Senator Gobi presents award to North American Tool and Machine

BOSTON – North American Tool and Machine received a Manufacturer of the Year award at a State House ceremony in October. The company was nominated by Senator Anne M. Gobi (D-Spencer).

Family owned and in operation for 30 years, North American Tool and Machine located in Charlton offers the latest technology in CNC milling and turning to meet customer machining needs. Whether they need a prototype or custom part, the company houses a state of the art CAD/CAM system to help customers with design issues. Speaking with Senator Gobi they credited their employees, some who have been with the company more than 25 years, as their biggest asset.

"I was honored to present this award to Mary Beth and Jay recognizing the hard work they and their team do," said Senator Gobi. "Their company is world class and it is due to strong leadership, impeccable training, and the hard work by each member of the company."

The Massachusetts Legislative Manufacturing Caucus hosted its second annual Manufacturing award ceremony to recognize 53 manufacturers that are truly making it in Massachusetts. The ceremony honored the manufacturers and showcased their innovative and revolutionary manufacturing capabilities and products. The event included companies who make electronic storage systems, spheres, badges, network devices, bicycles, textiles, and even beer.

Formed in August 2014, the Manufacturing Caucus includes more than 60 legislators from around the Commonwealth. Lawmakers focus on training for manufacturing employees; encouraging innovation by helping startups access resources; and expanding apprenticeship opportunities in key manufacturing sectors.

"We recognized 53 manufacturers who have had an impact on our economy, created jobs, and

Pike incident highlights truck parking issue

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON – A recent incident at Charlton's Mass Pike rest area seems to show that a long-running dearth of truck parking has not been addressed.

On Oct. 25, trucker Dan Cohen and several other drivers did what he's done a few times -- parked for the night to sleep.

"It seems to me an unchallenged tradition that, because there's so little space in back, trucks park on that front apron," he said.

On this day, though, they woke around 6 a.m. to state troopers knocking on their doors and telling them to move because they were illegally parked. Cohen agreed there is a "No Parking" sign covering at least part of that apron area, but noted none of the trucks were impeding the flow of traffic into or out of the site. Although he characterized the troopers' approach as "yelling" when I spoke to him and described it as an "immature and unprofessional fuss" in a letter he sent to the state police, Cohen noted the situation stayed peaceful.

Initially, he wrote, he thought they were awakening people because they needed to clear space for emergency vehicles, but soon found they were Members of the Shepherd Hill band mug a bit with the trophy.

DUDLEY – The members of the Shepherd Hill marching band have come home champions after several hard fought competitions spanning the best of New England and beyond.

After receiving perfect scores and a gold medal in the Massachusetts Instrumental & Choral Conductors Association finals in October, the band has won and even bigger honor, first place in their division in the US Bands National Championship in New Jersey over Veterans Day weekend.

The band competed in an event with more than 50 bands from across the country at MetLife Stadium, and repeated past success by taking the top trophy in Division 2. Band Director Dave Macuga said it was a proud moment for him, and his students, to share as they took the field and gave it their all.

"We did the same two years ago, so it's been a good couple of years and the weekend before

Charlton Police to seek new sergeant

BY JASON BLEAU
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON – Now that a new police chief is in place, Charlton is looking to fill even more gaps and needs within the police department, starting with a temporary sergeant.

Selectmen approved adding a fourth sergeant to the force earlier this month, naming detective and patrolman Gary Wood as a temporary designee for the position as a full-time sergeant is sought out through a hiring process.

Selectmen previous requesting a civil service list to fill the position depending on who was promoted to the position of chief, and with Graham Mayfield recently appointed to the position, that left two open positions within the ranks, and one in immediate need of being filled.

Maxfield recommended Wood for the position although Wood is not eligible to receive the promotion on a permanent basis due to a lack of testing.

"It's basically just backfilling my position is what I'm asking to do. We presently don't have any supervising on midnights. (Gary Wood) is the senior officer of the department and one of the things that we haven't been doing over the last 20 years is career development for our employees," Maxfield said. "I think it's important because it's good for the department that you have senior members acting or thinking like supervisors and ultimately that benefits the town."

The requested civil service list is expected to be completed by January, allowing for the department to properly fill the vacancy. The chief called Wood's promotion as "truly temporary position."

The discussion evolved into a larger examination of the future needs of the Charlton Police Department with the chief noting that the department is working with minimal personnel as it is.

"We used to have five sergeants. We only had four for the last several years. At some point, maybe we'll be having

Redmond hired as assistant town accountant

CHARLTON – The town has hired on a new assistant town accountant, and she is a familiar face.

Selectmen approved the hiring of Monica Redmond to the post, doubling her responsibilities in Charlton as she already serves as the assistant human resources director in the town hall. The new position will require ten hours a week from Redmond with a pay of $21.45 bringing her to 32 hours a week total within the town of Charlton.

Charlton's new finance director

Donna Foglio was adamant about adding Redmond to her staff and said the new hire will help alleviate some of the pressure off her shoulders as she helps manage the finances of the town. Town Administrator Robin Craver addressed the request at a Board of Selectmen meeting in early November, where she said Foglio's office was in need of a helping hand.

"Many changes are taking place to bring the town in full compliance. With the amount of work being more than anticipated she has asked for an assis-

Town employees take part in training seminar

Recently employees from Charlton completed the "Preventing and Addressing Workplace Discrimination" seminar at the Hogan Campus Center at College of the Holy Cross in Worcester. The seminar was led by Sheree A. McClain, a program trainer for the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD). The Massachusetts Interlocal Insurance Association (MIIA), property and casualty insurance provider for Charlton offered the training free of charge as a membership benefit.

"The town of Charlton takes our citizens and employees rights and safety very seriously and we work hard to make sure staff is appropriately trained" said Town Administrator Robin L. Craver, continuing "We appreciate the training opportunities our insurance company provides and try to take advantage whenever possible."

McClain introduced participants to prevention and response to issues of potential discrimination, including discriminatory harassment. The interactive class utilized employee participation and was geared toward supervisory personnel. Participants learned

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: Should I buy a new or used vehicle?

The RIGHT answer: This is a question that people have asked for years. The answer is one that is dependent on a number of factors. Some people are concerned about potential problems when buying a used car. At Place Motor we complete a 172 point inspection of our used vehicles. We make sure that our customers can feel confident they are getting a good car or truck when they do business with us. While an extended service plan can help alleviate these concerns it doesn't always do enough to make a customer happy. New Vehicles carry the factory warranty to solve these issues.

Usually a defining factor is budget. Customers must consider what they can comfortably afford. Buying a used car or truck saves customers thousands of dollars as compared to a new vehicle. Sometimes when buying a used car payments can still be a problem for a customer's budget. Many banks will shorten available terms or require more money down and this can strain anyone's budget. We work with several lenders and offer certified used vehicles so in most cases we are able to help customers achieve their required budget. While new vehicles are more expensive than used, new vehicles generally have rebates or special finance rates to make them more affordable. We have seen cases where the monthly payment for a new car is very close to that of a used car. With the availability of leasing programs a new car payment could even be less than that of a used car.

Here at Place Motor our goal is to help you get the RIGHT vehicle for your needs and budget. We will spend some time with you to make sure we understand your needs, offer you affordable solutions and make sure that you get the RIGHT vehicle at the RIGHT price. Come see why at Place Motor we are the RIGHT PLACE SINCE 1923.

CMS 5th grader wins Peace Poster contest

Courtesy photo

The top four entries in this year's Charlton Lions Peace Poster contest came from Cecelia McDonald, Matt Smolski, Agatha White and Haley Williamson.

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON – Four 5th graders were honored earlier this month for their contributions to this year's Lions Club Peace Poster contest: Agatha White, Haley Williamson, Matt Smolski and Cecelia McDonald.

"When I was thinking of my idea, I thought about the world for a second and how it's messy, it's not really peaceful," said White, the winner. "I want the world to be peaceful, and thought of a hand pulling away all the bad stuff to uncover a peaceful world."

Her poster goes to the district-level Lions contest, from which one goes to the state, then the nation, and finally to international judging, where the world winner takes home $5,000 and 23 merit award winners get $500, according to the Lions website. That site lists various rules, including size (minimum 13" x 20" and maximum 20" x 24"), age (11-13 on Nov. 15) and media (any except 3D, no letters or numbers). The international winner will be notified on or before Feb. 1, 2018, and the winning posters going back to 1988 are on the website.

When asked what she thought of winning, White added, "I was really surprised, because I've never really won anything like that."

Charlton Middle School art teacher Crystal Logan coordinated the effort locally, saying she's done it for at least six years.

"This year's theme was the Future of Peace, and that's kind of tough for them," she said. "We discussed it, but didn't want to go too far," so the kids would have enough space for their own creativity. Because her class only meets twice a week, they took about a month to finish their projects.

"Because it's a world contest, we had discussion about different backgrounds and people from around the world,"

Logan added.

Many of the 150 local entries "were futuristic," focused on robots or the like, but Logan saw White's entry as "so original."

The second place, Williamson, crafted a fortuneteller gazing cross-eyed into a crystal ball; Smolski's looks like either robots or aliens; and McDonald's is a spiral of hearts and people.

White said she feels peace is well-expressed in school itself, "but not really in the world. People aren't treated equally because of the color of their skin, because of their religion. I want everyone to be treated the same."

Logan said her students are largely optimistic about the future. But they have an uphill battle. A 2010 Pew Research poll found 58 percent of Americans overall expect another world war before 2050, with young people (18-29) having an even higher figure – 68 percent. Curiously, a 2006 Pew poll found that young people were more likely to support use of military force in various ways – 54 percent to "maintain US oil supply," 55 percent to "prevent famines," and 48 percent to "restore law and order" – while those 65+ always said that in the 20-30 percent range. But young people are also less likely to believe "the best way to achieve peace is through military strength" (43 vs. 62 percent) and prefer "effective diplomacy" instead. (Both polls are at www.pewresearch.org.)

Logan praised the Lions for doing "a wonderful job" on this and other things they do for the community, noting they are "really nice people."

Friday's Child

Jobak is a fun loving four-year old boy of Cape Verdean descent. Jobak typically makes people smile with his sweet spirit and determination. Jobak loves water and looks forward to having bath time. Jobak also enjoys playing and exploring in the outdoors. During summer months, he can often be seen running around in the sprinkler. Jobak likes to have sensory items he can play with to help soothe him. He also likes toys that light up or play music.

Jobak is legally freed for adoption. There is a recruitment plan for four visits per year with his birth parents and monthly visits with his siblings who are being recruited for separately. Jobak's social worker is open to any type of two-parent family where Jobak can be the youngest or only child.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

Gobi has a challenger: Steven Hall

Republican senate candidate Steven Hall chats with a visitor at his candidacy declaration party at the Publick House.

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

STURBRIDGE – To Steven Hall, there's "a lot of nonsense going on" in Boston and we'd "have a lot more money for projects in the towns if we stop wasting money on the state level frivolously."

He's hoping enough people across the region will agree with that and a list of other positions – most of them fairly traditionally Republican – to elect him state senator in November 2018. Recently, he threw his hat into the race against incumbent Democrat Anne Gobi.

During his announcement speech at the Publick House, he answered his own question about why he's running by saying "the health care system is a mess," with Obamacare "dictating care and taking away the patient-physician relationship," increasing insurance costs. At the same time, he argues, Medicaid costs have been rising "at an unsustainable rate," and there is "a severe shortage of health care workers" because many "won't commit to full-time employment" because they'll lose their current benefits.

Hall comes to that view from several years as a nursing home administrator. His LinkedIn profile states his current job (since October 2016) is as a consultant at Modern Healthcare Advisors LLC, but lists several long-term care administration posts before that back to May 2008. It also cites two wheelchair safety-related patents, one issued in 2002, one filed in 2016.

One aspect of his platform that is unusual is his intention to challenge the Registry of Motor Vehicles recent tightening of inspection rules and other issues, which he described as "overreach." He said the more stringent inspections, in which stations are installing more cameras "to make sure not even a little bit of rust gets through," will "hurt the poor and middle class," particularly in rural areas. While urban dwellers usually have access to public transit, "in our district a car is a vital requirement to get to work," Hall said.

Before his speech, he was blunt about how he sees the RMV: "They have no common sense."

In other areas, his views are conservative, particularly regarding business. He argues the state needs to reduce taxes and fees "that are making it impossible to do business in Massachusetts," and states "small businesses, including our farmers, are the lifeblood of our state."

Overall, Hall says he'd like to work for "a climate where there's less despair and more hope," noting many people have turned to street drugs to cope with physical and/or emotional pain because they don't "feel like they're a valued part of society."

The system needs to recognize the difference between real pain and self-medication, and provide help to those who need it, he said. He didn't, however, explain how he'd do that.

"Everywhere I go, I meet people with a new optimism about their vote and the power of their voice," he said. "In Central Mass, people are tired of the politics of old, and politicians who see the people as serving their agenda on Beacon Hill."

His wife Janet is a supporter. She described Hall as having "an uncanny ability to listen" and come up with solutions and a "driven personality. He works on it until he accomplished his goal. During rough times is when his true character shines."

In the audience, long-time friend Tony Leary said he normally tries to avoid politics, "but Steve I know and I trust. We need to bring the good people from local levels up and bring them in."

Hall actually has no local government experience. He did serve for a while as recreation director in Wales, and has been involved in various community volunteer efforts as a coach, in Toastmasters, and other things.

Toastmasters membership seems to be a common thread among several of his supporters. One of them, Luba Sinigur, said this is the first time she's been involved in a political campaign; she migrated from Moldova in 1998 and became a citizen in 2012, and describes this as taking "baby steps" that might lead to local political activity.

"If we want to make a change in this country, we have to vote," she said. "Whatever you stand for, we have to find people to vote for."

Hall's son-in-law Josh Paydos said Hall has been talking about the idea "a number of years."

"Steve likes to succeed at whatever he does," Paydos said. "I'm sure this won't be any different. He'll give it his 110 percent."

The Worcester, Hampden, Hampshire & Middlesex senate district is a sprawling one, including all or part of 28 towns running from Sturbridge to the New Hampshire line. In this area, it includes Sturbridge, Brimfield, Holland, Wales, Spencer, Charlton and all of the Brookfields.

The gratefulness factor

We have heard the proverb, "I despaired because I had no shoes, until I met a man who had no feet..."

As we recover from the abundance of a full groaning feast and enter into the frenzy of what to buy for Uncle Fred, reflect a moment on that.

Because we, most of us at least, did indeed indulge in a huge meal, the leftovers alone could feed a small army. If we have become tired of the turkey in a few days, an abundance of perfectly good food may find its way into trash bins just because we don't want it any longer.

How sad is that? We've done it. We've all done it. Bought something that sounded like a good idea as we roamed the market, brought it home with all good intentions, and never ate it. It deteriorated into some sort of unidentifiable fuzzy object in a vegetable bin, or a mutant green goo in a plastic container and hit that trashcan.

Ouch. In a world where food deprivation is real, and programs like free and reduced lunches exist, and service clubs send home bags of food to be certain children eat on the weekends when they aren't getting that school meal, and a newspaper runs a story extolling the new program about having breakfast in a classroom every day to be certain every child starts school not hungry...

Ouch. We won't even go into the "starving children in (fill in the blank third world country) our mothers threatened us with to get us to clean our plates. Because they are still starving. Nothing is any better for them either.

Ouch. We do food drives every single month in every single city and town in America. We do it in conjunction with other activities. Bring a canned good and get a $1 off admission to something else.

And yet, in a country as rich as ours, where our politicians are fighting over how much of a tax break to give one another (forget us, we don't count); and we are shipping food grown in this country to other countries because we have so much, we have hungry people.

We have older people who must choose between paying for medication and food.

We have struggling families who must pay the mortgage and a car payment and insurance and then squeeze groceries out of what is left.

Single mothers. $8 an hour workers working three jobs at once to make ends meet.

Students trying to go to school and live on their own.

On top of all that, we have people who no longer know how to cook, how to do the simple meals from basically nothing and turn it into a good supper. Because they don't know how to cook, they then must buy over processed expensive prepackaged nonsense that costs them even more and satisfies even less. What a merry-go-round.

And on top of it being over processed, expensive and unhealthy, it is even worse: it makes you fat. So while you may be starving for good, clean, well made food...you may be fat. It's too much sugar, too much carbohydrate, too much salt....

Starving...and fat. What a country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tobacco Free: time again to Cold Turkey

To the Editor:
 This Thanksgiving season, I'd like to remind readers to thank a co-worker, friend or family member who has quit smoking. Many smokers say quitting is the hardest thing they have ever done and any amount of recognition can help someone stay quit.

Smoking is the number one cause of preventable death and disease in Massachusetts. Nicotine is a very addictive drug and it takes most smokers several tries to quit for good. So reach out to smokers or ex-smokers. Let them know you are proud of how hard they're working to better their wellbeing. Thank them for improving their health and the health of the people around them.

If you're a smoker, even though the holidays can be a tough time to quit, they are a great time to get support from your loved ones to help you try to quit. If you have tried in the past, keep trying. Take advantage of the many resources available in Massachusetts to help you reach your goal.

Smokers can call the Massachusetts

Smokers Helpline at 1-800-QUIT-NOW (1-800-784-8669) to talk with a free quit coach or enroll online through KeepTryingMA.org The Helpline is open 24 hours each day, seven days a week (excluding Thanksgiving and Christmas). Smokers can receive a four-week supply of free nicotine replacement help from the patch, gum or lozenge. Online supports include quit planning tools, peer support and motivational text messages.

Smokers who get support and use stop-smoking medicines are nearly three times as likely to quit for good as those who try to quit on their own. Quitting is hard—give thanks to a smoker in your life for quitting or for trying to quit. Every email, text message, phone call, or encouraging word makes a difference.

During holidays, be extra vigilant about protecting financial data

FINANCIAL FOCUS
JEFF BURDICK

To help achieve your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement, you should save and invest regularly. But that's only part of the picture. You also need to protect your financial assets in various ways. One such method is guarding your personal information – especially any information that could be linked to your financial accounts. It's obviously important to be vigilant at any time, but you need to be even more on your toes during the holiday season, when fraudsters are particularly active.

So, to help keep your important data under wraps during the holidays, consider these suggestions:

Extend your protection to all mobile devices. Identity thieves can now compromise your mobile devices by installing spyware that steals usernames, passwords and credit card information. Fortunately, you can fight back. By doing a little research online, you can find the best mobile security software for your needs.

Use multiple passwords. Online security specialists recommend that you use different passwords for each new online shopping site you visit during the holiday season. Although this might seem like a hassle, it can be helpful, because even if identity thieves were to grab one of your new passwords, they still couldn't use it for other sites you may visit. And you can even find a free online program that can help you keep track of all your passwords.

Be suspicious of "huge savings." It happens every holiday season – identity thieves develop fake sites with attractive graphics and stunningly low prices on a variety of items, especially digital devices. If you fall for these pitches, you won't get any merchandise, but you might get a handful of headaches once the bad guys have your credit card number and other personal information. To prevent this, be wary of any deal that sounds too good to be true, and do some digging on the websites that offer these mega-savings.

Watch for fake shipping notices. During the holidays, when you may do a lot of online shopping, you will probably receive some legitimate shipping notices. But the bad guys have gotten pretty good at generating fake notices designed to resemble those from UPS, FedEx and even the U.S. Postal Service. If you were to click on the link provided by one of these bogus notices, you could either take on some malware or get taken to a "phishing" website created by the shipping notice forgers. Your best defense: Only shop with legitimate merchants and only use the tracking numbers given to you in the email you received immediately after making your purchases.

Keep your Social Security number to yourself. As a general rule, don't give out your Social Security number online – to anyone. No legitimate retailer needs this number. Finally, be aware that not all attempts at stealing your personal information will come online. When you're out shopping at old-fashioned, brick-and-mortar stores, consider bringing just one credit card with you – and protect that card from prying eyes.

By following these precautions, you should be able to greatly reduce the risk of being victimized by identity thieves and other miscreants. And the more comfortable you are in doing your holiday shopping, the more you can enjoy the season.

Moneysaving Tips

With the holidays around the corner and escalating gas and oil prices there's never been a better time of year to tighten the family's financial belt. Read on for workable strategies to help you save money on everyday expenses.

TAKE THE HINT
KAREN TRAINOR

Supermarket Switches: If you are buying all name brand products at the supermarket because you believe the quality is better than store brand items, you might want to rethink your savings strategy. Did you know government regulations require the same production and storage procedures for certain goods whether they are generic or name brand? When buying sugar, flour, salt and spices the cheaper choice is often the best bet to save money without sacrificing quality or flavor.

Plug in Savings: OK, you're feeling really good about snagging a bargain on a fancy new printer or TV – until the salesperson tells you it's going to cost another hundred dollars for a cable to connect it! Before you dish out more money for a high priced connector at an upscale electronics store, think again. Typically, the electronic cables found at a discount department store or online can do the job just as well for a fraction of the cost. Ditto for appliance cords and cell phone chargers.

Shake, bake and save: It's a fact that packaged spice mixes make cooking a meal easier and tastier. But convenience comes at a cost. Here's a "recipe" for a chicken (or pork) baking coating that rivals the commercial brand for a lot less money. If you like it, plan to package up several batches at a time in zip-lock plastic bags and store in your cupboard. You'll save both money and time!

Ingredients: 4 cups flour, 2 tsp. Cayenne pepper, 1 cup bran flake cereal, crushed, 2 TB parsley flakes, 2 tsp. garlic powder, 1 TB onion powder, 2 tsp. chili powder, 2 TB taco seasoning, 1 teaspoon seasoned pepper, 1 t curry, sweet basil, oregano.

Directions: Mix all together into a plastic baggie and shake chicken or pork to coat before baking.

Through the years this column has periodically offered advice for saving money at the gas pump. With fuel prices climbing there's never been a better time to review the many ways a conscientious driver can offset the latest jump at the pump!

Downgrade: Buy the lowest grade of octane that is appropriate for your vehicle. Why pay for more if you don't need it? Check with your mechanic or car dealer to see if it's safe for you to switch to a lower grade. You might save hundreds of dollars a year.

Spring Ahead: Be sure to remove snow tires in good weather. The deep tread and big tires use more gasoline than regular tires.

The Wheel Deal: Keeping tires properly inflated and aligned equals gas savings. Periodic wheel alignments and keeping tires inflated to the maximum recommended pressure really does improve your gas mileage, according to experts.

Haste Makes Waste: Tests show quick starts and hard breaking reduces travel time by only four percent, but fuel consumption is increased by nearly 40 percent.

Slow Down, You Move Too Fast: The faster you drive, the more gas you use. Did you know lowering your speed from 65 to 55 mph can improve your fuel economy by two miles per gallon?

Also, traveling at fast rates in low gears can consume up to 45% more fuel than is needed.

Idle No More: Did you know ten seconds of idling actually uses more fuel than restarting the engine? Save gas by making it a habit to turn off the car when parked.

Rough Road Ahead: Opt for driving on smooth roads whenever possible. Rough roads with dirt or gravel rob you of up to 30% of your gas mileage!

Penny Pinchers: Make sure your gas tank is nice and snug. If not, buy a new one. Why? Gas easily evaporates from the tank through loose caps. And don't top off the gas tank. Gas may seep out from expansion.

All-State meet concludes Shepherd Hill's impressive cross-country season

RAMS RACE TO FOURTH PLACE AS A TEAM; JAMES FINISHES FIFTH OVERALL

Nick Ethier photos

Shepherd Hill's Rebekah James finished the Division 1 All-State race in fifth place.

At right: Shepherd Hill's Keegan Casey nears the end at the Division 1 All-State meet.

BY NICK ETHIER
Sports Staff Writer

WRENTHAM — As the final All-State cross-country championship race finished at the Wrentham Developmental Center on Saturday, Nov. 18 and the crowd began to disperse, Nicole Fossas, head coach of the Shepherd Hill Regional girls' team, was able to reflect on the full-circle calendar year and how much improvement the Rams have made.

"I look back on where we came from last year to this," Fossas began, "physically with the injuries, emotionally from last year — it's like a 360 in every way."

Last season Shepherd Hill was unable to field a full

"team," which includes at least five runners, at the Central Mass. Division 1 sectional meet. As a result, the Rams weren't eligible to move to All-States as a team.

Three individuals ran at the state meet, but this season their goal was to bring the whole team. And The Hill did so in convincing fashion by winning the district championship race on Nov. 11 at Gardner Municipal Golf Course.

At Wrentham, the Rams finished their impressive year in fourth place. Fossas noted that Shepherd Hill, Concord-Carlisle Regional, Wellesley High, Tewksbury High and Milton High were expected to be the top five teams, and they were.

"It's almost like they're interchangeable," she said. "The girls, they ran awesome."

Junior Rebekah James, a week removed from winning the Central Mass. race, was the Rams' top finisher again, placing fifth. Her time after completing the 5k (3.1 mile) course was 18:48.12, with an average mile time of 6:03.1.

"I would have liked to have done better, but I'm not complaining," said James, who earned a medal for finishing inside the top 15.

Also medaling for the Rams was Gabby Lawrence, a senior. Lawrence had a 14th place finish, completing the course in 19:05.30.

"I'm definitely happy with it. I would have liked a little better, but I'm proud," said Lawrence.

Rounding out the Rams' scoring were Emma Sullivan (38th place, 19:34.89), Helena Duke (67th, 19:59.27) and Emma Whitehead (72nd, 20:02.09). Kasey Clark (101st, 20:27.71) and Audrey Carragher (169th, 22:08.62) also ran for Shepherd Hill.

"I am so proud of them. We're losing two seniors, but the two freshmen — they're going to be back stronger," said Fossas of the departing Lawrence and Clark and the improving Duke and Christina Gunsalus, who was out of this race with a knee injury suffered at districts.

Lawrence had high praise for the freshmen.

"They've really fit in and we've been training a lot together, working well together — everybody gets along so well and that really helps us in the race knowing that we're all in it together," she said.

James was thankful that she and the team were healthy enough — aside from Gunsalus' late season setback — to win at districts and compete at a high level at All-States. James was one of the athletes unable to compete in postseason competition last season.

"I think because everyone was injured last year and we didn't have a team last year, we all built on each other and we all supported each other. That's what made us do so well this year," she noted.

On the boys' side, Shepherd Hill's Brian Belmonte and Keegan Casey qualified for All-States thanks to their impressive individual finishes at districts. Belmonte finished the Division 1 race in 74th place with a time of 16:50.25, while Casey wound up 154th after clocking in at 17:48.83.

Gabby Lawrence of Shepherd Hill races toward the finish line at the All-State meet, where she finished 14th.

Brian Belmonte of Shepherd Hill finishes up the All-State race.

Shepherd Hill's Emma Sullivan helped the Rams to a fourth place team finish in the Division 1 All-State meet.

Prepare vehicles for harsh weather

As the seasons change, motorists must take steps to safeguard their vehicles, especially when the season changes from fall to winter. Each winter, many vehicles are subjected to sub-zero temperatures, snowfall and icy roads, and such conditions can take their toll on vehicles over time. Taking steps to prepare vehicles for winter weather is a vital step that can make cars and trucks safer for drivers and their passengers.

BATTERY

Old batteries should be replaced before winter begins. Without a strong, properly functioning battery, engines cannot turn over. Most batteries last between three and five years. However, extreme cold can compromise batteries, especially those that have been around awhile. Batteries are made up of acid and water, and cold temperatures can freeze the water, thereby affecting battery performance. According to AAA's Automotive Research Center, at 32 F, the average battery loses 35 percent of its strength.

Newer batteries can be protected by starting the vehicle each day to warm up and recharge the battery. Let the car run for at least 10 minutes if you cannot take an extended drive.

EXTERIOR MAINTENANCE

Keeping a car waxed and sealed can help maintain a durable exterior finish. This includes not only the paint, but the rubber and vinyl parts of the car's exterior.

Winter is a good time to switch to a heavy-duty synthetic wax that can shield against water and road salts. High-quality sealants can be used on bumpers, trim and rubber door seals as added protection. Speak with an automotive retailer or even the car dealership if you are unsure which products will make your car's parts most durable for winter weather.

Do not stop washing your car just because the weather is cold. Slushy, wet roads and snow-melting salts can speed up the formation of rust or other decay on the undercarriage of the vehicle. These materials will need to be periodically cleaned off. Flush the underside of the vehicle whenever possible, taking advantage of any dry, slightly warmer days.

TIRE PRESSURE

According to the automotive retailer Pep Boys, vehicle tires lose a pound of air pressure for every 10-degree drop in temperature. Many modern cars will alert to changes in air pressure, and drivers should be diligent in maintaining the proper tire pressure. Fuel economy as well as handling ability can decline when tires are not inflated properly. Tires can be refilled at many gas stations for little cost.

WIPERS

Visibility is key in hazardous weather conditions, and keeping the windshield clean is a priority. This means ensuring there is enough windshield wiper fluid in the car and that it is a product that will not freeze.

Wiper blades can freeze and crack in the winter. Older blades may be more susceptible to damage. It's a worthy investment to replace existing wiper blades at the start of each winter. When vehicles are parked, pull the wipers off of the windshield to safeguard them from sticking and cracking.

Cold weather requires drivers to amp up their vehicle maintenance routines. Consult with a mechanic or automotive retailer for more ideas and products that can help your vehicles operate safely and efficiently this winter.

Visibility starts with your windshield

Visibility is an essential component of automotive safety. According to the United States Department of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration, inability to clearly see the road, other motorists and potential obstacles is a leading contributor to automotive accidents and injury.

Approximately half of all fatalities due to motor vehicle crashes occur at night, even though the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration notes that traffic volume is substantially less at night. Lack of visibility, which may result from a dirty windshield or inclement weather, can render pavement markings nearly invisible or throw off drivers' senses of direction.

Poor visibility can be hazardous, and drivers must take steps to ensure they have maximum visibility at all times, whether it's day or night or if the weather is poor or fair.

One of the best ways to ensure maximum visibility is to keep your windshield clean. Not all windshield washer fluids and wipers are created equally. For example, some washer fluids are ineffective in freezing temperatures. Frozen washer fluid can cause a complete blockage of the system and greatly impair visibility.

As anyone who has driven on snowy and/or salty roads can attest, such substances can quickly gather on windshields, where they crust up and impede visibility. A windshield cleaning system that is not working effectively is a recipe for an accident.

Always read the product label before purchasing washer fluid. Summer blends are only effective when temperatures remain above 32 F. When the mercury dips below freezing, these fluids freeze up. Winter formulas should contain an antifreeze solution that will lower the freezing point of the liquid. Many such fluids employ methanol to not only prevent freezing but also to melt frost and light accumulations of ice.

Drivers also may be able to supplement their washer fluids with common items to increase durability during extreme cold snaps. Mix 99 percent isopropyl rubbing alcohol into the washer fluid to prevent it from freezing. Otherwise, the washer fluid brand may have specific instructions for mixing for use in areas where the temperature regularly dips below freezing.

In addition to maintaining an obstruction-free washer fluid system, drivers can reduce accidents from poor visibility by heeding these tips from The National Weather Service:

- Clear your windshield and mirrors before getting on the road.
- Drive slow to maintain a safe stopping distance.
- Be aware that, when driving in conditions where visibility is impaired, drivers tend to follow the tail lights of the vehicles in front of them. Keep your headlights on to improve your own visibility and help others see your car.
- Don't slow down so much that you become a hazard to other drivers.
- If necessary, pull off the road and wait for conditions to improve. When pulling off, park as far off the road as possible, then turn off your headlights and put on your hazard lights.

Youngsters learning the ropes and becoming outdoor enthusiasts

.....

The recent cold blast has cooled down local ponds and lakes, and trout fishing has picked up big time for anglers that have not put their fishing gear away. This week's picture shows young Scarlett Hendricks with her catch of some impressive trout recently at the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club. Her dad Brian stated that she reeled in the three trout all by herself. Another youngster that will hopefully continue fishing throughout her life and enjoy the great outdoors.

The second picture this week shows 14 year old Tyler Conroy with his harvested deer during the Massachusetts annual youth deer hunt November 8, 2017. Tyler harvested the deer with a family Remington 1100. Tyler made a great shot at 50 yards. Congratulations to both young sportsmen.

Local archers have been doing very well harvesting deer. Sitting in a tree stand this past Saturday, waiting for a deer to present a shot, tested the hunter's patience. The freezing temperatures had the hunters sipping hot coffee and kept the hand warmers close by. Having the correct clothing for cold temperatures, kept many hunters in there tree stand longer than those that did not dress properly for the hunt.

Archers are noticing a big surge in the theft of tree stands and trail cameras this year. Some of the gear has been returned after archers did some of their own investigations, but most of it is lost forever. Cameras and tree stands are not cheap, and if the culprits are caught they could face felony charges. Is it worth it?

Back more than 20 years ago this writer lost a tree stand to thieves, and I started my own investigation. I started by knocking on doors in the area of the theft, and asked if anyone they knew in the area was a deer hunter. In a few days I returned to the area of the stolen tree stand to hunt, and found my stand laying against the tree that it was stolen from. Lucky for me I must have knocked on the correct door. A week later I shot a huge buck from the stand. I still have the tree stand at home but no longer use it.

Tautog fishing remains red hot in Mass. & Rhode Island waters. My nephew Captain Mel True of "FISH NET CHARTERS" had his recent clients returning home with limits of tautog and sore arms. To see some of his most recent charters, check him out on his web site fishnetcharters.com or on face book .

Pheasant hunters are enjoying some great bird hunting in local covers and at pheasant preserves. Local covers also have some cotton tail rabbits this year. I am hoping to have my wife's beagle encounter one soon. She has found a few pheasant and quail for me this year, but no rabbits. I am surprised that she has not opened up on the hot trail of a running pheasant, but she continues to trail them silent. It is great to watch her working a scent, as her tail wags side to side, almost like she had a motor on it, but the beagles bark will provide the ultimate hunt. A pack of beagles trailing the elusive rabbit is missed by this writer.

In my younger years, I had three beagles that I would take to the Douglas State Forest, and meet up with a couple of hunting buddies that also had a few beagles. At that time many hunting clubs in the valley bought live snow shoe hare from a trapper in Canada and stocked them in area swamps and woodlots. We would run the beagles all summer at night. The sound of the hounds chasing the hare was music to our ears. Maybe some day in the future the hare stocking program will return to the valley, but I do not think it will happen in my life time. Future generations will never know the great fun we had with our hounds.

During the upcoming winter months, local Rod & Gun Clubs will be holding meat raffles and dinners. They provide great entertainment and good food, at a good price. The Whitinsville Fish & Game Club, Singletary Rod & Gun Club, Wallum Lake Rod & Gun

Legislature passes bill to expand language opportunities for students

BOSTON — Senator Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) announced the Legislature passed bipartisan legislation that updates the existing statute relative to English language education in the Commonwealth's public schools. The bill promotes research-based best practices for programs serving English learners (EL).

Since the year 2000, the number of EL students in Massachusetts has doubled to more than 90,204 students, or 9.5 percent of the student population. While statewide graduation rates for students have risen over the past ten years, the achievement gap between EL students and their peers persists.

This bill expands on the current mandate requiring schools to use Sheltered English Immersion (SEI) as the default English learner program model by giving schools the flexibility to establish programs based on the diverse needs of their students. Under this legislation, school districts can maintain current SEI programming or choose to implement an alternative instructional program that meets federal and state standards.

"Given the globalizing world in which we live, this bill highlights the importance of providing students with the skills necessary to succeed in the twenty-first century job market," said Senator Moore.

This bill supports parental choice and involvement by expanding the role of Parental Advisory Councils and allowing parents the flexibility to choose programs that best meet their child's needs.

To better identify and assist English learners, this legislation requires greater tracking of academic performance and enhanced review of programs. Furthermore, this legislation directs the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education to develop additional guidelines and supports for school districts.

The legislation also establishes a state Seal of Biliteracy that will be awarded by participating school districts to students who have attained a high level of proficiency in English, and one or more foreign languages.

This bill will now move to the Governor for his signature. To continue tracking the bill, H.4032, please visit the Legislature's website, www.malegislature.gov.

that discussion down the road," said the Chief.

"Just this fiscal year, from July 1 to Nov 4, that period we spent $27,010.42 filling open shifts. That's just a four-month period. We also have float officers, who we get to move from their assigned shift to fill holes when someone's sick, on vacation or in training, and we did that in that same period 31 times. Where we are now is because we're at 18 people we have two float officers. If we go back to 19 people we can, in effect, have three floats by contract and I'll have a third person we can move and plug and play."

Selectman David Singer said he agrees that the department needs more resources and called the situation a familiar one for him.

"It is very much like what we just went through with the fire department where we were paying so much in overtime we wound up actually saving money by bringing in an additional firefighter and just paying their salaries which was less than the overtime and we wound up giving the townspeople more personnel and better coverage for the same or less money than we were already spending. If this is (the solution) I'm excited to see it," Singer said.

No decisions on other hires within the department were made or recommended during the recent board of selectmen meeting, however it was suggested that as budget season draws closer the town look into the possibility or feasibility of hiring a new officer to help continue to build on the capabilities of the department.

we came in first in our division in the New England Scholastic Band Association competition. That's kind of the competitive circuit in New England for marching bands. We had great success. There's a lot of bands from everywhere that come out and put out a fight to try and be judged the highest and every year we have an incredible group of kids that work very hard and this year was no exception," Macuga said.

Students spent hundreds of hours preparing their routine for the big show, starting back in May with freshmen being welcomed into the program and ending in September before competition season kicked into high gear.

Macuga complimented the students for their hard work and their ability to adapt and bring themselves to a higher level of determination to bring home the prize for their school.

"I'm actually a Shepherd Hill graduate and to carry the tradition of hard work and excellence has been great and to see the kids experience the huge pay off of all the work they've put in has been great," Macuga said.

"To be successful you have to have bad days as a teacher or student. For these students to be champions, they had to learn from mistakes and adjust faster than other students in other bands. We had to work smart and to see them day after day work harder and smarter was great and it really paid off for everyone. To be at the top you have to overcome the bad days and you have to be real and take every day as a new challenge to overcome."

The significance of the victory and the hard work put in to make it all possible has not gone unnoticed or unappreciated by the students who took part in the band's successful run. Drum Major and senior Camden Boggio, who was thrust into this leadership position in the band for the first time, said it was a rewarding experience he will never forget.

"I feel honored to know that I was one of the leaders who led the team to the ultimate victory. I also felt extremely accomplished because of the amount of new members in marching band there were this past season and the fact that we pulled off such an amazing feat with so many rookie members who are not only just new to the Shepherd Hill band program, but new as well to the marching activity as a whole," Boggio said. "Watching the transition of the band from the beginning of the season with all of our brand new members, to the end of the season with all of us gathered around our 9 foot 7 inch tall trophy was truly remarkable."

mented the band as a whole for coming together to earn the trophy.

"The Shepherd Hill marching band is an extremely dedicated group that works countless hours to progress their show to the highest level we can," Donais said.

"Winning does feel pretty amazing considering all of our hard work, but it's really the progress and memories we make and the people we meet along the way that mean the most to me."

A rookie band member, freshman tuba player Timothy Berthiaume, got to celebrate a championship in his first year in the band and said it was something he will not soon forget.

"It feels amazing to be part of a great generation of amazing music and memories," Berthiaume said. "I loved how we worked so hard to achieve our goal of winning Nationals and I'm so glad it all paid off."

The marching band returned home following the Veterans Day holiday weekend with warm welcomes and congratulations from residents, officials, and school leaders for becoming champions for the second time in three years.

WELCOME CHRISTMAS

The Charlton Christmas Concert and Tree Lighting is this just over two weeks away - On Sunday, Dec. 3rd. The Festival of Lights Parade will begin at 6:00 p.m., starting from the CVS parking lot. So, North Main Street and portions of Main Street will be blocked during the procession. If you are on your way to Grandmother's house, there will be extra officers on duty to guide your sleigh through the white and drifted snow! Enjoy and plan ahead.

New, unwrapped toys can be brought to the Charlton Police Department at 85 Masonic Home Road between 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Legos, family games, dolls (action figures for boys), toy trucks, bikes, stuffed animals, sports equipment, video games, etc. will be graciously accepted for children of all ages. Manufacturing increasingly provides higher wages, creating security for workers and improving our regional economy," said Senator Eric P. Lesser (D-Longmeadow), Senate Chair of the Legislature's Manufacturing Caucus.

The Manufacturing Caucus aims to increase Massachusetts' competitiveness in manufacturing by providing legislative support. Collaboration between manufacturers, community colleges, technical high schools and regional workforce boards is a way we can continue to develop talent and increase production. Massachusetts is home to world-class makers of everything from machinery to biopharmaceuticals to jet engines. Manufacturing output here is at its highest level in history and accounts for more than 11 percent of the state's economy. It is the sixth largest employment sector here. According to the recently launched Manufacturing in Massachusetts website (www.mamanufacturing.com), 10.1% of the Commonwealth's total economic output is tied to manufacturing and $26 billion in manufactured goods were exported from the Commonwealth in 2016 alone.

Roughly 250,000 employees work in the manufacturing sector in Massachusetts, comprising 7.8% of the total workforce in the state.

For information, the "MAKE IT" in Massachusetts website, www.Mamanufacturing.com is the direct connection to all of the resources available on manufacturing in the Commonwealth.

"dramatically evicting trucks out onto the Pike due to our parking positions."

"It is perfectly reasonable trucks should be allowed to park there as long as the avenues of access are open," Cohen said.

"The Massachusetts State Police has received multiple complaints in recent months regarding tractor-trailers parked for long periods of time at turnpike rest areas on the apron area between the pumps and the highway, an area that's marked 'No Parking,'" Trooper David Procopio, the agency's spokesman, stated by email. "Troopers have been enforcing the parking restriction. ...[M]otorists pulling into that lane, especially during overnight hours, are not expecting large trucks to be parked there and may be forced to act suddenly to avoid them."

He also noted their presence might make it difficult for fuel tankers serving the pumps and others with trailers "to maneuver easily." Regarding Cohen's idea of an "unchallenged tradition," Procopio said, "I don't know what was done previously. All Troopers are empowered to use their discretion," and those on the scene determined this situation "jeopardized public safety."

The incident highlights a problem the Federal Highway Administration acknowledged in 1996: what was then a "shortfall of 28,400 truck parking spaces in public rest areas nationwide," especially for "long-term or overnight parking." Although the study found most drivers prefer to overnight at private truck stops (mostly because they tend to have more facilities, including showers), that would require them to get off the Pike, since it's a toll road.

At the time, the FHA reported it would cost between $489 and $629 million to "meet future truck parking demand."

But an Aug. 2, 2016 article at www.trucks.com by Clarissa Hawes said it has never been met - and may be far worse now. Today, "there's only parking for about 300,000 trucks," but nearly 3 million are plying America's highways.

"Many states are reporting acute parking needs, primarily along major transit corridors and in dense metropolitan areas," the website states. That has often forced truckers to continue driving while tired, to park illegally, or park in places they deem unsafe "such as on the shoulders of roads, on exit ramps or at vacant lots."

Hawes wrote the FHA has only allocated about $34 million of the $231 million requested for parking projects (she doesn't indicate a time frame for those requests). "Most of that -- $20 million -- was awarded to pay for so-called intelligent transportation systems technology that outfits parking areas to alert drivers when parking is available."

Along and near the Mass Pike, the state Department of Transportation lists four truck stops: Pride Travel Center in Chicopee, Pilot Travel Center and NE Truck Stop in Sturbridge, and Flynn's Truck Plaza in Shrewsbury. It also notes there are four places with spaces specifically for tandem trailers: near Exit 6 in Springfield (35 spaces), Exit 10A in Millbury (16 spaces), and two in Weston (eastbound, 19 spaces; westbound, 34 spaces).

Allstays.com has a long list of places with truck parking and various other facilities on and near most of the state's major highways.

tant to help. Monica Redman, our assistant human resource director, has been assisting her," Craver said.

"Because (selectmen) would be giving her the assistant town accountant designation she would be able to get certified and be able to, if our town accountant wasn't there, also perform those duties. We're trying to cross train."

The new hire will cost Charlton an extra $35,000 a year, but will put no added strain on the town's budget as Redmond already receives benefits for working over 20 hours in the human resources department. Craver argued that having Redmond on board for both positions is a better investment than hiring a new individual from the outside.

Foglio told selectmen Redmond has already been essential to her department due to shared responsibilities between finance and human resources, making Redmond the appropriate hire for the new job.

"We've had a little bit of transition when you combine treasurer and collector and selectmen moved part of what was being done in the treasurer's office, which was payroll and that got moved to human resources. There's a piece of payroll that human resources is doing, which Monica does now, and there's a piece of payroll that I'm doing in accounting. The problem is, neither one of us can ever be out for a day of any given week because there's no backup coverage. It's really important for me to have someone who can sign a warrant. Otherwise you can't have a payroll or payables go through without an assistant town accountant signature if I'm not available," Foglio said.

Selectmen approved the new hire easily, but before her new position was approved Redmond herself said she was happy to have the chance to explore a new career opportunity that she has been seeking for some time.

"I have been going towards my bachelor's degree in accounting so this is an exciting opportunity for me to actually kind of work in that field," Redmond said.

Myths And Facts: Clearing Up A Few Misconceptions About Eye Exams

(NAPS)
People are constantly reminded to eat right and exercise to stay healthy. But what about eye health? Dozens of eye diseases and conditions, such as diabetes, high blood pressure and some cancers, can be diagnosed and detected during a simple eye exam.

This is because the eye is actually part of the nervous system. An eye physician can detect abnormalities in the fine blood vessels at the back of the eye before they're seen in other parts of the body. Trouble spotted in the eye may signal health-related changes that may otherwise go undetected.

Eye Health Truths
Here are the facts on a few common myths about eye exams:

- Myth: Eye exams only provide a prescription for eyeglasses.

- Fact: There are two different types of eye examinations:

1. A comprehensive medical eye exam is typically performed by an ophthalmologist, a physician who specializes in medical and surgical eye care. Your ophthalmologist will dilate your eyes with drops. This lets him or her thoroughly examine your retina and optic nerve, located at the back of your eye, for signs of damage from disease.

2. A routine eye exam determines whether you need glasses or contact lenses to see clearly. You will be asked to read a standardized chart to determine how well you see at different distances. This exam is typically performed by an optometrist.

- Myth: An eye exam is unnecessary unless you have a vision problem.

- Fact: Don't wait to notice a vision problem before you get an eye exam. Some eye diseases and conditions have no early warning signs until vision is lost. If they're detected early, however, vision can usually be saved.

Eye Exam Recommendations

The American Academy of Ophthalmology recommends that people get a baseline eye examination at age 40, the time when early signs of disease or changes in vision may occur. This exam is just as important as a baseline screening for diabetes or certain cancers. If you're age 65 or older, have your eyes checked every year or two for signs of age-related eye diseases such as cataracts, macular degeneration, and glaucoma.

Sight-Saving Care

If you are 65 or older and worry about the cost of an exam, the American Academy of Ophthalmology's EyeCare America program may be able to help. EyeCare America provides medical eye exams, often at no out-of-pocket cost, to eligible people through a network of approximately 6,000 volunteer ophthalmologists. Nearly 2 million people have been helped through EyeCare America's two programs. The Seniors program connects eligible seniors with a volunteer ophthalmologist for a medical eye exam at no out-of-pocket cost for up to one year, while the Glaucoma program offers a glaucoma eye exam to eligible individuals who are at increased risk for glaucoma, determined by their age, race, and family history.

It's wise to have a professional check your eyes regularly.

Get Back On Your Feet—Tips For Running At Any Age

Sixty-six-year-old distance runner Barbara McGirr was the national winner of award honoring older adults who improve their health through fitness.

(NAPS)
Running can seem like a daunting workout no matter your age. It takes an impressive amount of dedication to run long distances. However, 66-year-old Barbara McGirr did not let that deter her. Starting at the age of 62, McGirr set her sights on completing her first half marathon. After only six months of training and a lot of hard work, she achieved that goal.

Taking advantage of the free fitness membership she received through the SilverSneakers program offered by her Medicare plan, McGirr started her training by walking to build up endurance. From there she started running small increments and gradually increased over time to reach her ultimate goal. Now, even after retirement, McGirr continues to compete in 4K and 5K races.

Her inspiring fitness journey was recently recognized by SilverSneakers as she was named the national winner of the SilverSneakers Richard L. Swanson Inspiration Award, which honors older adults who improve their health through fitness. Running has greatly improved McGirr's quality of life, and she shares that it helps keep her body and mind in shape.

If you are interested in running and improving your health, SilverSneakers offers the following tips:

- Talk with your doctor: You're never too old to start running, but it's always good to check with your doctor before beginning a new exercise routine.

- Get the proper gear: Invest in a good pair of shoes. Consider getting fitted at an athletic store to keep your feet comfortable.

- Start slow: Start with brisk walks and then slowly transition to running. Running for one minute, then walking for one minute is a great way to build stamina.

- Set manageable goals: Take it easy at first and listen to your body. If running a longer distance is your goal, work up to it gradually—walking for a few weeks, then intervals of jogging and walking. Before you know it, you'll be running with ease.

- Don't skip the cooldown: Always cool down with a slow walk and lots of stretching to reduce recovery time.

SilverSneakers partners with more than 13,000 participating fitness locations and wellness centers, giving members access to the site's basic amenities, including weights, treadmills, pools, etc., as well as specialized SilverSneakers exercise classes led by certified SilverSneakers instructors. The program is offered at no additional charge through the nation's leading Medicare Advantage plans, Medicare Supplement carriers and group retiree plans.

Medicare Open Enrollment Means More To Boomers Than Ever

(NAPS)
Each year, Medicare Open Enrollment begins on October 15 and ends on December 7. It's an important opportunity for eligible individuals to select a Medicare plan that best meets their current and potential health needs, and also offers crucial protection for unexpected costs.

Although it's been 10 years since the worst financial crisis since the Great Depression hit the U.S., most middle-income boomers say they still don't feel their finances have fully recovered. According to a recent study from the Bankers Life Center for a Secure Retirement, today, only 57 percent of middle-income boomers feel confident meeting their daily financial obligations, down from 65 percent before the crisis. Along with their smaller savings accounts, concerns about rising health care costs as they age could be feeding boomers' lack of confidence in their financial futures.

Today, boomers expect to carry more debt into retirement; only 34 percent expect to retire debt-free. One of the main drivers of debt for this demographic is the nationwide increase in health care costs. Boomers—an estimated 74.9 million Americans aged 53 to 71 in 2017—will likely live to around age 85, on average, according to the Social Security Administration, and unexpected health issues associated with age can drain savings and increase the risk of added debt.

During Medicare Open Enrollment, middle-income boomers can identify health care savings opportunities and prepare for unexpected costs related to illness or injury, with the goal of achieving a more personally satisfying retirement.

Planning for your retirement should include taking medical costs into account. A professional financial adviser can help.

Here are four tips to consider as you plan for Medicare Open Enrollment:

1. Create a monthly budget to assist in managing your debt. Boomers are realizing they will not be as financially independent in retirement as they once expected. Examine your monthly financial obligations and create an achievable budget to manage your income and pay down debt.

2. Determine which Medicare coverage plan is right for you. Health needs vary by individual. Evaluate your personal health needs and research each plan to determine the right amount of coverage. For example, Original Medicare supplies beneficiaries with Parts A (hospital insurance) and B (medical insurance). However, some people may need more coverage. Medicare supplement plans are sold by private companies and can help pay some of the health care costs that Original Medicare doesn't cover, such as co-payments, co-insurance and deductibles. Medicare Part C, or Medicare Advantage, is an alternative to Original Medicare offered by priprivate insurers, and provides Medicare Parts A and B, plus additional coverage to protect you against health care related debt. Knowing your options will help you choose the plan that's right for you.

3. Create a plan for monthly health care payments. Estimate what your financial responsibility is under Medicare including premiums, co-pays, deductibles, and uncovered expenses like long-term care. Earmark a portion of your retirement savings and income to address these out-of-pocket costs.

4. Seek help. Navigating Medicare Open Enrollment can be difficult but you don't have to do it alone. Consult a trusted financial adviser for guidance on which plan is right for your needs and where you can identify savings opportunities.

WINTER SPORTS

Family-friendly winter activities

Many people may run indoors when the temperatures outside approach or dip below freezing. But the truly adventurous see no reason why a little cold weather should keep them cooped up indoors for months at a time.

Sports and other physical activities can provide the perfect respite from the cabin fever that can settle in during long winters. Families looking to get some quality time outdoors together this winter can enjoy a host of activities in the great outdoors, even if the temperatures are a tad on the chilly side.

• Sledding: Sledding may remind adults of their childhoods and turn kids' snow days into fun afternoons they will never forget. Kids can seemingly ride their sleds and toboggans down snowy hills all day long, but even parents get a kick out of racing kids downhill or sharing a sled with their youngsters. While older kids can typically handle sleds on their own, parents should ride along with toddlers to prevent falls and handle steering duties. When sledding, keep a close eye for any signs that suggest kids might be getting too cold, such as shivering or clothes that are soaked through.

• Snowshoeing: Parents may not know that many retailers sell snowshoes for children. While snowshoeing can be physically demanding, it's also a fun way for families that like family walks to continue those traditions even if there are a few inches of snow on the ground. Make sure kids are bundled up, paying extra attention to their footwear. Kids will enjoy snowshoeing more if their boots are both comfortable and capable of keeping their feet warm.

• Snowman building: Perhaps no outdoor winter activity is more conducive to family fun than building a snowman. The season's first substantial snowfall provides the perfect opportunity for parents and their children to start building some snowmen. While "snowman building" is unlikely to find its way onto any gym schedules, building a snowman provides a great workout. Lifting snow is great strength training, while pushing snow to form Frosty's body is a great way to get in some cardiovascular exercise.

• Skiing and snowboarding: The earlier youngsters start skiing and/or snowboarding, the more likely such activities will prove second nature. Many resorts offer skiing and snowboarding lessons to kids and adults, so parents can book weekend get-aways for the family to nearby resorts and foster a love of winter sports in youngsters.

While it's tempting to huddle up indoors when winter hits full swing, families who embrace the great outdoors when the temperatures dip can avoid cabin fever and enjoy one another's company along the way.

Safety first for winter sportsmen

CAPTION: Sleds, be they children or adults, should always sled feet-first or sitting up.

Winter is a special time of year for sportsmen. The great outdoors beckons men and women in the wintertime, when skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing, and sledding are just a few of the many cold weather activities to entice athletes out of their homes.

Though winter sports can help fend off cabin fever, those who don't exercise certain safety precautions might find themselves dealing with another kind of fever. Cold weather can leave men, women and children susceptible to illness or injury if they aren't careful. The following are a few safety tips for winter sportsmen who want to make the most of the coming winter sports season.

CLOTHING

Inadequate clothing is one of the easiest ways a winter sportsman can fall victim to illness or injury. But the right clothing can go a long way toward ensuring this winter sports season is fun and illness- and injury-free.

* Wear protective head gear. Protective headgear can help sportsmen avoid colds and head injuries. When venturing outdoors in the winter, always wear a protective wool ski cap. Most body heat is lost through the head, but wool caps help your body retain warmth on cold days and nights. In addition, sportsmen should always wear protective headgear when skiing, sledding, snowboarding or playing ice hockey. Even the most experienced sportsmen can suffer a head injury when playing a winter sport, but the appropriate headgear can prevent head injuries to veteran and novice athletes alike.

* Dress in layers. Dressing in layers is another way to stay warm and prevent illness in the winter months. Kids are especially susceptible to cold weather, so parents should dress them in one more layer than they dress themselves. When wearing scarves, sportsmen should tuck their scarves in so they don't get tangled with sporting equipment.

* Remove drawstrings from kids' clothing. Drawstrings on winter hats, overcoats and pants can prove harmful to children. These drawstrings can easily get tangled and lead to strangulation. Parents should remove all drawstrings from kids' winter clothing before kids participate in winter sports.

ICE SKATING & HOCKEY

Winter is a great time to go ice skating or play some hockey. However, ice sports like skating and hockey can be especially dangerous, and it's wise for adults and children to be as cautious as possible when getting in some ice time.

* Beware of thin ice. Ice that forms on moving waters, including rivers and creeks, is never safe enough to skate on. Such waters should always be avoided no matter how thick the ice may appear. When going ice skating or playing hockey outdoors, only do so on waters that are supervised and have been tested and approved for skating.

* Skate with the crowd and never skate alone. Skating alone might give you all the room in the world to perform a figure eight, but skating alone leaves you with no backup should the ice break and you fall in or if you injure yourself in a fall. When skating, never skate against the crowd.

SKIING AND SNOWBOARDING

Skiing and snowboarding are immensely popular in the winter, but that popularity should not overshadow how dangerous these activities can be.

* Get instruction. Ski resorts typically require guests with no previous skiing or snowboarding experience to get lessons before they can take to the slopes. These lessons are a must for novice skiers and snowboarders and even those athletes with no recent experience on the slopes.

* Be especially cautious when entering or exiting the ski lift. Ski lifts pose a significant injury risk, so skiers and snowboarders should always be attentive when entering or exiting the lift.

* Don't allow young children to snowboard. Many of today's youngsters prefer snowboarding to skiing. However, the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that children seven years of age and younger should not snowboard.

* Don't be in a hurry. Skiing or snowboarding too fast increases the chance you will lose control and cause injury to yourself or others. Go at a slower, more relaxed pace and take in all of the beautiful scenery along the way.

SLEDDING

Sledding is a great way to have some fun in the winter snow. But even though sledding is often seen as a carefree activity, it can be risky as well.

* Never sled near traffic. Sledding near traffic is a definite no-no, as it risks the lives of sleds and motorists alike. Always make sure you sled in an insulated area far away from roadways.

* Sled feet-first or sitting up. Sledding feet-first or sitting up greatly reduces a sledder's risk of suffering a head or neck injury. Never sled while lying down head first.

* Never sled on ice. Sledding on ice can cause injuries and make it difficult to control a sled. When sledding, only do so on packed snow.

* Do not allow a sled to be pulled by a vehicle. Being pulled by a vehicle while on a sled might seem like fun, but it's nearly impossible for oncoming traffic to see a sledder behind a vehicle, and it's very easy for the sled to fishtail into oncoming traffic.

How to maintain workout routines during the holidays

Between decking the halls, visiting family and attending holiday parties, it may seem like there is little time to maintain a workout routine during the holiday season. While the holiday season is an especially busy time of year, men and women who plan and stay dedicated to their routines do not need to let their health fall by the wayside until January.

Several studies show that people can gain anywhere from one pound to a few pounds between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Although that might not seem like a lot of weight, a report in The New England Journal of Medicine noted that many people never lose the weight they put on during the holidays.

Those who struggle to keep the weight off understand the importance of maintaining both a consistent fitness schedule and healthy eating habits. This may be challenging when the rich foods and parties synonymous with the holiday season are around to threaten healthy habits. Here's how to stay on course.

- Establish a regular exercise date. Treat exercise as any other obligation on the calendar. Make it a necessity and not a luxury. Schedule time for workouts, even if it means removing something else from your agenda.

- Don't worry about the length of your workouts. If you're accustomed to an hour-long workout but cannot fit in more than 20 minutes on some days, don't skip the workout simply because it's shorter. Make the most of that time by targeting larger, core muscles.

- Change your schedule. You may need to alter your daily schedule to fit in gym workouts or other exercise. Try getting up earlier and heading out prior to work or school. This will open up time throughout the rest of your day, and you can use that time to meet the demands of the holiday season.

- Get a trainer or a workout buddy. It's far easier to blow off a workout when you go it alone. However, if you have a workout partner who is counting on you and vice versa, you may be less inclined to miss a workout — even when you're not especially motivated to hit the gym.

- Try new activities. Workouts need not be limited to exercises in the gym. Plenty of activities work the body and burn calories. Sledding, ice skating, skiing, and snowboarding are just a few winter sports that can help you stay in shape.

- Choose a hotel with a pool or gym. If holiday travel is on your itinerary, select a hotel that has fitness equipment. This way you can keep up with your routine. Even swimming a few laps in an indoor pool can provide a cardiovascular workout while you're on vacation. Remember, it only takes a two-week break from exercise to experience a fitness regression, and you will only have to work harder to get back to your current fitness level if you let exercise slide too long.

- Add short, high-intensity exercises. Burn more calories in less time with high-intensity workouts. This way you won't need to schedule as much time for workouts but will still get the benefit of exercise.

- Transform chores into exercise opportunities. See that vacuum cleaner, rake or broom as a piece of exercise equipment. While cleaning up for holiday company, turn on the radio and get your heart pumping, too. Do leg raises while you're preparing meals or do some pushups off of the kitchen counter.

- Use your bodyweight. Even if you can't make it to the gym, rely on your own body resistance for a thorough workout. Pushups, squats, burpees, mountain climbers, jumping rope, and lunges are some exercises that rely on bodyweight for effectiveness.

- Periodically exercise during the day. If you have a few free moments here and there during the day, use these opportunities to exercise. By the end of the day, you may find you squeezed in an entire workout's worth of exercise over the course of several 10-minute intervals.

Exercise and fitness do not have to play second fiddle to other holiday activities. Make time for workouts, and you will be ahead of the game come the new year.

Make this season on the slopes safe and successful

Skiing and snowboarding remain very popular among athletes and outdoor enthusiasts who refuse to be relegated to the couch upon the arrival of winter weather. For the millions of men, women and children who can't wait to hit the slopes each winter, the thrill of racing down snow-covered mountainsides is a feeling unlike any other.

While skiing and snowboarding are popular recreational activities, they can still be dangerous. As a result, it's imperative that anyone who plans to hit the slopes this winter takes steps to ensure this winter sports season is as safe and successful as it is thrilling.

- Start exercising. If it's been awhile since you hit the gym or broke a sweat, it's best to start exercising before you hit the slopes. Your risk of injury is greater if you are out of shape upon returning to the slopes, so start exercising as the season approaches so you can regain any flexibility you might have lost since you last slipped on your skis or strapped into your snowboard. Some strength training exercises can reduce your risk of broken bones should you fall while on the mountain, and the better shape you're in the more energy you will have to stay on the slopes.

- Reassess your gear. Before your first skiing or snowboarding trip, reexamine your gear to make sure it does not need to be replaced. If your gear has a bit too much wear and tear, the National Ski Areas Association recommends choosing gear that is resistant to wind and water and wearing gear that protects you from the sun, which can still do damage by reflecting off the snow and causing sunburn. In addition, inspect your equipment, including your skis and snowboard, to make sure they are up for another season of hitting the slopes.

- Take lessons. Novice skiers and snowboarders might want to take a refresher course at the onset of each ski and snowboarding season. Qualified instructors can reacquaint you with techniques you might have forgotten since last winter, and such instruction can reduce your risk of injury.

- Ease yourself back in. While it can be tempting to pick up where you left off last season, going too hard on your first trip can increase your risk of injury. Ease yourself back in on your first few trips down the mountain, warming up on easier slopes until you once again get the hang of things and feel comfortable tackling more difficult trails. If you do find yourself struggling on a slope, the NSAA advises that you always leave your skis and snowboard on and side step down the slope.

Many athletes and outdoor enthusiasts anxiously anticipate the day when they can return to the slopes to ski or snowboard. But it's important that skiers and snowboarders of all skill levels exercise caution so their winter sports season starts off on the right foot.
