New outreach at YMCA

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM – The Hale YMCA Youth & Family Center is welcoming a new Health and Wellness Director, Jennifer Looney.

The fitness enthusiast and passionate fundraiser is excited about the opportunity to not just provide fitness options for various folks in the area, but get involved in the YMCA's community outreach as well. She just started on June 4, but she's already felt a very warm welcome.

"It's wonderful. The people are fantastic," she said. "I can't really say enough about what a warm welcome I have received. They have been really helpful. It's been a really good fit for me."

One new program Looney has been working on is the YMCA's national Diabetes Prevention Program. The program is focused on helping people that have been identified as "at risk" for Type 2 Diabetes.

"We want to help them find healthier eating options, increase their physical activity, and help them realize the benefits of losing weight," said Looney. "It's to prevent the chronic damage you get once you are pre-diabetic or have been diagnosed."

I spoke with Looney about her new role at YMCA and what she hopes to accomplish for the community.

What drew you to this position?

Collins to perform at Frog Rock

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

EASTFORD — Frog Rock is a name that rings bells all across the Quiet Corner and beyond. So when local musician Brennan Collins was invited to perform there, he felt beyond excited. The Plainfield resident said when he mentions his upcoming performance, people say, "Oh my God, I love that place!"

Collins will be performing at Frog Rock on Sunday, July 1, from 1 to 3 p.m.

And he has only heard "really good things" about Frog Rock.

"This performance will be a blast," he said.

Frog Rock is an Eastford landmark that has turned into a place for picnics, antique shopping and live performances, starting back in 1918.

Most people who have stopped by have fond memories of Frog Rock Rest Stop throughout the years, said Eastford's official website.

Collins has been a musician for a long time, ever since he was little. But he's been playing on his own since 2013.

Most people in the area have heard of the Great Garage Band. Collins was a part of that, and many other local bands. But he decided he wanted to make performing a full time gig, and began reaching out to places on his own to do some solo performances on the side.

That's when he started playing outside of restaurants and bars with a tip jar.

And now at a rest stop. What's kept him performing is the crowds' reaction.

"If I play a certain song, they'll start singing along with it," he said. "Or dancing. Or both. It's part of who I am. Pleasing people through music. I love seeing that smile on their face. A familiar song that just makes them happy."

And Collins will play anything. He loves taking anything from Chuck Berry to Justin Bieber and doing an acoustic cover of it.

"If I like it, then I'll play it. Or if it's really popular and stuck in my head and others know it, I'll play it," he explained. For that reason, there's something for everyone at his performances.

Collins began singing when he was a toddler. His parents were very musical, and that's what got him into it at the beginning.

"Out of all the instruments, I just like singing the most," he said.

"It just came naturally to me."

He took voice lessons at Eastern Connecticut State University, and it slowly became his major.

He formed an acoustic duo, Way 2wo. From listening to the Beatles and Beach Boys, Collins knew he loved harmonizing with other people.

"I'm just glad I've been getting a lot more attention from different venues. Like eateries, bars... And now rest stops!" exclaimed Collins.

For now, his goal is to get his name out there and get as many shows as he can.

And now he's ready to put the rock in Frog Rock.

Pilgrim Virgin Statue of Our Lady Fatima in Putnam

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM — A sign of hope, the Knights of Columbus is hoping that the famous United Nations Pilgrim Virgin Statue of Our Lady Fatima will bring all kinds of people from the community together for one thing: Peace.

The world-famous 100 year-old statue will be at St. Mary Church on Saturday, July 7 from 3 to 6 p.m., sponsored by Putnam's Cargill Council 64.

"This statue is a representation of hope. It gives us a way to have a physical focus on that," said Chairman of the event, John Ryan. "To say, 'We're going to do this.' It gives us a chance to say, 'We don't want to live this way.' We want peace in the world. We want to end terrorism. And we are willing to do something about it."

The statue of Mary is based in Rhode Island, and is currently owned by the Fatima Sanctuary in Portugal. According to Ryan, it is one of four International Pilgrim Virgin statues, blessed by Pop Pius XII and then taken on a worldwide pilgrimage starting on May 13, 1947.

That's the 30th anniversary of the first apparition of Mary at Fatima.

Said Ryan: "Her appearance was a direct response to the craziness that people had gone into overdrive with. Bombs going off all over the world. This was the response."

She had appeared in the middle of World War I. And she had said the war would end, but a worse war would come a generation later.

"And indeed it did," said Ryan. "She said there would be great problems. And there was. But she said the world was going to get better."

With all of the division and negativity in the current world – even amongst communities – Ryan and the rest of the Knights are hoping that a day like this will allow a break for residents looking to unite in peace. Looking to have hope for the future. A stop to the violence.

The program will begin with a short prayer service at 3 p.m. At the Putnam Deanery Perpetual Eucharistic Adoration Chapel in St. Mary's Parish Center. At 3:45 p.m. The statue will be processed into the church by the Knights for a 4 p.m. Vigil Mass.

After the mass, the custodian of the statue, Judith Stouter, will give a short talk about Our Lady's appearances at Fatima, the history of the statue itself.

Paddle For a Cure

BROOKLYN – Hundreds of kayakers created a rainbow at the edge of the lake at Riverside Park on June 10 for Day Kimball Hospital's Paddle for a Cure. A scenic and fun fundraiser that benefits the Rose Bove LaRose Cancer Center at DKH, kayakers have raised more than $64,000 since 2011. This year, the money collected was for new beds in the oncology center.

Dave Karen and Jonna Laselle of Dental Designs were one of the event's sponsors.

Transitioning from being an owner of a business, a fitness studio, I kind of already have an understanding of what happens behind the scenes. But I also have a fitness background, so it was really like I was guided here.

What makes you feel passionate about the YMCA?

I think that the YMCA's activity in community outreach is absolutely and about her trips around the world, explained Ryan. She will also discuss her own healing from cancer through prayer.

This will be followed by the recitation of the rosary, before the statue is processed out of the church by the Knights around 6 p.m.

"We want the public to come. We want the world to see," said Ryan. That's why they are hosting this momentous event at St. Mary's, which can hold 740 people. When the statue visited on July 28, 2007, there was an "excellent crowd," and they're hoping for the same turn out this year.

"It was so wonderful," Ryan continued. "It brought so many different people together."

And it's going to be a "fun" and "European-style event." Dressed up in traditional attire for this type of occasion, and copying the traditions of Italian churches, it's going to be a spectacle.

For further information, please contact Brother Knight Ryan at 860-928-7241.

fantastic. That was one of the reasons I was moved to apply. My studio did a lot of work with the community, whether it was donating to local 5Ks or sponsoring other local fitness events.

That's amazing.

Every year we opened on Thanksgiving to raise money for the Adopted Child program that ran at the Dudley Middle School, providing Christmas gifts for kids at You Inc. We partnered with Harrington Healthcare to raise money for their Power Of One Program, addiction and recovery services. I'm very passionate about giving back to the community, as well as spreading a love for health and fitness.

What are you hoping to accomplish as the Health & Wellness Director at the Y?

Right now I'm settling in and trying to figure out what the culture is and how the organization works. Ultimately, I would like to continue to bring innovative and fun fitness programs into the YMCA. I would like to make sure we stay on the cutting edge of health and wellness opportunities for every one of our members and folks out there in the community.

What made you so passionate about fitness?

I have been a fitness instructor for a long while, teaching classes. It started from my own desire... It started with myself. I had a need to be healthier than I was. I was a cheerleader and playing tennis in my youth, but you get into that older role and you don't really know how to do it anymore. But I'm much more of a group person, so I started taking group fitness classes. One day, the director asked me if I was interested in teaching. And it took off from there.

That's awesome. With so much information out there about health and fitness - especially on the Internet - what makes the YMCA the place to go to get the help people may need on their fitness and health journey?

There's so much information out there about what is healthy, what's not... I think the messages get muddled and lost. I think if the YMCA can be that one place where they know they can get accurate information, where they can get support services they might need, whether they're going through cancer or need to lose a little weight for their health, this is the place they think of first. Where they can come and get everything that they need from people with a health and wellness background. I'm just really excited to be here. I'm excited to bring my joy for what I do to everyone here in the community.

WOODSTOCK — Woodstock Middle School's Playground Committee recently held a Kiss a Goat fundraiser, which raised over $700 for the new playground. Students at the elementary and middle school voted on which teacher they'd like to see kiss a goat at field day and at a pep rally, respectively. They placed coins and bills into jars of the teacher they wanted to win.

Across Woodstock, residents could stop in at the town hall, Sweet Evalina's Stand, Soleil & Suns, and Tractors 2 Trimmers to vote for the town official or state representative they'd like to see kiss a goat at the playground ribbon cutting later this summer.

The donations have been tallied, and Special Education teacher Mrs. LeBoeuf puckered up to kiss a goat at the elementary field day Tuesday June 19th. At the middle school, 5th grade science teacher Mrs. Zurawka kissed a goat at a pep rally Wednesday June 20th. Woodstock First Selectman Mike Alberts will kiss a goat at the ribbon cutting ceremony of the new playground.

Sunnydale Farm of Woodstock has generously offered to provide a goat to be kissed. The playground committee would like to thank all those who participated in this fundraiser by volunteering or voting.

Looney is health and wellness director at YMCA

PUTNAM — On June 18 Hale YMCA announced that it has named Jennifer Looney as its new health and wellness director. Looney, an ACE certified health Coach and group fitness instructor with over 20 years of experience, will aim to further Hale's mission of helping people develop to their fullest potential in spirit, mind and body.

Looney has over 20 years of experience in the fitness industry, including 5 years as the owner of The Fitness Studio in Dudley, MA. She brings a strong background in strength training, cardio conditioning, TRX Suspension training and nutrition, and she is certified in a wide variety of group fitness programs, including TRX RIP and 7 Les Mills programs among others.

Looney is also an active member in the community and looks forward to assisting and participating in Hale YMCA events. She lives in Dudley, Mass., with her husband Bill, teenagers Katerina and Andre and several dogs and cats. She loves the beach and traveling to the coast of Maine.

She aims to further Hale's goals of developing one's fullest potential in spirit, mind and body. Camp Cutler and Hale's summer session kick-off June 18th and include programs to help the community stay physically and mentally active throughout the summer.

The announcement comes alongside the kick-off of Hale's summer session and Camp Cutler, both of which start today and run through August 26th. From spin classes to hydro-running to a new Gaga pit and archery for the campers, the Y's summer programming is full of new and exciting activities aimed at helping the community stay physically and mentally active throughout the summer. Last year, in its inaugural year, Camp Cutler served 110 children from the local community.

"At the Hale YMCA, we are all about having a healthy, happy summer, and we are thrilled to welcome Jennifer Looney to the team to help us accomplish just that," said Amanda Kelly, executive director of the Hale YMCA Youth and Family Center. "I am confident that not only will Jenn's enthusiasm for healthy living be contagious for our community, but her wealth of knowledge in this space will help Hale expand our wellness offerings this summer and beyond."

"Your health is not about yesterday, today or even this week - it's about 20 years from now. What kind of habits are you creating to enjoy long-term health?" said Looney, right after being named new health and wellness director of the Hale YMCA Youth and Family Center. "If you want to be healthy and active then create healthy and active habits now. I'm excited to be joining an organization that shares in this vision, and I can't wait to kick things off this summer."

For more information on Camp Cutler and summer programs, click here or call 860-315-9622.

The YMCA builds strong communities by helping individuals reach their fullest potential through transformative programs that promote Youth Development, Healthy Living and Social Responsibility. We help people reach their fullest potential by: putting a caring adult in the presence of every child; being good stewards of the resources entrusted to us; and working in partnership to eliminate the disparities in health and education.

WOODSTOCK LITTLE LEAGUE RESULTS

Sunday June 17
BASEBALL MAJORS

The Woodstock Dodgers fell to the Brooklyn Demons 3-2 in the QCC Major League Baseball Championship game in Pomfret. The Dodgers jumped out to an early 2-0 lead in the first inning as Riley O'Brien hit a two-run home run to left-center field off Brooklyn starter Ben Jax. Jax settled down from there, allowing only those two runs on three hits for the evening, while striking out twelve Woodstock batters.

Woodstock started Riley O'Brien cruised through the first two innings before running into trouble in the bottom of the third inning. After striking out the first two batters of the inning, Brooklyn's Jackson Gallagher laced a single by a diving Matthew McClure at shortstop. Ben Jax and Andrew followed with back to back triples to right field, with an overthrow to the cut-off man allowing Andrew to scamper home with the go-ahead run. O'Brien finished the night pitching four and a third innings for Woodstock, allowing three runs on three hits while striking out twelve Brooklyn hitters. Dominick Tocci came on to get two big outs in the bottom of the fifth to give the Dodgers a chance, but it was not meant to be as Woodstock squandered a two man on, no outs situation in the top of the sixth, failing to score.

Riley O'Brien (1-2, HR, 2 RBIs), Noah Sampson (1-3) and Henry Wotton (1-2) had the only hits for Woodstock, who finished the season at 12-6-1 and the runner-up in the QCC Majors Division.

Back From Across the Pond Part 2

When I last left you, Sean and I were sampling every pub in Dublin... or trying to, anyway. I don't even want to look at another Guinness for the next six months. From Dublin we caught a flight to Bristol, England. At this point we noticed that none of the hotels have top sheets, window screens, or air conditioning. Windows are just left wide open because there are barely any mosquitos, and bugs don't come in! (I awoke last night with a lightening bug on my hand last night, and almost lost my mind. Not to mention the bat that somehow got in a couple of nights ago that Rachel quickly, and cleverly, herded out through the kitchen door while I hid in the other room). So, Sean and I hopped a train to Yeovil to visit a friend for a couple of days before heading to London. We were supposed to have rented a car in England but after the Ireland experience, Sean canceled it and we relied on public transport. Our friends took us to Glastonbury Abbey, which has been on my bucket list for years. It's the supposed burial site of King Arthur and Guinevere (Much speculation on that myth). We also climbed Glastonbury Tor, which is rumored to be the magical Isle of Avalon. I get winded sharpening a pencil, so this 518-foot climb had me begging strangers for a piggy back ride. There were elderly people with canes passing me for Heaven's sake! Once you reach the top though, the view is breathtaking so the leg cramps were so worth it! London was huge! We tried to catch a cab to travel 3.7 miles, and the driver said it would take an hour, as the traffic is non-stop no matter what time of day you venture out. We toured the Tower of London because that was another bucket list item. There was an interactive story going on about the arrest and eventual beheading of Ann Boleyn, second wife of King Henry the VIII. I was so excited but got so engrossed that Sean had to nudge me more than a few times, and whisper "Let THEM tell the story Bren!" One Tower building contains armor from past kings as well as swords; weapons and various items used by past monarchs line the walls. Medieval torture devices are house in another building. Maybe if they would have had Dr. Robin at Back & Body Chiropractic after a stint on the rack it wouldn't have been so bad. We noticed so many differences between the US and the UK, and Europe that I have to share a few! Other than wonky driving, no screens, top sheets, and ac units, all sinks have separate faucet spouts for hot and cold. So you either wash with hot or cold but not both at the same time, unless you move your hands back and forth really fast under each spout. I have to remember to tell that to Ann-Marie Morin at Tailored Kitchens, and ask if she has ever had to incorporate that into any of her designs! On another note, everyone in Ireland smells wonderful. Seriously... I noticed that on the plane to Ireland, and then passing people on the street. The air is perfumed but it's not overpowering, in fact it's lovely. No one wears their pants half down their butts! The teens and twenty-something's wear properly fitting clothes. No flat-brimmed baseball caps, or pajamas and slippers in public. These people dress to impress! In every restaurant we patronized, food is ordered at the bar, and then they bring it to you. At a Chinese place we went, the server came over, ripped a sheet off her pad, hand it to us with a pen, and said "I'll be back when you've finished." Can't blame them for a messed-up order if you wrote it out yourself, eh? Our trip was wonderful, and the people we met were just lovely, but we both agreed there's no place we'd rather live than in the United States, especially the Quiet Corner. Happy Birthday USA, and happy July 4th!

Ready made coffins on hand at Danielsonville Depot

This week I'll continue with additional businesses which were extracted from the June 2, 1851 Windham County Telegraph by Marilyn Labbe. "Thaddeus F. Clark, Daguerrian Saloon. Arcade Building, Danielsonville. Good and perfect Likenesses warranted or no sale. Pictures taken in all kinds of weather." "The daguerreotype was the first commercially successful photographic process (1839-1860) in the history of photography. Named after the inventor, Louis Jacques Mandé Daguerre, each daguerreotype is a unique image on a silvered copper plate. In contrast to photographic paper, a daguerreotype is not flexible and is rather heavy. The daguerreotype is accurate, detailed and sharp. It has a mirror-like surface and is very fragile. Since the metal plate is extremely vulnerable, most daguerreotypes are presented in a special housing. Different types of housings existed: an open model, a folding case, jewelry... Numerous portrait studio's (sic) opened their doors from 1840 onward. Daguerreotypes were very expensive, so only the wealthy could afford to have their portrait taken. Even though the portrait was the most popular subject, the daguerreotype was used to record many other images such as topographic and documentary subjects, antiquities, still lives, natural phenomena and remarkable events." (www.daguerreobase.org).

"Doctor Brewster & Sons. Dealer in all kinds of Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Dye Stuffs, Window Glass, Perfumery, and all kinds of choice Wines and Spirits for medicinal and mechanical purposes, also Books and Stationery--also agents for all popular medicines, opposite Depot."

"C. Allen & Co., manufacturer of Stoves, stove pipe, tin, copper, zinc, brass and sheet iron ware, and dealer in hard ware, cutlery, pumps, lead pipe, sheet lead and agricultural implements, near the Depot, Danielsonville." (Having disposed of the stock of goods lately owned by the subscriber to C. Allen & Co.... Silas Hyde).

A second add from C. Allen & Co. noted the following: "New Arrangement. Grateful for the patronage they have received at their old stand the Foundry (how Furnace Street got its name), would respectively call the attention of the citizens of Danielsonville and vicinity to their new store which they have recently purchased of Mr. Silas Hyde... We shall also keep the Foundry in operation where we shall cast Stoves, Plows, etc., and will make to order any kind of Iron Castings that may be wanted at short notice. Please give us a call at the old stand of Mr. Hyde near the Depot... Charles Allen, Nathan Allen, Jr., Nathan Olds."

Do you enjoy reading about the Vikings? Did you know that they arrived in the "New World" long before Columbus? If you find them fascinating, as I do, then do try to visit Mystic Seaport before September 30. My son Gabe, who from his DNA learned that he is 33 per cent Scandinavian, was visiting from Illinois so we went to see the Viking exhibit and were awed by the 7th century grave goods that were on display from Uppsala University in Sweden. It was customary to bury important persons/chieftans with valuable items such as swords and helmets in Viking boats so the exhibit includes examples of these. I must stress that most items are real artifacts, recovered in archaeological digs and are not reproductions. One of the few reproductions was that of a small Viking boat. A short video about the Vikings is part of the exhibit, and small book entitled The Vikings Begin, which was written to accompany the exhibit, is for sale in the gift shop.

Have you heard of the Vinland Map? Mystic Seaport is also housing a second exhibit from Sweden, which features the map and much information on the controversy surrounding its legitimacy. Is it real? Or is it an excellent forgery? The map was brought to light in 1965, and since that time scholars have been investigating to try to determine the answer. The exhibit displays results of the analysis of the parchment and ink used for the map and much more.

Wikipedia provided the following summary. "The Vinland map is claimed to be a 15th-century mappa mundi with unique information about Norse exploration of North America. It is very well known because of the publicity campaign which accompanied its revelation to the public as a "genuine" pre-Columbian map in 1965. In addition to showing Africa, Asia and Europe, the map depicts a landmass south-west of Greenland in the Atlantic labelled as Vinland (Vinlanda Insula). The map describes this region as having been visited by Europeans in the 11th century. Although it was presented to the world in 1965 with an accompanying scholarly book written by British Museum and Yale University librarians, historians of geography and medieval document specialists began to suspect that it might be a fake as soon as photographs of it became available."

If you are interested, a search of the internet will provide many additional sites with interesting articles related to the Vikings and the Vinland map. If you are able to visit Mystic Seaport to see these exhibits, the trip will be well worth the effort. The buildings housing the two exhibits are located at the North Entrance to the Seaport. Admission to the exhibits is included in the price of a Seaport ticket. Plan a day trip and enjoy!

A more perfect union

As we prepare to celebrate the Fourth of July next week, I am reminded of our nation's founding documents, including these words from the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

The founders of our nation were expressing a truth consistent with the deepest roots of my

Christian faith: the conviction that every human being is a reflection of God's image, an expression of God's creative genius, and as such, every human being deserves the opportunity to be a full participant in the Beloved Community of the people of God.

Since those venerable words were written nearly two and a half centuries ago, of course, we have recognized ways in which our founding fathers and our nation have failed to live out the full promise of our founding principles. Fifty percent of humanity was excluded when the founding fathers declared that "all men are created equal." Enslaved persons, indigenous people, and various others were also excluded as these principles were translated into policies and practices. Our nation is, and always has been, a work in progress.

In recent weeks and months, the administration has shifted its enforcement of immigration policy so that families seeking refuge and asylum at our southern border have been incarcerated as criminals in abhorrent conditions. Thousands of children have been separated from their parents without any clear indication of where they would be kept, who would take care of them, or how or when they might be reunited. People fleeing untold suffering, violence, and desperation in their homelands are being indefinitely detained for the crime of pursuing life, liberty, and happiness for themselves and their families.

The book of Genesis is very clear: there is no distinction of nationality or citizenship when determining who is created in God's image. The apostle Paul is similarly clear: "There is no longer Jew or Greek, there is no longer slave or free, there is no longer male and female; for all of you are one in Christ Jesus" (Gal. 3:28). And Jesus himself says it directly: "Let the children come to me, and do not hinder them; for to such belongs the kingdom of God" (Matt. 19:14; Mark 10:14; Luke 18:16). Scripture is also consistent on the command to welcome the stranger and the foreigner, to provide hospitality for those in need, and to extend to every person the unalienable rights endowed to all human beings by our Creator.

Indeed, the Bible tells us that as an infant, Jesus himself was brought across the border into Egypt by his parents as they fled King Herod's genocidal wrath (Matthew 2). It is Jesus' face I see in the faces of the children being detained in cages in Texas. To deny life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness to those children and their families—just because they are brown-skinned, just because they do not speak English, just because they do not have the requisite paperwork to cross an imaginary line in the sand—is to deny the same to Jesus. We have done this before: on the auction blocks at planta

Retirement travel ideas

What is it that you have always imagined yourself doing? Are you headed in the direction of that dream? We know that your money is more than just an asset – it is an important resource to living the life you want. At Weiss & Hale Financial, we call the fulfillment of these dreams Living Well, and we know that getting there is often not by mistake. Throughout this year, this column has focused on Planning and Investing Well topics so that you can ultimately Live Well. And with the summer months finally upon us, we thought there was no better time than now to focus on your dreams and aspirations. This week, we are focusing on your Live Well aspirations of traveling.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

A common goal for many retirees is to travel more. However, like any financial goal, realizing this dream requires careful planning in advance.

Where will you go? Thinking about what you want to do in retirement is an important part of retirement planning. And, you are likely to be more successful if you get as detailed and specific as possible about how, when, where, why and with whom you want to travel. Do you have a bucket list of destinations? Start a list and put it somewhere you will see every day. This will also help you to determine how often you will travel. If there are other countries you want to visit, this

Some would say that this is a question of law and order. As a parent, I am clear that if my child were suffering,

I would go to any length necessary to help him—up to and including breaking human laws. Indeed, did not God, the Divine Parent, break the very laws of the universe, the laws that say that death is the end of the story, to raise Jesus into resurrection life? If we speak of law and order, we must also recognize that some human laws are unjust and imperfect: slavery was legal, the Holocaust was legal, segregation was legal, and discrimination against our LGBTQ siblings is still legal in many contexts.

As a Christian, I believe that we are called to pledge our allegiance first and foremost to God's law. And what does the Lord require of us? To do justice—and to speak out against injustice. To love kindness—and to take action against cruelty. To walk humbly with our God—and to be bold and courageous disciples for such a time as this.

With the help of God, may we continue to form a more perfect union.

Smart travel

Have you considered renting out your own home? In addition to offering you a great place to stay when you travel, Airbnb can also offer you an almost magical way to make money while you are not home. It is easy to list your home on Airbnb as a rental for travelers who will be visiting your community. Depending on where you live, you might just get flooded with interest.

Plan longer trips and save

The beauty of retirement is that you have time. You do not have a clock to punch or other specific demands on your days. As such, you can plan travel with practically unlimited time. Done right, this can save you money and be much more enjoyable.

Imagine you wanted to Europe. When working, you either must see very little of each place in a short period of time or take two trips. Two trips is double the airfare and if you are trying to squeeze it all into one trip, then you might be paying a premium for hotels close to the things you want to see and other conveniences that make seeing everything possible.

Everything is different in retirement. You can take two months and see two, three or more locations in one trip — dramatically reducing your airfare costs. And with time, you can rent apartments or other lower cost accommodations, cook some meals in your rented home, walk instead of taking taxis — all of which can dramatically decrease your daily spend and enable you to really enjoy being in the location instead of packing it all in.

Life on the road

Perhaps there are parts of the country that you have yet to see. Life in an RV is a popular option for retirees. Most buyers of RV's range from 50-69. You can take long trips with your RV or even sell your home and live on the road. There are a lot of options when considering RV life.

Seniors discounts at national parks

The National Park Service (NPS) offers access to more than 2,000 sites and parks across the country. A lifetime pass costs $80. And, if you don't want to pay the fees upfront, you can spread out the cost over four years. If you buy an annual pass for $20 for four years straight, then you can trade it in for the lifetime pass. To be eligible for the senior pass, you must be 62 or older and a U.S. citizen or permanent resident.

Secrets to getting discounts on cruises

Cruises are another popular way for retirees to travel. You can choose to go on a cruise for a couple days or a week. Cruises will stop at a few different locations and allow you the chance to explore an island. There are lots of resources to help you find the right cruise such as Cruise Critic and Vacations to go,

Take the grandkids

If travel is the most popular thing people want to do after retirement, spending time with grandkids is probably second. So why not combine the two?

Travel is an excellent way to spend quality time with grandchildren while making extraordinary memories. To make the trip successful, be sure to involve them in the planning. Ask them things they would enjoy doing and you can find a location that has what you want and what will be fun for them too.

Live well – Travel may just be one of your many goals in retirement, through careful planning and alignment of your investments, you may be better positioned to fulfill those dreams. We encourage you to visit www.weissandhale.com to learn more about how you can Live Well in retirement.

Identifying and understanding dehydration

What are the symptoms of dehydration?

Symptoms of dehydration vary with age. Parents of babies and young children should be on the lookout for signs of dehydrations, as infants and even toddlers may not be able to communicate that something is wrong.

Signs of dehydration in infants and young children include dry mouth and tongue, a lack of tears when crying, sunken eyes and cheeks, and a sunken soft spot on the top of the skull. In addition, babies who produce no wet diapers for three hours may be suffering from dehydration. A sense of listlessness or irritability in infants and young children is another potential indicator of dehydration.

Adults who experience extreme thirst may be suffering from dehydration. Less frequent urination and a dark-colored urine when going to the bathroom also is symptomatic of dehydration. Fatigue, dizziness and confusion are some additional indicators of dehydration in adults.

Can dehydration be prevented?

Dehydration can affect anyone, but there are ways to prevent it, even among those people who are especially susceptible to dehydration, such as children and older adults.

Parents of babies who are vomiting or experiencing diarrhea should speak with their pediatricians and discuss the ways to prevent such children from becoming dehydrated. Breastfeeding more frequently and giving the baby a medicine such as Pedialyte® can prevent the occurrence of dehydration in babies who are sick. The Mayo Clinic recommends parents take a proactive approach to preventing dehydration in young children, meaning they should not wait until dehydration occurs or symptoms of dehydration present themselves before taking action.

Adults who want to prevent dehydration should drink plenty of fluids and include lots of fruits and vegetables in their diets. Such foods contain lots of water and can help the body avoid becoming dehydrated.

The Mayo Clinic recommends that athletes begin hydrating the day before engaging in strenuous exercise. A telltale sign of a well-hydrated body is clear, diluted urine. Athletes should replenish their fluids during exercise and continue doing so even after they finish working out or competing.

Older adults should make a concerted effort to drink more fluids when suffering from minor illnesses, which is when such men and women most commonly become dehydrated. Drink extra water when battling influenza, bronchitis or bladder infections, remembering that feelings of thirst often surface only after the body has become dehydrated.

Dehydration is a serious yet preventable threat to men, women and children. Learn more at

Strategies to get kids to exercise

Exercise is an important component of a healthy lifestyle. That's not just true for adults, but for children and teenagers as well.

Parents concerned about their kids living sedentary lives may have more to worry about than they know. According to a 2017 study published in the journal Preventive Medicine that analyzed data from the National Health and Nutrition Examination survey from 2003-2004 and 2005-2006, 19-year-olds spent as much time being inactive and sedentary as 60-year-olds.

Getting kids to be more active may be especially difficult for today's parents, who must contend with the internet, social media, tablets, smartphones, and other distractions as they try to encourage their kids to unplug and spend more time being physically active. But parents can try various strategies to get kids off the couch and exercising.

- Set a positive example. Kids, especially young children, often try to emulate their parents. Parents can capitalize on kids' desire to be like mom and dad by exercising in front of their children. Young children may not be ready to lift weights or run on the treadmill, but parents can embrace kid-friendly exercises, such as walking and cycling. Invite kids along for daily bike rides or go for family walks around the neighborhood after dinner.

- Park the car. Kids don't need to know they're exercising in order to be more physically active. In lieu of driving to the bank or pharmacy, parents can leave the car at home and ride their bikes alongside their children when running errands. If possible, parents can walk youngsters to and from school rather than driving them.

- Choose friend-friendly activities. Adults employ the buddy system as a means to motivate themselves to keep exercising, and that same principle can apply to children, who might be more excited about physical activity if their friends are joining them. Team sports provide chances to exercise with friends, as do organizations like the Boy Scouts of America and the Girl Scouts of America. But even inviting a child's friend along on a family hike or bike ride may make such activities more fun for kids.

- Give gifts that encourage physical activity. Kids might want the latest device or video game for their birthdays, but parents also can give gifts that encourage youngsters to be physically active. Bicycles, rollerblades, ice skates, and sports equipment are just a handful of potential gifts that may compel kids to exercise more.

Childhood obesity is a significant problem, with the 2015-2016 NHANES reporting that 20.6 percent of youths between the ages of 12 and 19 were obese. Getting kids off the couch and exercising more often can help reduce those figures and ensure healthier futures for kids of all ages.

Vintage baseball on tap this Saturday

WOODSTOCK — Woodstock's vintage baseball team, the Woodstock Hilltoppers, have scheduled a game against Mudville from Holliston, Mass. The first pitch is scheduled for 11 a.m. this Saturday, June 30, on Woodstock Common, adjacent to Woodstock Academy.

Vintage baseball uses Civil War era rules, authentic uniforms and wooden bats, with a ball much deader than today's baseball, and fielders play barehanded. Later this season the Hilltoppers have home games scheduled on Sept. 8 vs. Thames (New London) and on Sept. 29 vs Red Onion (as part of Roseland Cottage's Victorian Fair).

Legally Speaking

Attorney at Law

All In The Execution

While a person might be flattered that he or she has been appointed executor of someone's estate, accepting the role necessitates some hard thinking. An estate executor is likely to find the job to be lengthy and exhausting. Generally, it is the estate executor's job to protect a deceased person's property until all debts and taxes have been paid, after which the remaining funds and property must be transferred to the people entitled to them. Among the many tasks required to be performed are: filing the will with the probate court, working with banks and other financial institutions, selling real estate, taking inventory of everything in the estate, and figuring out all liabilities.

Not everyone is up to the task.

HINT: Many people come to the conclusion that estates are best executed by lawyers, who are familiar with the procedures and do not have an emotional stake in the proceedings.

If your estate is relatively small, you may not have to worry about probate at all. Almost every state now offers shortcuts through probate for "small estates." Often, you can claim property by using affidavits and skip probate entirely or take advantage of many states' quick, simple procedures for small estates.

Wine tasting fundraiser benefits playground

WOODSTOCK – Friday June 15th was a perfect summer evening for a wine tasting at The Barn at Roseland Park. Over 50 people attended the event and raised approximately $2,000 for the new playground being built in Woodstock this summer.

Scott Duval of Vines & Bines brought in 8 different wines from New York's Finger Lakes region for guests to sample. Donna Puchalski of Marty's of Dudley started the evening off with a bang as she demonstrated the art of sabrage, the ceremonial opening of a bottle of champagne with a saber.

Guests dined on cheese, crackers, mini cheesecakes and more, much of which had been donated by local restaurants, including Grill 37 and Soleil & Suns Bakery. Putnam Price Chopper donated a tray of cheese and grapes, and Putnam Stop & Shop and Putnam Supermarket donated gift cards, which were used to purchase food for the event. Tables were adorned with burlap runners and hydrangea centerpieces donated by Garden Gate Florist.

Art from Inner Sasa and other local artists hung on the walls for sale, with 10% of proceeds from anything sold being donated to the playground. The silent auction featured donations from the Boston Red Sox and Boston Bruins, as well as many items from local businesses.

"This has truly been a community effort," said Playground Chair Crystal Adams, "I am so grateful to everyone who helped to make this night a success." PTO President Jen Beams said, "After tonight we are officially over 90% of the way to our fundraising goal."

"It was so beautiful," added attendee Andee Bowden. "Like a Pinterest Board come to life."

Killingly Springfest gathers town together

Quinebaug River Church had a team running the 5K earlier in the day.

"It's a warm and beautiful day to be running and out here in the park," said Jon Dipippo, pictured with daughter Melanie.

KILLINGLY – Featuring yoga in the park, a road race and kids' race, a parade, live music and fun family activities, the Killingly Spring Fest on June 9 got the entire town together to celebrate the warm weather and contagious town spirit.

"I feel awesome," said Deb Kirkconnell, after placing third in the Women 60-69 category at the 5K. "It feels really good."

Koelli Ashwell and Christine Dejesse design their own rocks, to be added to the collection of rocks that will be placed around town.

Norm Thibeault and Jimmy Veillette helped raise money for the Killingly Little League by BBQ'ing hotdogs.

EastConn students donate to Day Kimball Healthcare

The EASTCONN students from Room 229, accompanied by their teachers Mr. Ryan Gaudreau and Mrs. Celena Brown, presented the toys to DKH Family Advocacy staff members Sue Oleksy, Brittany-Mae Demers, Tess Person, Bianca Grover, and DKH Director of Development Kristen Willis.

PUTNAM — Day Kimball Healthcare's (DKH) Family Advocacy Programs received a donation of $300 worth of new toys from the students from the EASTCONN Killingly Northeast Regional Program on June 4. The students took it upon themselves to organize the toy collection during the holidays, but decided that bringing joy to children and their families all year through was equally important and waited until spring to make their donation.

"They did a terrific job and we're extremely grateful for their generosity," said DKH Director of Development Kristen Willis. "They have made a tremendous difference in the lives of so many children who are less fortunate than most. We always think of presents and gifts at holiday time, but many of these children may never get a birthday present, a gift for a special occasion, or even a chance to just have some fun and enjoy being a child. The impact of their efforts is immeasurable!"

Day Kimball Healthcare's Family Advocacy Programs work to support and strengthen families in the communities they serve, including WIC nutritional assistance for women and children, the Nurturing Families Network for caregivers of newborns and young children, and the HUSKY insurance program that offers free or low-cost health care programs for pregnant women and children. Muddy Brook hosts Northeast Connecticut Regional Hazardous Materials Drill

WOODSTOCK — The Muddy Brook Fire Department hosted a Northeast Regional Hazmat Drill on June 10, 2018. The drill took place at the Rogers Corp. facility located at #245 Woodstock Road in East Woodstock. Multiple volunteer fire departments participated in the drill including Muddy Brook FD, Bungay Fire Brigade, Community FD, Quinebaug Volunteer FD, Webster FD from Massachusetts and the Woodstock EMS ambulance crew along with the regional Connecticut Eastern Region Response Integrated Team (CERRIT) technician level teams from UConn FD and Norwich FD. The Woodstock Volunteer Fire Association provided fire coverage during the drill. The Woodstock Support Team was activated and provided refreshments and lunch for all participants of the drill.

According to Richard Baron, Fire Captain of the Muddy Brook Fire Department, the scope of the drill was a practical exercise for our Operational Level fire fighters for the departments listed in setting up and working a 3 station decon line and interacting with the Cerrit teams as it would be if a "Level 1" request was made for the eastern regional technician teams to respond to an incident. Captain Baron noted that the interaction between all of the departments and the Cerrit teams was seamless. The Cerrit team members assisted the Operational Level fire fighters in the various roles they played along with the I.C. in controlling a hazmat incident. The technician level Cerrit members also had their own training in practicing putting a leaking drum in an overpak in the back of a tractor trailer box in Level "A" suits. Other highlights of the drill included a walk around of a chemical trailer identifying features such as loading and off-loading connections, emergency shut-off valves and compartments for this type of trailer.

Fire fighters looked at drums and totes in a box trailer as to how they are secured and the proper way of un-securing them from the box trailer and practicing responding to a hazmat call for an unknown odor in the facility. Captain Baron expressed his thanks to the Rogers Corporation for allowing them to use their facility for this type of drill. "Rogers Corporation has been a strong supporter of the fire department for the last 20 years in allowing us to use their facility for drills and for adding fire fighter safety enhancements in the plant".

According to Captain Baron, the need for Cerrit specialized hazmat technicians and the Connecticut Department of Energy & Environmental Protection (DEEP) to respond to an incident is critical, especially during the day when the volunteer sector is most vulnerable, providing much needed resources and knowledge to handle and mitigate a hazardous materials incident.

The Northern Region Cerrit Response Teams include Muddy Brook FD, Community FD, Bungay Fire Brigade, Quinebaug Volunteer FD, Willimantic FD, Norwich FD and UConn FD. Additional resources are also available from the South Eastern Regional Cerrit Teams as well.

Muddy Brook Fire Department recently hosted some preparedness drills.

Football on a Sunday afternoon

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

DAYVILLE — Chad Neal was home. The head coach of reigning state champion Killingly High, held court on the gridiron at the NOW Football and Cheerleading Clinic. While not far from Neal a contingent of New England Patriots cheerleaders oversaw drills on the track that circles Killingly High's football field. The atmosphere was festive for about 100 youngsters last Sunday — right along with NOW's mission of providing recreational opportunities for youth in the Quiet Corner. Neal said football is supposed to be fun.

"I want them to come back. That's it. You want them to have fun. I think that's the most important thing with youth football, is that they have fun. They have fun, they want to keep coming back. They're going to enjoy the game," Neal said. "That's what you want with any level. You want to have fun playing the game."

Woodstock Academy head coach Sean Saucier and Quinebaug Valley Pride head coach Joe Asermelly both participated in Sunday's clinic. Both coaches could be seen demonstrating proper stances and techniques to the youngsters, who ranged in age from 5 to 15 years old. Coach Neal said everyone benefits when youngsters are taught the right way to play.

"The game is very safe. It's safer than ever. If you learn the proper technique early on it's going to help eliminate the common injuries. The game is safe as ever, the way it's being taught, what we know about it. The equipment and right down the line," Neal said. "So I have no concerns about the safety of the game."

NOW — Northeast Opportunities for Wellness — sponsors clinics promoting various sports and benefits several area youth sports leagues. The organization maintains recreational fields for youth sports, and provides scholarships for youngsters for tuition for youth leagues and registration costs. For more information, visit the website nowinmotion.org. Coach Neal said football is a safe sport and that Killingly High's practices have evolved over the years.

"We, very rarely during the week, during practice, have any contact. We will in the preseason but once we get to the week it's very minimal and it's very controlled," said Neal, who begins his 15th season this fall. "What you're going to see today is a lot of what we do, especially with tackling, a lot with pads, a lot with just technique and form."

Coach Asermelly brought along his 6-year-old son, Rocco, who participated in the clinic.

"It's a very safe sport for children. There's not nearly the inertia, the size, the speed you see for traumatic injuries," Asermelly said. "I mean, I'm here with my own son, 6 years old, I want him to get the fundamentals to play without fear. It's when you get conservative that you get hurt."

Asermelly said proper technique is essential and that's why it's important to start early.

"What's known as kinesthetic intelligence, the better you understand your body, how it moves, how it responds, how it give a hit, how to take a hit — that's going to make you a healthier, better person, football player, overall," Asermelly said.

Asermelly said his contribution was simple last Sunday.

"What's the point if it's not fun. I always say in any aspect of coaching the game whether it's these youth clinics or my own high school kids, I want them to love the game more at the end of that practice, at the end of the that season, than they did when they started," Asermelly said. "I want them to just gain that love of the game and they're going to do that if it's fun."

Tri-Town has setback against Ledyard-Pawcatuck

Tri-Town's Mitchel Barylski pitches against Ledyard last Sunday.

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

THOMPSON — Ledyard-Pawcatuck took advantage of a couple of Tri-Town errors to fuel its six-run rally in the fifth inning en route to a 9-4 win last Sunday. The loss dropped Tri-Town's record to 6-3 through its first nine games. Tri-Town is among the top four in Zone 6 standings but coach Jason Akana wants sharper gloves — and sharper minds — than in the loss to Ledyard-Pawcatuck in American Legion Senior Division play at Tourtellotte Memorial's field on June 24.

"We're not good enough to go out and just kind of go through the motions," Akana said. "Every inning you have to bring the energy and the enthusiasm and we've got to make the plays. We can't be making mistakes and letting our pitchers throw extra pitches. We need to shut it down. We need to shut that down and move on and pick everybody up."

Mitchel Barylski started and took the loss for Tri-Town.

Barylski went four and one-third innings, striking out five, walking two, allowing five hits and five runs, four earned. Scott Davagian went two-thirds of an inning, striking out one, walking one, allowing three hits and three runs, two earned. Peter Spada pitched two innings for Tri-Town, giving up two hits and one run. Barylski went 2-for-4 at the plate with two RBIs.

Drew Riffle earned the complete-game win for Ledyard-Pawcatuck (3-6 through nine games). Riffle went seven innings, struck out one walked two, allowed four hits and four runs, three earned. Riffle went 2-for-4 with a double and two RBIs at the plate. Chris Beatty went 2-for-4 with two RBIs for Ledyard.

Akana said Tri-Town's players need to focus and he expects they will.

"I think we've got to get better defensively. We're still some mistakes on the bases. Our pitching's been good but it hasn't been great. Our bats have hitting the ball pretty well but there's still way too many popups," Akana said. "We're not putting enough pressure on the (opposing) teams. That's going to change. We've got to really focus on bringing pressure every inning putting pressure on the opponent."

Tri-Town is scheduled to play host to a doubleheader against Niantic on Saturday, June 30, with the first game set for 11 a.m. at Tourtellotte Memorial.

Strategies that can help build strong immune systems

A strong immune system can go a long way toward ensuring one's overall health. But bolstering one's immune system is no small task, as even medical researchers admit there is still much to learn about the links between lifestyle and immune function.

The Harvard Medical School notes that a strongly functioning immune system requires balance and harmony. So it stands to reason that a highly unhealthy lifestyle will compromise the immune system, but it's also worth noting that pushing the body too hard in the other direction also can adversely affect immune function.

Researchers continue to study the potential links between immune response and variables such as diet, exercise, age, and psychological stress. Though studies are ongoing, the Harvard Medical School notes that the immune system is bolstered by various strategies associated with healthy living.

- Don't smoke. Smoking is linked to a host of diseases and ailments, so it's no surprise that it also compromises the immune system. The National Cancer Institute notes that cigarette smoke contains high levels of tar and other chemicals, which compromise the immune system's ability to effectively combat infections. The effects of smoking on the immune system are both immediate and long-term. Smokers' immune systems may not be able to fend off common infections like the common cold as effectively as the immune systems of nonsmokers. And over time, as smokers keep smoking, their immune systems will continue to weaken, which the NCI says makes them more vulnerable to autoimmune diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and multiple sclerosis.

- Eat a healthy diet. There is no magical food or foods that can strengthen the immune system to a point where infection is impossible. However, the Cleveland Clinic notes that a balanced, healthy diet that includes a mix of vitamins and minerals plays a role in strengthening the immune system. Fresh fruits and vegetables contain a bevy of vitamins and antioxidants that help the immune system fight off potential infections. Many people bemoan the absence of fresh fruits and vegetables at their local grocery stores during certain times of the year. But the Cleveland Clinic notes that manufacturers typically freeze fruits and vegetables at peak ripeness. That means frozen fruits and vegetables provide similar nutrition to fresh fruits and vegetables during those times of year when foods are not in-season.

- Exercise regularly. Like a healthy diet, routine exercise provides a host of benefits, and one such benefit is its impact on the immune systems.

The U.S. National Library of Medicine notes that the precise relationship between exercise and immune system function remains a mystery. Some researchers suspect that physical activity may flush bacteria out of the lungs and airways, reducing one's risk of getting a cold, flu or other illness. Another theory suggests that exercises causes changes in white blood cells, which the immune system uses to fight disease. These exercise-related changes may make it possible for the cells to detect illnesses earlier than they would if the body was not exercised regularly. While it's important to note that these are just theories, the Harvard Medical School suggests that it's reasonable to consider moderate regular exercise an important component of a healthy, immune-boosting lifestyle.

- Don't buy the hype. Men and women interested in boosting their immune systems will no doubt find many products claiming to do just that. The Harvard Medical School urges consumers to be skeptical of such products, many of which make dubious claims that are not rooted in recognized scientific research.

The immune system remains a mystery in many ways. But several healthy strategies may help people bolster their immune systems and potentially reduce their risk of infection.

5 fun ways to get fit

Exercise benefits both the mind and body. Study after study indicates how physical activity can reduce the propensity for illness, boost mood, lower stress levels, and much more. Still, certain people find it difficult to muster the motivation to get up and move.

In 2013, researchers at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention analyzed data from more than 450,000 American adults ages 18 and older who were randomly polled across the 50 states. Participants were asked about aerobic physical activity outside of their jobs. The findings were eye-opening. Estimates indicated nearly 80 percent of American adults do not get the recommended amounts of exercise each week. People most likely to exercise, according to the CDC study, were between the ages of 18 and 24.

Lack of time and inspiration may be to blame for disinterest in exercise. Boredom with routine and being unaware of alternative fitness regimens also may be contributing factors. Increasing the fun associated with workouts could lead to greater success in or outside of the gym.

1. Do what you enjoy.

Wasting time on activities that you don't enjoy may cause you to throw in the towel prematurely. Don't base fitness choices around what worked for others; find things that work for you. Exercise physiologists at John Hopkins Weight Management Center say to start with an activity that you already enjoy, even if it's aligned with the trend of the moment. Chances are you can find a class or make up a routine that works for you.

2. Tweak your playlist.

Music can improve performance during a workout and may actually take your mind off of strenuous or repetitive activity. Tunes also can be coordinated to the workout. Songs that feature lyrics such as run, punch, push, or groove can reinforce movements in the routine, offers the National Academy of Sports Medicine. Also, tailor songs to coordinate to the beats per minute of different activities. Strength activities and endurance activities can feature songs with higher BPMs.

3. Exercise with friends or a group.

Having other people around can make workouts more enjoyable, and that interaction may spur competition that can make you more inclined to stay the course. People who were in the competitive groups in a study of 800 graduate and professional students at the University of Pennsylvania went to 90 percent more classes than those who exercised independently or were not competitive. The results were published in the journal Preventative Medicine

Reports. Competition can be a driving factor in efforts to exercise.

4. Head outdoors.

You may be more inclined to workout if you do so outside. Activities such as hiking, snowshoeing, swimming, and cycling on natural courses can be inspiring and burn calories.

5. Try sports or another activity.

Exercise regimens do not have to include running on a treadmill or lifting weights. All types of activities can work, and some may be more enjoyable to you than traditional exercises. Everything from martial arts to dance classes to volleyball can offer cardiovascular and muscle-building benefits in a fun atmosphere.

Making exercise fun motivates many people to embrace fitness and stick with their workout regimens.
