Grant supports Youth Opportunities Unlimited program

REGION - The Worcester County District Attorney's Office recently received a state grant to help juvenile offenders stay out of jail.

The $36,000 grant will allow Youth Opportunities Unlimited, Inc. (YOU, Inc.) to continue its facilitation of the Juvenile Diversion Program. The program is run in partnership with Worcester County District Attorney Joseph Early's office.

The program, the first of its kind in Massachusetts, allows juveniles charged with domestic assault to avoid detention and a criminal record while helping the victimized family heal. Participants will also have access to Recreation Worcester programs, offering curriculum-based learning focused on athletics, arts, and academics.

We not only want to reduce crime, but resolve the underlying issues. This grant will offer case management, direct support, intervention, and referrals for services to address the unmet needs of the youth and their families," District Attorney

The program boasts a 90 percent successful completion rate, with a recidivism rate under 5 percent. The pandemic has provided several challenges, but program leaders have been able

The calendar of events is comprised of new exhibits, programs, and interpretation for the coming year, concluding with a formal gala in June 2022. Some of the planned activities and events include:

 Exhibits at the Printing Office, Richardson House, Fitch House, Gristmill, and the Blacksmith Shop.

 New museum tours, which will provide an in-depth look at how the Village came to be and how it has evolved over the past 75 years.

· A new cabinetmaking shop will be installed in fall 2021, the first interpretative building to be added to the Village Common in over forty years.

· Publication of "New England on Parade" in partnership with author Jane Nylander, which will pair with an exhibit at the book launch on September 11.

In conjunction with the Massachusetts Office of Travel and Tourism Recovery Grant and the Sturbridge Group Tour Alliance, the Village will encourage visitors throughout New England to visit and support the local businesses and organizations throughout the summer months.

· Special commemorative items and re-creations made by OSV artisans.

In 1925, Old Sturbridge Village founder A.B. Wells began collecting "primitive" antiques that showed how everyday people lived a century before. He became enraptured with collecting these tools, simple furnishings, and gadgets, and his collection proliferated. A.B. dreamed of having a gallery to display his collection. In 1936, his son, George, convinced him to move beyond his hobby of collecting and dreaming of a gallery and working towards creating "a live village, one with different shops operating." On June 8, 1946, Old Sturbridge Village opened to the public for the first time and welcomed eightyone visitors. The Village has become a beloved staple of New England, expanding the resources, programming, and collection of the living museum to over 250,000 annually in recent years. In 2017, Old Sturbridge Academy Charter Public School opened in partnership with the Village, followed by a management agreement in 2020 with Coggeshall Farm Museum in Bristol, R.I.

Old Sturbridge Village has always been more than a museum, and it continues to be an educational resource for exploring historical life in New England for all ages; inviting each visitor to find meaning, pleasure, relevance, and inspiration through hands-on, real-life encounters with artisans, interpreters, and craftspeo-

Amazon announces plans for Charlton warehouse

CHARLTON - Charlton residents now have a definitive answer of the anonymous company seeking to build a substantial warehouse project at 53 Sturbridge

Less than a month after voters overwhelmingly approved Article 17 on the Annual Town Meeting warrant that expanded the height limits of buildings in business enterprise park zones, the name of the company proposing a project that required the zooming amendment was finally unveiled on June 1. Amazon is proposing a 634,000 square foot multi-level warehouse that would cost more than $300 million. The project, billed as one of the larger types of Amazon project, called a robotic sortable facility, would bring at least 1,000 jobs to the region according to estimates from Amazon representatives.

In April, the project was presented to town boards by law firm Fletcher and Tilton with the tenant remaining unnamed. The lack of information about the tenant led both the Planning Board and Board of Selectmen to votes in separate 3-2 tallies against supporting the proposed zoning change on the town meetings warrant on May 17, but voters overwhelmingly approved the measure in a 119-19 vote. Amazon's name wasn't used during the meeting, but it was implied, but never confirmed, to be the applicant. On June 1, the rumors were confirmed, and Amazon's name was officially attached to the project as Selectmen hosted a reveal on the town's Facebook page. The announcement included a 45-minute conversation and presentation by Bluewater Property Group, a development partner working with Amazon.

Brad Griggs, a senior manager of Amazon's economic development team who leads the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic expansion effort of the company, spoke on Amazon's behalf and compared the project to the North Andover facility. He explained that the jobs provided would all start with benefits comparable to his own in management with a minimum starting wage of $15 per hour.

'There's the auxiliary benefits that come along with a project of this size and the capital investment from the different jobs, the indirect employment and most of these numbers that we're talking about right now where we're at in our initial due diligence fazes related to this project are pretty conservative floors," Griggs said. Ellithorpe is currently a junior at SUNY ESF pursuing a B.S. in Environmental Resources Engineering with a minor in water resources. She has been a NYWEA member since her freshman year but became more involved during her sophomore year when she assisted with researching and writing the ESF student design competition team's report for WEFTEC 2019. She attended the 2020 Annual Conference in NYC for the first time where she co-presented a poster based on ESF's 2019 WEFTEC SDC project, which won 1st place in the student chapter competition. Inspired by these experiences, Emily became the student lead for a local stormwater management project on Nine Mile Creek. She now has the role of vice president of ESF's NYWEA student chapter. In this role, she has assisted in planning virtual student activities such as the Women in Science and Engineering panel (WiSE) for which she was able to engage panelists from a wide geographic area (Washington DC, Portland OR) to participate.

SUNY ESF's current student chapter president, Briana Fitzgerald, has cited Ellithorpe as "a point of sanity" for her in planning and executing student chapter events as well as producing and editing the student chapter newsletter. Ellithorpe is eager to continue exploring new ways to network and learn in a virtual setting while also incorporating hands-on activities when possible.

TCA FOURTH GRADERS HOST "STATE PAGEANT"

On June 2, the Trinity Catholic Academy fourth grade class demonstrated all they know about a chosen state, celebrating our country in festive style in the school's gymnasium. A great musical performance cheering the 50 states started the event, with a second singing about all the capital cities. A parade of self-designed "wagon floats" created by each student were strutted around the gym followed by a short individual presentation about their state. The presentations were very informative, sharing interesting facts, humorous laws, famous people born there, historical info, landmarks and so much more. Did you know Arkansas is the only state that mines diamonds, that Joe Biden was born in Pennsylvania or that it is illegal to generate static electricity between the hours of 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. in Huron, S.D. There is always something to learn about our great USA at any age! Alumni over the years have commented that they still retain the information they learnt from doing this fun project in grade 4 at TCA. Trinity Catholic Academy is a Pre-K to Grade 8 school, promotes academic excellence, athletics, and the arts with respect, compassion, and service among our diverse family.

JUNE IS ORAL HEALTH MOI

Our next Your Teeth Matter is running on October 15 for National Dental Hygiene Month. Hope you'll join us.

Visit one of these Professionals to improve your family's oral health.

Good dental hygiene is very important to overall good health.

Dental hygiene is about more than just your teeth

Individuals tend to learn about dental hygiene at an early age. On the recommendation of their children's pediatricians, parents may begin brushing their youngsters' teeth the moment the first tooth breaks through the gums. While proper dental hygiene is vital to oral health, it also can have a profound effect on the rest of the body.

According to the Mayo Clinic, poor oral health might contribute to various diseases and conditions. Periodontitis is a severe yet preventable gum infection that can lead to tooth loss if left untreated. But the threat of periodontitis doesn't end in the mouth. The American Academy of Periodontology notes there's a connection between periodontitis and several other diseases. While bacteria was long suspected to be the link between periodontitis and other diseases in the body, the AAP notes that recent research points to inflammation as the culprit that connects periodontitis with diseases such as diabetes and heart disease

The AAP notes that people with diabetes are at increased risk for periodontal disease, speculating that diabetes patients' risk is higher because people with diabetes are more vulnerable to infections than those without diabetes. While that suggests periodontal disease is a byproduct of diabetes, the AAP notes that research points to the relationship being a two-way street. Periodontal disease may make it more difficult for people with diabetes to control their blood sugar, making dental hygiene an especially vital component of routine healthcare for people with diabetes.

Heart disease

The AAP notes that research indicates periodontal disease increases a person's risk for heart disease, with the inflammation caused by the former leading to the latter. People with existing heart conditions also may find that periodontal disease exacerbates those conditions. The Mayo Clinic notes that the link between heart disease and periodontal disease is not fully understood, but enough studies have been conducted for scientists to support the notion that the two are connected.

Can periodontal disease be prevented?

Periodontal disease is preventable. A daily dental hygiene regimen that includes brushing after meals, flossing at least once per day and swishing with mouthwash are some simple, healthy habits that can prevent periodontal disease. In addition, the AAP recommends that people at increased risk for periodontal disease, including the elderly and smokers, should discuss their risk with their dental professionals.

Dental hygiene can do more for individuals than produce a mouthful of pearly white teeth. In fact, people who prioritize dental hygiene may lower their risks for various diseases.

When can children brush their own teeth?

Parents quickly learn that their children go through a transition marked by a desire to be more independent. They're picking out their own mismatched clothes and no longer want any help when solving puzzles or complex toys. That newfound independence signals getting older and can be a healthy thing to nourish. But what happens when a youngster suddenly believes he or she is capable of brushing his or her teeth without assistance?

Parents wrestling with their kids' cando attitude and if it's wise to allow them to brush their teeth unassisted can familiarize themselves with certain guidelines to determine their youngsters' readiness.

According to Scripps Pediatric Dentistry & Orthodontics, most kids are at least six vears old before they have developed the finesse and dexterity to handle a toothbrush in a manner that will effectively remove plaque. Dentists also may ask if the child can tie his or her own shoes, which can serve as a barometer of readiness to wield a toothbrush without assistance.

Pediatricians and pediatric dentists recommend that children visit a dentist as soon as a child's first tooth starts to appear. This also is when parents should begin to clean their children's teeth. As a child ages, the natural proclivity to want to take charge of brushing teeth takes hold. The child may not yet have the manual dexterity to brush alone, but parents can encourage the child to brush and then go over the teeth as a "double check." This helps foster independence while also ensuring teeth are fully cleaned.

Flossing may require even more dexterity than brushing, but it is essential for sloughing off plaque that accumulates between teeth and below the gum line, according to Parents magazine. Moms and dads can introduce their children to pre-threaded Y-shaped flossing tools, which are easier to handle than loose floss.

Parents will have to check on children even as they age to be sure they are practicing good oral hygiene. Parents who are in doubt about their children's readiness can work with dentists or dental hygienists to assess skills and get other pointers.

Old Sturbridge Academy opens student exhibit

Over the 2021 school year, the 6th-grade students of Old Sturbridge Academy engaged in a hands-on, project-based, and arts-infused exploration of archaeology and the ancient world. Students created Grecianstyle vessels out of clay that was then fired in the Old Sturbridge Village kiln, located adjacent to the pottery shop. Taking inspiration from classic red-figure and black-figure techniques, students painted their own stories onto the vessels. Students crafted short stories, poems, and journal entries that correspond with their pottery to tell the audience what life was like for a 6th grader in the 2020-2021 school year. Their stories and pottery will appear in tandem in the exhibit.

Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have a permanent place to call home.

Commonwealth earns highest score to date on Women's Leadership Index

BY JASON BLEAU

DUDLEY - The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has received a score of 45 out of 100 in the latest version of the Massachusetts Women's Leadership Index (MWLI) according to Nichols College.

The Institute of Women's Leadership at Nichols College announced the release of the fourth edition of the MWLI on June 1, a biannual report that assesses the status of women in power in the commonwealth examining representation in political, corporate, and nonprofit leadership roles statewide. The score is the highest for the commonwealth since the index was established with previous scores of 36 in 2015, 39 in 2017, and 40 in Nichols College Associate Professor of Communication and Marketing Jean Beaupre, EdD, is lead researcher for the MWLI.

at Nichols College and lead researcher on the MWLI, commented on the increase in score over the years indicating that a rise in female CEOs and public and elected officials were main drivers for the new score. However, she also noted that the number in the 2021 MWLI doesn't reflect the full impact of the pandemic where women lost more jobs than men and, for those still working, faced burnout and increased working hours remotely. In some cases, this has even led to women with young children considering leaving the workforce. At the time of the MWLI publication, women's representation in the workforce was at its lowest since 1988 according to Beaupre. The report also indicates that the wage gap remains significant between genders at 81 percent.

"This past year has seen layoffs, stalled careers, and stress for all workers, but more so for women," said Beaupre in a statement release by Nichols College. "Given the many positive impacts that female leaders have on their organizations and staff, it is in the best interest of all that we maintain and strengthen our focus on developing and supporting women.'

According to the report women comprise 51.5 percent of the state's population with only 31 percent servicing in the state legislature, 8 percent being corporate CEOs, 24 percent on board seats for companies, agencies or organizations, and 26 percent are nonprofit CEOs.

Retiring Nichols College President Susan Engelkemeyer, PhD, who helped found the Institute for Women's Leadership in 2013, said the increase score is enlightening but there's still plenty of room for improvement.

Women striving for leadership roles have and continue to face both challenges and opportunity in the workforce," said Engelkemeyer. "The Massachusetts Women's Leadership Index is a valuable point of reflection and this year, we saw a rise in representation, with an increased aggregate score of 45/100. But as we look to the future, much work remains.'

Bay Path LPN reflects on becoming a school nurse

CHARLTON — When Kalie Hernandez, LPN of Southbridge participated in the School Nurse Observation as part of her Clinicals for Term 2, Medical-Surgical Nursing at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy back in 2017, becoming a school nurse was the farthest in her

School nurses keep students and faculty safe and healthy, a role that Hernandez thought was not her cup of tea. After graduation, she initially worked at the Family Health Center of Worcester then as a field nurse with the Aveanna Healthcare in Shrewsbury concentrating on pediatric home care including providing care in school. Since August 2020, she has been with the Holyoke Public Schools providing care within the classroom to medically fragile students. She has come to the realization that all this time her nursing journey has led her to become a school nurse!

"I do remember my school nurse observation experience and the wonderful RNs at Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School," stated Hernandez. "I just didn't think it was for me."

During the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic the school nurses across the country have taken on more responsibilities that are far beyond the call of duty. During an ordinary school year being a school nurse is challenging enough. Hernandez is grateful for her career which is anything but ordinary. The school year has been a whirlwind for Hernandez who has been meeting added challenges despite strict yet ever-evolving guidelines and restrictions. Hernandez takes pride in the work she does at the Holyoke Public Schools and credits her training and education at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy especially her School Nurse Observation experience in her success. She remains connected with Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy serving as an active member of the Advisory Committee, volunteering as a mentor, speaking at information sessions, and most recently participating in the Mock Code Team preparation day. Hernandez has formed a tight bond with the Bay Path Community that has allowed her to work cohesively with faculty, staff, students, and fellow alumni.

"Kalie's been active with the Advisory Committee since she was a student representative, she does a wonderful job of maintaining relationships and anticipating what needs to be done at the Academy," said Academy Director Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN. "She notifies me of job opportunities for our graduates. We continue to work together on Practical Nursing Education related things and LPN- to- BSN Academic Progression.'

Bolandrina says that alumna like Hernandez who constantly gives back to the Bay Path community is a god-

We're on the phone together via text or email and always checking in. Kalie offers help with current students to make sure they are successful. She is also on the ball with the Advisory Committee schedule," said Bolandrina. "So, we stay pretty close in touch.'

Hernandez arrived at the Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy in the fall of 2016. She was inducted into the National Technical Honor Society and was a member of the UNICEF Club. Hernandez participated in the admissions panel interviews and competed in SkillsUSA earning a Silver Medal at both District and State level for the Practical Nursing category.

"I am honored and grateful for the opportunities and experiences. I thank Bay Path for always supporting me in my professional growth," concludes Hernandez.

EDITORIAL United we stand, divided we fall

In the 6th century B.C., Aesop shared a fable about the Lion and The Four Oxen. The story, if you have not heard it, goes like this:

A lion used to prowl around a field where four oxen dwelled. Several times he would try to eat them but whenever he approached the four oxen would back their tales up to each other with their bodies pointed outward in different directions. No matter what direction the lion approached, he was met by the horns of one of them and could do nothing. Finally, the oxen began quarreling amongst themselves and so each went off to a pasture of their own in a separate corner of the field. Then the lion attacked them one by one and soon made an end to all four.

The moral to Aesop's tale has become one of the most well known sayings of our time — United we stand, divided we fall. President Abraham Lincoln parroted the sentiment in his acceptance speech, during this same month in the year 1858: "A house divided against itself cannot stand.'

As of late, it seems the division amongst the country and even in our small communities has grown deeper. What this Editor noticed, however, is that most well minded, kind, compassionate, intelligent people all want the same things. To be happy and successful. The arguments ensue, when people have different ideas on how to reach such a state of success in our government, and even in our own lives. When one person thinks we should reach A by doing x and y, and another thinks we should reach A by doing z, tempers flare. We want to remind you, that there is no reason to get heated when talking to a friend or colleague. Getting heated at a stranger is even more inappropriate. It's ok if someone disagrees with you. Remain calm.

What needs to unfold, is the ability to hear each other out with a listening ear. Where one person's experience ends, another's begins. Solutions always appear in that middle area, where compromises are

To be steadfast in your beliefs is important, but it's even more important to exercise some flexibility, that is where growth takes place. This is where we can learn from someone who doesn't think the same way we do. It does not make a person weak, when there is a mind shift. It makes them smart.

We're seeing a lot of arguing on social media, people publicly going back and forth, and the thread never ends with any real change being made. If you want to have a meaningful, productive conversation with someone online, take it to a private message, where the world isn't watching. In the public eye, we all can be defensive.

Now, there are extremists on both sides of any argument, in those cases, there's not much you can do. There are people who want to see things through one lens and one lens only. Fine, let them. You will also see ignorance and evil come flying out of the mouths of those you never thought capable, fine let them. Remember that the majority of the people in this country want to unify. It comes down to common sense. United we stand, divided we fall. That statement could not ring truer.

Be strong enough in character, where you are a leader, whether that be in your own community, at work or in your own family. Unity should always be the end goal. Therefore, if you see someone that disagrees with you, and you want to unify, have a conversation that will do just that.

Sometimes, try simply saying, "Hey the country is really divided right now, how can we start to unify on a small scale?" That question puts both people in a position to come up with a solution that works for everyone. Then the domino effect takes hold. Then unity happens, then change, then success.

"None of us is as smart, as all of us." Ken Blanchard

A Roundup of Timely Tips for Summer

"lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer' will soon be here - if you know some tricks of the trade to make your warm weather activities less of a hassle! The following timely tips are a roundup of seasonal hints geared toward carefree summertime living.

Yard & Garden Tips:

*Citronella candles can be costly! Make your own economical citronella candles to protect your patio or deck from insects by drilling a one inch hole near the wick of an ordinary thick candle.

Fill the hole with citronella, cover with melted wax and pocket the savings!

*'Tis the season of poison ivy! If you find some of the pesky plant in your yard, here's an environmentally safe way to bid the stop the poisonous pest in its tracks. Mix together three pounds of regular table salt with a gallon of soapy water. Spray the solution directly on the plant's leaves and stems. It works for mere pennies a treatment.

*Bug repellents are costly, but not if you cut out the fluff and buy the active ingredient in expensive commercial formulas. The Center for Disease Control recommends "Repel" as a safe and effective mosquito repellent. Before you run out to buy a pricy pump bottle of the stuff, stock up on its main ingredient, lemon eucalyptus - and save a bundle!

*Who wants to spend money on a new garden hose? Extend your leaky hose to the end of the season this way: Insert a toothpick into the hole, just penetrating the hose wall. Cut off the toothpick flush with the surface of the hose. Wrap the hose with duct tape that covers the toothpick plus two inches on each side of the repair. As the water flows through the hose, the toothpick will swell and fill up the hole and making a tight seal.

Produce Pointers:

*Bananas give off a gas called ethylene. If you want to speed up the ripening of other fruits place them next to your bananas.

*When green grapes have a yellow tinge to them they are at their sweetest.

*Never store tomatoes in the refrigerator. Besides losing their nutritional value, they will also lose their flavor. Store tomatoes above 55°F.

*Washing produce is a necessary chore, but you can save money if you whip up this homemade version of the pricey commercial brand for pennies: In a spray bottle, mix two tablespoons of baking soda with one cup of water. If you Spray veggies, let sit for a few minutes

* To make a homemade "fruit fresh" clone, dissolve two vitamin C tablets in a large bowl of water. Dunk in the fruits or vegetables to keep them fresher longer.

TAKE THE HINT

Vacation Tricks: *Going on vacation?

You can keep your house plants watered for up to a month by watering the plant well and then placing it (pot and all) in a clear plastic bag. Tie it securely on the top and bottom. Place the plant in northern light. When you return, simply untie the top and let the plant adjust to room air for a day or two before removing the plastic completely. Or, if you have several smaller plants, simply place a thick, wet towel in the bottom of the bathtub and place pots on top of the towel for the duration. The plants should remain moist for about a week.

*Planning a road trip? Make up economical freezer packs to keep cooler foods chilled while you're on the road. Mix one part rubbing alcohol with two parts water & freeze in a gallon size ziplock bag. The bag will be pliable enough to conform to soda cans, fruits or other cooler items. Just re-freeze and use over and over again. This same formula made up in a smaller batch also works great as an icebag to sooth injuries. Just be sure to put a damp cloth between the skin and the icepack to prevent frostbite.

*Always toss several ziplock storage bags in your luggage. They can be used to stow wet swimsuits, dirty socks, sandy seashells, and have dozens more impromptu vacation uses! When you pack, toss a tablespoon or so of baking soda into a large ziplock bag to prevent wet bathing suits from getting mildew on the trip home.

Valuable philosophy of an old coal miner all seems so import-

On May 31, 1975 at 1:15 p.m., I was sitting with my friend Rob at the Sunshine Tap in Traer, Iowa, eating a hamburger, fries and washing it down with a Pepsi. I was wearing cut off blue jeans, an old white t-shirt with Cavaliers Drum & Bugle Corps emblazoned across my chest, and sandals.

Around the corner and across the street in Taylor Park, there was a hundred or so people beginning to gather for a wedding that was set to begin at two o'clock... a mere 45 minutes later.

The bride's father was nervous and pacing in his tux. With each passing moment he'd check his watch, look out across the park, and mumble something inaudible.

I asked for the check, paid the tab, then Rob and I began our short walk to the park.

As we crossed the street, I saw the father of the bride rushing towards us. "I can't believe this!" He growled as he approached. "I didn't think you were going to show."

I looked at Rob. "Doesn't it begin at two o'clock?" I asked.

"Where's your tux?" He demanded with increasing anger.

"In the car. I'll get dressed now." I quickly walked away to my 1972 green Pinto and dressed outside the car. I was half amused and half intimidated, but at two o'clock sharp, I was there as promised and waiting at the alter for Arlene.

That was over 46 years ago, and we are still married. Her dad grew to forgive my casual approach to the beginning of my life with his daughter, thankfully. Fast forward forty-six years...

Three grown children, two grand kids, and a life together has passed before the blink of our eyes. How can this be? Where does the time go?

Aging and a bad health diagnosis has me pondering what this life is all about. I keep coming up with this...

"Life is about who we love, who loves us in return, and what we build togeth-meaningless. Who we love, who loves us in return and the life we build together is everything. I believe too many marriages begin without commitment. "If it doesn't work out, there's always ant at the time but as time passes and we look back on it all, it's divorce," I heard a bride say a few years ago. Yes, it's easy to give up and move on. It's harder to stick with it, push through the problems and make it work. And ves. I understand there are some relationships that cannot be fixed and it's necessary to move on from violence and abuse, along with a few other reasons, but I believe most divorces are premature and often unnecessary. My grandfather was a coal miner. He had a saying, "Stick and stay and make it pay." I asked him what it meant, and he said, "Young men often quit after their first day or two in the mine. Fear of a shaft collapse or just the sickening experience of breathing the thick black dust often cause them to quit. Stick and stay was the advice the old timers would give."

I realize that advise is applicable to almost everything in life, including marriage. If you loved each other enough to get married, love each other enough to stick with it and make it work. Don't give up.

Our marriage has been far from perfect, but we stuck with each other. We committed to building a life and family together. We smoothed out the rough edges over time. Mistakes were made, worked out and we learned from them and here we are forty-six years later, married, and happy.

Maybe life really is only about who we love, who loves us in return and what we build together. And you know what? I think it's more than enough.

Discuss financial goals with your family

FINANCIAL Focus

JEFF BURDICK

June is Effective Communications Month. And it's a good idea to recognize the importance of good communications because it plays a role in almost every aspect of living including your finances. You'll want to clearly communicate your financial goals to your loved ones - and you'll want to hear theirs, too.

Let's look at some of the communications you might have with family members:

• Your spouse – You and your spouse may have different thoughts about a range of financial topics - how much to save, how much to spend, the level of debt with which you're comfortable and so on. Try to reach some type of consensus on these issues. However, in regard to investing, you don't necessarily have to act in unison all the time. You each may have different investment styles – one of you may be more aggressive, willing to take on more risk in exchange for potentially higher returns, while the other would rather invest with an eye toward mitigating risk, even it means accepting a lower return. Of course, there's nothing stopping each of you from pursuing your individual investment strategies in your own accounts - IRA, 401(k) and so on. Still, if you are going to work toward common goals - especially toward a shared vision of your retirement lifestyle – you each may want to compromise in your invest ment choices. And this accommodation is even more necessary in your joint accounts.

• Your parents - If you may someday be involved with your parents' financial plans - which is highly likely – you should know in advance what to expect. This may not be the easiest conversation to have, but it's an important one. So, for example, ask your parents if they have a durable power of attorney, which allows them to designate someone to manage their financial affairs if they become physically or mentally incapacitated. You might also inquire if they have protected themselves against the potentially enormous costs of long-term care, such as an extended nursing home stay. If not, you might suggest that they contact a financial advisor, who can offer solutions. Once you begin communicating about these issues, you may well want to go further into vour parents' estate plans to determine what other arrangements, if any, they have made. If it seems that their plans are not fully developed, you may want to encourage them to contact an attorney specializing in estate planning. • Your grown children – Just as you talk to your parents about their estate plans, you'll want to discuss the same topic with your own grown children. Let them know who you have named as a durable power of attorney, what's in your last will and testament and whether you've established a living trust. If you're already working with a financial advisor and an estate planning professional, make sure your children know how to contact these individuals. Of course, you don't have to confine your communications to estate plans - if you want to help your children financially, such as loaning them money for a down payment on a home, let them know.

By talking with your loved ones about key financial matters, everyone benefits. So, keep those lines of communication open.

In search of porgies

THE GREAT OUTDOORS RALPH TRUE

As fishing heats up on the saltwater, anglers are catching a lot of fish on most fishing trips, either on a charter or on a private vessel. Striper fishing has been very good on the Providence River until my brother and myself made a trip last week. Reports were good prior to our fishing trip last Wednesday, launching just above the Bold Point boat ramp. It was a beautiful day with light winds. The sun was just coming up, and the tide was going out for a few more hours. Striper fishing is crazy, and you never know when they are going to be feeding or just become lazy, making for a slow day of fishing. The heavy rain prior to our trip cooled the water down by a few degrees. That is all it takes sometimes.

To make a long story short, we fished for four hours without spotting a single (porgy) baitfish. Unable to catch some fresh for bait, we had us settle for trolling large rebels which produced a single hit, but was lost halfway in. We watched numerous anglers land stripers using porgies, but most were undersize and had to be released. This week, I talked to the owner of Archie's Bait Shop in Providence, R.I., and he revealed the following information. The day we were there, everyone that was looking for the porgies to snag for live bait had a very hard time locating them. The stripers were not driving the baitfish to the top, and when they stay near the bottom, they are hard to snag.

Tides make all the difference in stimulating the stripers to feed, and sometimes, it is the incoming or outgoing tides that are best. Stripers do not like the sun, and are often slow in there feeding habits, especially in shallow water. It is not always the case, but more often than not, I find it is the norm, at least for me. Last week, when we were on the Providence River, we fished in four to six feet of water hoping to find some bass and bluefish feeding near the top. In the past, many fish would swirl near the top as the boat approached. That is the time to use surface poppers. Anyway, we had no luck and decided that we had enough, and headed for home.

As we passed the area that has a few windmills on the south shoreline, I noticed a half dozen boats fishing close to it. Slowing the motor to get a better look at what was going on, my hunch was right. A school of baitfish were on top, and anglers were snagging them. We quickly grabbed our rods equipped with snagging hooks and were pleasantly surprised at the dozen of bait fish we snagged in 10 or 15 minutes.

"If only we could have had some of these earlier," I remarked to my brother.
The tide had just changed, and the porgies were driven to the top by feeding fish below, but not many anglers were catching fish, and of those that were, the stripers were small with most being released.

It was now 11 a.m., and I had had enough fishing. It was time to head for home and catch a nice nap. I used to fish both tides in my younger years, but now one is enough. It is just nice to go fishing at age 82 with my brother Ken and talk about the good old days. "Just wait till next week, when we return to try our luck again on the Providence River!" Vengeance is sweet. The following week, Archie's Bait & Tackle shop in Providence reported on a couple of anglers catching up to 14 stripers in the Providence River which all were released but one, because they were too big!

Anglers continue to catch some nice seabass and scup in Massachusetts! Oops! Last week's report stated that Massachusetts was closed to seabass when, in fact, they are open and Rhode Island is closed until the 24th of June, opening with a three fish limit. Just another senior moment. Anglers should always check their abstracts for fish limits and regulations. It is crazy that both states cannot agree on season dates and limits!

Numerous kayaks were observed in the Providence River, and are a very common sighting of these seaworthy fishing watercraft. I sure wish they were around in my younger years. Some are equipped with a small electric motor, while others are powered with foot pedals, or the old fashion paddles. Standing up in the kayaks are also easy for the younger generation, but not for me! Whatever your preference is for fishing, getting out there and enjoying the great outdoors will keep you young and healthy, and the rewards of catching a striper to bring home for the table is like icing on the cake. Grab your fishing rod and your family and go fishing!

June 5-6 is Massachusetts freshwater free fishing weekend. Take advantage of the free fishing weekend, and you may just get hooked on fishing.

Manage mosquitoes to better enjoy your outdoor space

GARDEN Moments MELINDA

MYERS

Dine, play, and enjoy your outdoor spaces more than ever this year by managing annoying and disease-spreading mosquitoes. Use a multifaceted approach to boost your enjoyment and help keep mosquitoes away.

Plan your outdoor activities when mosquitoes are less active. Females are the ones looking for a blood meal and are most active at dusk and dawn when looking for warmth and food.

Screened-in porches add a layer of protection but only when they are intact and properly sealed. The same applies to your home. Check screens and seals around doors and windows to help keep these pests from entering your home.

Use bug lights in light fixtures by entryways and in outdoor entertainment spaces. These emit yellow light that is not as attractive to mosquitoes and other insects. Bug lights will not eliminate every unwanted insect but will reduce the number visiting your lights at night and finding their way into your home.

Enhance the ambience and reduce mosquito issues when entertaining outdoors. Use a fan to create a cooler space and keep these weak flyers away. Provide fragrant subtle lighting with citronella oil and scented candles. Scatter them throughout the area and within a few feet of the guests for shortterm relief.

Reduce the overall mosquito population in your yard by eliminating their breeding grounds. Empty water that collects in items left outside. Change the water in your birdbath at least weekly or whenever you water your container gardens. Add a bubbler or pump to keep water moving in fountains and ponds so mosquito larvae cannot survive.

Toss an organic mosquito control like Mosquito Dunks and Bits

Scatter citronella oil and candles throughout outdoor entertainment areas and within a few feet of guests for short-term relief from mosquitoes.

(SummitResponsibleSolutions.com) in your rain barrel, pond, or other water feature. Mosquito Bits quickly knock down the mosquito larval population, while the Mosquito Dunks provide 30 days of control. The active ingredient is Bacillusthuringiensis israelensis, a naturally occurring soil bacterium that kills the mosquito larvae but is safe for children, fish, pets, beneficial insects, and wildlife.

Keep your landscape looking its best by managing weeds and grooming neglected gardens. This eliminates some of the resting spaces for hungry adult mosquitoes.

Always protect yourself whenever outdoors. Cover as much of your skin as possible with loose fitting, light colored clothing. Mosquitoes are less attracted to the lighter colors and cannot readily reach your skin through loose clothing.

Further protect yourself by using a personal repellent approved by the EPA. For those looking for DEET-free options, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention has approved products with the active ingredient picaridin, IR3535, and the synthetic oil of lemon and eucalyptus. Check the label for a list of active ingredients and safety recommendations when shopping for mosquito repellents. Avoid products that contain both sunscreen and insect repellent since you need to apply sunscreen more often than the repellent.

Spending more time outdoors is good for our mind, body, and spirit. Using a combination of mosquito-managing tactics will allow you to enjoy and benefit from your time outdoors.

bers. We realize if this project moves forward it's going to be a long-term investment in the community and a long-term investment in the region. We want to make sure that the numbers we're talking about here today are a baseline that we can begin these conversations. If anything, they'll only grow larger."

Near the end of the presentation Selectman David Singer brought up his decision to side with other selectmen against Article 17 prior to the annual town meeting stating that there was some confusion among members of the public about why Amazon's name couldn't be divulged prior to the vote. While Singer made it clear he wasn't against the project calling it "a good opportunity for both Charlton and Amazon" he sought an answer for the lack of transparency leading up to the vote.

There have been comments made at town meeting and online. I'm hearing from some people that there was a confidentiality agreement or nondisclosure agreement which is why we couldn't find out before now who it was. I'm hearing from others there was no confidentiality agreement. This has nothing to do with Amazon or (Bluewater Group), this is purely on the town side. There's a lot of confusion," said Singer. "To me, honesty and transparency for our residents is paramount and I just want to clarify and eliminate the confusion.

John DiCola of Bluewater Group admitted that there was no confidentiality on nondisclosure agreement that prevented them from including Amazon's name in town discussions. He said this was a decision made by several parties to avoid making the vote about Amazon itself.

"In reality, we were eager to introduce Amazon prior to the vote on Article 17. We had no intention, and it wasn't a concern about introducing Amazon to the community that prevented that from happening. What we were trying to abide by was that this was one site of a number of sites for which Article 17 governed and it was not appropriate for us at that time to make Article 17 about this particular property only or about our intended development and the occupancy of Amazon. It would have been inappropriate for us to do that ahead of Article 17 being voted upon as agnostic to anything other than whether the community was open to these type of economic development projects being considered," said DiCola.

Selectman Steven Koronis made a point that even without Amazon's name attached voters approved the article showing an interest in economic development in Charlton. "Keep in mind that the town meeting vote, whether or not we knew who it was, it was (decisively) in the positive," said Koronis. "The town sent and overwhelming message that, yes, we are looking for development, we are looking for something like this, so let's learn about it. That was the message."

Selectman Singer followed up Koronis's comment stating that while the selectmen may disagree on the significance of transparency in this particular case, Singer was "glad" the voters approved the Article and allow Amazon to come forward with a potential opportunity for growth in Charlton.

If the project goes through Amazon expects to open the facility as early as the summer of 2023.

to overcome them over the last year through Zoom and other virtual plat-

"It is astounding how effective the program has been, despite the global pandemic. I regularly connect with others via Zoom, assisting them in becoming more effective communicators, empathic family members, and stronger advocates for their needs," said local diversion coordinator Ivette Reyes, a regular member of the program.

In recent years, state officials have focused heavily on increasing programs and resources for juvenile offenders. The goal is to prevent them from winding up in adult institutions.

'Our juvenile court is, in many ways, our most important court. We can try to prevent a lifetime of involvement with the criminal justice system for these kids," Early said. "It is crime prevention at its best."

The program operates in all five juvenile courts in Worcester County (Worcester, Milford, Leominster, Fitchburg, and Dudley). The diversion program serves local youths ages 12-17 who are charged with assault and battery on a family member or a caregiver.

Individuals qualifying for the program can have their arraignments postponed for up to three months while the family is connected with services. If the service plan is being followed for each step, the charge will ultimately be dismissed prior to arraignment and the juvenile will avoid having a criminal For more information or to reserve space, please contact
