Local Scouts invite community to join in upcoming Pinewood Derby

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
STAFF WRITER

EAST BROOKFIELD – Members of a local Cub Scout pack recently had so much fun at their pinewood derby that they are excited to get the entire region involved.

East Brookfield-based Cub Scout Pack 148 invites residents from throughout the area to attend a community pinewood derby on March 9 at East Brookfield Elementary School. Each car will be weighed between 10 a.m. and noon, and the races will begin at 1 p.m.

All ages are welcome to take part in the event, including adults, and the deadline to register is Feb. 23.

“This is an event that we think will be really enjoyable, especially for any former Scouts who may be nostalgic for the derby,” said Kelly Vosnakis, who is chairing the community derby.

The cost for each derby kit is $12. The kits include all of the necessary materials and instructions for building the cars.

For members of Cub Scout Pack 148, who just held their own pinewood derby last week at East Brookfield Baptist Church, it’s exciting to offer the opportunity for residents from throughout the region to get involved. Pack members recently held events to promote the community derby, with Lamoureux Ford stepping up as a sponsor.

A pair of registration sessions were held at Lamoureux Ford over the last two weeks. Pack 148 members thank everyone who has shown interest in supporting the event.

“We heard about a few other packs doing this kind of event, and we thought it would be a great thing for us to try,” said Pack 148 Cubmaster Nick Clark.

For Scouting leaders and parents, pinewood derbies are one of the most memorable experiences that bring kids together.

Leicester School Committee votes to close Memorial School

BY KEVIN FLANDERS

LEICESTER – After extensive deliberations, the School Committee decided last week to close the Memorial School and reconfigure the district’s grades.

At its Feb. 12 meeting, the School Committee unanimously voted to close the school at the end of the school year. At an upcoming meeting, committee members will take a vote to return the building to the town.

As part of the reconfiguration plan, the district will move students in grades three and four to the Primary School, beginning in September. School Committee members will consider changing the name of the building, as it will now serve two additional grades. Moreover, preschool students will move to the high school.

“There are some construction projects that have to be done to prepare the space. We have an engineer looking at the space, and once we have his report we will begin to make changes,” Leicester Schools Superintendent Marilyn Tencza said of the preschool transition to LHS.

Finally, fifth grade students will move to the middle school as part of the reconfiguration. The building will see a few modifications to accommodate an additional grade, officials said.

School Committee members cited several benefits to closing the Memorial School, which is currently the lone school located off the town’s main educational campus. Not only is there a significant financial savings from operating one less building, but officials are also eager to expand STEM education to the lower grades. Currently available to students in grades six through 12, STEM programming will now be offered to fifth graders and possibly fourth graders.

Another benefit to the decision is the ability to have all students on one campus, officials said. This will help improve efficiency and planning for bus routes and district-wide events like Evening with the Arts. Specialized programs will also be more easily facilitated.

“We will be able to retain more teachers, and we can offer better support to our students through social, emotional and special education,” Tencza said.

School Committee members had several concerns about the reconfiguration, but a presentation from Tencza helped solidify a plan for all buildings.

“My biggest concern was moving the pre-K to the first floor of the high school. Dr. Tencza did a great job of getting us the information about other local districts that have done that with great success,” said School Committee member Scott Francis. “With some minimal construction at the high school to modify the bathrooms for our new shorter students, it should be a smooth transition.”

The Primary School, middle school, and high school have a combined capacity of approximately 1,800 students. The district currently has a total enrollment of 1,458 students, so there are no concerns of over-

Domestic incident prompts multi-agency regional manhunt

SPENCER – A man was arrested last week in Sutton after a manhunt that included multiple agencies.

Rasheem Rosa, 19, of Worcester, was arrested on Feb. 11, one day after police conducted an extensive search for him following a domestic incident.

At 1:50 p.m. on Feb. 10, Spencer Police received multiple 911 calls from an undisclosed address describing a large fight involving bats, golf clubs, knives, and a sword. Spencer officers requested assistance from Leicester Police and State Police. When officers arrived on scene, they determined that no one had been injured, and the use of the reported weapons had only been threatened.

Police ascertained that the dispute was over the custody of a 17-year-old girl. Officers also learned that Rosa, who was allegedly armed with a three-foot sword, had fled into the woods behind a row of nearby apartment buildings. The investigation also revealed that Rosa had an outstanding default warrant for his arrest.

East Brookfield students work to spread kindness

East Brookfield Elementary School students present a check to Second Chance Animal Shelter representatives following a recent school project.

EAST BROOKFIELD – Students and staff at East Brookfield Elementary School have taken part in several projects this year to promote kindness and inclusiveness. Most recently, their generosity benefited our furry friends at a local shelter.

Throughout the year, the school’s fifth and sixth grade Student Council members have teamed up with the EBES Kindness Committee to prepare multiple initiatives. In a recent project promoting the importance of friendships to a person’s wellbeing, students sold “friendship grams” this winter. Following the completion of the project, kids delivered more than 800 friendship grams to fellow students and staff members on Valentine’s Day.

Not only did the friendship gram project put smiles on the faces of students, but it also assisted the community. Proceeds from the project, totaling $636.45, were donated to Second Chance Animal Shelter. On Feb. 15, students presented a check to SCAS representatives Lindsay Doray and Cria Picco.

With locations in East Brookfield and North Brookfield, among others, SCAS assists thousands of animals each year through adoption, veterinary services, and other programs.

West Brookfield youth shoot for success in Knights Free Throw Championship

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
STAFF WRITER

WEST BROOKFIELD – After showcasing their skills in January, youngsters from throughout the area returned to West Brookfield Elementary School last week to continue shooting for success. Dozens of local kids attended the first round of the Knights of Columbus Free Throw Championship held on Jan. 27 at WBES. Sponsored by Knights of Columbus Council 11080, based at Our Lady of the Sacred Heart Parish, the event included boys and girls ages nine to 14. The following students won their respective age categories at the initial Jan. 27 event: Elizabeth Bennington, of West Warren (9-year-old Girls Division); Ben Landine, of Brookfield (9-year-old Boys Division); Brendan Welch, of Barre (10-year-old Boys Division); Ava Ostrout, of West Brookfield (11-year-old Girls Division); Jack Fitzpatrick, of Spencer (11-year-old Boys Division); Nik Snyder, of North Brookfield (12-year-old Boys Division); Alfred Laskowski, of Fiskdale (13-year-old Boys Division); and Nick Cutlip, of North Brookfield (14-year-old Boys Division). The winners moved on to the district competition of the tournament, which was also held at WBES on Feb. 10. At that event, they had the opportunity to compete against the winners emerging from other area council competitions sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Results from the Feb. 10 competition were not available by press time. Looking ahead, the winners of the district competition at each age group will advance to the regional tournament held at Nichols College on March 23. If their skills shine at that event, they will take part in the state championship to be hosted by Boston College in April. A few years back, a local boy advanced all the way to the state competition after emerging from the West Brookfield bracket. For event organizer Wally Connor, it's always fun to see kids enjoy free throw shooting and improve their skills while meeting new friends. The event also continues to expand nationwide. Last year, more than 150,000 kids participated in more than 3,600 local Knights of Columbus free throw competitions. All contestants at the local levels are given a certificate of participation each year. Town officials thank all Knights of Columbus volunteers who dedicated their time to ensuring that kids enjoyed both events at WBES.

Quaboag Historical Society hosting antique appraisal event

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

EAST BROOKFIELD – Have you always wondered how much those antiques in your attic are worth? Or maybe you recently bought an item at a tag sale and would like to have it evaluated. If so, you'll want to take advantage of an upcoming appraisal event next month. Sponsored by the Quaboag Historical Society (QHS), the antiques and collectibles appraisal event will take place on Sunday, March 3, at East Brookfield Elementary School (410 East Main Street). Set for noon to 3 p.m., the program will provide residents with a chance to have their old treasures and new acquisitions appraised. The free event will be run by Wayne Tuiskula, a longtime local auctioneer, appraiser and columnist. Appraisals will be performed on a first-come basis, with each guest limited to three items to ensure that many residents have a chance to participate. An antiques dealer since the 1980s, Tuiskula sells items each year at the Brimfield Flea Market and other local shows, in addition to handling several estate sales and auctions. Moreover, he writes about antiques for several publications and teaches evaluation techniques in classes for the Worcester Public Schools and the Bay Path Adult Education programs. Tuiskula has even appeared as a collectibles appraiser on the popular PBS program, "Antiques Roadshow." He is looking forward to reviewing local residents' items, describing their histories, and estimating how much they are worth. QHS members, meanwhile, are excited for an event that promotes history in a fascinating way. They are always on the hunt for creative ideas to help bring attention to the area's past. "We think this program is special – and a good one for a winter gathering," said QHS president Amy Dugas. "Lots of folks have things – perhaps family treasures – that they'd like to know more about, including their value." Many residents have collections dating back decades, while others recently inherited items and would like to learn about their worth. Occasionally a resident will unknowingly purchase a valuable item at a tag sale or a craft fair, then learn its worth and sell it for thousands. But even if you don't bring an item to the appraisal event, the program is a great way for collectors and antiques lovers to meet. "If you don't want to bring anything for appraisal, it's fun to see what other people bring and what they're worth," Dugas added. Light refreshments will be provided at the event. Spencer officials hold public hearing on community development grants

NEWS STAFF WRITER

SPENCER – Selectmen held a public hearing last week focused on the town’s proposed application for community development block grants.

At the Feb. 11 hearing, residents learned about the town’s proposed fiscal year 2019 application to the state seeking up to $800,000 in CDBG funds. The town has teamed up with the Pioneer Valley Planning Commission (PVPC) to hone the application, which will request funds for several construction projects on Cherry Street, Lloyd Dyer Drive, and Wall Street.

“This would include sewer, drainage, and water on Wall Street, along with repaving the road and replacing any sidewalk,” said PVPC senior planner Ted Harvey, who has worked closely with town officials throughout the application process. “Spencer has successfully received CDBG funds for similar projects on Chestnut and Mechanic Streets.”

The proposed projects are critical to the town’s continued improvement of roads and infrastructure, officials said. Following the extensive downtown revitalization effort and upgrades to Route 31, the interior roads south of Route 9 have become the next priority.

The proposed work on Cherry Street, Lloyd Dyer Drive, and Wall Street represents the culmination of a planning study that took place in 2014. Funded by the state’s CDBG program, the study highlighted several ways to improve Spencer’s “Southside Neighborhood.”

The town currently has funds remaining from last year’s CDBG disbursement to complete the engineering design phase for the upcoming projects. After collating professional analyses and input from residents received at recent public hearings, the town is in the process of finalizing its CDBG application.

“CDBG funds continue to be a valuable resource to the town and will have a very positive impact on the Cherry-Wall-Lloyd Dyer roadway improvement project,” said Town Administrator Thomas Gregory.

The town’s CDBG application is due to the state in March, and officials will be notified if Spencer has been selected for funding by July. If adequate state grant funding is received, the projects would likely begin in the spring of 2020.

Several other area communities are also competing for CDBG funds. Towns

Senior Center launches new Memory Café program

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
STAFF WRITER

SPENCER – Recognizing the lack of services available throughout the area for residents requiring memory care, the Senior Center staff is excited to launch a new program this month.

The Senior Center’s Sunflower Memory Café was scheduled to offer its first session on Feb. 21. Held on the third Thursday of each month from 1-3 p.m., the program is open to all individuals suffering from memory loss. You do not need to be diagnosed with a condition or provide medical documentation to attend. The program is meant to provide a relaxed environment for seniors to discuss issues and enjoy activities.

The program is helpful for anyone suffering from dementia, memory loss, brain disorders, and other forms of cognitive impairment.

“A memory café gives those suffering a memory issue a chance to meet others with the same issues without judgment, and they can help each other cope with the changes in their lives,” said Senior Center Director Pamela Woodbury.

Under Gov. Charlie Baker,

the state has made a major push toward expanding programming for those suffering from dementia. After launching an initiative to help communities become dementia friendly, the Baker Administration is hoping to see memory cafés opened throughout the state.

In Spencer, Woodbury and her staff are excited to open the program to residents and guests from other communities. As the baby boomer population continues to age, memory care programs are expected to significantly expand over the next decade.

Worldwide, the number of people suffering from dementia is projected to increase from 50 million in 2018 to 152 million in 2050. In the U.S., a new person is diagnosed with Alzheimer’s disease almost every minute.

“One in eight people 65 and over have memory issues,” Woodbury added. “Due to the increase in numbers with the Baby Boomers aging, these numbers will increase.”

Several memory café sessions in Spencer will be sponsored by former resident Gwen Pratt. Group activities and refreshments will be provided during each session.

The Senior Center staff

reminds guests that you do not need to be a resident of Spencer to attend. Additional information on the push to increase dementia friendly communities is available at the state’s Web site, www.mass.gov.

The Senior Center is located at 68 Maple St., in the former school building. For more information about upcoming programs, or to register for events, call 508-885-7546. The center is open on Monday-Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Concert Band & Soldiers' Chorus are the oldest and largest of The U.S. Army Field Band's performing components. These two ensembles combine to present joint concerts on their national tours. They have performed in all 50 states and 30 foreign countries for audiences totaling hundreds of millions.

The 60-member Concert Band and 29-member Soldiers' Chorus perform regularly in some of the most famous concert halls in the world, and just as often in the humblest auditoriums in the smallest of communities. The joining of these two ensembles allows them to offer unparalleled versatility of programming, ranging from orchestral masterworks and operatic arias to Sousa marches, jazz classics, and Broadway musicals. The band and chorus also perform independently, and have recently shared the stage with such ensembles as the Boston Pops, the Cincinnati Pops, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and the National Symphony Orchestra.

In addition to their national tours, formal concerts, chamber recitals, and educational outreach, members of the Concert Band and Soldiers' Chorus frequently represent the Army at formal and ceremonial functions, including the Presidential Inaugural Parade, presidential funerals, the Army All-American Bowl, and diplomatic efforts overseas. More than six decades as the military's most traveled musicians have earned them the title, "The Musical Ambassadors of the Army."

Country Bank donates $1 million to area organizations in 2018

WARE — Country Bank proudly reported that donations for 2018 exceeded one million dollars. Through the bank's established Charitable Giving program, support is provided to local non-profits throughout the region; in 2018 more than 400 organizations received generous donations from the program. Some of the organizations that received contributions include: The Special Olympics, Hearts for Heat, Provision Ministry, The Worcester Boys and Girls Club and Abby's House. The Mustard Seed and St. John's Food Program for the Poor each received $5,000, and The Worcester County Food Bank received $10,000 to help them with the shared mission in giving back.

"Our desire to support and enrich our communities is not only part of our mission, it's truly who we are," stated Paul Scully, President and CEO of Country Bank. "On National Day of Giving, we invited our business partners to the DCU Center to help us build 50 beds for 50 children for the non-profit organization, A Bed for Every Child. The pride and commitment from the building team was incredible to witness.

The team knew what a significant impact their efforts were to the lives of 50 children in Worcester."

Country Bank also has an Employee Charitable Giving Program that raised more than $30,000 in 2018, through events such as jean days, bake sales and raffles.

"The staff at Country Bank understands the importance of supporting its local communities. When we add an event to our volunteer calendar, it is filled instantly. This speaks volumes to our culture and our belief in helping others. In 2018, our team volunteered more than 1,100 hours of personal time at various events within the local communities. We made backpacks for the homeless, served meals to the children at the Boys and Girls Clubs, planted and harvested crops for food pantries and helped build a house for Habitat for Humanity," stated Jodie Gerulaitis, Vice President of Community Relations.

Country Bank's slogan, "We think giving back is one of the most cutting edge things a bank will ever do," is demonstrated by all they do for the people in their communities.

Sen. Fattman appointed to Senate Ways and Means Committee

BOSTON – State Sen. Ryan C. Fattman (R-Sutton) was recently appointed to serve on the State Senate Committee on Ways and Means. The committee works to formulate the senate's version of the state's budget, and considers all matters relating to the finances of the Commonwealth.

"I am proud to be appointed to this committee, and excited for the opportunity to help shape the dialogue on what our state should be spending money on" said Sen. Fattman.

The nascent work of committee will soon reach a feverous pace as the senate closes in on releasing their version of the state's budget by mid spring. The heavily influential committee will help dictate what the final product of the state's budget will look like by the end of the fiscal year in July.

"My priorities continue to be increasing local aid for our towns, and making sure the appropriate level of funding is allocated for our schools, our roads, and for those in need," said Fattman.

To learn more about the Senate Ways and Means Committee, please contact Senator Ryan Fattman's office at 617-722-1420 or ryan.fattman@masenate.gov.

Re-visit the case of Bathsheba Spooner with upcoming program

SPENCER – Things didn’t end well for Bathsheba Spooner – the first woman in the nation to be executed for her crimes – and residents are looking forward to traveling back in time and learning how her sinister story began.

On Tuesday, March 12, a presentation on Bathsheba Spooner’s life will take place at Senior Living at Prouty (195 Main St. in town). Set for 1:15-2:30 p.m., the presentation is titled, “Bathsheba Spooner: America’s First Murder for Hire.” The program will be delivered by Sari Bitticks, the president of the Auburn Historical Society and chairperson of the Auburn Historical Commission.

The program is available in Spencer because of a local cultural grant. Guests from throughout the area are welcome to attend and learn about Spooner, who entered an arranged marriage to a wealthy farmer in the late eighteenth century. After having an affair with a young soldier, Spooner asked her par-amour and two other men to murder her husband.

In 1778, the dark plot came to fruition, as Spooner’s husband was beaten to death in March. Spooner and her accomplices were quickly arrested and tried for the murder. Following her conviction, she was hanged in July of 1778, but there is far more to the fascinating story that will leave guests stunned and enlightened.

To reserve your seats for the event, call 617-431-4937. Please leave your name, contact information, and the number of seats requested.

In the case of inclement weather, the event will be rescheduled to March 19 at 1:15 p.m.

Spencer Police officers and representatives of the Worcester County District Attorney’s Office spoke to Knox Trail Middle School seventh graders last week about the dangers of addiction.

SPENCER – Hoping to stop addiction before it starts, police teamed up with the District Attorney’s office last week to hold a unique program.

On Feb. 12, Spencer police officers and representatives from Worcester County District Attorney Joseph Early’s office visited Knox Trail Middle School. Presenters spoke with seventh graders about the dangers of addiction and how to recognize whether a family member or friend has a problem.

As part of the constant battle against the opioid crisis, law enforcement officials in several area towns continue to target middle school grades for outreach efforts. By providing education early, they hope to arm students with information before they enter high school.

(CEMLEC) was activated for a canine and drone search of the area. Officers from the State Police, Environmental Police, Oxford, Shrewsbury, Westborough and Sturbridge Police canine units joined in the search.

“After an extensive search of the area where several hikers were located walking the Audubon property and removed from the area for their safety, it appeared Mr. Rosa had gone to the Greenville Street area, where he was picked up by an automobile,” a Spencer Police statement read.

The search was called off at approximately 4:30 p.m. The 17-year-old juvenile was placed with her guardian, and Spencer Police applied for an additional warrant for Rosa’s arrest through Western Worcester District Court.

Rosa was located in Sutton the next day and arrested on charges pertaining to the outstanding warrant. Rosa was found with the same girl who had been returned to her guardian by officers the previous day. She apparently ran away with Rosa, police said.

The investigation is ongoing, and additional charges might be filed, police said.

Under the weather

“How about this weather?”

If ever there was an easy, non-challenging conversation opener, this is it. You can be in line at the grocery store, serving jury duty or pushing papers around at work – it doesn’t matter where you are - this line never fails.

Everyone seems willing to talk about the weather. It’s a built-in, slam-dunk, easy topic that allows complete strangers to either commiserate or celebrate, depending on the daily meteorological situation.

So, what is it with the weather? Why do we love to discuss, comment and re-hash it?

Weather is complicated, frustrating and ultimately uncertain. Weather breaks our hearts and lifts our moods and forces daily choices for everyone. Weather drives our decisions, affects our attitudes and makes fellow survivors out of strangers.

Weather is our most true common denominator. No matter what our life circumstances - student, professional, retiree – when you live in the same geographic area, you and your fellow community members have the weather in common.

Weather doesn’t care about politics or sports teams or vacations or the date on the calendar. It is an equal opportunity annoyer and a great equalizer – everyone has to drive in snow, or dash to the car in the rain, or stand in long lines at the fair in the hot sun. Almost everyone has had a picnic cancelled, a vacation spoiled or a ball game rained out.

But weather is also the unexpectedly warm, sunny, sweet-smelling spring morning that causes smiles and banter with co-workers. It’s the light snow flurries that add sparkle to early December and prompts holiday greetings between shoppers. It’s the crisp, snappy feel of fall football games and the slow, sultry, humidity of summer evenings spent on backyard patios. It’s the backdrop of every day of our lives.

So, what is it with the weather? Maybe we love the topic because it’s universal. Maybe we love the excitement of something that will change – either for the good or the bad. Maybe it’s that it is temporary and fleeting and something to either be withstood or enjoyed, knowing that it will not last. Maybe it’s simply because weather is always with us...whether we like it or not.

National emergency

To the Editor:

King Donald I did it. He declared a national emergency to end-run congress. This is no longer a despot-wannabe President; this is an authoritarian, end justifies the means despot.

Article 1, section 9, clause 7 of the Constitution of the United States of America clearly states that “No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law; and a regular Statement and Account of Receipts and Expenditures of all public Money shall be published from time to time.” This is well understood to be the “power of the purse” and requires Congress to allocate all monies to be spent.

The National Emergencies Act, passed in 1977, was intended to give the President powers to react to situations that didn’t have time for Congressional debate, such as a nuclear, biological, or chemical attack. Or perhaps a major weather disaster, a tsunami, or something similar.

For those that say this is just one of many other national emergencies signed by other presidents, this one is different. Trump’s declaration was unprecedented in that none of the 58 previous emergency declarations involved circumventing Congress to spend money it had expressly refused to authorize. When asked if it he was violating the Constitution and if he was unable to make a deal with Congress, he bragged that he got $1.4 billion from Nancy Pelosi’s starting position. He admitted he could have built his wall over a longer period of time with congressional appropriations and he didn’t need to do this, but he’d “rather do it much faster.” Trump claims he “already did a lot of wall” for the election (he hasn’t, no new fencing has been built in his presidency).

Our country is not being invaded. A few thousand women and children pedestrians, representing a miniscule percentage of our population are walking thousands of miles towards a country that hates them only to surrender themselves at the port of entry – because being jailed here is better than what they are leaving.

The precedent is unbelievable. The next president, should it be a Democrat, could declare guns a national emergency. Global warming could be the next national emergency.

Healthcare is a national emergency and could be solved with Medicare-for-all. Tax exemptions for religious institutions such as churches seems like a national emergency to me, rescinding their tax exemption would bankrupt the Catholic Church in the United States (which I argue would be good, but that’s beside the point).

While many have said that the real national emergency is Trump, Trump’s incompetence, or some other trait of Trump I don’t see it that way. Some of said the real national emergency is Fox News, because their headline story as we slip into dictatorship was that Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez gave her boyfriend a spousal congressional email address so he could see her calendar. Fox News is a big problem, but it is more the symptom than the cause.

In 2016, we had a national emergency of the Russian government influencing our election in favor of Donald Trump and it was just enough to push him over the electoral college finish line (he still had millions fewer votes). In 2016, we had a national emergency with the number of Americans willing to cast their ballot for Trump, in spite of all that was publicly known then. The real national emergency in 2019 is the level of support Trump continues to receive. He has a 42 percent approval rating, and while terrible, that is shockingly and frighteningly high at this point.

The way things are “supposed” to go now is that the House impeaches, the Senate convicts, and we move on. The Republican party has purged any dissent such that there are 44 or so Trump lemmings making that impossible. Did anybody know that North Korea technically has a legislature?

Trump won with 46 percent. Only 4 percent have peeled off? Only 9 percent of his 2016 voters have changed their mind?

I have stated before that I am embarrassed and ashamed of my fellow citizens, and those in the New Leader readership area specifically. Nothing has changed. King Donald I is the incompetent tyrant he promised to be, 46 percent of Americans liked it then and 42 percent of Americans still like it. Shame on all of you. The blood of the United States is on your hands.

Bold truth is a foreign language to the left

To the Editor:

“In times of universal deceit, telling the truth becomes a revolutionary act.” — George Orwell

“Blessed are you when people insult you, persecute you and falsely say all kinds of evil against you because of me (Jesus). Rejoice and be glad, because great is your reward in heaven...” — Matthew 5:11-12 NIV.

It comes then as no surprise that especially Omar Har-Yarok is disturbed with the truths I advanced in my previous and lengthy rebuttal to his insidious form of leftwing smears. He attempted to hang Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Party around the necks of true Christians and Trump supporters he despises here in America, and that’s hitting rock bottom. I’ve challenged him here and online during the Democrat’s hateful Kavanaugh confirmation circus, so “Over-the-top-Omar” is a secular unbeliever who ridicules the Bible. Hey man, it’s your life here, and eternity to follow. I’m not trying to jam my faith down your throat. Relationship with Christ for both personal salvation and learning to live with and love one another the way Jesus taught us is what it’s all about, and we all need help from above there. It’s not about religion or “religiosity”; it’s about relationship with one another because of how Christ loved us, even unto the cross. That is what the Greeks call “agape” love, the greatest of all loves. Christ died and rose for every Jew and Gentile, Jesus, the sinless lamb. He paid a debt he did not owe. You mock him and the Bible. Free country and you are on your own, but don’t expect Christians to “keep it to themselves”, because that is not the Great Commission given...

Well, there she goes again! Esther Cohen’s repeated attack on my municipal public service (Hey lady, where’s that tolerance and respect for diversity you Lefties always preach about, ad nauseum?), and her self-congratulatory arrogance—in responding to my last letter here—is what took the booby prize. “...well written column on Climate Change...”? You wrote that erroneous piece of, well, misinformation, so there’s nothing like patting yourself on the back, right Esther? Wow, just wow! Thanks also for telling us (again) that you’re Jewish. I’d have never guessed that from your name (sic). Following the 2016 election cycle, a famous Conservative noted that the most liberal White voting bloc here are American Jews. It’s well over 75 percent thereof who vote Democrat/liberal, yet like many people who call themselves Christian, American Jews similarly come in different political, ethnic, religious and philosophical flavors. I suspect many of them will be fleeing the Democrat Party over the next few years considering the election of anti-Semitic members like Congresswomen Ilhan Omar (D-MN) and Rashida Tlaib (D-MI), not to mention socialist lunatics like U.S. Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-NY). Just wait until many American Jewish business owners wake up to her new tax rates for “the rich.” Lol. To our Jewish friends, come on in to the Republican Party/Conservative wing, the water’s fine! Esther, I must respectfully decline your request to stop using the accurate phrase “Judeo-Christian” as it applies to values and ethos I cherish here in America. Our Founders possessed it, our laws and customs largely embraced it and I wholeheartedly endorse it. They’re inseparable to me and millions of other faithful Jews and Christians across this great land who proudly and gratefully recognize one another and the two great Testaments of the Bible that make both the literal and inspired Word of God relevant today and forever, even as it was in days of old. Moses and the Ten Commandments are depicted carved in stone right into the U.S. Supreme Court building itself. Donald J. Trump is President and getting the job done well. He is there because both major U.S. political parties and their “anointed” candidates largely failed in the past. Don’t worry, be grateful to Almighty God. America and Israel are blessed. Happy President’s Day!

Your financial advisor can do some “life coaching”

Life coaches – not surprisingly – strive to improve the quality of life of their clients. And financial professionals essentially embrace the same mission. So, if you decide to hire a financial advisor, you should expect to receive some “coaching” as you work toward all your important objectives, such as sending your kids to college, enjoying a comfortable retirement and leaving a legacy that can benefit the next generation.

What tips from life coaches might you also get from your financial advisor? Here are a few:

Create a plan. A life coach can help you create a plan for your future, taking into account your career aspirations, relationships, hobbies, charitable activities and so on. And a financial advisor will also take a “holistic” approach by looking at many elements – including your age, income, family responsibilities and desired retirement lifestyle – to create a long-term investment strategy. Of course, you may need to adjust this strategy in response to changes in your life, but it can still serve as an overall map on your journey toward your financial objectives.

Identify and prioritize goals. A life coach will help you identify and prioritize your life goals, whether they are personal or professional. And your financial advisor can help you do the same with your financial goals. For example, your goal of retiring comfortably at age 65 may take precedence over your wish to purchase a vacation home. As such, you will need to focus your efforts first on the retirement goal, and then, if it appears likely that you will meet that goal, you can devote the resources necessary for your vacation home by the mountains or the sea. You may even be willing to accept a lesser goal, such as renting, rather than owning, your vacation residence.

Move beyond your comfort zone. A trained and experienced life coach can help you recognize your perceived limitations – and move beyond them. For instance, if your new job requires that you make many presentations, but you are nervous about public speaking, your life coach may offer techniques to help you get past this fear – to move you out of your “comfort zone,” so to speak. This same scenario could play out in your interactions with your financial advisor. If you happen to be a cautious and risk-averse person by nature, you might be inclined to bring those same traits into the investment arena. But a competent financial advisor – one who truly has your best interests in mind – will likely warn you that you will have trouble achieving your financial objectives if you try to avoid all risk by sticking exclusively with so-called “safe” investments, which do not offer much growth potential. Instead, your advisor will help you incorporate your risk tolerance, along with your time horizon and your short- and long-term goals, to help shape an investment mix appropriate for you. Such a mix may well include those “safe” investments, but it would also contain a reasonable percentage of growth-oriented ones.

Whether it’s self-improvement or your financial future, you can benefit from good coaching – so take full advantage of it.

Happy New Year! I am in Florida this time of year and where I am they are a little strict about plants. So I decided to prepare a nice pot of parsley for a nice, sunny kitchen window.

Put potting soil in the bottom of a pot, and then soak a baby diaper in H₂O and place plastic side down. Add more soil and plant as usual. Works great!

Cooking in the cold is a hot trend – and this reader discovered a way to keep the chill out of your grilled grub:

Here's a tip for winter grilling: Take a pizza stone and place it on one side of your outdoor grill. Heat up the other side of the grill and the pizza stone will heat up via indirect heat. When some of the food you are cooking is done you can put it on an oven safe plate that's sitting on the stone and is being warmed by the heat, keeping your food warm in the cold weather until all of your food is cooked and ready to serve.

Be careful, the plate can get very warm depending on how long it sits in the grill.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A teen opportunity wage is not an opportunity we should take

To the Editor:

With the minimum wage increasing, an idea has been floating around of a separate, lower minimum wage for teenagers. This idea has been brought to life in the form of two bills which have been filed in the state legislature, with one being sponsored by Worcester County's own Senator Ryan Fattman (R-Sutton), and co-sponsored by several reps who represent southern Worcester County, Rep. Mike Soter (R-Bellingham), Rep. Joe McKenna (R-Webster), and Rep. Peter Durant (R-Spencer).

While I understand the good intentions from which an idea such as this might spring, this is an idea which troubles me greatly. While the popular conception of teenagers in the workforce might be that they are working to make extra spending money, this is increasingly not the case. According to a 2017 report by the Mass Budget and Policy Center, average teen wages have contributed 7 percent of the total income of the average family in MA. For families considered low-income, or in the lowest 20th percentile, that number increases substantially, with teens contributing to 17.7 percent of the total family income. Teenagers are increasingly relied upon to provide income for their families, and reducing the wage that teenagers get will make things much more difficult for families around the state.

Another consequence to these bills, it will force older employees, who rely on these jobs to make ends meet to compete with teenagers who would be able to be hired at a cheaper rate. According to the Economic Policy Institute, 11.5 percent of the MA workforce directly benefited from the recent minimum wage increase. Not to mention, minimum wage workers have gotten older. In the US, 88 percent are over 20 years old and the average age of someone working minimum wage is 35. If the goal is to increase the amount of teenagers in the workforce, it may do that, but to the detriment of many of the workers already there.

This economy is nearing full employment. Because of this, there won't be a need for a special wage to coax businesses to create jobs for teens. I understand the concern of small businesses towards the recent "grand bargain" which raised the state minimum wage. However, there are many different solutions that can be discussed to blunt the impact upon the hiring ability of small business owners, such as small business tax credits. Let's not create a second class of worker when we don't need to, and let us not make it harder for the hundreds of thousands of employees already working a minimum wage to stay competitive in the job market.

young fishermen & women that attended the event. This week’s picture shows three young anglers watching Ed Gervais, Fish chairman, measuring a trout for one of the anglers. They were the children of John Walker. The four youngsters were Aiden Walker, Charlotte & Holden. That had a great day fishing and playing on the ice , as did numerous other young anglers hoping to catch one of the recently stocked trout.

The latest deer harvest in Mass. was recently made available to the public, and what a year it was. The deer were in great shape and many sported some great antlers. The figures were as follows: The youth deer hunt netted 138, Paraplegic hunt 3, Archery season totaled 5,190, Shotgun season 6,495, Primitive arms totaled 2,687. More than 700 deer were harvested during the two week extension of the archery season in zones 10 - 14. A total of 885 deer were harvested in zone 8 and 1,458 deer were harvested in zone 9 this year. Primitive Arms saw a whopping total of deer harvested, which has a lot to do with the great accuracy of the rifled black powder guns, that are now used by deer hunters.

Turkey hunting regulations are being reviewed by Mass. Fish & Wildlife with possible changes in daily bag limits and an increase in season limits. It should be noted that if the changes are made, the regulations will not become effective until 2020.

Changes to the striped bass fishing relative to catch & release are being recommended by the Mass. Division of Marine fishery’s board hoping to minimize the striped bass mortality.

The Springfield Sportsmen’s Show will open its doors at the Big-E this Friday, Feb. 22, at noon. This annual event draws a few thousand sportsmen to the show, to see firsthand some of the new hunting, fishing and boating equipment available to the outdoorsmen & women for 2019. It also provides a great opportunity to schedule your next hunting and fishing trips, with some of the great guides that set up annually at the show. Meeting old and new friends at the show & having a great meal at one of the top restaurants in the area, can make for a great day of food & entertainment. The office of Veterans Affairs will also have a booth set up at the show to meet and talk with veterans about any of their benefits, or other questions that they may have about services that are available to them. Be sure to stop by at the Veterans Affairs booth. Special thanks to all of our veterans for their service. This week’s second photo shows Earnie Lavallee of Uxbridge, standing by a huge display at last year’s show.

This past weekend was a great day to be outdoors enjoying the nice weather and doing some fishing. On Saturday, the Whitinsville Fish & Game Club & the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club held there annual fishing derbies. They were both well attended with Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club seeing a record amount of anglers ice fishing, but what was most exciting was the amount of years. They work very well but you need to change your fishing tactics. When fishing using circle hooks with live bait or chunk baits, allowing the fish to make a short run and then starting to reel the fish in with out setting the hook, takes some practice. Circle hooks do work well and most often hook the fish in the mouth rather than in the throat, which often causes damage to the fish resulting in a dead fish after release.

Studies have shown that 9 percent of catch & release striped bass will die from damage to their gills and throat. Consideration is also being given to anglers using gaff’s to bring the fish into the boat, or on shore. Banning the use of gaff’s on striped bass could become reality. More than one million striped bass die annually after being released. These type of regulations need to be implemented for both recreational and commercial anglers. The method of yo-yo fishing which has the angler using wire and lead weights and a hook attached to the fresh bait like porgies needs to be stopped. These regulations are long overdue. Commercial fishing for herring and porgies also needs tighter restrictions on the catch. Removing to many of these bait fish can also have major negative effects on our striped bass populations. Stay tuned for more on the new regulations being considered by DMF.

Dahlias bring diverse shapes, sizes, colors to the garden

.....
MELINDA
MYERS

Dahlias have been a fixture in summer flower gardens for generations. But it may be time to update your idea of dahlias! With hundreds of varieties to choose from in a fabulous array of colors, shapes and flower sizes, it is no surprise the National Garden Bureau has declared 2019 the Year of the Dahlia. Join the celebration and brighten your garden with dahlias this year.

Not only are dahlias beautiful, but they’re also easy to grow. Just plant the tuberous roots in a sunny, well-drained location, once the soil has warmed to about 60 degrees – or around the same time as you would plant tomatoes. It takes a week or two for the first shoots to emerge, but the plants grow quickly and will be blooming by mid-summer.

Grow dahlias in containers to brighten your balcony, deck or front steps. They combine nicely with other plants in containers as well as in the garden. Mix them with bold, leafy elephant ears, Lacinato kale and Swiss chard; finely textured ornamental grasses and gaura; upright salvias and gladiolus; and trailing plants like calibrachoa, verbena and ivy. Dahlias will add pizzazz to your gardens and landscape, especially in the second half of the summer when many other flowers are starting to wane.

Dinnerplate dahlias are bodacious beauties that command your attention. They include any variety of dahlia with flowers that are at least eight inches in diameter. These extra-large blossoms are produced on bushy plants that grow three to six feet tall. Favorites include Café au Lait, Vancouver and Thomas Edison. Use stakes to help support the flowers and keep the plants standing upright.

Decorative dahlias offer the widest array of colors and styles. Their petals are flat to slightly rolled and flower sizes vary from four to eight inches. Growing an assortment of several different varieties, like the Spice Mix Decorative Dahlia Collection (longfield-gardens.com), lets you enjoy a color-coordinated blend of hues that combine well in both the garden and in a vase.

For dahlias with a completely different look, grow cactus and semi-cactus types. Their rolled or partially rolled petals give the flowers a spiky texture. Varieties such as Yellow Star and burgundy-maroon Nuit d’Ete will add style and sophistication to your garden.

Make sure your flower garden also includes a few ball and pompon dahlias. These perfectly round swirls of tightly rolled petals come in vivid colors, and their long vase life make them a favorite with floral designers. Use coppery-orange Mirella or vivid Boom Boom Red to weave shots of color throughout an arrangement.

For contrast, incorporate some single, peony-flowered, anemone and collarette types. Dahlias such as HS Date, Bishop of Dover and Fascination have fewer petals and slightly smaller blooms, which makes them good companions for annuals as well as perennials. Plus, their daisy-like centers are magnets for bees and butterflies.

Bring your dahlias up close with dwarf varieties, commonly known as border dahlias. These plants grow just 12 to 24 inches tall, yet most have big, four-to-five-inch blooms. Popular varieties include Gallery Pablo, Melody Swing and Gallery Art Nouveau. They are ideal for small spaces, lining a walkway and are a perfect addition to containers.

With so many colors and flowers styles to choose from, growing dahlias can become a lifelong adventure. Make room in your garden for some of these easy-to-grow, easy-to-love, summer-flowering bulbs. You’ll discover why so many gardeners have fallen under their spell!

Panthers punch postseason ticket by beating North Brookfield in regular season finale

David Prouty's Raquel Ortiz steps into a midrange jump shot and releases it in front of North Brookfield's Lyndsey Schimmelpenninck.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

NORTH BROOKFIELD — One way to look at how long it's been since the David Prouty Regional girls' varsity basketball team qualified for the postseason (the year was 2002) is to consider the fact that just two of the girls on the current roster — seniors Brooke Pepin and Kailyn McCue — were even alive the last time the Panthers had a playoff game, and both were less than a year old.

David Prouty ended its streak of futility on Monday, Feb. 18, when it defeated North Brookfield High, 50-19, to finish the regular season 10-10 and qualify for the upcoming Central Mass. Division 3 Tournament.

"It's insane," Pepin said about the fact that the Panthers will still be going to practice and preparing for another game now that their regular season has officially ended. "After four years of working this hard every year and not having much to show for all that hard work, it's just crazy to actually be able to be going to where we wanted to be the whole time."

Pepin kept her emotions in check after the game until the time she — as the last David Prouty player to enter the locker room — screamed, "it's playoff season and we're going to Districts," to the delight of all of her teammates, all of whom screamed wildly at her proclamation.

Another way to look at what David Prouty has accomplished this season is the fact that in Pepin's previous three seasons as a member of the Panthers' varsity team the Panthers won a combined seven games — or three fewer in 60 games than they won this year in 20.

Johanna Annunziata, David Prouty's first-year head coach, wrote the word "Districts" on the whiteboard in the Panthers' locker room on the first day of practice.

North Brookfield's Kelly Daige tries to disrupt an inbound pass taken by Brooke Pepin of David Prouty.

Gabby Soter of David Prouty dumps a pass down low to teammate Kailyn McCue.

Maddison DiDonato of North Brookfield drives into the lane versus David Prouty.

"We do a lot of mental practices throughout the year and that was our goal, to go .500 and qualify for the tournament," Annunziata said. "They accomplished it, but we did make it interesting, waiting until the final game of the season to get that 10th win. But, the important thing is that they accomplished their goal; they finished what they started."

The tournament-clinching win was pretty much over before it got started, David Prouty scoring the first 13 points of the game and leading, 16-2, at the end of the first quarter. The Panthers expanded their lead to 26-6 at halftime and were ahead 37-14 as play entered the fourth quarter.

Freshman Gabby Soter led David Prouty in scoring with 12 points, while Pepin and juniors Jenna Petruzzi and Aisha Perez all added eight each.

Pepin believes the discipline Annunziata has demanded from the team — beginning Day 1 — is a big reason the team won 10 games and qualified for the postseason.

"We're a disciplined team now because of coach A.; she demands it," Pepin said. "She holds us accountable for even the littlest things, like being early for practice, or only allowing our opponent a certain amount of points. And, if we're late or the team scores more than the total we set for the game, we run. She is a disciplined coach and that has made us a disciplined team."

"She makes us work harder on things we wouldn't work harder on on our own, like defense," Pepin continued. "Teams obviously like working on offense a lot more than working on defense. But, because of coach A., we worked more on defense all year and that helped us win a lot of the games we won."

Annunziata said the team has completely transformed itself since the beginning of the season.

"They work much more as a team than the first day I met them. They still don't talk as much as I would like them to, but they do the little things now," Annunziata said. "If one of our players falls to the floor during a game the other four rush over and help her up. If foul shots don't go their way they are right there tapping each other on the back. They genuinely act as a team now and since the beginning of the season they have been determined to get better. That's the kind of culture that I wanted to bring to David Prouty."

North Brookfield (8-12) is also headed to the postseason as a result of winning the Worcester County Athletic Conference. The Indians will compete this postseason in the Western Mass. Division 4 Tournament.

North Brookfield, which finished 8-0 in league play, was led in scoring against David Prouty by Maddison DiDonato, who scored five points, Sydney Messenger, who scored four points, and Serenity Ayala, who added three.

Serenity Ayala of North Brookfield is able to release her layup without being distracted by David Prouty defender Aisha Perez.

Lyndsey Bennett, the Indians' head coach, thought her team played better this time against David Prouty compared to earlier in the season, especially defensively. The offense however, is still a work in progress.

"We definitely played much better defense this time around than the last time we faced them," Bennett said. "Our offense, unfortunately, didn't show up. Our lack of offense has been an issue all year; we just can't finish."

"We can't finish off the easy layups. We're making good moves, we're just not putting the ball in the hoop. It's in our heads at this point. We're overthinking our shots; we take nice shots, good shots, they're just not going in," explained Bennett, who said the team's focus has shifted to the postseason. "The team is very excited to be going to Districts but we've got a lot of work to do before we get there."

Brooke Pepin of David Prouty waits for the perfect time to hoist up a shot while sandwiched between North Brookfield defenders Sam Rischitelli, left, and Serenity Ayala.

David Prouty defender Jenna Petruzzi reaches in for a steal while North Brookfield's Sydney Messenger keeps her at bay.

Recent 1,000-point scorer Dorman helps engineer crazy comeback win for Quaboag over Indians

Quaboag's Kiarra Dorman, a recent 1,000-point scorer, retrieves a pass thrown her way.

Madeline Nemeroff, who wheeled to her right and laid the ball in off the backboard to give the Cougars a 36-35 lead with 6:01 remaining in the game. It was Nemeroff's only basket of the game.

From the time Bartlett led, 33-25, until the game was over, Quaboag outscored the Indians, 26-4.

Dorman said Andy Haley, Quaboag's assistant coach, gave them the belief at halftime that they could come back and win the game.

"He told us we just had to keep our heads up. Obviously our heads were down because it was halftime and we were down 22-8. He told us to keep passing and to do what we do best," Dorman said. "We also switched up our plays a little bit. In the first half they seemed to know what we were going to run and when we were going to run it. We tried to add some stuff that involved more players and it worked."

Dorman said overconfidence may have played a role in the Cougars' flat demeanor and lethargic performance in the first 16 minutes.

"Bartlett has always been a team that we usually, kind of, handle," Dorman said candidly. "They've definitely gotten better and we knew that coming in, but I think we still had it in our heads that we would win. Once we realized where we were, down 26-10 in the third quarter, we just came together and we just clicked. When we play as a team we can pretty much beat anyone. If we have that mindset, and we normally do, we're a really good team."

After the game William Beauregard, Quaboag's head coach, looked more like a guy who had just been in a 10-round boxing match than someone who had just finished coaching a basketball game.

"That was a tale of two halves right there; it was two different games,"

Beauregard said. "I think they were upset with how they played. That first half we weren't aggressive offensively. We just passed the ball around in the first half, a lot of times to the other team. When we did pass the ball to our own team we were just passing it around and settling for a shot. There was no driving, there was no offensive rebounding. We weren't aggressive at all."

Dorman said engineering the comeback win over Bartlett wasn't nearly as unnerving as scoring her 1,000th point.

"It was really nerve-wracking in the beginning," Dorman said about scoring her 1,000th against Tantasqua Regional on Monday, Feb. 11. "In the first quarter I didn't score, so I was nervous because I didn't think I would get it. My team kept feeding me the ball because they knew that I really wanted to get it and that I was only three points away."

"So, in the first quarter I didn't score and in the second quarter I got two early and then with about two minutes to go in the half I scored my 1,000th," she said. "I was relieved; at that point I just wanted to get it out of the way. I definitely know it's a pretty big accomplishment and my teammates made sure to make it special, too."

Following the game Beauregard confirmed that Quaboag has qualified for the Central Mass. Division 4 Tournament via the Sullivan Rule. Quaboag played just two games this year against common Division 4 opponents, going 2-0 in a pair of games against North Brookfield High.

WEBSTER — As far as encore and comeback performances go, few have ever or will ever match the show put on by Kiarra Dorman and the Quaboag Regional girls' varsity basketball team on Friday, Feb. 15 against Bartlett High.

Dorman, a junior playing in her second game since scoring the 1,000th point of her career, poured in a game-high 28 points, 25 coming in the second half, to lead the Cougars to an improbable comeback win over the Indians, 51-37.

Quaboag, which did not score in the second quarter, trailed by 16 points, 26-10, with less than six minutes to play in the third quarter. Interestingly enough, it wasn't a 3-pointer hit by Dorman — even though she made six in the game — that started the comeback. That distinction went to eighth-grader Hannah Manzano, who scored her only points of the game on a left-side 3 with 5:36 to go in the third to cut the Indians' lead down to 13, 26-13.

Following a Bartlett basket on its next possession Quaboag scored 12 straight points in a span of 2:03 to pull to within three, 28-25, with 2:55 left in the period. Dorman scored seven of the points in the run while junior Addy Ford (six points in the game) added three and eighth-grader Victoria Morgan (six points) two.

Five straight points by Bartlett's Brittany Ward pushed the Indians' lead back to eight, 33-25, with 1:47 left in the third. Dorman, however, answered with six points of her own — she hit a pair of 3-pointers on back-to-back possessions — and Quaboag was within two points of the lead, 33-31, as play moved to the fourth quarter.

After Bartlett's Allison Grzembski (a team-high 20 points) pushed her team ahead, 35-31, on the first possession of the fourth period, Dorman made it three straight possessions, three 3-pointers, draining a shot from the top of the arc to bring the Cougars to within a point, 35-34, with 7:32 to play.

Quaboag (7-10 overall, 4-6 in the SWCL) took the lead for good when Dorman passed the ball inside to sophomore

TANTASQUA'S BOONE DUO SHINES IN SHOT PUT AT STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

On Friday, Feb. 15, at the Reggie Lewis Track in Boston, Tantasqua Regional competed in the MIAA Division 2 Indoor Track and Field Championships. Top eight finishers earned medals in their respective events, and a pair of Boone's finished in eighth in the shot put. In the girls' event, Kaitlyn Boone had a best heave of 31 feet, 8-1/4 inches, while Kyle Boone put the shot 44 feet, 3-1/2 inches.

Bay Path defeats Eagles to finish game, regular season strong

Nick Ethier photos

Bay Path's Nekelle Waskiewicz applies defensive pressure on Worcester Tech's ball handler.

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON — When the Bay Path Regional girls' varsity basketball team left Upton 52-36 losers to Blackstone Valley Tech on Wednesday, Feb. 6, head coach John Selen called the setback "disappointing" and that we "just didn't have our heads in the game today." That loss dropped the Minutemen to 13-4.

Fast forward to Thursday, Feb. 14 and Bay Path completed a three-game stretch where they looked like the Minutemen of old. Bay Path beat Abby Kelly Foster twice — "we played fantastic," Selen said of those two games — before hosting Worcester Tech on Valentine's Day for Senior Night. There, the Minutemen also took care of business, 55-42, to finish their regular season with an impressive record of 16-4.

Bay Path can look back at the Valley Tech loss and realize that the seniors — there are eight in total — took matters into their own hands.

"They weren't too thrilled themselves, either," Selen said of losing to the Beavers in the fashion that they did. "They thought it was a poor performance; they thought they could have done a lot better. It was a silent bus ride all the way back.

"It's a senior group; they know what they're supposed to do. They understood their commitment wasn't what it should have been going into that game. We righted the ship," added Selen.

In the game with Worcester Tech — where the Eagles could barely suit up a starting rotation, as only five players dressed — the Minutemen stumbled slightly out of the gates. Bay Path trailed for most of the first quarter but led, 11-10, after those initial eight minutes. They then took a 30-23 halftime lead.

"I warned the girls, it's like you get caught up in the Senior Night thing. It's the emotion of the night and the weight of it all," Selen said. "At half-time I said, 'things aren't going well, but if we up the tempo they're going to get tired,' so that was the whole idea to push the ball and attack the basket, and it worked in our favor."

The Eagles showed their wear in the third quarter, as they were getting beat down the court. Worcester Tech also began making passes to no one in particular and lost the battle on the scoreboard, 16-6.

As a result the Minutemen led, 46-29, heading into the final quarter before winning by 13 points.

Four of Bay Path's seniors, as well as sophomore Madison Paulhus, compose the starting five. All five showed flashes of brilliance, with Kiara Coates leading the way with a double-double total of 16 points and 11 rebounds. Alexxus Afriyie notched 14 points, Paulhus scored 10 points, Nekelle Waskiewicz added 7 points and Emily Wong Kam pulled down 10 rebounds.

"They function well together as a group and they communicate well. It's a real good group of kids," Selen said of the starters and the team as a whole.

Coates added that Senior Night "went really good. I really like how everyone played out there. We tried to tire [Worcester Tech] out."

In addition to Coates, Afriyie, Waskiewicz and Wong Kam, Bay Path's other seniors include Emily Margoupis, Evelyn Sheehan, Kayla Davis and Patricia King.

The Minutemen will now wait for the post-season brackets to be revealed (on Friday, Feb. 22) before they embark on a run through the Central Mass. Division 4 Tournament, where the seniors hope to win their first District game.

"We earned it," Coates said of the 16-4 record and a trip to the playoffs for her fourth straight year and fifth overall for the program. "I want to go all the way to WPI."

Worcester Polytechnic Institute typically hosts the tournament's semifinal and final rounds.

Kiara Coates of Bay Path hoists up a shot in front of a pair of Worcester Tech defenders.

Bay Path's Madison Paulhus is solely focused on the basket before attempting a 3-point shot.

Scrappy Warriors force overtime, but fall short against undefeated Oakmont

Nick Ethier photos

Tantasqua's Jordyn Trombly releases a first quarter free throw versus Oakmont.

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — With 1:08 showing on the fourth quarter clock, the Tantasqua Regional girls' varsity basketball team was trailing by five points, 47-42, against an undefeated group in Oakmont Regional. That's when the Warriors pushed the ball down the court and senior Lindsey Zak gained possession around the top of the arc and hit a clutch 3-pointer to pull her team within two.

Moments later the Spartans failed to convert their opportunity, which gave possession back to Tantasqua with under 35 seconds left in regulation. The Warriors were able to put up an uncontested shot that rimmed out. Fortunately, freshman Sophie Law was under the basket to haul in an offensive rebound. She gathered and put up a shot to tie the game at 47-47 with 18 seconds left in the game. Law scored her team-high 10th point to force overtime.

"She is getting better and better every game," explained Tantasqua head coach Tom Goyette. "I would give her most improved player by far. She is getting more confident and putting it out there each and every game, which has been a big help for us down the stretch."

Unfortunately, Tantasqua (12-6) was unable to finish the comeback in overtime and was defeated by Oakmont (18-0), 53-48, on Senior Night, where Zak and Jordyn Trombly were honored.

"This group is a really resilient group," stated Goyette. "We talk about how every game we want to be better than the last one and this one was a heck of a game. It was our best game all season for sure. The resiliency and the never-give-up fight that they had to get that game to overtime against an Oakmont team that is undefeated, a real top-notch team. I am very proud of the girls; there is no question about it."

Oakmont came out very aggressive to begin the game and set a tone for the duration. They played a full-court press and held Tantasqua to five first quarter points. The Spartans led, 9-5, going into the second quarter. The Warriors had to match that intensity to get into an offensive flow.

"That was our key, to pick up our intensity. They're fast and they look to ball hawk and get steals. When we got a little more organized, getting people in the right spots and more aggressive with the ball we were able to break it and they took it off," said Goyette.

To begin the second quarter, Tantasqua began to get in a rhythm in all aspects of the game. Sparked by back-to-back buckets by Trombly, the Warriors went on a 9-0 run to take a 15-13 lead a few minutes into the frame.

This sparked some fight in Tantasqua as they took a 23-20 lead going into the half.

"We were being aggressive and had a nose for the rim tonight," said Goyette. "We had a good inside-outside game going, too, so we could attack the hoop and we hit some outside shots as well."

Tantasqua finished with eight players scoring in the scrappy loss as Law and sophomore Ainsley Way (9 points) led the way. The Warriors will close their regular season in the Westborough Invitational Tournament (to conclude after press time) and then take part in the Western Mass. Division 2 Tournament.

Lindsey Zak of Tantasqua reaches out to keep control of the ball as Oakmont's Leah Pelkey defends.

OFF THE CLOCK.

A clock can't always tell you when it's time for breakfast! Eat at home, before you start your day. Or eat when you get where you're going. Or eat something mid-morning. Research even suggests kids learn and feel better when they eat TWO smaller healthy breakfasts.

EAT BETTER. PLAY HARDER. LIVE HEALTHIER. LEARN EASIER.
WELLNESS IS A WAY OF LIFE!

ENVIRONMENT

Give back and protect the environment all at once

Companies and individuals across the globe volunteer their time and donate their money to nonprofit groups and worthy causes. Hundreds of billions of dollars are raised, and many hours are clocked furthering the efforts of charitable groups. Although nonprofits in various categories receive support, one sector has experienced the largest percentage gain: environmental and animal welfare organizations. According to a report released in 2017 from Giving USA, interest in charities involved with animal welfare support and environmental issues rose 5.8 percent when adjusted for inflation. Even though the first piece of legislation concerning widespread environmental concerns in the United States was the Federal Water Pollution Control Act in 1948, environmental causes are still gaining steam. The discovery of a growing hole in the ozone layer prompted change in the mid-1980s, as did the devastating Exxon Valdez tanker spill. However, environmental issues have gained considerably more attention over the last two decades than they used to. As a result, curbside recycling, solar energy, electric cars, low-energy light bulbs, and reusable tote bags are now some of the eco-friendly mainstays of everyday life. Environmentalists have founded numerous charities with a goal of protecting the planet and its natural resources. Donating directly or volunteering with environment- or animal-based charities is one way to elicit environmental change. Yet, there are other philanthropic efforts people can take of their own volition. Target trash. Men and women can organize like-minded individuals who can make a difference by ridding parks, beaches and public recreation areas of as much litter as possible. Litter can impact ecosystems, adversely affect animal welfare and threaten humans. All it takes to make a difference are some volunteers to sweep areas of trash and discard it responsibly. Support animal welfare groups. Thousands of relinquished or lost pets reside in area shelters awaiting homes. Adopt family pets from shelters to help reduce overpopulation. Spreading the word about animal adoption is another noble effort. Educate others. Share knowledge about alternative products and techniques for lawn and garden care, pool maintenance, home upkeep, and more that are less harmful to the environment than standard techniques. Share your thoughts with friends and neighbors directly or broadcast them on social media. Advocate for change. Speak at town hall meetings and with legislators about what can be done to promote environmental protection in your community. Raise funds where possible to implement small actions that can lead to change.

Daniel E. Higgins, 64

NORTH BROOKFIELD - The Man, the Myth, the Legend - Daniel E. Higgins, 64, died on Saturday, February 16th. He lived a full, blessed life, letting go after a long, slow decline and hard fought battle until the end. Danny was one of six children born to John H. Henry and Frances J. (McNally) Higgins. Born in Middleboro, he grew up in Southbridge and graduated from Marianhill High School. He attended Worcester State College and served in the United States Army as Military Police. After his time in the service, Dan returned to Southbridge. He worked first as a security guard at the American Optical Company and later went on to work for the United States Post Office for more than thirty years.

Dan leaves behind his "Pomme" Pamela J. (Poulin) Higgins with whom he shared 45 years of "marital bliss." He was also the proudest father and Papa, leaving behind a crazy clan of four children and twelve grandchildren: Jodi Rich and her children Paige, Christian, Chase and Declan, as well as his sons in law, Chris Hubacz and Chris Rich; Jill and Jeff Sheldon and their children Libby, Tessa, Beckett, Brooks and Camille; Meghan and Dave Fulchino and their children Vivienne and Caroline; and Shane Higgins and his fiancée, Ashley Leveillee, and their daughter, Quinn. He is also survived by three adoring, red-headed sisters, Peggy Belanger, Robin Giguere and Kellie Petrelli; many nieces and nephews and a plethora of close, lifelong friends. He was predeceased by his brother, John Higgins, and his sister, Cathy Laing. Dan the Man lived for music and live concerts. You were not part of his inner circle unless you had attended at least 5 shows with him, were regularly lent CDs to listen to and could patiently converse about bands, lyrics and songwriters. He enjoyed playing and watching sports, including playing softball until he blew out his knees and was much too old to play. He was a loud, loyal spectator who loved watching his children and grandchildren play all sports, though he certainly preferred baseball games over cheering competitions. He was endlessly proud of his children's accomplishments, regardless of whether they were real or embellished by him.

A clerk at the Spencer Post Office for most of his employment with the USPS, Higgle D was the self-proclaimed mayor of Spencer. Dan enjoyed talking to anyone and everyone, which usual created a long line at the counter which no one seemed to mind. He had an unforgettable, infectious laugh and an even more unique handshake. During his retirement, he enjoyed spending time with his family and friends. While no longer traveling in frequently broken-down VW buses, he loved trips with friends to Gloucester and family vacations in North Truro, on Bailey Island, Maine or in Little Compton, RI. He spent his last years at Southbridge Rehab and Healthcare, where he received love and exceptional care from all the patient, devoted staff on the 4th floor, as well as his dedicated wife.

Dan was truly one of a kind. He was an amazing father, grandfather, husband and friend. He made every person he met feel special and never met a person he didn't like. Although he will be missed beyond measure, he leaves a legacy of love and laughter with his family and the huge net of friendships he cast in his life. His Catholic faith provided him with comfort and strength until the end and we know he will Rest In Peace.

His funeral will be held on Thursday, Feb. 21st, from the Daniel T. Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, with a Mass at 10:00am in St. Mary's Church of the St. John Paul II Parish, 263 Hamilton St., Southbridge.

Calling hours in the funeral home were held on Wednesday, Feb. 20th, from 4:00 to 7:00pm.

Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery, Southbridge will be private.

In lieu of flowers donations can be made to Southbridge Rehabilitation and Healthcare Center, 84 Chapin Street, Southbridge, MA 01550 or Motivating Youth Recovery, CHL, 72 Jacques Avenue, Worcester, MA 01610

*If we could have a lifetime wish
And one dream that could come true
We would pray to God with all our hearts
Just to see and speak to you
A thousand words won't bring you back
We know because we've tried
And neither will a million tears
We know because we've cried
If we could have one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true
We'd ask with all our hearts
For yesterday and you
The tears in our eyes
We can wipe away
The ache in our hearts
Will always stay*

Sadly missed & forever in our hearts
With love, until we meet again
Mom & Jim, Dad & Mary
And all your family & friends

Arachne's Story

BY COOPER WHITE,
LEICESTER MIDDLE SCHOOL

Quite some time ago when the Earth was just housing people the Gods were born, you know the rest. But every once in awhile you learn something new to add to your vast mind. Sometimes that thing is knowledge sometimes its wisdom or advice but in this case it is a story. This is the story of Arachne's new life or as some may call it her next chapter.

After Arachne lost to Athene and was turned into a spider to weave forever, she had a lot, I mean a lot to figure out. The first was how to even make a home or place to live, she had seen animals hide in caves or under logs so she tried that. The first place she tried was under a log and she is lucky to still be alive today, because the second she set foot under the log a new creature the hedgehog thought she was a tasty snack. She quickly shot a strand of her stringy substance towards the top of the log by using her legs to push her stomach so that the stand would almost be puked out. Instantly after this the strand stuck to the log and she was wheeled up the side narrowly escaping the hungry hedgehog.

After she had gotten to safety she realized she could build a floating palace like the gods by extending the sticky strands from tree to tree. Once she was done with this she realized it was ugly and would be right in the way, so that if anything walked through it would destroy her work. So she climbed up a tree and built another web. This one extending from limb to limb. Once she was finished she stepped back to admire her hard work, It was magnificent. The white lines against the olive trees deep brown. Oh how she admired the swirls and twists and hexagons, it was as if she had made a tapestry and it was going to be held up for all to see right smack in the middle of Greeces center. Then a thought hit her she was on an olive tree, the tree of Athene. How she hated that woman, but she had been saved by her and hey she could be even more famous now.

Four months later... After a long stretch of four months Arachne had been living off small mites and berries that were highly poisonous to humans. But all these different foods just weren't enough to hold her over and she grew hungrier by the day. Then one fateful evening the most incredible miracle happened, Arachne caught another animal in her home and this is how it happened. She was out on her top branch of her olive tree spinning a lovely gown for herself when a yellow bee came zipping along. The bee had seen a small spot of sugar on Arachne's home and decided to take it. As the bee flew down though it got stuck on the center her home and was unable to move or was immobilized. It wiggled and writhed trying to break free but was unable to do so. Arachne then saw opportunity with this simple bee, she realized how to get food without looking for it. She quickly ran down to the bee and put the new gown on it. The bee was now even more trapped because the gown had no arms yet and so the bee could not move. Then Arachne bit the bee trying to eat it. Although when she did this the fangs instead of tearing injected yep you guessed it poison. After the poison hit the bee the bee stopped moving and lay still and silent. Now Arachne knew how to get food.

Days and weeks passed and Arachne got bored and lonesome. She had no friends and no human would want anything to do with an eight eyed hair monstrosity that was not meant to exist. So when she was sad Arachne would weave an nit all sorts of things. She one day weaved the letters L,T,E,E,A. She made these letters to spell out her father's name Latee. But jest before she put them on her home she dropped them and they spelled out TELAE wich is latin for web. Arachne immediately realized that this was fate and that her home from now on would not just be called a home but be called a web.

As she grew she learned more and more about herself such as the fact that most birds wanted to eat her and all humans wanted to burn her back to the under-world. There were stories told about her and how she was Hades's own personal demon guard and, that it would swallow you whole. The towns people said it was a mistake from the gods and it was more dangerous than Zeus himself. While Zeus took this very hard, and for the people of the town saying this he poisoned everything. But what Zeus did not know was that Arachne would be affected too. When he poisoned all Arachne became more poisonous. With one simple nip anything from a termite to a human would simply crumple. So with this she instantly became almost as powerful as a god or goddess.

Arachne began to boast how great she was and how she was better than all the gods(as if She had not learned from before). Well Hera who has always been irritable found this quite bothersome and started out to force Arachne to put her money where her mouth is. When Hera finally reached Arachne on her olive tree she realized with great sadness that Arachne was hideous. She looked worse than Hephaestus and Hera wanted to throw the thing off a cliff. While when Arachne ever saw the face Hera made when she saw her she could barely keep from laughing. Out of all the terrible and awful things Hera had seen in her lifetime Arachne thought, I must take the cake. After about a minute of this going on Arachne finally said something in ancient greek, Hera responded and this went on for about 25 minutes. They were bickering about who was more powerful Hera or Arachne. In the end they decided that there was only one option and that was to battle it out for the title of strongest. The rules of this fight were simple that being there was only one rule you have to push the other off the tree. Before this started though Hera turned herself into another creature and they began the battle.

The battle started off with Hera strongly winning and Arachne crumpling under the weight and skill of her opponent. But within seconds the entire game changed. Arachne surged with inconceivable power. She bit and scratched and shot webs so high they reached olympus. Hera was furious and feared defeat. So in a shear moment of insecurity Hera made 10000 creatures They scuttled and ran circling Arachne so that Arachne was unable to see where Hera was. Although Arachne had one last trick up her sleeve. This trick was that Arachne knew that her web was sticky but Hera did not. So Arachne walked to her web and carefully spun a sticky center that even she could hardly escape. She proceeded to walk round and round as she knew Hera would surely strike soon. Then like Arachne knew would happen, Hera leaped forth with the strength of a lion. Arachne as planned doged and sent Hera and her hairy body onto the stick center of Arachne's web. Arachne knew she had not won yet even though she had her opponent trapped (remember you have to knock the other off the tree in order to win). So Arachne proceeded to cut a circle around the string with her fangs and drop Hera to the bottom of Arachne's olympus just as Hera had dropped Hephaestus for being so ugly.

As the years went on the gods kept an eye on Arachne or spied on her, and our modern spider was deprived from the gods spying on her or spiedher. Oh and I bet you are wondering what happened with the other 10000 spiders, while lets just say any spider is a descendant of one of those. This was Arachne's story.

The Yellow Jacket

BY EVA PERRON, EAST BROOKFIELD, MA

It was on a morning in March 2000, my husband and I were on a bus trip to Atlantic City. My husband had bought a yellow jacket, and we were all set for three days of fun and a good time.

The next morning in the warm casino, he took off his jacket, put it in between machines, and forgot it as he moved from one slot machine to the next. When he remembered it, the jacket was gone. A trip to the lost and found department was fruitless...no one had brought it in.

We met one of the couples from our bus and I mentioned how Normand's jacket was gone. Our friend Peachee felt bad, and said, "keep your eyes open."

She and her husband went into the food court, and in a booth close by was an identical jacket. The man was out of the booth getting his food, and Peachee, in spite of warnings from her husband, went over, picked up the jacket, and placed it on a seat next to hers.

Her husband, upset and furious beyond words, was embarrassed. They brought the lunch back to their table and started to eat, when a man came to their table very distraught and said, "lady, did you take that jacket off my seat?"

"Yes I did, she replied."

He asked her "why?"

Her response, "it belongs to my friend."

He shouted, "I bought and paid for that jacket, and it's mine!" He yanked it, went back to his booth, and started eating. Peachee's husband was outraged. Peachees felt certain that she did the right thing.

Meanwhile, a second trip to the lost and found department, and we were relieved; he got his jacket and put it on.

We decided to go to the food court and met Peachee and her husband who were leaving. She almost fainted when she saw us.

"I must go and apologize to that man," stated Peachee.

"I want to apologize," she stated.

"Lady, I may have some flaws, but I certainly don't go around stealing jackets, I'm a Catholic priest."

Peachees asked for his forgiveness.

In the following years, we met Peachees and her husband often—and the first subject of any conversation began with, you guessed it, the Yellow Jacket.

Family

BY OLIVIA GIANGRANDE, NORTH BROOKFIELD
JR SR HIGH SCHOOL

Family what does that mean?
Is it the people we share blood with?
The people that made us?
The answer is none of the above?

Family is the people we love
The people we care about
And most importantly the people we chose

Family!

Now the people we love may not be in our blood
But that doesn't make them any by less family

I remember all the parties
For birthdays
Christanings
And First communions

I have special love for those people in my life
That are family by choice
Not by blood

Family!

When it comes to love
Every second
Of every minute
Of every hour
Of every day
Counts

Family!

Family is the glue
That hold us together
That keeps us from crumpling
Into a ball
On the floor
Alone.

That is family!

Kindness

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY,
NORTH BROOKFIELD, MA

Is there a day when you feel down and out?

Then do something nice for someone without any doubt
Give a stranger your seat on the bus
Saying I'll stand, thank you, without making a fuss

Even if you are running late – no there's not much time

Let a person in a wheelchair get to the head of the line

If you see a loved one at a wake beginning to cry

Hand them a Kleenex to dry their eyes
Send a family member a card or simple note

Reassure a politician for them you are going to vote

Give your sister the last piece of chocolate cake

You'll know for sure it was not a mistake

Help an elderly man up the stairs at mass

show them dignity – respect – thoughtfulness and class

Make breakfast for a neighbor walking up before dawn

Telling them later in the day you'll mow their lawn

A long forgotten classmate – make the first call

Catching a baby as they begin to fall
Oh I'll give you a hand to shovel that snow

They'll appreciate it more than you'll ever know

Bring an employee a large coffee in a decorated mug

If someone's having a bad day give them a hug

When all things seem hopeless – on a star make a wish

To your only grandchild a good nite kiss

A homeless person – give them a dollar or two

Any extra cash buy them a pair of shoes
A heartbroken little boy – give them that home run ball at a game

Know your life will not be the same
Someone walking behind you – for them hold the door

Be courteous to others – don't just ignore

Buy your whole family an ice cream cone

Reassuring your mom she will never be alone

Saying good morning as you walk down the street

Person after person everyone you should greet

Going for a bike ride – just you and me
At a school auditorium – decorate the Christmas tree

A hospital visit – for the patients say a prayer

Let them know that you truly care
Share your umbrella if it begins to rain

Be happy for others with wealth and fame

Holding the hand of a very small child
Wherever you are give someone a smile

If you do an act of kindness every single day

It will affect your heart in a very special way.

This Broken World

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY,
NORTH BROOKFIELD, MA

Growing up today is so much harder than years ago

Parents hide their feelings – fear so their children won't know

They are kidnapped on the streets or even in their homes

You must always hold their hands so not to even for a minute they will roam

Sending them off to school you think they will be safe

But more students by their teachers are now crying rape

A Catholic school will be perfect because of the nuns and priests

But you see your child break down as the details of horror are released

Your loved one is going to look at toys at a popular mall

Only gone for five minutes and her name you must call

Bullying a student because you don't like t heir looks

Isn't high school supposed to be about learning and reading books

Three-four-five names but there are no gangs

A friend is shot dead as you hear a loud bang

Beaten up your girlfriend is not love but abuse

For this kind of behavior there is no excuse

When you go to a party – be sociable – have one drink

Don't gulp down 10 where you can't walk or think

Speeding is not an option when you learn to drive

Go by the rules of the road and you will survive

Where in the world did you get those pills?

Just one by mistake and you know they will kill

Energy drinks that keep you aware day and night

One day you see your teenager sad and depressed

The next day she kills herself and is laid to rest

What the heck are you doing with those bath beads

Is this a new high - something like speed?

Hazing – harassment in college – you want to fit in

But no matter how hard you try – you simply can't win

Going to summer camp for relaxation and fun

Pointing to your guidance counsellor – yes he is the one

Think about the extra cash you can make just walking the streets

Not considering diseases or the convicts you'd meet

When someone says "I love you" is it for real?

Or is it a line and your innocence they steal?

Always use a condom so you don't contract AIDS

Banging at the door and shouts this is a raid

To break into your car or house this person is brazen

But more and more today there are home invasions

Needing money for a date so you rob a bank

A smirk on your face saying what a great prank

In a crowded theater someone has a gun

You start to feel faint but know you must run

For insurance purposes you set a barn on fire

When did this individual become such a liar

These are such sad circumstances we live in today

How in the heck did it get this way

We must keep our faith and somehow find hope

For me – you and others we must every-day cope

One wish I have for every child – boy and girl

Dear God, please protect them – from this broken world.

Arachne's Next Chapter...

BY: NICOLE NGUYEN,
LEICESTER MIDDLE SCHOOL

There was a girl. She was a marvelous weaver but was very prideful toward her skill. She said she was an even greater weaver than Athena herself and this angered the mighty goddess. The goddess and the girl had a weaving competition and the great Athena had won and the girl lost. The girl, who was very desperate of winning, lost so she hung herself. Athena had known of this and then turned the girl into a wretched spider to live till the end of her days.

Arachne was furious! She could not believe that she had lost to that infuriating goddess. Arachne was a great weaver and she knew it. Arachne was walking in the dark woods while stumbling over roots and pebbles. Her eight legs were bothering and were in a tangle of themselves. Not only had Arachne knew that she had eight legs but she discovered her great eyesight. Before, when she had passed by a deer she could see every auburn hair on it's rear leg. While walking aimlessly some more she had found white strings trailing behind her. Arachne picked up the strings and sat down under a prodigious oak tree root. She had an idea.

Arachne sat their very still and raised four of her legs. She had started weaving with these long wool like strings. She wove skillfully and swiftly as she had did in her old cottage that she used to weave in. All Arachne could think about was weaving and weaving and weaving. This is what all she could do in this cruel world now. But before long Arachne had made a long blanket full of patterns of the sky such as the soft white clouds and the lightning and rain. The blanket was sturdy and soft, it was even big enough to cover an adult man. It was such a pity that no one was here to see her magnificent creations.

Then a storm rolled in. It rained softly with a pat pat pat but before long raindrops were streaming down like hail. Arachne was afraid of dangerous weather conditions like storms would come. She heard thunder booming and crackling in the sky. She can see lightning strike frail trees in the distance. Was the powerful Zeus angered? Arachne didn't know. But she had a thought. If Zeus was angered then she might as well give him something as an offering to ease his anger. While she was thinking lightning struck a patch of green and healthy grass near Arachne. The grass withered to ash in the flaming fire that had shortly begun afterwards. Arachne folded the blanket into a small square and quickly scuttled toward the fire. She threw the blanket into the fire and watched it burn to nothing. This was how you would offer gifts to the gods.

Up above on Mount Olympus was Zeus sitting on his golden throne studded with precious jewels. He had a stern look on his face. Zeus and Hera made a promise to fix their ways so both of them don't get mad at each other. And yet Hera still dates another man! Zeus beyond irritated. But right then and there before him was a white blanket with the most beautiful intricate patterns and pictures. Zeus's face had turned from anger to awe. Was this his daughter Athena's making? It couldn't be, Athena would have brought her crafts to him herself. Then a memory came into Zeus's head. He had remembered Hermes telling him about Athena competing in a weaving contest against a girl named Arachne. Arachne was said to be a talented weaver but lost and was turned into a creature called the spider who can make webs with white string. Zeus knew the blanket was his and was made by the girl! He wanted to bring a reward to the girl for making such an astonishing soft blanket but he was worried this would anger his daughter Athena. So Zeus decided to bring something to Arachne that is not too lavishing but might have some use to her. He spun his hands around in a circular motion and whispered words to himself. And there the gift was made for Arachne.

The tempest ended with a final CRACKLE of thunder. But then a major headache had started in Arachne's head. Her head kept telling her water water water! But what did that mean? Arachne screamed in pain. It hurt! It was like a searing flame was in her head. Arachne then went to the nearest puddle she could find. A puddle to a human would be just a petty small pool of water. But to Arachne this was much bigger to her view. The puddle looked deep and Arachne didn't want to go in at all! But her head was in such immense pain! No longer could Arachne take it so she jumped into the puddle and closed all her eyes tightly. Was this how she would die? Could it be that Athena was not yet satisfied of punishing her that she had to give Arachne a major headache and then drowning her?! Arachne couldn't take this brutal world. But she realized that she was still breathing. She looked down beneath her and there was water. Her legs were wobbly but she was standing on water. This was unbelievable! Arachne thought it was Zeus who gave her the headache to show her a new gift. Arachne praised the mighty Zeus for his wonderful gift. Maybe this world was not at all bad.

Days later Arachne was streaming on water with a carefree smile. It was a wonderful feeling. Arachne could gather water droplets onto her little crafts to make them have a bright gleaming shine. Arachne now didn't care that she had such a hideous body but she was still furious with Athena. But at least Arachne can make beautiful crafts while gliding freely on water. It made her happy to live in this life now. The End.

Love at First Meet

BY SUSAN SHEPHERD, AUBURN

"Once upon a time," is how the stories always start. Wishing and praying their hearts will never depart.

He came to me one day, right out of the blue. My breathing stopped, it was then that I knew.

I hope he is single, 'cause my heart skipped a beat. I thought they were crazy, 'Love at first meet.'

Now I'm one of them, getting others to believe. Including my love, his name is not Steve.

"We're really good friends," he says, making me sad. He's on the west coast; I'm not and that's bad.

Any night we can look up and see the same star. The love of my life is still very far.

Someday, I hope, there will be a good ending, hand-in-hand after our very own wedding.

Will You?

BY SUSAN SHEPHERD, AUBURN

Love is everywhere, just waiting to be found, it makes your heart turn upside down.

Time & devotion are the best gifts of all. Their cost is priceless – not found in a mall.

Declaring your devotion is quite a big risk. Deep down inside, you want to be kissed.

To the outsider, it doesn't make any sense. It's time to get off of that white picket fence.

Hearts & flowers, some red and some pink, a great big smile and maybe a wink.

The day has come – let them know how you feel, no longer a dream – it's time to get real.

Hoping the feeling comes back your way, then it'll be time to plan that big day.

Bending down on one of your knees, "Together forever, say yes, will you please?"

Cupid's Twelfth Birthday

BY SUZANNE VASHUGIN

On the day that Cupid turned twelve years old, God gave him twelve arrows made out of pure gold.

These arrows were his most powerful because he received them from above. The potion they possessed gave the recipient everlasting, not romantic love.

All the other angels were so happy that they merrily danced around. Then they presented Cupid with a sparkling crystal crown.

He placed it on his head and leaped from clous to cloud. After he did this for an hour, he said, "I ned to be serious now."

Cupid knew it was a difficult decision, on who to give his arrows, so he sat and pondered it as he leaned on his elbows. Cupid thought, "Maybe I should give them to world leaders, or someone famous, or maybe to sports stars, or champions in the Olympics?"

"I think I've got it!" he shouted to the angels who hadn't flown away. "I'll wait until 12:01 in the morning on Valentine's Day, to watch the seven continents on Earth, and see which twelve mothers first give birth.

I'll shoot my painless arrows at each of their newborns, yet they won't feel a thing, not even the prick of a thorn. Two days passed, and it was 12 o'clock midnight.

Cupid was so excited about his significant plight. He stared at the world with great anticipation.

Which baby would be born first and from what nation?

At last, he heard wails from Tanzania, Peru and Cananda. Then, he heard cries from Malaysia, Timbuktu and Australia, next, Cupid heard screeches from Siberia, Hawaii and Ireland. Last he heard shrieks fro China, Chile and Iceland.

As cupid carefully listened to all the newborn commotion, he flew with lightning speed to each location.

With a smile from ear to ear, Cupid bestowed his priceless gift, "Have a loving life!" he said, as to the clouds did he lift.

Cupid replied, "I thought many hours about what I would do. Maybe I would give them to someone important, but I didn't have a clue.

I decided the best option was to pick someone new, So on the day of love, Valentin's Day, off I flew!

I found the first born babes in each corner of the world. Next, I launched my arrows and watched them swirl, toward each wee one that would possess everlasting love, more than any present human had ever heard of."

Your Smile

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY, NORTH BROOKFIELD

On December 9th 2018 in Worcester another tragedy occurred

Our hearts again broken – our eyes are blurred

Firefighter Christopher Roy trapped in a burning home

His brothers trying desperately to rescue him – he was never alone

Two men were injured – one did not survive

Why again in December? Why again in Worcester did one of our die?

Hearts are broken – the nation stands still

This again was part of God's will
The word spread quickly – another loss of life took place

Flashbacks of 1999 and 2011-time can never erase

Is this for real or is it just another bad dream

Hoping and praying – it's not what it seems

Flags again at half staff
Minutes-hours lasting forever as if they'd never pass

Soon we learned that Ronald and Michele lost their loving son

And his beautiful 9-year-old always number one

His brother Jason and wife have now lost a brother

He was the best of the best – there was no other

Recently Christopher and his daughter moved into a home in Shrewsbury, Mass

Where the love of his life would be attending class

Working at a restaurant where all saying he was an awesome guy

So very difficult not to break down and cry

Selfless – compassionate – a hard worker always on time

Management commenting he was one of a kind

A construction job with Consigli before a firefighter at Webster Square

How much he loved this job everyone quite aware

Having a passion for hunting – he loved to fish

Cooking at the fire station his favorite dish

Him and his Ava so very close

Traveling to Myrtle Beach and Florida he enjoyed the most

But on a cold blustery day in December his dreams suddenly came to an end

Roy was not only a son-father-brother-uncle but everyone's best friend

Again weeks before Christmas we lost another firefighter hero

This time on Lovell Street our third ground zero

So when you hear a siren simply say a prayer

Thank these individuals so they know that you care

And so to you Christopher Roy our 8th hero – we shall say God speed

See in you awhile

But we shall always love you

And remember how you could move a mountain – "simply with your smile"

In Loving Memory of Firefighter Christopher Roy

The Shining Lite

In All Of Our Hearts

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY,
NORTH BROOKFIELD, MA

I like hundreds of others have known David Massad for many years

Now on a cold winters day – we fight back the tears

On December 28, 2018 Duddie received his final call

Mr. Massad – A humble man – born with a heart of gold

Of his compassion and kindness even strangers were sold

Raised in Worcester on the Grafton Hill side of town

If you were lost – with him you were found

At age 18 he self made his own career Contributions to the Friendly House, St. John's, United Way all were unaware

Giving to the Trauma Unit – At Lake Ave Umass

A quiet – meek individual with an abundance of class

Born to Philip and Helen of Lebanese decent

Traveling daily to Duddie Ford, Diamond Chevrolet, Commerce Bank he often went

Pam, Christine, David – his children – the loves of his life

Now he's in heaven with Gregory, Delores, Donald, Bette – his devoted wife

His grandchildren and family – to him they were everything

Just being in their presence the happiness it would bring

And as we gather together to say our last goodbye

Duddie would want you to move on – and for him do not cry

Remember Mr. Massad as someone on whom you could always depend

Cherish those memories as being everyone's friend

Whether to help your children at school or a political campaign

He gave to us all – never wanting gratitude or fame

Raising money for an illness – a cause or even a cure

His smiling face we shall see no more

If a family member of yours passed – flowers and a card he'd send to pay his respect

Never anyone did he ever neglect

Right aside of you or miles away in the heaven's so far

He will forever remain that one brilliant star

Farewell our Dear "Duddie" - it's time for us to part

And until we meet again you shall eternally be loved – missed

Remembered as "THE SHINING LITE IN ALL OUR HEARTS"

Welcome Home

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY,
NORTH BROOKFIELD, MA

I stopped giving to church – Mass about five years ago

The reason why – well that I still know

You see that's when my best friend got sick

Wondering why was it her God decided to pick

Please Lord make this living person be okay

Every time I thought of her – in silence I would pray

But heaven for her had other plans

Angels above were in great demand

Even toward the end there was a smile on her face

Memories frozen in time can never be erased

Then a relative said, I have to go in

For all who were taken from us I have to be strong

But I felt God didn't answer my prayers

My feelings my hurt he was unaware

When he took my best friend, only he knew the reason

Death has no time – no date – no month or season

More and more I listened to what she was trying to say

In time eventually I would be okay

I would then set a date and go back to church – mass

Knowing it wouldn't be easy – a difficult task

Realizing I did miss all my friends, parishioners I once knew

How as individuals we all had our favorite pew

People stop going to church – believing for one reason or another

I can't go this week because I have to watch my brother

It's too cold outside I don't want to shovel the snow

But next week at 8:00 I promise to go

It's 90 degrees, I'm sitting in my pool

Even with fans in church it's still not that cool

Maybe I can just watch mass on TV

Knowing it's not the same but is to me

It's my only day off I just want to sleep

Saying those same words week after week

Why should I leave this cookout I'm having so much fun

If I leave now I'll be the only one

Whatever your reason take one day at a time

For in a matter of weeks you will be just fine

When you walk into St. Joseph's Church slowly on the 22nd of May

A debt to yourself you feel you must pay

You can feel the peace – love – for you're not walking alone

As all parishioners – smile – give you a hug – each saying, "Welcome Home"
