Warrior Dash is an intense race

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

THOMPSON — The Warrior Dash at the Thompson Speedway brought families and friends together to compete in a three-mile course with a whopping 12 obstacles. It's a messy and intense race that offers something challenging for even the most seasoned runners.

Pomfret resident Sandy Navarro competed in a team made up of her family and friends and co-workers, sponsored by the company she works for, Magnetic Technologies Ltd.

"After working together all day long, it's so fun to see each other in a while different light. I love all the families being here," gushed Navarro. "I had my sister here, and my nephews. And one of my nephews beat me this year! That was their goal!"

Navarro has done the Warrior Dash with her company for the past six years. This year they had 33 people registered for the race on Saturday, Aug. 18.

Back in 2012, the company was inspired by Navarro's Warrior Dash participation and decided they wanted to do it all together next year. The intense race was followed with a nice tailgate party afterwards, said Navarro, where all the friends and family members got to hang out and marvel at what they had accomplished together at the Warrior Dash.

Magnetic Technologies Ltd's owner, John Deluca, is passionate about fitness and has made that a mission within the company. According to Navarro, each employee receives $250 a year to use on fitness programs. This could be dance lessons or playing hockey. Or entering the Warrior Dash.

New school year approaches

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM – Heading into the school year come August 29, the Putnam Public Schools teachers and staff will have some new and relevant training to further aid students. The new program, which continues the district's ACES training, was the Cognitive Behavioral Intervention for Trauma in Schools.

ACES stands for Adverse Childhood Experiences. An Adverse Childhood Experience can range from domestic violence and divorce, to sexual and emotional abuse, drugs being used, and a parent in prison.

According to Putnam's Chair of the Board of Education Michael Morrill, the Connecticut Department of Public Health states that 23 percent of Connecticut kids have experienced three or more of these traumas.

"Almost 80 percent of kids in Putnam have had at least one ACES experience," he stated solemnly. "You're talking the overwhelming majority of the kids in this school. It's so compelling to us in Putnam that we felt we needed to further educate the staff."

This year, the Putnam school district collaborated with Clifford Beers Center in New Haven to work on furthering their knowledge of trauma intervention in schools under a grant. The Center is arguably one of the most advanced community mental health clinics in the state, noted Morrill.

So what do teachers and staff learn?

"How to make the kids feel safe at school," Morrill explained. "You start by building a trusting relationship with them. Kids in a normal and healthy come develop productive attachment relationships with parents, siblings, friends... But in a home where there is violence or trauma, this skill can be interrupted. Kids don't know how to feel secure. They don't know how to trust people in school."

And when they can't focus on school because of their heightened sense of anger and fear, it can cause a lot of disruption in their learning. Traumatic childhood experiences have also been linked to lifelong histories of medical and psychological diseases. It shortens people's lives and increases their risk of heart attacks.

"These students are our kids," said Morrill. "For me, it's making sure our kids, our families and our staff are getting the service they need for the future of the kids' educations."

As someone who has worked in the child welfare system for over 20 years, this is something Morrill is very passionate about. As a teacher, he knows how hard it is for these children to sit in a classroom every day while dealing with these "intense negative experiences." He knows the school will have to keep improving their education and training, but the staff is overall proud of the work they've done towards

Fueling up with NFL in Atlanta

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

THOMPSON – On Monday, July 16, Thompson Middle School student Deidrea Hanshaw and Tourtellotte Memorial High School health and physical education teacher Beth Ten Eyck headed off to the Fuel Up to Play 60 Summit in Atlanta.

This all-expenses paid trip was made possible by Deidrea, after her hard work applying for a grant for a walking program and healthy breakfast program for students, sponsored by the National Dairy Council and the NFL.

For four days, Deidrea was one of 200 students from across the states to participate in a student leadership program, while Eyck took part in professional development and networking. Both lucky Thompson Public School members learned valuable lessons that will help shape the school's health and fitness programs for years to come.

According to a press release, Deidrea spent some time making lifelong friends and also working on a specific idea to cut back on school waste for her district.

"I got to network with other PE teachers," said Eyck. "It was so interesting to see how other schools and health programs work to make their districts a healthier place. It helped me get new ideas, things I never would have had the opportunity to casually talk to people about otherwise. These were people from all different backgrounds that all cared about the health and wellness of school communities."

The students and teachers spent time every day participating in 60 minutes of activity, joined by NFL players. There were daily guest speakers, such as Jason Brown, an NFL player turned dairy farmer, and Olympian Aja Evans. Both student and teacher also had a chance to take a behind the scenes tour of Atlanta Falcons stadium.

The Fuel Up Summit also provided many healthy snack and food options, showing the students healthier and fun alternatives to junk food. It was very inspiring and informative for Deidrea and the new friends she made there.

"It was a motivator for kids to eat healthier and have more wellness programs in school," said Eyck. "Middle school is where you start to lose kids. You need these special programs and good foods. You need role models coming in. It keeps the kids at that level motivated. I learned a lot about that in the program."

Eyck has always had an interest in health and wellness, starting when she was a high school and then college athlete. Six

New opportunity for downtown Putnam

BY OLIVIA RICHMAN
NEWS STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM – Silver Circle Gallery & Block 134 Health and Wellness Co-Op Founder Carly Martin wants to invite the community to take part in a new opportunity for downtown Putnam. Working with organizations and individuals within Putnam and beyond, Martin is in the middle of transforming the gallery into an inspiring space for practitioners and residents to pursue their passions in health and wellness.

"When I created Silver Circle 10 years ago," Martin recalled, "my vision was to create an environment for creativity to be used as a way for people to find stress relief, to connect with one another, and pursue different ways of self-expression."

With an art therapy background, Martin's vision soon formed into the big-city style gallery we all know and love on Main Street. And while there will still be art (and the Pomfret School's monthly exhibit) on display in the space, she's hoping to shift from a retail model and go back to her original vision of creating a space for the community to use as they wish.

Local fitness instructors are encouraged to host their weekly classes at Block 134. Currently there's Zumba and yoga being offered in the space. And it's quickly expanding. So far, Martin has many things in the works, including nutrition-related demonstrations and talks, art therapy, massage therapy and counseling. There will also be fundraisers and partnerships with community organizations, as well as a community lounge where people can enjoy some local snacks and use their laptops. A place to relax and gather.

"My personal story with health and wellness has driven me into this industry and I want to share the resources that have been key in my own restoration experience," said Martin, who is also a nutritionist.

Martin is aware that there are some similar health and wellness offerings in Putnam, as well as a lot of local practitioners with their own spaces. But she believes that it's great to offer a different set up and a different location.

"It's good to have a diverse range of offerings to meet the demand," she explained. "The more we can create as a community, the more we can partner in this movement. This shift in health care becoming a self-care kind of concept. Empowering people to take control of their own health in ways they may not have had access to before."

The space is not only a great opportunity for residents and local organizations, but people who want to pursue their passions. People like Martin who are enthusiastic entrepenuers with a vision.

"I want to cultivate a tribe and provide resources for everybody," she concluded.

To find out what's going on with the Silver Circle, follow the journey on Facebook and Instagram.

Clean indoor air can help reduce asthma attacks

Did you know that, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than 25 million Americans, including roughly seven million children, have asthma? It's true, and those numbers have steadily risen in recent years.

Asthma is more than occasional wheezing or feeling out of breath during physical activity. Asthma is chronic and can lead to coughing, wheezing, shortness of breath, fast breathing, and chest tightness, states the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America. In the 21st century, people spend significant time indoors at home, school or work, and indoor air environments could be triggers for asthma. Improving indoor air quality can help people breathe clearly. The AAFA notes that the following agents can adversely affect indoor air quality, potentially triggering asthma attacks.

ALLERGENS

Allergens such as mold, dust mites, pet dander and fur, and waste from insects or rodents thrive in many homes. Ensuring indoor air quality is high can cut back on the amount of allergens in the air. People with asthma can invest in an air purifier and vacuum regularly, being sure to use a HEPA-equipped appliance. Routinely replacing HVAC system filters can help prevent allergens from blowing around the house. Also, frequent maintenance of HVAC systems will ensure they are operating safely and not contributing to poor indoor air quality.

Mold can be mitigated by reducing moisture in a home. Moist environments in the kitchen and bathroom may promote mold growth. Ventilation is key to keep mold at bay.

TOBACCO SMOKE

Thirdhand smoke, or THS, may be unfamiliar to many people. A 2011 report published in Environmental Health Perspectives says THS is an invisible combination of gases and particles that can cling to clothing, cushions, carpeting, and other materials long after secondhand smoke has cleared from a room. Studies have indicated that residual nicotine levels can be found in house dust where people smoke or once smoked. Studies have indicated that smoke compounds can adsorb onto surfaces and then desorb back into air over time.

Keeping tobacco smoke out of a home can improve indoor air quality and personal health.

VOCS

Volatile organic compounds, or VOCs, are gases released from commonly used products. These can include paints and varnishes, cleaning supplies, air fresheners, new furniture, and new carpet. People with asthma may find that VOCs can trigger attacks. Airing out items, reducing usage of products that are heavily scented and choosing low- or no-VOC products can help. Making cleaning products from baking soda, vinegar and liquid oil soap also can keep indoor air quality high.

Homeowners who plan to renovate their homes can consider using the appropriate specifications for HVAC systems to promote good indoor air, as well as address any other potential problems that may be compromising indoor air quality.

Thousands of ducks invade Quinebaug River

PUTNAM – Thousands of "adopted" rubber duckies were poured into the Quinebaug River on Sunday, August 19, racing downstream as a large crowd cheered them on from Rotary Park. This is The Arc's annual Duck Race, an epic fundraiser that not only provides more funds for The Arc's services, but brings the community together for a fun afternoon of crafts, games, car shows and vendors.

Over 7,000 ducks are raced down the Quinebaug River at The Arc's annual Duck Race.

The Arc's Chief Operating Officer Judy Daviau and Director of Residental and Employment Services Jennifer Ricci take a ride in the "duck mobile." Said Daviau: "It helps us to raise money for our programs in a great way. And to get involved with the community. It's a day to have fun but also work towards a mission of increased services for people with life affecting disabilities."

HR Manager Cori Castro and Lead Staff Elizabeth KirkConnell help organize the "adopted" ducks.

Fran Bousquet and Linda Shaw struck a pose between picking out ducks that have been sold to go into the river.

Volunteers Josh Wolfburg and Andy Morrison helped set up the duck racing course.

Putnam Antlers youth group leader Jim Eccleston helped the Arc with community service.

Justin and Christopher Kirkconnell were in charge of the Kids' Games booth.

Sean Saucier

WOODSTOCK– Sean Saucier was recently named the interim athletic director at The Woodstock Academy. Saucier replaces Aaron Patterson, who stepped down recently to take a teaching position at Suffield High School.

"The Academy wishes Aaron the best of luck. We owe him a debt of gratitude for his leadership and helping us build a first-rate athletic program. We have full confidence in Sean taking over," said Head of School Chris Sandford.

Saucier was formerly head football coach and assistant athletic director at Hyde School in Woodstock. Saucier served as athletic director at Hyde School for 11 years. He took over as head football coach at Woodstock Academy last season and will continue in that role.

"Mr. Patterson has done an amazing job with this department. I kind of saw it from a distance when I was at Hyde, like his branding the department and how he just did so many special things for the kids. I look forward to continuing a lot of his hard work. I was fortunate to work with him last year, saw what he did, and that was a huge benefit," Saucier said.

Thompson's Szamocki presents research

THOMPSON — Eastern Connecticut State University student junior Julie Szamocki, from Thompson, recently traveled to Philadelphia to present her research on the Pagan religion known as Wicca. The conference, titled "The Roots and Branches of Interpretive Sociology: Cultural, Pragmatist and Psychosocial Approaches," took place from August 10-11.

A Sociology and Criminology double major, Szamocki's essay, "Wicca as Both Individual and Communal: How New Religious Movements are Personalized," focuses on how individual topics such as stake in conformity, age, political affiliation, education level and familial satisfaction come into play with the religious practice.

"I noticed in my preliminary conclusions that there are two types of participants," said Szamocki. "Group one consists of mainly white individuals of an older average age (above 40) who believe solitary practitioners are non-existent in the traditions of Wicca. These participants dislike the Internet due to 'untrue facts' about their religion found online and believe that Wiccans should hide their religion due to future persecution.

"Group two consists of mainly white individuals of a younger average age (below 40) who believe communal practice is a choice," she continued. "These participants use the Internet to connect with peers and like the easily accessible, widespread information. They also believe that today's society is more accepting of non-mainstream religions. These are just preliminary conclusions, and I will continue to conduct this research throughout the upcoming fall semester."

Szamocki used a semi-structured, qualitative interview method and found her participants through snowball sampling, a non-probability sampling technique where existing study subjects recruit more participants. Her population was primarily accumulated by way of social media and references from friends of friends.

Szamocki's efforts stem from her desire to learn more about new religious movements, a topic she argues has been largely neglected within the sociology of religion, and to share that comprehension with others. Searching for a considerably non-mainstream religious practice to focus on, her attention was drawn to Wicca in particular because it aligns with her own interests. "I think having an intent-and-nature-based system of worship is cool."

The conference - hosted at the Center City campus of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education - was organized by the Society for the Study of Symbolic Interaction, Yale University's Center for Cultural Sociology and the Psychosocial Scholars Group.

"Presenting at this conference allowed for unbiased knowledge of the Wiccan religion to be spread," Szamocki said. "A lot of my participants really liked my respectful interest and were excited to share information with those who my research would reach."

On the personal benefits of attending the conference, she concluded, "I gained experience presenting, expanded my professional network with graduate schools, got the chance to see Philadelphia and left with varying insight from fellow sociologists."

Woodstock Academy announces Hall of Fame class

WOODSTOCK – Three former athletes and a former coach will be inducted into The Woodstock Academy Athletic Hall of Fame on Saturday, Sept. 29.

Former athletes Amy (Hicks) Hafensteiner, Angela (Puliafico) Biondi, and Holly (Grube) Singleton will be joined by former coach Bob Mondani. The 1997 state championship boys soccer team will also be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Biondi, a 1998 graduate, was a three-sport athlete at Woodstock Academy, but excelled in soccer, where she was chosen All-State by the Connecticut Girls Soccer Coaches Association in 1995, '96 and '97. She was also an All-New England selection by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in 1997.

Biondi led the Centaurs to a Class M state title in 1996.

Woodstock Academy also won three Quinebaug Valley Conference titles during Biondi's time, she was a three-time All-QVC and All-Norwich Bulletin selection.

Biondi also played basketball and tennis at The Academy before moving on to Colgate University where she was a four-year starter and was Most Valuable Player of the 1998 Patriot League tournament.

Singleton, a 1986 graduate, was a soccer and softball standout at The Academy.

She was named the Most Outstanding four-year female athlete in her class and was also selected as a Connecticut Association of Schools Scholar-Athlete in 1986.

A three-year starter in soccer, Singleton was named All-State in 1985 and was a Quinebaug Valley Conference All-Star in both 1984 and '85. The Centaurs were also three-time QVC champions in her time on the field.

Singleton was also a four-year starter in softball and a two-time All-QVC and All-Norwich Bulletin selection.

She went on to play soccer at Clark University where she was a four-year starter and a team captain in 1989.

Singleton coached varsity boys soccer from 1992-1999 at Housatonic Regional High School and was the 1996 Berkshire League boys soccer Coach of the Year in 1996.

Singleton currently serves as the Associate Head of School at The Academy.

Hafensteiner, a 2002 graduate, was a three-time All-England and four-time All-State cross-country athlete while at The Academy. She was also a four-time All-State selection in outdoor track.

She went on to Northeastern University where she was a two-year captain of both the Huskies' cross-country and track & field squads.

Hafensteiner still is a part of the Northeastern University record book. She was a member of both the 4 x 800 indoor and outdoor distance medley relay teams who still hold school records.

Mondani coached the Academy's boys cross-country and outdoor track teams from 1992-2010.

His teams won four state titles (1996, '99, 2000, '06) in cross-country and were state runners-up on five other occasions.

He mentored two All-New England runners, three individual state champions and 18 runners who earned All-State honors.

In 1999, Mondani was named the Connecticut High School Coaches Association Boys Cross-Country Coach of the Year. He is also a member of the St. Bernard School Hall of Fame.

The 1997 boys soccer team, coached by Bob Derrico, shared the Class L state championship with Daniel Hand High School of Madison. The two battled to a scoreless tie in the state championship game.

The induction ceremony will be held at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 29 in Bates Auditorium on the North Campus of The Woodstock Academy.

21st annual Arc Rubber Duckie Race a success

PUTNAM — The Arc Quinebaug Valley held its 21st annual Rubber Duckie Race on Sunday, Aug. 19. This event is in conjunction with Putnam's Car Cruise, and continues to be a huge community day for all. With over 3,600 rubber ducks sold for this Duck Race, along with event sponsors of multiple magnitudes and community donations, The Arc Quinebaug Valley grossed over $20,000.

"The Arc Duck Race has been a successful fundraiser for our agency for over 20 years due to the overwhelming support of the community. Every year that passes continues to be an on-going struggle for nonprofits with regards to funding, therefore, fundraisers such as this, are extremely important. We are blessed to have the support of this wonderful community and appreciate everyone believing in our mission." said Susan M. Desrosiers, Executive Director of The Arc Quinebaug Valley.

Rubber ducks were transported by a payloader and released over the bridge after a countdown cheered on by the crowd of spectators.

"Words cannot express how thankful we are at The Arc for the generosity and kindness of this community. From the sponsors, donors and businesses that provided raffle items to all of our volunteers, we truly stand united as one in a common goal to provide the best quality of life for people with disabilities. We are thankful to everyone for the opportunity to have another successful event which will help so many in need." said Crystal Simonson, The Arc's Community Outreach Coordinator.

As the ducks drifted down the Quinebaug River, Mayor Barney Seney awaited their arrival to begin his task of plucking the first 50 ducks to cross the finish line. A multitude of businesses donated towards the 50 prize packages for this event. The first duck to cross the finish line guaranteed their ticket holder a $500 gift card prize. Winner of this prize was Wayne Magao of Danielson.

"We hope everyone had fun at The Arc's Duck Race and Putnam's Car Cruise. A lot of planning goes into these merged events from many different people in the community, so it is a great feeling for all when everything goes smoothly. We are very happy to be part of such an amazing day in Putnam," said Mrs. Desrosiers.

All proceeds from this fundraiser event help to enhance services for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities at The Arc Quinebaug Valley. The agency focuses on advocacy, vocational, residential, recreation, education, day and retirement services to offer opportunities for people with disabilities to reach their goals and be integral members of their community.

OPINION

Opinion and commentary from the Quiet Corner

Old friend

My favorite cousin lives at an assisted living facility in Florida. He is 90 years old and in poor health. While he and I are decades apart in age, we have always enjoyed each other's company. He lived in Washington, D.C. for many years and I often visited him there. Once at his favorite Mexican restaurant we polished off an entire pitcher of margaritas without even realizing it. We were talking so much and so enthusiastically that the salty libation just slipped down our throats.

I called him recently as he is in hospice care. I wanted to ask him how he felt and what thoughts he might share with me. As the last child of older parents, I have few close relatives left and he is especially important to me.

I put off making the call out of a sense of anxiety as I dreaded what he might say. As much as I care about him, I wanted to duck the reality of his situation. It was foolish as his observations were as insightful as I hoped they would be. They were also quite funny.

NANCY WEISS

When I asked him how he spends his days, my cousin launched into a critique of Iolanthe, an opera I have never heard. When he was about 10 he heard the Metropolitan Opera broadcast on Saturday afternoon. He was hooked. He learned everything he could about the art form and tried never to miss a single performance. Whenever he traveled, he would get the best ticket available to a performance no matter where he was in the world. His love of opera sustains him and makes Saturday afternoons special for him.

My cousin's children live far away from him. One is in Scotland and the other two are in distant parts of the country. His wife died a year ago. Rather than lamenting that they are not around, he talks about how wonderful they are. He recalls seeing his first grandchild, now an actor in his late twenties, and thinking what a miracle it is to see one's DNA go round again.

For many years he worked in laboratories. He has a PhD. He remembered working from 8 a.m. to dinner and then going back into the lab until midnight. His colleagues were as intense and intelligent as he, and they had wonderful senses of humor. He heard endless jokes in the lab, many of which he can still recall, but not openly repeat as they are "a bit off color". As he wheels himself around the facility, he can't help but notice that the only people worth talking to are those who still have a sense of humor.

In his eighties he wrote a book to encourage older people to take up or return to swimming. Buy a good bathing cap, as chlorine feels awful on an old head, he wrote and jump in the pool. After the amputation of one of his legs, his challenge was how to stop swimming in circles. He can no longer swim, but rolls around as fast as he can in a wheel chair just to scare himself a bit.

When I sent him the biography of Leonardo Di Vinci, he quipped that it was so long he would have to live another year to get through it. The joke book I ordered for him is short and will make him laugh.

As our conversation came to an end, I could tell he was tired. I was too. What sums it up, I thought. His would say: work hard, love music, especially opera, keep your sense of humor to the very end, whenever there is a body of water, jump in and swim. Most of all cherish the people you love. Simple enough to sustain a complex person for ninety years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Earth matters

Do you love this Earth, and all its wondrous living things? Do you want to preserve it for your grandchildren, and their grandchildren? Do you want to avoid the plausible chain of events that could lead to a Hothouse Earth? If so, you are with the majority, and the majority must flood politicians with messages insisting that they act now to stop us from slowly edging towards catastrophe.

Sixteen climate scientists recently released a report describing tipping points on the planet that could lead parts of the earth to be uninhabitable. (http://www.pnas.org/content/early/2018/07/31/1810141115). The scientists point to feedback loops which currently keep the earth stable, but are beginning to running out of control. For instance, as we emit more greenhouse gases, the temperature rises, ice melts, causing more sun to be absorbed by the earth, warming the planet, melting more ice, in an endless loop. National Geographic reports that warming is beginning to melt permafrost, which releases methane, which warms the planet further. Human activity releasing greenhouse gases has increased the Earth's temperature about 1.5 degrees Centigrade since the industrial era began. The scientists warn that if we allow the temperature to rise something like another .5 degrees Centigrade, the tipping points they describe may cross a threshold, causing a domino effect that is unstoppable, resulting in a Hothouse Earth 5 degrees Centigrade warmer than preindustrial times. That is warmer than at any interglacial period in the last 1.2 million years.

So what is the Trump Administration doing about this? They have withdrawn from the Paris Climate Accord. They are reversing the federal Clean Power Plan, allowing States to set their own regulations about coal power plants and emissions. They are relaxing fuel standards for cars. The New Republic estimates that Trump's policies are the equivalent of adding somewhere between 137 and 339 polluting cars to the roads each year. Wrong direction.

Please add your voice to those insisting that our leaders take action now to prevent disaster. You can reach your three congressional representatives by calling one number, 844 USA 0234. You can contact the candidates for Governor in Connecticut, Democrat Ned Lamont (203-859-5896), and Republican Bob Stefanowski (Bob@bobforgovernor.com), and urge them to take positions on this issue. You can do the same with your State representative and senator.

As for your own actions, you can go to https://www.bustle.com/articles/91945-13-green-apps-for-environmentalists-who-want-to-track-their-carbon-footprint to calculate how much carbon you're adding to the atmosphere, and to see suggestions of things you can do yourself to work towards preserving this beautiful planet.

New GI Bill limits are damaging

GUEST COLUMN
JOE COURTNEY

Two weeks after the D-Day landings in Normandy, Franklin Roosevelt signed the Serviceman's Readjustment Act, more commonly known as the GI Bill. That landmark measure would provide both college tuition grants and a stipend for the returning service members who had "been compelled to make greater economic sacrifice and every other kind of sacrifice than the rest of us," according to Roosevelt. Even though the war would still rage on for another year, leaders in Washington recognized that millions of young soldiers, sailors and airmen would soon be returning to civilian life, and for their sake and for the sake of a vibrant postwar economy, creating this educational pathway made tremendous sense.

It has been 74 years since the GI Bill was signed into law, and it is now recognized as one of the most successful pieces of domestic legislation ever enacted. The postwar economic boom and the blossoming of the American middle-class have both been attributed, in part, to the GI Bill. Many renowned Americans including Bob Dole, Johnny Carson, Harry Belafonte, William Rehnquist, and Clint Eastwood were beneficiaries of the GI Bill. Economic studies have concluded that for every dollar the U.S. government spent on the GI Bill, our economy saw nearly seven dollars in return in the form of additional economic output and tax revenues from income growth.

Despite its stellar performance, the relative strength of the GI Bill deteriorated over time. By 2008, it was clear that tuition assistance and living stipends had not kept pace with the rising costs of a college education. As a freshman congressman on the House Armed Services Committee, I heard from Iraq and Afghanistan veterans who were forced to choose between dropping out of school or shouldering the burden of daunting student loans.

To fix this inequity, the Post-9/11 GI Bill was passed by the Democratic Congress and signed into law by George W. Bush on June 30, 2008. The updated law increased benefits to match the cost of four-year public university tuition in service member's home states and increased the living stipend to keep faith with the original law. It also allowed GI Bill benefits to be transferred to a spouse or a dependent child, a ground-breaking change which transformed the value of military service for families. After the bill signing, I flew to Iraq and vividly recall being surrounded by soldiers bursting with questions about when and how this feature would be implemented. Since then, it has become clear that the transferability of the GI Bill has been an enormous morale booster and a valuable incentive to enlist and remain in service.

Unfortunately, the Department of Defense announced a new policy on July 12 that would prevent service members with more than 16 years of service from transferring their Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits to eligible family members. The Department likely views this as a shrewd cost-saving measure, since such individuals will almost certainly continue to the 20-year mark to earn their military pension and retirement benefits, regardless of being denied GI Bill transferability.

However, revoking transferability breaks our commitment to our most dedicated and seasoned service members. Such a policy change sends exactly the wrong message to those who have chosen the military as their long-term career and sets a damaging and dangerous precedent for the removal of other critical benefits as service members approach military retirement. The Pentagon is prioritizing retention goals in its effort to cut costs and is watering-down its rewards for the most steadfast and devoted in its ranks.

Two weeks after the Pentagon released this policy, 83 of my colleagues in the House of Representatives, both Democrats and Republicans, signed a letter I had written to Secretary Mattis objecting to the change and calling for its reversal. Once a service member meets the requirements for transferring GI Bill educational benefits to an eligible family member, we should uphold our end of the commitment. To use Roosevelt's words, protecting transferability "gives emphatic notice to the men and women in our armed forces that the American people do not intend to let them down."

Saving for college made simple

FINANCIAL FOCUS
JIM ZAHANSKY
INVESTMENT ADVISER

The value of an education extends far beyond the cost of tuition or the completion of your diploma. An education provides a framework for your career and is proven to have a positive relationship with an individual's income. However, with rising costs, providing an education for children or grandchildren can be difficult. Knowing that education may just be one of your financial life goals, how will you plan to achieve it?

At Weiss & Hale Financial, we understand that each family may face unique situations when trying to achieve their education planning goals. What savings vehicles are best for my situation? How can I project future earnings to support this goal? Throughout August, we will address these questions and more, so you may Plan Well for your education savings goals.

There are several vehicles designed specifically for your situation, including state savings plans, prepared tuition plans, Coverdell education savings accounts, and custodial accounts. Sometimes with so many options, it is best to break down each and see the advantages and disadvantages.

529 plans: state savings plans: The 529 state savings plan is a tax-advantaged college savings vehicle governed under Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC)—hence the name "529" plans. A state savings plan lets you save money for college in an individual investment account. Some plans let you enroll directly, while others require that you go through a financial professional. The details of these plans vary by state, but the basics are the same.

Apply: Applying is the first step. You begin by filling out an application on which you (the account owner or participant) name a beneficiary and a successor participant (who would assume control of the account at your death). You also choose one or more of the plan's preestablished investment portfolios for your contributions. Most plans offer a range of investment portfolios that vary in risk.

Contribute: Next, is to contribute. You (or someone else) contribute money to the account as often as you wish, subject to plan limitations.

Invest: After contributing, you will invest the dollars. Your contributions go into the investment portfolios you've chosen. Portfolios typically consist of groups of mutual funds. Please note: The financial institution that the state has designated to run its plan is solely responsible for man-

Dancing with God

BEYOND THE PEWS
JOHN HANSON

It was a life-saving dance of sorts that unfolded on July 13, 2018, as the pilot of a Chinook helicopter hovered dramatically near the slope of Oregon's 11,240-foot Mount Hood. With incredible skill the pilot maneuvered the aircraft so that two wheels touched down on the side of the mountain so rescuers could drop a ramp and exit and enter the helicopter as they rescued a man who had apparently planned to commit suicide, but then changed his mind.

According to Global News, "The rescue was triggered after a 27-year-old climber in distress called for help on Thursday afternoon... But he didn't answer his phone when officials with the Clackamas County Sheriff's office tried to return his call. Searchers managed to track his phone call to Mount Hood's summit. A search and rescue team took some time to find the man, locating him when it wasn't safe to escort him off the mountain...The rescuers had to lower themselves to all fours in order to avoid the chopper's rotors."

So, the dance went something like this: The climber put himself in danger. Recognizing his plight, he called for help. The rescue team traced the climbers call and came to where he was. A helicopter was dispatched to the scene. With the help of the rescue team the climber entered the chopper and was airlifted to safety.

The climber could not save himself. Without a search and rescue team the climber may have perished. However, if the climber had not called for help and cooperated with the rescuers, he may have perished. So the climber would not have been saved without reaching out and cooperating. He was saved by the coast guard through his cooperation.

Human beings are rescued from sin and eternal destruction in much the same way. There is a dance that goes on. God provides the grace and man provides the faith. God gives grace and power, believers trust and obey. Grace is what God provides, faith is man's response. God leads… man follows.

This topic has been discussed and written about for centuries, but there are two scriptures that sum it up nicely:

Ephesians 2:8 KJV: For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God:

James 2:17 NIV: In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead.

Salvation is not an event, it is a dance. It is a place of safety based on one's relationship with The Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

A believer's dance with God goes something like this: With God's help, a person recognizes they need saving. Recognizing their plight, they call for help. The rescue team (God and his people) track down the person in need and go to where they are. God dispatches angels, His word and His people to the scene to lead them to salvation.

With the help of the rescue team the believer repents of sin, washes those sins away in baptism and is empowered to live free by the infilling of God's Spirit.

God leads, we follow. Then we dance with him all the way to heaven!

Edson Motors goes down in flames

Killingly at 300

Margaret Weaver

Last week I extracted a few items from 1965 Windham County Transcripts. Of course, I didn't have room for all that I had found. Do any of you remember Edson Motors? The February 11, 1965 Transcript contained an article about a fire at the business. "Fire Levels Edson Garage. A short time after 1 p.m. last Saturday, fire destroyed the Edson Motors showroom and garage on Westcott Road (Route 6A) with an estimated loss of $50,000. The origin of the blaze was unknown but it produced intense heat and explosions, caused apparently by gas tanks erupting. Firefighters from nine departments responded and fought the fierce flames that spurted from the building. South Killingly Fire Department's Chief R. Donald Daly was in charge of the operation and indicated that the structure was already engulfed in flames when his men arrived. Chief Daly emphasized the effectiveness of the Mutual Aid System and pointed out that within fifteen minutes after receiving the alarm, 9 departments responded. They were besides South Killingly, East Killingly, Dayville, Central Village, Moosup, Danielson, East Brooklyn, Sterling, and South Foster, RI…During the whole emergency, the switchboard at the fire headquarters at the Windham State Jail in Brooklyn was ably manned by Ex-Chief Morrison Ennis of the Mortlake Fire Company."

The first listing for Edson Motors in The Killingly Business Encyclopedia by Natalie L. Coolidge noted that it was a Chrysler-Plymouth Dealer and was originally located on North Main Street, Danielson. Henry G. Gardiner was the proprietor. "The showroom is at Al's Service Station and is being leased from Al Carito who will be in charge of servicing the cars. (WCT 7/13/1950). The 1954 Danielson Business Directory listed Ed Bartenstein as the proprietor of the auto dealership. By the following year it had moved to the Westcott Road location (St. James School Dedication Booklet, 1955). Killingly Historical Society president Bernie Mitchell and Board member Gary Wrobel both told me that the Edson dealership was located where the K-B Ambulance headquarters is now. Gary commented that Carol Lis had purchased her first cars there. He remembered her first was a black and white Metropolitan (Metro) while the second was a white Plymouth Valiant (conversations 8/15/18).

The same page in The Killingly Business Encyclopedia mentioned Ed's Lock & Bike Shop being located at 9 Academy Street. (1947 Putnam Telephone Directory). No name is associated with the business, and that is the only entry. If you can add more, or have memories of this local business, please share them by emailing me or by calling the Killingly Historical & Genealogical Center.

Did you attend Killingly's Bike Night on Thursday, August 16? It was estimated that at least 1,600 bikes of all shapes and sizes were in attendance. They stretched from Davis Park through the downtown Danielson business district and overflowed to the side streets. Several band and numerous vendors made the evening seem like a block party. I had never seen so many!

A few years ago I researched a little about the history of motorcycles so I thought I'd do a repeat since I needed to refresh my memory and thought many of you might not have seen it. I find their evolution quite fascinating. A site entitled How Stuff Works provided the following: "Motorcycles evolved from the "safety" bicycle…It didn't take long for someone to take the user-friendly safety bicycle design and strap on an internal combustion engine. The first to do so successfully was Gottleib Daimler, who is credited with building the first motorized bicycle -- or motorcycle -- in 1885. Daimler's motorcycle included a single-cylinder Otto-cycle engine mounted vertically in the center of the machine. It also had one wheel in front, one wheel in back and a spring-loaded outrigger wheel on each side for added stability. Its chassis consisted of a wooden frame and wheels with wood spokes and iron rims. Such designs were called "boneshakers" because of the rough, jarring ride they delivered.

"The next notable motorcycle was designed in 1892 by Alex Millet. Millet incorporated the basic safety bicycle design, but added pneumatic tires and a five-cylinder rotary engine built into the rear wheel. The cylinders rotated with the wheel, while the crankshaft formed the rear axle.

"Carl Oscar Hedstrom and George M. Hendee founded the Hendee Manufacturing Company in 1900 with the goal of producing a 'motor-driven bicycle for the everyday use of the general public.' In 1901, they rolled out the Single, a 1.75-horsepower motorcycle that could reach a top speed of 25 miles per hour. They also decided to roll out a brand-new trade name for their motorcycles. That name was Indian, and it was the world's best-selling motorcycle until World War I.

"Founded by William S. Harley and Arthur Davidson in 1902, the Harley-Davidson Motor Company went on to produce the most influential machines of the industry. Its first models used the basic DeDion-Buton layout and borrowed heavily from chassis designs already employed by other motorcycle manufacturers, including Indian, Excelsior and Pope. The Harley-Davidson eventually made its presence known with its sturdy, strong and durable machines. In 1908, Walter Davidson, riding what came to be known as the Silent Gray Fellow, scored a perfect 1,000 points at the 7th Annual Federation of American Motorcyclists Endurance and Reliability Contest. Soon after, Walter Davidson, Arthur's brother, set the FAM economy record at 188.234 miles per gallon. By 1920, Harley-Davidson was the largest motorcycle manufacturer in the world.

"When World War I started in 1914, the automobile did not own the roads. Motorcycles filled the gaps as dependable, reliable vehicles. In the war, their utilitarian nature was put to good use. American and European armies used motorcycles extensively to gather reconnaissance, deliver messages and, in some cases, engage in combat. In 1917, roughly one-third of all Harley-Davidson motorcycles produced were sold to the U.S. military; in 1918, that figure rose to 50 percent. By the end of the war, it is estimated that the Army used some 20,000 motorcycles -- most of them Harley-Davidson." (auto.howstuffworks.com/motorcycle6.htm)

Photos wanted. Do you have any photos of old motorcycles that family members or friends once owned? Did someone tell you a good local motorcycle story (Northeastern Connecticut)? If so, please consider sharing them. Stop in at the Killingly Historical and Genealogical Center with photos, which can be copied while you wait. Please email stories to me or call the Center. We would like to prepare a small local motorcycle display that can be used for next year's Bike Night. Thank you in advance.

Back issues of the Killingly Historical & Genealogical Society Journal are available for sale at the Center. Prices are $3.50 and under depending on the year. If you enjoy this column, you will enjoy the articles that have been written in the journals. Why not stop in and purchase a few.

FINANCIAL

aging the plan's investment portfolios. You have no control over how these portfolios are managed.

Taxation: The last two steps, taxation and withdrawal. Your contributions grow tax-deferred, which means you don't pay income tax on the account's earnings each year. In addition, some states allow you to deduct your contributions.

Withdrawal: Money withdrawn to pay college expenses (a qualified withdrawal) is tax-free at the federal level and may also be tax-free at the state level. If the money is not used for college (a nonqualified withdrawal), you will owe income tax and a 10-percent federal penalty on the earnings portion of the withdrawal.

The advantages of a state plans are their flexibility. Anyone can open a state savings plan account. Your ability to contribute doesn't depend on your income or on your status as a parent. Money in the plan can be used at any college in the United States or abroad that is accredited by the U.S. Department of Education. And, if your child decides not to go to college or gets a scholarship, the account can be transferred to a sibling or other qualified family member without penalty. Plus, if you are unhappy with your plan for any reason, you can switch (roll over) your funds to a different 529 plan (a different state savings or prepaid tuition plan) once every 12 months without penalty. Your state may even offer tax breaks, such as a deduction for contributions or tax-free withdrawals.

The drawback however is that you relinquish some control of your money, returns aren't guaranteed (you roll the dice with the investment portfolios you've chosen), and your account may gain or lose money. Also, there are usually fees associated with opening and maintaining an account (e.g., an annual maintenance fee, administrative fees, and investment expenses based on a percentage of total account value).

Custodial accounts: A custodial account allows your child to hold assets that he or she ordinarily wouldn't be allowed to hold in his or her own name. The assets can then be used to pay for college or for anything else that benefits your child (e.g., summer camp, braces, hockey lessons, or a computer). A custodial account has three main steps.

You begin by filling out an application at a participating financial institution and naming a beneficiary. Depending on the institution, fees may be associated with opening and maintaining the account. You also designate a custodian to manage and invest the account's assets. The custodian can be you, a friend, a relative, or a financial institution. Remember, though, if a parent serves as custodian, the entire value of the account will be included in the parent's gross estate if the parent dies while serving as custodian.

Next is to Contribute. Anyone can contribute assets to the account. Whether your state has enacted the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act (UGMA) or the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (UTMA) will determine the type of assets you are allowed to contribute.

Lastly, consider the tax consequences. The account earnings are taxed every year at your child's tax rate. Assuming your child is in a lower tax bracket than you, this means that you will reap greater tax savings than if you had held the assets in your name.

How to conserve energy throughout summer

Energy bills tend to be high in summertime, when many people crank up their air conditioners in an attempt to combat the heat. For some households, higher energy bills might be stretching their budgets, while others might be looking for ways to reduce their carbon footprints.

Conserving energy can help homeowners save money and help the planet at the same time. And reducing energy consumption in the summer does not require men and women to sacrifice comfort in the name of conservation. In fact, various strategies can help homeowners and apartment dwellers reduce their summertime energy consumption.

• Stop cooling an empty home. A cool home might be the ultimate necessity during summer heat waves, but there's no reason to cool a residence when no one is home. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, operating thermostats more efficiently can help homeowners trim their cooling costs by as much as 10 percent. One way to be more efficient with thermostats is to keep the house warmer than normal when no one is home. Programmable thermostats can be set so air conditioning units turn on shortly before residents arrive home, ensuring the house is comfortable and no energy is wasted.

• Narrow the gap between indoor and outdoor temperatures. The DOE notes that the smaller the difference between the temperature indoors and outside the lower cooling costs will be. While it may be tempting to set thermostats to room temperature (68 F) on days when temperatures reach 90 F or above, that's an enormous temperature gap that will result in a high energy bill. Instead, the DOE recommends setting thermostats to 78 F whenever possible.

• Open the windows at night. Daytime temperatures, particularly during the dog days of summer, may necessitate the use of air conditioners. But men and women who live in climates where temperatures drop considerably at night can sleep with their windows open. This reduces energy consumption and saves money, and can be a great way to introduce fresh air into a home during a time of year when air can become stagnant.

• Do not set air conditioner thermostats at lower than normal temperatures when turning them on. The DOE notes that setting thermostats at lower than normal temperatures when turning air conditioners on will not cool homes any faster than setting them at typical temperatures. Such a strategy will only lead to excessive energy consumption and higher energy bills.

• Install ceiling fans. Ceiling fans can improve cooling efficiency in a home. According to the DOE, ceiling fans allow men and women who use air conditioners to raise the thermostats on their AC units about 4 F without adversely affecting comfort levels. Men and women who live in temperate climates may find that ceiling fans are enough to keep rooms cool without the need for air conditioners.

Homeowners can combat high utility bills and excessive energy consumption during the summer with various eco- and budget-friendly strategies.

ACES training and understanding.

"Our staff has done a wonderful job dealing with these children and supporting them," said Superintendent William Hull. "All behavior is communication. When a child is acting out, it's not because they're bad kids. All kids are good kids. They're communicating something with us. When behavior escalates, it's our job to provide support. We have put a lot of support in place in Putnam, wrapped services around children and families. This is just another tool in our toolbox."

"I want to be a good example for the kids," she explained. "They know I'm athletic. I want to use my life to motivate them. That's what I want to keep doing. I've seen health and wellness pay off first-hand. I want to give them the tools and access."

Death And Taxes

One responsibility of the executor of an estate is to make sure that the deceased's taxes are paid. With this in mind, the executor should give tax debts priority over all other debts of the estate. While the executor is not personally responsible for the deceased's tax debt, the money used to pay this obligation comes from what the deceased left. Thus, it is not a good idea to give significant amounts to other creditors or give property to beneficiaries until the executor can be sure there is enough left over to pay taxes. Otherwise, if the estate comes up short, the executor could be liable for the tax bill up to the amount distributed to other creditors or beneficiaries.

HINT: A surviving spouse has the option of filing a joint tax return for the year of the deceased spouse's death unless the spouse remarries during that year.

Jones is DKH employee of the month

PUTNAM — Stacey Jones, lead phlebotomist for Day Kimball Healthcare's Laboratory and Blood Draw Services department, has been named employee of the month for July by Day Kimball Healthcare (DKH).

Jones began her career in phlebotomy nearly ten years ago first working part time in the laboratory at DKH in October 2008 before coming onboard full time. In her current role as lead phlebotomist, Jones is responsible for overseeing DKH's traveling phlebotomy program, as well as performing outpatient blood draws at DKH's Putnam Healthcare Center blood draw site. Additional responsibilities include training new phlebotomy staff, scheduling, and assisting with various phlebotomy-related clerical duties.

According to Jones's supervisor, Director of Laboratory Services and Diagnostic Imaging, Patti Bernier, "Stacey is very passionate about what she does, and her compassion for others radiates when you step back and watch her in action. She gives every patient her undivided attention, and is one of our most frequently requested phlebotomists. She treats all peers with the utmost respect and kindness at all times. Her energetic, positive attitude towards life resonates in her body language. The DKH phlebotomy team is a better unit because of Stacey."

In response to being named employee of the month, Jones said, "I am overwhelmed! It has been a goal of mine since I started my phlebotomy career at Day Kimball Healthcare almost ten years ago to be employee of the month. I was delightfully astonished when I was told the good news, and am so proud to be recognized for what I do."

When asked what she likes most about her job, Jones said, "My interactions with patients are what give me the most joy. I have known some of the patients that come in since I started my career and a lot of them are like extended family. I also have to say that I couldn't work with a better group of people. I love my coworkers!"

Jones was born at Day Kimball Hospital and grew up in Foster, R.I. with her mom. She currently lives in Dayville with her best friend, Michelle, and three sons: Matthew, 19, who works for the Plainfield board of education, Dylan, 16, who is a junior at Ellis Tech, and Rowan, 5, who will be a first grader at Killingly Central School. The family also has several dogs and cats, and a tortoise.

Solarize Pomfret extends deadline

POMFRET — The Solarize Pomfret program is extending its deadline to Sept. 30 so that Pomfret residents have more time to take advantage of the discounted pricing for solar. This extension allows homeowners to purchase a solar installation to offset their electricity bill, either in whole or in part, depending on the size of the system they install. Through a competitive selection process, the Town of Pomfret selected Sunlight Solar as their solar installer. Sunlight Solar will provide the solar installations in Pomfret at special discount pricing in exchange for outreach and education from the Town.

A final solar workshop will take place on Thursday, Sept. 13 at the Pomfret Community Senior Center, 207 Mashamoquet Road, Pomfret Center. Residents can learn about solar and the various financing options available through Sunlight Solar. There is a 30 percent tax credit on residential solar and the CT Green Bank still gives an incentive for solar. Solar installations still qualify for net metering.

"Solarize Pomfret is a great opportunity for residents to 'Go Solar.' We wanted to extend the deadline so people who have been busy during the summer can still take advantage of the no-charge solar site evaluation to determine their possible savings. The program has selected a trustworthy, certified solar installer that will provide high quality equipment at a reduced price. By using efficient, renewable energy that reduces energy consumption and environmental pollutants we are conserving our environment for future generations," said Pomfret First Selectman Maureen Nicholson.

REUNIONS HELD FOR PUTNAM HIGH SCHOOL

George P. Olson (seated) displays his certificates for 70 Years Continuous Service in American Legion Post 13 as he's surrounded by his family. Post 13 Commander Alan R. Joslin, James Neeland and Past Commander Ronald P. Coderre presented Olson, a U.S. Coast Guard World War II veteran, with the Coast Guard flag that was flown on the World War I Veterans Memorial Bridge in Putnam.

Olson honored for 70 years of Legion service

PUTNAM — A former Putnam resident, George Paul Olson, who currently resides at Christopher Heights Assisted Living in Webster, Mass., was honored for 70 years continuous service in American Legion in a ceremony on Aug. 14. The ceremony took place at Christopher Heights with family and many residents in attendance.

Olson, who recently celebrated his 96th birthday, is a World War II veteran of the United States Coast Guard. Olson was presented a number of certificates and mementoes by Post Commander Alan R. Joslin and Immediate Past Commander Ronald P. Coderre commemorating his membership in American Legion Post 13.

"This is a special day for Mr. Olson who is part of America's Greatest Generation. It was men like him who preserved the freedoms that we enjoy as Americans, such as the right to vote. It's fitting that we hold this ceremony on the day that Connecticut is holding a primary election," Coderre told the audience.

Among the honors presented to Mr. Olson were certificates from the National Commander of American Legion and one from Post 13 honoring his 70 years of continuous service to the organization. He was also presented an American Legion lapel pin and a Post #13 coffee mug.

Commander Joslin presented Olson with the original U.S. Coast Guard flag that was flown on the World War I Memorial Bridge on Pomfret Street in Putnam.

In September Olson will have a banner honoring his service to our country hung in downtown Putnam as Post 13 initiates its second year of honoring living veterans with its "Banner Project." The banners will be on display from Labor Day through Veterans Day. Olson was also presented a replica of his banner.

"Post 13 is proud of your service to our country. This ceremony is our way of not only recognizing you but of saying thank you for your service and long life," said Commander Joslin.

When asked about his time in American Legion Mr. Olson remembered many events he attended at the Post's former home on Canal Street. He noted that his wedding reception had been held at the Post home.

In 2019 American Legion National and Post 13 will celebrate their 100th Anniversary. American Legion was founded in 1919 and George Paul Olson has been part of that veteran's service organization for 70 of those 100 years.

DASH

This year, Navarro stated, the Warrior Dash was "muddier than ever." There were walls to climb over, ropes to climb, tunnels to crawl through, and even mounds of dirt to run over, and ditches of mud to swim through.

"By the time you're done," she said, "you're pretty dirty and muddy."

Navarro has always loved running, but the Warrior Dash was something new to try. Something fun. She has always loved the obstacles. She completed her first triathlon back in 2007, and has been doing various races around New England since. Back when she first started doing the local Warrior Dash she even received some trophies for her placement and times.

"But this year," she said with a laugh, "our whole team was beaten by one of the employee's sons, a senior at Woodstock Academy."

For Navarro, it was more about spending time with family and friends than setting records. And it was inspiring to see so many people take to the course, mud and all.

Art at Connecticut Audubon Society

POMFRET – If there are three things the Connecticut Audubon Society is known for it's birds, nature programs, and their nature photography exhibits. Currently on display are photographs and paintings by Aaron Bourque and Deb Eccleston. Both of these artists capture the one-of-a-kind beauty that birds have to offer.

Killingly Bike Night

Norman Smith with his Road King.

KILLINGLY – Killingly Bike Night on Thursday, August 16 had Main Street lined with motorcycles. Bikers from all over New England gathered to show off their rides, hang out on the common, listen to some live music and shop at the vendors situated throughout the street. The money raised from the fourth annual Bike Night went to the community's recreational and community programs.

The motorcycles lined Main Street on Bike Night. Each bike paid $5 towards the town's recreational and community programs.

"I've been riding since I was five," said Phil Kemp, pictured with his Triumph Street Triple.

Matt and Brandy Patrone have been biking their whole lives. "We love everything about it," said Matt. Added Brandy: "It's freeing!"

Connecticut School Nutrition Programs

PUBLIC MEDIA RELEASE

Woodstock Public Schools

The Woodstock Public Schools announced today its policy for determining eligibility of children may receive free or reduced-price meals served under the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) and School Breakfast Program (SBP) (Breakfast program at WMS only.

Local school officials have adopted the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Income Eligibility Guidelines (IEGs) for family size and income criteria for determining eligibility.

The following income guidelines will be used in Connecticut from July 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019, for determining eligibility of participants for free and reduced-price meals in the Child Nutrition Programs.

2018-19 INCOME GUIDELINES FOR CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAMS

The above income calculations are made based on the following formulas: Monthly income is calculated by dividing the annual income by 12; twice monthly income is computed by dividing annual income by 24; income received every two weeks is calculated by dividing annual income by 26; and weekly income is computed by dividing annual income by 52. All numbers are rounded upward to the next whole dollar. Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals. Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents. To apply for free or reduced-price meals , households should fill out the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school. Only one application is required per household and an application for free or reduced-price benefits cannot be approved unless it contains complete eligibility information as indicated on the application and instructions. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purposes of determining eligibility and for administration and enforcement of the lunch, breakfast and milk programs.

Additionally, all school-aged children in income-eligible households can receive school meal benefits regardless of a child's immigration status and the district/school does not release information for immigration-related purposes in the usual course of operating the CNPs. Note that the district MAY share your eligibility information with education, health, and nutrition programs to help them evaluate, fund, or determine benefits for their programs, auditors for program reviews, and law enforcement officials to help them look into violations of program rules. This information may also be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

For up to 30 operating days into the new school year, eligibility from the previous year will continue within the same local educational agency (LEA). When the carry-over period ends, unless the household is notified that their children are directly certified or the household submits an application that is approved, the children must pay full price for school meals and the school will not send a reminder or a notice of expired eligibility.

No application is required if the district directly certifies a child based on a household member receiving assistance from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) or the Temporary Family Assistance (TFA) program. All children in these households are eligible for free meal benefits. Households receiving assistance under the SNAP/TFA programs will be notified of their eligibility and their children will be provided free benefits unless the household notifies the determining official that it chooses to decline benefits. If any children were not listed on the eligibility notice, the household should contact the district or school to have free meal benefits extended to those children. Households receiving SNAP or TFA benefits for their children should only submit an application if they are not notified of their eligibility by October 10, 2018.

Some children may be directly certified for free or reduced-price meals based on Medicaid (HUSKY). No application is required if the district directly certifies a child based on Medicaid (HUSKY). All children in these households are eligible for free or reduced-priced meal benefits. Households receiving assistance under Medicaid (HUSKY) will be notified of their eligibility and their children will be provided free or reduced-price benefits accordingly, unless the household notifies the determining official that it chooses to decline benefits. If any children were not listed on the eligibility notice, the household should contact the district or school to have free or reduced-price meal benefits extended to those children.

If a child is not directly certified, the household should complete a free and reduced-price meal application form. The application for the SNAP or TFA households require the SNAP or TFA case number and the households may be asked to provide proof of the SNAP or TFA case number. The signature of an adult household member is also required.

Children in households participating in WIC may be eligible for free or reduced-price meals. Please send in an application or contact the determining official for more information.

When known to the district/school, households will be notified of any child's eligibility for free meals if the individual child is Other Source Categorically Eligible because the child is categorized as either: Homeless; runaway as defined by law and determined by the district's or school's homeless liaison; or enrolled in an eligible Head Start or pre-kindergarten class as defined by law. Households with children who are categorically eligible under Other Source Categorically Eligible Programs should complete an application and check-off the relevant box. Questions should be directed to the determining official. For any child not listed on the eligibility notice, the households should contact the school or determining official about any child also eligible under one of these programs or should submit an income application for the other children.

Households notified of their children's eligibility must contact the determining official or school if it chooses to decline the free meal benefits. If households/children are not notified by the district/school of their free meal benefits and they receive benefits under Assistance Programs or under Other Source Categorically Eligible Programs, the parent/guardian should contact the determining official or their school.

Foster children that are under the legal responsibility of a foster care agency or court, are categorically eligible for free meals. A foster parent does not have to complete a free/reduced meal application if they can submit a copy of the legal document or legal court order showing that the child is a foster child. Additionally, a foster child may be included as a member of the foster family if the foster family chooses to also apply for benefits. If the foster family is not eligible for free or reduced-price meal benefits, it does not prevent a foster child from receiving free meal benefits. Note however, that a foster child's free eligibility does not automatically extend to all students in the household.

Application forms for all other households require a statement of total household income, household size and names of all household members. The last four digits of the social security number of an adult household member must be included or a statement that the household member does not have one. The adult household member must also sign the application certifying that the information provided is correct.

Under the provisions of the policy for determining eligibility for free and reduced-price meals, the Cathy Bartlett, Food Service Director, 860-928-7453 xt 315, caf@woodstockschools.net, will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the determining official, he/she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If he/she wishes to make a formal appeal, a request either orally or in writing, may be made to Viktor Toth, Superintendent of Schools, 860-928-7453, tothv@woodstockschool.net for a hearing to appeal the decision.

The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure. Each school and the central office of the school district has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by an interested party.

If a household member becomes unemployed or if household size changes at any time, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for reduced-price meals, free meals, if the family income falls at or below the levels shown in the Income Guidelines.

Questions regarding the application process may be directed to the determining official at 860-928-7453 xt 315.

Day Kimball Healthcare triathlon on tap

The race begins with a half-mile swim in Moosup Pond

PLAINFIELD — The Day Kimball Healthcare Give It a Tri triathlon is set to begin on the shores of Moosup Pond at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 25. Michael Podzaline, 33, won the race for the fifth time last year and is expected to return to defend his title. The event includes a half-mile swim, a 12-mile bicycle ride, and 3.1-mile run. Podzaline completed the course last year in one hour, five minutes, 27 seconds

Last year Tracy Herzer, from Glastonbury, captured victory in the women's division and Linda Spooner, from Sturbridge, Mass., was second. Spooner has entered this year's race once again.

Podzaline, from North Stonington, is a firefighter for the city of Norwich. He went to Wheeler High School in North Stonington but did not compete for the track team there. He picked up bicycling and running to stay in fit for his job.

He is quite familiar with the Give It a Tri course, from the half-mile swim in Moosup Pond, to the 12-mile bike ride on local roads, and then finishing with a 3.1-mile (5K) run.

"Knowing the course helps, it's not a flat course. You know when to attack on the bike, when to attack on the run Absolutely knowing the course helps," said Podzaline after last year's race.

Podzaline is an excellent runner and bicyclist who typically falls behind after the swimming leg of a triathlon — he was in 20th place overall after the swim leg last year.

"I'm not a great swimmer at all. I was still in second place after the bike," Podzaline said.

Podzaline has become a serious bicyclist, logging 250 to 300 miles per week on the road. Podzaline has cut back on his triathlons and competes mostly in cycling events. But he said he will always return to defend his title at the Give It a Tri.

"I'll be back next year, absolutely," said Podzaline after his win in 2017.

How to conserve water as the mercury rises

Conserving natural resources is often so simple that people make some adjustments without affecting their daily lives at all. But sometimes it's not so easy to conserve.

Summer is one time of year when conservation efforts tend to require more sacrifice than normal. Even the most devoted conservationist may find it difficult to conserve water during the dog days of summer, when drought and soaring temperatures make it difficult to maintain lawns and gardens. Thankfully, there are ways to help lawns and gardens withstand summer's dog days without wasting water.

• Water wisely. Watering lawns and gardens in the early morning hours is a savvy move for various reasons. Heat-related illnesses such as heat stroke and heat exhaustion pose a serious threat to people of all ages, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends cooling off in air conditioned places as temperatures climb. By watering their lawns and gardens early in the morning, homeowners are ensuring they won't be outside watering during those times of day when their risk for heat stroke and heat exhaustion is at its peak. In addition, watering in the early morning when the sun has not yet reached its peak decreases the amount of water that will be lost to evaporation, thereby increasing the amount of water that will make it into water-needy lawns and gardens.

• Shower at the beach. Beach enthusiasts can conserve water and save money on their water bills by taking quick showers at the beach to wash the sand off. A cold shower can be the perfect remedy after a long day of soaking up some sun at the beach. And because beach showers use cold water, beachgoers are less likely to take luxurious, potentially wasteful showers than they might at home.

• Take nights off from doing dishes. Hand-washing dishes may seem like a more effective way to conserve water than using a dishwasher, but that's not the case. The National Resources Defense Council notes that hand-washing dishes can consume as many as 27 gallons of water, while Energy Star®-rated dishwashers consume just three gallons of water. Before running the dishwasher, make sure it's full.

• Cover your pool. Keeping pools covered during the dog days of summer reduces the likelihood that pool water will be lost to evaporation. In fact, the GRACE Communications Foundation, a nonprofit organization dedicated to creating sustainable food systems, notes that uncovered pools can lose as much as 1,000 gallons of water to evaporation each month.

Conserving water during the dog days of summer may require some sacrifice. But such sacrifices are easier than many people may expect.

Mark E. Green, 60

BROOKLYN - To my family, friends and anyone else who I made an impact on, it saddens me to say, I was selected to take the eternal retirement package. Apparently I have passed away. I knew it would happen one day, but it's simply not something I was ready for. I had places I wanted to see, landscaping and remodeling projects to finish, and was looking forward to planning my honeymoon vacation cruise with my beautiful newlywed wife, Stacy Green with all of our children. My family, three dogs, Lola Jean, Marley Moo, my "Biggie Boy" "Boss" Picasso and my beautiful home are my complete pride and joy. Being outdoors is where I found peace and clarity and got to show off my creativity and carpentry skills. I loved riding my motorcycle, shopping at Harts nursery for new additions to place in my cherished gardens, spending time with my kids any chance I got, I am so proud of every one of you. I hope you continue to do great things in life. I especially cherished the quality time I spent with you Stacy. Thank you for loving me for who I am, you are my best friend and my soul mate. I know how much you love me, as much as I love you. And each time that you think of me I know you'll miss me too. Every day that starts without me, don't think we're far apart, for every time you think of me, I'm right here, in your heart. I lived a good life that was filled with moments sweet and sad with smiles and sometimes tears, with friendships formed and good times shared and laughter through the years.

Mark was a man of many talents, passions and accomplishments. He had many journeys through the years. He started M & R construction with his brother Rick. Owned Ironworks Gym in Danielson with his first wife Denise Green where he had a passion for weight lifting and arm wrestling. Mark also worked at Wauregan Grain, and had the privilege of working for Tilcon where he worked for "the best boss I've ever had," Allen Schmied. His working career ended with the Norwich Inn & Spa where he worked as an engineer, and made many new friendships that he spoke of often.

Mark was born in North Tarrytown, New York to Richard Green and Dorothy Cooper Green. He is survived by his mother Dorothy Green, wife Stacy Green, children, Stephanie Green & Nicholas Evankow, Nathan Green & Alexandra Green, Lauren "Lou" Green, Katherine Plitsas, Thomas Plitsas and his beloved pets Lola, Marley, Picasso and his pterodactyls Heckle & Jeckle. Mark is predeceased by his Father, Richard Green and his brother, Rick Green.

Calling hours were held August 16 at Tillinghast Funeral Home. A celebration of life was held August 17 at the Norwich Inn & Spa. Mark will be joining his father and brother at Sleepy Hollow Cemetery in Sleepy Hollow, New York. tillinghast-fh.com

Dorothy Eugenia Smith, 91

DANIELSON – Dorothy passed away August 19, 2018 at Westview Health Care Center in Dayville at the age of 91 after a long illness.

Dorothy was born October 20, 1926 to Ray and Christina Smith in North Sterling. Her early schooling was at the one-room Titus School in North Sterling. She graduated from Plainfield High School in 1944. Her first job was during World War II at Majestic Metals in Moosup riveting the keels of Canadian Vicar airplanes and pontoons for seaplanes.

She looked after her parents and helped with all the chores of their small farm as long as they were alive. She worked later at Arrow Hart and Hegeman for 38 years until her early retirement. At that time, she was then caring for her dear friend, Mildred Pierce, until she also passed. She was a very caring person who found satisfaction in making life better for elderly persons.

She spent many years as a member of the Line Baptist Church teaching Sunday School and as its Superintendent. Sharing her strong religious beliefs with the youth was very important to her. Another of her talents she used in the church, at fund raisers, and entertainments was her ventriloquist act and magic tricks. She had an assortment of dummy friends--Dondi, Sammy and Russell, just to name a few. Dottie, with Russell, had the unique experience of being on the Sunday morning television show "Community Auditions" and walked away as winners. She also played the guitar and harmonica.

Dottie was proud of the fact that she was a 70-year member of the Highland Grange #113 in South Killingly.

The fact that she flew the American flag daily and followed strict flag protocol indicated her dedication to her country and its flag. She also loved to predict the weather according to the old-fashioned methods. The birds and other wildlife in her yard were well cared for. She even had a chipmunk that would eat out of her hand.

Her most favorite pastime was bowling. Dottie was a great bowler, especially for her age. In fact, she won the Connecticut Women's Senior Bowling title not once, but twice, in her lifetime. The first took her to Buffalo, New York in 1996 and the second sent her to Reno, Nevada in 2004 to compete in the Nationals.

Another of her extracurricular activities was entertaining as a clown. She attended Clown College in Willimantic and adopted the name Loonie. She greatly enjoyed participating in many parades with her puppet Goonie and her Honda clown car.

Dorothy is the last family member of her generation. She leaves two nieces, Natalie Coolidge and Arlene Houle, and two nephews, Edmond LaFantasie and Harold Arndt; thirteen grand-nieces and nephews and many great-greats. She was pre-deceased by her parents, her dear friend Mildred Pierce, her brother Carl Smith, her sisters Ruth LaFantasie and Helen Arndt, and a nephew Allen Smith.

Calling hours were held on August 21, at Gagnon & Costello Funeral Home in Danielson. A service followed at the Funeral Home. Burial was at Westfield Cemetery in Danielson.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to a Veterans organization of your choice.

WHAT OUR CUSTOMERS ARE SAYING:

"QUICK AND EASY"

My salesman, Frank Dumas, was so friendly and knowledgable, and the process of test-driving and signing papers was quick and easy. I would absolutely use any Imperial dealer again.
