Auburn residents cast in Dean College’s “Wonderful Town”

FRANKLIN — The School of the Arts at Dean College will perform Wonderful Town, beginning Wednesday, Nov. 20 through Sunday, Nov. 24. We are proud to announce that the following local residents will have a principal role in the production: Derek Brigham and Kyle Rano of Auburn have been cast as Villagers. Based on the hit play and film, My Sister Eileen, the musical “Wonderful Town” tells the hilarious and heart-warming story of two Midwestern sisters, newly arrived in New York. One, an aspiring writer, and the other, an actress and dancer, they leave their home in Ohio and wind up sharing a basement apartment in Greenwich Village. While pursuing their dreams, they deal with broken hearts and surround themselves with a cast of characters only to be found in the Village. Featuring a magical score by Bernstein, Comden and Green, CHARLTON — Capen Hill is celebrating its third annual Spaghetti Dinner and Silent Auction in honor of Raymond McDuffie. Ray McDuffie served in the US Army in Germany as a Tank Commander. Returning home, McDuffie worked and retired from Smith Valve then coming on board as Maintenance Manager for Capen Hill. He skillfully managed the day to day maintenance that took place at Capen along with assisting with any of the animal care. Ray was also more than an employee to Capen Hill. He took a special interest in helping Capen grow. He was always there to help on any and all fund raisers that were being done. This is why he is honored and specially remembered with a dinner each year. With McDuffie being a Veteran, Capen felt the best time to hold the dinner would be around Veterans Day to honor him and the service he provided for our country. We encourage local Veterans to come meet up and share their stories. The homemade dinner is on Sunday, Nov. 10, starting at 4:30 p.m. and running until 7 p.m. at the Charlton Grange Hall. Prices for tickets are: Regularly priced tickets are $10.00, Veterans and children under 12 are $5, children under three are free. With some generous donations from local companies there is a grant for Veterans and possible family members to dine free of charge. For more information on this e-mail capenhillnature@gmail.com , please put the word “nomination” in the subject field. For ticket purchases you can either call Capen at 508-248-5516 or 508-579-6215 or logon on to Capenhill.org. Takeout orders are available. This is an all you can eat event. While the dinner is in progress, there will be a silent auction in process. Diners are encouraged to view all the items and make bids and out bids!! Some of the items up for auction are: Overnight stay at the Southbridge Conference Center with breakfast, Sixth Generation iPad, 10-and-a-half-inch Echo View Second Generation, Lunch for Two at Public House, Gift basket from Tree House Brewery and many other themed baskets.

Tree House receives approval for alterations

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

CHARTON – Tree House Brewing Company in Charlton is continuing to expand on their amenities at their 129 Sturbridge Rd. location with the recent approval of expanded interior and exterior space by the Board of Selectmen. The company sent forth a request for alternation of premises to add 17,601 square-feet of interior public space and 43,251 of square-feet in exterior green space. Despite initial concerns from the Building Commissioner about the amount of exterior space selectmen received no objection from town officials for the proposal. Selectmen approved the proposal with little debate with several board members reiterating past comments that the company has been a great addition to the community that has handled any issues and complaints with professionalism. Selectman John McGrath was particularly complimentary to the company saying he was glad to see them continue to build on their business.

“I’m very happy to see that they’re expanding. I’m happy that they came to Charlton over numerous other towns that they had the chance to go to. They’ve proven to be very good neighbors. They’ve done

Connie Croteau honored at Oxford Library

OXFORD – During her 28 years as secretary in the Oxford Public Schools, Constance Croteau was well known for her penchant for bling, her love of children, her faith, and her “contagious laugh and sparkling presence.”

Last week, Oxford Public Library commemorated all of those things by dedicating part of the Children’s Room upstairs Connie’s Corner, a place laden with costumes and props of all kinds. Long-time friend Emmy Monticelli said it will be “a place where children are encouraged to dress up and use their imaginations to express themselves and learn.” “As Fred Rogers said, ‘When children pretend, they’re using their imaginations to move beyond the bounds of reality. A stick can be a magic wand. A sock can be a puppet. A small child can be a superhero,’” she added.

SWCEC to be reviewed by Department of Education

REGION — Mr. Allen Himmelberger of the Southern Worcester County Educational Collaborative (SWCEC) was informed by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education of an upcoming Collaborative Program Review that will be taking place this school year.

As part of this Collaborative Program Review, Department staff will visit the Collaborative during the week of Jan. 13, 2020. Such visits are routinely conducted by the Department to satisfy federal and state requirements for the periodic review of specific education programs and services in schools throughout the Commonwealth. The Department is reviewing several programs during a single visit in order to use Department and school staff's time most efficiently and to encourage strong connections among the programs.

The Department's Collaborative Program Review will address the following programs: Grow Elementary School, Grow Middle/High School, SWCEC Developmental and Autism Programs. After reviewing collaborative procedures for these program(s), a Department team will make its onsite visit, during which it will review individual student records, interview administrators, teachers and paraprofessional staff, survey parents and observe instructional spaces. After the onsite visit it will prepare a report for the executive director and board of directors, with detailed findings for each program.

Using a scale of ratings ranging from "Commendable" to "Not Implemented," the report will rate the implementation of each requirement reviewed by the Department. Where requirements are found not implemented or only partially implemented, the collaborative must propose to the Department corrective action to bring those areas into compliance with statutes and regulations. Collaborative programs are encouraged to incorporate the corrective action into their district and school improvement plans and professional development plan. The collaborative will be provided with technical assistance from the Department in developing a corrective action plan. Both the Department's report and the corrective action plan are public information and will be available to the public upon request. Program Review Final Reports are also available on the Department's Internet Web site at <http://www.doe.mass.edu/pqa/review/cpr/reports/>.

Any member of the public may request to be interviewed by telephone by a member of the Department's visiting team. Those wishing to be interviewed should call the executive director's office at (508) 764-8500 no later than Dec. 1 to leave their name and phone number, or they may call the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education at (781) 338- 3723. A member of the visiting team will contact each person desiring an interview within two weeks after the completion of the onsite visit. If an individual is not comfortable communicating in English or requires some other accommodation, the Department will make arrangements to communicate appropriately with the individual.

Selectmen show concerns about meal tax benefits

CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON – Charlton's selectmen are taking steps that they hope will ensure that the community reaps the financial benefits of hosting food trucks after it was discovered that the community is not benefitting as expected from the state's tax rules.

The Board of Selectmen discussed the matter at a meeting on Oct. 22 at the request of Selectman Bill Borowski. Under Massachusetts General Law food trucks are required to log in daily and enter their sales information online including listing the town or city they collected the majority of their sales from on that day. The town where they spent the most time would benefit from the taxes raised. Selectman Borowski said he discussed the meals tax with a vendor at a recent event and discovered that the truck operators don't know where that money goes. More research indicated that Charlton is not receiving funding from these taxes despite being a consistent host community.

"We all know food trucks come into town from time to time whether it be for an event. (A resident) simply asked me if they should be paying the meals tax and I honestly didn't know. I called the Department of Revenue and they told me they absolutely should," Borowski said. "To the best of my knowledge, we're not getting the money. It's probably a very small amount, but the reality is if it's being sold in town we should be getting that money as opposed to the food truck's home town which is where I'm guessing it's going so they're getting the benefits when we should be getting said benefit."

Borowski clarified that his goal is not the be an "overseer" or to institute tighter controls on the town's part, but rather to ensure that vendors are paying the taxes property and that Charlton benefits from the revenue regardless of how large or small that money total might be. Selectman David Singer, referencing Mass. General Law, said the problem doesn't seem to be vendors not paying the taxes but rather loopholes that prevents towns like Charlton, where food trucks spend less time, from receiving the benefits.

"One possible cause for that, if I read everything correctly, is that the food trucks only have to pay the meals tax to the town in which they sold the most that day, so if a food truck hits Worcester and does $2,000 in sales and then comes to Charlton that night and does $500 in sales they're not obligated by state rules to pay us a penny," Singer said.

He added that he didn't agree with this practice and noted that out-of-state trucks aren't even required to pay the tax calling that an "unfair competitive advantage."

Selectman Borowski stated that regardless of the minimal benefit to the town could receive from the tax, if Charlton should be receiving money the taxpayers deserve to benefit from those fees. He requested that town officials come together to brainstorm solutions and to make sure that all food truck vendors are made aware of their responsibilities to the state tax. Charlton Health Director James Philbrook said that process should start with the permitting.

"I think when someone applies for a permit in town there should be some kind of rules that should be given to them to make sure they do the following and ask if they know there's a local meals tax in Charlton," Philbrook said. "Some of them just don't know I believe because not every town has that."

Friday's Child

Alijah
Age 11

Hi! My name is Alijah and I'm a really good basketball player!

Alijah is a social, engaging and polite boy of Cape Verdean descent. His favorite activities include playing sports, board games and card games, and singing and dancing. He also likes cooking, baking and swimming. Alijah is particularly good at basketball and he enjoys showing others his skills.

Alijah does benefit from accommodations listed on his IEP to assist him with more emotional/social supports. He does well in school and is performing on grade level. Alijah is hopeful that he will be able to step down to a less restrictive setting in the near future.

Legally freed for adoption, Alijah will do best in a family with no other children in the home or with children older than he is. An ideal family will be able to give Alijah the one-on-one attention that he craves, and provide him with structure and clear rules. He would also love for his future family to have pets or be open to adopting a pet. It is very important to Alijah that he is able to maintain contact with his eight siblings who are also looking to be adopted.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mare-inc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

started at 7 p.m. According to the www.alzmassnh.org, the annual Matthew & Marcia Simons Research Symposium on Alzheimer’s disease has been the centerpiece of the Alzheimer’s Association, MA/NH Chapter’s yearly scientific presentations since 1991, highlighting the work of scientists making major contributions to the search for causes, treatments and ultimate cure for Alzheimer’s disease. The Alzheimer’s Association honors the spirit and dedication of longtime Board of Directors member Marcia Simons, whose commitment to support and education for those coping with Alzheimer’s disease led her in 1991 to endow The Matthew & Marcia Simons Research Symposium on Alzheimer’s Disease. Twenty-eight years later, the Alzheimer’s Association continues to honor Marcia Simons and her family by highlighting the work of scientists making major contributions to the search for causes, treatments and ultimate cure for Alzheimer’s disease. The symposium provided attendees with extra tools and information on Alzheimer’s, showing the latest studies, theories and discoveries to bring people closer to finding a cure. “It was an amazing experience to be surrounded by such dedicated professionals,” said Guertin. Thirty-five million people worldwide suffer from Alzheimer’s, including five million Americans. Alzheimer’s disease is the sixth leading cause of death across all ages, and fifth leading for those 65 and older. It is the only fatal disease, of the top 10 fatal diseases, that has no cure and no prevention. “The symposium was an excellent opportunity to hear firsthand about research as well as network with others who are working so hard to find a cure to this terrible disease,” said Guertin. “My clinical group and I were very honored to have been able to attend, are thrilled to learn and meet key individuals supportive of our professional learning and growth. We are excited to share much of what we learned with our the PN Class of 2020, as we brought back training tools and some great tips!” Guertin has over ten years of experience in caring for older adults, including those with Alzheimer’s. As full-time faculty at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy and Clinical Instructor at Quaboag Rehabilitation and Skilled Care Center in West Brookfield, Guertin plays a crucial role in educating PN students in the care for seniors and has a passion for caring for those with memory-impairing illnesses.

The weekend show experienced a great community turnout. The Spencer Cultural Council provided funding for live music and Guild members provided refreshments for visitors to enjoy while viewing the wonderful array of artwork.

Prizes and ribbons were awarded for Best In Show, First, Second, and Third Place in each category as well as honorable mentions and memorial awards chosen by the families of past cherished Guild members.

The Massasoit Art Guild is represented by more than 80 members and exists to foster artistic growth, act as a support group for local artists and to provide opportunities to show and sell original artwork.

The Guild offers an open studio for artists to work on current pieces Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m.-noon at 108 School St., East Brookfield.

The Photography group meets on the first Tuesday each month, and the Artist Group meets on

Fishing on the Salmon River

Numerous anglers have returned from the Salmon River in upstate New York with some great fish. This week's photo shows young Logan Peck and his dad, with a 38 inch, 25-pound king salmon taken on the Oak Orchard River in Up State New York. Logan actually landed the huge fish as his dad looked on. That young man will surely be hooked on fishing after that trip. Congratulations, young man.

Tautog fishing in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island has exploded with action. Striper fishing on the Canal has slowed with mostly school stripers being caught. Trout fishing on many of the Mass. waters has also slowed, as had fishing pressure.

Deer hunting in Massachusetts was reportedly slow last week locally for archers, with a few nice bucks being taken, but very few does were being harvested. Action should pick up this week, but the rut is still a week or two away. Bruce Palmer of Uxbridge returned home from a trip to Pennsylvania with an impressive eight-point buck this past week, taken with his crossbow. Way to go, Bruce!

With winter weather at our doorstep, some die hard sea duck hunters are gearing up for some fast shooting in the weeks ahead. The harsher the weather, the better the duck hunting on the coast can be. Strong winds, freezing rain and snow can provide some great sea duck hunting if you can handle the elements. In this writers younger years, a couple of other crazy duck hunters traveled to the Rhode Island coast every week-end to brave the extreme conditions that mother nature had to offer.

After arriving at our hunting spot, we loaded all of our gear into my hunting buddy's small aluminum boat that was equipped with a small gasoline outboard. It took two trips to bring all of our gear to the small jetty that was our place we set up our duck blinds. We had some fast tidal flow of saltwater to navigate through to get to our blinds. Looking back at our expeditions of sea duck hunting I realize now how foolish we were to take the chances that we did to enjoy some great hunting.

We all were wearing chest high waders, and had heavy clothing on as we navigated the tidal waters in the small craft. The boat was loaded down with our guns, duck decoys, numerous boxes of shotgun shells, and more. The dogs swam alongside our boat as we navigated to our hunting spot. We had to be nuts. We had a great time shooting ducks, and our dogs performed some great retrieves on the downed birds.

Some of our hunting buddies were not so lucky sea duck hunting. Numerous sportsmen lost their lives on the saltmarshes of Mass. & Rhode Island because they let their guard down, and did not pay attention to the rising waters and increasing harsh weather conditions. Sea duck hunting can be a lot of fun, but you need to be constantly aware of your surroundings. On one of my hunting trips to the coast, I nearly lost my Labrador Retriever in the fast tidal flow in the area we were hunting.

The Westhill Dam access road leading to Harrington's pool area is permanently closed to all traffic. The Corps of Engineers had the property surveyed and agreed with the abutting land owner that showed his property lines were correct. The Corps of Engineers has no immediate plans to find another access to the area, other than the Dam site off of West Hartford Avenue. Hopefully, the Corps can find another access to the area, which was used by hundreds of residents and visitors annually.

Plan ahead for Amaryllis blooms all winter long

MYERS

Let amaryllis fill your home with flowers for the holidays and keep the blossoms coming all winter long. When you plant several different types of amaryllis bulbs, from both the southern and northern hemisphere, you can be sure to get a long-lasting, colorful show that will brighten your mood and surroundings throughout the winter months.

Kick off the holiday season with amaryllis bulbs that are imported from growers in Peru. As we enter autumn, it's springtime in South America, and these bulbs are eager to start blooming. Pot them up before early November for flowers in December.

Amaryllis varieties grown in the southern hemisphere include deep red Mandela, frosty white Denver, coral-pink Bolero and two-tone Charisma. Combine these impressive blossoms with greens, poinsettias, candles and other holiday décor, or give them as living gifts to friends, family and neighbors.

Most amaryllis bulbs that are grown in the U.S. are imported from Holland, and their natural bloom time is January through March. Exactly when the flowers will open is impossible to predict. The best strategy is to choose a number of different varieties and plant them 3 to 4 weeks apart during November, December and January. This way you will always have flowers coming into bloom.

Plan a winter filled with amaryllis blossoms by referring to Longfield Gardens' article, longfield-gardens.com/article/When-Will-Your-Amaryllis-Bloom, for insight on when different amaryllis varieties will bloom.

Start your indoor flower display with an early bloomer such as Evergreen, which is always quick to break out of dormancy. Its flowers have narrow, lime/chartreuse petals on 20-inch plants. Enjoy the impressive display as each bulb produces two stems with four to six blooms.

Minerva's extra-large, cherry-red flowers have a white star in the middle and an apple green throat. They are eye-catching from afar and spectacular up close. Apple Blossom is a long-time favorite with snow-white petals brushed with pink and a lime green throat. Or grow a double amaryllis such as Double King with layers of burgundy-red petals and up to a dozen flowers.

Enjoy some of the more unusual amaryllis colors and flower styles by planting varieties such as Naranja, with its tropical red-orange blossoms or Sweet Nymph, a romantic double amaryllis with stunning, coral-pink petals. Add elegance to your indoor garden with Picotee. Its 8" flowers are white with a thin red line around each petal.

As winter turns to early spring, celebrate with an explosion of indoor blooms from Red Pearl, Spartacus and other proven performers. The velvety, burgundy-red flowers of Red Pearl have a deep maroon throat that sets off the glittering gold stamens. Spartacus turns heads with its crimson petals and bold white stripes.

Display your amaryllis on a mantle, kitchen counter or entryway table where you can watch the amazing show as the first sprout appears, followed by buds and the spectacular trumpet-shaped blooms. Amaryllis are also beautiful, long-lasting cut flowers.

For best selection, order your bulbs early and store them in a cool, dry, dark place until you are ready to plant. Once you pot up the bulbs and place them in a warm, bright location, flower buds should appear in about six to 10 weeks.

Protect yourself from the winter blahs by investing in amaryllis. You can count on their big flowers and bright colors to lift your spirits and ease your way to spring.

a lot of different things in the community and they worked with many different groups," McGrath said. "I'm extremely happy to see them moving forward with this."

A representative from Tree House Brewery explained that the project won't actually be expanding their operation, but instead is a way for them to "cover their bases." The areas have already been utilized for activities and operations and the initiative will not require more encroachment on wetlands or the removal of more trees. The company is currently working on a 16,000 square-foot addition previously approved by the town.

Selectmen did take the time to address some concerns about security for their parking area with the upcoming holiday season. Tree House Brewing Company has assured selectmen they maintain a staff of TIPS certified individuals that monitor the parking area and that a private security firm called Lusignan has been hired to be on hand during all hour of open pours. The company has stated their willingness to maintain their security measures longer and beyond open pour hours if requested.

Protecting the past

We remember the good old days when the thought of a video phone conversation was the stuff of science fiction. We thought the best we might get was something along the lines of Max Hedroom, the virtual character introduced was introduced in 1984. What we ended up with is substantially better. What a great way to keep in touch with family members and friends across a far distance.

That being said, the rate at which technology is advancing does seem to be a bit too fast at times. It seems as though once an item has been un-veiled, it becomes obsolete in a nano-second, paving the way for something better, faster and with more bells and whistles.

As time moves forward, how can we maintain a solid grip on our past? The destruction of old buildings is becoming more and more common and we wonder how that will affect future generations. It is one thing to look at old photographs of old schools, buildings, churches and other landmarks, however the history becomes more alive when you have something you can stand next too, observe with your own eyes in person, touch it, walk around and get a feel for how things once were. There really is a magic to it.

History is fascinating. The way things once were, the way human beings have evolved over the years and how things have changed, are some of the best stories one can hear. History keeps us grounded and in tune with who we are, especially family history dating back as far as you can go. You could find out that your great grandfather was an Editor of a newspaper in Philadelphia and have an ‘a-ha’ moment, that perhaps that is why you’re sitting in front of a new fangled typewriter, writing, which is the case for this Editor. DNA is a pretty neat thing.

History is what has shaped us into who we are as a society. Preserving history is crucial in that the stories that make up our historical record represent different aspects of our culture, politics and economy. Being able to walk through Paul Revere’s house in Boston, gives us a direct connection to that specific time and place, often representing major milestones. The ability for those sites to connect the dots to where you’re standing over the years is something that should never be taken for granted.

If old buildings and structures continually are demolished, what will be left of our past? While we do understand that sometimes this is a necessity due to safety or financial reasons, we also have the motto, “If they can put a man on the moon, they can save a building.”

Preserving history is a way to appreciate our local and national heritage. Some buildings, may be the only iconic ones left in a small New England town. Those are the places that give these small towns and big cities character. Often, even just one old building is enough to define a town. While new structures can draw in investments into a town, it is the history of a place that lures people to it.

Every major city, and every town worth its salt, has a historical society or historic district of some kind, and we applaud their efforts to preserve what once was. We feel it is our duty, as we move throughout our lives to do what we can to protect the past.

In the words of Marcus Garvey, “A people without the knowledge of their past history, origin and culture is like a tree without roots.”

SPORTS ACTION!

Teaching Caleb and Noah ...

I don't think it's possible for my grandsons to understand how deeply I love them. It wasn't until they were born that I began realizing how much my grandparents loved me.

I ran across a quote over the weekend that isn't new. I've heard it said for as long as I can remember and have seen the same quote attributed to many others, but my research on the net gives me confidence that I'm attributing these powerful words to the correct source.

Your beliefs become your thoughts.
Your thoughts become your words.
Your words become your actions.
Your actions become your habits.
Your habits become your values.
Your values become your destiny.

- Mahatma Gandhi

I've written about every line of this quote, in one way or another. It is one of those quotes that sticks with me and I find it to be on both my heart and mind this morning as I sit to write my column.

Caleb and Noah were in town this weekend. I find myself being more deliberate with them than I was with my children. I think because I only see them five to six times a year, I watch and listen to them, then try to teach them something useful. I'll see them again for five days over Thanksgiving. I'm already thinking about some way to give them something they can learn and take home after the holiday. I think the teachings in this quote is it.

Your beliefs become your thoughts.

With every cell in my body, I know this to be true. I've written in this column dozens of times about the power of your beliefs. I'll always have someone tell me that they can't help what they believe, so they have no control ... but it's not true. We are in complete control of what we believe. It's a choice we make, so always choose to believe that you have the ability and power to determine your destiny ... because it's true.

Your thoughts become your words.

What we believe in our hearts and mind, always comes out of our mouths. We all know the negative and positive people in our lives by what they say. It's no coincidence that the positive people are almost always happier and more successful.

Your words become your actions.

And it's so because what they believe comes out of their mouths and their words become actions. If someone else says it, your mind understands that it may or may not be true, but if you say it, your mind absorbs and believes it.

Autumn is here and as we batten down the hatches and cozy up for a New England winter ahead, several readers took time from their many Fall chores to share their favorite “hacks” and hints. Whether it's revealing a recipe or sharing a simpler way to get a task done, the following tips are sure to make life a little easier!

This organizing pro shares one of her sorting secrets that saves time and tension!

Even when I was working as a professional organizer, one of the peskiest things for me was taming the POS tapes (register receipts) that need to be saved for the next bank reconciliation. Not having them in chronological order drove me nuts.

My solution: I have a small box (smaller than a shoe box) on the corner of my desk. All receipts go in the box face down. When it's time to reconcile my account, I take them out of my box and flip them over. Voila! They're already in order and I don't have to sort through the whole pile to match them up to the bank statement. Once the reconciliation is done, I file any that should be kept for tax purposes and shred the rest.

POSITIVELY SPEAKING

BY GARY W. MOORE

Your actions become your habits.

There are many takes on this but Zig Ziglar said that if you purposely do something every day for forty days, it becomes a habit.

Aristotle said, “We are what we repeatedly do. Excellence, then, is not an act, but a habit.”

Our habits drive our actions and our actions drive our success.

Your habits become your values.

This is a column of its own that I'll address soon, but the more you do something, the more it becomes part of you.

Your values become your destiny.

Our destiny is not up to chance ... and certainly not up to others. The saying “If it is to be it is up to me” comes to mind here and it's true. Destiny isn't something that you sit and wait for ... it is something you create, beginning with your belief system.

It is difficult to do Gandhi's words justice in a mere eight-hundred-word column. I am writing this with several purposes. First, to formulate how to help a couple of boys, seven and nine, begin to understand these truths and make them part of their lives. Second, to cause you, the reader to think about this and hopefully put these truths to work in your life.

I also need to hear these words as we all need to fortify our beliefs and strengthen our weaknesses. I am far from perfect, and like you, a work in progress. When I write to also strengthen my weaknesses ... I never run out of material.

I do understand the best way to teach behavior is to model it. I had a college professor, Dr. H. E. Nutt, who is legendary in the field of music education. He would always say, “The best way to learn to play the clarinet (or any instrument) is to teach someone to play the clarinet.” By doing so, it forces you to think about the correct methods and the more you do, the more it becomes part of you. By teaching these words, like teaching anything else, it forces me to put them into action.

So, as I try to share this with my grandson's and readers ... it is also my hope that by writing this column ... it makes all of us happier, stronger, kinder, wiser and more optimistic people.

Life is too short to be otherwise.

Save money and the planet with this reader's common sense strategy:

Here is a tip for water conservation: When you hand wash dishes, just put a little water in the wash side of the sink or pan. After you wash a few, rinse the sudsy items over that side of the sink or pan, and you will increase the level of water there instead of just running it down the drain.

This reader's message is “get a grip!”

If you don't have a jar opener or if it's lost its grip, use a rubber band around the top of whatever you're trying to open. I did this to open the top of a liquor bottle that kept sealing closed and I just left the rubber band on the top of the bottle which helped me open it every time.

Take greater control of your 401(k)

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

If your employer offers a 401(k) or similar plan, you've got a powerful retirement-savings tool at your disposal. And yet, how well you do with your 401(k) depends greatly on your choices and actions. What steps can you take to maximize the benefits of your plan?

For starters, be aware that your 401(k) may come with what might be called “standard” features, which you should review to determine their applicability to your situation. These features include the following:

Default deferral rate – When you take a job, your employer may automatically enroll you in the company's 401(k) plan and assign a “default” contribution rate – the percentage of your salary you will put in to your 401(k). Many companies choose a default rate of 3 percent, although, in recent years, there has been a move toward higher rates, even up to 6 percent. Unfortunately, too many people don't question their default rate, which could be a problem, especially if it's at the lower end. If you want your 401(k) to ultimately provide you with as many financial resources as possible, you will likely need to contribute as much as you can afford. So, be aware of your default rate, and, if you can possibly afford it, increase that level. And every time your salary goes up, consider boosting your contributions.

Investment mix – When you're automatically enrolled in your 401(k), the amount you might initially contribute isn't the only “off the shelf” feature – you also might be assigned a default investment option. One common default investment is known as a target-date fund, which generally includes a mix of stocks, bonds and cash instruments. Your 401(k) plan provider, or your human resources area, will typically base this mix on your age and projected retirement date. Usually, this fund will grow more conservative over time, reflecting the need to reduce the portfolio's risk as you get nearer to retirement. However, you may not be obligated to stick with the default option. Most 401(k) plans usually offer several options from which to choose. Ideally, you'd want to spread your investment dollars among a mix of these investments to give yourself the greatest growth potential, given your risk tolerance and time horizon. And always keep in mind that your 401(k) is a long-term vehicle, designed to help you prepare for a retirement that may be decades away. Consequently, try to discipline yourself to look past the inevitable short-term drops in your portfolio.

Matching contributions – If your employer offers a 401(k) matching contribution, you should certainly take advantage of it. Consider this: If you employer matches 50 cents for every dollar you contribute, up to 6 percent of your pay, and you contribute the full 6 percent, you would, in effect, be receiving a 3 percent pay raise (50 percent of 6 percent). That's like a 50 percent rate of return even before you invest this added money.

Taking control of your 401(k) in the ways described above can help go a long way toward getting the most from your plan – and, as a result, may help get you closer to supporting the retirement lifestyle you've envisioned.

Gold and silver still lead the way at auction

The antique market has changed significantly since when I started in this business over 30 years ago. Back then many dealers were refinishing antique furniture and were making a good living reselling it. Brilliant cut glass, EAPG (early American Pattern glass), Heisey, Fostori and other glassware sold very well at shows and in antique shops. Limoges, Nippon and other china were also bringing strong prices. Baseball cards and comic books were selling well at local auctions, but not bringing the record prices we see today. Those who kept silver and gold they purchased decades ago have seen their investment grow over time despite the changing market.

Sterling silver hollowware and flatware, along with silver coins, have been among the best-selling items at auction for several years. Many people sold gold in 2001, when it reached over $1,900 an ounce. Gold prices have been rising again, and it is now over $1,500 an ounce. Many consignors have been selling their gold and silver again during this strong market.

Pieces by silversmiths from the 18th and 19th century can fetch strong prices at auction. A soup tureen by master silversmith Paul Storr brought $26,000 at a 2014 auction. More modern pieces by famous designers like Tiffany are also very valuable. A pair of nine-candle Tiffany sterling silver candelabras sold for $93,500 at auction in 2012. A set of Tiffany “Renaissance” flatware brought $98,000 in a 2014 auction. Two Tiffany sterling center bowls with hand hammered ocean scene designs reached $111,500 when they sold at auction in 2012.

As you’d expect, gold items can bring prices that are even higher than silver. A 1795 $10 Gold Eagle coin went for $375,000 at auction in 2015. Gold jewelry can fetch astronomical prices, especially when combined with gemstones. A gold and diamond tulip bangle by JAR sold for $3.5 million at a 2014 auction.

Most people don’t have 18th century silver or early 19th century gold coins, but more recent silver and gold have also been selling well at our Worcester auctions.

A George Jensen Harald Neilsen Design sterling silver coffee and tea set sold for over $2,000 in our August 2017 auction. A large Wedgwood pattern sterling silver flatware service by International Silver Company went for over

$3,000 in our August auction. A George Jensen flatware sterling set brought over $4,000 in our January 2017 auction. A 1911 $20 St. Gaudens gold coin brought $1,400. A gold mourning locket went for over $2,000 in our August 2016 auction. A set of 22-karat gold Western miniatures by Jim Pounder brought bids of over $20,000 in our

May auction. Precious metals continue to remain precious to our bidders.

We have our next major auction on January 30th in Worcester. I’ll be appraising items for the public at the First Parish Church United in Westford on November 9th from 11:00 AM to 3:00 PM. Other events are being scheduled. Please Spending time in her corner, a child will get the chance to be almost anything – a doctor, cowboy, butterfly, unicorn, and a few dozen other things – with the mirrors to see the transformation come into being.

Pam Reidy dedicated the corner to “the following values: joy, openness, tolerance, empathy and energetic intellectual discovery,” noting it aims to promote exploring self-identity and various professions and “to validate the significance of playing dress-up.”

“In creating this legacy in her name, we hope this will be a place where children are enthusiastically encouraged to use their imagination, can try on the life of someone else, fostering empathy for others, [and] can establish their unique gender identification,” Reidy said. Over time, that play will help “prepare them to take their place in a multi-faceted world.”

For the community as a whole, part of that process will be an annual lecture series in Croteau’s name focusing on the importance of play in childhood development. The first talk will be March 19, 2020, when Lisa Burris of the Paxton-based non-profit Turn Back Time comes to discuss “nature’s ability to teach and heal.”

Croteau “was a wonderful woman, an inspiration to a lot of people,” said friend Norman Leblanc. “She always put others ahead of herself.”

Monticelli agreed, adding,

“She just made you feel good. It didn’t have to be a special occasion to be light and celebratory. She was always extremely generous of spirit.”

Croteau passed away in December 2015 at age 92.

As she knew, sometimes it’s just about the fun. Town Manager Jen Callahan noted it was particularly appropriate this was happening right after Halloween. Although she said she did not know Croteau, many town employees played dress-up, “taking on a new role and being light and bright. Connie understood that.”

“If I were a child and I came here to see this, I’d be so excited,” Callahan said. “... I think I might come and visit Connie’s Corner with a couple of my outfits and my jewelry.”

She praised Library Director Brittany McDougall and her staff for bringing this and many other things to the library.

If you like butterscotch, here is a good recipe that never spoils! In a saucepan, melt: ½ cup butter; 1 cup brown sugar; ½ tsp salt. Bring to a boil, then remove from heat and whisk in 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup evaporated milk. Cool well before using. Keeps well in refrigerator and will never spoil.

Soden's late-game header lifts Wolverines past Auburn

Auburn's Emily Turcotte employs a bicycle kick of sorts to move the ball down the field.

With a teammate calling for a pass, Liv Mathews of Auburn cuts inside to get closer and make the play.

LEICESTER — With the clock winding down and the eighth seeded Leicester High and No. 9 Auburn High girls' varsity soccer teams dead-locked at 1-1 in a first-round matchup in the Central Mass. Division 3 Tournament on Monday evening, Nov. 4, the Wolverines' Jenna Soden had an opportunity to give her team the lead. Teammate Nida Orloff sent a right-to-left cross toward the Rockets' goal and Soden, having beat her defender, couldn't get her foot on the ball as it rolled away harm-lessly.

"The ball skipped and I just missed it," Soden said of the play. "I knew I couldn't give up, so I just kept trying to get the ball back and get the next play. I didn't want to let my team down."

Undeterred, Soden scored the game-winning goal a min-ute later to lift Leicester to a 2-1 victory.

"Jenna's one of my most consistent players for sure," said Autumn Connor, the Wolverines' first-year head coach, before noting that Soden is not one to get down on her-self when she didn't score on her first chance. "Our older girls are pretty conditioned where they get it."

Soden, a junior, scored in the 66th minute following a throw-in by teammate Sarah Brouillard, who launched the ball from the out-of-bounds line all the way into the box. There, the 5-foot-10 Soden positioned herself in front of Auburn keeper Alyssa Wright and headed the ball past Wright and into the net.

"We usually try to set up the throws to get a goal off it. Originally, I was trying to flick it onto another teammate, but I was more angled toward the net and it went right over the keeper," explained Soden.

Connor said that she was "ecstatic" about the goal and the victory. "The girls left their heart on the field. The girls never gave up. They played as a team and had heart."

The Wolverines dominated the play in the first half and held a 1-0 lead at the break. Orloff scored the goal in the 19th minute, as the play began with another long Brouillard throw-in before it found the foot of Orloff.

Leicester nearly took a 2-0 lead in the 29th minute when Lily Peterson headed a shot over Wright (nine saves) and into the net, but the Wolverines were ruled offside.

Auburn then woke up in the second half and played a much stronger 40 minutes. The Rockets tied the score at 1-1 in the 53rd minute when Mick Sampson found enough space to one-touch the ball by Leicester keeper Alexa Dufries (three saves) before shooting into a now open net.

"I thought the second half was awesome," said Auburn head coach Emily Para. "They came out with the fire under their butts, which is what I was waiting for in the first half. I think we came in just not remembering that they were a physical, strong team and I think we let them step to the ball first and we got a little panicky.

"It was a good goal where she followed the shot and crashed the net," Para added about Sampson's tying tally.

But Soden scored 13 minutes later to lift the Wolverines into the District quarterfinal round. Leicester also avenged its regu-lar season loss to Auburn, 3-1.

"We wanted to come and show them that we weren't our best that day," Connor said.

The Wolverines (10-5-3) next get the chance to take on top seeded Nipmuc Regional (12-1-5) in the next round, which took place after press time. The two played to a scoreless draw in regular season play.

The Rockets, mean-while, finished 7-9-3. Their regular season win over Leicester actually helped toward receiving the post-season nod, as they finished under .500 overall but tied for the Southern Worcester County League A Division championship, an automatic playoff qualifier.

"We definitely had some games that we should have won earlier in the season [and] we had some injuries, but I think the Sutton game — which was our last game — and then this game, that was true Auburn soccer. We played really well," Para said, before shifting to next season's thoughts. "We have a lot of promise coming up. [This season featured] only about five returning starters, so it was a rebuilding year in some sense. Next year I think we'll be strong."

With Leicester's Nida Orloff charging hard toward the ball, Angelina DiCarlo of Auburn winds up and delivers a kick to send it away.

FUMC to host organ recital

SOUTHBIDGE — First United Church (FUMC) of Southbridge will be hosting a free organ recital on Sunday, Nov. 17 at 4 p.m. Renown New England organist, Glen Campbell will present a program of music by J.S. Bach, Buxtehude, Rheinberger, Vierne and more, on the church beautiful 1834 organ.

This free recital is open to all and will be followed by a reception. A free will offering will be accepted to benefit the church's growing ministry to the homeless and the needy.

FUMC continues to offer free meals twice a week. The word has been spreading quickly, resulting in an always increasing number of guests, a diverse bunch including homeless people, people on food stamps trying to extend their resources, and also people who are lonely and would love some company. FUMC started asking for donations of food, clothes (especially socks and underwear) and hygiene products. Winter is here and the homeless community is in desperate need. The church always welcomes donations of clothes, shoes, hand-warmers, blankets and other winter items. FUMC is a no judgement zone. FUMC believes in living the Christian Faith, not only on Sundays but all week long.

Each person is valued, no matter social status, sexual orientation, cultural background, etc. Other events will be coming up including a free Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 28 at 4 p.m., a free Christmas Praise Concert on Saturday, Dec. 7 at 6 p.m., including refreshments. FUMC is also thrilled to announce we will be participating in the Holiday Vision parade with a "Living Nativity" float. FUMC was founded in 1834 and has been going through major decline during the last decades. Pastor Sabina decided to start something new (instead of "reviving something already dead"). New people are welcome to give their input and "take charge". There has also been changes to worship (including more modern music). New community events are being organized and the church is becoming an active part of the community, also planning on participating in this year's AutumnFest.

Balloons bring big smiles!

STURBRIDGE — New Hope United Church of Christ, the fun church, brought oodles of smiles to the faces of children (and adults) as they twisted colorful balloons into dogs, cats, hats, swords, flowers, pumpkins, and even turtles. Although not always successful these volunteers were happy to give any design a shot to the delight of the crowd. Liz Lamparth was their chief designer and got quite a crew busy twisting and shouting with glee as their long tubes were transformed. "It was our third year at the Harvest Festival and each year is better than the one before. We love being here and it is such fun to give away joy in this tangible way," a volunteer declared as she twisted and turned the balloon

A day of furry, fluffy, feathery and scaley blessings!

STURBRIDGE — New Hope United Church of Christ, the fun church, lived up to its name as they hosted a Community Blessing of the Pets on the Sturbridge Common on Sunday, Oct. 13. They partnered with local vendors and services to make it a full event for pets and their people. Bark & Bubble Grooming, Here Today Adopted Tomorrow Cat Shelter, and Pure Haven Natural Products were featured vendors. Each pet was given a certificate of blessing and a "treat" to commemorate the occasion. A free photo of the event will be sent to all those who wished one.

Tantasqua students qualify for WGBH's "High School Quiz Show"

FISKDALE — On Sunday, Oct. 20, Tantasqua Regional Vocational School visited WGBH's Brighton studios to participate in Super Sunday, the qualification round of WGBH's "High School Quiz Show." "High School Quiz Show" is a televised quiz competition between Massachusetts high school students entering its 11th season of broadcast on WGBH. On Super Sunday, student teams come to the studio to take a 45-minute quiz with hopes of placing on to the broadcast. This season, the top 14 scoring teams automatically advance to the broadcast. In addition, eight teams were selected to vie for an additional spot by competing in a live event "High School Quiz Show: Extra Credit," hosted by author Jeff Kinney at his Plainville bookstore, An Unlikely Story, last Sunday, Oct. 27. The final spot will be filled during "High School Quiz Show's" Season 11 premiere on Saturday, Feb. 1 at 6 p.m. on WGBH, in a head-to-head wild card match-up between the highest scoring teams from Super Sunday that have not been on the show in at least five seasons.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Pearl Harbor casualty to be honored in Spencer

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
STAFF WRITER

SPENCER – After going unidentified for more than seven decades, a Spencer sailor killed during the attacks on Pearl Harbor will be honored this month at a memorial service.

U.S. Navy Buglemaster 2nd Class Lionel Lescault was on the deck of the USS Oklahoma on Dec. 7, 1941, when the ship was attacked by Japanese forces. Lescault and his comrades were getting ready to play the morning colors aboard the battleship as part of the band. At just before 8 a.m., the first of nine torpedoes struck the ship from multiple Japanese aircraft, resulting in the deaths of 429 crew members and the capsizing of the ship.

Unidentifiable at the time, Lescault's remains were buried at National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific in Honolulu, as well as those of more than 300 fellow crew members from the Oklahoma. Lescault and his comrades went unidentified for decades, but closure was finally brought to many of their families 74 years later, when the graves were disinterred in 2015. Thanks to modern DNA technologies, Lescault was identified and members of his family were contacted.

"It means a lot to be able to honor him," said Lescault's nephew, Robert Berthiaume, of Spencer, who is organizing a memorial program in town next month.

On Nov. 10, a ceremony will be held at Powder Mill Park at 1 p.m. A plaque will be dedicated to honor the life of Lionel Lescault, who was 29 years old when he died. He was born in Spencer, and later lived in Worcester before enlisting in the Navy.

Lescault was buried at Arlington National Cemetery earlier this year. His name will be added to the memorial rotunda at Spencer Town Hall within the next year.

For Berthiaume, who never knew his uncle was born in Spencer, it means a lot

Honoring all heroes this Veteran’s Day

Veteran’s Day, which is celebrated annually on November 11, commemorates the hardworking men and women who sacrifice their time and put themselves in harm’s way to defend the country’s core values of freedom and opportunity. While Veteran’s Day certainly is a chance to honor those who have donned the uniform during wars and military installments, it also can be a chance to recognize the unsung heroes of wartime — those who step into roles so that soldiers and strategists can focus their attention elsewhere.

Take for example Naomi Parker Fraley. In 1942, Fraley was a machine shop worker at the Naval Air Station in Alameda, Calif. She was one of scores women who worked in factories and shipyards during World War II, helping to produce munitions and war supplies. Parker was 20 years old in 1942 and served as the inspiration for what would become one of the most indelible images of the era, known as “Rosie the Riveter.” Parker unknowingly inspired the iconic image after she was photographed at work bent over an industrial machine in a jumpsuit with her hair tied back in a polka-dot bandana. In 2018, Naomi Parker Fraley died at the age of 96, not nearly the household name she perhaps should have been.

Rosie the Riveter helped to tout the contributions of female war employees who were defending America by working on the homefront. Rosie was a successful morale-booster, and some may be surprised to learn that Rosie has various incarnations.

Norman Rockwell’s depiction of a female riveter, which appeared on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post on May 29, 1943, became an iconic staple of that time. Muscular, with a rivet gun on her lap, a sandwich in hand and a boot stomping on a copy of “Mein Kampf” — and timed perfectly to coincide with the release of a song called “Rosie the Riveter” by Redd Evans and John Jacob Loeb — Rosie became a household name. But another Rosie image actually predates Rockwell’s Post cover.

Naomi Parker Fraley was reportedly the inspiration for an ad created by a lesser known artist named J. Howard Miller. Miller produced a “We Can Do It!” poster for Westinghouse Electric in 1942 aimed at boosting spirits among the company’s workers. The poster helped to recruit new female personnel, according to scholar James J. Kimble. This Rosie was portrayed in a red bandana with her bent arm flexed, rolling up her shirtsleeve.

Both Miller’s and Rockwell’s depictions of female war workers became ingrained in popular culture. Rockwell’s cover art was eventually loaned to the U.S. Department of the Treasury for use in war bond drives for the duration of the war. Miller’s version has been emulated for generations and still epitomizes a strong female presence in the workforce.

This Veteran’s Day is a prime time to delve into American wartime history, with interesting stories like the origins of Rosie the Riveter, and pay homage to all of the heroes that help ensure America’s reputation as a great nation.

to discover a fascinating chapter in his family's history. Several other members of the family also served in various branches of the military.

In addition to Lescault, 23 other Spencer residents made the ultimate sacrifice in the Second World War. Berthiaume enjoys tracing the history of his uncle and meeting others whose family members served.

"If you think about it, he was likely the first person from Spencer to be killed in World War II," Berthiaume said. "It is important for me to share his story with people."

Berthiaume, a member of the Spencer Exchange Club since the eighties, has done extensive research on Lescault's life and military service. He continues to seek naval records that will shine a brighter light on the service of Spencer's latest World War II hero.

The Nov. 10 ceremony at Powder Mill Park is open to the public. Town and regional officials will join in the celebration of Lescault's life and sacrifice.

Explore the history of Veteran’s Day

Service members make numerous sacrifices in defense of their countries. While the debts to service members may never be the kind that can be repaid in full, paying tribute to veterans, on Veteran’s Day and throughout the year, can be a great way to show them just how much their efforts are appreciated.

VETERAN’S DAY BEGINS WITH ARMISTICE DAY

Veteran’s Day is a byproduct of the end of World War I, when Germany and the Allied Nations signed the Treaty of Versailles, formally ceasing fighting and establishing terms of peace. On November 11, 1919, the first anniversary of the signing of the treaty, the first Armistice Day events were held. Armistice Day was initially a legal holiday to honor the end of World War I only, states History.com. The United States Congress passed a resolution in 1926 for an annual observance, and November 11 became a national holiday starting in 1938. However, in 1954, after the country had been embroiled in both World War II and the Korean War, Congress amended the Act of 1938 by renaming the commemoration “Veteran’s Day” to honor veterans of all wars.

VETERAN’S DAY IN OCTOBER?

According to Military.com, for a short time, thanks to the Uniform Holiday Bill, which in 1968 established three-day weekends for federal employees by celebrating national holidays on Mondays, Veteran’s Day was moved to the fourth Monday of October — the first being October 25, 1971. However, many people did not agree with this decision, continuing to honor the holiday on the original date. In 1975, President Gerald Ford signed a new law that returned Veteran’s Day to November 11 beginning in 1978. Since then, parades, memorial events, volunteer efforts, and other celebrations revolving around veterans have been held on November 11.

VETERANS AROUND THE WORLD

Many countries, including the United States, celebrate veterans on or near November 11. America’s closest neighbor to the north, Canada, commemorates veterans on Remembrance Day (also November 11), as does the United Kingdom. Britain also has Remembrance Sunday, which is the second Sunday of November. Remembrance Day also is called Poppy Day, when people of the Commonwealth member states wear a red poppy flower in honor of military members who have died in the line of duty.

PAYING TRIBUTE

There are various ways to honor veterans on Veteran’s Day and Remembrance Day. Federal government closings, educational efforts in schools, parades, and visits to military hospitals or cemeteries may take place. In Europe, it is common to observe two minutes of silence at 11 a.m. every November 11. Veteran’s Day and its sister holidays mark the honoring of veterans of all wars, with a particular focus on living veterans. It is a day to celebrate the dedication and selflessness of hardworking military men and women.

3 unique ways to give back to service members

Military service in the United States was once more common than it is today. According to the Council on Foreign Relations, the draft for military service was ended in 1973, a point in time when 2.2 million men and women made up the country's active military personnel. By 2018, the number had dipped below 1.3 million. Military service in Canada is also somewhat uncommon, as the Department of National Defence reports that active military personnel totaled just 68,000 as of 2018.

The vast majority of people in countries where military service is not compulsory will never serve in the military. But that does not mean non-military personnel do not appreciate the sacrifices service members and their families make. In fact, a recent report conducted for Canada's Department of National Defence found that while many Canadians seem only vaguely aware of what their military does, appreciation for service members was high.

Service members and their families make many sacrifices to protect the lives and freedoms of their fellow citizens. The following are three unique ways to give back to these selfless men and women, who often benefit greatly from even the simplest of gestures.

1. SERVE AS A DRIVER FOR VETERANS.

Unfortunately, many service members return from overseas missions with disabilities, some of which prevent them from driving. Adults who want to help service members can serve as drivers for veterans who can't drive themselves. Such a gesture ensures they won't miss any appointments with doctors or physical therapists, helping them get on the road to recovery that much quicker.

2. DONATE YOUR AIRLINE MILES.

Some disabled veterans receive medical treatments far away from home at facilities that specialize in treating certain types of injuries, which can make it difficult for their families to be there for them during their recoveries. By donating airline miles to military families, ordinary adults can ensure injured servicemen and -women can still see their families during difficult times in their lives. Access to such support systems can be a big help as veterans work to recover from their injuries.

3. SPONSOR A SERVICE DOG.

A significant percentage of veterans return home with post-traumatic stress disorder, or PTSD. PTSD has been linked to a host of conditions, including depression and anxiety. However, programs such as Companions for Heroes, an organization that places service dogs with veterans, has helped many veterans successfully cope with PTSD. By sponsoring a service dog through an organization such as Companions for Heroes, adults who want to help service members can provide an invaluable service to men and women fighting to regain their quality of life.

There are many ways for ordinary citizens to show their support for the brave men and women who selflessly serve in the military.
