The Shepherd Hill Show Choir Staff honored their outgoing seniors with a special parade and presentation of senior banners to 30 soon-to-be graduates.

BY JASON BLEAU VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON/DUDLEY – The COVID-19 pandemic has affected the lives of seniors across the country preventing them from enjoying their final month of high school education in a traditional manner. This has forced many school districts and departments to get creative with how they honor their outgoing seniors. For the show choir seniors from Shepherd Hill Regional High School in the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District that involved the choir staff visiting each seniors' home in the form of a Senior Celebration Parade.

In late April, the Shepherd Hill Show Choir staff took to the streets of Charlton, Dudley and Webster and even Putnam, Connecticut to visit the homes of graduating seniors and bid them a final farewell. Over the course of five and a half hours Choral Director Becky Bussiere, choreographers Greg Bubba Bussiere and Ashley Racicot, pit band director Lester Boggio, assistants Connie Galli, Jana Deschenes and Zachary Moore, and Technical Director Kristin Marengo drove together parade style presenting banners with each senior's likeness. Choral Director Bussiere said this was an attempt by the staff to maintain a longstanding tradition at the school by modifying it for current times.

"Every year, we end our show choir'S season with a banquet. We hang the senior banners we make for the show choir festival we host at our school. They hang in the cafeteria for the show choir community to see. Since we never got to finish our competition season or have our banquet, the show choir staff decided to make a parade and deliver some joy to our kids," Bussiere said.

Charlton requires employees to wear masks

BY JASON BLEAU

CHARLTON – Charlton is following suit with many towns and states by implementing the mandated use of face masks by town employees in order to help curb the spread of the COVID-19 virus.

During a livestreamed meeting on April 28, Town Administrator Andrew Golas presented a modification to the town's policies regarding safe practices by town employees for the duration of the pandemic which will require the use of face masks while in or around the town hall.

"There are a variety of opinions on the effectiveness of facemask covering; however, this policy is being implemented out of respect to health concerns of all employees

CHARLTON — "Most Eye opening, most beautiful place on earth, even better than Disney," says Grace Boutiette. Boutiette first attended Camp

Sunshine three years ago as a junior in High School while sporting a full length leg cast and a pair of crutches. The past two summers, she has returned to Camp volunteering as the Camp Photographer. Grace said she is studying to become a nurse inspired by Camp Sunshine.

Camp Sunshine operates under the Mission: "Founded in 1984, Camp Sunshine provides retreats combining respite, recreation and support, while enabling hope and promoting joy, for children with life-threatening illnesses and their families through the various stages of a child's illness.

Camp Sunshine's program is offered year-round and has the distinction of having been designed to serve the entire family in a retreat model. The program is free of charge to families and includes on-site medical support. Bereavement sessions are also offered for families who have experienced the death of a child from a supported illness.

Charlton to host virtual Candidates Night

BY JASON BLEAU VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON – Although limitations on public gatherings remain in place for the month of May, Charlton is marching towards its annual town elections in June and with that a new format has been established for voters to meet the candidates that will be on the ballot.

On May 18, the town will host a Zoom event where candidates for office will be introduced to the public and presented with questions to help voters determine who they would like to choose for town leadership. The candidates' night will allow citizens to learn more about those running for town offices in a similar manner to past events but from the comfort of their homes with respect to social distancing practices currently in effect.

Selectman David Singer said during a Zoom meeting in late April they are currently working on getting all candidates involved with the event and that public input will be welcome during the livestream.

"All questions should be submitted to Kathleen Walker, coordinator for the event, at kwalker4@mac.com. Questions will also be taken from the audience. The event will be posted on YouTube. Karen Spiewak will be the timer," Singer said.

The hope is to end the event by 8 p.m. making it an approximately two-hour commitment for voters either during the livestream or during YouTube viewings.

Charlton announced in April that the town election and spring annual town meeting have been moved to June 13 and June 15 respectively due to the ongoing pandemic. With the change also comes a new format for absentee ballots and early voting. Selectman Karen Spiewak said she has received numerous questions from citizens and felt compelled to clear up some of those concerns after speaking with the Town Clerk's office.

"They did clarify that the state has allowed the use of an absentee ballot application with no reason. Usually you have to have a reason, but this year because of the virus you can use it. That's what they're using for early voting actually "Spiewak said Absentee ballots are currently available on the Town of Charlton website. Questions, concerns, and completed applications can be directed to Eric Tully at eric.tully@townofcharlton. net. For more information on the 2020 Charlton town election as well as a list of candidates visit townofcharlton.net.

National Nurses Week

Stonebridge Press and the following businesses would like to recognize nurses during National Nurses Week (May 6-May 12).

Thank you for your selfless dedication, kindness, compassion, and bravery especially during these pandemic times. You are truly angels in scrubs. Thank you for all you do all year long.

What nurses do each day

There are millions of nurses nationwide. According to the American Association of Colleges of Nursing, there are roughly 3.8 million registered nurses in the United States. That number figures to grow along with the demand for qualified, highly trained Nurses perform a variety of functions, some even administer such of which may come as a surprise to those outside the medical profession. Learning more about what nurses do on a daily basis can paint a clearer picture of just how vital these health care professionals are.

Nurses are on the front lines of the medical profession, often interacting with patients more than any other professional within the health care field. Nurses communicate concerns, answer questions about conditions and care. While there are many tasks nurses can perform, some of their main responsibilities are observing and recording behavior, performing physical exams and diagnostic tests, collecting patient health histories, counseling patients and their families, and educating about treatment plans. Nurses also are responsible for administering medications, addressing and treating wounds and interpreting doctors' patient information to make decisions about necessary actions, where appropriate.

Nurses excel at listening to patients and analyzing their physical and emotional needs. Nurses also coordinate care with other health care providers and stay current with treatment options and cutting edge research and technology.

In addition to the aforementioned tasks, nurses may draw blood and perform other health-related tests. Testing may differ based on the subspecialty of the nurse. For example, obstetrics nurses may initiate sonograms or oversee urine testing for pregnancy hormones. Pediatric nurses may plot growth charts and administer routine immunizations.

Nurses are also there to listen to patients, and some may offer compassionate advice as they aim to help patients navigate difficult situations.

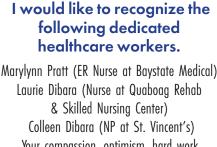

According to Career-Builder, nurses who work in physicians' offices, community health centers, schools, and other health environments may enjoy a regular working schedule and shifts during typical business hours. However, nurses working in hospitals and trauma centers tend to work rotating shifts to ensure patients receive round-the-clock care. Many nurses work outside traditional business hours, including during evenings, holidays and on weekends. Some nurses are even on-call like doctors.

Nurses possess a distinct skill set that enables them to handle various

How to implement infection prevention measures in the workplace

Protecting workers has long been a priority for business owners, but that responsibility took on new meaning in the wake of the outbreak of the COV-ID-19 virus in late-winter 2020. Business owners accustomed to traditional workplace safety protocols designed primarily to prevent accidents and injuries were now tasked with protecting workers from a deadly virus.

Though many businesses were forced to close their doors in an effort to prevent the spread of the virus, many others remained fully or partially operational. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration recommends employers implement the following hygiene and infection control practices in an effort to prevent workers from infection.

• Promote frequent and thorough handwashing. Workers, customers and worksite visitors should be routinely reminded of the importance of washing their hands. The OSHA advises employers, in instances where soap and running water are not immediately available, to provide their employees with alcohol-based hand rubs that contain at least 60 percent alcohol. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention urges people to employ the following techniques when washing their hands:

When washing with soap and water: - Lather the hands by rubbing them together with the soap, making sure to scrub all surfaces of the hands, including palms, backs, fingers, between

- Scrub for at least 20 seconds

fingers, and under the nails

- Rinse hands clean under running
- Dry hands with a clean towel or air

When washing with alcohol-based sanitizers:

- Cover all surfaces of the hands with the product before rubbing hands
- Rub hands together until they feel dry, about 20 seconds
- Encourage workers to stay home if they are sick. Employers should emphasize to workers the importance of staying home if they feel sick. Even people who feel ill but are not showing any signs of COVID-19 infection, which the CDC notes include shortness of breath, fever and cough, should stay home. That's because any illness can weaken a person's immune system, which makes them more vulnerable to viruses like COVID-19. Staying home when they feel sick is a great way for employees to protect not only themselves, but also their coworkers.

- Encourage respiratory etiquette. The OSHA and the CDC say covering your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze, putting used tissues in the waste basket and coughing or sneezing into an upper sleeve when no tissues are available can help prevent the spread of germs.
- Discourage sharing. Workers should be discouraged from sharing phones, desks, offices, and tools or equipment whenever possible. This can help prevent the spread of germs.
- Choose the appropriate cleaning chemicals. The OSHA advises employers to use chemical cleaners approved by the Environmental Protection Agency. The OSHA notes that products with EPA-approved emerging viral pathogens are expected to be effective against SARS-CoV-2 based on data for harder to kill viruses.

Protecting their employees from COVID-19 is of the utmost importance for employers across the globe. Safety measures can be implemented rather easily and ultimately save lives. TF206046

Second Chance volunteer fosters making the best of stay-at-home

EAST BROOKFIELD Some very lucky families have found a great way to spend their time during the current stay-at-home advisory - helping to care for newborn kittens for Second Chance Animal Services. Right now, Second Chance has four litters of kittens in their care and they are grateful to their volunteer fosters who are providing round the clock care for these helpless babies.

Fosters follow many of the steps of the lifesaving kitten protocol which was developed by Second Chance to help save the lives of prematurely born kittens, including weighing the kittens twice a day to ensure they are receiving the proper amount of nutrition. The protocol was published last year to help increase the odds of survival for premature kittens through animal welfare organizations across the country.

Second Chance has so many kittens in foster right now that they dedicated their weekly Wish List Wednesday Facebook post to the kittens in hopes of receiving more kitchen scales to help fosters track each kitten's weight. Second Chance shared a video of a foster kitten nicknamed Mitten being brushed with a toothbrush. The toothbrush feels like a mother's tongue for the kitten.

Mitten and his sibling are getting extra attention from the whole family. Five-yearold Lila asks her mom to bring home foster kittens and likes to help feed and bathe them daily. Her mom says fostering provides important life lessons, from caring for others to saying goodbye to the kittens when it's time for them to go back to Second Chance so they can find forever homes. Lila's two-year-old brother Callen is doing his part, cuddling with the kittens to provide socialization under the close supervision of mom's watchful eye.

When the kittens are old enough, they will return to Second Chance where vets will clear them for adoption after they are spayed or neutered and vaccinated. The next stop is the adoption center in East Brookfield where they will be available for adoption.

Second Chance is currently working to process all the foster applications that have been submitted by animal lovers looking for a way to help during the COVID-19 crisis. For more information becoming a foster, secondchanceanimals.

Nichols sends off Class of 2020 with virtual celebration

BY JASON BLEA

DUDLEY - Even though the Nichols College graduating class of 2020 were unable to enjoy their final months together on campus due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the school still made an effort to recognize the achievements of these graduates with a special virtual ceremony on Saturday, May 2.

While the college does plan to hold an in-person graduation ceremony in the future, Nichols College did not want to send their outgoing graduates into the world without one more get together even if they had to do it online. The ceremony was held on YouTube the morning of May 2 featuring several speakers including Nichols President Susan Engelkemeyer who recalled her address from 2016 when many of the Class of 2020 started their Nichols College journeys. It was then she assured them that upon graduating in 2020 they would look back with "2020 vision" on their experiences. However, given recent events, she added to that sentiment calling the Class of 2020 one of the most prepared groups to face the trials that lay before them in their unknown futures.

"While you've learned lessons of fear and loss you've also found courage, hope and a greater sense of community. This pandemic has dramatically changed the celebration we had planned for today with your family and friends surrounding you, but in the not too distant future you may come to realize that this has given you a very special legacy and a really great story, President Engelkemeyer said. "You will not only get past this, but you will be stronger because of how these past two months have shaped you. You are more prepared than most to come out on top because your resilience has enabled you to succeed in the face of adversity." Class Representative Janey Newman served as the guest speaker handpicked by the Class of 2020 for the ceremony.

She held back tears as she addressed

She capped off her address by recalling the words of the late Mr. Rogers and his famous quote about looking for the helpers in times of need. Just as many at Nichols College have helped the Class the students she helped lead through their college careers one final time. She called the unique and unprecedented virtual celebration a fitting one for the Class of 2020, a group she said was "anything by traditional."

Guest speakers for the Nichols College Class of 2020 Virtual Celebration President Susan Engelkemeyer, Valedictorian Jessica Larsh, Class Speaker Taylor Ward and Class Representative Janey Newman make a toast to the senior class.

"This is a time when our relationships and our communities are an integral part of our daily lives. The world that we're living in right now has brought us back to the basics. It has given us the rare opportunity to focus on what is important to each of us and a time to reflect on what matters most," Newman said.

of 2020 reach their full potential, she believes the graduates are entering the world ready to step up to the plate when called upon.

The virtual ceremony also allowed a few students to address their class in one final farewell to their college years. Class Speaker Taylor Ward took the time to thank Nichols College and her classmates for giving her bonds that she will cherish for the rest of her life.

"If it wasn't for Nichols, I'd still be an only child but now I have hundreds of brothers and sisters and I can't wait to support each other for the rest of our lives," Ward said. "We gave a lot, left our legacy like they told us to, but we didn't know how much more we would gain. An education, endless networks, role models, opportunities and countless memories but most importantly we got a family."

Class Valedictorian Jessica Larsh admitted that her speech changed significantly from when she first wrote it in February, a month before the COVID-19 pandemic forced the school to close. She admitted had she known what was on the horizon she would have made a few more memories with her classmates before returning home, but said the memories she did make and the lessons she learned at the school will forever be a part of her life.

"I hope that this experience we are all going through can bring our class closer together and make our return, whether it be for an in-person graduation or on homecoming weekend, something we can cherish more than we could have ever imagined. Going through this quarantine has taught me to appreciate my friends that I made at Nichols more than ever and to not take anything for granted," Larsh said. 'Just because our graduation will be held in a different format right now and on a different day in the future that has yet to be determined doesn't mean that it takes away our achievements as a whole. Class of 2020, we will forever be united and remembered as the class that persevered despite these difficult times."

The ceremony closed with educators from the different departments all coming together to wish the graduates good luck. Finally, it was all capped off by a toast to the future and a promise to remember the Class of 2020 as one of the most enduring group of students in Nichols College history.

Mother's Day gifts sure to please

MELINDA MYERS Each year, we set aside one day to

GARDEN

honor mothers. And each year, we struggle to find the perfect gift to show them we care. Cut flowers are one of the most popular gifts. No dusting and maintenance required, and they are sure to generate a smile. Behavioral research at Rutgers University found the gift of flowers had immediate and long-term benefits no matter the age of the study participants. Participants demonstrated true or excited smiles as well as delight and gratitude when they received flowers. They also reported feeling less depressed, anxious and agitated long after receiving the gift of flowers. Floral gifts also helped create connections between family and friends.

A hanging basket or container garden is another way to give mom a season of flowers and more. Gardening helps improve health and well-being by reducing stress, lowering blood pressure, strengthening muscles and increasing flexibility.

If mom likes to cook, a potted tomato, container of greens or window box of herbs may be the perfect gift with increased benefits. Mom can grow and further boost her health with fresh nutrient-rich vegetables.

A gift certificate to her favorite garden center, hobby store or retail location allows mom the freedom to select her own gift. She can enjoy time shopping for something special she wouldn't normally buy for herself.

The gift of time is appreciated by many mothers. Helping mom in her garden, working around her home or assisting her with another hobby is a great way to spend time together doing something mom loves.

Update her garden tools if she is an avid gardener. Consider a tool caddy and fill it with her favorite hand tools such as a weed knife, hand pruner, sunscreen, and gloves.

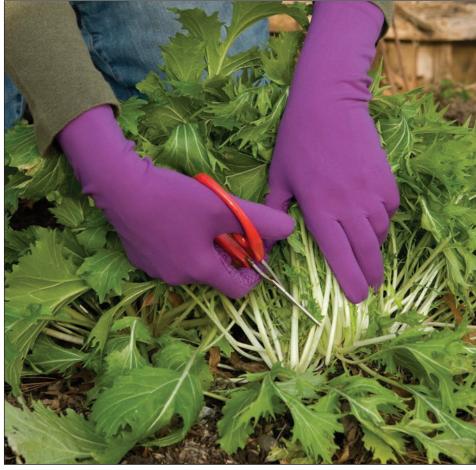

Photo Courtesy

Protect mom's hands with quality, colorful gardening gloves.

Add elegance and function to your mother's daily activities with durable and fashionable gloves. Their practical and fashionable nature makes them a popular add-on or stand-alone gift item.

Elbow length garden gloves, like Foxgloves (foxglovesinc.com), protect forearms and hands from sun, scratches, and plant oils. The 'cottony soft' feel of Supplex® nylon makes them comfortable but extremely durable and tough. They can be washed and dried quickly, so mom always has a pair of gloves ready to use. Add some fun to this functional gift by choosing one of the bright colors.

Add a hat to further protect mom from the heat and sun when working outdoors. If it's comfortable and looks good, she is more likely to wear it.

Take the pressure off and make mom's day extra special with one of these Mother's Day gifts that provide immediate and long-term benefits. She'll appreciate your thoughtfulness when she opens the package, unwraps the flowers or puts the tools and gloves to use all season long.

Melinda Myers has written numerous books, including Small Space Gardening. She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" DVD series and the nationally-syndicated Melinda's Garden Moment TV & radio program. Myers is a columnist and contributing editor for Birds & Blooms magazine and was commissioned by Foxgloves for her expertise to write this article. Her Web site is www.MelindaMyers.com.

We sometimes find old stocks and bonds certificates when we handle multigenerational New England estates. Some date back over 100 years. Some of these stock certificates are only worth around one dollar. Rarer ones may be worth as much as a new car though.

Scripophily is the study and collecting of stock and bond certificates. Like with most collectibles, there is a dedicated group of serious collectors.

A 2016 CoinWeek article on scripophily reported that the "Stock and Bond Collectors Association (ASBCA) is a non-profit organization dedicated to furthering the education and study of American historical securities. ... certificates which otherwise have no value as financial claims, are bought for their artistic and historical value by collectors.

There are estimated to be tens of thousands of scripophily buyers worldwide. They range from casual buyers looking to decorate their home or office to serious collectors and museums. The Museum of Finance in New York holds a large collection of certificates. Their Web site states "stocks and bonds comprise a large portion of the Museum's collection with thousands of examples ranging in date from the 18th century to contemporary corporations including the Internet bubble."

background on stocks and bonds, how do you find how much yours is worth? Even if the stock is cancelled or the WAYNE TUISKULA company went out of business years ago, the stock certificate may be prized by collectors.

Two examples are mining and sports related stocks.

Some mining stocks are desirable to collectors. An Alabama Gold and Copper Mining certificate signed by lawman Pat Garrett (famous for shooting Billy the Kid) brought $2,200 at auction in 2012. An 1863 Governor Stanford Gold and Silver Mining Company signed by Leland Stanford sold for $5,500 in 2013. An 1865 San Francisco District Bella Gold and Silver Mining Company stock certificate reached $35,000 in 2011.

As you might expect, sports related stock certificates are often highly desirable. A 1940 Coca Cola stock certificate that was signed by Ty Cobb while he was the Twin Falls Bottling Company president was auctioned for over $11,000 in 2012. Share number 1 of Red Sox stock from 1901 went for $19,120 in 2011. A 1923 Green Bay Packers stock certificate sold for $44,000 in 2019.

If you have an uncancelled stock it may still be valid. Beginning in July of 1964, CUSIP (Committee on Uniform Security Identification Procedures) Change" according to an numbers were introduced. You can research your stock using the CUSIF number listed on it. You may also be able to find the transfer agent for a stock on the company's investor information page of their website.

Older stocks are harder to evaluate by yourself, unless you are fortunate enough to have a certificate from a company that is still in business today. Sometimes companies have merged and the stock for a defunct company may even have value. Stocks may have split over the years and your certificate may actually be worth more. Checking your old stock certificates may be an interesting project to take on while we are all sheltering in place. You may even get lucky and find that you have stock worth millions.

I have found that online auctions continue to bring strong prices despite the current health crisis. We are currently cataloging an online auction of antique paintings, gold jewelry, sterling silver, coins, vintage sports memorabilia, comic books and other valuable items. You can call or email us for no-contact options for consigning your items.

Local author celebrates second book with virtual release party

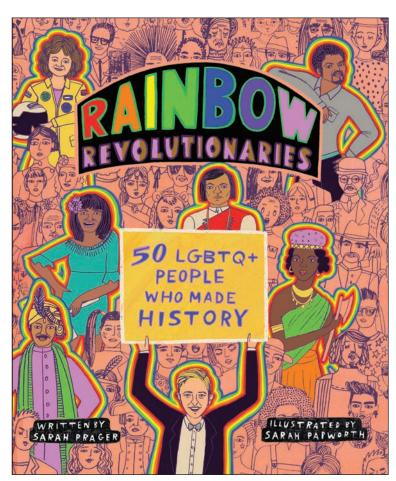

BY ANNIE SANDOLI
CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE—LGBTQ writer and speaker Sarah Prager is getting ready to celebrate the release of her newest book "Rainbow Revolutionaries: 50 LGBTQ+People Who Made History" with a live streamed launch party scheduled to take place on Tuesday, May 26 at 1 p.m.

This is Prager's second full-length publication, following the release of her 2017 book "Queer, There, and Everywhere," which she discussed at a Joshua Hyde Library event last June in honor of Pride Month. Both titles tell the individual stories of of queer people who have changed the world.

"The 2017 book 'Queer, There, and Everywhere,' which went on to win a few awards, is for teens ages 12 to 18 and adults," said Prager. "The new one is a middle grade book for ages eight to 12. They feature some of the same people—there are 23 people in the first book and 50 in the new book. The main difference between the two is more illustration and shorter stories in the new book. It has illustrated pages, a world map that shows the birthplaces of each person, and LGBTQ identity pride flags of the past and present"

"Rainbow Revolutionaries: 50 LGBTQ+ People Who Made History" includes the stories of people such as Alexander the Great, Billie Jean King, Ellen DeGeneres, Greta Garbo, James Baldwin, and Sally Ride, some of which Prager will read during her live stream launch

arty.

"I'll read multiple stories from the book," said Prager. "The way its formatted is a two page spread for each person with a picture of them on the left page and a bio on the right, so the stories don't take long to read. I'll also be giving a little talk to the webcam about what the book is about, why it was important to me to write, and who the book is for and answering questions.

A local place made me cake with the book cover printed on top and there will be personalized signing for people who order a book and request an autograph."

Prager has been an LGBTQ activist since she came out at age 14 and has worked for queer rights organizations all over the world. In 2013, she created the popular Queer history mobile app Quist and was invited to the White House, the U.S. embassy in Mexico, and the offices of Twitter, Google, and Microsoft as a result. Her writing has been published in The Atlantic, The Advocate, Huffington Post, Bustle, QED: A Journal in LGBTQ Worldmaking, and

Sarah Prager

It Gets Better Project's blog, among others. She has also contributed to making the tech policies of large corporations such as Apple more inclusive of LGBTQ terms and presented to over 140 groups across five countries. Prager now lives in Sturbridge with her wife and two young children, who have been an influence on her books and are the reason why her next book will most likely be a picture board book.

"That's why I want to go even younger after this," she said. "I was writing the book for teens while pregnant without first child, so when it was coming out I was reading her books about women's history and cartoons of inspirational historical figures. I wished there was an LGBTQ Equivalent, so I wanted to set out making that kind of content."

Prager is scheduled to speak at Joshua Hyde Public Library on June 3 at 6:30 p.m., but whether or not it will be affected by COVID-19 will be determined as the date gets closer. Until then, Prager's book is currently available for pre-order from most online book dealers. To support local bookstores, order it from Indiebound or bookshop.org.

For more information on Prager's live stream book release, go to https://sarah-prager.com. For updates on Prager's scheduled event at Joshua Hyde Library, go to https://www.sturbridgelibrary.org.

An important lesson from bistory

We have several thoughts now that states are beginning to slowly re-open. Each state is doing it in their own way. We have noticed that this situation has made more aware of the remarkable amount of control state governors actually have. This is a good thing.

As we've seen on the national news, some states are riddled with protesters, in many cases armed with guns. We simply cannot fathom this approach. Governors are taking measures to protect the health and well being of their residents. Mistakes are bound to happen in the face of an unprecedented scenario such as this, but we are quite certain that no one — governors and legislators included — wants to be dealing with a highly deadly contagious disease that has now killed more Americans than were killed during Vietnam. No

The Stay at Home orders are not easy on anyone, especially those who are still waiting for unemployment checks, and who are dealing with a backlog of unpaid bills. It's also stressful to have to watch the impact on our economy. Again, no one wanted or invited this situation, but here we are. Whether things might have turned out differently if we had seen a quicker response from the federal government, we cannot say, but in any case, what is in the past should

The question now becomes, what happens if states rush to open too much too soon? Will we have to close everything down again if a second wave of COVID-19 washes through?

Flashing back to the 1918 Spanish Flu epidemic, we can learn a few things about how and what happens when reopening. Cities who kept strict orders in place such as social distancing, earlier and kept them longer, fared better both financially and health-wise in the long run. Noted was fewer deaths and a faster bounce back to their economies. Health and economy went hand in hand.

Studies show that in Denver, San Francisco and St. Louis, measures to distance were taken early; nowever, those cities made what was, in retrospect, the mistake of reopening too soon, and a second wave hit that was worse than the first. People in states who lifted restrictions too early in 1918 went out into the streets to celebrate the armistice that ended the First World War sans masks, and from there, a severe second wave

In 1918, New York City kept their measures in place for much longer. Officials waited until the death rates were extremely low. Consequently, New York experienced only one wave, and had the lowest death rate in the country. What we can learn here is that it is better to shut down once, for longer, than experience a shutdown far longer, if two shut downs become necessary.

A study recently posted by the CDC tells the story of a woman who was dining at a restaurant while asymptomatic. She spread the disease to nine other diners who were eating nearby. Noted was the fact that those who were infected were in the same zone as the air flow from an air-conditioner.

At the end of the day, we learn from history that the most advisable approach is a slow, steady, and cautious one.

Shopping with zombies

As an extreme extrovert quarantine is torture. An extrovert gains energy from being with and communicating with others. Quarantine prohibits what gives me energy. I've slept more and have stared at the TV more in the last month than I did in the last year. I can't take much more. A friend recently posted a meme on social media that said, "Now that I am living through a plague, I understand why most of the Italian renaissance artists painted pictures of fat, half-naked people laying on their couch.'

A few days ago, I decided enough was enough. I donned a mask, slipped on my gloves, and headed to my local grocery store. I should not have gone out, but shopping is a social event for me. I can go in for a quart of milk and spend two hours chatting and meeting people. I can't help it. It's who I am. I'm an extrovert.

So, properly protected, and with much excitement and anticipation of connecting with other human beings, with proper social distancing, I ventured into the store. I grabbed my cart, wiped it down with disinfectant, walked through the door to find the store was both packed with other mask and glove wearing individuals, but the silence was surprising. With a big smile on my shielded face, I began trying to make eye contact, but everyone, eyes down, seemed to resist.

And there was something new and unusual on the floors ... arrows indicating that all the aisles were now traffic coordinated with one-way signs, which limited my ability to smile and make contact in hopes of finding another human in need of a conversation.

Like a horror movie about the living dead, I was shopping with zombies. No eye contact. No smiles. No social interaction of any kind. The brief momentary eye contact I did experience seemed both unwelcome and fearful, as if zombie eyes can send a virus causing death ray into the eyes of others. I'm making light of it, but the people in the store were scared.

What are we doing? Where are we going? How will quarantine impact the rest of our lives, and will it ever end? I don't have answers but only questions.

As I've said several times before, human beings are herd animals. We thrive with family and friends. Most are happiest within the familiarity of the herd. What we are experiencing is unnatural.

I understand the need for social distancing and cooperating with the directives of our governing bodies. This all began with us knowing so little about this virus that extreme measures were warranted and welcomed. As we learn more about who is at risk and how, we can more intelligently manage the dangers. Isn't it time to begin a slow and measured return to some level of nor-One-size-fits-all measures are rarely, if ever, good. The elderly and those of us with health conditions that make us susceptible must shelter in place and take every precaution to remain safe. But is that true for the young and healthy?

Our business community is being crushed. Hospitals have been prohibited from doing elective surgery. In the beginning. I understand there was a fear that our healthcare systems would be overwhelmed and collapse. It didn't happen. Instead, like our small business community, our hospitals could conceivably collapse under the extreme mandates and financial pressures of not taking in the cash needed to function. How would we cope without hospitals?

Why can't a young and healthy twentv-something athlete get his/her knee repaired? Why can't a healthy thirtytwo-year-old data processor have carpal tunnel surgery? The hospitals need to function, and the demand is there. Isn't it time to cautiously begin the slow and measured process of returning life back

As for shopping with zombies, my feeble attempt at humor, I understand that protective measures must be continued, and I'll fully comply. There is no evidence however that the virus is transmitted by making eye contact at a safe distance. As I hope there is a slow return to normalcy in governmental restrictions, I equally hope that we can lift the fear from our minds and hearts and begin making eye contact again and sharing smiles. Smiling does lift our spirits and make us feel better. I don't need you to remove your face mask to see your smile. Our eyes tell it all. Let's all snap out of our zombie state, become less fearful and start seeing each other

My daughter is a pastor and often ends her church service with this statement. "I need you. You need me. We need you and you need us." It's never been truer.

Let's make eye contact. Let's acknowledge each other. We need each other. The herd needs to see your smiling eyes. Will you look at me once again when I see vou? I miss you.

Smart moves for women business owners

Mother's Day is upon us. If you're a mother, you'll enjoy the recognition you get from your family on this day. And given the health concerns caused by the coronavirus, your appreciation of family may be even greater this year. As we all know, mothers have a difficult job. And many mothers also run their own businesses - another demanding major challenge. As a society, we have not achieved gender equity yet, in terms of family responsibilities, so mothers – even busy business owners - still face time constraints and intertask made even more dif-

ruptions from work to care for children. And it's not just children, either – the vast majority of caregivers for elderly relatives are women, according to a study from Northwestern University. So, many women business owners may be coping with multi-generational family issues.

You can't change the demographic pressures you may face, but, as a business owner, you can take some steps to help improve your financial outcomes. Here are a few ideas:

Seek networking opportunities. You can find useful, and empathetic, allies in other women business owners, who may be able to direct you to valuable resources. To illustrate: Women's businesses often lack financial support to a greater degree than men's, and it is unfortunately not uncommon for women to be denied loans because of gender and cultural biases. But if you become active in a network of women business owners, you could find some leads to financial institutions that have showed themselves to be free of gender-based prejudices.

Be extra aware of investment risks. Everyone should always be aware of investment risk, of course, but if you have most of your assets tied up in your business, you may need to be extra diligent. You're already taking a fair amount of risk by just naving a business, so you may need to balance this risk in your investment portfolio by choosing the mix of investments that can help you move toward your goals without subjecting you to excessive market volatility.

Establish a retirement plan for yourself. Have you established a retirement savings plan for yourself? About one-third of business owners haven't, and 40 percent are not confident they can retire before 65, according to data compiled by SCORE, a nonprofit organization that works with small businesses. Fortunately, you have several good retirement plan options, including an "owner-only" 401(k), a SEP-IRA, a SIMPLE IRA or even a solo defined benefit plan, which functions like a

Create a succession plan. You may need a strategy for transferring or selling your business. Do you want to keep the business in the family? If so, who do you want to take it over? Or would you prefer to simply sell it to someone else? Your decisions, whatever they are, will affect your financial picture and possibly that of your family, so you will want to consult with your tax, legal and financial advisors to arrive at a plan that works best for your needs.

You've got some twists and turns ahead of you on the road to financial security. But planning ahead, considering various possibilities and seizing your opportunities can help you smooth out the journey.

Nostalgic Favorites from the Heirloom Garden

delightfully The heady scent of lilacs in bloom, lofty daylilies swaying in a summer breeze, and dainty purple Hosta buds rising above lush greenery - such are the things an heirloom garden is made of.

Generations of New England gardens have been graced with the beauty and simplicity of these historic flowering plants. Poets have penned prose about them and artists have brushed their images for posterity. Heirloom flowers and plants invoke nostalgia, while providing both beauty and sentiment to an outdoor garden. Lilacs, Daylilies, and Hosta are perennial New England favorites. In some cases plants grown a century ago continue to thrive and bloom today, serving as living antiquities in the garden. Read on for a review of these historic New England plants.

Lovely Lilacs

Fragrant clusters of lilacs adorned colonial yards and gardens. In early America lilacs were grown both for their beauty and their medicinal properties. In fact, in the late 18th century, both Thomas Jefferson and George Washington wrote about their lilac plants. The species is so hardy that early lilac bushes, in a testament of survival, have continued to thrive in colonial homesteads, long after the homes were abandoned or destroyed. Lilacs have been known to survive hundreds of years, making them a true heirloom flower. The Governor Wentworth Estate in Portsmouth, NH boasts the oldest surviving lilac bushes, said to

Lilac flowers have been known to treat liver problems, rheumatism, bronchitis, and bruises. The following is a published "recipe" for a topical rub claimed to aid in relieving the symptoms of bruising: Mix together one cup of lilac flowers and one half liter of vodka. Soak a compress and apply to bruises or wounds. Legend has it lilac drives away evil wherever it is planted or strewn. It is said that lilac bushes were planted on the homestead by colonists in an effort to

THE GREAT OUTDOORS RALPH TRUE

All it took was a few warm days to get trout and other numerous fish species to actively start feeding. Trout were surface feeding at many ponds throughout the valley. This week, Wallum Lake had set up a thermocline, and fishing improved dramatically. Fresh water bass are also being caught at local waters throughout the area. There are more people fishing now, which is a good thing. Unfortunately, all boat ramps in Rhode Island are closed to out of state residents. Hopefully, that will

Local turkey hunters harvested some impressive birds after the weather warmed up a bit. This week's picture is of Steve Rondeau with his 22 pound tom which was a nice bird with a 10 inch beard and sporting one inch spurs. Numerous other successful hunters harvested some nice birds also.

A bit more history on Wallum Lake involving attempts by Massachusetts Fish & Wildlife to make it a trophy brown trout pond (lake). Many attempts to introduce live smelt from the Quabbin Reservoir into Wallum Lake more than 40 years ago seemed to be working, and anglers were catching some impressive brown trout in the four to six pound range until the smelt failed to spawn in a couple of tributaries in the lake.

A second attempt to get a permanent population of smelt into the lake was made by the Mass.Fish &Wildlife by setting up screens of fertilized smelt eggs at a couple of tributaries in the lake, but that failed because of the acidity of the water. As mentioned in last week's column about the liming of the lake by "Living Lakes," which seemed to take care of the problem a few years later, but the Division abandoned their efforts to restock smelt.

Under pressure from local sportsmen, the Division of Massachusetts fisheries started to stock shoal spawning alewives, and fishing started to improve. Unfortunately, the D. F. W. stopped stocking many brown trout in the lake, and removed the 2 brown trout limit. Rhode Island did continue to stock brown trout in the lake, but they were quickly fished out before they had a chance to grow into trophy fish, because of the six fish limit at that time. The daily bag limit is now five trout under Rhode Island Regulations of any species.

Massachusetts Fish & Wild Life seemed to have enough of Wallum Lake, and now considers the lake a put & take fishery. Local anglers had hoped to convince the Division to acquire some fingerling brown trout from upstate New York 40 years ago or so, and stock them into Wallum Lake. Myself and a couple of local anglers convinced New York to give a stocking of brown trout to Mass. for Wallum Lake.

Unfortunately the fish biologist at that time felt he had enough species of brown trout in the state, and he turned down the offer. Anyone that has fished upstate New York's Lake Ontario know how fast they grow. They are footballs in only a couple of years. I often think of what Wallum Lake could have been. Massachusetts Fish & Wildlife did stock some impressive trout throughout the state this year. Wachusett Reservoir has also been hot, giving up some large Lake Trout.

A call from Harry Salmon a former Douglas resident now living in Florida, reported on some great fishing for crappie and bluegills, with a largemouth bass once in a while. He is fishing almost every day aboard his pontoon boat ,with a couple of buddies. He had hoped to return to Douglas this past week, but decided to stay a bit longer because of Covid-19.

An attempt to make it easier to obtain a permit to carry a concealed hand gun on Wild Life Management Areas by the Corps of Engineers will hopefully pass soon. Any lawful person that has a License To Carry cannot bring a handgun onto Management property at this time.

Braydon Age 12

Hi! My name is Braydon and you can call me Brady!

Braydon "Brady" is a polite and caring boy of Caucasian descent. Braydon has many talents and interests including dancing, music, sports, drawing and playing games. His favorite activities are basketball, football, video games and being active! Braydon is described by those who know him as enthusiastic and fun-loving.

Brady shares that he loves going to school. His favorite subject in school is math. He reports his favorite colors are red and blue and his favorite food is pizza but is open to trying different foods. Braydon can be a good advocate for himself and has shared he is looking forward to having his own family.

Legally freed for adoption, it will be important to Braydon that he continues to maintain contact with his two older siblings. Braydon sees them at least monthly and has a positive relationship with them and their families. Braydon absolutely loves animals and hopes his future family will have a dog and that one day he will become a vet! Braydon shared that his three wishes for his future family are for them to always make hot breakfast (or buy sweet cereal and a lot flavored oatmeal), to have dogs, and to have a bike and a helmet! Braydon would do best as the only child or youngest child in a family.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-6273 or visit www.mareinc. org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have a permanent place to call home.

Rate of fatalities on Mass. roadways doubles in April

Massachusetts Department of Transportation (MassDOT) is reporting that the rate of fatalities on Massachusetts roadways doubled in April: with 50 percent less traffic recorded on major highways, 28 individuals died in crashes, compared with the month of April 2019 when there were 27 deaths on roadways in the state. The high fatality rate last month, underscores the importance of not exceeding the posted speed limit, wearing a seatbelt, driving sober, and obeying the hands-free law.

'Our traffic and safety engineers continuously monitor roadways across the Commonwealth and have identified a dangerous trend that has led to the doubling of the vehicular fatality rate in Massachusetts for the month of April, Administrator Jonathan

"During the in the pandemic, everyone in the Commonwealth has sacrificed and used disciplined actions to keep themselves, their loved ones, and our community safe. We ask that all residents use this same dedication to safety and reduce their speeds when driving.'

'Reduced traffic volume is no excuse for excessive speed," said Jeff Larason, Director of Highway Safety for the Executive Office of Safety and Security. "We're reminding everyone to drive responsibly, wear a seat belt, and watch the road for cyclists and pedestrians."

Stacey Beuttell, Executive Director of WalkBoston, added, "With the stay-at-home advisory still in place, everyone should expect to see more neighbors walking, rolling, or running in the street as they try to maintain six feet of physical distance on narrow sidewalks. If you are driving, be prepared to yield to people walking and drive slowly. Empty streets are not a license to drive faster. Please consider every street a shared street and stay safe."

Motor vehicle deaths occurred state-wide in April. including three deaths in a 24-hour-period on April 18 and April 19: in Richmond, on Route 41 southbound, in Hopkinton, on I-495 southbound, and in Seekonk, on I-195 eastbound. The most recent road fatality reported to MassDOT was on Saturday, May 2, occurring in Andover on I-93 near exit 42.

The Commonwealth has several initiatives which seek to improve road safety, including:

The Massachusetts Strategic Highway Safety Plan, crafted by a diverse cross section of government agencies, advocates, and other stakeholders which contains specific strategies, direct actions and legislative proposals to get Massachusetts closer towards zero deaths and to an interim goal of a 12 percent drop in five-year average fatalities and a 21 percent drop in five-year average serious injuries.

The 2019 Massachusetts Pedestrian Transportation Plan and 2019 Massachusetts Bicycle Transportation Plan seek to eliminate fatalities and serious injuries for pedestrians, individuals using a wheelchair, cane or other assisted mobility device, and those riding bicycles while increasing the number of trips taken.

MassDOT's public education program, "Scan the Street for Wheels and Feet," underscores the need for greater awareness on the road, citing statistics including, "one in four deaths in motor vehicle crashes involve people walking or bicycling." MassDOT has been pleased to work collaboratively on this public safety initiative with the Massachusetts Executive Office of Public Safety and Security, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Boston Vision Zero, WalkBoston, MassBike, and the Safe Roads Alliance.

In addition, in January 2019, the Baker-Polito Administration filed several proposed safety bills, including the hands-free law which became law in February 2020, with fines for violations taking effect April 1.

required to do business on site or even during the shutdown," Golas told selectmen. "It's highly encouraged that employees continue to work remotely as much as possible during this time."

For the time being all business between employees and citizens is to take place outside of the Town Hall. Golas also noted that the town has a supply of face masks available through the Board of Health that will allow them to provide face coverings for employees as needed. The policy was put into effect days before the Baker-Polito Administration announced that face masks will be required for all public places where social distancing cannot be maintained. That mandate went into effect statewide on May 6. Charlton selectmen agreed with the Town Administrator's policy changes with Selectman David Singer complimenting Golas on doing an effective job of leading the Town Hall through the pandemic.

"I think Andrew is doing a great job and I think that what he's doing is putting in place a system that is temporary and can be lifted at any time as the situation dictates," Singer said.

Selectmen discussed whether or not a formal vote of approval was required in order to put the policy in place. It was determined that the Town Administrator has the authority to implement the policy without selectmen voting in a public forum. Selectman Deborah Noble confirmed this fact.

"It's my understanding that a lot of these policies can be implemented and also rescinded without board approval at this time. This is happening at multiple levels of government right now," Noble said.

Whether it was to record an official vote or simply to symbolically show their support of the Town Administrator's decision selectmen did vote unanimously to give the policy their blessing.

A total of 30 seniors were honored during the parade, a group Bussiere said was "a very talented and special class." While the students couldn't finish their school year on site and graduation festivities still have yet to be announced, the Show Choir staff didn't want to wait to make sure their seniors knew how appreciated they are and how much they

'The focus was trying to restore the traditions we lost by having to leave school unexpectedly. I wrote each student a letter and gave it to them with their poster. I would have given them the letter with their gifts at the banquet. We also gave them their superlative awards," Bussiere said. "In the next couple of weeks, they will get their senior letters written by the underclassmen in the choir. We are finishing up their senior video that will also have the seniors from the concert choir. This would have been played at Seniors Last Jam where the seniors performed solos for the final time. We can never replace what they lost, but they will leave knowing they were loved.'

Staff members also posed for pictures with the graduates during each presentation being sure to respect social distancing guidelines while leaving a lasting memory for the Class of 2020 Show Choir seniors to cherish forever

Hardy Hosta

Hosta plants are a common throughout the New England landscape. The plants abundant lush, green foliage and sprouting blue flowers have made them a favorite for over a century. Originally from Japan, the, Hosta was brought to America from Europe in the mid 19th century. Doctor and botanist Englebert Kaempfer (1651-1715), is named as the pioneer researcher of Japanese plants, including Hosta, which led to the plants eventual import to this country. Hostas were an important element in the Victorian garden, a tradition that continues today as the border plant is often found along pathways to historic New England homes.

Growing Hosta

The Hosta is a very self sufficient plant, requiring little or no sun, fertilizer, or tending. A shade tolerant plant, hostas are very low maintenance and easy to grow, making them a favorite for shady rock gardens, walkways and lawn borders. Little bell shaped blooms emerge from center spikes of the plant in summer. Hosta boasts a variety of different strains, offering various leaf size, texture and color, including an array of variegated leaves. While Hostas are known as shade plants, they should not be planted in deeply shaded For best results, choose an area with morning sun and afternoon shade. Dig a hole one and a half times the width of the root ball, as the plant's roots with grow and spread horizontally. Hostas grow and spread fast, making them a popular offering at spring garden club sales, as members typically divide and share their plants. Hostas are best divided in early spring as the plants are just beginning to sprout. Dig out the whole plant clump to separate the plants.

Hosta While Hosta is a gorgeous, lush plant, its usefulness may not be limited to its spectacular eye appeal. According to some gardeners, Hosta is an edible plant, with young leaves best enjoyed steamed in the same manner as dandelion greens.

Dazzling Daylilies

The historic orange Day Lily, which blooms but one day, is a common sight along New England back roads, flourishing within the confines of picket fenced yards as well as sprawling through countryside fields. Daylilies, originally from Asia, made their way to Europe and arrived in this country with the colonists where they became a backyard reminder of their homeland. Daylilies belong to the genus Hemerocallis, which translates from Greek to "beautiful for a day." While many new colors and varieties of the Day Lily are offered today, the heirloom flowers of our ancestors are the orange Tawny Day Lily (Hemerocallis Fulva) and the yellow Lemon Day Lily (Hemerocallis Lilasphodelus). Daylilies were another mainstay of the Victorian garden, often lining a path through a garden gate or walkway. The familiar orange Day Lily still serves as nature's mark of summer today. In New England, the tubular's blooms begin to open between the start of school summer vacation and 4th of July. (Much to her delight, the first blooms coincide with our daughter Katie's July 2nd birthday each year.)

Growing Daylilies

The Day Lily is easily established, growing quick and vigorously. It enjoys full sun, which will maximize blooms, but adapts to light shade well. Daylilies are tolerant of most soils, but do best in ground that is slightly acidic. The plants should be well tilled and hole should be large enough to accommodate roots without crowding. When planting, be sure the crown of the plant is at least an inch below the ground and water thoroughly. The plant is hardy and very forgiving, usually flourishing with little effort. Daylilies grow and multiply vigorously, so they should be divided about every three years. Divide and transplant plants in early spring or just after flowering. Be sure divisions have two to three stems or leaves with roots intact.

Day Lily Uses

The flowers of Daylilies are edible, and are typically served cooked in Asian dishes and soups.

mid-August. People donate their bottle and cans by dropping them into our Green Collection Barrels located in the rear of the church. Our Teens then separate cans from plastic and glass bottles. We return them weekly to a local redemption center and save the proceeds. Come August we present the money to Camp. The past two years we have been blessed to present checks in excess of $5,000. Not all the money comes from cans but also from generous donors.

When asked, how did Camp change your world view? Rachel Whipple, a first time camp volunteer, responded, "Camp Sunshine made me realize and respect food workers way more than before because it is not as easy as it

Whipple worked the week in the cafeteria. She also was amazed at the resiliency of children and what they can teach you. One small child told Rachel, when he gets stressed, he just practices his breathing exercises and he does this before every surgery.

Molly Hennessey first attended Camp in 2015, returning as a volunteer the next summer.

She so loved camp she received a certification as a Lifeguard so she could work the entire summers of 2017 and 2018.

QCC students share stories at virtual legislative town hall

 $\begin{array}{ccc} WORCESTER-The\ power,\ strength\\ and & resiliency & of & Quinsigamond \end{array}$ Community College students was the highlight of a virtual Legislative Town Hall meeting held today for area state and local legislators. The event was set up to inform legislators of the impact the pandemic is having on QCC students, as well as enlighten them on the ways in which the College has rapidly stepped up to meet these unprecedented challenges. Attendees to the event included Sen. Michael Moore; Sen. Harriette Chandler; Rep. Hannah Kane; Rep. Joseph McKenna; Rep. David LeBeouf; Rep. Natalie Higgins; Aide to Senator Anne Gobi, Yael Langer, Rep. Jim O'Day; Aide to Rep. O'Day, Alexis Foley, QCC Board Chair Sue Mailman, QCC Foundation President Dr. Linda Maykel, QCC President Dr. Luis Pedraja, as well as QCC students, administrators and staff.

"I am really appreciative of the quick work that Quinsigamond Community College has done to adjust to the changing landscape. We are seeing more and more essential workers who we never thought of as essential. I am seeing many, many essential workers trained by Quinsigamond and this really does amplify the importance of Quinsigamond Community College and the entire state college system," said Representative McKenna. "I have an appreciation for all that QCC has done."

QCC Student Government President Jorgo Gushi, along with the Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) Honor Society President Alexander Riopel and PTK Vice President of Leadership Tabitha Leber spoke of their experiences transitioning to remote instruction; the College's handling of the situation, as well as the impact of the health crisis on them and their classmates. QCC transitioned to remote instruction in record time, while adapting its support services to fill its diverse student population needs. Mr. Gushi spoke of the quick transition to remote instruction and the rallying of the entire College to make the new mode of learning work for all, while continuing to keep students engaged and a part of the QCC community through an online student engagement portal.

Ms. Leber, a single mom to a young child who is now at home due to the closure of Worcester Public Schools, spends four to six hours teaching her daughter before doing her own full course load of school work. She said she applauds the College and its faculty for the quick and thoughtful response to getting courses online, while making sure the remote mode of instruction worked with the students.

"Each professor has put all their coursework online in a way that works for them and their students. They have been outstanding in understanding our situations and working with us," she said. "I am incredibly grateful for all the college has done for us at this time.' Mr. Riopel told of his financial struggles. H recently lost his job and still has to pay his bills, noting the increased financial need many students now have. Prior to the pandemic close to 50 percent of QCC students were struggling with food insecurity and that need is only increasing as the health crisis continues. The QCC Food Pantry and Resource Center has been addressing this need; however, with the State's stay at home orders in place, the food pantry has transitioned to a mobile operation, serving students once a week. To help support this initiative, a Student Emergency Fund was set up by the QCC Foundation and to date has raised over $70,000, according to Dr. Maykel. Other ways in which the funding is being used include purchasing laptops for students who cannot afford them, Internet access and scholarships.

During the meeting, Mr. Gushi read a note to the legislators from a student who had recently used the food pantry, in order to highlight the need and impact of that service.

"I have never been to a food pantry before and didn't know what to expect. I fasted for a few days and it was horrible, making me unable to do work and get my responsibilities done, but now having healthy food that's energizing, I feel like I can get back on track.'

Seeing the perseverance of your students is amazing," said Representative Kane, noting food insecurity is a top priority on the state level.

"QCC is always stepping up," Representative LeBeouf added.

For more information about QCC, contact Josh Martin, Director of Institutional Communications at 508-854-7513 or jmartin@qcc.mass.edu.

Nicole Thyne inducted into Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi

BATON ROUGE, La. — Nicole Thyne of Uxbridge was recently initiated into The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective all-discipline collegiate honor society. Thyne was initiated at Framingham State University.

Thyne is among approximately 30,000 students, faculty, professional staff and alumni to be initiated into Phi Kappa Phi each year. Membership is by invitation only and requires nomination and approval by a chapter. Only the top 10 percent of seniors and 7.5 percent of juniors are eligible for membership. Graduate students in the top 10 percent of the number of candidates for graduate degrees may also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1897 under the leadership of undergraduate student Marcus L. Urann who had a desire to create a different kind of honor society: one that recognized excellence in all academic disciplines. Today, the Society has chapters on more than 300 campuses in the United States and the Philippines. Its mission is "To recognize and promote academic excellence in all fields of higher education and to engage the community of scholars in service to

More About Phi Kappa Phi

Since its founding, more than 1.5 million members have been initiated into Phi Kappa Phi. Some of the organization's notable members include former President Jimmy Carter, NASA astronaut Wendy Lawrence, novelist John Grisham and YouTube co-founder Chad Hurley. Each year, Phi Kappa Phi awards nearly $1 million to outstanding students and members through graduate and dissertation fellowships, undergraduate study abroad grants, funding for post-baccalaureate development, and grants for local, national and international literacy initiatives.
