If you own a Ford and live in Webster, or any of the surrounding towns, then you know Place Motors. This family owned and run business has been in Webster for 95 years and continues to stand by their motto “The Right Place.”

As “Massachusetts Oldest Family Owned FORD Dealership” this business has been running since 1923, and there are more generations to come. Putting this amazing accomplishment into perspective, Place Motors has been in operation since the first home game was played at the original Yankee Stadium between the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. When Time Magazine was first published, Place Motors was established. In 1923 Warner Brothers Pictures, Incorporated was established, and so was Place Motors. It was an advancing year in 1923. Time Magazine, the Red Sox, Warner Bros. Pictures, and Place Motors made their mark and have stayed strong and productive for close to a century.

Place Motors has a rich history. They have moved locations, but always remained in Webster. George Place Jr., who was a World War II Army veteran, active member in the community, and president of Place Motors until he passed on the company to future generations, received the business from his parents. Four generations have operated Place Motors: George Sr., George Jr., Jimmy, and now Steve Place, great grandson to the founder. Steve Place is currently the owner, president, and CEO of Place Motors

Dudley approves $20.8 million budget

VET AGENT MAKES PUBLIC PLEA FOR HOURS INCREASE

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – Dudley voters wasted little time passing a budget during the spring annual town meeting on Monday, May 21 unanimously approving a $20.8 million spending plan for the new budget year starting July 1.

The budget is a 2.9 percent increase within the limits of Proposition 2 ½ and included $826,574 for Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School as well as $9.4 million for the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District including $1.5 million approved by an election vote for a budget override last month. Voters approved the budget unanimously with Town Administrator Greg Balukonis offering some details into the spending plan.

“We have a balanced budget. The override in its entirety is targeted for the Dudley Charlton Schools as was determined by the voters back on April 3. That money is included in the budget. The majority of the town’s increases are in items that we term fixed costs. Those would be debt service, pension costs, costs related to health insurance and utilities. The amount that’s available for municipal departments on average is a little bit under $300,000. I want to thank all the department heads who have been outstanding in bringing their budgets in with very modest increases. The small amounts that we have are distributed amongst all the departments,” Balukonis said. “As we’ve said not everyone gets everything that they want at this town meeting, however there will be an opportunity to vote a supplemental budget at the fall town meeting which will take place in October.”

Before the vote was taken one town employee did take the time to approach the podium and make his concerns heard. Veterans’ Services Officer Stephen Rogerson, who had previously sought more funding for his department to increase office hours, utilized the public forum as a chance to speak his peace before a large group of townsfolk for future investment in

Getting into the heart of the subject

KIMBERLY MASCHI
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

The peoples favorite is the photograph of the cat, others love the chicken, but photographer Rebecca Natale is most proud of her beautiful close up of orange flowers.

“My family has flowers in the garden. I go out into the garden to take some of my pictures,” says Natale.

Natale is 16 years old and lives in Douglas. She is a confident, polite, and engaging young woman with a passion for art. Natale’s main focus is nature. She takes pictures of animals and loves to hike with her family in the summer.

“I take my camera with me when we go on our hikes,” says Natale. For three years Natale has been a photographer and experimenting with digital art. Her attention to the details stands out in her work. The colors she seeks are balanced and bright. Each photo is captivating and tells a story.

Each one of Natale’s photographs has something different to show. The picture of her drum set is a black and white with an angle of whimsy and a desire to play. The gray background with red berries has such attention to detail that you feel like you can actually pluck the berries off the stems. Natale’s dandelion with water droplets is mesmerizing and astonishing. The tiny droplet of water shows the soft hues in the background while the dandelions play and get ready to take flight with the wind. The grey tabby cat photograph depicts the pureness of all feline fellows. The way a cat can lounge and relax without a care in the world. Natale captures the moment of pure lazy bliss that cats are attuned to, which may be why many find this photograph to be their favorite. Looking at Natale’s photographs transports you to a world full of whimsy and delight with just a bit of adventure.

Natale does not just pick up a camera, she also picks up drum sticks and a guitar. Natale is a multit talented young woman with an intelligent head on her shoulders and a need for growth through her interests. Natale loves to read books about fantasy and adventure, she also enjoys writing and venturing out into the wilderness to capture the perfect photograph and experience. Natale was nervous and excited to have her hard work seen by others.

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: How should I pay for my new car or truck?

The RIGHT answer: There are three ways to pay for your vehicle. They are to pay cash, finance the balance or lease the automobile. Each method has its pros and cons.

If you pay cash, you have the knowledge that you own your car outright. You could, in theory, cut back on insurance and you will not pay interest as you would with the other two methods. The downside of paying cash is that you are spending a large part of your liquid assets and potentially losing investment potential. The other thing is if your car gets totaled and you did cut back on your insurance you are out all that money.

If you finance, you will have a budgeted monthly payment and won't need to spend all your hard-earned cash. In fact, with today's low interest rate options, in some cases as low as 0%, it may make more sense to finance your car. You also have options with the financing that can help to protect the value of the car. Consider GAP protection to protect against a total loss. Ask us for more details on how this works. Of course, the downside of financing is that in most cases you will pay interest. Because today's cars are rather expensive many customers take on longer term notes increasing the interest expense and leaving them still owing money when they want to trade in for another. This leads us to leasing.

If you lease a car you usually get a lower monthly payment. You will also get GAP protection (at least with Ford Motor Credit Leases) at no charge and your term will be shorter allowing you to seamlessly get a new car in just a few years as your needs change. Downsides to leasing are the excess mileage or wear and tear concerns. Let us tailor a lease to your needs to help avoid these concerns.

At Place Motor we will discuss with you your situation and offer you your choices, so you can make the RIGHT choice for you. You'll experience why Place Motor is the RIGHT Place since 1923.

Municipal building roof replacement approved

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – The town of Dudley will go ahead with improvements to the roof of the Municipal Complex on West Main Street with residents deciding by unanimous vote to bond money for the project.
One of many financial items on the spring annual town meeting warrant on May 21, the repairs to the Municipal Center roof will also include the replacement of the Evapco closed circuit cooling system for the building with the total project cost being $450,000. The initiative did receive some concern from one taxpayer, John Briare, who questioned why the replacement required such a costly investment.
“That’s a lot of money,” Briare said. “That roof is 13 years old. What happened to 30-year warranties on roofs? Is there a warranty plan because this is crazy?”
Town Administrator Greg Balukonis offered insight into the situation saying that officials did examine the possibility of a warranty at first. However, the roof of the building was only warranted for 10 years, a timeframe that is well expired.
“As part of hiring a professional to put together a design for the roof we reserve the right to pursue a claim outside of the warranty period,” Balukonis said during the town meeting. “(Mr. Briare) is right, a roof should last a lot more than 13 years and the roof that we proposed we’d request that we have an extended warranty upwards of 30 years.”

Balukonis also shed some light on the plans for funding the project and said that investing in this infrastructure was vital due to the deteriorating condition of the roof and the concerns for safety and the health of the building as a whole. He also revealed that expert opinions labeled the roof as expired and a simple fix wouldn’t suffice if a full-on replacement were available.
“The cooling tower has a cost of just a touch over $100,000 and the remaining costs would be dedicated toward the cost of the roof. It’s an expensive project. The roof has failed. We had an inspection done. We have a report that was done by a professional. It indicates that the roof is at the end of its useful life and cannot be repaired. The town has undertaken efforts in that building over a period of several years to deal with water infiltration in the facility. By putting a new roof on it and protecting the building it will prevent water from infiltrating and causing mold and unthinkable problems in the building. Its something that we have to do,” Balukonis said. “At this time, we will pay for these costs within our Proposition 2 ½ limit. So, this is not a debt exclusion question. We will bond it and we will pay those costs over a period of years.”

With voters approving the article the town will now seek specifications for the project and put out a bid for contractors to perform the work. A timetable for when the replacement would take place was not discussed during the town meeting.

veteran’s services in Dudley.
“This month alone I’ve worked every single day and the office really is only supposed to be open one day, which is Thursday. The budget as it stands right now does not support veterans in the community. We have just under 700 veterans in the community not to mention the widows that exist and the families that are dependent on the support,” Rogerson said. “The veterans office needs to be supported.”
Balukonis responded to Rogerson saying that he doesn’t want the public to think town officials and selectmen do not support veterans. The Town Administrator said that several tough decisions had to be made to keep the budget balanced and that the meeting in October will offer an opportunity add anything new to the spending plan that the residents see fit.
“I think all of us support veteran’s services. The question is how do we pay for it? We have an opportunity tot take a second look at the budget in October. The top priority that I have, and the selectmen have is providing funding for the department of veteran services. I will work toward increasing the hours and the position. I think that’s very important,” Balukonis said. “You should also be aware that Dudley does fully fund its veterans benefits line item, so this is not a question about whether we fund veterans’ benefits. We estimate that the cost of veterans’ benefits is about $187,000 this year and that is a hundred percent fully funded. We do appreciate the work that Mr. Rogerson does, and we look forward to increasing his hours and having some conversations with him in the weeks ahead about he we can provide the additional hours in his office.”

All voters present, including Rogerson, voted in favor of the spending plan before the meeting moved on. The article was closed after Dudley-Charlton Regional School Committee Chair Pauline Aucoin took a moment to thank the residents of Dudley for their vote of support in April during the over-ride election for the education budget.

Appraisal Concerns

When we put our home up for sale, we tend to worry most about marketing the home properly to get a buyer and then making sure we get through the home inspection process without having to make any large repairs or having a sale fall apart due to the needed repairs scaring off the buyer. You can take care of the marketing piece by hiring an agent with a proven track record of selling homes in your area. You can also get a pre-inspection on your home with a licensed home inspector and make all the necessary repairs that came up as to not have surprises later on. You still have one hurdle that has become a bigger concern as of late with almost every home selling above list price with multiple offers. If you have your home in pristine condition and all these repairs were done, a buyer in our current market will be willing to pay a premium to get that perfect house. However, the bank appraiser needs to typically show homes that bracket your home as in one home is priced higher because it is superior and one is priced lower because it is inferior. You will want to ensure that you or your agent supply the appraiser with a list of all the big improvements you have made recently that will impact value, this way the appraiser can make adjustments to justify the higher market price. Not every improvement will be noted so your agent should be able to help highlight just the items that add value. You will also want to arm yourself with information about all the comparable homes in the neighborhood so you can share information about condition and setup of those homes which may not be readily available to the appraiser and what makes them inferior to your home so it makes the appraisers job easier coming up with the proper value for your home. Keep in mind you are not persuading the appraiser to come up with an inflated value for your home, but providing information that will help them come up with market value which may or may not be the price you are hoping for. This appraisal is just the appraisers professional opinion which can differ greatly from another appraisers professional opinion. You never want to discount the importance of the appraisal process. Certain types of financing will also require the condition of the home to meet certain standards. The standards in condition these appraisers are looking at but the interpretation can be different from one appraiser to the next. I have had appraisals take 10 minutes or an hour depending on the appraiser and type of loan the buyer is getting. The longer appraisal is due to that appraiser interpretation of how thorough their inspection of the property is. Some loans require there is no peeling paint as well as all other safety concerns are required to be addressed. Most loans require flooring in all rooms and the appraiser to give an opinion on age of roof and its expected lifespan. Some banks and loans require all utilities to be activated and working while others don't so this will be important to know before the appraiser visits the home. These are all items that are there to protect the banks investment in the home because if the buyer is putting down 3% of the purchase price then the bank is giving 97% and wants to protect their investment. If you have peeling paint, safety issues, or other condition issues it will help ensure you have no appraisal issues but it will also help sell the home quicker. I suggest having your Realtor come over and make these suggestions before you jump into the repairs to ensure you are making the repairs that will cause the appraised price to rise and raise no flags due to condition of the home.

Dudley taxpayers can now donate to veterans in need

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – Taxpayers in Dudley will now have the ability to control where at least a portion of their tax bills go with the town agreeing to adopt a state statute during the spring annual town meeting on May 21. Town Clerk Ora Finn took the podium to discuss the possibility of Dudley adopting Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 60, Section 3F, a state statute allowing taxpayers in the town to designate a portion of the property or motor vehicle taxes to assist veterans in need. This was one of two topics related to veterans discussed during the evening with Veterans’ Service Officer Stephen Rogerson making a plea earlier in the evening for Dudley to invest in his office to increase hours. Finn clarified while this fund won’t help with that endeavor, it will allow taxpayers to directly assist veterans by specifying an amount they would like to see utilized to give back to those who served in the armed forces. “This is voluntary. It would appear on your tax bill and you can write in your little amount, whatever you want to donate,” Finn told those present at the annual town meeting.

“All the donated funds will be deposited into a special account in the general treasury. It would be in the custody of the treasurer who will invest the funds at the direction of the office, board, commission, committee or any other agency of the town that would be authorized.” Finn said this money will be earmarked for specific purposes and wouldn’t be limited to just veterans. It would also help spouses and families of veterans should they find themselves in need of a little assistance and fall within specified criteria. “The money in the fund shall be used to provide support for veterans and their dependents in need of immediate assistance with food, transportation, heat and oil expenses. The town’s veterans’ services department shall establish an application process for veterans and their dependents to obtain assistance, establish standards for acceptable documentation of veteran’s status of dependent status, and establish financial eligibility criteria for determining need and amount of assistance for eligible applicants,” Finn said. The processing of those applications would go through Rogerson’s office in the town hall and it would be up to that office to determine whether an applicant qualifies for which program and for how much. No limit on how much a taxpayer can donate to the fund was given at the meeting. Like Rogerson earlier in the night, Finn said she feels no one in Dudley would pass up the opportunity to help veterans wherever possible. “I’m sure everyone would agree with me that this is a good idea,” Finn said. “The opportunity will be there for you to help our local veterans here in Dudley.” Voters chose to adopt the state statute unanimously with no debate.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for. To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

MWCC students recognized for hours of volunteer service

GARDNER – On Tuesday evening, 261 students were recognized for giving back more than 125,000 hours of volunteerism efforts that Mount Wachusett Community College estimates are equivalent to a $2.5-$3 million value.

“When you think about the collective impact, it’s more than just a number. Imagine if all of this just stopped tomorrow,” said Shelley Errington-Nicholson, director of the Senator Stephen M. Brewer Center for Civic Learning and Community Engagement, reflecting on the event.

“This community would look very different if our students and their clubs weren’t committed to volunteering year after year, if our faculty weren’t committed to offering service learning as part of the academic experience. This is a lasting impact because, by and large, our students grow up in these cities and towns and they’re going to stay here,” she said.

“I’m in awe of you because I know you were too busy to volunteer,” President James Vander Hooven told students on May 15. “You had to go to work, or take care of your family, or study for an exam, and yet you figured out a way to carve out some time to help others.”

“Changing the world - even for one person or for one day - is very important and very special,” said Senator Stephen Brewer. “It all starts with you.”

Terri Alden of Orange was awarded the Hillary Bartlett Newsome Service Learning Scholarship in memory of Hillary Bartlett’s spirit of giving back to the community. Bartlett was a 2009 graduate of the Mount’s Early Childhood Transfer program who passed away unexpectedly in 2017.

Professor Emerita Maryann Kane of the Early Childhood Education department received the Faculty Civic Engagement Award.

“Maryann, thank you is not sufficient for your years of dedicated to service inspiring generations of new teachers,” said Errington-Nicholson.

Sybil Sinclair of Ashburnham was awarded the Service Learning Scholarship. The Above and Beyond Award was presented to the Student Nurses Association, which conducted a year-long awareness campaign to train students and community members in hands only CPR in addition to collecting 232 pounds of food donations for the campus food pantry. Clear Path for Veterans New England was recognized as the Community Partner of the Year for its holistic approach to helping returning vets and for offering a site for service learning students in both marketing and nursing.

In addition to their volunteer efforts, some students were recognized for additional volunteer-based work. These students were Student Leaders in Civic Engagement, Laryssa Truesdale and Tammy Goodgion. Goodgion put forth the largest effort by a graduating student this year with 358 hours of service.

The SOS (Serving Our Students) interns for the year Cristen Comptois, Marie Ewing, Tammy Goodgion, Elise Hamblett, Sybil Sinclair, Laryssa Truesdale, Jacob VanHillo, and Jacquelyn Vokey were also recognized. Cristen Comptois was also honored for being selected as the school’s 2018 Newman Civic Fellow award winner.

The local students who were honored for their volunteer efforts were: Dudley: Laurie Guerin, Mikeala Kozlowski; Northbridge: Kaila Chase; Spencer: Linda Maher; Mary Remillard; Sturbridge: Melissa Denham; Webster: Gerrienne Owens, Erika Valentin; North Grosvenordale: Amanda King

Warren delivers keynote address at QCC

Senator Elizabeth Warren delivered the keynote address to Quinsigamond Community College’s largest graduating class in the college’s history on Friday, May 18 at the DCU Center. Dr. Luis Pedraja awarded 1,686 degrees and certificates in his first commencement as the college’s sixth president.

“We are so proud of the amazing accomplishments of our upcoming graduates,” Dr. Pedraja said. “This is such a monumental time for QCC. By continuing to make in-roads within the communities we serve, we are fostering relationships that increase higher education access for all people, particularly those who have historically been underserved. Education is an economic driver and an investment in our future. It is one that will repay us two and threefold.”

Today the college boasts 13,000 full and part-time day, evening and online students and over 120 associate degree and certificate career options. QCC’s Center for Workforce Development and Continuing Education offers customized workforce training programs to members of the business community. More than 92 percent of QCC graduates stay in central Massachusetts upon graduating, helping to build a robust workforce within the region.

MWCC graduates join nursing profession in traditional ceremony

The 2018 MWCC associate degree nursing class prepares to march in for their pinning ceremony.

GARDNER – Family and friends came together to celebrate the achievements of Mount Wachusett Community College’s associate degree nursing class during a traditional pinning ceremony held May 17.

“You are going to forth from here and you’re going to save lives,” MWCC President James Vander Hooven told the gathered graduates.

The 45th graduating class was made up of 103 students enrolled in the day and evening programs and included LPNs who returned to continue their education through the college’s Bridge to Nursing program.

Dressed in traditional nurse uniforms, the students were welcomed into the profession by having the program’s nursing pin fastened to their lapels by a family member, friend, or an alumnus of the program, or a faculty member. The pin marks where the nurses completed their studies and distinguishes them from other health care professionals. The eight-star MWCC pin is imprinted with the words “Service to Humanity and the World.”

As part of the ceremony, the students also took a nursing pledge that dates back to Florence Nightingale, who distinguished herself during the Crimean War by coming to the aid of sick and wounded soldiers.

The graduates included: North Grosvenordale: Amanda King; Ashburnham: Genevieve David and Sybil Sinclair; Baldwinville: Leanne Gauthier; Dudley: Laurie Guerin, Mikeala Kozlowski; East Templeton: Mary White; Milford: Tracy Webster; Northbridge: Kaila Chase; Phillipston: Summer Moulton; Sturbridge: Melissa Denham; Templeton: Shelby Arseneau, Jaclyn Cartee, Lindsey Hastings, Kelsey Vaillancourt; Winchendon: Ashley Garceau, Dawn Storer; Rindge: Elie LeMieux and Danica Sauvola.

June First...is it summer yet?

We had the official, unofficial start of summer last weekend with the three day holiday. Many families did indeed get out into the yards, break out the grills, perhaps do a road trip (though with the price of gas those are pretty close to home...) and convince themselves yes, summer is here.
But most of the kids are still in school for a few more weeks, the result of bad days during the winter, and let's face it, the weather has not been cooperating to usher in those lazy, hazy, days.
Cold rain, temperatures dipping overnight, while we have had a day here or there that felt as if we could leave the house without a jacket; most days we grabbed something, just in case.
We actually cranked up the car heater the other night on the way home, it was that cold.
True, we suspect July and August will get those temperatures up there, but June? Meh.
But back to the gas prices. Why? Just...why?
What has changed in the world that has raised those costs and made them soar?
Who is controlling those barrels?
We haven't seen a reliable explanation yet. The crude is available, the refineries are working. Shipping is on time.
Is someone just gleaning a big old profit somewhere?
Is there a shortage looming no one is admitting?
We remember the '70s, and gas lines, because there really WAS a shortage. It miraculously righted itself (We say with a jaundiced prejudice, because we imagine the shortage was engineered to begin with).
And isn't it most interesting these prices rise just when Americans plan to travel? Like for summer trips?
Do these increases affect the costs associated with airline travel and what about shipping costs for the fleets of trucking companies? Aren't these costs now being passed on to consumers?
Chickens and eggs people, chickens and eggs.
See, someone decided long before now (just like the colors of furnishings and clothing and cars are decided years in advance) just when certain economic realities will happen. They don't always go as planned, but there is planning involved. And it usually involves someone, somewhere, with an eye on a better profit margin.
So do some research. And then start complaining to the right people. The local gas station isn't it; they have to charge pretty much what they are demanded to by those higher on the food chain. So go up the food chain.
Because trust us when we say, just like drug companies don't want to cure disease (that would stop the sale of drugs cold), oil companies and utilities don't want to see anything but increasing profits...ever.

What should you look for in an annual financial review?

Given the complexities of the investment world, you might consider working with a financial professional to help you move toward your goals, such as a comfortable retirement. You'll want to establish good communication with whomever you choose, and you should meet in person at least once a year to discuss your situation. At these annual reviews, you'll want to cover a variety of topics, including these:
Your portfolio's progress – Obviously, you will want to discuss how well your investments are doing. Of course, you can follow their performance from month to month, or even day to day, by reviewing your investment statements and online information, but at your annual meeting, your financial professional can sum up the past year's results, highlight areas that have done well or lagged, and show you how closely your portfolio is tracking the results you need to achieve your long-term goals.
Your investment mix – Your mix of investments – stocks, bonds, government securities and so on – helps determine your success as an investor. But in looking at the various investments in your portfolio, you'll want to go beyond individual gains and losses to see if your overall mix is still appropriate for your needs. For example, is the ratio of stocks to bonds still suitable for your risk tolerance? Over time, and sometimes without you taking any action, this ratio can shift, as often happens when stocks appreciate so much that they now take up a larger percentage of your portfolio than you intended – with a correspondingly higher risk level. If these unexpected movements occur, your financial professional may recommend you rebalance your portfolio to align it more closely with your goals and risk tolerance.
Changes in your family situation – A lot can happen in a single year. You could have gotten married, divorced or remarried, added a child to your family or moved to a new, more expensive house – the list can go on and on. And some, if not all, of these moves could certainly involve your financial and investment pictures, so it's important to discuss them with your financial professional.

Changes in your goals – Since your last annual review, you may have decided to change some of your long-term goals. Perhaps you no longer want to retire early, or you've ruled out that vacation home. In any case, these choices may well affect your investment strategies, so it's wise to discuss them.
Changes in the investment environment – Generally speaking, it's a good idea to establish a long-term investment strategy based on your individual goals, risk tolerance and time horizon, and stick with this basic strategy regardless of the movements of the financial markets or changes in the economy. Still, this doesn't mean you should never adjust your portfolio in response to external forces. For instance, if interest rates were to rise steadily over a year's time, you might want to consider some changes to your fixed-income investments, such as bonds, whose value will be affected by rising rates. In any case, it's another thing to talk about during your annual review.
These aren't the only elements you may want to bring up in your yearly review with your financial professional – but they can prove to be quite helpful as you chart your course toward the future.

Tips to grow an RX garden

For centuries plants have been grown for medicine, and in modern times "medicinal" herbs such as lavender, garlic and chamomile have long been familiar sights in a backyard plot. With the current focus on natural remedies, gardeners are seeking out the healing varieties of plants and herbs – and expanding their gardens to plant specifically to treat common maladies. Whether you want to halt a headache or boost your brain power, chances are the solution is as easy as plucking a plant from your backyard garden (or windowsill).
The following roster of remedies highlights some familiar plants and their medicinal uses.
Note: Information is offered for general interest only and should not be taken as health advice. Contact your physician before ingesting or applying any herbs or plants.
**
Headache
Clematis: This flower has been known to work wonders on migraine headaches. Simply chew the petals or steep them into a tea.
Feverfew: Use the leaves and flowers of this medicinal herb for teas; chew leaves to ease headache pain (including migraines). It's also been shown to provide relief for arthritis, and skin conditions.
Insomnia
Lemon Balm promotes sleep as it acts as a very mild sedative. It is also helpful in treating stress and nervous headaches. To make a fresh lemon balm tea: steep one teaspoon of fresh leaves in one cup of boiling water. Steep covered for ten minutes. Strain and enjoy.
Chamomile: A common garden herb, chamomile is a muscle relaxer that has mild sedating properties. Chamomile tea has long been used to relieve stress and promote sleep. It is also used to treat anxiety in sufferers young and old.
*Please keep in mind those who have allergies to ragweed, chrysanthemums or asters, should not use chamomile.
Anxiety
Lavender: Want to relax? Plant lavender. The scent of lavender prompts calmness. Studies report that the smell of lavender triggers alpha waves in the part of the brain associated with a relaxed state.

Lemon Balm: Lemon Balm made into a tea is a relaxing tea that reduces restlessness, anxiety and irritability. And it's also used to treat anxiety that causes digestive problems.
Skullcap: Is an anti-anxiety herb with few side effects, Skullcap helps calm the "worrier" who has racing thoughts and constant fret. This herb is useful for all types of anxiety but has also been hailed as an aid for stress caused by hormonal imbalances in women.
Digestion
Dill: The dill plant, long used as a natural cure for baby colic, is an herb that's known for its ability to aid digestion. Brewing as a tea or simply chewing on several seeds after eating can help natural digestion and prevent tummy troubles. For tea, crush dill seed and add a tablespoon to a cup of boiling water. ## Take time to teach children basics of safety

National Missing Children's Day is held in the month of May. It is observed officially on May 25th. Since it was first established in 1983, National Missing Children's Day serves as an annual reminder that there are thousands of children who are still missing and stresses the importance of making child protection a national priority. This is a great opportunity for parents to discuss safety awareness with their children. There are many ways to begin discussions with your children on safety topics. One of the programs we have used in the past was "Take 25." This was a national child safety public awareness campaign created by the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC). It encouraged parents to take 25 minutes to talk to their children about safety and ways to prevent abduction. According to NCMEC, every year in America, an estimated 800,000 children are reported missing, more than 2,000 each day.
Of that number, 200,000 are abducted by family members and 58,000 are abducted by non-family members, for which the primary motive is sexual. Each year, 115 children are the victims of the most serious abductions; they are taken by non-family members and either murdered, ransomed, or taken with the intent to keep. An analysis of attempted abduction cases by NCMEC found that in 84% of the cases, the child escaped would-be abductors through their own actions.
Teaching children about safety works and saves lives. The National Center has rolled portions of "Take 25" into their overall national outreach with the "Be Here for Kids" campaign. Information may be found at <http://www.missingkids.org/behereforkids>. There are materials available to assist parents with these important conversations. The hope is some initial questions will lead to further dialogue about topics and issues which relate to each family's specific situation. The occasion of Missing Children's Day is a great opportunity for parents to have this meaningful discussion with their child.
Children are exposed to a great deal of challenges, both in person and on-line. Any opportunity parents can utilize to discuss safety measures with their children is time well spent. Missing Children's Day is a chance for us to remember those who are still missing and take precautions to prevent future incidents.

Fishing, late start with cold weather, on a wild roll

Fishing exploded on all fronts last week. Striper fishing has been great for most anglers in both Massachusetts & Rhode Island waters. A report from Snug Harbor of wall to wall stripers this past Memorial Day weekend was good news. Although there were many undersize fish the keepers were mixed in and getting better every day. Al reported one of the largest population of school stripers in the bay in years. Squid had moved in large numbers which has accounted for the arrival of numerous species of fish. Fluke were starting to become more abundant with an eight pounder being weighed in a couple of days before Memorial Day. Tautog fishing has also heated up in Rhode Island waters last week. A report on cod fishing was the only bad news. Fishing was very poor to say the least!!!

the river and should be loaded by the time you read this column. If you wanted to catch a big striper the Providence River is the place to go now!!! Also huge scup are being caught, which is unusual for the area. Mass anglers on the Cape have a similar report. This week's picture shows a female angler last year with a nice striper. Hopefully this was you with a similar fish this past week. Send along a photo to this writer at oldsalt\_65 @ msn.com.

Haddock fishing on the Cape has been nothing but fantastic. One local angler fishing off of a six pack charter had no problem catching his limit of haddock and many well exceed the size limit. They later moved and tried fishing for pollock but came up short. Captain John boats are also providing their anglers with limits of haddock.

Freshwater anglers fishing for trout continue to catch limits of trout on numerous fishing trips. Mass Fish & Wildlife will cease most trout stocking, but some fish could be available for stocking at some locations in the state. Be sure to check them out on their website.

Local anglers are starting to catch some impressive large-mouth bass in local waters. All other fishing on freshwater has improved. My brother Ken and his son Mark made a trip to the Quabbin Res last week. I had not received a report prior to this week's deadline.

Hope everyone had a safe and happy holiday weekend. It was all made possible by our veterans and those now in the military protecting our country. A big thank you to all.

The Financial Times reported that a painting sold at auction in London, stated to be from the "circle of Rembrandt" has been authenticated as an actual work by Rembrandt. The buyer paid £137,000 (approximately $185,000 U.S.). A dozen Rembrandt experts have since authenticated the painting. It also underwent technical analysis "including X-ray, infrared, ultraviolet and a scanning method that gauges whether the distribution of paint types matches a painter's typical "signature." The owner plans to sell the painting, with its new pedigree, for an undisclosed figure.

ing auction news. Over 2,000 pieces of movie memorabilia are heading to the auction block according to the Columbus Dispatch. A chariot used by Charlton Heston in the 1959 Ben Hur film is one of the items being offered. A 1991 Harley Davidson Fat Boy motorcycle from the 1991 film "Terminator 2: Judgment Day" will also be included in the auction. A light saber used by Alec Guinness in "Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope" will also be sold. A nightgown worn by Olivia de Havilland in "Gone with the Wind" and a loincloth worn by Johnny Weissmuller in the 1932 "Tarzan" film are also among the offerings.

The Chicago Tribune reports that the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum foundation is deaccessioning and auctioning non-Lincoln related objects to repay a loan. The museum previously secured a $23 million loan to acquire over 1,000 items from a private collection. The loan made it possible for the museum to purchase a stovepipe hat that belonged to Lincoln and the gloves that Lincoln wore when he was assassinated. A black wool dress worn by Marilyn Monroe is one of the items that will be sold by the museum. It is estimated to fetch between $40,000 and $60,000 at auction.

A wristwatch that belonged to Elvis Presley recently set an auction record according to the Times Picayune. RCA presented the watch to Presley for selling 75 million records. The 18 karat gold 1960 Omega watch sold for 18 times the high estimate when it reached $1.8 million.

Comic books brought strong prices at auction recently according to Chicago 7 Eyewitness news. A copy of Superman # 1 sold for $167,300. The first appearance of Superman in a comic book was Action Comics # 1. A copy of that comic book sold for $573,600.

We have a wide variety of items from multiple estates in our May 31st live auction in Worcester. We will auction a large Lionel train collection at 5:30 PM and the main auction begins at 6:30. The Westborough farm estate sale runs on June 2nd and 3rd. Other events are being scheduled. See www.centralmass.com

CMSCC opposes nurse staffing ballot question

CHAMBER’S MEMBER ORGANIZATIONS INCLUDE HARRINGTON HOSPITAL

BOSTON—The Central Mass South Chamber of Commerce today joined the Coalition to Protect Patient Safety in opposition to the proposed nurse staffing ballot question. The Chamber's members includes Harrington Hospital, along with numerous eldercare centers, rehabilitation facilities, and doctor's offices.

“The proposed nurse staffing ballot question will result in services to our community being eliminated,” said Alexandra McNitt, executive director of the Central Mass South Chamber of Commerce. “Our board of directors studied this issue very carefully before coming to a conclusion. Health care costs will rise and access to local care will be threatened if this initiative passes.”

“Looking at the proposed legislation, I am scared and saddened for the future of the nursing profession,” said Jessica Calcidise, a registered nurse at Harrington Hospital. “Patients need access to care. My role as a nurse is to advocate for our patients, and this feels contradictory to why I came into this profession. If a patient isn't able to get health care, it shouldn't be because a nurse is barred from taking care of them because of a government mandated ratio.”

The ballot question, proposed by the Massachusetts nurses' union, which represents less than a quarter of nurses in the Commonwealth, would require that hospitals across the state, no matter their size or specific needs of their patients, adhere to the same rigid nurse staffing ratios within all patient care areas at all times. The petition does not make allowances for rural or small community hospitals, holding them to the same staffing ratios as major Boston teaching hospitals.

The Central Mass South Chamber of Commerce represents more than 250 businesses throughout the region, and promotes policy that bolsters the local economy and enhances prosperity for the community.

This measure would cost the Massachusetts healthcare system more than $1.3 billion dollars in the first year, and more than $900 million each year thereafter, according to an independent study by MassInsight and BW Research Partners. Hospitals will be forced to cut vital health programs, such as cancer screenings, opioid treatments, mental health services, early childhood intervention, domestic violence programs and pre- or post-natal care.

“There are no scientific studies or reports that demonstrate the effectiveness of government mandated, one-size-fits-all nurse staffing ratio for improving quality of care, patient outcomes or professional nursing practice,” said Donna Glynn, president of the American Nurses Association and a nurse scientist for the VA Boston Healthcare System. “In fact, no studies evaluating nurse staffing ratios reported a magic number as the single factor to affect patient outcomes or job satisfaction. This ballot question is ignoring scientific fact around what is best for nursing practice, decision making and quality patient care.”

The Central Mass South Chamber of Commerce

joins the American Nurses Association Massachusetts, the Organization of Nurse Leaders, the Massachusetts Health and Hospital Association, the Massachusetts Council of Community Hospitals, the Conference of Boston Teaching Hospitals, and other healthcare and business leaders in protecting the state's healthcare system and its patients from the consequences of this rigid, costly mandate that is expected to be placed before voters in the November 2018 election.

AWARD

Italian sub greets Ted by name and vice versa. Ted becomes engaged in each persons' life. He asks how their children are, how they are, and he talks graduation plans with long-time friends whose children are graduating this year. It's the personal aspects of Ted's character and kindness that really sets him apart and gives you a glimpse into the truly wonderful man he is. Ted wants to know how everyone in town is doing, and if there is any way he can help them or anyone else. When the front door of this quaint pizzeria opens, Ted will emerge from the back room and share a story with anyone. He greets each customer with a big smile and heartfelt sentiment. It is not just because of his immense heart and pure smile that he has won this award. Ted has dedicated most of his life to helping others with business strategy, etiquette, and a willingness to help. P&D Pizza is continuously donating funds, food, and time to any organization that needs them.

Ted has donated pizzas and helped organize fundraisers for a variety of causes. Operation Graduation was helped with a pasta night from P&D Pizza and money donated from sales at the location.

“Ted was always helpful to Oxford High School classes; donations, delivering tasteful food for after school activities and providing jobs for our students. Congratulations!” writes Dixie Lawrence.

P&D Pizza offered slices of pizza to those who donated Toys for Tots at their location.

Ted has helped the Boys Scouts with fundraisers of $5 spaghetti nights. They deliver to nursing homes where the elderly may not be able to get out for pick up. Ted donates foods and services to many organizations, and various causes that effect Oxford and their citizens.

Allison Lane writes, “Oxford is lucky to have such a wonderful business owner that supports the community in so many ways!”

This isn't the first sign of recognition that Ted has received, and many believe it won't be the last. In 2017, P&D Pizza received a certification of appreciation from the American Legion Riders Chapter 58. The certificate states, “In recognition and sincere appreciation of outstanding service and assistance to the American Legion Riders which contributed to the advancement of The American Legion programs and activities dedicated to God and Country.”

On award night, Ted recalls shyly how taken aback he was at receiving the award in front of friends and family.

“My wife had to trick me to get me to go, she said my friend Gordon was the one receiving an award and I wouldn't miss that!” laughs Ted. “I had my camera ready to take pictures of Gordon getting an award and instead they called my name!”

Ted was shocked to be receiving such an award.

“I was surprised, I did not expect it.”

No one in the room was surprised though, Ted deserved this recognition.

“I don't do this for recognition, I do these fundraisers and try to help because I want to help the community,” says Ted.

“This town is like family to us,” says Ted as he greets more and more customers by name, with a handshake and questions of how everyone in their family is doing.

P&D Pizza employee Becky Geragonis states, “I love working for Ted, we are so proud of him.”

Geragonis has been an employee for over two years and laughs at poor Ted every time he is congratulated. The staff at P&D Pizza loves to give Ted a hard time, he takes the heartfelt abuse and blushes just a tiny bit every time someone congratulates him. Don't tell him he's blushing though, he will just blame it on the hot ovens or the spicy Dragon Pizza.

Guidance News

On Thursday, April 26th, the Holy Name Guidance Department sponsored a College Application Reader Review presentation for our Sophomore class. Kate Diamond from the University of Le Moyne and Tyler Tucky from University of Dayton were our presenters. The purpose of this event was to demonstrate to the students the process colleges use to determine an applicant's eligibility for admission to a college or university. The Admission Representatives discussed the importance of a solid academic transcript; preferably one that shows steady or upward progress in grades throughout high school, and shared with the students the importance of participation in extracurricular activities such as sports and clubs, employment and or volunteer experiences on the application. The Reps stressed the significance of writing a College Application Essay that truly reflects the student, as opposed to an event or another individual, and highlighted to our students that they should take their time completing the application, making it as thorough as possible. Lastly, the students were given the chance to review 5 mock applications with direction to “accept” 2 of the 5 students to a fictional university. Ms. Diamond and Mr. Tucky each shared which of the 2 students they would have accepted to either Le Moyne or University of Dayton and how they made that decision.

Rams rally to beat Bartlett, put prior loss behind heading into postseason

Bartlett's Corey Harrington gets on his horse while rounding third base en route to scoring all the way from first.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — On Thursday, May 24, less than 24 hours after suffering an epic collapse against Auburn High, the Northbridge High varsity baseball team exacted a measure of revenge for that loss against Bartlett High, overcoming a 5-1 deficit to defeat the Indians, 10-5.

With the win the Rams finished the regular season 11-9 and advance to the Central Mass. Tournament for the 26th consecutive year.

On Wednesday, May 23, Northbridge was one out away from defeating Auburn, leading by three runs with two outs in the top of seventh inning.

scored on a groundout by sophomore Jake Stuczynski.

In the bottom of the inning, however, Bartlett (5-12) scored all of its runs to take a 5-1 lead. Big hits in the inning were delivered by senior Justin Daab, who belted a three-run double, and sophomore Nate Blythe and senior Corey Harrington, who both smacked RBI singles.

Between the second and third innings Ryan lifted starting pitcher Corey Hazzard, replacing him with Stuczynski. It was just the spark the Rams were looking for, as Stuczynski pitched the rest of the way, not allowing a hit or a run while striking out four and walking three.

"Jake gave us a huge lift," Ryan said. "He's been good most of the year. He had a couple of tough outings earlier in the year when his arm was bothering him a little bit. I'm trying to ease him back into it. He's great for us when he is healthy. He looked really again today, which is a great sign."

Northbridge scored four runs in the top of the fourth inning to tie the game, 5-5. With one out junior Matt Remillard cut the deficit to three, 5-2, when he singled to left, advanced to second on a passed ball, took third on a wild pitch and then scored on another wild pitch.

With two outs Stuczynski walked and then motored to third on a single by freshman Jonathan Cray. Stuczynski and Cray both scored — to cut the Bartlett lead to 5-4 — on a triple by senior Sam Gallagher. Gallagher then scored on an RBI single by sophomore Caleb Visbeck to tie the game, 5-5.

In the top of the seventh inning it looked like the Rams would go quietly, the first two batters making quick outs. Northbridge, however, then proceeded to score five runs, the big blows being a two-run double by Haverty — to put the Rams ahead for good, 7-5 — and an RBI double by Stuczynski.

"That was huge," Ryan said of Haverty's seventh inning double. "That was an example of a senior captain coming up and getting a big hit in a crucial moment. We haven't done that a lot this year; we haven't been able to get the big hit. In that situation we definitely did. That was huge."

Northbridge had the clutch hits in its seventh inning, game-winning rally, but the Rams were helped by four Bartlett errors and none of the runs were earned.

"You look at that game in the third and fourth inning and that's one that we should put away," Bartlett head coach Jon Way said. "The story of the season is we haven't put together seven consecutive solid innings. We always have that one inning where things happened. Unfortunately it happened again; we let them right back in it. And then we didn't make the plays down the stretch. We could have gotten out of the seventh without allowing a run.

"We got two quick outs and then we there was a routine groundball that we should have converted, but we didn't," Way continued. "And that's OK. That's high school baseball. Are you supposed to make that play? Absolutely. But you can't expect these guys to make every single play. However, you got to make the next one. And unfortunately we didn't do that and one error turned into two and then three, and eventually four, and the game got out of hand at the end for us."

Michael Toner of Bartlett fires the ball to first from his third base position.

Nelson notches pitching milestone as Pirates push aside Sutton

Nick Ethier photos

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SUTTON — Oxford High senior pitcher Candice Nelson notched a career milestone of striking out her 400th competitor en route to an 8-3 victory over Sutton High on Thursday, May 24, as the Pirates evened their record to 9-9.

It was the bottom of the Oxford's Crystal Nelson runs up to a groundball hit her way at second base.

sixth inning and Nelson was inside the circle battling with a Sutton batter when she won the battle with a fastball down the middle, which resulted in a swing and a miss. Her 400th career strikeout comes after two long years of hard work as a varsity starter, stepping into her older sister's shoes.

"It means a lot, I put a lot of effort into playing so it really feels good," Nelson expressed with great joy. "It felt nice, my teammates were supportive all coming in and clapping for me. It really did feel good."

Watching his young pitcher develop over the past two years and accomplish something so significant was an amazing feeling for Oxford head coach Jamie Hetherman.

"Candice has been around since her sophomore year, she was a backup to her sister and I watched her grow and mature," Hetherman stated with a smile on his face. "She is a girl that works 12 months a year on pitching and she made herself into a pitcher. The 400 strikeouts is the work, the effort, determination and confidence. Her confidence has grown so much from a sophomore to a senior — it is unbelievable. She loves the game and I want the ball in her hands all the time."

Nelson fanned eight in the contest and also went 2 for 4 from the plate with a double and two RBIs.

Sutton (3-15) jumped out to a quick two-run lead in the bottom of the first inning, but Oxford was quick in its response in the top of the second.

Audrey Hayes and Isabella Auclair started the inning off with back-to-back singles and both ended up scoring due to a RBI sacrifice bunt by Madison Kahn — Kahn reached on an error — and an RBI groundout by Hannah Volpe. This tied the game at 2-2.

The Pirates ended up cashing in three more runs in the inning to take a three-run lead heading into the bottom of the second. Skyla Hodson hit an RBI single, followed by another RBI single by Crystal Nelson and a groundout by Candice Nelson that scored the fifth Pirates' run.

Oxford was able to score three more runs in the next five innings of the game. Hodson led the offensive attack and went 4 for 5 with an RBI.

"They came out in the first inning, got a couple of runs and it woke us up a little bit," explained Hetherman. "We began to realize Sutton is here to play; they aren't going to just give us our ninth win. Our bats came alive, we ran the bases well and bunted well and pitching wins and she got the job done."

The Pirates have two more games to go — to be played after Stonebridge Press' early Memorial Day deadline — and must win at least one to qualify for postseason play.

"We have to work hard, keep our bats going, and keep fielding well," Nelson explained of what needs to happen for success going forward.

and he sees family first.

"I care about everybody. We care about the kids in the community. We take care for our families."

Place cares for all families, from his own, to his employees, and his clients, and this shows through their long-lasting customer base. Generations of Ford owning families go to Place Motors for all their needs.

Anne Dembinski writes, "Great company and people to do business with!! Have been dealing with them for 30 years."

Paul M. Kosiba writes, "My family has purchased many vehicles over the years from Place Motors. Hands down easy people to deal with very friendly... All around great dealership..."

Consumer families tend to gravitate and remain with family owned businesses.

Employee of 40 years, Greg Jarmolowicz states, "The Place family treats their employees like their own family. It contributes to the fact that we have generations of the same families that come here for service. They know us."

Consumers trust in Place Motors starts with the sales department, then service, and parts. "Customers need to feel comfortable with all three aspects. It makes a difference," says Jarmolowicz; "95 years is really saying something."

Customers show great satisfaction with this everlasting business and remain dedicated to a business that does so much for the community. Those who work at Place Motors feel they are a part of the Place family.

Karen LaFave, employee of 16 years, is in charge of account billing and receiving, and loves working for the Place family.

"It feels good that this business has been around for 95 years. It is comforting to know that they will be around for a long time," says LaFave.

Diane Berthiaume, employee of four years states, "I love working here, it's family, it's stability, and I feel like I am a part of that family."

Each employee feels they are a part of the Place family, whether they have been employed for four years, 16 years, or 40 years. The Place family values their employees with such commitment and caring that employees stay employed for a long time and find value in their work. Businesses of this nature can take a page from the Place Motor Handbook. When you value and truly care for your employees they remain loyal, hardworking, and validated in their work.

Place Motors celebrated their 95 year anniversary with style. Many came out for food, merriment, and to celebrate this amazing accomplishment by the Place family and all their employees. Bill Leavitt, manager and employee for 13 years states, "the 95th anniversary was an immense success."

To celebrate, gift cards of $95 were awarded to 10 different participants at the anniversary party. This deeply generous company donated checks of $5,000 each to Webster Dudley Share Food, The Boys and Girls Club, and the United Way.

Lamal Moore from the Webster Boys and Girls Club writes, "Thank you to Ford Motor Company for the generous donation to the Boys & Girls Club of Webster - Dudley. With you and the many community partners in the local area, the youth in the community will continue to enjoy the various programs at the club by our professional staff and devoted volunteers."

Place Motors was host to many visitors including Randy Becker, who was up for re-election to the Webster Board of Selectman. Former state representative Paul Kujawski was in attendance to show his support of Place Motors and their accomplishments. The care that Place Motors has for its community shows throughout their entire showroom. Teams of Little League, and soccer teams that the Place family has helped sponsor proudly line the walls. The building has been recently upgraded to provide ample space and activities for customers who wait for services on their vehicles. There are work pods, couches, a big screen TV, and various kid's activities. The expansion was constructed to make the customers feel more at home as they wait for the precise and dedicated work being done to their Ford vehicles.

Four generations have kept Place Motors more than "The Right Place." They are the kind place, the generous place, the progressive place, and a respected place. With their dedicated employees, numerous accreditations, and faithfulness to the community, Place Motors has celebrated 95 years. That's 95 years of family loyalty and community commitment. 95 years of devotion to employees. For 95 years Place Motors has stood strong, always growing, always committed. Like the Red Sox, Place Motors hits the ball out of the park. Like Warner Bros. they are show stopping, and like Time Magazine they are timeless.

Place Motors has been recognized over the years with numerous awards.

District tournament up next for Rams after charging past Leominster

Shepherd Hill's Sam Zannotti makes a backtracking catch in center field.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Sophia Sciarappa and Cayley Fagan both clubbed home runs to pace a 12-hit attack and lead the Shepherd Hill Regional varsity softball team into the Central Mass. Division 1 Tournament for the third consecutive year, thanks to a 12-3 victory over Leominster High on Wednesday, May 23.

“We’re back in the districts,” said a smiling Sciarappa after the game. “It’s been our goal since Day 1; to make districts. Every game we work hard to win the game and move forward and achieve that goal. Through the ups and downs this year we’ve stuck together. We’ve been in the same boat together all year because we knew our ultimate goal was to make districts. It’s always a great feeling, qualifying for districts, but especially this year as a senior; it’s very exciting.”

With one out in the bottom of the first inning Sciarappa staked the Rams to a 1-0 lead, launching the first pitch she saw from Leominster pitcher Liz Leger over the right field fence. From the moment Sciarappa’s bat made contact with the ball there was no doubt the Shepherd Hill captain had hit her Central Mass.-leading seventh home run of the season.

“I liked the pitch, so I swung and it went over the fence,” Sciarappa explained. “When I hit it I felt like it had a chance to go out because I was able to get good arm extension on my swing.”

“Sophia’s hitting has been spectacular. She is hitting close to .600. She leads us in just about everything,” Shepherd Hill head coach Donny Loos said. “But more than her offensive stats, the energy and the positivity — the leadership — she brings to the field just means a ton to the young players on the team.”

“We’re not a senior-laden group; we have three seniors on the team. Sophia has been such a positive leader for the young kids coming up in the program,” Loos added. “I’ve been blessed to have her for all four years that I’ve been here at Shepherd Hill.”

Leading off the bottom of the fourth inning Fagan broke a 1-1 tie and put the Rams ahead for good, powering a 3-2 pitch over the fence in center field. Shepherd Hill scored two more times in the inning, on RBI hits by Kelly Cournoyer and Hailey Delphia, to take a 4-1 lead to the fifth inning.

The Rams put the game away with five runs in the fifth inning and three more in the sixth.

Fagan paced the Shepherd Hill hit parade, going 3 for 4 with two RBI, while Kiley Wong-Li was 2 for 2 with two RBI. Delphia doubled and drove in three runs while Cournoyer finished with two RBI, as did Abby Morin, who delivered a pinch hit two-run single with one out in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The Rams qualified for the Central Mass. Tournament last year in their 16th game of the season. This year it took until game 18, not much longer, but it seemed tougher to get back to the dance this season.

“It’s been an up and down year. Our offense has been phenomenal at times and it’s been inconsistent at other times. We’ve competed hard but in some games it just hasn’t been there for us,” Loos said. “When we have played great defense we haven’t always gotten great hitting. When our defense has not been as clean as we would like our offense couldn’t quite make up for it. It’s been tough. Our season has been win a couple and drop one, win one and drop two and then win a few more.”

Loos believes there’s a silver lining in the road Shepherd Hill had to travel to qualify for the postseason.

“I think it’s prepared us. I’m always wary of cruising into the playoffs on autopilot. We don’t have to do that this year,” Loos said. “We’ve had some tough games. We’ve had to work hard. I think that’s prepared us going into the postseason. I told the girls after the game not to be satisfied. We have 10 wins, but we can get 12.”

Chris LaFortune set the tone offensive for The Hill by going 3 for 3 with an RBI at the top of the lineup, while Mick Sullivan — who led the team in batting average at .295 — also added a hit.

Evan Kokocinski of Shepherd Hill dives safely back to first base beating the force out.

Access Oxford Inc. covers small town political meetings, summer camps, school meetings, Memorial Day parades and so much more. The channels are offered to Oxford and allow every citizen an opportunity to be a star.

Access Oxford Inc. wants to provide more for the community; the staff is always looking for stories to broadcast and youth to teach. From their website at accessoxfordinc.com, “We also work with members of the community who are interested in learning about modern broadcast media, recording, filming and editing techniques. If you are willing to learn, we are willing to teach. We have experts in both moving pictures and still photography. Call us to find out about joining and becoming part of our crew!”

Troiano is always looking for volunteers and new members. He is more than the executive director of this channel, he works hard and knows just about everyone in town. Board member, clerk, and producer for Access Oxford Inc., Tristan Kippax, states, “Tony can capture a snap shot of all the great events in town and it is quite a labor of love. Tony works hard to bring to light the fantastic events in our town. Thank you Tony.”

With such humble beginnings, it is wonderful to see a dedicated and productive business grow with numbers and recognition.

“We have such wonderful volunteers and contributors,” says Kippax.

Those who work hard to maintain this public channels’ growth and aspirations are rewarded with the knowledge that they are sturdy and advancing throughout the industry of media.

“We worked our way up!” says Kippax “we are now on demand and streaming.”

The staff and board members celebrated the success of the channel and shared stories over chocolate chip cookies, sandwiches and mixed fruit. Many came to the celebration on the Memorial Day weekend and enjoyed the eight-minute movie presented by Troiano. The movie consisted of clips from the peek events in Oxford in 2017. Board of Selectman member Meagan Troiano was in attendance with her husband and two children. During the movie, a clip showing Meagan Troiano in December of 2017 was shown. Troiano was introducing Santa Claus and wishing everyone a “Merry Christmas.” The use of public access television means Troiano will always have that moment, with her son resting on her hip and addressing a town she loves. Troiano will have that image to always look back on thanks to Access Oxford Inc. and the same goes for many other residents.

Carol Kuzdzal, board member and husband Tony Kuzdzal, treasurer, were in attendance and discussing upcoming stories in Oxford. Mark Giles, president of Access Oxford sat with Lois Halley, human resources, and shared information and aspirations. Tom Clifford, host and producer of Ireland on the Move, joins Access Oxford Inc. and makes his mark with immense skill and dedication.

Access Oxford Inc. is more than video cameras, extension cords, a cool drone, and televised events. It is the people behind the cameras that make the difference. Those holding the cameras and asking the questions truly care about their community. They are what makes this public channel successful and ongoing. Congratulations Access Oxford Inc. on 15 years and ready...set...action for 15 more!

Three Bay Path student medalists headed to SkillsUSA nationals

Three Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy students will compete at the National SkillsUSA Conference from June 25-30 in Louisville, KY after winning gold medals at the state level.

Five other students finished second in their respective categories at the SkillsUSA Massachusetts Leadership and Skills Conference held April 28 at the Marriott Boston-Marlboro.

Silver medalists in health knowledge bowl post-secondary are Isida Adhami of Oxford, Nicole Colon of Dudley, John Darling of Oxford, and Reagan Gosselin of Sturbridge. Silver medalist in practical nursing post-secondary is Krisanne Koebke of Dudley.

First-place finishers at the state conference – and earning the honor of representing Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy in national competition – are: Elizabeth Lamica, of Southbridge who competed in first aid-CPR category; Nicholas McElroy, of Webster, who competed in medical terminology, and Heather Monks, of Auburn who competed in medical math.

This will be the second consecutive trip to nationals for Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy. Last year's nationals' competitors brought home a bronze medal in medical math (Danielle Southall, LPN of North Grosvenordale) and sixth place in practical nursing (Danika Rhodes, LPN of Auburn).

"Our PN students did very well and represented the Academy with pride," said Getheline Bolandrina MSN Ed, RN, CRRN Academy director. "I wish to thank the Superintendent, Mr. John Lafleche for his support and both SkillsUSA Advisors for Bay Path, Ms. Jennifer Stachura and Ms. Pam Staney. I hope they enjoy safe travels when they go to Louisville, Ky and bring back more medals."

This year's success raises to nine the number of Bay Path Practical Nursing students who have advanced to national competition over the years; six have won medals.

The various ways going green saves consumers money

Many people adopt eco-friendly practices in an effort to protect and preserve the planet. But going green can be as good for adults’ pocketbooks as it is for the planet.

People who start making concerted efforts to go green are often surprised to learn the myriad ways they are suddenly saving money. While finances might not be the primary motivator that compels people to start living more eco-friendly lifestyles, recognizing the many ways that going green can save consumers money might be just what people need to keep them on track in their efforts to help the planet.

ON THE ROAD

Drivers who alter their driving habits can save money in various ways. Defensive driving has long been touted as the safest way to take to the road, but such an approach to driving also can be financially savvy. Drivers who do not frequently accelerate or stop suddenly can conserve fuel, saving them money at the filling station. In addition, following manufacturer-recommended maintenance guidelines can ensure all vehicle components are operating smoothly. That means the engine does not have to work as hard as it would if a vehicle was poorly maintained, thereby conserving fuel.

LIGHTING

Household lighting is another area where consumers can protect the planet and save money at the same time. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, Energy Star®-qualified LED lights consume just 20 to 25 percent of the energy used by incandescent bulbs, all the while lasting as much as 25 times longer than incandescents. That saves men and women money on their energy bills. While LED lights are more expensive to purchase than many of the alternatives, their long life expectancy means consumers can expect to see returns on that investment long before the bulbs are no longer functional.

Furnishing a home with antiques can protect the planet and may even save homeowners money.

FURNISHINGS

Another way to go green and save money is to forgo new furnishings for used furniture or antiques. Some antiques might prove more expensive than brand new items, but savvy shoppers can likely find older, less costly items for a fraction of the price of brand new furnishings. Buying used furniture or antiques reduces landfill waste and cuts back on manufacturing, packaging and transportation, each of which can take a toll on the planet. Consumers who need new furnishings for their homes also can look for products made of recycled materials, which reduces landfill waste, or items made from eco-friendly materials that grow quickly, thereby reducing the need for pesticides.

Going green is a commendable way to live and safeguard the planet. Adopting such a lifestyle also can be a great way to save money.

How drivers can make road trip season more eco-friendly

Many drivers anxiously await the arrival of spring, when they can rev their engines and enjoy the burgeoning greenescapes synonymous with the season. Though the colors of fall foliage might be more closely associated with road trips, many drivers enjoy the first few warm days of spring when they get a chance to hit the open road with their windows down for the first time in months.

Driving is not always the most eco-friendly activity. However, there are various ways to enjoy spring road trips without compromising the environment.

- Do not idle your vehicle. When engines are running but cars are not moving, this is referred to as “idling.” It’s hard to blame drivers for idling their vehicles in winter, when many motorists try to warm up their engines and their vehicles’ interiors so their morning commutes are as comfortable as possible. Idling cars might not be moving, but they are still burning fuel, meaning drivers who routinely idle their vehicles are adversely affecting fuel efficiency. It’s also important to note that idling is no longer necessary in modern vehicles. That’s because the electronic fuel injection systems in today’s cars require just a few seconds to get full oil pressure throughout the engine. Such systems were not present in older vehicles.
- Take it easy on the road. Road trips tend to be more enjoyable and are certainly safer when drivers take their time and don’t rush to their destination. And driving slowly happens to be more eco-friendly as well. According to the online automotive resource Edmunds.com, gently gaining speed is much more fuel-efficient than accelerating quickly. Always obey speed limits and avoid quickly accelerating when stoplights turn green.

- Empty the trunk. During winter, many drivers understandably carry some extra items in their trunk to account for inclement weather. Keeping ice scrapers, extra coolant or even a snow shovel in the trunk might make sense for drivers who live in regions that routinely encounter heavy snowfall. When spring arrives, drivers should remove any unnecessary items from their trunks. Such items will increase the weight of the vehicle, thereby reducing its fuel efficiency. Athletes and outdoors enthusiasts should also remove golf bags and sporting equipment from their trunks when taking trips where such items won’t be needed.
- Don’t top off at the gas pump. Many drivers, especially those on road trips who want to avoid extra tops at the filling station, top off their gas tanks when nozzles shut off automatically. Such a practice is harmful to the planet and may not be doing your vehicle any favors, either. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency notes gasoline needs some extra room in gas tanks to expand. Without that extra room, the gas may evaporate into the vehicle’s vapor collection system, adversely affecting emissions and potentially damaging the vehicle.
- Motorists can employ several simple strategies to make spring road trip season more eco-friendly.

Saving bees one hive at a time: The basics of backyard beehives

Scientists and environmentalists have been warning the public for years that honeybees are disappearing at alarming rates. Scientists were initially uncertain in regard to what was decimating bee populations. Even though no single cause is to blame, data has pointed to pesticide use and the mysterious colony collapse disorder, which is a name given to the dwindling colonies seen around the world.

National Geographic News says bees are essential because of their roles as pollinators. Agriculture industries rely on honeybees, especially managed honeybees, to keep commercial crops pollinated and productive. Estimates indicate that roughly one-third of U.S. crops rely on honeybees — accounting for more than $15 billion in crop production. Without bees, the costs of everything from blueberries to apples to broccoli would rise, as farmers would have to use a different, more expensive pollination method.

Even though backyard beehives or bee farms may not be crucial to consumer agriculture, bringing healthy colonies back to various areas is beneficial to the environment overall. The art of beekeeping has become an important endeavor, and just about anyone with some time and resources can start their own apiary.

- Start by studying bees. Interested beekeepers can begin their journey by reading all they can on beekeeping. The American Bee Journal or backyard beekeeping books and articles are great places to start. Local beekeeping associations also are invaluable resources for information on local bee species and traits.

- Know the laws. It’s important to get the go-ahead from local authorities before introducing bees into the community. By checking city or town ordinances, potential beekeepers will know how many hives are allowed and which type of property sizes are amenable and allowable.
- Get the right supplies. Research can help prospective beekeepers understand the type of equipment they will need. One can purchase this equipment, but some beekeeping organizations may be willing to lend or rent it to interested parties. Hive boxes, bottom boards, a veil, a jacket, a smoker, and a top feeder are just some of the supplies needed.
- Order bees. Bees can be acquired from other beekeeping enthusiasts or can be ordered online. The bees will need to consist of the queen, drones and worker bees. According to the resource Bees Brothers, a starter set of bees is called a “nuc.” Bee suppliers start selling in the winter for spring swarms.
- Place the hive. It’s important to set up hives away from foot traffic. In addition, face hives away from strong winds, with the ideal directions being east and south. Hives need sunshine and some shade on summer afternoons, advises BackYardHive.

With time, homeowners can become successful beekeepers and do their part to replenish much-needed bee colonies.

3 easy ways ordinary citizens can help the world's oceans every day

Superhero movies are as popular as ever. But one need not don a cape or hone a superpower to save the planet. In fact, the planet can benefit greatly if enough ordinary citizens simply take up the fight to protect the planet.

Rising carbon levels in the atmosphere have destabilized ecosystems across the globe, and the world's oceans are under attack. A 2014 report from the World Wildlife Fund noted that 39 percent of marine wildlife had disappeared in the 40 years preceding the report's release. In addition, the WWF notes that 27 percent of the world's coral reefs, which are home to one-fourth of all known marine fish species, have been lost. If the current rates of coral reef destruction continue, more than 60 percent of the reefs will be gone in the next three decades. And that depletion won't just affect scuba divers impressed by the stunning beauty of coral reefs, as the WWF notes that coral reef fisheries across the globe account for billions of dollars of revenue each year.

Saving the world's oceans and the marine life that call these oceans home may seem like a daunting task. However, ordinary citizens who may otherwise feel powerless in the face of climate change can do many things to help protect the world's oceans.

1. Cut back on energy consumption.
- Carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere are on the rise, and one source of that increase is the burning of fossil fuels to create heat and electricity. Automobiles also are responsible for the burning of fossil fuels. As carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere rise, so, too, do temperatures in the sea and sea levels. Rising sea temperatures and sea levels threaten the lives of many marine species. Men and women can reduce their daily energy consumption by taking public transportation to work, shutting lights off in their home when they leave a room and unplugging appliances when they aren't using them. Such efforts are simple, but when practiced on a wide scale by millions of men and women across the globe, their impact can be profound.
2. Stop relying on plastic.
- According to the Plastic Oceans® Foundation, more than eight million tons of plastic are dumped into the world's oceans every year, and estimates suggest that roughly 50 percent of plastic is used just once and thrown away. The dumping of plastic into the ocean poses a serious threat to both marine life and human beings. Plastic Oceans notes that 70 percent of the oxygen humans breathe is produced by marine plants, which are under attack as more and more plastic finds its way into the world's oceans. Men and women can do their part to cut back on the plastic finding its way into the oceans by relying more on reusable products, such as cloth grocery bags and reusable water bottles.

3. Get educated and spread the word.

One of the best ways to protect oceans today and in the future is to educate yourself and speak up about the problems facing marine life and their habitats. Though the problems facing the world's oceans are daunting and numerous, and threaten the way humans live their lives, they are not irreversible. Learning about these problems through organizations such as Plastic Oceans and the WWF and encouraging young people, who will be forced to confront ocean pollution and its effects in the decades to come, to follow suit can create a healthier future for humans and marine life alike.

These are just three ways ordinary citizens can take action and start reversing the damage done to the world's oceans over the last half century. More information can be found at www.wwf.panda.org and www.plasticoceans.org.

Go green when spending time outdoors this summer

The great outdoors beckons people year-round. But nature is especially enticing in summer, when warm weather compels people to leave their couches and soak up some sun.

Spending time outdoors is rewarding, and it can be even more so when men and women take steps to make their outdoor recreation as eco-friendly as possible. Whether it's choosing certain activities or taking other measures, there are various ways to go green when spending time outdoors this summer and beyond.

- Leave the car at home. Americans and Canadians consume more gasoline per capita than any people in the world. According to data from the U.S. Energy Information Administration and the United Nations, Americans consume 4.39 liters of gasoline per capita each day, while Canadians consume 3.62 liters per capita each day. In lieu of driving everywhere this summer, men and women who want to be more mindful of the environment can leave their cars home more frequently. Rather than driving the family to a nearby ice cream stand, walk or bike there instead. Run as many errands on foot or on a bicycle as possible. Walking or cycling is a great way to get some time outdoors on warm summer days, and reducing fuel consumption is an equally great way to help the planet.

- Embrace eco-friendly activities. Various activities, from organic gardening to planting trees to beach cleanups, provide a great way to get outdoors and help the planet at the same time. Men and women who grow their own vegetables can take solace knowing that the vegetables they're eating each night did not require the depletion of any natural resources to go from garden to table. Signing up for beach cleanups can prevent trash, including harmful plastics, from making its way into the world's oceans, and such cleanups provide a great excuse to go to the beach.

Outdoor enthusiasts can make their summers more rewarding by taking steps to be as eco-friendly as possible when spending time outdoors.

10 most collected items during worldwide coastal cleanup

According to Ocean Conservancy, an organization devoted to creating science-based solutions for healthy oceans and the wildlife and communities that depend on them, more than 18 million pounds of trash were collected from 112 countries during its 2016 International Coastal Cleanup. More than 13 million items, which included eight microwaves, 15 brooms, 56 toilets, and even one piano, were collected during the cleanup. The following are the 10 most collected items during the 2016 cleanup.

2. Plastic beverage bottles: 1,578,834
3. Plastic bottle caps: 822,227
4. Food wrappers: 762,353
5. Plastic grocery bags: 520,900
6. Plastic lids: 419,380
7. Straws/stirrers: 409,087
8. Glass beverage bottles: 390,468
9. Other plastic bags: 368,655
10. Foam take-away containers: 365,584
