Kick Cancer to the Curb returns for fourth year

File Photo

Walkers take part in the 2014 edition of The Fitness Studio's Kick Cancer to the Curb in Dudley. This year's walk will take place on October 21.

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – For the fourth year, Dudley's The Fitness Studio is gearing up for its annual Kick Cancer to the Curb walk, a four-mile trek through town on Oct. 21 to raise money to assist cancer patients through the Adam Bullen Foundation.

Each year the local gym plays a part in giving back to those struggling to manage expenses and other real world responsibilities after being diagnosed with cancer, but the walk also serves as a tribute to one of their own. Angela Toomey, one of the coordinators of the events, said that the walk gives back to the Adam Bullen Foundation specifically because The Fitness Studio's former owner benefited directly from the foundation's work. "It's our fourth annual walk in remembrance of Kerri Murphy, the original

Dudley may seek new ambulance in wake of accident

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – A new Dudley ambulance is one of several items under consideration for capital improvement requests as the town's annual October fall town meeting approaches.

Dudley selectmen addressed these requests during a meeting on Sept. 25, which also included a dump truck, computer technology upgrades and a new electronic sign for the town's municipal building, and a new police cruiser, however the ambulance request comes as the result of an incident on Sept. 15 where a Dudley Fire Department vehicle was involved in an accident on West Main Street.

The accident occurred at around 10:15 a.m. as the Dudley ambulance was heading into Webster on West Main Street through the intersection with Schofield Avenue, the location of Dippin' Donuts and Rite Aid pharmacy. A Mack oil truck operated by Brian Spafford of Worcester failed to yield at the intersection, striking the ambulance, which, at the time, was transporting a patient to a nearby hospital.

The accident resulted in non-life-threatening injuries and the cause of the crash was under investigation as of this report, but the incident did leave Dudley's fire department down a vehicle.

The new ambulance would cost the town $220,000 through borrowing, making up the bulk of the $373,500 in capital improvement initiatives selectmen are considering moving forward to the October town meeting.

Town Administrator Greg Balukonis explained the ambulance situation is a multi-layered process as the town also need to figure out what it would get for considering the vehicle a loss or whether or not repairing the vehicle would be a better route for the town.

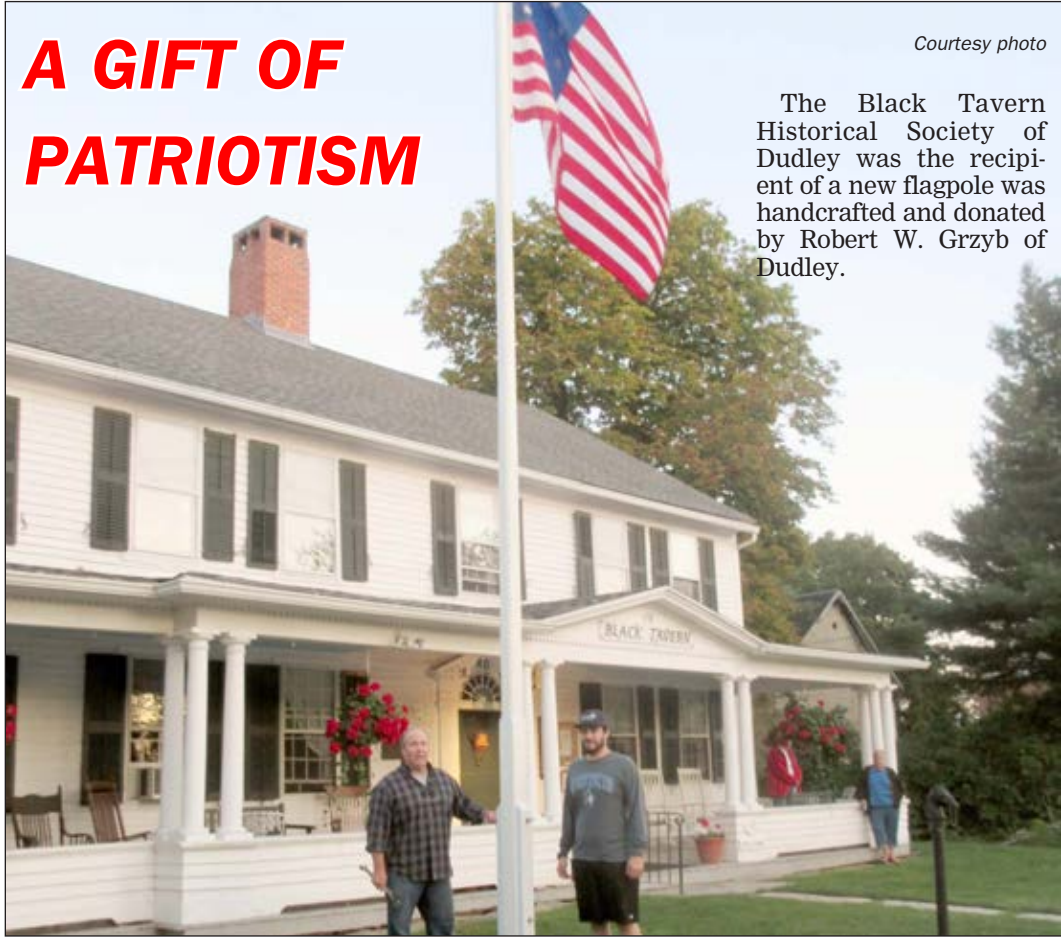

"One of the things that's up in the air is we're unsure about the necessity for the new ambulance because that's dependent upon it being declared a total loss," Balukonis told selectmen. "If it can be repaired then this would be withdrawn, but we don't want to miss the opportunity to get this before town meeting due to some quirk in the bylaw that says you have

WEBSTER – Proposals restricting "personal watercraft" on Webster Lake, incorporating sewer pump stations into the SCADA system, buying a new fire engine, converting streetlights, and renovating Bartlett to include the superintendent's office are among the big items on this year's fall town meeting warrant. Other items include adopting the "Stretch Energy Code," putting a moratorium on recreational pot, and what looks like creating a fire department.

The latter immediately sparks the observation that Webster's had a fire department for a long time. Town Administrator Doug Willardson said the article formally implements parts of state law that "will keep it consistent with what's actually in practice."

Right now, the department is run by a Board of Fire Engineers, who legally have to vote for the chief every year and meet quarterly for other issues. Since the board is Chief Brian Hickey and his two top deputies, that vote's always a given. With the change, the board will be dissolved and Hickey will have sole authority as chief.

The department's request for $575,000 for a fire engine, however, almost certainly will spark some debate. The plan is to replace three vehicles with it -- 24 year-old Engine 5, 25 year-old Ladder 7 and a 33 year-old tanker truck, although the latter isn't listed in the article

Regenerating ancient Chinese culture

WEBSTER – Although she's been in the U.S. for years, Juliet Jin is passionate about her homeland, China -- not as it is, but as it once was.

She could do without the Communists because, as she put it, they have had "so many campaigns trying to eradicate traditional culture" by "smashing old culture, old values, old habits and old ideas." Instead, she sees the flowing dance and clothing, the ancient stories, the Buddhist-Taoist-Confucian philosophy, and the martial arts of periods including the T'ang dynasty (618-907) as holding messages for the present. She presented some of those ideas last week at Webster Public Library.

In traditional medicine, for example, "the human body resembles a small

Shepherd Hill in need of generator

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – The Dudley Charlton Regional School District is looking to replace a significant piece of equipment at the district's high school, Shepherd Hill. According to district director of finance and operations Richard Mathieu, the high school is in need of a new generator as the current one nears the end of its 45-year tenure.

"The generator at Shepherd Hill has reached the point where repairs no longer remain an option. As a result, we are facing a sizable cost for equipment that needs immediate replacement. Maintenance staff is in the process of soliciting a quote so that we have an idea of which way we need to go in terms of bidding," Mathieu told the regional school committee at a recent meeting.

"The equipment cost alone is going to be around $42,000, plus installation. It's clear based on those numbers that we will need to go out to a formal sealed bid process on this. We're still working out the exact specifications."

Mathieu said this purchase is not as easy as simply buying a new piece of equipment. There are additional expenses as well as specifications that need to be considered when making the transition. The school will need a temporary replacement for the generator in the form of a trailer mounted rental, a unit that could cost around $8,000 monthly, and, the district doesn't want to pur-

Fall Town Meeting faces pot, zoning articles

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

OXFORD – On Oct. 4, town voters were being called together to decide on one of the shortest fall Town Meeting warrants in recent memory -- just six articles.

Half of them were related to marijuana.

Items number three and five would codify permanent prohibitions on commercial recreational marijuana in town, with item three being a zoning bylaw and item five being a general bylaw, both worded exactly the same way. Since Oxford voted in favor of marijuana legalization last November, both proposals needed to be approved at town meeting and by a ballot vote before becoming law.

Number four, by contrast, proposes a moratorium on such businesses until Dec. 31, 2018, “or until such time as the town adopts Zoning Bylaw amendments that regulate [them], whichever occurs earlier.” The goal is to give the town time to create zoning rules for them and let the state complete its process of setting up the Cannabis Control Commission and other elements of oversight. That doesn’t need to go to the ballot.

Last month, Planning Board Clerk Mary Herriage observed the state’s deadline for local legislative (i.e town meeting) action is April 1, 2018, so any bylaw would have to be adopted in October to qualify.

If voters approve the ban, however, the town may have to hold a special election since Oxford’s annual election is usually after this deadline. Nobody has proposed doing so yet, pending the October vote, but that is how the state’s first town to ban it -- Westborough -- did so last December.

“If you don’t prohibit [commercial sale], it comes to zoning regulations. You can regulate it to the extent you don’t effectively prohibit it,” Town Attorney Jonathan Eichman told the Planning Board’s public hearing in August. “You can’t put it in a place where there couldn’t possibly be anything as a practical matter...But could you put it in an industrial area? Absolutely. Could you put it in the adult entertainment district? Sure, you could do that.”

Noting the town can regulate it out of residential zones, Eichman said he doesn’t think the state will put any restrictions on local zoning, but might draft guidelines when it finalizes its rules. Those are due next April 1, when the ballot law states sales can begin.

Regardless of what voters choose, this proposal will have no effect on the right of citizens to grow a few plants for personal use or on medicinal marijuana facilities, at least one of which has already been approved for town. In general, state law (Chapter 369 of the Acts of 2012 and 105 CMR 725) doesn’t allow towns to ban medical cultivation or dispensing sites, just regulate and zone them. The section specifying municipal requirements is very short. It states only two things: that facilities “shall comply with all local rules, regulations, ordinances and bylaws,” and that “The Department does not mandate any involvement by municipalities or local boards of health in the regulation of RMDs ... or any other aspects of marijuana for medical use. However, nothing in 105 CMR 725 shall be construed so as to prohibit lawful local oversight and regulation, including fee requirements, that does not conflict or interfere with the [law’s] operation.”

In Article 6, voters were being asked to transfer an uncertain sum from the retirement budget to school department operations, a proposal that sparked skepticism and a little confusion when it went to the Selectmen for inclusion in the warrant.

Initially, the schools were asking for $179,921 “to make relief for cuts that had to be made for FY 2018,” Business Manager Justin LeDuc told the School Committee. But “there was an error made in the calculation,” so the committee voted to eliminate the specific figure pending the town accountant’s recalculating it.

At that time, Superintendent Kristine Nash noted such a sum “would put the town in not the best financial position when it comes to [funding] health insurance,” and Town Manager Brian Palaia agreed at the Oct. 12 selectmen’s meeting.

“There’s nothing to transfer; there’s not even any savings,” he said. Most likely, a transfer would cause the town to fall short in that account by year’s end and require cuts elsewhere in the budget, but no extra taxpayer burden, he added.

“The schools are already not being charged for that cost,” making the request effectively “a double transfer,” Palaia explained, noting LeDuc told him the schools can transfer within their budget to cover the cost.

“They missed 22 retirees,” said Selectman Cheryll LeBlanc. When she asked the schools what happened, “the response I got was unsettling” because the school budget has already been amended to include this funding. The issue prompted Chairman Dennis Lamarche to cite the recent school audit, which found they “haven’t been following proper procedures.”

Selectmen voted to include it in the warrant pending the town accountant’s final figures and to let the school committee make their case at town meeting.

The warrant’s other two items were likely to be less controversial. In Article 2, voters were asked to approve rezoning an area of land bordered by Route 20, the Pike, Route 56 and the French River from what’s now a multi-family zone to General Business. Before the economic meltdown of 2008, a large apartment complex that overlapped the Auburn line was approved for this area, but never got built and the permits have since expired.

The other item, Article 1, covers routine reports, if there are any.

Webster men charged with possession of cocaine

BY JASON BLEAU
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — State police and Sturbridge town police have released the details of a drug bust that occurred in the late night hours of Tuesday, September 26.

According to a report from Massachusetts State Police two Webster residents were arrested following a traffic stop in Sturbridge connected to a stolen motor vehicle. Trooper Stephen Hazelton was on patrol on Route 84 in Sturbridge when he observed a white 2016 Infiniti traveling eastbound. Trooper Hazelton conducted a registry inquiry into the vehicle, learning it has been reported stolen.

The trooper proceeded to pursue the vehicle and conducted a traffic stop on Route 15.

An investigation was performed, with Sturbridge Police Officer Daniel Hemingway assisting with a K-9 unit, which resulted in 62 grams of reported cocaine being found in the car. Police reported that the investigation was sparked after the drug was seen, clearly visible, in the car’s door jamb packaged in small plastic baggies.

Two suspects were arrested on scene and later appeared in Dudley District Court.

Jonathan Feliciano, 29-years-old, of North Main Street in Webster and Carlos Sulsona of Whitcomb Street in Webster were both held on bail with a pretrial hearing set for Oct. 25. The two suspects were taken in without incident.

The driver, Feliciano, was charged with trafficking cocaine, conspiracy to violate the drug laws, receiving a stolen motor vehicle, distribution of a class B substance, use of a motor vehicle without authority and operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license. He pled not guilty to his charges in court and was held on $10,000 bail.

The second suspect, Sulsona, was charged with possession of a class B substance and conspiracy to violate the drug laws and was also served a warrant for shoplifting. He was held on $1,000 bail on the charges of possession of cocaine.

Is the real estate market starting to stabilize?

Inventory of single family homes is up another 5.7% from just a few weeks ago in Worcester County but it is still down 11.7% from this same time last year. Through the majority of this year homes would go on the market and only be on for a few days and get multiple offers for way above the list price. I most of us have gotten used to this environment and it feels weird when that changes. Over the past couple months many home have had multiple offers and sold above asking price however we have had less people viewing the homes. I actually had 2 homes that I received offers above list price when I had no other offers because the buyers wanted to ensure they got the house. What I see is that it appears that many of the buyers that were not really serious or maybe were getting priced out of the market have decided to put their search on hold. The buyers that are viewing the homes are much more serious buyers that are willing to pay above asking price if need be to ensure they have a home to live in. If we look at all the data around housing there are no negative numbers and everything shows positive growth. In reality, the market has started to change in many towns. As we do Open houses over the past several weeks, homes that used to have 20 people attending now have 4-6 people. These people are serious and we may still get multiple offers and still get the same price we expected. This may be some early signs of a slowdown or it could be some seasonality. This could just be early signs of us going back towards a balanced market since we are currently in a sellers market in most towns in Worcester County. Now more than ever you home is in a beauty competition with the other homes in your town. I suggest making sure you hire a seasoned Realtor that is in tune with the market trends in your area to ensure you sell your home for the most money in the shortest amount of time.

Friday's Child

Juan is an athletic twelve-year-old boy of Hispanic descent. Juan can have a competitive spirit and will gladly take on a challenge to a game of basketball!
Juan also enjoys playing video games and outdoor sports, such as football and baseball. His favorite game is Uno.

Juan is very involved in the community—he participates on a baseball team, basketball team, and is hoping to start lacrosse soon! Juan's skills will continue to strengthen with the support of a family to watch his games and cheer him on. Additionally, Juan hopes that a potential family will like Spanish food, provide him with the opportunity to spend time with kids his age, have a basketball hoop, and have a dog.

Legally freed for adoption, Juan has two brothers and two sisters in Massachusetts that he loves to spend time with. An adoptive family will need to support his sibling connections and be able to transport him to visits. Juan would benefit from a patient and dedicated family that likes to do activities in the community and play sports. It may be best for Juan to be the youngest or only child in a potential family.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners;
LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-942-MARE (617-942-6273) or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have “a permanent place to call HOME.”

Freedoms of the press

Dudley hasn't changed much in 20 years we see.

We remember distinctly the brouha-ha when the "new" town hall and police station were built back then, an old school razed, a new building built and a bit of sleight of hand over a clerk of the works. Ask someone from that time period.

There used to be (and still may be) three selectmen's meetings each time. A pre-meeting in the administrator's office to discuss the upcoming meeting and who would say what and make what motions, the public meeting held before the public, then a post meeting once again in the administrator's office to discuss how it all went. We use to attend all three despite some caterwauling by the selectmen because, as we told them, there was a quorum present and they were discussing town business. End of story.

They may still be doing it, we aren't the ones in Dudley right now attempting to attend the meetings, but we do see in this week's selectmen's meeting report that people are not happy about how the press was given information.

Really?

You want to go there?

The press should not have to jump through special hopes, wait 24-48 hours for information on anything that is already public information on the street and should be only confirmed by the Powers That Be.

It is a job.

On your side and on our side. Indeed, it shouldn't be picking a "side" because the objective is to inform the public that public servants are doing their job, correctly and in a timely manner. Any obstructionism just makes the public service look less than stellar.

From the Powers That Be in Washington to the selectmen in our local hometowns, no one should be obstructing the information to the people who put them in power. How can you, as the voting public and the ones who pay the bills honestly expect to make good judgement calls unless you get the information you need?

Keep them honest, keep them aware. This is why there are such things on the books as open meeting laws and ethics committees. We need to be able to tell the whole story on every occasion, not just when the PTB decide they want to give it to us to give to you.

What about the Green Monster?

To the Editor:

Red Sox owner, John Henry wants to change the name of Yawkey Way. His rationale is that the former Red Sox owner and member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, Tom Yawkey, was the last baseball owner to break the color barrier. Mr. Henry feels compelled to make this change in order to, in some symbolic sense, right a wrong that he thinks is a haunting reminder of racial intolerance.

If John Henry wants to do something more than a change a street sign, why doesn't he go whole hog and do something truly dramatic? Why not change or eliminate that which is most iconic about what he chooses to refer to as "America's Most Beloved Ballpark?"

Tom Yawkey bought the Red Sox in 1933. The "Wall" or "Green Monster" as we know it today, came into existence in 1934.

Mr. Henry, if you are truly a man with righteous convictions and genuinely believe in the need to eradicate any memory of the Yawkey years from the Fenway area of Boston, then, Mr.

Henry, to paraphrase Ronald Reagan, tear down that wall.

What would more dramatically illustrate the Red Sox current commitment to the new world of political correctness than the removal of this most obvious relic of the Yawkey legacy? Wait, there's something that might make Mr. Henry think twice about the Wall. There are seats there and that means tickets and all that goes with them. There is one thing that Mr. Henry has been enamored of longer than his new found passion for sanitizing the history of the BOSOX, and that is money - $$$$$!

A new street sign? Changing the address on a letterhead and stationery is one thing, but revenue is something else again. Certainly, changing a street sign is enough to atone for the sins of the past. There is a cost to political correctness, and we certainly don't want to go too crazy with our self-mortification, do we Mr. Henry?

Avery: appreciates police

To the Editor:

On the evening of Sept. 27, I found myself driving in Oxford with a flat tire. Looking for a safe place to stop, I pulled in to the Oxford Police Department parking lot.

Since I did not have my cell phone my intent was to ask for permission to use a phone to call AAA. However, the policeman on duty, Officer Craig Gagnon, offered to change my tire for me.

Thank you, Officer Gagnon, for your prompt and courteous attention to my need.

The town of Oxford can take pride in its police officers who serve the town well not only in their daily responsibilities and duties but also their willingness to help "ladies in distress" - with one note of caution - not to drive 80 miles an hour with the temporary tire.

Listen to Love

Michael J. Christensen (author, professor, pastor), his wife Rebecca Laird (author, professor, pastor) their two daughters, my wife Sarah, our children (growing to five by March of 1998) and I were neighbors for a time in Summit, NJ, during the years I was earning a Master of Divinity degree from Drew University while working as student, youth leader, student pastor, chaplain and more. These were exhausting yet wonderful and deeply formative years. This family and two other families were, and although many miles separate us now, remain among our dearest friends, always close in heart and mind.

Sometime during the summer of 1997, Michael (who calls me "Brother John," a man I look up to like an older brother, and yet also a man I feel comfortable going skinny dipping with) and I walked together through the sanctuary of the First Congregational Church of Dudley, United Church of Christ where I had just been hired as pastor. We walked quietly, touching the pulpit (where so many pastors with so much more experience than me had stood) imagining thousands of hours of inspiration and hope being spoken. It was as if we could hear their voices. We walked gently, past the stained glass windows (created in 1890 following a fire which had destroyed the previous building) reflecting on their beauty. It was as if we could hear the sounds of creative workers toiling to construct those windows, walls, community and family. We walked deliberately, to the book at the back of the sanctuary, telling of those who served this church before me.

"Brother Michael" knew me very well. He knew I felt the significance of the moment and was pondering the depth of responsibility I had been given. He knew I was trying to hear everything the walls, pews, windows, pages in the book and everything else surrounding me were trying to communicate to me.

Then he said something I have held onto for these past two decades as a guiding principle for my life as pastor of this church family and indeed my life as pastor within the various communities of these local towns and cities. As best I can remember his exact words, he said: "There is so much history here John. You will need to listen to the voices and stories of those who have walked here and loved here before you. You will need to listen for a long time. Never stop listening. As you listen, you will grow to love them. Don't try to make any big changes, at least not for a while. For now, simply listen and love them."

Listening well is a precious gift honored and upheld by all great religious traditions.

"Walking, I am listening to a deeper way. Suddenly all my ancestors are behind me. Be still, they say. Watch and listen. You are the result of the love of thousands." Linda Hogan (Native American writer)

On Oct. 5, 1997 I was ordained a United Church of Christ pastor in the sanctuary of the church I still serve. While there have been some big changes in the work of ministry we share, I continue to regard listening well as one of the most important elements of the work I have been called to do in this little corner of the world.

Twenty years into this journey I'm still listening. In our world filled, in my opinion, with too many words, I listen to more than words. I listen to what is being said behind, beneath and beyond the words. I listen for the love. I listen to words of love spoken through tears. I listen to words spoken in anger, often love in disguise. I listen to words shouted, although, I confess, they are often the most difficult words for me to hear. I listen to words spoken quietly and slowly, words formed on the lips of those who have first listened, words filled with thoughtful pauses and I am filled with gratitude for the healing strength and power they convey.

I listen and listen and then, since it is part of what I was hired to do, I write and speak, using words.

Yet, I am so careful then, trying to listen to you listening to me, straining to hear what you will hear. Will you hear the love I intend? I pray it to be so. Thanks for listening. Listen to love. Peace, Pastor John

A scam by any other name...

I have addressed variety of financial "scams" in this column. In today's internet age, it seems new ones appear each day. A local real estate agent brought one of these to my attention. They had experienced scammers on-line who were posing as agents or building owners attempting to rent or sell properties. They post false ads on some web sites with the hope of convincing people to send money or provide personal/bank information. Anyone caught in one of these scams could lose large sums of money. I was asked to provide everyone with some information on this activity.

Money and identity scams have been occurring for many years. Those responsible prey on unsuspecting individuals, including the elderly. Their goal is to obtain either quick cash or other personal information, such as bank account numbers. Armed with this documentation, the criminal can commit identity theft and access your finances. In this case, potential apartments and or homes will be listed for rent or purchase at on-line sites. They will include photos and detailed information on the premises. These are likely copied from a legitimate real estate website. They are generally listed at a very low price. When a person makes an inquiry, they are sent a very authentic looking application with a request to be "pre-approved." If this transaction is completed, the scammer may have some of your personal information and/or convince you to send money for a deposit.

In most instances, the scammer claims to be from outside the area. They may say they are acting on behalf of a relative with a desire to sell the property quickly. This will give some validity for the low price. The seller will often say they are unable to meet the prospective customers in person and direct them to inspect the premises on their own. This can be concerning to anyone who is legitimately home at those times, particularly with strangers looking in windows. These scams are very elaborate and could fool many people.

The agent I spoke with recommended taking time to research the location, real estate agents, and other known information. Extensive on-line searches and/or contact with knowledgeable people in the particular area are strongly advised. Always be cautious when asked to send money or detailed personal information. If a seller cannot arrange a meeting in person at the property, it should immediately raise a red flag.

It is best not to conduct business transactions unless you are sure of the people and places you are dealing with, particularly when it is anonymous on-line buying. Purchasing or renting properties are significant investments. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't. Be very cognizant of these occurrences and take the time to verify as much as you can before providing information or money. Protect your personal information and report anything suspicious to the proper authorities.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, Ma. 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com.

Consider multiple factors when creating retirement plans

When you create your financial and investment strategies for retirement, what will you need to know? In other words, what factors should you consider, and how will these factors affect your investment-related decisions, before and during your retirement? Consider the following:

Age at retirement – Not surprisingly, your retirement date likely will be heavily influenced by your financial situation – so, if you have to keep working, that’s what you’ll do. But if you have a choice in the matter, your decision could have a big impact on your investment strategy. For example, if you want to retire early, you may need to save and invest more aggressively than you would if you plan to work well past typical retirement age. Also, your retirement date may well affect when you start accepting Social Security payments; if you retire early, you might have to start taking your benefits at age 62, even though your monthly checks will be considerably smaller than if you waited until your “full” retirement age, which is likely to be 66 or 67.

Retirement lifestyle – Some people want to spend their retirement years traveling from Athens to Zanzibar, while others simply want to stay close to home and family, pursuing quiet, inexpensive hobbies. Clearly, the lifestyle you choose will affect how much you need to accumulate before you retire and how much you will need to withdraw from your various investment accounts once you do.

Second career – Some people retire from one career only to begin another. If you think you’d like to have a “second act” in your working life, you might need some additional training, or you might just put your existing expertise to work as a consultant. If you do launch a new career, it could clearly affect your financial picture. For one thing, if you add a new source of earned income, you might be able to withdraw less from your retirement accounts each year. (Keep in mind, though, that once you reach 70 ½, you will have to take at least some withdrawals from your traditional IRA and your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan.) On the other hand, if you keep earning income, you can continue putting money into a traditional IRA (until you’re 70 ½) or a Roth IRA (indefinitely) and possibly contribute to a retirement plan for the self-employed, such as a SEP-IRA or an “owner-only” 401(k).

Philanthropy – During your working years, you may have consistently donated money to charitable organizations. And once you retire, you may want to do even more. For one thing, of course, you can volunteer more of your time. But you also might want to set up some more permanent method of financial support. Consequently, you might want to work with your legal advisor and financial professional to incorporate elements of your investment portfolio into your estate plans to provide more support for charitable groups.

As you can see, your retirement goals can affect your investment strategy – and vice versa. So, think carefully about what you want to accomplish, plan ahead and get the help you need. It takes time and effort to achieve a successful retirement, but it’s worth it.

Bump calls for enhanced data sharing to improve sex offender oversight

BOSTON — An audit released today by state Auditor Suzanne M. Bump found that as of February 2017, the Massachusetts Sex Offender Registry Board (SORB) did not have a current address for 1,769 convicted sex offenders, of which 936 had never been classified. The failure to classify these 936 offenders means that members of the public had no way of determining if an individual who posed a significant risk of reoffending lived in their communities, nor did the public have access to critical information about these offenders, such as their names, photographs, registration status, and offenses, which the law requires be included in the registry.

Section 178F of Chapter 6 of the Massachusetts General Laws requires SORB to obtain violators’ addresses from executive-branch agencies such as the Department of Revenue and the Department of Transitional Assistance “when there is reason to believe a sex offender required to register has not so registered.” Bump’s audit found that despite having agreements with the DOR and DTA to share data for the purpose of confirming sex offender addresses, SORB was not conducting these verifications. An analysis by Bump’s office using just one of the executive branch databases available to SORB found 39 sex offenders who were in violation of registration requirements that collected public benefits in Massachusetts from DTA. In the audit, SORB indicates its intentions to utilize its existing data-sharing agreements with DOR and DTA, and explore opportunities to build similar agreements with other state government agencies.

“When government commits to the taxpayers that it will provide a certain level of safety – and transparency – it has an obligation to do everything within its authority to meet that obligation. As technology and data collection continue to change and improve, our state agencies have an opportunity to utilize that change to break down the silos that have historically existed in government,” said Bump. “In this case, the sex offender registry is only as good as the information it contains, so without taking the steps to expand and use data-sharing agreements with other state agencies, it is not fulfilling its mission.”

After a person is convicted and sentenced for a sex crime, SORB is tasked with providing a classification of 1 (low-risk of re-offense and danger to the public), 2, or 3 (high risk of re-offense and danger to the public) to determine how their information is released to the public and their level of oversight.

Of the 936 offenders who had not received a classification level during the audit period:

237 are convicted of indecent assault and battery on a person aged 14 or older; 177 are convicted of indecent assault and battery on a child under 14 years of age;

143 are convicted of rape; and 129 are convicted of rape of a child with force.

Finally, the audit found that SORB did not ensure that all sex offenders were assigned a final classification before they were released from incarceration.

Other audits by the office have similarly found agencies not accessing or sharing information that would protect the public. A 2014 audit of the Board of Registration in Medicine (BORIM) found that BORIM received only two reports of criminal activity for licensed physicians from state courts during an eleven-year period. However, the Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) system showed 82 other physicians with either a criminal conviction or continuation without finding that were not reported to the state during the same period. As a result of that audit, BORIM established a new data-sharing process in which it receives information about physician criminal activity from the Executive Office of the Trial Court.

“Unfortunately, SORB is not alone in its failure to establish good data-sharing arrangements that will improve its effectiveness. It can be hard to break down walls,” said Bump.

The Sex Offender Registry Board

was established by Chapter 29 of the Acts of 1996 to comply with the 1994 Jacob Wetterling Crimes Against Children and Sexually Violent Offender Registration Act, which requires states to create a registry of sex offenders and crimes against children. SORB works with local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies to ensure the proper registration of sex offenders in Massachusetts. It is the only entity tasked with classification of each registered sex offender. SORB states its mission is “to promote public safety through educating and informing the public in order to prevent further victimization. This is accomplished through registering and classifying convicted sex offenders by risk of re-offense and degree of danger and disseminating the identifying information of those offenders who live, work and/or attend institutions of higher learning in the communities of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.”

At the time of the audit, its registry contained records of 21,808 convicted sex offenders. Of those, 13,127 lived in Massachusetts; 5,260 had moved out of state while another 3,421 were either incarcerated or had been deported.

The Board consists of seven full-time members appointed by the Governor.

The Office of the State Auditor conducts performance audits of state government’s programs, departments, agencies, authorities, contracts, and vendors. With its reports, the OSA issues recommendations to improve accountability, efficiency, and transparency. The OSA has identified approximately $1.3 billion in unallowable, questionable, or potentially fraudulent spending and saving opportunities for the Commonwealth since 2011. Last year, auditees report implementation of 91 percent of the OSA’s audit recommendations. The office received the Einhorn-Gary Award for its success furthering government accountability.

Day of Giving spruces up towns

On Friday Sept. 22, the United Way of Webster Dudley sponsored its seventh annual Day of Caring.

The event was hosted by MAPFRE Insurance again this year and began from their Gore Road Campus.

“Every year, MAPFRE employees are proud to participate in the United Way Day of Caring which gives them the opportunity to go beyond monetary support by physically helping various organizations throughout Webster and Dudley noted Linda Johnson, assistant vice president corporate marketing communications MAPFRE Insurance about the Day.

Over 120 volunteers donned red Day of Caring T-shirts provided by MAPFRE Insurance, checked in for their assignments, grabbed their coffee and donuts provided by Dunkin Donuts, rubber gloves, trash bags and safety vests provided by Gatzke Hardware and 80 mums for planting and headed out into the community to get to work. And work they did!

“It was a great day,” noted UW Board President Bill Keefe, “And the community will certainly benefit from the projects we have accomplished. Volunteers from MAPFRE, Gentex Optics, Bank Hometown, Webster Five and Webster First Federal Credit Union were on hand ready to work.”

United Way partner agency projects included collating educational materials in preparation of domestic violence month for New Hope: a local agency helping to end family violence. Also painting and yard work at New Beginnings: a residential group home in Webster, a division of The Bridge: and landscaping, weeding and trimming as well as painting happened at the Boys & Girls Club of Webster Dudley.

Additional projects in Webster included yard work and clean-up at Park Avenue Elementary School. Yard work, clean-up, power washing and painting at the Veterans Home, along with planting mums at the new Veterans Memorial at Memorial beach and trash pick-up at exit 1 off 395 so the trash wouldn’t end up in the lake. Major weeding and general landscaping took place at the Webster Middle School. They called themselves the weeding warriors.

Out in Dudley over at Dudley Elementary School volunteers spread new mulch in the playground area, and did weeding, trimming and landscaping too! The volunteers there were thanked with Thank You signs posted in the windows and made by the students.

At the Pearle L. Crawford Memorial Library in Dudley a team of ten including library director Karen Wall trimmed, weeded and planted making the beautiful space fresh and weed free once more.

And volunteers weeded, planted and cleaned up around the Dudley Town Hall, Dudley Police Station and the Dudley Veterans Court of Honor.

Up on the campus at Shepherd Hill High School volunteers tackled painting directional arrows throughout the campus.

“Thanks to all our wonderful volunteers the day was a great success” noted UW Executive Director Janet Scheffler.

“The key is making sure those specifications and the replacement piece of equipment will do exactly what we want, not what the current generator is doing which is really just the emergency lights,” Mathieu said.

The process of bidding out for quotes, determining a company to work with, and going through with the replacement is expected to take no more than two months with the cost of renting a generator built into the price. Mathieu noted due to the situation in Texas in the aftermath of Hurricane Harvey, cost effective rentals could be in short supply. He said the Dudley Fire Department is working with FEMA and MEMA to explore resources through those organizations.

Superintendent Greg Desto confirmed there are no government funds available to make the purchase as Shepherd Hill is not a primary emergency shelter. The generator serves as a tool to keep the building operational in case it is needed and allows the school to keep basic essentials running if students are on site in case of a blackout. Mathieu suggested the district take from already available monies from school choice rather than turn to the town to seek more funding with an already tumultuous budget situation at hand.

“Given where we stood and the need of this, I did take some money back into school choice that we had planned to expend as part of the fiscal year 2017 budget so we do have a $50,000 nest egg, so to speak, towards the generator,” Mathieu said.

Superintendent Desto said he would reach out to Senator Ryan Fattman to see if there is a way to procure any state funding to help offset the price tag. The Superintendent stressed that this is something the district can’t wait on. It’s a purchase that needs to be made sooner rather than later.

“The issue with this is it’s so urgent now,” said Desto. “The expense is going to exceed $50,000. If you’re talking $42,000 for the unit, if it comes in at that, and the installation, which can be at times as much as the equipment, I don’t want (the board) to expect $50,000 and have it come back much higher. It’s going to be much higher than that.”

Selectmen voted unanimously to move forward with the process of accepting bids and, eventually, making the purchase to replace the generator in a timely manner.

Offensive line paves the way for Rams to beat Bartlett, 31-6

Darius Givins of Bartlett runs through a would-be Northbridge tackler.

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — Football fans throughout Southern Worcester County just knew someone was going to have to pay for Northbridge High’s shutout loss to Nipmuc Regional back on Sept. 23.

What’s surprising, however, is it wasn’t the Rams’ next opponent — Bartlett High on Sept. 29 — that paid for that loss as much as it was the Northbridge offensive line in the week leading up to the game with the Indians.

“I was extremely pleased to see how the kids bounced back after that loss to Nipmuc,” said Northbridge head coach Ken LaChapelle after his team manhandled Bartlett, 31-6, at Memorial Athletic Field. “It was the O-line that we really got on during the week. We had no time to throw last week and I really got on them. I might have verbally abused them a little, actually.

“They were on a short leash and I told them that,” LaChapelle continued. “I said to them, ‘you know the guy that has that pit bull that everyone is afraid of and he’s on a short leash? Well you guys are on that short leash.’ They responded. I thought that was the key.”

Northbridge not only dominated Bartlett in every facet of the game, but offensively they did so with their backup quarterback, Jake Stuczynski, who filled in nicely for starter Aiden Fair, who was ruled out of the game on Tuesday after having suffered a concussion.

Stuczynski, a sophomore, completed 17 of 27 passes for 148 yards and a touchdown.

“Jake was excellent,” LaChapelle said. “He just took over. He had an outstanding game. He stood in there and made some throws and some nice plays.”

For LaChapelle, the winningest coach in Massachusetts high school football history, the victory was the 350th of his storied career. And, while he had to wait the full 44 minutes for the win to officially become No. 350, the game was, in reality, over early as the Rams led 14-0 after the first quarter and 24-0 at halftime.

Northbridge (3-1) took a 7-0 lead on its first possession, marching 47 yards on nine plays. The Rams covered the last 13 plays of the drive on a half-back option pass from Zack Roberts to Sean Rosenlund. Jordan Froment then tacked on the first of his four extra points.

After Bartlett fumbled the ball over to Northbridge on the first play of the ensuing drive, the Rams executed an efficient 24-yard, five-play drive, Stuczynski hitting Roberts with a 3-yard scoring strike on fourth-and-goal to push the lead to 14-0 with 2:59 left in the first quarter.

A 25-yard, second-quarter field goal from Froment extended the Northbridge lead to 17-0 on the Rams’ next possession and they closed out their first half scoring on a 3-yard run by Cullen MacNeil with 19.9 seconds left before intermission.

Bartlett (3-1) got on the board on the first play of the fourth quarter, capping a long third quarter drive with a 7-yard touchdown run by Darius Givins to cut the Northbridge lead down to 24-6.

The Rams closed out the scoring with 3:16 left in the game when Matt Remillard intercepted a Logan Paranto pass and returned it 29 yards for a touchdown to boost the Northbridge lead to 31-6.

Bartlett head coach Dane Laboissonniere doesn’t believe the Indians’ loss was a result of not being prepared at the outset of the game.

“I think we were ready to play, I just think we came out and made some mistakes and we got hit with a little bit of quicksand where we just couldn’t get moving in the right direction,” Laboissonniere said. “They forced some mistakes and that’s credit to them. They’re a great football team; well coached with good players. We didn’t play our best game tonight.

“I’m proud of the fight we showed in the second half,” he continued. “In the second half we came out swinging. The kids had a great second half. It’s too bad we couldn’t really get up off the mat in the first half. By the time we did we were in some trouble. Things just didn’t go our way.”

Bartlett’s Jesse Torres fights through a Matt Remillard of Northbridge tackle while carrying the ball.

Rams run wild on Algonquin to pick up third victory of season

Nick Ethier photos
Shepherd Hill's Nathaniel Cooper picks off a pass intended for Algonquin's Brett Casellini.

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

NORTHBOROUGH — A fast tempo offense led by a committee of running backs and a breakout performance for sophomore defensive back Nathaniel Cooper propelled the Shepherd Hill Regional varsity football team to their third straight win of the season following a 61-36 victory over Algonquin Regional (1-3) on Thursday, Sept. 28.

Algonquin's offense made it clear what their game plan was from the first play of the game when quarterback Hayden Kea aired it out to the right side of the field to his favorite target, wideout Brett Casellini. Cooper had a different plan for how he wanted the game to begin, when he came out nowhere from his safety position to jump in front of the deep ball for the interception to set up the Rams (3-1) in good field position where they eventually punched it in for an early 7-0 lead.

Cooper, who is a rising star on the Rams, was always in the right spot and made a game-changing play every time The Hill needed a boost of confidence. The 5-foot-10, 170-pounder tallied another interception later in the game that he returned 45 yards into Algonquin territory and also returned a punt on special teams 80 yards for a touchdown. The coaching staff was waiting for the sophomore standout to have a break-through performance.

"Nathaniel is an elite athlete, he is fairly new to football; this is only his third year. He started as an eighth grader and we saw as a freshman when he started the last two games of the year last season at safety, which is a very tough challenge and we saw the potential," expressed head coach Ryan Dugan. "He played OK in the first three games, but we actually joked as a coaching staff before the game we said, 'One of these days he is going to make a few picks and return one and things are going to snap for him and he is going to turn into a big time player,' and I hope this was that game for him."

The breakout performance for Cooper wasn't the only thing that was exciting to watch in the game, as the Rams' offense looked unstoppable, racking up 41 points in the first half before totaling 61. This was due to the high tempo offense led by a committee of very reliable running backs.

Junior back Ben Carpenter had a pair of touchdowns — one through the air on a 50-yard reception before halftime and another on the ground for a 7-yard scamper. Senior Zack Magdis also had two touchdowns, both on the ground — one a 45-yard sprint up the middle on fourth-and-two to open the Rams lead in the second quarter. Bryan Santos-Ramos, John Foley and Anthony Oriente also got into the end zone.

"Going into this year we knew we were going to have a young offensive line, we returned two starters from last year and planned on starting three freshmen and both of those seniors went down in week one...but what we said was we want to solve all our problem with speed and with aggression and with our offense our ability to go fast puts the defense in a bind," explained Dugan. "We have five-six-seven backs that all can perform and we used all those guys tonight, I think we had four or five of those guys score touchdowns, and we had a pass for a touchdown, which was nice."

Practicing the high tempo defense isn't always easy and takes a lot of endurance to do, so it isn't the players' favorite thing to do on the practice field day in and day out, but when they see the results it provides confidence because their hard work is paying off and that is what happened against Algonquin.

"We work on high tempo all the time, and it is funny because when we practice it during the week the kids hate me," laughed Dugan. "But in our second scrimmage we were really able to move the ball against a team that I thought was better than us in Springfield Central and they started to believe. We did a little bit against Shrewsbury, but the last three weeks I really think the tempo was what really did us in."

Shepherd Hill defender O'Londo Loggins attempts to chase down Algonquin tailback John Polymeros.

Following a block provided by Ryan Fenton, Bryan Santos-Ramos of Shepherd Hill runs to the outside.

WORCESTER — Worcester State University freshman cross-country runner Julia Carrier, an Oxford resident and recent Shepherd Hill Regional graduate, has been tabbed the Massachusetts State Collegiate Athletic Conference (MASCAC) women's cross-country Toookie of the Week, as announced by the league Monday, Sep. 25.

Over the Sept. 23-24 weekend, Carrier helped her team to its first-ever first place finish at the Worcester City Meet, as she came in second behind teammate Mia Rogers, who won the meet for the second consecutive year. Carrier finished the course in a time of 20:57.

"She pressed the pace the entire race and finished with a long finishing kick. Julia turned the corner in training and racing and now competes as would a seasoned veteran," commented head coach Gary Jusseasume.

Pirates celebrate life of Karen Erickson with win over South

Oxford's Niko Murray follows the offensive line while carrying the football down the field.

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WORCESTER — In a game that was so much more about who wasn't there than who was, the Oxford High varsity football team defeated South High, 31-0, at Foley Stadium's Commerce Bank Field on Sept. 29.

The game was the Pirates' first since the passing of Karen (Gagliastro) Erickson, the mother of Oxford starting quarterback Joel Erickson, who died on Sept. 25 after a 10-year battle with cancer. Erickson and his teammates wore pink socks in memory of Karen Erickson, had her initials in pink on the back of their helmets and their eye black was applied in the form of a "K" and an "E."

Many of the crowd of more than 250 Oxford supporters at the game wore shirts imprinted with #KarenStrong, which was part of a fundraiser in conjunction with the Avon Walk to End Breast Cancer, which Karen Erickson participated in four times.

"It's been a tough week, but it ended on a good note," said Joel Erickson, who played the game as a way to honor his mother. "She came to all my games. She was my biggest supporter. I knew she wanted me to play in this game. I did it for her. She didn't tell me to play in the game, exactly, but I knew she wanted me to, I knew she was going to be here, looking over me."

Joel Erickson didn't need to drop back to pass in the game very often, thanks to the running of teammate Niko Murray, but on one occasion, late in the first quarter he did so and, after being flushed from the pocket and avoiding two would-be tacklers, he fired a 35-yard scoring strike to Murray to help give the Pirates a 21-0 lead.

"That was definitely for my mom," Joel Erickson said of the touchdown pass.

Joel Erickson said his teammates, coaches and the entire Oxford community have been very supportive during this obviously trying time.

"They've been amazing," Joel Erickson said while looking at his teammates. "The reason I come out here is for these guys. I know they always have my back. They've been helping me a lot. There was never a doubt I would play. Coach [Jeff Clarkson] said I didn't have to play, that it was up to me, but I told him I wanted to be here for the team. He made me captain for this reason and she would want me to do this."

Clarkson, who was a member of the Oxford High Class of 1990, just like Karen Erickson, really picked up on the importance of the game to Joel Erickson during practice on Sept. 28.

"We weren't having a very good practice so I took the kids aside and huddled them up on the 16-yard line [Joel Erickson's jersey number] and after I finished talking to them Joel asked me if he could talk to the team. I said, 'sure, do whatever you need to do,'" Clarkson explained. "As I walked away, because I wanted to give Joel some space, I couldn't help but hear what he told his teammates. He said, 'my mom, she fought a 10-year battle with cancer. I'm asking you guys to go out and fight for two hours with me to win a football game for my mother.' I walked away with tears in my eyes."

Murray, a junior like Joel Erickson, carried the ball 16 times, gaining 227 yards and scoring two touchdowns on runs of 3 and 4 yards. He also caught the previously mentioned 35-yard touchdown pass.

"Niko is very focused," Clarkson said. "He wants success on the football field and he really goes after it."

Oxford, which improved to 4-0 for the first time in seven seasons, scored on its first five possessions.

On the first possession of the game Murray scored from 4 yards out and Sam Lavallee tacked on the first of his four extra points to put the Pirates ahead, 7-0, with 8:16 left to play in the first quarter. Murray's run capped a six-play, 55-yard drive that took 2:44 to complete.

Oxford's next possession began at the South 26-yard line following an interception by Oxford junior Ryan Walsh. Five plays after the pick, Murray crashed in from 3 yards out to help make it 14-0 with 3:52 remaining in the opening quarter.

The Pirates pushed their lead to 21-0 with 52 seconds left in the period when Joel Erickson found Murray — who had broken off his route when he saw the pocket collapse around Erickson — over the middle. Murray caught the ball at the Colonels' 15-yard line and sprinted into the end zone.

Walsh scored on a five-yard run with 8:12 to play in the first half to increase the Pirates' lead to 28-0. Lavallee closed out the scoring with 2:39 remaining in the second quarter by booting a 25-yard field goal to give Oxford a 31-0 lead at halftime.

Bay Path beats Pioneers to start season 5-0-2

Ariana Gelardi of Bay Path cuts in between a pair of Pathfinder players to win possession of the ball.

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON — Last season, the Bay Path Regional girls' varsity soccer team reached the Central Mass. Division 3 district tournament for the first time in seven years. That taste for postseason play has now translated over to this season, as the Minutemen are off to an undefeated start of 5-0-2 after defeating Pathfinder Regional, 4-1, at George L.

Fowler Memorial Field on Tuesday, Sept. 26. "They want it, they want to be back in," said head coach Tammy Legere following Bay Path's victory over the Pioneers. "They're playing more as a team, they're passing better and they're working harder." A season ago the Minutemen went 9-6-2 and earned the No. 13 seed in the tournament. There, they met No. 4 Millbury High, the reigning state champions. And the Woolies took it to Bay Path in their first round matchup, 9-0, en route to eventually claiming their second straight state title. "I think it felt good," Legere said of qualifying for districts before adding that having to play Millbury made the team "a little overwhelmed." But the Minutemen haven't been overwhelmed yet in 2017, and in their game with Pathfinder it took just four minutes to strike first. Nekelle Waskiewicz rang her shot off the crossbar, but the rebound found the foot of Jayden Pantalone, whose shot got past Pioneers keeper Mackayla Weldon (13 saves).

Then, in the 21st minute, Bay Path made it 2-0 when Ariana Gelardi collected the ball at the center of the box and placed a perfect shot that clanged off the inside portion of the left post and into the net.

The Minutemen held their 2-0 lead into the halftime break after out-shooting Pathfinder, 13-2.

"The problem last year was we had a hard time playing a first half," Legere said. "They [now] want it from the beginning."

Legere added that this year's team is so different from last season's and that they hope to make an even bigger jump in their success.

"We have seven incoming freshmen that we picked up this year," she said. "We have a lot of returning players and only four seniors leaving, so we're rebuilding this year. We lost six [seniors] last year. It's a huge change. It's a whole different team from last year."

In the second half, a goal in the 51st minute upped the Minutemen's lead to 3-0. A corner kick led to the ball finding the foot of Gelardi, who passed it back to Lillian Berry. Her shot popped up and over Weldon's reach.

Bay Path's lone hiccup occurred in the 72nd minute as Pathfinder cut its deficit down to 3-1. Meghan Mitchell's deep shot went up and over keeper Lauryn Dawson (4 saves), but the Minutemen responded just four minutes later.

Nick Ethier photos

Samantha Burdett of Bay Path kicks the ball down the field before a hard-charging Meghan Mitchell of Pathfinder can interfere.

Pantalone scored again, this time taking the initial shot and depositing the rebound into the back of the net.

The game was then called with three and a half minutes to go due to a slight injury to Weldon as well as both teams playing through the intense 85-degree heat and humidity.

The Minutemen continually subbed players in and out, though, remaining fresh and playing a solid game of soccer.

"I keep the numbers high — we have 22 girls on the roster — so keeping that many usually helps out," Legere concluded.

UPTON — One side (Blackstone Valley Tech) was able to finish off most of its scoring chances in the opening half, while the other (Bay Path Regional) hit a post and a crossbar in their boys' varsity soccer matchup on Wednesday, Sept. 27.

That led to a 4-0 Beavers lead at the break, which eventually led to a 6-1 victory.

"I was really proud of the guys," said Valley Tech head coach Khalid Al-Haza'. "It's always a tough game against Bay Path, we're very equal — every year it comes down to a goal difference or a tie — and I think [the difference was] we finished."

"I feel like the score of 4-0 at the half wasn't indicative of the way the game went — they definitely brought it in the first half," Al-Haza' added.

And although the Minutemen hit those two pipes and also put five other shots on frame, head coach David Martinson admitted that the Beavers were the better team in this one.

"I felt they were better prepared for today than we were," he said. "I don't think I had them prepared well enough today."

"We had some chances and we didn't take advantage of them," Martinson added. "It changes the mindset if one goes in for the players, it just gives them confidence, but it didn't go in."

Valley Tech scored its first goal in the game's sixth minute when Jack Charron, a pair of Minutemen defenders and Bay Path keeper Ethan Armstrong (9 saves) all converged on the ball. Charron emerged with possession and shot it into a now open net.

The Minutemen then had their best chances in the 18th and 24th minutes, respectively, when Devin Hanlan hit the post and Kyle Bennett clanged his shot off the crossbar.

The Beavers then added to their lead with goals in the 28th, 33rd and 36th minutes. Steven Makynen, Charron and John Davidge were the goal-scorers, with Shane O'Bannon and Joe Boisvert assisting on the Makynen and Charron strikes.

Despite the 4-0 halftime lead, Al-Haza's message to his squad was quite clear: "We just wanted to win that second half hoping that they wouldn't get four," he said.

The Beavers made sure that the victory was imminent when they scored in the 50th and 51st minutes to surge ahead, 6-0. First, Charron completed a hat trick with his third goal of the contest. Makynen quickly followed with his second score.

"We hadn't had solid goals through the first three or four games, but today and the past two games is where it started to come around," said Al-Haza' after BVT improved to 6-1.

Al-Haza' is pleased to see Charron, a sophomore, play at such a high level as an underclassman.

"I had high hopes for him coming into this season and he's starting to finish," he said.

Al-Haza' is also pleased with the fact that the Beavers have won six of their first seven contests.

"If you told me before the season that we'd be 6-1 at this point I'd be ecstatic," he said.

Although the outcome was now not in doubt, Bay Path got on the scoreboard in the 56th minute when Bennett was tripped down in the box while dribbling the ball. He was awarded a penalty kick and ripped his shot into the upper left corner of the net.

"In the second half we played better and we had some chances, so we're building off of that moving forward," said Martinson after the Minutemen dropped to 4-3-1.

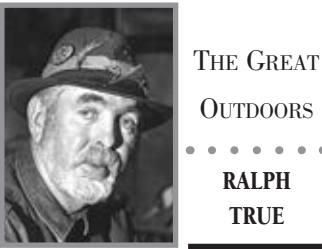

Bay Path's Sean Fleming follows through after booting away a free kick opportunity.

Devin Hanlan of Bay Path gains possession and then looks up at the open field.

From the dogs to the cats...fish that is

With the fall saltwater fishing season finally starting to show some good results after the recent hurricanes, anglers are starting to head out on the water again. Boat fishing came almost to a standstill for a couple of weeks because of the high surf and choppy seas. The water was still a bit cloudy as of this past Monday, but every day this week, started to show some improvement.

Tautog fishing in Narragansett RI is starting to improve daily with some nice white chin fish being hooked. Only a three fish limit is allowed daily per angler. The limit goes to six fish per angler on Oct. 15, but anglers fishing on private boats can only retain 10 fish per day for two or more anglers. It sounds a bit ridiculous but those are the rules. Only party boats for hire can have anglers catching six fish daily at a minimum of 15 inches.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club will hold their first pheasant hunt for members this Saturday Oct. 7. The club holds a preserve permit allowing the private hunts to start early and end late. Although the trees still hold foliage, man and dog will be tested on the first pheasant hunt of the year. The club stocks pheasant, chucker and quail, which test the dog's skills in the field. Hunters that have done their training during the off season with their dogs, will enjoy some great days in the field. The regular pheasant hunting season opens on Oct. 14 this year in the Central district. Jerome Jessume of Douglas had his dogs winning a few trials out of state this past week. More on his winning dogs next week.

This past week, a Massachusetts man was killed by a swarm of yellow jackets while working in his back yard. Although he was not allergic to bee stings, he was stung so many times that he succumbed to the attack. At this time of year bees and wasps are extremely active and are also very aggressive. Yellow jacket wasps often make their nest in the ground at this time of year, and can cause a major problem for the unsuspecting residents of the household.

Spider bites are also a major problem at this time of year. They can also cause major infections if they are not treated.

The fall season is a good time to fish for hornpout in the valley area. The West Hill Dam area is one hot spot for catching migrating hornpout, and can reward the angler with some great eating. Every fall hornpout migrate into muddy areas in the West River. They are not very big, 10 or 12 inches are the average size, and they can be caught during day time hours. Normally hornpout anglers fish for them at night using a lantern, which helps to lure the fish in, as they are attracted to the light. Fishing with worms on the bottom works well, but some of the new power baits also work better.

Catfish are also a species of hornpout but grow much larger. A gentlemen in North Carolina caught a 112 pound catfish on 10 pound test line a while ago but it did not break the state record of 117 pounds! This week's photo shows the huge 112 pound catfish taken in North Carolina.

Anglers fishing aboard a couple of head boats out of Montague, New York were boarded by a couple of Environmental Police recently after they returned to port and found numerous violations. Under size fish and limits that exceeded the daily quotas were found. The fish and coolers were seized, and other charges are being addressed by Environmental Police.

The fall stocking of trout should be well underway by the time you read this column. Most lakes and ponds that normally receive trout will be stocked, but no local rivers and streams are expected to receive any fish this year. For complete list of up to date trout stockings, go to the massfish-hunt web site.

The annual youth deer hunt was held again this year. The date was Sept. 30. The one day hunt allowed 12-14 year old youngsters to participate in the hunt, but must abide by the regular shotgun rules. For more information go to the massfishhunt website.

Forest tells a story of change

Naturalist Jorie Hunken holds up a sprig of Virginia creeper, an invasive vine. This one's odd – it has two different leaf shapes.

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

We see them all the time -- oaks, birches, stone walls, various tangled vines -- and often take them for granted. But they all tell a story of how our landscape is changing.

That story was the subject of a nearby Walktober stroll, led by naturalist Jorie Hunken in Union, Conn.

Much of our region was once farmland, in many places more cattle and sheep than crops. That shows in the fact stone walls still weave through the forests, their straight lines marking the edges of what were once fields.

"A clue to looking at the forest," Hunken said, is to see what trees are present. "The first ones in" are almost always birch, pine, and ash; once they've had time to grow and create some shade, the maples, oaks and cherries come in, followed by the beeches.

"The beech is the last one in the succession to come in," she noted. The ones we see today are remnants "of an old, very mature woodland," trees that were probably left standing by the farmers of the 1800s. Back then, the beeches were probably just part of a forest dominated by oaks and chestnuts, she added.

Underneath those, though, a lot is happening, some of it due to climate change.

"One of the signs of warming New England is that the vines are doing really well," she observed. Some of them are native, like grapes, raspberries and poison ivy, but some of the most successful are foreign invaders. As the roughly 25 participants walked among the trees, a frequent sight in areas that had been recently disturbed by logging or along the walls was Oriental bitter-sweet. That plant was brought to America in part because its berry-covered vines make colorful seasonal decorations, but has been banned because it's become notorious for growing over and strangling whole copses of trees and tangling wide swathes of open field space.

The way vines grow up trees "is as close as we can really understand that a plant can touch and feel and understand," she said.

Hunken, who grew up in Georgia, said she thinks our region is beginning to feel like her old state weather-wise, and that's reflected in some of the plants. She hasn't yet seen an even worse invader -- kudzu, a vine that has become a similar menace in southern states. Another walk participant noted it has been found in southern Connecticut, however.

Indeed, what Hunken dubbed "the southernization of our woods" is something scientists have been predicting for years. The 2013 "Climate Change Impacts in the US" report observed our region has already seen an average 2F temperature and five inch annual precipitation increase since 1895 and "a greater increase in extreme precipitation" than any other region since the 1950s. Even if carbon emissions "were reduced substantially," there's still enough CO2 in the atmosphere now to warm New England 3-6 degrees F by the 2080s, with as much as 10 degrees of warming by then if emissions continue to increase, it states. At the same time, it predicts precipitation increasing, especially in winter and spring, with more of it coming in "heavy downpours," but also increased risk of summer drought and more days of 90+ temperatures. Combined, those and other factors will have a wide range of impacts, particularly on agriculture, our cities and the ecosystem, some of it from weather becoming less predictable, it states

"Many of the most aggressive weeds, such as kudzu, benefit more than crop plants from higher atmospheric carbon dioxide and become more resistant to herbicide control," the report notes. "... To date, all weed/crop competition studies where the photosynthetic pathway is the same for both species favor weed growth over crop growth as carbon dioxide is increased."

That report is in full at www.globalchange.gov/ncadac.

"Oaks might be in trouble from the oncoming heat," Hunken said, noting she's been trying to raise some Midwestern and southern varieties to see if they'll adapt better. "As protectors of the land, we have to be thinking of the future."

On the other hand, there are also signs of improvement in the forest. One is almost always overlooked -- what she dubbed "the Mass Pike of the forest." That's the few feet of soil, leaf litter and other loose material that tends to accumulate along the edges of the stone walls, an area that's prime habitat for several small rodents, tons of worms and insects, and other things.

"Six feet out from [walls] there's this zone nobody thinks of that stretches all over New England," she observed.

Similarly underappreciated but ubiquitous are lichens. The life form is a collaboration between algae and fungi and exists in countless varieties. Many grow as a flat covering on rocks and live for centuries; the fact they've become more common and grow faster is in part due to passage of the Clean Air Act in the 1970s that greatly reduced acid rain.

"It's something you don't notice when it's not there; you notice it's there," she said. "When you see a lichen, you know we've done a good job cleaning the air."

Legislators respond to recent findings of state auditor's office

BOSTON – In response to a report issued last week by State Auditor Suzanne Bump, Representative Harold P. Naughton (D-Clinton) and Senator Michael O. Moore (D-Millbury) are considering a legislative review of policies and procedures utilized by the Sex Offender Registry Board (SORB). Among its findings, the report highlights SORB's inability to adequately maintain the addresses of nearly 1,800 convicted sex offenders, and its failure to classify over 900 sex offenders in the Commonwealth. Naughton and Moore serve as the Chairs of the Joint Committee on Public Safety and Homeland Security which possess oversight authority over the SORB.

"As Chairman of the Joint Committee, shaping legislation and practices that best promote public safety and protect residents of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is my priority," said Representative Naughton. "The committee is exploring the possibility of holding an oversight hearing which would enable us to dive into the findings and recommendations of the audit, and would ideally allow the Legislature the opportunity to work closely with the Executive Office, the Executive Office of Public Safety and the Office of the Auditor, alongside SORB in finding a strong solution. When it comes to dealing with SORB and the unaccounted and unclassified offenders, no rock can be left unturned; it is our duty as elected officials to solve this threat to public safety."

The SORB is an office within the Executive Office of Public Safety. The SORB collects the addresses and contact information for convicted sex offenders living in Massachusetts and distributes this information to local law enforcement agencies, and maintains a publicly-available online registry of level 3 and level 2 sex offenders classified after July 12, 2013. The board is responsible for implementing the classification of convicted sex offenders who are released back into the community.

"The Auditor's findings detail troubling deficiencies with current practices employed by the SORB," said Senator Moore. "The SORB is a critical piece of our public safety infrastructure, and there must be strict adherence to established policies to effectively protect residents of our Commonwealth. It is clear from the report that the SORB failed to meet appropriately high standards during the investigatory period. I look forward to working with my colleagues on the Joint Committee to address these deficiencies and to restore public trust and confidence in the system."

The Auditor's report found that of the nearly 1,800 sex offenders unaccounted for by the SORB, 936 had never been classified upon release from incarceration. Offenders are grouped into three classifications; level 1, level 2, and level 3, which indicate a low, moderate or high risk of reoffending. The SORB, the office of the State Auditor, and the Administration all cited the recent complication of the classification process as one reason for the backlog. A 2015 Supreme Judicial Court ruling, in John Doe 380316 v. Sex Offender Registry Board, established a higher legal standard for the classification process, resulting in increased strain on the system.

The audit also found that SORB was not properly verifying the addresses of these violators, and recommends the board take steps towards the use of secure data sharing agreements between comparable agencies in other states. For additional information on all Joint Committee public hearing dates, please visit www.malegislature.gov.

to make a recommendation."

According to Dudley Fire Chief Dean Kochanowski, the insurance adjustor did not provide a replacement value after examining the vehicle. For the time being Dudley is utilizing an outside ambulance to help provide services to the Dudley area. Webster EMS, who Kochanowski thanked profusely at the meeting, has allowed Dudley to borrow a reserve truck for the time being, but the chief called this a short-term solution. Kochanowski said the new ambulance, with a required stretcher-loading system, would cost $226,000.

Dudley Selectman Paul Joseph said he believes the town should seriously consider the purchase, complimenting Chief Kochanowski on always seeking the most cost effective solutions when looking at the wellbeing of the fire department and EMS and the citizens they serve.

"The people rely on, under Dean's leadership, paramedic response with two ambulances. It is also a significant source of not only effective treatment and service, but also income at that paramedic rate. I have absolutely no qualms about either borrowing or fixing (the ambulance). My preference is to maybe borrow and get a new one because over the course of time that will pay for itself," Joseph said.

Whether or not the ambulance will be fixed or a new purchase will remain on the capital improvement list for the town meeting will be discussed at a later date. Selectmen decided to move to "take (the capital improvement requests) under advisement" before deciding on exactly which ones would be placed on the town meeting warrant.

That wasn't the end of the issue however. Kochanowski also shared some concerns about how the accident on Sept. 15 was handled, at least from a public relations standpoint. The chief expressed his frustration with information about those involved in the crash, especially his personnel, being released improperly and asked that selectmen consider changing the procedures going forward.

"I feel in relation to that ambulance accident the press release was totally handled inappropriately. There was no need to put the names of my people in there on that short of notice. We could have waited until they got to the hospital and there was a cooling down period. We could have waited 24 or 48 hours or put a more benign press release out with no names. I called the administrator and showed I was upset about it because there as no need of it. I'm just disappointed. That should have been up to me in conjunction with the administrator," the chief told selectmen.

In response to those concerns selectmen moved to have the town administrator approve all press releases before hand from that point forward as the selectmen work on the implementation of a new communications policy, a project that was already underway before the Sept. 25 meeting.

CHINA TALK

universe," Jin said.

Just like a river flows with water, the body flows with energy called chi, and both can be blocked and released again. Similarly, martial arts emphasizes, "self-cultivation" at least as much as physical prowess; "the highest rung of Chinese martial arts is not a physical manifestation, but a spiritual one," she said.

Under the T'ang, these various ideas "flourished side by side," and China had "international influence unparalleled in history," Jin said.

While that might be a little exaggerated compared to China's reach today, when they have influence in places the T'ang didn't know existed, there's no doubt among historians it was an important era. The Chinese traded by land and sea with the rising Muslim Caliphate (whom they also fought), the Byzantines, east Africa, Turkic nomads, India and various early states in Indonesia. Their capital, Ch'angan

(now called Xi'an), was the world's largest city. But the period had its turmoil, including the dynastic plotting that led to the reign of China's only empress Wu Zhao (690-705), a major rebellion in 755-63 in which the crown needed Muslim troops from Baghdad to help suppress it (who incidentally became the seed for today's Hui people), and regional warlords' accumulation of power in later years. The latter was what killed off most of China's imperial dynasties and was essentially how the Communists themselves rose to power.

To Jin, two things exemplify key aspects of Chinese culture -- the dance style called Shen Yun (which is also a touring group) and the Falun Dafa/Falun Gong movement. She describes the former as combining four elements -- dance, backdrop, costume and orchestra -- to tell stories, usually with ancient moral and communal messages.

One is fairly well-known to Disney fans -- the story of Mulan -- although Disney's version includes things (like a dragon) the original lacks. In the true tale, she said, Mulan disguises herself as a man to join the army. She fights for 12 years and rises to general, but when the emperor wants to reward her service, she declines so she can return home to take care of her aging father. In so doing, Jin said, Mulan became a symbol of three key values in traditional China -- loyalty, courage and filial piety.

In today's China, though, Shen Yun performers and Falun Dafa members (two groups that somewhat overlap) are often persecuted by the government. People, she said, can connect "to a peaceful movement through this beautiful show. When people see the true culture of China, they can identify right and wrong, good and evil."

After her presentation, Jin and fellow Falun Dafa practitioner Robert Gaudreau talked more about the group itself and why they do it.

"There was no essence, no spirit. In China, what I learned from school is that ancient Chinese custom and ideas are 'backwards'," Jin said. "For a long time, I thought the temple was all decoration. I didn't know anything about what was behind it."

She found Falun Dafa while at university, attended nine lectures on it, and was initially interested in it as meditation, based on the concept of "learning how the chi gong mechanism is going to help your body." Before long, meditation proved to be "a natural," and "it changed my personality, my attitude, in a little time," Jin said, noting she grew up (like most Chinese then) as a single child and was "very spoiled."

She described the basic principles as "the universal principles of truthfulness, compassion and forbearance."

Gaudreau took the same lecture series in the US.

"I had tried everything from Ayurveda to Zen. I was raised Catholic, but it wasn't working for me," he said. After the lectures, he thought, "I'll give it six months. Six months went by, and I'll give it six years. Eighteen years went by."

"It hasn't given me all the answers, and probably never will," but has been a good experience, he added. "Work on taking care of your past debts, and life starts to treat you better because you're treating life better."

Plant in the fall for spring bulbs

Following a long New England winter, few signs of spring are more welcome than the first sprouts of green popping up in a barren garden. The promise of a season of beautiful blooms, the tiny shoots are the gardeners reward of a past autumn spent preparing and planting.

Experts agree fall offers ideal conditions to plant perennials. In fact, this season is the preferred time to plant spring blooming bulbs. The following is a beginners' guide to preparing, planning and planting bulbs now for a flourish of flowers come spring.

If you are selecting bulbs in bulk, such as loose bulbs offered at discount garden centers, it's important to follow a few rules of thumb. Typically, big bulbs produce the largest blooms and may yield more flowers, therefore, it may be worth the cost to pay a bit more for good sized, healthy bulbs. However, if you are on a budget and have the time to wait, smaller bulbs will eventually increase in size and bloom each year.

When choosing a bulb, look for those that are firm and plump. Hold them in your palm and select bulbs that feel heavy for their size. Avoid bulbs with bruises, spots or signs of mold.

And steer clear of soft, mushy and lightweight bulbs. Sprouting bulbs may indicate a bulb that has been in storage for a long time.

A little thought and preparation go a long way in reaping the benefits of a successful spring and summer flower garden. The planning you take time for in the fall will be apparent when the flower garden plantings burst with color and texture next year.

Know your flowers before you plan to plant. While most bulbs require an area where there is full sun, other varieties such as the iris and crocus enjoy some shade after blooming. For best results select a location in full sun or sun with morning shade only. Well drained soil is a requisite for flower bulbs. If you have poor soil, raised flower beds may be an effective alternative.

For best results, design your garden with pen and paper first, mapping out the size of the beds and the flowers to scale. Keep in mind color, texture and fragrance are all important factors when deciding on a particular flower garden plan. Plotting a garden plan is an exciting chore, and there are some basic rules that ensure a pleasant mix of color for a showy display. Notice how a clump of daffodils and tulips are much more charming than a tidy row of the springtime flowers. The eye is drawn toward the burst of color when these flowers are situated in generous groups of plantings.

Be sure to take an accurate bulb count of such large splashes of plantings. Your layout plan should also include using flower bulbs as accents in perennial beds, or to fill in rock gardens or as an interesting border to greenery. Be sure to plan for extra bulbs to fill in areas or to add as landscape accents.

For an interesting mix, merge short plants with tall specimens to give variety and depth as well as differing textures. And don't underestimate the power of fragrance. Nothing is more delightful than a pathway of floral scents welcoming visitors to your door.

You should also decide if you want to plan out every aspect of planting a semi formal garden, or if you choose instead to toss convention and bulbs to the wind, planting bulbs the natural way, thus creating a natural sprinkling of blooms.

Scaling plants to the bed is another important factor when plotting your plan. A simple rule to follow is to keep in mind the tallest plant in an island flower bed should have a mature height that is equal to about half the width of the bed. Place these plants in the center, so they can be viewed from all sides. Also remember to take into account plants that grow and expand quickly.

Color is another major consideration when planting your bulbs. If you want your garden to be a showcase all season, select a variety of bulbs that flower during early, middle and late spring and summer for a continuous burst of color.

Just as in the home, in the garden bed cool colors seem to recede and warm colors appear to come forward. To make a small garden area appear larger and more spacious, plant flowers in cool, light colors. As a general rule white goes a long way in a garden bed, but if you use a lot of white flowers in an area, consider adding a dramatic splash of bright red or bright pink or purple for visual contrast.

And, remember, if you are growing flowers to cut and bring the blooms indoors, choose colors that will go with the decor of your home, as well as harmonize with one another in the garden.

Gardens are often planned around color first. The ambiance of your outdoor living space is determined by color and your choices decide whether your garden flowers contrast or complement each other which can result in either a subtle hue of color or a spectacular show of brilliant blooms. The former, which relies on soft pastels to make a statement in the flower garden, is often achieved through monochromatic planning. Choosing flowers of all the same color family may offer a soothing garden setting. Interest is accomplished by providing varying textures and flower heights in monochromatic pastel gardens.

For a more showy garden, eye catching bright reds, yellows, purples and whites take center stage in a flower bed. Such contrasting colors can be often be achieved with little effort simply by matching up opposite colors on the standard color wheel.

Planting time varies depending on location, but here in the northeast it ranges from September until as long as the soil can be worked, usually around the end of October.

Prepare your bed by making sure soil is properly fertilized. Be sure to dig out the soil to the proper depth. Loosen the soil and if you choose, add a bulb booster to the soil. Bulbs should be planted with pointed side up. Place them firmly, yet gently, into the ground. Cover the bulbs loosely with soil, water lightly and add a layer of mulch. Typically, bulbs should be planted three times as deep as the bulb is wide. In sandy soils, you can plant a little deeper, and in heavy soils you can dig a slightly shallower hole. Bulbs should be spaced approximately a width twice the diameter of the bulb.

Note: Tulips should be planted one inch deeper than indicated if the soil is not too heavy and their location is permanent as deep rooting can prolong the effective life of the tulip bulb.

Forcing bulbs: Forcing bulbs indoors allows the impatient gardener to enjoy springtime blooms during the winter season. Certain bulbs, such as the narcissus and hyacinth lend themselves to forced budding. To do: Drop a bulb into a glass jar and fill with water and small pebbles until the water level reaches the base of the bulb. Position the jar in a sunny window. Water must remain at the same level, so add moisture as needed. To prevent mold, change the water periodically.

owner of The Fitness Studio in Dudley. The walk is to benefit the Adam Bullen Memorial Foundation which provides financial and emotional support to local individuals who are battling cancer.” Toomey said, “Kerri happened to be a beneficiary of the foundation. She had never even heard of it. They’re a very small and quiet organization, but they were a huge source of comfort for her when she was battling cancer.

They provided financial support to her and their money helps with electric bills, a grocery bill, filling the oil tank or things like that for numerous cancer patients.”

All the money raised from raffles, walker sponsors and other programs connected to the walk goes directly to the Adam Bullen Foundation with the walk contributing $25,000 to the cause over its first three years. The foundation is named after 30-year-old Adam Bullen who passed away after his own fight with cancer, but saw a need when he went for his treatments and realized that some patients are forced, through different circumstances, to face their treatments and battles alone.

“The whole premise was that Adam didn’t want anybody to have to fight alone. That’s how they honor his memory. So that being said the foundation was instrumental in helping Kerri and to honor her memory we do this four mile walk and raffles and lunch and we raise money to help that foundation continue their mission,” Angela Toomey said.

The fundraiser is not specifically for one family. All funds raised are donated to the foundation to help many different patients in the local area and to try and inspire strength and comfort in honor of a woman patrons of The Fitness Studio knew as a powerful inspiration for them and others. Kerri Murphy herself spoke highly of the Adam Bullen Foundation in 2012 and took part in the first Kick Cancer to the Curb walk in 2013 before her passing. Today her love for the foundation and her strength in her own personal battles lives on thanks to those who choose to walk.

Kick Cancer to the Curb will be held rain or shine on Saturday, Oct. 21 as 11 a.m. with the walk beginning at The Fitness Studio at 137 Schofield Avenue along with a celebration of life among other activities. For those who cannot attend the walk private donations will also be accepted. Those interested in walking or donating can contact Angela Toomey at (508) 868-4197 or pick up a sponsor packet at The Fitness Studio in person.

itself and will continue in use until it dies, Willardson said. He said the department “put together a replacement plan” for all of its nine vehicles with the goal, after this purchase, of buying something on the list every four years.

The Bartlett proposal, if it passes, will allow the school district to finish a project that’s been in process since 2014. Then, voters approved borrowing $845,800 to move the administration out of Filmer School into space at Bartlett vacated by grades 7 and 8 and former trade classes, School Committee Chair David Hurton said. The actual cost estimate was about $1.5 million, which Webster reduced by having Bay Path students do some of the work.

“We have an $840,000 loan now with no benefits,” he noted. “We can’t occupy the space.”

What happened, he said, is this: Workers on the renovation project found a little asbestos, so the district had to spend $30,000 on remediation. That threw off both the budget and time schedule, making it impossible for Bay Path students to fit the work into their school year. The students can finish it this year, and the district has funded some of the materials with money from their facilities rental revolving account. If the article passes, it will provide the funds to finish the work and replenish that account, which Hurton said is the district’s source of money for emergency repairs.

A far bigger sum is being sought for the SCADA (Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition) project -- $962,102. According to the Town Meeting Guide, SCADA is the computer system that currently allows the town to monitor the water system and sewer plant for legal compliance, leaks and various other issues. This phase of the work “will install radio communications between all the wastewater pump stations [and] the wastewater treatment plant” because “the local phone company will soon be phasing out copper wire communications,” it states.

Water is also core to Article 29, a petitioned bylaw which proposes banning non-Webster residents from putting “personal watercrafts, or jet skis” into Webster Lake at the town boat ramp. That’s the brainchild of Greg Lynskey, who described his rationale by email.

“[E]ach and every year, the jet ski traffic becomes more of a challenge to those looking for a relaxing and/or a sporting day,” he said, noting that he has frequently seen out-of-state plates on trailers in that parking lot and on the jet skis themselves. “...They show blatant disregard for boating rules and regulations and more importantly safety.”

Lynskey said Massachusetts is “one of the only states” that doesn’t require a boat safety course or license. “As such, there is no mechanism to ensure people learn boating rules and regulations,” one of which is the lake’s 45 mph speed limit, which he feels jet skis regularly violate.

He notes out-of-towners can still get to the water using non-town-owned access points and the bylaw won’t affect individual kayakers and fishermen. The Massachusetts Environmental Police specifically define “personal watercraft” as a “Class A inboard motorboat” less than 16 feet long, he wrote.

By contrast, public access will get wider on Lake Parkway and Klebart Avenue, literally, with Article 15. That aims to authorize the town’s acquisition “by purchase, gift or eminent domain, easements for the reconstruction of the road, sidewalk, drainage and general utility purposes.”

Willardson said the project is on the federal Transportation Improvement Program list, so the state is funding the work and even buying the easements, but the town has to coordinate getting them.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
