A good time for some good news

As members of the es racing through city streets, too much focus on dreary and depressing statistics reporting how many have infected by the COVID-19 virus and how many have died. A steady diet of television news right would be enough to leave any viewer with the impression that the very fabric of our society is crumbling away around us. Anyone who has been out of the house during this outbreak, however, has seen that nothing could be further from the truth. There is another side to the COVID-19 pandemic that has been tion. Individual tales of generosity and goodwill have been popping up across the country recently stories of landlords foregoing the collection of rent from tenants who are home without pay or insisting that the hard hit businesses who rent space from them pay employees first; stories of neighbors buying groceries and supplies for the elderly couple next door; of parents organizing food collection drives to ensure that families in need are able to keep food on the table for children whose schools have temporarily closed. Every day, in every community across the nation, ordinary people are stepping up to the plate to combat the negative impact of COVID-19 with kindness.

Just last week, we received a phone call from someone driving down Main Street in one of our own local communities who saw a group of children writing messages of encouragement and affirmation on the sidewalk with brightly colored chalk because it was something they felt they could do to help the people of their hometown stay positive and keep their spirits up. We were so moved by this extraordinary act of selflessness on the part of those so young that it inspired us to seek out similar displays of goodwill. All of us could use some 'good' news right now, and we are asking you, faithful readers, to

Dudley officials take precautions against OVID-19

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – The COVID-19 pandemic is forcing major changes to municipalities nationwide, and Dudley is no different. In only a week's time, the town was forced to shut its town hall to the public to help curb the spread of the virus which, as of this writing, had yet to yield a single positive case in the small town. However neighboring Charlton experienced its first positive case which served as a sobering reality for Dudley that the virus is a very real threat right on the town's doorstep.

Town Administrator Jon Ruda said the COVID-19, or coronavirus, threat has forced many towns to limit access of public offices to the public. Dudley followed suit with neighboring towns by restricting access to town offices but is not shutting down completely. Citizens will still be able to get ahold of essential personnel and even participate in meetings, but from afar.

"Within the last week, we have locked the doors to the town hall, but town hall offices remain open. There's a reporting authority through the Department of Public Health to local Board of Health. We also have a standing conference call with neighboring towns on a weekly basis," said Ruda, who noted that the Charlton case hasn't changed Dudley's approach or preparation. "We've always known it was close otherwise these orders would not be in place. I think if we continue to take the necessary precautions and continue to use common sense and remain vigilant the threat is no greater this week than it was the week before.'

For the foreseeable future, Dudley will be embracing the Zoom app, a resource many towns and organizations are using to communicate and network during this time of social distancing.

OXFORD - Just before most things shut down, Oxford selectmen got a look at next year's $41.9 million town budget and its biggest related proposal: a $15 million debt exclusion for roads.

Showing selectmen a chart, he said things slide to a score of 55 by 2031 and 48 by 2044 if just using Chapter 90 funds. By contrast, a debt exclusion would enable improvement to 72 in the first five years and 78 in the second, after which it slips lightly but remains more

DPW Director Sean Divoll dubbed the concept "a plan to really make a splash in improving our roads.'

Over the course of 15 years, taxpayers would be asked to fund three $5 million installments to upgrade roads, with money being paid back over 25 years. As it is now, the town uses whatever it gets in state Chapter 90 funds (around $500,000 per year), and has added $500,000 to that sum for the last couple years.

Divoll said that level of spending is only enough to keep the roads at their current level, while using only Chapter 90 funds (as many towns do), "we fall off the cliff" in terms of road condition. Right now, he said, the average road condition score is 61 on a 0-100 scale, which he described as "a tipping point."

or less stable.

"It's easier to keep a good road good that to reconstruct a roadway," he said, comparing it to the difference between doing routine house painting and having to replace boards due to deterioration. "... If we go the $15 million route, we're basically touching every road in town" by 2032, either doing basic maintenance or full repaying.

Town Manager Jen Callahan noted they'll have public forums on the plan before asking Town Meeting to vote on it as a stand-alone warrant article. Afterward, it'll go to the town ballot.

Town Meeting is slated for May 6, but dates for the entire budget process are

All Saints Academy embraces online learning

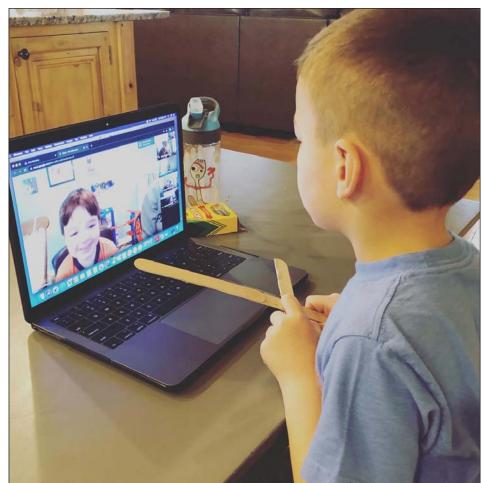

WEBSTER—Last week began a new adventure for All Saints Academy. While the COVID-19 pandemic has forced the nation – and the world - to assimilate a new lifestyle of social distancing and staying home, it has also brought families together in support of one another. For ASA students and teachers, this new lifestyle brings familiar faces of friends and teachers together in virtual classroom meets, as they progress with grade level learning.

The virtual education being presented by the teachers is a continuation of the curriculum and learning once held in the physical classroom. ASA teachers have developed their own skills and collected a myriad of tools and resources to create engaging online lessons, record and post video clips, and re-establish routines familiar to students in these virtual classrooms. Careful thought and purposeful planning are aimed to achieve and maintain the same level of expectation for learning the students (and parents) have come to expect from All Saints Academy.

All Saints The Academy faculty and staff worked quickly and collaboratively to develop an implementation plan, communicate that plan to families, and begin virtual learning on Monday, March 16. It was a complete team effort with everyone working toward the same goal.

Teachers and staff members are going above and beyond to support and carry on the learning, to keep spirits lifted and students focused on education, while simultaneously providing an outlet for socialization with their classroom friends. The administration and faculty are mindful of striking the balance between screen time and other/outdoor activities,

Dudley puts emergency operations into action

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY - As the COVID-19 pandemic continues to be a concern statewide the town of Dudley is working to stay ahead of the virus by utilizing its emergency response plan and resources as effectively as possible.

Less than a year after the town updated its emergency operations plans in the wake of the Webster tornado of 2018, the community finds itself facing a new challenge. one that spans the entire country. Emergency Management Director and Dudley Fire Chief Dean Kochanowski said that the COVID-19 virus, also known as coronavirus, possess a unique obstacle considering that it's not a one-off situation that can be resolved in days. It's a long-lasting situation that could take weeks or months to manage.

"I've never seen anything like this only because it's so widespread. When you talk about a tornado or storm cleanup, yeah, it's a matter of days but it's confined and it's a black and white scenario. You can pretty much mitigate the situation when the storm is over. This is different. There's so many unknowns out there and it's going to take a lot of agencies that are far above us to figure this out," Kochanowski said.

While as of this report no cases of COVID-19 have been reported from Dudley, the first case has been recorded from neighboring Charlton in a situation that also involved several emergency responders from the town. With that in mind, Dudley is working to make sure it uses its resources wisely.

"We have a regular stock of supplies, but we really didn't have any extra supplies so we're kind of in the same situation that the hospitals are in as far as masks and gowns. We're being required to wear them obviously on every call now. If we don't find ways to conserve, we're going to run out which is going to be a problem," said Kochanowski.

He added that the fire department is considering having a donation box on hand to allow people to support the departments needs if they wish.

"We're talking about setting up a drop box in front of the fire station, so people don't have to come into the building to respect social distancing. The other thing is people are putting their hands on the box. It's difficult to completely eliminate any physical contact in that sense," he said.

Dudley has partially opened is Emergency Operations Center, or EOC, which allows the town to take certain steps to help stay prepared to fight off the virus and will help with reimbursement efforts when the pandemic ends. Kochanowski also acknowledged that both the president and governor are taking steps to help increase the supply of resources.

"We're just waiting for that supply chain to come in. We should start seeing it fairly quickly now," said Kochanowski.

Despite the first case in Charlton and the potential shortage in supplies Kochanowski said Dudley is persevering and has not changed its approach. He noted that while the ultimate goal is to keep emergency personnel from coming into contact with a potentially infected person on calls, they will continue to get the job done in spite of the risks.

"I don't think anything is a perfect system. I think all of the communities around us are embracing safe practices, but first responders are going to have a higher exposure rate. It's a given regardless of how many safety measures you take. (The Charlton responders) were doing what they were supposed to be doing and it's just one of those things that happened. We're all practicing the safety measures, but I just think because of the nature of our job we always have that risk," Kochanowski said, Speaking about what the public can do to help ease the burden on medical personnel and to help prevent the spread of the coronavirus pandemic Kochanowski said the social distancing and hand washing recommendations are key and that the orders of the governor and professionals should be taken seriously. He also said that citizens should think before calling an ambulance. Obviously for serious medical conditions you should not hesitate to call an ambulance as quickly as possible as you normally would. If you are experiencing cold or flu like symptoms notify your personal care physician first, a directive that was passed down from Gov. Charlie Baker's office, to avoid overwhelming hospitals.

Charlton sees first positive test for COVID-19

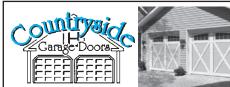

BY JASON BLEAU VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON - The COVID-19, or coronavirus, pandemic has hit close to home with the first recorded case in the town of Charlton.

On Wednesday, March 18, town officials were notified of the first positive case of the virus after three EMTs were exposed to a patient who was later tested for the illness. The positive case was confirmed on Tuesday, March 17, and the following day, a call from St. Vincent Hospital in Worcester informed officials of the situation prompting the three EMTs to be self-quarantined for fourteen days. As of this report none of the EMTs were confirmed to have contracted the virus during the call.

The Charlton Fire Department released a statement on their Facebook page confirming the reports and discussing the measures being taken to help protect first responders during the pandemic.

"In an abundance of caution, even before being notified of this exposure, the fire department took extreme measures to isolate all shifts in a 'proverbial vacuum' so that there is no cross contact amongst the four working shifts. The administrative staff has been relocated offsite, working remotely. This was done to minimize exposure opportunities running through the department. We have also updated our response to include every patient receiving a surgical mask prior to interaction with the EMTs. We are also providing additional personal protective equipment for our staff to wear during respiratory calls. Sanitizing of all apparatus is happening after every response for service," the statement read.

The revelation of a positive case capped off an eventful week for Charlton as the town followed suit with countless other communities across the state and country by closing town office buildings to public traffic and imploring residents to practice social distancing and proper hygiene to curb the spread of the virus. Charlton Board of Health Chair Matthew Gagner said the town has been working all along with the assumption that the virus was in the area and acknowledges that things progressed quickly even before a confirmed case was announced.

'This, in a way, made some of the residents more aware of the situation. The Board of Health has been very aware of it and we were taking it very seriously before it hit us. It's become our world for the last month. We saw it coming but I just think this will make residents in town more aware that it is here, it is a real issue. Hopefully they'll practice the social distancing and I think they'll be more cautious. It's not something somewhere else, it's right here in our communities," Gagner said. "The town of Charlton is very well prepared. We've had a plan in place for a situation such occur. We've always had an emergency response action plan. Charlton was well stocked up with gloves and masks and personal protective equipment that other towns are running short on and we've been able to supply mutual aid to local doctors offices and even other towns in the area as needed.'

Town Administrator Andrew Golas said having a positive test in Charlton doesn't change much from his perspective either. Charlton has used the governor's recommendations and orders as well as the advice of medical professionals to their advantage to try and stay ahead of the pandemic and they plan to continue to embrace these practices as long as needed to prevent the continued spread of the illness.

"The result of having a positive case hasn't changed anything. We've been operating using the governor's orders and looking to other towns as well but obviously having a positive case in town is not a great thing. We're just trying to get the public information out there about the fact that it is close, and we want to do everything we can to mitigate the situation and keep it from spreading further," Golas said.

Board of Selectmen Chair David Singer released a statement to the public in the wake of the positive test urging the community to remain calm and touting the town's preparedness as the pandemic has become a much clearer reality. He also urged the community not to change who they are, but only how they interact to help stop the spread of the virus without sacrificing Charlton so great.

"The people of Charlton have always supported and watched out for one another. Knowing the people of this town that's not going to stop. Call your neighbors to check in and make sure they're okay. If you know a senior offer to help if you can. They may need someone to run and get groceries for them or may need a ride. Call in a take our order from any of the restaurants owned by our friends and neighbors. Together we can, together we will!" Singer said.

He also urged citizens not to panic as many in the country have done in the past few weeks by raiding grocery stores and hoarding supplies.

There's no reason to run to the store and buy all the food and supplies in sight," he said. "There is no shortage of food or supplies. There is simply a shortage of manpower to unload trucks and restock fast enough. Buy what you need as you normally would, and there will continue to be plenty to go around.'

With Charlton having its first confirmed case Harrington HealthCare Systems has announced the temporary closure of the urgent care facility in Charlton recommending all patients go to the Oxford urgent care site at 78 Sutton Ave. instead. While the confirmed case from Charlton did not originate from the Charlton facility, the company decided to close the facility due to declining patient volumes and the increased space for patients in Oxford. The company has set up a coronavirus hotline at 508-765-8191.

Country Bank donates $250,000 to four local Hospitals

WARE — Country Bank announced today it has donated $250,000 to four local hospitals to help assist with the work they are doing for their patients as they fight the COVID-19 pandemic.

The hospitals receiving donations include Baystate Health in Springfield, Harrington Hospital in Southbridge, UMass Memorial, and Saint Vincent Hospital in Worcester.

"We are so grateful to Country Bank for its most generous support and appreciate its continued partnership during this unprecedented time. This gift will directly support resources needed at Baystate Health as we continue to address and prepare for the care our community needs as we face this worldwide pandemic," stated Scott Berg, Vice President of Philanthropy, Baystate Health, and Executive Director, Baystate Health Foundation.

"These are challenging and ever-evolving times as we face uncertainty regarding the COVID-19 pandemic. As a community partner, we care deeply about our communities, and we wanted to support our local hospitals to help ease their financial burden as they continue to offer exceptional care to our friends and neighbors in the region," stated Paul Scully, President, and CEO at Country Bank.

Community health centers call on Baker for COVID Relief

WORCESTER—The Edward M. Kennedy Community Health Center (Kennedy Community Health) and the Family Health Center of Worcester (Family Health) announced today that they are in full support of the Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers' letter to Governor Charlie Baker seeking immediate and substantial financial relief in order to avoid a partial or complete collapse of the state's largest primary care network.

As the two largest health centers serving Greater Worcester, Kennedy Health Center and Family Health are responsible for the health care for over 50,000 local residents. The health centers are on the frontlines of the COVID-19 crisis, and have redeployed resources and staff to assess and care for patients with urgent health care needs.

"We have transformed our operations to respond to the coronavirus crisis, while continuing to serve the health care needs of the people who live and work in our community," said Stephen J. Kerrigan, President and CEO of Kennedy Community Health. "Dealing with this pandemic has the potential of crippling both our financial sustainability and workforce." Community health centers work within a tight financial model caring for the needs of low-income, vulnerable individuals and families.

"We have alerted the Governor to the significant impact of this epidemic on front-line providers at Community Health Centers," said Louis Brady, President and CEO of Family Health. "We protect the health the entire community and need the resources to continue this critical public health work."

Both Worcester health centers have set up screening and isolation tents or mobile structures to assess patients' risk for COVID-19 and coordinate appropriate treatment or offer quarantine guidance. The health centers have shifted many services to telehealth appointments to protect both patients and staff from the risk of exposure to the coronavirus.

"We are relying on the Governor to hear the pleas of the largest primary care group practice in Massachusetts," said Kerrigan. "Without financial assistance over 1 million Massachusetts residents will have no access to health care during this crisis and in the foreseeable future."

Aquarion's water service will continue during COVID-19 outbreak

 OXFORD — As COVID-19 continues to affect communities across its New England service area, Aquarion is committed to doing the essential work needed to ensure safe, reliable water service for customers during these challenging times, while also protecting the health and safety of its employees and customers. Aquarion has implemented several measures to limit in-person employee interaction in its facilities, including a work-from-home requirement for employees who can do so, as well as enhanced cleaning measures at its facilities.

"Aquarion prepares for emergencies on annual basis, and is currently operating under its staffing emergency response plan and emergency pandemic plan," said Aquarion President, Donald Morrissey.

"We are well prepared to meet our customers' needs for the essential service Aquarion provides."

Aquarion has taken measures to alleviate any financial concerns its customers may face by:

Suspending customer shutoffs for nonpayment, late fees, and security deposits

Assisting customers with its financial support programs

Reminding customers about Aquarion's online portal which allows them to easily check their account, pay their bill and more at their convenience

Warning customers of increased scam activity due to the COVID-19 outbreak - customers should be wary of any unsolicited calls that threaten to shutoff water service and that demand payment by unusual means.

From an operational perspective, Aquarion is:

Curtailing any nonessential planned including non-emergency, work, in-home appointments

Making sure all our field resources and support staff continue to be ready in vice throughout its service area. the event of an unscheduled water service disruption not related to COVID-19

Additionally, Aquarion has enacted measures and guidelines for employees to ensure its workforce remains ready to serve customers and maintain its water infrastructure, including:

Postponing employee travel, canceling large meetings and business gatherings

Requiring employees who can work remotely to do so, reducing in-person interaction

Creating new procedures – including cleaning protocols – so that employees who must work from our critical facilities can do so safely

During these challenging times, Aquarion is committed to safeguarding the health and safety of its customers, employees and the communities it serves, and ensuring that it continues to provide safe and reliable water ser-

Second Chance Veterinary Hospitals remain open for serious medical needs

NORTH BROOKFIELD

-Second Chance Animal Services is committed to keeping the doors of their three Community Veterinary Hospitals open for pets with nowhere else to turn.

As CDC recommendations heightened last week, the hospitals doubled efforts to minimize exposure so they could continue caring for pets that needed them. By last Monday, as schools made plans to close, so did the other veterinary care options provided through local schools that offer veterinary care at reduced rates for those in need.

CEO Sheryl Blancato

hasn't gotten much sleep in the past week as she followed the flow of directives from local, state and federal officials to help combat the COVID-19 pandemic. Blancato knows how important it is to keep the doors open.

'We founded our first hospital because many pet owners had nowhere to turn for veterinary care they could afford," she said. "Now our three hospitals are carrying the caseloads of other area hospitals that have already suspended operation.

Last Monday, Second Chance began putting additional restrictions in place to help mitigate the spread of the Currently, pet virus. owners are met in the parking lot where they wait while their pet is seen. Doctors and owners conduct the visit via phone and the pet is returned to the car along with any medications if needed. Thursday was the Adoptions continue but with significant restrictions that only allow one family at a time to see pets, with cleaning in between. This is helping to find homes for our pets, who have already been through so much, while keeping people safe."

Last week, the nonprofit announced the postponement of several vaccine clinics and their 21st Annual Dinner Auction, originally scheduled for March 28. The major fundraiser, which provides critical funding for all programs, has been rescheduled for May 9 but hope is dwindling that the event will be able to take place at that time.

Blancato knows she and her staff won't be getting much sleep in the days ahead as they work to find new ways to continue to help.

"My heart is breaking for everyone who has been and will be affected by this pandemic. We have to do what we can for the animals who might otherwise suffer,"

she added.

She said she's already seen an increase in emails and calls from pet owners worried about being able to afford care for their pet in these uncertain times, and knows that will increase in the months to come, adding more strain to an already impossible situation. If you would like to help by making a donation, visit Second Chance Facebook or website: www.secondchanceanimals.org. You can also mail a donation to Second Chance Animal Services, 111 Young Rd., East Brookfield, MA 01515.

in limbo due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Callahan said the overall budget calls for a 2.58 percent increase, with 60.5 percent coming from local taxes and 32.5 percent from state aid. Half of the total goes to fund the schools, 19 percent to employee benefits, 9 percent each to DPW and public safety, 6 percent to other aspects of general government, 4 percent to debt, and smaller amounts to other areas.

Under Proposition 2.5's limits, the maximum tax levy increase is about $602,000, and she cited several areas of potential new revenue or savings. Among those are PILOT agreements with solar arrays, marijuana host community agreements, and savings from the town's conversion to LED road lights and other efficiency methods in buildings. She added she also wants to see better efforts to collect about $1 million in back taxes and/or auction of those properties, and better enforcement of various laws and permits.

We're on a really good road to putting money toward our bottom line,' Callahan said.

Part of that involves putting aside money "for a rainy day" by investing in infrastructure and adding to the Stabilization Fund. As recently as 2017, that account had less than $300,000 in it; her goal for fiscal 2021 is $1.34 million, aiming for the state's recommendation of 5 percent of the budget by 2024.

In specific areas, Callahan is proposing budgetary shifts. Among them are things to help update the town's capacities by improving software and reducing the sheer quantity of old documents being stored; adding $40,000 to fill the vacant planner/economic development director job; adding $124,000 to create a fourth shift fire department position (plus contractual increases); increasing animal control salaries by $20,000 and DPW salaries by $150,000; and setting aside $126,000 for a new math curriculum. Among the items in her roughly $1.5 million capital budget are town building improvements, replacing several vehicles, paving North Cemetery, park improvements, a Main Street sewer feasibility study, and demolishing the Joslin School annex.

Finance Committee chair John Eul said Callahan is also looking into the town's overall salary structure and job descriptions to avoid seeing skilled folks go elsewhere and having to hire three or four people to replace one. He praised her grant work, Divoll's efforts to lease two multi-purpose trucks to replace four single-use trucks, and other money-saving methods.

"We got into a lot of the minutia ... so when we get to the community, we can say we recommend and it makes sense," he said.

Nyla is currently in the 4th grade. There are no concerns about Ny-la's behaviors in school. Nyla states that she'd like to be a math teacher or hairdresser when she is older.

Legally freed for adoption, Nyla will thrive in most any family constellation with older children or no other children in the home. Nyla must be placed in a family who can allow her to visit with her biological siblings and possibly her maternal grandmother who live in western MA. There is an open adoption agreement in place for 3 visits a year with birth mother.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

LEARNING Nichols College postpones Commencement exercises

DUDLEY — Nichols College has announced it will postpone its annual Commencement exercises on May 2, in accordance with government mandates aimed at containing the transmission of COVID-19.

Nichols President Susan West Engelkemeyer, Ph.D., informed the graduating class in a March 17 email, saying, "Per CDC and state guidelines, it is with a heavy heart that I inform you that our May 2, 2020 Commencement Ceremony is postponed."

This week, Gov. Charlie Baker announced a prohibition on gatherings of 25 or more people, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued new recommendations to cancel or postpone events of 50 or more for eight weeks.

In her message, President Engelkemeyer also promised graduates an opportunity to commemorate their academic achievement at a future event, with details to be determined.

"There will be a day that I will proudly, and with great joy, recognize this milestone in your lives," she added.

In addition, Nichols is planning to create a virtual event for May 2 in acknowledgement of the Commencement Ceremony that was scheduled to take place at Worcester's

DCU Center.

The college recently announced it was moving exclusively to online course delivery following this past week's spring break until at least April 3 and offering campus housing only to those students unable to return home. "It is truly impossible to

"It is truly impossible to express how very sorry I am that your final semester has been disrupted in such a profound way," Dr. Engelkemeyer said to the seniors, referring to the cancellation or deferment of in-person classes, and activities such as spring athletic events and travel opportunities. "For many of you and your families, I remember being there the day you moved into Shamie or other residence halls. And I fondly remember shaking each of your hands as we came together during fall orientation. You are all in my heart. Please know it aches for you."

As the ever-changing situation develops, Nichols is keeping open various channels of communication to the students and the entire campus community.

About Nichols College

Nichols College is a college of choice for business and leadership education as a result of its distinctive career-focused and leadership-based approaches to learning, both in and out of the classroom, and through impactful research and professional education. Students thrive in a learning and living environment that is supported by an experiential business curriculum and a strong liberal arts foundation aimed at transforming them into tomorrow's leaders. Nichols also offers Master's degrees in business, leadership, accounting, and counterterrorism, as well as a range of certificate programs, to promote career advancement for today's professionals.

LEARNING COVID-19 outbreak prompts changes at St. Joseph School

WEBSTER — Upon hearing the announcement from Gov. Baker that due to COVID-19 schools in the Commonwealth would be closed until April 7, St. Joseph School responded swiftly to maintain the continuity of education for its students.

On Tuesday, March 17, families retrieved textbooks, learning packets containing student assignments and reference material, as well as electronic devices such as iPads for fifth grade students and Chromebooks for all students in grades six through eight. Although there was a slight learning curve associated with the sudden transition to on-line learning, PreK through eighth grade classes are now up and running virtually. Teachers continue to utilize the Google Classroom Platform, already implemented at the school, and incorporate other functions such as Google Hangouts Meet for easy to join classes and videos. As the school approaches the end of its third quarter grading period, teachers and staff are working with families to maintain a constant flow of information. Like most schools, challenges have included families' access to the internet, as well as students' and parents' levels of ability with respect to technology. However, the St. Joseph School community has rallied together to overcome these challenges.

Principal Michael

Hackenson encouraged families in a recent communication stating, "As we move forward, we understand that this new method of delivering our lessons will not be perfect because we are all entering uncharted waters. However, SJS has the appropriate, staff, materials and technology in place to meet these challenges. We ask everyone to remember that John 14:27 tells us "Do not let your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid. We are all in this together! There is no issue that cannot be resolved or challenge that we cannot overcome if we faithfully work together."

St. Joseph School and St. Joseph Basilica are also working to provide additional support to families and the local community during this crisis. Services include a COVID-19 situation page on the school's website that highlights information such as how families can set-up a learning space in their home, Google Classroom tutorials for parents, and where families can receive meals if needed. Please visit: https:// www.sjs-webster.com/ school2/covid-19-information/ In addition, St. Joseph Basilica is streaming Sunday Mass on the Basilica website at https://www.saintjosephbasilica.com/ Mass times include Sunday Vigil – 4 p.m., Sunday – 7 a.m. (bilingual), 9 a.m. (English), and 10:30 a.m. (Polish). Finally, although the school is unable to provide site tours at this time, prospective families are invited to take a virtual tour of the school by visiting: https:// www.sjs-webster.com/ school2/virtualtour/ or calling 508-943-0378 for more information.

School officials provide update on COVID-19 outbreak

LUNCH SERVICE TO CONTINUE

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY/CHARLTON - While schools have remained closed throughout the duration of March and into April in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District has been hard at work communicating with parents about the outlook for the remainder of the school year and what services remain at their disposal. Superintendent Steven Lamarche released a statement to parents in the district confirming that all schools are closed to the public "until further notice," calling the pandemic a "surreal time in our lives" that has brought real struggles to families across the commonwealth. As learning has transitioned to the home environment, the superintendent said the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District is facing many of the same struggles that families and districts across the country are managing as the United States works to respond to the outbreak. Part of the response has been to make learning opportunities available as of March 20 on the school Web site to guide the learning process away from the classroom.

"I want to reiterate a few important guiding factors associated with these learning opportunities. We cannot replicate the school day for all of our students and the learning opportunities are ungraded. The work is not mandatory, and we will not administer tests or quizzes. These factors are critical as we are not providing direct instruction to all of our students and we do not have the capacity to provide direct instruction to all of our students during this extended school closure. Our efforts and factors are the same as many, many districts across the Commonwealth. said Lamarche.

news for parents in terms of school meals and payments of services for families. With school meals, students will continue to have access to food through the school district through the Free and Reduced Grab-n-Go program.

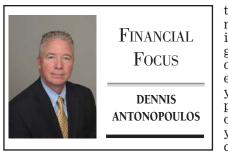

"This will take place at Shepherd Hill Regional High School for Dudley families and Charlton Middle School for Charlton families. From 11 a.m. through 1 p.m., we are asking parents/caregivers to drive to the pick-up location. A staff member will ask for a student(s) name for confirmation purposes only. From there we will place 3-4 days of food in your vehicle," Lamarche said. "(This will continue) Mondays and Fridays until further notice. Again, we know that some families and caregivers may now qualify for free and reduced meals. We will work with you, but all we ask is that you provide the staff member with a completed application when we provide you with food." The superintendent also announced that the district will not be accepting any more payments for services from families including outstanding balances. These will resume when school is back in session. He added that should the shutdown extend past the end of the school year in June then a prorated or full reimbursement program for payments already made, including preschool, athletics and other student activities is in the works.

For now, the district is resorting to a 'skeleton crew' with many employees

While the learning experience may have been drastically altered by the pandemic, Lamarche offered some good transitioning to a home model of communication and work. Any questions or concerns are best communicated through email for the time being. As the COVID-19 pandemic continues to take its toll Superintendent Lamarche reminded parents and all residents to follow the guidelines of the CDC and other agencies and to contact private care physicians if they feel they have been exposed or are experiencing symptoms of the virus.

Know the four uses of cash

It's important to have cash available for your everyday spending and the inevitable rainy day. However, you also need to develop a cash strategy that can contribute to your long-term financial success. But just how much cash do you need? And in what form?

To answer these questions, it's useful to look at the four main uses of cash:

• Everyday spending – Your everyday spending includes the cash you use for your mortgage, utilities, groceries and so on. As a general guideline, you should have one to two months of living expenses available during your working years, and perhaps a year's worth of living expenses when you're retired. (The latter can be adjusted higher or lower based on your income from Social Security or a pension.) You'll need instant access to this money – and you need to know your principal is protected – so it may be a good idea to keep the funds in a checking or cash management account.

• Unexpected expenses and emergencies – If you needed a major car repair or a new furnace, or if you incurred a big bill from a doctor or dentist, would you be able to handle the cost? You could – with an established an emergency fund. During your working years, this fund should be big enough to cover three to six months of living expenses; when you're retired, you may be able to get by with one to three months' worth of expenses, assuming you have additional sources of available cash. You'll want your emergency fund to be held in liquid vehicles that protect your principal, such as savings or money market accounts or short-term certificates of deposit (CDs).

• Specific short-term savings goal(s) – At various points in your life, you may have a specific goal – a new car, vacation, wedding, etc. – that you'd like to reach within a year or two. Your first step is to identify how much money you'll need, so think about all the factors affecting the final cost. Next, you'll need to choose an appropriate savings vehicle. You could simply put more money in the accounts you use for everyday cash, or even in your emergency fund, but you would run the risk of dipping into either of these pools. Instead, consider opening a separate account – and tell yourself this money is for one purpose only.

 Source of investment – You can use cash in two ways as part of your overall investment strategy. First, cash can be considered part of the fixed-income allocation of your portfolio (i.e., bonds and CDs). Because cash behaves differently from other asset classes - such as stocks and bonds - it can help diversify your holdings, and the more diversified you are, the less impact market volatility may have on your portfolio. (However, diversification can't guarantee a profit or protect against all losses.) The second benefit of cash, in terms of investing, is it's there for you to purchase a new investment or to add more shares in an existing investment. In any case, you probably don't want to be too cash heavy, so you might want to keep no more than 10% of your fixed-income assets in cash.

As you can see, cash can be valuable in several ways – so use it wisely.

A much needed time for renewal

Another winter is on its way out, and warmer, longer days are finally here. As March turns the corner into April, the dawning of the season of renewal is perhaps more welcome this year than ever before in the shadow of the Coronavirus outbreak, and we thought this would be an opportune moment to reflect on some of the things that make us grateful for the arrival of spring.

While each season has its own perks, there is something about spring that seems to surprise us each year. We re-acquaint ourselves with our yards as they slowly reveal themselves as the snow banks melt away, and we welcome the sight of our lawns and tree branches once again sprouting green.

Another phenomenon that comes with spring is 'spring fever.' In modern times this is a semi-positive term. Back in colonial times, however, 'spring fever' referred to the poor quality of health everyone was in after sustaining a winter without fresh vegetables and proper diet. Today's 'spring fever' will have children restless in school, new romances transpire and people attacking their homes with dust cloths and Windex.

Experts say the changes that a person goes through during the springtime are due to hormonal changes in the body. During the winter months, the body secretes a large amount of melatonin, (the sleep hormone). The presence of more sunlight in spring sends the body a message to stop producing as much melatonin. This causes folks to be more awake. Add this to the uptick in your serotonin levels due to the sun light, and you will not only be awake, but enthusiastic. To touch on a bit of history, as we are wont to do, the month of April is derived from the word 'Aprillis,' which in turn is derived from the word 'aper-ire,' meaning "to open." This makes perfect sense, as the world becomes abloom again in spring. With everything once again blooming and warm, sunny weather ahead, we hope all of you out there have an opportunity to stave off stir craziness during this outbreak by stepping outside to feel the sun on your own faces, inhale a deep lungful of invigorating air, and enjoy a much needed sense of renewal.

Letters to the Editor

Concerning the Webster ConCom's 25-foot setback bylaw

To the Editor:

I am the past president of the WLA (2002-10) and a Professional Engineer who has worked on the Clean Air and Clean Water Act since the 1960s when Environmental Science was in its infancy. My opinion is my sole opinion. I am not representing any group, including the WLA, or individuals.

In 2002, the WLA was formed to scien-tifically identify the problems with the Lake, and then to seek out remedies to correct these problems. To accomplish this goal, the WLA had to raise awareness and money. Once funded, the WLA hired experts to not only survey the problems but to lay out a plan for implementation.

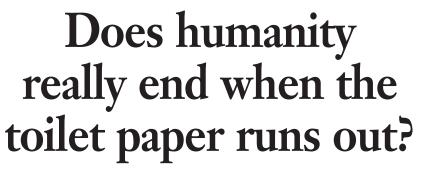

To keep the funding flowing for the past 18 years, the WLA had to make progress, keep the people informed not only of the progress but how they could contribute by educating them in various areas affecting the watershed. They responded enthusiastically and continue to support the WLA programs where it counts, with funding and participation.

The ConCom has concluded that other towns have better bylaws than Webster and that by emulating them the Lake would be far better. The truth is just the opposite. The WLA has one of the best, if not the best, Water Quality Monitoring and Invasive Control Programs in the country. The WLA is known nationally and sets the standard for other Lake Associations.

Therefore, I oppose the Webster ConCom's proposal. The 25-foot setback bylaw will make it more difficult and expensive for lakefront owners to take care of their property, especially with the new species of invasive plants that are encroaching just above the shoreline. I also believe that the existing policies and fees are too punitive and expensive and need to be reconsidered and reduced.

The people along the Lake are the first line of defense against potential problems. They should be treated as allies, rather than adversaries. They have an admirable record. Please see: https:// www.wlassociation.com/lake-management

I have a friend since high school named Karen. She was a smart and focused student, a cheerleader ... very popular but always a kind soul. We lost touch through the years but reconnected when, to her surprise, she saw my name on a book at Barnes & Noble. Karen was always engaged and helpful. Raised by kind parents. she was always one of those people who were ... well, just that way.

Being prepared is admi-rable, while hoarding is only selfish.

Last week, I wrote a column that I thought would be whimsical, but by the time it went to print was not. There are people in serious need of the basics of life. No, not having toilet paper may not be life threatening, but a lack of food items and basic products for disinfection are. If you have a little to spare, please share. Call your local house of worship, food pantry, Salvation Army or any organization who can help get these into the hands of someone in need. Be inspired by the kindness and willingness to share that Karen, and many like her have displayed.

Even police must take precautions everyone As aware, is the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has declared a state of emergency and has urged other agencies to take action to prevent the spread of the COVID-19 virus. As a police department, it is impossible for our employees to cut off all contact with the public. We will continue to respond when and where needed to provide service to the residents. We serve a vital role in the community and we want to try and remain illness free. Therefore, we must respond to this situation with some changes.

In general, officers will not be responding to medical calls for breathing/respiratory problems, unless it is a life-threatening emergency or other exigent circumstances exist. We will allow the ambulance personnel to respond exercising the necessary precautions. When our officers are in contact with members of the public as well as one another, we encourage them to use what has become the newest catch phrase, "social distancing." This means to stand six feet or so from one another to prevent any spread of a virus. We are encouraging our officers to wipe down common areas such as doorknobs, counter tops, computers, and phones. This is a good practice for everyone to follow, even at their own home. We should make it a habit to wash hands with warm soapy water, for at least 20 seconds, after each public interaction or as soon as practical.

Symptoms of the virus include, but are not limited to, fever, cough, shortness of breath, and body aches. We ask anyone with possible symptoms of illness to call for assistance rather than reporting to the department in person. The department business line is 508-943-4411, Option 0. We will be processing firearms applications on a limited basis (subject to change, of course) and are able to meet with members of the public on official business. However, if you were planning to come in and feel any symptoms of illness, please do not enter the building unless it is necessary. Please call instead. If matters can be delayed to a later date, we will make e arrangements. Everyone is encouraged to use "social distancing" to avoid close contact, minimize shaking hands, and avoid people who are coughing or sneezing. If you feel you must cough, do so into your arm and away from others. People should also avoid large groups if possible. Many of the impacts of this disease are unknown, however; it is believed to effect seniors and those with underlying health conditions the most. If you are in one of these categories, please take extra precautions to avoid exposure to illness and call your doctor if you experience symptoms. Whether or not you are in one of the categories of concern, always be cognizant of your condition when visiting with others. You do not wish to spread viruses and germs to others at risk. Pay attention to local, state, and federal health department updates as the situation develops. Hopefully we will be back in full swing soon with as limited an impact as possible. Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, MA 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com. Opinions expressed in this weekly column are those of Chief Wojnar only and unless clearly noted, do not reflect the ideas or opinions of any other organization or citizen.

Sunday morning, Karen rose early and headed to the grocery store in her small Michigan town. She had a plan to arrive as the doors opened and get the few items she needed and did. Toilet paper was on her list and she bought the only package left ... a package of eight rolls. She, like most of us, was surprised by the empty shelves. She bought what she could and headed out of the store and to her car. In the parking lot, she encountered an elderly man, visibly upset. Karen asked if he was okay.

"My wife and I are out of toilet paper. I've been searching for days. I don't know what to do," the troubled old gentleman explained.

He didn't know what to do, but Karen did. She broke open the package of eight rolls and tried to give him half. He would only accept two, and was touched to tears. He didn't have to leave empty handed because of the generosity of Karen Tyson. She, and others like her, give me hope and optimism in a time wrought with despair and pessimism.

We still live in the richest nation in the history of the world. Is it truly necessary for some of us to survive, that others must go without?

No.

"We have nothing to fear but fear itself." - Franklin Delano Roosevelt

When fear sets in, irrational behavior begins. Saturday, I witnessed a man and a woman struggling in the aisle of my local store over a bottle of bleach. There's really not a shortage of bleach, there is only the fact that some bought more than they needed and left others without. The same with hand sanitizer. I've seen some on social media bragging about how much they have while others are driving all over town and can't find a single bottle. I personally know of a 65-year-old man with cancer who is at high risk and can't find a single bottle anywhere.

No. I am not asking you to share what you need for the survival of the next few weeks or month, but please examine your heart and ask yourself if you have a little to spare. I believe the supply chain of these items will catch up with demand sooner than later. The shelves will soon be filled again. That's the beauty of capitalism. Just look into your heart and pantry and see, like Karen, if you can graciously give a little to help someone who is in need.

Keep your eyes open. Most people in need will never ask. Karen saw a man who was distraught and asked him. Will you do the same? Do you have elderly neighbors? Will you stop by and check on them? See if they are in need?

Be kind ... be optimistic ... and pray.

If you have nothing to give, share a kind and encouraging word. Do not take part in the negative gloom and doom conversations. Be uplifting and encouraging in public and in private, if you are so disposed ... please pray.

We've always been a nation that looked out for our neighbor and pitched in to help where we can. Yes. These are unprecedented times, but we will survive then thrive. And besides ... I am old enough to brag that I have survived at least ten endof-the-world predictions. I'm optimistic the world will survive this one too.

Turkey bunting tactics

Will life ever be the same again? One good thing that sportsmen have in their favor is that hunting and fishing in the great outdoors is available 24/7, with plenty of room for all. Massachusetts has been busy stocking trout in most area ponds that normally receive them. Local rivers and streams had not been stocked as of this past weekend, but should receive an allotment of trout this week. Check the Massachusetts Fish & Wildlife Web site for up to date stocking of trout in your area. The water is still cold and fishing for trout has been slow, according to some anglers. As always, power bait is the number one bait to fish with.

Wild turkey season is not far away, with this year's opening winter we had this year, an abundance of birds survived, as did other wildlife. Central Massachusetts has a large population of birds, far surpassing the Berkshires and areas north & West of the valley. Those areas were once the only place to hunt Wild Turkeys back in the day, but when the state started to stock some of the wild birds from New York and other states in the Blackstone Valley, their populations exploded.

Hunting tactics for harvesting a Wild Turkey have not changed much over the years, but more and more hunters are starting to use ground blinds, unnoticed by the keen sight of the wild turkey. They allow the hunter a lot more ability to move around in a comfortable chair, or just to sip on a cup of hot coffee while waiting for a big tom turkey to come strutting into your decoys. The blind also allows you to stay off of the ground decreasing an encounter with a nasty deer tick, which, by the way, have started to show up on my dogs in the last month, as well as day April 25. With the mild other residents' dogs. Today's ground blinds are easy to set up and are extremely light and cost around $100.

Using a box call to imitate a hen turkey is the most popular call among sportsmen to lure in a big gobbler, and is easy to use. Slate calls and mouth calls work extremely well, but do require a bit of practice. Many hunters have a hard time using a mouth call, which requires the call to be kept in their mouth for sometimes long periods, but when they are mastered they work very well.

When wild turkey hunting first started in Massachusetts, numerous seminars were held throughout the valley by some game call representatives like Quaker Boy, or professional turkey hunters from other states. There are very few seminars today, but some Fish & Game clubs should consider holding one at their club for first time turkey hunters, and even those that enjoy that have harvested a few birds. The hosting club usually has some great food available and even some video of past hunts. Hopefully, the virus that has caused so much health concern will be gone soon so that everyone can get back to their normal life. It is too late for turkey seminars this year, but hopefully, next year will be different

Charter boat captains are also going to get hit hard by the virus pandemic when fishing season rolls around. Boat captains that have sport fishing boats (called six packs) carrying six anglers or less, will not be hit as hard as the large charter boats that carry up to 40 or 50 people. They will basically be shut down until July or Åugust if things stay the same or get even worse. Private boat owners will still be able to fish unless we to are told to shelter in place.

Hope everyone stays safe and life will get back to normal soon!

God Bless.

Online antique education

ANTIQUES, COLLECTIBLES & ESTATES

What a difference two weeks can make. In my last column, I discussed upcoming flea markets as we started to see nicer weather. Now, with people staying at home and social distancing, many are looking online to learn something new. There are plenty of online options for those of you interested in studying about WAYNE TUISKULA antiques and collectibles.

If you want to do something informal, you can dig out your antiques and collectibles and research them. If you aren't sure what your item was used for, Google images may help you find a match on the web. Go to images.google.com and you can find other items on the web that look like yours. I recently had a piece I couldn't identify and found it was a gold-filled retractable toothpick using Google images. You may find a manufacturer's mark on some of your pieces and can research the company's history on the web. You can look up eBay sold prices if you'd like to find out what items like yours sold for. There are other research options as well, including worthpoint.com, liveauctioneers. com, invaluable.com, askart.com, artprice.com and artnet.com. Some of these sites do charge fees to access their databases.

There are plenty of videos about antiques on YouTube and other websites that you can view for free. Just remember that there may be inaccuracies, biases, or the video creator may be trying to get you to sell them your antiques and collectibles. So, view them with the healthy skepticism you would with anything else you find on the web.

If you are serious about learning more about antiques and collectibles, there are some distance learning courses that you can sign up for. Please use due diligence when choosing courses as I have no direct experience with any companies offering these courses.

Universalclass.com offers online classes on a wide range of topics. Their antiques and collectibles course costs $50, or $75 if you want a CEU credit. They also offer unlimited courses from their hundreds of offerings for $189 a year. Their antiques and collectibles course description reads: "How to Buy and Sell Antiques and Collectibles offers a highly successful approach to acquiring and selling antiques and collectibles for both fun and profit. This course incorporates many strategies of acquiring and selling desirable objects and pieces, with the goal of personal enjoyment and fulfillment." There are 15 lessons for both collectors and dealers

The Asheford Institute of Antiques offers an online appraisal course. The individual lessons may appeal to people who are interested in opening an antique shop, selling online or considering some other type of antique related career. I spoke with the Business Director at Asheford, Greg DeMarco. He said that they typically see an increase in people taking their courses during a recession, as people feel the need to learn more or make career changes. When I spoke with Mr. DeMarco, Asheford was seeing nearly a 15% increase in registration since the COVID-19 virus. Asheford Institute's website is asheford.com. DeMarco may see an uptick in business, but like all of us he hopes that the pandemic and the measures needed to contain it are short-lived.

I'll be appraising items for the Douglas Historical Society on May 3, provided there is no need to reschedule it. We will also be running an estate sale with many antiques in an Auburn, MA home and an online auction in Warren, R.I. when conditions allow. Our online Rutland estate farm auction has been temporarily postponed. Please see www.centralmassauctions.com for details on these and other events. Stay healthy, everyone! I look forward to seeing you at antique events soon.

Easy Easter Time Tips

Easter is right around the corner and the religious holiday, steeped in tradition, often creates the best family memories. Coloring eggs, early morning candy hunts, Easter lilies, and family tables heaped with festive fare, all make this spring celebration one of the most enjoyable holidays ever.

Few family traditions are more enjoyable than those that happen at Easter time. Read on for some fun and easy Easter related tips - from a new twist on tinting eggs to preserving potted lilies.

Bye Bye Bunnies: Do you have leftover solid chocolate bunnies? Here are some ideas to put them to good use:

Chop up chocolate and store in zip lock bags to use as chocolate chips in cookie batter, bouquet or corsage? It's easy to make them last almost indefinitely!

Ingredients: 1 pint powdered Borax (in laundry aisle); two pints cornmeal; covered cardboard box (a shoebox is ideal); fresh flowers.

Instructions: 1. Thoroughly mix borax and cornmeal. 2. Cover the bottom of the box with 3/4 of an inch of this mixture. 3. Cut flower stems about 1 inch long. Lay the flowers face down in this mixture. Spread the petals and leaves so that they lie as flat as possible. Do not place flowers too close together. 4. Cover the flowers with 3/4 of an inch of the mixture. 5. Place the lid on the box and keep at room temperature for 3 to 4 weeks. The flowers will stay summer fresh indefinitely.

Then stick the wet pieces onto the surface of a hard boiled egg. Keep placing tissue on the egg until it is covered. You may want to overlap the tissue pieces a little to cover the entire egg, or leave spaces to create a mosaic effect.

4. After the entire egg is covered, place it in an egg cup to dry.

5. When the tissue is dry, peel it off of the egg. The color of the tissue paper will have transferred to the egg.

Long Lasting Lilies: When your Easter lily has seen better days, don't toss it out! Your potted lilies can last for years to come if you plant them outside. To do: When leaves and stems turn yellow and or brown, trim them back and plant the bulb directly into the garden after the threat of frost has passed. For best results, plant the bulb in about three inches of good soil in a sunny or partial shade area. Top with another three inches of mulch, peat moss, compost, etc. (bulb is six inches underground). Water as needed. Keep in mind transplanted lilies won't bloom until next summer. Keep well mulched during the winter and next spring remove extra mulch to help lilies sprout up.

very firmly into the shape of a chalk stick, and roll up tightly in a strip of strong paper towel. Allow to dry approximately three days until hard. Remove paper towel and you've got homemade chalk! (Eggshell chalk is for sidewalks only.) Recipe can be doubled or tripled, depending upon how many eggshells you have.

Make candy coated popcorn: Melt chocolate and toss in freshly popped corn to coat. Allow to cool and harden before serving.

*Whip up an old fashioned mug of rich and yummy hot chocolate. For every cup of whole milk add four ounces chopped chocolate. Add a few drops of vanilla extract and a dash of sugar if desired. Melt on the stove on medium/ high heat, stirring constantly. When mixture simmers, turn to low and cover for three minutes. Stir before serving.

The town is allowing access to these meetings and providing information on how to log in on the town website while also posting the recorded meetings on the town's official YouTube channel.

'We have established a method of video conference so that if we did need to involve the public in our meetings, we have published the method that we use for the video conferences. In terms of regular meetings, the governor has issued an order that has waived the requirement for in-person participation of board members and access by the public. So, we continue to move forward and publish our video conferences on the town website and to broadcast them live on cable access TV," said Ruda.

He also confirmed that one particular meeting, a planned special town meeting to discuss the future of the Stevens Mill property, has been put on hold until April 17, and may be rescheduled

Tissue Paper Dyed Easter Eggs

Why not try a new twist on an old tradition? Using tissue paper to color eggs results in an interesting hue of pastels (and no more dye mess)!

Note: Did you know Celebrity Chef Bobby Flay recommends boiling older eggs rather than very fresh eggs, because it's easier to peel older hard boiled eggs than fresh ones?.

You'll need: Tissue paper in several colors; water, hard boiled eggs, small bowls or cups.

Instructions:

1. Tear the tissue paper into small pieces.

2. Put some water in a bowl. 3. One at a time, soak pieces of tissue paper in the water.

Dudley Board of Selectman Chair

Steve Sullivan said the new meeting format will take some time to get used to as will the inability for selectmen to interact with residents face to face.

He said the coronavirus situation has forced everyone to change how they interact almost immediately, but this will not prevent the town from providing services to residents in need to the interaction at the town hall with citizens when they come in and pay their tax bills or whatever they need to do. I think that at the state level the governor's executive order is proactive and allows the towns to go to remote video meetings where people still have the opportunity to join. It's just trying to stay ahead of things and I think with the governor's guidance we're pretty up to date in what needs to be done to keep

The selectman also commented that

Prolong Potted Lilies: Easter lilies are gorgeous plants, and with a few tricks you can prolong their life as a potted plant way past the Easter holiday.

If you are purchasing the plant yourself, choose a healthy looking plant with a few flowers in full bloom but with most unopened. Keep potted soil moist and place in a cool 60 to 65 degree room where it can get some indirect sunlight. Avoid direct heat and direct sunlight. Be sure the pot is on a saucer, and if it is wrapped in foil be sure the foil doesn't trap any water in the bottom of the pot. Help your lily last even longer by snipping off the pollen laden anthers from the center of the blooms.

Chalk it Up: Wondering what to do with all those eggshells left over from Easter? Why not be creative and teach the kids how to make sidewalk chalk? While you're at it, you can throw in a little recycling lesson!

Eggshell chalk: four to five eggshells, one teaspoon flour, one teaspoon very hot tap water, food coloring (optional).

Directions: Wash and dry eggshells. Put the shells into bowl or grinder and pulverize into a powder. Toss away any large pieces. Place flour and hot water in another bowl and add one tablespoon eggshell powder and mix until a paste forms. Add food coloring if desired.

Send questions and/or hints to: Take the Hint!, C/o the Southbridge Evening News, PO Box 90; Southbridge, MA 01550. Or E-mail KDRR@aol. com. again if the pandemic isn't resolved by home was definitely a wakeup call.

"You can check the news and see cases in New York, California, Italy, China, but to hear that it's in a neighboring community it does make you think about if it's here and we just haven't realized it yet. The geographical distance shrinks greatly when it's the next town over," he said.

Both Ruda and Sullivan are asking citizens to stay calm and to take the pandemic seriously, but not to forget the character that has made Dudley such a great community.

"Trust the experts and their advice, but above all we are a small town. Check on your neighbors. Check on your friends. Let's not forget who we are, where we come from and what makes Dudley that special place to live," Sullivan said.

"If residents need anything at all they should call the town hall at 508-949-8001 and we will do our best to make sure they get the services that they require," Ruda added. "I'd also urge them to gain internet access and to regularly and routinely get into the habit of looking at the town website, dudleyma.gov, for updates, declarations, orders and any way they can continue to gain access to services. We're still here working on a daily basis during regular hours. The phones work, the emails work and we're here to continue to serve."

The Town Administrator also acknowledged that many have reached out to the town hall seeking information on any local seniors or at-risk residents who may need assistance at a time where going out in public is a dangerous risk for them. Ruda said as of this report that no calls for assistance has been received by the town but that when the time comes those who want to volunteer will certainly be called upon.

"We are continuing to monitor the needs of the community. If we need (volunteers), we will absolutely take them up on that offer. If the time comes when volunteers are necessary, we will have that information on the town website,' said Ruda.

OBITUARIES

Julia H. Barbero

Julia H. Barbero died on Monday, March 23, 2020 in Webster with her daughters at her side after a period of declining health. Julia was born on February 21, 1924 in Willimantic, CT, the daughter of William and Bridget (Shea) Harold. Julia was predeceased by her husband of 38 years, Russell L. Barbero, her brother William F. Harold, and her sister Katherine M. Lariviere.

She is survived by two daughters, Mary-Lou and her husband G.Thomas Smith of Dudley, MA and Ann and her husband Edmund J. Tremblay of Tolland, CT. She is also survived by five grandchildren, Monica Fisher (Tim), Lauren Jordan (Craig), Timothy Smith, Sarah Sally(Peter), and Thomas Smith. She also leaves behind six great grandchildren, Gavin Vogel, Bridget, Charlotte, and Eric Jordan, Brady Smith, and Amelia and Peter Sally.

Julia graduated from Windham High School and Notre Dame de

Billings and his wife Jennifer of Oxford, his sister Donna M. Rudik and her husband Mark of Spencer, his former wife, Suzanne M. (Bissonnette) Billings of Lowell, his grandchildren; Zachary, Nicholas, Amanda and R.J., several nieces and nephews.

He was born in Worcester, the son of Norman C. and Mary T. (Dacey) Billings and was raised in Spencer. He graduated from David Prouty High School in 1971.

Kevin worked for 40 years in industrial ceramics for Saint-Gobain, Worcester, retiring in 2016. He worked hard to provide for his family and could always be found fixing something around the house, coaching or cheering on the sidelines of a game. Friends and family were a big part of his life. He was well known for his popin visits. He especially enjoyed being with his grandchildren and attending their sports events. He was an avid New England Sports fan, with tears in eyes as he watched the Sox win the World Series.

A Memorial Mass in Our Lady of the Rosary Church, Spencer and visitation in J.HENRI MORIN & SON FUNERAL HOME, 23 Maple Terr., Spencer will take place at a later date and at a time to be announced, due to the current health crisis and restrictions. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Spencer/E.Brookfield Little League, P.O. Box 101, Spencer, MA 01562.

Gerald "Tate" Dion, 88

Bernardette S. McBride, 71

Gerald "Tate" Dion, 88, of Dudley, died Wednesday, March 18, 2020 at home with his loving family at his side. Gerald was born on August 14, 1931 in Webster, MA. He is the son of the late Telesphore and the late Margaret (Lee) Dion.

He is survived by three daughters: Karen Dion of Dudley, Colleen Dion of Dudley, Kathi and her husband Sean Williams of Webster; his beloved granddaughters Julia Mary Williams and Olivia Mary Williams (who fondly know him as "Hippi"); many nieces and nephews and extended family. He is predeceased by his beloved wife of 42 years, Mary Alice DuPaul; and his siblings Arthur Lee Dion, Cherie (Dion) LaPierre, and Donald Dion.

Tate graduated from St Louis High School in Webster in 1949, and he proudly served his country in the Air Force during the Korean War Era. He held many jobs over his years but was most remembered as the owner of the Pickle Deli in Webster. Tate was an avid golfer and member at Dudley Hill Golf Club. His accomplishments over his life are too numerous to list, but he recently had renewed pride in being a founding member of the Nipmuc Water Ski club in the 1950's – as he taught his granddaughters to water ski this past summer. He loved his home on the water and opened his doors to anyone who wanted to spend time with him on the pond.

Tate and his entire family proudly celebrated his long sobriety. For over 45 vears, he carried the message of recovery, sobriety, and selfless love to so many. Those close to him know him for his many years, countless hours and selfless sharing in leading a sober life. He will be remembered as someone who always offered a helping hand, never judged and always appreciated the kindness he received from others.

Visitation is private due to the health crisis. A funeral Mass will be celebrated and burial with military honors will be held when it is deemed safe . Michael P. Goodwin, 24

OXFORD- Michael P. Goodwin, 24, died Saturday, March 14, 2020, after losing his battle with addiction. Addiction does not discriminate and is a heartbreaking battle. Michael was smart, charming, loved and energetic.

His sisters will remember their brother for his goofy personality and always making people smile, his love for chocolate milk, playing basketball in the garage, always listening to his music, and being hard-headed.

Michael will be missed by his parents, Phillip and Michelle Goodwin of Oxford; his beautiful daughter, Ava Marie Goodwin of Ocala; FL, his four sisters, Krystal Chemero and her husband Jason of Brookfield, Amanda Goodwin of Oxford, Chantal Goodwin of Wales, and Olivia Montlione of Dudley; his grandparents, aunts, uncles and many cousins.

Charitable donations in memory of Michael may be made to the Oxford Ecumenical Food Shelf, 4 Maple Rd., Oxford, MA 01540. There will be no calling hours. Burial will be private. Paradis-Givner Funeral Home is directing the arrangements.

dren, Elaine M. Hayward of Webster, Patricia A. Murray and her companion Clifford Huston of Spencer, and Thomas J. Abdella and his wife Mala of Oxford; her brother, William O'Reilly of Chatham; six grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and many nephews and nieces. She was predeceased by a sister. Ruth Savage of Oxford: a brother, Charles O'Reilly Jr. of Florida; and a grandson, Brian Hayward of will be need privately due to gather ing restrictions in Massachusetts. The family will schedule a public memorial Mass at a later date. Burial will be private at North Cemetery in Oxford.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the Jewish Healthcare Center Hospice, 646 Salisbury St., Worcester, MA 01609. paradisfuneralhome.com

Ronald A. Bachand, 68

OXFORD - Ronald A. Bachand, 68, of West Street, died Tuesday, March 17, 2020, in his home surrounded by his family and his loyal companion Gunner. He is survived by his wife, Joanne S.

(Kozicz) Bachand of Oxford; two children, Jason R. Bachand of Oxford and Danielle R. Feldman and her husband Jeremy of Southbridge; his brother, Paul Bachand and his wife Marcia of Dudley; his sisters- and brother-in-law; and many nephews, nieces, and cousins. He was born in Webster, son of the late Frank and Irene E. (Przystas) Bachand, and lived in Dudley before moving to Oxford in 1978. He graduated from Cole Trade High School in Southbridge, and served in the U.S.

Army. Ron was a construction foreman at P. Gioioso & Construction Sons Company in Boston for 35 years, retiring in 2014. Ron shared a love of cars with his son Jason and spent many weekends working on his car and attending car shows. He was a member of the Porsche Club of America and loved riding his Harley. Ron will be remembered as the most loving, supportive, and protective Papa to his children and the best brother ever.

A funeral Mass will be held at a later date at St. Ann's Church, 652 Main St., North Oxford. Paradis-Givner Funeral Home in Oxford is directing the arrangements.

Designing a beautiful garden for you and the pollinators

Courtesy — Gardener's Supply Company

BY MELINDA MYERS

You don't need a prairie or large lot to attract and support pollinators. A meadow or informal, formal and even container gardens can bring in bees, butterflies and hummingbirds to help pollinate plants. It's just a matter of selecting the right plants, adjusting your maintenance practices, and skipping the pesticides. Create your garden by converting a few square feet of lawn, garden bed or front yard into a pollinator-friendly garden. You may want to start by switching out part of an existing garden or container to more pollinator-friendly flowers.

Expand your planting options by converting a portion of your lawn into a pollinator garden. Outline the bed with a hose or rope. Remove the sod, add compost as needed to improve drainage and you'll be ready to plant.

Simplify and dress up your efforts by using an easy-to-assemble raised garden kit like the Pollinator Garden Bed (garden-kit like the Pollinator Garden Bed (gardeners.com). Its long-lasting cedar planks slide into aluminum corners to create a hexagonal bed. Get creative while increasing the garden's size by adding additional sections to create a honeycomb or other interesting design.

Mark the outline of the raised bed you select. Cut the grass short and cover with newspaper. Set your raised bed in place and fill with a quality planting mix. Mulch four to six inches surrounding the raised bed for ease of mowing and to eliminate the need to hand trim.

Once your planting bed is prepared, you're ready to plant. Include single daisy-like black-eyed Susans, coneflowers, and asters that allow visiting insects to rest and warm when sipping on nectar or dining on pollen. Add a few tubular flowers for butterflies and hummingbirds. They both like bright colors and can be seen visiting salvias, penstemon and nasturtiums. And don't forget the bees that are attracted to bright white, yellow, blue and ultraviolet colors. You'll find them visiting these and other blossoms like catmint, sweet alyssum and perennial geranium.

Include spring, summer and fall bloomers to keep pollinators visiting and well fed throughout the season. You'll enjoy the seasonal changes along with the color and motions the visitors provide. Include early spring perennials and bulbs to attract visitors in early spring as they search for much-needed food. Add fall flowers to help prepare them for winter or migration to their winter homes. Those in milder climates will want to add some pollinator-friendly flowers to support and attract pollinators wintering in their backyard.

Plant flowers in groups for greater

GARDEN MOMENTS MELINDA MYERS design impact and to reduce the energy pollinators expend when gathering nectar and pollen from one flower to the next. Provide plants with enough space to reach their mature size. Temporarily fill in voids with annuals like salvia, single zinnias and nicotiana that also attract pollinators.

Don't let all the plant and design possibilities overwhelm you into inaction. Gardener's Supply Company has plans for designing gardens to attract bees, butterflies and hummingbirds plus tips on keeping them safe in your garden.

Mulch the soil with leaves annually. It suppresses weeds, conserves moisture, improves the soil and provides homes for many beneficial insects.

Allow healthy plants and grasses to stand for winter. These provide homes for many beneficial insects and food for birds. Wait as long as possible to clean up your garden in spring. If needed, pile clippings out of the way to allow beneficial insects to escape these winter homes once temperatures warm. Then shred and compost the plant debris in summer.

As your gardens flourish, you will want to create more pollinator-friendly spaces. Your efforts will be rewarded with beautiful flowers, increased harvest and the added color and motion these visitors provide.

Melinda Myers has written more than 20 gardening books, including Small Space Gardening. She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" DVD series and the Melinda's Garden Moment TV & radio segments. Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

In these uncertain times Place Motor is doing all we can to provide a safe environment for our customers and employees while keeping those who really need our help our top priority.

The widening coronavirus outbreak is making it difficult for food banks, food pantries and soup kitchens to fulfill their missions at a time when they are needed the most.

School closures, job disruptions, lack of paid sick leave and the coronavirus's disproportionate effect on older adults and low-income families have further contributed to the demands placed on food banks.

Many families who were already food-insecure now find themselves with children out of school — children who ordinarily received more than half of their daily nutrition at school through free and reduced-price meals.

Food banks are seeing volunteers disappear and supplies evaporate as coronavirus fears mount. Food and cash donations have sharply decreased, even as the logistics of feeding the hungry have become more complex.

Your support is critical to our mission. Help however you can. Your donations of non-perishable food items help more than you can imagine.

We thank you for your contributions. Together we can work through this moment in history and come out stronger still.
