BRIMFIELD - A driver was flown by helicopter to the hospital after sustaining serious injuries in a July 12 crash on East Hill Road.

Trapped in a sedan after colliding with a tree, the driver required assistance from Brimfield and Warren police and fire officials.

After first responders extricated the driver, a Life Flight helicopter transported the person to UMass Memorial Medical Center in Worcester.

A preliminary investigation suggested that distracted driving and excessive speed were to blame for the crash, police said. The driver's name was not released as of press time.

Rotary helps fund new playground at the YMCA

STURBRIDGE - The Sturbridge Rotary Club recently awarded $5,000 to the Tri-Community YMCA Child Development Center, 115 Marcy Street in Southbridge, to help fund a new outdoor playground that will be enjoyed by more than 150 kids a day.

"This playground will help the Y provide safe and healthy spaces for our children to learn foundational skills, develop healthy, trusting relationships and build self-esteem," said Glenn Juchno, executive director of the Tri-Community YMCA.

"We are fortunate to have great partners like the Sturbridge Rotary Club who understand the impact of youth development in our community."

For over 100 years, the YMCA has been meeting the needs of children, adults and families in our community. The Child Development Center at the Y offers year-round licensed childcare for infants, toddlers, preschoolers and school age children.

"We believe we are building a child's future from the day they begin in our care," said Paul Perrier, director of child development services. "Whether they are an infant or school age, we work to create the brightest future possible for each child, one activity, and one interac-

Kids' art takes center stage at QVCAH

SOUTHBRIDGE - What do houses, butterflies and flamingos have in common?

They'll all be in profuse variety at the upcoming Quinebaug Valley Arts Center's Kids' Show Sunday, July 22. The show is the grand finale of this year's Summer Youth Art Program, through which about 45 young people from area towns have been exploring their creative sides, sometimes for the first time.

"I can't wait to see their art show," said Amanda Recknagel of Sturbridge, who has two daughters attending for the first time. "They make the kids feel like they're artists, and they're really immersed in it."

She noted her girls routinely bring home ideas and "recreate things all summer." They have exposure to the arts outside the program, via library events, various crafts and other things, and she encourages it at home.

"Nothing's structured. Everything's just building [toys] and bins of art supplies," she said.

Those girls are pretty lucky. Some of their peers don't get arts exposure at home, and with the schools tending to make the arts first on the budget chopping block, they might not get it in school either. That's a big reason Dolores Cowden started the program 11 years

Gobi announces funding for local projects in bond bill

BOSTON - Today, Senator Anne M. Gobi (D-Spencer) and the Massachusetts Senate passed H.4613, An Act promoting climate change adaptation, environmental and natural resource protection, and investment in recreational assets and opportunity, colloquially known as the 'environmental bond bill.' The legislation authorizes the issuance of more than $2 billion in bonds to implement climate change adaptation programs and to improve existing climate resilient infrastructure.

"A goal of the Environmental Bond Bill is to preserve our natural resources and promote economic growth, while at the same time maintaining fiscal responsibility," commented Senator Gobi, who chairs the Joint Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture.

"We are fortunate in Massachusetts, especially in our area, to have so many wonderful natural resources that make our region an ideal place to live and work. This bill is a prime example of how Massachusetts continues to lead in environmental stewardship; strengthening our commitment to the environment, while maintaining our ability to address our budget needs."

Massachusetts has continually demonstrated leadership in the fight against global climate change, and the investments authorized in this legislation ensure that cities and towns across the Commonwealth are protected and that public spaces and infrastructure are improved and maintained for the public good.

Senator Gobi secured bond authorization funding for the following town projects through the bill:

$5,000,000 for water infrastructure projects in the town of Hardwick.

$2,000,000 expended for water and sewer improvements in the town of Palmer

$2,000,000 for extensions to the public water line in the Car Buying Tips

People ask Place: My new car seems so complicated. Why do I have all this technology?
The Right answer: During our recent Classic Cruise we were able to see first hand the many differences in today’s cars versus the cars of yesteryear. The new cars had so much more in electronics to increase performance, efficiency, comfort and most importantly safety. The innovations many of us have simply grown to expect in our cars were not available in the 50’s, 60’s or even 70’s. Much of the now standard features were developed in just the last few decades. Federal regulation and of course customer demand have contributed to much of the new technology in the new cars. Even some of the new technology like your cell phone have sparked new tech in your cars. Airbags that were once only in the steering wheel now seem to come from everywhere and can create a complete “canopy” offering protection to passengers in every seating position. Ford even has available inflatable seat belts to provide rear passengers even more security. Anti-lock braking systems, stability control systems, adaptive cruise control, automatic climate control, intermittent wipers, infotainment systems, all-wheel drive, 6 and 10 speed automatic transmissions, power windows and door locks, back up cameras, electronic ignition and fuel injection are just some of the things we have seen in today’s cars that weren’t in those classic cars we love. In fact, did you know that in early F series pickups a passenger side windshield wiper was an extra cost option. We love those old cars and trucks. They sure are great to admire. Look closely at the new cars and trucks and marvel at the things they can do. The advancements are incredible and much more is coming to improve the next generation of transportation.

Senate passes automatic voter registration bill

BOSTON — Senator Anne Gobi (D-Spencer), Senate Chair of the Joint Committee on Election Laws, and the Massachusetts Senate passed H.4671, An Act automatically registering eligible voters and enhancing safeguards against fraud. The legislation creates a framework in which eligible voters will be automatically registered to vote when receiving services from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, MassHealth, and other participating state agencies. The framework will be overseen and implemented by the Secretary of State.

“Automatic voter registration will allow the Commonwealth to work towards making sure that the hundreds of thousands of eligible citizens who are currently not registered to vote can participate in our democracy,” remarked Senator Anne Gobi, “Enacting this legislation will help engage more individuals politically while giving the Commonwealth a valuable tool that will help clean up active voter lists and ensure that they are clear and free of error.”

“It should be the state’s burden to register voters – not yours,” said Senate President Harriette L. Chandler (D-Worcester). “Long work hours and confusion about the registration process are barriers for many citizens. And thousands of Massachusetts citizens are eligible to vote today, but aren’t registered. Registering to vote must be as simple as possible, and this legislation implements a process where any eligible citizen receiving certain state services is automatically registered. Today is a major victory for voting rights and social justice.”

The legislation bolsters voter-data security. It updates the requirements for transmission of voter registration affidavits and requires the Secretary of State to promulgate regulations to ensure registration is done through electronic transmission, with data security protocols and integration with the online portals.

The legislation increases penalties associated with voter fraud. It orders that whoever knowingly provides false information in connection with automatic voter registration shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for up to 5 years or both.

The legislation includes multiple opt-out procedures for those who do not wish to be automatically registered and it expands the Secretary of State’s

The bill also re-authorizes the following projects included in related legislation passed in 2014:

$5,000,000 for a dredging project on Lake Wickaboag in West Brookfield

$4,400,000 for Whitney Pond Dam in Winchendon

$100,000 for handicapped access improvements to the Woodward Fishing area on South Pond in Brookfield

$80,000 for Thompson Pond and $50,000 for Stiles Pond in Spencer

In addition to local project funding,

Senator Gobi also ensured a boost to Massachusetts Dairy producers in the bill by including an amendment establishing a regulatory framework for the allowance of off-premise raw milk distribution, including through CSA agreements. If this is signed into law, Massachusetts will join sixteen other states to allow raw milk distribution including Connecticut, Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire.

The bill also provides $10 million in funding the Lakes and Ponds Program at the Department of Conservation and Recreation. This money can be used for technical assistance, studies, improvements and removal of invasive species in lakes, ponds, and watersheds across the commonwealth.

Additionally, the bill also requires the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs and the Executive Office of Public Safety and Security to: (i) coordinate to strengthen resilience and prepare for the impacts of climate change; (ii) publish, every five years, an integrated state climate adaptation and hazard mitigation plan; (iii) establish frameworks for state agency and municipal vulnerability assessments that will be incorporated into the state plan; and (iv) implement the state plan and incorporate information learned from implementing the state plan in plan updates.

The Senate bill was offered as an amendment to the environmental bond bill passed by the House of Representatives in June. The bill will now be reconciled with the House version though a conference committee to work out the differences between the two bills.

“Every Town Deserves a Good Local Newspaper”

Should I think about resale when purchasing a home?

The answer to this question is always yes. You never know when life will change and you will want or need to move again. Even if someone tells me they never plan on moving again I will always point out downfalls with a home that could cause a resale issue even if the person purchasing the home does not care about that downfall. Some of the important factors to consider that can affect the resale of a home are as follows:

Buying a home on a busy road - Many people are fearful having kids or pets on a busy road or the road could be a detractor as well.

Buying a home with 2 bedrooms on 2nd floor and 1 bedroom on 1st floor - If a family has children then they may not want them on a different floor than them and this can cause an issue.

Home being on a private road - For you buying a home on an unpaved private road may be nice to keep people driving slow through your neighborhood but for someone else they want a smoother ride home and let dirt and dust and the uncertainty of who may be fixing the potholes in the road may be a deterrent.

Big House and Small Yard - You may love the idea of having a nice easy yard to maintain while many people looking for a large home have a large family and they want lots of outdoor yard space.

Wallpaper and Carpet - You may be fine with the wallpaper and prefer the carpet over the hardwoods. Most people

prefer to have painted walls and will prefer hardwoods over carpets and sometimes the carpets are an allergy issue. Luckily these are things that can be changed.

Close to railroad tracks - You may not mind the tracks or even think the sound of the train going by is soothing. Other people it will wake up in the night and they may be concerned about their children or pets ending up on the tracks.

Home with no basement - You may feel you don't need that extra storage space in the basement. In many areas of the country homes do not have basements but around here it is more common to have on and most people want it to have the ability to store items there.

Biggest house in the neighborhood - People prefer to buy homes that are in a neighborhood with other similar homes. If you have a 3000 square foot colonial in a neighborhood of 1000 square foot ranches you will have a challenge reselling the home compared to one in a neighborhood with similar homes.

These are just a few examples of things to consider. If you are buying a home then consult with a local Realtor who can let you know when they see things that could impact resale and you can decide if you overlook them as it is the perfect home for you.

Greater Worcester Community Foundation now accepting applications

Greater Worcester Community Foundation is now accepting applications for its Community Grant program. Community Grants support nonprofit organizations that build healthy and vibrant communities throughout Central Massachusetts. Last year, the Foundation awarded more than $1.4 million in Community Grants to 137 nonprofit organizations.

Community Grants are made possible by donors who have set up endowment funds with the Foundation for this purpose, with grant amounts typically ranging from $2,500 to $25,000. Areas of interest this year include Civic Life, the Arts and the Environment; Early Childhood Development; Economic Security; Healthy Communities; Youth Development & Education. Organizations located in the Greater Worcester area that are engaging local partners or building local capacity will be preferred.

For those new to the Foundation or seeking a refresher, the Foundation will be hosting orientation sessions about the Community Grant Program over the summer. Sessions will be held Thursday, July 26 from 9-10:00am; Wednesday, August 1 from 4-5:00pm; and Tuesday, August 21 from 12-1:00pm. All sessions will be held at the Foundation at 350 Main St. in Worcester, and program staff will be present to take questions. Sign up can be found on the Community Grant Program page on the Foundation website.

Applications must be received by September 15, 2018. For questions, email Jonathan Cohen at jcohen@greaterworcester.org or call 508-755-0980.

Mass Audubon offering certificate program

WORCESTER — Attention amateur naturalists and other wildlife enthusiasts interested in upping their game and sharing their knowledge: Mass Audubon's Broad Meadow Brook Conservation Center and Wildlife Sanctuary is offering a field naturalist certificate program designed to prepare students for work in nature-based education, citizen science, habitat management, and other environmental fields.

The 11-week course taught at a college level, which runs from Aug. 29 through Nov. 17, is geared to individuals seeking to increase their understanding of the natural world in a professional setting. Students will gain in-depth knowledge of ecological connections and natural systems while taking part in field research, species monitoring, and communications training.

Classes will take place at the wildlife sanctuary's Visitor Center, 414 Massasoit Rd., Worcester, on Wednesday evenings, (6:30- 9 pm) and every other Saturday, all day (9 am-4 pm) at various locations throughout central Massachusetts.

In addition to the course meetings and experiences in the field, students will be required to complete 40 hours of independent environmental stewardship/volunteer work.

"We are continually impressed by sanctuary visitors' appreciation of and enthusiasm for the natural world," said Broad Meadow Brook Conservation Coordinator Martha Gach, who is overseeing the program. "In fact, it's been apparent that people in central Massachusetts are eager to connect more deeply with nature, and Mass Audubon has developed this certificate program in response to that interest."

Instructors for the program are experts in their fields and program participants will have a chance to learn from some very skilled and talented nature lovers, including: Mass Audubon's Wayne Petersen, Joe Choiniere, Cindy Dunn, Martha Gach, Stephen Hutchinson, and Ron Wolanin; Robert Bertin, a biologist and expert on the natural history of central Massachusetts at Holy Cross; and Tom Tynning, a professor of Environmental Science at Berkshire Community College and a former long-time Mass Audubon staff member.

To register and to learn more about the Field Naturalist Certificate Program, please visit www.massaudubon.org/broadmeadowbrook and scroll down to "Sanctuary News & Events".

Mass Audubon protects 37,500 acres of land throughout Massachusetts, saving birds and other wildlife, and making nature accessible to all. As Massachusetts' largest nature conservation nonprofit, we welcome more than a half million visitors a year to our wildlife sanctuaries and 20 nature centers. From inspiring hilltop views to breathtaking coastal landscapes, serene woods, and working farms, we believe in protecting our state's natural treasures for wildlife and for all people—a vision shared in 1896 by our founders, two extraordinary Boston women. Today, Mass Audubon is a nationally recognized environmental education leader, offering thousands of camp, school, and adult programs that get over 225,000 kids and adults outdoors every year. With more than 125,000 members and supporters, we advocate on Beacon Hill and beyond, and conduct conservation research to preserve the natural heritage of our beautiful state for today's and future generations. Tips to pick, preserve & prepare garden herbs

TRAINOR

What could be more delightful than the summertime pleasure of plucking fresh herbs from an outdoor garden? Herbs not only bring essence and beauty to the landscape, they also provide an element of enchantment to a yard. Whether you grow herbs for their unique flavors, medicinal value, or just for the pure pleasure of it - the humble herb adds spice to any garden plot! Read on for some harvesting and preserving tips, plus few recipes to spotlight your fresh snipped herbs.

Harvesting Herbs
While snipping herbs daily for kitchen use is a common practice, the act of fully harvesting herbs regularly is also important to ensure new growth. For best flavor, cut or snip herbs in the morning, after the dew has evaporated from the leaves but before the midday sun heats the plant.

Most annual plants can be harvested twice during the planting season. Cut plants back to about five inches above the ground and feed after cutting. Annual herbs can be harvested until frost.

Perennial herbs may be harvested once during the first year and up to three times each season after the initial growth year. Harvest up to 75 percent of the top growth in late spring and another quarter in late summer. Stop harvesting about one month before the frost date. Late pruning could encourage tender growth that cannot harden-off before winter.

Flowering herbs should be harvested when the buds are apparent or when flowers are just opening. This is when their oil concentration is at its peak.

Preserving Herbs
While herbs for cooking should be used fresh for optimal quality and flavor, a zealous growing season can necessitate preserving the herbal plants. There are several methods to "keep" herbs for later use.

Freezing: This is the easiest method to preserve herbs that are to be used in cooking. Herbs should be cut fresh and rinsed briefly in cold water. Chop herbs and spread out on a cookie sheet to freeze. Once frozen, transfer to a zip lock freezer bag. Another popular way to freeze herbs for uses in soups and other dishes that require liquid is to place pinches of herbs in water filled ice cube trays. Freeze and pack them into a zip lock freezer bag. Don't refreeze herbs after thawing.

Drying: Drying is the traditional method of herb preservation. There are also several methods to dry herbs for later use.

Air Drying: If the herbs are clean, do not wet them. Otherwise, rinse, shake off the excess water, and spread the herbs out to dry on paper towels or dishcloths until all surface moisture has evaporated. Remove any dead or damaged foliage. Then, tie the stems into small bundles with twine or string and hang them upside down in a warm, dry, airy place out of the sun. Be sure to make small, loose bundles and allow for good air circulation around each bunch. Dry indoors as sun and dew moisture can discolor and ruin the quality of many herbs. Hang and dry in the kitchen or even a garage or shed. Note: Some herbs, such as basil and mints may mold if not dried quickly. An alternative to hanging herbs to dry in bunches is to spread the herbs out on window screens. Suspend the screens over sawhorses or the backs of chairs. Turn the leaves often to ensure even drying. To air dry herbs with seeds, tie the herbs in small bundles and suspend inside a paper bag with holes punched in the sides. Suspend the bag in a dark area with good air circulation. Collect the seeds when they are dry, and store in rigid light-proof containers.

Oven Drying: Traditional kitchen stoves can also be used to dry herbs. Spread the herbs on cookie sheets and dry at the lowest temperature. Home food dehydrators also do an excellent job of drying herbs. Follow the directions provided with the dehydrator.

Herbs are sufficiently dry when they are brittle and crumble easily. When the leaves are dry, separate them from their stems and package the leaves in rigid containers with tight fitting lids. Glass or hard plastic are best, although zip-lock plastic freezer bags can be used. To preserve full flavor, avoid crushing the leaves until you are ready to use them. Store dried herbs in a cool, dry place away from sunlight, moisture, and heat. Many herbs can keep for a year if stored properly.

Herbal Recipes
Below are some simple, yet delicious recipes that showcase the flavor of freshly picked garden herbs.

Smola supports efforts to address state opioid crisis

BOSTON – In an attempt to address the growing state opioid crisis, Representative Todd M. Smola (R-Warren, Ranking Member, Committee on Ways & Means), is supporting legislation to expand Massachusetts' comprehensive 2016 opioid law by increasing treatment options for individuals suffering from drug addiction.

House Bill 4725, An Act for prevention and access to appropriate care and treatment of addiction, was engrossed by the House of Representatives on a unanimous vote of 147-0 on July 11. The bill places new mandates on practitioners and pharmacies prescribing opioids and other controlled substances, while taking steps to ensure qualified treatment facilities are available to serve those in need by enhancing the regulatory and licensing authority of the Department of Mental Health (DMH) and the Department of Public Health (DPH).

In addition to requiring the use of electronic prescriptions for controlled substances in non-emergency situations by 2020, House Bill 4725 provides for the expanded utilization of the Prescription Monitoring Program (PMP) and access to its data to help deter prescription drug abuse. It also directs DPH to issue a statewide standing order allowing pharmacies to dispense the overdose-reversing drug naloxone without a prescription.

According to DPH, there were 379 confirmed opioid-related overdose deaths in Massachusetts in 2000, but the number of confirmed and suspected opioid-related deaths jumped to 2,016 last year. For the first three months of 2018, DPH has confirmed 201 opioid-related overdose deaths, but estimates there will be an additional 240 to 305 deaths once all cases are finalized by the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner.

Under the 2016 law, patients who receive naloxone or are treated for an overdose at an acute care hospital or emergency room must undergo a substance use disorder evaluation by a licensed mental health professional within 24 hours. House Bill 4725 would require hospitals and emergency facilities to refer patients who receive an evaluation to an appropriate and available treatment provider, or to provide treatment within the facility if adequate services are available on site. However, patients have the right to refuse further treatment.

During floor debate on the bill, Representative Smola stood with his Republican colleagues to try to amend the bill by allowing licensed physicians and other medical professionals to place overdose patients into treatment for 72 hours if they present a risk of serious harm due to addiction and will not agree to voluntary treatment. This effort was blocked by a further amendment that instead establishes a commission to study the efficacy of involuntary inpatient treatment for individuals diagnosed with a substance use disorder.

House Bill 4725 also: creates six additional commissions to study: alternatives to broaden the availability of naloxone without a prescription; community-based behavioral health promotion and prevention; a credentialing process for recovery coaches; insurance coverage for non-opioid and non-pharmacological pain management strategies; the use of, availability, and barriers to medication-assisted treatment for substance use disorders; and appropriate prescribing practices related to the most common oral and maxillofacial procedures; requires the Health Policy Commission and DPH, subject to appropriation, to create and administer an early childhood investment opportunity grant program to test the efficacy of programs supporting and caring for families with young children who were substance exposed newborns, including the long-term effects of neonatal abstinence syndrome on children; and establishes a 2-year pilot program at six participating state prisons to make medication-assisted treatment available to inmates.

The bill now heads to the Senate for further action. For additional information please contact Representative Smola at Todd.Smola@mahouse.gov or (617)722-2100.

Ain't nothin' but a good bird dog

Although upland bird hunting is a couple of months away many sportsmen that want their dogs in top shape when it arrives, are conditioning the dogs early. This week's first picture shows Jerome Jussaume of Douglas with his new springer spaniel that he recently purchased from a breeder out of state. Although Jerome has a couple of other springers, he enjoys training them, and also competes them in numerous trials throughout the year. Now that he has retired, he gets a lot of satisfaction training and conditioning his dogs at the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club on a daily basis. That is what it takes to have a great hunting dog. Jerome has entered numerous trials over the years with his dogs, and has won many awards.

Bird hunters that are looking to purchase a hunting dog for this year need to decide on the breed of dog that they will be happy with for many years to come. It is a long commitment when purchasing a dog, and requires a lot of time and patience, not to forget the cost. Vet bills are extremely expensive and the initial cost of purchasing a dog from a breeder is not cheap. $1,000+ for a dog from a highly respected breeder is the going price.

Sportsmen that belong to a Rod & Gun Club like Uxbridge, that have a preserve status license for hunting birds from September to March, also get to enjoy a lot of days in the field hunting birds raised and stocked on the premises on a weekly basis. Quail, chucker partridge and pheasant are made available to the members for training dogs and for hunting. It takes a lot of work to keep the program going each year, and it often falls on the shoulders of a few members every year. Hopefully this year will be different as numerous new members have joined the club and have bird hunting dogs. Other clubs that have similar programs are Wallum Lake Rod & Gun, Singletary Rod & Gun & the 200 Sportsmen's Club, although Singletary and the 200 Sportsmen's club receive state birds to raise, and they must stock them in hunting areas that are open to all state licensed hunters.

A raccoon recently tested positive for rabies in Uxbridge. The animal was shot by an area resident when the animal constantly harassed him, and would not leave the premises. The resident notified police of the incident, and the town dog officer picked up the animal to have it tested for rabies. It came back positive. My son Ralph Jr. also had an encounter with a rac-

Visiting museums

Some of you may be heirs to the Rockefeller fortune or may have founded an internet startup that got purchased for billions of dollars. But the rest of us won't ever have the money to own a painting by Renoir or Monet. That doesn't mean that you can't see art by some of the greats, though. Visiting museums is one fun and affordable way to gain more knowledge about art and antiques.

ANTIQUES, COLLECTIBLES & ESTATES

ing at every piece of art in the museum it would still take you over three months to see them all. The Mona Lisa, the statue of the Winged Victory of Samothrace, and Venice de Milo are three of their more famous works.

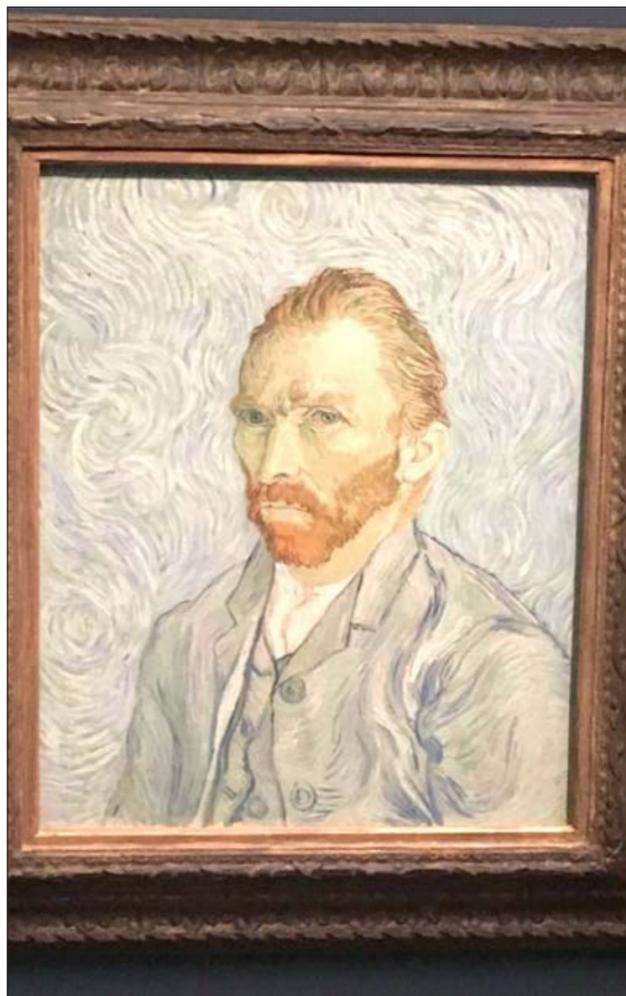

You don't need to travel to France to see great art, though. We have many wonderful local museums. Boston has the Museum of Fine Arts, the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum and the Institute of Contemporary Art. Worcester Art Museum will exhibit "The Poetry of Nature: Hudson River School Landscapes from the New-York Historical Society" beginning on Sept. 8. The Fitchburg Art Museum will host "Interior Effects: Furniture in Contemporary Art" beginning on Sept. 23. The Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford contains a wide range of objects ranging from the Morgan collection of Greek and Roman antiquities to the Samuel Colt firearms collection.

When I began selling antiques, I took a course with George Michael. He was a New Hampshire antique dealer and auctioneer who hosted an antique show that ran nationwide on PBS during the 1960s to 1980s. He showed us slides picturing antiques that he had sold, seen or owned. One of the slides was of an unusual antique basket used by the people of Lappland that he had seen in a museum. Mr. Michael told us that he later saw another Lappland basket like the one in the museum being offered at a local auction. He was the only one in the crowd who knew what it was and purchased a museum piece for very little money. Visiting museums literally paid off for him.

We have many events taking place and others being scheduled. We will run an estate sale in Holden on July 21 and July 22 and another in Spencer on July 28 and 29. We plan to run a live coin auction and an antique estate auction in the Fall. I will be teaching my "Evaluating your antiques" class on Oct. 15. I'll be appraising items for the Winchendon Historical Society on Oct. 28 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.. See www.centralmassauctions.com for details on these and other upcoming events.

I was fortunate enough to visit France recently. Auguste Rodin's "Le Penseur" (The Thinker) statue, along with many of his other works are on display in an outdoor garden at the Rodin museum in Paris. The Musee d'Orsay houses works by many of the greatest artists of France, along with important works by artists from other countries. There are works by Cézanne, Monet, Gauguin, Renoir, Manet and Degas. Vincent Van Gogh's famous self-portrait is also exhibited there.

The Louvre Museum, also in Paris, was formerly a royal palace. It was founded in 1793 and is the world's most visited museum. It offers artwork from across the globe. A travel guide told our tour group that if you spent 10 seconds look-ago - she knows how important being inspired is.

Cowden caught the art bug from a fourth grade teacher who encouraged her.

"Every person in the world has a wonderful talent. Some people can expose it and do it. Others can't and need help to do so," she said.

Since this program began, she's noticed the kids "adore it and can't wait to come back." Many of them return for years until they age out of it, and some continue on as volunteer "apprentices," helping run it. Cowden says most of the program wouldn't happen without those eight apprentices: Anna and Elizabeth Naef, Julie and Aubrey Traverso, Hannah Guerin, Anjolina Fantaroni, Audrey Clark, and Maddy Creelman.

Naef, of Charlton, has been involved as either a student or apprentice for four years. On Friday, she was handling clipboard duty, checking off the youngsters to make sure everyone who'd arrived went home with their parents. Over the years, she's come to particularly love fashion sketching, and hopes to design her own dresses.

"Mom and my siblings are very artistic, so we do a lot at home," Naef said. "This is such a great program. It provides opportunity for a lot of kids and encourages the arts."

"Years ago, five-year-old kids understood some of the basic art principles," Cowden said. But today, she sees many come in lacking the motor skills and having a hard time imagining things because they've never had exposure to art at home or in school. Participation teaches them focus and follow directions, helps develop self-motivation, and encourages them to meet new people; some have a hard time making friends in school, but do so here, Cowden said.

"It's just amazing to open up their imagination," she said.

"It's energizing to have kids from the community who are low income status come here and get something for free," QVCAH President Mara McDonald said. "One of our goals is to fill the gap in art education that doesn't happen in schools because of funding. It's great to be working with people whose focus is developing children's minds across the board. To see those types of confidence transformations is huge."

Specifically, she's referring to the fact this year's youth program is the first one being funded by the Sturbridge Rotary Club, who donated $2,500 to cover paying the teachers and supplies. Rotarian Pauline White said they thought it "fit right in with what Rotary's focus is."

Bob White agreed, saying Rotary gets many requests for money annually and is funding several kinds programs this summer. He noted, "the kids couldn't otherwise afford it."

That's an issue McDonald hopes to address going forward in other ways, too. She said some people in the community see QVCAH events but don't participate because they think they'll be too expensive. In fact, many of them are free. Part of that is cultural, she noted the center wants to build connections with the Hispanic community, among other things.

The center serves 25 communities, but the vast majority of its students come from Southbridge, Sturbridge and Charlton. It's got a bunch of things planned for the near future, including several fall fundraisers, more classes, and a key decision at this month's board meeting on what to do about the Gateway barn, McDonald noted.

Jaeden is an imaginative girl of Caucasian descent. Those who are close to her describe her as feisty, sweet, outgoing and sometimes silly. Some of her favorite activities include making up stories and songs, playing with her Barbie's, and playing dress up with jewelry and make-up. She also enjoys riding her bike and playing outside, whether it's swimming, going to the beach or playing with friends. Jaeden likes to be in charge and independent but is also described as a loyal friend. She enjoys the structure of school, and in general thrives in an attentive environment with lots of positive reinforcements.

Legally freed for adoption, Jaeden will do best in a family with a mother and a father or two mothers. If there are other children in the home, they will need to be an older female. Most importantly, Jaeden needs a family who will stick by her side through ups and downs. A family must also be open to helping Jaeden visit with her birth parents three times a year and maintain contact with her two sisters with whom she is close

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have a "permanent place to call HOME."

A history lesson to relearn

While the lofty ideals of the American Dream would have us all religious zealous intent on creating heaven on earth, idolizing a perfect democracy already in our hearts as we set forth boldly where no one had gone before in the late 1500s and early 1600s to that great unknown continent; the bitter truth is so, so unkind.

Most of us were not so inclined. The Cotton Mathers of the world were few and far between.

The explorers had found a wild land, ripe for the taking and the exploitation; to hell with the people already there.

The business people were wringing their hands with glee, great corporations created just to rape those profits as quickly as possible: the licenses to settle given over only through them and the right to ship and receive goods only through their trading companies.

Immediately the need for more hands and muscle was needed. Not education, not intelligence, just strong backs. Those corporations, the Hudson Bay Company, East India Trading and so on were only the beginning and as they grew stronger, or smaller splinter companies broke off and became independent, they had to find ways to populate their colonies, cheaply.

Deals were struck. Jails were emptied. Poor houses and debtors' prisons were cleared.

Not that they didn't fill again, because life was hard; but there was opportunity offered. Indentured servitude was one way out of a hard life, and judges were convinced to give banishment to the colonies as a punishment in some cases.

Some were just plain bought. And not even for much of a bribe.

Documentation from the time, from those who lived it, and those who were trying to make it work, say it all:

"A great part of the new company," says Mr. Stith, "consisted of unruly sparks, packed off by their friends to escape worse destinies at home. And the rest were chiefly made up of poor gentlemen, broken tradesmen, rakes and libertines, footmen, and such others as were much fitter to spoil and ruin a Commonwealth, than to help to raise or maintain one. This lewd company, therefore, were led by their seditious captains into many mischiefs and extravagancies. They assumed to themselves the power of disposing of the government, and conferred it sometimes on one, and sometimes on another. To-day the old commission must rule, to-morrow the new, and next day neither. So that all was anarchy and distraction."

Excerpt From: John Marshall. "The Life of George Washington, Vol. 1." iBooks. <https://itunes.apple.com/us/book/the-life-of-george-washington-vol-1/id492181829?mt=11>

It is no wonder our rebellious spirit continues to this day. We just don't like government much. Never did. Never will.

We cast fish eyes at anyone who tries to rule. We have a history of it.

So when someone comes along who isn't a politician, swears he will do it different, will drain the life out of those already there, will shake it up...of course we listen.

We were "led by our seditious captains into many mischiefs" and continue to be so.

We may now recognize that perhaps our rebel does have an agenda and his own cause. And he really doesn't understand that politics is a different animal and his business practices don't always work the same way in this world as they did in his private world. We may have had our rose colored glasses about him rubbed a bit less shiny; and do understand there are some problems with his revolving door policies with aides and appointed henchmen; a peek into ethics might be needed.

He is far, far, far from being an innocent in any sense of the word. He is manipulative, arrogant and a narcissist; and it has always worked for him in the private sector, not so much in the public sector.

But he is the president, he does have the power that goes with that office; and while he wields that power whether we agree or disagree with him; like or dislike how he represents our country, he's it.

Our history as rabble rousers and libertines means if we don't like it we can very well rise up and throw him out the next time around. What was a golden boy this time can easily become pond scum the next time. It has happened before and will again.

It is a lesson to learn and relearn.

OPINION

VIEWS AND COMMENTARY FROM STURBRIDGE, BRIMFIELD, HOLLAND AND WALES

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rubin: Early won't debate

To the Editor:

Yet again, I challenge the incumbent to a debate. I have made numerous requests for a debate over the past three months through social media, radio, television and most recently an article in the Worcester Telegram, which ran on June 8, 2018. To date, the incumbent has refused all my requests. His refusal to debate me is nothing short of disrespect to the voters of Worcester County. With your help, I would like to conduct multiple debates across Worcester County.

By comparison, the Suffolk County District Attorney's race has already had six debates and forums, with at least one more scheduled. Due to the incumbent, the transparent process taking place in Suffolk County is regrettably absent in Worcester County, and quite frankly, disrespectful to its residents who deserve more.

That the incumbent refuses to give the residents of Worcester County an opportunity to hear a discussion on the issues is outrageous. More outrageous is the outright denial of the incumbent politician to address my numerous requests for this debate. One can only surmise that the incumbent is not willing to speak publicly without the benefit of the carefully crafted and scripted press releases he quotes from that are drafted by high priced political consultants he pays for from his campaign account. I, on the other hand, have been speaking directly to the public for over 22 years without the assistance of political consultants or three press consultants who are currently on the DA's payroll at an annual cost of approximately $196,000 to the taxpayers.1

As an attorney with over 16 years of experience as a prosecutor and 5 years as defense counsel, as well as having worked in 3 different District Attorney's Offices, I know how the precious resources of the public should, and more importantly, should not be spent. If elected, I will spend the vast majority of the budget on paying and retaining experienced, dedicated and ethical prosecutors to work in the courtrooms representing the citizens of Worcester County. I am opposed to using taxpayer dollars to pay high priced administrators, supervisors, support staff and others who don't directly further the cause of public safety.

I am ready, willing, and able to discuss ALL issues of interest to the residents of Worcester County.

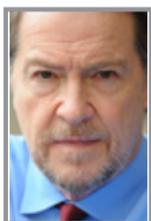

As a candidate for Worcester County District Attorney, on the ballot for November 6, 2018, and more importantly a resident of Worcester County, I request your assistance in moderating a debate with an incumbent who refuses to do so. The residents of Worcester County deserve no less.

Thank you very much.

BLAKE J. RUBIN
 CANDIDATE FOR WORCESTER COUNTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY

The Constitution is not neutral: courts of justice should not act like courts of order

"The Constitution is not neutral. It was designed to take the government off the backs of the people."—Justice William O. Douglas

FREEDOM WATCH

JOHN WHITEHEAD

For those still deluded enough to believe they're living the American dream — where the government represents the people, where the people are equal in the eyes of the law, where the courts are arbiters of justice, where the police are keepers of the peace, and where the law is applied equally as a means of protecting the rights of the people—it's time to wake up.

We no longer have a representative government, a rule of law, or justice.

Liberty has fallen to legalism.

Freedom has fallen to fascism.

Justice has become jaded, jaundiced and just plain unjust.

And for too many, the American dream of freedom and opportunity has turned into a living nightmare.

Given the turbulence of our age, with its police overreach, military training drills on American soil, domestic surveillance, SWAT team raids, asset forfeiture, wrongful convictions, profit-driven prisons, and corporate corruption, the need for a guardian of the people's rights has never been greater.

Yet as the events of recent years have made clear, neither the president, nor the legislatures, nor the courts will save us from the police state that holds us in its clutches.

After all, the president, the legislatures, and the courts are all on the government's payroll.

They are the police state. Certainly, Americans can no longer rely on the courts to mete out justice.

The courts were established to serve as Courts of Justice. What we have been saddled with, instead, are Courts of Order.

This is true at all levels of the judiciary, but especially so in the highest court of the land, the U.S. Supreme Court, which is seemingly more concerned with establishing order and protecting government interests than with upholding the rights of the people enshrined in the U.S. Constitution.

Whether it's police officers breaking through people's front doors and shooting them dead in their homes or strip searching innocent motorists on the side of the road, these instances of abuse are continually validated by a judicial system that kowtows to virtually every police demand, no matter how unjust, no matter how in opposition to the Constitution.

As a result, the police and other government agents have been generally empowered to probe, poke, pinch, taser, search, seize, strip and generally manhandle anyone they see fit in almost any circumstance, all with the general blessing of the courts.

Rarely do the concerns of the populace prevail.

When presented with an opportunity to loosen the government's noose that keeps getting cinched tighter and tighter around the necks of the American people, what does our current Supreme Court usually do?

It ducks.
 Prevaricates.
 Remains silent.
 Speaks to the narrowest possible concern.

More often than not, it gives the government and its corporate sponsors the benefit of the doubt, which leaves "we the people" hanging by a thread.

Rarely do the justices of the U.S. Supreme Court—preoccupied with their personal politics, cocooned in a priggish world of privilege, partial to those with power, money and influence, and narrowly focused on a shrinking docket (the court accepts on average 80 cases out of 8,000 each year)—venture beyond their rarefied comfort zones.

Every so often, the justices toss a bone to those who fear they have abdicated their allegiance to the Constitution. Too often, however, the Supreme Court tends to march in lockstep with the police state.

The Court's 2017-18 term was a particularly mixed bag. Here are some of the key rulings and non-rulings handed down by the Court this term:

Speech, Religious Liberty and the First Amendment

In Janus v. American Federation, a 5-4 Supreme Court chose to err on the side of the First Amendment when it concluded that state laws forcing public-sector employees to provide financial support for unions that engage in political activities with which they disagree violates the First Amendment.

In Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colorado Civil Rights Commission, the Court ruled narrowly that government officials had violated the First Amendment rights of a baker by discriminating against his religious views regarding same-sex marriage.

In National Institute of Family and Life Advocates v. Becerra, the Court

What should you do with an inherited IRA?

FINANCIAL FOCUS
 JEFF BURDICK
 Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) are quite popular. At the end of 2017, investors owned nearly $9 trillion in IRA assets, according to the Investment Company Institute, a trade association of U.S. investment companies. Given these numbers, it probably wouldn't be surprising if you inherited an IRA someday. But what should you do with it?

First of all, you'll need to be aware of some basic rules. If your parent, or anyone other than your spouse, leaves you a traditional IRA — one in which contributions are typically tax-deductible and earnings can grow tax-deferred — you can transfer the money into an "inherited IRA," from which you'll need to take at least a minimum amount of money — technically called a "distribution" — each year, based on your life expectancy. These distributions are taxable at your regular income tax rate. If you've inherited a Roth IRA, you also must take these minimum payouts, but the amounts won't count as taxable income, because your parents, or whoever left you the IRA, already paid taxes on the contributions that went into it. (To make sure you fully understand all the guidelines on distributions and taxation of inherited IRAs, consult with your tax advisor.)

It's also important to understand how your inherited IRA will fit in to your overall financial strategy. Consequently, you'll need to address these questions:

How much should I take out each year? As mentioned above, you must take a distribution of at least a minimum amount from your inherited IRA each year — if you don't, you may be subject to a 50% penalty on the amount you should have taken. But you can take out more than the minimum. In deciding how much to take, you'll need to evaluate a few factors. First, of course, is whether you need the extra money to help support your regular cash flow. It's possible you have other pools of income from which to draw, and, in some cases, it may be advantageous for you to tap these sources first. Another consideration is taxes — if you've inherited a traditional IRA, the more you take out each year, the bigger your tax bill may be.

Should I keep the same investments? Inheriting an IRA doesn't mean you're stuck with the original account owner's investment choices. You can change the investments to align with your goals and risk tolerance, both of which may change over time.

How does the inherited IRA fit in with my overall financial strategy? You'll need to consider how your newly inherited IRA fits in to the "big picture" of your financial strategy. Are you adding redundancies? If you keep the inherited IRA largely intact, how will it affect your current investment mix? Could the added income from required distributions change your retirement calculations or even enable you to retire earlier? You may want to consult with a financial professional about these and other questions related to your inherited IRA.

The person who left you an IRA worked hard for that money and thought enough of you to pass it on. Consequently, you'll want to respect this inheritance — and get the most out of it for as long as you can.

ruled against compelled speech by a government agency when it found that a California state law violated the First Amendment by forcing pro-life crisis pregnancy centers to provide patients with information about how to obtain an abortion.

In Minnesota Voters Alliance v. Joe Mansky, the Court struck down as unconstitutionally vague a Minnesota law that bans political speech on any “badge, button, shirt, or hat” worn at election polling stations. Critics had argued that the law opened the door to abuse of voters’ free speech rights by giving appointed election officials unlimited discretion to determine what political speech should be censored.

Police Misconduct
In refusing to hear the case of Young v. Borders, the Supreme Court declined to hold police accountable for shooting and killing an innocent homeowner during the course of a middle-of-the-night “knock and talk” police tactic gone awry. The Court’s refusal to review the case let stand a lower court ruling that exonerates police who, while executing a “knock and talk” investigation of a speeding incident, banged on the wrong door at 1:30 am, failed to identify themselves as police, and then repeatedly shot and killed the innocent homeowner who answered the door while holding a gun in self-defense.

In Kisela v. Hughes, the U.S. Supreme Court shielded a police officer who shot a woman four times in her driveway as she stood talking to a friend while holding a kitchen knife. As Justice Sonia Sotomayor acknowledged in her dissent, “It tells officers that they can shoot first and think later, and it tells the public that palpably unreasonable conduct will go unpunished.” Sotomayor, one of the few justices who speaks out consistently against police misconduct, denounced the ruling as “part of a disturbing trend of unflinching willingness” to protect police officers accused of using excessive force. The court’s decisions concerning qualified immunity, she wrote, “transforms the doctrine into an absolute shield for law enforcement officers’.”

Privacy and the Fourth Amendment
In Carpenter v. United States, a 5-4 Court sent a strong message about privacy rights in an age of government surveillance, ruling that police must generally obtain a warrant before obtaining cell phone data to track a person’s movements.

In Collins v. Virginia, the Court refused to grant law enforcement yet another loophole to encroach on the rights of citizens to privacy in their homes, ruling 8-1 that police may not intrude on private property in order to carry out a warrantless search of a vehicle parked near a residence.

In United States v. Microsoft, the Court sidestepped a debate over digital privacy in the face of government surveillance when it mooted a case over whether Microsoft had to comply with a request to provide emails hosted on overseas servers in response to government subpoenas.

In Byrd v. United States, a unanimous Court ruled that drivers of rental cars—whether or not they are explicitly named in the rental agreement—are generally entitled to the same reasonable expectations of privacy under the Fourth Amendment as the individual listed in the rental agreement.

In Dahda v. United States of America, the Court ruled 8-0 that evidence obtained under orders that violate the nation’s federal wiretapping law can be used against a defendant in a criminal trial.

Immigration and the Power of the Presidency

In Trump v. Hawaii, a polarized Supreme Court upheld the Trump Administration’s ban on foreign travelers from Muslim-centric nations, ostensibly giving the president the power to discriminate on the basis of religion, while simultaneously overturning the Court’s World War II-era ruling in Korematsu v. United States that saw nothing wrong with the government imprisoning Japanese-Americans in internment camps. In other words, the Court righted one wrong (Korematsu) while sanctioning another. As Justice Sotomayor concluded in her dissent, “By blindly accepting the government’s misguided invitation to sanction a discriminatory policy motivated by animosity toward a disfavored group, all in the name of a superficial claim of national security, the Court redeploys the same dangerous logic underlying Korematsu and merely replaces one ‘gravely wrong’ decision with another.”

States’ Rights
In Murphy v. NCAA, the Court ruled 7-2 in favor of the 10th Amendment, which reserves to the States (and the people) the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it. The case was factually about the right of the states to legalize sports gambling despite a federal law prohibiting it, but the ramifications of the ruling could extend into the area of marijuana legalization.

Voters’ Rights and Gerrymandering

In Husted v. A. Philip Randolph Institute, the Court gave the green light to Ohio to remove people from its voter registration rolls if they hadn’t been heard from in four years.

In Gill v. Whitford and Benisek v. Lamone, the Court weighed in on two cases that challenged the practice of gerrymandering, in which the boundaries of an electoral constituency are drawn in such a way as to favor one side over another in an election. Instead of addressing the issue of partisan gerrymandering, the Court disposed of the cases on procedural/standing grounds.

Commerce
In South Dakota v. Wayfair, the Court leveled the playing field, at least when it comes to collecting sales tax, between online ecommerce retailers and traditional businesses with a physical presence in a particular state.

So where does that leave us?
Still in the clutches of the American police state, I’m afraid.

In recent years, for example, the Court has ruled that police officers can use lethal force in car chases without fear of lawsuits; police officers can stop cars based only on “anonymous” tips; Secret Service agents are not accountable for their actions, as long as they’re done in the name of security; citizens only have a right to remain silent if they assert it; police have free reign to use drug-sniffing dogs as “search warrants on leashes,” justifying any and all police searches of vehicles stopped on the roadside; police can forcibly take your DNA, whether or not you’ve been convicted of a crime; police can stop, search, question and profile citizens and non-citizens alike; police can subject Americans to virtual strip searches, no matter the “offense”; police can break into homes without a warrant, even if it’s the wrong home; and it’s a crime to not identify yourself when a policeman asks your name.

The cases the Supreme Court refuses to hear, allowing lower court judgments to stand, are almost as critical as the ones they rule on. Some of these cases have delivered devastating blows to the rights enshrined in the Constitution. By remaining silent, the Court has affirmed that: legally owning a firearm is enough to justify a no-knock raid by police; the military can arrest and detain American citizens; students can be subjected to random lockdowns and mass searches at school; and police officers who don’t know their actions violate the law aren’t guilty of breaking the law.

What a difference nine people can make.

More often than not, the Roberts

Supreme Court has been characterized by rulings that show an abject deference to government authority, military and corporate interests (rulings have run the gamut from suppressing free speech activities and justifying suspicionless strip searches and warrantless home invasions to conferring constitutional rights on corporations, while denying them to citizens).

Contrast the Roberts Court with the Warren Court (1953-69), which handed down rulings that were instrumental in shoring up critical legal safeguards against government abuse and discrimination.

Without the Warren Court, there would be no Miranda warnings, no desegregation of the schools and no civil rights protections for indigents. Among those serving on the Warren Court were Chief Justice Earl Warren, William J. Brennan Jr., William O. Douglas, Hugo Black, Felix Frankfurter and Thurgood Marshall.

Yet more than any single ruling, what Warren and his colleagues did best was embody what the Supreme Court should always be: an institution established to intervene and protect the people against the government and its agents when they overstep their bounds.

Indeed, Justice Douglas, who served on the Supreme Court for 36 years, was particularly vocal in his belief that Americans have a right to be left alone (“The right to be let alone is indeed the beginning of all freedom”). Considered the most “committed civil libertarian ever to sit on the court,” Douglas was frequently controversial and far from perfect (he was part of that 6-3 majority in Korematsu vs. United States that supported the government’s internment of American citizens of Japanese descent during World War II.)

Perhaps the greatest difference between Justice Douglas and his contemporaries and those who occupy the bench today can be found in his answer to a government that refuses to listen to its citizen or abide by the rule of law. “We must realize that today’s Establishment is the New George III,” noted Douglas. “Whether it will continue to adhere to his tactics, we do not know. If it does, the redress, honored in tradition, is also revolution.”

Sturbridge reaches District 5 Championship, where they fall just shy to Westborough

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

Sturbridge's Ryan Wright laces a pitch into play.

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

MILLBURY — Sturbridge fought hard until the end, but they came up short losing 3-1 in the Little League Major Division District 5 Championship game against Westborough at Washington Street Field on Friday, July 13. It was the top of the sixth inning with one out and the bases loaded when Ryan Wright trotted to the plate looking to pick up his third hit of the game in a big spot. Wright extended an at-bat that left the Sturbridge crowd holding their breath.

Drawing a 3-2 count, Wright finally laid off a high and outside pitch, which drew a walk.

This plated Colm McGrath from third and brought the score to 3-1 with one out. This gave Sturbridge hope and showed the type of heart these youngsters — mostly 11 and 12 year olds — have played with the whole summer.

Wright had singled in the second inning and tripled in the fourth.

“They have been like this the whole time,” explained head coach Ian McGrath. “They have been fighting, scratching and clawing, doing everything that we can. Give [Westborough] credit, we came up short in the end, but it was a great game 3-1 and the kids have been great the whole time.”

Unfortunately the last inning rally wasn't enough, but it doesn't take away from the great run Sturbridge made this summer, as they ended the District 5 tournament with a record of 4-2, having lost to Westborough twice.

“These guys have been fantastic,” expressed McGrath with a smile. “I have been coaching most of these kids since they were 8-9 years old. They are a great group of kids, they play well together and they make it really easy to coach them.”

Facing a good hitting Westborough team, Joseph Amaru rose to the occasion and was excellent on the mound despite the outcome. Amaru started the game with three strikeouts in his first inning, as his game plan was to throw strikes and let his defense make plays behind him. The youngster was efficient and threw strikes, recording six strikeouts.

“Joe Amaru pitched great and has the whole All-Stars, same with Ryan Wright,” praised McGrath. “We have had great pitching all throughout. We had like eight guys who could pitch and they have done a great job. Joe was great tonight as I expected.”

Sturbridge's Hunter Normandin extends his glove to a Westborough base runner in an attempt to tag him out.

MILLBURY — Scoring runs in five of the six innings played, Sturbridge's Major Division All-Star team gave starting pitcher Ryan Wright plenty of support. And Wright surrendered runs in just one frame during his 5-2/3 inning effort as Sturbridge defeated Millbury, 10-4, in the District 5 semifinals on Wednesday, July 11 at Washington Street Park.

Sturbridge scored twice in the second inning, twice more in the third, four times in the fourth, and once in both the fifth and sixth innings. Millbury scored all four of its runs in the third to briefly tie the score at 4-4.

Nearly all of Sturbridge's starters crossed home plate for a run, while Colm McGrath (two), Hunter Normandin and Isaac Molina and RBI's. The other six runs were scored via passed balls and wild pitches.

Sturbridge is now set to play Westborough for the District 5 Championship.

Northbridge Post 343 takes two on final day, including win at Sturbridge Post 109, to reach playoffs

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — The Northbridge Post 343 American Legion baseball team stormed into the Zone 4 Samko Playoffs on the final day of the regular season, winning a pair of road games to improve to 9-15 and grab the eighth and final postseason berth.

Northbridge began the day — Saturday, July 14 — by defeating Sturbridge Post 109, 8-4, in a game that started at 11 a.m. at Tantasqua Regional. Then, after some lunch and some rest, Post 343 traveled to Worcester's Vernon Hill Park, where it defeated Main South Post 341, 9-4, in a game that started at 5:30 p.m.

The Zone 4 Playoffs began Tuesday, July 17 after press time, where Northbridge was set to play top seeded Leominster Post 151, and were scheduled to run through Tuesday, July 24.

Northbridge's game with Sturbridge was a mini-playoff game for both teams, which began the day in contention for that coveted No. 8 spot in the Zone 4 Playoffs.

Post 343 took care of business quickly against Post 109, scoring three runs in the top of the first inning. One run scored on a wild pitch, another on a bases-loaded hit batsman and the third on a groundout to second base.

Sturbridge pulled to within one, 3-2, in the bottom of the second inning, with Nolan Kingman driving in both runs with a sharp single to center field.

Northbridge pushed its lead to 5-2 with a run in the top of the third and fourth innings. In the third Harrison Mansfield's RBI single to right plated Brian Iarussi, who had reached on a two-out walk. In the fourth Logan Troy scored on a one-out fielder's choice off the bat of J.P. Lucier.

Sturbridge cut the Northbridge lead down to 5-3 in the bottom of the sixth inning, Curtis Koebke walking and then scoring on a groundout by Deven Kingman.

Post 343, however, put the game away with three runs in the top of the seventh to go ahead, 8-3. Northbridge scored its runs on an RBI single by Caleb Visbeek, a wild pitch and a balk by the Sturbridge pitcher.

Post 109 added a run in the bottom of the seventh on an RBI single by Jared Langevin to account for the final score of 8-4.

"It was a must-win situation and we just went out and took care of business," said Northbridge assistant coach Andrew Reed said after Northbridge's victory over Sturbridge.

Reed was sent to talk to the media by Manager Dave Meech, who needed to deal with a couple of injury situations.

"Everybody hit the ball well; everybody did their part," Reed said. "They knew it was a must-win game and they came to play."

Troy, Zach Roberts and Jeremy Jenoure led Post 343's 10-hit attack with two hits each.

While Reed felt Northbridge took care of business against Sturbridge, Post 109 manager Jim Rosseel felt just the opposite about his club, who managed just three hits off of Northbridge pitchers Dave Meech Jr. and J.P. Hayes.

Sturbridge's Jared Langevin takes the force out throw at second base before Northbridge's Logan Troy can make it to the bag.

"We didn't come to play today. We were down. It just wasn't there," Rosseel said. "But to get to the final day with a chance to make the playoffs, well, that was ahead of my projection. My projection was for us to make the playoffs next year and I still think that will happen. If we would have made the playoffs this year it would have been an extra bonus for us like you wouldn't have believed."

While Rosseel was pleased with his entire team's effort, he was particularly impressed by the play of Tyler Stoever, Patrick Wilbur and Spencer Cipro.

"Stoever was solid all year for us and Patrick pitched a lot of games for us," Rosseel said. "And Spencer Cipro, he's just a 14-year-old and we were able to get him seven or eight starts. This experience for Spencer was second to none.

"It was a good year for us but a bad year as well; we were better than our record," Rosseel added about finishing 7-17, two games shy of Northbridge's mark. "There were a lot of growing pains but making the playoffs would have been huge for us. The experience value of making the playoffs this year would have been immeasurable. You make the playoffs and now you're playing with the big boys. We had a chance to do that and that's more than I thought we were going to have at the beginning of the year. We did all right."

Cohasse Country Club has centennial celebration

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — One hundred years ago cars cost about $2,000, a house went for $7,000, top of the line women's shoes sold for $8 a pair, prime rib was 29 cents a pound and the daily newspaper cost 2 cents. And, nobody was paying a monthly fee for cable TV, internet access or a cell phone.

Seemingly everything has changed in the last 100 years, but there's been one constant in town — Cohasse Country Club. Designed in 1916 and built in 1918 by Donald Ross, Cohasse is a 3,061-yard, nine-hole private golf course located at 393 Eastford Road.

Cohasse officially opened on July 18, 1918, as a six-hole course. The final three holes opened for play later in 1918.

Cohasse's members, along with club president Warren Fontaine and golf committee chairman Chris Dono, celebrated the course's centennial July 13-15 with a dinner and two-day golf tournament.

Cohasse also hosted a tournament earlier this month as part of the 100th anniversary celebration for former members who wanted to come back and play.

"We asked all of our former members to come back and play in a tournament and it sold out," Dono said. "We thought it was important for all those people that were members in the past and left for whatever reason to come back and celebrate the 100th with us."

Among those on hand for the centennial celebration dinner on Friday, July 13 was Anthony Pioppi and David Lussier. Pioppi, a former Southbridge resident, is an author whose book, "The Finest Nines," was published in February. In his book Pioppi rated the top nine-hole golf courses in America. Cohasse came in No. 8 on Pioppi's list. Lussier, an artist from Woodstock, Conn., has been commissioned to create artwork by the

From left, Howard Mosher, Cohasse member; Warren Fontaine, Club President; Chris Dono, Golf Chairman; and Doug Juhasz, Club Professional, were all on hand over the July 13-15 weekend to commemorate Cohasse Country Club's 100th anniversary.

United States Golf Association for the U.S. Open on three occasions, created an oil painting of Cohasse's third hole. The painting currently hangs in the Cohasse clubhouse.

While Cohasse has been called the best-kept secret in Central Massachusetts, a better definition of the course may be that it is arguably the hidden gem of golf courses in the area.

"I agree; it's a great course and it's in great shape," said Fontaine. "This 100th anniversary celebration was a great weekend. The dinner Friday night was terrific and the two-day tournament provided lots of fun and excitement."

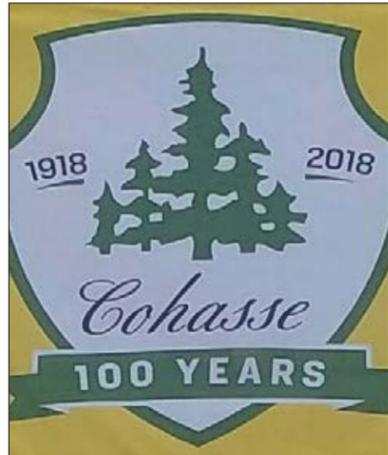

Fontaine said membership at the course is at 152 — which includes 28 female members — right now, but will go up to about 160 later this month due to a midseason special the course will offer. He would like to see the club's membership get back over 200.

"It would be great if we could get into the low 200s," Fontaine said. "We can go as high as 240, because that is the maximum our charter stipulates. That's where we were in the 1990s and we had a waiting list of people wanting a membership on top of that."

Dono said he thinks surpassing the 200-member mark is a realistic goal.

"Charlton and Sturbridge, over the last 10 years, have really grown as communities," Dono said. "So, we feel we have to do a better job marketing to that new group of people coming in; the 35-50 year-olds that are starting families in the area. We are really focused on bringing that demographic in to Cohasse."

One of Cohasse's current members, Howard Mosher, has roots at Cohasse that date back to the opening of the course. His grandfather, Ira Mosher, who was the fourth club president back in 1927-28, was part of the inaugural group of golfers that played at Cohasse.

The Wells family, which owned American Optical Company in Southbridge, hired Ross to design and build the course for the employees of American Optical.

"My grandfather was vice president and general manager of American Optical and lived here in Southbridge on Everett Street," said Howard Mosher, who explained that his grandfather's real lasting legacy involving Cohasse was the 16-millimeter home movies he shot of the course. "My grandfather shot a lot of film of Cohasse back in 1928 and we got to see it at the dinner on Friday night. When we watched the film the most interesting things I got to see was my grandmother, Grace Howard Mosher, swinging a golf club on the fourth hole."

"Also on the films were my father, Howard Mosher Sr., and his brothers Paul and Jack diving off a diving board into the lake here at Cohasse," Howard Mosher added. "Another thing I saw on the film was my father and mother, Carol Hamilton Mosher, having their wedding reception here."

Running Out of Summer 5k Sturbridge road race to benefit Second Chance Animal Services

WORCESTER — Wormtown Milers and Rapsallion Brewery are pleased to announce 9Round Worcester as the naming sponsor of the inaugural Running Out of Summer 5K to be held on Saturday, Aug. 25. The race, which begins and ends at Rapsallion Brewery in Sturbridge, benefits Second Chance Animal Services of Worcester and East Brookfield.

"We are extremely excited to be part of such a worthwhile event," commented Sheri Barrette, Owner of 9Round Worcester. "Not only does this event support animal welfare — a cause deeply important to me personally — but it also focuses on including fitness in a healthy lifestyle, a core value of 9Round Fitness."

The race was conceived by the Wormtown Milers and Rapsallion Brewery as a means to promote community, philanthropy and fun in south central Worcester county. The charity was chosen by asking Rapsallion Mug Club Members and Wormtown Milers members to vote for their charity of choice, with Second Chance being the overwhelming winner.

Participants in this inaugural event will enjoy a scenic, timed 5K race that is dog- and kid-friendly, and will also receive a tech shirt, medal, and a free beer specially brewed by Rapsallion for the event — the Running Out of Summer Ale. The beer will be brewed in a very limited quantity, on tap solely on the day of the event and the evening prior during bib pick-up.

The race, which takes place at 10 a.m., caps at 300 runners. Those wishing to participate are encouraged to register early to avoid missing out on this memorable event. Register online at www.runningoutofsummer.race-wire.com.

Howard I. Pratt, Jr., 88

F I S K D S A L E - Howard I. Pratt, Jr., 88, died on July 4th, in the Quaboag Rehabilitation and Skilled Care Center.

Howard is survived by three children, Rosemary Ritchoffe of Sturbridge, Lissa Pratt of North Brookfield and David Pratt of Brooklyn, New York; his former wife Patricia Pratt of North Brookfield; seven grand-children and seven great grandchildren.

Born in East Hartford, Connecticut, Howard moved to Sturbridge, Massachusetts, where his parents had a cottage on Big Alum Lake, in the 1950's.

Starting with a boat rental and repair business at the lake, he built a series of successful businesses. Leasing and then buying property across from the entrance to Old Sturbridge he created Howard's Auto and Marine. Many area residents purchased boats and snowmobiles from Howard in the 1960's and 70's. He then expanded into other projects, including construction of the 1738 House apartment complex in Sturbridge, restoration and renovation of the Fiskdale School House, and many other buildings and homes in the area.

Raised on a farm on the Connecticut river in East Hartford, farming was a life-long pastime. Howard raised beef cattle and other livestock and helped with the transition of Hyland Orchards in the late 1970's when owner Jim Hyland died. He was mowing fields up until last year, happiest when on the tractor.

As Big Alum Lake became more developed over the years, Howard, along with friend James Gibson, built a camp in Northern Vermont on Little Averil Lake. It featured spring-fed, hand-pumped water, wood stove and an outhouse with a half-moon on the door. In the summertime, trips across the border for dinner and ice cream were a break from the rough but beautiful conditions. In Winter, snowmobiling and snowshoeing in subzero weather were possible after digging the snow away from the cabin and getting the wood stove going.

A memorial service for Howard will take place in October, 2018. Burial will be private.

There are no calling hours.

In lieu of flowers donation may be made to Second Chance Animal Shelter, P.O. Box 136, East Brookfield, MA 01515.

Daniel T. Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, is directing the arrangements.

We learn from each other through our monthly guest speakers, show and tell presentations, monthly coin auctions and free attendance prizes. Our group loves to share their knowledge with each other. About half of our members also like to eat. Each month we have a simple dinner with dessert and refreshments just prior to our meeting, which allows us time to socialize too. We meet the fourth Wednesday of each month starting at 6:30 p.m. in the Oxford Senior Center located at 323 Main St. in Oxford. It is the building directly behind the Oxford Town Hall building. coon when he went to deposit some trash into his dumpster this week. The animal was very mangy and did not move when he opened the cover of the dumpster. He left the cover open and the animal was gone the next day. Residents need to be careful with all wild animals that act strangely, and police need to be notified.

Saltwater fishing is red hot in both Massachusetts & Rhode Island. Stripers, seabass & fluke are still providing action for area fishermen. This past week this writer and Harry Salmon fished a couple of miles east of the Center Wall at Galilee RI and had a great time catching monster seabass. We were also surprised to catch a couple of mackerel in the same area. We had not caught mackerel in the area for years. Reports of large schools of mackerel near Block Island could be the reason for the great striper fishing in the area. The second picture shows a monster seabass taken on a 1/4 oz. Road Runner jig with red and white colors. It was tipped with a live mummy. It was released with numerous others, because we already had our limit of seabass.
