Bartlett senior talks his way to the top

TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — The last thing a lot of teenagers want to do is stand up and talk in front of a bunch of strangers.

Bartlett's Tyler Adolfo, on the other hand, loves it, and he's hoping that, and a little practice, will help him become best in the state.

Adolfo, a senior, has so far worked his way through four levels of the Lions Club annual speech contest and is just one of five teens left standing going into the finals in May.

"[Tyler's success] is a good mark for Webster, and Webster needs all the good marks it can get," said Webster Lions member John Kalinowski, noting Tyler's "very proud of being from Bartlett."

Adolfo said he first heard of the contest from his theater teacher, Mrs. Nasis, last year

"She's seen me speak before and knows I enjoy presentations, so we thought this would be a good chance for me," Adolfo said. But he noted public speaking is a bit different from theater. In theater, "you're putting yourself into a character" and expressing how you think they'd feel, but with public speaking, the goal is to "convey authenticity."

"It's more from the heart," he said. "You don't have to study body language," but acting experience can help.

In his case, he's done a year of theater, but been giving oral presentations of various kinds since 2015. His AP English teacher, Teri Hensel, has been particularly supportive, both in terms of teaching rhetoric and other elements of communication and in letting him practice in front of her various

Schools float third override quest

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — For at least the third year in a row, the Oxford School Committee is starting to talk about seeking an override to fund the schools.

The issue came up at their most recent meeting in a somewhat unusual context — discussion of a clause in the union agreement that allows teachers from outside town to bring their own kids into the district. To member Palmina Griffin, that triggers concerns of financial liability when the district doesn't get paid for them under school choice.

She objected to the fact this is allowed despite the "lack of money we have to service the children of our town. ...It pains me to look at this as a liability, but with the way our district is structured, it is."

Griffin cited a rough figure of $600,000 for the override, but added "I'm not even sure that's enough."

The Committee sought $600,000 last year and lost by about 300 votes, while an $800,000 override in 2017 got crushed by 700 votes.

"A week or two ago, we thought everything was grand," she said.

The district Web site (www.oxps.org) has a page for override information, but it was empty last weekend.

Business Manager Justin Leduc told the committee the district's proposed FY 2020 budget is currently "short about $240,000 from what the town has given us," which was a little more than $17.9 million. He sees some cuts that might help going into next year, including a reduction of $39,000 in rent at the central office, cutting a $10,000 summer central office staff person, a projection that school choice costs will drop next year, and the likelihood they'll see seven people retire. But the state's special ed "circuit breaker" payment is also falling by $58,000. He said Oxford's homeless student funding (under the McKinney-Vento Act) won't be affected, since that's being covered by "entitlement grant money."

Chairman William Spitz added that the board knew about that $240,000 shortfall and asked the administration to address it weeks ago, but "presently that has not been touched, and that's the problem." He noted that money is necessary to have "a bare-bones budget," and called for another budget meeting within the next couple of weeks.

Superintendent Elizabeth Zielinski said the governor's proposed budget includes a $45,000 increase in Chapter 70 general school aid for next year, but Oxford "takes a larger hit on school choice and charter school [costs] ... to the tune of $185,000." Although the governor's office "makes it sound good, everyone's getting hit," and she noted she and others are trying to work with legislators to fix the problem during the Legislature's budget process.

Ultimate Frisbee bringing Jewish and Arab teens together

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Frisbees are helping promote peace in Palestine.

Not just any frisbees, but the organized sport of Ultimate Frisbee, which Eben Weitzman described as "a highly competitive sport infused with a cooperative culture."

"It has baked into it this cooperative, constructive approach to conflict resolution" based on players talking out their on-field differences without relying on referees to arbitrate, he told a roomful of Nichols College students last week. "They know they don't always get the right result [for them personally], but they're committed to doing it this way."

Weitzman, a UMass-Boston psychology professor, plays the game. At a tournament several years ago, he overheard someone collecting used discs for Ultimate Peace and that opened a door to seeing the Israeli-Palestinian conflict in a whole new light. Since then, he and other American volunteer players have gone over there repeatedly to coach young players from three distinct, self-identified groups — Israeli Jews, Israeli Arabs and Palestinians — in Ultimate Frisbee and, more importantly, its "spirit of the game."

To them, the game's ethos might be a way to break down barriers in what Weitzman described as "a tremendously painful ... ongoing protracted conflict" in which the Jews see themselves defending their homeland, the Palestinians see themselves being oppressed, and both viewpoints "are very real to the people who live them," he said.

It's actually even more complex, Weitzman added. Israel has both Jewish and Arab citizens, with the latter having fewer rights than the former — but more than the Palestinians (residents of West Bank and Gaza), who are not citizens at all. He noted Ultimate Peace has found it particularly hard to get players from Palestinian communities because of the political barriers. They've only had three towns represented from there, versus seven Arab Israeli towns and a few more Jewish Israeli towns.

Ultimate Peace's efforts began in 2010 with a summer camp for teenagers in which they played games between the villages then purposely mixed team members, and finally had a tournament in which all teams were randomized. Over time, they've Garage bays take shape as the Dudley Fire Department project remains on schedule.

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Work at the Dudley Fire Department is coming along nicely, according to Fire Chief Dean Kochanowski, as the expansion to the building begins to take shape and work on the previous facility is underway.

The chief provided a brief update on the construction work during a meeting of the Board of Selectmen on Feb. 11, where he said the winter weather and unexpected soil issues have not hurt the project's timeline. The project is still slated to be complete by the end of the summer.

"Right now, we're pretty much on schedule for our projected end date of, I think, Aug. 12. They got an extension because of the dirty soil back a couple months ago and there was a couple of other things, but I think they're caught back up right now," the chief told selectmen. "They're a little behind on the roof section out back because it's got to be over 40 degrees, and it can't be raining for that glue to set, but they've been working on rough plumbing, electricity, they put in two new poles and they're putting the transformer pack in for the electricity to the facility."

Commuters on West Main

Street have likely noticed the extensive work taking place on the fire department which has continued to operate flawlessly during the construction. Ground was broken in the summer of 2018 after taxpayers approved $6.5 million to fund the low awaited upgrade. In late-2018, another $225,000 was approved do to the impact of unforeseen circumstances with soil issues and the electrical contractor backing out of the project. The project involves extending the facility into a new garage area while the old facility is revamped for new

Public hearing shines light on block grant goals

The Brandon Road area of Dudley is being included in the plans for local improvements should the town receive CDBG funding

BY JASON BLEAU
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – As Dudley prepares to seek block grant funding through the Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development, the town held a public hearing on Monday, Feb. 11 to discuss how the town plans to use the up to $300,000 it could receive.

Andrew Loew, a representative of the Central Massachusetts Regional Planning Commission, was on hand to discuss the potential for Dudley to receive the funds and the plans the town has decided to put forward in an attempt to justify being awarded the money. Loew explained that the grant program is very competitive, and that Dudley has two projects in mind if it receives the funding in 2019.

“The first one is what we’re calling the Jericho-Brandon Infrastructure Planning Project. What that project would do would be to hire a civil engineer to go out and comprehensively inventory, evaluate and prioritize improvements to the public works infrastructure in a neighborhood just north of the eastern part of the urbanized area of town just north of the Stevens Mill complex and passing through the immediate vicinity of the mill and service the mill behind the town hall,” Loew explained.

The intent of this project would be to assess the conditions of the area and prioritize any recommendations for future improvements in that region of the town. The Jericho-Brandon area includes Chestnut Street and surrounding roadways as well as Brandon Road which sits adjacent to the town’s library. It’s considered the oldest urbanized area in the community which makes it a fitting area of interest for the block grant program. As for the second project, Loew said that initiative would help the town on a much larger scale for future initiatives.

“The second project would be to do an ADA self-evaluation and transition plan. For that project the town would hire a consultant to evaluate town policies and procedures, buildings, parks and pedestrian infrastructure regarding handicapped access to develop a plan of implementation of improvements to those items,” Loew said.

The Jericho-Brandon Infrastructure Planning Project would cost an estimated at $205,000 and the ADA compliance initiative is estimated at $29,000.

The public input portion of the project brought to light several different concerns including some associated with the Jericho-Brandon segment of the plan. Walkability, including sidewalk access, was one major talking point while selectmen brought up the long-standing concept of increasing business viability in West Dudley. However, Loew made sure to explain that there are limits to how the block grant funding can be used and what kind of projects would serve as attractive initiatives for town to earn the money. The goal of the current proposals is to give Dudley the best chance to earn the funding and use it effectively on needed improvements that would benefit the town.

“One of the constrains of CDBG is you normally can’t work on a commercial or mixed-use area. It’s kind of primarily designed for residential areas. But ADA is one of the exceptions to that. So, once you have an ADA plan in place if you have a project anywhere in town that is serving an ADA related goal, so that could be a sidewalk improvement project, then you could try to get it funded through this program,” Loew said, later delving more into the limits of the funding.

“We kind of jerrymandered the project that we’re looking at for the infrastructure plan to fit the areas that are eligible under this grant program. We couldn’t serve the entire eligible area for cost reasons. We didn’t want to apply for something that was so much larger than they’re used to seeing as a planning project and they wouldn’t fund it,” Loew said. “So, what we’re looking at is from I believe Pine Street, Oxford Avenue, it goes down (next to the mill) and it gets very narrow and comes across West Main Street and essentially covers everything south of West Main and west of Schofield Avenue out to Prospect Avenue. We’re not looking at the infrastructure on West Main Street or Schofield Avenue because they’re really largely commercial streets so it’s mostly side streets in that area.”

If Dudley is picked for the grant program Loew said the grant would help fund conceptual designs and engineering as well as actual construction. These initiatives would be scaled to fit under this grant program. The ADA project is being prioritized because it has become a prerequisite for numerous grant programs.

Selectmen approved and supported the submission of the grant application. That document is due in March and awarded communities are expected to be notified this summer.

Dudley Police Chief praises officers for involvement in drug bust

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – The Dudley Police Chief is commending his officers for their part in a multi-agency drug bust on Friday, Feb. 1 that resulted in the removal of illegal narcotics and other items from a home on West Main Street in Dudley, as well as five arrests.

The warrant issued search took place at around 2:30 p.m. on Feb. 1 at 144 West Main St., where law enforcement officials located and seized narcotics including fentanyl, heroine, and “crack” as well as ammunition, more than $1,000 in cash, and prescription medications. The location was confirmed to be used for an illegal distribution of narcotics and was the result of investigations involving Dudley police and the Southern Worcester County Drug and Crime Task Force.

During a meeting of the Board of Selectmen on Monday, Feb. 11, the local officers involved were thanked by selectmen for their work with Chief Steve Wojnar complimenting everyone for their involvement in the investigation.

“It was a very involved situation, but I’m glad they were able to tackle it. They did a really good job. People don’t think there’s much going on around the area, but it continues to be a problem around here for overdoses and things like that,” the chief told selectmen. “There was a lot of surveillance and such that had to take place, but I think they put together a pretty solid case. They deserve a lot of credit for that.”

The Dudley Officers involved in the bust included Marek Karłowicz, James Annese, and Keith Remillard, who all assisted in the investigation as well as Sergeant Dean Poplawski and Officers Dave Carpenter, Chandler Boyd, Philip Megas, James Mastrogiovanni, and Luis Pacheco who assisted in serving the warrant. Four of the five suspects arrested on the scene were residents of the home and were charged with drug offences while the fifth was a resident of nearby North Grosvenordale, a village in Thompson, Conn., who was arrested through an out of agency warrant.

Chief Wojnar stated that while people may think drugs are not a problem in a small town like Dudley, they are a very real issue for most communities. While citizens would probably like to see such criminals taken into custody sooner the chief said the process is very involved and sometimes it takes patience to ensure the case is handled correctly.

“Sometimes, people get frustrated with these things too because they don’t happen right away. It takes time. It’s like anything else. Arresting somebody and convicting somebody are two different things so it’s one of those things where if you’re going to build a case on somebody you have to make sure you have pretty solid information,” said the chief.

FIRE STATION

purposes. While a lot of work, including new garage doors, can be seen from the outside, Chief Kochanowski explained that a lot of progress has been made inside the facility as well.

“The sprinkler system in the bays is (in the works). While the rough plumbing of it has been completed it’s not connected to anything.

They’re hopeful that we’ll be able to move the trucks over to that side at the end of March or the beginning of April so they can start the remodel of the existing station,” said the chief.

Once completed, the fire station project will expand the building to 18,500 square-feet and will include eight vehicle bays for ten fire vehicles. The older portion of the building will be transformed into living space and offices.

Dudley Water & Sewer eyeing three projects for 2019

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — It looks like 2019 will be a busy year for Dudley's Water & Sewer Department, with plans to explore numerous needed improvement projects in upcoming town meetings and budget discussions.

George Patrinos, the interim Water & Sewer Superintendent for Dudley, called these upcoming articles "imperative," with three major issues of concern set to be a part of upcoming discussions in the public forum. The first involves the town's active tanks.

"Dresser Hill and the Bates tank are going to be drained out and cleaned, pressure washed and treated. We're going to be putting in for two of those. That is mandated by the state. We have no choice in that. As a matter of fact, the ones we've done right now are just basic inspections and what they call light cleanings which is divers going in using vacuums to clean them out. That's been done regularly, but now it's time to pressure wash them and coat them," Patrinos said.

His department is working with the department of public works to only have to work on one tank a year with the first priority being the Bates Road tank. The work is planned for this August and will involve the complete draining of the tank and the complete recoating of the inside.

"We only have two pumping stations in town that are active stations and they're almost 24-7 now. We think we can keep everything up to snuff to a certain point while they do this. I'm expecting it to be a few days to complete it," Patrinos said.

The second article will be for communications. The town will be seeking an upgrade to the Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition system (or SCADA) that will bring the communication technology within the system and tanks into the modern day. Patrinos said the new system will be for every tank and station and will vastly improve how the department communicates with and monitors the tanks. He called this improvement as "must" for the town.

Finally, the third and most important item for 2019 is Dudley's Station #3. This station was the subject of recent discussions due to a well collapse that took place in 2014. The well had to be re-sleeved as a temporary fix and in January it was revamped again. Now the well is in such a bad condition the town can't avoid making major improvements. Patrinos said this need, above all others, is truly unavoidable.

"I've been in contact with the well drillers, and we think we can drill some test wells around that station," Patrinos said. "We'll probably do the excavating work ourselves and tie into the station that way to save ourselves some money, but it has to be done. There're no ifs, ands or buts now. If that well fails in any way, we have big problems and that well is our strongest well."

No price tags were presented at the meetings for any of the project, but more details are expected to be revealed in upcoming budget and town meetings.

St. Joseph LEGO Robotics team competes in State Championship

WEBSTER — On Saturday, Dec. 15, the St. Joseph School FIRST LEGO League (FLL) Robotics Teams competed in the Massachusetts (West) State Championship, also known as Robonautica, at Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI).

More than 470 teams competed in FIRST LEGO League robotics competitions in Massachusetts this season and 72 of the top teams competed at WPI. The St. Joseph School team was one of three teams representing Southern Worcester County. The towns of Mendon and Hopedale were also represented.

This year's challenge theme was Into Orbit. Therefore, in addition to competing with an autonomous robot that teams designed and programmed to solve missions, teams had to identify a real-world problem that exists during long-term space travel. The ultimate goal was to design an innovative solution that adds value to society.

The SJS team, also known as the Metallic Meteorites, worked with several local experts including Page Chiropractic Health Center, Central Mass Podiatry, Dr. Rebecca Kasenge, and Dr. Louis Kushner to develop a solution for a skin issue that astronauts develop on the tops of their feet during space travel. The issue, known as Lichen Simplex Chronicus, is caused by the use of foot straps and the load being shifted to the tops of their feet due to microgravity. The team named their solution, "Spock Socks." The solution incorporated an orthotic into a gel infused sock that provided support during exercise, as well as warmth and moisture to the skin.

The St. Joseph School team was named the Most Inspirational Team. This First Place Award celebrates a team that is empowered by their FLL experience and displays extraordinary enthusiasm and spirit at LEGO events and in the community.

During the presentation, the Master of Ceremonies stated, "This team recognized each other's strengths and sought out areas for improvement. Despite being a large team, they worked together to make sure everyone had a voice and input. Their dedication and enthusiasm helped feed not only their own learning, but helped feed their own community, too."

Congratulations to the team for applying the FIRST LEGO League Core Values at the competition and at school, as well as being recognized for the positive influence you have on others while serving the community. The team's discussion with judges of the time they spend at the local food pantry, assisting young athletes with developing their skills, and running clothing and food drives, certainly made an impression.

Team members include fifth grade student Paul Mankarios, sixth grade students Dale Boudreau, William Colebourn, and Lauren Gingo, seventh grade students Tessa McCabe, Noalani Perez, and Dominic Pigeon, and, eighth grade students Patrick Mahler, Remonda Mankarios, and Olivia Montione.

The team was sponsored by Leonard Montione and Nordic Shield Plastics, Oxford. They were coached by Beth & Joey Boudreau and Mariusz Macko.

Webster schools facing 4.2 percent budget increase

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — School officials are working toward a budget increase of 4.2 percent for the next fiscal year, with negotiations ongoing between the administration, school committee and town.

According to Business Manager Monique Pierangeli, the state is requiring Webster to provide a total net school spending of about $10.9 million, of which the town is "required to give us" $4.65 million. The rest can come in the form of routine pass-through costs, including plowing, health insurance, the treasurer handling payroll, and similar services.

"The community has treated us very, very well over the years," she said. "We're about 6 percent over net school spending [now]."

Still, since the district is "a turn-around district and we're making substantial gains," Superintendent Ruthann Goguen hopes town officials will be willing to give the schools more.

"Any significant cuts would mean programming [cuts]," she said. "...We're certainly not asking for anything over the moon."

Pierangeli agreed, adding, "We understand things are tight ... but I want to send a 4.2 [percent increase] downtown. ... It's a good starting point."

She described that figure as a number "we can live with and gives us room to grow."

Goguen said they looked into the three core areas the committee requested at a recent meeting — special education, extra-curricular activities and substitute teachers, adding $10,000 to the latter and $7500 for extracurriculars. In total, the changes to extracurriculars come to $62,376, and would cover almost all of the system's non-athletic activities, including such things as funds for drama, band and other transportation, cheerleading uniforms, and a new "e-sports club." Some of them are coming by shifting funds from high school heat, information technology and athletic transportation.

Pierangeli said the requests came from a sit-down meeting with representatives of those activities, some of whom had not submitted requests for years. Another key issue, union health insurance, is still being discussed with the town administrator, so she couldn't give details in public.

Bigger issues, however, still await state funding, with competing bills being filed by the senate and governor to address the long-term Chapter 70 funding deficit.

"It's not 100 percent there yet. Not [even] 5 percent there yet, but they're listening," Pierangeli said.

She summarized some of the proposed changes, which will hike foundation budgets over the course of seven years. In fiscal 2021, for example, it'll include goals for providing guidance and psychological services, which she sees as "a better way to spread the wealth. You won't just see high-need districts getting all the money." Beyond that, she added, the plan is to hike special education funding to 4 percent of foundation budget in fiscal 2026. She also predicted changes to the "circuit-breaker," the state's reimbursement program for special ed expenses.

Various changes in how things are being tallied and reported will help promote "more equity across the state," she added.

Pierangeli also announced that the district is seeking a Green Community grant to replace the high school boilers over the next three or four years "regardless of whether we have a building project." By the latter reference, she means the fact the district is also talking with the state about funding a major renovation of Bartlett.

In other business, the committee approved next year's school calendar, designating the start date for students as August 29 (Sept. 4 for pre-schoolers), and approved several field trips.

They also heard from several principals about their school improvement plans, asking them to provide clearer "benchmarks" to make it easier to document success. Chairman David Hurton cited a recent Commonwealth Magazine story that found two-thirds of the plans it reviewed "did not include any outcome measures," and most of those that did had issues with documentability. In some cases, he later added, you really "can't get a clearly defined measurement," but do need to target something.

Goguen said she feels these plans do have "clear benchmarks," but agreed to state them more clearly for the sake of "transparency."

In some cases, they're specifically score-related or defined by the number of kids getting into or out of a program; in others, they call for completion of a specific project, Middle School Principal Mike Zajac said. But other areas could use clearer numbers, and he said he'd provide them for his school.

School District alters substitute teacher policy

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY/CHARLTON – The Dudley Charlton Regional School Committee is implementing a new policy when it comes to substitute teachers in the district, changing how these educators are labeled while under district employment, as well as clarifying their pay-grade.

During a meeting in late January, the School Committee received a report from Vice-Chair Mary Antocci detailing updates to the substitute teacher policies throughout the district. Antocci is a member of the Policy Review Subcommittee, and said they decided to alter wording and other specifics in order to fit requests from the School Committee and make the district a more competitive employer.

“We did go back to the same verbiage (previously used). We had changed ‘long-term substitute’ to ‘extended employment’ and we went back to (long-term substitute) because that seemed to be the preference of the committee. We took the rate table out of the policy and that is going to be a separate set of rates that will be held in the superintendent’s office. That way, it doesn’t always have to come back to the school committee,” Antocci said.

The alterations also detail three classifications for substitutes with different skill sets and levels of experience. Substitutes will now be differentiated based on their level of education with the first classification being those with associates degrees or equivalent. The classifications also specify those with Bachelor’s degrees, masters degrees and certifications. Antocci said the goal is to make sure the district has a standard for putting the most qualified people in the right positions as needed. The changes also alter how long-term substitutes are paid when replacing a single teacher for an extended period of time and full-time substitutes will not receive health benefits where required by law.

A final major change alters how substitutes, especially long-term fill-ins, are paid. The policy now allows for a full year substitute teacher to be placed at a different peridium rate in certain circumstances. Antocci also detailed how the pay system has been altered with the goal of trying to make the Dudley Charlton Regional School District a more attractive location for substitutes.

“We increased the proposed substitute rates by $5, which makes us very competitive amongst other districts in our neighboring towns. There is a challenge that we do face aside from this and that is the antiquated way that we actually assign substitutes. Other districts near us have an automated system where substitute teachers can go on and choose which district, they want to work for at any given time whereas in our district they get manual calls and a lot of times the same substitutes get called and others don’t get called at all,” Antocci said. “It’s really kind of antiquated so at some point we should probably look at getting on board with the automated method and that would make us a little more competitive.”

The School Committee unanimously chose to accept the alterations to the policy after the first reading.

A teen opportunity wage is not an opportunity we should take

To the Editor:
With the minimum wage increasing, an idea has been floating around of a separate, lower minimum wage for teenagers. This idea has been brought to life in the form of two bills which have been filed in the state legislature, with one being sponsored by Worcester County's own Senator Ryan Fattman (R-Sutton), and co-sponsored by several reps who represent southern Worcester County, Rep. Mike Soter (R-Bellingham), Rep. Joe McKenna (R-Webster), and Rep. Peter Durant (R-Spencer)

While I understand the good intentions from which an idea such as this might spring, this is an idea which troubles me greatly. While the popular conception of teenagers in the workforce might be that they are working to make extra spending money, this is increasingly not the case. According to a 2017 report by the Mass Budget and Policy Center, average teen wages have contributed 7 percent of the total income of the average family in MA. For families considered low-income, or in the lowest 20th percentile, that number increases substantially, with teens contributing to 17.7 percent of the total family income. Teenagers are increasingly relied upon to provide income for their families, and reducing the wage that teenagers get will make things much more difficult for families around the state.

Another consequence to these bills, it will force older employees, who rely on these jobs to make ends meet to compete with teenagers who would be able to be hired at a cheaper rate. According to the Economic Policy Institute, 11.5 percent of the MA workforce directly benefited from the recent minimum wage increase. Not to mention, minimum wage workers have gotten older. In the US, 88 percent are over 20 years old and the average age of someone working minimum wage is 35. If the goal is to increase the amount of teenagers in the workforce, it may do that, but to the detriment of many of the workers already there.

This economy is nearing full employment. Because of this, there won't be a need for a special wage to coax businesses to create jobs for teens. I understand the concern of small businesses towards the recent "grand bargain" which raised the state minimum wage. However, there are many different solutions that can be discussed to blunt the impact upon the hiring ability of small business owners, such as small business tax credits. Let's not create a second class of worker when we don't need to, and let us not make it harder for the hundreds of thousands of employees already working a minimum wage to stay competitive in the job market.

SINCERELY,
TOM MEROLLI
MENDON

Answering your questions about the sex offender registry

CHIEF'S CORNER
STEVE WOJNAR

We are often asked to answer questions pertaining to sex offenders. Most people who have been convicted of certain sex related offenses are classified into categories by the Sex Offender Registry Board. I was asked to explain the difference between levels 1, 2, or 3 offenders.

The laws pertaining to sex offenders are contained in Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 6. In general, a person must be convicted by a court of law for a crime which meets the established criteria of a sex offense. The matter is then forwarded to the Sex Offender Registry Board for a "classification" hearing on the individual. These classifications are rated on a system which is based on a "risk to re-offend." Those determined to have a low risk of re-offending are classified as a Level 1. Those with a moderate risk are classified as Level 2's, and individuals determined to have the highest risk of re-offending are given a Level 3 designation. If the person is deemed to fit into one of the categories, they are then officially classified.

A great deal of the information for most of these offenders is available to the public. Only the information on Level 1 offenders is not available for public dissemination. People can request this information through the Sex Offender Registry Board or local police departments. There are designated forms to fill out to complete the process. It is important to note the information obtained about sex offenders cannot be used to commit crimes against those individuals. Section 178N of Chapter 6 states, "Information contained in the sex offender registry shall not be used to commit a crime against a sex offender or to engage in illegal discrimination or harassment of an offender." Penalties include, "not more than two and one-half years in a house of correction or a fine of not more than $1,000 or by both such fine and imprisonment."

The purpose behind this public notification system is to enhance awareness of the presence of these individuals in a particular neighborhood. The system is by no means perfect, however; it is far better than anything we had in place in years past. It is also important to realize there are many offenders who have not been classified or even more that have not even been charged with criminal offenses. As such, parents and concerned adults must stay vigilant when it comes to potential child predators. Registered sex offender information is simply another tool for people, especially parents, to use in their overall safety and protection plans.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, MA 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com. Opinions expressed in this weekly column are those of Chief Wojnar only and unless clearly noted, do not reflect the ideas or opinions of any other organization or citizen.

Under the weather

"How about this weather?" If ever there was an easy, non-challenging conversation opener, this is it. You can be in line at the grocery store, serving jury duty or pushing papers around at work - it doesn't matter where you are - this line never fails.

Everyone seems willing to talk about the weather. It's a built-in, slam-dunk, easy topic that allows complete strangers to either commiserate or celebrate, depending on the daily meteorological situation.

So, what is it with the weather? Why do we love to discuss, comment and re-hash it?

Weather is complicated, frustrating and ultimately uncertain. Weather breaks our hearts and lifts our moods and forces daily choices for everyone. Weather drives our decisions, affects our attitudes and makes fellow survivors out of strangers.

Weather is our most true common denominator. No matter what our life circumstances - student, professional, retiree - when you live in the same geographic area, you and your fellow community members have the weather in common.

Weather doesn't care about politics or sports teams or vacations or the date on the calendar. It is an equal opportunity annoyer and a great equalizer - everyone has to drive in snow, or dash to the car in the rain, or stand in long lines at the fair in the hot sun. Almost everyone has had a picnic cancelled, a vacation spoiled or a ball game rained out.

But weather is also the unexpectedly warm, sunny, sweet-smelling spring morning that causes smiles and banter with co-workers. It's the light snow flurries that add sparkle to early December and prompts holiday greetings between shoppers. It's the crisp, snappy feel of fall football games and the slow, sultry, humidity of summer evenings spent on backyard patios. It's the backdrop of every day of our lives.

So, what is it with the weather? Maybe we love the topic because it's universal. Maybe we love the excitement of something that will change - either for the good or the bad. Maybe it's that it is temporary and fleeting and something to either be withstood or enjoyed, knowing that it will not last. Maybe it's simply because weather is always with us...whether we like it or not.

Diaper Duty: This tip takes repurposing to another level!

Happy New Year! I am in Florida this time of year and where I am they are a little strict about plants. So I decided to prepare a nice pot of parsley for a nice, sunny kitchen window.

Put potting soil in the bottom of a pot, and then soak a baby diaper in H2O and place plastic side down. Add more soil and plant as usual. Works great!

Cooking in the cold is a hot trend - and this reader discovered a way to keep the chill out of your grilled grub:

Here's a tip for winter grilling: Take a pizza stone and place it on one side of your outdoor grill. Heat up the other side of the grill and the pizza stone will heat up via indirect heat. When some of the food you are cooking is done you can put it on an oven safe plate that's sitting on the stone and is being warmed by the heat, keeping your food warm in the cold weather until all of your food is cooked and ready to serve.

Be careful, the plate can get very warm depending on how long it sits in the grill.

This clever solution puts a new "spin" on clearing the air!

I'm new to the area having recently moved up from Florida for one reason - grandchildren! I enjoyed your recent column on aromatherapy and recently discovered a tip that solves an everyday problem and saves money.

To keep your bathroom smelling terrific, take a few drops of your favorite scent and put them onto the inside of the toilet paper tube. Every time the toilet paper is used, the scent is diffused.

It's cheaper than air freshener. Just reapply with every new roll!

This culinary rescue eliminates the hassle of soggy spuds!

Overcooked potatoes can become soggy when the milk is added. Sprinkle the potatoes with dry powdered milk for the fluffiest mashed potatoes ever.

I take a photo of my checked luggage and have it in my phone and in the pocket of my carry on. This came in so handy at the airlines once, and the agent was so impressed that I had a photo!

Bay Path defeats Eagles to finish game, regular season strong

Nick Ethier photos

Bay Path's Nekelle Waskiewicz applies defensive pressure on Worcester Tech's ball handler.

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON — When the Bay Path Regional girls' varsity basketball team left Upton 52-36 losers to Blackstone Valley Tech on Wednesday, Feb. 6, head coach John Selen called the setback "disappointing" and that we "just didn't have our heads in the game today." That loss dropped the Minutemen to 13-4.

Fast forward to Thursday, Feb. 14 and Bay Path completed a three-game stretch where they looked like the Minutemen of old. Bay Path beat Abby Kelly Foster twice — "we played fantastic," Selen said of those two games — before hosting Worcester Tech on Valentine's Day for Senior Night. There, the Minutemen also took care of business, 55-42, to finish their regular season with an impressive record of 16-4.

Bay Path can look back at the Valley Tech loss and realize that the seniors — there are eight in total — took matters into their own hands.

"They weren't too thrilled themselves, either," Selen said of losing to the Beavers in the fashion that they did. "They thought it was a poor performance; they thought they could have done a lot better. It was a silent bus ride all the way back.

"It's a senior group; they know what they're supposed to do. They understood their commitment wasn't what it should have been going into that game. We righted the ship," added Selen.

In the game with Worcester Tech — where the Eagles could barely suit up a starting rotation, as only five players dressed — the Minutemen stumbled slightly out of the gates. Bay Path trailed for most of the first quarter but led, 11-10, after those initial eight minutes. They then took a 30-23 halftime lead.

"I warned the girls, it's like you get caught up in the Senior Night thing. It's the emotion of the night and the weight of it all," Selen said. "At halftime I said, 'things aren't going well, but if we up the tempo they're going to get tired,' so that was the whole idea to push the ball and attack the basket, and it worked in our favor."

The Eagles showed their wear in the third quarter, as they were getting beat down the court. Worcester Tech also began making passes to no one in particular and lost the battle on the scoreboard, 16-6.

As a result the Minutemen led, 46-29, heading into the final quarter before winning by 13 points.

Four of Bay Path's seniors, as well as sophomore Madison Paulhus, compose the starting five. All five showed flashes of brilliance, with Kiara Coates leading the way with a double-double total of 16 points and 11 rebounds. Alexxus Afriyie notched 14 points, Paulhus scored 10 points, Nekelle Waskiewicz added 7 points and Emily Wong Kam pulled down 10 rebounds.

"They function well together as a group and they communicate well. It's a real good group of kids," Selen said of the starters and the team as a whole.

Coates added that Senior Night "went really good. I really like how everyone played out there. We tried to tire [Worcester Tech] out."

In addition to Coates, Afriyie, Waskiewicz and Wong Kam, Bay Path's other seniors include Emily Margoupis, Evelyn Sheehan, Kayla Davis and Patricia King.

The Minutemen will now wait for the postseason brackets to be revealed (on Friday, Feb. 22) before they embark on a run through the Central Mass. Division 4 Tournament, where the seniors hope to win their first District game.

"We earned it," Coates said of the 16-4 record and a trip to the playoffs for her fourth straight year and fifth overall for the program. "I want to go all the way to WPI."

Worcester Polytechnic Institute typically hosts the tournament's semifinal and final rounds.

Bay Path's Alexxus Afriyie fakes a pass before taking and making a 3-pointer.

Bay Path's Madison Paulhus is solely focused on the basket before attempting a 3-point shot.

Bartlett, again, can't solve Sammies — this time in Clark Tournament

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WORCESTER — Back on Dec. 22, in the Bartlett High boys' varsity basketball team's fifth game of the season, the Indians hosted Sutton High in the championship game of the annual Holiday Tournament. The Sammies won handily, 76-51.

"The beginning of the season is the beginning of the season, you hope you get better as the season goes on and we did," explained Tony Paranto, head coach of the Indians. "We didn't play well in that first game and we thought we were pretty evenly matched."

After the early-season loss to Sutton, Bartlett won 12 straight games to secure a spot in the upcoming Central Mass. Division 3 Tournament.

But before Districts comes the annual Clark Tournament. On Monday, Feb. 18, the Indians and Sammies met again in the quarterfinals of the Smaller Schools bracket of the Clark, played at the Kneller Athletic Center.

Unfortunately, like in the first meeting, it ended with a loss for Bartlett. Sixth seeded Sutton's hot shooting throughout, led by Trevian Grenon and his 32 points, made it tough for the third ranked Indians to gain any control in the 74-60 setback.

"They shot close to 60 percent and we shot closer to 30 percent, they put the ball in the basket and we couldn't do it today," stated Paranto.

Bartlett scored the first bucket of the game when senior forward Tyler Nuttall drove to the basket for an easy two. Moments later Grenon scored an easy two of his own. Grenon's first basket sparked a 17-0 run by Sutton, who took a commanding 17-2 lead with a couple minutes left in the first quarter.

"I think maybe it was the jitters," said Paranto. "We had only one kid who had any varsity experience, Logan [Paranto], but he was the only kid with varsity experience on this floor and it can get a little intimidating at times. They also shot the ball on a torrid pace, so it was hard to withstand that, but the effort our kids put into trying to back into the game was great. I thought they did a great job."

With 1:27 left in the first quarter, Bartlett sophomore Brandon Boucher converted a left-handed layup to end the Sammies' run. This gave the Indians some energy and they proceeded to end the quarter on an 11-2 run of their own. After the disastrous start Bartlett was only down six after a buzzer-beating 3-pointer by Nuttall (12 points) that just barely beat the clock. Sutton led, 19-13, going into the second quarter.

"It gave us a lot of momentum; we were just not able to build off it going into the second and to finish the rest of the game," explained Nuttall.

Sutton led, 44-30, at halftime, but with some grit and a little change of offense Bartlett began to cut into the lead and were only down eight, 56-48, going into the fourth. The Indians, who usually air it out from long range, started to drive into the paint.

"We did," Paranto stated about getting to the basket. "We shot the 3-ball very poorly from 3-point land, we wanted to get to the basket and unfortunately we couldn't convert when we got to the hole."

Bartlett only hit five of its 18 3-point attempts in the game. Wilson Aybar and Boucher led the comeback attempt in the second half with 16 combined second half points (eight each). They finished with 15 and 12 points, respectively.

Paranto concluded with what his team needs to do in order to have success in Districts.

"We have to make shots. If we are going to shoot the ball that poorly from 3-point land we are going to struggle. It has been our weapon all year and we have to get back in the gym and get our confidence back up real quick," he said.

Bartlett (14-6) will find out its seeding for Districts on Friday, Feb. 22. Sutton, meanwhile, improved to 14-6 and will play No. 2 Narragansett Regional in the Clark semifinals before also partaking in the Central Mass. Division 3 Tournament.

Brandon Boucher of Bartlett brings the ball into the lane via a strong drive.

Indians fall short to Quaboag's comeback in season finale

Nick Ethier photos

Bartlett's Kayla Berthiaume keeps the ball away from Quaboag defender Addy Ford.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — For 24 minutes, the Bartlett High girls' varsity basketball team's performance against Quaboag Regional on Friday, Feb. 15 was exactly the kind of game first-year head coach Anthony Pukalo was looking for at the end of a long season.

The Indians — who had led by as many as 16 points in the third quarter — led by two as play moved into the fourth quarter. His team had withstood one furious rally by the Cougars, surely it could survive another.

That was not to be the case. Quaboag outscored Bartlett by 14 points in the final quarter and in the process handed the Indians perhaps their most crushing defeat of the season, 51-37.

Bartlett finished the season with a 4-16 overall record and a 1-10 mark in Southern Worcester County League play.

The loss overshadowed a terrific performance by Allison Grzemski, Bartlett's senior guard, who poured in a team-high 20 points, 13 in the first half, after which the Indians led, 22-8. In addition to their offensive success in the first half the Indians' defense was playing great, too, having held the Cougars scoreless in the second quarter. Bartlett also held recent 1,000-point scorer Kiarra Dorman to just one basket, although it was a 3-pointer.

The third period started OK for Bartlett; the Indians led, 26-10, with 6:33 to play and 28-13 with 5:30 left in the quarter. Quaboag, however, outscored the Indians 18-5 from that point to pull to within a basket, 33-31, as the game headed into the fourth quarter.

Allison Grzemski of Bartlett reaches out her arm in hopes of distracting Quaboag's Kiarra Dorman while she shoots a 3-pointer.

The Cougars kept their collective foot on the gas pedal in the fourth quarter, outscoring Bartlett 26-4 to win going away.

Dorman was the chief architect of the Quaboag comeback, scoring 25 points in the second half, 15 coming on five 3-pointers.

"It all kind of starts and ends with the Dorman girl. She is a 1,000-point scorer. She is one of the best players in the area," Pukalo said. "I've seen her several times and I thought that we defended her brilliantly in the first half. All of our rotations covered the gaps that they like to attack from and we did a good job rebounding the basketball.

"All of the credit goes to [Quaboag coach William Beauregard] halftime adjustments," Pukalo continued. "He turned up the pressure defensively — we're a young team and the pressure will get to us sometimes — but we met that second-half pressure with such poise. I was very proud of the girls and how they handled it."

Quaboag's defense, however, wasn't the Indians biggest problem in the second half; it was the Cougars' offense — specifically Dorman — which gave them fits.

"The problem for us in the second half was, when they were on offense, it was Kiarra Dorman left and Kiarra Dorman right. She scored 25 in the second half," Pukalo said, shaking his head. "In addition, in the second half they found all of the miniscule gaps that we had left in our defense in the first half that they didn't capitalize on. In the second half they found all the spots where we were weak and they capitalized on them. I give all the credit in the world to the adjustments [Beauregard] made, and the shots that Dorman made."

Also scoring for the Indians — in addition to Grzemski — were junior Brittany Ward (seven points), freshman Cam Heenan (six points), junior Breanna Ward (two points) and senior Katelyn Picard (two points).

"What a fantastic note for Ally to go out on; she was phenomenal in the first half," Pukalo said. "Dorman slowed her down — she didn't quiet her down, she slowed her down — just a little bit in the second half."

Pukalo lauded the effort of his team, not just against Quaboag, but for the whole season. He seemed to feel bad that he was unable to help deliver them more wins.

"These girls have given me all their blood, sweat and tears and we've had so many games that we deserved to win where the ball just didn't bounce our way," Pukalo said. "In my 14 or 15 years of coaching this is the most unlucky team that I've ever coached."

"These girls deserve so much more. Sometimes the ball bounces the right way, but it didn't tonight," Pukalo said. "It just didn't bounce the right way for us tonight. We played 24 minutes of great basketball and then we just got caught in a bad spot."

Breanna Ward of Bartlett is able to push a pass past the reach of Quaboag defender Kiarra Dorman.

BARTLETT

classes, he said. Likewise, he credits AP History's Lincoln-Douglas style debates for helping him hone his style.

Adolfo and the other speakers have to meet a variety of rules to participate. According to the Lions Club's guidelines, speeches are five to eight minutes long, with points deducted for being too short or too long or for missing sentences in their printed text. They're scored in three areas — delivery, effectiveness and text — and can speak with a decreasing number of note cards as they move toward state level. They can edit text and delivery until submitting for the state level, at which point their text is "frozen," it states.

Likewise, the Lions don't allow recording or distribution of the speeches. Kalinowski said they also didn't encourage coverage of lower-level winners to avoid possibly biasing judges, but gave up that rule this year.

"We decided it won't make that much of a difference," he said, noting they select judges who don't know the participants.

Adolfo said he just barely hit the five minute mark at the Webster club level and has "mostly just changed delivery" since then. That was in November, with the zone competition in December, regional in January, and district-level on Feb. 9; the state competition is in May in Sturbridge.

All told, about 900 kids have participated at the various levels statewide, Kalinowski said.

"Tyler's a really talented kid," he said. "... Considering his circumstances, he's very motivated."

Adolfo said those circumstances helped fuel his speech itself on the year's topic of "Integrity: What does it look like?" Although he can't give specifics from his text, he summarized his view of integrity as being "not using excuses or circumstances about why I can't succeed." Among other things, he points to the fact he doesn't have internet service at home, so he goes to the library or Panera to use their WiFi to do homework.

Kalinowski said he's under the impression Adolfo is "pretty much on his own." Hensel has stepped in "and is almost playing the role of guardian to Tyler," by driving him to Leominster for the district event, among other things, he said.

He said the contest has existed for many years, and "our area was the first one to initiate [it]." It became statewide after a while, but he's not sure of exact dates.

The Lions generally pass the annual topic to local teachers, and "whoever wants to present it can; they're not forced to." In some years, that produces three or four speakers at the Webster Lions' event, usually held at Point Breeze. Winners get cash prizes at the district ($1,000) and state ($1,500, runners-up $500) levels.

"that's something he could use, I'm sure," Kalinowski said.

Adolfo definitely could. He noted he hopes to go to UMass-Amherst's business school, where he hopes to major in accounting and business finance before going into a career in investment banking.

Despite rough season, Rams persevere past Leominster on Senior Night

Jason McKay photos

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Even senior captains need a helping hand once in a while, and that's exactly what Shepherd Hill Regional's trio of leaders — Molly Springer, Carly Snyder and Reese Hammond — received from juniors Grace Nellis and Paula Barbale and sophomore Emma Lanpher in the Rams' 67-47 win over Leominster High on Friday, Feb. 15.

An emotional Senior Night ceremony with family and friends led to an uneven first quarter, after which Shepherd Hill trailed the playoff-bound Blue Devils, 17-15. The Rams began their winning comeback in the second period, closing the quarter with an 11-2 run that put them ahead, 31-28, at halftime.

Nellis, a scrappy guard who seems like she would rather run through you than around you, was the prime catalyst of the comeback, scoring eight of her game-high 22 points in the period. Lanpher (nine points) got the run started with a 3-pointer from the left corner, pulling Shepherd Hill to within three, 26-23, with 3:28 to play before intermission. Barbale (11 points) also scored in the second quarter, using her quickness to make a mid-court steal, which she turned into an uncontested layup.

"It was great," Nellis said when asked how it felt to help deliver a win to her senior teammates in the final home game of their careers. "That's what we were looking for. That's what we wanted to do. We [the underclassmen] talked about it before the game and we really wanted to get them this win. But, we knew it was going to be a battle. Leominster's a good team. I'm really proud with how hard we fought tonight and how hard we worked."

The Rams put the game away at the start of the second half, scoring the first 11 points of the third period to lead 42-28 before the quarter was half finished. Nellis, who canned four 3-pointers in the game, started the third quarter run with a trey from the left side. Later in the run she added a runner in the lane.

Later in the third period Barbale connected from beyond the 3-point arc and Lanpher added a pair of baskets, one on a steal and a layup, to help Shepherd Hill take a 54-34 lead into the fourth quarter.

In the final period of their last home game all three seniors scored (Springer with six points, Snyder with three and Hammond with two) before interim head coach Maura Cushing called all three to the bench with 1:07 to play, at which time they all received a well-deserved rousing round of applause and a standing ovation from the student section.

Throughout the game the underclassmen seemed to show — by their actions — that they were going to make this win happen.

"Grace had a great game tonight, Paula and Emma too, they all really stepped up," Cushing said. "The seniors on this team are very well respected by the underclassmen and they really wanted to pull one out here tonight for them. And the seniors contributed, too; Molly had big baskets down the stretch, Carly hit a big 3 and Reese made a steal and turned it into a layup."

"Everyone contributed to this win tonight," Cushing continued. "I told them it was going to take a team effort to win here tonight and that's certainly what it took. Every single person contributed in one way or another."

Nellis said the turnaround began when the Rams switched defense in the first half, unleashing a tenacious full-court, man-to-man pressing trap on the unsuspecting Blue Devils.

"We switched defenses in the first quarter and they never figured it out," Nellis said. "Carly and I were at the top of the press doing the trapping and we were able to use our quickness to get a lot of steals and force a lot of turnovers. We told each other at halftime we had to keep it up and we did. We put in hard work and effort and we just came together as a team."

Cushing heaped praise on Nellis after the game for her integral role in the Rams' victory.

"Grace had a great game tonight," Cushing said. "She's really coming around. She's learning her role and gaining more confidence. She's been working really hard and all her effort is really starting to pay off."

With the win over the Blue Devils Shepherd Hill improved to 5-13 overall and 2-6 in the Mid-Wach A. Leominster, with the loss, dropped to 10-8 overall and 3-5 in league play.

Oxford, Auburn boys' basketball teams wrap up respective seasons

OXFORD — While neither are bound for the Clark Tournament nor the Central Mass. Division 3 Tournament for postseason play, the Oxford High and Auburn High boys' varsity basketball teams still held a rivalry game last week on Wednesday, Feb. 13. In the Pirates' penultimate game and the Rockers' final contest, Oxford emerged victorious, 68-55.

The Pirates then closed their season the next day, Feb. 14, by coming up short against Burncoat High of Worcester, 76-64. Oxford wound up with a record of 7-12.

Auburn, meanwhile, finished with a mark of 4-15 in a rebuilding season for both squads.

The right insurance can meet both short- and long-term needs

ANTONOPOULOS

If you're going to achieve your important financial goals, you'll need to build an appropriate investment portfolio. But that's only part of the story — because you also need to protect what you have, what you earn and what you'd like to leave behind. That's why it's a good idea to become familiar with the various types of insurance and how they can address short- and long-term needs.

For starters, consider life insurance. You may have important long-term goals, such as leaving an inheritance for your family and providing resources for your favorite charities. You may be able to fulfill some of these through the death benefit on your policy.

You can also purchase life insurance to help fill the gap between the amounts you have saved and what your family would need if you died unexpectedly. Thus, insurance can pay for liabilities (such as a mortgage, car payments, student loans and other debts), education expenses (such as college for your children) and final expenses associated with your passing.

Next, consider disability insurance. If you were injured or became ill and couldn't work for a while, the loss of income could be a big problem for your family members — in fact, it could disrupt their entire lifestyle. Even a short-term disability could prove worrisome, while a long-term disability could be catastrophic. Your employer might offer short-term disability insurance, and that could be enough — but do you really want to take that chance? To protect your income if you were out of work for an extended period, you might need to supplement your employer's coverage with your own long-term disability policy. Long-term disability insurance, which generally kicks in after you've used up your short-term benefits, may pay you for a designated time period (perhaps two to five years) or until you reach a certain age, such as 65. Long-term disability insurance likely won't replace your entire income, but it can go a long way toward helping you stay "above water" until you recover.

You may also want to think about long-term care insurance. Despite its name, a long-term care policy could meet either short- or long-term needs. On the short-term end, you might need the services of a home health care aide to assist you in your recovery from an injury such as a broken hip. On the other end of the long-term care ride, you might someday need an extensive stay in a nursing home, which can be extremely expensive and which isn't typically covered by Medicare. But in either case, you might be able to benefit from a long-term care insurance policy, or possibly a long-term care rider attached to a life insurance policy. And the earlier you take action, the better, because long-term care insurance, in particular, generally becomes more expensive the older you get.

This list of insurance policies, and the needs they can help meet, is certainly not exhaustive, but it should give you an idea of just how important the right insurance coverage can be for you — at almost any stage of your life.

The Legislature is also looking at a more general overhaul of the Chapter 70 funding formula, but a bill to do that died in committee last year. Since a special commission researched and reported on the issue a few years ago, the funding gap has grown to about $1 billion a year.

In other business, the committee honored soccer coach Colby Harvey for being chosen Division IV Coach of the Year, after he brought the girls varsity team to division finals a few months ago.

"We're very proud of you and want to thank you for what you've done for our soccer program," Spitz said.

Athletic Director Kevin May noted the soccer program is expanding. Last fall saw the first girls junior varsity team "in five or six years," he said.

The committee also praised the leaders of the "Girls on the Run" program, which now has nine participants (seven from Barton School, two from the middle school). Coach Kim Mayo said the program provides "a very detailed, scripted curriculum" with daily topics on such things as communication, cooperation and "any of those life skills we're trying to empower those girls with."

The team meets Wednesdays and Fridays after school to run around Barton School (literally), with the girls running between set stations where they fill out worksheets related to the day's topic. Periodically, they participate in regional 5K races coordinated by the Worcester-area GOCR chapter, which has 24 member teams, according to its website. The next is May 19, and some team members "seek volunteers to be running buddies."

Additionally, the girls devise their own "give-back" projects, with two from Oxford (Kate Mayo and Keegan MacIlvane) recently creating "Kindness Rocks" posters that now hang in the police and fire departments.

FRISBEE

been adding "dialogue and relationship-building work" with the kids, who spend their time in camp as members of "families" of six kids each - three Hebrew-speakers, three Arabic-speakers.

Last year, Weitzman surveyed those kids using what he called a "stereotyping scale," in which they told him how they felt society thinks about four groups of people (the three in the area plus Americans) in eight key traits that he split in two groups representing "competence" and "warmth." In all cases, the attitudes improved.

"We saw changes in the places you'd most want to see changes," he said.

His favorite response came from one teen he'd seen writing in Hebrew who told him "I don't think you can make statements like this about a whole group of people."

"These kids form incredibly close relationships ... with kids on the other side of those identity divides," Weitzman said. But, given the social divisions, it can be difficult for those kids to see each other outside the camp sessions. He noted some who have had opposition from their parents over returning to camp, but also one Jewish family who took their daughter into the West Bank, had coffee with the Palestinian family of another player, and left her there to visit for a while.

Ultimate Peace's goal, he said, is to help them "develop a durable social network. ... If they keep those friendships and those relationships, they have a chance to live a different way."

Weitzman noted solving this long-running conflict requires far more than just bringing people together and hoping they'll be friends. For decades, the two sides have "traumatized" each other in various ways, and each community has developed "a really impaired ability" to trust the other while pointing to history "to justify their own actions." At the same time, though, there are "many people committed to coexistence," with mixed communities in Haifa and some villages.

Both cooperation and competition, he noted, are examples of interdependence. In the former, groups notice similarities, work on common interests, share ideas, and "tend to make sure were both powerful together." In the latter, "every single one of those is reversed" - they see differences, stress opposing goals, keep secrets and act "to undermine the other's well-being."

Switching those is a challenge, because there are "certain conditions where [bringing people together] will just make things worse" if not handled carefully, Weitzman said. For it to work, the two sides need to have "equal status" in the shared setting, common goals, "explicit opportunities for inter-group cooperation," not just working side-by-side, and support from outside law, custom and/or authorities.

He noted many sports have been the focus of peace-building efforts in Palestine and other trouble spots, but only Ultimate Frisbee has that particular kind of cooperative culture.

"Maybe the elements of [the spirit of the game] can be identified. ... If we can extract the 'secret sauce,'" maybe it can be used in other peace-building programs, he said.

Dahlias bring diverse shapes, sizes, colors to the garden

ears, Lacinato kale and Swiss chard; finely textured ornamental grasses and gaura; upright salvias and gladiolus; and trailing plants like calibrachoa, verbena and ivy. Dahlias will add pizzazz to your gardens and landscape, especially in the second half of the summer when many other flowers are starting to wane.

Dinnerplate dahlias are bodacious beauties that command your attention. They include any variety of dahlia with flowers that are at least eight inches in diameter. These extra-large blossoms are produced on bushy plants that grow three to six feet tall. Favorites include Café au Lait, Vancouver and Thomas Edison. Use stakes to help support the flowers and keep the plants standing upright.

Decorative dahlias offer the widest array of colors and styles. Their petals are flat to slightly rolled and flower sizes vary from four to eight inches. Growing an assortment of several different varieties, like the Spice Mix Decorative Dahlia Collection (longfield-gardens.com), lets you enjoy a color-coordinated blend of hues that combine well in both the garden and in a vase.

For dahlias with a completely different look, grow cactus and semi-cactus types. Their rolled or partially rolled petals give the flowers a spiky texture. Varieties such as Yellow Star and burgundy-maroon Nuit d'Ete will add style and sophistication to your garden.

Make sure your flower garden also includes a few ball and pompon dahlias. These perfectly round swirls of tightly rolled petals come in vivid colors, and their long vase life make them a favorite with floral designers. Use coppery-orange Mirrella or vivid Boom Boom Red to weave shots of color throughout an arrangement.

For contrast, incorporate some single, peony-flowered, anemone and collarette types. Dahlias such as HS Date, Bishop of Dover and Fascination have fewer petals and slightly smaller blooms, which makes them good companions for annuals as well as perennials. Plus, their daisy-like centers are magnets for bees and butterflies.

Bring your dahlias up close with dwarf varieties, commonly known as border dahlias. These plants grow just 12 to 24 inches tall, yet most have big, four-to-five-inch blooms. Popular varieties include Gallery Pablo, Melody Swing and Gallery Art Nouveau. They are ideal for small spaces, lining a walkway and are a perfect addition to containers.

With so many colors and flowers styles to choose from, growing dahlias can become a life-long adventure. Make room in your garden for some of these easy-to-grow, easy-to-love, summer-flowering bulbs. You'll discover why so many gardeners have fallen under their spell!

The Springfield Sportsmen's Show returns

*****
TRUE

The Springfield Sportsmen's Show will open its doors at the Big-E this Friday, Feb. 22, at noon. This annual event draws a few thousand sportsmen to the show, to see first-hand some of the new hunting, fishing and boating equipment available to the outdoorsmen & women for 2019. It also provides a great opportunity to schedule your next hunting and fishing trips, with some of the great guides that set up annually at the show. Meeting old and new friends at the show & having a great meal at one of the top restaurants in the area, can make for a great day of food & entertainment. The office of Veterans Affairs will also have a booth set up at the show to meet and talk with veterans about any of their benefits, or other questions that they may have about services that are available to them. Be sure to stop by at the Veterans Affairs booth. Special thanks to all of our veterans for their service. This week's second photo shows Earnie Lavallee of Uxbridge, standing by a huge display at last year's show.

This past weekend was a great day to be outdoors enjoying the nice weather and doing some fishing. On Saturday, the Whitinsville Fish & Game Club & the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club held their annual fishing derbies. They were both well attended with Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club seeing a record amount of anglers ice fishing, but what was most exciting was the amount of young fishermen & women that attended the event. This week's picture shows three young anglers watching Ed Gervais, Fish chairman, measuring a trout for one of the anglers. They were the children of John Walker. The four youngsters were Aiden Walker, Charlotte & Holden. That had a great day fishing and playing on the ice, as did numerous other young anglers hoping to catch one of the recently stocked trout.

The latest deer harvest in Mass. was recently made available to the public, and what a year it was. The deer were in great shape and many sported some great antlers. The figures were as follows: The youth deer hunt netted 138, Paraplegic hunt 3, Archery season totaled 5,190, Shotgun season 6,495, Primitive arms totaled 2,687. More than 700 deer were harvested during the two week extension of the archery season in zones 10 - 14. A total of 885 deer were harvested in zone 8 and 1,458 deer were harvested in zone 9 this year. Primitive Arms saw a whopping total of deer harvested, which has a lot to do with the great accuracy of the rifled black powder guns, that are now used by deer hunters.

Turkey hunting regulations are being reviewed by Mass.

Fish & Wildlife with possible changes in daily bag limits and an increase in season limits. It should be noted that if the changes are made, the regulations will not become effective until 2020.

Changes to the striped bass fishing relative to catch & release are being recommended by the Mass. Division of Marine fishery's board hoping to minimize the striped bass mortality.

Circle hooks have been used by many striped bass anglers including this writer for many years. They work very well but you need to change your fishing tactics. When fishing using circle hooks with live bait or chunk baits, allowing the fish to make a short run and then starting to reel the fish in without setting the hook, takes some practice. Circle hooks do work well and most often hook the fish in the mouth rather than in the throat, which often causes damage to the fish resulting in a dead fish after release.

Studies have shown that 9 percent of catch & release striped bass will die from damage to their gills and throat. Consideration is also being given to anglers using gaff's to bring the fish into the boat, or on shore. Banning the use of gaff's on striped bass could become reality. More than one million striped bass die annually after being released. These type of regulations need to be implemented for both recreational and commercial anglers. The method of yo-yo fishing which has the angler using wire and lead weights and a hook attached to the fresh bait like porgies needs to be stopped. These regulations are long overdue. Commercial fishing for herring and porgies also needs tighter restrictions on the catch. Removing to many of these bait fish can also have major negative effects on our striped bass populations. Stay tuned for more on the new regulations being considered by DMF.
