Leicester does it first!

LICENSED MARIJUANA SUPPLIER OPENS RETAIL ON MAIN STREET

 NEWS STAFF WRITER

LEICESTER — After becoming the first licensed recreational marijuana supplier in the state, a local business is eager to cultivate new opportunities for revenue.

Located at 1764 Main St., Cultivate Holdings, Inc., was granted the license on July 1 by the state's Cannabis Control Commission. The company's already existing status as a medical marijuana dispensary provided a head start over competitors in the quest to introduce retail products. Because Cultivate is an established business with an experienced staff and a proven framework for distribution, state authorities unanimously approved the company's request for a recreational license.

"The state has been very thorough with this process to make sure everything is being done correctly," said Sam Barber, the president of the business.

Cultivate has operated a medical marijuana dispensary for seven months. Doing business in the former Leicester Tool building, the company has created 20 jobs for area residents while providing a new revenue stream for the town.

"We really liked the area, and the town saw the benefit of us coming here and creating

Master quilt maker with a twinkle in her eye

SUBMITTED BY SHARON BELLINI

She's the one with a sparkle in her eye, a smile on her face and a skip in her beat. At 103 years old, Mary Madden surprises all who engage with her, as she self propels with eagerness to exercise class at Overlook each morning.

Mary is from Spencer and was once a teacher, a principal, and most memorably, a master quilt maker.

Mary's beautiful storytelling quilts decorate the walls of her bedroom, the hallway of the Overlook Masonic Health Center and as well the Richard Sugden Library in Spencer. Each month her embellished beauties are swapped out for yet another sensational surprise quilt.

This is never for recognition, Mary just enjoys sharing her craft for all to see.

One afternoon Mary was asked, how did your love of quilting begin?

She smiled brightly and said, "Well, I've always been interested in crafts my whole life. I became a quilter after retirement, joining a wonderful group of lady quilters. We were called the Heart of the Commonwealth Quilters."

Mary, along with these other heartfelt crafters, met weekly, creating amazing quilts only to be shown for the benefit of others.

Mary reminisced with excitement over her very first of 75 quilts.

She named it the Double Irish Chain, representing her Irish heritage.

Her most favorite of all quilts is her Victorian crazy quilt.

When asked what makes her most happy about the quilts she simply replied, "When I see the faces of the people who appreciate all of the hard work that I put into them!"

Mary's sister Eleanor, a nurse, and her brother-in-law Dr. John Meany both served in the US Army during World War II. During that time several soldiers offered their medals and patches representing commissions, ranks and honors to Dr. John, who gratefully accepted.

It wasn't until sometime later Eleanor mentioned these to Mary as she knew Mary loved crafts and thought these would be the perfect embellishment for her next quilt.

Eleanor and John offered all of the patches and Mary said, "Yes, I would love to take them. I will hold onto them until I have something important to do with them. Someday, I will

Gobi announces funding for local projects in bond bill

BOSTON — Today, Senator Anne M. Gobi (D-Spencer) and the Massachusetts Senate passed H.4613, An Act promoting climate change adaptation, environmental and natural resource protection, and investment in recreational assets and opportunity, colloquially known as the 'environmental bond bill.' The legislation authorizes the issuance of more than $2 billion in bonds to implement climate change adaptation programs and to improve existing climate resilient infrastructure.

"A goal of the Environmental Bond Bill is to preserve our natural resources and promote economic growth, while at the same time maintaining fiscal responsibility," commented Senator Gobi, who chairs the Joint Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture.

"We are fortunate in Massachusetts, especially in our area, to have so many wonderful natural resources that make

Revving up rehearsals with local talent

The Quabbin Community Band is far more than a group of local musicians — it's a collection of some of the finest talents in the region.

Featuring musicians from several area towns, the Barre-based band performs an entirely new set of songs at each summer production. This year, the group will perform multiple weekend programs, most recently taking the stage on July 15. For Peter Lewis, the band's musical director and conductor, it's exciting to perform with a dedicated group of people who share his passion.

"There are so many skilled performers in our band. It's very involved and there is a lot of preparation work required to get ready for each performance," Lewis said.

Established in the 1800s, the band went through a series of name changes over the decades. Each year the roster

The Outlanders perform during the first annual Music at the Museum event in West Brookfield.

WEST BROOKFIELD — Guests at the first annual Music at the Museum event enjoyed plenty of great live music — and the rest was history.

Held at the Quaboag Historical Society Museum at 27 Front St., the June 30 event brought out several families to see local musicians and then tour the museum. The program featured The Outlanders on stage, a local band composed of Rick and Janet Baskowski, with special guest Bob Zabielski performing on upright bass and flute.

After braving mid-nineties heat for a while to listen to the music, guests were eager to enter the museum and cool off. Once inside, many newcomers were shocked to discover a trove of historical treasures.

"A lot of people drive by here all the time and never even realize this place is here," said Ed Londergan, the co-president of Quaboag Historical Society. "We are always trying to find ways to get more publicity for the Society and the museum. It's exciting to see new faces here."

Among those new faces was Spencer's Nancy Stanley, who read about the museum in the newspaper and decided to see what it

DANCING IN THE STREETS

As the music of the Eddie Forman Orchestra wafts through the air at West Brookfield during the Wednesday night concert on the Common, this couple took advantage of the pavement at the corner to dance. They had plenty of direction from street signs, stay right, watch for others crossing, maybe (don't) stop; but they ignored them all as they enjoyed themselves, oblivious to others. ### Car Buying Tips

People ask Place: My new car seems so complicated. Why do I have all this technology?

The Right answer: During our recent Classic Cruise we were able to see first hand the many differences in today's cars versus the cars of yesteryear. The new cars had so much more in electronics to increase performance, efficiency, comfort and most importantly safety. The innovations many of us have simply grown to expect in our cars were not available in the 50's, 60's or even 70's. Much of the now standard features were developed in just the last few decades. Federal regulation and of course customer demand have contributed to much of the new technology in the new cars. Even some of the new technology like your cell phone have sparked new tech in your cars. Airbags that were once only in the steering wheel now seem to come from everywhere and can create a complete "canopy" offering protection to passengers in every seating position. Ford even has available inflatable seat belts to provide rear passengers even more security. Anti-lock braking systems, stability control systems, adaptive cruise control, automatic climate control, intermittent wipers, infotainment systems, all-wheel drive, 6 and 10 speed automatic transmissions, power windows and door locks, back up cameras, electronic ignition and fuel injection are just some of the things we have seen in today's cars that weren't in those classic cars we love. In fact, did you know that in early F series pickups a passenger side windshield wiper was an extra cost option. We love those old cars and trucks. They sure are great to admire. Look closely at the new cars and trucks and marvel at the things they can do. The advancements are incredible and much more is coming to improve the next generation of transportation.

Trekking his way through communities large and small

B.J. Hill 2: B.J. Hill, formerly of Leicester, passed through the Route 9 corridor this month as part of his latest walk across Massachusetts. He saw several fascinating sights along the way.

NEWS STAFF WRITER

B.J. Hill's passion for sharing stories has taken him from the west coast to the Oval Office – and pretty much everywhere in between. But no matter where his travels bring him or how many miles he amasses on foot, there is always another inspirational story waiting on the next road.

Hill's most recent journey began earlier this month, a three-week trek across the Commonwealth. Like all of his previous trips, Hill has stopped in several communities along the way to provide residents with a chance to share their messages. He spent the week of July 9 traversing the Route 9 corridor through the Brookfields, gleaning dozens of messages from residents that he will eventually present to Governor Charlie Baker.

Hill is no stranger to the road. He traveled on foot from San Francisco, CA, to Boston back in 2008, then progressed south to Washington DC as part of a journey that ultimately landed him at the White House for a meeting with former president Barack Obama. He also completed a statewide trek in 2014, but this year's journey saw him choose a different route featuring communities he had never visited before.

Despite passing through new towns, Hill saw some of the same themes crop up in residents' messages as those of his previous trips.

"I've definitely seen a few patterns. A lot of people feel like they are being overlooked in terms of resources, especially in small towns in the western part of the state," said Hill, a former Leicester resident. "The economy and jobs aren't as pressing a concern as they were four years ago, but a lot of people feel like their towns are being forgotten by Boston."

Hill previously scheduled his walking expeditions in October, but his new position as an elementary school teacher in Worcester forced him to change plans and walk in the summer. Add a heat wave into the mix – combined with the already punishing hills of the Berkshires – and there was plenty of adversity on the roads for Hill this summer.

"I had to adjust to the challenges of the heat and humidity, but it has been a lot of fun. I get such a great picture of the entire state and what residents are dealing with," Hill added. "I'm also able to see so many fascinating things I never knew were there. We drive down many of these roads year after year but never notice certain things."

Hill plans to finish his current journey at the end of the month in Provincetown. He thanks everyone who played a role in making his quest a success, especially the families who hosted him almost every night along the route.

"There are so many folks behind the scenes who make this possible," said Hill, who was hosted by friends, local families, and even an area teacher who took him in for a night.

This year's trip also provided some added fanfare for Hill, as the crew from the Today Show was expected to interview him as he passed into Worcester. In addition to collecting messages from individual residents, Hill also stopped at such places as the Leicester Senior Center to meet with larger contingencies.

Hill is hoping to complete his walk on July 27.

SPENCER – Once just a distant vision that seemed difficult to pull off, the Town-Wide Yard Sale has quickly become a beloved tradition. And even though no one wants to see the summer end, residents are already looking forward to September.

The third annual Spencer Town-Wide Yard Sale will take place on Saturday, Sept. 22, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Registration forms are available now for those seeking to get involved in the tradition. Proceeds raised from the event will once again benefit the Spencer Parks and Recreation Department.

For town officials, it has been exciting to watch event organizers and volunteers transform the yard sale from a dream to reality.

"It is a great event for our town. It's so important to have events like this that add to the fabric of the community," said Selectman Tony Pepe.

Sept. 22 is shaping up to be a busy day in town, as the yard sale will coincide with the Spencer Cable Access open house and the town's food drive to benefit the Spencer Food Pantry. In the first two years the event was held, it not only drew local residents but also brought in several guests from surrounding towns.

Proceeds from the event will help the Parks and Recreation Department maintain parks and facilities throughout town, in addition to providing new programs for residents of all ages. Guests on Sept. 22 can also check out a David Prouty High School student exposition and take tours of the Spencer Cable Access TV studio.

The yard sale will be held rain or shine. All registration forms for yard sale participants must be submitted no later than Sept. 12. A discounted rate is being offered to those who sign up by Aug. 1, and you can choose to sell items at either your home or a central location at David Prouty High School.

All registered participants will receive an official sign to post in their yards during the event. Their properties will also be listed on event maps that will be handed out to guests on Sept. 22 at DPHS. Nonprofit organizations are also encouraged to get involved in the event and secure spaces.

To learn more about the yard sale and its regulations, or to access a registration form online, visit www.spencerma.gov and follow the appropriate links. Completed registration forms can be emailed to SpencerYardSale@gmail.com.

Jaeden
10-Years old

Hello! My name is Jaeden and I am a loyal friend!

Jaeden is an imaginative girl of Caucasian descent. Those who are close to her describe her as feisty, sweet, outgoing and sometimes silly. Some of her favorite activities include making up stories and songs, playing with her Barbie's, and playing dress up with jewelry and make-up. She also enjoys riding her bike and playing outside, whether it's swimming, going to the beach or playing with friends. Jaeden likes to be in charge and independent but is also described as a loyal friend. She enjoys the structure of school, and in general thrives in an attentive environment with lots of positive reinforcements.

Legally freed for adoption, Jaeden will do best in a family with a mother and a father or two mothers. If there are other children in the home, they will need to be an older female. Most importantly, Jaeden needs a family who will stick by her side through ups and downs. A family must also be open to helping Jaeden visit with her birth parents three times a year and maintain contact with her two sisters with whom she is close

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have a "permanent place to call HOME."

Should I think about resale when purchasing a home?

The answer to this question is always yes. You never know when life will change and you will want or need to move again. Even if someone tells me they never plan on moving again I will always point out downfalls with a home that could cause a resale issue even if the person purchasing the home does not care about that downfall. Some of the important factors to consider that can affect the resale of a home are as follows:

Buying a home on a busy road - Many people are fearful having kids or pets on a busy road or the road could be a detractor as well.

Buying a home with 2 bedrooms on 2nd floor and 1 bedroom on 1st floor - If a family has children then they may not want them on a different floor than them and this can cause an issue.

Home being on a private road - For you buying a home on an unpaved private road may be nice to keep people driving slow through your neighborhood but for someone else they want a smoother ride home and let dirt and dust and the uncertainty of who may be fixing the potholes in the road may be a deterrent.

Big House and Small Yard - You may love the idea of having a nice easy yard to maintain while many people looking for a large home have a large family and they want lots of outdoor yard space.

Wallpaper and Carpet - You may be fine with the wallpaper and prefer the carpet over the hardwoods. Most people

prefer to have painted walls and will prefer hardwoods over carpets and sometimes the carpets are an allergy issue. Luckily these are things that can be changed.

Close to railroad tracks - You may not mind the tracks or even think the sound of the train going by is soothing. Other people it will wake up in the night and they may be concerned about their children or pets ending up on the tracks.

Home with no basement - You may feel you don't need that extra storage space in the basement. In many areas of the country homes do not have basements but around here it is more common to have on and most people want it to have the ability to store items there.

Biggest house in the neighborhood - People prefer to buy homes that are in a neighborhood with other similar homes. If you have a 3000 square foot colonial in a neighborhood of 1000 square foot ranches you will have a challenge reselling the home compared to one in a neighborhood with similar homes.

These are just a few examples of things to consider. If you are buying a home then consult with a local Realtor who can let you know when they see things that could impact resale and you can decide if you overlook them as it is the perfect home for you.

Greater Worcester Community Foundation now accepting applications

Greater Worcester Community Foundation is now accepting applications for its Community Grant program. Community Grants support nonprofit organizations that build healthy and vibrant communities throughout Central Massachusetts. Last year, the Foundation awarded more than $1.4 million in Community Grants to 137 nonprofit organizations.

Community Grants are made possible by donors who have set up endowment funds with the Foundation for this purpose, with grant amounts typically ranging from $2,500 to $25,000. Areas of interest this year include Civic Life, the Arts and the Environment; Early Childhood Development; Economic Security; Healthy Communities; Youth Development & Education. Organizations located in the Greater Worcester area that are engaging local partners or building local capacity will be preferred.

For those new to the Foundation or seeking a refresher, the Foundation will be hosting orientation sessions about the Community Grant Program over the summer. Sessions will be held Thursday, July 26 from 9-10:00am; Wednesday, August 1 from 4-5:00pm; and Tuesday, August 21 from 12-1:00pm. All sessions will be held at the Foundation at 350 Main St. in Worcester, and program staff will be present to take questions. tax revenue and jobs," Barber said. "Everyone has been very welcoming to us. It is a great small town, and we are happy to be here."

Cultivate doesn't have a specific timeline for when it can officially open as a retail location. Before the process advances, an independent lab must be approved for the testing of all retail products throughout the state. Once the lab is opened and products are certified, state authorities will give Cultivate the green light to open its retail operations.

Meanwhile, the process of readying the building to handle both the medical and recreational components is underway. Stations will be clearly marked as either medical or recreational, and residents must first pass through a secure vestibule and furnish proof of identification before gaining entry to the sales floor.

Employees will also rely on a comprehensive database to ensure that customers aren't being overserved, in addition to preventing unauthorized access to products. As the state's first licensee, Cultivate wants to serve as an example of responsible operation to all businesses that follow.

"This process is much stricter than what you would see at a liquor store. Everything is tracked in the system and there is excellent security," Barber told the New Leader. "It's nice having everything in one location. We have a fantastic staff, and we are looking forward to getting rolling in the recreational market."

You must be at least 21 years of age to purchase recreational products. No one is allowed inside the building without providing ID. For more information about the business, available products, and hours of operation, visit www.cultivatemass.com. Staff members are hoping recreational products will be available sometime in the fall, although the timeframe could be pushed up if the lab opens sooner.

GETTING LONG IN THE TOOTH?

"Long in the tooth" is an ancient folk expression that originally was used in reference to a horse's age, because horses' teeth appear to get longer as their gums recede. This age-related phenomenon is not limited to horses, of course. Not only do our gums tend to recede as we get older, but poor oral hygiene and periodontal disease are also linked to "gingival recession" (receding gums). "Periodontitis," which means "inflammation around the tooth," damages the soft tissue surrounding the teeth. If left untreated, gums will continue to recede, and the risk of tooth loss will rise. With this in mind, it's important to take notice of bleeding gums while brushing your teeth, the first symptom of "gingivitis."

We want you to be comfortable with us no matter what your oral concerns. We try to make all our patients' visits as relaxing as possible. If you are hesitant about visiting the dentist, for receding gums, cosmetic matters, dry mouth, or other oral issues, we invite you to call us at NINE WEST MAIN DENTAL, and find out how satisfying and rewarding a visit to the dentist can be. For full-service, patient-friendly dental care in a comfortable atmosphere, make an appointment today at 9 West Main St., West Brookfield. You can reach us at 508.867.2777.

P.S. Good oral health habits, such as brushing at least twice a day, flossing daily, and getting regular dental checkups can help prevent and reverse gingivitis, the most common form of gum disease.

And Mary did just that. She reached out to Tom Brokaw sharing the quest of her next quilt idea, asking permission to use the title of his book, "The Greatest Generation."

She was given permission, and set off to create her patriotic quilt, with more than 60 representations of soldiers serving in the war. We at Overlook had the honor of displaying the quilt during the Memorial Day tribute.

Taking pride in each of her creations, with each quilt telling her story and enticing interest, amazement and smiles brings a smile to her own heart.

Mass Audubon offering certificate program

WORCESTER — Attention amateur naturalists and other wildlife enthusiasts interested in upping their game and sharing their knowledge: Mass Audubon's Broad Meadow Brook Conservation Center and Wildlife Sanctuary is offering a field naturalist certificate program designed to prepare students for work in nature-based education, citizen science, habitat management, and other environmental fields.

The 11-week course taught at a college level, which runs from Aug. 29 through Nov. 17, is geared to individuals seeking to increase their understanding of the natural world in a professional setting. Students will gain in-depth knowledge of ecological connections and natural systems while taking part in field research, species monitoring, and communications training.

Classes will take place at the wildlife sanctuary's Visitor Center, 414 Massasoit Rd., Worcester, on Wednesday evenings, (6:30- 9 pm) and every other Saturday, all day (9 am-4 pm) at various locations throughout central Massachusetts.

In addition to the course meetings and experiences in the field, students will be required to complete 40 hours of independent environmental stewardship/volunteer work.

"We are continually impressed by sanctuary visitors' appreciation of and enthusiasm for the natural world," said Broad Meadow Brook Conservation Coordinator Martha Gach, who is overseeing the program. "In fact, it's been apparent that people in central Massachusetts are eager to connect more deeply with nature, and Mass Audubon has developed this certificate program in response to that interest."

Instructors for the program are experts in their fields and program participants will have a chance to learn from some very skilled and talented nature lovers, including: Mass Audubon's Wayne Petersen, Joe Choiniere, Cindy Dunn, Martha Gach, Stephen Hutchinson, and Ron Wolanin; Robert Bertin, a biologist and expert on the natural history of central Massachusetts at Holy Cross; and Tom Tynning, a professor of Environmental Science at Berkshire Community College and a former long-time Mass Audubon staff member.

To register and to learn more about the Field Naturalist Certificate Program, please visit www.massaudubon.org/broadmeadowbrook and scroll down to "Sanctuary News & Events".

Mass Audubon protects 37,500 acres of land throughout Massachusetts, saving birds and other wildlife, and making nature accessible to all. As Massachusetts' largest nature conservation nonprofit, we welcome more than a half million visitors a year to our wildlife sanctuaries and 20 nature centers. From inspiring hilltop views to breathtaking coastal landscapes, serene woods, and working farms, we believe in protecting our state's natural treasures for wildlife and for all people—a vision shared in 1896 by our founders, two extraordinary Boston women. Today, Mass Audubon is a nationally recognized environmental education leader, offering thousands of camp, school, and adult programs that get over 225,000 kids and adults outdoors every year. With more than 125,000 members and supporters, we advocate on Beacon Hill and beyond, and conduct conservation research to preserve the natural heritage of our beautiful state for today's and future generations. ## Senate passes automatic voter registration bill

BOSTON — Senator Anne Gobi (D-Spencer), Senate Chair of the Joint Committee on Election Laws, and the Massachusetts Senate passed H.4671, An Act automatically registering eligible voters and enhancing safeguards against fraud. The legislation creates a framework in which eligible voters will be automatically registered to vote when receiving services from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, MassHealth, and other participating state agencies. The framework will be overseen and implemented by the Secretary of State. "Automatic voter registration will allow the Commonwealth to work towards making sure that the hundreds of thousands of eligible citizens who are currently not registered to vote can participate in our democracy," remarked Senator Anne Gobi, "Enacting this legislation will help engage more individuals politically while giving the Commonwealth a valuable tool that will help clean up active voter lists and ensure that they are clear and free of error."

"It should be the state's burden to register voters — not yours," said Senate President Harriette L. Chandler (D-Worcester). "Long work hours and confusion about the registration process are barriers for many citizens. And thousands of Massachusetts citizens are eligible to vote today, but aren't registered. Registering to vote must be as simple as possible, and this legislation implements a process where any eligible citizen receiving certain state services is automatically registered. Today is a major victory for voting rights and social justice." The legislation bolsters voter-data security. It updates the requirements for transmission of voter registration affidavits and requires the Secretary of State to promulgate regulations to ensure registration is done through electronic transmission, with data security protocols and integration with the online portals.

The legislation increases penalties associated with voter fraud. It orders that whoever knowingly provides false information in connection with automatic voter registration shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for up to 5 years or both.

The legislation includes multiple opt-out procedures for those who do not wish to be automatically registered and it expands the Secretary of State's Address Confidentiality Program to allow voters to withhold their information from municipal street list records.

our region an ideal place to live and work. This bill is a prime example of how Massachusetts continues to lead in environmental stewardship; strengthening our commitment to the environment, while maintaining our ability to address our budget needs."

Massachusetts has continually demonstrated leadership in the fight against global climate change, and the investments authorized in this legislation ensure that cities and towns across the Commonwealth are protected and that public spaces and infrastructure are improved and maintained for the public good.

Senator Gobi secured bond authorization funding for the following town projects through the bill:

- $5,000,000 for water infrastructure projects in the town of Hardwick.
- $2,000,000 expended for water and sewer improvements in the town of Palmer
- $2,000,000 for extensions to the public water line in the town of Sturbridge.
- $25,000 for improvements to Turkey Hill Pond in the town of Rutland.
- $25,000 for improvements to Demond Hill Pond in the town of Rutland.
- $120,000 for improvements to O'Gara Park in the town of Spencer, including but not limited to the construction of a field-house and improvements to the grandstand.
- $10,000 for improvements to Powder Mill Park in the town of Spencer.

$5,000 for improvements to Luther Hill Park in the town of Spencer.

$300,000 expended for engineering, improvements and repairs to the Hamilton Reservoir dam in the town of Holland.

$200,000 for improvements to the Queen Lake Dam in the town of Phillipston $15,000 for the construction of a new well to provide drinking water for the Phillipston Town Hall.

$100,000 for improvements to Howe State Park in the town of Spencer.

$100,000 for improvements to Moore State Park in the Town of Paxton.

$100,000 for drainage pipe improvements on Stoddard Place in the town of North Brookfield.

The bill also re-authorizes the following projects included in related legislation passed in 2014:

- $5,000,000 for a dredging project on Lake Wickaboag in West Brookfield
- $4,400,000 for Whitney Pond Dam in Winchendon
- $100,000 for handicap access improvements to the Woodward Fishing area on South Pond in Brookfield
- $80,000 for Thompson Pond and $50,000 for Stiles Pond in Spencer

In addition to local project funding, Senator Gobi also ensured a boost to Massachusetts Dairy producers in the bill by including an amendment establishing a regulatory framework for the allowance of off-premise raw milk distribution, including through CSA agreements. If this is signed into law, Massachusetts will join sixteen other states to allow raw milk distribution including Connecticut, Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire.

The bill also provides $10 million in funding the Lakes and Ponds Program at the Department of Conservation and Recreation. This money can be used for technical assistance, studies, improvements and removal of invasive species in lakes, ponds, and watersheds across the commonwealth.

Additionally, the bill also requires the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs and the Executive Office of Public Safety and Security to: (i) coordinate to strengthen resilience and prepare for the impacts of climate change; (ii) publish, every five years, an integrated state climate adaptation and hazard mitigation plan; (iii) establish frameworks for state agency and municipal vulnerability assessments that will be incorporated into the state plan; and (iv) implement the state plan and incorporate information learned from implementing the state plan in plan updates.

The Senate bill was offered as an amendment to the environmental bond bill passed by the House of Representatives in June. The bill will now be reconciled with the House version through a conference committee to work out the differences between the two bills.

For more information please contact Senator Gobi's office at 617-722-1540.

Kids' art takes center stage at QVCAH

BY GUS STEEVES
NEWS CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — What do houses, butterflies and flamingos have in common?

They'll all be in profuse variety at the upcoming Quinebaug Valley Arts Center's Kids' Show Sunday, July 22. The show is the grand finale of this year's Summer Youth Art Program, through which about 45 young people from area towns have been exploring their creative sides, sometimes for the first time.

"I can't wait to see their art show," said Amanda Recknagel of Sturbridge, who has two daughters attending for the first time. "They make the kids feel like they're artists, and they're really immersed in it."

She noted her girls routinely bring home ideas and "recreate things all summer." They have exposure to the arts outside the program, via library events, various crafts and other things, and she encourages it at home.

"Nothing's structured. Everything's just building [toys] and bins of art supplies," she said.

Those girls are pretty lucky. Some of their peers don't get arts exposure at home, and with the schools tending to make the arts first on the budget chopping block, they might not get it in school either. That's a big reason Dolores Cowden started the program 11 years ago — she knows how important being inspired is.

Cowden caught the art bug from a fourth grade teacher who encouraged her.

"Every person in the world has a wonderful talent. Some people can expose it and do it. Others can't and need help to do so," she said.

Since this program began, she's noticed the kids "adore it and can't wait to come back." Many of them return for years until they age out of it, and some continue on as volunteer "apprentices," helping run it. Cowden says most of the program wouldn't happen without those eight apprentices: Anna and Elizabeth Naef, Julie and Aubrey Traverso, Hannah Guerin, Anjolina Fantaroni, Audrey Clark, and Maddy Creelman.

Naef, of Charlton, has been involved as either a student or apprentice for four years. On Friday, she was handling clipboard duty, checking off the youngsters to make sure everyone who'd arrived went home with their parents. Over the years, she's come to particularly love fashion sketching, and hopes to design her own dresses.

"Mom and my siblings are very artistic, so we do a lot at home," Naef said. "This is such a great program. It provides opportunity for a lot of kids and encourages the arts."

"Years ago, five-year-old kids understood some of the basic art principles," Cowden said. But today, she sees many come in lacking the motor skills and having a hard time imagining things because they've never had exposure to art at home or in school. Participation teaches them focus and follow directions, helps develop self-motivation, and encourages them to meet new people; some have a hard time making friends in school, but do so here, Cowden said.

"It's just amazing to open up their imagination," she said.

"It's energizing to have kids from the community who are low income status come here and get something for free," QVCAH President Mara McDonald said. "One of our goals is to fill the gap in art education that doesn't happen in schools because of funding. It's great to be working with people whose focus is developing children's minds across the board. To see those types of confidence transformations is huge."

Specifically, she's referring to the fact this year's youth program is the first one being funded by the Sturbridge Rotary Club, who donated $2,500 to cover paying the teachers and supplies. Rotarian Pauline White said they thought it "fit right in with what Rotary's focus is."

Bob White agreed, saying Rotary gets many requests for money annually and is funding several kinds programs this summer. He noted, "the kids couldn't otherwise afford it."

That's an issue McDonald hopes to address going forward in other ways, too. She said some people in the community see QVCAH events but don't participate because they think they'll be too expensive. In fact, many of them are free. Part of that is cultural; she noted the center wants to build connections with the Hispanic community, among other things.

The center serves 25 communities, but the vast majority of its students come from Southbridge, Sturbridge and Charlton. It's got a bunch of things planned for the near future, including several fall fundraisers, more classes, and a key decision at this month's board meeting on what to do about the Gateway barn, McDonald noted.

has boasted even more experience than the previous year, and the current roster includes over 50 people. Rotations are a common occurrence for the group, which features about 35-40 performers at any given production. That means band members must be extremely versatile and capable of working with multiple people.

"There is a lot of rotation because you never know what people's summer plans involve. For me, that's what makes the community band experience so enjoyable — you get to work with a lot of people," said Lewis, who became band director in 2006.

The band includes plenty of familiar faces, a few of which are especially recognizable for local residents. Observant guests attending Quabbin Community Band concerts will notice Senator Anne Gobi, who has played clarinet in the band for 15 years. After a busy week in Boston, Gobi always enjoys coming back to central Massachusetts and spending time with bandmates.

"It is a wonderful source of relaxation, and it's nice being with such a great group of people of all ages playing music that everyone can enjoy," Gobi said. "I started playing clarinet when I was in elementary school, and I played in the David Prouty Junior High and High School bands."

The band's July 15 performance showcased such songs as "An American in Paris", "Yellow Submarine", and "White Rose March." Band members hail from the Brookfields, Barre, Spencer, Brimfield, Petersham, Orange, and Warren, in addition to several other communities. In the past, band members have come from as far away as Gardner and Westborough.

"A community band is not something you find often across the country, but it is so important to the landscape of New England," Lewis said. "We have a far-reaching membership from many communities, which helps increase the audience base and also brings together people who normally wouldn't know each other. It creates great friendships and provides a unique experience."

The band always welcomes new members, and rehearsals are held every Tuesday night from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Concerts take place on Sundays throughout the summer. For more information about upcoming rehearsals or concerts, please call Lewis at 978-355-9879.

offers. Stanley and other guests were pleasantly surprised by the breadth of the museum's collection, which includes artifacts spanning several centuries in the six Plantation towns. From Native American items dating back thousands of years, to nineteenth-century school, agriculture and business relics, the museum has plenty of fascinating finds. Also, there is a detailed exhibit featuring the life of Lucy Stone, a pioneer in the struggle for women's rights.

"I really love all of the history here. It is so important for people to learn about history, especially with everything going on today," Stanley said.

The Quabog Historical Society was established in 1895 by residents of the original Quabog region who were committed to preserving local artifacts. Since then, the collection of Quabog artifacts has been steadily growing, and the museum has seen plenty of upgrades over the years.

For local musicians and bands like The Outlanders, it means a lot to take part in events that help gain exposure for a local organization. The Music at the Museum event also gave residents a chance to meet QHS members and learn more about the Society.

"We played here a few years ago and really enjoyed it," Rick Baskowski said. "It's always great to promote the museum and help bring more people out here."

The museum is open to the public every other Saturday and by appointment. Reference materials are available, and attendance by groups of all ages is encouraged.

A history lesson to relearn

While the lofty ideals of the American Dream would have us all religious zealous intent on creating heaven on earth, idolizing a perfect democracy already in our hearts as we set forth boldly where no one had gone before in the late 1500s and early 1600s to that great unknown continent; the bitter truth is so, so unkind.

Most of us were not so inclined.

The Cotton Mathers of the world were few and far between.

The explorers had found a wild land, ripe for the taking and the exploitation; to hell with the people already there.

The business people were wringing their hands with glee, great corporations created just to rape those profits as quickly as possible; the licenses to settle given over only through them and the right to ship and receive goods only through their trading companies.

Immediately the need for more hands and muscle was needed. Not education, not intelligence, just strong backs. Those corporations, the Hudson Bay Company, East India Trading and so on were only the beginning and as they grew stronger, or smaller splinter companies broke off and became independent, they had to find ways to populate their colonies, cheaply.

Deals were struck.

Jails were emptied.

Poor houses and debtors' prisons were cleared.

Not that they didn't fill again, because life was hard; but there was opportunity offered. Indentured servitude was one way out of a hard life, and judges were convinced to give banishment to the colonies as a punishment in some cases.

Some were just plain bought. And not even for much of a bribe.

Documentation from the time, from those who lived it, and those who were trying to make it work, say it all:

"A great part of the new company," says Mr. Stith, "consisted of unruly sparks, packed off by their friends to escape worse destinies at home. And the rest were chiefly made up of poor gentlemen, broken tradesmen, rakes and libertines, footmen, and such others as were much fitter to spoil and ruin a Commonwealth, than to help to raise or maintain one. This lewd company, therefore, were led by their seditious captains into many mischiefs and extravagancies. They assumed to themselves the power of disposing of the government, and conferred it sometimes on one, and sometimes on another. To-day the old commission must rule, to-morrow the new, and next day neither. So that all was anarchy and distraction."

Excerpt From: John Marshall. "The Life of George Washington, Vol. 1." iBooks. <https://itunes.apple.com/us/book/the-life-of-george-washington-vol-1/id492181829?mt=11>

It is no wonder our rebellious spirit continues to this day. We just don't like government much. Never did. Never will.

We cast fish eyes at anyone who tries to rule. We have a history of it.

So when someone comes along who isn't a politician, swears he will do it different, will drain the life out of those already there, will shake it up...of course we listen.

We were "led by our seditious captains into many mischiefs" and continue to be so.

We may now recognize that perhaps our rebel does have an agenda and his own cause. And he really doesn't understand that politics is a different animal and his business practices don't always work the same way in this world as they did in his private world. We may have had our rose colored glasses about him rubbed a bit less shiny; and do understand there are some problems with his revolving door policies with aides and appointed henchmen; a peek into ethics might be needed.

He is far, far, far from being an innocent in any sense of the word. He is manipulative, arrogant and a narcissist; and it has always worked for him in the private sector, not so much in the public sector.

But he is the president, he does have the power that goes with that office; and while he wields that power whether we agree or disagree with him; like or dislike how he represents our country, he's it.

Our history as rabble rousers and libertines means if we don't like it we can very well rise up and throw him out the next time around. What was a golden boy this time can easily become pond scum the next time. It has happened before and will again.

It is a lesson to learn and relearn.

VIEWPOINT

OPINION AND COMMENTARY FROM SPENCER, LEICESTER AND THE BROOKFIELDS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rubin: Early won't debate

To the Editor:

Yet again, I challenge the incumbent to a debate. I have made numerous requests for a debate over the past three months through social media, radio, television and most recently an article in the Worcester Telegram, which ran on June 8, 2018. To date, the incumbent has refused all my requests. His refusal to debate me is nothing short of disrespect to the voters of Worcester County. With your help, I would like to conduct multiple debates across Worcester County.

By comparison, the Suffolk County District Attorney's race has already had six debates and forums, with at least one more scheduled. Due to the incumbent, the transparent process taking place in Suffolk County is regrettably absent in Worcester County, and quite frankly, disrespectful to its residents who deserve more.

That the incumbent refuses to give the residents of Worcester County an opportunity to hear a discussion on the issues is outrageous. More outrageous is the outright denial of the incumbent politician to address my numerous requests for this debate. One can only surmise that the incumbent is not willing to speak publicly without the benefit of the carefully crafted and scripted press releases he quotes from that are drafted by high priced political consultants he pays for from his campaign account. I, on the other hand, have been speaking directly to the public for over 22 years without the assistance of political consultants or three press consultants who are currently on the DA's payroll at an annual cost of approximately $196,000 to the taxpayers.1

As an attorney with over 16 years of experience as a prosecutor and 5 years as defense counsel, as well as having worked in 3 different District Attorney's Offices, I know how the precious resources of the public should, and more importantly, should not be spent. If elected, I will spend the vast majority of the budget on paying and retaining experienced, dedicated and ethical prosecutors to work in the courtrooms representing the citizens of Worcester County. I am opposed to using taxpayer dollars to pay high priced administrators, supervisors, support staff and others who don't directly further the cause of public safety.

I am ready, willing, and able to discuss ALL issues of interest to the residents of Worcester County.

As a candidate for Worcester County District Attorney, on the ballot for November 6, 2018, and more importantly a resident of Worcester County, I request your assistance in moderating a debate with an incumbent who refuses to do so. The residents of Worcester County deserve no less.

Thank you very much.

Har-Yarok: taking his snippets from Fox

To the Editor:

In Mr. Spaulding's letter of 7/13 he voiced his displeasure with our democratic system, both in its design and contemporary implementation. He explained how liberals were out of touch with thinking religion is losing its grip and the religious right while antiquated is in touch with this "higher power". He mentioned "Liberal colleges teach atheism" as well as using an example of birth control as a slippery slope to "partial birth abortions". He likened illegal immigration to home invasion. There was mention to "Hillary's Benghazi" as a tragedy as though it is without question that Hillary is personally responsible for those deaths. It sounds like snippets from Fox News.

While it is true that higher levels of education are directly correlated with being more liberal and less religious, that doesn't mean that colleges teach liberalism and atheism. Perhaps there is a better explanation. Perhaps more educated people have had more exposure to more ideas and can come to more informed conclusions? Perhaps better educated people have been trained to think critically, to write research papers, to seek multiple sources of information, have been taught to identify dubious sources. Perhaps it is as simple as the fact that college graduates, on average, have a higher IQ than those without college degrees.

Mr. Spaulding claims to be a 70 year old man explaining what millennials, "kiddos" see as an explanation for why Trump is President and not Hillary. It sounds to me more like the machinations of a 70 year old man who isn't aware that Hillary won the popular vote by a significant margin, and that Trump's "base" is older, white, less educated voters. Millennials fed up with "liberal colleges teaching atheism" are not the reason Trump won.

Our secular constitutional republic is 242 years old and one of the longest continuously operating governments in the world. Its design with checks and balances was genius given the times. Our system isn't perfect, far from it. Direct democracy is not the answer either, that leads to tyranny by the majority, and 2016 proved how easily the American people can be manipulated by a foreign power. What is the answer? A well educated, inquisitive, and informed population. Massachusetts gives free tuition to senior citizens at its public universities. I suggest you find out what these "liberal colleges" are all about. If you can't find "Atheism 101", don't worry, they have hundreds of other courses.

Rosenberg: What's Appropriate?

To the Editor:

In an era where the President regularly uses racial slurs against his political foes, calls other world leaders short and fat, and comes up with pet nicknames for his foes (Crooked Hillary, Little Marco, Goofy Elizabeth, etc.) it begs the question, what is appropriate? What is an appropriate response to the President speaking publicly at a 4th grade level and using school-yard taunts?

The state of debate in this country is such that one side we have a name-caller-in-chief using unambiguously racist, misogynistic, and narcissistic schoolyard taunts, yet if the other side hits back with a well-reasoned, scathing, but hard to dispute commentary the reaction is "let's be civil here..." There is a double standard and it is destroying the health of debate in this country. It is as if Republicans are expected to play dirty but Democrats are expected to act better so it is out of line if they hit back. When a racist schoolyard taunt is responded to by a biting but accurate attack on the other person's character or intelligence we excuse the man-child and blame person who is supposed to be a grown-up?

Voters don't like being "talked down to" and don't like candidates who sound "professorial". Voters like people who say the things they believe to be true without regard to the actual truth. The truth is becoming less and less relevant as people form opinions on how they "feel". Newt Gingrich during the 2016 campaign explained on TV how people felt crime was getting worse, he was corrected several times that crime rates have been going down for decades, to which he countered with "but people FEEL..." I guess we are in a post-fact era.

If we can't "hit back" because we're expected to be better than that and we can't explain the issues, where does that leave us? Every day it sounds more and more like there is no way out. If one side can fight dirty, the other side has no mechanism to call it out, and the truth is increasingly irrelevant, then this country is headed towards single party rule.

Single party rule with a person at the helm who rose to power with an emphasis on restoring national pride and finding whole groups of scapegoats to blame for the lost glory has never ended well. Merging state and corporate power under a single party with the leader demanding unquestioning loyalty to the state and obedience to the ruler has never ended well. Those ignorant of history are normally doomed to repeat, but let's be civil here. I suppose this time could be different.

Snow: issues of politics

To the Editor:

Concerning the John Whitehead column: I read the essay on issues of politics superceding the people. A good example is my town. The people voted against a solar panel farm. The area they wanted is farm land.

A month later the selectmen voted four yes, one no. Guess we know who is going to win that argument!

Years ago we voted against a housing development being built in a certain area. Again, we were told the state favored it and vetoed our vote. Lucky for us, the builder went bankrupt.

Thanks for listening.

What should you do with an inherited IRA?

BURDICK

Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) are quite popular. At the end of 2017, investors owned nearly $9 trillion in IRA assets, according to the Investment Company Institute, a trade association of U.S. investment companies. Given these numbers, it probably wouldn't be surprising if you inherited an IRA someday. But what should you do with it?

First of all, you'll need to be aware of some basic rules. If your parent, or anyone other than your spouse, leaves you a traditional IRA – one in which contributions are typically tax-deductible and earnings can grow tax-deferred – you can transfer the money into an "inherited IRA," from which you'll need to take at least a minimum amount of money – technically called a "distribution" – each year, based on your life expectancy. These distributions are taxable at your regular income tax rate. If you've inherited a Roth IRA, you also must take these minimum payouts, but the amounts won't count as taxable income, because your parents, or whoever left you the IRA, already paid taxes on the contributions that went into it. (To make sure you fully understand all the guidelines on distributions and taxation of inherited IRAs, consult with your tax advisor.)

It's also important to understand how your inherited IRA will fit in to your overall financial strategy. Consequently, you'll need to address these questions:

How much should I take out each year? As mentioned above, you must take a distribution of at least a minimum amount from your inherited IRA each year – if you don't, you may be subject to a 50% penalty on the amount you should have taken. But you can take out more than the minimum. In deciding how much to take, you'll need to evaluate a few factors. First, of course, is whether you need the extra money to help support your regular cash flow. It's possible you have other pools of income from which to draw, and, in some cases, it may be advantageous for you to tap these sources first. Another consideration is taxes – if you've inherited a traditional IRA, the more you take out each year, the bigger your tax bill may be.

Should I keep the same investments? Inheriting an IRA doesn't mean you're stuck with the original account owner's investment choices. You can change the investments to align with your goals and risk tolerance, both of which may change over time.

How does the inherited IRA fit in with my overall financial strategy? You'll need to consider how your newly inherited IRA fits in to the "big picture" of your financial strategy. Are you adding redundancies? If you keep the inherited IRA largely intact, how will it affect your current investment mix? Could the added income from required distributions change your retirement calculations or even enable you to retire earlier? You may want to consult with a financial professional about these and other questions related to your inherited IRA.

The person who left you an IRA worked hard for that money and thought enough of you to pass it on. Consequently, you'll want to respect this inheritance – and get the most out of it for as long as you can.

Ain't nothin' but a good bird dog

One of many caught and released seabass off the coast of Rhode Island.

Although upland bird hunting is a couple of months away many sportsmen that want their dogs in top shape when it arrives, are conditioning the dogs early. This week's first picture shows Jerome Jussaume of Douglas with his new springer spaniel that he recently purchased from a breeder out of state. Although Jerome has a couple of other springers, he enjoys training them, and also competes them in numerous trials throughout the year. Now that he has retired, he gets a lot of satisfaction training and conditioning his dogs at the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club on a daily basis. That is what it takes to have a great hunting dog. Jerome has entered numerous trials over the years with his dogs, and has won many awards. Bird hunters that are looking to purchase a hunting dog for this year need to decide on the breed of dog that they will be happy with for many years to come. It is a long commitment when purchasing a dog, and requires a lot of time and patience, not to forget the cost. Vet bills are extremely expensive and the initial cost of purchasing a dog from a breeder is not cheap. $1,000+ for a dog from a highly respected breeder is the going price.

RALPH TRUE

Sportsmen that belong to a Rod & Gun Club like Uxbridge, that have a preserve status license for hunting birds from September to March, also get to enjoy a lot of days in the field hunting birds raised and stocked on the premises on a weekly basis. Quail, chucker partridge and pheasant are made available to the members for training dogs and for hunting. It takes a lot of work to keep the program going each year, and it often falls on the shoulders of a few members every year. Hopefully this year will be different as numerous new members have joined the club and have bird hunting dogs. Other clubs that have similar programs are Wallum Lake Rod & Gun, Singletary Rod & Gun & the 200 Sportsmen's Club, although Singletary and the 200 Sportsmen's club receive state birds to raise, and they must stock them in hunting areas that are open to all state licensed hunters.

A raccoon recently tested positive for rabies in Uxbridge. The animal was shot by an area resident when the animal constantly harassed him, and would not leave the premises. The resident notified police of the incident, and the town dog officer picked up the animal to have it tested for rabies. It came back positive. My son Ralph Jr. also had an encounter with a raccoon when he went to deposit some trash into his dumpster this week. The animal was very mangy and did not move when he opened the cover of the dumpster. He left the cover open and the animal was gone the next day. Residents need to be careful with all wild animals that act strangely, and police need to be notified.

Saltwater fishing is red hot in both Massachusetts & Rhode Island. Stripers, seabass & fluke are still providing action for area fishermen. This past week this writer and Harry Salmon fished a couple of miles east of the Center Wall at Galilee RI and had a great time catching monster seabass. We were also surprised to catch a couple of mackerel in the same area. We had not caught mackerel in the area for years. Reports of large schools of mackerel near Block Island could be the reason for the great striper fishing in the area. The second picture shows a monster seabass taken on a 1/4 oz. Road Runner jig with red and white colors. It was tipped with a live mummy. It was released with numerous others, because we already had our limit of seabass.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Emerson:

To the Editor:
I am writing to comment on a letter submitted by James Spaulding in the July 13 New Leader. I thought I was done with responding to this kind of letter, but I believe that Mr. Spaulding has thoroughly misinterpreted the comments of a June 29 editorial and then supplied us with a litany of grievances without the benefit of any supporting documentation. I do not begrudge anyone their opinions but I do insist that a public airing of them be supported by some fact or logical construction.

The editorial in question concerned itself with the absence of millennials in the political discourse of this nation and then posed possible reasons and explanations for this phenomenon. It was, I thought, quite a good and sensibly written editorial.

However, Mr. Spaulding chose to exercise his disapproval of millennials by first claiming to understand them (which he obviously does not) and then, using a classic conservative ploy, assign to them as if they were of one voice and mind (sounds like Fox News here) that their true intention is to somehow undermine our great and ancient republic with (I am guessing here) socialist dogma. But the thought presented was so poorly constructed that it is difficult to discern exactly what the attempted point is of the opening paragraph.

So, I turn to the second paragraph. Here it appears the author is arguing against his own point which I interpret to be that Congress is the bought dog of the one percent. Now this is something I can get behind. Yet, I'm not sure this is what is meant. Is it a charade or a virus? Or is just a virus when one party does it? I must confess that I am confused. Nevertheless as a Progressive, I go on record being against allowing unrelated riders being attached to major legislation simply to exercise some special interest's corruption.

Trump's election is a tragedy. A point mutually agreed upon. However, I do not believe that liberal excesses are the issue here. If it were, the Bernie Sanders phenomenon would not have occurred. There is, indeed, an outcry for fairness and equality amongst those most abused by the neo-liberal policies of our elected officials. Trump successfully tapped into that discontent and was aided and abetted by a very flawed Democratic candidate. But please be advised that both political parties have been thoroughly corrupted by the one percent and neither will ever willingly address the reforms necessary to restore either justice or true prosperity to the country. As Chris Hedges has written, "In this country it is impossible to vote against the interests of Goldman Sachs."

I think the theme of the next paragraph is "unintended consequences". I would argue that legalized contraception has been a blessing to both men and women, freeing each from the burdens of an unwanted pregnancy. Whereas the pill is a result of modern medical progress, abortions have been performed since the beginnings of humanity. To state that the pill led to abortions is an absurdity. Late term and so-called partial birth abortions are performed only in cases of severe medical emergencies and are extremely rare. There is no causal effect between the pill and these medical procedures.

Why does every point I examine come down to some undocumented liberal doing wrong? There seems to be a profound imbalance in this reasoning. I'm sure at some time a judge somewhere sentenced a murderer to 12 years. But I also know for a fact that some career criminals have gotten off unfettered for their acknowledged crimes. For instance, not one bank executive was ever charged, convicted, fined or jailed for the wholesale destruction of the American banking system and the ruination the lives of hundreds of thousands of citizens as a result of that criminality. Yes, we all want justice to be done.

The reference to Obama was interesting. To me Obama was also a huge disappointment. He said all the right things, was sensible, urbane, supported health care reform, sophisticated and composed. Everything Trump is not. Yet, in the end, he still sold us all down the river using equal portions of political naivety and self-interest. How Benghazi is connected to this defies me. Being a Vietnam veteran is totally irrelevant to the point made. I do not believe being a military veteran qualifies one to anything other than free health care. Nor does it qualify or lend credence to one's opinions.

Time Magazine, not the New York Times, famously ran a cover in the sixties declaring that "God is dead." This was an exploration of a position by German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche proposed in the late nineteenth century. The actual position was that God was dead in the hearts and minds of the people, not that he was dead in any literal sense. I am not aware of any "liberal" college that requires one to attend an atheism class. Perhaps someone could edify me.

I don't see any reason to denigrate Millennials. They are just a demographic like Baby Boomers. They don't act like Boomers or think like Boomers. They take the world as it comes to them, just like we did when we were their age. It's not their job to perform for us. Unlike us, however, their time is now and the future belongs to them. When we can say that we left the world a better place than when we entered it, then we can condescend to them. Since that is obviously not the case, our responsibility is to get out of their way and let them have their go at it.

Rosenberg: Personal Attacks

To the Editor:
Recently a friend made me aware of a "flame war" of personal attacks in editorials in the New Leader last year between a former History teacher and his ideological foes. Having not paid attention to the New Leader in the past I read through the archives, and wow. It certainly got nasty. Strangely enough, the New Leader stopped publishing many letters because they were not sharing views on the world, politics, or local issues but person bashing. Then the New Leader went on to say that it isn't censorship.

It is totally within the New Leader's right as a private organization to publish whatever they want. The New Leader is not even bound to publish factually accurate things if they choose. This brings up the important topic of what is an appropriate amount of editorial discretion for a forum intended to give the public a place to voice their ideas. I believe letting individuals express their ideas is just as important as giving them enough rope to discredit themselves. Ad hominem attacks can be funny to read, and they often say more about the author than the target. I say, let 'em say whatever they want. Don't act as a filter. Allow the Viewpoint section to become the "Jerry Springer of print". Some of the attacks have been and will be nasty, but it allows us to get to the root of the issue.

Sometimes people deserve nasty things to be said to them. Sometimes adjectives that are interpreted as pejoratives are actually accurate. For example, it sickens me that we can't call a racist person racist anymore because it isn't nice. Some people are racists and deserve it to be called out. On the other hand some ad hominem attacks merely showcase how hollow the author's position was that they had to resort to name calling. Contemptuous comments should be allowed because they are part of healthy debate and fact discovery.

Where should the line be? In my opinion the line should be at threats to a person or property.

McRae: the tale of two bus drivers

To the Editor:

Just as I had come to believe that since our local schools had been out of the news for some time now, perhaps some degree of stability--not to mention sanity--had returned to these institutions wracked, in recent years, by administration chaos and places which gobble up by far the largest portion of our local tax assessments, along comes the story of two bus drivers for the Spencer-East Brookfield Regional School District (article: New Leader, 28 June.)

If I understood the article correctly--and if the facts as presented in it are even close to being accurate--then a very real miscarriage of justice has occurred right here in River City. Apparently, a local resident with TWENTY-FIVE (!) years of blemish-free service to the District as a bus driver was relieved of his duties (read: fired) for having acted as the adult in a situation involving an apparently chronically out-of-control pre-teen rider on his bus whose behavior was not only obnoxious but downright threatening to other youthful passengers, as well as a distraction to the driver who really needs to be paying attention to the road and not to some dangerous Dennis the Menace raising hell in the seats behind him. The driver, acting responsibly as the adult, and following school policy regarding such matters, gets his thanks from the District by losing his job. Ditto his replacement who only lasted two runs with this same kid onboard before also being unceremoniously dumped.

This is what happens when a culture abandons societal common sense, or the collective wisdom acquired over many generations of regular folks learning what worked and what didn't. It wasn't that long ago in our history as a people--even here in the oh-so-politically-correct "progressive" bastion of Massachusetts--that the schools were in the hands of intelligent, conscientious men and women who weren't afraid to be the adults who had to make decisions which impacted the quality of their product: reasonably well-educated working class children. Had such a situation as the current one arisen back in those times I think it would have probably been resolved along these lines: The Principal calls angry Mom in for a conference at which time he/she says "Madame, I've spoken with those involved in this matter, and it seems your son is unable to control himself on the school bus. He will either sit in his seat and behave, or you will have to find another way to get him to and from school. Thank you for coming in, and have a good day." And that would have been the end of it. But, not any more. Isn't it just great how far we've advanced under the guidance of PC liberals who now run everything, and run it all right into the ground?

I wish to congratulate the two drivers who stood their ground, and did their duty to protect those children in their charge. Sometimes people appear whose integrity cannot be purchased by the threat of losing a job they apparently liked doing and did it well. As much as I hate the idea of litigating every little thing in life, if these two gentlemen have to resort to the courts to redress this outrage, I hope they prevail. I respect their steadfast refusal to "go along to get along."

As for the administration responsible for this gratuitous decision to go after these good men rather than the miscreant's misbehavior, what have you gained? Now, in September when the buses are rolling again, who are you going to find to drive that route from hell? Here's a modest proposal: Why not let someone from the front office, some decision-maker, take the route for a while just to see what it's like? After all, now the damage has been done, now that you've thrown these two drivers under their own bus, it doesn't really matter who physically sits at the wheel, the real driver of the bus is the kid who should be auditioning for a part in the next production of William Golding's "Lord of the Flies."

And, by the way, as one who had plenty of these problem children to deal with over my thirty years in the classroom, I don't hold any animosity for the child. Some kids will do as much as they can get away with if they think you are impotent to respond; adults do these troubled children no favors when they overlook, excuse, or ignore their unacceptable behavior. But, I'm sure our highly trained school administrators understand this fundamental point.

What could be more delightful than the summertime pleasure of plucking fresh herbs

***

Perennial herbs may be harvested once during the first year and up to three times each season after the initial growth year. Harvest up to 75 percent of the top growth in late spring and another quarter in late summer. Stop harvesting about one month before the frost date. Late pruning could encourage tender growth that cannot harden-off before winter.

***

Flowering herbs should be harvested when the buds are apparent or when flowers are just opening. This is when their oil concentration is at its peak.

Preserving Herbs

While herbs for cooking should be used fresh for optimal quality and flavor, a zealous growing season can necessitate preserving the herbal plants. There are several methods to "keep" herbs for later use.

Freezing: This is the easiest method to preserve herbs that are to be used in cooking. Herbs should be cut fresh and rinsed briefly in cold water. Chop herbs and spread out on a cookie sheet to freeze. Once frozen, transfer to a zip lock freezer bag. Another popular way to freeze herbs for uses in soups and other dishes that require liquid is to place pinches of herbs in water filled ice cube trays. Freeze and pack them into a zip lock freezer bag. Don't refreeze herbs after thawing.

Drying: Drying is the traditional method of herb preservation. There are also several methods to dry herbs for later use.

Air Drying: If the herbs are clean, do not wet them. Otherwise, rinse, shake off the excess water, and spread the herbs out to dry on paper towels or dishcloths until all surface moisture has evaporated. Remove any dead or damaged foliage. Then, tie the stems into small bundles with twine or string and hang them upside down in a warm, dry, airy place out of the sun. Be sure to make small, loose bundles and allow for good air circulation around each bunch. Dry indoors as sun and dew moisture can discolor and ruin the quality of many herbs. Hang and dry in the kitchen or even a garage or shed. Note: Some herbs, such as basil and mints may mold if not dried quickly. An alternative to hanging herbs to dry in bunches is to spread the herbs out on window screens. Suspend the screens over sawhorses or the backs of chairs. Turn the leaves often to ensure even drying. To air dry herbs with seeds, tie the herbs in small bundles and suspend inside a paper bag with holes punched in the sides. Suspend the bag in a dark area with good air circulation. Collect the seeds when they are dry, and store in rigid light-proof containers.

Oven Drying: Traditional kitchen stoves can also be used to dry herbs. Spread the herbs on cookie sheets and dry at the lowest temperature. Home food dehydrators also do an excellent job of drying herbs. Follow the directions provided with the dehydrator.

Herbs are sufficiently dry when they are brittle and crumble easily. When the leaves are dry, separate them from their stems and package the leaves in rigid containers with tight fitting lids. Glass or hard plastic are best, although zip-lock plastic freezer bags can be used. To preserve full flavor, avoid crushing the leaves until you are ready to use them. Store dried herbs in a cool, dry place away from sunlight, moisture, and heat. Many herbs can keep for a year if stored properly.

Cherry Valley loses Legion regular season finale, but hopes for success in playoffs

Cherry Valley's Nate Shoemaker works through his pitching motion on the mound.

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SHREWSBURY — The Cherry Valley Post 443 American Legion baseball team dropped its regular season finale to Shrewsbury Post 397, 8-7, due to a walk-off walk on Saturday, July 14 at Shrewsbury High, but the local nine had a turnaround summer — finishing 14-10 — and will look ahead to a Zone 4 Samko Playoff appearance.

After tallying six runs in the first two innings a few weeks back before rain caused the rest of the game to be postponed, it was clear Post 443 didn't have that same offensive firepower from the restart. In their first at-bat in the top of the third Post 443 went down in order quickly with two ground-outs and a pop out.

Nate Shoemaker took the mound for Cherry Valley and was efficient in his first inning of work, but struggled against a good hitting Shrewsbury team in the bottom of the third when Post 397 rallied for six runs to tie the game.

"We gave up six runs that inning and we should've been out of that inning, a couple of pop outs to the outfield, the outfielder took a bad break and then he didn't run," Cherry Valley manager Jim Stephens explained about his team's breakdown in the third.

Chris Kustigian came into the game in relief and was able to ease the rally as both teams headed into the fourth inning tied at 6-6.

"What we tried to do today, it was a very important game to them, but it didn't mean much to us other than standings," Stephens explained about his game plan going in. "Of course you want to win every game, but I think it was important that we got those three kids [Shoemaker, Kustigian and eventually Aidan Gilman] to pitch again. Get our pitching rotation going again because this pitch count thing has really botched us up. We could've pitched Gilman the whole game and I think we would have beat them, but if I did I wouldn't have had him for Tuesday night, so he had to stay under 60 pitches."

After Post 397 closed the gap, Post 443 was able to get some offense going when Tyrus Garvin singled to right field with one out. Moments later Garvin scored on an RBI double to left field by Gilman to break the tie, 7-6.

Kustigian was able to come out in the bottom half of the inning and throw a scoreless frame, highlighted by a brilliant snap throw by catcher Michael Bordeaux to pick off a Shrewsbury runner at third base.

"Kustigian was a freshman this year and he has played 23 games for us," praised Stephens. "I think he could be the most improved player on the team. He has had himself a good year, he has grown, he goes out on the mound, he likes to pitch, there is just no fear."

Gilman then came in to pitch in the bottom of the fifth with runners on first and second with one out and he was able to get his team out of the inning when he forced a double play.

Post 397 tied the game at 7-7 in the sixth, though, when they plated a run when Cherry Valley executed a double play with runners on the corners. Shrewsbury (21-3) then won the game in the next inning.

Despite the loss, Cherry Valley finished the season with 14 wins and the sixth seed in the playoffs. This year's success has a lot to do with the veteran players coming back looking to win.

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

Dan Mero of Cherry Valley turns a double play at second base.

"It is big for us," expressed Stephens "The older kids coming back this year was big. They are the ones that helped the program. We have been struggling, just missing winning seven games, but they came back and made it important, these guys are leaders."

"Evan Fritze, Cam Hart and Ryan Sanderson," stated Stephens. "They are all college kids that came back and they made it important to come back and win, you don't win without the older kids. They are the leaders and they teach the young kids how to commit and grind. Fritze has been out with a bad leg, but he is here keeping score and giving direction. Good for him, it has been a good year and I am very happy to be a part of this."

Cherry Valley will look for a productive playoffs — where they will start with a matchup with No. 3 Milford Post 59, after press time — and two things need to happen in order to remain successful.

"We need to pitch well and we need to play better defense," stated Stephens. "Our team can hit, we do hit. We play best when we play good defense. If we play good defense and our two main pitchers pitch well we will be in the games."

Spencer crushes the competition

LOCAL U14 GIRLS' SOCCER TEAM FINISHES FIFTH IN STATE

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SPENCER — The Spencer Crushers U14 girls' soccer team finished the Division 2 spring season fifth in the state, largely because at one end of the pitch they kept putting the ball in the net, while on the other end they were keeping it out of the net.

The team, all of whom go to Knox Trail Middle School, consisted of: Katie Boria; Hailey Cournoyer; Jessica Fulmer; Tatum Giggey; Brielle Hart; Faith LaMonda; Jocelyn LaMonda; Taylor Mercier; Ayla Messier; Madison Ogert; Paige Parenteau; Payton Prouty; Emily Soter; Gabby Soter; Lindsey Soter; Julianna Sullivan; and Lauren Wood.

After an 8-0 regular season, which included seven shutouts, the Crushers advanced to play in the Midland Area Youth Soccer (MAYS) Tournament. After winning its first two tournament games at Glavin Field in Shrewsbury — 5-1 over Worcester and 3-2 over Northbridge — Spencer lost in the MAYS Tournament Final, 4-2, to Auburn.

Leading the Crushers' offense against Worcester was Sullivan, who scored three goals in the game.

"Julianna typically doesn't score, but she got a hat trick for us that game," said Joe Mercier, who coaches the Crushers along with his wife, Kate.

Against Northbridge, down 1-0, Hailey Cournoyer scored to make it 1-1. Then when down 2-1, Cournoyer scored again to tie the game, 2-2, and Gabrielle "Gabby" Soter scored the game-winning goal with about three minutes remaining.

in the MAYS final — played at Auburn Middle School — were Cournoyer and Faith LaMonda.

The Crushers' fine showing in the MAYS Tournament earned the team an invitation into the Massachusetts Tournament of Champions (MTOC) playoffs.

At the MTOC, played June 22-23 in Lancaster, Spencer defeated Dalton, 1-0 in its first game, Cournoyer scoring the lone goal of the game. The Crushers then battled Marshfield to a 0-0 tie and bowed out of the tournament with a 2-0 loss to Lexington.

The Crushers finished their year — regular season and postseason — with a combined 11-2-1 mark.

"It was a great season; these girls have been playing together for years," Joe Mercier said. "Most of them have been playing together since the U6 and U8 level."

In the Spencer Soccer Club the coaches move up level by level along with the team or teams they are coaching. Joe and Kate Mercier have been coaching this group of girls since they were competing in U6 tournaments.

"Because this team is very 13-year-old heavy we're still going to be a U14 team next year, and then following year we'll jump up to U16 and we'll be a young U16 team," Joe Mercier explained.

Cournoyer and Gabby Soter provided the majority of the Crusher's goal-scoring throughout the regular season and the postseason. Joe Mercier said Cournoyer scored 30 goals in the team's 14 games while Soter added 13.

Jocelyn LaMonda was in net for the Crushers all season. She allowed just one goal in the regular season to go along with her seven shutouts, and then allowed seven in the MAYS Tournament and two in the MTOC, during which she also posted a pair of shutouts. "Jocelyn is outstanding in net," Joe Mercier said. "She's been playing goalie for a long time. We're very strong defensively."

Kate Mercier and Joe Mercier were the coaches of the Spencer Crushers U14 girls' soccer team that finished fifth in the state.

Following the season Joe Mercier received the Coach of the Year Award on behalf of the Spencer Soccer Club. He received the award at the game between the New England Revolution and D.C. United at Gillette Stadium on June 30.

Joe Mercier said even though he was nominated for the award he accepted it for both he and his wife.

"We do this together; I include her in everything and she coaches right along with me," Joe Mercier said. "It was a really nice night for both of us."

Northbridge Post 343 takes two on final day, including win at Sturbridge Post 109, to reach playoffs

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — The Northbridge Post 343 American Legion baseball team stormed into the Zone 4 Samko Playoffs on the final day of the regular season, winning a pair of road games to improve to 9-15 and grab the eighth and final postseason berth.

Northbridge began the day — Saturday, July 14 — by defeating Sturbridge Post 109, 8-4, in a game that started at 11 a.m. at Tantasqua Regional. Then, after some lunch and some rest, Post 343 traveled to Worcester's Vernon Hill Park, where it defeated Main South Post 341, 9-4, in a game that started at 5:30 p.m.

The Zone 4 Playoffs began Tuesday, July 17 after press time, where Northbridge was set to play top seeded Leominster Post 151, and were scheduled to run through Tuesday, July 24.

Northbridge's game with Sturbridge was a mini-playoff game for both teams, which began the day in contention for that coveted No. 8 spot in the Zone 4 Playoffs.

Post 343 took care of business quickly against Post 109, scoring three runs in the top of the first inning. One run scored on a wild pitch, another on a bases-loaded hit batsman and the third on a groundout to second base.

Sturbridge pulled to within one, 3-2, in the bottom of the second inning, with Nolan Kingman driving in both runs with a sharp single to center field.

Northbridge pushed its lead to 5-2 with a run in the top of the third and fourth innings. In the third Harrison Mansfield's RBI single to right plated Brian Iarussi, who had reached on a two-out walk. In the fourth Logan Troy scored on a one-out fielder's choice off the bat of J.P. Lucier.

Sturbridge cut the Northbridge lead down to 5-3 in the bottom of the sixth inning, Curtis Koebke walking and then scoring on a groundout by Deven Kingman.

Post 343, however, put the game away with three runs in the top of the seventh to go ahead, 8-3. Northbridge scored its runs on an RBI single by Caleb Visbeek, a wild pitch and a balk by the Sturbridge pitcher.

Post 109 added a run in the bottom of the seventh on an RBI single by Jared Langevin to account for the final score of 8-4.

"It was a must-win situation and we just went out and took care of business," said Northbridge assistant coach Andrew Reed said after Northbridge's victory over Sturbridge.

Reed was sent to talk to the media by Manager Dave Meech, who needed to deal with a couple of injury situations.

"Everybody hit the ball well; everybody did their part," Reed said. "They knew it was a must-win game and they came to play."

Troy, Zach Roberts and Jeremy

Jenoure led Post 343's 10-hit attack with two hits each.

While Reed felt Northbridge took care of business against Sturbridge, Post 109 manager Jim Rosseel felt just the opposite about his club, who managed just three hits off of Northbridge pitchers Dave Meech Jr. and J.P. Hayes.

"We didn't come to play today. We were down. It just wasn't there," Rosseel said. "But to get to the final day with a chance to make the playoffs, well, that was ahead of my projection. My projection was for us to make the playoffs next year and I still think that will happen. If we would have made the playoffs this year it would have been an extra bonus for us like you wouldn't have believed."

While Rosseel was pleased with his entire team's effort, he was particularly impressed by the play of Tyler Stoever, Patrick Wilbur and Spencer Cipro.

"Stoever was solid all year for us and Patrick pitched a lot of games for us," Rosseel said. "And Spencer Cipro, he's just a 14-year-old and we were able to get him seven or eight starts. This experience for Spencer was second to none."

"It was a good year for us but a bad year as well; we were better than our record," Rosseel added about finishing

7-17, two games shy of Northbridge's mark. "There were a lot of growing pains but making the playoffs would have been huge for us. The experience value of making the playoffs this year would have been immeasurable. You make the playoffs and now you're playing with the big boys. We had a chance to do that and that's more than I thought we were going to have at the beginning of the year. We did all right."

Taking training to the next level, Leicester's Petrone to open Energy Athletics

Courtesy photos

Ryan Petrone is set to open up Energy Athletics on Aug. 11.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WORCESTER — One stop shopping, regardless of your sport of choice.

That's what Ryan Petrone and Energy Athletics will be providing on a large scale beginning next month when his training facility, Energy Athletics, opens at 243 Stafford Street.

The Grand Opening of Energy Athletics will be at noon on Saturday, Aug. 11.

"The space we're using for Energy Athletics is 14,000 square feet," Petrone said. "Because we have so much room we're able to provide baseball, softball, football and hockey specific workout space."

Also included inside Energy Athletics will be Voltage Performance Training, which will focus on strength and weight training. D.J. Reed, who will also serve as a personal trainer at the facility, will run the weight-training program.

Petrone is also bringing in Terrance Turner, who runs Turner Sports Training, who will be in charge of all the speed and agility workouts and drills that will be done on the expansive turf surface. Turner also runs The Football Factory/East Coast Football.

"Terrance is going to be our speed and agility guy," Petrone said. "He will run sport-specific speed and agility classes with each team. For example, he will shape the baseball speed and agility classes around the speed and agility needs of the baseball teams. These classes will be included in the tuition. He will conduct eight classes with each team and will include coordination, speed drills, and for players' 11-and-up lifting drills. We're going to have 11-year-olds learning how to do squats. I think that gives you the full experience."

"Terrance, obviously, will be our football guy, too," Petrone continued. "He coached a seven-on-seven summer league this year for high school- and college-age kids. This was the first year of the league, he held it at Assabet Valley High School and he had eight teams sign up and participate. It's a recruitment league. The focus of the league is training, speed and agility, passing and receiving."

Running the softball program out of Energy Athletics will be Worcester Union Athletics, a Worcester-based organization that provides conditioning, skill training, game play and tournaments in the spring and fall for girls ages 9-17.

Energy Athletics will have nutritionist Colleen Johnson on staff as well. Johnson is currently getting her master's degree in nutrition but will be available to handle specific questions and will provide updates on nutrition in the form of newsletters, which will go out to the players throughout the year.

Petrone, as he did this year, will run Energy Baseball out of the facility.

Petrone, 23, is a 2013 graduate of Leicester High and a 2017 graduate of Merrimack College. As a senior in high school he began the Mini Warrior Baseball Clinics program in Leicester and ran clinics and camps every year, donating a portion of the proceeds of the clinics and camps back to the Leicester Little League. He has had, through the years, as many as 350 kids sign up to participate in his Mini Warrior Camps and Clinics.

Last year, in addition to running the clinics and camps, he decided to start an AAU baseball program.

"It's a tournament baseball program," Petrone said. "Within the program we incorporated longer practices, more development time, and speed and agility, and we insisted on no parent coaching."

Disappointingly, only 10 kids signed up to try out for the first year of Energy Baseball. Surprisingly, however, the day of tryouts, 90 kids showed up.

"That was shocking," Petrone said.

So, Petrone started a 70-player program last year with five teams: a U10 team; a U11 team; a U13 team; and two U14 teams.

"Next year we project to have a U8-9 team, a U10, U11, two U12s, a U13, two U14s, two U15s, a U16-17 team which will be a showcase team, and maybe a U18 college prep team," Petrone said.

"Kids are coming to us from all over; Connecticut, Townsend, Pepperell, Leicester, Spencer, and Worcester, just to name a few of the place we're drawing from."

Petrone was asked why kids would travel such distances to try out and play for Energy Baseball.

"It's what we're offering; I offer an all-inclusive package," Petrone said. "We combine not only the practices — the baseball aspect of it — but we also do community service projects, which is required of all participants in the program, and we have no parent coaching. Our coaches are guys that have recently graduated from college and played college baseball coaching here. A couple of guys also played pro ball."

Petrone's coaching staff includes Auburn's Tyler Lamonda and Tyler Desjardins, Leicester's Tim Padeni, Rutland's P.J. Browne, former Worcester State assistant coach Chris Monroe and Kyle Pengallo, who led Southern New Hampshire to the Division 2 World Series.

Oxford's offense goes silent in Senior Babe Ruth playoff loss to Shrewsbury

WORCESTER — The Oxford Senior Babe Ruth baseball team, taking part in the Paul N. Johnson League playoffs, couldn't find its offense in the semifinal round versus Shrewsbury on Tuesday, July 10 at Lake Park's Tivnan Field. Shrewsbury topped Oxford in the game, 12-0.

Oxford, seeded third in the tournament, finished 11-5, while No. 2 Shrewsbury moved on and won the championship over No. 4 Tatnuck. Shrewsbury finished 15-4.

Early on it was clear what Oxford wanted to do, which was to come out and be aggressive offensively. They had no problem putting the ball into play, but getting under it and allowing opposing Shrewsbury defenders to make easy plays was the tale of the tape.

"I just told them," explained manager Jimmy Purretta, "we beat these guys one out of two times and today they just had the better day, we popped the ball up and they were hitting line drive base hits. They just put it where we weren't."

Oxford, who usually slaps the ball over the field, tallied an uncharacteristic one hit. It was a line drive two-out single to left field by Colin Ryan in the top half of the third inning.

With more time to get going, things might have been different for Oxford offensively.

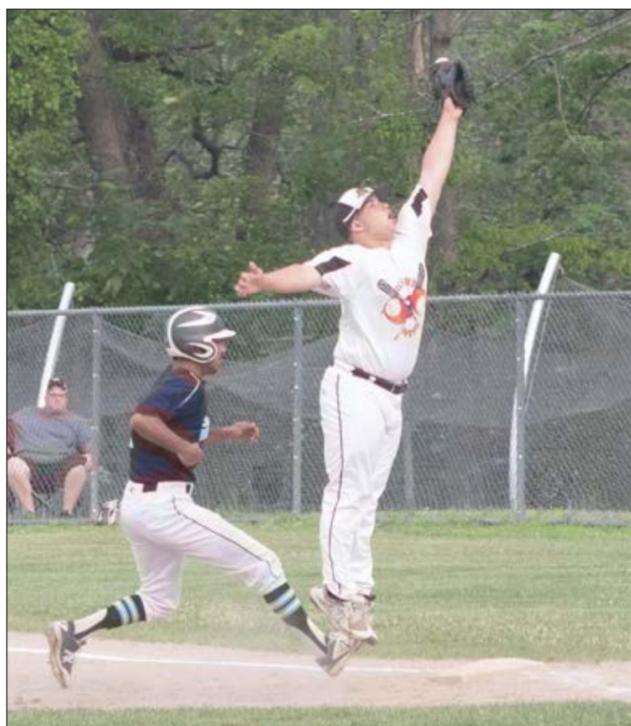

"It just wasn't our day. It is just one of those things where we ran out of time, but I would go to battle with these guys in another hour, tomorrow," Purretta stated confidently about his team.

It happens in sports where nothing goes as planned, but there was nothing but praise from Purretta for his guys.

"I love these guys," Purretta said with a smile. "I have been coaching these guys since they have been four or five years old. I won a state championship with these guys. They are incredible kids and each parent should be incredibly proud of each and every one of these kids. I love to coach these kids and I would go to battle with them every single day."

Jake Leone of Oxford fires a ball to home plate off the mound.

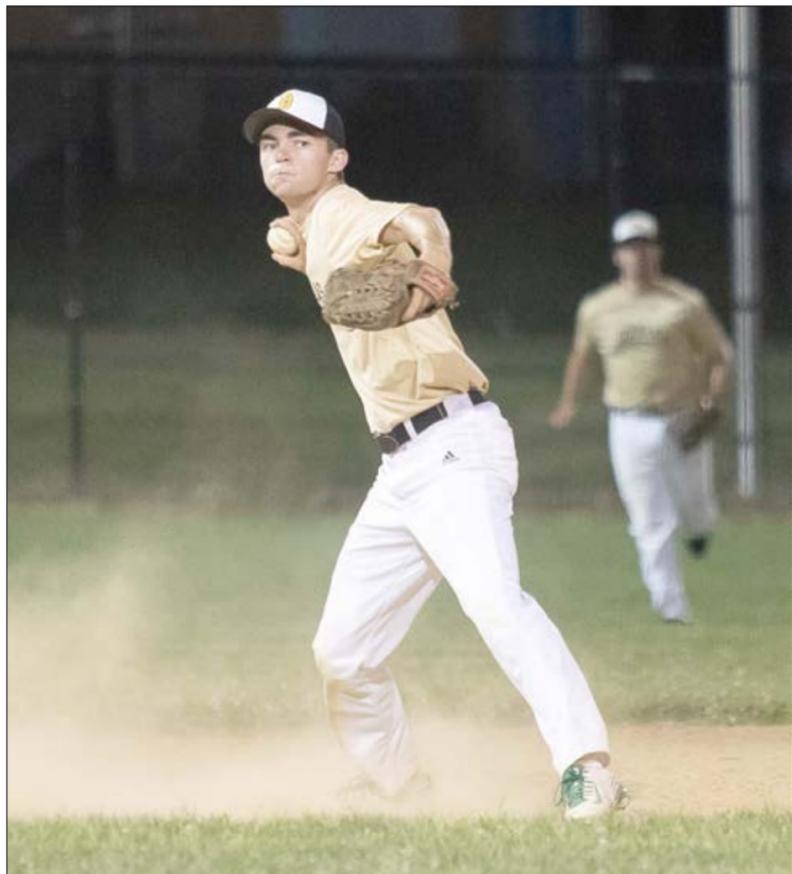

Oxford's Ryan Steiner leaps to keep his glove on the ball and make a runner stay at first base.

Tatnuck gets to Douglas pitching late to win Senior Babe Ruth playoff semifinal

WORCESTER — Top ranked Douglas struck first in its Senior Babe Ruth semifinal match-up versus No. 4 Tatnuck on Tuesday, July 10 at Vernon Hill Park, but late inning pitching struggles called for a tough 10-3 loss in the Paul N. Johnson League playoffs. Tatnuck (13-7) then lost to No. 2 Shrewsbury in the championship series two days later, while Douglas finished 12-5.

Douglas and Tatnuck had traded runs since the first inning — Colin Faucher got it started with an RBI single into left field — and they trailed, 3-2, in the fifth. That's where Matt Fiore plated Devon Paine with an RBI single to tie the game at 3-3.

Douglas then made the decision to send Christian Russo in to relieve starter Dom Decarlo. Decarlo pitched five solid innings, allowing three runs and striking out seven Tatnuck batters.

Russo's outing started out unfortunate when he struck out the first batter he faced, but a dropped third strike allowed the batter to get to first. This base runner came around to score the run that broke the tie. After giving up the free base runner, things started going downhill for Russo when he plunked two batters and walked two more to give Tatnuck a 5-3 lead. However the competitiveness showed in Russo as he bounced back and struck out back-to-back batters. Unfortunately in the next at-bat Tatnuck cleared the bases with a triple to open up an 8-3 lead.

Douglas got to the playoff semifinals with its pitching, but against Tatnuck it just wasn't meant to be.

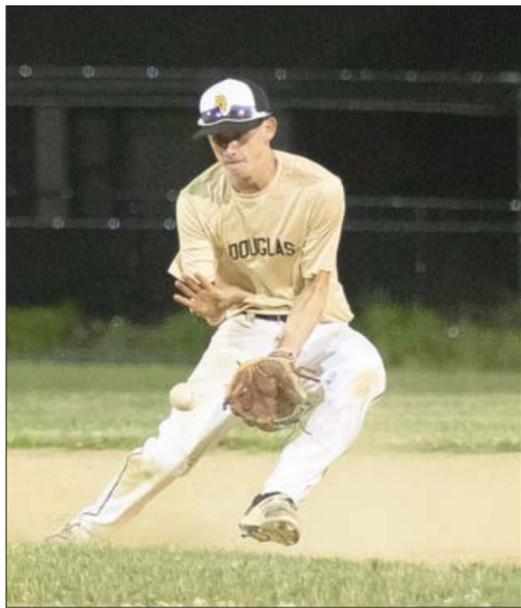

"Our strength was our pitching," expressed Douglas manager Justin Carter. "We had four real solid starters and we had a really good mix of veterans and our young guys. Five or six 16 year olds really infused some energy into the team and they learned a lot as well as gaining a lot of valuable experience."

Douglas fought hard throughout and it showed their dedication to a rigorous summer baseball schedule.

"It has been a long summer," explained Carter. "It is an aggressive season that they cram into about a month. I can't thank these guys enough for giving me 110 percent. I am very proud of them."

Coming back and coaching his son [Nolan Carter] on a team he played for was quite an experience for Carter.

"It means the world to me," he expressed emotionally. "It has been a great opportunity to coach this group since this is a team I played for back when I was a kid. I had some fond memories, it is a great program. To coach a special group like this and see them come this far I am super proud of them."

Josh Cyr of Douglas eyes the ball on the short hop at second base.

Douglas' Devon Paine sprints to third base following a wild throw after stealing second.

Visiting museums

Some of you may be heirs to the Rockefeller fortune or may have founded an internet startup that got purchased for billions of dollars. But the rest of us won't ever have the money to own a painting by Renoir or Monet. That doesn't mean that you can't see art by some of the greats, though. Visiting museums is one fun and affordable way to gain more knowledge about art and antiques.

ANTIQUES,
COLLECTIBLES
& ESTATES

WAYNE TUISKULA

I was fortunate enough to visit France recently. Auguste Rodin's "Le Penseur" (The Thinker) statue, along with many of his other works are on display in an outdoor garden at the Rodin museum in Paris. The Musee d'Orsay houses works by many of the greatest artists of France, along with important works by artists from other countries. There are works by Cézanne, Monet, Gauguin, Renoir, Manet and Degas. Vincent Van Gogh's famous self-portrait is also exhibited there.

The Louvre Museum, also in Paris, was formerly a royal palace. It was founded in 1793 and is the world's most visited museum. It offers artwork from across the globe. A travel guide told our tour group that if you spent 10 seconds looking at every piece of art in the museum it would still take you over three months to see them all. The Mona Lisa, the statue of the Winged Victory of Samothrace, and Venice de Milo are three of their more famous works.

You don't need to travel to France to see great art, though. We have many wonderful local museums. Boston has the Museum of Fine Arts, the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum and the Institute of Contemporary Art. Worcester Art Museum will exhibit "The Poetry of Nature: Hudson River School Landscapes from the New-York Historical Society" beginning on Sept. 8. The Fitchburg Art Museum will host "Interior Effects: Furniture in Contemporary Art" beginning on Sept. 23. The Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford contains a wide range of objects ranging from the Morgan collection of Greek and Roman antiquities to the Samuel Colt firearms collection.

When I began selling antiques, I took a course with George Michael. He was a New Hampshire antique dealer and auctioneer who hosted an antique show that ran nationwide on PBS during the 1960s to 1980s. He showed us slides picturing antiques that he had sold, seen or owned. One of the slides was of an unusual antique basket used by the people of Lapland that he had seen in a museum. Mr. Michael told us that he later saw another Lapland basket like the one in the museum being offered at a local auction. He was the only one in the crowd who knew what it was and purchased a museum piece for very little money. Visiting museums literally paid off for him.

We have many events taking place and others being scheduled. We will run an estate sale in Holden on July 21 and July 22 and another in Spencer on July 28 and 29. We plan to run a live coin auction and an antique estate auction in the Fall. I will be teaching my "Evaluating your antiques" class on Oct. 15. I'll be appraising items for the Winchendon Historical Society on Oct. 28 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. See www.centralmassauctions.com for details on these and other upcoming events.

The Constitution is not neutral: courts of justice should not act like courts of order

"The Constitution is not neutral. It was designed to take the government off the backs of the people."—Justice William O. Douglas

For those still deluded enough to believe they're living the American dream — where the government represents the people, where the people are equal in the eyes of the law, where the courts are arbiters of justice, where the police are keepers of the peace, and where the law is applied equally as a means of protecting the rights of the people—it's time to wake up.

We no longer have a representative government, a rule of law, or justice.

Liberty has fallen to legalism.

Freedom has fallen to fascism.

Justice has become jaded, jaundiced and just plain unjust.

And for too many, the American dream of freedom and opportunity has turned into a living nightmare.

Given the turbulence of our age, with its police overreach, military training drills on American soil, domestic surveillance, SWAT team raids, asset forfeiture, wrongful convictions, profit-driven prisons, and corporate corruption, the need for a guardian of the people's rights has never been greater.

Yet as the events of recent years have made clear, neither the president, nor the legislatures, nor the courts will save us from the police state that holds us in its clutches.

After all, the president, the legislatures, and the courts are all on the government's payroll.

They are the police state.

Certainly, Americans can no longer rely on the courts to mete out justice.

The courts were established to serve as Courts of Justice. What we have been saddled with, instead, are Courts of Order.

This is true at all levels of the judiciary, but especially so in the highest court of the land, the U.S. Supreme Court, which is seemingly more concerned with establishing order and protecting government interests than with upholding the rights of the people enshrined in the U.S. Constitution.

Whether it's police officers breaking through people's front doors and shooting them dead in their homes or strip searching innocent motorists on the side of the road, these instances of abuse are continually validated by a judicial system that kowtows to virtually every police demand, no matter how unjust, no matter how in opposition to the Constitution.

As a result, the police and other government agents have been generally empowered to probe, poke, pinch, taser, search, seize, strip and generally manhandle anyone they see fit in almost any circumstance, all with the general blessing of the courts.

Rarely do the concerns of the populace prevail.

When presented with an opportunity to loosen the government's noose that keeps getting cinched tighter and tighter around the necks of the American people, what does our current Supreme Court usually do?

It ducks.

Prevaricates.

Remains silent.

Speaks to the narrowest possible concern.

More often than not, it gives the government and its corporate sponsors the benefit of the doubt, which leaves "we the people" hanging by a thread.

Rarely do the justices of the U.S. Supreme Court—preoccupied with their personal politics, cocooned in a priggish world of privilege, partial to those with power, money and influence, and narrowly focused on a shrinking docket (the court accepts on average 80 cases out of 8,000 each year)—venture beyond their rarefied comfort zones.

Every so often, the justices toss a bone to those who fear they have abdicated their allegiance to the Constitution. Too often, however, the Supreme Court tends to march in lockstep with the police state.

The Court's 2017-18 term was a particularly mixed bag. Here are some of the key rulings and non-rulings handed down by the Court this term:

Speech, Religious Liberty and the First Amendment

In Janus v. American Federation, a 5-4 Supreme Court chose to err on the side of the First Amendment when it concluded that state laws forcing public-sector employees to provide financial support for unions that engage in political activities with which they disagree violates the First Amendment.

In Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colorado Civil Rights Commission, the Court ruled narrowly that government officials had violated the First Amendment rights of a baker by discriminating against his religious views regarding same-sex marriage.

In National Institute of Family and Life Advocates v. Becerra, the Court ruled against compelled speech by a government agency when it found that a California state law violated the First Amendment by forcing pro-life crisis pregnancy centers to provide patients with information about how to obtain an abortion.

In Minnesota Voters Alliance v. Joe Mansky, the Court struck down an unconstitutionally vague Minnesota law that bans political speech on any "badge, button, shirt, or hat" worn at election polling stations. Critics had argued that the law opened the door to abuse of voters' free speech rights by giving appointed election officials unlimited discretion to determine what political speech should be censored.

Police Misconduct

In refusing to hear the case of Young v. Borders, the Supreme Court declined to hold police accountable for shooting and killing an innocent homeowner during the course of a middle-of-the-night "knock and talk" police tactic gone awry. The Court's refusal to review the case let stand a lower court ruling that exonerates police who, while executing a "knock and talk" investigation of a speeding incident, banged on the wrong door at 1:30 am, failed to identify themselves as police, and then repeatedly shot and killed the innocent homeowner who answered the door while holding a gun in self-defense.

In Kisela v. Hughes, the U.S. Supreme Court shielded a police officer who shot a woman four times in her driveway as she stood talking to a friend while holding a kitchen knife. As Justice Sonia Sotomayor acknowledged in her dissent, "It tells officers that they can shoot first and think later, and it tells the public that palpably unreasonable conduct will go unpunished." Sotomayor, one of the few justices who speaks out consistently against police misconduct, denounced the ruling as "part of a disturbing trend of unflinching willingness" to protect police officers accused of using excessive force. The court's decisions concerning qualified immunity, she wrote, "transforms the doctrine into an absolute shield for law enforcement officers."

Privacy and the Fourth Amendment

In Carpenter v. United States, a 5-4 Court sent a strong message about privacy rights in an age of government surveillance, ruling that police must generally obtain a warrant before obtaining cell phone data to track a person's movements.

In Collins v. Virginia, the Court refused to grant law enforcement yet another loophole to encroach on the rights of citizens to privacy in their homes, ruling 8-1 that police may not intrude on private property in order to carry out a warrantless search of a vehicle parked near a residence.

In United States v. Microsoft, the

FREEDOM

WHITEHEAD

Court sidestepped a debate over digital privacy in the face of government surveillance when it mooted a case over whether Microsoft had to comply with a request to provide emails hosted on overseas servers in response to government subpoenas.

In Byrd v. United States, a unanimous Court ruled that drivers of rental cars—whether or not they are explicitly named in the rental agreement—are generally entitled to the same reasonable expectations of privacy under the Fourth Amendment as the individual listed in the rental agreement.

In Dahda v. United States of America, the Court ruled 8-0 that evidence obtained under orders that violate the nation's federal wiretapping law can be used against a defendant in a criminal trial.

Immigration and the Power of the Presidency

In Trump v. Hawaii, a polarized Supreme Court upheld the Trump Administration's ban on foreign travelers from Muslim-centric nations, ostensibly giving the president the power to discriminate on the basis of religion, while simultaneously overturning the Court's World War II-era ruling in Korematsu v. United States that saw nothing wrong with the government imprisoning Japanese-Americans in internment camps. In other words, the Court righted one wrong (Korematsu) while sanctioning another. As Justice Sotomayor concluded in her dissent, "By blindly accepting the government's misguided invitation to sanction a discriminatory policy motivated by animosity toward a disfavored group, all in the name of a superficial claim of national security, the Court redeploys the same dangerous logic underlying Korematsu and merely replaces one 'gravely wrong' decision with another."

States' Rights

In Murphy v. NCAA, the Court ruled 7-2 in favor of the 10th Amendment, which reserves to the States (and the people) the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it. The case was factually about the right of the states to legalize sports gambling despite a federal law prohibiting it, but the ramifications of the ruling could extend into the area of marijuana legalization.

Voters' Rights and Gerrymandering

In Husted v. A. Philip Randolph Institute, the Court gave the green light to Ohio to remove people from its voter registration rolls if they hadn't been heard from in four years.

In Gill v. Whitford and Benisek v. Lamone, the Court weighed in on two cases that challenged the practice of gerrymandering, in which the boundaries of an electoral constituency are drawn in such a way as to favor one side over another in an election. Instead of addressing the issue of partisan gerrymandering, the Court disposed of the cases on procedural/standing grounds.

Commerce

In South Dakota v. Wayfair, the Court leveled the playing field, at least when it comes to collecting sales tax, between online e-commerce retailers and traditional businesses with a physical presence in a particular state.

So where does that leave us?

Still in the clutches of the American police state, I'm afraid.

In recent years, for example, the Court has ruled that police officers can use lethal force in car chases without fear of lawsuits; police officers can stop cars based only on "anonymous" tips; Secret Service agents are not accountable for their actions, as long as they're done in the name of security; citizens only have a right to remain silent if they assert it; police have free reign to use drug-sniffing dogs as "search warrants on leashes," justifying any and all police searches of vehicles stopped on the roadside; police can forcibly take your DNA, whether or not you've been convicted of a crime; police can stop, search, question and profile citizens and non-citizens alike; police can subject Americans to virtual strip searches, no matter the "offense"; police can break into homes without a warrant, even if it's the wrong home; and it's a crime to not identify yourself when a policeman asks your name.

The cases the Supreme Court refuses to hear, allowing lower court judgments to stand, are almost as critical as the ones they rule on. Some of these cases have delivered devastating blows to the rights enshrined in the Constitution. By remaining silent, the Court has affirmed that: legally owning a firearm is enough to justify a no-knock raid by police; the military can arrest and detain American citizens; students can be subjected to random lockdowns and mass searches at school; and police officers who don't know their actions violate the law aren't guilty of breaking the law.

What a difference nine people can make.

More often than not, the Roberts Supreme Court has been characterized by rulings that show an abject deference to government authority, military and corporate interests (rulings have run the gamut from suppressing free speech activities and justifying suspicionless strip searches and warrantless home invasions to conferring constitutional rights on corporations, while denying them to citizens).

Contrast the Roberts Court with the Warren Court (1953-69), which handed down rulings that were instrumental in shoring up critical legal safeguards against government abuse and discrimination.

Without the Warren Court, there would be no Miranda warnings, no desegregation of the schools and no civil rights protections for indigents. Among those serving on the Warren Court were Chief Justice Earl Warren, William J. Brennan Jr., William O. Douglas, Hugo Black, Felix Frankfurter and Thurgood Marshall.

Yet more than any single ruling, what Warren and his colleagues did best was embody what the Supreme Court should always be: an institution established to intervene and protect the people against the government and its agents when they overstep their bounds.

Indeed, Justice Douglas, who served on the Supreme Court for 36 years, was particularly vocal in his belief that Americans have a right to be left alone ("The right to be left alone is indeed the beginning of all freedom"). Considered the most "committed civil libertarian ever to sit on the court," Douglas was frequently controversial and far from perfect (he was part of that 6-3 majority in Korematsu v. United States that supported the government's internment of American citizens of Japanese descent during World War II).

Perhaps the greatest difference between Justice Douglas and his contemporaries and those who occupy the bench today can be found in his answer to a government that refuses to listen to its citizen or abide by the rule of law. "We must realize that today's Establishment is the New George III," noted Douglas. "Whether it will continue to adhere to his tactics, we do not know. If it does, the redress, honored in tradition, is also revolution."

POLICE REPORTS

Spencer Police Department

Editor's Note: The information contained in this police log was obtained through public documents kept by the police department, and is considered to be the account of the police. All subjects are considered innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Police agencies can no longer print the names of people who are arrested or charged with domestic assault related charges. The new law is designed to protect victims, so they are not re-victimised through indirect identification.

OBITUARIES

Howard I. Pratt, Jr., 88

F I S K D S A L E - Howard I. Pratt, Jr., 88, died on July 4th, in the Quaboag Rehabilitation and Skilled Care Center.

Howard is survived by three children, Rosemary Ritchotte of Sturbridge, Lissa Pratt of North Brookfield and David Pratt of Brooklyn, New York; his former wife Patricia Pratt of North Brookfield; seven grand-children and seven great grandchildren.

Born in East Hartford, Connecticut, Howard moved to Sturbridge, Massachusetts, where his parents had a cottage on Big Alum Lake, in the 1950's.

Starting with a boat rental and repair business at the lake, he built a series of successful businesses. Leasing and then buying property across from the entrance to Old Sturbridge he created Howard's Auto and Marine. Many area residents purchased boats and snowmobiles from Howard in the 1960's and 70's. He then expanded into other projects, including construction of the 1738 House apartment complex in Sturbridge, restoration and renovation of the Fiskdale School House, and many other buildings and homes in the area.

Raised on a farm on the Connecticut river in East Hartford, farming was a life-long pastime. Howard raised beef cattle and other livestock and helped with the transition of Hyland Orchards in the late 1970's when owner Jim Hyland died. He was mowing fields up until last year, happiest when on the tractor.

As Big Alum Lake became more developed over the years, Howard, along with friend James Gibson, built a camp in Northern Vermont on Little Averil Lake. It featured spring-fed, hand-pumped water, wood stove and an outhouse with a half-moon on the door. In the summertime, trips across the border for dinner and ice cream were a break from the rough but beautiful conditions. In Winter, snowmobiling and snowshoeing in subzero weather were possible after digging the snow away from the cabin and getting the wood stove going.

A memorial service for Howard will take place in October, 2018. Burial will be private.

There are no calling hours.

In lieu of flowers donation may be made to Second Chance Animal Shelter, P.O. Box 136, East Brookfield, MA 01515.

Daniel T. Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, is directing the arrangements.

Ad Libs

by June

You know summer is in full swing when

DERRICK FARMS, PICK-YOUR-OWN BLUEBERRIES is open. Walter tells me that they have a great crop of blueberries this year! It's a great activity for young and old alike as they provide chairs to sit and pick. Just follow the signs from Route 31 North in Spencer to Browning Pond Rd. Sanders Rd. is 3.5 miles on the R. The ad says "worth the ride from wherever you are"... so very true! You'll probably pick more than you can use, so it's easy to freeze them and enjoy year-round! Just rinse gently and dry, then spread them flat on a tray and place them in the freezer. Once frozen (2-3 hours), you can put in freezer bags removing excess air to reduce the chance of freezer burn. Label and date the bags... good up to a full year!

Save the date for Saturday, July 28th for JANINE'S FROSTEE'S 13th Annual Car Show for Charity. $10 car registration fee (w/ free T-shirt). Proceeds to benefit Cancer Services at Baystate Mary Lane Hospital. Live music with Dirty Pocket. See the ad on the Front of Section B this week for times, judging info, rain date, and more information! JANINE'S FROSTEE is located at 149 East Street in Ware (off Rt 9 just over the West Brookfield/Ware border).

The $2 breakfast at EB FLATTS, on the flats in East Brookfield, is now in its 13th year! Stop by weekdays between 7 and 9 am and enjoy 2 eggs, home fries, and toast, with beverage purchase. Dine-in only. Sides may be added for an additional cost. Prime Rib your thing? Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 5-8:30 pm! Summer Seafood Fest going on now thru August 31st. Something for everyone at EB FLATTS! See the ads in this week's Dining Guide for more info!

See THE OVERLOOK help wanted ad in this week's Classified Section. Located at 88 Masonic Home Road in Charlton, they are having a hiring Open House on Tuesday, July 31st from 1:30 to 5:00 pm in the Main Lobby of the Health Center. It's an amazing facility and a great place to work!

Have a great week!

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
