Jacques will serve as Grand Marshal

SUBMITTED BY DON WAYMAN

Leonard Jacques, a lifelong Webster resident will be given the honor of leading the 2017 Memorial Day parade.

Lennie was born in Webster and lived a good part of his life off North Main Street on Church Court. He and his family lived in a three decker near the railroad tracks that crossed North Main at Ida's Track Store, winding its way behind St. Anne School and eventually into Thompson.

Lennie attended St. Anne School and later Bartlett High School. He was described in the 1944 Chronicle as 'a fellow with diversified interests, two of which are photography and dancing. He is fun-loving and jolly and has made lasting friends. Lenny is in demand at all social events and will undoubtedly find success in his chosen field of Printing.'

He was a member of the National Honor Society and the Camera Club.

Mr. Jacques graduated on June 15, 1944 and was in the U.S. Navy, anxious to serve, just five days later. He

Special town meeting draws concerns about fiscal responsibility

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

WEBSTER – The town held its spring annual town meeting May 8, but before that meeting officials held a special town meeting to approve paying for unpaid or unexpected bills utilizing funding from the already established budgets from the 2016 and 2017 fiscal year.

A normal occurrence before the annual town meeting, the special town meeting is usually a relatively quiet and non-controversial portion of the night, but on May 8 one citizen made a point to take the opportunity to state her piece on the accrued unpaid bills and her concerns about Webster failing to be financially sound.

Webster resident Laurie Bysiewicz stood at the microphone to inquire about why the town was faced with transferring funds to pay for unexpected bills, especially in regard to a nearly $600 motion that saw money transferred from numerous accounts and an item that covered unpaid water bills.

Town Administrator Doug Willardson said that the town does have a budget set each year, it's not uncommon for unexpected expenses to creep up on the town or its departments.

"There is a budget that's passed each year, sometimes however bills come in late and we weren't expecting them or an encumbrance wasn't made for those bills, so every once in a while some of these bills slip through and they do need to be paid. So, we have to use this year's funds to pay a prior year's bill," Willardson said.

Bysiewicz argued that the town needs to follow "basic accounting principles" and know their responsibility and accrue for that the following year. Bysiewicz explained she fears the town is overlooking its responsibilities when it comes to keeping up with finances.

"The town needs to be held accountable for ensuring that this is not a standard path, it's an exception," Bysiewicz said.

Mindfulness -- Chaffee School style

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD – In most classrooms, you see desks in rows and lots of lights. Sometimes, there are tables for group work.

Not in Lisa Dussault's first-grade room at Chaffee School. There, the only light comes from the windows and the only chairs are for her desk and the computer. Student desks are replaced by a circle of small, colored rugs on the floor.

As the students come in, they each claim a rug and sit down. Some do it cross-legged, their hands on their legs, backs straight without prompting; others need a reminder. That comes when she strikes a metal tone bar, saying "Let me see your bodies still."

After a moment of stillness, Dussault plays a short "kindness song," and tells them today's theme is kindness, urging them to think about recent kindnesses they've given, received, and ones they still have to do. Then they play a game called "Pass the Claps," in which each student in the circle claps once, the person next to

Webster voters approve negotiations for museum

PROJECT WOULD UTILIZE AGING ARMORY BUILDING

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

WEBSTER – Voters have given the go ahead for the town to enter negotiations to allow the town's old armory building to be utilized for a museum.

The matter was addressed during Webster's annual town meeting on May 8 where a decision of 90 to 21 approved selectmen negotiating with local businessman Christopher Robert to have the armory building used for the creation of a Samuel Slater Museum, named after the so-called "Father of the American Industrial Revolution" who lived, and died, in Webster for

Candidates answer to citizens during Q&A

BY JASON BLEAU

DUDLEY — Voters in Dudley will decide on a new selectman during the annual town election on June 12 with two candidates stepping forward to potentially succeed outgoing selectman Peter Fox, who announced earlier this year he would not run for reelection to the Board of Selectmen.

Current Finance Committee Chair Kerry Cyganiewicz Sr. and Gerry DiDonato, a member of a longstanding bloodline of Dudley civil volunteers that includes the town's longest serving selectman, the late Anthony DiDonato, are each hoping to join the towns top elected board and serve their community in a whole new way. The two candidates were the subject of a question and answer session during a "meet the candidates" event on Monday, May 15 where they responded to inquiries from current town officials and taxpayers at the meeting and viewing the session at home with subjects ranging from economic development to budgetary concerns and their own personal goals for Dudley's future.

A lifelong Dudley resident and a product of the Dudley school system and Nichols College, Kerry Cyganiewicz worked his way up to leading Dudley's Finance Committee and said that he is ready to take the next step in leading the town forward.

"Dudley is a great community, but we need to tweak a few things," Cyganiewicz said. "We need to do some things about the roads. In the time that I've been campaigning I've been asking people 'what do you like about Dudley, what do you want to keep, what do you want to change?' One of the big things that came out was the roads this winter weren't so great and I've come up with a snow plan and just recently added it onto my campaign page on Facebook. We don't really have to do much, we just need to tweak little things like that – We need to focus on bringing revenue into town without reaching into the pockets of the people."

Gerry DiDonato is a new resident to Dudley, but is no stranger to the community with his family having a legacy with deep roots in the town. DiDonato said there is a reason he chose to build

How do I know If an Investment Property is a Good Investment?

There are plenty of great ways to analyze an investment property. The most important thing you can do is decide on how you will analyze it and stick to your plan. Many times I will look at a property and fall in love with it but no matter how much you like it, the numbers are the numbers and if they don't work then you need to walk away. One way to compare investments is to do a Capitalization rate analysis where you take the annual income of the property and subtract out the expenses and divide that amount which is the net income from the purchase price. This way if you are looking at 5 different properties you can see which one is truly providing the highest return on investment. If there is a certain rate that you are targeting then you can use this calculation to decide on the highest purchase price you are willing to pay based on the income and expenses. When you are thinking about expense you don't want to forget to include anticipated expenses that you may not think of. The lawn needs to be mowed and the snow needs to be plowed. If you hire a property manager that expense should be included and you will also want to include a sinking fund which is where you would save up for anticipated expenses. A good example would be if the property needs a roof in 5 years then you should save up every month so in 5 years you can write a check for the roof and this should be included in the expenses. You also want to account for some level of vacancy in the building. Another option is to look at the cash on cash return. The cash-on-cash return is the ratio of annual before-tax cash flow to the total amount of cash invested, expressed as a percentage. Or you can just go as simple as adding the income and expenses every month and see what the amount of money is left after all bills are paid and decide if that is the right amount of money. The only other thing to look at when analyzing an investment property is whether the rent the current owners receiving is a market rent. If the rent is low you could do your calculations based on market rents instead of actuals but remember that you will need to increase the rents and that may not happen overnight so make sure you still have positive cash flow at the current rents. Then some really simple math would be, if you buy a 3 unit building can the rents of the other 2 units cover the bills and is the 3rd unit is only profit. I say this because if it doesn't cover it and you have to write a check every month that you have a vacant unit then you may be less picky on your rental criteria and have issues you did not intend to have. As always, I suggest you hire a Realtor who understands investment property and can help you to decide if each property is a good investment or not.

REALTOR'S REPORT

Brochure still needs tweaking to satisfy

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

DUDLEY – Dudley’s Economic Development Committee continues to perfect its design for a planned brochure to showcase the best that Dudley has to offer and brought a few reliable sources on board at its May 17 meeting to get vital input on how to move forward with providing the best product.

The committee invited Dudley Rail Trail System manager Ken Butkiewicz and Dudley Historical Society member and Historical Commission Chair Ed Bazinett to the meeting to seek their input on the committee’s current layout for the brochure and what they focus should be as they prepare to roll out the document in the coming months.

The consensus between the two guests seemed to be that the committee needs to simplify the presentation and decide exactly who they are trying to focus on and bring to the town, guests and citizens or new business.

“When I look at the rail trails and the water trail its attracting people to the community, but when I look at economic development I have kind of mixed emotion with the brochure. To me it’s targeted more towards making Dudley a destination for a family move. As far as pulling businesses into the area I don’t see it,” Butkiewicz, a former businessman, told the committee. “When I worked in industry many years ago, in another life, you wanted to see a picture and you wanted to see facts. What’s the labor pool? What does it look like? Engineers versus electronics? I’d like to see more in tuned to industry, or a section of it. You can take a panel out and shorten it up. It all depends on what you’re target audience is. Industry is tough. You have the rail system coming in. You have some major corporations that are here. But, the getting goods out of town and bringing in a labor pool into town, if you go ten miles outside of Dudley what are you competing against?”

Bazinett said the Historical Commission is willing to work with the Economic Development Committee to stylize the brochure with more details about the town’s history and photos and details to give a broader perspective of Dudley. He said the brochure needs to be focused and there is a stark difference between working to bring in industry and working to bring in people and interest in tourism.

“If the (town) is looking to attract business and industry that’s a different approach than if you’re trying to attract families,” Bazinett said. “It’s pretty tough for us. We’re not on any major road and a few years ago the Mass Pike was giving money away for brochures to attract tourists to your area and I thought we were going to nail that down; and they dropped that program just about the time our paperwork went in, which was too bad. If we want to be any kind of a destination we have to promote something that’s going to bring something in.”

Members of the committee seemed to agree that their goal was not to over think the brochure. Their goal is to give a broad overview of the town and to “wet appetites” and members put it. Committee chair John Briare said he sees the brochure as something to show people why Dudley is a town worth investing and living in.

“I think my sense was that the brochure was designed so that is someone was looking to move into the area or come to town hall and they’d be able to see that these are the assets, these are the recreational areas, these are the schools, and know a little bit about Dudley,” Briare said. “As a business tool if a company was thinking about moving into the area they’d be able to say ‘Look at all these resources here. This would be a great place for our employees to live’. At the end of the day we’ll figure out if it achieves that goal or not”

One suggestion both Butkiewicz and Bazinett brought up that seemed to resonate with members of the economic development committee was simplifying the presentation of the school information in the brochure. Butkiewicz said he didn’t like seeing the schools separated in the document and suggested looking at the school system as a whole, giving ample space to students and graduation numbers and a focus on Nichols College as well noting he’d “rather see more data than verbiage.” Bazinett said he does agree there are a few too many details in some areas and that simplifying a few parts of the brochure would benefit the Economic Development Committee is drawing in interest.

Briare agreed saying that the committee should consider following through with the suggestions.

“We’ve got to really cut down this verbiage, almost try to get like a third. We all need to row this boat together. This stuff just doesn’t happen. The text is still the same text from the website. There have been no submissions for modifications of text. I would really like to get this brochure done and over with because it’s really almost to the point where it’s becoming a distraction to our mission,” Briare told fellow committee members who agreed to contemplate changes and adjustments they would like to see for the committee’s June meeting, at which time they hope to make major headway in finalizing the document for further consideration by the town, or even mass production.

On Sunday May 21, 2017 during the 8:15 service, the St. Joseph's Sodality members celebrated their annual Communion Mass. At the conclusion of the Mass, six new members entered the altar to be inducted by the Sodality President Betty Sabaj and Monsignor Anthony Czarnecki. They were presented with Sodality medals, flowers, and the group's by-laws. Following the ceremony, the members were given a breakfast buffet in the school cafeteria.

Community Center receives Janet Malser Humanities Trust Grant

The Oxford Community Center was recently awarded a grant of $10,000 from the Janet Malser Humanities Trust for KidZone programming.

The center's KidZone programs are targeted to preschool aged children from Oxford and surrounding communities. Classes focus on music, arts, crafts and cooking. This award will help offset costs of materials and instructor time.

"The support of local organizations, like the Janet Malser Humanities Trust, enables us to provide quality programs for area youngsters," said Director of Community Programming for Oxford, Stacy K. Barr.

Such support is truly invaluable for the Community Center, which is operated as an enterprise fund and as such does not receive funds from the tax levy. The Center relies on program fees to support programming, heat and electricity, and all basic operations.

One parent recently had this to say about OCC's KidZone programming,

"As a mother of four young children I am constantly looking for physical and artistic classes that my children can enjoy that will not financially burden us as family. The Oxford Community Center has been an answer to my prayers. From cooking classes to music classes, winter basketball and summer swimming lessons we spend every season enjoying some of the many activities the OCC offers. With four young ones, I very much love the small sessions and time commitments that the classes are offered for. I don't know what I'm doing next month - so signing up my two youngest for cooking class for only four weeks for a nominal fee is right up my alley. My children have grown up at the OCC. It is and has always been a family-friendly safe atmosphere and such a blessing to our little town," said the parent.

Not only is the staff of the Community Center grateful for the support of the Janet Malser Humanities Trust, so are the local families served by OCC's programs.β

the later years of his life.

"It's been publicized in the news that local businessman Chris Robert is intending to develop a museum at the location. This would allow the board of selectmen to enter a lease with him for that site," Town Administrator Doug Willardson told voters during the annual town meeting. "Operating costs will be borne by those proposing the museum and not by the town. It's a museum to commemorate textile development and the mills that used to be in Webster."

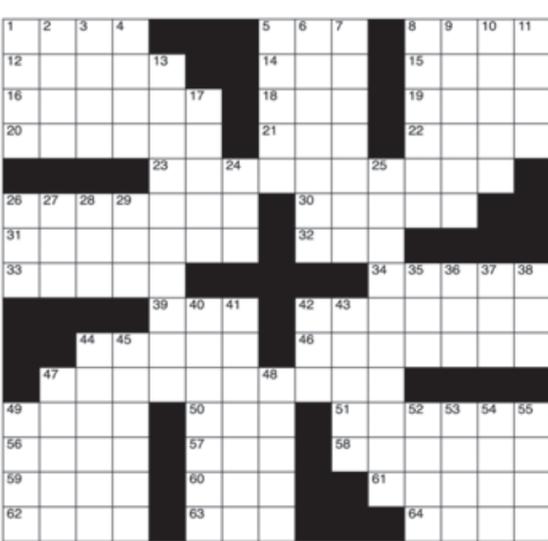

Negotiations have yet to actually take place, but Willardson assured voters that taxpayers will not bear any expenses for the initiative. The motion at the annual town meeting simply allows selectmen to negotiate with Robert, who is the president of Webster Ventures and is the owner of concert venue Indian Ranch, and put together an agreement that will allow Robert to utilize the building for his project. Robert is also the operator of the Indian Princess, a paddleboat that created significant controversy when it was first transported and subsequently deemed operational in Lake Chargogga goggmanc haugga goggchau bunagun-gamaugg

Since the boat went into operation Robert said that the community has warmed up to his new business venture and he expressed an appreciation for the positive vote from the community to allow his latest concept to be explored as well.

"I'm thrilled we got it done. There's a lot more work to do. After the town is finished it has to be passed by the state legislature and we're in the process of that. We expect it to take a few months for that to get done," Robert said of his museum initiative. "There was some contention over the boat, but there was never much contention over turning the armory into a functionally usable building. At one time there were hundreds of people against what I do as a promoter in the town. We're down to 20 or 40 people who don't like me anymore. I think people are seeing that I'm spending my money to make the town a better place."

Webster selectmen were introduced to the concept of a Samuel Slater Museum in January and approved the idea at that time, sending the negotiation power to town meeting for approval. Robert, and his daughter, who operate Indian Ranch, are also working to bring a new restaurant to the area, also inspired by Samuel Slater, which was proposed in December 2016.

Day Kimball Healthcare and Yale New Haven Health: Partners in keeping you healthy.

Our new community partnership with Yale New Haven Health will enhance clinical care at Day Kimball Hospital, expand access to care providers in Northeast Connecticut, introduce new technologies, and give us new opportunities for cost-efficiencies.

Important facts about the community partnership

There are many reasons this community partnership is good news for Northeast Connecticut, and nearby Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

- The partnership will expand local access to specialty care and other medical care providers. For example, a Yale New Haven Health-affiliated cardiologist now maintains an office at our Day Kimball Healthcare Center in Plainfield; other similar arrangements are being explored.
- The partnership will enable Day Kimball to access new technologies that would otherwise be difficult for a community healthcare system to acquire.
- Day Kimball has actually been a partner in Yale New Haven Health's purchasing network for about a year. In that time, the partnership has saved us more than $300,000 on the purchase of materials.

It's important to point out that this is not a merger or acquisition. It's a partnership between two independent organizations, pure and simple. Day Kimball remains a completely independent and non-profit community hospital and health system. Please note that your generous contributions to our fundraising efforts will remain strictly local and will be used only for their intended purposes — and they remain just as important to us as they have been in the past.

We're very excited about the promise and potential of our community partnership with Yale New Haven Health, and we will keep you updated as it develops further. To learn more about Yale New Haven Health, what the partnership entails and how it will work, visit daykimball.org/YaleNewHavenCommunityPartner.

Oxford class president takes pride in leadership role

BY JASON BLEAU
STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

OXFORD—Leadership is an important quality for any young member of a given community to have, whether that's a member of a town at large, or a member of a smaller group, such as a class of students at the local high school. Leading into graduation the series has focused on 14 students from the Oxford High School Class of 2017 that have been chosen for their ability to embody the skills and talents of different superlatives in high school. Each has shown the ability to lead their classmates and their community to a better understanding of the arts, sports, and what it means to be a good person in society.

However, only one was chosen as the individual that embodies what it means to be an able and well-rounded leader for all to embrace. That student is class president Sarah Stauffer, who was chosen by her fellow officers and classmates as "The Leader", the final superlative in Oxford High School's "That's A Picture" campaign for the Class of 2017. A class officer since her freshman year, Stauffer had a hand in choosing every designee for the campaign that camp before her and said it was an amazing experience to be able to acknowledge members of the graduating class that often go without their due credit for their uniqueness and their individual qualities that make them great students and people.

"I thought that is would be great for these kids to be honored for things that go unrecognized. Nobody gets an award for being a traveler or an outdoorsman. These are talents and interests that are overlooked and I'm glad they were given the opportunity to be appreciated for something that might be considered unconventional," Stauffer said.

Stauffer first became the class secretary in her freshman year after her class advisor convinced her to run for the election to help fill the role. In the subsequent years, she served as vice president and finally became president in her senior year. Stauffer takes her role as "the leader" seriously, believing that theirs a lot of dedication and effort that goes into setting a good example for her fellow classmates and those in lower class levels as well.

"I suppose it was a lot of pressure to be considered 'the leader'. There are a lot of challenges I've enjoyed facing and I feel like I've grown a lot from being the class president. When I talked to a couple other officers and students about the campaign they told me 'of course you're the leader, that's who you are'. It was kind of shocking that other kids thought that way because it would have been easy to name the class president the leader, but it's great to know that people really see me as a great leader," said Stauffer.

After being a part of numerous class projects and activities, including the upcoming graduation and the planning of senior prom, Stauffer said she can be proud of the fact that she played a pivotal role in allowing students to enjoy some of their greatest memories of high school. However, she didn't do it alone. She said she has had a lot of help from her classmates and fellow officers and feels blessed to have bonded with the class vice president, Adam Germaine, over all four years of her time in Oxford High School.

A passionate and organized individual in her own right, Stauffer said she fell in love with the stress that came with her leadership role as president and take pride in knowing she helped bring together people in her class who may have never met or associated with each other otherwise. She is proud to have seen her classmates grow and to have been a part of all four years of their lives as students and growing young adults trying to find their place in the world.

"I've watched this class grow into people I didn't know they would ever grow into. They're all opinionated in our own ways and I've watched the class divide a bit, which has been sad, but I've also watched these kids evolve into their own people," Stauffer said. "I've watched this class be willing and able to say what they feel. I've watched them grow and I've watched some kids throw themselves into the school and become extremely dedicated. I've seen students embrace different hobbies and interests. It's been an interesting thing to see. I've paid attention to everyone, so I took the time to try to know everyone and it's been quite an experience to see them grow into who they are today as seniors."

While she has endured her share of criticism as

Oxford High School Class of 2017 President Sarah Stauffer was named "the leader" as the final superlative in the school's second annual senior class "That's A Picture" campaign.

class president, Stauffer said she has enjoyed the experience of helping move the class of 2017 forward to their futures and give them a senior year they won't forget. As she prepares to see her fellow students off at graduation, Stauffer wanted to leave one last message for her students, and everyone frankly, to appreciate and abide by in the years to come.

"Always be kind. Always put your best foot forward. If you can make somebody's day a little bit better, then do it. There's no reason to ever put someone down. If you have a negative opinion make it constructive. Don't make it personal. We as people are starting to tear each other down. As a leader, I want to see everybody brought up. That's the message I want to convey to my class. If they learn that and take that away from their high school experience I think I've done my job. Despite everything I might have done wrong as president, that would make everything alright if I could just get it in their heads that being kind is the way to be," Stauffer said.

Webster School plans trip Into the Woods

St. Joseph School Drama club students follow CINDERELLA, LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD, RAPUNZEL, JACK AND HIS BEANSTALK AND THE WITCH AND JOURNEY 'INTO THE WOODS' beginning May 25th.

Students from St. Joseph School Drama Club, with the support of the Webster Cultural Council and the Janet Malser Humanities Trust, will offer Webster an amusingly different way to think about everyone's favorite fairy tale characters through their production of Into the Woods JR. The show, featuring over 30 students in grades 5-8, premieres on May 25 and 26th at 7 p.m. at Bartlett High School.

"From the first rehearsal, the students have collaborated on gaining a new perspective on these fairy tales and the ethical issues these stories present. "I think they deserve a standing ovation from the community for all their work," says Kelly Bailey, director. The students not only perform on stage but assist in stage managing, lights, sound, and production design.

St. Joseph School will present Into the Woods JR. on May 25 and 26 at 7 p.m. at Bartlett High School. For more information on the show please call 508-943-0378

With a book by James Lapine and music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, Into the Woods JR. is based on the Broadway production which won several Tony Awards, including Best Score, Best Book, and Best Actress in a Musical. The musical follows a Baker and his Wife who learn they've been cursed with childlessness by the Witch next door. The couple embarks on a quest – swindling, deceiving and stealing from such already-victimized characters as Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, Rapunzel and Jack (fresh off the beanstalk!) – to get the special objects required to break the spell. However, the story doesn't simply end "happily ever after" as each character must now face the consequences of his/her decision.

Into the Woods JR. is presented through special arrangement with Music Theatre International (MTI). All authorized performance materials are also supplied by MTL 421 West 54th Street, New York, NY 10019 Phone: 212-541-4684 Fax: 212-397-4684 www.MTIShows.com.

Music Theatre International (MTI) is one of the world's leading theatrical licensing agencies, granting schools as well as amateur and professional theatres from around the world the rights to perform the largest selection of great musicals from Broadway and beyond. MTI works directly with the composers, lyricists and book writers of these shows to provide official scripts, musical materials and dynamic theatrical resources to over 60,000 theatrical organizations in the US and in over 60 countries worldwide.

Emma McQuiston accepts help from a fellow Academy student as she packs up another load of coats.

Winter project yields warm results

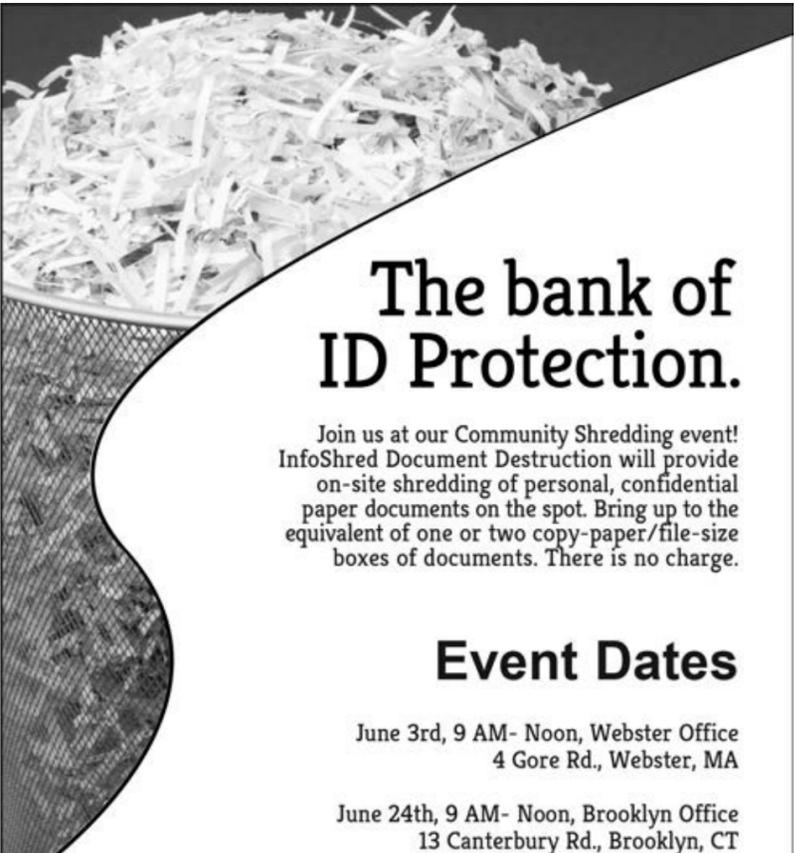

All Saints Academy eighth grade listened closely to an advertisement about homeless people while in the car during the winter earlier this year, and wondered how she could help.

It didn't take her long to come up with an idea. McQuiston, held a coat drive at the All Saints Academy campuses to help homeless men, women, and children stay warm during the winter months

Emma presented her idea to the Head of School and the Student Council Advisers who supported her 100%.

She created a notice for the school families and the All Saints Academy families answered her call to shed their closets of unused coats, parkas and snowsuits. During the drive, Emma bagged and delivered the donated coats to the Salvation Army while continually providing her thanks and updates to the school families on the success.

When the drive ended, Emma successfully collected 110 coats for the Salvation Army!

The Honest Guys talk comics

The Honest Guys, Matt Dunne of Dudley, Darryl Davidson of Southbridge, and Tom Smith of Dudley talk about comics every week for Wonderland Comic's weekly podcast.

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM — It's Sunday afternoon and Darryl Davidson, Matt Dunne and Tom Smith just spent the entire morning talking about Guardians of the Galaxy Volume 2, Alien Vs. Predator and zombies. It's a typical Sunday for the self-proclaimed Honest Guys, who call themselves D-Man, Dunnzilla and just Tom on their weekly podcast "I Gotta Be Honest with Ya," which is filmed in Wonderland Comics, a comic book store in downtown Putnam.

Each Sunday, the three friends film new episodes of their show, which they hope will help educate the community about comic books and geek culture. They also hope their antics and constant joking will entertain their viewers. Wonderland Comic's weekly podcast, which can be found on Wonderland's YouTube page and website, is also on Facebook.

The three friends discussed their show, how they got into comic books and why they believe people should check out "I Gotta Be Honest with Ya."

Interview: "So what is "I Gotta Be Honest with Ya?"

Tom — "It's a podcast that D-Man [Darryl] originated and brought Dunnzilla and I into. We are all friends and we wanted to talk about comics. We figured, why not put it on YouTube and Facebook to help Wonderland Comics?"

Darryl — "We thought we could get people more interested in comics and let people know there's more to it than just the movies. It's something we have fun with and we're passionate about."

Matt — "We wanted to hand out information to people that are either already involved in comics or are just starting to get into it."

Darryl — "Troy [William Troy Potter, Wonderland's owner] wanted to branch out and I gave him the idea of the show. I just thought, 'Let's give it a shot.' We figured we'd have like one or two views but we have almost 85 people following us already."

Interview: — "What made you agree to join the show?"

Matt — "I don't know, I was asked to."

Tom — "Love that."

Matt — "It's an honest answer!"

Darryl — "What makes it interesting for me is that I have people where I work that say, 'We loved your last episode.' There was totally a guy that was out of comics and he said, 'I love how you guys present it in that unique, crazy way you present it.' People can see we're having fun as the episodes go on."

Interview: "Why do a show about comics? Why educate people on comic books?"

Tom — "A lot of people will follow the films. We're doing the comic avenue, which is cool. I think some people will get into it. Too many people focus on movies these days and I grew up with comics. And you grew up in an era where you had comics and no movies."

Darryl — "We had bogus movies. I can't even remember them they're so bad..."

Tom — "Superman?"

Darryl — "We had Superman in the '70s. That's really it. Comics were cheap and they were great to read. Anyone who reads comics, God bless you. If someone makes fun of you, blow it off. It's something to enjoy and have fun with. You can't be ridiculed because you do something different. Being different is great. Be different. How is that?"

Tom — "I like it."

Interview: "What is it about comics that you like?"

Tom — "Just the story. It's a fairytale. It's like a television series."

Darryl — "It's good versus evil."

Tom — "Sometimes it has good characters..."

Darryl —

"Sometimes not."

Tom — "It's a good art form."

Darryl — "Sometimes not... But none of the great things about comics is that good art can save a bad story. Growing up we had great artists like George Perez and Neil Adams..."

Tom — "For me, Tod McFarlane."

Darryl — "And you can't forget John Burn too. His X-Men run was off the hook."

Tom — "You have to mention Jim Aparo."

Darryl — "He did the comic called 'The Brave and the Bold' but sad thing is he'll always be remembered for 'Batman and the Outsiders.'"

Interview: "What are your favorite comic books? Either a single superhero or a series."

Tom — "You first. Like a top five?"

Darryl — "When I started."

Tom — "Top five or top ten?"

Darryl — "I'll do five. In no order, Marvel Team Up, Doctor Strange, Iron Fist, Avengers, X-men... Uncanny X-men actually..."

Tom — "Uncanny X-men from back in the day?"

Darryl — "Oh yeah."

(The two fist bump.)

Tom — "Definitely Spawn by Tod McFarlane... It's so hard to come up with a top five of all time. Captain America, Batman... You gotta put Batman in there..."

Darryl — "Did you read the new Titans yet?"

Tom — "Not yet. I saw the last page."

Darryl — "It's wicked awesome..."

Tom — "This is super hard. Superman. I've always liked Superman. I have so many going through my mind right now. Paul Cornell's Captain Britain, even though it only went 13 issues... Very underrated..."

Matt — "Right now I like Action Comics, Batman, Spawn... That's pretty much it right now. I like how Spawn has gone back to the horror genre. It's eerie and creepy. I like how in Action they're bringing back Superman's most hated villains..."

Tom — "A lot of bad guys that were around in the '90s..."

Interview: "So, if someone is just getting into comic books, where should they start? What comic book should they check out?"

Tom, Matt, Darryl: "Spawn!"

(They all fist bump)

Darryl — "It's a great story."

Tom — "It's getting good."

Darryl — "It's a really good comic."

Tom — "It has a lot of action."

Darryl — "The art is really good."

Tom — "It may not be the best written story, but good artwork can save bad writing."

Darryl — "It's a really good book."

Tom — "We don't even have any more on the shelf."

Matt — "I think most people will say, 'I want to read Spiderman...' All the famous characters that have movies out right now. But I would go with something different. Something not heard of. That's what I would do. It's not always about a superhero who saves the day all the time... Spawn is the devil's tool of destruction, his henchman..."

Tom — "He made a deal with the devil for love."

Darryl — "It's a good story to read. And Spectacular Spiderman #1, which comes out in June."

Interview: "You said that some people who read comics might get made fun of. Why do you think there is this stigma with comic books?"

Tom — "I don't think that's the case anymore."

Darryl — "Back when I was growing up, it was. But now it's all in movies. And everyone loves them."

Tom — "Yeah, yeah. Robert Downy Jr. [who played Iron Man] changed that by embracing the characters. Christian Bale did that too. Their movies attributed to that."

Darryl — "There's more women buying comics than ever before. It's more adult."

Interview: "Why should people check out I Gotta Be Honest with Ya?"

Tom — "Why should you watch us? It's an informative show that will show people that not everyone in comics is snooty, petty and immature. We talk to you as if it's a normal conversation. Like friends."

Matt — "It's a good laugh. It's informative."

Darryl — "We're doing the show as long as it's fun and we're having a great time doing it. It's to let people know about characters they may not be aware of."

Tom — "It's a fun show."

Darryl — "The show has gotten bigger and better. It's pretty cool. Who knows where we will go from here?"

Darryl — "We want to thank Troy for letting us do this."

Tom — "He is letting us be us, be ourselves."

Darryl — "We use the space [Wonderland] to do the show. Which we deeply appreciate. Without him, there wouldn't be a show. Shut out to Troy!"

Tom — "I agree with everything D-Man has said..."

Darryl — "Wow!"

Tom — "We're just trying to have fun. I want to give thanks to people..."

Darryl — "Everybody who has been watching. Don, who gave us his Thor hammer to use in one of his shows. Anyone who made suggestions. And we want more! We just turn the camera on and go. There's no script and there never will be."

Local agencies benefit from Place Motors generosity

Three local agencies have been the recipients of the generosity of a Webster business.

Last Friday Steven Place, president of Place Motor in Webster, presented Janet Scheffler executive director of the United Way of Webster Dudley, James Alkire, president of Webster Dudley Food Share, and Cory O'Dell, executive director of the Boys & Girls Club of Webster Dudley, with a donation of $5,000 each for their organizations.

"What better way to help the community than to support these wonderful organizations. We're truly committed to this community having been in business 94 years and counting, this really is our hometown. We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our customers who supported this initiative

'The Drive for a Better Place,' said Place regarding his donations.

Watch for other opportunities in the future to help Place Motor support local charities.

Scheffler said, "We are incredibly grateful to Place Motor and Steven Place for his kindness, and for thinking of us and supporting our efforts to help others. This year our local United Way is celebrating 51 years of service to the people of Webster and Dudley. Our United Way helps to fund 16 partner agencies that provide necessary help and support to over 7,000 residents each year.

Alkire added, "This money is vital for our Bread of Life Kitchen which serves 3,500 meals yearly. In addition, over 1,000 Webster and Dudley families are helped by our food pantry which is open Tuesday and Thursday mornings throughout the year. We are very grateful as well to Place Motor for their gift." O'Dell said "Generosity of this magnitude enables us to increase the service opportunities to the youth of our community. Many thanks to Place Motor for their support and all they do for our community."

them passes it once all the way around, where Dussault turns it around and sends it back.

“For some reason, they love this game, and it’s really about focusing,” she said afterward.

Indeed, learning to focus, calm down, recognize one’s own emotional state and other related forms of mindfulness is the whole point of Dussault’s class. She does it with stories, little paper exercises, gentle background music and nature images, coloring and brief periods of yoga.

And it seems to work.

“We find them more relaxed and calm going from this class to their regular classroom,” said fellow first-grade teacher Carol Davis. “It lasts 30 or 40 minutes, then all you have to do is remind them of what they learned.”

Dussault said she started giving classes in children’s yoga a couple years ago and thought it could be beneficial in a school setting. Among other things, she said teachers routinely tell kids to pay attention, but don’t actually teach them how to.

She does it a few ways. Besides using an exercise in which each student uses a finger to trace the outline of their other hand while breathing slowly, she also has a mantra and a riddle written on the white board. Last Friday, the former was “I am focused,” and the latter’s solution was a raisin.

This is the program’s first year; previously, she was a traditional preschool teacher. So she talked to Principal Rob Pelecarski, who was just starting something similar at his previous school, Elm Park School in Worcester, when he got hired in Oxford.

Downward dogs in miniature, two small groups of students try their hand at yoga moves.

“He was so into mindfulness that he wanted to incorporate it into classes,” Dussault said. “He was more progressive and thought we’d try it, but nobody knew if the boys would be into yoga.”

“Kids in kindergarten and grade one can’t always handle the academics unless they’re in a better place,” Pelecarski said.

He makes a point of being on the playground every recess when he’s in the building, and said he has seen a notable difference in how the kids react. Although there are still occasions where they bump into each other “the reaction isn’t what you might expect.” Instead of two kids having a confrontation, they’re now more likely to step back, take a breath and let it go, he said.

As he sees it, having mindfulness training in school is “becoming more necessary,” although he’s not sure why. Among the various factors are more stress from testing, issues at home and our culture at large.

“From where we are as people today, I need kids to be able to do this more today than they did 20 years ago,” he said, praising Dussault’s work. “You couldn’t just put a teacher in there to do this. My teachers love this and the kids love it.”

Ironically, Pelecarski himself doesn’t do yoga. He laughs about it, noting he supports it despite being a big football guy.

“I just hope the budget allows us to keep it,” he added.

Chief addresses dangers lurking in phone fraud

CHIEF'S CORNER
 STEVE WOJNAR

In today's world, there are a number of phone, computer, or mail "scams" taking place. People can unwittingly become a victim of a larceny or identity theft by sending money to unconfirmed locations or providing personal/bank information. Our department continues to take reports from people who have received a "scam" phone call from the IRS. The IRS provides a great deal of information on this subject and I wanted to once again bring this information to the attention of the readers of this column.

In many instances, victims are called and told they owe money to the IRS. They are informed this must be paid promptly through a pre-loaded debit card or wire transfer. If the victim refuses to cooperate, they are then threatened with arrest, deportation, or suspension of a business or driver's license. In many cases, the caller becomes hostile and insulting. These scams continue to change over time and are becoming more sophisticated. The callers may even have a great deal of the victim's information, including the last four digits of a person's social security number.

According to the IRS, they will never:
 (1) Call to demand immediate payment over the phone, nor will the agency call about taxes owed without first having mailed you several bills. (2) Call or email you to verify your identity by asking for personal and financial information. (3) Demand that you pay taxes without giving you the opportunity to question or appeal the amount they say you owe. (4) Require you to use a specific payment method for your taxes, such as a prepaid debit card. (5) Ask for credit or debit card numbers over the phone or e-mail. (6) Threaten to immediately bring in local police or other law-enforcement groups to have you arrested for not paying

The IRS recommends if you receive one of these calls, hang up immediately. For those who owe taxes or think they may owe taxes, contact them via IRS.gov or by calling (800) 366-4484. If you've been targeted by a scam, you should also contact the Federal Trade Commission and use their "FTC Complaint Assistant." More information on these subjects can be found at IRS.Gov.

There are many different "scams" out in the world today. With this in mind, always be suspicious if you receive an e-mail, phone, or mail request seeking personal information. You should have the proper contact information available to you in order to confirm the business you are being asked to conduct is legitimate. You can always contact your bank, tax professional, the police, or other organizations before you conduct any transactions. If everything is legitimate, there should be time to research any request or demand. Some simple steps can allow you to make informed decisions and avoid becoming a victim.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, Ma. 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com.

Opinions expressed in this weekly column are those of Chief Wojnar only and unless clearly noted, do not reflect the ideas or opinions of any other organization or citizen.

EDITORIAL

It's the kick off. Every last weekend in May is the traditional first weekend of summer.

Families, finding warmer weather and a long weekend, pack up the picnics, the playthings and the first summer clothing of the year and head for the hills, or the beach, or the mountains, or the lake. Where ever they can find a bit of joy and verve in the warmth, the new grass, leaves on the trees and sunshine.

Revel in it.
 But don't forget reveille as well.
 Because there is more to this 'holiday' than a break from work and school and a chance to get outside for the first time.

It is a memory.
 Most towns in the Stonebridge Press coverage area do indeed remember the reasons. There are programs, and parades, in every single one of the towns we cover. What we fear is, while those committed to being part of the memory, part of the program and in the thick of the planning and execution, will there be an audience on the sides of the streets to watch the parade go by?

Yes, we believe so. We have seen it ourselves. We have seen mothers and fathers carefully teaching the young about exactly what the day is about, carefully explaining why a hat must come off when the soldiers and flag go by.

Why the monuments in the park still mean something even those dates are so OLD.

Our older veterans, those of the "Greatest Generation" are sadly leaving us quickly. Those who represented in Korea are beginning to dwindle. It is now the Vietnam vets, those who often are not as involved in things like parades, still perhaps bitter about memories of earlier treatment, who are now our revered senior veterans. Applaud them, thank them, remember them.

The wars have had different responses, different generations have dug in or dropped out; and now we have a whole new generation, within the last 30 years, of desert fighters who have had yet another experience.

They all have, whether willingly enlisting because they felt it was the right thing to do, were conscripted through a draft, or made decisions based on family circumstance or life and not political reasons at all; they have served. They went. They fought, or worked at a job assigned with a vigor as a required.

Some came back as different men and women.

Broken.

Others came back as different men and women.

Matured and wiser.

Others came back as different men and women.

Cautious, careful, disappointed.

Anyone joining a branch of the service comes back as a different person. Positively or negatively, they are most certainly a different person than the one who left oh so long ago. Their experiences have changed them; their acquaintances have changed them; and part of coming home is re-fitting into life with the changes.

Some manage, some don't. These last few wars have been even more aware of those difficulties.

Which makes it more important that we, the ones who do not know, who did not go, who owe them everything because our lives are free based on their lives and experiences; need to remember that.

With more than a barbecue.

Marrying my best friend

On May 26, 1986, thirty-one years ago, in the chapel of Rollstone Congregational Church (United Church of Christ) in Fitchburg, sealed with the words "I do," I made a commitment which set the course of my life as no other decision of my life has, the moment I married my best friend.

I met Sarah in the fourth grade, although to be honest, I can't remember this. Sarah says the children in our elementary school in Lunenburg were being paired for square dancing lessons. She was hoping to be matched with this other guy. She got me instead.

This I do remember. I remember "growing up" being difficult and this beautiful girl coming into my life around the seventh grade. We started attending Youth Fellowship together at the Lunenburg United Parish church. I found Sarah to be the easiest person to talk with of anyone I'd ever talked with. She lived within a couple miles of school so was a walker. I lived five or six miles from school so rode the bus. That didn't matter. Often, I'd walk her home before walking myself home. I was young, too intense, and sometimes made her cry on those walks because of that over-intensity, finding it difficult to just "lighten up."

Yet, somehow, she put up with me. We'd often talk for hours on the phone, and phones had cords then, so you had to stay in one place, focused solely on the other. Occasionally she'd talk with me about some guy she was thinking about too. Ugh!

Did I mention we never dated in high school? I wanted to. She didn't. Once I tried to kiss her in the basement of her home. We were standing by the furnace. How romantic! She slapped me. I got the point. Likely it was best as I look back on it. It was too soon. Sometimes the best parts of our lives really do need to develop slowly over time. Patience really is a virtue.

When I was younger I thought she was perfection in human form. Thirty-one years into our marriage I've seen her imperfections, likely more than anyone besides God and herself and I love her more than ever. Amazingly, she seems to feel the same way about me.

We consider "Danny's Song" by Kenny Loggins "our song." Here are the words to the chorus: "And even though we ain't got money, I'm so in love with ya honey, and everything will bring a chain of love, And in the mornin' when I rise, Bring a tear of joy to my eyes, And tell me everything is gonna be all right."

When I entered seminary in New Jersey in 1992, Emily and Timothy had already been born. Peter and Benjamin would be born during those years spent studying and working multiple jobs and walking around half asleep

BEYOND THE PEWS
 REV. JOHN R. WHITE
 THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF DUDLEY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST

all the time, yet those were exciting and deeply fulfilling years. I loved working as a chaplain at two local hospitals. On the night our youngest son was born, I was on-call and baptized a baby in an adjoining room, a baby who didn't survive. Despite the enormity of that grief, I felt God's loving presence in both those rooms in ways I'm not able to adequately describe here.

By the time our journey reached Dudley in 1997 I thought our family was complete. Sarah knew otherwise. Frankly I was terrified to learn of another baby to come. Yet "even though we ain't got money, I'm so in love with ya honey, and everything will bring a chain of love..." In March of 1998 Michaela became one of the greatest unexpected blessings of my life.

Even though I dated other people before we were married, I tell you the truth when I tell you that I used to pray, when I was a teenager, and into my early twenties, almost every night, for three things. First, I'd pray to find the way God wanted me to serve God in the world. I sensed there were gifts within me to share, yet I lacked focus and direction. I'd pray for God to show me, to give me a sign, something, anything, please. I'd pray for the strength and the courage to do whatever it was, to go wherever, to be whoever I was created to be.

Second, I'd pray, if possible (trying not to sound like I was asking too much for myself) to be able, one day, to marry Sarah Ludwig, my best friend, who fueled my spirit and my soul like no one else ever had or ever has.

Lastly, I prayed (assuming number two worked out) to be a good father to any children we may have.

And so, in celebration of this article being printed on the day of our thirty-first wedding anniversary, I say to Sarah: "Thank you. Thank you for continuing to be the greatest joy in every one of my days. Thank you for encouraging me to be my best. I hope to give you, on my best days, half of what you give me every day. I'd rather spend an ordinary, uneventful day with you, than be anywhere else, doing anything else, without you."

To you dear reader I say: "Believe in the unlimited possibilities of you, which God has created for you to become. You can change the world by simply following love and seeking to become your own expression of love in the place where you live." Matthew 19:6 quotes Jesus as saying: "for God all things are possible."

On May 26, 1986 I came to know it is true. On May 26, 2017 I'm reminded it is always true.

Love, Pastor John

A September 2016 article in the Washington Post reported that the National Endowment for the Arts saw a decline in literary reading in America. In 2015, 43% of adults read at least one work of literature. This was a significant drop from the nearly 60% when the NEA first started providing these statistics in 1982. The survey excluded reading required for school or work. NEA 2015 data shows that women (50%) are more likely to read literature than men (36%). The Washington Post article notes that there are many more entertainment options for people now. The internet, video games and home theatre compete for Americans free time. The facts in the Washington Post article fall in line with my anecdotal observations that antiquarian books have dropped in value.

Antiquarian book prices

An October 2010 CNBC article reports that buying antiquarian books isn't a wise investment strategy. They aren't very liquid and there are no fixed prices. Three copies of the same book in similar condition can sell for three different prices. Dealers typically double the price of a book. If you purchase a $4,000 book and want to sell it again soon after you buy it the dealer will pay you $2,000. If you were fortunate enough to buy a book that appreciates in value, it may still be a matter of years before the book increases to the point where you could sell it for a profit. Most of you reading this column aren't serious book collectors but may have books that you'd like to know the value of. My experience has shown that certain types of antiquarian books don't generally command strong prices such as school textbooks and religious books. There are always exceptions though. Business Insider reported that the "Bay Psalm Book" brought over $14 million at auction in 2013. It was the first book printed in what is now the United States. I have also seen some text books being offered for prices in the hundreds or more by book dealers.

If you own old books, there are some things that you can look for in determining if you might have something valuable. Check for old leather bindings. The author and subject matter are very important with collectible books. An early first edition book in good condition by a famous author can be quite valuable. Antiquarian books on subjects that appeal to collectors like ships, firefighting and sports are also desirable. Even some more recent scarce first editions by famous authors like "The Gunslinger" by Stephen King can bring over $1,000. Having the dust jacket with a book can also greatly increase the value.

The preview for a small online auction of items in a second session from a Charlton estate will be on May 27th. I'll be appraising items at events on June 10th in Townsend on June 17th in Worcester and June 21st in Ashland. Other events are being scheduled. A lot of fishing activities were held in the local area for youngsters this past few weeks. This week's picture shows Rick Marrama with his prize winning trout caught at a fishing derby at the Norco Sportsmen's club recently. His mom Christina works at Chick's barber shop in Whitinsville. Other fishing derbies included the Singletary Rod & Gun Club, Whitinsville Fish & Game Club, Uxbridge Rod & Gun club and last week's family fun fishing day at River Bend farm in Uxbridge sponsored by the Blackstone Valley Watershed Association & Alternatives. Thanks to all for providing some great fishing activities for the younger generation.

Saltwater fishing is improving every day and it is only going to get better for fluke and seabass. Rhode Island fluke fishing is slow at Block with a lot of small fish being caught. Carpenters Beach area, Green Hill & Charlestown are providing better fluke fishing with numerous legal size fish being caught. This year's fluke regulations have been revised again and are as follows: 19 inch length, is up one inch from last year and the daily bag has been cut to four fish per angler. Sea bass opens May 25, and the daily limit is three fish. This information was made available by Billy Carr at Snug Harbor Marina.

Striper fishing in Rhode Island and Massachusetts has been providing some very large fish especially on the Cape. Providence River is very good one day and extremely slow the next. Early morning fishing on the Providence River is proving to be the best time to fish. Tides are also making a big difference. The high population of porgies should keep the stripers in the area for some time. Blue fish are already being caught in both Massachusetts waters. This week's second picture shows an angler fishing on the Cape with his large bluefish. Photo courtesy of Red Top Bait shop.

B&A Bait shop in Sterling reported some slow fishing at Wachusett Reservoir for the last couple of weeks. He also reported on the low water conditions at the Quabbin Reservoir, where fishing for salmon has slowed a bit also. He weighed in a nice small-mouth bass tipping the scales at five pound plus from the Quabbin!

News of Northern pike being stocked in Lake Quinsigamond this past week by Massachusetts Fish & Wildlife had many freshwater anglers hoping that some of the pike will be stocked at Webster Lake & Manchaug Pond in the near future. Both waters have proven their success in growing very large pike in past years, but to date officials have had the fishing public voices falling on deaf ears. Fisheries and Wildlife staff traded some landlocked salmon from the Roger Reed Hatchery in Palmer, for 21,000 Northern pike fingerlings from New Jersey that averaged approximately four inches in length.

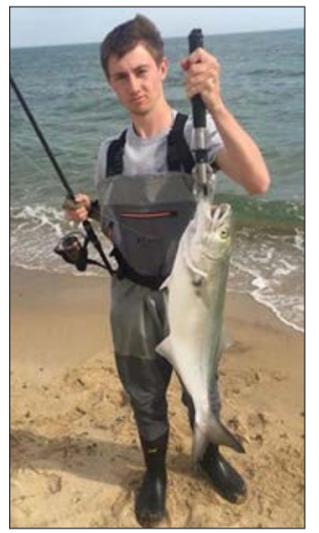

Black bear sightings are being reported in Douglas and Uxbridge in the past few weeks. Mass Fish & Wildlife is attempting to capture bear in some parts of the state to check on their health and are placing collars on the animals before releasing them. To date only

Garden Tips and Tricks

Now is the time of year backyard gardeners covet. Long, sunny days and late spring showers seem to have a magical power that transforms mere dirt and seeds into a lush green garden.

If it were only that easy! As all home growers know, it takes careful planning and many hours of labor to produce a bountiful garden. While nearly every successful gardener has their own special tricks to ensure a productive crop, the novice planter may need a helping hand to nudge green sprouts from uncooperative soil. If that's the case, the following tips culled from various "green thumbed" sources may just be all you need to make this the most successful gardening season yet.

The addition of peat moss is necessary to keep window boxes and other container gardens properly watered. But, if you are not wetting down the peat moss before adding it to the soil, you may be doing your garden more harm than good. Peat moss must be moistened before it is used in potting mixes. When dry, the substance actually repels water!

Here's how to pretreat it: If you want to wet a full bag of peat moss, poke several holes in the bottom of the bag and open the top. Then pour water slowly into the top of the bag until it seeps out of the bottom holes. Push on the bag and knead it to ensure the peat is getting saturated. To test, scoop out a handful of peat moss and squeeze it. If you can squeeze water out, it is ready to use. If not, keep wetting until you can.

Test Number 2: Here's an easy test to gauge if your garden soil is ready to plant. Simply scoop up a handful of dirt and squeeze it into a ball. If the ball crumbles when you release your fingers, the soil is all set for digging. If the ball sticks together, the soil is still too wet to work.

Flower bulbs are now plentiful at large garden centers. But, bulbs sold at such places are a bargain only if you know how to avoid poor quality bulbs. Here are some tips:

- * Bulbs should feel solid and heavy. If they are light, they may be dried out.
- * Avoid bulbs with discolored, dark or moldy spots.
- * Make sure there are no holes or other signs of insect damage on bulbs.
- * Pick over bulbs that have sprouted; it is better if they grow roots first.

to promote a bountiful crop. Here are some "old farmer's tales" that tell when it is time to plant garden vegetables:

Lilac's Bloom: When the lilacs have their first leaves it is time to plant cool-weather crops such as peas, lettuce, and onions. When the lilac flowers are in full bloom, it's safe to plant tender crops such as tomatoes and corn.

Native American's Rule: The American Indians passed this reliable tip on to European colonists, and many farmers still rely on it today. Tender crops should not be planted until the leaves on an oak tree are as big as a squirrel's ear (about an inch or so long).

Moon Signs: Many natural gardeners plant successfully by the phases of the moon. Here's how: Between the new moon and the first quarter: sow or transplant leafy plants and those that bear seeds on the outside of the fruit, such as strawberries.

Between the first quarter and the full moon: plant crops whose seeds develop inside the fruit, such as tomatoes, peas, beans and squash.

From the full moon to the last quarter: plant root vegetables.

Never plant from the last quarter to the new moon.

What does conservative investing mean to older investors?

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS
ANTONOPOULOS

If you're a certain age, or getting close to it, you might hear something like this: "Now that you're older, you need to invest more conservatively." But what exactly does this mean?

For starters, it's useful to understand that your investment preferences and needs will indeed change over time. When you're first starting out in your career, and even for a long time afterward, you can afford to invest somewhat aggressively, in stocks and stock-based investments; because you have time to overcome the inevitable short-term market drops. At this stage of your life, your primary concern is growth – you want your portfolio to grow enough to provide you with the resources you'll need to meet your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

But when you finally do retire, and perhaps for a few years before that, your investment focus likely will have shifted from accumulation to preservation. And this certainly makes some sense. Even though you may spend two, or even three, decades in retirement, you actually have many shorter time frames for withdrawing money – that is, selling investments – from your retirement accounts, such as your 401(k) and IRA. In fact, you may be taking withdrawals every month – and you don't want to be forced to sell investments when their price is down. Consequently, you'll want a portfolio that's less susceptible to market downturns. This means that you may need to reduce the percentage of stocks in your investment mix and increase your holdings in investments that have less growth potential but offer greater stability of principal, such as bonds. If you follow this formula, you will have become a more conservative investor. But this evolution – from aggressive to conservative – isn't that simple, or at least it shouldn't be. If, as mentioned above, you are retired for two or three decades, you will have to deal with inflation. And even at a relatively mild 3 percent annual inflation rate, your purchasing power will decline by about half in just 25 years. This is a real threat to retirees, who, unlike active employees, can't count on increases in earned income to overcome increasing costs of living.

Given this reality, you will have to find your sources of rising income in your investment portfolio. One possibility: Dividend-paying stocks, some of which have increased their dividends for many years in a row. Still, like all stocks, these dividend payers can lose value from year to year, and they can also reduce, or even eliminate, dividends at any time. In other words, they aren't risk-free – which brings us back to the question of how "conservative" of an investor you can really afford to be when you're retired.

In the final analysis, there's no simple answer. On one hand, you probably shouldn't be as aggressive an investor as you were when you were much younger and still working. On the other hand, if you were to primarily own certificates of deposit and U.S. Treasury securities, you might face the prospect of outliving your money. Ultimately, you'll need to maintain a balanced portfolio that helps you control risk today while providing you with growth opportunities for tomorrow.

Fellow Webster resident Harold Young took to the microphone and explained that part of the problem is the unwillingness of taxpayers to accept any extra funding to cover required bills. He said voters often turn down any money deemed necessary when budget season comes around, facilitating the need for an extra allocation at special town meetings.

"The bills come in late and they have to be paid, but the problem is when they put an item on the agenda for more money everybody votes it down so there's not enough money to take care of the last year's bills so they've got this year's bills. Everything goes up. I've never seen anything come down except rain," Young said.

Bysiewicz stood by her statements saying that, like the citizens of the town, Webster officials have to live within their means.

"I have a check book. I have a level of knowledge of what I spend my money on or what I haven't yet paid for, but I know it's coming due. As a town, we have a fiscal responsibility to ensure that we keep track of that at all times and we do accrue for that. I understand that expenses go up. My expense go up as well, but I account for the fact that when I decided to purchase something it costs more than I originally budgeted and that means that somewhere else I am not buying something that I want to buy or I'm buying something of lesser quality than I initially intended to buy," Bysiewicz said. "I'm more concerned why the basic process failure and what I'm taking as fiscal irresponsibility."

Willardson said that he feels the town is in good financial shape and that officials are doing their due diligence to stay on top of the expenses, but reiterated that sometimes a bill falls through the cracks and every town has to adjust for that, not just Webster.

"This is pretty typical. This happens at every town meeting and in every town, this happens as well. With a $45 million budget to have only $600 that got missed is not a big deal. It's something of course that we're going to keep track of, but I feel comfortable that we are maintaining and doing the fiscally prudent thing here," Willardson said.

Marzec helps hit, pitch Rams past Oxford for postseason bid

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — When asked what was the difference in his team's game against Oxford High on Saturday, May 20, Northbridge High varsity baseball coach John Demagian was quick to answer.

"It was the Jack Marzec show today," the longtime skipper of the Rams said.

The Northbridge senior had a game to remember against the Pirates, going 3 for 4, his big hit being a three-run homer that turned a two-run deficit into a one-run lead. Marzec then came on to pitch in relief in the bottom of the fourth inning and got out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam. He went on to throw four innings of no-run, no-hit, seven-strike-out relief as the Rams defeated Oxford, 7-4, at Horgan Field.

The win, Northbridge's 10th of the season, earned the Rams a postseason berth into the Central Mass. Division

3 tournament. This is the 25th consecutive year Northbridge has qualified for districts. The last time the Rams failed to make the playoffs was 1992, seven years before any of the players on the current roster were born.

"Every year it's just an expectation that we're going to make the playoffs," Marzec said, "but we've still got to go out and do it. It's very relieving that we finally got the wins we needed to hit that point."

Northbridge (10-7), punched its ticket to the postseason by winning three games last week — 12-0 over Millbury High, 8-4 over Tantasqua Regional and Saturday's 7-4, come-from-behind win against the Pirates. The Rams' 3-0 week followed a 0-3 week in which they lost to Auburn High, Shrewsbury High and St. Peter-Marian High.

"It's really been a long haul," Demagian said of getting to 10 wins. "These guys have really been battling every game, every week. I've got to give them credit. I think my guys really benefitted from the fact that we play a tough schedule. We play good teams and good competition and they benefit from that."

Northbridge trailed, 4-2, as the game moved to the top of the fourth inning. With one out Zach Roberts and Sam Gallagher both walked, prompting Oxford coach Justin Richards to lift starter Dante Purretta and bring in reliever Joe Grady. Marzec was the first batter Grady faced.

Marzec greeted Grady with a shot to center field that easily cleared the fence and gave the Rams a 5-4 lead.

"It was a high fastball, up and in," said Marzec of his second career high school varsity home run. "I just threw my hands at the ball. It was a high pop-up, but because of the short fence here it went out. That ball would have probably gotten caught if we were playing at home."

In the bottom of the inning Marzec came on in relief of Northbridge starter Nate Lyons after Lyons allowed a lead-off single to Oxford's Noah Buckley. Marzec promptly walked the Pirates' Michael Bordeaux and then Dave Meech reached on a fielder's choice to short and then stole second base. Oxford's next hitter, Justin Tessier, struck out but reached base when Northbridge first baseman Chris Brouwer dropped catcher Brian Iarussi's throw to first after Iarussi dropped strike three.

So, with Buckley on third, Meech on second and Tessier on first, Marzec got out of the inning unscathed by getting Grady to ground into a double play. Grady hit the ball to Rams' second baseman Tim Haverty, who tagged Tessier out and then threw on to first to complete the double play and end the inning.

"Once we got the lead I was going to Jack," Demagian said. "He's been good all year. He really showed it today. He got all of that pitch on the home run and then he shut the door on them. It was the Jack Marzec show today."

Brouwer gave Marzec and the Rams some breathing room in the sixth when he hit a two-run homer over the fence in left-center off of Oxford's third pitcher

Northbridge continues winning ways in narrow defeat of Lady Pirates

OXFORD — Playing against one of the top teams in all of Division 2, the Oxford High varsity softball team held its own in a 5-2 loss to Northbridge High on Saturday morning, May 20.

The Rams improved to 17-1, while the Pirates slipped to 11-6. Both teams will soon compete in the upcoming Central Mass. Division 2 district tournament.

Versus Northbridge, Nicole Bergeron ripped an RBI double to get the Pirates on the board in the second inning. Then, in the sixth, Kayla Soto added an RBI double to keep Oxford in the game. Candice Nelson pitched well in a complete game effort.

With win over Tyngsborough, Rams reach postseason play

DUDLEY — Playing in their final regular season home game on Thursday, May 18 at Carmignani Field, the Shepherd Hill Regional seniors from the boys' lacrosse team stepped up their games en route to a 12-6 win over Tyngsborough High. The victory not only felt sweet because of the sentimental factor, but also because the Rams won their 10th game — improving to 10-7 — which clinched them a spot in the upcoming Central/Western Mass. Division 2 district tournament.

"That was our mission, what the guys were working toward back since March," said Shepherd Hill head coach

Mark Kelley. "One day at a time be fundamentally sound working toward perfecting the process and the outcomes are going to take care of themselves — that's been our mantra all season."

The determined Rams also wanted to play to the best of their ability since they didn't do so a day earlier versus West Springfield High, which still produced an 11-8 victory.

"Today was much better," said Kelley. "We were moving, we were doing all the little things and it was something to prove."

Shepherd Hill has now beaten Tyngsborough twice this season, their first two wins over the Tigers since the Rams moved to the Midland Wachusett League.

"Some of the seniors stepped up," said Kelley.

That included the play of Jake Zablocki, who won the majority of his face-offs — his success rate is at almost 80 percent this season — and scooping up a team-best 11 groundballs. Kelley also commended the play of seniors Mateo Belsito (two goals, two assists) and defender Anthony Roy.

Goalie Zack Davey is also a senior, and he finished with 10 saves to limit the Tigers' offense.

"He played out of his mind today," Kelley said of Davey. "He's been the heart and soul of our team this year. He's special."

Juniors Cole Carty and Ryan Fenton also displayed a good defensive presence in front of Davey.

"It was a total team effort," said Kelley.

Jake Zablocki of Shepherd Hill fights through a check as he carries the ball up the field.

On the offensive side of the field, juniors Anthony Detarando, Seamus O'Brien and Tristan Pietz, as well as sophomore Ben Carpenter each scored two goals. Zablocki scored on the power play and sophomore John Foley scored the team's final goal.

The key quarter for the Rams was the second, when they took a 2-1 advantage and turned it into an 8-2 halftime lead. From the early point of the second quarter until nearly midway through the third, Shepherd Hill didn't allow Tyngsborough to score.

Add it all up and the Rams earned their 10th win to advance to postseason play.

"We haven't made districts since 2014. This is our first time making districts since moving to Mid-Wach," Kelley said of the team's important milestone.

DUDLEY — The Shepherd Hill Regional varsity baseball team has had a difficult time accumulating victories this season, and the Rams recently lost a 9-1 decision when they hosted St. Peter-Marian High, 9-1, on Thursday, May 18. Following the defeat The Hill's record stood at 1-15.

received his boot training at Sampson, NY, a full three months at the US Naval Training Center. Lennie was then assigned to Cook School in Belfort, MS. Upon graduation, he was sent to Galveston Texas and reported aboard the USS GRATIA (AKS-11) just prior to commissioning ceremonies. Gratia was a general stores ship, she would be responsible for delivering and disbursing goods and equipment to locations in the war zone.

USS Gratia, along with Lennie and the crew of 'Plank-owners' was assigned to the Asiatic-Pacific Theater. They soon set sail for the Philippine Islands (the Chosen Land) and their home port of Manila.

The journey was long and arduous, ships in the amphibious fleet were short on speed and armament but the crew was ready and anxious to get into the fight. She was equipped with a 5 in.

38 mount, four 3 inch-50's and a few 20 millimeter mounts. Gratia made the trip unescorted.

The Japanese had attacked the Islands just nine hours after the devastation rained down on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

Places like Bataan and Corregidor became infamous for the atrocities committed by the Japanese invaders, Gen. Douglas MacArthur left the islands vowing to return. The Army, Navy and the General returned on Oct. 20, 1944 to retake the islands.

Gratia arrived in Manila after the United States had regained control. With very few soldiers remaining hidden in the hills and caves, Gratia was quick to execute their mission of supplying the allied forces. They loaded supplies in Manila and quickly returned to sea, making deliveries to ports in the Admiralty Islands, New Guinea and at times she replenished ships while at sea.

Lennie loved his job even though the hours were tough, 24 on and 24 off, but there was nothing better than being a cook aboard ship. He had the good fortune of meeting up with some good ol' boys from Webster. And there were times when the Gratia transported a few thousand cases of beer to the ports that maintained a PX, or beer hall.

The threat of submarines and air attack diminished. The destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki convinced Emperor Hirohito to surrender 'unconditionally'. The official documents were signed aboard the Battleship Missouri, in Tokyo Bay on Sept. 2, 1945

Petty Officer 2nd Class Jacques was reassigned to a Rescue Tug, ATR-71 for the remaining three months of his enlistment, which lasted exactly two years. He was awarded the American Campaign medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign medal, Navy Occupation Service medal, Philippines Liberation medal and the World War II Victory medal.

Lennie took a short time off before entering the peace time job force. He had not wavered from his hopes of becoming a printer. Soon, he was a compositor/typesetter at print shops in the area. Though Lennie retired from his trade many years ago, he did not stop working.

He was most recently employed by Subaru, sort of a runner-gopher guy. He fully retired at the age of 88. He is ninety years of age now and resides with his wife of 65 years, the former Rita Ethier. They have two children, Diane of Dudley and Norman in Southbridge.

Lennie has been a member of American Legion Post 181 for 65 years. In 2014, he made the Honor Flight to Washington, DC, along with a plane load of his comrades, all members of the Greatest Generation.

Although Mr. Jacques could be described as being similar to the lyrical 'Little Teapot' of Nursery Rhyme fame, 'short and stout', he possesses a booming voice, a positive attitude, an astounding memory and is a friend to all who know him. He is well deserving of the honor bestowed upon him by the Webster-Dudley Veterans Council

Thank you for your service, Mr. Jacques.

Beavers tie game in seventh inning, win it in eighth to get past Bay Path

First baseman Dom Esposito of Bay Path closes the glove to record an out on Blackstone Valley Tech's Tom Morin.

in the seventh and then again in the eighth."

And although the loss may sting for the Minutemen, head coach Mark Sansoucy has seen a lot of improvement from his team as the season winds down.

"As we went on in the season we started to get better," he said. "We have a very young team. Hopefully we learn from it and get better."

Valley Tech's seventh inning rally to tie the score began with one out when Ty Almeida (2 for 5) singled. Blake Morin followed suit with a single and Tom Morin (2 for 3) plated pinch runner Tyler Bennett with a sacrifice fly.

Bay Path then had a chance to win the game in the bottom of the seventh when two runners reached on errors, but BVT pitcher Nick Connolly made a miraculous catch on a sacrifice bunt attempt to grab the first out. Connolly then struck a batter out and induced a groundout to end the threat.

"We had guys in position to score, too, and we didn't score," Sansoucy said of his team's multiple chances throughout the contest. "They're a good team."

Then, in the eighth, the Beavers got their three runs with two outs. Nate Charron singled, Alex Moran reached on an error and both runners advanced on a pitch in the dirt. JJ Newcombe (3 for 5) followed with a single into right field that scored both, and Almeida reached on another error to score Newcombe.

Connolly then finished his complete game with a relatively quiet bottom of the eighth.

"He pitched awesome,"

Nick Ethier photos

Bay Path's Alex Belanger delivers a pitch to the plate.

Burke said of Connolly, who allowed one earned run on six hits with five strikeouts and just two walks. "He's always in the zone, getting around of guys, throwing strikes, getting groundballs."

And now that Valley Tech is back to its winning ways, Burke believes that the Beavers have a good chance to perform well in the postseason.

"We're pumped. We're ready to go," he said. "Our goal is to get there and then our goal is to make a run to the district finals."

For Bath Path, Alex Belanger also pitched all eight innings and surrendered two earned runs on 10 hits with two strikeouts, three walks and two hit batters.

"Alex pitched good and the fielding, for the most part, was good," said Sansoucy.

The Minutemen scored single runs in the second and third innings after BVT scored first in the top of the second on a Charron sacrifice fly to score Andrew Lavergne, who walked for the first of three times in the contest. Bay Path then countered with RBI's off the bats of Curtis Koebke and Cam Stitisits.

The loss dropped Bay Path's record to 7-10, so they must win their final three regular season games — to be played after press time — in order to qualify for the same Central Mass. Division 3 district tournament that the Beavers will be a part of.

"We just have to grind," said Sansoucy.

CHARLTON — With the Blackstone Valley Tech varsity baseball team mired in a three-game losing streak, the Beavers were hoping to find their winning form when they traveled to league rival Bay Path Regional on Monday, May 22. They trailed, though, heading into the seventh inning, 2-1.

But Valley Tech rallied for the tying run in the seventh and won the game in the eighth with a three-run frame, taking the game, 5-2, and improving to 14-4.

"You win 13 of your first 14 and you go 0-3...and it felt good, we needed that one," said John Burke, head coach of the Beavers, of getting back to their winning ways. "We had chances and we finally came through

Drug take back worked well

Courtesy photo

The end of April the Dudley Police Department and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) conducted another prescription drug "Take Back" event. For the 10th time in Dudley, the public had the opportunity to provide for safe disposal of expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs. The service was free and anonymous.

This was a well attended event.

More than 50 people dropped off a large quantity of prescription medications. Thanks go out to representatives of Harrington Hospital who provided medical information for the residents. They also allowed the department to use four needle drop boxes for those who sought to dispose of medical sharps. These were filled to capacity.

It was another successful event and the Dudley Police encourage everyone to take advantage of these programs in the future. The next one is tentatively planned for fall 2017.

Boating Safety may not be "What you see"

SUBMITTED BY ROBERT BREZENSKI
PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICER, USCGAUX 10-2

It's that time of year when getting on the water again becomes more than that desire you felt all winter; those adds on the screen and in print, the background scenes in shows and on YouTube, all the fun to be had. Next time you see that paddle boarder heading out into the sunset in the media look at the image a little closer. Do you see a life jacket, inflatable belt pack, or a whistle attached to some personal flotation device (PFD) on or with them? How about that child, obviously less than 12 years old, sitting on the board while a parent paddles them across the open waters? Unfortunately, you may not see what is a legal requirement and just good common sense in the media. Why?

These wonderful images can only lead to a false sense of security and lapse of safety awareness. Many of those images were shot at locations outside the US where stand-up paddleboards (SUP) have not been classified as vessels; requiring a PFD and sound producing device with or on the paddlers. SUPs and kayaks have become very popular since 2010, low cost and availability at several retail outlets along with the impression that SUPs look like surfboards, that don't require PFDs, may be the reason that they entered the boating fatality statistics in 2013 and are going up. In fact, canoe, kayak, and SUPs now account for over 29 percent of boating fatalities.

Drowning is by far the top cause in boating fatalities; 85 percent of them were found not wearing a PFD. Aside from death, the highest primary injury recorded in canoe and kayak accidents was hypothermia. Another fact is that 71 percent of all boating fatalities occurred on boats where the operator did not receive any boating safety instruction. Boating safety organizations are concentrating efforts on the paddle craft community as their numbers and accident statistics continue to rise.

One way to learn more about paddle craft and other boats before you purchase is to attend programs given by local marinas. Lakeview Marine on Webster Lake will be having a Demo Day on June 10. There will be free SUP demos from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. with additional on-water instruction available and discounted rentals. Call ahead to reserve your board toll free: (877) 303-6460. The local Coast Guard Auxiliary Tri-State Flotilla 10-2 will have a booth there with answers to any questions on boating safety and regulations.

Getting a free vessel safety check for your boat is another way to get information and a decal if your vessel passes. VSC Stations will be held at Wallum Lake state ramp on May 27 and at Memorial Beach Ramp on Webster Lake June 3 (rain dates on the following Sundays). Many boat insurance companies offer discounts for getting the decal or taking CGAux courses.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary is a component of the United States Coast Guard, which is one of the nation's five Armed Services. Public education and boating safety are two of the major cornerstones of the Auxiliary. CGAux courses provide instruction to boaters at all levels from those just starting out to the seasoned boater. Our instructors look forward to sharing their knowledge with you, increasing your boater safety awareness and making your overall boating experience more enjoyable. For the courses, available in your area see <http://cgaux.org/boatinged>

There are so many ways to access and enjoy our local waters by boat; also, there are many ways that great experience could be tragic without the basic knowledge to avoid accidents. Boat responsibly, encourage the wearing of life jackets, take a safe boating class and know the regulations in place to make these sports safe and enjoyable. Don't let what you see in the media influence your decisions regarding safety on the water.

his perfect retirement home in Dudley and he is excited about the prospect of following in his uncle's footsteps as a leader for the town at large.

"I'm truly honored to be considered as your selectman for the great town of Dudley, Massachusetts," DiDonato said in his opening statement. "For those who knew him, although we may not have always agreed politically I'm sure my uncle Tony is looking down right now and very proud of this. Either that or he's thinking 'Gerry you don't know what you're in for' - Over the past several weeks I have talked to many residents and business owners who have expressed concern over money for the town, taxes, slow growth, and the condition of the roads. I'm neither an insider nor a politician by any means, but what I can tell you is I have worked hard my whole career. What Dudley needs is a candidate with a fresh set of eyes, a candidate that offers new perspectives, a candidate that offers new ideas to increase revenue and prosperity, a candidate with proven management skills. Perhaps someone on day one who, if elected, will perhaps ruffle a few feathers, raise a few eyebrows, ask questions that need answers, and perhaps someone who is approaching retirement and can give the town full time to steer Dudley in the right direction. I believe that candidate is me."

Each candidate provided a different approach to answering the questions provided to them. Cyganiewicz provided more detailed and extensive answers while DiDonato proved to be a more conservative and laid back candidate, keeping statements short and to the point. Both candidates were praised for their commitment to taking on the role of selectman and were approached with a myriad of questions pertaining to numerous issues pertaining to the community, ranging from more detailed town wide concerns to more social issues that they may face as a selectman.

Both candidates were asked if the town government of Dudley provides what it should to the citizens and truly works for the community. The candidates seemed to agree that the Board of Selectmen and the rest of the elected bodies in town work hard for the betterment of Dudley as a whole.

Kerry Cyganiewicz spoke from experience on the Finance Committee noting that he knows first hand that the officials in Dudley are working for the people. "In the time that I've been here we have open meetings where residents can come, and forums like this where residents can communicate," Cyganiewicz said. "At every town meeting that I've been involved with as a member of the FAA I've never seen one person that has wanted to speak or be heard that has been denied. In every selectman meeting I've been to not one person has been denied to speak. Dare I say there have been people that have been allowed to speak too much at some meetings. The town of Dudley works quite well for its citizens in my opinion."

DiDonato, who often viewed his uncle's interaction with the people and the appreciation they seemed to have for his work, agreed with his opponent that Dudley's government works well for them, but for those who don't agree he implores them to be a bigger part of the larger discussion.

"For the people who say that the government doesn't work for them, I'd like to see a bigger turnout at town meetings. From what I heard just the voting alone on selectmen you probably get about ten percent of the people to vote. I want to turn that around somehow and get people more involved," DiDonato said. "I'd like to turn the revenue around and attract businesses. If you generate more money you can give more things to the people to keep them happy."

Both candidates chose to tread lightly on a question concerning the recently resolved Islamic cemetery issue that dominated public discussion in 2016. They also answered questions concerning how they would help Dudley grow as a town economically and how to better utilize the area of West Main Street that runs through Quinebaug and into Southbridge more effectively.

One citizen requested the candidates address the issues of state mandates that would increase school spending by half a million dollars for the 2018 fiscal year and the impact such mandates would have on municipal services. Both candidates showed an understanding for how this could negatively affect Dudley and how priorities will need to be set.

"You have to be good friends with the state and have good negotiation skills," DiDonato said noting that bringing in a larger tax base could help offset the costs if negotiations with state officials fell through. "Not only do you have to attract new businesses, you have to get families in here too and you've got to have a new high school. A lot of people want to go to a town with a good education system. It is up to the voters whether they want to vote for that or not."

"That Chapter 70 really puts us in a pickle," Cyganiewicz said in his answer. "We need to do one of two things. We need to lobby our state officials to get that changes or we need to bring in more revenue. It's one of the two things, preferably both. I have existing relationships with Senator Ryan Fattman and State Representative Peter Durant. One thing that I've learned from (outgoing selectman Peter) Fox, he speaks with them about five or ten minutes about matters involving the town and they he lays off of them and talks about other things. During that five or ten minutes, he specifically talked about this Chapter 70 issue. So I think we need to lobby those state officials to get them to ease up on us with these mandates that we just can't afford. We also need to work on bringing businesses in the town that will bring in revenue to give our taxpayers and residents a break."

Nichols College purchases Dudley golf course

DUDLEY — Nichols College has entered into an agreement to buy the approximately 62-acre Dudley Hill Golf Club. The purchase price of $200,000 includes the nine-hole course, a 3,508-square-foot clubhouse, and an 800-square-foot garage at 80 Airport Road; and a 1,491-square-foot light utility building and 896-square-foot garage at 10 Dudley-Oxford Road. The sale is expected to be completed by mid-July 2017.

The property, which is zoned for agricultural and recreational use, is adjacent to the college's Center Road campus.

"The decision to purchase the Dudley Hill Golf Club was a strategic one for the long-term benefit of Nichols College. Funds from the College's capital budget will be used to buy the property," said Nichols College President Susan West Engelkemeyer, Ph.D.

Members of Dudley Hill Golf Club — which is open to the public — can expect, at a minimum, the same excellent services and amenities on the course, in the clubhouse and at the restaurant

Current Chair of the Dudley Board of Selectmen Jonathan Ruda was one of two selectmen, including selectman Paul Joseph, to present questions to the candidates with Ruda's first question asking each of them to define their role as a member of the Board of Selectmen. He also asked what they would say to a member of the community who found the office they wanted to access was not open because of budgetary constraints to which both candidates noted that they would try to help resolve the issue as town officials.

"You explain to them that we had to make cuts and this is where we made the cut. We apologize that you're inconvenience. This is the time the office is open, please come back during normal business hours," Cyganiewicz said. "If you don't like this please attend the meeting. Please vote. Please help us to change this."

DiDonato offered a much more direct answer. "If I was a selectman I'd probably try to handle it," DiDonato said. "I hate to turn away and citizens, but you have to explain to them what's going on, you have to be forthwith."

One of the more lighthearted questions came from resident Mary Sansoucy who asked the candidates where they see the town of Dudley and Nichols College in 50 years. Both candidates said they want to see both the school and the town flourishing.

"The town with the right leadership will be very prosperous. I want it to be the envy that they have always received. The current operator of the club — Jonathan Hoenig, CEO of Tri-State Golf Co. — will continue to operate the facility.

"Tri-State Golf Co. is excited for the opportunity to continue managing and operating the historic Dudley Hill Golf Club," said Hoenig. "We are confident our arrangement with Nichols College will ensure that our members, customers, and patrons will continue to enjoy a first-class experience at the facility."

Nichols — which joins over 80 other colleges across the nation that own golf courses — and Dudley Hill Golf Club have enjoyed a decades-long relationship. For years, the Nichols golf team has practiced and played there. Nichols annual alumni golf and other fundraising tournaments are also hosted at the club. With this purchase, students studying a variety of business fields at Nichols may have the opportunity for hands-on work experience at the facility.

"Owning the golf course will complement our current academic programs in hospitality management and sport management and provide our students with additional opportunities for experiential learning," said Engelkemeyer.

Donald Burton Rice, 82

OLD SAYBROOK CT — Donald Burton Rice, age 82, of Old Saybrook, CT entered into the rest of his Lord on May 11, 2017. He was born at home in New Haven, CT and resided in several shoreline towns before moving to Lakeland, FL where he eventually retired. He lived in Oxford for several years with his son Glenn and family. For the past year he was a resident at Gladeview Healthcare Center in Old Saybrook.

He leaves his sons Glenn and his wife Cynthia of Dudley; David and his wife Kerry of Fairfax, VT; daughters Beth Mayers and her husband Doug of Wernersville, PA; Bonnie Hall and her husband John of Westbrook, CT; grandchildren Joshua Rice and his wife Sarah, Andrew Rice and his wife Carrie, Lindsey Hall, Matthew Rice, Kendra Mayers, Jonathan and Haven Rice. He also had seven great-grandchildren: Jadon, Lily, Madelyn, Gavyn, Josiah, Kemble, and Levi Rice. He was predeceased by his loving wife of 52 years, June (Smith) Rice.

He also worked at the state of Connecticut Highway Department and the First Congregational Church of Madison, CT. He loved old clocks and built several clocks from kits. He also loved antique cars and enjoyed having a 1954

DeSoto.

In recent years Don could be seen riding his red scooter to get around town. In warmer weather he would sit on his scooter and watch vehicles go by, waving to people from his vantage point on Oxford's Main Street.

Don loved talking with people — friends and strangers alike — and delighted others with stories from his childhood or his service aboard "his" ship, the Wisconsin. He loved to greet people at his daughter and son-in-law's Corn Crib at Maple Breeze Farm in Westbrook and at many local Farmer's Markets which he attended.

One of his favorite tasks was serving as a greeter at Oak Hill Bible Church in Oxford, handing out the bulletins and welcoming people with his warm smile and cheerful demeanor. He was a faithful follower of Christ and looked forward to the Second Coming of Jesus.

Interment was at Oak Grove Cemetery in West Haven. A Celebration of Life service will be held at Oak Hill Bible Church at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Oak Hill Bible Church, PO Box 277, Oxford, MA 01540. The Swan Funeral Home of Clinton, CT was in charge of arrangements.

neuropathies that may occur during all stages of treatment and recovery. This program also promotes relaxation, which is a vital element in healing, as it brings emotional and physical relief from stress through moving meditation and gentle yoga stretches. These programs have been made possible through Pinkhippy.Org, a 501(c)(3) non-profit holistic service and support organization that serves breast cancer patients, survivors and their families throughout Central MA, Northeastern CT, and Northwestern RI. Classes are free for those undergoing treatments or in recovery from breast cancer.

NUMISMATICS: The Nipmuck Coin Club meets at 6:30 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month at the Oxford Senior Center, 323 Main St., behind the Oxford Town Hall. For more information, contact Dick Lisi at lisirichard15@yahoo.com.

TWICE AS NICE: The Central Mass. Mother of Twins is a non-profit club to benefit those who are raising multiples and provide support and an outlet. The club meets from 6:30-8:30 p.m. every first Thursday of the month at the Oxford Community Center to discuss twins-related issues and have relaxing events such as movie nights and outings to take the children to and or your spouse or just for Moms. Anyone who is a childcare provider to multiples is welcomed and the meetings are held on the second floor of the building of the old school house.

HELP FOR HELPERS: Do you have a family member struggling with addiction or alcoholism? You are not alone. Join Families Helping Families Support Group. Meetings at Dudley Senior Center every first and third Monday of the month, 6:30-8 p.m. We spend so much time with our addicted loved one, that we become victims ourselves. Join us. It's informal, confidential, with tough love advice from the heart, sharing of resources, hope and hugs.

HOLISTIC HEALTH: Chair Yoga and so much more every Tuesday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at The First Congregational Church, 135 Center Road, Dudley (please park and enter through the right side basement entrance). Class Fee: $5/class voluntary contribution (Cancer patients always free). Proceeds donated to the First Congregational Church of Dudley. Instructor: Joanne LaLiberte, Holistic Health practitioner. This class of chair yoga is to expand the lungs and strengthen all the body's major muscle groups, for stability and mobility, balance, increasing flexibility, muscularity of hip and legs and increasing range of motion with our "rear view mirror" twists. We work through the entire body, quieting the nerves, relieving stress, realigning posture and we leave renewed. Chair yoga is open to adults of all ages. It is kept light-hearted with respect for every member of the class. We honor the body as it is right now and work to improve its overall health. We come to class as individuals and leave as family. Get to know yourself through the eyes of chair yoga and build a body that serves you better. Wear comfortable clothing. As with any exercise program, check with your healthcare professional before starting.
