she was stranded at first.

Gilford was able to put together a couple of hits to get another run home in the top of the fourth, pushing the lead to 7-1.

The Timber Wolves answered in the bottom of the fourth inning. Sarno worked a walk to start the inning and then Gates and Mackenzie Renner had base hits to load the bases. Hannah Racine then singled home one run. After a force play at the plate, Megan Burnette grounded to first to plate another run, cutting the lead to 7-3.

Gilford came right back and added two more runs in the top of the fifth inning. A base hit, an error and another base hit plated those runs and the lead was 9-3.

Once again, the Timber Wolves answered. Mackenzie Dumond reached on an error to start the inning and then Capsalis moved her up with a ground-out. One out later, Gates singles and then a single from Renner drove in both runners to make it 9-5.

Gilford piled on in the top of the sixth inning, putting up three more runs on a double, a couple of hits and a pair of walks, making it 12-5. Gilford added one more in the top of the seventh to make it 13-5. Capsalis reached in the bottom of the seventh but she was stranded and the Golden Eagles got the 13-5 win.

In the second game, the Timber Wolves were the visiting team and Capsalis had a one-out walk in the top of the first but was stranded there. Gilford put a run on the board in the bottom of the inning for the 1-0 lead. Prospect went quietly in the top of the second inning but Sarno was able to work around a walk in the bottom of the inning and Renner helped the cause with a nice defensive play at shortstop.

Burnette had a lead-off base hit in the top of the third and Capsalis had a base hit two outs later, but they were both stranded on the bases. Gilford was able to add two runs in the bottom of the inning, increasing the lead to 3-0.

Prospect went in order in the top of the fourth inning and Gilford came up with a pair of runs in the bottom of the fourth inning, pushing the lead to 5-0.

Azzara led off the top of the fifth inning with a walk and then Burnette grounded into a 4-6 force. A walk to Jaden Burt put two runners on and one out later, Capsalis worked a walk. A wild pitch brought Burnette home and Prospect was on the board.

Renner had a base hit in the top of the sixth inning but was stranded and Gilford added one run in the bottom of the inning to finish out the 6-1 win.

The Timber Wolves finished the season with a 6-3 loss at Brady and then a 6-5 win over Belmont to wrap up the regular season at 8-8.

The Division III tournament started after deadline on Wednesday, May 29. It continues at the home of the higher seed on Saturday, June 1, at 4 p.m. and the semifinals are Wednesday, June 5, at Chase Field at Plymouth State at 5 and 7 p.m.

Tennis clinic

The Kingswood Regional varsity girls' tennis team hosted a clinic for middle school girls at the Foss Field courts last week. The boys' team held a clinic concurrently with the girls. The girls learned the basic forehand and backhand ground strokes, volleys from the net and serves. They also learned how to score a tennis game. The ball machine was used for the ground strokes and volleys. The girls next played a game of team queen of the court and ended with a game of tennis volleyball.

PET OF THE WEEK

KANE

How is this dog in a shelter? Kane is a very laid back 6 year old that was in a kennel down south for over an entire year before making the journey to New Hampshire to hopefully find his family. He is house trained, crate trained, and does very well on leash. Currently he knows sit, though in a calmer environment would be willing to learn more! Kane is a tad shy and has some touch sensitivities, so at this time he is looking for an adult-only home with potentially another doggy friend. He's also shown that he may do well with cats!

Knights hold off Falcons to win season finale

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

BOW — The Kingswood boys' lacrosse team finished the regular season in style, pushing past Bow by a 12-10 score on Friday, May 24, to finish the season at 8-6.

"That one was important, we had to see where we're at," said Knight coach Matt Tetreault. "Teams just like us, you need to know where you are with them."

Bow had the first few chances but Kingswood keeper Joshua Paraskos held tight in the net while a couple of other chances went wide. Cole Emerson had a shot go high at the other end of the field.

It was Joe Vetanze who got the scoring going for the Knights, as he rifled a shot in with 3:12 gone in the game to give the Knights the 1-0 lead.

The Falcons responded just more than a minute and a half later, as they were able to sneak one by Paraskos to tie the game at one. The hosts kept attacking and had a couple of bids go wide and a couple were blocked by Evan Gorton.

However, eventually, the go-ahead goal got through, giving Bow a 2-1 lead with 5:47 to go in the first.

Kingswood came back a little more than a minute later and tied the game, as Nicona Williams ripped a shot to the back of the net with 4:31 to go in the first.

After Vetanze had a shot stopped by the Falcon keeper, Paraskos made a save at the other end.

Kingswood went up 3-2 with 2:25 to go, as Williams fired the ball to Emerson, who was stationed behind the net. He made a one-touch pass to Rob Doherty in front and he buried the shot for the 3-2 lead.

Cam Mann made it 4-2 with 1:49 to go but Bow came back and fired a shot off the post before hitting for their third goal of the game with 1:03 to go and the period ended with the Knights up 4-3.

It took almost half of the second period for anyone to score. The Knights had early chances from Williams and Doherty, while Paraskos also made a couple of saves. Nick Potenza and Colson Williams kept the offensive attack moving and Paraskos handled the other end of the field.

With 7:08 to go, Nicona Williams scored his second of the game to push the Knight lead to 5-3 but just 21 seconds later, Bow answered, cutting the lead to 5-4.

The Knights came charging back with bids from Joe Russo, Mann, Emerson, Doherty and Nicona Williams but the Falcon keeper made the saves in the net.

Nicona Williams found Mann for Kingswood's sixth goal with 3:31 to go and the Knights were able to get a number of other shots on the net in the final few minutes, with Mann, Davis Ekstrom and Nicona Williams all on the attack. Paraskos made a couple of nice saves to close out the half and Kingswood took the 6-4 lead to the break.

Nicona Williams and Emerson teamed up on an early bid, while Mann, Ekstrom, Colson Williams and Emerson continued the attack with more bids that were denied.

The Falcons were able to cut the lead to 6-5 with 6:18 to go in the third, using some fancy moves to get through the defense and in on net.

Kingswood responded with a goal from Doherty with 5:30 to go to make it 7-5 and Kingswood went on a good run to open up a six-goal lead.

Emerson scored on a bounce shot with 4:34 to go and added another tally just 23 seconds later to up the lead to 9-5. Nicona Williams went top shelf with 3:15 to go and after strong defensive play from Bailey Savage and Kolbe Maganzini, Mann made it 11-5 with 1:04 to go.

Bow closed out the third with two goals in the final 45 seconds, making it 11-7 heading to the fourth quarter.

The Falcons continued the start of the fourth how they ended the third, with a good attack. The hosts scored with 10:41 to go and then added another with 9:07 to go, cutting Kingswood's lead to 11-9.

Colson Williams was able to get the Knights back on track with 6:58 to go and Doherty, Vetanze and Nicona Williams all getting good looks in the zone.

Bow scored with 3:52 to go to cut the lead to 12-10 but a nice interception in Bow's offensive zone, allowing the Knights to kill off the last few minutes and hold on for the 12-10 win.

"Credit the other side for trying to storm back," Tetreault said. "Our plan was to have the same second half (as the first) and they did a good job making it difficult for us."

The Knight coach was very pleased with the game his freshman keeper had in the Kingswood net.

"He had a massive game," Tetreault said. "We knew it would take a while for him to feel comfortable."

"Today was one of those times, what he had to do for the team was to stop the ball and that's where he can shine," the Knight coach added.

The Knights finished the regular season with a record of 8-6. The Division II tournament is scheduled to open today, May 30, at the home of the higher seed and continues on Saturday, June 1, at the home of the higher seed, both with scheduled 5 p.m. start times. The semi-finals are Wednesday, June 5, at Stellos Stadium in Nashua at 5 and 7:15 p.m.

Last year, millions of parents learned they were their teen's drug dealer.

A new kind of drug abuse is killing our kids. What every parent needs to know.

43 PERCENT OF TEENS report having friends who abuse prescription drugs. Even more disturbing: our kids are accessing these drugs — absolutely free — right in our own homes. How big a problem is it? Unintentional drug overdoses in the U.S. now outnumber traffic fatalities, and Rx drug abuse is the sad reason why.

FREE DRUGS FROM PARENTS? Nearly four billion prescriptions are filled in this country every year. Some experts estimate 1/3 of these prescriptions are never used. (How many pills were unused from your last Rx?) But for many of us, it seems wrong to throw away those not-quite-empty bottles. And that's bad news for curious teenagers.

HOW KIDS ABUSE Rx DRUGS: It's no secret that many drugs have unintended alternate uses. Many teens know which painkillers can get you high, especially when mixed with alcohol. Many students cram for exams by misusing drugs that treat ADHD or sleeplessness. Sedatives, amphetamines, anti-depressants, barbiturates, OTC cough medicines with dextromethorphan...you may not know how to misuse them, but others do.

IS YOUR KID MISUSING? By senior year of high school, more than one in ten teens will have abused prescription painkillers. Eight percent will have abused sedatives; another twelve percent will misuse prescriptions for ADHD. More kids misuse painkillers every year than use cocaine. Many kids think Rx drugs are 'safer' than illegal drugs. And it's so much easier to avoid suspicion with Rx drugs.

IS YOUR HOME SAFE? The short brutal answer? No. Pharmacists keep drugs locked away, but the rest of us certainly don't. One industry group estimates that America's medicine cabinets contain over 200,000,000 pounds of leftover prescriptions.

THE NEW DRUG EPIDEMIC. In the mid-1970s, an international heroin epidemic pushed overdose deaths to 1.5 per 100,000

US population. The cocaine epidemic of 1989-93 doubled drug deaths to almost 3 in 100,000. Today's Rx drug epidemic has helped push the overdose rate higher: over 10 deaths per 100,000 population in 2010.

THE MEDICINE ABUSE PROJECT aims to raise awareness among kids, parents, health care professionals, law enforcement and government officials, and educators. Our goal: cut teen medicine abuse in half in five years, but two things have to happen: First, safeguard your meds. Second, talk to your kids.

SAFEGUARD YOUR MEDS NOW. Please remove all prescriptions from 'public' spaces in your home. Clear out your medicine cabinets and closets, especially in bathrooms visitors use. It's hard to change the patterns of a lifetime, but we must start throwing away prescriptions when we're done with them.

TALK WITH YOUR KIDS. When you safeguard your house, tell your kids what you're doing and why. Ask what they see at school, and how it affects friends and classmates. And whenever you give your kids medicine, you have another perfect teaching moment. Be sure to say the single most important thing a parent can say to their child: "I don't want you to do drugs." And be sure to point out that misusing legal drugs can be just as deadly as using illegal drugs. Because it is.

Safeguard your medications. Talk to your kids. Visit drugfree.org to learn more.

Every 8 minutes, we respond to a disaster.

Softball Knights finish the season strong

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — As his team struggled to get in the win column throughout the season, Kingswood softball coach Mike Shaw knew that the Knights were capable of being better. In the final week of the season, the team put things together and played two of its best games of the season and finally got the elusive first win in the season's final game. The week began with a 5-1 loss to Bow in the final home game of the season. At the time, Shaw noted that it was the best game his team had played all season. "Best defensive game yet," the Knight coach said. The highlight of the day came in when senior Jill Blattenberger launched a homer over the fence in left field. "It's too bad we didn't have runners on base," Shaw said. "We can't put more than two hits together at once." The Knights traveled to Dover on Friday, May 24, for the final game of the regular season and came away with the 9-5 win. Each team scored twice in the first inning, Kingswood added one in the second and then put up six in the fifth before the Saints added three in the sixth. Blattenberger had an RBI double in the first inning and then Emilia Galimberti added an RBI double in the second inning to give the Knights the lead for good. The big inning was the fifth, when Allie Drew, Cheyann Cardinal, Maddie Shatzer and Audrey Daggett all drove in runs for the Knights. Maggie Shaw got the start in the pitcher's circle and gave up two hits and two runs while striking out two in three innings. Daggett came in and finished out the game, notching the final 12 outs to earn the save. She struck out four in the four innings.

All told, the Knights had 11 hits, led by Blattenberger, Sami Hotchkiss and Shatzer, who all had two hits. Kingswood finished the season at 1-15 and loses seniors Shatzer, Hotchkiss, Blattenberger and BillieJo Dumont to graduation. Joshua Spaulding can be reached at 279-4516, ext. 155 or josh@salmonpress.news.

Another rainy (but still fun) Fenway experience

For the last few years, I've given my mother and her boyfriend tickets to a Red Sox game. For the second year in a row, the game fell on the weekend of the Smith River Canoe Race in Wolfeboro. And for the second year in a row, Mother Nature made things interesting, to say the least. Last year we went to a night game on the Saturday of the canoe race but when I bought tickets this time, I went for the Sunday afternoon day game. Of course, this led to its own issues, as I had my stories from the Wilderness League Championships and a few other stories on tap to write, which I usually do on Sundays.

SPORTING CHANCE
By JOSHUA SPAULDING
However, Sunday morning I met my mother and Mike in Tilton and headed south to Boston. Of course, just as we got into Massachusetts, it started to rain. Last year when we made the trip to the game, it rained pretty much all day, but the weather held off and the game got in as scheduled despite it being a bit wet at times. Another problem that I hadn't thought of was the fact that that weekend was also Boston University graduation. The place where I usually park is a BU garage and it was closed to Red Sox

IT'S ALWAYS A good sign when the boards say "Red Sox Win" and the team is celebrating on the field.

ning the game late, their only win of that series. With the game starting an hour late, I knew I wasn't going to make it back to Wolfeboro in time for the start of rehearsals for "Our Town" at the Village Players Theater. I got there about an hour and 15 minutes late after stopping in Tilton to get my car. I usually only get to one Red Sox game a year at Fenway Park and it seems the last few years, it's always raining when I get there. However, I love going to Fenway. There are a lot of things about Fenway that are tough (expensive tickets, small seats), but the experience of seeing a game at such an historic place more than makes up for that. And when the Red Sox win, it's even better. Finally, have a great day Kevin Malm.
