Oxford super departs at '11th hour,' Nash starts as interim

BY GUS STEEVES
 STAFF WRITER

OXFORD – Surprising many people, School Superintendent Mark Garceau announced he's leaving the district effective immediately.

"I had a contract that was due to kick in on July 1, my second three-year contract, but recently an outstanding opportunity presented itself to me in Rhode Island," Garceau said Monday. "So, I'm done as of last Friday."

Specifically, he was hired by the Westerly, RI school district, a place that's roughly twice Oxford's size and budget. He let the School Committee know last week, sometime after their regular meeting June 26. In light of his decision, which School Committee member Dan Coonan described as "kind of like an 11th-hour thing," the board held a special meeting Friday evening to formally rescind Garceau's contract and interview four interim candidates. Coonan couldn't attend, but the rest unanimously chose former Hanover Superintendent Kristine Nash, a Rochester resident, to fill that role.

Chairman Bill Spitz said she starts July 6 at a salary of $140,000 a year, a little less than Garceau's $147,000. Her contract will be for one year with a "two-week cancel clause because we've found someone."

Spitz said they liked her because she came across as "very personable" and "her background is extensive, probably more than any of the other candidates." Specifically, Nash has "a lot of time in Special Ed," an area "that requires attention on a regular basis."

Most recently, Nash served as interim superintendent in the Freetown-Lakeville district until June 30. Previously, she'd been interim in Sandwich, six years as regular superintendent in Hanover (from which she officially retired in November 2012), and assistant superintendent in Dover-Sherborn.

Spitz said they got her name from the Massachusetts Association of School Committees as one of 15-20 people who were interested in interim jobs. Most already had new assignments.

"I look forward to working with her," he said. "Mark was the superintendent of change and placed us in the right direction."

Garceau posted a lengthy letter to say goodbye to the

Brittany McDougal has already started her new position

McDougal goes with the flow

OXFORD – Anybody who hasn't been to the library since May will see a new face coming out of the corner office.

Her name's Brittany McDougal, and she's in charge here. She describes herself as "a very go-with-the-flow type person," with one goal of trying to make things in the library "fun and light. I don't like things to be serious all the time."

McDougal took the reins as library director at the beginning of June, after 12 years working for the Willington, CT Public Library. That library's Facebook page announced her departure this way: "She will be starting a new adventure as a library director in Massachusetts, and while we will miss her terribly, we are excited for her as she embarks on her new journey."

Part of that journey involved moving to Prindle Lake in Charlton, where her boyfriend lives, last year. McDougal spent about six months commuting to Willington before deciding to start hunting for work closer to home, and Oxford was conveniently available.

"The day after my interview, I received the call," she said. "I wasn't expecting it, honestly, but I was happy to come here."

Her predecessor, Tim Kelly, has been "incredibly kind. Any questions I still have, he answers for me. He's been incredibly helpful through this transi-

July town meeting to resolve library project oversight

BY JASON BLEAU
 TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER – An unforeseen issue with Webster's new library project will be the main item of discussion during a special town meeting scheduled for July 31. Selectmen set the meeting day and time during their own special meeting on July 6 as Town Administrator Doug Willardson said the main purpose of the town meeting will be to resolve unforeseen expenses in the construction of the new Gladys E. Kelley Public Library that has started to take shape at the intersection of Main Street and Lake Street. Willardson said a planned retaining wall would need to be larger than originally planned, or neighboring properties would need to be purchased to resolve the issue, which was labeled as an oversight.

"We had it surveyed and they surveyed only to the property lines and if you've been out there you notice that right beyond the property lines there's a significant change in elevation. The currently designed retaining wall is not going to work. It's going to have to be expanded," Willardson told selectmen. "Our other option is to expand the parking area by purchasing the two properties at 37 and 39 Negus Street. That way we won't have to build as high a retaining wall."

The Library Building Committee heading up the project suggested the town go forward with option two, which would see the town spending $650,000 to purchase the two Negus Street properties. Constructing the re-designed retaining wall would cost less at $500,000, but Willardson said the more expensive option provides opportunities for added benefits that may make it a more worthy OXFORD – In one of his last acts as superintendent, Mark Garceau and the School Committee bestowed their first Educator of the Year Award on Catherine Looney on June 26.

Reading their proclamation, Chairman William

"The musicals you have produced changed my life forever," one student said.

"I want to thank you for introducing me to musical theater, which has become my passion."

Looney, who has taught at the middle school since 1995, has helped organize National Junior Honor Society events, choral performances, and many

As part of Place Motor's continued support of the children and families of the Webster area we are proud to be an associate sponsor of the National Night Out. This program we feel exemplifies the standards of good citizenship and promotes the sense of community on which we have built our reputation.

National Night Out is an annual community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships and neighborhood camaraderie to make our neighborhoods safer, more caring places to live. National Night Out enhances the relationship between neighbors and law enforcement while bringing back a true sense of community. Furthermore, it provides a great opportunity to bring police and neighbors together under positive circumstances. Neighborhoods host block parties, festivals, parades, cookouts and various other community events with safety demonstrations, seminars, youth events, visits from emergency personnel, exhibits and much, much more.

Webster thinking ahead with five year capital plan

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER – The town is following suit with many other local communities in working to form a five year capital plan that will address potential capital improvement projects and purchases in the foreseeable future.

Town Administrator Doug Willardson presented the basics of the plan before the Finance Committee July 6 along with a new approach to keeping track of contract statuses for town employees. Willardson presented a series of spreadsheets, one providing details on personnel and the other taking into account expected capital expenses Webster may have to face in the years to come. Described as somewhat of a work in progress Willardson said the personnel spreadsheet specifically focuses on the salaries of town employees and union contracts and what negotiations will be forthcoming in future years while the capital plan spreadsheet breaks down each building or vehicle purchase and expected expenses for departments for capital projects to give town officials a snapshot of what to expect come budget season.

“Most revenues I’m going to project being flat. Property taxes are the easiest not to because it just grows by 2 ½ percent so I have to build that into a spreadsheet,” Willardson told the Finance Committee. “Hopefully that shows that we’re not going to run out of money in the next five years.”

Willardson limited the outlook to five years in most cases, saying that the farther out the town plans the less accurate the predictions would be. Willardson said he believes when all is said and done these spreadsheets will be valuable assets during town meetings and budget season to allow officials a more organized look at what expenses are expected and try to prepare for the financial needs of the town outside of the general budget.

“For each fund, I’ve broken it out by the fleet or equipment that needs to be on a replacement schedule, building maintenance, and other projects and debt that’s already been issued - All those spread sheets feed into the summary sheet,” Willardson said of the capital plan spreadsheet his office produced. “On the main sheet, we should know each year what we’re spending on capital projects. For buildings, a lot of it is just kind of an estimate of what we may need to do. The first three years I have a good idea of what project we will need to do, but after that basically I just took a dollar amount of each building based on how big the building was and I put that in as a placeholder. We don’t know what’s going to break in however many years.”

Willardson and committee members agreed that after three years, finances, especially for town projects, get a bit complicated to predict but for Willardson he feels this is a good start. Finance committee members did question the use of an estimated number for future building repairs, which Willardson said are simple placeholders based on estimated potential repairs needed to any given building. Committee chair Earl Gabor commented he was happy to see salaried and non-salaried town employees separated in Willardson’s spreadsheets and felt the concept will be a good starting point for thinking ahead.

“With all this work it sounds like we should have a pretty clear picture of revenue and projected expenses and of salary, non-salary, and capital laid out by September,” Gabor said.

Willardson specified the five year plan is not set in stone and described the capital plan sheet at least as a “living document” that can be changed, adjusted, and updated whenever necessary to ensure Webster remains on the right track.

Interim Special Ed Director among recent school appointments

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

The Dudley Charlton Regional School District has hired a new interim special education director after the committee approved the appointment of Jeffery L. Ferranti to the position at the end of June, with Ferranti’s appointment officially taking effect on July 17.

One of numerous appointments made by the school committee June 28, Ferranti comes with an extensive resume of experience for the job having served in the Springfield public schools and is currently director of special education for the Athol-Royalston school system. A graduate of UMass Amherst, Ferranti holds advanced degrees from Bridgewater State University and UMass Lowell, which include specialties in counseling, special education, behavior intervention, and autism.

“We decided to post it as an interim position and we only got 14 applications which is really kind of low for an administrative opening, but it’s what we expected - From those the committee selected six people to interview and from those interviews have selected to bring forward to the school committee one finalist,” Superintendent Greg Desto told the school committee while introducing Ferranti to the members. “In addition to his extensive experience and knowledge the search committee was particularly impressed with Jeff’s positive outlook and belief that all kids can learn. Many people I spoke to refer quickly to Jeff’s ability to develop working relationships with students, staff, and families as among his primary strengths.”

Ferranti will take over for Jody O’Brien, a longtime staple of the Dudley Charlton Regional School District. Desto said O’Brien will be sorely missed and has taken a job in a new community to continue her practice.

“We posted the job about four weeks ago and as everybody knows Jody O’Brien has been with our district for over 20 years,” Desto said. “She has been a mainstay in our special education program first as a teacher and a coach at Shepherd Hill and then as the team chair at Charlton Middle School and now for the last ten years as director of special education. Jodie has accepted a similar position in Marlboro. We certainly wish her all the best there.”

Other appointments made on June 28 included Diane Seibold of Charlton who will serve as the new principal at Dudley Elementary School after initially serving as interim with the retirement of Terri Caffelle last year, and Christopher Starczewski of Dudley who was appointed Dudley Middle School principal following the departure of John Paire.

How should you price your home in a seller’s market?

REALTOR’S REPORT

JAMES BLACK

There are many schools of thought here. I am just going to give you my opinion as to what I think is best. In most towns we are in a very strong seller’s market which means that there is less than 6 months of inventory for sale. We currently have 1786 homes for sale in Worcester County and 3648 sold in the last 6 months which means that 608 sold on average each month. At this point our inventory is at 2.94 months of inventory which is again a very strong seller’s market.

When times are good and the market is increasing we do need to look not just at the homes that are sold but those that have accepted offers and those that are still for sale. Most homes are currently selling for more than the last comparable homes sold for. It is crucial to talk to the agents who have offers on their homes and find out how quickly they went under contract and if they had many offers which will give you an indication if they were likely to get more than what they were asking for. You can also hire an agent who has sold many homes in your area who will have their finger on the pulse of the current price trend based on the homes they are selling.

When we see this we may be inclined to price our home significantly higher thinking that we may luck out with that buyer that is willing to pay more. Now is more crucial than any other time to price your home correctly. Otherwise, people will assume there is an issue with your home if nobody buys it in the 1st week. If the market is increasing then it does make sense to maybe add another 3% to your list price over what has sold because the prices are appreciating but I would not suggest going much higher than that. Many times if we just price where the last home sold and the price has started to come up you will still get your extra 3-5% because of the auction effect and the buyers fear of loss causing them to bid higher.

I highly recommend talking to a local Realtor that is an expert on pricing to help you come up with the best pricing strategy for your home.

Webster Taco Bell to ‘Strike Out Cancer’ with the Jimmy Fund

BOSTON — From June 28 through July 18 customers at participating Taco Bell® and KFC® locations throughout New England and New York will be invited to contribute $1, $3, or $5 to the Jimmy Fund’s “Strike Out Cancer” pin-up campaign. In return for their contributions, customers will receive a baseball pin-up to write their name or the name of a friend or loved one. The pin-ups will be displayed in restaurants and stores, showing customers how easy it is to make a difference in the fight against cancer. At participating Taco Bell and KFC restaurants, customers who contribute $3 or more will receive a coupon sheet featuring deals from Taco Bell, KFC, Water Country, Museum of Science, Franklin Sports, Valvoline Instant Oil Change, Mama Rosie’s, and Sully’s Brand.

Taco Bell has generously supported the Jimmy Fund since 2002. In 2006, KFC joined their efforts to be a part of “Strike Out Cancer,” working together to help the program raise more than $2.2 million. When customers purchase a baseball pin-up, 100 percent of the proceeds go directly to the Jimmy Fund, which supports cancer research and patient care at Boston’s Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

“We are looking forward to raising critical funds for cancer research and patient care at Dana-Farber through our longstanding ‘Strike Out Cancer’ campaign,” said Roger Lockwood, chairman of Lockwood/McKinnon Company, a Taco Bell franchisee and a trustee of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. “We are grateful to our loyal customers who have generously supported this campaign for the past 15 years, to help work towards a world without cancer.”

The Jimmy Fund (www.JimmyFund.org) solely supports Boston’s Dana-

Farber Cancer Institute, raising funds for adult and pediatric cancer care and research to improve the chances of survival for cancer patients around the world. It is an official charity of the Boston Red Sox, as well as the official charity of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association, the Pan-Mass Challenge, and the Variety Children’s Charity of New England. Since 1948, the generosity of millions of people has helped the Jimmy Fund save countless lives and reduce the burden of cancer for patients and families worldwide. Friday's Child Aaliyah is a multiracial two-year-old toddler of African American, Caucasian and Hispanic descent. Aaliyah's favorite thing to do is watch Sesame Street. She also loves being outside, and likes to swim. Aaliyah has been diagnosed with an Autism spectrum disorder and developmentally she functions at a younger age. She has no language and is only starting to make sounds in response to visual stimuli. She struggles with regulating her emotions at times and benefits from a calm and structured home.

Aaliyah is starting to gain some independence. She is learning to feed herself and is slowly starting to show recognition of other people, including the specialists that work with her. She receives Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) therapy five times per week, for a total of 18 hours.

Aaliyah also still qualifies for Early Intervention and receives three hours per week of occupational therapy. Aaliyah has been in the same foster home she was in when she first came into care. Aaliyah has a healthy bond to her foster mother, as well as the foster mother's adult son who babysits her regularly. Aaliyah's foster mother adores her and is willing to stay involved in her life. Aaliyah would do best in a two-parent household with no other children. This is because Aaliyah requires a significant amount of attention and care and a two-parent household would allow the parents to share the parenting responsibilities. Families who are familiar with the Autism spectrum diagnosis is preferred. Aaliyah is legally freed for adoption.

Ironstone Adoption Party

Have you ever considered adopting a child from foster care with an intellectual, physical or developmental disability? Join the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at Ironstone Farm on August 6th from 11am-1pm in North Andover to find out more about the process and children in foster care of all ages with special needs. Learn about the different services offered to families post-adoption, meet waiting children and their social workers and participate in activities. Pre-registration is required. Please call Victoria at MARE to learn more about this annual event (617)-542-3678 x135 or email victoriat@mareinc.org. You can also visit www.mareinc.org to register.

Three Charlton youth attend Boys State

CHARLTON — The Charlton American Legion Post 391 is pleased to announce three Charlton high school students, all members of the junior class at Shepherd Hill Regional High School, recently returned home after attending the 2017 Massachusetts Boys State program. Dominic Battista, Nicholas D’Arcangelo and Tyler Lizzotte were the delegates representing Charlton at the conference.

The three young men joined other rising high school juniors from across the state for a week long camp in the middle of June at Stonehill College in Easton. They studied the workings of the government and the legal system as part of an American Legion tradition that dates back to 1935. Boys State is considered one of the most respected and selective educational programs of government instruction for high school students.

The main goal of the program is to increase awareness among young leaders about their responsibility to their peers and themselves to participate in the democratic process. A large part of the program is devoted to the organization and operation of mock municipal and state government. During the week all students are required to attend classes in government, law, and economics.

Battista is the son of Jennifer Desto of Charlton and Michael Battista of Dudley. He has participated in football and lacrosse and expresses an interest in cars and motorcycles.

D’Arcangelo is the son of Daniel and Kristie D’Arcangelo of Charlton and participated in football and track. His other interests include weightlifting and flying.

Lizzotte is the son of Andrew and Stacey Lizzotte of Charlton and has been recognized for his participation in Academic Decathlon, National Honor Society and the STEM certificate program. His second love is electronics.

All three were recommended by their teachers as well as the guidance department, along with other potential delegates. They met with Legion members, who said they picked these three after a “rigorous screening and interview process.”

It is fitting they have attended Boys State just before their senior year, because the experience should give them their first glimpse of the issues they will face on a larger scale as they grow into adults and voting citizens/

In the past, the program has produced a US President, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, attorneys and leaders in the business world throughout the nation.

Webster FD seeks info on small Bartlett fires

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

WEBSTER – Local police and fire departments are seeking help to identify the people responsible for a string of small fires near Bartlett High School late last month.

“We know they were intentionally-set fires,” Fire Chief Brian Hickey said, but was unwilling to elaborate on how he knows. “...All fires start small, but any one has the potential to cause injuries, deaths and serious property damage.”

In this case, the department was called for two incidents – around 7 p.m. June 23 near the football field and early morning June 26 near the baseball diamond – when it discovered evidence of two others on the basketball court and the track June 27. None of them were dangerous to the buildings or people, and “luckily they didn’t spread into the woods,” Hickey noted.

When asked to speculate on who might have done it, he said, “It ranges. Sometimes the answer surprises you.” The perpetrators “can be kids letting off steam,” adults with a history of fires, or any number of other possibilities.

“Typically, when kids start a fascination with fire and see what it can do, they get deeper into it,” he noted, referring to the fact police and fire agencies have for years seen patterns among such fires.

The US National Library of Medicine website notes American fire departments “responded to 44,900 fires started by someone, usually a child, playing with fire” in 2010. “these fires caused 90 civilian deaths, 890 civilian injuries and $210 million in direct property damage.” Almost half were under age 5, and 77 percent of “fire-play fires” were outdoors. In terms of where they play with fire, “bedrooms ranked first for the younger population [those age 3-10] and schools for the latter [ages 11-17],” it states.

The American Psychological Association website (www.apa.org) identifies six key types of fire setters: curiosity/accidental, cry-for-help, delinquent, severely disturbed, cognitively impaired, and sociocultural. Of them, the first is the only type listed as “non-pathological” and typically just requires safety education; it’s also by far the most common.

The rest typically need counseling of some form. Delinquent and cognitively impaired fire starters usually avoid harming others, at least intentionally, but often cause “significant property damage.” Sociocultural fire starters do it for peer support and acceptance, while the cry-for-help and severely disturbed types are using fire to “communicate pain, depression or anger,” the latter group sometimes being truly psychotic, it notes. The NLM site adds only about one percent of the setters actually qualify as “pyromaniacs,” who set fires repeatedly because of an uncontrollable desire to do so.

The APA Monitor’s Melissa Dittmann cites research showing fire-play often starts between ages 2 and 5, with the kids “often trying to hide the fire-play in their bedrooms or closets.” It dies down in elementary school but “resurfaces in middle school when adolescents – either through delinquency or carelessness – set brush fires, trash-can fires, house fires and the like,” she wrote. “In Orange County, CA the fire department found that people under 18 “set 40-60 percent of its reported fires.”

Researcher Daniel Fessler compared fire starting behavior in western and other cultures and found evidence “fire learning is retarded in Western children, arguably due to patterns of fire use that are atypical when viewed from a broader cross-cultural perspective.”

He argues we don’t routinely have to use fire for cooking or heating, so we aren’t exposed to it except mostly via the “distorted portrait of [its] properties” we see in media.

In both cultures, he reports, fire play starts young, but ours “peaks in late childhood or early adolescence,” while children in cultures that use it regularly “master control of fire by middle childhood.” By the time they’re adolescents, young people in those cultures already have “significant economic productivity” roles, while ours are just starting the kind of experimentation with many things (including fire) they got years earlier.

His paper “A Burning Desire” is at his website, www.danielmfessler.com.

People with any information about the Bartlett fires can call the Webster Fire Department or the Arson Hotline 1-800-682-9229.

Oxford native promoted to colonel

Air Force Col. Scott Hopper is sworn in by Lt. Gen. Andy Busch during a ceremony.

BY RONALD INMAN,
DLA ENERGY PUBLIC AFFAIRS

WORCESTER — A Worcester Academy graduate and native son of Oxford continues to rise to higher levels of leadership and responsibility while serving the nation with his recent promotion to the rank of colonel in the U.S. Air Force.

Air Force Col. Scott Hopper joined the elite one percent of Air Force personnel who earn the rank and are the executive leaders of that military service April 28 during his promotion ceremony at the Defense Logistics Agency’s McNamara Headquarters Complex at Fort Belvoir, VA. Defense Logistics Agency Director Air Force Lt. Gen. Andy Busch presided over the ceremony.

Hopper is a 1993 graduate of Worcester Academy. He has gone on to earn a Bachelor’s degree and four Master’s degrees and was a distinguished graduate from both the Air Command and Staff College and the Eisenhower School for National Security and Resource Strategy.

He credits Worcester Academy as the foundation for his successful career.

“Worcester Academy provided a very rigorous academic regimen,” said Hopper. “We would have up to three hours of homework each night. It was hard. Not to mention I was involved in sports, lots of extra-curricular activities and I worked after school. Being successful there truly required grit, determination and time management.

The Worcester Academy faculty made the most lasting impression on Hopper.

“I really don’t remember the subjects as much as I remember the amazing teachers that taught them,” Hopper said. “I really enjoyed learning math from Mr. (Donald) Bloom and History with Mr. (Ted) Camp and Mr. (Caleb) Woodhouse. Ironically, I hated Spanish. I had to take Spanish with Ms. (Kate) Kane twice because I failed it the first time. Now I speak Spanish every day at home with my wife and children.

“I learned to communicate,” he continued. “Worcester Academy help refine my abilities for analytical reading, effective writing and public speaking. Mr. (Howard) Shainheit, Ms. (Janet) Shainheit, and Mr. (Ralph) Hughes were some of the teachers that really pulled that out of me.”

Worcester Academy expressed its pride in Hopper as one of its many successful alumni.

“The Worcester Academy family is very proud of Scott, and we offer him our warmest congratulations on being promoted to colonel,” said the school’s external director of communications, Neil Isakson. “He has aimed high, and he has served his nation well in all that he does. The Worcester Academy motto is ‘Achieve the Honorable.’ Scott, through his two-plus decades as a member of the U.S. Air Force, has done just that.”

The challenges Hopper faced in school helped him contribute to an important mission with DLA.

As America’s combat logistics support agency, the Defense Logistics Agency provides the Army, Marine Corps, Air Force other federal agencies and partner nation armed forces with a full spectrum of logistics, acquisition and technical services. DLA sources and provides nearly all of the consumable items America’s military forces need to operate – from food, fuel and energy to uniforms, medical supplies and construction material.

Hopper previously served as the military assistant to two former DLA Directors: Vice Admiral Mark Harnitchek and Lt. Gen.

Andy Busch. As a lieutenant colonel, he recently completed an assignment as Commander’s Action Group Director for Defense Logistics Agency Energy – a primary level field activity of DLA. In this role, he served as special advisor to DLA Energy Commander Air Force Brig. Gen. Martin Chapin in support of the global mission to provide the Department of Defense and other U.S. government agencies with comprehensive energy solutions that are effective and efficient.

Having worked for two three-star officers (Harnitchek and Busch, who retired May 4), Hopper now reports to a third in his next assignment as the executive officer for the incoming director of DLA. The next director has not yet been appointed.

Hopper spoke of his two biggest influences, academically and during his military service.

“Academically, my biggest influence was Diana Canterbury,” he said. “She and my Mom made a concerted effort to bring leadership and social awareness into the curriculum at Worcester Academy when I was there. Ms. Canterbury got me thinking about the world around me, and how I could influence it. That idea of serving the greater good of society is at the core of my decision to stay in the military all of these years.

“My biggest military influence has been at DLA,” Hopper said. “I have worked directly for two different three-star directors. Both were very different leaders and very different men. The takeaway for me is this

... you can’t ‘act like a general.’ You can only be you ... and that will be good enough. This is the best kind of internship I could ask for.”

Hopper spent his high school years living on the Worcester Academy campus with his family.

Hopper’s mother, Pamela Lefferts, started as the school nurse in 1986 when he was in the sixth grade and continued to work with the school in a variety of roles for 30 years, including as a teacher, director of student life, director of residence and director of international alumni. She was recently inducted into the Worcester Academy Hall of Fame.

“I don’t know if there are words to describe how I feel about Scott’s success, but all the mothers out there will understand what I’m saying,” said Lefferts. “When you see your child rise, themselves, like this ... [growing up] he loved to speak, he loved to be funny. He always cared about people and animals. In high school, he was a peer leader, presenting workshops and programs to other students, helping them. This has been Scott, and who Scott is.”

“When I look at him, I see the little boy that you don’t see,” Lefferts said, “who’s just become a man doing the same extraordinary things in his life. He’s the real deal.”

What is Hopper’s personal philosophy?

“Helping people,” he said. “I have always prioritized my career as an opportunity to make a difference vice to make a dollar. The higher I go in the organization, the more people I can help.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident: not enforced

To the Editor:
 I sent a letter to the Chief's Corner weekly column in the Webster Times a few weeks ago about a subject in which I wanted his opinion, that would also hopefully answer my questions. Specifically, it has to do with people parking in fire lanes. My questions: what is the law that allows and/or prevents people from parking in fire lanes? And why is it allowed to repeatedly happen at the same location in Dudley over and over and over?
 I see it happens 2-4 times per week (now it's up to 5-7 times per week) in the morning mostly, at the Dudley Plaza in front of 88's Restaurant. I can only imagine that this must be illegal as this is a marked fire lane. I can guess that the vehicle may be using the excuse of 'off loading' to park there, yet this can't be the only reason as the vehicle sits there for hours at a time, repeatedly. And it's a car (SUV), and not a box truck or other heavily loaded conveyance. With no one going back and forth, no one doing off loading for many hours that the vehicle sits.

 So, I asked him, what is the law? Why is this repeat parker-offender allowed to do so? Or am I mistaken and it is perfectly legal to park in a fire lane?
 The chief responded in print, and quoted the law, yet the scofflaw is still allowed to park there daily, even with the Chief of Police now apprised. Is this some sort of privileged treatment, or is it something else?

DUDLEY RESIDENT AND FREQUENT PATRON TO THE PLAZA'S BUSINESSES

Doing the right thing: false documents are costly

CHIEF'S CORNER
 STEVE WOJNAR

Modern technology has been used to falsify a number of documents including money, driver's licenses, and vehicle inspection stickers. A person I spoke with recently knew possessing counterfeit money was a serious offense, but they wondered the severity of penalties for making or possessing these false vehicle documents. I was asked to provide some information on this subject.

Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 90 section 24B is the section for false driver's licenses, permits, inspection stickers, handicapped placards, etc. It covers the violations of making, stealing, altering, forging, and counterfeiting numerous items issued by the Registry. It also addresses procuring or assisting another person to do the same. In addition, this section prohibits copying the signature of the Registrar without proper authorization.

Penalties for driving without a license generally carry a fine and are considered misdemeanors. A failure to have your vehicle inspected carries a $50 civil infraction. Many people believe having a false license, registration, placard, or sticker would call for similar punishments. It is quite the contrary. A violation of this law is a felony. It calls for a fine up to $500 or a prison sentence for up to five years. It is an arrestable offense. A conviction is reported to the Registry and a person's right to operate can be suspended for at least one year.

Anyone engaging in this activity is assuming a huge risk. The potential penalties should encourage people to comply with the proper procedures for motor vehicle use. Do not take a chance when it comes to these violations. It is better to do things the right way than risk the serious consequences.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, MA 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com.

Opinions expressed in this weekly column are those of Chief Wojnar only and unless clearly noted, do not reflect the ideas or opinions of any other organization or citizen.

EDITORIAL

This is what Webster is changing

The story on proposed charter changes in Webster had a glaring error. We apologize, and need to explain what the Charter Review Committee does intend.

The three offices of assessor, treasurer and collector are not being combined in any way. They will continue to be individual entities with their own duties.

What will change under the proposed changes is that the three offices will be appointed positions rather than elected.

We applaud this change. Having such volatile offices elected every few years can be difficult for those in the offices to get any meaningful work done. It also leaves it open for anyone, qualified or not, to seek a position they are wholly unable to do and could jeopardize the town in many ways.

But it is not just the offices, it's what they do, the oversight of the funds coming in, going out. The decisions that ultimately result in taxation on property. These are very, very important jobs, the ones that pay the way for the town. Should one of them fail in some way, the entire fiscal structure of a town can falter.

Ask Tyngsboro, an investigation is right now going on because changes in structure for fiscal management discovered...missing money, fraud, at the least a dishonest employee.

Shaking up and letting things settle again is sometimes a good thing, it keeps people on their toes, keeps them aware, and often protects the town's property in the long run.

This isn't a problem here, this is a house-keeping chore; making it more realistic for those whose jobs it is to concentrate on those jobs and not on keeping those jobs directly through the whims of voters.

In other thoughts, we can say the more things change, the more they stay the same...a cliché for the times.

Our local towns seem to struggle over and over with the same topics, school funding and tries at overrides, new buildings and renovations, crumbling infrastructure such as water lines, sewer lines and roadways, and people. People coming, people going, people in place but changing jobs, combining offices or how those offices are manned.

It could be any one of a dozen towns at any given time.

And this is where the real political decisions that affect lives really impact individuals. We can see, first hand, just how the tax dollars we labor for and give up are then spent. And we can have some say in that.

How our president handles himself and represents us to other national leaders? Not so much.

We can rant about that, either supporting or worrying about the decisions made at that scale; but we can't impact it much.

We can bring that down a bit and discuss the just-now-maybe-finalized state budget, and we can have a speaking relationship with the men and women who represent us in Boston; but actually impacting a decision made there is beyond the scope of most of us too. We can write, we can speak, we can email, we can roust our neighbors to do the same in support or opposition to this or that...but the representatives we've chosen to be in Boston, who often must speak for an inordinate amount of acreage, still must try to make those decisions based on how it will affect the majority of the people.

And we can fret locally over the nebulous issues like how to change global warming or to save ocean life; but for the most part we can seriously do little that really impacts the bottom line.

So, while we can take a little sigh of relief the spring elections and town meetings are past, those annual exercises in political freedom have resulted in the status quo in towns shuffling and resettling. The year is passing, projects continue, and decisions will be made.

Those towns who lost bids for overrides are making some really tough decisions right now. For whether you have kids in your local schools, farm them out to another public school through a school choice or charter decision, spend your own money for private or home schooling, yet the public school down the road has to do the best it can with what it has available.

Public education was a dream of our forefathers and foremothers. To have the capability to have children learn to read, write, and "do sums" was a dream come true. Our dreams seem to have changed somehow.

Our expectations of just what can be done with limited funding is either too high...or too low. We've given up on the local schools.

And that, without any doubt, is a local decision. If we want to change it, it is up to us. No one else.

Match short- and long-term goals with the right investments

Not all investments are created equal. Some are better suited for short-term goals, while others can help you build resources for objectives far in the future. As an investor, then, one of your biggest challenges will be to match your short- and long-term goals with the appropriate investment vehicles. How should you proceed?

For starters, identify your short- and long-term goals. Your shorter-term goals will change throughout your life. When you are starting out in your career, for example, you might aspire to purchase a home in the next three to five years. Later on, though, your biggest short-term objective might be to save enough money for a long tour of Europe – without racking up credit card debt.

As for long-term goals, your biggest one likely will be to enjoy a comfortable retirement. But you may well have other long-term plans, too, such as sending your kids to college in 10 or 15 years.

After you have a clear sense of your short- and long-term goals, you can choose the right investments to help you meet them. Let's start with the shorter-term ones. When you're saving for a down payment on a home or for an expensive European vacation, you want to make sure that a certain amount of money will be available to you at a certain time. Consequently, you may want to avoid stocks or stock-based vehicles, which will constantly fluctuate in price, because you don't want the value of your investment to be down at the moment you need the money. Instead, for short-term goals, you may want to consider a fixed-income vehicle, such as a bond, which is designed to provide regular interest payments and return your full principal upon the bond's maturity (providing the issuer doesn't default, which, with investment-grade bonds, is generally unlikely).

FINANCIAL FOCUS

For longer-term goals, such as college for your kids and a comfortable retirement for yourself, it's a different story. To achieve these goals – and especially for retirement – you generally need to accumulate as much as you can. As a result, you need investments with growth potential, which means you will need to consider stocks and stock-based instruments. As mentioned above, stocks will always fluctuate in value, and they may be worth more or less than your original investment when sold. However, building a portfolio with an investment mix that's appropriate for your risk tolerance, and that contains a reasonable amount of growth-oriented vehicles, can potentially help you overcome short-term volatility and continue making progress toward your long-term goals.

Plus, you have some attractive long-term options available. With a 529 college savings plan, you can save for college and possibly achieve tax benefits, too. And by contributing regularly to your IRA and 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored plan, you can defer taxes while spreading your dollars among a wide range of investments. But there's one thing all long-term investments have in common: You need patience and discipline to stick with them.

So, there you have some ideas on short- and long-term investing. Keeping this distinction in mind when you invest can help boost your confidence that you're making appropriate moves for all your goals.

Becoming Like Jesus

Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.

Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth.

Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled.

Blessed are the merciful, for they will receive mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God.

Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are you when people revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil against you falsely on my account. Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in heaven, for in the same way they persecuted the prophets who were before you. (Matthew 5:3-11)

The spiritual writer, Henri Nouwen, says that these words of the Beatitudes offer us "a self-portrait of Jesus. Jesus is the Blessed One. And the face of the Blessed One shows poverty, gentleness, meekness, grief, hunger and thirst for righteousness, mercy, purity of heart, a desire to make peace, and signs of persecution. The whole message of the Gospel is this – become like Jesus. We have his self-portrait. When we keep that in front of our eyes, we will soon learn what it means to follow Jesus and become like Him."

When Jesus calls His first followers to leave their fishing boats, leave their live-hood, leave their families, leave everything they know and follow Him. He is inviting them to begin a journey of imitating His life! Not only did the disciples watch Jesus as he "taught in their synagogues, preached the Good News of the Kingdom, and healed all kinds of sicknesses and all kinds of diseases among the people," but more importantly they watched how He lived, listened to what He taught, observed how He interacted with others, marveled at His humble and meek spirit, and slowly realized that the time would come when Christ would expect them to continue this same work. Eventually, the followers of Jesus would become ambassadors of Christ, imitators of His life, icons of His divine image, and messengers of His Good News. The world would know that they are His disciples by the way they imitated their Master.

Now if we fast forward 2000 years, we realize that WE who call ourselves Christians are the followers of Jesus Christ, and the ones called to imitate His life! Jesus calls US to carry His Spirit, continue His ministry, proclaim His Good News, and live our lives as He lived His life! Jesus even said, "Be perfect, as our heavenly Father is perfect." From reading the Bible, we understand who Jesus is and how He lived, and we see that it is now OUR turn to walk as He walked, talk as He talked, live as He lived, and even die as He died. St. Paul highlights this when he challenges us to adopt the "mind of Christ," to Use a little fish to catch a big fish

Some local freshwater bass anglers have been disappointed with their success at local ponds and lakes during the past couple of weeks. A couple of anglers often bring along a small ultra light rod to catch a few small sunfish using a small piece of worm and small hook, and then place them onto a larger hook using a slightly heavier fishing rod & reel. Casting the small bait out into the water with a small bobber attached to it, often has a quick response from a hungry bass. Allowing the bobber to stay under water for a few seconds before setting the hook insures a good hookup. Many large bass are caught using this method.

Back in my younger years (10 years old) fishing on the Meadow Pond in Whitinsville, I had a great experience fishing from the boat wharf in front of Joe Tops bar & grill. Joe Tops was a favorite tavern for many local resident to enjoy a quick cold drink during the hot summer days. My dad often stopped in for a cold one after working in his garden in the Prentice Street area of Whitinsville, which is now all houses. One particular day we stopped off for my dad to have a cold beer, and I decided to go fishing after helping my dad in the garden. He had barely parked the old 1937 Pontiac in the parking lot and I was out the door heading for the boat dock. I had one of the very small fishing rods that came in a round metal case. The rod was made of steel, and the reel was very small. I quickly attached a worm to the small hook and made a cast, about 10 ft. from the dock. In a matter of minutes, I had a bite which and the fish was quickly hooked, and I knew that it was a small sunfish. (Kiver as they were known in them days). After realizing that it was a sunfish, I became irate and quickly started to reel the small fish towards me when all of a sudden, a huge fish engulfed the small fish, and the line went screaming from the reel. There was no drag on the reel, as it was direct drive. The small handle on the reel was spinning, and the line was almost gone before I took immediate action. The fish nearly knocked me off balance when I stopped the reel from spinning. I started screaming, which caught the attention of everyone at the bar across the street. A lot of the patrons at the bar came running outside, many thinking that I had been hit by a car. When they realized that I had a whopper of a bass at the end of my line, they all started laughing.

My dad quickly came to my side and encouraged me to calm down and continue to fight the huge bass. After a few minutes the largemouth bass came along the side of the wharf, and my dad scooped it up and set it down in front of me. Everyone was congratulating me on my catch. We never weighed it, but it was big. It was a corker!!! The boys inside of the bar bought me numerous drinks to consume before we headed home!! I drank enough Coca Cola to last me a life time. We brought the fish home and my dad made a big fish chowder. I have not had a good fish chowder like he made since his passing. Those were the good old days, and I miss my dad every day, especially when I start thinking about the great childhood he and my mother made for us.

I guess the moral of the story is that you need to use big bait to catch big fish. Bass fishing legend Dan Southwick will agree to that. The stick baits that Dan uses to catch many of his record size bass every year, are on caught on salt-water plugs. This week's photo shows Dan with an 8.4 lb. monster bass he caught at a favorite fishing hole, using a big stick bait. Have not heard from him lately, but he is probably busy catching more record size bass.

A recent discussion about crayfish at our local club also brought back memories about catching and using crayfish for bait. As a youngster, I often walked along the shores of Meadow Pond turning over rocks to catch crayfish to use for my bass fishing adventures. I was surprised to hear a couple of local anglers talk about the availability of crayfish today. It seems that they are still plentiful in many ponds. With the price of bait these days catching a few for fishing could be just what you need to use to catch a big one. Give it a try. Turning over rocks along shores of local ponds, should have you finding a few, but an easier method is to bait up a small minnow trap with pieces of fish that you catch, and leave it for a few days in a secluded spot in a few feet of water. If you are in the correct area you should have a couple of dozen crayfish in the trap when you check it.

facing away from you. In years past bait & tackle shops sold this very desirable bait for bass fishing, but they no longer are available through there bait suppliers. It is also an excellent bait for small mouth bass. Give them a try.

Tips for terrific tomatoes

TRAINOR

The taste of a garden tomato, warmed from the sun and plucked fresh from the vine, is a simple pleasure worth waiting all year for. While tasty tomatoes are undoubtedly the highlight of most backyard gardens, their sweet success can often be ensured with a few "tricks of the trade."

Prep Plants: Harden off tomato plants for a week to ten days before transplanting outside.

Timely Transplants: Transplant tomatoes in late afternoon for best results.

Deep Seated: Growing deep, extensive roots and full leaves will help establish newly transplanted tomatoes. Many experienced tomato growers pull off the first flowers, so the plant does not devote energy to forming fruit before its roots and foliage have filled out.

Rotation Inoculation: Expert growers claim insect infestation and plant disease is reduced if you never plant tomatoes in the same spot more than three years in a row.

Mulching Mix: Mulching is an important garden task and natural mulches such as straw, leaves, pine needles and dried grass all are beneficial to tomato plants.

Warm Up to Cool Down: Since mulch keeps the ground cool, it's important to wait until the ground soil warms to 65° before laying the mulch.

Companion Crops: The plants in which tomatoes keep company with can affect their growth. Tomatoes like to grow near onions, parsley, chives, garlic, and carrots.

Early Irrigation: Water tomato plants early in the day to be sure leaves will be dry by nightfall Think Ahead: Pound in stakes for future support at the same time you plant tomatoes. Waiting until later could damage the roots.

Tie it Up: Stake ties made of strips of old pantyhose or lightweight fabric won't cut into plants Faded Flavor: If your tomatoes are large, but lack flavor, over watering might be the culprit.

Fun Fact: According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the world's largest tomato was grown by Gordon Graham of Edmund, Oklahoma and weighed 7 pounds 12 ounces.

Freezing Tomatoes: If you're lucky enough to have too many tomatoes to use or give away, you might want to consider freezing them. Here's how:

Freezing Raw Tomatoes: It is possible to quickly freeze raw tomatoes without blanching them first. They may be frozen without their skins or frozen whole with their skins. Frozen tomatoes are best used in cooked foods such as soups, sauces and stews as they become mushy when they're thawed.

Tomatoes should be washed before cutting. To wash, wet each tomato with water, rub its surface, rinse it with running water, and dry it with a paper towel. After washing, cut away the stem scar and surrounding area and discard it before slicing or chopping the tomato.

Washing tomatoes in a sink filled with water is not recommended since contaminated water can be absorbed through the fruit's stem scar. The use of soap or detergent is neither recommended nor approved for washing fruits and vegetables because they can absorb detergent residues.

Tomatoes may be frozen whole, sliced, chopped, or pureed. Additionally, you can freeze them raw or cooked, as juice or sauce, or prepared in the recipe of your choice. Thawed raw tomatoes may be used in any cooked-tomato recipe. Do not try to substituted them for fresh tomatoes, however, since freezing causes their texture to become mushy. Tomatoes should be seasoned just before serving rather than before freezing; freezing may either strengthen or weaken seasonings such as garlic, onion, and herbs.

Preparation. Select firm, ripe tomatoes for freezing. Sort the tomatoes, discarding any that are spoiled. Wash them in clean water as recommended above. Dry them by blotting with a clean cloth or paper towels.

Freezing Whole Tomatoes with Peels: Prepare tomatoes as described above. Cut away the stem scar. Place the tomatoes on cookie sheets and freeze. Tomatoes do not need to be blanched before freezing. Once frozen, transfer the tomatoes from the cookie sheets into freezer bags or other containers. Seal tightly. To use the frozen tomatoes, remove them from the freezer a few at a time or all at once. To peel, just run a frozen tomato under warm water in the kitchen sink. Its skin will slip off easily.

Freezing Peeled Tomatoes: If you prefer to freeze peeled tomatoes, you can wash the tomatoes and then dip them in boiling water for about 1 minute or until the skins split. Peel and then freeze as noted above.

Lifespan: To extend the lifetime of frozen foods maintain good quality, package foods in material intended for freezing and keep the temperature of the freezer at 0° F or below. It is generally recommended frozen vegetables be eaten within about eight months for best quality.

become "imitators of Jesus," to become Christ-like for the world around us!

So think about this: when people see us and watch our lives and listen to our words, do they see Jesus in us? Is the spirit that we pass on to others the spirit of God, or the spirit of this fallen world? And how do we become more Christ-like in our lives?

The Beatitudes offer a "portrait" of the life of Christ, and path for all followers of Jesus to follow!

Blessed are the poor in spirit: Do we truly realize our own spiritual poverty? Do we turn to God in utter trust in His rich mercy and grace? St. John Chrysostom understood the poor in spirit to be the humble person who was totally aware of their utter dependence on God.

Blessed are those who mourn: Are we people who mourn not only over our own sinfulness, but also lamenting over the sins and sufferings of the world around us? The Spirit of God within us means we will look upon the world as He looks upon others, with deep compassion and a desire for the well-being of everyone, including even those who are lost in their own ways.

Blessed are the meek: Are we people who are humble and patient, slow to anger and gentle with others; people who have great self-control over all our passions? The meek are "God-controlled" people. Meekness is not a sign of passive weakness, as the world may think of it, but meekness is a sign of controlled strength derived from one's trust in God.

Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness: Do we understand this graphic portrayal of a deep sense of longing and desire for God's righteousness and justice in the world around us, as well as a passion for our own personal righteousness, which can only occur when one strives for perfection according to God's will?

Blessed are the merciful: Mercy is love in action, love in motion, one of the greatest characteristics of God. The life of Jesus fully exemplified the idea of mercy. God doesn't call us to judge and condemn others, but to look at others with compassion, with empathy, with forgiveness, and with mercy. Are we people of mercy?

Blessed are the pure in heart: A "pure heart" represents not only a sincere inner moral purity but more so a heart free from any concern outside the will of God. Purity implies fidelity and loyalty to God's commands. Our motives must be concerned for God and His will alone. Are we cultivating a pure heart within ourselves?

Blessed are the peacemakers: To create lasting peace for others, we first must make peace with God ourselves, first within our own inner being and then with the world around us. There is a difference between peace-loving and peace-making. The peace which the Bible calls blessed does not come from the evasion of issues but from facing them, dealing with them and conquering them. We must go out of our way to create peace for ourselves and others. Although such peacemaking is difficult, it is n

Northbridge Legion trucks into playoffs after fifth straight win, 11-5 over Sturbridge

NORTHBIDGE — Although finishing near the middle of the pack of all post-season bound American Legion baseball teams in Zone 4, Northbridge Post 343 may be one of the most dangerous squads heading into the playoffs as they carry plenty of momentum on its side. Post 343 remained hot through Sunday, July 9, picking up its fifth straight win and scoring seven or more runs for the sixth consecutive game, this time defeating Sturbridge Post 109, 11-5, at Lasell Field. With a game left before the postseason, Northbridge looks to carry its energy into the playoffs.

"We're going into the playoffs on a pretty good roll — we won five in a row now, so we need to keep this thing rolling, right into the playoffs," said manager John Demagian. "We've been hitting the ball lately and scoring some runs — we had seven over in Wachusett, 14 last night [July 8], and 11 again today, so we're scoring some runs and getting some big hits."

Revenge was sweet for Northbridge, who was edged by Sturbridge, 4-3, in its first game of the season on June 12.

"That was their [Northbridge] first game, and we played seven innings of good baseball — that's what you have to do in this league," recalled Sturbridge manager Jim Rosseel in reference to defeating Northbridge earlier in the year.

On the other hand, the young Sturbridge squad started just three players over the age of 16, dropping to a 4-18 record. Post 109 looks toward a brighter future.

"We had four 15-year-olds out there and three 16-year-olds," noted Rosseel. "Next year, we will be better. Next year, I'll shoot for .500 minimum, and I think we'll get there. Being as young as we are in a league like this, all you can do is compete and hope for the best. We beat some good teams this year, but you can't give teams in this league extra outs."

Northbridge shortstop Justin Stone, first baseman Mike Tourony and third baseman Jack Marzec each had multi-hit games, as Post 343 powered to lead 10-4 in hits. Marzec and Tourony each had a pair of RBI's.

"The bats are coming together — that's what we were missing earlier this season, but in the last couple games, we put up at least seven runs," noted Marzec, who will attend Fitchburg State University and play baseball. "He [Nolan Kingman] tried to get the strike on the first pitch, so we just pounced on that and were getting a lot of guys on base."

While Sturbridge struggled to find its rhythm, Northbridge set the tone, scoring seven unanswered runs in the first two innings.

After Northbridge catcher Brian Iarussi picked off his second Sturbridge runner of the day, the home team tacked on four more runs. Post 343 used three hits and an error to do its damage in the second with Marzec and Tourony each earning their second RBI's of the day.

Sturbridge battled back for four runs in the top of the third to trim the deficit to 7-4. Second baseman Hayden Wildes earned himself his first of two bunted base hits to load the bases. Left fielder Connor McCaffrey then launched a double near the first base line to bring home three runs. An error at second allowed McCaffrey to cross home plate.

Nolan Kingman of Sturbridge delivers a pitch in the first inning versus Northbridge.

However, Northbridge regained control in the bottom of the fourth and fifth innings, adding another three runs to move out to a 10-4 advantage. Second baseman Jake Hamel had an inside the park homer that scored two runs in the fourth.

"I got ahead, 1-0, in the count," recalled Hamel. "He threw a first pitch curve, so I got the pitch and just drove it. We have lost leads before, so it was good to get those runs in and stay ahead."

Northbridge starter Matt

Maille retired seven of the next 10 batters faced before Post 109 took advantage of another error on a grounder to plate an unearned run, cutting Northbridge's lead in half in the sixth (10-5).

But Post 343 matched Sturbridge's run with an insurance tally in the bottom of the sixth, as Marzec came on the mound to close and retired three of four batters faced for Northbridge to claim the 11-5 win.

Marc Flores of Northbridge notches an RBI on a sacrifice fly to center field in the first inning.

Sturbridge's Tyler Stoever stretches to make a catch for the out at first base.

Matt Maille pitched six innings, allowing just four hits and three earned runs for Northbridge.

Northbridge's Jack Marzec, left, had two hits and two RBI's on the day for Post 343.

Sturbridge's Mick Sullivan is picked off on a steal attempt by Northbridge catcher Brian Iarussi.

'Fun, but tough' year for Cherry Valley Legion nears its end

POST 443 PLAYS LEOMINSTER CLOSE, BUT FALLS FEW RUNS SHORT

Editor's Note: The accompanying photos come from Cherry Valley Post 443's game versus Sturbridge Post 109 on Monday, July 10, a 9-7 loss.

LEICESTER — When you're a young team, especially in the world of American Legion baseball, your win-loss record can be deceiving when measuring the success of your season. This year Cherry Valley Post 443 is having one of those seasons — lots of growth and improvement, but not as many wins as it had hoped for.

Cherry Valley lost to Leominster Post 151, 8-4, Sunday, July 9 to fall to 5-16 in a game that was closer than the final score indicated.

Post 443 led, 1-0, after one inning and had solid scoring chances in the second and fifth innings that, had they capitalized on them, might have made the final outcome of the game very different.

Cherry Valley had runners on second and third base with one out in the second inning, but was unable to push any runs across. In the fifth they had the bases loaded with no outs but were only able to score twice.

"We don't hit at the opportune times, at the right times," Post 443 manager Jim Stephens said. "We probably had nine hits today (10, actually) just not at the right time. We get the bases loaded and no outs and we only score two runs.

Those are the things that hurt."

Cherry Valley took its 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning when, with one out, Evan Fritze laced a single to center field, stole second, went to third on a groundout and then scored on an RBI single to right field by Christian Russo (2 for 3, two RBI's).

Leominster (19-4 following the victory) tied the game, 1-1, in the top of the second and then went ahead, 4-1 with a three-run third inning. Post 151 pushed its lead to 7-1 in the top of the fifth, but Post 443 scored twice in the bottom of the inning to pull to within four runs, 7-3.

Brett Willand got Cherry Valley's fifth inning started with a leadoff single to center field, Fritze (3 for 4, double) followed with a single to left and Ryan Sanderson loaded the bases with another single to left. Ryan Fahey then followed with a line drive out to second on a ball hit so hard Leominster was able to throw to second to get Fritze, who had strayed one step too far, out as well.

A walk to Russo re-loaded the bases and Aidan Gilman drove in Alex Belanger (pinch-running for Willand) from third and Sanderson from second with a sharp line drive to center field. The rally ended when pinch-hitter Kyle Johnson, with runners on first and second, flied out to left.

Both teams added a run in the seventh inning to account for the 8-4 final. Post 443's run came off a leadoff double by Fritze and a two-out RBI single to center by Russo.

"Like I've said all year, these kids are learning," Stephens said. "We're a young team — we have 12 first-year players on the roster. Some kids have taken big steps forward this season. The majority of these guys are better ballplayers now, at the end of the year, than when we started.

"It's a work in progress," Stephens said of his team. "We're definitely better now at the end of the season than we were at the beginning. We've been in more games here at the end of the year against better teams. We did beat Milford; we played Leominster OK today and [July 8] we played a good game against Wachusett [a 6-3 loss]. And we've done all this here at the end with a short roster. We've only got 12 kids playing right now because of injury. It's been a fun year, but it's been tough, too."

Brouwer picks his spots to pitch Northbridge past Cherry Valley in Legion action

Cherry Valley's Tyrus Garvin attempts to get out of the way of a tag applied by Northbridge's Chris Brouwer.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

NORTHBRIDGE — Northbridge Post 343 pitcher Chris Brouwer tossed a complete-game, four-hit shutout and his teammates made the most of six hits, four walks and seven errors by the opposition to defeat Cherry Valley Post 443, 10-0, in American Legion baseball action on July 5 at Lasell Field.

Northbridge improved to 8-11 with the win, which was shortened to six innings because of pretty good," Northbridge manager John Demagian said.

Cherry Valley manager Jim Stephens, however, believes it's illegal.

"He balks every time he goes to first," Stephens said. "You can't cross the rubber. Once you cross the rubber you have to go home. He does it every time. I talked to the home plate umpire twice about it. He said he didn't see it. What don't you see? It's there. He told me he couldn't see it from behind the plate.

"What about the base umpire," Stephens asked rhetorically after the game. "He can call it. He can see it. He's only 12 feet from [Brouwer], whether he is on the third base side of the mound or the first base side. That isn't the reason we lost, but every time we'd get a guy on first base and try to get a rally going we got picked off — on a balk."

Demagian disagreed with Stephens' assessment of the left-handed pitcher's move to first base — sort of.

"Well, nobody calls it," Demagian said of the move. "I don't think it's a balk, but even if it is, you just keep doing it until they call it."

The debate of Brouwer's pickoff move notwithstanding, the recent Northbridge High graduate, who is headed to Siena College to play baseball, was in control throughout.

"Coming in I knew I had to get ahead in the count early," Brouwer said. "I wanted to work in my fastball late in the count to set up the curve ball. When I was ahead I was throwing my curve in the dirt and they were swinging at it. So, I had that working for me. I just relied on my fastball and my curve. Getting ahead was the key. My last couple of starts I struggled with my command."

Post 343 scored two runs in the bottom of the first inning and four runs in both the second and sixth innings. Five of the 10 runs they scored were unearned and a result of all the errors Cherry Valley made.

"We've been striking out too much," said Demagian, whose team struck out just three times against Cherry Valley. "If you put the ball in play, things will happen."

Stephens grimaced after the game when asked about his team's defensive miscues against Northbridge.

"I think it's a concentration issue," he said. "We dropped a couple of popups hit right to guys and we didn't make plays a couple of times on balls hit right at us. When you're playing a good team, you're not going to come back from that. It's like blood in the water."

Evan Fritze of Cherry Valley squeezes the glove in center field to make a catch.

Recording hits for Cherry Valley were Evan Fritze, Christian Russo, Ryan Fahey and Aidan Gilman.

Leading the way offensively for Northbridge was Zach Roberts and Marc Flores. Roberts was 1 for 3 with a double, a walk and three runs scored. Flores drove in two runs — one when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and another on a sacrifice fly. Justin Stone, Mike Tourony, Jake Hamel, Brian Iarussi and Nick Jepsen all recorded singles.

Jepsen provided the funniest moment of the game. With his team ahead, 9-0, in the bottom of the sixth inning Jepsen was headed home with run No. 10 when he tripped over third base and went down — at the feet of Demagian, Northbridge's third-base coach. Jepsen scored when the next batter reached on an error, but by then the damage was done.

"I couldn't stop laughing," Demagian said. "I'm laughing about it now just thinking about it."

community on the district's Facebook page June 29.

"I leave with the absolute confidence that, through the concerted and student-focused efforts of our teachers, support staff, administrators, families and others, the Oxford Public Schools have made huge gains, righted the ship, and are now moving in the right direction," he wrote.

After thanking several people, he added, "We have (although painfully) presented and managed balanced budgets each of the last three years and while we have had to make some very difficult decisions and reductions, we have been able to both expand opportunities and improve outcomes for our kids, our true bottom line."

Coonan couldn't attend Friday's meeting, but said Garceau "was an incredible superintendent. He brought this district to the forefront and will be surely missed." He felt Garceau was "the correct leadership" Oxford needed to deal with recent issues.

So did Town manager Brian Palaia, who said he'd learned Garceau was negotiating with Westerly the week of June 19.

"Mark did a tremendous job restoring our district to a Level 2 status under challenging circumstances," Palaia wrote by email. "I wish him and his family the best for the future."

"We've done a lot of good things in Oxford, but the money's getting tight," Garceau said. The new superintendent will get "pretty much a turn-key [operation]. It's running well, but we can't afford to lose $20 at this point."

Spitz noted two committee members -- Palmina Griffin and Cassandra Day -- have already volunteered to chair the search committee to find a permanent superintendent, which will be pulled together over the next three or four weeks. He expects it will have about a dozen members representing "a little sampling of everybody" in town.

"I want to keep the experience level high," Spitz said of what he wants in a permanent person. "I'd like to see someone come in who has a wealth of experience to offer and is a fresh pair of eyes."

tion."

McDougal noted the most challenging part of switching jobs has been learning all the paperwork that state and local laws require, which are quite different from what Connecticut uses. In Willington, for example, the library is public, but its staff are not town employees, meaning the library director handles a whole bunch of things the town manager and finance director handle here.

"This town is incredibly supportive of the library, more than I've seen previously," she said, pointing to such things as the DPW helping erect Art in the Yard.

McDougal said she'll get more opportunity to "think of stuff to do" here than she did in Willington. Specifically, the Trustees and town want her "to do a lot of the adult programming," and she already has a few ideas, including genealogy, computer classes, and one of her personal favorites, meditation.

"Everybody seems to be incredibly busy and stressed out, which I can attest to," she said. "People need to take time for themselves."

McDougal never really intended to become a librarian. As a kid, she originally wanted to be a fifth-grade teacher because she "absolutely loved" her own, but she got a summer job as a library page at age 17. In time, she became an aide, then jumped to director in 2014.

"A lot of people said that was a big leap, but I knew the building," she added.

Curiously, she got there because of the teacher she wanted to emulate.

"I helped build her classroom library, and she was on the library board, so it's odd how that's connected," McDougal recalled. "It was almost foreshadowing."

Indeed, she now sees library work as education of a sort that's "broader" because "you get to be on the fun side of everything," helping people learn without having to deal with all the tests and other issues of a classroom. One aspect of that will be helping people do job searches, use databases and learn how to identify good internet sources, design resumes, use their i-phones, and learn to use the variety of electronic sources available, including e-readers.

"It's important to keep up with the times and where tech is going," she observed, noting "many people prefer them over actual physical books," although she's not one of them. By contrast, she also looks forward to helping preserve some of the library's historical documents.

"It really bugs me when people say libraries are passé and are going to be gone shortly," McDougal said. "They've been around a lot longer than things that are already obsolete."

When asked where she hopes to be in 10 years, she said she hopes to have a family and still be here.

"Wherever I go, I hope to stay a good chunk of time," McDougal added. "Oxford seems to be a great community. I'm looking forward to getting to know it better. I'm excited to be here."

MEETING

investment.

"The retaining walls that go in the back should be in an 'L' shape, so it would have gone behind the veterans building and then behind 37 and 38 Negus St.. If we purchase those properties we obviously don't have to put in that retraining wall and we can grade it so that the retaining wall along the back of the veterans building doesn't have to be as high. There are a lot of advantages to that. When they designed the building the site lines for entering and exiting onto Lake Street was a big issue so if we purchase those other properties we will do the ingress on Lake Street and the egress on Negus so it will be much safer and a better flow out of the parking area and expands downtown parking, which has been a big issue."

However, the taxpayers need to have their say in order for any property purchase to take place, which is why the town meeting was scheduled July 31. Willardson explained that regardless of which approach the town takes to resolving the situation the cost is built into the library project budget thanks to $1.2 million in contingency money within the $12 million budget of the project.

Selectmen did present some concerns that such an oversight occurred, which Willardson said is being looked into, and that the new price for the wall was so expensive.

Selectman Randy Becker said the second option, the purchasing of the Negus Street properties, may be frowned upon by some at the July 31 meeting even though the money is already in the budget.

"I think the only argument somebody could make is that this money would have been turned back and therefore our tax rates possibly could have gone down. Granted they're not going to go up because of the budgeting, but that should at least be mentioned," Becker said.

Other items expected to be discussed at the meeting are a plan to shift to LED lighting on the town's streetlights and renovations for the lower level of the town hall utilizing town hall stabilization funds. The special town meeting will be held on July 31 at 7 p.m. at the Bartlett High School on Lake Parkway.

other things. Most recently, the committee praised her for her work on Mary Poppins, which Cassandra Day described as "magical" inspiration for her son.

"I am truly humbled that this is here," Looney said. "I love what I do with the musicals, and am very grateful to be recognized tonight."

Garceau said he hopes this will become "an annual tradition," and praised Looney specifically because she "always, always, always put the best interests of our students first."

The committee also praised and thanked departing Middle School Principal David Cornacchioli for his years of service as he moves on to another job.

Afterward, the meeting focused roughly equally on three issues: special education, a new facilities use policy, and an update on the impact of the recent override failure.

Director of Student Services and Special Education Susan Henrichon said the district is now starting another round of state special ed review, after its last audit in 2015 "was considered implemented." The state requires it to submit data on several indicators -- 25 of them regarding civil rights, 17 regarding English language learners -- amounting to a document she indicated was several inches thick. That went to Boston in April, and while the state reviews it in preparation for site visits in April 2018, Henrichon and her staff will self-assess the program by sampling 25 of the special ed students at random and all seven ELL students.

One aspect of the process is the fact Oxford is changing from a "targeted" Title I program -- meaning it had a relatively few students needing services -- to a "district-wide" Title I program. She noted they've done a lot of work reforming the system in the last year.

"I think we're on the right track, and that speaks mountains to where we're going," Henrichon said.

Committee member Palmina Griffin agreed, saying she has heard of the improvements from parents, teachers and staff, and wondered where things stand on making the advisory committees more effective.

Henrichon said she recently ran the annual parents' rights workshop and is planning other training events "to make that group more cohesive than it had been in the past."

Speaking as a SpEd parent, newly-elected September Forbes said she worked with Henrichon's department for the first time last year and praised her for doing well in "a really tough situation."

"Everything from start to finish...felt perfect to me," Forbes said. "I never felt like we were falling through the cracks."

Vice Chair Dan Coonan echoed that, noting the department was "an absolute mess" when Henrichon started. He asked about the status of entitlement grants, and Henrichon quickly summarized how she's using them.

Regarding policy, the committee unanimously accepted one that revised how people can use building and athletic facilities. Based on comparisons with about 15 nearby districts, Spitz noted it adds to what the district charges for and changes the payments to a per-student fee from the previous per-hour/per-team fees.

Griffin said she feels a per-student fee is fairer because larger teams and events cause more wear on the facilities and require more cleanup afterward. Day agreed, but noted it could also be more cumbersome for the administration to keep track of.

Coonan raised a concern about "bumping rights," and Garceau confirmed that Oxford school teams or events always get first dibs over paying users.

In general, the policy prioritizes school users first, town public events second, and all others below that, and Garceau said the principals retain the right to decide whether users need to pay for maintenance staff on "a case by case basis."

A second policy revising travel reimbursement also passed unanimously with no discussion.

Regarding the override impact, Garceau said he has had to cut seven staff members, either by layoff or by not replacing retirees. He won't fill English and science teaching slots at the high school, in-school suspension and reading support jobs at the middle school, grade 2 and 4 teachers at Barton, and a preschool teacher at Chaffee. A few other functions were essentially combined, with the middle school dean of students now shuttling between that school and Barton, and some of the reading functions now being handled by Title I teachers.

He also later noted the district is cutting two bus routes, from 10 to eight, and expects about 40 students to "choicify" from other districts. He didn't know how many are "choicing-out" because that data won't be done until later this summer, but "Our total student population is up about 10 kids compared to last year."

Overall, he said, the changes mean some increase in class sizes at Barton, but "class sizes are so variable at the high school, it's really hard to put a number on. [There's] a slight increase, but people will be more evenly scheduled."

lived most of his life in Dudley, leavings only briefly before returning to his roots and growing his family in town.

Starzewski said he was asked to consider becoming the new moderator by numerous individuals from within the Dudley community. Growing up seeing his father serves a selectman for the town, Starzewski jumped at the chance to serve his community in a new capacity.

"The job responsibility is around appointing members to certain boards that have been nominated or have stepped up and getting involved in the management of the town. It's very important as a town resident to be able to give back at different levels," Starzewski said. "I was approached by a couple of friends from the community who were involved in local town politics. They mentioned it was an opening and they were interesting in my background as a school principal. Knowing what my role is in the school system allows me to be an effective leader and bring those schools into the town forum, in particular the town meetings, and shows I know how to manage a meeting and provide rule and order."

Starzewski has worked hard to be a devoted member of the Dudley community in numerous roles before becoming both an employee and elected official in town. As a parent he has been involved in numerous youth sports activities, coaching in many different leagues, and as a citizen has worked to stay up to date on the issues and matters of the town. Understanding that living up to the responsibilities of his new post will be a challenge, Starzewski said he has already begun preparing to lead the town through its next town meeting and understands the job will require a lot of research and understanding.

"The level of preparation is as good as the foundation that I stand on. I've got a tremendous base of support in my family and friends who help me manage my world," Starzewski said.

"The responsibilities of the town moderator are very important. It takes some study time to engage with the various articles going into a town meeting. Really that's reading and if I have questions I will have a relationship with town counsel, the town administrator, the selectmen, and the finance committee to be able to reach out and ask questions prior to the meeting to gain some understanding. Knowing the direction of the town and the key priorities that the town has and its focus are all important for me to understand."

Starzewski will have some time to brush up on his knowledge and skills as a moderator as the next expected town meeting for Dudley is not until the fall annual town meeting around October. Starzewski will begin his tenure as Dudley Middle School principal in August, just in time for the new school year.

Fattman partners with newborn screenings advocacy group

Sen. Ryan Fattman is seen testifying before the Massachusetts Senate on behalf of Hunter's Hope Foundation and other families whose children have been affected by genetic disease.

BOSTON — Senator Ryan Fattman (R-Webster) testified with members of Hunter's Hope Foundation on behalf of his legislation which would incorporate early detection and treatment methods to newborn infants born with Krabbe disease and other lysosomal storage disorders. Krabbe disease, which destroys the protective coating of nerve cells in the brain and nervous system, affects one in 100,000 people. While recent advances have been made towards a cure, most care options are only supportive after a diagnosis.

At the hearing, Fattman was joined by parents and constituents who had lost children to the genetic disorder. In conjunction with Fattman's effort, Mendon resident and advocate Nicole Nocera, worked with Fattman's office to bring attention to the legislation and also testified.

"It is imperative that newborn screening be updated and expanded to include Krabbe and similar leukodystrophies. Children diagnosed with Krabbe suffer terribly and there is no greater loss than losing a child," said Nocera.

Senate bill 1197, "An Act Relating to LSD's (Lysosomal Storage Disorders) in Infants," would increase testing for LSD's so that supportive care could be implemented faster. Fattman's office has worked with former NFL quarterback, Jim Kelly of the Buffalo Bills, who lost his son, Hunter, to the disease in 2005.

In testimony supporting the legislation, Kelly stated, "Through Hunter's Hope, I have met countless children affected by Krabbe, and most have suffered the same fate as Hunter because they were not diagnosed in time for treatment... A simple heel prick can mean the difference between life and death."

The Hunter's Hope Foundation is a non-profit organization, founded by Kelly and his wife Jill, to address the acute need for information and research on Krabbe disease and other lysosomal storage disorders.

GARDEN CLUB AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS

Two young women received the 2017 Southbridge Area Garden Club scholarships of $1000 each. On the left is Isabella Rhoadson from Shepherd Hill Regional High School, who will be attending the University of Rhode Island this fall. On the right is Lauren Maus from Tantasqua Regional High School, who will be attending the University of Vermont this fall.

The Southbridge Area Garden Club is a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting an interest in horticulture and gardening in local communities. Club members come from Brimfield, Charlton, Dudley, Southbridge, Sturbridge, Webster and Wales. Proceeds from the Club's annual Greens Sale help to fund the scholarships for area high school seniors.

Armand J. 'Peep' Duso, 87

NORTH OXFORD — Armand J. "Peep" Duso, age 87, of Leicester Street, died peacefully at home on July 3, 2017. He was predeceased by his wife of 51 years, Cecile O. (Lambert) Duso of North Oxford, who died in 2006. He is survived by two daughters, Suzanne Boucher of North Oxford and Cynthia A. Ramsey and her fiancé John Winters of Oxford; four grandchildren, Aimee Washburn of North Oxford, Jessica Ramsey of Oxford, Richard Boucher of North Oxford, and Joshua Duso of New Hampshire; four great-grandchildren, Julianna Tancrell, Logan Barnes, Olivia Kowalik, and Kaisen Ramsey; and many nephews and nieces. He was predeceased by two sons, John R. Duso who died in 2002, and Robert M. Duso who died in 2014; a brother, John Duso; and his son-in-law, Wesley Ramsey who died in 2014. He was born in Worcester on July 5, 1929, son of the late Stephen and Ora (Chauvin) Duso, and was a lifelong resident of North Oxford. He was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean War.

Mr. Duso was a heavy equipment operator for R.H. White Construction in Auburn for 44 years, retiring in 2000. In addition, he was a member of the Oxford Fire Department for 25 years, retiring as lieutenant. He was a member of St. Ann's Church in North Oxford.

The family would like to thank Laurie, Angela, and Kelly, for the exceptional care they gave to Armand.

A funeral will be held on Friday, July 7, 2017, from Paradis-Givner Funeral Home, 357 Main St., Oxford, followed by a Mass at 10:30 a.m. at St. Ann's Church, 652 Main St., North Oxford. Burial will follow at North Cemetery in Oxford. Calling hours are Thursday, July 6, 2017, from 5-7 p.m. at the funeral home.

Eleanor C. (Gentili) Foster, 89

QUINEBAUG — Eleanor C. (Gentili) Foster, age 89, formerly of Poulin Drive, died Tuesday afternoon, July 4, 2017, at Hartford Hospital. She was the loving wife of the late Arville D. Foster. Born in Cambridge, she was the daughter of the late Arthur and Edith (Menkello) Gentili.

Eleanor worked for many years as an inspector for American Optical. In her younger years, she was employed at a publishing company in Dallas, TX where she used to reside.

Eleanor enjoyed traveling with her sister and brother in law Elaine and Bob, crocheting, and her pet schnauzer Sheena. Displaying her handiwork at local craft fairs and sharing her crafts with her friends as gifts brought her much joy. She was a member and past president of the Putnam Senior Citizens.

Eleanor is survived by three sisters, Rose Angelo of Webster, Maizie Gelineau of Wallingford, and Elaine Boulanger of Northborough; and many nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by a brother, Arthur Gentili Jr.

Relatives and friends are invited to visit with Eleanor's family from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Monday July 10, 2017, in the Gilman Funeral Home, 104 Church St., Putnam followed by a prayer service in the funeral home at 11:30 a.m. Burial to follow in St. Joseph Garden of Peace Cemetery, Webster.

Memorial donations in Eleanor's memory may be made to St. Jude Children's Hospital, Tribute Program, 262 Danny Thomas Place, Memphis, TN 38105 or the Humane Society, 2100 L Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20037. For memorial guestbook visit www.GilmanAndValade.com.

Edward A. MacKay, 94

NORTHBRIDGE — Edward A. MacKay, age 94, of Forest Street passed away Saturday, July 1, 2017 at home. He was predeceased by his wife, Rose M. (Limanek) MacKay in 2011.

He is survived by his daughter Karen and her husband Richard Lapierre of Oxford, 4 grandchildren; Allyson Bulger, Crystal Crossman, and Jon Lapierre, 8 great grandchildren; Cassidy, Kylie, Jagger, Ryan, Sarah, Claire, Isabella, and Maddox, as well as several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by a grandson Keith Lapierre, a brother Robert, and a sister Adelia.

Born in Boston on July 26, 1922 Edward was the son of John and Meta (McMillan) MacKay both emigrants of Nova Scotia. Edward had lived in the Northbridge many years working for the former Hayward Schuster mills for over 30 years, after his retirement he worked as a security guard for the Worcester Common Outlets, and Greendale Mall.

Edward proudly served in WWII for the U.S. Army Air Corp., as a radio operator, spending much of his service time in Italy. He loved airplanes, cars, and tinkering with small machinery. He was a devoted husband, father, and grandfather who served his Country in the name of peace, may he now rest in peace.

Edwards funeral services will be held at the convenience of his family following cremation. To leave a condolence message for his family please visit: Jackman Funeral Home | Whitinsville MA, Uxbridge MA, Douglas MA funeral homes

SAN DIEGO CA — James "Jim" Guerino Polletta passed away at his home in San Diego CA.

Jim is survived by his mother, Emma Surette Polletta and the late Guerino Polletta; a sister Cheryl Polletta Konop of Pasay AZ, a brother, Jerry Polletta, his children Jason and Jessica and his favorite grandson Gavin all of San Diego.

He also leaves an aunt, Rose Polletta Silvestri, and Edith Polletta Oliosi of Buzzards Bay, an uncle, Louis Polletta of Thompson and leaves many cousins in this area.

Jim was a quiet gentleman. He held a very good job in California for many years. He also was very sports minded, he entered many bicycle tournaments even in Hawaii one year.

A sanctuary lamp was lit for the week of April 16-22 at St. Louis Church, Lake Street, Webster. Please pray for him.

James 'Jim' Guerino Polletta

Eric Stanmyer, 67

NORTH OXFORD — Eric Stanmyer, age 67, of North Oxford passed away on July 4, 2017 at the UMass Memorial Medical Center after complications following a ruptured abdominal aortic aneurysm.

He leaves his wife of 33 years, Christine (Hoffmann) Stanmyer; three children: Alexander Stanmyer and his wife, Natalie Susmann, Elise Stanmyer, and Jeffrey Stanmyer and his fiancée, Miranda Bethune; mother, Patricia Blake; brothers Thomas and Robert and their wives Susan and Constance; sisters-in-law, Anne, Emmy, Rose and her husband, David; and a dozen nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by his brother James, his nephew Mica, his father Joseph, and stepfather Buck.

Eric was born in Philadelphia but moved along the East Coast many times as a child, his family ultimately settling down when he was as a teenager in New Paltz, New York. He attended Clark University in Worcester and returned to Massachusetts later as an adult where he met his wife. Together they have lived in North Oxford for over 30 years.

As a young man, Eric worked many odd jobs, including stints as a taxi driver, a camp counselor, and an employee at Dedrick's Pharmacy in New Paltz. Eventually, Eric settled into a long career of software engineering. As an engineer, he worked at several technology companies including Prime Computers and Kronos. For most of the past decade Eric has worked as a contractor at the MIT Lincoln Laboratory doing work that he found to be exciting and intellectually fulfilling.

Eric enjoyed the outdoors, particularly the mountains and ocean; reading, most notably science journalism dealing with questions of the universe and science fiction; learning about different cultures, especially through their cuisines; and spending time relaxing at home with his family.

Visiting hours will be held from Sunday, July 9, 2017, from 1-3 p.m. at Paradis-Givner Funeral Home, 357 Main St., Oxford, concluding with remembrances by family and friends at 3:00 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that a donation be made to the Appalachian Mountain Club, 5 Joy Street, Boston, MA 02108, or via their website www.outdoors.org/tribute-paradisfuneralhome.com

Free Yoga Classes for Cancer Patients — Restorative yoga classes for cancer patients are offered weekly and are open to patients, survivors, and their families or caregivers. Classes are held every Saturday morning from 8:15 to 9 a.m. at the Oxford Community Center, 4 Maple Road, Oxford, and on Wednesdays from noon to 1 p.m. at Saint Vincent Cancer & Wellness Center, One Eaton Place, Worcester. The Restorative Yoga program is a complementary therapy that is designed to help reduce lymphedema, increase range of motion, and soothe neuropathies that may occur during all stages of treatment and recovery. This program also promotes relaxation, which is a vital element in healing, as it brings emotional and physical relief from stress through moving meditation and gentle yoga stretches. These programs have been made possible through PinkHippy.Org, a 501(c)(3) non-profit holistic service and support organization that serves breast cancer patients, survivors and their families throughout Central MA, Northeastern CT, and Northwestern RI. Classes are free for those undergoing treatments or in recovery from breast cancer.

For more information please visit www.pinkhippy.org, call (508) 987-3310, or send an email to info@pinkhippy.org.

NUMISMATICS: The Nipmuck Coin Club meets at 6:30 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month at the Oxford Senior Center, 323 Main St., behind the Oxford Town Hall. For more information, contact Dick Lisi at lisirichard15@yahoo.com.

TWICE AS NICE: The Central Mass. Mother of Twins is a non-profit club to benefit those who are raising multiples and provide support and an outlet. The club meets from 6:30-8:30 p.m. every first Thursday of the month at the Oxford Community Center to discuss twins-related issues and have relaxing events such as movie nights and outings to take the children to and or your spouse or just for Moms. Anyone who is a childcare provider to multiples is welcomed and the meetings are held on the second floor of the building of the old school house.

HELP FOR HELPERS: Do you have a family member struggling with addiction or alcoholism? You are not alone. Join Families Helping Families Support Group. Meetings at Dudley Senior Center every first and third Monday of the month, 6:30-8 p.m. We spend so much time with our addicted loved one, that we become victims ourselves. Join us. It's informal, confidential, with tough love advice from the heart, sharing of resources, hope and hugs.

HOLISTIC HEALTH: Chair Yoga and so much more every Tuesday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at The First Congregational Church, 135 Center Road, Dudley (please park and enter through the right side basement entrance). Class Fee: $5/class voluntary contribution (Cancer patients always free). Proceeds donated to the First Congregational Church of Dudley. Instructor: Joanne LaLiberte, Holistic Health practitioner. This class of chair yoga is to expand the lungs and strengthen all the body's major muscle groups, for stability and mobility, balance, increasing flexibility, muscularity of hip and legs and increasing range of motion with our "rear view mirror" twists. We work through the entire body, quieting the nerves, relieving stress, realigning posture and we leave renewed. Chair yoga is open to adults of all ages. It is kept light-hearted with respect for every member of the class. We honor the body as it is right now and work to improve its overall health. We come to class as individuals and leave as family. Get to know yourself through the eyes of chair yoga and build a body that serves you better. Wear comfortable clothing. As with any exercise program, check with your healthcare professional before starting.

Stay Motivated To Stay Fit

Trying new workouts, such as hybrid velocity training, is one way to drive healthy habits.

(NAPS)

Staying motivated to work out can sometimes seem like a daunting task. It's easy to prioritize other things ahead of your fitness routine. It's no surprise that researchers have found that lack of motivation is one of the leading causes of inactivity.

"Committing to a healthier lifestyle doesn't have to be as challenging as it might seem," explained exercise physiologist and Bowflex Fitness Advisor Tom Holland. "Trying different motivational techniques is crucial to living a healthy lifestyle, as fitness isn't one size fits all. Finding what inspires you can help set you on the path to success."

Here are four ways to stay motivated to live a healthy lifestyle:

1. Mix up your workout routine. Do you get bored doing the same workout day after day?

Varying your routine and incorporating new and different exercises can refresh and re-energize your workout. You'll also be less likely to hit a weight loss plateau. For example, you can switch up your routine by adding the Bowflex HVT machine (www.bowflex.com/hvt) to the mix. The HVT machine offers hybrid velocity training, which combines cardio and strength training into one effective workout. In about 18 minutes, this machine can deliver the calorie burn of running 1.5 miles, and up to five times more muscle activation than traditional strength training.

2. Bulk up your health and fitness knowledge. Knowing how to exercise properly and being educated on nutritious foods are essential to fitness success. One way to stay focused is to ensure that you're effectively working toward your health goals. In fact, the recent Bowflex

Customer Success and Motivation Survey found that health and fitness tips were one of the most important tools for fitness success. These can be found through a variety of resources—from personal trainers and doctors to fitness magazines and healthy-living blogs. One example is the Bowflex Insider blog (www.bowflex.com/blog), which offers expert advice to help readers lead a healthy, active lifestyle. The blog covers topics such as workouts, fitness tips and healthy eating for readers in every phase of their fitness journey.

3. Set goals and track your progress. Setting attainable and measurable goals is key. For example, try starting out with a 20-minute workout, three times a week. Tracking your progress also helps keep you excited and working toward your goals. This can be as easy as using a machine that features tracking software or downloading a fitness app. The Bowflex BXT216 treadmill (www.bowflex.com/treadmills) features Bluetooth connectivity that lets you track your progress, set goals and win awards with the Results app. The app also integrates with other popular fitness apps such as MyFitnessPal, Apple HealthKit, UA Record, MapMyRun and Endomondo.

4. Work out with a friend. Studies show that people who work out with a partner are less likely to skip workouts and more likely to work out harder. Having a workout partner can keep you accountable and encourage you to push yourself further. The next time you head to the gym, try taking a friend or family member. If you can't find someone to work out with, sign up for a community sports team or talk to someone new during your next group fitness class.

Sale ends 7/15/17. Purchase any new or used vehicle and we'll give you a discount equal to your first 6 months of payments. Payments total will be deducted from selling price and payment not to exceed $300/month. Cannot be combined with any other discount or promotion. Price based on MSRP/Sticker price and has no cash value. Not valid with prior sales. Price reflects all applicable manufacturer rebates and private offers including $500 for active military, $1,000 as registered U.S. driver, $500 down payment matching program. Price is based on retail purchase with additional dealer discounts including a $2,000 Imperial Trade Assistance Bonus for qualifying 2007 or newer trade. Advertiser price does not include tax, title, registration, documentation or acquisition fees and cannot be combined with any other discounts or promotions. Our FORD TAG specials are available exclusively through our phone and internet department. Not responsible for typographical errors. Not valid with prior sales. Call our internet team at 800-526-AUTO to see which rebates you qualify for.

"I had the best experience ever. Fran was the perfect salesman. He made me feel comfortable and didn't pressure me at all. The entire sales team was nice. I will definitely be back and tell my friends and family about Diamond."
