Selectmen seek answers to date discrepancies from attorney

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – A selectman in Dudley is seeking some answers due to a discrepancy from the town's attorney Gary Brackett connected to court proceedings resulting from the Islamic cemetery debate that ended last year.

Dudley Selectman Jonathan Ruda filed an official complaint on Jan. 22 alleging that Brackett, who had counseled the town all through the cemetery debate, reported false land court filing dates to selectmen. Brackett had often gone head to head with Attorney Jay Talerman, who represented the cemetery applicants, the Islamic Society of Greater Worcester.

Brackett had sought to pursue sanctions against Talerman in 2017.

During a meeting in executive session on Sept. 25, three selectmen met with Brackett regarding a land court decision that denied sanctions against Talerman. At the time, Ruda said he opposed further actions in court, but Brackett had said the motion to reconsider had already been filed in court. As it turns out, that was not the case.

"What was discovered was the motion was entered into the court on Oct 2. That's considerably after the date that (selectmen) had heard," said Town Administrator Greg Balukonis. "We verified that through the land court. There was an entry that was made on that date and ultimately what ended up happening was the court denied and dismissed the remaining claims and dismissed the motion for reconsideration that had been filed by town counsel. The issue is timing. It does confirm that the motion was set and documented a week after it was brought before the Board of Selectmen."

While town debates street lights, hunt for lieutenant

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD – Selectmen formally kicked off the process to find a new police lieutenant on Tuesday, with Police Chief Tony Saad aiming to fill the post in March.

The job's duties have essentially been split between Saad and the two patrol sergeants who are the top candidates for the lieutenantcy, William Marcelonis and Jeremy Grneit, but the chief said he'd like to relieve the sergeants of training, special events and other duties so they can focus on managing patrolmen, especially now that four new ones have been hired. Saad said the men were the top scorers in the April 2014 lieutenant's exam, which the state Civil Service is allowing Oxford to use provided the job is filled by April.

"It's imperative we look at how much we'll save by not going to another assessment center," Selectman John Saad said. In response, Town Manager Brian Palaia noted it would cost $7,000 to $10,000.

Chairman Dennis Lamarche agreed, noting the lieutenant "does an awful lot of duties that can't be handled by [the sergeants]. They should be concerned with the troops on the ground."

Chief Saad added the department has two other active sergeants; one chose not to take

New Webster website to launch Feb 5

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER – Your days of frustration trying to find things on the town website are nearly at an end.

Starting Feb. 5, it will look and hopefully feel quite a bit different, with several new features, more "portability" and other improvements.

"The biggest issue for a lot of people was navigation," said IT director Greg Robert, who said the new site will be particularly aimed at improving "transparency as far as cross-communication goes between constituents and town departments."

Robert has been managing the current site for nearly five years, and he noted one big change will be a new agenda notification system, by which people can sign up to have agendas and other town notices emailed to them, rather than having to go hunt them down.

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: When is the best time to buy a Car or Truck?

The RIGHT answer: (Part 2) There are some times of the year that seem better than others. I already spoke about the end of the year. Another good time is toward the end of winter going into spring. We all know about the Presidents Day sales in February. Customers, dealers and manufacturers all are beginning to feel a little stir crazy from the long cold days of January and early February. As this holiday comes along there is a bit more excitement and a strong desire on the dealer and manufacturer to get selling for the spring and summer markets. Usually this is also a time in which the manufacturers step up their advertising and incentives to support this goal. The model year changeover is a good time to buy. This is normally the September, October time frame. Incentives on the current model year are usually strong and inventories are still pretty good as the new model year is beginning to show up. Dealers will be making room for the next years vehicles and starting to trim inventories approaching the year end and holiday seasons. At Place Motor we will always do our best to save our customers as much as possible whenever you decide to buy. We will lay out all your options for you to see and make your best decision. We want the time you choose to be the right time to buy your new car or truck.

Merolli takes aim at Fattman

Tom Merolli

BY GUS STEEVES
STONEBRIDGE CORRESPONDENT

Tom Merolli is not a household name, but he certainly hopes to become one as this election season goes forward.

Merolli, a Democrat from Mendon, is taking on State Sen Ryan Fattman (R-Sutton) for the Worcester and Norfolk District seat this November.

"Our towns and district aren't well represented," he said regarding why. "A lot of opportunities are passing us by for development and getting what our municipalities need."

Merolli notes that's not so much Fattman's fault as an effect of the fact the Legislature is more oriented to the eastern part of the state. But the senator's minority-party status doesn't help.

He's currently full-time assistant treasurer in Mendon, chair of his town's Economic Development Committee and Democratic Town Committee, and has in recent years helped organize people for a school override vote and create a new historic district. From those perspectives, he feels he's come to see the impact state policies are having on towns in a way he can do something about.

One of the big points is a perennial one – school funding. Like almost anyone who has run for office in years (including Fattman), Merolli thinks the school funding system, known as Chapter 70, is broken. He notes the state conducted a study of Chapter 70 a few years ago, and that advised "solutions that have not been implemented yet." The biggest for him are the fact the state routinely "undervalues how much health care costs" and does not adequately fund special education. The existence of charter schools and school choice only "compounds" the issue.

Regarding Southbridge, he said, "You're in a school system that's struggling, and [parents] take their student and the money to a district that isn't struggling. That makes its struggle harder."

He wants to meet with the various superintendents and other town officials of any party to identify the unique problems each has, because "it's not one-size-fits-all for education."

Solving some of the school issues ties directly into one of his key campaign issues – working toward a true single-payer health system. A few bills to do so are now on Capitol Hill, and Merolli said he feels supporting those would be the best way to "insulate" citizens from the danger of losing much of what they have to medical debt. Among those who'd be most helped are those potentially facing Medicare cuts because of this year's federal budget, but he noted insurance costs are also "a barrier to opening a small business in this state."

"We led the country on health care before, and we can do so again," Merolli said. "If New England were its own country, it'd be one of the Nordic states."

Similarly, he supports the "We the People Act," a proposal likely to be on November's ballot to instruct the Legislature to push Congress to add a 28th Amendment declaring corporations aren't people, money isn't speech, and the Bill of Rights only applies to actual human beings. Merolli said he testified for it in Boston.

He also backs the process Massachusetts is using to implement the November 2016 pot legalization vote, describing it as "a smart manner," and noting the Cannabis Control Commission is "cautiously looking at all sides." Going forward, he said he sees its economic potential and Massachusetts "shouldn't let Trump bully us" into backing off on legalization.

One aspect of it he likes is the fact it's essentially a local option.

"One of the strengths and downfalls of the Commonwealth is we have 351 cities and towns, so there's lots of local control," he said. "More democracy is a good thing in any case."

The document also included a proposed date for an override request of April 3 with the School Committee still planning to have a decision on what option they intend to utilize of the three available by Feb 14. In the meantime, school officials are continuing to work on their presentation to justify the need for an override in the coming months.

"The school continually is on the low end of the per pupil spending. I believe they're fifth or sixth from the bottom. That's one of the central themes that the school district has put out there. The funding that we talked about earlier matches the town being on the low end in terms of what we can raise in tax revenue," Balukonis told selectmen. "The override amount is to be determined, but as you look at the document there are three options available. I'd like to go to the school committee meetings and find out what their strategy is and what their plans are and support them in their efforts."

Balukonis told selectmen the three options range from a 5.96 percent increase to as low as 3.5 percent with varying totals spread throughout numerous years.

"The numbers are pretty large. Scenario A would be a budget increase over three years of $2.9 million and the smallest scenario would be $2.4 million over three years," Balukonis said.

Town officials in Dudley have been pretty open to the possibility of an override request from the school district, which has suffered from budgetary constraints for some time. The conversations have created concern about the stability of the dual town system with Charlton deciding to explore the feasibility of pulling from the dual-town district and creating its own high school. Over the last year the School Committee has hosted a series of group discussions including education officials, selectmen, administrators, and state officials to explore the difficulties of financing education and possible solutions for not only Dudley and Charlton, but the state in general.

Selectman Paul Joseph said he feels the selectmen in Dudley should have those discussions among themselves as well, and explained he wants to see lawmakers like Senator Ryan Fattman and State Representative Peter Durant come to their table to engage in dialogue on how to fix the problem long term on Beacon Hill.

"I thought a while ago we were going to have the senator and our state rep in to talk to us and I don't recall that occurring. The reason that upsets me is I wanted to ask them whether they would sponsor a bill in both houses that would take into consideration any town that had a low tax rate when Proposition 2 ½ went into effect to assist those towns because you know, if you look at the tax rates, it's not the wealthy towns that are in that position," Joseph said. "I still intend to ask them that. I want to pose that to them as a board. I have no political motivation doing this, I just want to talk to them directly."

Joseph further inquired about what a failure to pass an override could mean for Dudley and, according to Balukonis, it would still result in a major financial commitment from Dudley that will close any wiggle room the town has for its spending plans in the coming fiscal year.

"It would really create some challenges and I'm going to put that mildly. We have our minimum required contributions, which is going up by $400,000, plus we have the additional amount of money that we voted from this year's budget from the stabilization fund which I think was around $280,000. So, our minimal increase is somewhere in the range of $680,000. Without an increase through the override that means that's all of our available funds. It would all go to school purposes and that would really be stretching our limit," Balukonis said.

The town administrator also noted Dudley is being impacted by a catch-up provision from education reform that required a financial commitment for "underperforming communities." Selectmen called this an unfunded mandate from the state, with Joseph saying this too would be a topic of discussion with state leaders.

Regardless of what option the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District employs, the Board of Selectmen wants to make sure all the cards are on the table before proceeding. Board Chair John Marsi put it simply, "This board has always been pretty careful about what gets put before the voters. We want to make sure everyone has all the information they can. We need to do something, I just want to make sure the argument is made as to why."

Despite those big-picture issues, Merolli notes his campaign is really about three more prosaic but important items: "the roads, water and schools." He notes several towns, including Southbridge and Uxbridge, have raised concerns about risks of water pollution and his own town lacks public water at all, while almost all of them need more road funds and other infrastructure grants.

Merolli, age 27 and single, is a third-generation union guy, noting almost everything his family has had come from the efforts of unions to protect workers. He graduated Westfield State with a political science/philosophy major, is an Eagle Scout, and plays a couple of different instruments, particularly favoring funk and bluegrass. Over the years, he has worked in Rep. Neal's office and for Sen Warren's campaign, fundraised for several liberal groups, and conducted team-building exercises at the area YMCA.

December Existing Home Sales Dropped

Nationally existing home sales dropped 3.6% to 5.57 million from November to December but increased by 1.1% year over year. This is not a sign of the economy weakening. It is exactly the opposite. The lack of inventory is causing a lowering of home sales. The sale in 2017 were up 1.1% as well over 2016. This continues to show us that the Real Estate Market is alive and well. In Worcester County, sales dropped by 5.8% from November to December to 710 sales. Then from December 2016

to December 2017 it increased by 3.2%. This shows our local market is tracking with the national market in their trends.

There is one concern with this drop in sales in December. If the inventory is dropping causing buyers who are ready willing and able to not be able to find a home because the sellers of those homes fear selling their home because there is no inventory. Most likely what will happen is this lack of inventory and high demand will continue to increase prices which the Average Sale Price of a Single Family Home in Worcester County already went up $16,150 or 5.5% over the last 12 months. This will then cause sellers who could not sell or would not sell due to prices to decide to sell their homes. This will eventually increase the inventory and hopefully balance the market out.

I suggest consulting with a local Realtor to find out what the inventory looks like in your area and how that will affect you purchase and sale of a home. Because in most markets, selling a home is the easy part and the most difficult part is deciding what to do once it sells as inventory of homes for sale as well as rental homes are minimal. Many sellers are deciding to either rent temporarily or live with family until they can find another home to buy.

Town expenses in early Dudley an eye opener

Payments made by the town as shown in old town records give an idea of the way things were done in the past. Town government was much less centralized than it is today.

In early Dudley, the individuals living on a town road or near a bridge were responsible for its upkeep and improvements. When maintenance was required, the folks directly affected by the problem were expected to repair it. The expenses incurred were then submitted to the town for payment.

Citizens were all essentially town employees.

There being no welfare system as such during those early days, citizens were asked to directly support, provide housing for, nurse through sickness, or otherwise assist the "paupers" of town and then submit a bill to the town for reimbursement. As my husband observed, no good deed went unvouchered!

The early town records were kept by town treasurer, Jacob Lee. The old records hold myriad unusual payments for work performed and deeds done for the town by private citizens. Here are some examples and the amounts of money (in 1800s dollars) paid by Dudley in the past:

January 1817: Paid Penuel Perrin $8.67 for keeping Brackett's cow.

April 1817: Paid Pearley Foster $2.00 for providing two guide boards (road signs).

August 1817: Paid John Brown $4.00 for surveying the common.

May 1819: Paid Ebenezer Edmonds 50¢ for oiling hearse harness.

February 1819: Paid Lothrop Vinton $6.25 for work on small bridge.

December 1819: aid Phinehas Bemis $4.96 for cash paid for powder (for militia).

May 1820: Paid Phinehas Bemis $4.00 for sweeping meeting house.

March 1821: Paid Payton R. Phipps $3.25 for bringing back the bridge that went off by flood.

March 1823: Paid John Baker $1.50 for shoes for Mrs. Curtis.

October 1823: Paid Remember Ingraham $2.00 for making cartridges (for the militia)

November 1823: Paid Rufus Corbin $5.00 for his trouble in Ezekiel Church dying at his house.

March 1824: Paid Ichabod Brackett $6.50 for wood for his mother.

May 1831: Paid Zebulon Morris $15.00 for ringing bell for one year.

LINDA K BRANNIFF

In 1839, the town purchased property that was to become the Town Farm where the indigent citizens of the town could be cared for. Town residents still were expected to make contributions and provide services and then be paid by the town at a later date. Notations in the town records show citizens being reimbursed for cows, a bull, horses, oxen, pigs, groceries, hay rakes, a wagon, and a sleigh for the Town Farm, which was run as any other farm (but for the benefit of the paupers) with town citizens providing the labor.

Homelessness was apparently a problem in the past as well. In 1876, the Overseers of the Poor reported expenses to the town for boarding and lodging for 120 tramps: $60.00. The following year a "tramp house" was created on the Town Farm with various citizens contributing labor. Lumber for the tramp house had come to $50; blankets and mattresses $23.63. Cyrus Spaulding had provided a wood stove for the building.

In 1860, the town bought a new hearse from Otis & Blood. In September of the same year, J. Goddard was reimbursed for 2,000 shingles for the hearse house (which stood next to Village Cemetery). In 1861 Zebulon Morris was paid for providing a harness to be used with the hearse. (Use of the town's hearse was free but the family of the deceased were expected to provide the horse to pull the hearse.)

The town roads were always prominent in expenses to the town due to many repairs, the cost of construction, and, even in those days, citizens' complaints of damage or injury to personal property: In June 1846 William Whitney was paid for damage sustained to his horse by a defect in a bridge on a public road. In May 1866 Austin C. Burnett received compensation for injuries to his horse from ice in the road. Snow removal was managed by paying many citizens for shoveling snow off the town's highways. (In modern times the town has to keep citizens from shoveling snow ONTO its highways!)

Ruda's concerns were sparked after he learned from local news publications that the motion to reconsider was dated Sept. 28, days after the executive session, despite Brackett saying he had already filed the motion during the meeting. Brackett had received notification from the town administrator not to file the motion before receiving town approval, making Brackett's alleged action out of line.

"I'm concerned with what happened in that executive session and I'd like to know what, if anything, members of the board would like to do to pursue this any further," Ruda said. "I corresponded directly with Mr. Brackett and there was no delay. The date he gave me, Oct 2, was the date he filed that motion as opposed to the morning of the 25th, which was originally presented to us."

Selectmen hesitated from making any comments specific to the situation during the Jan. 22 meeting, as the complaint by Ruda makes it a personnel matter to be discussed in executive session. When asked directly if he was filing a complaint Ruda stated, "consider it filed."

Selectmen agreed to reach out to Brackett to seek a meeting with him to discuss the discrepancies. Balukonis said he believes Brackett is "generally aware" of the situation due to the request from selectmen to verify the dates of the motion being filed.

STORYTIME WITH THE TOOTH

From his perspective, he expects the new site will be easier to manage.

If you've used the current site, finding something can be a challenge. While many towns link their front-page calendar directly to meeting agendas for a given day, Webster's page buries those agendas on a separate page by committee, with even the current week's meetings filed by year.

"This new one is a game-changer, based on the concept that less [complexity] is more and with easier navigation," said town planner Ann Morgan. "It will be pretty extensive."

In her case, she plans to "put all project information on the web" for both planning and zoning departments - plans, minutes, regulations, forms, studies, and various permit paperwork - plus give citizens opportunities to comment on active projects. She said the various departments will be able to have their own social media news feeds.

"We're still working on quirks in the system," she noted, adding that a firm from Manhattan, KS, called Civic Plus is handling overall website design and long-term maintenance. The firm claims at least 2,500 websites in the US and Canada.

"We believe that quality local government website design inspires a connection between citizens and their community," the Civic Plus website states. "We believe that the public sector is just as innovative as the private sector, and that local government websites should showcase the latest website design trends and the most forward-thinking best practices."

Robert said the town has already built an app that is "a condensed version of our site" with the most frequently used features, and is designing a section of the website that'll be for materials staff members need that aren't necessarily public. He's also planning a public forum to show people how to use it; that will happen after the Feb. 5 launch, but its date hasn't yet been set.

"We're really excited," he added.

WE CONSIDER PATIENT SAFETY A TOP PRIORITY.
THAT'S WHY WE'RE CONSIDERED A TOP HOSPITAL.

Day Kimball Hospital ranks in the top third for patient safety in CT and the US.

The Leapfrog Group, a national nonprofit healthcare ratings organization, recently awarded us an "A" grade for patient safety. We're one of just seven "A" hospitals in Connecticut, and just 832 in the entire US. That puts us in the top third of hospitals for patient safety in both Connecticut and the nation.

While this important achievement is great news for our patients, it's also a testament to the hard work, dedication, and collaboration of our entire staff. It proves that the way we all work together to keep our patients safe and provide the best possible care is truly making a difference.

Celebration of differences highlights week at SJS

WEBSTER — Saris, vyshyvanka, traditional embroidery, stroje ludowe, and even Chinese dragons haunted the halls and aisles of Webster this week, as on Sunday, January 28 the St. Joseph School community gathered to kick-off Catholic Schools Week. The day began with a Mass celebrating National Migration Week, a tradition that the students look forward to each year. The children and their families represent various cultures and enjoy sharing and recognizing each other's heritage.

Twenty-two countries were represented in the entrance procession: the United States, Armenia, Brazil, Canada, China, Czech Republic, Dominican Republic, Netherlands, Egypt, France, Ghana, Greece, India, Ireland, Italy, Kenya, Lithuania, Poland, Portugal, Puerto Rico, Scotland, and Uganda. The students carried flags and wore costumes reflecting their heritage.

Bishop Robert J. McManus joined the festivities and preached that the diversity in the church is an example to the country that we can all live together. He said that in Catholic schools "students learn what it means to bring Christ to others."

Following Mass, St. Joseph School hosted an open house that highlighted the students' research projects focusing on various aspects of the Olympics: the history, athletes, individual events, and the Special Olympics. Attendees were given a scavenger hunt and encouraged to find the answers in the students' work.

Attendees also had the opportunity to sample a variety of international foods and experience international entertainment that included: Irish Step dancing by the McInerney School of Irish Dance; soccer foot skills demonstrated by Brazilian soccer players Gabriel Souza and Jadson Leite of Boston City FC; and, the Worcester Youth Nian Dancers from the Southeast Asian Coalition performed a traditional Lion Dance. The dance, which originated in China, is a way to bring love to the new year. It was a great celebration of Catholic education and the Cultural Diversity of St. Joseph School students!

the 2014 assessment, while the other joined the force after that date. There's also one person who has been on injured leave since 2016.

Selectmen agreed to conduct interviews at one of their February meetings.

Additionally, they voted unanimously to have DPW start the process of converting town streetlights to LEDs, after DPW Director Sean Divoll and energy consultant Doreen DeFazio projected more than $60,000 a year in electricity savings.

DeFazio, the sustainability director for Sutton, said her town converted in 2016 and saw its bills cut by about two-thirds. Although Sutton had to buy its 324 lights for about $50,000, and paid $40,000 to upgrade them, she noted the savings will pay for themselves within a few years. Sutton used a combination of local capital funds and Green Community Act grant money to do it, and Palaia said he'd prefer a similar combination of funding sources.

Divoll said Oxford already owns all but a few of its roughly 1,000 lights, and he was told that National Grid considers the remaining ones "fully depreciated," so they'll cost the town only a minimal amount (maybe even just $1).

"The real expense is the conversion itself," which he estimated at $150,000, noting Oxford could opt to convert in phases, as some larger towns have. After conversion is paid off, he added, "then it's pure savings," and he sees

"better accountability" in having a town contractor handle maintenance than National Grid.

"I think it's a no-brainer," Lamarche said. "My issue is how to finance it."

Others agreed, with Selectman Alan Berthiaume wondering if the town could use funds saved from the Sutton Avenue project to do this. Palaia noted, however, that has yet to be finalized in Boston.

Also still unfinished, were two other issues before the board: the tax classification hearing and an ongoing dog hearing. Regarding the former, assessor Chris Pupka said he needed to revisit what everyone thought was complete because the state required Oxford to change how it assessed a couple of large solar projects. Originally, they were classified as residential, but now they're industrial, although he said the shift has no impact on the tax rate. That will still be $17.12 per $1000 value in all property classes.

Regarding the dog hearing, selectmen approved extending it one more meeting, to Feb. 6, so that Animal Control Officer Kelly Flynn can work with Rutland officials to finalize a few changes to their original order. She said she has asked them to loosen two specific requirements on fencing and muzzling so that Jessica Specter of Southbridge's Big Hair Animal Rescue will be able to take the dog, Lacey.

Rutland selectmen intend to discuss this issue at their next meeting, she said.

LaPlante: appreciate support

To the Editor:
 I want to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to the community for the support during a reward ceremony at Sacred Heart Church on Nov. 27, 2017 and the recent presentation from the Webster town Selectmen on Dec. 11.
 I am truly humbled and honored to have received the Legion of Honor award from France Consulate Valery Freland for my service to France in World War II.
 I wish to recognize all those who coordinated and attended the ceremonies. In a special way, I would like to take this opportunity to thank: Paul Kujawski who made it all happen after he worked for over a year to coordinate the event. He was meticulous to make sure nothing would go wrong and I am truly indebted to him.
 To Fr. Adam Reid, who generously had the responsibility to make sure that Sacred Heart Church would be available and for the presence of the St. Anne's Academy choir and students.

 Also thanks to all law enforcement and branches of veterans, especially my Band of Brothers and Victor Jankowski. Our soloist Holly Hodgkins and Bartlett High School choir.
 Our many dignitaries, Congressman James McGovern, the state representative and our state senator.
 Please know I am deeply grateful for all who were present for this honor. I ask the community to continue to support our military of the past and present who make this world a safer place for us all.
 We honor them all for the dedication, service and sacrifice that will always be remembered.

Rules of the road for the younger driver

CHIEF'S CORNER
STEVE WOJNAR

In the next week, I'll be assisting the Driver Education Instructors at Shepherd Hill with their parent information night. This is a good opportunity to provide some answers to questions as well as emphasize the benefits of good driving behaviors. I wanted to take this opportunity to address some of the restrictions for junior operators.

A junior operator in Massachusetts is anyone licensed who is under age 18. The major restriction on these individuals is they are not allowed to drive between the hours of 12:30 a.m. and 5 a.m., unless they are accompanied by their parent or legal guardian. For those people who obtain their license while under age 18, a restriction is in place which limits the presence of passengers in their vehicle. Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 90 Section 8 states in part, "No person holding a junior operator's license shall operate a motor vehicle during the first six months of licensure while a person under 18 years of age, other than the operator or an immediate family member of the operator, is present in such vehicle unless also accompanied by an operator, duly licensed by his state of residence, who is 21 years of age or over, who has had at least one year of driving experience and who is occupying a seat beside the driver..." Immediate family members can be considered as mother, father, brother, or sister. The intent of this law is to limit distractions to inexperienced drivers and prevent accidents.

A survey, conducted by AAA, of 142 driving instructors identified the top three mistakes teens make while learning to drive. They are speed (over limit or too fast for conditions), distraction (cell use, talking with passengers, looking at other objects in the vehicle), and poor visual scanning (not watching for risks or driving with "tunnel vision"). These issues are contributing factors in many crashes involving drivers of all ages. In fact, according to the AAA stats, some 77% of drivers 35-55 admit to using cell phones (68% of teens admit to this) while 45-46% of all drivers up to age 55 admit to driving 15 mph over the speed limit on highways.

All junior operators are prohibited from using cell phones while driving. Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 90 Section 8M prohibits the use of these and other electronic devices by junior operators. Texting and driving is banned for all operators in the state, however, the further restriction applies to these new drivers.

Unfortunately, there have been too many tragic accidents and injuries involving young, inexperienced drivers. We hope to prevent these incidents from occurring in the future and educating young drivers is a move in a positive direction. Officers will be out focusing on traffic violators in order to prevent accidents and encourage voluntary compliance with the traffic laws.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, MA 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com.

Yeah....not so much.
 If these were our little darlings, we'd take no prisoners. They would be out there themselves, with rakes and shovels and buying the sod themselves to replace this destruction.
 See, the Dudley Youth Soccer is a non-profit bunch that just wants to teach younger kids the sport, and through the goodness of the town of Dudley, was given leave to improve this empty field to use as part of their program.
 It sits right near the road and right on the Quinebaug line. You drive right by it if you drive down 131, but you might not pay a lot of attention to it.
 They put a lot of effort into it in the last couple of years, did a lot of "invisible" work; drainage, adding a sprinkler system, reseeding, and then left it alone so the seed would take and the field would be in good shape for THIS year.
 Until a few nights ago.
 When this happened.
 And no one heard it. No one saw it. No one knows anything.
 But someone does.
 The irrigation might be broken under that frozen dirt, can't tell yet. But for sure the nicely seeded field is wrecked.
 Organizers have said they might be able to have it "rolled" flat, but the ruts may or may not need to be reseeded or sodded.
 In any case, the field won't be ready for play.
 Because somebody old enough to drive decided to "play" instead.
 This is just mean.
 We hope they bragged to someone about it so police can be told and their little butts can be smacked hard by Johnny Law. Then we hope the rest of us step up and donate to get this place back so the kids can have it back again. The vandalism may well cost the Youth Soccer thousands of dollars to repair.
 Can anyone help? Are there landscapers, home warehouse, DIYers out there, who can donate time, materials, and knowledge, and get these kids back on their fields? And a fence installed so this can't happen again?
 Because obviously, the older "kids" out there have no outh and have no sense of responsibility. No respect for the belongings of others, no idea what might the cost be to anyone else for their decisions.
 It may be indicative of yet another book out there, this one about "adulting" and that Americans are raising a generation or two of people who don't know how to be adults. Haven't been taught, and don't want to learn.
 We shudder to think if they in turn become parents themselves...what then becomes of those children...the children of non-adulting adults?
 They most likely do donuts in soccer fields and call it joy riding.

You can lay the groundwork for reforming Congress

The first three words of the U.S. Constitution are, "We the People." The Constitution itself, our institutions of government, the democratic process — all were established to give Americans a voice in their own governance.
 We are still striving to make that vision real for all, but we are closer than ever.

BEYOND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT
 LEE H. HAMILTON

So let me ask you some questions about Congress today. Do you think the voice of ordinary Americans resounds strongly in its hallways and chambers? Can you recall Congress in the last few years successfully dealing with an issue that directly affected your life? Does Congress produce legislation that resolves our differences and brings us closer together? Do you believe that the political system produces members of Congress who fairly and effectively represent the diversity and complexity of this country and are addressing our real, long-term challenges?
 I thought not.
 This is why I believe it's past time for comprehensive reform of Congress. Representative democracy today is being undermined by the rising power of big money, the challenges of governing a country as large and diverse as ours, the problems brought by rising economic inequality, the ineffectiveness of our political institutions, and too many citizens who were never taught the skills needed to make the pragmatic judgments necessary in a representative democracy.
 In the present environment, it's doubtful that the various reforms needed to address these challenges can actually get adopted. But their time will come, either because the public demands it or the cost of dysfunction becomes too obvious to ignore.
 So it's important to know in advance where we need to head.
 To be sure, part of what we need is outside the purview of any single institution. We lack a robust, comprehensive system of civic education, designed to produce an engaged, informed electorate able to sort fact from fiction in a complicated world. We want citizens who know how to maintain healthy skepticism and wariness about elected officials, and who have the knowledge and confidence to hold them accountable.
 But there are also steps we need our lawmakers to take.
 Partisan gerrymandering has become a scandal; competitive congressional districts drawn to represent the population fairly are vital to our future. Similarly, we have to expand voter participation and fight efforts to repress votes; lower participation empowers the extremes in politics, and it's hurting our country. And we need to make it easier for third parties to break into the system; people are losing confidence in the two parties and we need to open up the system to new participants.

 Greater transparency from those in power or those seeking to influence those in power truly matters. Disclosure of campaign donations, disclosure of foreign money's track through our political system, disclosure of special-interest spending, identifying the people who make contributions to secretive political committees, details about financial conflicts of interest — all of this should be a habit in any self-respecting representative democracy. Extensive disclosure needs to be required by law, and backed up with the resources to enforce the law.
 On Capitol Hill, members need to fund and then rely on independent sources of information they can trust, rather than special interests who too often lay down their own interpretation of the facts as a legislative foundation. And they need to return to the traditional processes of gathering expert testimony through congressional hearings.
 And perhaps more than anything, Congress needs to revitalize the institution itself — by energizing the traditional committee structure and practices, giving up its ridiculous habit of enacting budgets through omnibus bills, and no longer allowing major legislation to be put together by a few leadership staff behind closed doors — and restore its power vis-à-vis the president.
 This is where you come in. The changes I'm advocating will not come about without citizen action. Our lawmakers have become fixated on their re-election and too comfortable with the status quo they and their predecessors have built in recent decades. We have to hold politicians to the highest ethical standards, and have them come up with serious proposals to fix the system. Without that, the loss of faith in our process and our institutions that all of us lament will be almost impossible to reverse.

Put a trusted 'Quarterback' on your financial team

On February 4, the eyes of most of the country — and much of the rest of the world — will be on Minneapolis, site of the most-watched football game in the U.S. As a fan, you can admire the way quarterbacks in the Big Game direct their teams. But as an investor, you can learn something from the big game by putting together your own team to help you achieve your financial goals — and you may find it helpful to have your own "quarterback."

 Who should be on your team? Your financial strategy will involve investments, taxes and estate planning, so you will likely need a financial advisor, a tax professional and an attorney. Ideally, your financial advisor — the individual with the broadest view of your financial situation — should serve as the quarterback of this team. And, just as a quarterback on a football team must communicate clearly with his teammates, so will your financial quarterback need to maintain consistent contact with the other team members.

 Let's look at a couple of basic examples as to how this communication might work.
 First, suppose you are self-employed

Valentine's Day sentiments on a budget

No other day of the year symbolizes love and romance as does Valentine's Day. Through the ages, many cultures have paid annual homage to the "holiday of the heart." From pagan days of love lotteries to St. Valentine's untimely imprisonment, the longtime observance of February 14 is steeped in tradition and lore.

and contribute to a Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) IRA. Because your contributions are made with pre-tax dollars, the more you put in, the lower your taxable income. (In 2018, the maximum amount you can contribute is $55,000.) Your financial advisor can recommend investments you can choose from to help fund your SEP IRA. Yet you will want your financial advisor to share all your SEP IRA information with your tax professional. When it's near tax-filing time, your tax professional can then let you and your financial advisor know how much room you still have to contribute to your SEP IRA for the year, and how much you need to add to potentially push yourself into a lower tax bracket.

Now, let's consider the connection between your financial advisor and your attorney – specifically, your attorney handling your estate planning arrangements. It's essential that you and your financial advisor provide your attorney with a list of all your financial assets – IRAs, 401(k)s, investments held in brokerage accounts, insurance policies and so on. Your attorney will need this information when preparing your important legal documents, such as your will and living trust – after all, a key part of your estate plan is who gets what. But it's imperative that you and your financial advisor convey some often-overlooked details that can make a big difference in the disposition of your estate. For example, your financial advisor might suggest that you review the beneficiary designations on your IRA, 401(k) and life insurance policies to make sure these designations are still accurate in light of changes in your life – new spouse, new children and others. These designations are meaningful and can even supersede the instructions you might leave in your will or living trust. Consequently, it's important for you and your financial advisor to share this information with your attorney.

It can be challenging to meet all your financial objectives. But with the right team in place, and a quarterback to help lead it, you can keep moving toward those goals – and you might cut down on the “fumbles” along the way.

Edward Jones, its employees and financial advisors are not estate planners and cannot provide tax or legal advice. You should consult your estate-planning attorney or qualified tax advisor regarding your situation.

Singletary holds successful ice derby

Concern over unsafe ice on local ponds after the recent rain were dismissed by many anglers that wanted to fish this past weekend. Caution needed to be used along the shoreline, but many ponds still had a good five inches of ice on them this past weekend, although it was not good back ice. Area ponds had numerous anglers enjoying the warm weather and some family ice fishing. The Singletary Rod & Gun Club held their annual ice fishing derby this past Sunday under cloudy skies and a few rain showers, but that did not stop a large group of members from fishing for trout. After enjoying a huge breakfast buffet, anglers headed out to the pond to set up their ice fishing tilts, and it was not long before trout were being hauled out of the water and onto the ice. Joe Vigeant and his 9-year old son enjoyed the day ice fishing at Singletary Rod & Gun. Their picture will run next week due to a computer glitch.

writer failed to catch a single trout. That's the way it goes!!

A few hours later the smell of venison and sausage being cooked filled the air, and had some anglers taking a break to sample some of the great barbecue meats that were being cooked and shared by members. The attendance was smaller than last year, but everyone had a good time. There are a lot less ice fishing derbies this year locally, but for the few that are planned there should be plenty of ice if the cold weather that was predicted for this week materialized.

The good news for Massachusetts bow hunters this coming fall is the added two weeks of deer hunting in zones 10 through 15, and with the passage of a bill very near to allow cross bows for hunting by everyone in 2018 that wants one. Only permanently disabled hunters were allowed to possess one for hunting. A final push to allow bow hunting on Sundays in Massachusetts would be the icing on the cake if it was approved, but for now we will appreciate what the Division of Mass Fish & Wildlife has accomplished this year.

A recent discussion at a local tackle shop by area sportsmen about the possibility of Massachusetts joining forces with other states that have a suspension registry of violators licenses of Fish & Game Laws, could soon become reality. It is a good way to deter hunters and fishermen from violating fish and game laws.

Mass Fish & Wildlife is also making some new regulations for wildlife management areas in reference to the general public using the management area to exercise their dogs. It is required that dog owners keep their dogs on leash at all times, but they also need to pick up their dogs' feces during the visits to the area, if a new regulation is passed. Trails along the WMW are becoming an eyesore, and the feces is also contaminating the trails. Hunters using their dogs during hunting season would be exempt.

Coyote populations continue to grow in the valley, despite efforts of local hunters. One local hunter has harvested more than 15 coyote this year, and they just keep on coming. Sitting in a tree stand for hours waiting for the right moment to take a shot requires a lot of patience, and hot coffee. Hunters may be successful in reducing a population in one area, only to find even more coyotes the following year. One state decided to take a large tract of land a few years ago, and remove as many of them as possible only to find that they had as many, or even more, the following year. They seem to know when their populations are down, and have larger litters of pups to fill the void.

The Providence Boat Show will open their doors on Feb. 2, starting at noon till 9 p.m. The show will run three days. Don't miss it. Check it out on the web site for more information.

tury England with the bending of coins. A bent coin was returned after a favor and the bent coin became a "token of your pledge" when you offered something in return for the favor. I typically see love tokens carved into mid to late 19th century coins. I've seen engravings range from peoples' initials and simple drawings to highly detailed engravings of ships. Some are single coins, but several of them can be used to create a bracelet or other pieces of jewelry. We sold a love token bracelet with several intricately engraved dimes that brought over $500.

Soldiers on land also created works of art during their free time and created trench art. Trench art was made by those serving in earlier wars, but World War I seems to be the peak of the artform. Artillery shell casings and smaller shell casings were often used to craft these pieces. A hammer and nail were often the tools to create these works. The large artillery shells were sometimes turned into vases. Many had intricate designs of animals and flowers. Others were crafted to look like tanks or cannons. Some pieces of trench art are worth hundreds of dollars.

During World War II and more recent wars, military personnel would often buy pieces to send home or deliver to loved ones when they returned. Satin pillow cases were sold at many of the military bases. Many had "mother", "sweetheart" or "sister" printed on them for their intended recipients. "Sweetheart pins" were other gift items that were purchased by armed forces personnel. Some pins were produced in mother of pearl and some in 10 karat gold, but for the most part, they were made from relatively inexpensive materials. They may sometimes be found in flea markets and antique shops at very reasonable prices. We sold some small cases of sweetheart pins in our January auction, with cases selling in the $300 range.

I'll be teaching my Evaluating your Antiques class at Bay Path Evening School on March 5. Some sales and events are being planned. Keep checking www.centralmassauctions.com for details.

constantly to a simmer. Heat the brandy in another saucepan until warmed. Pour brandy slowly over cherry mixture and ignite immediately. Spoon cherries and sauce over a small bowl of or glass of vanilla ice cream.

The Feng Shui Way: If you're looking to snag yourself a sweetheart this Valentine's Day, here are some Feng Shui tips to point Cupid's arrow your way.

According to the ancient practice of Feng Shui, the secret to romantic success can be found in the southwest region of your bedroom. Nurture and cultivate peace and love in that area to attract a partner. Feng Shui practitioners suggest placing a vase of fresh flowers or a painting of flowers in that corner (avoid flowers with thorns or prickly leaves). To further entice romance, try putting a pair of duck decoys in the area or a photo of two ducks. Even a couple of rubber ducky toys will do. Crystals are often successful in luring a mate, and rose quartz is famed for attracting love. Why not place a crystal in that corner as extra insurance!

Experts in the practice claim negative energy and bad "chi" will drive away any romantic prospects. They advise removing all electronic devices in the southwest area, as well as any mirrors there.

Flower Power: Did you know nearly 200 million roses were produced for Valentine's Day last year! If you're a lucky recipient of Valentine's Day flowers, you'll want to keep them fresh as long as possible.

Here's how to treat fresh flowers displayed in a vase: Mix two tablespoons of white vinegar and two tablespoons of sugar in a quart of water. Also, be sure to remove dead flowers as these give off gases which affect the others. And never display flowers next to fruit as fruits emit a gas which prematurely ages flowers. Here are a few more tips to keep your V-Day flowers fresher longer:

* Dirty vases shorten the life of cut flowers so be sure to soak questionable vases overnight in bleach to remove bacteria before displaying flowers.

* To revive drooping tulips or roses, wrap tightly in newspaper and put into water up to their necks. Leave overnight. For a quicker fix, cut a little off the stems, wrap in paper, and plunge stems into boiling water for approximately ten seconds, then put into deep cold water.

*A pinch of sugar or an aspirin dropped into vase water works just as well as the substance found in a floral extender packet.

*Keep fresh flowers away from direct sunlight and heat. Don't leave flowers in warm rooms overnight. Keep flowers in a cool spot (65 to 72° Fahrenheit), and extend their life by putting them in the coldest room in the house while you are asleep.

Minutemen punch ticket to districts with thrilling, come-from-behind win over Southbridge

Dan Keefe of Bay Path keeps his dribble alive by going between his legs while a play develops.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — On Wednesday, Jan. 24, Kody Sandgren's game-winning basket with 20 seconds to play capped a fourth quarter rally and lifted the Bay Path Regional boys' varsity basketball team past Southbridge High, 62-60, and into the Central Mass. Division 4 tournament for the first time in five years.

"That's been our goal from the beginning of the year; to qualify for districts," Bay Path head coach Al Greenough said after his team improved to 10-3. "We didn't know how long — how many games — it was going to take us to get there, but as the season began we were confident we would get there. I'm really happy for the kids. We're in the postseason because they're always willing to go out and give 100 percent every night."

Sandgren (11 points) pulled the Minutemen to within a point, 60-59, when he made a free throw with 1:16 to play. Almost a minute later, after both teams had several chances to score, Greenough called timeout to draw up a play.

Pat Dyer, the Minutemen's senior point guard, took the inbounds pass, dribbled to the right side and dropped the ball into Sandgren, who had posted up about six feet from the basket. Sandgren gathered in Dyer's bounce pass, collected himself, spun to the inside and banked the ball off the glass and into the basket, giving Bay Path a 61-60 lead.

"It's a play that we run a lot in practice; the kids are very familiar with it," Greenough said. "In that situation, when they're going to have to use their heads and get everything together in a key moment of the game I like to call a play that they run a lot. As a coach when you draw up a play, especially at the end of the game, and the kids listen and go out and run it the right way and execute and score, it's a great feeling."

Cory Cotton, after a Southbridge miss and a foul, hit one of two free throws with 6.8 seconds to play to account for the 62-60 final. Caiden Ellis added 9 points to the winning cause, while Drew Paulhus chipped in with 7.

It is fitting that Cotton scored the final point of the game; he kept Bay Path in it in the second quarter when Southbridge was on the verge of running away with it, leading 27-14 with 2:30 left in the first half.

Behind Cotton's three 3-pointers in the final 2:12 of the half — he had five of his seven 3's and 15 of his game-high 28 points in the first 16 minutes of the game — the Minutemen trailed by just five, 31-26, as play headed into the third quarter. The Minutemen hit nine shots from the field against Southbridge in the first half; eight were from beyond the arc.

"That's what they do," Southbridge head coach Victor Colon said. "They always had at least one kid in the corner wide open, ready to take the 3. We tried to rotate to make sure there was no open man like that, but our rotation was off and there wasn't much else we could do."

The Pioneers dropped to 6-7 overall with the loss. More importantly however, they are now 1-1 against Division 4 teams, having beaten Lenox High earlier in the year. Southbridge plays its final Division 4 game on Feb. 5, against the Sizer School (home at 6:30 p.m.). Because of the Sullivan Rule, a team only has to have a .500 record against teams that compete in their division if they play 70 percent or more of their total games against higher division opponents.

Southbridge would qualify for districts should they beat Sizer, while they had the opportunity to do so versus Bay Path.

"A trip to the playoffs was on the line for both sides," Colon said. "Whoever won the game was going to make districts."

Once Bay Path got back into the game in the late stages of the second half, they stayed in it, never trailing by more than seven in the second half and leading three times in the third quarter. Their only lead in the fourth quarter was at the end.

Southbridge was led in scoring by Justin Reyes, who scored 21 points, Jared Figueroa (14), Elian Aponte (10) and Chris Reyes (9).

Northbridge's offense shines in win, while Pirates' Parmenter joins 1,000-point club

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — Much has been made this season about the Northbridge High girls' varsity basketball team's tenacious, ball-hawking defense, which is allowing the second fewest average of points per game — 30.2 — in the Southern Worcester County League, and sixth fewest in all of Central Mass.

And that defense was again on display against Oxford High on Jan. 26, holding the Pirates to just 33 points in a 53-33 Rams' win. But it was the Northbridge offense, led by freshman Hannah Lomonaco's 14 points and senior Maria Cray's 10 that stole the show, finishing seven points above its season scoring average.

"We knew we were going to have our work cut out for ourselves going against their defense, but what impressed tonight was the way they played offensively," Oxford head coach Joe Pietrzak said. "They made a lot of shots."

Northbridge took control of the game early, opening with a 10-3 run in the game's first three minutes. Cray had four points in the quick start, on a lay-in and a put-back, and Lomonaco added a three-point play. Lomonaco scored on a slicing drive through the lane and was fouled on the play. She calmly stepped to the foul line and buried the free throw.

The Rams extended their lead to 20-7 after the first quarter. The team's more or less traded baskets in the second quarter and Northbridge led, 26-14, at halftime. The Rams' lead then grew to 19 points, 38-19, after three quarters.

"We stress distributing the ball; I don't want one person to be the key. If we have that, teams can focus on that. That's what we did tonight to them," said Northbridge head coach Matt Gauthier, referring to Oxford junior Gina Parmenter, who finished with a game-high 19 points.

Parmenter, who surpassed the 1,000-point plateau Tuesday night (Jan. 23) on the road against Grafton High, was honored before the game with a brief ceremony.

"We are very balanced offensively," said Gauthier, who is in his eighth year of his second stint as the Northbridge girls' coach. "Honestly it can be any player on any night. It can be seniors; Maria did it tonight. We had a game earlier in the season where two of our freshmen scored nine points each. The most you might see for us on a give night is a 15- or 16-point performance."

"I'd rather have eight or nine or 10 people scoring," Gauthier continued. "If you're going to key on one of our players, we'll go to someone else. It actually adds a lot of confidence to the girls when they know they can score at any time during the game, and that they might be asked to do so to help the team win."

Cray said she doesn't expect a ceremony to honor a 1,000-point scorer to happen any time soon at Northbridge High.

"We'll never have a 1,000 point scorer; we're not built that way. We definitely cannot be one dimensional," said Cray, the lone upperclassman on the team. "Coach always says, 'rebound, run and score.' It doesn't matter who it is. If you look at our box scores, one night I could have 20, and my teammates could have four, and the next night I could have four and my teammates have 20."

"When we play teams they don't know who to pick to focus on; I think that's one of our strengths," Cray continued. "We share the ball so well we don't have one person scoring all of our points."

Parmenter, whose intensity runs Tom Brady-esque high when she's out on the court, has clearly been humbled, not only by her accomplishment but the town of Oxford's reaction to it.

"This is the best accomplishment I've had in life and I just want to thank my coaches, my family and all the supporters that I have for being a part of it," Parmenter said. "I'm very, very lucky to have my family with me tonight as well as on Tuesday night. As for Coach P., I can't thank him enough. He has got me to everywhere I want to go in life."

"Tonight's ceremony made me feel lucky to be a part of Oxford High," Parmenter added. "It was awesome. I'm so glad I get to call Dr. [Kimberlee] Henry my principal."

Parmenter reached the 1,000-point mark in 55 games. She now has 1,029 points in 56 career games, which works out to a career average of 18.3 points per game. As a freshman Parmenter scored 367 points in 21 games (17.4 average). Last year, as a sophomore, she scored 388 points in 22 games (17.6). This year, through 13 games, she has scored 274 points (21.7).

Oxford's Gina Parmenter is honored before the Pirates' game with Northbridge for scoring the 1,000th point of her career one game prior versus Grafton.

"To me the speed in which she got to 1,000 is what makes the accomplishment so impressive," Pietrzak said. "Getting to 1,000 is impressive enough, but to do it in two and a half seasons [55 games] just shows you how dynamic a scorer she can be, especially since after the first few games of her career, everybody knew about her. Everything she gets she has had to work real hard for."

Late layups lead to Rams rallying past Oxford, 41-40

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

NORTHBRIDGE — Jared Richardson scored 12 of his 18 points in the second half, including the game-winning basket with 42.9 seconds to go — to rally the Northbridge High boys' varsity basketball team — which trailed by 18 points with 12 minutes to go — past visiting Oxford High, 41-40, at the Veterans Memorial Field House on Thursday, Jan. 25.

Following a timeout by Rams' head coach Aaron Katz with 51 seconds to play, Richardson took the inbounds pass, drove right-to-left toward the baseline cut sharply past a defender to the basket, where he laid the ball off the glass.

"During much of the game when they were guarding me with their big guy [Klaytin Silva] our game plan was to drive to the hoop and finish. If they collapsed on me I was to kick it out," Richardson explained. "On the last drive, right when it looked like they were going to collapse on me the lane opened up and I was able to get around [Silva]. I had that opening so I took the ball to the hoop and laid it in."

Katz was not surprised that Richardson was the player that keyed the Rams' late-game rally and scored the winning basket.

"Jared is our guy in the clutch," Katz said. "That was his second game-winner this year. He's our only senior. He's our only captain. He's our leading scorer. That was a senior captain kind of move he made on the go-ahead basket, but he played that way the whole game. In the second half he hit all the big ones."

Oxford (6-6) committed a turnover on its ensuing possession after Richardson's go-ahead basket, but had a final chance, getting possession of the ball with 17 seconds to play, but freshman Eli Guivas' shot at the buzzer was just off the mark.

"I thought Mr. Guivas had a nice take at the end, unfortunately it just didn't go our way," Oxford head coach Anthony McDonald said.

Leading, 8-6, after the first quarter, Oxford scored the first eight points of the second period to take a 16-6 lead with 3:59 to play until halftime. Guivas (8 points) hit both of his 3-pointers in the run, while Alex Duval scored on a drive. A layup by Richardson stopped the run and made it 16-8, but Oxford answered with a 7-0 run to lead, 23-8, with 1:21 left in the first half.

Silva (16 points) had four points in the mini-run on two free throws and a put-back, while Jared Perkins (14 points) hit one of his two 3-pointers in the game from the top of the arc.

Northbridge (8-2) scored the last four points of the half — on a Richardson jumper and a Robbie Cannon (10 points) slashing drive — to trail by 11, 23-12, at intermission.

Oxford stayed on its offensive roll to begin the third quarter, outscoring Northbridge 8-1 in the first four minutes to lead, 31-13, with four minutes left in the period. Perkins had six points in the run, while Joel Erickson added a put-back off an offensive rebound to get the spurt started.

Northbridge's comeback — the Rams outscored the Pirates, 28-9, over the final 12 minutes of the game — began when Richardson hit a layup with 3:54 to play in the third to trim Oxford's lead down to 31-15. To those not directly associated with the team, it didn't seem like a game-changing play.

"We missed a ton of shots, a ton of layups, in the first half," Richardson said. "It's just a mentality we have regarding layups; we know we're going to hit them eventually. The layup is one of those shots where, even if you're not feeling them in the first half, you'll definitely start hitting them in the second half."

"When I hit that first layup of the second half I could see the energy start sparking its way through the whole team," Richardson continued. "I definitely felt it in the third quarter and I think it boosted the confidence of the whole team."

McAddai Owusu of Oxford eyes the basket before attempting a midrange jump shot.

McDonald tried everything to stop the Rams' run in the second half — timeouts, lineup changes, defensive changes — but all were to no avail.

"They got a lot of driving hoops during their comeback in the third and fourth quarters," McDonald said. "They focused on getting the ball to Richardson the whole second half. They took their big man out in the second half and that presented matchup problems for us. And on the offensive end in the second half, after that initial run, we couldn't buy a bucket when we needed it."

Mountaineers mount epic rally to beat Shepherd Hill

Shepherd Hill's Julia Dandridge reaches out to try and block a 3-pointer attempted by Wachusett.

HOLDEN—Having lost just once this season, the Shepherd Hill Regional girls' varsity basketball team has been on quite a roll in 2017-18. Their one loss came to Wachusett Regional, and the Rams had their rematch with the Mountaineers on Thursday, Jan. 25, looking to exact some revenge.

Things started off well for Shepherd Hill, who surged ahead to a 19-8 lead after a Molly Springer free throw with under two minutes to play in the opening quarter. But Wachusett mounted a rally, and what a rally it was.

The Mountaineers closed the first quarter on a 5-0 run to trim the deficit down to 19-13. Wachusett then scored all of the 25 points accumulated in the second quarter to grab a 38-19 lead into the halftime break. The Mountaineers then opened the third quarter with the first two points.

All in all it was a 32-0 run for Wachusett, who held the Rams scoreless for nearly 10 minutes of game time and ended up winning a 74-39 decision.

"We started out pretty good. It was 19-8 and then it was 38-19," explained Shepherd Hill head coach Jim Hackenson. "We went cold, they got real hot. Bottom line, they beat us. Wachusett has a good team. They move the ball well and a lot of kids contribute."

The Rams are now 12-2 with their only losses coming to the Mountaineers, who improved to 10-1.

Wachusett saw four players score in double figures, led by Belle Lanpher's 14 points. For Shepherd Hill, Isabella Nascimento scored 14 points, Springer added 12 points and Bailey Savage chipped in 8 points. Nascimento also pulled down 6 rebounds, while Kayleigh Irish came off the bench to lead the team in rebounding with 9 boards.

"Now we move on. We've still got a lot of games left," said Hackenson, whose team could play Wachusett again should both post-season-bound clubs meet in the Central Mass. Division 1 sectional tournament.

DUDLEY — A hard-fought first half was given by the Shepherd Hill Regional boys' varsity basketball team versus Wachusett Regional on Friday night, Jan. 26, but the Rams were unable to slow down the Mountaineers' potent offense in the second half in their 86-62 loss.

Early on it was clear that Wachusett (10-3) was going to be the aggressor on both offense and defense. The Mountaineers were making it a point to get the ball inside, were hitting their 3-pointers and were making the Rams (8-5) work for everything offensively.

Wachusett got out to a quick start, outscoring the Rams 23-14 in the first quarter. Liam Griffin scored 10 of his 22 points in the opening frame, while Sam Dion hit three of his six 3-pointers in the first quarter.

The Rams had a lot to handle, but still scratched their way back into it on the back of senior forward Kenny Flynn, who had six of his 13 points in the opening quarter and junior guard Cody Adams, who also added six points in the quarter and chipped in 14 for the game.

In the second quarter the Rams and Mountaineers each went punch for punch until the buzzer sounded for halftime. The Mountaineers ended with the edge, outscoring the Rams 22-20 to give themselves a 45-34 lead going into halftime.

Shepherd Hill's Jason O'Regan put the Rams on his back in order to keep it close, scoring 11 of his team-high 20 points in the second quarter. O'Regan was a bright spot for the Rams throughout.

Coming out of the half it looked like The Hill was going to get back into the game since they opened the third quarter on a 7-2 run to make it only a six-point ballgame, 47-41. Unfortunately, Wachusett turned it up a notch and forced the Rams into many mistakes.

On top of their aggressive defense, Wachusett junior guard Joey Nuttall had an outstanding night and scored 13 of his game-high 30 points in the third to spoil the Rams' momentum. Nuttall scored 20 second half points for the Mountaineers. Wachusett led 70-45 going into the fourth quarter.

"We just didn't have it, toughness — they're a lot tougher than us," expressed Shepherd Hill head coach Matt Byrnes in frustration.

Entering the fourth quarter down a good margin, the Rams never gave up. Shepherd Hill outscored the Mountaineers 17-16 in the fourth thanks to O'Regan, who hit two 3-pointers and finished an and-one to finish his strong outing.

The Rams will now look ahead and will look to improve in order to get at least two more wins to clinch a spot in districts. Byrnes looks to preach two major issues and the Rams will look to improve in those areas.

"Getting tougher and getting better on defense," Byrnes stated as teaching points for his team.

Shepherd Hill's Kenny Flynn backs down a Wachusett defender.

Safely manage insects on indoor plants

GARDEN

MYERS

Winter can be hard on gardeners and our indoor plants. Low light, shorter days and dry air stress our houseplants while helping insects thrive. Don't despair if insects have moved in and your plants are struggling with yellow or speckled leaves. Instead, invest a bit of time and effort managing these pests and keeping your plants looking their best.

Start by making sure your plants receive the proper amount of light and water. A healthy plant is better able to resist and recover from insect infestations. Check the plant tag, internet or plant book for the recommended growing conditions.

Make needed adjustments in your plant's care. Then take a closer look at the upper and lower leaf surfaces and stems of the plants for clues to the cause of the problem. Here are some of the more common indoor plant pests and organic options, safe for children and pets, for managing them.

Fungus gnats are those small fruit fly-like insects that flit around your house. They feed on plant roots and organic matter in the soil. They usually don't harm the plants, but certainly are annoying.

Just sprinkle an organic insecticide like Summit Mosquito Bits, that contain the active ingredient Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis on the soil surface. This naturally occurring bacterium only kills the larvae of fungus gnats, black flies and mosquitoes.

Aphids, a common pest of indoor and outdoor plants, suck plant juices, causing leaves to yellow, brown, wilt or become distorted.

Aphids are common pests of indoor and outdoor plants. These small tear-drop shaped insects suck plant juices, causing the leaves to yellow, brown, wilt or become distorted. They secrete a clear sticky substance known as honeydew.

Mites cause similar damage, but are too small to see without a hand lens. If you suspect mites, shake a leaf over a white piece of paper and watch for specks, the mites, moving across the paper. Don't wait until you see webbing to control these pests. At that point, there are thousands of mites making it difficult to control.

Both these types of pests can be managed in the same way. Start by placing plants in the sink or tub and knock the insects off the plant with a strong blast of water. Follow with several applications of insecticidal soap to kill the adults. Repeat as needed. Or suffocate all stages of the insects with a lightweight horticulture oil like Summit Year-Round Spray Oil (SummitResponsibleSolutions.com).

Bumps on the stems and leaves of plants that can be easily scraped off with a thumbnail are scales. Their shells protect the adults and eggs from predators, weather and most insecticides. A similar pest, mealybug, has white waxy strands on its body for protection. Mealybugs can be found on stems, leaves and area where leaves and stems meet.

Both types of insects suck the plant juices, causing leaves to yellow and plants to decline. And just like aphids and mites, they secrete honeydew. Both are difficult to control and require persistence on your part.

For mealybugs, remove the hard scale covering with your thumbnail or old toothbrush. Use a cotton swab dipped in alcohol to dissolve its waxy covering and kill the insect. Then spray with insecticidal soap to kill the immature insects. This takes time and persistence to control these pests.

Or apply a lightweight horticulture oil, like that used for mites and aphids, to suffocate both the adult and immature stages of these pests. Continue to watch for outbreaks and treat as needed.

No matter what products you choose, natural or synthetic, make sure they are labeled for the plant and pest you are treating. And always read and follow label directions carefully.

Investing time in managing pests as soon as they appear means healthy and more attractive plants to brighten your indoor décor now and for years to come.

28th Amendment proposal on ballot

BY JERRY CARTON
COURIER CORRESPONDENT

Enough petition signatures have been certified to guarantee a spot on the November ballot an initiative which would add a 28th Amendment to the US Constitution aimed at curbing the influence of special interest money in American elections. Massachusetts Secretary of State William Galvin okayed the required 85,000 signatures just before Christmas.

A statement from American Promise, the organization guiding the proposal said, "we want to get big money out of politics," specifically calling for the repeal of Citizens United v Federal Election Commission which struck down the Bi-Partisan Campaign Reform Act. In turn, asserted American Promise, that 2009 Supreme Court ruling opened the floodgates for corporations to pour millions of dollars into campaigns for federal offices.

"The greatest threat to a government of, for and by the people is the takeover of our political system by concentrated wealth and power," said American Promise President Jeff Clements.

The organization envisions a 15-person volunteer Citizens Commission in Massachusetts to research and assist in drafting the details of the proposed 28th Amendment.

American Promise associate director Ben Gubtis was bullish on the prospects in the Bay State.

"Thanks to the support of hundreds of volunteers who collected, sorted and submitted those signatures, 4.5 million Massachusetts voters will have a chance to weigh in on the 28th Amendment in 2018 and stand up for democracy," he said.

Technically known as 'People Govern, Not Money Initiative', the proposal has been approved by voters in California, Colorado, Montana, and Washington.

The Massachusetts volunteer committee said it collected over 100,000 signatures from all 351 cities and towns in the state. That was news to Ianna Arthen, co-founder of the Winchendon Indivisible chapter.

"This is the first I've heard of it," she told the Courier.

Volunteer Kimberly Wass was excited.

"100,000 signatures mean our volunteers had over 110,000 face-to-face moments of shared civic engagement, most of this outside in heat, cold, sunshine and rain, all within a nine-week deadline. It's really an extraordinary feeling of what is possible, of hope and optimism and the power of individual citizens to create change," she enthused.

In both 2012 and 2014, the state legislature passed resolutions supporting the proposed amendment, urging Congress to do the same and send it to the states for ratification. American Prospect said 150 of those 351 cities and towns have also passed similar resolutions. Nationally, American Promise says 19 states and over 800 cities and towns across the country have done likewise.

He attended University of Virginia and graduated from Massachusetts College of Optometry, Magna Cum Laude, in 1955.

Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
