NAC CROP Walk raises $5,000 for the fight against hunger

BY DONNA RHODES
drhodes@salmonpress.news

NEW HAMPTON — Members of the Newfound Area Churches held a CROP Hunger Walk last Sunday afternoon at the New Hampton Fitness Trail, where donations for much needed food supplies were collected and participants then took a healthy walk along the scenic trail system.

Before heading out through the woods, they were led in prayer by Rev. Andrew MacLeod of the United Church of Christ in Bristol, who thanked those who came out in support of others in need.

Taking part in the walk were people from the congregations of New Hampton Community Church, Bristol UCC, Alexandria United Methodist, Bristol Baptist Church, St. Timothy's Parish, the Union Congregational Church in Hebron and representatives of the Bristol Community Services, a benefactor of the walk.

"It's amazing the amount the churches collect each year. Small churches do so much," said Sue Colby, the director for Bristol Community Services.

She said that each year her organization receives 25-percent of the donations collected by the Crop Hunger walk to help local

Bristol selectmen look to solve parking problems

BY THOMAS P. CALDWELL
Contributing Writer

BRISTOL — Selectmen plan to establish a committee to address the parking challenges downtown, especially around Central Square, where the creation of additional housing units is increasing the demand for convenient spaces for vehicles.

New apartments in the Rollins Block will be opening soon, and other buildings that are being rehabilitated also will include dwelling units. The demand for tenant parking has been difficult to meet in the past, and the additional apartments will exacerbate the issue, selectmen said.

"It's no problem this time of the year," said Chair Rick Alpers, "but during those three months in the winter, it is."

He said that, whatever system is put in place, it likely will not please everyone.

Town Administrator Nik Coates said the parking committee would be looking at how other towns handle tenant parking, as well as scouting for additional parcels that might be purchased to accommodate the need. The committee would be established in June with a strict charge on the scope of work, and would bring recommendations back to the selectmen by Labor Day.

This past winter, after revising its snow removal policy to stipulate where vehicles may be left overnight and when they must be moved to allow the plows to get through in the morning, the town has received complaints from several tenants who were unhappy at how far away they had to park, or about receiving tick-

Minot-Sleeper Library hosts fashion-themed evening

BY DONNA RHODES
drhodes@salmonpress.news

BRISTOL — On May 4, the Friends of Minot-Sleeper Library provided the ladies of the Newfound Region with a special night out where they learned about current fashion trends and ways in which they could build a wardrobe to suit everything from the office to a night on the town.

"This night was a gift from the Friends of the Library to the women of the community. We used to have brown bag luncheons and Christmas luncheons and thought this was something new and special to do for them," said Judy Willson.

The meeting room at the library was filled with tables graced by white tablecloths and centerpieces, adding a special touch to the event, and refreshments were also served to the more than 50 participants.

"We're delighted to have so many here. We even had a waiting list for this evening," Willson said.

Celebrating MOM

Great Mother's Day gifts

Mother's Day is the one day each year when men, women and children across the country gather to honor the mothers in their lives. Though giving mom a gift on Mother's Day is not obligatory, it is a great way to show her just how much you appreciate her and her efforts.

No two mothers are the same, so shoppers looking for a great Mother's Day gift should consider the mothers in their lives and their interests to find a gift that's sure to be a hit.

The Theater Enthusiast

Mothers who love live theater would no doubt swoon over tickets to a favorite play. Men and women with unlimited budgets may want to splurge and give their mothers tickets to a Broadway show. But those who live nowhere near the Great White Way or those working with more limited budgets can still send mom to a show. Local theaters often host traveling productions of popular Broadway shows, and such productions typically cost considerably less than tickets to Broadway shows.

The Outdoorswoman

Moms who love the great outdoors might appreciate some new hiking boots or a new tent they can appreciate on their next camping trip. Additional camping gear also may make a great gift. Active mothers who love spending their time exercising with their children may appreciate a new bike they can ride alongside their youngsters. And, of course, mothers would likely appreciate spending a day enjoying the great outdoors with their children and grandchildren, making a simple trip to a nearby state park a great Mother's Day gift.

The Grandmother

Mother's Day honors mothers of all ages, and it's important that families not overlook grandma on Mother's Day. Grandma may appreciate nothing more than an afternoon spent with her grandchildren, so be sure to invite grandma over for Mother's Day dinner. In addition, parents can encourage their kids to make homemade gifts for grandma to make the day even more memorable.

The Foodie

Many people have a passion for great food, and mothers who simply can't wait to try a trendy new restaurant may appreciate a reservation at such an establishment. While mothers typically enjoy a night off from cooking on Mother's Day, a cookbook featuring recipes from mom's favorite cuisine may make a great gift for mothers who love to cook. Just make sure she doesn't crack the book open and fire up the oven until Mother's Day has come and gone.

Chances are, over the years Mom's gifts have run the gamut, from a homemade treasure kids made in elementary school to jewelry from hubby to breakfast in bed. For those who want to add a literary tilt to their Mother's Day gift this year, consider including any of the following motherly quotes when preparing a gift Mom won't soon forget.

Youth fades; love droops; the leaves of friendship fall; A mother's secret hope outlives them all.

- Oliver Wendell Holmes, American author

"Of all the rights of women, the greatest is to be a mother."

- Lin Yutang, Chinese writer

"The future destiny of a child is always the work of the mother."

- Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of France

"The heart of a mother is a deep abyss at the bottom of which you will always find forgiveness."

- Honoré de Balzac, French playwright

"All women become like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. That's his."

Keeping safe from needles, sharps and syringes

BY DEBRA NARO
Contributor

Have you ever been out for a walk or playing with the kids at the playground or park and come across something that stops you in your tracks? That is exactly what is happening across the country. With the disappearance of snow, needles, sharps, and syringes are appearing on the sides of roads, in parks, and other places; these items are even showing up stashed in toilet paper in bathroom stalls. This is a health and safety issue, putting the public at risk for fentanyl overdose and/or Hepatitis C, and we urge you to be vigilant and stay safe by not touching any items you may find. Please protect your kids by talking with them about the dangers of these items and how important it is that they not touch them, but call an adult for help. If you do find any, please do not touch them, but contact your local police department.

For more information about ways to protect kids from substance misuse, visit the CADY Web site at www.cadyinc.org.

Strategies for Living

BY LARRY SCOTT

Religion is not necessarily one of today's hot topics, but bring up the subject and suddenly you are faced with a host of voices calling for your attention. Transcendental meditation, Zen Buddhism, Islam, Scientology, Judaism, and yes, evangelical Christianity - all claim to offer the way to enlightenment, fulfillment, inner peace, and, in one form or another, life after death. Interestingly each faith is represented by sincere, intelligent and disciplined adherents who deserve our respect. Their claim that their faith has given them peace, purpose and satisfaction in life must be taken seriously. Confusing? Absolutely! To many people, then, the options are so disorienting they ignore them all and get on with their lives.

But to some of us the issues are too important to ignore. We can put off the inevitable if we wish but sooner or later we must face up to the fact of life: we are all going to die and our existence (or non-existence) will no longer be up for discussion. Reality will have set in. Even though some faith's postulate an opportunity for change and renewal after death, it is the Christian view that it will be too late to change; the die will have been cast.

To this confusing field of thought, Christianity does have an answer: His name is Jesus. It may seem too simplistic but the foundational premise of our faith rests on Jesus and our belief in the reality of His resurrection. We believe in Him because we also believe He arose from the dead. That's it! His resurrection to us demonstrates the validity of His message and justifies the New Testament claim that He was, indeed, God in human flesh.

In short, Christianity stands or falls over the issue of His resurrection. Read His words as recorded in the first four books of the New Testament and you soon must conclude that He was either a fraud, a lunatic, or who He said He was. There are no other options. If He was, indeed, a deluded Jewish Rabbi as some do claim, then our choices are unlimited - SEE STRATEGIES, PAGE A11

PET of the Week Marlow

A very special dog, is Marlow, currently in an offsite foster home but so ready for her next step, a permanent forever home.

She came to us in August 2016 at the request of a sister shelter in New Hampshire. Marlow's story is heartbreaking; she was attacked in her own home by unknown human assailants. Immediate medical care was provided by another shelter, but they also asked if we would take her, for geographical reasons. Of course, we said "yes". Marlow has simply blossomed under the gentle, constant care of her New Hampshire Humane Society approved foster home (& BTW: what a great way to get involved with our organization!)

Marlow, aged perhaps 4 years young, is vigorous and energetic, completely recovered in mind, body and spirit, and now looks for a family to love her always. Best home:- teens and up, possibly another dog with formal introductions, cats... not so much! To arrange a meeting with Marlow, please contact us directly at the shelter, 524-3252 and ask to speak with an adoption counsellor.

Letters to the Editor

Simard is wrong again

To the Editor:

Mr. Paul Simard, in a letter to the editor last week, made yet another wrongful assertion regarding spending by town officials. He wrongfully accused Bristol selectmen of illegal spending regarding the purchase of a small utility vehicle, and the same for a retaining wall project completed last year by the highway department. Mr. Simard is often wrong, but never unsure.

Firstly, the retaining wall work was done in conjunction with a similar project being completed by an adjoining landowner and not for the adjoining landowner, as Mr. Simard alleges. Mark Bucklin, the Highway Supervisor, made an agreement with the contractor doing the work which saved the town money. The work was paid for out of the highway department budget which was perfectly within the town's spending authority. Mr. Simard has been told the truth regarding this issue, but he doesn't appear to care about the truth if it doesn't fit his agenda.

Lastly, regarding the highway department utility vehicle, which Paul cites as another example of unauthorized spending, it was purchased from the Highway Department Capital Reserve Fund which was voted into existence by the voters of the town. Those same voters named the selectmen as agents to expend from that fund. The UTV was therefore purchased legally.

I would have more patience with these false assertions had they come from someone without over a decade of municipal budget committee experience. I would have thought Mr. Simard would have learned something from all those years of developing and proposing the town budget to voters. Alas, I guess not.

Public Service Recognition Week

To the Editor:

Public Service Recognition Week is May 7-13. Having worked hard in public service for 34 years before I retired, doing my best to help control floods, keep navigation channels safe for shipping and boating, and preventing the loss of important natural areas, among other service, I greatly appreciate today's public servants and the burdens they bear.

Federal employees are often used as a convenient target by politicians looking for scapegoats who can't push back. We often hear about the "bloated, overpaid bureaucracy" in Washington, D.C.

But do you know that 85 percent of federal employees work outside the metropolitan area of D.C., in all areas of the country? Do you know that there are fewer federal employees now than in 1967, despite political claims that would have us believe the federal workforce is ever growing? In that time, the U.S. population served by federal employees has grown 60 percent, and the private-sector workforce has increased by 135 percent.

Do you know that, based on the most impartial, reliable reports commissioned by Congress itself, federal employees (and I'm sure the numbers are similar for other public servants) are paid some 34 percent less than their counterparts in the private sector?

Do you realize that the "faceless bureaucrats" (as some are fond of calling federal employees) include Air Traffic Controllers, FBI agents, National Park Service rangers, Food and Drug Administration scientists, disaster relief personnel, the people who process your Social Security payments (and the people who deliver them) - just to mention a few essential services they provide that we depend so heavily on?

Across the country and in communities like ours, federal - and state and local - government employees serve and protect us every day. Throughout the year, but especially during Public Service Recognition Week, we should gratefully acknowledge their service.

Public employees work side by side with our military at home and abroad to defend our country and provide care to our veterans. They protect our communities from violence, teach our children, deliver our mail and safeguard the safety of our food and medicines. They ensure these essential functions are financed, that Social Security checks arrive on time, and that our borders and airports are secure. When disasters occur, they come to our rescue and help us recover.

And by the way, they don't create these or any other programs on their own; they do what Congress has authorized, and they do it well.

During Public Service Recognition Week, please join me in thanking and recognizing the important work of the public employees in our community.

A walk, in place of a run, offers many a reason to stop

NORTH COUNTRY NOTEBOOK

By JOHN HARRIGAN

On Monday morning—two days ago, on May 12—residents of far northern Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont awoke to a blanket of new snow, on the ground and atop picnic tables prematurely dragged out of winter storage by overly optimistic inhabitants of the frozen tundra.

Local historians said the last time it snowed this late was a century before, in the spring of Ought 8. “No, it was the spring of Aught 8,” remonstrated Fenton Hardwick, of East B Hill, Maine. “You media people and the forecasters are always getting it wrong. It’s supposed to mean Zero, so it’s Aught 8, as in ‘08.”

In that year, Mr. Hardwick recalled, the curled-up little feet of roosting chickens froze to their perches, and hapless hens could be released only by careful use of a hair dryer, courtesy of the R.E.A., rural electrification, which came to the countryside 30 years later. “Yep, that was the spring of ‘38,” Mr. Hardwick recalled. Other farm families reported that hogs’ nostrils froze shut, and could be pried open only by careful use of those tiny little crowbars that were on sale for just the week before at Ocean State Job Lots.

(Okay, so I’m kidding in the previous two paragraphs, but the first one is true. It indeed snowed during the early hours of Monday, May 12—not a record for northern New England, by any means, but still a shocker to denizens who had already tuned up their lawnmowers.)

JOHN HARRIGAN

On Monday morning, the front-lawn signpost, which features the outline of a mountain lion for a very good reason, sported a coating of new snow.

The medical experts who dream up heart attack rehab programs want you to walk a lot, which is fine by me because I’ve always liked walking, although in truth I have long preferred running. But these days I have to be satisfied with only memories of long-distance running, not because of my heart but because a couple of years ago I invested in two new knees. “Read our lips,” my surgeon and his PA assistant said after I was slid off the operating table, new knees in place, their eyes boring into mine. “Do not run!” If I’d known that, I’d have scrounged up more money and purchased the Extra Deluxe Runners’ Knees, item 7-A right there in the catalog, but I’d have had to mortgage the farm.

JOHN HARRIGAN

Millie, the North Country’s most spoiled dog, didn’t look very happy about South Hill’s new coating of snow on the morning of Monday, May 8.

Anyway, my problem with walking is that I’m always stopping to look at stuff, which makes me late for supper. And in truth, I had just barely begun my walk last Sunday afternoon when I came upon a burl in the bottom of a black cherry tree, which gave me pause. Some tree burls can fetch some pretty good money. People make them into fancy salad bowls and the like that sell for gazillions. Maybe, if I cut down the cherry tree and the burl proves to be solid, not rotted hollow, I can get enough money to take the trans-Australia train from Sidney to Perth.

A very long time ago, while on vacation in a neat little cottage across the road from Rye Beach, our walks took us past a whole bunch (Stand? Copse? Thicket?) of what I quickly called elephant grass, because on the spur of the moment it reminded me of the kind of grass that surely would grow where tall creatures were stomping around.

We brought some home, and took a small bunch up to my folks’ house on South Hill, which my Mom eventually threw into a little swamp just up the road.

It thrives there today, and in fact has grown into a tall and broad wall of grass reminiscent of that original stand we’d encountered at Rye Beach. But alas, no elephants.

On a walk across the field not far from the elephant grass, we spotted a tangled mess near the top of a spruce tree, and my companion said “What’s that?”

“A hoorah’s nest,” I

BRISTOL — Ronald M. Bucklin, 74, a long-time resident of Bristol, died Sunday, May 7, 2017 at his home after a long illness.

Ronald was born in Franklin on April 2, 1943, the son of Earl Bucklin and Marion (Corliss) Simpson. Give Mom a Gift to Help Her Financial Future

With Mother's Day around the corner, you might wonder if you should go beyond chocolates and flowers this year and give Mom something that can help her far into the future. What sort of financial gift can improve her life? You could, for instance, encourage your mother to fund her IRA. As long as she has any earned income, she is eligible to invest in a traditional or Roth IRA (although a Roth IRA does have income limits which, if exceeded, will reduce and eventually eliminate contributions). In 2017, the IRA contribution limit is $5,500, or $6,500 for individuals 50 or older.

Traditional IRA contributions may be deductible, depending on one's income, and earnings can grow tax deferred. Taxes are due upon withdrawal and withdrawals prior to age 59½ may be subject to a 10% IRS penalty. Roth IRA contributions are not deductible, but earnings are distributed tax-free, provided an investor has had the account at least five years and doesn't start taking withdrawals until age 59½. You can't contribute directly to your mother's IRA, but you can give her money to use for that purpose, if she chooses. And since she has until April 17, 2018, to fully fund her IRA for the 2017 tax year, your gift now may help make it that much easier for Mom to "max out" on her account.

Here's another suggestion: Consider helping Mom pay one or two months' worth of insurance premiums. It's possible that your mother is paying for multiple insurance policies, like life insurance and disability or long-term care insurance, so any financial help on your part would be valuable. You might also want to give Mom some tips on how she can help maintain her financial independence throughout her life. If she ever needed some type of long-term care, such as an extended stay in a nursing home or the services of a home health aide, the costs could be extremely high, and Medicare typically pays little of these expenses. So you might want to connect her mother with a financial professional, who can provide strategies for protecting her from long-term care costs. Here's one more suggestion: Give a gift to a charitable organization your mother supports. Even though you're making the gift in Mom's name, you should be able to reap some benefits yourself, even apart from the good feelings you'll get by helping a charitable group. As long as the charity has 501(c)(3) status (named after the section of the Internal Revenue Code that governs such groups), your gift can offer you tax advantages. On the most basic level, a gift of cash can earn you a tax deduction.

So, for example, if you are in the 25% tax bracket, and you give $1,000 to a qualified charity, you will be able to deduct $250 from your taxes. You may be able to get even more tax benefits if you donate appreciated assets, such as stocks, to a charity. If you give appreciated stocks you've held for more than one year, you can deduct the value of the securities, based on their worth when you make the gift – and neither you nor the charity will have to pay capital gains taxes on the donated investments.

Your mother has done a lot for you. This Mother's Day, show her you appreciate her efforts.

The Selectmen reviewed quotes received for the old Town Hall furnace replacement; they are waiting for additional quotes before making a decision.

The Selectmen requested an update on the status of removal of the mobile home on Bristol Hill Road; the property owners have been in contact with the Selectmen's Office and are still looking for a contractor to remove the mobile home.

The Selectmen will be reviewing the town-owned properties that were taken via tax deed to determine which properties, if any, to sell this year; decision will be made at their next meeting.

There was discussion regarding two properties in town that list ownership as "unkown"; the Selectmen would like ownership of the properties researched.

South Danbury Church

The regular Sunday worship service at the South Danbury Church will be at 11 a.m. on Sunday, May 14 – and there may be a surprise guest. Conversation and refreshments will follow. All are welcome and encouraged to attend.

The grand finale of the South Danbury Church Spring 2017 Speaker Series will be Friday, May 12, at 7 p.m., when Carl Hultberg will be at the phonograph, presenting the History of Jazz on Vintage Records. (Carl's program was postponed twice because of snowstorms in March.) Admission and refreshments are free, and donations to the Church Preservation Fund are welcomed. The 2017

Speaker Series will resume in the fall, when the church preservation project is completed.

Farm History Program

Blazing Star Grange will host their Danbury Farm History program at the Blazing Star Grange Hall on Thursday, May 18 at 7 p.m. Area residents with Danbury roots are urged to bring pictures and memorabilia you might have from or on Danbury Farms. You are also invited to be a part of the program because you might be the link through your ancestral stories to paint a picture of Danbury farms and those that lived on them.

The grange, organized in 1875 as a way to unite the agricultural community, met every 1st and 3rd Thursday since its inception right up to present day. Train car loads of corn, flour and grains were purchased by the grange for their members. Early coops prices along with old town reports, farmer's almanacs and an 1892 Danbury map will be topics of discussion. The program held last year on the town center resulted in much historical information being saved for future generations. If you have Danbury pictures that you feel should be archived or saved, please contact Lisa at 252-4440 to make arrangements for having them scanned. The refreshment time following the presentation continues to bring forth neat stories and more reminiscing. The program is free. All are welcomed to attend.

Garden time

Farm history & old wives tales seem to go hand in hand. I rely on many ancestral sayings when it comes to planting time. Recently unpacking a 50 pound bag of Green Mt seed potatoes, bought directly from a Maine farmer, I pulled out the seed planting information and found a new old timer planting hint to add to my list. Potatoes should be planted when the dandelions are blossoming. Scientifically, when the ground is warm enough for them to have grown long enough to blossom, the soil temp is ideal for potatoes to begin to grow. Before that they intend to rot.

And for those that dislike dealing with potato bugs, planting them later will deter them little buggers. The bugs will come and go before the potatoes are there to be their host My great uncle Harry would not have liked that idea as according to him, you should have fresh peas, new potatoes and salmon by July 4. He used to shake his head when my dad wouldn't get around to planting our garden until that time. But also, Harry grew up working the fertile river bottom land of Henniker where early frosts were common. On our hillside, frosts came later and my mom and dad dragged carpets out to cover the garden. Uncle Harry felt that could be avoided with timely planting.

As a side note, I remember my grandmother and him talking about when they were children, the seven siblings were paid a penny for every potato bug they picked. As potato planting season begins, I wonder how many potato bugs might be on those plants...and how much would it cost me today?

Refreshments and conversation will be enjoyed after Ms. Brown's illustrated lecture.

Over the years the annual Newfound Area Churches CROP Hunger Walk has taken place at a variety of locations but for the past two years they have found a home for their event at the New Hampton Fitness Trail. With an option of walking 1-2 miles along the scenic trail system, people are able to do what is comfortable for them.

"And remember, it's not a race," Rev. Macleod reminded everyone as they started off along the trails.

Instead, it is a time for participants to simply enjoy the day and reflect on those who do without.

Richard Pollard of Bristol was among the more than 30 walkers last weekend and said it is something he does every year.

"It's just a nice thing to do for the community," he said.

Mary Kay Haines of Bristol UCC serves as the treasurer for the local CROP Hunger Walk and was pleased to welcome participants who dropped off both their individual and church-wide donations. With more promised donations yet to be collected, Haines said the 2017 walk looked to raise more than $5,000 toward the fight against hunger both at home and around the world.

"I love the fact that so much of the money we raise stays in our local community. This is one of my favorite events each year," Haines said.

sources of businesses from Waterville Valley, the Pemi and Baker River Valley Regions, Plymouth, Newfound Lake and Squam Lake Region to help visitors easily locate the vast number of services and opportunities available throughout central New Hampshire.

As a result of the newest plans to boost the Chamber's goals, Executive Director Frank Cocchiarella said he is excited about the upcoming 2017 summer season.

"The board, members and committees have worked really hard to re-energize the Chamber this year," Cocchiarella said.

Each month, the Chamber holds a Business After Hours event to help introduce new business owners and even the interested public to all that CNHCC has to offer. The events, held at varying local businesses, allow people to converse casually with current members and discover ways in which membership can benefit them in their own economic or recreational endeavors.

There are also special events being held this summer, including the Chamber's annual golf tournament. Scheduled for May 24 at the Owl's Nest Resort and Golf Club in Thornton, golf enthusiasts are invited to spend a day with CNHCC on the links. Proceeds from the tournament will help support the Chamber and its Welcome Center on Vintinner Road off Exit 28 in Campton, which Cocchiarella said will be open full-time this summer.

An internship program at the Chamber has also had a great impact on community outreach incentives. Through her communication skills, Ellyn Gibbs from the University of Minnesota has provided interviews and stories on local businesses and adventures people are sure to enjoy, and her additions to the Web site have helped boost the organization's mission to attract visitors. Other interns, like Morgan and Jarred, have also contributed their own expertise in the fields of marketing and sales.

"We're most proud of our interns this year. They've done a really great job for us," Cocchiarella said.

Central New Hampshire Chamber of Commerce currently has more than 175 members from 23 towns in five regions, but it always looks to welcome more who want to "Jump Aboard" their mission to promote tourism and economic growth.

"We currently have a membership drive on for 2017-18, when things will be even better here. We hope other local business owners will consider joining us," Cocchiarella said.

Registration is now underway for their golf tournament next week, with sponsorships also still available. To register online for the event, visit www.centralnh.org or contact the CNCC at 726-3804 for questions on registration or ways in which to become a sponsor.

ets for leaving their vehicles where it blocked the plows. Some were towed, while others were not, prompting additional complaints.

Town officials have been meeting with landlords to discuss various solutions, some of them potentially workable and others not, said Coates.

Selectmen on May 4 also approved the sale of tax-deeded property after the rightful heirs approached the town about purchasing the properties back. The sale price included back taxes and interest fees.

They also agreed to the purchase of a fire alarm system for the Old Town Hall on Summer Street. The recently renovated hall has been open under a temporary occupancy permit that will be expiring in June. The temporary order waived the requirement, but a working fire alarm is necessary for continued use of the town hall.

The $1,868 purchase and installation cost will come out of the town's building maintenance capital reserve fund.

Selectmen also approved a renewal of the town's contract with Health Trust, Inc., of Concord for dental, life, and short- and long-term disability insurance. The rates remained stable, with a decrease in the cost of short-term disability.

Selectmen appointed Christina Goodwin as town health officer. She has been serving as deputy health officer.

Meeting a week earlier to make final decisions on tax deeds, selectmen voted, 3-0, to confirm their earlier decision on the purchase of a new police cruiser, adding the stipulation that the funds would come from the police vehicle capital reserve fund. The original motion on April 20 failed to include a source for the payment.

During a discussion about cash flow on the 4th, Coates told the selectmen that he has asked the department heads to hold off on large purchases, including the police cruiser, until some of the property tax payments begin coming in. He said the mid-year tax bills will be going out the week of the 15th, but until the payments come in, cash is tight.

"It will be close, but I think we'll be okay," Coates said.

Selectman J.P. Morrison commended the town administrator for avoiding the borrowing of money in anticipation of taxes. "I don't like the idea of borrowing money to pay your bills," Morrison said.

Tax anticipation notes (TANs) require filing with the New Hampshire Bond Bank, with a $1,500 fee, for approval to borrow, and because the decision takes a while, towns usually go through the process, even if they end up not having to take out a short-term loan.

"It's a good idea to have it in place, in case it's needed," said Alpers, "but I agree we shouldn't borrow if we don't have to."

Selectmen heard a presentation on "asset management" for the water department, where the system has been mapped and the pipes and equipment assigned a value and life expectancy, allowing the department to plan ahead for maintenance and replacement over the next 100 years. Although projected costs are in 2017 dollars, it gives an idea of what it will take to maintain the system through the years.

Computer software would allow the department to update and fine-tune the projections, and Superintendent Jeff Chartier said grant funding might allow the town to purchase the necessary license.

"It's nice to know whether the line is on a state road, a town road, or a private road, and this includes that information," he said of the maps. "Many of our lines are on private roads. If it's a state road, we know we need to get permits from the state."

Coates said the software also would allow the town to plug in information from the highway department for better planning when road work is necessary.

son said.

Leading the program was Nancy Spears, owner of Imagine, the first ladies clothing store to grace Bristol's Central Square in 35 years. With the help of models Katie Spears, Nicki Janelle and Michelle Fistek, Spears presented some of the clothing, jewelry and accessory items found in her shop. She then demonstrated how a few wise purchases could be used to create a look for any occasion.

As one example, leggings were matched with colorful, flowing blouses over a simple, conservative top for a casual look. By switching to dressier palazzo pants and adding a scarf or some fun jewelry, it easily became a look appropriate for eveningwear as well.

"I like things that can do tricks, clothes you can wear more than one way," Spears said.

Spears also provided tips on color selections for women.

"What looked great with brown hair when you were younger may not look so great with gray hair. But the good news is you get to change your (fashion) colors as you age," she said.

She also advised women to always get the right size in any clothing they wear.

"Something too tight or too loose will make you look bigger than you are, so size is very important," said Spears.

resurrection, and to acknowledge Jesus as genuinely divine, has broad implications for each of us. If, in fact, we have no interest in Jesus, His life and His message, then there is no point in going any further - with Christianity, at least. Ignoring truth, however, has its own implications. You may choose to reject Him, and for the moment that may seem to resolve a host of problems, but sooner or later, you must decide - and where you come out on all of this will have a profound influence on how you live today - and how you spend eternity tomorrow.

These bunches of snarled branches that grow into a nest-like mass are in other places called "witches' nests," for reasons unknown. But my search for "hoorah," used as a noun, turned up a mythical bird that chases people in dire straits, wanting to do them further harm. "Don't let the hoorah get you," was an Old English

During the same walk, we were buzzed by a dragon fly, and I automatically said "devil's darning needle," which was the old-time term for this fast-flying class of insects, which will fly past your head at Warp Factor Five and then reappear to hover near your ear, like a hummingbird at a feeder.

These phenomena of Mother Nature are also instruments of justice, our elders warned us when we were kids, and will sew your mouth shut if you tell a lie.

Saying this kind of

Bears knock off Royals, fall to Cougars

BRISTOL — In the return from vacation week, the Newfound softball team split a pair of home games.

On Monday, May 1, the Bears rolled to a 15-6 win over Mascoma.

Kasey Basford had a good game in the pitcher's circle, coming on in relief and pitching five innings and striking out 11. She allowed just two earned runs.

The game was knotted at three after two innings before the Bear bats came alive. They plated three runs in the third and four runs each in the fourth and fifth innings to pull away for the win. The team went 17 for 31 at the plate.

Hayleigh LeTourneau led the offense with three hits, three RBIs and four runs, while Amanda Johnston also had three hits and three RBIs while also scoring a run and Basford had two hits, including a triple, drove in two and scored three runs. Victoria Roman had two hits, including a double and drove in a run while Kylee MacDonald had a double, an RBI and two runs scored.

Newfound turned around and hosted Kearsarge on Wednesday, May 3, and dropped a 6-5 decision to the Cougars.

Coach Corey Johnston noted that although the Bears outhit Kearsarge by a 14-7 margin they were unable to get the runs they needed to get the win.

The Bears scored two runs in the first inning and two more in the second to get out to a 4-0 lead. The Cougars responded with two runs off Johnston in the third inning and the score was 5-2 after four innings.

After Johnston walked the second batter of the fifth inning, Basford took over in the circle and a fielder's choice, a single and a three-run homer tied the game at five after five.

The two teams stayed tied heading to the seventh. SEE SOFTBALL PAGE B3

Rain sparks rally for Bobcat lacrosse girls

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

PLYMOUTH — Maybe, despite the fact that few, if any of the girls on the Plymouth girls' lacrosse team remembers the song, the Bobcats have a thing for the 1989 Milli Vanilli hit "Blame it on the Rain."

Down 6-0 in the first half in the sunshine on Tuesday, May 2, the Bobcats began their comeback once the rain came and carried on from there, knocking off St. Thomas by an 8-7 score.

"One of the girls said, we needed the rain because it woke us up," said coach Meg James. "They didn't get their heads down, even down 6-0. They were 'this is ours.'

"The composure that last half to seal it out at home, I am so proud of them," James added.

Koko Hines got the start in goal in place of Lauren Bolton, who had been sick, but was able to get in the net in the second half. Hines made an early save and the Saints had a couple of shots go wide of the net.

St. Thomas got on the board 1:45 into the game, getting in close to slip one past Hines for the 1-0 lead. After the Bobcat keeper made a save on a free shot, the visitors came back with a couple more goals, scoring one on a bounce shot with 22:08 to go in the half and then another on a nice move from behind the net less than a minute later.

Holly Mason had a free shot denied by the St. Thomas keeper and Hines came up with four saves in a flurry of activity in front of the Plymouth net. Avery Stone made a nice run out of the zone after snagging a loose ball and Bella Wingsted was able to get a free shot at the other end, but she was denied. Mariah Luscher and Lexi Lima teamed up for a bid in the zone but couldn't connect and Elsa Lauriat was denied on a free shot. Luscher had a shot go wide of the net and Mason was stopped on a scoring bid. Hines also came up with a couple of more saves to keep the game close.

The Saints were able to score twice in less than a minute to increase the lead to 5-0. They continued to pressure and with 3:24 to go in the first half, they added a sixth goal. Hines had another saves and then Mason had a good run out of the zone.

The Bobcats started their comeback with 2:14 to go in the half, as Mason raced down the field and fired the ball into the net for the first goal.

Then, with 1:07 to go in the half, Dewey Stark added another goal for a 6-2 score. Hines was able to make another save to close out the half.

Bolton took over in net in the second half and after an early save, surrendered a goal to the Saints to make it 7-2 just 1:50 into the second half.

Plymouth came back with a look from Lima that went wide and with 18:42 to go, Mason bounced a shot on a free shot to cut the lead to 7-3/.

Bolton made a pair of solid saves and then Stark came back with a chance for the Bobcats that was denied.

With 15:35 to go in the game, Mason netted her third goal of the game to cut the lead to 7-4. Bolton made another save and Caitlyn Irish had a pair of bids in the zone that were turned aside.

With 13:45 to go in the game, Lexi Brunt got a free shot and fired it into the net to cut the lead to 7-5. Bolton came back with a couple more saves to keep the Bobcats hanging around.

With 10:33 to go, Mason raced all the way down the field and scored her fourth goal of the game, cutting the lead to 7-6.

Plymouth continued to battle and with 7:50 to go in the game, Lauriat got a free shot and buried it, tying the game at seven.

Less than a minute later, Luscher found Lima, who moved through the defense and fired the ball into the net, giving Plymouth it's first lead of the game.

Bolton came back with a save and then Mason and Lauriat had chances in the zone that were stopped. Bolton had another save on a free shot and then the Bobcats were able to control the play in the final minutes, keeping the ball in the zone and holding on for the 8-7 win.

James said she wasn't really sure what to expect, given that the team had been on vacation and had just one practice to get back into the swing of things.

"They came back from vacation and had one practice," James said. "I wasn't sure what to expect.

"They earned that one," she continued. "And they know that every game can be there if you don't get down."

The Bobcats continued their strong play the next day by defeating Campbell by a 7-6 score.

Plymouth will be back in action on Monday, May 15, at Coe-Brown at 4 p.m. and will be at Pelham on Wednesday, May 17, at 4:30 p.m.

Jumping way out of the comfort zone

As most readers of this column probably know, I'm a creature of habit and I like to stay in my comfort zone. I wake up at the same time every day, I go to the gym at the same time, eat essentially the same lunch, etc.

However, last week, I decided to take a couple of big leaps out of my comfort zone and try a couple of things that definitely constitute a change in my routine and my life.

First up is a new diet and exercise program that I started, thanks to the recommendation of a friend. I've been going to the gym four to five times a week for the past four or five years and truthfully, haven't seen many results, though I had been maintaining weight and not gaining

SPORTING CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING

it. However, at my last doctor's appointment, the weight went up and I realized (or the doctor strongly suggested) it was time for a change.

So, I began a program that seriously altered the food that I eat and the exercise that I do. The food is a huge change, as it involves lots of cooking my own food, preparing and portioning food. While I am a capable cook, it's not something I've done much of for numerous reasons. The exercise was also a change, in that instead of the normal hour I'd been doing, it is a half-hour program every day, but the exercises are much more intense.

So far, a week in, I've noticed a few changes, but I don't know that I can characterize those as good changes. The first change is in my grocery bill, which has skyrocketed and has also been coupled with the fact that I now have to shop every week instead of every two or three weeks. The other change is in the increase in the amount of time I spend in my kitchen. Whether it's cooking, prepping or doing dishes, I think I've spent more time in my kitchen the last week than in the last two years. And the Sunday mornings that used to be dedicated to relaxing and watching a little television have now become cooking time. The other change is that my muscles are so sore that I can barely walk at times. It was not pretty at times last week.

However, the exercise instructor keeps saying "give me 21 days and I'll give you the body you want." So, I'll keep it up, though I'm not sure how she's going to get me Taylor Swift.

The other jump out of my comfort zone came on the last day of April when I took the stage and auditioned at the Village Players Theater.

I've been involved in many productions over the past six years or so but I've had just minor appearances on stage. I auditioned for Spamlot, but with the express purpose of getting the part with one word (which I did). This time was different.

I spent a lot of time listening to the opening song for 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee over the previous week and got the song down. I was prepared to do the singing without much issue, though it was the first time I'd really sung on stage. The dancing was a whole other story and was pretty scary, truthfully.

Anyway, I got an e-mail a few days later that I got the part of William Barfee for this summer's production, so it's bound to be a busy few months leading up to the July production.

Maybe by that point my legs won't be sore from the workouts anymore.

Finally, have a great day Erica Bickford Cray.

Macomber pitches Bobcats past Eagles

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

NORTH CONWAY — The Kennett and Plymouth baseball teams decided to beat the rain and bumped their game scheduled for May 5 up a day to May 4.

The two teams met under blue skies in North Conway and the Bobcats got some timely hitting and strong pitching and withstood a late Kennett rally for a 7-3 win.

"It started with Harrison (Macomber) today," said Plymouth coach Mike Boyle of his starting pitcher. "He's been consistent all year.

"In his three starts he's had control of his fastball and has been keeping people off balance," Boyle continued. "And if he's not striking people out, he's pitching to contact and we make the plays."

"We haven't hit the ball all season," said Kennett coach Josh McAllister. "We've been struggling with hitting.

"We're getting too deep into the count, too many two-strike counts," McAllister added. "It's tough to hit that way.

"I want them to hit the best pitch the see and sometimes, that's the first fastball," the Eagle coach added.

Plymouth got on the board in the top of the first inning against Kennett starter Jama Goff. After the Eagle hurler struck out the leadoff batter, a walk to Owen Brickley, a stolen base and a Garrett Demas double plated the game's first run. Goff got another strikeout and ground-er back to the hill to get out of the inning.

Macomber set the Eagles down in order in the bottom of the inning and the Bobcats added another run in the top of the second, though Goff limited the damage.

Patrick Malm led off with a double and Ben Olmstead beat out a bunt hit and stole second. A Dan Carey fly ball to center plated Malm and after a pop up to second for the second out, Mike Hogan singled and stole second, putting two runs in scoring position. However, Goff got a groundout to second to end the inning.

Aaron Lamar worked a one-out walk for the Eagles in the bottom of the second but Olmstead gunned him down trying to steal second and Macomber made it through the second cleanly.

Demas led off the top of the third with a walk but Goff got three pop ups to end the inning. Demas also made a nice catch of a pop up in the bottom of the third inning to keep the Eagles off the bases.

Plymouth got a little insurance in the top of the fourth inning. After Goff got a strikeout to start the inning, Carey was hit by a pitch and Devlin Costa had a base hit. One out later, a balk moved both runners up and a Brickley walk loaded the bases. Demas followed by ripping a double to drive in all three runners and increase the lead to 5-0 for the Bobcats.

Ethan Robitaille worked a leadoff walk in the bottom of the fourth inning and Devon Ouellette worked a walk two outs later, but Macomber left them stranded when he got a grounder to Brickley at third for the final out.

Robitaille took over on the hill in the top of the fifth inning and Plymouth added a run. With one out, Malm worked a walk and stole second. He went to third on an Olmstead base hit and then scored on a groundout to short by Carey for a 6-0 lead. Robitaille then got a strikeout to end the inning.

Kennett got its first two hits of the game in the bottom of the fifth, as Dom Jones and Riley Fletcher had back-to-back base hits with one out, but they were both stranded. Nick Qualey helped out Macomber with a nice scoop of a throw at first base.

Fletcher turned in his own good defense in the top of the sixth inning, going back into shallow right to snag a popup and the Bobcats were kept off the board in the frame.

With two outs in the bottom of the sixth, Ouellette worked a walk and Lamar doubles but Qualey made a great play tip-toeing along the out of play line to haul in a pop up off of first base to end the inning.

The Bobcats added a run in the top of the seventh inning. Dylan Donahue led off with a walk and stole second. Two outs later, an Olmstead base hit drove him in for a 7-0 lead but Jones gunned down Olmstead stealing second to end the inning.

Ryan Finkle took over on the hill in the bottom of the seventh inning and the Kennett bats got moving, started by Jones, who led off with a double. One out later, Zach Smith had a pinch hit to drive in the first run and then stole second. Robitaille reached on an error to plate another run and Kaleb Pepin followed with a double down the left field line to drive in Kennett's third run. However, Finkle settled down to get a pop up to second and grounder to short to end the game and clinch the third win of the week for the Bobcats.

"We've been streaky all year," Boyle said of his team's offense. "It's game to game and inning to inning.

"But they're being more aggressive at the plate," Boyle noted. "It's coming along.

"We've got to continue to get better with timely hitting," the Bobcat coach added.

He also praised his pitching rotation for getting the team through three games in four days and to the entire team for making adjustments.

"We're lucky to have enough guys in the rotation where a three-game week isn't too hard," Boyle said. "And the guys are resilient, they didn't skip a beat with the date change and showed up ready to play."

"We're starting to get better on defense, it's starting to come around," McAllister said. "If the ball is put in play I feel good about us making the play."

He also praised the bottom of his order for getting the hits to start the rally in the seventh as well as earlier in the game.

"Those seven to nine guys, they're all freshmen," McAllister said, referencing Jones, Fletcher, Ethan Ouellette and Smith, who pinch hit in the last inning. "Both times we had multiple runners on base, it was the bottom of the order."

McAllister also noted that the team is a young group and he wants to see improvement.

"It's frustrating to continue to lose, but I've got seven freshman and four sophomores," McAllister said. "Long term, it looks good."

The Bobcats also got a 9-4 win over Lebanon on Monday, May 1, and a 12-11 win over Sanborn on Wednesday, May 3.

The Eagles will be hosting Kingswood on Friday, May 12, will visit Plymouth for a rematch on Monday, May 15, and will host Oyster River on Wednesday, May 17, all at 4 p.m.

The Bobcats will be hosting Bow at 1 p.m. on Saturday, May 13, before hosting the Eagles for the rematch on Monday, May 15, at 4 p.m. and will be at Kingswood on Wednesday, May 17, at 4:30 p.m.

enth inning. The Bears were able to catch a runner off first on a fly ball that was misplayed, but an errant throw allowed the Cougars to score the go-ahead run.

In the bottom of the seventh, LeTourneau
