WHITE HITTING THE ROAD FOR CANCER RESEARCH IN PMC

JON GOUIN
NEWS CORRESPONDENT

NORTHBRIDGE — The slogan you'll find when visiting the Pan-Mass Challenge website is, "Closer by the mile."

One local young lady, 21-year-old Samantha White, will be bicycling more than 160 miles over two days in an effort to raise at least $4,000 for the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and Jimmy Fund, this coming Aug. 6 and Aug. 7.

The Pan-Mass Challenge is an annual fundraising bicycle-riding event, which was established in 1980. To date, it has raised more than $500 million for research, with $125 million coming since 2013, and a goal of $46 million for this summer's ride.

The PMC draws more than 6,000 riders from 41 states and eight countries annually and is the single biggest contributor to Dana Farber while providing the Jimmy Fund with more than 50 percent of its total revenue annually, according to www.pmc.org, where you can Routes and commitment levels vary by each rider, but Samantha White decided that this year, after riding one-day each of the last two years, that she was going all in. White cited a number of reasons for her desire to ride, and expressed them in a phone interview on July 24.

"It's just one of those things where my Dad [Matt] has been doing it for so long — 22 years I think — and both of my older brothers [Josh and Ryan] did. So, when I was finally old enough I was like, 'You know what? I want to do it too!'"

Towns on alert after local WNV announcement

BY KEVIN FLANDERS

After a mosquito in Worcester recently tested positive for West Nile Virus, area towns are reminding residents to take precautions to avoid getting bitten.

On July 18, following the positive test, the WNV risk level was raised from low to moderate in Auburn, Brookline, Millbury and Worcester. With warmer temperatures and larger mosquito populations, the risk level change is fairly common during summer months, officials said.

"This is an expected finding at this time of year, and given the heat and dry conditions we have been experiencing, we are expecting to see more and more WNV activity," said Mass. Department of Public Health state epidemiologist, Dr. Al DeMaria.

WNV is usually transmitted to humans through the bite of an infected mosquito. In 2015, there were ten human cases of WNV infection in Massachusetts, and boards of health throughout the state have been committed to reducing that number in 2016. In many towns, education on strategies to keep mosquitoes away has been an important tool in combating WNV.

"The town of Auburn has and will continue to take steps to keep our community safe, and to educate the public on precautionary measures to reduce mosquito bites," said Auburn Town Manager Julie Jacobson. "During these warm summer months when your family and friends are spending more time outdoors, please exercise caution."

WNV symptoms can include fever and flu-like illness, though more severe illness and even

BVT students shine in Skills USA

TECHNICAL SKILLS EARN 11 NATIONAL MEDALS

UPTON — Another year of impressive performances came to a close in late June, when students from Blackstone Valley Tech captured a total of 11 medals in the SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference Championships.

Considered the Olympics of vocational technical education, the national championships in Louisville, Ky., featured nearly 6,000 of the nation's top career and technical education students competing in skill-based events judged by panels of industry experts. Valley Tech students bolstered their track record of success at the annual championships by capturing two gold, seven silver, and two bronze medals, as well as several other top-10 placements.

This year's championships also marked the first time a Valley Tech student successfully ran for national office with SkillsUSA. Stacey Muanya, a BVT Health Services senior from Milford, was elected by the House of Delegates to serve a one-year term as a SkillsUSA National Officer. As a National Officer, Stacey will represent SkillsUSA through personal appearances and will participate in numerous professional development programs.

The following students from Blackstone Valley Tech were among the nation's top competitors in the 2016 SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference Championships:

- Gold — Rachel Arnold of Northbridge and Olivia Klotz of Grafton (Urban Search & Rescue - Team Event)
- Silver — Mikayla Corda of Grafton, Mina Dehestani of Millville, and Josie Burlingame of Upton

Moore announces passage of pay equity statute

BOSTON — Sen. Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) announced that the Massachusetts Legislature passed a measure to ensure that men and women receive equitable compensation for comparable work. The legislation passed both chambers of the Legislature with unanimous support.

Most notably, the bill prohibits wage discrimination on the basis of gender for comparable work unless the variation is based upon a mitigating factor such as education, training, experience and seniority.

“I am pleased to support this legislation to help prevent against wage disparities based on gender in our Commonwealth,” said Moore. “The final bill represents a consensus-based effort to ensure that the legislation would be practical, effective and sustainable.”

The legislation also prevents employers from requesting salary history in hiring — making Massachusetts the first state in the nation to adopt such a provision. The bill, however, would not bar prospective employees from voluntarily disclosing their past salaries.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, a woman working full time in Massachusetts earns 82 cents for every dollar a man in Massachusetts earns. A report by the Institute for Women’s Policy Research projects that the gender wage gap in Massachusetts will not close on its own until 2058.

The legislation has been laid before the Governor for his approbation and, if signed, will take effect on July 1, 2018.

QUOTATION OF THE WEEK

“The gun industry has openly defied our laws here in Massachusetts for nearly two decades. That ends today. We have a moral and legal responsibility to ensure that combat-style weapons are off our streets and out of the hands of those who would use them to kill innocent people. Increasingly, these guns are the weapon of choice for mass shooters, and we will do everything we can to prevent the kinds of tragedies here that have occurred in places like Orlando, San Bernardino, Newtown and Aurora.”

- Massachusetts State Attorney General Maura Healey, warning gun sellers and manufacturers that her office will be stepping up enforcement of the state’s assault weapons ban.

We don’t want the kids to go hungry’

McGOVERN TOUTS SUMMER FOOD PROGRAM AT PARK AVE.

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

WEBSTER — Park Avenue Elementary School in Webster was one of several locations that played host to a special visit by 2nd Congressional District Congressman Jim McGovern on July 18, as the lawmaker kicked off his third annual Summer Food Rocks Tour highlighting the USDA’s national Summer Food Service Program.

The Congressman toured the brand new Park Avenue Elementary School, which just wrapped up its first full year of hosting students in 2016, and spoke with school officials and food service professionals at the facility about the significance of the local summer food programs, which serves over seventy students at Park Avenue.

“We wanted to promote the summer feeding programs including the one here at Park Avenue in Webster,” McGovern said. “We want to remind families that these programs exist during the summer time. These are all funded through the USDA and we brought the USDA Under Secretary for Food, Nutrition and Consumer Services Kevin Concannon, who oversees all of the school nutrition programs, to see what’s going on in Massachusetts and to listen to those who administer the program and see what the challenges are.”

The Congressman made appearances in Athol, Turner Falls, Ware and Worcester, in addition to Webster, and closed out his day with a roundtable discussion in Worcester about the significance of the summer food programs, which he fears are unjustifiably targeted for cuts by his fellow legislators in Washington, D.C. The Congressman’s tour of the different schools in his region was planed to highlight the struggles families face in the summer months, when school is out, when it comes of feeding their children and having access to a guaranteed meal every single day.

“Some of the places we’ve been to today are pretty rural. Transportation is a challenge. Getting a child to the location is not easy, whereas during the school year school buses are in full operation. During the summer it is different. We’ve talked about ways we can build on what exists and make sure more kids have access to food during the summer months and the fact of the matter is hunger in America does increase during those months,” said McGovern. “This is an important investment because kids who have better access to nutrition on a regular basis can learn better in school and grow up to be healthy adults. That’s important. Without this program it can lead to lower academic test scores and kids less likely to learn effectively in school. Kids could end up with ultimately avoidable healthcare challenges as well.”

While conversing with the Congressman and school officials about the USDA’s summer lunch program, Concannon complimented the Town of Webster for its adaptation of the service to meet the town’s specific needs and drove home the point that hunger and educational performance can be very much intertwined.

“I think it’s tremendous that [Webster] has adopted the community eligibility provision. Across the country it took a while because the Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act was limited to just a handful of states the first two Congressman Jim McGovern (third from the left) poses for a photo with local and state officials as well as school officials in Webster’s Park Avenue Elementary School, each displaying a cooler used to carry breakfast foods to serve summer meal programs to local youth. years. We’re only in the third year nationally. It’s nice to see how it affected their funding. That’s been resolved and people have come to realize that it doesn’t adversely affect it and you’re able to serve every child breakfast especially,” Concannon said. “Superintendents have become the biggest champions for it.”

Webster’s Interim Superintendent Richard Lind agreed said that 76 kids just that day took advantage of the summer food program and spoke from his perspective as an educator and leader in the district about how having such programs are a benefit to the schools and local families.

“We don’t want the kids to go hungry. The kids won’t learn if they’re hungry. In the end it’s Maslow’s Hierarchy of Needs. The kids won’t learn unless they’re ready. If they’re tired or hungry those things take precedent over learning math or reading. It’s just the way it is. We’re excited that everyone has kind of climbed on board with this,”

Lind said.

McGovern said towns like Webster are proof that the program is successful and that it works. With the summer meal programs facing increased scrutiny over who should and shouldn’t qualify and consistently being a service on the cutting room floor during budget season, McGovern pledged to continue to support the program and to try and drive home the need for the service in Washington.

“We have some members of Congress right now trying to cut this program. They’re trying to restrict access to the program and lower nutritional standards and make it so fewer people can take advantage of it and I think that’s a dumb and stupid idea. I think what I’m learning today is not only should we not cut the program, but it should be expanded,” he said.

Ryan is a very bright 6-year-old boy of Hispanic descent who would like to be a dentist when he grows up. Ryan enjoys playing the piano which he learned how to do in a very short amount of time. He also likes to play games on his tablet. Ryan does well in school and his teachers report he is ahead academically compared to some of the students his age. Ryan is currently in the first grade and reports he likes everything about school. He plays nicely with his peers and gets along well with his teachers. The structure of his school helps Ryan achieve academically.

Ryan would do well in a family with two dads or a single dad. The home should have a lot of structure, nurturance and routines as Ryan responds well to this. He should be the only child in the home unless the other siblings were teenagers or much older in age. Ryan is very close to his siblings, especially his twin. He has expressed wanting to find a family that will allow him to maintain contact with all of his siblings. The family should be aware they need to maintain monthly visitation with Ryan’s siblings who are also in care in the state of Massachusetts.

a kid

I'm 32 years old ... but sometimes I just feel like acting like an 8-year-old.

Not that I'm immature — I have a mortgage, a car and a full-time job. I'm a husband and a father to two kids. But there's just this inner kid inside of me, yearning and scratching to let itself out sometimes. Luckily, I have outlets in my life that allow me to let my inner kid out in spectacular fashion.

My kids are good company for this inner child, playing games and unleashing imaginative, pretend scenarios for me to play with. After all, what better way to let your inner kid loose than with your kids? You can be as goofy as you want? Sing as loudly as you want to sing, wear whatever silly outfits you want and laugh as loudly as you want with your kids.

MINOR

He's been in the office a few times as we have worked, and we have gotten to talking about all sorts of things, mainly his love for Star Wars. So kids being kids, we challenged each other to light saber duel. Last Friday, I arrived at the office and a toy red light saber was already on my desk, and he was ready to go. Game on. He won the battle that day, but the war is far from over.

Then there's my youth group kids. Last weekend, I found myself on the side of a surprisingly busy road, dressed in a ridiculous outfit consisting of a fisherman's hat, a life vest that was three sizes too small, a gigantic fishing net and a child's fishing pole with Tweety on it, running around like a goofball, dancing with two other grown men dressed like a lobster and a shark. Yes ... your eyes are not deceiving you. I just wrote that.

We were filming a promotional video for our upcoming Vacation Bible School, so the goal was to be as ridiculously silly as possible. Judging by the honks and thumbs up we got by passersby as we danced around, we were successful in our goal. If nothing else, we served as entertainment for random drivers in town — a win-win situation, I suppose.

Not even an hour later, we were filming a commercial for something else, a theme night for later on in the summer, and the theme, naturally, was water. So of course, what better way to promote a water-themed night than to get destroyed over and over again with buckets of water? First, it was water balloons, then squirt guns, then the hose, and then it was gallons of water at a time being thrown at my head and face. It made for some pretty spectacular freeze-frames, and once edited, will make a very entertaining commercial for the kids. We might have had as much fun filming it as the kids will have watching it.

Not to be outdone, it was barely an hour later that I found myself at a birthday party for our friends' daughter. She was turning 4, and of course, the water guns were out in full force. We just couldn't help ourselves. Things got wet.

So ... the moral of the story? Sometimes, it's just necessary to let out your inner kid. This life is hard enough sometimes with all the real-life issues we have to deal with day in and day out. I'm not saying we should skirt our responsibilities, but every now and then, it's OK just to be a kid and have some fun.

Beauty isn't just for women. Men and kids can benefit from these easy time saving tips. Call them what you wish — "Handsome Hacks," "Beauty Tips," "Easy Aesthetics" — whatever you'd like, but sit back and prepare to find ways to make your daily routine just a touch more simple!

- Develop a Skin Care Routine:
- Men's skin care is so important, especially since men shave their faces frequently. Make sure you have a good regimen for your face. Exfoliating can be a skin saver, especially around facial hair. Using a scrub at least once a week will rejuvenate your skin, soften that handsome beard, and keep your pores clean! Think of it like sanding down a beautiful piece of wood.
 - Ladies ... our skin is sensitive yet strong. We put our face through hell, from frequent hormonal changes that do a number on us, to make up, tweezing and waxing, shaving, etc. you may think you have tough skin that needs a cleansing beat down, but opt for gentle cleansers over ones filled with chemicals. Your skin will thank you!
 - Moisturize! Moisturize! Moisturize!
 - Men, women, kids... moisturizing should be a part of your every day routine. Try to get a moisturizer made for your skin, I use organic gentle baby lotion for my kids, especially in the heat and sun our skin can become damaged just trying to have fun! I make sure to use a moisturizing sun block and a thick cream based lotion after their tubby! Men and women, don't skimp on your own skin. Adult skin is just as important. We are out in the world every day making an impression. Who wants to shake hands with sandpaper? Moisturize! My husband uses a Vaseline based men's lotion (and it smells pretty delicious too!).
- Hair:
- I am going to give you the advice I have always been given, keep your hair trimmed to avoid split ends and help it grow faster and stronger. Use a good shampoo and conditioner with as few detergents as possible, this will save your hair and scalp from drying out, fading your hair color, breakage, and becoming oily. Try to avoid washing your hair every - day, and if you must use heat to dry your hair consider investing in a heat protecting spray.

- o Perhaps I am a hypocrite for posting about this, because I am on almost 2 years without a hair cut, and by the time I leave the house my hair is up I a bun. My hair is long and curly but thin. Every few years I go crazy and cut my hair, then regret it, I wash is every other day, I never heat dry it, color it once every 6 months if that... if to you, my loyal readers, I'll gladly accept tips as well! I have spent hundreds of dollars on hairdressers who I never go back and see because I have yet to be "wowed." So hand me some tips before time is up for my years bathroom scissor fight with my hair!
 - Quick Makeup and Beauty Tips
 - Mascara running low? Put a few drops of saline solution in it, and try again!
 - Mix eye shadow and eye drops to make a liquid liner in any color you love!
 - Use olive oil and sugar to slough away dead skin on your lips!
 - Apply perfume on pulse points to keep a long lasting scent without becoming offensive to everyone who walks by you. Base of throat, wrists, inside of elbows, behind knees and behind the ears.
 - Use green based makeup to color up redness.
 - Apply dry shampoo on your roots at night to wake up with full hair that didn't go limp or greasy while you slept.
 - Keep your aloe gel in the fridge to cool down sunburns.
 - Rub a bit of solid deodorant on a freshly shaved body part to help minimize razor burn.
 - Use coconut oil to remove eye makeup and rejuvenate your under eyes.
- Enjoy and send your favorite go-to hacks to me!

"Regrets? I've had a few." – Frank Sinatra.
Mr. Sinatra, one of the most famous entertainers of the 20th century, did things his way, but he was also familiar with remorse. He's not alone, of course. We all deal with regrets – and financial ones are among the most troublesome.

Here are the leading financial regrets, according to a recent survey by Bankrate.com, along with some suggestions for avoiding them:

Not saving for retirement early enough – This was the top regret expressed by survey respondents. Saving and investing early for retirement offers you two key benefits. First, the more time you give growth-oriented investments, the greater their growth potential. And second, by saving and investing for retirement early in your career, you will likely need to put away less money each year than you would if you waited until, say, your 40s or 50s. So, if you aren't already doing so, contribute as much as you can afford to your IRA and your 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored plan. And increase your contributions every time your salary rises.

Not saving enough for emergency expenses – You can't plan for all expenses. Your furnace might die, your car may need a major repair, you may incur a sizable doctor's bill – the list goes on and on. If you don't have the money available to meet these costs, you might be forced to dip into your long-term investments. That's why it's important to maintain an emergency fund, containing three to six months' worth of living expenses, in a liquid, low-risk account.

Taking on too much credit card debt – If you don't overuse your credit cards, they can be handy and helpful, in many ways. Try to keep a lid on your credit card debt, keeping in mind that your debt payments reduce the amount of money you have available to invest for your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

Not saving enough for children's education — This may be perhaps the most difficult regret to address – after all, it's not easy to save for your own retirement and simultaneously put money away for your children's college educations. However, if you can afford to save for college, try to do so in as advantageous a manner as possible.

Buying a bigger house than you can afford – If you tie up too much money in mortgage payments, you will have less to contribute to your various retirement accounts. And while home equity certainly has some value, it generally does not provide you with the same liquidity – and probably not the same potential for growth and income – as an investment portfolio that's appropriate for your needs and risk tolerance. So, think carefully before purchasing that big house – you might be better served by scaling down your home ownership and ramping up your investments.

You can't avoid all the doubts and misgivings you'll encounter at various stages of your life. But if you can reduce those regrets associated with your finances, you could well increase your satisfaction during your retirement years.

Questions to ask a realtor
when interviewing them

When you hire a realtor to sell your home you want to make an educated decision, and hopefully, the right one.

You will most likely only need the services of a real estate agent every 5-7 years or maybe less often. The average sales price for single-family homes in Worcester County over the past 12 months was approximately $283,000, which means you will be probably spending between $10,000 and $20,000 to sell your home. That is a lot of money, so you want to make a well-educated and informed decision. Below are questions you could ask or come up with some of your own questions, but make sure to ask for information that will allow you to compare the professional that you meet with.

- 1) How many homes have you sold this year? This is important to understand if they have the experience to deal with challenges that may come up during the sales process.
- 2) How many homes have you sold in the last 5 years? This shows a track record of success in selling homes.
- 3) Do you have a written marketing plan to get homes sold? You want to ensure the agent has a plan to get your home sold.
- 4) Do you have a full-time staff working together to get my home under agreement and sold? This will ensure that they have coverage when they are on appointments with other clients and if they were sick or on vacation so you know your home would still get sold.
- 5) On average how many days does it take you to get an offer on your listings? If moving quickly is important

this number will help you to compare one agent to another to see who will get you home sold the quickest.

6) What is your list price to sales price ratio on homes you have sold? This will show if the agent is likely to get you more money than the average agent for the home

7) How quickly will you respond to buyers that call or email you about my home? This is important to understand if they will respond quick enough to capture the buyer or wait all weekend to call back and find out the buyer already found another home.

8) How quickly will you respond to other agents who have interested buyers in my home? This is also crucial to ensure the agent is going to get in touch with interested parties quickly to ensure they don't move on from your home.

9) What type of regular training do you attend to grow your knowledge and skills? Real Estate and Sales in general is an ever-changing environment and agents need to be regularly training and provide the highest level of service to their clients.

10) What percentage of your listings sell vs. expiring? You don't just want to hire an agent who lists homes for sale but one that is likely to sell your home.

Weeds choking out many local ponds

• • • • •

The dog days of summer are here!

Fresh water fishing has slowed for many anglers, but early morning and late evening fishing is producing some nice largemouth bass. Anglers using surface plugs and weedless top water frogs are doing well although some lakes and ponds are becoming weed choked making fishing them almost impossible. Local rivers and ponds have become badly impacted with weeds and anglers are becoming very concerned about the future of some of there favorite fishing areas. There is a new noxious weed, which started to show up in the last 10 years, that is so thick it has choked out all other forms of beneficial weeds native to our area. Purple loosestrife is another noxious weed that has overtaken local waters. Controlling there rapid growth has not been a top priority of state agencies, but it should be.

A few years ago nut grass was choking out parts of the Blackstone River! A firm was hired to remove the nut weed from a part of Rice City Pond. An airboat was used to remove the grass, which was very expensive. As of this year, the nut grass has not reappeared. It is the only way to remove most invasive grasses from ponds, but is very expensive. A local club in the area has tried to remove water lilies from there trout pond, but the results are not very good. It is like throwing $3,000 a year down the sewer.

Local populations of frogs are also on the decline. In years past, I could listen to the bullfrogs in my back yard pond during early morning hours as well as at nighttime. Their presence is almost nonexistent today. At one time I read an article about frogs relating to their deformed feet and other body parts. Scientists remarked about the deformed frogs as a sign of problems with pollution and pesticides. As a youngster I can remember catching many frogs for there legs, which provided a great meal. I doubt that I could find enough frogs today to have a meal of frog legs. The small grass frogs are also disappearing from our lakes and ponds. Normally after a good rain, the frogs would be observed in numerous roadways after they had been crushed by vehicles' tires the night before. They too are not being observed in the numbers that they once were. High populations of snakes are part of the problem. Fresh water bass also consume thousands of frogs annually.

Saltwater fishing for stripers and bluefish can provide a lot of excitement when they are caught on rod and reel. A couple of weeks ago, a group of local anglers booked a trip with a charter boat out of Galilee, R.I., that took them to Block Island waters. These six pack charter boats provide a great day on the water for some anglers, but their type of fishing is nothing this writer and my fishing buddies enjoy. Trolling wire line with umbrella rigs or parachute jigs can really catch fish, but the real experience in the thrill of catching and landing these hard fighting fish is lost. Even when a fish is hooked up, the boat continues to navigate the water causing a hard strain on the rod. It is extremely tiring for many middle age fishermen as well as the elderly. They are missing the real fight of a striper or bluefish. Other small charter boats offer fishing with live eels with light rods providing the ultimate enjoyment of catching big fish. Make your next trip fishing for stripers on a sport fishing boat and you will be glad you did. Striper fishing at Block Island exploded with action last week. Numerous 40-pound-plus stripers were caught daily.

This week's picture shows Scott Rondeau, of Uxbridge, with a largemouth bass he recently caught from the Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club Pond. It was released to fight another day.

A local man landed another northern pike from the Manchaug Pond this past week and it was a whopper. Unfortunately the fish succumbed to the hard fight the angler experienced before he could release it. Manchaug Pond also has a good population of smallmouth and largemouth bass. The state boat landing allows anglers the opportunity to catch some of these game fish from their boat. Property around the lake is pretty much posted keeping anglers away from some great shore fishing. A good population of white perch are also providing anglers with some great fishing. Trolling a spinner and worm from a boat on the westerly side of the lake can provide some great fishing for these tasty fresh water fish.

The Singletary Rod & Gun Club will hold their annual Field Day on Aug. 28. The public is invited to attend. Lobsters, clams, chicken BBQ along with other good food will be available throughout the day. Mark the date on your calendar.

Take a kid fishing keep there rods bending!

I scream, you scream...

TRAINOR

July is National Ice Cream Month, so it's practically our patriotic duty to indulge in the sweet, frozen treat as we come to the end of the month. What better way to end a month of sweet celebrations than by reviewing some old and sharing some new ice cream tips and trivia!

And remember readers, send in your best tips and you could win dinner for two at the Publick House Inn in Sturbridge!

Fun Fact: In 1984, President Ronald Reagan designated July as National Ice Cream Month. Recognizing ice cream as a fun and nutritious food that is enjoyed by a full 90 percent of the nation's population, Mr. Reagan called for all people in the U.S. to celebrate the event each July - and who are we to argue!

Did you know? When you eat ice cream, the intense cold can sometimes causes blood vessel spasms, otherwise known as "brain freeze." If you start to feel an ice cream headache coming on, you may be able to slow it down by holding your tongue against your palate to warm it up until you finish your chilly dessert.

Want to lick your ice cream headaches altogether? Some doctors say that simply eating cold foods more slowly can help prevent brain freeze.

Freezer Facts: Ice cream should be stored at 0 to -10 degrees F. to maintain its texture. However, the best temperature for scooping ice cream is 8 to 12 degrees F, so leave it out of the refrigerator for several minutes before scooping. And ice cream should never be stored on the door of the freezer. Fluctuating temperatures from all the opening and closing can melt and refreeze it, creating ice crystals.

And when serving up ice cream never use the old ice cream parlor tip of dipping the ice cream scoop in warm water before scooping. This only gets water into the ice cream and forms ice unwanted crystals.

Here's one of my favorite recipes that deserves an encore in this column: An authentic Ben & Jerry's recipe for Cherry Garcia ice cream as printed in "Ben and Jerry's Homemade Ice Cream and Dessert Book."

Ingredients: 1/4 cup shaved plain chocolate (Ben and Jerry prefer Hershey's Special Dark Chocolate candy bars); 1/4 cup fresh Bing cherries, halved and pitted (you may use canned cherries, but be sure to drain the syrup); two large eggs; 3/4 cup sugar; two cups heavy or whipping cream; one cup milk.

Directions: Place the shaved chocolate flakes and the cherries in separate bowls. Cover and refrigerate. Whisk the eggs in a mixing bowl until light and fluffy, one to two minutes. Whisk in the sugar, a little at a time, then continue whisking until completely blended, about one minute more. Pour in the cream and milk and whisk to blend.

Transfer the mixture to an ice cream maker and freeze following manufacturer's directions. After the ice cream stiffens (about two minutes before it's done), add the chocolate and the cherries, then continue freezing until the ice cream is ready. Makes grateful one quart.

Want to make homemade ice cream, but don't have an ice cream maker? Try this quick and easy alternatives:

An electric mixer is a good "stand in" for an ice cream churner. Fill a metal bowl with your ice cream base recipe and nest inside a larger bowl filled with ice cubes and rock salt (metal nesting batter bowls are ideal for this purpose). The mixer will churn the mixture while the salt and ice freezes it.

Here's one that's fun for the kids: Fill a sturdy Ziploc bag with ice cream base. Place this bag inside a larger Ziploc back with ice and salt (Hefty makes an extra large storage zip bag). Have the kids shake and toss (or pass back and forth) the sealed bags for about ten minutes (double bag the outside bag to guard against leaks). Voila! Soft serve ice cream!

Or, try this super easy treat: In a mixing bowl, just chop one cup of slightly softened vanilla ice cream with a spoon. Drizzle on one tablespoon frozen lemonade, thawed but not diluted. You'll love it!

Estate and downsizing personal property options

Although we offer a wide range of services, there are times when we recommend other options to people who need to sell estate contents or are downsizing.

This week, I offered advice to several people on options for selling personal property that wasn't a good fit for our services. I received a call from someone in Connecticut who had a house full of furniture.

There are three types of furniture that we regularly encounter in homes that we bring to auction. Mid-century modern furniture, especially by well-known designers can be very desirable. Some early furniture (especially American) from the 1700's and early 1800's can be very valuable. Mission oak (arts & crafts) furniture from the late 1800's and early 1900's is also popular. Unfortunately, the person from Connecticut had typical wooden furniture that wasn't modern design or antique and has limited appeal. The seller told me that he placed 71 Craigslist ads and was having little success. I suggested donating the pieces. There are plenty of charities that help people who need furniture for their homes. Many charities

COLLECTIBLES
& ESTATES

will provide slips that you can use to itemize the items that you donated. You can present the slips to your tax preparer.

Another client called me with collections including modern Beatrix Potter and NASCAR collectibles. Although some Beatrix Potter and NASCAR collectibles may be popular collectibles they are too new for our antique and collectibles auctions. I suggested that they check with dealers at some of the local flea markets who may be interested in purchasing them.

As mentioned earlier, Craigslist is another option for selling items. Modern electronics and cameras might sell well on eBay. We run into many situations where heirs have taken many of the possessions in an estate or when people are downsizing and there aren't enough items remaining to warrant hiring an estate sale company to run your sale. A consignment store might be good option or you could run a sale yourself.

For valuable gold jewelry, coins, antique paintings, old advertising items, pre-1970's comic books and baseball cards and other rare and valuable items we advise selling them at our live auctions where competitive bidding drives the price to the fair market value. With an estate full of items, even if they aren't old or collectible, we typically advise hiring a company to run an estate (tag) sale or online estate auction. We realize that there are many situations where a different option may work better and we are always happy to offer our advice.

We could use your advice as well. If anyone knows charities that make pickups of furniture and home furnishings in your area, please pass them along to us. We like to give people who contact us as many options as possible.

Please see our website for upcoming events including our Aug. 25 live auction www.centralmassauctions.com.

Indian Ranch celebrates 70 years with Community Day

WEBSTER — Celebrating 70 years of great music and fun on the shores of Webster Lake, Indian Ranch held its first Community Day on July 23, providing a day of free fun and excitement for all to enjoy. With games, displays, vendors, a discounted price for a ride on the venue's new boat the Indian Princess and, of course, great music the event proved to be a true testament to the years of joy and entertainment that Indian Ranch has provided so far. With a very unique lineup in 2016, the venue has been embracing new crowds of fans all year long but on July 23 it was all about the history and community as Indian Ranch gave a little back to the people of Webster who have embraced the venue for so many years and counting.

Webster's Police Department and other emergency responders from the town took full advantage of Community Day to meet with local residents to hear from them as well as educate them on what it is their departments do. Visitors both young and old fully embraced the opportunity to meet with local officers, firemen and EMS responders to earn about their careers and the services they provide for the local community.

Visitors to Indian Ranch for the Community Day could enjoy a ride on the Indian Princess at a discounted rate. The relatively new attraction at Indian Ranch seems to have overcome early controversy about its inclusion on the lake and has quickly become a very popular feature at the concert venue.

Supporters and friends of fallen Auburn Police Officer Ronald Tarentino Jr., who was tragically shot and killed in May, were on hand selling shirts to show support for Tarentino's legacy as well as to help support his family.

Fattman, McKenna, Frost comment on Healey decision

the state’s assault weapons ban, including cracking down of what she termed as “copycat weapons.”

The decision comes in the wake of several shootings internationally, most notably the Orlando nightclub shootings. An enforcement notice released by Healey’s office describes copycat weapons as duplicates of banned assault rifles, naming the controversial Colt AR-15 and the Kalashnikov AK-47 as examples.

“The gun industry has openly defied our laws here in Massachusetts for nearly two decades,” said Healey in a press release. “That ends today. We have a moral and legal responsibility to ensure that combat-style weapons are off our streets and out of the hands of those who would use them to kill innocent people. Increasingly, these guns are the weapon of choice for mass shooters, and we will do everything we can to prevent the kinds of tragedies here that have occurred in places like Orlando, San Bernardino, Newtown and Aurora.”

The Attorney General’s decision has created such a massive outcry from gun owners, lawmakers and 2nd Amendment support groups that in only a few days the rally against the decision was organized, bringing hundreds, if not thousands, to the capital. Members of the Massachusetts gun rights group GOAL, the Gun Owners’ Action League, have been some of the biggest collective voices heard with the group’s Executive Director

Jim Wallace releasing a statement on the GOAL website and blog, stating, “For nearly 18 years since the passage of the 1998 Gun Control Act firearm retailers, gun owners and state agencies have been operating under the same interpretation. Now, suddenly, without warning or any due process a single person with a clear political agenda decides to change the rules. All Massachusetts residents should be alarmed!”

Wallace’s concerns are not unique and are in line with the concerns many lawmakers, both Republican and Democrat, have had with the Attorney General’s decision. Here in South Central Massachusetts, many lawmakers are making their voices heard and most of them were in attendance for the rally on July 23 to join gun owners and others disappointed with the action in demanding the Attorney General reconsider.

State Sen. Ryan Fattman, of Webster, said he sympathizes with the activists and was amazed at the sheer number of protestors he saw turn out for a rally that was put together only days before.

“It was really incredible to see how many people came out. There were varying reports on the number, but I saw as many as 5,000 and as few as 2,000 people. Still, on a Saturday with last minute notice watching people come out and advocate for their rights is pretty impressive and I think it sent a pretty powerful message,” Fattman said. “Essentially overnight, a bunch of people who had practiced the law legally all of sudden are breaking the law. The process is a legislative process. Any idea that’s proposed as a law has public hearings, debates, expert testimonies and none of this happened at all. If we look at the fact that the law has been on the books since 1998 and four Attorney Generals, all part of the Democratic party, have never interpreted the law the way she has and five governors have been in power, four of the five Republican and one Democrat, and they’ve never done anything on this. So it really makes you scratch your head and ask how she would be able to reinterpret the law.”

State Rep. Joe McKenna, also of Webster, said he heard from protestors similar concerns and one specific phrase was thrown around that has become a common one for protestors to describe their frustration with the Attorney General’s decision.

“With any group, whether it’s protesting or whatever issue it may be, your going to get a mentality that drives emotions to their edge. No matter what they rally for or against you’re going to have high emotions and tempers flared. That being said, the term we heard a lot was ‘felon in waiting.’ That refers to the fact that there’s so much ambiguity in what the Attorney General has done that it leaves it up for interpretation. These firearms that was purchased perfectly legally with a proper background check and license and everything she has now declared illegal. So does the individual, who did everything the right way, become subject to potential litigation?” McKenna stated. “That’s the precedent she set, that she has the ability to change her mind and issue an order at any given time about what’s legal and what’s not and who she’s going to prosecute. That takes away the protection of thousands of people who bought these firearms legally.”

State Rep. Paul Frost of Auburn, was one of a reported 47-plus lawmakers from both political parties who have signed a letter to Attorney General Healey as of July 23 objecting to her announcement. Frost shared his comments on Facebook saying the letter asks questions about the decision and asks Healey to reconsider.

“She created a new ambiguous law without notice, public hearings or comment and without going through the state legislature which is the branch of government which actually creates new laws. Her new ‘interpretation’ of the 1998 gun law provides no existing examples of loophole sales or manufacturing and does not provide law abiding gun owners or gun dealers with specific examples of what is now illegal to buy or sell. Our letter asks the Attorney General to be clearer in writing in what she considers illegal and asks her for examples. She is also asked if, as her office stated, there are gun manufacturers and dealers in the state who were making and selling illegal guns, why hadn’t her office or the previous two Attorney Generals since 1998 taken any prosecutorial action or seek changes in the law through the state legislature prior?” Frost said. “It will be interesting to see if she chooses to respond. The manner in which she chose to handle this and the vagueness of her new gun law only comes off as an attack on the 2nd Amendment rights of Massachusetts law abiding citizens.”

Despite the Attorney General’s statements that anyone who purchased such a weapon prior to her announcement will be held harmless or would be grandfathered in with her new interpretation of the law going into effect, members of GOAL and lawmakers throughout the commonwealth are still unhappy and show no signs of slowing down as they seek to undo what some have called an abuse of power that they fear threatens their rights under the 2nd Amendment of the Constitution.

“While the AG has ‘graciously’ stated that: ‘... not be applied to possession, ownership or transfer of an Assault weapon obtained prior to July 20, 2016.’ It does not mean that she can’t change her mind tomorrow or that some other entity cannot use it against us, such as local licensing authorities that use the new rules to declare an applicant unsuitable for renewal,” GOAL posted on their blog. “As a result of this chaos, many friendly public officials have offered to file emergency legislation that would offer permanent legal protection for the lawful gun owners who have purchased semi-automatic firearms. While we appreciate these genuine offers to protect our members, GOAL’s message to our government at this time is simple: We are not asking to be forgiven for crimes we did not commit!”

mate at Northbridge High School — where she graduated in 2013 — passed away from inoperable brain cancer. Sam Prescott, a friend and teammate lost her battle with cancer in 2011, and the effects of Prescott’s treatment still resonate with White today, pushing her to do more than just ride — she has decided to shave her head as well.

“I really wanted to challenge the stigma and idea that hair is an equivalent to beauty. It’s just hair, it’ll grow back. You’re beautiful with or without it. And, it will be a really fun way/incentive for me to help raise money for the Jimmy Fund.”

The move is not without fallbacks for White, but she is hardly concerned. In fact, she will be taking her new ‘do with her when she competes in the 2017 Miss Massachusetts pageant this Nov. 19 and 20. The idea came about as the soon-to-be senior at Bridgewater State University was chatting with friends at her sorority, Phi Sigma Sigma.

“The guys do the ‘Shave to Save,’ and we were joking about how much a woman could raise if she shaved her head,” White said. “So, I was just like, ‘OK, I’ll shave my head for the PMC.’”

White will be riding from

Wellesley to Bourne, and back, approximately 85 miles each way, and hopes to exceed $4,000 in donations by the end of what will undoubtedly be a tough weekend, but one with a lot of meaning to her and so many others.

“Cancer is one of those things which affect everyone,” she explained. “It’s horrible ... terrible. All we can do is try our hardest to work at it. I know that with me, I don’t care if you want to donate $5 or $500; any amount is going to be enough and it’s going to make a difference to someone.”

White’s ride will surely do her parents, Matt and Kelly, brothers Josh and Ryan, and her sister, Holly, along with the whole of Northbridge and Central Mass proud. So, please, head to www.pmc.org and make a donation to Samantha’s ride by searching her name, or using her rider identification number, which is SW0153.

Officials offer tips to protect against West Nile Virus death can occur. There are several tips to protect yourself and your family, including the following:

- Use a repellent with an EPA-registered ingredient. DEET products should not be used on infants under two months old; also, they should be used in concentrations of 30% or less on older children.
- Avoid outdoor activity during peak mosquito hours. They are most active between dusk and dawn; consider scheduling outdoor activities at other times.
- When outside at night or early in the morning, wear long-sleeve shirts and pants to reduce exposed skin.

- Mosquito-proof your home by draining standing water. Mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water; be sure to drain water from high-risk places around your home. These can include gutters and drains, trash barrels, wheelbarrows, and flowerpots. Also, frequently change the water in wading pools and birdbaths.
- Install or repair screens on your windows and doors to keep mosquitoes out of your home.
- At night, leave exterior lights out as often as possible to prevent mosquitoes from gathering around your windows and doors.

Officials also remind residents to protect their animals during mosquito season. Water troughs and bowls provide excellent mosquito breeding conditions, and they should be flushed at least twice a week during the summer months to reduce mosquito populations. Additionally, horse, llama and alpaca owners should keep their animals in indoor stalls at night to reduce their risk of exposure.

Animal owners should also speak with their veterinarians about mosquito repellants approved for use in animals. Always consult your vet before using a new product.

If an animal is suspected of having WNV or EEE, owners are required to notify the Division of Animal Health by calling 617-626-1795. You can also reach the Department of Public Health at 617-

For more information on WNV, including a list of all positive WNV and EEE results, visit www.mass.gov/dph/mosquito. Also, many area boards of health invite residents to stop into their offices for more information.

“We have printed materials available regarding protecting against mosquito bites for anyone that comes to our office to inquire,” said Spencer Health Agent Lee Jarvis. “Also, on our website, www.spencerma.gov, under Board of Health there is a link to WNV and Zika Virus sites for additional information.”

Northbridge Post 343 American Legion falls in playoff final, ending another great season

Northbridge's Tommy Sperino led a Post 343 pitching staff that surrendered one or zero runs in 17 of the 30 games they played.

Izaiah Wadsworth of Northbridge Post 343 was a reliable center fielder who made a multitude of terrific plays.

BY JON GOUIN
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

NORTHBRIDGE — There seems to be one constant in Northbridge summers, and it's that the Post 343 American Legion baseball team will be good. Not only will they be good, though, they'll be exciting, and at times, nearly unbeatable.

Keeping true to form, the team was each of those things again this summer, finishing in a tie for first place in Zone 4 with Shrewsbury Post 397, as each finished 20-4. Shrewsbury got the nod as the No. 1 seed, and that meant having to play two games on the road versus the eventually Samko Playoff champions.

Northbridge lost a tough Game 1 at Shrewsbury, walked-off with a Game 2 1-0 victory, but then fell 7-3 on the road on July 19 to close out their year a sparkling 24-6 overall as long-time manager John Demagian and assistant coach Dan Briand helped lead the squad to yet another great summer of baseball. Post 343 has now won 50 games the last two summers.

"It was a great summer," Briand said of the season in a phone interview on Monday, July 25. "This was the closest group in my 11 years with the program and we take a lot of pride in that."

This was a team full of stars, from one of the best offensive players in Zone 4 in Justin Stone at the top of the lineup, to one of the best catchers in Central Mass. in Isaiah Alvarado, to possibly the best starting pitcher in the area in Tommy Sperino. All three were team captains this season.

"We had a great group of captains this year, they really did a great job of leading this squad and showing the younger guys the ropes," Briand said.

But those contributors barely helped to scratch the surface of the talent that led to the team's success. Starter Liam Cunningham was a bulldog, finishing a 6-0 regular season with an ERA south of 1.00. Jake Hamel was a stalwart at second base and really started hitting the ball in the second half. Douglas High standout Mike Tourony was a power threat hitting cleanup, but may have been even better defensively over at first base.

The list goes on and on. Marc Flores with clutch hits time and time again, Jack Marzec over at third making plays and driving in runs and Izaiah Wadsworth — both at the plate and on the mound — each made large contributions to this team.

It was never more apparent Post 343 was headed for another great year than on day one during the first game of the season on June 9. Everyone showed up — the pitching, hitting and defense — and Northbridge rolled Northborough Post 234, 10-0, to set the tone for the summer.

Post 343 would start the season 10-1 and, fittingly, the only loss they suffered came versus Shrewsbury, in their third game of the year. After that, Post 343 went on an eight-game winning streak, and 10 of 11, in which they allowed one or zero runs a whopping nine times. In 30 total games, that feat was accomplished 17 times.

"We're going to be back next year with another good team. We're not going to rebuild anymore, we're just going to reload. At the end of the day that's what this is all about, having fun, playing with your buddies at a high level. We had a lot of fun this year and it's supposed to be fun...it is a kids' game after all," Briand concluded on the summer of fun he and his Post 343 squad had here in 2016.

Northbridge's Liam Cunningham allowed just two regular season earned runs for Post 343.

Justin Stone of Northbridge Post 343 scored countless runs from batting in the leadoff position.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Uxbridge offers more local youth field hockey opportunities

Youth field hockey is going strong in the town of Uxbridge. In fall of 2015, Uxbridge offered its first youth field hockey league created by Uxbridge native Lauren Bouchard. This consisted of over 50 young girls in kindergarten through fourth grade and included practices and games. Many of the young players returned for winter sessions at the Habitat in Uxbridge and worked on individual and teams skills. The goal of both programs is to teach fundamentals and instill the love of field hockey in our young players. Registration is open for the 2016 Fall Youth Field Hockey League. Please check out our new website for the Uxbridge Youth Field Hockey League. The league starts Sept. 1 and runs through Oct. 31. All students entering grades K-6 are welcome to sign up. We are looking for some volunteer coaches and team parents. Please register if you would like to help out. Payments can be made online, or mailed. The website is <https://uxbridgeyouth-fieldhockey.siplay.com/site/>. Also check out our updates on Facebook: Uxbridge Youth Field Hockey

In addition, open to all towns is the second annual Uxbridge Youth Field Hockey Camp at Uxbridge High School. Camp is organized and run by Uxbridge native and head coach Kelly Rosborough. The awesome and dedicated coaching staff is back for another year of fun including Jess Welch, Tracy Larkin, Lauren Bouchard, Heather Romasco, Kara Cammuso and Jody Blood. The camp runs from Aug. 15-17 from 9 a.m. to noon. For more information, email kros14@hotmail.com.

Blackstone Valley Cats cruise in opening CNEBA playoff series over Shrewsbury

Blackstone Valley's Dylan Jepsen started for the Cats and while he struggled at times, he managed to hold off Shrewsbury enough to get the win.

BY JON GOUIN
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

DOUGLAS — The Blackstone Valley Cats have made another late season run, their second in as many years as a team in the Central New England Baseball Association. In 2015, the Cats roared down the stretch to make the postseason, and ultimately the League Championship Series before falling to Clinton.

So far, 2016 has the same look and feel as the Cats entered their first round best-of-three series with the Shrewsbury Dirt Dogs as the No. 4 seed, having won seven of their last nine contests. That run continued on Saturday, July 23, as the Cats topped the Dogs, 11-5, to take a 1-0 series lead.

“We’ve been stroking the ball pretty good, they’re loose, having fun, and the wins have kept coming,” manager Scott Kennedy said of his squad, who is based out of Soldiers Field. “Everybody is hitting the ball, one through nine, so I guess that’s the recipe for us.”

Starting for the Cats was Sutton High product Dylan Jepsen, who went 4 1/3 innings before tiring, but the righty was pretty effective. He allowed four runs, but with his relentless offense, that was no problem.

By the time Jepsen was being relieved by Corey Shepard, the Cats held a 10-4 lead and never looked back. Shepard finished out the game with 2 2/3 innings pitched, allowing a run and striking out four.

“Dylan pitched a great game, but he was getting a little tired, so we pulled him,” Kennedy said of the starter. “Shep’s arm is just getting better and better as we go along, he throws hard.”

Offensively, it would be hard to single out any one player for having a great day at the dish, since so many Cats did. In all, the hosts pounded out 15 hits to earn their 11 runs.

“A lot of guys stood out to me today, Timmy, Cortese, Twitch, a lot of guys got it done today. It’s all up and down the lineup for us,” Kennedy remarked of his offense.

Highlighting the list were Tim Beaudette, who was 3 for 4 with two runs and two RBI, Zack Twitchell, who was 2 for 3 with a run and a two-run single, and Shepard, who was 2 for 3 with a walk and two runs scored.

Joe Cortese, John Burke and Eric LeCaire also had two hits apiece for the Cats as the series shifted to Shrewsbury for Game 2, which was played on Sunday, July 24. There, the Cats came away with a 3-0 victory to advance to the next round.

Blackstone Valley rode a terrific pitching performance from Oliver Collette, who allowed just six hits while striking out six in the win. Anthony Razzano helped pace the offense by going 3 for 3.

Blackstone Valley’s semifinal round opponent had yet to be determined as of press time.

Anti-human trafficking bill passes Senate

BOSTON — Sen. Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) announced that the Senate passed legislation to strengthen existing anti-human trafficking laws.

The bill seeks to impose increased protections for survivors of human trafficking while providing tools for public awareness, data reporting and training for law enforcement, court personnel, health professionals and educators.

“While human trafficking may not be something we think about often, we cannot turn a blind eye to this devastating, prevailing issue,” said Moore. “Not only is human trafficking a multi-billion dollar global industry, it is the second-largest and fastest growing black market in the world. This legislation will offer greater protections and resources for those who have been victimized by this despicable practice.”

In 2011, the legislature passed the state’s first anti-human trafficking law, one of the strongest in the country. That legislation criminalized human trafficking for commercial and sexual exploitation of people, including severe punishments ranging from 5 years to life imprisonment. It also provided survivors with an affirmative defense to any potential prostitution charge as a result of being trafficked. Survivors further gained a civil remedy and access to the Victims of Human Trafficking Trust Fund.

This bill provides a significant update to strengthen this law by adopting several measures. First, the legislation will close the so-called bodyworks loophole that allows persons practicing “bodywork therapy” an exemption from the massage therapy licensing requirements. This lack of regulatory oversight has generated a pathway for traffickers to establish operations in communities throughout the Commonwealth while maintaining a public façade that insinuates a legitimate business. The Senate bill addresses the problem by establishing a statewide board of bodywork therapy that will provide oversight of bodywork establishments and require individual licensure for practitioners.

The legislation also includes significant tools for victims to help restore their lives. The timeframe to file a civil suit against a trafficker is extended from a mere 3 years to 10 years. Victims will also have access to expanded affirmative defenses to criminal charges related to sex crimes, and will have the ability to petition the court to vacate a prior conviction for any offense not a felony committed as a result of being a human trafficking victim. Upon a vacated conviction, victims can further seek to have their record sealed by in order to help aid the victim in obtaining housing, employment and other vital measures needed to live a healthy quality of life.

Under the bill, the Executive Office of Health and Human Services is also directed to report to the legislature the current adequacy and limitations on current victim services dealing with safety, support, housing, health and education. The report must also identify the number of beds and victims served at safe house facilities throughout the state.

Final provisions in the bill include enhanced data collection to better track human trafficking crimes and identify any patterns or characteristics useful to law enforcement for investigations, arrests and prosecutions. Mandatory training for law enforcement, health professionals, and K-12 educators is also implemented to help personnel identify victims and trafficking offenses. Finally, a public awareness campaign will be developed and awareness signs shall be posted in high-risk locations such as adult entertainment facilities and foreign cash transfers.

The bill now goes to the House of Representatives for consideration.

Protect Gardens From Invasive Pests

(NAPS)

Nothing tastes better than fresh-picked fruits and vegetables. Unfortunately, invasive pests threaten to devour the crops in our gardens and farms, and the flowers, trees and plants in our landscapes. They are a real threat, costing our nation approximately $120 billion each year.

These pests can spread quickly as they come from other countries and have few or no natural enemies here. In particular, the USDA cautions gardeners to be wary of 19 destructive, invasive species known as Hungry Pests, which include the emerald ash borer and Asian citrus psyllid. People need to be aware of these pests, because they are primarily spread in the things people move and pack.

Tips to Save Gardens

Fortunately, homeowners can follow six easy tips to protect their gardens and landscapes, and help keep Hungry Pests from spreading:

- Only buy plants and seeds from reputable sources, such as established nurseries or online businesses. Ask where they buy their plants and if they comply with federal quarantine restrictions.

Temporary, roadside vendors—and even non-established dealers online—may not be doing what is required to keep plants free of pests.

- If you are in a quarantined area—check www.HungryPests.com/the-spread—don't move plants or homegrown produce. And to be safe, don't bring back plants from other areas, including abroad. That's how the Mexican fruit fly—which threatens 50 types of fruits and vegetables—entered the United States.
- When doing property clean-up, call your local USDA office to find out how to safely dispose of trees, branches and other yard debris. Moving such materials outside your property in quarantined areas could spread invasive pests. Make sure your contractors also follow the procedures.
- Don't move homegrown citrus or citrus plants outside your property. That's how citrus greening, a disease that is killing America's orange groves, has spread.
- Look for round and D-shaped holes in trees. They could be the exit holes of Asian longhorned beetles or emerald ash borers. Also look for yellow, thin or wilted leaves, shoots growing from roots or tree trunks, sawdust-like material and unusual woodpecker activity.

By following USDA's six easy tips, you can help protect your plants, trees and crops from invasive pests.

er activity. If something looks suspicious, be safe and report it using the "Report a Pest" button on the Hungry Pests' website.

- For those in the northeast quadrant of the country, inspect lawn furniture, fences and other outdoor items, and remove and immerse gypsy moth egg masses in soapy water. Gypsy moths eat more than 300 species of trees and shrubs, so early detection is key. Report findings to agricultural officials.

A Guide To Finding And Hiring A Heating And Cooling Contractor

(NAPS)

Choosing a heating and cooling contractor can be just as important as selecting the equipment that makes up your home comfort system. That's because your contractor will help you pick the system that is best suited to your needs, install what is probably the most significant investment you make in your home and provide the technical expertise to keep it operating efficiently. As you begin your search, you should first learn as much as you can about heating and air-conditioning to prepare yourself for the interview process.

Next, ask your family and friends, co-workers, real estate agents and home improvement specialists for their recommendations. The Better Business Bureau also provides consumer ratings for specific contractors as well as complaints lodged against them.

After you have identified potential contractors, consider these steps as you make a hiring decision:

- Ask if the contractor performs the work or subcontracts it out.
- Verify that the contractors are properly insured by having them show you proof of liability and workers' compensation insurance for the contractor, as well as any technicians and subcontractors the contractor employs.
- Ask to see state and local licenses and certifications for refrigerant handling.

You can have more comfort for less cost if you heed a few hints on hiring a heating and cooling specialist.

of liability and workers' compensation insurance for the contractor, as well as any technicians and subcontractors the contractor employs.

- Ask to see state and local licenses and certifications for refrigerant handling.

Check for membership in professional organizations. Does the contractor belong to the Air Conditioning Contractors of America (ACCA)? Is the contractor certified by the North American Technician Excellence (NATE)?

- Discuss the services the contractor offers. Does the list of services include scheduled maintenance, repairs and 24-hour service?

- Determine whether the contractor has an established track record.
- Request and check references, asking about performance and whether work was completed on time and within budget.
- Expect the contractor to visit your home to conduct an on-site inspection, ask questions about your home comfort needs and address any questions you might have before making recommendations regarding service or equipment.
- Review an itemized and written estimate for the proposed work.
- Carefully read the final contract.

It's also a good idea to begin the process long before you need to purchase, replace or repair an air-conditioning system. That way, you can conduct a thorough search without the pressure of a deadline and be confident in the selection you make.

Power Is The Priority With An At-Home Office

(NAPS)

According to the US Census Bureau, a summary of trends indicates that 3.7 million employees now telecommute at least half of their work week. In fact, the number of work-at-home individuals who are not self-employed has grown by 103% since 2005. These work trends support an urgent need for uninterrupted electricity in the home to reduce lost work time and other avoidable disruptions.

Working from home has a number of employee benefits: the morning commute can't be beat and every day is casual Friday. And one perk that benefits both employee and employer is that studies show individuals tend to work more productively from a quieter, well-connected environment. However, when threatening weather is in the forecast, the flow of work from home to corporate office may also be at-risk. Formulating a backup plan in the case of a power outage should be a significant part of a home office business model.

Every responsible home office business model should consider a continuous source of power. Home standby generators, like the Guardian series by Generac Power Systems, turn on automatically when utility power goes out and stay on until utility power is restored. The benefits of installing a backup power system include uninterrupted, continuous power; communications connectivity for all business and home needs; protection for expensive computer equipment; and overall peace of mind.

Working from home needn't stop during a power outage if you have a back-up generator.

More than just an inconvenience, a power outage also means productivity losses that can ultimately result in lost income and missed opportunities. In Beaver Dams, New York, a Generac generator saved Deborah Purdue who shares, "I am a goldsmith and have my shop in my house. In the past I lost hundreds of dollars not being able to work because of an outage. I work at least 70 hours a week and when we lose power I just get further behind. This unit has given me tremendous peace of mind!"

It's also important to prioritize those items the home office will need in order to stay up and running. Generac.com offers a generator sizing calculator that provides recommendations for options that accommodate the home's electricity needs, as well as personal preferences.

"Ensuring the power is always on is the right decision for today's telecommuters," says Jodi Marose, Generac Power Systems, Inc. spokesperson. "A home standby generator will automatically keep your equipment running which allows you to focus on keeping your business running."
