Medical waste company seeks move to Webster

BY JASON BLEAU STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

WEBSTER — Webster officials and taxpayers turned out for a two-hour public hearing March 20 to address a proposal by United Medical Waste Management Incorporated, a company currently based in Sutton, to move its operations to a location on Worcester Road in Webster.

The meeting included input from the Board of Health, representatives of the project and United Medical Waster Management Inc., and others from throughout the Webster community who presented concerns, questions, and information about the initiative that would see the company moving its operation to Webster, where its owners Tim and David Ryan reside.

The hearing is the latest step for the company's proposed move after they recently applied to the state through a site suitability application and received the blessing of state officials to approach the town for approval. Should Webster approve the project the company would return to Boston for a state permit that would allow them to bring their operation to town.

The site where the company plans to move is adjacent to a future medical marijuana site and was previously utilized as a karate school among other things. The facility would manage around 9,000 to 10,000 tons of material per year with a maximum tonnage of 49 tons a day, although the company estimates only around 9,000

Fox not running for re-election in June

BY JASON BLEAU STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

DUDLEY — Election season is on the horizon and the Board of Selectmen received a surprise announcement on March 13 that they will have a new member following the June 12 vote as Selectman Peter Fox declared his plans to not run for re-election.

Fox made the announcement as a professional courtesy to his fellow selectmen near the end of the board's meeting in early March that after serving two three-year terms as a selectman he has decided to move on to new adventures in his life.

"I want to let all of you know that I will not be seeking reelection this June," Fox told selectmen. "I've been serving boards and committees for 20 years. I feel that I will not want to make another three year commitment at this time."

Boys & Girls Club has 'a clean slate'

BY GUS STEEVES TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – After a period of reorganization, the Webster-Dudley Boys & Girls Club plans to come out swinging in 2017.

"We're acting like this is a brand new club and we're having a grand opening, a clean slate," said new Director Cory O'Dell, who took the reins last month.

"... The program staff has really stepped up. Their continuity, consistency and enthusiasm has kept us moving forward in this time of transition."

That clean slate doesn't mean eliminating the past. The club intends to keep several things it now has and build on them, including basketball, the popular computers, the growing library that was once the "homework room," and the hydroponic/outdoor gardening. But O'Dell and new program director Lamel Moore are putting in place several things they hope will help address the fact that, as O'Dell put it, being a teen in 2017 is "more complex than in 1990."

"We hope to open ourselves to the entire youth community up to age 18," O'Dell said, adding the aim is to "not just [be] an after-school hangout." Key in that effort are two programs they're importing from other Clubs — the Smart Girls Program and Passport to Manhood, each of them segmented into two or three age ranges to address the issues common for those ages and sexes. They have similar academic goals, namely promoting "positive ways to move forward in school" with college prep elements, safe dating, hygiene and mentorship.

Moore said they tweak the programs depending on what the most notable needs seem to be for the particular club's Turn To B & G CLULB page A16

Quickly learn how easy pastel painting is: You will learn all strokes and techniques to produce an Impressionist style pastel painting, including: scumbling, blending, slurring, feathering, layering, fracturing, broken color, and master an effect Monet prized the most, the Impressionist Shimmer.

Maichack's workshops have been so well-liked, many libraries and senior centers have booked and rebooked him, often twice a year.

"He reflects a teaching style that is rare: encouraging, positive and constructive, with information given in a style that students find approachable, accessible, and clear," wrote Melinda Georgeson, Director of Education, Norman Rockwell Museum.

Maichack, who lives in western Holyoke, is an award winning portraitist and painter working primarily in pastels. He has been in many national juried shows and was awarded hundreds of Massachusetts Cultural Council grants. Maichack is a faculty member at the Museum Studio School in the Fine Arts Museum Quadrangle in Springfield, and also teaches at Greenfield Community College in their adult continuing education department. He is also a pastel painting demonstrator at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. He's been nominated twice for a Massachusetts Gold Star Program award, and will display his original pastel artwork to illustrate his workshop.

His portraiture, still-life, and landscapes are represented by galleries from Kennebunkport, ME to San Francisco, CA.

Maichack is also accepting requests to do portraits, and various commissions to do pastel paintings. Please call (413) 532-3667 or e-mail at EmJay7@aol. com. Visit his new web site at www. GregoryMaichack.com.

McGovern joins Meals on Wheels for day of awareness

WEBSTER — U.S. Congressman Jim McGovern (D-MA), a leading anti-hunger champion, joined local Meals on Wheels volunteers in Webster to help deliver meals to central Massachusetts seniors in need. The local chapter of Meals on Wheels serves nearly 500 seniors in 13 different communities in central Massachusetts. The meal delivery to seniors with Congressman McGovern is part of his continued effort to raise awareness about the difference the program makes and fight back against the proposed funding cuts in President Trump's budget that would hurt Meals on Wheels.

"America is the richest country in the world, but every year nearly six million seniors struggle with hunger. Thanks to Meals on Wheels and local organizations like Tri-Valley Inc., we're helping to change that," Congressman McGovern #### said.

"Senior hunger is a problem we can solve, but not without these great organizations. President Trump's budget would recklessly cut $3 billion from community development block grants that help fund Meals on Wheels. We need strong investments to help fight senior hunger. Not only is it the right thing to do, it's also cost effective, because keeping seniors in their homes with access to nutritious food is less expensive than providing nursing-home care. We need to ensure that seniors aren't falling through the cracks and that they aren't going hungry. I am grateful to our local leaders and volunteers with Meals on Wheels and proud to support the work they do to help seniors in need."

How do I save for a downpayment for a home?

When buying a home there are many different loan options and depending on the type of loan and location of the home you may be eligible for 100% financing such as USDA in rural areas or VA loan if you are a veteran. So there

$197,500, 8 Schofield Avenue, Judith Czernicki and Carol A. St. Pierre to Jeffrey Czechowski and Margaret are scenarios where you actually would need less money to buy a home than to put down first, last and security on an apartment. I am conservative and suggest saving money even if you don't need it for a

repairs. It is best to have 3-6 months of expenses in the bank after putting down a downpayment plus if there are any known issues such as a roof or boiler that you know will need to be replaced soon to have funds set aside for that as well.

The best way to save money is to have a plan. That plan is a called a budget and most people cringe when hearing that word because it makes them think that they will never be able to do anything fun again. As John Maxwell says "a budget is telling your money where to go instead of wondering where it went". I suggest tracking all your expenses for the previous 3 months or so and then subtract that from your income and see what is left. Many times we do this and the number is negative. This is where Isuggest going line by line on the budget and seeing what can be cut out temporarily or permanently. Then look and see if there are any bills like insurance, phone or cable that you are overpaying for and switch to another carrier or renegotiate what you are paying. I am not suggesting to cut things out like your life insurance or disability insurance which are important in your overall financial plan. However, cut wherever you can and make a plan to move all the additional funds and put it in a separate account earmarked for a home downpayment. If you can save enough to put 20% down and not have Private Mortgage Insurance I would suggest that as it will keep your monthly costs from your home much lower.

Dave Ramsey says "Live like no one else now so you can live like nonone else later". If you make these decisions with your money you will be able to improve your financial picture and put yourself in a safe place for that home invested and may affect your retirement. The IRA withdrawal will now cause you to pay taxes on that money and you may also have an early withdrawal penalty that will creep up on you at tax time. In Summary, create a budget you can stick with and put money aside to cover your potential future home expenses and personal expenses if you were to lose a job then buy a home so you never have to worry about doing a short sale or getting foreclosed on. Also, always consult with your Financial Advisor before making any moves that will affect your retirement accounts in order to buy a home.

a promotion or a new job after the end of the year? Did you buy a home? Start a business? Have a child? Make adjustments to accommodate the changes now. For example, you could adjust your withholding or estimated tax, or increase retirement plan contributions. Contact us for more tax-saving suggestions.

High speeds endanger area as MV stop goes bad

Tyler McCracken

Speed too high for conditions and evading arrest land a Southbridge man in hot water last week as on Friday, March 24 at approximately 9:35 p.m., Officer Shane DiDonato was at the intersection of Mason Road and West Main Street. At that time, he witnessed a vehicle, later identified as an orange Toyota Scion, traveling westbound on West Main Street at a speed he estimated to be approximately 60 mph.

He followed after this vehicle and began an attempt to stop it. At that time, it accelerated and traveled west and north onto Airport Road, Dudley Hill Road, and Dudley Southbridge Road. Much of this area is a posted 30 mph zone. During this time, the Scion passed several vehicles and had driven off the roadway, damaging a mailbox at a home on Dudley Hill Road as well as a lawn at a residence on Dudley Southbridge Road. It nearly collided with another vehicle at the intersection of Center Road. The Scion eventually stopped on Dudley Southbridge Road near Foskett Rd. Fortunately, no one was injured during this incident.

The operator was identified as Tyler McCracken age 25 of Southbridge. There was also an adult male passenger in the vehicle.

Both parties were evaluated on scene by Dudley Fire and Emergency Services personnel. Both refused further treatment.

Officers believed McCracken was under the influence of alcohol at that time and he was taken into custody. He was transported to the Dudley Police Department for booking. He was later held on bail for an appearance at Dudley District Court March 27.

He was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol, operating to endanger, failure to stop for a police officer, failure to keep right, speeding, and leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

Dudley officers Marek Karlowicz, Philip Megas, Tyler Smith also assisted with this case.

Juvenile charged in shooting incident

WEBSTER — According to police reports, on March 22, 2017 at approximately 5:09 p.m., Webster Police were dispatched to the Dunkin Donuts at 128 Main St. for a report of a gun shot in the parking lot.

Officers arrived and, after a brief investigation, learned that a shooting had actually taken place and both the victim and suspect had fled the scene. The suspect had fled on foot, while the victim had fled in a vehicle.

Officers attempted to track the suspect utilizing police K9s from both Oxford and Webster with negative results. As officers processed the scene and conducted their investigation, Harrington Hospital in Southbridge reported that the victim, Thomas Lareau, age 21 from 11 Brown's Brook Road in Oxford, had just walked into the emergency room with a gunshot wound and reported it had happened at Dunkin Donuts in Webster. His injuries were not expected to be life threatening. Webster Police Detectives spoke to Lareau, and along with patrol officers from the second shift identified the suspect as a 15 year old juvenile.

The juvenile was located at his house in Webster a short while later and was taken into custody. The weapon used is believed to be a sawed off shotgun.

The juvenile was held at a secure detention center and was arraigned at Worcester Juvenile Court for: armed assault to murder; possession of a sawed off shotgun; discharge of a firearm within 500 feet of a building; carrying a firearm without a license; assault and battery with a dangerous weapon; and improper possession of ammunition

The investigation into this incident is continuing at this time. Anyone with any information is asked to contact Webster Police Detectives at (508) 943-1212. Anonymous tips may be left at (508) 949-3874 or www.websterpolice. com.

Annual Relay fundraiser in progress

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

SOUTHBRIDGE — The Southbridge Relay for Life's annual Silent Auction fundraiser is ending on April 8. That's only one more week. The money raised from the silent auction will benefit the American Cancer Society, which uses the funds for prevention research and programs that benefit patients in Massachusetts.

This year, the silent auction has more than 70 items on which to bid, all donated from area businesses. There are gift certificates of all sorts, including a membership to the Tri-Community YMCA, Zoe's Pizza, Big Bunny Market, Sturbridge Vet Hospital, Kaizen Sushi Bar & Grill and many other local businesses. There's also an Amazon Echo, a $250 Dexter Russell knife set, tickets to the Gateway Players, a soy candle gift basket and much, much more.

You can check out all of the awesome items on page 12 this week.

And just because there's a starting bid in the paper doesn't mean there's an actual bid, noted auction coordinator Ron Ravenelle.

"If someone is interested in an item," he explained, " by all means, call. If there's no bid they can probably get it cheaper than the starting bid that's listed there."

This is the 10th annual Silent Auction, something of which Ravenelle and other Relayers are very proud. Over the past nine years the auction has raised more than $21,000 for the Relay for Life and the American Cancer Society. Last year, the auction raised more than $4,000.

And Ravenelle has been a part of the Silent Auction from the beginning. It's something that's very important to him, that he's very passionate about.

"I've known so many people that have died of cancer. I've had my dad die of cancer. My sister-in-law passed away. Just lost my first wife a few weeks ago to cancer. It's hit my family very hard. And also very many friends," he stated, adding that he knows this is unfortunately true for so many people in the community.

"Hopefully we'll someday find the cure.

Over the years, Ravenelle and others feel that the American Cancer Society is definitely making progress, but with so many types of cancer it's not easy. There's not just "one pill that will cure it." Still, the Relay for Life keeps pushing, keeps fighting.

'The Silent Auction helps in a small way," said Ravenelle. "We've raised over $20,000 in nine years. That's not too shabby.'

To help support the cause – and get great deals on some very awesome gift certificates and items – turn to page 12 to check out this year's Silent Auction.

Save room for next weekend's chowdown!

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN STONEBRIDGE STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON - Bay Path's Chili Chowdown is back! The seventh annual Chili Chowdown fundraiser is coming on Sunday, April 9 from 4 to 6 p.m. For just $5, guests can try different chili from over 22 restaurants and cooks from all over central Massachusetts, while supporting the school's varsity baseball team and their annual trip to a baseball tournament in Cape Cod.

There's ghost pepper chili, pulled pork chili, chicken, vegetarian...the list is varied and endless. The baseball team also makes their own chili for the competition, a chili dog that people look forward to each year.

Said culinary arts instructor Mark Sansoucy, "It can really be anything, there's a huge variety. I love chili. I love it. I just like regular beef chili the best. I love BBQ chili. That's always been one of my favorites.'

Some of the restaurants already confirmed they will be entering the contest are Pine Ridge, Twisted Fork, Eller's, Buck's BBQ, Epicurean Feast, Big T's BBQ, Elm Street Cafe, Chili's, Sturbridge Seafood, Karol's Corner Take Out, Jimmy D's, The Overlook and 44 Catering. Bay Path's Junior American Culinary Federation will also be entering, along with two instructors ("who have their own little competition as well").

Tantasqua's culinary department will also be entering a chili, along with individuals in the area like Monte Bianco and Andy Aucoin (who won last year). Bay Path's own Jeremy Guay will also be entering his own chili recipe.

There are other restaurants and individuals who have shown interest but not yet confirmed.

'We really appreciate all of these businesses and people giving back to us," said Sansoucy. "They're giving up a Sunday and putting their chili up for a cause. We really appreciate it.

It's overwhelming."

According to Sansoucy, this will be the biggest Chili Chowdown yet. They expect at least 400 people or more to show up on Sunday for the big feast.

Not only will the guests get to eat unlimited chili of all different types from professional cooks in the area, but they will be supporting the school's varsity baseball team. Funds raised at the Chili Chowdown will cover the students' food. activities and hotel while they are at the Cape.

Every year the school takes 16 kids to the Cape to play baseball in a tournament. But to Sansoucy, it's about more than just baseball.

"I have a whole new group of kids so it's a great bonding time for them. They get to know one another a bit better. It makes the atmosphere on the team more friendly. It's not like a city school where everyone is from Oxford and everyone knows one another. We have kids coming from all over the place, ten to 11 different towns,' he explained.

"This is a good opportunity for them to interact with one another outside of school. I think it's important for them to have this opportunity. They go play mini golf, batting cages, driving ranges, go-karts. They have fun when they're down there."

Who are the Children Waiting for Adoption?

There are over 2,800 children in Massachusetts foster care with the goal of adoption. Through no fault of their own, they cannot be raised by their birth parents. Many will be adopted by a relative or foster parent, but more than 700 have no one to adopt them yet. These waiting children are all ages including toddlers, school age, teens, sibling groups who belong together, children of color of all ages, and children with intellectual, physical or emotional difficulties or disabilities. These children have experienced many losses and changes in their lives, and need patient and dependable adoptive parents who can help them grow and thrive in their new family. Free post-adoption support services are available to help.

To learn more about Isaiah, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-54-ADOPT (617-542-3678) or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

Bay Path student earns top spot in state competition

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN RITER

CHARLTON — Bay Path business technology student Kelsi Mitchell won first place in the personal financial literacy division at Distributive Education Clubs of America's state level competition earlier this month. The business competition had 2,700 students from central Massachusetts competing in categories like accounting, marketing, hospitality, finance and entrepreneurship.

It was Mitchell's third year competing in her category. She had always come close, but this year, she took first place. Bay Path is from a small district and only brought around 10 students. Mitchell's win was "really cool to see" and "great for the school," said marketing instructor and DECA advisor Kelsey Spear, who stated some schools had brought more than 150 kids.

"I've put three years of work into DECA and how many times I've looked over materials and studying things, reading financial literacy books... even though this may not be an avenue I take for the rest of my life, it opened a lot of doors for me, to see what I'm capable of," said Mitchell.

"It was important for me to be able to practice these transferrable skills and the honor of competing there against some of these highly intelligent kids and coming out on top. That was one of the most rewarding experiences of my life."

For the personal financial literacy competition, Mitchell had 10 minutes to read over a mock financial situation and come up with ways for them to improve their financial situation. One of her scenarios was an individual who got paid bi-weekly and saves little money. She discussed with them how to invest their money, along with credit, debit, loans and insurance.

"The students really put themselves in this role," said Spear. "They also take a test, which is half of the overall score. Other kids also create a project, like an ad campaign or business plan and present that to a panel of judges."

Bay Path has been involved with DECA for quite some time, probably 20 years or so. But in the last five or six years, Spear and other instructors 'amped it up again.'

She explained, "We wanted something that business kids can compete in. We wanted them to have a chance to show what they know and how well they do in competitions like this. It's good to see where other kids are in the state and where they're going to school. It's different than being a plumber or electrician. They need that avenue to learn the different paths they can take after."

Mitchell got involved with DECA when a teacher encouraged her three years ago. She had come to Bay Path very shy, not talking very much, and the instructor felt it would be a great thing for her to try. The first district conference she competed in, Mitchell took first place.

"It opened my eyes to what DECA had in store for me," recalled Mitchell. "And I kept going and trying harder and harder and pushing myself, so that I could reach this. It really opened up all these pathways I didn't know I had the potential inside me for, like being class president.'

So why financial literacy?

Mitchell described herself as a very logical person who likes things done in a structured order. This led her to finance because of the order and patterns she noticed in it. For Mitchell, finance was easy for her to understand. But it's more than that.

"It's very important to know going into the future," she said. 'You're going to have to deal with finance no matter what career you're in."

For Mitchell, placing first in the state competition was "amazing." She hadn't been 100 percent sure if she would win, but she started to gain confidence in herself when she found out she had won a few awards at a mini awards session the night before the final award ceremony.

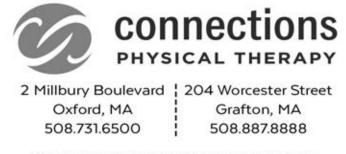

"It was unbelievable," she said. "A lot of people felt they had it in the bag. It just felt really cool that all this work paid off and I got something from it that was very meaningful to me."

Outside of DECA. Mitchell is also involved in Skills USA, where she competes in the entrepreneurship category. She creates a 35-page business plan. She feels DECA and Skills USA are "greatly intertwined." Mitchell also is the National Honors Society treasurer and president of the Student Council.

"I really put a lot of work into everything I do," she said. "I try to push myself to get involved in my community and get more in touch with myself and the leadership potential I have.'

MWCC hosts naturalization ceremony

GARDNER Mount Wachusett Community College served as the backdrop welcoming 271 Massachusetts residents from 58 different countries as new U.S. citizens during a naturalization ceremony last week.

The ceremony was car-ried out by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services and the U.S. District Court. The Honorable Timothy S. Hillman, United States District Judge, presided over the ceremonies, with the clerk of the court administering the Oath of Allegiance to America's newest citizens.

As the event began, Mount Wachusett Community College President Daniel M. Asquino addressed the soon-to-be citizens. He encouraged those being nationalized to get involved, reminding them the country was built by immigrants who strove for change and engaged actively in governing a new country.

"Congratulations to all of you who are about to become a citizen of the United States of America," said Asquino, who explained what it meant to be a citizen. "It is being engaged, voting, taking care of one another, your neighbors and your citizens...as you become citizens and leave us today, make our democracy better than it is now."

Former state Senator Stephen Brewer reminded those gathered of the commitment the United States has made to immigrants; offering a promise of welcome. To these new citizens being welcomed, he emphasized the refrain of E Pluribus Unum — out of many one — that epitomizes the melting pot that is the United States.

"You become a part of the greatest country in the world and we welcome you," Brewer told the gathered crowd.

Gardner Mayor Mark P. Hawke took a somewhat lighter tone as he noted that although the crowd represented members of 64 communities, none of those gathered to become citizens were from Gardner. He spoke of Gardner's history as a location for immigrants and the positive impact they had on the area's culture and economy before encouraging those at the ceremony to become a part of the future of the city.

We do have a rich history of immigrants in the city and I seriously do hope you consider the city of Gardner if you ever consider relocating in the future," said Hawke to laughter from the audience.

The real stars of the event were the 271 citizenship candidates who originated from the following 58 countries: Albania, Argentina, Bahrain, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Brazil, Burma, Cambodia, Canada, People's Republic of China, Colombia, Cote D'Ivoire, Czech Republic, Denmark, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Germany, Ghana, Guatemala, Guyana, Haiti, Hong Kong, India, Iran, Iraq, Ireland, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Jordan, Kazakhstan, Kenya, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Mexico, Moldova, Morocco, Nigeria, Pakistan, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Republic of Korea, Russia, Senegal, South Korea, Sri Lanka, Syria, Taiwan, Thailand, Trinidad and Tobago, Turkey, Uganda, Ukraine, United Kingdom, Uruguay, and Vietnam.

The candidates reside in the following Massachusetts cities and towns: Acton, Ashburnham, Auburn, Bedford, Billerica, Boston, Boxford, Bradford, Burlington, Cambridge, Chelmsford, Clinton, Concord, Danvers, Dracut, Dudley, Fitchburg, Georgetown, Gloucester, Greenfield, Groton, Haverhill, Holden, Holyoke, Hudson, Lancaster, Lawrence, Leominster, Littleton, Lowell, Manchester, Marlborough, Maynard, Methuen, Middleton, Newburyport, North Adams, North North Andover,

As he closed the ceremony, Judge Hillman again encouraged the new citizens to make use of their newfound rights and become involved.

"I am proud to call each and every one of you a fellow American," said Hillman. "Perhaps you or one of the children in this room today, hopefully more than one, will become a great leader of this nation."

Soon to open: laser tag at Mobegan

With brilliant lights and sound, laser tag is coming to Webster

The Kinsleys are continuing the tradition of evolving the facility to meet the family entertainment needs of the local market. Construction is now in the final phase for three new attractions. First of all, six Ten Pin lanes were added to the facility in December so that Mohegan can offer both candlepin and ten pin bowling.

Owner Ed Kinsley stated, "An incredible number of people have asked about ten pin bowling. The closest ten pin lanes are 13 miles away to the north and roughly 40 miles to the south."

The Bistro by the Lanes was just completed in the bowling area. The menu will include items such as specialty burgers, hand stretched pizza, chicken wings, chicken fingers, deluxe nachos, salads and other appetizers. The beverage menu will include seven beers on tap including a weekly craft beer selection, over 30 bottled beers, a variety of wines and cocktails. The Bistro will operate daily providing lane side food and beverage options as well as food for special events ranging from children's birthday parties to corporate parties, Kelli Kinsley commented, "We chose the laser tag concept because it provides fun for all ages. Obviously kids love it but so do adults. Over 60 percent of the business at Laser Tron's facilities comes from adults looking to have a good time. Laser Tag is great team building activity and you get to enjoy a cocktail while getting your exercise.'

The laser tag facility will provide guests with the option of playing several different laser tag games in the arena. A session is comprised of three eight-minute games played back to back, and the Kinsleys say players can burn up to 1,000 calories when playing two sessions.

Ed Kinsley recounted the story of guest he spoke with recently.

"This guy came up to me and said 'This is great! The last time I was here was my 12th birthday party. Now I'm in my 30s and I still love playing here.

Only now I can drink beer, too!"

The facility became a local landmark offering an ever changing array of family entertainment options to the local community. Over the years cream, arcade games, a family style restaurant and go karts.

The business was sold in 2012 and since that time the new owners, Ed & Kelli Kinsley have invested heavily in remodeling the facility and have seen the bowling and arcade business increase by nearly 400 percent.

EDITORIAL 'I'll wait for a new editor'

Pretty cryptic words since this new editor has been here less than six weeks; but not entirely surprising.

It's been our experience the work of writing and putting together the news looks like a different animal than it really is...from the outside.

How did this statement come about? Let us explain.

Slowly, we have begun making some changes in the newspapers, trying to make more space for news that really affects the towns where the papers are; Northbridge news in the Tribune, and so on. We have good writers, but they are stretched thin, trying to cover several towns in limited time.

So we have been encouraging people to submit their information directly to us, to send photos, to help us help you and...we believe in sharing views with our news so yes, we are encouraging letters to the editor please, more of them. Tell us and others what is on your minds, and about the towns and the interests that impact you.

Of course we welcome those letters eagerly, and read them anxiously. We want to share them with other readers. But.

Isn't there always a 'but?'

In the atmosphere of news, newsgathering, politics and opinions in this day and age there is a big blurring of lines. There always has been, with people not understanding the differences between "articles" and "letters" or "editorials" or "columns" and just what constitutes a factual story and what is opinion. We are super aware of just how letters are likely to be interpreted by the public.

So we ask sometimes that a writer add words like "in my opinion" to his writing; or ask that she say clearly that this is how she feels personally about a topic or a person. We are also very careful about "name calling" even of more well known people. We can get in a bit of trouble over some terms or accusations, though it might be clearly the letter writer's and not the newspaper doing the cryptic cacophony. Where is all of this going? It is simple really. We have asked a letter writer to change a letter to better reflect that it is indeed his opinion, that it be made clear the terms he uses, the information he has chosen to include are based on his opinion and on his attempts to make a point, not on facts or factual information

Letters to the Editor Mr. Trump, read "The Peter Principal" and RESIGN

To the Editor:

Required reading in business school back in the 1970s was a book by Lawrence Peter. It was called "The Peter Principal." If you own a business or in a position within a company where you hire and terminate, Peter's book is a must read. It was a must read back then, a must read today and a must read far into the future. As a business owner and self-employed for most of my life, I keep the words from that book in the back of my mind at all times. If you Google the title there will be a definition of the book which summarizes the entire premise of every page: "Managers rise to the level of their incompetence."

The book is about a ladder. A business ladder. A ladder all of us climb as we work our way "up" (or down) positions within a company. Each rung of the ladder is a level of responsibility and it usually is accompanied by a raise in pay. Let's use a fictitious name and a fictitious company to better explain: The employees name is Tony and he works for a large nonprofit that helps people go through life. He started out as a person just out of college and he was earning $15 per hour as a person 5th in line to the General Manager. He was on the 2nd rung of Peter's ladder. He was in the job placement division and he performed his tasks superbly. It wasn't long before he was promoted and given a $3 per hour raise. He was on rung #3. He was in this position for over 2 years, when the person on rung #4 had a stroke. Tony was chosen to take that person's place to see how he would do. He wasn't given a raise and he was told that the position was temporary until they could find someone "qualified."

Tony stepped in and was doing a fine job. He was still in the job placement division, but the temporary manager of that division, so he flattened the learning curve in a short time. Tony was promoted to the position permanently. On rung #4 on Peter's ladder and now Tony was on salary. Several years went by when the boss, the President, said he was retiring. There were several people in different divisions of the company that wanted the job as President. The executive board met and the decision was made to make Tony the President of the company.

Tony went from having 22 people working under him, to now in charge of several hundred and three offices. He had now climbed to the top of the ladder. He was on rung #5. From the very beginning things didn't go well. Tony made some poor decisions, put the wrong people in positions of power and went from loved by everyone to the butt of jokes throughout the company. But he was "The Man." The buck stopped with him. People under him advised him, but he didn't take their advice. Within a year the board dismissed Tony and he was replaced with someone from another company that had the management skills to perform on that rung.

"The Donald" has been voted to the top of the most important ladder in the world. Most people, with any sense of the scope of the job of being President of the United States, know that Donald Trump has "Risen to the level of his incompetence." I am not going to waste my time and the readers of this newspapers time by going into all of the misspeaks and blunders Trump has made over the past few weeks. Trump absolutely scares the living hell out of me. His treatment of German Chancellor Angela Merkel last week catalyst this LTTE. Trump has not the slightest idea what it is to President of these United States. It is time for Trump to resign.

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

Cyganiewicz: running for office

To the Editor:

My name is Kerry Cyganiewicz Sr. and I am looking to earn your vote for Selectmen in the Dudley town election on June 12,2017.

I have lived in Dudley nearly my entire life. I received my education in my hometown, graduating from Shepherd Hill Regional High School and then receiving a Bachelor's Degree from Nichols College. I currently reside with my family on Airport Road.

I have volunteered my time to the town in various ways, most notably and recently as the chairman of the Finance and Appropriations Advisory Board. In this position, I have had the pleasure of working closely with our various town departments, town administrator, and our Board of Selectmen. Together we have been able to maintain the amenities that the townspeople need and desire as well as bring about additional services including 24-hour paramedic coverage and the re-opening of the town beach. We have been able to accomplish this while keeping our taxes some of the lowest in the state. I am proud to say that during my tenure on the FAA, we have not had to lay any employee off, nor have we entertained the idea of turning off streetlights as was commonplace in years past. In fact, we have added to the stabilization fund each year I have been a member.

The road ahead is not without peril, both literally and figuratively. Solar projects seem to be a hot topic. Although they provide welcome revenue, abutters and others with concerns must be heard. In the end, what is best needs to be done. It is no secret that the town is involved in lengthy litigation. Solutions need to be found to make our roads safer, both in the winter and in the warmer months. These problems and others need to be dealt with keeping in mind the progress and stability that we have enjoyed recently needs to continue while maintaining fair taxes for everyone. These tasks are going to require someone with exceptional communication skills, not just speaking, but listening as well. This individual will also need to possess proven, effective leadership skills with a firm grasp of the current situation of the town. This individual should be as neutral as possible with their only agenda being the betterment of the town. I believe I am this individual, and I hope you will agree as well. Please visit my election Facebook page at Elect Kerry Cyganiewicz Sr, Dudley Selectmen

Make way! Make way! Vehicles need you to move

Emergency vehicles respond to calls each day. With increased traffic volume on the roadways, this response can be hampered or delayed. I was recently asked to clarify the distance vehicles are supposed to travel behind emergency apparatus responding to calls. They noticed some drivers disregarding this important rule and hoped I could bring this to driver's attention.

The laws controlling response to emergency apparatus are contained in Chapter 89 of the Massachusetts General Laws. Section 7A contains the "Restrictions upon approach of fire apparatus." This section applies to emergency vehicles such as fire trucks, ambulances, police vehicles, and other "disaster vehicles." When these vehicles approach, while they are responding to an emergency, all vehicle operators are to pull to their vehicles to the right-hand curb of the roadway and keep the vehicle at a standstill until such emergency vehicle has passed. After resuming operation, or if you are following behind one of these emergency vehicles with their emergency systems activated, you are to follow no closer than 300 feet. Most fire trucks and some other emergency vehicles have this information posted on the rear of their vehicles for other drivers to see.

Penalty for violation of this section is a $100 civil infraction. Emergency vehicles are watching for other traffic and hazard situations which may develop. They may be required to stop quickly. By maintaining a safe distance in following, you should have sufficient time to stop or take evasive action in order to avoid an accident and prevent injuries.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to

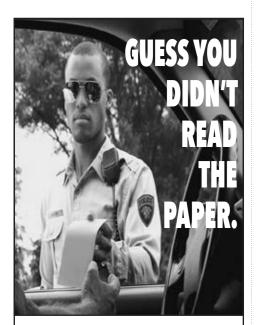

He has chosen instead to "wait until there is another editor" to submit his work.

OK.

We can live with that.

Because we too have some opinions on matters; one of them being that the standards for the newspaper are more important than making someone miffed.

But don't let that stop you from writing us letters to the editor. We welcome them. Truly.

When things like speed limits change, we're the first to know. You could be the second Your Community Paper. Told ya.

Avery: quality is downhill

To the Editor:

Is this the Webster Times or Southern Worcester County Times? Why is there no coverage of local town meetings such as Board of Selectmen, Board of Health and Finance Board meetings, which should be covered by the local press? Press coverage of these meetings is crucial in order for citizens to be fully aware of issues that are occurring. It seems like the Webster Times has become a shopper's paper with all the advertisements in it. With the large amount of advertising in the paper, there should be enough reporters to cover town meetings and news.

Another issue is the lack of publication

Ford: recognizing assistance

To the Editor:

On March 22, 2017, Reconciliation House, Inc., a MASH certified, six-bed men's sober home (a ministry of the Episcopal Church of the Reconciliation in Webster), held its first annual meeting at Point Breeze Restaurant. The House has only been open for six months, but because we received incorporation status last spring, we decided to hold our Annual Meeting and dinner one year from that date. The event was a wonderful success, with over 100 people from the town in attendance. However, we neglected to publicly thank Mr. Don Bourque, owner of Choice 1 Temps, for the fact that he has, at one point or another, employed all of our House residents. By providing them with much needed work, Mr. Bourque has greatly assisted in their recovery process.

I apologize for our error in not acknowledging Mr. Bourque at last night's dinner. We are very grateful for his assistance and support of this important ministry.

VIEWPOINT

Spring, when a young man's fancy turns to...turkey

Spring turkey hunting is on the minds of many local sportsmen in Massachusetts, and opening day is only four weeks away. The resto-ration of wild turkey into Massachusetts started as early as 1914.

numerous After attempts to successfully introduce the wild turkey from game farms in the 1960s to the Quabbin area, Mass Fish & Wild life soon realized that the birds were not doing well and the program was dropped. The next attempt to reintroduce wild turkey into Massachusetts came in 1972 and 1973. Birds from New York were live trapped and released in the Southern Berkshire County. Although the birds were slow to multiply, the efforts of MFW started to pay off in 1976 and it was all history after that. The flock continued to grow, with a by 1978. Some of the birds were trapped and relocated into numerous areas throughout western Mass!

Local sportsmen were eager to have some of the wild turkey relocated into the Blackstone Valley area but that was not being considered by MFW at that time. We were told that the valley area would be the last to see trapped birds relocated from the western part of the state. Some Mass Fish & Wildlife personnel felt that the vallev area was not suitable enough for the birds to survive. In 1979-96 turkey were expanded into central Massachusetts and northeastern and southwestern parts of the state. The wild turkey is now residing in all of Massachusetts and the central district has one of the largest population of birds.

Hunting the wild turkey is enjoyed by millions of sportsmen annually in many parts of the United States. Massachusetts wild turkey hunting opens on April 24 in zones 1-13, with a two bird spring limit. Only male birds (toms) can be harvested in the spring. In the fall a to a turkey. The coyote population of 1,000 birds hunter can harvest a bird of either sex if he did not fill his two permits in the spring. Only one bird is allowed in the fall.

The excitement of hunting wild turkey is second to none, and I know some deer hunters that would rather hunt the wild turkey, over hunting deer. Hunting turkey from a ground blind is the best way to go. The turkey has keen eye site and can spot any movement by a hunter, sending the bird scurrying out of sight. Wearing camouflage clothing is not necessary when hunting turkeys, if you hunt from a ground blind. Last year I was dressed in only camouflage pants and a long sleeve brown sweater. Sitting in my blind I enjoyed the comfort of a chair, ate an egg sandwich, and sipped on coffee as I waited for a bird to respond to my turkey calling. It also keeps you off the ground and away from the possibility of a tick bite. Wearing a face mask is not necessary.

As light broke I spotted some movement about 100 yards from my blind. It was a coyote sneaking up on my turkey decoys. If they looked good to him they should look good came closer to my decoys and was within 50 feet of the decoys when a slight breeze started to blow sending my scent in his direction. He hightailed it out of the field and disappeared into the woods.

Within minutes a turkey gobbled and I quickly became on high alert, picking up my gun and setting the gun barrel out the small window of my blind I could see two very large turkey heading my way. My mouth became very dry and I could feel the adrenalin rushing through my body. "I better no screw this up," I thought to myself!! A couple of soft calls on my mouth piece turkey call, had the birds running right at my small decoy spread which included a couple of fanned out tails that I saved from previous year's hunts. The feathers of the fanned out tails were slightly moving from the light breeze. Twenty yards was close enough for my twelve gauge shot gun and 31/2 inch shell to drop the bird in his tracks. Taking aim at the bird, I placed the red dot from my scope on his head. Slowly squeezing the trigger, the roar of the discharged shell echoed throughout the valley. The huge bird lay motionless on the ground and the second bird took flight disappearing into the woods.

I quickly headed out to the motionless bird, and as I did, I spotted at least a dozen more turkey scampering away from the edge of the field. I never even knew they were there.

As I picked up my bird I realized I had shot a corker. He was huge. I took a few minutes to admire my surroundings, as the sun was just coming into view. The rays of the sun coming through the trees just added to the successful hunt.

How lucky we are that we can enjoy the thrill of turkey hunting, and it was all made possible by some dedicated personnel of the Mass. Fish Wildlife, private citizens, and sportsmen's monies.

After I picked up my gear I stopped to show my bird to the land owner, and to thank him for allowing me to hunt on his property.

After returning home I took the time to weigh the bird. 25 pounds? I was going to take it to Jerry's Bait & Tackle shop in Milford to weigh it on his precision scale, but I decided to clean the bird. No matter what, it was a CORKER!

This week's picture shows this writer with his wild turkey. It was a CORKER!!

Stocking of trout continues throughout the valley. Anglers using power bait are catching a few of the fish, but the water needs to warm up for them to actively start biting on lures, worms and flies. Wallum Lake in Douglas opens to all fishing next Saturday April 8. Hope to see you there!

ANTIQUES, COLLECTIBLES & Estates WAYNE TUISKULA

A 2010 Wired magazine article described a lunch box collector who was planning to stop looking for new ones to add to his collection. He had already collected 3,000 lunch boxes and didn't plan to buy the only eight he believed that he was missing to own every example. He stated, "If I went from kindergarten through 12th grade and took a dif1950s were when lunch box production increased though. Aladdin Industries was a major lunch box manufacturer. Their steel boxes were very durable and could last for years. The company decided to create them with graphics that would appeal to their young customers. They designed a lunch box picturing Hop-along Cassidy which landed them an order of 50,000 units from a major department store. Additional characters later appeared on other lunch boxes. Even though their lunch boxes may have still been in good condition, children wanted ones with newer designs of their favorite TV characters. This resulted in lunch boxes dress brought over $200 at our last auction. Some parents even considered the metal lunch boxes to be dangerous assault weapons. Rambo was the last character on a steel lunch box when it was produced in 1987.

Many baby boomers have fond memories of lunch boxes and some are very popular with collectors. Looking through past auction records, I found a 1954 Superman lunch box in mint condition with the original thermos that sold for a five figure sum. Having the thermos can greatly increase value. Other lunch boxes also brought prices in the thousands, including the 1935 Mickey Mouse "lunch kit." Of course, condition is an important factor. The 1954 Superman lunch box in fair condition might only bring a figure in the hundreds. Popular television shows generate the highest lunch box prices. Cartoons like Dudley Do-Right, Underdog and Bullwinkle are among the most desirable. Lunch boxes for other shows like Star Trek, Lost in Space, Davey Crockett and Hogan's Heroes are also very collectible. Lunch boxes have become such an important part of pop culture that there are 75 on display in the Smithsonian. That's pretty impressive for something used for carrying peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to school.

We will auction a milk bottle and dairy memorabilia collection on Apri ferent lunch box to school every day, I'd still have something like 500 left over.'

A Smithsonian magazine article from 2012 provided an historical timeline of the lunch box referencing information from "Paileontology: A history of the lunchbox" on wholepop.com. In the late 1800s workers protected their lunch in heavy metal pails. Children from that era created their "lunch pails" from tobacco tins with handles, cookie tins and other household tins.

Mickey Mouse was the first character to appear on a lunch box in 1935. The being replaced much more often, and increased sales for Aladdin.

There were an estimated 120 million lunch boxes produced between 1950 and 1970 before they began to fall out of favor. Lunch box manufacturers stopped making them as demand declined, including Aladdin, which halted production completely in 1998. Their popularity waned for a number of reasons. They started being made of molded plastic and the graphics weren't as good as with metal. Vinyl was even used for a short time. Most vinyl lunch boxes aren't as collectible, although a Barbie lunch box with a Barbie doll

Teach Your Children Well ... About Finances and Investing

FINANCIAL Focus IEFF BURDICK

High debt levels...lack of savings...the inability to budget — these problems all have several causes, but one of them is almost certainly financial illiteracy. Too many of us just never developed the money management skills necessary to cope with our complicated - and expensive — world. But if you have young children, you can teach them some money-smart lessons - and who knows? You could use the opportunity to give yourself a few valuable reminders, too.

Here are some suggestions for a financial "curriculum":

Save for a goal. In our highly commercialized culture, it's almost inevitable that your children will eventually become somewhat acquisitive. Obviously, it's important to teach them that they can't have everything – and they certainly can't have everything right now. So, once they are old enough to receive an allowance or to earn money in some fashion, encourage them to set a goal for something they want, such as a toy or video game, and to put money aside every week for that goal. It's also an excellent idea to model this behavior yourself. So, if you are considering making a major purchase in the not-toodistant future, such as a car, show your children how you are setting aside money regularly for this purpose, rather than borrowing as much as you can or putting the entire purchase on a credit card.

Establish a budget. It can be challenging to create a household budget and just as difficult to stick to it - but for most people, it's worth the effort. You'll be doing your children a favor by showing them how you have a certain amount of income and where it goes – mortgage, utilities, groceries, retirement accounts, etc. – each month. Explain to your kids that by staying within your budget, you can help avoid problems such as debt and extra fees tacked onto bills for late payments. You might also want to point out that, as your income rises, you can gain greater flexibility in budgeting. Here's the key point: Living within your means pays off in the long run.

Have fun with investing. It might surprise you, but even young children enjoy learning about the investment process, especially if you explain to them that they can be an owner of a company that makes a product or service they like. You might want to pick such a company and, along with your child, chart its course over time. You could give your child a pretend \$100 bill to "invest" in this company and then see how its value changes, explaining along the way that various factors - such as the popularity of the company's products, the skill of its managers, and so on – will affect  $% \left( {{{\left( {{{\left( {{{\left( {{{\left( {{{\left( {{{}}}} \right)}} \right.}$ the stock's price. At some point, you may even wish to purchase real stocks for your child and place them within a custodial account. And you might also want to show your child how your own stocks and other investments are performing. The investment world can be fascinating, and by sharing your enthusiasm for it with your children, you can encourage them to invest throughout their lives.

Knowledge is power. And the more knowledge about finances and investing that you can impart to your children now, the more empowered they will be to make smart financial moves in the future.

Southbridge High hosts first SWCL All-Star basketball games

The Southern Worcester County League boys' All-Star teams.

SOUTHBRIDGE — At the conclusion of each high school basketball season, coaches within the Southern Worcester County League (SWCL) gather at a meeting and select all-stars. But Victor Colon, head coach of the Southbridge High boys' varsity team, took it upon himself to then invite all of the all-stars to join up and form the first SWCL All-Star game, which took place Friday, March 17 at Southbridge High.

"This game has never happened so I thought it would be awesome if there was a game so these kids can play together," said Colon. "We missed out on a lot of great games [in] past years so I didn't want to let any more slip by."

The all-stars were broken up into "home" and "away" teams, with Colon selectively trying to make each matchup as even as possible. For instance, on the boys' side, Bartlett High and David Prouty Regional finished as the top two teams, so Indian all-stars played on the "home" team, while the Panthers were on the "away" side.

In the girls' all-star game, "home" defeated "away," 84-58, with Tantasqua Regional's Lily Lucas earning MVP. The "home" squad also beat the "away" team in the boys' game, 90-77, and Bartlett's Tyler Davern took home the MVP.

MED WASTE

pounds, or roughly 4.5 tons, of medical waste will be managed on any given day of operation. The company currently employs around eight individuals in Sutton but due to a longing for expansion and limitations on the land they currently utilize the owners felt a move was needed and felt Webster would be a good fit.

David Ryan, who owns the company with his father Tim, said he feels that leading up to the Board of Health hearing there may have been some misconceptions spread about what medical waste actually is. The company does not deal with major hospitals in the removal of amputated body parts or other such items, but specialized more in needles, gauze and other items all packaged for delivery to disposal locations in the mid-Atlantic by their organization.

We're a regulated medical waste management company so we essentially manage regulated medical waste and eliminate risk to healthcare professionals, the general public, our own employees, and all the other stake holders. That's at the core of what we do as a business," David Ryan told a room full of citizens and town so we can then collect it and take custody. That generates a chain of custody whereas everything is not tracked cradle to grave through a racking form. It's a regulated process."

The facility they plan to create in Webster would not store any medical waste and would be a point of transfer, with the waste being brought to the building to be weighed and handled properly and immediately loaded into a truck that would transport the material to it's next destination for proper disposal.

"What we're applying for is for the ability to transfer that waste closer to home. Being from the area, our company is rapidly growing and we'd like to keep our company as close to our own back yard as we can. We feel it's a great project. We feel that it's something that will be good for everybody," Ryan said.

Those in attendance at the hearing were presented with a detailed explanation of exactly what would be done on the site as well as the plans for growth that the company would like to embrace, including the hiring of Webster residents as the company expands. The Ryans also detailed the extensive training that their drivers and employees are given to handling the material at any time thing ever occur.

"We work with companies that handle things that are out of control or in an accident situation, but primarily what we do is we train our clients how to respond so they have the tools to do that and then we handle the waste once it's properly packaged and contained," said David Ryan. "In 99 percent of situations that our drivers walk into they're going to walk into a doctor's office and see that the sharps are properly packaged in a sharps container and this bloody gauze is a red bag, double bagged and sealed, it's in a box and they feel safe taking it with the gloves. In an event that, and it has happened, they walk in and there's a mess, the drivers document and take pictures either with their cell phone or cameras and they refuse the waste. It's actually part of our packaging procedures in our contracts. It's the client's responsibility to make sure that things are properly packaged before we take the waste.'

The Ryans and others hired to work on the project provided feedback to several town officials and residents who had questions and concerns about the project including concerns about wetlands, a plan for materials that spill on their trucks, how truck routes will the company might be better moving their facility to a more hidden location.

One citizens asked exactly how this would benefit Webster and Board of Health Chair Dave Zalewski said he feels there are several benefits on the surface that make the project an attractive initiative for the town of Webster.

"If they come into town, number one their pricing is tremendously lower than somebody like Stericycle, who is one of the biggest in the country. Number two, they said that they would provide, as they grow, employment to townspeople which is, to me, very good," Zalewski said. "It's going to save us in waste cost for anyone who has any type of medical waste in town. It's already saving the Board of Health in town with the sharps that are delivered here and it'll being future employment. Those are the two things I'm most interested in."

David Ryan said he and his father picked Webster as their location of choice for many reasons not the least of which is that Webster is their home community.

'Logistically speaking Webster is a primary location. The site itself is industrial zoned so it lends itself to exactly what we want to do there," he said. "The perception is not the reality with regards to medical waste. The idea of medical waste, most people think it's body parts and lint and garbage and the nasty stuff. I like to think of it more like what the reality is. It's a highly regulated, professionally managed waste stream. We have incredibly educated professionals. Our drivers are held to the highest standards in the industry. We're an environmental health and safety company. So, I think a better term is, it's a medical waste transfer facility operated by a medical waste management company that specializes in environmental waste and safety. We mitigate risk and eliminate risk. The types of jobs that we'll be providing are skilled labor jobs that require a higher level of education, a high level of skill, and a high level of education."

While some citizens and officials still had questions, they wanted to see addressed at a future hearing, others felt that bringing in a new business would be nothing but good for the town of Webster, even if only through real estate taxes alone. The Webster Board of Health continued the hearing to April 24 at which time they hope to see more information from United Medical Waste Management Inc. to address lingering concerns from the meeting. The board may or may not make a decision at that time on whether or not to officials. "We train folks at the point of origin to properly package and handle that waste and that the company has a detailed plan of action in place for any spillage or exposure to the materials should somebe planned out and managed in town, and concerns that the location may be too central to the center of Webster and that approve the project.

View Police Officers as guardians and part of the community

Allow Officers to gain a greater sense of friendship with faculty, students and parents

This program enhances many of the positive collaborations with the local schools and the Dudley Police Department. School Resource Officer Phil Megas worked to coordinate this event. The Dudley Police Department works with all the schools to promote positive programs designed to minimize the fear and apprehension children may have about the police.

Unfortunately, at a young age, many children only know police through negative experiences. Programs such as "High Five Fridays" and others will, hopefully, work to effect change in some of these perceptions.

The plan is to roll out "High Fives" in future weeks at the other schools in town.

The Dudley Police wish to thank Principal Robin Parmley and her staff for working with the Chief and Officer Megas on this and many programs at the school. They also wish to thank Superintendent Desto and all the principals from each of the Dudley schools for their assistance promoting various initiatives throughout the years.

kids, but always "try to pull in the parents for those discussions as well." He doesn't expect it to be the same in Dudley as it was in the three other Clubs he has worked — Newport News, VA, Providence and Taunton.

Also coming soon are a traveling basketball team, a flag football league and a girls' program called Date Smart, which includes a wide range of healthy relationship-focused and safety-related issues, such as sexting and age-appropriate sexuality concerns.

"Young women today are so vulnerable because they often don't have an adult male role model to say why they shouldn't do things," Moore observed, noting many parents are "naïve to think their kids aren't doing these things" already in some form.

That points to the bigger picture for both boys and girls: to address the fact "the level of self-awareness and self-confidence has dropped a lot over the years" due to a variety of cultural factors, broken homes, economic instability and other issues, O'Dell said. "They feel they have to be like everyone else," and his goal is to help kids see they can still fit in while being themselves.

As examples, he points to two club mentors: one plays hockey, yet also teaches art; the other plays football, but also runs yoga classes and will be leading Passport to Manhood. In another case, he noted one boy who recently came forward asking to paint some of the ceiling tiles, admitting he didn't expect the boy to have interest in art.

On the flip side, he said, a parallel aim is to reach out to kids who might be considered at risk and help them direct their energies in beneficial ways before they get in trouble. Bad choices "very rarely lack some underlying driving force," and that usually can be narrowed down to two things: fear and/ or desire to be accepted.

"Everybody wants to feel cool, to be involved and incorporated in something," O'Dell added. "We want to let them know to be part of the group is OK, but not when you do what you know is not right."

Moore said he sees the transition as a chance to give the Club a distinct identity, and what that will be is largely "a question for the parents and the staff" to answer. Most Clubs "have legacy programs, and your job's not to mess it up, he said, but that's not really true here.

'Not everyone has the opportunity to do something from the ground up, Moore added.

Color Eggs from Household Products

Easter is right around the corner, and few family traditions are more enjoyable than the much-anticipated egg coloring project. Whether you decorate your eggs with intricate wax designs or plop crayoned eggs into overfilled dye cups, the annual ceremony is always filled with fun and a sense of family togetherness. The following ideas are fun and easy to do egg coloring projects.

Note: Eggs that are to be eaten should always be refrigerated after coloring.

Natural Dye for Easter Eggs

Years ago, before the invention of the commercial dying kit, eggs were tinted by necessity with natural foods that produced an array of pastel colors. Today, it's just as easy to duplicate the rainbow colors of yesteryear using everyday fruits, vegetables and seasonings. All it takes is a little bit of patience, and a lot of enthusiasm to produce an impressive basket full of colorful Easter eggs!

Certain foods can naturally produce a desired color:

Pale Red/Pink: Fresh beets or cranberries, frozen raspberries, red onion skins

Orange: Yellow onion skins

Light yellow: Orange or lemon peels, celery seed or ground cumin

Yellow: Ground turmeric

- Lavender: Grape juice
- Pale green: Spinach leaves

Green gold: Yellow Delicious apple

peels

Blue: Canned blueberries or red cabbage leaves Beige to brown:

Strong brewed coffee Instructions:

1. Place eggs in a single layer in a pan. Pour water in pan until the eggs are covered.

2. Add about a teaspoon of vinegar.

3. Add the natural dye appropriate to the color you want your eggs to be. (The more eggs you are dying at a time, the more dye you will need to use.)

4. Bring water to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes.

5. Remove the substance you used to color the eggs. Put eggs in a bowl. If you want your eggs to be a darker shade, cover them with the dye and let them stand overnight in the refrigerator.

Quick and Easy Homemade Dye

No egg coloring kit on hand? This homemade mixture rivals the basic egg coloring kits. Use empty egg cartons to dry colored eggs.

Mix three quarters of a cup warm water with one tablespoon white vinegar. Add one quarter teaspoon of desired food coloring. Make individual batches of color in wide mouth mugs or small bowls. Dip and soak hard boiled eggs in mixture to color.

Egg Artistry

With parental supervision, little artists can create a mini masterpiece with this easy and fun idea.

Materials: Large glass jar; crayon stubs; vegetable grater; hot water; waxed paper or newspaper, empty egg carton, clear acrylic spray (optional, for blown eggs).

Instructions: Grate peeled crayons over waxed paper. Fill jar with very hot water (or use the water you boiled eggs in). Drop bits of grated crayon into water.

Add hard boiled or blown egg as soon as crayon begins to melt. Twirl egg in water with a spoon. The wax should make a design on the egg. Carefully remove egg and set upside down in egg carton to dry. Note for blown eggs: Use above method with blown out eggs; spray with clear acrylic when dry. ***

Mystery Dots

This simple egg coloring method clearly illustrates a simple science experiment. Kids love it!

To do: Add about two teaspoons of cooking oil to each dye cup. (You might want to do this after you have finished dipping your eggs the traditional way.) When you dip in your egg, the dye won't adhere to the oil, creating mysterious spots on the egg!

Egg-cetera

* Wrap a wide elastic band around egg before dipping to create an abstract design.

* Personalize eggs with little fingerprints Just press fingertips into stamp pad, then onto egg.

* Stick simple star stickers on eggs before dying. Peel when dry for reversible art!

*Use food coloring markers for safe, freestyle egg decorating.

* Dip a paper towel in vegetable oil and polish dried eggs for a shiny, finished look.

get, even after $43,000 was reallocated after an error in the police department budget was identified. Part of that money will help bring an executive assistant in the town administrator's office to full-time status.

On the town side, Willardson said that there were several changes that are reflected in the new spending plan with increases in several revenue sources over the past year.

"We increased our motor vehicle excise by $60,000. I don't want to say it's a stretch, but it's not as conservative as it was originally. We have suggested moving the demand fee from $10 to $30, which is the highest amount allotted by state law so that would be an increase of $180,000 and we have also increased the amount of our new growth," Willardson told those in attendance during the joint meeting. "Originally it was a conservative amount of $150,000 so we increased that to $225,000. We also budgeted $40,000 being transferred from the school back to the town for our school resource officer so we can pay for half of that position. Lastly $5,000 from wetland fees will be used to pay for a conservation agent."

On the expense side, the town had considered embracing a fully insured health insurance program, but due to the increased overall cost it would bring to the town officials instead agreed to stick to a claims based insurance plan for town employees. The town is seeing a one million dollar increase in its insurance deal with Blue Cross Blue Shield, which Willardson said needs to be fully appropriated as there is no buffer for them to utilize to make up any difference in that funding should insurance claims spike.

The town cut a custodiand now be funded through a grant, and moved some expenses around between departments. That still leaves the town with a $340,000 deficit, which Willardson said he feels the School Committee should be charged with eliminating as they have proposed numerous new positions in the education spending increase.

"We definitely felt like we've taken a hit already on our side," Willardson said.

Webster school district Assistant to the Superintendent for Business Ted Avlas told officials the committee was not prepared to discuss specific positions that were being added to the budget, but stressed their early requests are not a wish list, but necessities to provide the best services for their students. Willardson said overall the school is seeking an $820,000 increase to level services for local education and noted that any cuts would only be eliminating new proposed positions, not forcing any current positions to be cut.

He said if the $340,000 is cut Webster is looking at a balanced budget.

Representatives of the School Committee said that the committee's previous proposal for an eight percent increase had everything they needed and has since been slashed. Taking even more away would only deplete services even more.

"Certainly we're looking at social and emotional needs of the kids. I know that it's been a huge focus in the state and around the country and certainly for us in the school department to bring in school psychologists to support kids who are struggling," said Interim Superintendent Richard Lind Jr. during the meeting. "The result is when kids start to reach critical phases, or crash and burn for lack of a more professional way of saying it, more services get added. We look at things in special education and out of district placements that can run $150,000 to $200,000 to send dents. students to a private or collaborative program including transportation — I'm not saying that the gap isn't real. We know it is, but certainly some of this money is investment to not have future costs that might come along."

Lind told the selectmen and Finance Committee that certainly some of the offerings could be held off until more revenue is potentially found to cover them in October, but new positions couldn't be added in the fall after the school year has already begun.

The meeting adjourned to have the School Committee meet within a week to discuss the possibility of the school budget absorbing the bulk of the $340,000 in cuts required for a balanced spending plan. Officials will then return before the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee to discuss the realities of what can and can't be cut without damaging the success and growth of Webster's schools and stu-

al position from the budget, which will be made part time

Fox was first elected a selectman in 2011 after the passing of Anthony DiDonato Sr. and won a reelection bid in 2014 for his first full three-year term. Fox's fellow selectmen admitted they were taken by surprise by the sudden announcement and provided praise for Fox noting his countless contributions to the community and his commitment to everything Dudley.

"I certainly respect Peter, he knows that. Peter encouraged my biggest supporters. It took some convincing, not just by me, to get him involved with the Board of Selectmen and I don't think the people in this town can fully understand the commitment, the passion, and the hard work Peter Fox has done for Dudley from the first day he got involved. I'm going to miss it," Selectman Steve Sullivan said upon hearing Fox's statements. "Peter is at every function. He's in the town hall. He's approachable, he's reachable, I just don't think people understand the debt of gratitude we owe for what Peter Fox has given to the town of Dudley and I'm going to miss serving with him."

Selectman John Marsi said he had to let the news sink in before he said too much about how he felt about Fox, however he did provide some comments for the public to hear about how important Fox has been to making the current Board of Selectmen a successful group.

"That was big news. I have to process it. This board has been together for a long time. It's very stable. I think we've all done some great things together to get the town on its feet and going in the right direction. (Peter) is here all the time. If there's a meeting he always raises his hand. It took guts to announce that in front of everybody," said Marsi. "You won't find a more informed person in what's going on around here and it's because he cares."

Selectman Paul Joseph decided not to share his comments on Fox during the March 13 meeting, instead choosing to wait until Fox's final meeting later this year to speak his mind.

Selectman Jonathan Ruda, who has shown great respect for Fox in the past, was not in attendance to present his thoughts before his fellow selectmen during the meeting.

Fox's seat will be one of many up for grabs during the 2017 Dudley municipal elections. Nomination papers are due to the town clerk by 5 p.m. on April 24. Fox's seat will be the only available seat on the Board of Selectmen when the votes are cast in June.

in Webster. Retiring from the New England Telephone Company after 35 years, he and Ann enjoyed traveling. One of Carl's greatest joys was his daily "Walk with Ann." When they weren't travelling, he was teaching his grandchildren how to swim; loving to show off with his signature backflip, spending time in his beautiful garden where he could grow anything and always available for any project that his children needed help with. He showered his family with love and gave them the gift of family. He taught them how important it is to have each other and was happiest when they were all together.
