Me, myself and I

It happens more often than you might think, and you might not believe this because I am a member of the dreaded "media" (gasp!) — but yes, it's true, even I receive "hate mail" from time to time.

I'll give you a few seconds to recover from that world-altering piece of sarcastic truth.

The term "hate mail" is actually a little strong. These people don't actually "hate" me. They don't even know me. They might just "strongly dislike" everything I say and stand for. And it's easier to lob fireballs from a distance behind the veil of an e-mail or anonymous phone call than putting your inspired this column was sent a few weeks ago (which I won't put a name to), and was actually a carefully crafted, several-hundred-word e-mail directly aimed at this column. Now, before you all get your pitchforks out, let me remind you that people are entitled to their opinions, even this guy, whom I'll just say frankly, is not a fan of my work. To be clear, I am not naïve enough to assume that everyone likes this column. It's an acquired taste, a light piece of marshmallow fluff in an otherwise weary world of news. I like to think that sharing my life with my readers is a good thing. Some people think I should write about politics (FYI, that's not going to happen), others think I should write about history of local towns (what they don't realize is that this column is published in more than 25 towns — what would someone in Pomfret, Conn., care about a historical look at Auburn, Mass.?). "Less about your kids, man!"

THE MINOR DETAILS

Anyway, I write about what I know — fatherhood, being a husband, loss, love, parents, friends, circumstances, everything we all deal with. It's a slice of my life. Hopefully, it brings a smile. Sometimes, it may bring a tear. Other times, it may elicit a nod of agreement, or maybe even make you think. Either way, I think most people can relate. If you can't, that's OK. The beauty of it is, if you don't like it, you don't have to read it!

Anyway, back to the matter at hand. Negative comments are commonplace in this line of work, and I am way past the time when comments like that affected me. I've grown quite a thick skin in my nearly 11 years in this business. It comes with the territory. I'm a big boy, Mommy! But the two words that stuck out in this latest salvo by this reader were "narcissistic" and "self-centered."

Now, I laughed at this, because, in a strange way, he kind of has a point — if he were participating in the Hyperbole Games of 2016. I mean, yes, the column is about me most of the time, but isn't that kind of the point of a "slice of life" column? It's called "The Minor Details" for a reason. I wouldn't go so far as to call myself "narcissistic" — that's pretty extreme. Most people who know me would probably disagree (at least ... I hope they would — if that particular instance of fishing for compliments was successful, please send any and all compliments and head-expanding praise to aminor@stonebridgepress.news to satisfy my ever-growing, out-of-control ego).

Normally, I wouldn't have even written about this, and given this person's comments the light of day. So congrats, reader — you inspired me — and for that, I thank you. I'm not sure your letter had the desired effect, but at least you can know that I publicly appreciate you voicing your opinion, even if it was a negative one. But you probably won't read this — after all, you don't even like this column!

CANCER SURVIVORSHIP DAY SHINES SPOTLIGHT ON COURAGE

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

PUTNAM — For many years, Day Kimball Hospital has served as the go-to location for local cancer patients to receive treatment and attention to help them in their fight against their specific disease.

Throughout that time, the hospital has increased its offerings in terms of available care options, and even committed itself to celebrating the lives of those fighting the disease and those who have survived it through an annual Cancer Survivorship Day event.

On Saturday, Sept. 24, Day Kimball Hospital celebrated its annual Survivorship Day, bringing together survivors and current cancer fighters to min-

First Fridays season closes with visit to New Orleans

PUTNAM — After five exciting evenings exploring Art & The American City, the 2016 First Fridays season arrives at its final destination, New Orleans, a.k.a. The Big Easy.

On Friday, Oct. 7, from 6 to 9 p.m., downtown Putnam will celebrate this uniquely cultural city — from the infectious and danceable Zydeco music, to flavorful food, and moving artwork. The October event will also see the return of the First Fridays Zombie Fashion Show. All of this, combined with dozens of art vendors, gallery openings, and live performances will make it an evening to remember.

For the October event, the Community Arts table will feature a collective art project that was inspired by a New Orleans artist. In 2011, Candy Chang turned the side of an abandoned house in her neighborhood in New Orleans into a giant chalkboard and stenciled it with the sentence "Before I die

I want to _____." The wall invited anyone walking by to pick up a piece of chalk, reflect on their lives, and share their personal aspirations in a public space. The wall quickly captured the hopes and wishes of hundreds of people and inspired cities across the globe to start their own walls. On Oct. 7, Putnam will launch its own wall, with the goal of bringing the community together.

Headlining the festival for October is Zydeco Connection. Bringing Louisiana zydeco music to New England since 2004, Zydeco Connection's music is dominated

The residents of the 44th General Assembly District, consisting of Sterling and parts of Killingly and Plainfield, will be charged with an important decision on Election Day, Nov. 8, with two candidates running for the 44th District state representative seat for a new two-year term.

Up for re-election is Democratic incumbent State Rep. Christine

Rosati Randall, who is being challenged by Republican nominee Anne Dauphinais for the seat. Both candidates bring experience, a commitment to their local communities and a determination to work for the betterment of their district's towns and the state as a whole to the table. Only one will claim the seat, however, when the United Services welcomes USDA to discuss clinic plans

WILLIMANTIC — On Friday, Sept. 23, United Services Inc. welcomed U.S. Department of Agriculture Administrator for Rural Housing Services Tony Hernandez for a tour of their existing overcrowded and antiquated Willimantic Adult Behavioral Health Clinic, and briefed the Administrator and other gathered supporters on their plans for an expanded Windham Regional Behavioral Health Center, to be located on the Windham town line in Mansfield. The center, which has been approved for up to $9.9 million in federal loans, will consolidate children, adult and family behavioral health services in one central location, accessible by public transportation, and allow United Services to address the region's growing need for behavioral health services.

State Sen. Cathy Osten, Assistant President Pro Tempore, and Ayanti Grant, Representative for Congressman Joseph Courtney were on hand for the tour with the Administrator as United Services President & CEO Diane L. Manning briefed gathered officials on the pressing behavioral health needs of the region. Since the start of the Great Recession, United Services' Outpatient Mental Health volume has more than doubled – and as of 2016 is now 256 percent the volume of outpatient mental health services provided in 2007, with no end in sight to the increased demand for services.

"We greatly appreciate the support of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and our Congressional Delegation in providing this federal loan to help address the pressing behavioral health needs of the children, adults and families of the Windham region," said Manning. "While we still require the financial support of the State of Connecticut to complete this vital initiative, and were disappointed that the state Bond Commission has again chosen not to make the behavioral health needs of the Windham region a priority, access to this federal loan will allow us to initiate construction and begin to address needs that have been ignored by the state for far too long."

United Services, Inc., a non-profit health and human service organization providing behavioral health, domestic violence prevention, autism and other vital services for the Windham Region has an annual operating budget of just $17 million a year. The agency has been seeking state support for the $14 million project since 2011, however the State of Connecticut has thus far declined to offer its support to help address what is now the #1 health need of the region – mental health.

"United Services is a critical needs medical facility," said Administrator Tony Hernandez during the tour. "The USDA recognizes that without financing they can't serve the people who need the help they offer."

During the tour, Manning thanked the legislators who have supported United Services efforts to secure state Bond support, specifically Senator Cathy Osten who has championed United Services' efforts to gain funding and accompanied Administrator Hernandez on the tour of the outdated Willimantic clinical facility, and thanked Congressman Joe Courtney and the entire Congressional delegation for their support in securing the federal loan.

Additional supporters of efforts to help United Services obtain state assistance include Sen. Tony Guglielmo, Rep. Doug Dubitsky, Rep. Greg Haddad, Rep. Tim Ackert, Rep. Sam Belsito, Rep. Kevin Ryan and Rep. Mike Alberts. United Services still seeks the support of other regional legislators who have yet to offer their support to efforts to secure state funding to help expand mental health services in the Windham region and address major regional mental health funding disparities that leave Northeast Connecticut with as little as 20 percent of the per capita resources provided to comparable state operated Local Mental Health Authorities.

"A growing number of experts now recognize that behavioral health care is as important, if not more important, in efforts to maintain healthy bodies and minds, yet public policy and support for mental wellness has yet to receive the same support as physical health," added Manning. "While we recognize that the State of Connecticut does not have endless resources, we cannot expect to address the crisis of opiate addiction and behavioral health needs in Northeast Connecticut with a fraction of the resources provided to other regions of the state. Every state dollar invested in a community behavioral health can save taxpayers many times that amount in reduced emergency room and other social or human service expenses."

The existing United Services Willimantic clinic space was constructed in the 1950s and includes space leased from Windham Hospital. The facility cannot accommodate the existing or expected growth in demand for services, nor accommodate co-located services for children and families, including services offered by the United Services Center for Autism. Federal Health Care Reform and other government mandates also require that United Services begin offering integrated primary care for clients with Serious Mental Illness, who die, on average, 25 years earlier than the general population due to the additional challenges and complications their treatment requires.

"I Love Midtown Fitness and Quest Martial Arts"

Midtown Fitness is a great full spectrum gym for all ages. My first experience with Midtown Fitness was actually watching our grandson, Caydem, who enrolled in the Quest Martial Arts program at 5. I was so impressed with their program. The staff is amazing with the kids and for Caydem it has given him so much self-confidence and focus.

Recently I decided it was time for me to get back into the gym and as for which one to join, it was a no-brainer for me. The 24/7 gym access is so convenient. There is such a wide variety of equipment, the gym is always clean and comfortable, and the staff is always so courteous and friendly. I've seen people of all ages there and it's a great environment. My husband even decided to join so we can work out together and can pick whatever time works for us.

Midtown Fitness is simply awesome!

A positively perfect day in Pomfret

A young visitor to Positively Pomfret Day gets a colorful face paint job done to show her pride in the town on a beautiful, sunny afternoon.

A representative of Earth Song Farm in Pomfret Center mingles with visitors to her booth. One of many local vendors who set up shop at Positively Pomfret Day, Earth Song Farms specializes in natural products made from goats milk and other materials.

Always a hit with youngster, the Boom Blaster game challenged those young and old to see how fast they could pop a balloon using an air pump. Some tested their speed on their own, like this young participant, while other paired up to see who could pop their balloon the fastest.

Throughout the day eating competitions were held to determine the fastest food fans of all in Pomfret. One of the most popular was the chocolate pie-eating contest.

A few guests to Positively Pomfret Day try their hand at one of several games for both kids and adults. Here the challenge was to get a Ping-Pong ball into a glass for a prize. In the background you can see Plinko was another option for everyone to enjoy with different prizes up for grabs.

POMFRET — Celebrating the many great things about Pomfret, the town held its annual Positively Pomfret Day on Saturday, Sept. 24, inviting everyone from the town to Pomfret Recreation Park for a day filled with fun and excitement celebrating Pomfret's history and community. The soccer fields of the park were filled with children's activities, including five massive bounce houses and inflatable rides, while contests, games for both adults and kids, demonstrations and many local vendors provided a little something for everyone to enjoy. Sponsored by the Pomfret Recreation Department, Positively Pomfret Day was once again an overwhelming success and helped the town ring in the fall season in style on a busy weekend in Northeastern Connecticut.

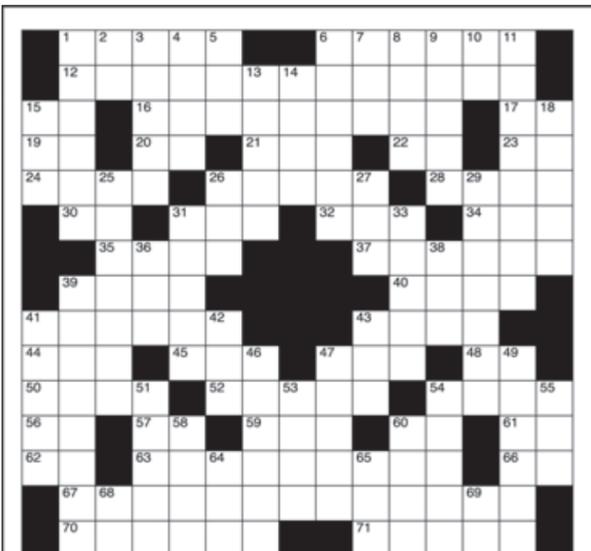

Positively Pomfret Day was loaded with events and activities for kids. Here one such kid takes a ride down a blowup slide. This was one of many blowup activities children could enjoy throughout the day.

These energetic visitors to Positively Pomfret Day enjoys a soccer-like game kicking a ball around a hexagonal playing area trying to tag each other with the ball, thus knocking each other out of the game until only one was left standing.

This furry feline grabbed quite a bit of attention as she made the rounds throughout the Positively Pomfret Day event with her handler. Many animal and pet-based organizations set up booths at Positively Pomfret Day to mingle with locals and spread the word about their programs, including Cassie's Kitten Kastle who brought this little one along for the afternoon.

* Day Kimball Hospital is designated as a Blue Distinction Center for Knee & Hip Replacement by Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield, an independent licensee of Blue Cross Blue Shield Association.

Blue Distinction Centers (BDC) met overall quality measures for patient safety and outcomes, developed with input from the medical community. A Local Blue Plan may require additional criteria for facilities located in its own service area; for details, contact your Local Blue Plan. Blue Distinction Centers+ (BDC+) also met cost measures that address consumers' need for affordable healthcare. Each facility's cost of care is evaluated using data from its Local Blue Plan. Facilities in CA, ID, NY, PA, and WA may lie in two Local Blue Plans' areas, resulting in two evaluations for cost of care; and their own Local Blue Plans decide whether one or both cost of care evaluation(s) must meet BDC+ national criteria. National criteria for BDC and BDC+ are displayed on www.bcbs.com. Individual outcomes may vary. For details on a provider's in-network status or your own policy's coverage, contact your Local Blue Plan and ask your provider before making an appointment. Neither Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association nor any Blue Plans are responsible for non-covered charges or other losses or damages resulting from Blue Distinction or other provider finder information or care received from Blue Distinction or other providers.

Quinebaug Valley Community College

DANIELSON — Sarah White, nursing admissions specialist for the Connecticut Community Colleges, will host two information sessions in October at Quinebaug Valley Community College.

The session at the Danielson campus will be Monday, October 17, at 3:30 p.m.

The sessions, designed for students interested in transferring into a nursing program within the Community College system, will cover preparing for a nursing program, overview of the nursing curriculum, as well as the admissions process. Nursing programs are offered at six of the Connecticut Community Colleges, including Capital Community College in Hartford; Gateway Community College in New Haven; Naugatuck Valley Community College in Waterbury; Northwestern Connecticut Community College in Winsted; Norwalk Community College in Norwalk; and Three Rivers Community College in Norwich.

Employment of registered nurses is expected to grow 26 percent from 2010 to 2020, faster than the average for all occupations. Growth will occur primarily because of technological advancements, an increased emphasis on preventative care, and the large, aging baby-boomer population who will demand more healthcare services as they live longer and more active lives.

These free information sessions will be held in room 6 at the Willimantic Center and room W100 at the Danielson campus. For more information, please contact Randy Sanders at 860-336-0907.

WA students awarded National Merit Scholarship

WOODSTOCK — Holly Singleton, Associate Headmaster of The Woodstock Academy, announced that Jake Owens and Cameron Grube have been named Commended Students in the 2017 National Merit Scholarship Program. A Letter of Commendation from the school and National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented to these scholastically talented seniors.

About 34,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being recognized for their exceptional academic promise. Although they will not continue in the 2017 competition for National Merit Scholarship awards, Commended Students placed among the top five percent of more than 1.6 million students who entered the 2017 competition by taking the 2015 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT).

"These young men being named Commended Students have demonstrated outstanding potential for academic success," commented a spokesperson for NMSC. "These students represent a valuable national resource; recognizing their accomplishments, as well as the key role their schools play in their academic development, is vital to the advancement of educational excellence in our nation. We hope that this recognition will help broaden their educational opportunities and encourage them as they continue their pursuit of academic success."

NEWS BRIEF

Forsyth named Westview Employee of the Month

DAYVILLE — Taryne Forsyth, R.N. from Canterbury, was selected as Westview's employee of the month for August 2016. Mrs. Forsyth is a registered nursing and relief supervisor at Westview and has been employed at Westview since May 2015. "Taryne is an outstanding nurse and a wonderful advocate for her patients and residents," stated Westview Administrator David T. Panteleakos. "We are so fortunate to have her on our team of amazing caregivers."

Mrs. Forsyth commented, "Everyday I come to work to be the best nurse I can be without expecting any recognition, but hope to see my patients/residents happy and comfortable. My only hope is to make a difference in their recovery or to leave a good impression in their lives. I work with so many amazing people, between nurses, certified nursing assistants, therapists and other department members also trying to do exactly the same, which drives me to do better everyday. When I walk into work my care is focused on treating my patients and residents like family members as I feel everyone deserves that type of care. I am beyond thrilled in knowing my co-workers can see the dedication I have and I am honored to represent Westview for the month of August."

The life of the fox

A red fox was frolicking in our field last week. He or she was in beautiful condition, with shiny fur and a fluffy tail.

The fox crept along the grass like an infantry soldier, sneaking up on something I could not see. Then it would leap in the air, head and ears erect as it pounced again and again. It made a slow circuit of the field, apparently listening, resting, then ambushing its prey. Through binoculars, I could see something hanging from the fox's teeth, perhaps a little tail or a stringy root. I was glad it wasn't a feather. My neighbors keep chickens and I know it hurts to lose livestock, but I was rooting for the fox to find something good to eat.

I grew up across the road from a man who served in the U.S. Congress. He drove to Washington, D.C. every Sunday evening and returned home early Friday having driven all night.

He kept an immaculate orchard and was an enthusiastic hunter. He raised hound dogs in his backyard and was especially fond of fox hunting. He knew where the foxes made their dens. He and his dogs ranged around the countryside in pursuit of them, although I believe he often returned empty handed. Perhaps my red fox is a descendent of one that got away.

The fox is merely one of a number of animals that wander through our backyard. After years of living on an 18th century farm in the midst of fields and woodland, our current home seemed suburban to me by comparison. I have neighbors all around me, although there is a working farm across the road, but I see nearly as many deer and turkeys as I saw at the farm. Owls call at night and a red-tailed hawk, perhaps related to the one that complained constantly to me at the farm, sits on a tall, dead tree on our property boundary.

Because I've lived most of my life in the same small town, I enjoy the privilege of knowing people from families going back four generations. If I live long enough, I may get to five. There is something pleasant about recognizing a certain gesture or mannerism that seems to have been passed down as directly as eye color or big ears. Now I'm flirting with the notion that perhaps the animals I encounter are familiar too.

The animals are not interested in my observations of them. They are intent on survival, not imagination, and that is part of what makes our relationships with them so special. We live in the midst of changes, that feel as if they may overwhelm us. The wild animals that live with us, just adapt as best they can and keep on. The red fox reminds me Reddy Fox, a character from the bedtime stories of Thornton W. Burgess, that my father read to me. Reddy was crafty and good at beguiling other animals. Our wild fox just uses his natural proclivities to insure the survival of himself and his offspring. If humans find something charming in his manner, so much the better. Attractive creatures have a better chance of survival than those that we dislike or fear.

Years ago a sick fox threw himself down in our barnyard in the middle of the day. The farmer, who was baling hay for us, went home, got his gun and shot the poor creature, whose coat was patched with mange. The healthy fox that crossed our field may be a descendent, but on a bright fall afternoon, his life was perfect and eternal.

Why the red belly?

Do you ever wonder how animals or plants get their names? Why, for example, is a starfish called a fish when it's actually not a fish, but an echinoderm, which is a marine invertebrate? There are so many confusingly "named" creatures out there — so let's solve one!

One curious reader inquired to the October/November 2016 issue of "Birds and Bloom" as to where the red-bellied woodpecker (Melanerpes carolinus) got its name. This bird does not have a bright red stomach, but a bright red head, or to be more precise, a vibrant red nape. Those of us whom are bird enthusiasts may often wonder this same thing!

The answer: British naturalist, Mark Catesby, published a collection of nature illustrations in the 1700's. Binoculars did not exist. In order to properly draw each species of plant or animal, Catesby needed to have an actual example of the flora or the fauna right in front of him. If you observe the woodpecker up close, you can see that the birds have a soft, slight red on their stomachs. "Apparently Catesby was impressed by the touch of red, and the bird has had this confusing name ever since" (54).

The rest of the "red-bellied" woodpecker's coloration: Black-and-white striped back, white patches near the wingtips, grey face, and light grey or light brown underneath (All About Birds).

The Sibley Field Guide to Birds of Eastern North America by David Allen Sibley notes that the woodpecker's wingspan can be as long as 16 inches. They may weigh as much as 2.2 ounces, and measure 9.25 inches in length.

Sibley describes the red-bellied's voice: "Call a loud rich quirrrr; in flight a single low chug. Also a harsh chig-chig, or a series of chig notes delivered slowly or rapidly" (247). The red-bellied's tapping on trees can be heard or observed along branches or on the wide trunks of reasonably-sized trees. This kind of woodpecker is more likely to poke at the tree's bark rather than drilling a hole (All About Birds).

The red-bellied woodpeckers live in old growth forests or in "younger" woodlands. They enjoy visiting backyard birdfeeders, too. Red-bellieds love to feast on insects, spiders, acorns, pine cones, nuts, grapes, and seeds from local plants. They have also been known to eat minnows, lizards, and even baby birds. A red-bellied woodpecker can "stick out its tongue nearly 2 inches past the end of its beak. The tip is barbed and the bird's spit is sticky, making it easier to snatch prey from deep crevices" (All About Birds).

Red-bellied woodpeckers generally have 3-6 eggs in one clutch. Eggs are white and are laid in nests, called cavities, which are built in hardwoods; often in dead trees or old fence posts. The males start the "excavation" of the nests. You might say these birds are "homebodies" since they craft their nests in the same trees year after year. Often a European starling will seek to "take over" a red-bellied's nest; some ornithologists believe this happens about 50 percent of the time (All About Birds).

When was the last time you observed a red-bellied woodpecker? What other birds or creatures have names that don't match their appearance?

Election Letters Policy

Editor's Note: With an election season upon us, the Villager will occasionally publish its guidelines for submitting election-related letters. Should you have any questions, do not hesitate to call us at (860) 928-1818.

Believe it or not, we're coming up on that time of year — election season.

Candidates in our communities are gearing up for Nov. 8, and just as they are hoping for a good voter turnout, Villager Newspapers wants to hear from you. Who do you support in your town's upcoming election? Why? What issue is most important to you?

Our Election Letters Policy is as follows: Absolutely no anonymous Sound Offs may be submitted in endorsement of any candidate for political office. Any mention of a political candidate and/or issues he or she has addressed, and any election-related matter, must be done in a signed Letter to the Editor.

All endorsement/election-related letters must be received in a timely enough fashion to allow for publication up until one week before your town's election. While space dictates how many letters are published in each issue, prompt submission will increase the likelihood of inclusion. In other words, writers are advised not to wait until two weeks before an election to submit a letter.

The last edition including political letters will be the Friday, Nov. 4 Villager. Letters must be received by the editor no later than 12 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 1.

All letters must be signed, with a place of residence and phone number supplied for verification if needed. Failure to include any of that information could result in your letter not being published.

All letters must be free of personal attacks and libelous remarks. Letter writers are encouraged to remain focused on endorsing a candidate, and to refrain from commenting negatively about opponents. Failure to follow that guideline could result in rejection of a letter to the editor.

Letters should not be written as though to a particular individual (for example: "Your decision was wrong. You should not act in that way."). Refer to individuals by name, and then by "he" or "she" or "they" in subsequent references.

For election-related letters only, there is a 500-word limit, and all submissions will be published as space is available.

Any candidates for office will be allowed one letter to introduce themselves and their candidacy. Candidates will not be allowed to submit any other election-related letters.

The editor reserves the right to edit any and all submissions at his discretion. When possible, attempts will be made to allow the letter writer to rewrite, but the final decision rests with the editor.

No "Your Turn" columns will be accepted as candidate endorsements.

The editor reserves the right to refuse a submission if it does not meet any of the aforementioned guidelines for publication. The editor may otherwise edit or reject a letter at his discretion.

There are a lot of important issues facing every town this year and you deserve a say in them. You'll get one chance at the polls on Election Day. You have another chance on our Op/Ed pages.

So what are you waiting for?

Debate model needs to change

To the Editor:

The traditional moderator questions — candidate answers the so called "debate" is anything but.

Why not return to the Lincoln-Douglas debate model? Lincoln spoke for an allotted amount of time. Then he asked Douglas a question. Douglas spoke for an allotted amount of time then asked Lincoln a question. The role of moderator was very limited; to enforce time allocations, to see that the procedure was honored.

This gives neither candidate the opportunity to accuse the moderator of favoritism or stacking the cards. Each candidate is totally on her/his own. And something can be discerned by hearing the questions as well as the answers, no?

Dauphinais will fight for small businesses

To the Editor:

I am writing to provide my endorsement for Anne Dubay Dauphinais for District 44 state representative.

As the founder and former business owner of Danielson Adventure Sports located in Killingly (still the property owner) and for a time the president of Danielson Main Street Inc., I speak firsthand of the challenges with doing business in Connecticut. The reports that Connecticut has punitive regulations, licensing, fees, and taxes are true, and I ran a Bike shop. And these overbearing, and ever changing rules require operational changes, accountants, and at times tax and employee specialists, and sometimes attorneys. The notices, forms, and paperwork was incessant. All very costly and time consuming.

I have operated bike shops in five other states, and no other state was more difficult than Connecticut.

If you are a small business owner, you know too well, it seemingly never ends, the state relentless. And worst, the hours taken away from operating and growing your business, hopefully succeeding at your passion and expanding your business to include hiring more employees.

I have spoken with Anne for many, many hours about my 11-year struggle trying to operate my business (full disclosure, she is my sister-in-law). She gets it. She understands that small business success is the economic engine that creates jobs.

Anne's parents and family have owned a small business in Connecticut near on 40 years, her daughter is a small business entrepreneur. She understands the plight of the small business owner or entrepreneur trying to do business in Connecticut. The obstacles and competitive disadvantages created by the state.

Friends in District 44, if you want to change the direction of Hartford, and send someone to the state capital who will work to create a positive, business friendly, competitive environment for small businesses so that jobs can be created, I urge you vote for Anne Dubay Dauphinais this November.

Thought and commitment to vote

To the Editor:

Voting this year may be more confusing than usual, but voting for Nora Valentine should not be. For me, voting for representative may be easier than it might be for you. I am a traditional Republican and have voted that way for many years; I assume that others like me will also be voting for Nora.

This letter, though, is written to others — Independents, those who vote only occasionally, and to Democrats. In other years and in better times, fiscal matters could simply be in the mix of the several considerations that determine how we vote. But for many years and particularly from 2007, CT's financial condition has dropped from poor to unstable ... the latest descriptor word for CT is "sink-hole." It is past time for voters to assign the fiscal condition of our state as the number one issue that determines their vote and ensures that they get to the polls.

Former representative Mike Alberts served for many good years and today there is plenty of evidence that his and other Republican ideas would have been better for the state... and that statement is not an "I told you so." It is a statement of consensus that recognizes objectively the "state of the state" and what happens when the majority or those in power do not listen to opposing views. Like Mike, Nora has a down-to-earth fiscal view and, like those of us who believe in living within our means, she will join with the other fiscally aware in Hartford to bring the budget back to being responsible and sustainable.

Please consider the state's condition. Please realize the importance of placing fiscal health to the top of the list. Please commit to vote for Nora Valentine so that taxpayers can begin to stop funding failure.

The vote math is already done for voters like me; our vote totals are not sufficient. If change is to come, it will be your vote, more than mine, that will bring it.

Pempek: Vote for Rovero

To the Editor:

When Danny Rovero first ran to become state representative he said quite simply said that he would always try to vote the right way based on what's best for the citizens of the 51st District.

Over the years he has remained true to his promise and has earned respect as a strong independent voice for eastern Connecticut. When there was a budget that sent disproportionately more funding to bigger cities for property tax relief on motor vehicles and not to small towns — he voted against it. When the Governor tried to cut funding to one our largest employers, Day Kimball Hospital — he helped restore it. Danny is not afraid to stand up for what he believes is right and is exactly the kind of legislator we need representing us when it comes to standing up for small towns and making sure that eastern Connecticut is not forgotten about.

Please join me in voting for Danny Rovero Nov. 8.

Top financial concerns through the generations

Many differences exist among baby boomers, Generation Xers, and millennials. But one thing that brings all three generations together is a concern about their financial situations.

According to an April 2016 employee financial wellness survey, 38 percent of boomers, 46 percent of Gen Xers, and 51 percent of millennials said that financial matters are the top cause of stress in their lives. In fact, baby boomers (50 percent), Gen Xers (56 percent), and millennials (60 percent) share the same top financial concern about not having enough emergency savings for unexpected expenses. Following are additional financial concerns for each group and some tips on how to address them.

BABY BOOMERS

Baby boomers cite retirement as a top concern, with 45 percent of the group saying they worry about not being able to retire when they want to. Although 79 percent of the baby boomers said they are currently saving for retirement, 52 percent of the same group believe they will have to delay retirement. Health issues (30 percent) and health-care costs (38 percent) are some of the biggest retirement concerns cited by baby boomers. As a result, many baby boomers (23 percent) are delaying retirement in order to retain their current health-care benefits.

Other reasons reported by baby boomers for delaying retirement include not having enough money saved to retire (48 percent), not wanting to retire (27 percent), and having too much debt (23 percent).

GENERATION X

While baby boomers are concerned about retiring when they want to, Gen Xers are more specifically worried about running out of money in retirement, with 50 percent of the surveyed group citing this as a top concern. More Gen Xers (26 percent) than baby boomers (25 percent) or millennials (21 percent) have already withdrawn money held in their retirement plans to pay for expenses other than retirement.

Besides worrying about retirement, 25 percent of Gen Xers are concerned about meeting monthly expenses. Forty-four percent find it difficult to meet household expenses on time each month, and 53 percent consistently carry balances on their credit cards.

Being laid off from work is another financial worry among Gen Xers, cited by 22 percent of those surveyed—more than cited by baby boomers or millennials. Gen Xers (26 percent) report that better job security would help them achieve future financial goals, which may help explain their worry about both future (retirement) and current (living) expenses.

MILLENNIALS

Unlike baby boomers and Gen Xers who worry about future financial needs, millennials seem to be more concerned about meeting current expenses. This concern has grown substantially for millennials, from 23 percent in the same survey conducted in 2015 to 35 percent in 2016. Millennials are also finding it increasingly difficult to pay their household expenses on time each month, with the number jumping from 35 percent in 2015 to 46 percent in 2016.

Considering the amount of debt that millennials owe, it's probably not surprising that they worry about making ends meet. Specifically, 42 percent of the millennials surveyed have a student loan(s), with 79 percent saying their student loans have a moderate or significant impact on their ability to meet other financial goals.

In an attempt to make ends meet, 30 percent of millennials say they use credit cards to pay for monthly necessities because they can't afford them otherwise. But 40 percent of those who consistently carry balances find it difficult to make their minimum credit-card payments on time each month.

How each generation can address their concerns

Focusing on some basics may help baby boomers, Gen Xers, and millennials address their financial concerns. Creating and sticking to a budget can make it easier to understand exactly how much money is needed for fixed/discretionary expenses as well as help keep track of debt. A budget may also be a useful tool for learning how to prioritize and save for financial goals, including adding to an emergency savings account and retirement.

At any age, trying to meet the competing demands of both short- and long-term financial goals can be frustrating. Fortunately, there is still time for all three generations to develop healthy money management habits and improve their finances.

'Enough is enough' — vote for Dauphinais

To the Editor:

I am writing to offer my endorsement for Anne Dubay Dauphinais for District 44 state representative.

As a lifelong Democrat and former 29th District Democrat State Central Committee Woman for 12 years, it saddens me, but my Democrat party no longer is the party of JFK, it's no longer the party of the people. In my view, it has become the party of the Liberals/Socialists.

At the state level, my Democrats have controlled our state's General Assembly for over three decades and have had one party rule since the election of Governor Malloy in 2010. By all objective economic measures, we are not doing well, in fact we are doing very poorly. We used to be a vibrant and economically growing state. No longer.

We are ranked last or near last on every economic measure that matters. In the past 5 years we passed the two highest tax and fee increases in our state's history. Connecticut citizens have one of the highest incomes, and pay some of the highest taxes in the nation, and yet, yearly billion dol-

Dauphinais will represent the common family

To the Editor:

Someone normal is finally running for office! As a 33-year-old father of four young children, I'm truly concerned about the current and future status of Connecticut.

I shake my head and wonder, "Why won't anyone normal run for office?" "Why can't we get someone who actually represents the common family?" I tell you today, there is hope if we elect Anne Dubay Dauphinais as our State Representative for District 44!

Anne will bring the concerns of the silent majority working class citizens of our area, and present them to the legislature in Hartford. Her votes will represent what is best for our area not what's best for her political or professional career. She will be looking for opportunities to save money and better our state, not opportunities to have her picture taken or to cut a ribbon. This is the lady we've been waiting for! She's the lady you always wish would run for office!

And I know firsthand, she will protect the rights of local farmers as she helped me. Anne also understands generational theft is wrong, and will look out for my children. She will be their advocate in Hartford.

I urge all my friends in District 44 to vote for Anne Dubay Dauphinais this November.

An update from Nahaco Park

To the Editor:

With the cooler months coming soon, now is a great time of year to enjoy a hike at Nahaco Park.

The Park is located at 305 Crystal Pond Road in Woodstock and has over two miles of trails. Bring a lunch and make a day of it out in the woods! Many projects continue, such as the beautification of wooded areas along the entry road, as well as new plantings at the entrance to the property. I encourage the citizens of Woodstock and Eastford to enjoy the park throughout the fall and winter months. On a calm day, Crystal Pond resembles a mirror, with beautiful reflections of the sun and surrounding trees, a perfect setting to read a book or just relax from the stresses of your daily life.

Our successful rental season is coming to a close. We have had a variety of groups utilize the park this rental season. A class reunion a first birthday party, Cub Scout outings, political events, as well as two weddings have taken place throughout the last few months. The fees are reasonable and the setting could not be better. So plan your future events at Nahaco Park. The Commission has also made improvements to the kitchen with a fully functioning gas stove, thanks in part to local volunteers.

The Crystal Pond Day Camp had yet another successful summer under the leadership of Director Jen Larkin. Many local children enjoyed outdoor activities throughout the summer, giving them an opportunity to boat and fish and gain a respect for our environment. Commission talks are in progress to organize a "Romp Through the Woods" 5k Fun Run, and a much anticipated "Polar Plunge" with the cooperation of local recreation committees.

Guided by their short and long term plan, the Nahaco Park Commission continues to move forward, creating a safe and functioning park for all to enjoy. The Commission meets on the first Wednesday of each month. Citizen participation is always encouraged during our meetings. For more information on rentals, use of the park and future meetings please go to either the Town of Woodstock or the Town of Eastford's website.

Why doesn't town support solar project?

SOUND OFF:

Why are the Town of Thompson Boards of Education and Finance apparently not in favor of the solar installation that would save the town in the neighborhood of $50,000 per year in electric costs, at no investment by the town other than to negotiate a multi year contract?

Fall landscape and garden tips

As the harvest season wanes and the leaves slowly begin to turn color, it becomes apparent the backyard garden, so alive and abundant in recent weeks, is soon to retire for a long winter's nap. While bountiful garden rewards may soon be behind us, garden chores will not. There is still much to keep a New England gardener busy during the autumn season. From planting spring bulbs to protecting harvest root foods, the following tips, culled from green thumb gardeners, are aimed at making fall chores a little easier.

TAKE THE HINT
KAREN TRAINOR

Planting Pointers: Planting in the fall encourages good root development. Nurseries often slash prices on perennials and shrubs this time of year, so planting now will reward you with healthy plants on the cheap!

Nix Nibbles: Experts agree this time of year is perfect for planting spring bulbs. While squirrels and chipmunks keep away from Daffodil bulbs, Tulip bulbs risk invasion from the hearty nibblers. One way to protect your individual bulbs is to add some crushed rocks or shells into the holes when planting the bulbs.

Forbid Food: Experts say now is the time to stop fertilizing your flowering shrubs and trees and cut down on watering them. This strategy allow this years' growth to harden off before the cold weather settles in.

Farewell Fungus: By the end of this month tuberous begonias are usually past their best. Before any frost, they should be lifted out of the garden and stored in a dark, cool area. To prevent rotting during storage, sprinkle a light dusting of fungicide on them. And always be sure plants are totally dry before storing for winter.

Root Roster: Whether you are growing your own root vegetables or are buying in bulk from a local farm or farmers market, proper storage is imperative to its flavor and quality. Here's the rundown on proper temps to keep your harvest safe and flavorful: Potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, cabbage and celery should be kept in a humid atmosphere at about 35-40 degrees. Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry area at 40-60 degrees. Onions and dry beans should be kept at 33 degrees in a dry area.

Root Cellar Sub: Generations ago, a root cellar was a basement staple; today some improvising is in order: Those with unheated basements report success creating a substitute root cellar by partitioning off one corner, installing insulation and a heavy, solid door. Keep in mind the temperature inside the root cellar will be coolest near the floor, so place roots there atop an old door or boards. Or create a root box by filling a large, sturdy cardboard box with a few inches of sawdust or sand. Place a layer of roots such as carrots, leaving two inches along the sides. Cover lightly with sawdust and alternate layers, adding a final three inches of sawdust on top. Store in a cool basement or in the cellar bulkhead area.

Leave Leaves for Lawn: Take a cue from nature and use the autumn's fallen leaves to your lawn's advantage. Leaves are rich in nutrients, plentiful, and free! Here's how to mulch your own leaves: Set your lawn mower to a normal 3-inch height. Remove bagging attachments and block off the chute on a rear discharge machine (only if it is safe to do so). Run the mower slowly over the lawn to allow time for the leaves to shred.

Note: Make sure you mow before the lawn is smothered in fallen leaves.

Lime Lawn: If a soil test indicates lawns and gardens need lime, aerating the lawn first will reduce compaction and allow the roots to absorb the lime more quickly. No aerator? Wearing old golf shoes or baseball cleats while you hand mow can do the job.

Festive Flowers: Christmas Cactus and Poinsettia plants provide festive flowers, but you must act now if you want to be rewarded with flowers in time for the holiday season. If you were prudent enough to keep your poinsettia going throughout the summer, or have a Christmas Cactus indoor plant, here's how to force the plants to bloom at the right time: Poinsettias must be kept at about 65 to 70 degrees, and subjected to at least six weeks of 14 hours of total darkness per day (mid to late September).

The Christmas Cactus require cooler temperatures of about 50 to 60 degrees. Place the potted plant in a closet or unlighted room, or by covering the plant with black cloth, black plastic over a frame or a cardboard box. The plant must then be returned to the light each day and given a minimum of four hours of direct sun, or ten hours of bright light. The application of a 0-10-10 fertilizer this month and again next precision work with tight tolerances that made the metal boxes seat tightly. When he was old enough to drive, he started going to yard sales searching for the rocks, minerals and seashells that had begun to collect. When he bought other objects that interest him he looked through the antique reference guides at the library to learn more about them. His knowledge and collecting interests grew and he now also collects miniature books, knives, English silver boxes, postcards and fountain pens.

Bill's knowledge has helped him make some good buys. He found a snuffbox listed on eBay that lacked some important details. He bought it for $30. He relisted it describing it as a snuffbox made for the Northern troops in the Civil War. With his more accurate description it brought $60. He also made an even a better discovery about 15 years ago. He found a box for $1 in an antique shop bargain bin. He recognized the hallmark as being Russian. He sold it on eBay. When the bidding ended, it sold for $1,800. The bidder that one it said that it was a salesmen's sample by Cartier

Bill says that he doesn't know everything about all antiques but can find someone who knows about an area outside of his expertise when he needs one. He advises people to look at eBay and elsewhere on the internet when researching pieces. Bill said that he offers seminars on eBay and antiques.

Along with his antique experiences, Bill has many other interesting life experiences. He also is a member of the screen actor's guild and played a Boston Police officer in a motion picture. The Harvard online auction with the 1969 Volkswagen Beetle is currently open for bidding. Cancer Survivorship Day held in honor of those in midst of the fight annual "hope soars" butterfly release all complimented an event geared towards spreading awareness, hope and joy in the face of one of the scariest realities in our world today, that anyone can be impacted by cancer.

However, despite how scary such a reality can be, the one message everyone seemed to hold on to was that it can be beaten, and there is always hope and a fight worth fighting.

Sharon Bell, an oncology certified registered nurse and chairperson of the event, celebrated her fourth year partaking in the Survivorship Day festivities. Calling it the biggest turnout she has seen in the event to date, Bell said the day is important to patients and caregivers alike as a celebration of health and a reminder that no matter how hard the battle, there is always hope for a brighter future ahead.

"Our staff and nursing staff know the patients in and out. We do primary nursing now, and our nurses know the patients from day one right through treatment, and stay in contact even after treatment is done. I think it's that kind of connection that's bringing people back for this event. Our nurses are very proactive in reaching out to people and asking them to come down so we can celebrate together. I think it's great," Bell said. "I know everyone in this room and I know them by their first names. It makes me happy to see them all here and we can share this day with them and celebrate them and their health. They don't realize they bring a lot to us, and we're humbled and honored to be part of their lives. We see them at their lowest and help them through it, and to have them leave our clinic and say, 'This wasn't so bad,' makes us feel like our job is done and we did it. You can't get any better than that."

The Survivorship Day event included three guest speakers, Martha McWilliams, Howard Budd and Linda McGurl, all who have or currently are fighting their individual cancer battles with the staff of Day Kimball by their side. McGurl spoke with The Villager about her journey battling both multiple myeloma and breast cancer in separate cancer fights, and said that the staff at Day Kimball were instrumental in helping her succeed in winning those battles and pushing towards a healthy future.

"Cancer is hard. It's hard on our families and it's hard on us, but there's another side to it. We can choose to look on the bright side and better side of things and still acknowledge the days that aren't good, but we can also cherish the days that are good," said McGurl. "My daughter is here today with me, and we're thankful for our caregivers. The oncology ward at Day Kimball is wonderful. The nurses are top shelf. Day Kimball is a great community hospital. They're not perfect, but we would be at a real loss if they weren't here. For people that have cancer traveling long distances can be hard. It's wonderful that we have local cancer care right here in Putnam."

A highlight of the day was the 3rd annual "hope soars" butterfly release, an occasion where butterflies are released into the sky outside of Day Kimball to symbolize the journey cancer patients undertake and the hope for a better tomorrow, much like the journey of a butterfly from caterpillar to beautiful creature of nature. Helping with the release was guest speaker and current appendix cancer patient Howard Budd, who said it was an honor to be the one who released the butterflies into the air.

"It's a privilege to be here. They have a wonderful program here. I'm amazed at the oncology department here. They're all like family," Budd said after releasing the butterflies. "I've never done anything like this before so it's a new experience. It's nice to see everyone and be a part of it."

While the battle to defeat cancer might be a difficult one, the message everyone seemed to spread at Day Kimball's Cancer Survivorship Day was that the battle, no matter how hard, is worth the effort. Many survivors arrived to celebrate each other's lives and to help inspire others to fight the good fight. It's their hope and the hope of the staff at Day Kimball Hospital that maybe, some day, they won't only be able to celebrate the survivors and those who have fought that fight, but a victory over cancer as a whole so that no one has to worry about that battle ever again.

Woodstock celebrates agriculture as autumn begins

WOODSTOCK — Less than a month after the Woodstock Fairgrounds hosted the hustle and bustle of the Woodstock Fair, the grounds hosted another agriculture-themed event, Celebrating Agriculture. On Saturday, Sept. 24, the fairgrounds were busy with action once again with many vendors, organizations and agricultural themed activities setting up shop for a day, dedicated to the many professions, products and activities associated with agriculture. Hands-on activities and displays — including live animals, of course — made for a day of great fun and even a bit of education for anyone who made the trip down, with beautiful weather complimenting the event. Celebrating Agriculture was one of many events throughout the region on Sept. 24, and served as the first stop for many in a long day of entertainment and activity in northeastern Connecticut.

A chainsaw professional prepares his tool of choice for the chainsaw competitions that dominated the afternoon portion of the annual Celebrating Agriculture event.

For early birds, there was the fantastic breakfast buffet. Pancakes, eggs, sausage and many other breakfast classics made for a delicious morning for those able to grab a ticket.

A few young visitors to Celebrating Agriculture get some education in trees and timber, courtesy of the Connecticut Professional Timber Producers Association.

What would an agricultural event be without a good, old-fashioned hayride?

Showing off a little teamwork, these young cows got a crash course in team competition during a showcase for visitors.

Possibly the most well-known and popular activity at Woodstock Celebrating Agriculture, this train ride took youngsters on a roundabout tour of the entire Woodstock Fairgrounds.

As part of its agricultural theme, visitors to the Celebrating Agriculture event could partake in some hands on activities showing them first hand the work that goes into the daily business of farming and other agricultural practices.

Sprucedale Gardens brought along many colorful examples of their floral arrangements. The Woodstock-based company provided an opportunity for gardeners to learn some tips and tricks for making their own plots beautiful and colorful during the next summer season.

A very hands-on event, Celebrating Agriculture is one-of-a-kind and allowed visitors to get up close and personal with some very social animals throughout the day.

A specialist in wool products explains the finer points of handling, straightening and, ultimately, utilizing the wool for crafts and clothing to a visitor to her booth at Celebrating Agriculture.

St. Mary Parish hosts annual Circle of Fun

PUTNAM — For the 45th year, the St. Mary Circle of Fun provided a weekend of ... well ... fun, and excitement for all with the annual event bringing games, rides, music and more to the grounds of St. Mary Parish in Putnam. From Friday, Sept. 23 through Sunday, Sept. 25, visitors from all across the region flocked to the Circle of Fun to enjoy the many offerings the event had for the young and young at heart. Whether it was for the rides, the prizes, the food or just a day, or night, of family bonding, the St. Mary Circle of Fun continued a longstanding Quiet Corner tradition, dating back to 1977, in style!

The indoor flea market at the St. Mary's Circle of Fun is always a popular draw. Here a few visitors to the market examine some holiday-themed items, including some for the upcoming Halloween festivities.

This dragon-themed roller coaster is always a hit at local carnival-style events and the 2016 St. Mary Circle of Fun was no different as it proved to be one of the weekend's most popular attractions.

by the button or piano accordion and a form of washboard called the rub-board. Their irresistible sounds and driving rhythms will fill Main Street with music and dancing throughout the evening. Over in Union Square, JP Beausoleil & Leo Charpentier of Original Jelly Roll Soul will bring a musical experience to the stage that is exciting, uplifting, danceable, and educational. Drawing from influences such as New Orleans Jazz, swing, jump, hard bop and Afro-Cuban, JP Beausoleil & Leo Charpentier will bring an infectious energy to Union Square.

Speaking of infectious...back from the dead, the Zombie Fashion show returns to bring out legions of ghoulishly dressed participants. Zombie folklore is a fixture of the voodoo culture of New Orleans, with cultural beliefs and superstitions combining to create these reanimated corpses. With a nod to the zombies of New Orleans, all ages are invited to come out in their undead-best and register to walk in the First Fridays Zombie Fashion show. For 2016, the event will feature three categories: Youth, Group/Family, and Adult, with prizes awarded to the top three in each category. For those interested in registering, send a private message to facebook.com/discoverputnam, or head over to the Putnam Business Association booth at the festival before 7:15 p.m. the evening of the event.

In addition to the fashion show, there will be a variety of performances throughout the evening. Visitors are encouraged to look for a demonstration by Quest Martial Arts, and a "Thrilling" performance by The Complex Performing Arts Centre. There will also be a monster makeup demonstration on Main Street prior to the start of the Zombie Fashion Show.

First Fridays is all about celebrating art, and the Oct. 7 event will feature approximately 40 art vendors lining Main Street and Union Square. There will also be a variety of gallery and studio openings during the evening. Patrons are encouraged to visit the downtown shops, galleries and eateries during the festival.

Head to Putnam and discover the final evening of this award-winning annual festival. To learn more about the Oct. 7 event, visit www.discoverputnam.com.

Randall, Dauphinais face off in Villager debate series

Beginning the Villager's series of pre-election Q&As, Staff Writer Jason Bleau sat down with both candidates separately, asking them the same exact questions pertaining to issues relevant to both their district towns, and the state as a whole, to get a better idea of where these candidates stand on the issues of today. Unlike normal debates, these candidates were interviewed separately in an attempt to gain a more intimate and "real" perspective of where they stand as individuals on issues without outside influence from their competitor's answers. Please note that these Q&A's are more about the personal responses of each candidate separately than anything else, and that their answers or information provided are meant to be presented for the interpretation and consideration by the voters. Some of these answers may have been slightly altered for space, however they were not changed in any ways that would significantly alter the tone or content of each answer. The order in which these stories are run has been selected at random.

First off, thank you for sitting down with me today. Before we start I want to give each of you the opportunity to share a little bit about yourselves, who you are and your connection to your local communities as you run for the opportunity to represent these three towns in Hartford.

Christine Rosati Randall: "I'm a mother of four children. I live in Killingly and I chose to move here, buy my first home here and raise my family here. I recently got married in September. My husband is a veteran, now a Killingly resident. I've been invested in the community since I got here. I was a board member for the Killingly Memorial School PTCA and then as a parent volunteer on the Northeast Early Childhood Council. I've really had a passion for education and supporting children in their younger years because I've felt that's where we could have better outcomes in the long run. A lot of that work brought me to where I am. I led the development of a Regional Community Plan for Northeast Connecticut. We looked at everything that impacts our children, from housing to jobs, and poverty to societal issues. In my first term in office, I am on the Energy and Technology Committee, Real Estate and Insurance Committee, and most importantly I'm on the Human Services Committee.

"In my first term, I did say I would make this my full-time job, and I have done that. One of the number-one priorities in my first term was fighting for the funding for Day Kimball Hospital, a budget cut I've worked with my delegation three times to restore. I secured $1 million for economic development in Downtown Danielson and $125,000 each in additional education cost sharing funding for Plainfield and the Killingly Public Schools. I've even worked on local issues when the DEEP came out and killed a swan that really impacted the community. I felt they went against the mission they were charged to do, so I helped push for a successful policy change. Jobs have been a priority for northeastern Connecticut as well.

I secured a STEAP grant in my first term for northeastern Connecticut that brought a commercial water line into Plainfield's industrial park. I've accomplished a lot and I'd like to continue to build on that."

Ann Dauphinais: "I grew up in Killingly. My dad was in the Navy for 23 years. He was stationed in Rhode Island and we bought a chicken farm here in Connecticut, which is where he retired. So I spent most of my life here growing up going to Killingly schools and working on that farm. When my father retired from the Navy, he started a business here in town for about 40 years, so I have a perspective on small business in this community. I went to school here and to Quinebaug Valley Community College, and for a time I went to nursing school in Maine, so I have that background. I've done a variety of things in that field, and worked for a large corporation, as well as doing case management work in a prison.

"I put my children through school here in Killingly. One of my children is a special needs child, so I've experienced that as well. With my political aspirations I've watched the state decline over time and in the last few years under the Malloy Administration, I think everyone knows that Connecticut is not doing very well. That got me very interested in becoming politically active and making change happen and being a voice for the people. I want to stay here, my children are here, my grandchildren are here and it's getting more and more difficult for families to live here."

With all that said, let's get to the first question. Killingly has worked hard to revitalize its Main Street area in Danielson. We've seen a lot of progress over the years with special events and new businesses moving into the region, but there's still a lot of work to be done, and there is a lot that you, as a potential state representative, can do to help. How do you plan to help Killingly continue to make strides on that front if you are elected in November?

Dauphinais: "I think overall, the state is in trouble, and I think that if we can get the state's finances in order, it will make Connecticut more attractive for businesses to come in. I think right now, I always tell people the house is on fire. We've got some major financial issues, and when I speak to businesses locally, they're all telling me the same thing. They say it's too expensive to do business here, or the taxes are too high, or the regulations are overbearing. It's just not conducive to doing business. On a state level, we need to change that so businesses want to come to towns like Killingly and can thrive. That's just not the situation right now. I think some of the other issues, obviously, are the local drug issues, and I think we have those issues statewide and across the country. That needs to be addressed. I know we've had some questions about whether or not to do a town police force, which is more of a town issue in Killingly, but as a hopeful state representative I think we really need to get our house in order financially. Until we do that, I think it will be very difficult for people to come in and start businesses."

Randall: "I meet regularly with our local Town Council in Killingly and town officials from Plainfield and Sterling to keep in touch and see what needs to be done for the community. I've toured local businesses and most recently got that million-dollar grant for downtown Danielson to rejuvenate that area. We need to work to make sure that when people do come to the downtown area they feel safe. Businesses will come where they feel safe, consumers will come where they feel safe. I'd like to support the town in that endeavor in any way that I can. Reducing property taxes is another goal.

"In 2015 I voted to reduce the property tax. Killingly was slated to get a half a million dollars in additional fees, which would have reduced the property tax. Businesses would have felt relief, property owners would have felt relieved and it would have generated more money back into our local economy, but in 2016 the governor made cuts of that aid and eliminated the transportation funding. I voted no on that budget because I felt that it hurt our local property tax payers."

One of the biggest talking points of the past year has been the funding issues for Day Kimball and other hospitals throughout the region at the state level, with hospitals losing funding to make up for deficits in the state spending plan. If you are elected to represent the district in Hartford, how do you plan to fight for continued dedicated funding for hospitals like Day Kimball in the future?

Randall: "Fighting for Day Kimball Hospital was a priority for myself. I worked with my colleagues on getting that done. I'll continue to fight for Day Kimball. I, by no means, feel that they're safe. We always have to continue to fight for northeast Connecticut. Day Kimball is a major employer for our district. They provide a number of jobs and are critical to our local economy and provide access to quality healthcare services, particularly in an area where transportation is an issue. So that will continue to be a priority when I return. I was happy we were able to restore $4.4 million for the hospital, but the work will need to continue. I am working with the hospital and am in frequent communication with them about this issue. I've even had the majority leader visit and tour the Plainfield facility to see the impact of those cuts."

Dauphinais: "As I understand it, some of the issues are some of the deals that the state has made with the federal government in terms of taxes. Several years ago they made a deal with the feds that they would start to tax the hospitals, and by doing that they were going to tax the hospitals a certain amount, and every so much money that they taxed hospitals they'd give back a certain amount and the state would keep so much. It was considered a win-win deal, but they made this agreement that was supposed to benefit both the state and the hospitals. We do this time and time again, and it falls apart in a year or two. The first year, the hospitals did get the extra provisions from that deal. By the third year, they didn't get their money back, so now it's costing hospitals millions of dollars in taxes that they didn't pay a short time ago. That's one thing that needs to be addressed. We need to stop making these deals with the federal government. This just happens over and over again. Obviously small businesses also carry a lot of jobs for us locally, and support the sick residents in the area, and if we don't have these hospitals we'll be traveling to Hartford or UMass or somewhere that would require transportation that just can't afford it. That's one big thing I'd be looking at."

While we're at it, let's talk about the deficits in Hartford. Deficits in the budget have unfortunately seemed to become a theme over the past few years in Connecticut. Hospitals are not the only entities that have seen cuts due to these deficits, and some may even believe that while cuts are necessary, they are being made in the wrong places. If you go to Hartford, how do you plan to help resolve the continuous budget issues as a lawmaker, and if cuts persist, how will you help to prioritize those cuts with your district's needs in mind?

Dauphinais: "Going back to the hospital issue, that funding cut was in the budget that my opponent did vote for. She voted for the second highest tax increase we've ever seen in the state — and those hospital cuts were in that budget. We all knew they weren't going to get the money back from the federal government, and that was in there. We need to start looking at these bills and either she didn't look at the bill or she just voted on it anyway. Either way, it was a vote from her for those cuts. We need to be able to look at each expenditure and critique them individually. That leads to so many other problems that I see, including how they pass the bills with the emergency certification that they use, which is only supposed to be done in an emergency. All these bills are getting pushed through at the last minute. Legislators need time to look at them and to be able to articulate them and not have these add-ons thrown in at the last minute. We need to prioritize our cuts as well and I don't think we're doing that. My opponent voted to send $22 million of our tax dollars to a billion dollar hedge fund company in Fairfield County. I don't think that benefits the people of Killingly or Plainfield, and I don't think we should be in the business of providing corporate welfare for any business. I think that's wrong. We can't be bonding or borrowing money for statues and murals. That's wrong as well. Purchasing those items are not a priority over hospitals, schools, mental health services, fire departments and the list goes on and on. We need to prioritize our spending and eliminate all those unnecessary things we are spending money on."

Randall: "I always have my district in mind. That's why I did vote against a budget that hurt my district. They touted it as a no tax increase budget because it didn't raise taxes on the state level, but it did raise taxes on one of the towns in my district on the local level. I will continue to represent my district. The state does need to take the necessary steps to stabilize the budget. This is important for those who rely on state funding, our businesses, our towns, and our schools in terms of planning their own budgets. As a first term legislator, I assumed this role during one of the state's most challenging times. These fiscal problems were years in the making, even decades. I'm eager to step up to the challenge and ensure that the state is operating more efficiently. One practice they're not consistent with and should be following is results based budgeting, which ensures that we're using our taxpayer dollars in the most efficient way. We can continue to invest in programs that are working. Those that are not, we need to eliminate them. It helps in terms of staffing and regionalizing where we can and lowering taxes. One thing we did was we exempted military pensions from the personal income tax. For our retired teachers we exempted a portion of the pensions from the state income tax, 10 percent the first year and then 20 percent and it's slated to be 50 percent in 2017. I'll be fighting to continue that. We want to eliminate the Connecticut State Income Tax from Social Security benefits. We also need to create jobs that pay a living wage and we've already done that by investing in technical schools and community colleges. The Advanced Manufacturing Center at QVCC, for example, is an option now. I've spoken to business owners one-on-one to find out what their needs are and we have a number of business owners looking for skilled laborers. Also, investing in early childhood, which helps reduce state spending and improve the economy."

Let's talk about education. There has been a lot of talk on that subject in Connecticut in recent weeks, including changes ordered by the Supreme Court due to the state's perceived lack of effective attention to educating poorer children. As a lawmaker, how do you plan to help improve the state's priorities for education without impacting the schools in your own district negatively?

Randall: "There is a great economic disparity throughout the public education system in the state of Connecticut. The Education Cost Sharing formula does need to be reworked to make sure that communities like Killingly and Plainfield get their fair share. We are too reliant on local property taxes to fund education. The state needs to address that, and I understand the [Supreme Court] ruling is under appeal, so I'd have to see the results of that, but regardless, we need to work on reworking the education funding to make sure Killingly and Plainfield receive more state funding. When the recession hit we had approximately 30 percent free and reduced lunch. During the recession that increased to 50 percent, and it's still there to this day. That shows a dramatic need in our region, and if we can invest in areas like Killingly and Plainfield where we have great economic disparity we can improve outcomes for students and save tax dollars across the state."

Dauphinais: "I go back to where we're supposed to spend our money. Many people have asked me this question and if I'd be making cuts to education. I keep saying to them over and over again that we are going into a $2 billion deficit in 2017. That is mind-boggling. We are in big financial trouble in the state and until we rein that in, I don't think we'll be able to really talk about funding anything. To me, it's like your own home budget. If someone loses their job, one of the parents for example, they start looking at where to make cuts. We need to fix the finances and get those in order before we can even talk about helping or addressing any of those educational needs in any town, quite frankly. I think the bigger picture always leads back to our budget and finances, and until we fix those, the discussion is very brief for funding anything, really, and I think the people I've talked to can understand and agree with that."

I'd like to thank both candidates for taking the time to answer these questions and share their thoughts for the voters of northeastern Connecticut. Good luck to both of you in the upcoming election. Before we close out, I want to give each candidate a chance to present a closing statement.

Dauphinais: "I've lived here all my life and most of the people that live here want to stay here. I think they're being forced to leave because they can't afford to live here. I'd like to change the environment so people can afford to stay. I think we need to maintain our budget at a state level like what we do at home and only spend the money that we have. I think people are sick of the shenanigans going on and throwing things in at the last minute in these bills in Hartford. We need to start enforcing the spending cap we made law 25 years ago that's never been enforced. These things all need to be done to get things back on track, and until we really get serious about that, I think you'll see more and more people leaving Connecticut. Every empty house I walk up to, I think, 'Wow, who were the people who lived here and the children they had in this house, and where did they go to school, or who were their friends?' It's sad that people have to leave the state because they can't afford to stay here. I want to change that and bring Connecticut back to the vibrant state I remember as a kid."

Randall: "I've completed my first two-year term in office, which went by very fast. I've enjoyed the work very much. I feel like I'm making a difference. I've worked hard on behalf of my district and towns. I've tried to be in the local community. I have children in the school system in the local community at public schools and in community college and four-year colleges. They help keep me grounded. I continually communicate with my constituents to understand what issues are impacting them and what concerns they have, and what they would like me to work on. I've fought for Day Kimball Hospital, garnered money for public education, I've brought in money to help downtown Danielson, earned the Children's Champion Award two years in a row from the Connecticut Early Childhood Alliance as a legislator and I've received an A+ rating from the Connecticut League of Conservation Voters and I have a 100-percent voting record two years in a row in the House of Representatives. So I'm doing my best to represent my district. Constituent service is important to me and I want to help in any way that I can."

Dedication to be held at Boxcar Museum

PUTNAM — A dedication of the new Welcoming Fence and Apple Tree at the Boxcar Museum in Putnam will be made on Saturday, Oct. 1 at 9:45 a.m. This will be immediately preceding the Walktober Tour by the Putnam Public Library entitled "Walk in Gertrude Chandler Warner's Footsteps." The dedication is in memory of Millard John Alvord by his classmates in Miss Gertrude Warner's first grade class in 1942, when The Boxcar Children was published, and members of his graduating class of 1953 at Putnam High School. Millard was a staunch supporter of the Museum and participated in events honoring Miss Warner throughout the years. He was a very special member of this class.

WPCA asks residents to conserve water

PUTNAM — The Town of Putnam Water Pollution Control Authority along with its partner SUEZ is requesting the customers of the Town of Putnam WPCA assist with a conservation efforts that includes less frequent use of water from the Putnam system.
Production of water at the Peake Brook Treatment Plant is contingent on the amount of water available in the Little River. Even with the rainfall on Monday, the Putnam WPCA will not be able to use the Little River as a water source. The extent of time that the Treatment Plant will be off line is contingent on rainfall and an increase of flow in the Little River. During dry weather, it is necessary to stop production at the Treatment Plant. The Town has sufficient production levels to supply its customers with daily water demand, but rain fall is needed. Water is also produced from the Town's Well Site and the Interconnect with Connecticut Water.
It is always prudent to voluntarily conserve by using less water for showers, dish and cloths washing, and any non-essential use like watering of lawns, gardens and washing cars. Not only will it assist in conserving water from the system, it will reduce the customer's water usage with cash savings on their quarterly WPCA Bill.

Tourtellotte and Putnam kick around a rivalry

game winner. “She got in position this time. She was there and she was there the two times before but she missed them the two times before,” Spinelli said. “She’s persistent and she’s a big strong kid. She’s got great speed once she starts moving. Quick steps inside the box, she doesn’t have that — she’s got long strides into the box, so she’s got to hit the ball as it’s coming in and coming across.”

Tourtellotte’s record is 5-1-1 through seven games. The Tigers are next scheduled to play host to Griswold on Tuesday, Oct. 4, with the match set to begin at 3:45 p.m. Putnam’s record was 3-3-1 through seven games. The Clippers are scheduled to play at Lyman Memorial on Saturday, Oct. 1.

PUTNAM 4, TOURTELLOTTE 4

PUTNAM — Putnam High’s Morgan Foucault scored two goals and Aly Morris and Jaidyn Gillette each added one goal in a double-overtime tie against Tourtellotte on Monday at St. Marie-Greenhalgh Complex. Morris and Gillette each notched an assist.

Tourtellotte’s Maegan Roy scored two goals and had one assist. Morgan Graham and Mekayla Minarik each notched one goal for the Tigers.

WATERFORD 2, KILLINGLY 1

WATERFORD — Mia Brennan and Jacklyn Lavoie each scored in the Lancers win on Sept. 21. Killingly out-shot Waterford 14-10. Killingly goalkeeper Jamie Jax made six saves. Waterford lifted its record to 1-1-2.

THOMPSON — After Tourtellotte sophomore midfielder Amanda Bogoslofski hit the crossbar and missed a chance to break a second-half deadlock against backyard rival Putnam High last Saturday — she didn’t get mad, she got even.

“That was really frustrating and I just wanted to help my team get this win,” said Bogoslofski of her near-miss. “It definitely motivated me to push harder, run faster.”

After missing at 17:15 of the second half — Bogoslofski got another chance 15 minutes later — corralling a free ball at 32:03 of the second half.

“It just came to the middle and I saw it,” Bogoslofski said. “I had an opportunity for a shot and I took it.”

Bogoslofski’s aim was true — she booted it home to give the Tigers a 2-1 victory over Putnam at Tourtellotte Memorial’s field. The victory was the first game of a two-match set between the rivals over a span of three days. They met again in a rematch and battled to a 4-4 tie after 80 minutes of regulation and a pair of five-minute overtimes on Monday at St. Marie-Greenhalgh Complex in Putnam. Saturday’s end-to-end action was typical of the spirited rivalry.

Tourtellotte struck first with junior Maegan Roy scoring from 25 yards out at 16:32 of the first half to put the Tigers up 1-0. Junior Katie Kwasniewski notched an assist on Roy’s score.

Putnam junior striker Morgan Foucault tied it by tallying on a breakaway, firing from 10 yards out on the left wing and knotting it at 1-1 at 34:56 of the first half.

Putnam coach Molly Panteleakos said the rivalry tends to bring out the best in the Clippers.

“It was one of the best games I’ve seen from us all year. We came out to play,” Panteleakos said. “They always have a quality team. The girls showed a lot of heart today. They all played really well. We were one short — 2-1 — that’s the game of soccer. You can do great for 79 minutes and then in that one minute you can win or lose the game.”

Tourtellotte led 14-11 in shots. Putnam sophomore goalkeeper Megan Sessums made eight saves. Tourtellotte senior keeper Emily Vincent stopped seven shots. Tourtellotte led 4-0 in corner kicks.

Tourtellotte coach Deb Spinelli said the Clippers pushed her team throughout the match.

“This was a good test for us. Putnam’s improved 100 percent. Molly (Panteleakos) is doing a great job over there,” Spinelli said.

Bogoslofski was able to generate several scoring opportunities and she finally delivered. Spinelli said she’s been working on getting Bogoslofski in the right position to take advantage of a crossing pass from from Samantha Morin — who notched the assist on the

Killingly absorbs first loss at New London

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER SPORTS EDITOR

NEW LONDON — Killingly flubbed the opening kickoff and things went downhill from there in a 41-7 loss to New London last Friday at Canamella Field. Nothing seemed to bounce Killingly's way — beginning with Xavier Alvarez's kickoff that the Redmen failed to field at their own 35-yard line and the football proceeded to roll all the way back to Killingly's 8-yard line.

"It gave us bad field position off the bat," said Killingly coach Chad Neal. "We made a lot of mistakes tonight. New London played well. I mean they made plays. I thought the difference at times was their playmakers made some plays — and they needed it and they did it. We didn't. We made way too many mistakes to win this football game."

Backed up deep in their own territory — the Redmen punted after one set of downs on their opening possession and the Whalers used a short field to score three plays later. New London began its first drive on Killingly's 37-yard line, endured a three-yard loss on a run by Jacob Commander before quarterback Melquann Gomez connected with Giovanni Lopez on a 40-yard touchdown pass — with Lopez breaking two tackles en route to the end zone with 9:23 left in the first quarter.

Among the Redmen's miscues was a failure to pounce on a Killingly onside kick that was there for the taking to open the second half. And after recovering a New London fumble on the Whalers' 49-yard line with 5:50 left in the third quarter and trailing 14-0, the Redmen took a chance on a hook-and-lateral — with Luke Desaulnier making the catch near midfield but his lateral to Spencer Lockwood was behind him and the Redmen coughed up the football. New London scored eight plays later to push its lead to 20-0 on a seven-yard touchdown catch by Lopez.

"We knew when we got the turnover. We knew we had to take a shot. We weren't getting much going, too much going offensively, we thought that was the right opportunity," said Neal of the hook-and-lateral. "My theory is you've got to try to make plays sometimes. We had the opportunity. It just didn't work out."

The Redmen could not stop New London's aerial attack. Gomez passed for 208 yards and four touchdowns — with two fourth-quarter scoring passes (12 yards to Major Roman and nine yards to Efrain Santiago). Lopez caught four passes for 67 yards and two touchdowns. Santiago had four receptions for 70 yards and Roman made four catches for 58 yards.

"The slant pattern, you can only do so much with Roman, he's a big target," Neal said. "I thought we had a great defensive game plan. I thought we played great defense through three quarters. At the end you've got to roll the dice when the score's 21-7."

Killingly junior running back Spencer Lockwood rushed for 155 yards on 36 carries including a 49-yard touchdown run with 1:31 left in the third quarter that helped pull the Redmen within 20-7. But Killingly couldn't not get its passing game going with senior quarterback Kyle Derosier completing just 5-of-14 passes for 43 yards with one interception.

"We just didn't come to play today and we're going to work on that this week," Derosier said. "Offensively, we just couldn't get the ball moving, that's mainly my fault. I've just got to get us going here. We just have to come out this week, we have to get going, we can't be complacent in practice."

The win lifted New London's record to 3-0. Killingly's record fell to 2-1. The Redmen travel to Griswold (1-2) this Friday, Sept. 30, with kickoff set for 6:30 p.m.

New London was able to contain Killingly's receivers last Friday night. Neal said the Redmen need a balanced attack to succeed down the road.

"Here's the thing, they had the athletes to match up in man coverage outside, our receivers. And they were physical enough in the box so they could take away our play-action game with the receivers — and put the guys in the box, where other teams haven't been able to do that," Neal said. "We've got to get the play-action game going off our run game because if teams are going to play man outside and have the athletes to play man and shut down our receivers, then it makes it real tough."

Charlie Lentz may be reached at (860) 928-1818, ext. 110, or by e-mail at charlie@villagernews-papers.com.

WOODSTOCK — Woodstock Academy's football team looks to get back on the winning track this weekend when it plays host to a co-op team from Capital Region Education Council magnet schools at noon, Saturday, at Bentley Athletic Complex.

The Centaurs are coming off a 52-36 road loss to Pittsfield, Mass. last Friday, Sept. 23, at Wahconah Park. Trailing by 26 points at halftime and hampered by five first-half turnovers — Woodstock rallied and pulled within eight points with just over five minutes left before falling to Pittsfield. The loss dropped Woodstock's record to 1-2.

Woodstock junior running back Kameron Janice rushed for touchdowns of five and 35 yards and Centaurs senior quarterback Jared Bouten ran for scores of five, 15, and 11 yards. Woodstock first-year coach Daryl Daleen said Woodstock's offense has performed well this season.

"I think offensively we're right where we need to be," Daleen said. "We're just not tackling. It's a young team and it's a new process — a lot of the stuff we're not good at yet. I'm really happy where we're at offensively."

Edwin Rodriguez rushed 16 times for 225 yards and three touchdowns (44, 11, and 67-yard scores) and Rodriguez caught one touchdown pass from Tyrell Boire for 74 yards for Pittsfield (3-0). Boire also tossed an 11-yard touchdown to Ian Benoit. Coach Daleen said the Centaurs have to do a better job stopping the run.

"(Pittsfield) was triple-option, that's the only thing they did, I think they only threw the ball five times," Daleen said. "We didn't show up to play and they're a good football team, that's what happens."

Five Woodstock turnovers in the first half hampered the Centaurs.

"You can't have turnovers and expect to win football games," Daleen said.

Pittsfield raced to a 32-6 lead at halftime. Woodstock rallied with 9:51 left in the third quarter with Bouten scoring on a 15-yard run to pull the Centaurs within 32-12. With 5:42 left in the third quarter Bouten ran 11 yards for a touchdown and then rushed for the conversion, drawing Woodstock to a 32-20 deficit.

Boire answered on a five-yard run to push Pittsfield's margin to 38-20. Woodstock responded on its ensuing possession as Janice rushed three yards for a touchdown and also ran for the two-point conversion. Woodstock trailed 38-28 after three quarters.

Boire opened up the fourth quarter with a 11-yard touchdown pass to Benoit to give Pittsfield a 44-28 lead with 7:44 remaining. Woodstock answered as Janice raced 35-yards for a touchdown and a two-point conversion and the Centaurs trailed 44-36 with 5:22 left.

Rodriguez closed the scoring on a 67-yard touchdown run followed by a conversion run with 30 seconds remaining.

Woodstock returns home this Saturday to play host to CREC (1-2). The Colts are a co-op team that draws its players from three magnet schools in the Hartford area. CREC is in just its second season of varsity football. Last weekend Woodstock's Mason Defocy stretches to make a catch against Pittsfield, Mass., last Friday night.

CREC defeated Wilcox Tech 40-22. CREC's Carlos Medina rushed for 238 yards and four touchdowns in the win over Wilcox Tech and Marquis Hawkins ran for 138 yards and one touchdown.

"(CREC) is a good team and they're a spread offense kind of team," Daleen said. "We'll have our work cut out for us — they use a lot of four-, five-wide receiver sets — so it's going to be interesting to see how we come up to the challenge."

PLATT 42, QUINEBAUG 16

DANIELSON — The Quinebaug Valley Pride fell to Platt Tech last Friday night in a Constitution State Conference matchup at Ellis Tech's field. Pride sophomore quarterback Josh Dodd connected on 15-of-32 passes for 232 yards.

Will McGlynn had 12 rushes for 40 yards and one touchdown for Quinebaug Valley (0-3 overall, 0-2 Constitution State Conference). Jeff Reed had six catches for 96 yards and Sam Getchell made four grabs for 95 yards for the Pride. The win lifted Platt Tech's record to 2-1.

Quinebaug Valley is next scheduled to play host to Hartford's Capitol Achievement Prep (2-1) at 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 30, at St. Marie-Greenhalgh Complex in Putnam.

Putnam boys and Tourtellotte battle to tie

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER SPORTS EDITOR

THOMPSON — As is typical in these backyard skirmishes between Tourtellotte Memorial and Putnam High — Tuesday's match featured end-to-end action — but in the end nothing was settled as the host Tigers and the Clippers settled for a 1-1 tie.

The non-league game did not have an overtime session. The deadlocked result didn't diminish the level of intensity. After a scoreless first half, Tourtellotte sophomore Spencer Fulone gained the ball in the middle of a crowd four yards in front of Putnam's goal and booted home a low shot at 21:39 of the second half to put the Tigers up 1-0.

"We had an opportunity to follow the goal there and Spencer was able to put it in to put us up," said Tourtellotte coach Tim Groh.

Putnam's Mohamed Sano answered at 31:38 of the second half, receiving a crossing pass from Hayden Belliveau and tallying to tie it at 1-1. The Clippers couldn't cash in on some earlier chances.

"It definitely wasn't a pretty game for us. We woke up a little bit more with about 15 minutes left," said Putnam coach Jon Miller. "Sometimes you're just happy with how a tie happens."

Miller lamented the near-miss by Putnam's Lucas Basilio at 3:45 of the second half, after he hit the crossbar on a breakaway.

"A couple things didn't go our way, hit the crossbar pretty hard once," Miller said. "Couple of shots that just missed, happens in these games."

Coach Groh said the rivalry is a healthy one and his Tigers rose to the challenge.

"We've been working on winning the ball in the air and I feel like we controlled the ball most of the game," Groh said.

The Tigers entered Tuesday's match with one win through their first five games and Groh hoped they can continue the intensity they showed against the Clippers.

"Everyone played good. We've been working on not giving up on plays and being a little bit more aggressive," Groh said. "This puts us with one win and one tie, we've got to keep winning and working to try to make States."

The tie left Putnam with a record of 3-3-1. The Clippers are next scheduled to play at Norwich Tech on Monday, Oct. 3. Tourtellotte's record was 1-4-1 through six games. The Tigers are next set to play at St. Bernard on Friday, Sept. 30.

Putnam and Tourtellotte will meet again this season, the rematch is scheduled under the lights at St. Marie-Greenhalgh Complex in Putnam with a 6 p.m. start on Monday, Oct. 17. Coach Miller expects another typical rivalry game.

"It's definitely building. This is the fifth time we've played them in the last three years," Miller said. "Tourtellotte has the lead I believe — I think it's 3-1-1 at this point — so it's always a good game with them."

Groh expects a prime time effort in the rematch in mid-October.

"We look forward to playing Putnam under the lights," Groh said. "We'll try to get a win there."

Ellis Tech netters down Putnam Clippers

PUTNAM — If Ellis Tech coach Michelle Miller gets her way none of the volleyball players on her varsity roster get too comfortable. Another batch of talented underclassmen have worked their way up to the varsity and that's how Miller likes it.

Some of those new kids are making it hard on the oldtimers.

"In their freshmen and sophomore years they were challenging upperclassmen and beating them out of their spot — and now they're juniors and seniors — and they're being pushed out of their spot by underclassmen. So it's been a struggle but we're working through it and they're starting to get it and put pressure on each other," Miller said.

Twenty players are in Miller's program, all jostling for playing time.

"We had 12 new kids come out this year and they're all taking on different roles," said Miller, in her 22nd season of coaching. "The team's doing great. We have a young team and they're improving every day and working hard."

The mix of youth and experience has been working well early on. The Golden Eagles defeated Putnam High 3-1 (25-10, 25-21, 10-25, 25-14) on Monday at Putnam High School. With the win Ellis Tech lifted its record to 4-3. Sophomore middle hitter Sydney Nault is one of the talented underclassmen and she made nine kills in the win over Putnam.

"(Nault) is starting to build more confidence in herself. She's starting to really get up on top of the ball by fixing a few fundamentals," Miller said. "She's only going to get better with more experience."

Junior Alyssa Delaney notched 10 service points in the win over the Clippers. Miller said she's become an accurate server.

"(Delaney) has really worked hard at working on her form and changing angles and following through and coming over the top," Miller said. "Whether she's successful or not she's really getting a lot of muscle memory and she's right on every time."

Junior Sarah Tellier had eight assists in the win over Putnam. Junior Kirstin Light notched 12 service points including three aces against Putnam.

"(Light) is very instinctive. She's very athletic. She might not always be in the right spot at the right time but she's always making the right play," Miller said.

Miller said the team always looks forward to playing Putnam High. The crowd at Monday's volleyball game was heavily sprinkled with football players from the Quinebaug Valley Pride, which features players from Putnam High, Ellis Tech, and Tourtellotte Memorial.

"It's a really great competitive rivalry," Miller said.

Putnam High coach Curt Hull was pleased the Clippers fought back to win the third set 25-10 but said their serve deserted them in the final set.

"Game three they had a decent service game, game four they couldn't serve a beach ball in the ocean," Hull said.

The loss dropped Putnam's record to 2-4. The Clippers are next scheduled to play at Wheeler on Friday, Sept. 30, with start time set for 5:30 p.m. Ellis Tech is next scheduled to play host to Plainfield High on Sept. 30, with the first serve set for 5:30 p.m.

KILLINGLY 3, WOODSTOCK 0

DAYVILLE — The Redgals swept the Centaurs in an Eastern Connecticut Conference Medium Division match at Killingly High on Monday. Junior middle hitter Ally Conde made 17 kills and notched nine service points to help Killingly lift its record to 3-1 ECC, 7-1 overall. Also for Killingly: Reilly Allen had 12 digs, five kills, and two blocks and Meredith Zamperini had 16 assists and 11 digs. Woodstock's Natalie Low had five kills and notched seven service points. Woodstock's record fell to 2-1 ECC, 2-5 overall.

Killingly is next scheduled to play at Fitch on Friday, Sept. 30. Woodstock is scheduled travel to New London for a match on Sept. 30.

ELLIS TECH 3, GRASSO 1

DANIELSON — Sydney Tetrault had 20 service points, Alyssa Delaney made 10 kills, and Alyssa Pignataro had eight service points in the Golden Eagles win over Grasso Tech on Sept. 23 at Ellis Tech. Set scores were 21-25, 25-18, 25-7, 25-6.

KILLINGLY 3, BACON 0

COLCHESTER — Ally Conde had 12 kills, eight digs, 15 service points including five aces for Killingly at Bacon Academy on Sept. 23. Also for the Redgals: Reagan Morin had nine digs and six kills and Meredith Zamperini notched 20 assists, eight digs, and four aces. Set scores were 25-20, 25-16, 25-10. Killingly lifted its record to 6-1 overall, 2-1 ECC. Bacon fell to 3-3, 0-2.

PUTNAM 3, WHITNEY TECH 1

PUTNAM — Lindsay Roberts had five aces and four kills and Mya Meadows made three kills and two blocks in the Clippers win over Whitney Tech on Sept. 21. Set scores were 25-21, 15-25, 25-18, 25-10.

KILLINGLY 3, MONTVILLE 1

DAYVILLE — Ally Conde had 19 kills, 15 digs, and six aces to help the Redgals defeat Montville at Killingly High on Sept. 21. Set scores were 19-25, 25-22, 25-20, 25-15. Also for Killingly, Reilly Allen had 12 kills and Meredith Zamperini notched 30 assists, 15 service points, and six digs. Montville's record fell to 1-5, 0-2 ECC.

ST. CYR NAMED WOODSTOCK'S GIRLS HOCKEY COACH

WOODSTOCK — Woodstock Academy recently named Scott St. Cyr as head coach of school's inaugural girls ice hockey team.

St. Cyr has been coaching hockey for the past 14 years as a head coach, assistant coach, and goalie coach for several private hockey organizations. He has served as head coach in the Massachusetts Premier Development Hockey League and coached the New England Future Stars High School AA/AAA Level Team that made it to the championship game last season.

The girls hockey program begins play this November.

"We are excited to launch the girls' ice hockey program and Scott St. Cyr is the perfect fit to get this program off the ground," said Aaron Patterson, Director of Athletics. "We had an extensive search process which drew many quality candidates from places like Canada, Buffalo and throughout New England and Scott stood above the rest. He has an extensive background in coaching hockey and a philosophy that mirrors ours here at The Woodstock Academy. I would like to thank the hiring committee for the great work they did and I look forward to seeing the team get on the ice in November."

Flexer secures STEAP grant to purchase generators for Brooklyn

BROOKLYN — State Sen. Mae Flexer (D-Danielson) announced that the town of Brooklyn has been awarded a $238,500 grant under the state's Small Town Economic Assistance Program (STEAP), which provides funding to smaller municipalities to assist with infrastructure and capital improvement projects.

The competitive grant will allow the town to purchase two generators that will fully illuminate the Brooklyn Elementary School and power the Clifford B. Memorial Center in the event of a power outage. The Clifford B. Green Memorial Center hosts a number of regional programs including the Northeast District Department of Health and Quinebaug Valley Senior Center, as well as Brooklyn town offices.

"Residents in Northeastern Connecticut, and Brooklyn in particular, know all too well what's it like to experience extended power outages and I believe that these generators are critical to public safety and emergency preparedness," said Flexer. "This is a good use of public money, and will ensure that both of Brooklyn's schools can operate in the event of an outage and that the senior center and health department can continue function if the power goes out. I would like to express my gratitude to Brooklyn for hosting these regional assets and for being aggressive in their pursuit of local funding to help offset the cost to local taxpayers."

The Clifford B. Green Memorial Center is used as the heating and cooling center in times of extreme weather.

"This is a great opportunity. With budgets being what they are today, it's hard to do extra things, never mind the

A whole new 'virtual world' at Westview

DAYVILLE — Residents at Westview Health Care Center were treated to an amazing new virtual reality program that is sure to change their view of the world, literally!

Thanks to Reed Hayes, MIT Sloan School of Management graduate student and cofounder of Rendeever Health, residents were able to transcend time and place with virtual travels to all over the world. Destinations included: the Grand Canyon, Paris, Rome, Greece, India and even their local childhood neighborhoods. The technology from Oculus and Rendeever uses Gear VR headsets from Samsung. The interface software program allows for access to digital images and videos to be viewed from all over the world. As part of a therapeutic recreational activity at the facility, the virtual reality technology is perfect for residents of all abilities to experience the wonders of travel.

"We learned of this new technology from a resident's family member who presented an article to us from the Boston Globe that featured this brand new company," stated Administrator David T. Panteleakos. "We were all amazed by the reactions of our residents as they viewed the images and experienced the vivid imagery. The program has so many beneficial elements for our residents and words alone cannot describe the potential impact to their quality of life. We are also very excited about bringing this brand new cutting edge technology to all of our residents as part of our routine recreational programming."

Rendeever and this new virtual reality program will be featured on the CBS This Morning show next week.

things you need, so this comes at a great time for us and is very much appreciated," said Brooklyn First Selectman Rick Ives. "I'm thankful for this grant, which wouldn't have happened without our state Senator Mae Flexer and Lt. Governor Nancy Wyman working on behalf of Brooklyn."

The STEAP grant is expected to fully cover the cost of the equipment, according to Ives at no cost to local taxpayers. The project at Brooklyn Elementary School will ensure the safety of students and staff, and allow use of the building as community shelter during emergencies. Similarly, the generator at the Clifford B. Green Memorial Center will ensure that the building's electricity is not disrupted during emergencies.

'A Taste for NOW' set to return to Mansion at Bald Hill

WOODSTOCK — Northeast Opportunities for Wellness, Inc. (NOW) will hold its 5th Annual A Taste for NOW, A Taste for Life on Friday, Oct. 14, from 6 to 9 p.m., at The Mansion at Bald Hill Banquet Center. The event has become a celebrated annual tradition for the nonprofit, with over 200 people attending and over $11,000 raised in 2015. Tickets to the event are available for $60 per person, with proceeds to benefit NOW's youth scholarships and programs.

The event invites attendees to "taste" selections from the area's top restaurants, caterers, and bakeries. All food provided is paired with beer and wine selections provided by Friendly Spirits. For 2016, there are 18 restaurants participating, including: 85 Main, Black Dog Bar & Grille, Bella's Bistro, Connecticut National Golf Club, The Courthouse Bar & Grille, The Crossings Restaurant and Brew Pub, De La Terre, Grill 37, The Inn at Woodstock Hill, Jessica Tuesdays, The Lunchbox Catering Company, The Mansion at Bald Hill, Renee's Working Girl Catering, Roots Down, Sherwood's Restaurant & Bar, Soleil & Suns Bakery, Sweet Pea's Fine Foods, and Victoria Station Café.

Friendly Spirits, which has provided the beer and wine pairings since the event was founded, will also donate 10 percent of sales made during the event to NOW.

NOW Executive Director Sarah Mortensen noted, "We are so thankful of the continued partnership with Friendly Spirits, The Mansion at Bald Hill, and the many restaurants that participate in this event year after year. It is a wonderful collaboration, and the result is a great evening of food, fellowship, and spirits."

Live entertainment will be provided by acoustic duo, That Dollar's Gone, as well as raffle items donated by local businesses. The funds raised at the event will assist NOW in their mission to introduce area children to fitness, nutrition, and sports. The event is one of several fundraisers NOW hosts throughout the year.

NOW Board member and Fundraising Chairman Earl Rosebrooks said: "The best part of the Taste for NOW event is that every dollar raised goes back to the community, and specifically to children living in the 10-town area. With all of our events, our goal is to put the "fun" in fundraising, and the Taste truly embodies that motto."

Founded in 2011 by an all-volunteer board, Northeast Opportunities for Wellness is a 501(c)(3) non-profit dedicated to making a positive impact in the lives of Quiet Corner children by insuring each child's access to fitness, nutrition, and athletics. Serving the 10-town area of Northeast Connecticut, NOW partners with other local youth organizations to provide scholarships to children ages 3-14 who otherwise may not be able to afford such opportunities.

Tickets are currently available online and at select locations including Chase Graphics, Friendly Spirits, The Mansion at Bald Hill, and WINY Radio. For more information on the Taste for NOW or Northeast Opportunities for Wellness, Inc., please visit www.nowinmotion.org.
