Selectmen discuss possible broadband improvements at Lockes Island

BY ERIN PLUMMER
MNEWS@SALMONPRESS.NEWS

Residents of Lockes Island and the selectmen are in talks to review options for updating the island's broadband infrastructure and vastly improving internet speeds, possibly with federal relief funds.

Lockes Island Association president Rick Dean spoke with the selectmen about the island's internet issues during the Aug. 11 meeting joined by several island residents.

Dean said the island has 40 homes with around 500 different residents throughout the summer season. While many seasonal residents would stay there for 10 weeks out of the summer, now several are staying six months out of the year.

At the same time, he said the island's Internet service is DSL, using phone lines from the late 1960's and early 1970's. A speed test showed that the average connection on the island has a download speed of 6.31 megabits per second and an upload speed of around 0.8 Mbps. Dean said this is about enough to open an email without issue unless there are attachments. Because of the narrow bandwidth getting dropped from the service is common and takes a while to get back on.

Dean said the lack of service has created problems with so many people staying longer on the island and means less opportunities to get virtual doctor visits, work from home, or conduct basic business like pay a tax bill, among others especially given the pandemic.

The island association has reviewed options for getting better internet access. Dean said they decided to work with Consolidated Communications to extend a fiberoptic connection from a close by area on the mainland out to the island at an estimated cost of $109,550. This project could boost their internet connection to more than 150 Mbps download speed and more than 100 Mbps upload.

The association and the company talked about having a subscription plan, but the cost and the pos-

Board approves use of first round of federal recovery funds

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

The town will use its first round of American Recovery Act funds for two small sewer projects and water testing with discussions on future projects scheduled for September.

The selectmen held a public hearing on Aug. 11 to accept $378,610.11 in federal funding from the American Rescue Plan which can be used for COVID-19 relief, certain infrastructure improvements, and others.

There was no public comment, and the hearing was closed shortly after it was opened.

Town Administrator Scott Dunn said the money is already in the bank and is the first of two payments from the ARPA. The second will be received in the spring of 2022 and will be factored into that year's budget process.

Dunn recommended spending the current funds toward infrastructure improvements, namely some projects currently in the works. He said he met with the department heads and asked them about their current needs.

The Public Works Department requested $9,600 for sewer system software upgrades, Dunn said this has been included in the budget for the past three years, but he has cut it out every year. He said this funding would provide a good opportunity to finally to this.

Another project was hiring a consultant to get information for a possible change in the sewer ordinance in the future at a cost of $15,000.

Dunn also recommended putting $4,292 for water testing to address an issue with PFAS content in the water.

The selectmen unanimously approved putting money toward those projects from ARPA funds.

There are other projects that could be considered for future funding. Earlier in the meeting the selectmen heard from residents of Lockes Island who asked for some of the funding to be used to help improve broadband infrastructure on the island that would greatly increase the current DSL speeds.

The Gunstock Acres Village Water District had also requested some funding to help with the $1 million in projected water system improvements over the next several years. This year's budget would need to raise an estimated $177,392 from tax dollars to help with the improvements. Dunn said the federal funding could help offset the tax burden.

The Gunstock Acres project wasn't included in the selectmen's motion. Selectman Kevin Hayes said there wasn't enough money in this latest funding round to cover the Gunstock Acres project and the Lockes Island broadband expansion. Dunn said he was thinking Lockes Island could be taken care of in next year's funding.

Dunn also said he wanted the board to consider offering premium pay for essential workers in future discussions.

Discussions on these will be scheduled for the Sept. 8 meeting,

One Community Project makes a difference

A joint collaboration started in 2011 by Gilford Community Church and Gilford Youth Center, One Community Project (OCP) provides local kids and adults with the opportunity to make a difference in the community.

"About five years ago, we noticed more than just our church kids were showing up," said Scott Hodsdon, who oversees OCP. "It is now a community event."

Over the years, he said they have painted and landscaped nearly a dozen homes, worked at the town fields, town beach, Gilford Youth Center, Gilford Community Church, and other locations. Recently, they spent six days at an elderly resident's home in Gilford.

"He cannot get around like he used to, so we spent a lot of time clearing brush," said Hodsdon. "You couldn't even see his house from the street because of all the brush. We had Jason Drouin from Drouin Custom Homes spend time here working with us, too."

This recent job was likely "the biggest" project the group has taken on to date.

"We have probably had 15 to 20 people that have come to work on this particular job - some every day and some just one day," said Hodsdon, who emphasized OCP's community-based approach.

"This is not just about our church or our members," he said. "This is about our community, our neighbors...We are willing to help anyone that needs it - not just the people that walk through our doors."

According to Michael Graham, Pastor of Gilford Community

Church, OCP is important because it reflects the church's "inclusive philosophy."

"We are a church deeply rooted in our community, and this project provides everyone here - not just church members - with the unique opportunity to work together to make a difference," he said. "One Community Project is about just that - one community - and we are honored to see this initiative continue to grow."

School days, school days...

It's that time of year again, when back to school photos will infiltrate your social media feeds. We love this time of year when a more structured schedule takes hold; however come June, we are ready for the daily routine to be a bit more relaxed.

We always consider late August into September to be a new year. Yes, the actual new year begins on Jan. 1; however, the start of a new school year always brings a clean slate, and who doesn't love that?

This time of year brings with it memories for all of us, even if we are not headed back into the classroom. We recall in the height of the '80's when Trapper Keepers were all the new rave (a release of the vintage originals can now be purchased online). Back then, anyone who walked into a drug store would be greeted with a wall of the colorful organizers, with notebooks and pencil cases to match.

Having a brand new Trapper Keeper with pencils neatly tucked away the night before school started was step one. Next, the perfect outfit would have to be picked out, after all, the first day outfit set the standard for the rest of the year. During these first few days of school, the excitement was always at an all-time high. It's the famous week three, when things start to settle, and the groove of the school routine has become the norm, once again.

As with most things, we enjoy tracking history. The drastic changes that have occurred over the years are quite interesting, so we thought we would share our findings.

During the 1800's, a typical rural area would have one room schoolhouses, with one teacher for grades first through eighth. The younger students would sit in the front of the classroom, with the 'big kids' seated in the back. Memorizing lessons was the priority back then, where students had to recite what they had learned. Paper bags and lunch boxes were not used for lunch, instead children would pack a lunch and carry it to school in a tin bucket.

During the early 1900's, only half of the children between the ages of five and 19 attended school. This was during the Industrial Revolution where children were needed at home to help work the farms or were put to work in factories. One study reports that in the present, 264 million children are still not educated.

We've heard it all before, but it's true, most students would walk or ride their bikes to school in all kinds of weather up to five miles away. Today, most students take the bus or are dropped at school by their parents. In some areas, there have been initiatives taken to promote the 'old school' way of transporting kids via bike or walking.

Way back when, if a student misbehaved, they were placed in a corner and had to wear a dunce cap. Discipline has changed quite a bit, however; we remember a slew of kids standing along the brick wall during recess in the 1980's at a New Jersey elementary school. Some students may have had to stand against the wall for not returning a permission slip, or for talking in class, but we won't mention any names.

Home Economics classes have been replaced with a more modern swing than when they first emerged in the 1950's and lasted through the '70's. Back then, students, mostly female, were taught how to cook and sew. In the late 80's, those classes saw more male students as it became a requirement for all. We remember sewing 'Nerd' (as in the candy) stuffed animals and Oreo cookies in our class. When it was time to cook, we have fond memories of baking a holiday cake and forgetting to add baking powder, or was it flour? Either way, that cake took on a life of its own, we fondly remember taking red icing and writing 'Scrooged' over it.

Industrial Arts classes are few and far between, however are still offered in some places with a more technological twist. Back in the day, students would take large pieces of wood, run it through a planer, sand it, stain it and create all sorts of things from entertainment centers to cut out wooden apples using a jigsaw. We remember leaving notes for our friends in the afternoon class. We would slip them in the lockers and hope we remembered whose locker belonged to who. No texting back then.

Cursive writing was always fun. It was a great feeling when you made that lower case 'j' just right. Who knew that years later, hand writing would happen less and less and our cursive skills would be a thing of the past. Handwriting is, however, making a comeback in some schools.

We think it goes without saying, that the best memories involve a good old fashioned pencil sharpener. Trying to get the pencil as small as possible in one go, meant that you were talented. If that pencil still had a full eraser, you were batting a thousand. It was an even better day if you could get your hands on an electronic sharpener.

Cheers to a new school year, and to new memories.

NORTH COUNTRY NOTEBOOK

Like a hurricane, as in, "If we'd only set a date"

By JOHN HARRIGAN
COLUMNIST

Hurricanes come and go in more tropical climes, but rarely are they part of the scene near the 45th Parallel.

Well, just a minute here.

The infamous Hurricane of '38 (as in 1938) made a northward turn after making landfall south of Cape Cod, and went straight up the Connecticut River valley, catching trees on their weak sides with fierce southeast winds. It blew down millions of board feet of standing timber in New Hampshire and Vermont.

The result was the biggest salvage job in the region's history, as loggers used everything from horses, farm tractors, and newly available bulldozers (popularized after World War One) to get the wood out of the woods before the worms got to it.

And I remember, during my growing-up years and several times since, hearing the weather-savvy explanation that this or that storm was the tail-end of this or that hurricane.

During my first years of navigating the woods, old-timers were still pointing out the effects of the hurricane that took that unexpected turn 83 years ago. That's why I was paying close attention to Hurricane Henri.

Ergo, on Sunday, I was getting progress reports from longtime friends Glen Zibolis and Beth Leconte in Rhode Island, where the storm came ashore, and made frequent trips out to the porch to look southwest until darkness did me in.

JOHN HARRIGAN

The old road into camp probably followed the old trail, through a lovely canopy of hardwoods.

As many history-minded writers have noted, the Hurricane of '38 occurred before widespread media and the advent of modern forecasting, and caught many farm families and fishermen flat-footed.

Hurricane Henri, downgraded to a tropical depression by late Sunday, still couldn't make up its mind which way to go. The way TV reporters described its likely course irked me.

They said "Out of here" as if describing an empty place, a void, nothingness--when they really meant the Eastern Townships or the Maritimes, meaning our neighbors and best friends, Canada.

The old trail into the pond near camp was bulldozed right after World War II (I think), and in 2003 the late Dave Cook and I scouted a side-trail for an easier way in than by boat.

The new spur, which we barely brushed out, went over a beautiful little ridge of hardwoods hardly touched over many years of logging. The trees arched over the old logging road we followed.

Numerous humps on the forest floor were aligned in the same direction. Veteran forester and surveyor Fred Cowan noted that these and millions of other similar humps were a legacy of the Hurricane of '38, the result of fallen trees and their roots, and the soil ripped up along with them.

Fred was on my short list of people to invite to camp. He'd have shouldered a pack-basket and hiked right in. He was a veteran of World War II's famed Mountain Division, as were several other men I was lucky to know.

Fred and I were busy with our own various pursuits, and never made the requisite mark on the calendar. The stories he told were fine and true, as without doubt were the ones he never got to.

There are several morals to this story. One is that it's best to travel the woods in early spring or late fall, when the leaves are off and the ground is bare of snow. You can see the lay of the land best then, particularly in early spring.

This is when hunters or hikers, or people out looking for antler sheds, notice and report things that would otherwise be overlooked. In fact, many a crime is solved because of people abroad on the land.

Another moral is that if you really want to spend some time with one of your favorite people, get on the telephone and make a mark on the calendar. Otherwise, it'll never happen.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

Start thinking about your retirement income plan

If you're getting close to retirement, you're probably thinking about the ways your life will soon be changing. And one key transition involves your income – instead of being able to count on a regular paycheck, as you've done for decades, you'll now need to put together an income stream on your own. How can you get started? It's helpful that you begin thinking about retirement income well before you actually retire. Many people don't – in fact, 61% of retirees wish they had done better at planning for the financial aspects of their retirement, according to an Edward Jones/Age Wave study titled Retirement in the Time of Coronavirus: What a Difference a Year Makes. Fortunately, there's much you can do to create and manage your retirement income. Here are a few suggestions:

- Consider ways to boost income. As you approach retirement, you'll want to explore ways of potentially boosting your income. Can you afford to delay taking Social Security so your monthly checks will be bigger? Can you increase your contributions to your 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored retirement plan, including taking advantage of catch-up contributions if you're age 50 or older? Should you consider adding products that can provide you with an income stream that can potentially last your lifetime?

- Calculate your expenses. How much money will you need each year during your retirement? The answer depends somewhat on your goals. For example, if you plan to travel extensively, you may need more income than someone who stays close to home. And no matter how you plan to spend your days in retirement, you'll need to budget for health care expenses. Many people underestimate what they'll need, but these costs can easily add up to several thousand dollars a year, even with Medicare.

- Review your investment mix. It's always a good idea to review your investment mix at least once a year to ensure it's still appropriate for your needs. But it's especially important to analyze your investments in the years immediately preceding your retirement. At this point, you may need to adjust the mix to lower the risk level. However, you probably won't want to sell all your growth-oriented investments and replace them with more conservative ones – even during retirement, you'll likely need some growth potential in your portfolio to help you stay ahead of inflation.

- Create a sustainable withdrawal rate. Once you're retired, you will likely need to start taking money from your IRA and 401(k) or similar plan. But it's important not to take too much out in your early years as a retiree, since you don't want to risk outliving your income. A financial professional can help you create a sustainable withdrawal rate based on your age, level of assets, family situation and other factors. By planning ahead, and making the right moves, you can boost your confidence in your ability to maintain enough income to last throughout your retirement. And with a sense of financial security, you'll be freer to enjoy an active lifestyle during your years as a retiree.

Before investing in bonds, you should understand the risks involved, including credit risk and market risk. Bond investments are also subject to interest rate risk such that when interest rates rise, the prices of bonds can decrease, and the investor can lose principal value if the investment is sold prior to maturity.

Gilford Rotary pancake breakfast to benefit Walsh Scholarship Fund

The best part of waking up on Gilford Old Home Day? The Gilford Rotary Club hosting their 36th Annual Pancake Breakfast Saturday morning, Aug. 28 from seven till ten at the Gilford Youth Center on Potter Hill Road. Cost is seven dollars for adults and three dollars for kids. Gilford Rotary's secret recipe, all you care to eat pancakes will be served with hearty sausage, orange juice, and piping hot coffee. Blueberries freshly picked at Stone Brook Hill Farm. All proceeds benefit the Cheryl Walsh Scholarship Fund.

The scholarship was started by Gilford Rotary in 1988, and Gilford Rotary initially funded the Scholarship with seed money. The earnings of the early investments plus contributions by members of the Foundation Board and Selection Committee, as well as Gilford Rotary, family members, and friends have resulted in $500 to $3,000 grants to the to 50 graduating seniors over the years.

A silver commemorative bowl, a citation, and the financial grant are given to recipients at Gilford High School's Senior Awards Night in June. Since the beginning, a selection committee of board members, friends and past recipients has conducted interviews to select the recipients. The Scholarship has traditionally attracted applications from the brightest and most talented leaders and scholar/athletes of the senior class.

The long-standing Annual Old Home Day Rotary Pancake Breakfast is currently the major fund-raiser for the scholarship. The ongoing goal is to raise and conserve a substantial enough principal to give a meaningful and truly helpful grant to each year's recipient(s). Also, tax-deductible contributions may be sent to Treasurer, Cheryl Lynn Walsh Memorial Scholarship Foundation, c/o Gilford Rotary Club, Post Office Box 7091, Gilford, New Hampshire 03247-7091. Contributors, who cumulatively donate $1000.00 or more to the Scholarship, are named to a Foundation Fellowship to recognize their intent to help sustain the Scholarship's goals.

The original fund goal of $100,000 was reached in the past year. It is hoped that increasing the fund past the original goal will allow for bigger scholarships and additional recipients

The 2019-2020 Miss Winnepesaukee Ashley Marsh was crowned Miss New Hampshire and will compete for Miss America 2022 in December. Marsh is from Laconia and said it was especially an honor to win the hometown title. “I’m just so honored and grateful I get to represent my state at nationals,” Marsh said to

She also thanked those with her these past two years and gave advice to the next titleholder. “Take this year and run with it,” she said. “Take every opportunity and chance and put your heart and soul into it.” The 2019 Miss Winnepesaukee’s Outstanding Teen was Rilley O’Neil, who also made the top 10 of Miss New Hampshire’s Outstanding Teen. I had this title for two years,” O’Neil said in an interview with Kelly. “I got another family. We’ve been together for so long.” In her farewell speech she thanked all those who helped her over the past two years and gave her well wishes for the next titleholder. “I’m so excited to watch you grow un your year of service,” O’Neil said.

sibility of an indefinite payoff period made the project unfeasible. Dean said now that the town is getting American Rescue Plan money to use toward projects such as broadband expansion, he asked the town if it would be willing to invest those funds into this project. “It’s a great opportunity since the funding is available to bring these homes up to snuff so safety and communication can be easily accessed and more people can remain safe out there,” Dean said. He said they looked at several other options, such as cable and satellite options, and determined they wouldn’t meet the island’s needs as well as the proposal from Consolidated Communications. “Improving the internet service is a communication value, it’s not about trying to make an island a luxury resort, a Fiji; it’s communications its safety,” Dean said. “It’s the ability to make my medical appointments and handle appointments online, pay my tax bills.” Town Administrator Scott Dunn said the town will get less than $800,000 in ARPA over two years. He said he proposed that the town pay for half of this project and asked if it would be possible for the island residents to take care of the other half. Dean said that would put the island in a much better position to get this project underway. Selectman Kevin Hayes also asked if they would be willing to get some prices from other services for comparison. Dean said he could do that, though said the Consolidated Communications proposal was likely the most feasible after previous investigation. Dean said the association will come up with these answers in time for the next selectmen’s meeting on Sept. 8. During discussion on the use of the ARPA funds, Dunn said he would rather consider this project for next year’s round of funds and use this year’s money toward other infrastructure projects. The selectmen voted unanimously in favor of putting this year’s finds toward sewer system software, a consultant on the sewer system for a future ordinance change, and water testing to address a PFAS issue.

PETS OF THE WEEK

Gannon
Meet Gannon! This big doofus loves to play, go for walks and eat treats. He's an inexperienced fella who needs an experienced owner to help him learn his manners! Gannon isn't a big fan of other dogs or cats, so he's seeking to be the only pet in his new home. Because Gannon is inexperienced with petting and handling, and he's still learning to share his things, he will do best in a home without children. Gannon is currently being treated for a skin condition that may or may not resolve with his current treatment plan. His adopters should speak to their veterinarian, and be prepared for the possibility that Gannon will need to take medication or be on a prescription diet for the rest of his life. If you are looking for a mature dog who needs help learning what love is really all about, then ask us about Gannon!

Zephyr
My face says it all! I am a man of mystery and adorableness, and yes that is a word. The world is a big, loud place my friend and I am not sure I am a fan of those words. Small and quiet win me any day. I think that my future home understands that. Perfect cats like myself need to have the most perfect home. I want a hideaway that consists of a warm bed and the time that I need to come out of my shell. I want attention, I just don't know how to ask for it. I may hiss at first, but don't let that fool you I like the pets! In the spirit of honesty, I do have a medical history that should not impli-CAT me at all, if you are interested in learning more fill out an application or inquire with the lovely adoptions team, they know exactly what I am looking for!
