Masley to be honored in several ways

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

OXFORD – The School Committee and Selectmen both voted unanimously to honor recently departed local hero Commander Michael Masley Jr. in their own ways.

The school board opted to name the wing of the school in which Masley dedicated so much of his life after him – the wing housing the NJROTC unit he founded and ran for 22 years. The next night, Selectmen chose to name the new community center pavilion at Carbuncle Pond after him.

And, to top it off, Selectman Cheryll Leblanc surprised everyone by suggesting renaming the school itself in his honor.

The idea of some kind of commemoration came from one of Masley's many former students, Jacob Goyette. At least two dozen of them attended the selectmen's meeting in his support, and he said those were "just a fraction of the people Commander Masley has affected in the community" in the 22 years he ran NJROTC.

"This is not about me or what he personally accomplished in his life," but what he encouraged others to become, Goyette said.

One who saw that in depth was Manjeet Gill, who described Masley as "a teacher in more ways than one, always a friendly face and willing to help, and he was a believer – in education, in this small community, in the children of this community."

"I was not considered a model citizen," Gill admitted, noting he'd fallen afoul of the law before meeting Masley. "He made sure I was the person I could become."

Gill urged the board to "think about the impact he made" and "the impact all those kids had" because of his tutelage. "He knew this town could become something great."

None of those words swayed Selectman Dennis LaMarche, who said he came into the meeting "all on board" with honoring Masley's life.

"Commander Masley was always that guy who had his hand out" to help, Lamarche said.

Leblanc agreed, saying she was "a big fan" of his, too. She proposed naming the high school for him because "educa-

Rev. Robert Fredrickson tells the crowd his fiancée, Kathy Wojnowski, will make the journey to Michigan with him.

Community says adieu to Fredrickson

BY GUS STEEVES

WEBSTER – When around 100 people turned out to say goodbye to Rev. Robert Fredrickson Sunday at the American Legion hall, you'd think he'd been in town much longer than just four years.

"He's amazing, very caring and loving," said parishioner Jamie Menard. "He remembers your name, your situation and what's going on in your life. If you're not in church, he'll ask about you. He's very down to earth, not what you'd expect a priest to be. He gets in with the people and doesn't rule over everybody."

Although Menard admits she's only been part of Fredrickson's flock for a couple of months, her impression of his tenure as Holy Trinity's pastor seems to be one that's shared even by people who predate him in the church. A couple of women who didn't give their names noted he "goes out of his way, even for people that aren't in Webster;" he's "very colorful when he gives sermons;" and "you don't feel like he's a priest way up there and you're down here."

"We're going to miss him," one of them said. "I hadn't gone to church in a long time – maybe 20 years," before Fredrickson brought her back into it.

Electrical issue sidelines Dudley fire engine

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — The Dudley Fire Department recently suffered a minor setback with one of its vehicles leading to an unexpected expense Chief Dean Kochanowski said will unfortunately impact the department's spending plan. Kochanowski told selectmen on Jan. 8 Engine 3 has an unexpected issue that took it off the road for a short time. The vehicle was recently returned to the department back in working order, but left a bit of a mark on the department's budget for the current fiscal year.

"Engine 3 broke down a few weeks ago. We were without it for a couple of weeks. It was a fairly extensive electrical problem. We have since got it back. It was a $4,000 repair. I had to pay for it out of the budget obviously. It's not an issue right at the moment but it might become an issue as the budget draws to a close around May or June," Kochanowski told selectmen.

"That's a big chunk of money that we had to pay and I've level funded all of my expense lines for the last four or five years so I'm just making the board and administrator aware."

At almost 23 years old, Engine 3 is certainly past its prime. Kochanowski did not suggest at the meeting a replacement truck be purchased, but the truck's age did seem to surprise selectmen who were happy the vehicle was back in working

Schools taking steps toward improvement

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD – The School Committee asked a parade of principals to provide updates on their school improvement plans, and generally heard it's been slow going, but it's going forward.

"You gave us a chance to look at the School Improvement Plan, something we don't typically do in the middle of the year," observed Chaffee's Rob Pelczarski. "We have some work to do."

Specifically, he and his peers noted challenges in making sure their curriculum is flexible enough to keep up with changing state standards, particularly in math. Several of them cited a need for more professional development to do that, but the present staffing and schedule make it hard to find time in the school day to hold it.

Martha Wiley specifically pointed to the district's goal of implementing what are called "learning walks" – a form of peer observation with the goal of helping teachers learn from each other. In her school, Barton, there aren't enough substitutes available. She'd need four or five at once, but can get "maybe three if we're lucky on a good day."

At the Middle School, there was a "pretty strong learning walks team" a couple years ago, and Amy Belhumeur aims to rebuild some version of it.

She said teachers are encouraged to do it individually when they can, and it is part of their evaluations.

Other areas of teacher-coaching are "pretty much on target," Wiley said, and she's trying to roll out a six-session workshop series for parents on behavioral expectations, but isn't sure it'll happen because of cost. Pelczarski, who's also trying to do it, said it aims at ensuring parents and teachers are using common language and practices to avoid fights with their kids over such things as cell-phones, homework and "melt-downs" in public. If it happens, they plan to allow parents who attended last year to come again free, while others will be charged only $10 for the course book.

That prompted Committee member September Forbes to wonder if the material could go home to those who can't attend, since "the skills are good for everyone." There is no formal way to do that, but Pelczarski said some of the presenters allow recordings, and those could be put online.

Wiley said she will be able to hold forums on the changing MCAS requirements, though; starting this year, the state wants all third graders to take it online. Last year, Grade 3 "measured well with the state," but Grade 4 is "lagging" a bit, she said.

Landfill solar project draws six bidders

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY – Six proposals have been brought forward to host a solar farm at the capped landfill in Dudley. The landfill at 7 Indian Road was first proposed as a possible farm site about a year ago and in the closing days of 2017 Town Administrator Greg Balukonis was present for the revealing of the bidders.

"Back on Dec. 29 we received a total of six bids and those are being reviewed," Balukonis told selectmen during their first meeting of 2018. "Ultimately the bid reward will come back before selectmen."

Balukonis told selectmen the town would not own the solar farm installed on the site and the winning bidder would enter into an agreement spanning the next 20 years.

"It's strictly done on a lease payment basis so we will not be purchasing power. What we'll be doing is we'll be receiving payment for leasing property. There were a total of six proposals, and the law requires that we have a review committee, we rank the proposals and when the proposals are ranked from one to six we then open the price proposals," Balukonis said. "I expect that the proposals will include a lease payment to the town for a period of up to 20 years. The total acreage that's available for the construction of a solar site is 9.3 acres total. It's good to see we had the six bidders."

Car Buying Tips
Customers ask place: When is the best time to buy a Car or Truck?
The RIGHT answer: (Part 2) There are some times of the year that seem better than others. I already spoke about the end of the year. Another good time is toward the end of winter going into spring. We all know about the Presidents Day sales in February. Customers, dealers and manufacturers all are beginning to feel a little stir crazy from the long cold days of January and early February. As this holiday comes along there is a bit more excitement and a strong desire on the dealer and manufacturer to get selling for the spring and summer markets. Usually this is also a time in which the manufacturers step up their advertising and incentives to support this goal. The model year changeover is a good time to buy. This is normally the September, October time frame. Incentives on the current model year are usually strong and inventories are still pretty good as the new model year is beginning to show up. Dealers will be making room for the next years vehicles and starting to trim inventories approaching the year end and holiday seasons. At Place Motor we will always do our best to save our customers as much as possible whenever you decide to buy. We will lay out all your options for you to see and make your best decision. We want the time you choose to be the right time to buy your new car or truck.

'Dangerous dog' may be adopted

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD – Lacey, a dog being held by Oxford under a de facto death sentence for biting people, may be allowed to live.

On Jan. 9, Selectmen gave Animal Control Officer Kelly Flynn two more weeks to negotiate a deal with the town attorney and a Southbridge animal shelter that's pledging to take the dog. It had originally given the owner, Guy Berry, and his partner Marlene Johnson three weeks to find Lacey a new home.

If negotiations are successful, Lacey will move to Big Hair Animal Rescue on Marjorie Lane, Southbridge, owned by Jessica Specter. She said she's had a kennel license for 10 years, although she started the rescue itself in 2015. Over the years, she said she's trapped and rescued feral cats, taken in many dogs from various states, and owns several of her own. In most cases, she acts as a foster and tries to find them a permanent home, but she said "senior dogs and hospice dogs stay with me," and Lacey specifically will because "she has so many strikes against her."

"Since being founded in 2015, we have saved over 300 lives [dogs and cats]," her website states.

"We are non-breed-specific; however, we primarily focus on helping Chows and breeds that overpopulate shelters like Chihuahuas, hounds, pit bulls and cats. We typically have 30-40 cats and dogs in our care at all times."

In this case, Specter admitted having not yet met Lacey, but she said "I commit to dogs all the time that I haven't met, especially if its life is at stake. Most dogs we commit to have only hours to live."

"If this works out, it's great news to me," Chairman Dennis Lamarche said, noting he didn't like the idea of having to euthanize a dog.

John Saad agreed, but he and Meghan Troiano said they want to make sure the town is cleared of any future liability. Oxford has had custody of Lacey since early December, after Flynn captured her running loose in violation of an order issued by the town of Rutland, where Berry and Johnson had lived.

At the hearing's previous session (Dec. 19), Selectmen determined that Berry had not complied with several requirements Rutland had ordered of him, including making sure she was fenced, microchipped, and muzzled whenever outdoors. At that point, Lacey become town property, and when the board granted a delay to find a home, Cheryll Leblanc noted transorder. Dudley has three fire trucks on hand for any emergency response with Engine 3, a 1996 E-One Sentry, being the oldest active vehicle in the fleet.

Kochanowski also offered an update on another vehicle within the department, this one a new purchase due to an accident that sidelined an ambulance used by Dudley first responders. In October, voters approved borrowing $220,000 for a new ambulance, and Kochanowski said he hopes to have that vehicle join the fleet this month.

"I talked to the manufacturer and they're working on it. Hopefully I'll have it by the end of January," said the chief. "I'm not saying definitely, but it's possible."

Should I increase the living area of my home?

This is a question you should ask of a Realtor prior to finishing area in your home that is currently unfinished or adding an addition to your home. One common thing people will do is finish off a basement to gain an extra bedroom, maybe a second bathroom or a larger family room. This will depend heavily on things like the current square footage, bedroom count, and bathroom count. If you have a 2 bedroom 1 bath home with 800 square feet and you add a bedroom and bathroom into a walk-out basement that will definitely add significant value. However, if you have 3000 square feet and 4 bedroom and 3 bathrooms. Adding that bedroom and bathroom in the basement may not be necessary for some buyers and some may actually feel the home is now too big. Another common way to add square footage that I see is converting the garage into another bedroom. This will add value because you have more square footage above grade and another bedroom. However you have now also lost value due to the removal of a garage and home will also possibly lose some buyers due to excluding buyers that require a garage.

A more costly option is to add an addition onto your home. I always suggest weighing out the cost of the addition compared to the cost of buying a home that already has the square footage you want. The other concern is the setup

REALTOR'S REPORT

of the home that needed the addition. Did it have rooms that were tiny then you added a couple huge rooms and the square footage is big but the home itself feels small to the buyers. The other concern is if you are in a neighborhood where there are all 1000 square foot ranches and you add a 2000 square foot addition. Now you have overimproved for the neighborhood and will never get that investment back. This is why if you think you may want to add onto a house later, try to buy one of the smaller homes in the neighborhood so you don't overbuild for the location. I have only talked about the investment part of doing the renovation. We also have to look at our lifestyle and quality of life as well. Lets say we want our parents to move into our home to help out with the kids and to help them out as they are aging and spend more time with them. This scenario may not financially make sense for the home but it could make sense because now between you and your parents the cost is less to have the one home and you get extra benefits that are not financial. Before doing any renovation I suggest your discuss with a Realtor that you know and trust how it will affect you financially in the long run.

Dudley residents asked to respect sand limitations

BY JASON BLEAU
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Overindulgence in sand offered to the community has created frustration for Dudley's selectmen and highway superintendent as the winter season continues and the threat of more ice and snow remains.

Less than a month after selectmen approved added financial resources to buy more material for winter road treatments, Highway Superintendent Dan Gion approached selectmen on Jan. 8 to air his frustration over locals taking advantage of sand made available for residents of Dudley at the highway garage. Gion said this service is something the town offers for citizens to spread the material on sidewalks, walkways or anywhere else they see fit to battle slippery conditions, however lately he has noticed people abusing the resource and taking more than allowed.

"The fact of the matter is that we've been getting into hassles with quite a few people. A lot of out-of-towners are coming down and taking more than they're allowed to take," Gion said. "For people who live in town you're allowed two five-gallon pails a day. We have guys coming down and three or four guys jump out and start shoveling into the back of a pickup truck and I'm tired of running out of the office and going over and getting into hassles with people."

Town Administrator Greg Balukonis told selectmen he believes Dudley is a rarity in providing sand for the public to use through town finances and Gion said he believes any community who did offer the service at one time have since discontinued the service. Gion added Dudley might want to consider putting the resource on hold if the service continues to be abused.

"It seems that it's gotten worse over the years. We used the honor system and people did it. You hate to turn people away, especially the elderly, but you can't keep track of everything," Gion said.

The highway superintendent added that 10 dump truck loads of sand have already been utilized by those who have embraced the service. Gion also spoke of one specific incident where he experienced a conflict with a resident who wanted to take 12 pails of sand since he owned three homes. The citizen was a landlord and Gion said landlords need to supply their own sand for their properties. All the same, the man was planning on taking double the allotted amount of sand.

Gion wasn't the only person with concerns on this issue. Selectman John Marsi chimed in as well, noting he had also heard complaints about people abusing the sand allotment. Marsi emphatically supported enforcing the regulations set by the town.

"I'm not afraid to tell people that don't belong they're not to take our sand," Marsi said. "I had somebody come directly to me about this same thing. We should continue to monitor that and let's come up with a good solution. I hate to stop it because it's something cool we do for our residents."

Gion said he too didn't want to see the service go away, but the abuse causes a ripple effect that impacts the town's snow and winter readiness and response spending, which is already stretched thin year in and year out. For Gion, the solution is simple.

"Don't be greedy because you're ruining it for other people," Gion said. "Take your two pails a day. That's more than enough for your walkways."

Woodstove cause of Oxford fatal fire

STOW - State Fire Marshal Peter J. Ostroskey, Worcester District Attorney Joseph Early Jr., Oxford Interim Fire Chief Paul Ford, and Oxford Police Chief Anthony Saad said the cause of the Dec. 14, 2017 fatal fire at 16 Sacarappa Road was the woodstove. The fire took the life of Josephine Mulvey, age 93. Two Oxford firefighters were transported for minor injuries.

The fire started at the woodstove in the living room at 7:45 p.m. The home was totally destroyed.

Chief Ford said, "I want to extend my condolences to the friends and family of Mrs. Mulvey. I would also like to commend the members of the Oxford and mutual aid fire departments who fought a fire that was well underway before we arrived and under difficult circumstances."

The single family home was located in a very rural, wooded area with no hydrants. Firefighters from ten communities had to use a tanker shuttle to provide water to put out the fire on a bitterly cold night.

The fire was jointly investigated by members of the Oxford Fire and Police departments and State Police assigned to both the Office of the State Fire Marshal and the Office of the Worcester District Attorney. Assistance was received from the Department of Fire Services' Code Compliance and Enforcement Unit.

Keep Warm, Keep Safe-<<https://www.mass.gov/service-details/keep-warm-keep-safe-toolkit>>

In 2016, there were 565 fire incidents involving chimneys, fireplaces, and woodstoves throughout the commonwealth. These fires were responsible for three civilian injuries, five firefighter injuries, and resulted in $2.3 million in property losses. In March 2017, five family members died in a woodstove fire in Warwick.

Ostroskey said, "We want everyone to keep warm and keep safe this winter. If you're heating with wood, have chimneys cleaned regularly and inspected for cracked and broken mortar. Keep combustibles three feet away from the stove, and dispose of ashes in a metal can with a lid."

Revamped radio hits Webster airwaves

Mike Roberts, Doc Siddall and Tamara Beland are a bit of a tight fit in The Lake's small on-air studio, with its mixture of old and new technology.

BY GUS STEEVES
TIMES CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER – If you don't know it's there, it's really easy to miss the fact there's a radio station on Douglas Road.

Sure, there's a tall radio tower in its front yard, but those things are in all kinds of odd places. Otherwise, the home of The Lake, aka WGFP 940 AM (and soon to be 99.3 FM), looks pretty much like any other ranch house, or maybe a group home, with several cars in front of it.

Inside, though, station manager Mike Roberts is slowly building an enterprise that runs 24/7 and aims to make The Lake the go-to broadcaster for a variety of happenings in Webster and several nearby communities.

"Anything that's different, that nobody in the area is doing, we'll do it," he said, with a goal to build the kind of local connections that many older residents might recall Southbridge's WESO once had. "If there's anything going on around town, we want to be the one that tells you about it."

The 1000-watt station has actually existed for years, but Roberts and his new team are taking it in a different direction. Until about December, it was a fairly mainstream country station with dwindling listenership. At that point, Roberts switched to a mid-'60s through late-'80s rock format, and is seeking people interested in running local specialty shows that could be almost anything – talk, live concerts, local politics, local bands, what-have-you.

One of those coming on board is Tamara Beland, who intends to translate her current Facebook video series highlighting area businesses into live radio interviews and events. She's dubbing it "Get Your Local On," and said she wants to "talk about all the places that support Webster's economy."

Beland did radio in the 1990s and 2000s in Austin, TX, with some of it doing a three-hour "Shock Jock" talk show in which she could say almost anything. Now back home, she hopes to "highlight the positive aspects of our town and surrounding towns, and the people who work hard to make this a good community."

"People are exhausted about all the negativity in the world and said about our town," she added.

To Doc Siddall, The Lake is also an opportunity to jump from the Internet back into broadcast radio. For a while, he's been doing a Webster-themed podcast, but he used to do a local music show on WORC and still remembers some of the characters of the mid-'90s Worcester music scene, such as the "mental" Captain PJ.

"It still remains to be seen where I'll fit in all this," he said. "I'd really like it to be successful enough that I can quit my other job and come over here fulltime."

Beyond the personal interest, though, Siddall notes "Having a radio station in town is an overlooked asset."

Owner Barry Sims entirely agrees. He started in local radio by being one of a group court-appointed to be receivers of several stations "that weren't feeling well." When the owner of WGFP died, he pulled together several people to buy it, applied to upgrade its antenna to "high-efficiency broadband," and sought an FM license. The FCC granted all of those changes, and The Lake will soon broadcast on AM, FM, and the Internet.

The Lake on-air staff members Mike Roberts, Doc Siddall and Tamara Beland with their station's new logo.

"I particularly like local AM; I sort of grew up on that. A small station has more impact in its community than a 50,000-watt station can have on a bigger community," Sims said. "I got together with these guys, and we'll refresh it all. I hope the community from a business point of view backs us."

To him, Webster has the same kind of potential that communities on New Hampshire's Lake Winnepesaukee have, if somewhat smaller. Beland agrees, saying she's happy to see the town shifting in that direction with the outreach of Town Administrator Doug Willardson and others.

For The Lake to be part of that renaissance, it needs a few more people, especially ones interested in doing live appearances, selling ads, and being on-air, Roberts said. At the moment, his morning show is the only official one, but he said Beland's leaning toward taking a mid-day show that she half-jokingly describes as "the next Terry Gross," and Siddall will probably do an afternoon slot. Beyond that, it's wide open: there's plenty of time to play with in a 24/7 schedule, although all shows will include the following: NBC News updates at the top of the hour, weather twice an hour, and nine ad-free songs in a row.

By 2020, Roberts said he hopes the station will be "part of everybody's daily life" as a source of news, community interest issues and "songs they like," among other things.

tion meant everything to him" and he was at OHS "a long time."

Goyette said he'd bring the idea back to Masley's family and the school committee to see how they felt about it.

When they discussed it, the school board knew about Goyette's proposal, but also wanted to identify a place in the school as a tribute. Superintendent Kristine Nash said she looked at several places and thought the NJROTC hallway or cafeteria would be most suitable.

The board agreed, with Dan Coonan noting Masley "wasn't a before-the-bell guy. He was a 7:10 guy, but also a 2:20 a.m. guy when he left" on many occasions.

Selectman John Saad said he was "a first-hand witness to all the amazing things [Masley] has done. The mentoring and the amount of time he put into the students is phenomenal. He created and molded young individuals who became a part of the community."

Saad also praised the NJROTC members themselves for all they've done for the community as a whole, and particularly for veterans. He noted many things – such as flagging veterans' graves every year – are often unseen; Goyette said that was his favorite NJROTC activity.

In his formal proposal, Goyette wrote, "His determined work ethic and ambitious personality allowed the cadets to succeed beyond his wildest dreams, receiving state, regional and national recognition time after time again. A creative educator, Commander brought his experience as a naval officer for over 20 years to the classroom, enriching the knowledge of academia and life skills to over 22 years of classes."

According to his November obituary, Masley served in the US Navy from 1975-95, doing tours of duty on the USS Robert E Peary, USS Nicholson, USS Sterrett and other craft before working in the Pentagon and serving as a professor at the Naval War College in Newport, RI. During his service years, he won several awards, including writing a key paper in Ocean Laws that is still used by the American UN delegation.

Once he came to Oxford High and formed the NJROTC unit, they followed suit, collecting 25 national awards over 20 years, including being designated a National Daily Point of Light by the White House in 1999. Masley and his cadets are a key part of the town's annual Toys for Tots campaigns, run by Dr. Antoinette Parvis for nearly 35 years.

"When I came to this community, I didn't know anyone. Commander came through as if he'd known me for years," she recalled. "I've met many of the kids over the years and they're upstanding and wonderful kids. How they are reflected everything he was. He gave the kids goals, and that gave them self-esteem."

This year's collection across the region came to about 16,000 toys, and state Vice Commandant Jim Sottile said Parvis's efforts over the years earned her induction into the region's Marine Corps League detachment "as an associate Marine" this year.

was the first to discuss the possibility of a solar farm on the landfill the nature and value of the project required a public bidding process that concluded near the end of the year. Selectmen heavily supported the idea last year.

Selectman Paul Joseph offered to join the committee to assess the bidders before selectmen decide on a winning applicant. Financial details of the bids were not made available to selectmen as the bids remain sealed to the public pending further review. In January 2017 Solar on Earth offered to lease the land for $64,000 for a 25-year period.

Synopsis: "The Lost World" tells the tale of a 20-year high school reunion attended by only six people. This is not just any six people - these are six individuals who claim to have hated high school the most. Brought together 20 years later by a common friend, the six former classmates find themselves face-to-face in a discount hotel ballroom for one fateful night of laughs, fights, tears, and soul-searching; as they drag their skeletons to the light in a bid to exorcise the personal demons that have haunted them since they last patrolled those hallowed halls of high school. Children of the Eighties now all grown up; they're 'The Breakfast Club' thrust into the Facebook generation - leading them to pine for a simpler time; an age where if you wanted to connect with someone; you reached out and touched them; not texted, tweeted or Skyped. Their world is truly "The Lost World."

ed Fredrickson with being the key force causing the church to grow from a handful of parishioners to its current 30 or so.

A lot of that, though, came not just from what he did in the church, but his broader community involvement and appeal. Very quickly after coming to town, Fredrickson got involved in several ways, becoming chaplain of the fire department, American Legion and the Blessed Backpack Brigade, coordinating monthly breakfasts and dinners, mingling with people in general, and even finding a fiancée. He told the crowd he'd asked her, Kathy Wojnowski, to marry him on Christmas, and she's going to Michigan with him.

"His goal was just to be a servant of God in the community," Ouellette said.

Lauri Joseph agreed, saying, "He's such a wonderful guy. He jumped right into the Blessed Backpack Brigade and started ministering right away."

To honor the priest's activity, both of Webster's legislators, Sen Ryan Fattman and Rep Joe McKenna, read proclamations from their respective Capitol Hill bodies. Additionally, the fire department and Legion gave him gifts.

"This is a sad honor," Fattman said. "Father Robert has been a staple of the Webster community a very long time. Webster's loss is really going to be Michigan's victory."

McKenna agreed, noting Sunday's turnout "goes to show how many people you've touched, lives you've touched."

Among them were several firefighters. Deputy Chief Robert Grynecwicz said the department learned it could "count on him through high and low times," and the priest is "somebody I will always cherish as a friendship, and will surely miss."

When it was his own turn to speak came, Fredrickson admitted he was "at a loss for words, and that doesn't happen very often." He noted he'd come from Manchester, CT, where he served as the police chaplain, getting to know all of its officers via regular ride-alongs and other activities. But he said he felt his experience with Webster fire crews trumped that.

"I met a band of people like I'd never met before," he said. "I took a few on the chin, but I had such a desire to be part of them. I know I'm leaving with a fireman's heart, and if anything, God has blessed me with, it's the times I've been by their side watching them risk their lives."

Fredrickson also thanked people for their friendship and support, and particularly singled out veterans by saying, "I salute you and give thanks to God that he gave me the opportunity to serve you."

Being here "has been a blessing. The community has enriched me in so many ways," Fredrickson said. "I'm taking so much with me that I can bring to another community."

He was referring to the fact that he's transferring to be priest of a church in Sterling Heights, MI. Fredrickson said that church called him, but he wasn't seeking a new church and took about a year to think about it.

"I knew I had so many blessings here, but sometimes you have to go where God calls you," he said. "... They hope I can go out there and do some of the very same things I've done here."

He noted the parish will get an interim priest who will come Sundays to give Mass while the diocese conducts a search for a new permanent pastor. That could take a while, since there's a shortage of priests and ministers in most denominations.

"It will be up to the people of the community to continue to do the good works we've done," he said, later adding, "It's important that a church is not a building. It's a group of people that knows how important it is to build a community through Christ."

Brookfield outdoor company readies teen for Junior Iditarod

Northern Exposure Outfitters Dog Sledding Company (NEO) is based in Brookfield and has been in business for the past 20 years. As a very active member of the mushing community, NEO has the privilege of educating and providing equipment for mushers across the country.

Approximately five years ago owners Bailey Cross Vitello, age 20 and Brianna Blomgren, age 22, met 15-year-old Lara Renner from Alton, NH at the Northern New England Sled Dog Trade Fair in New Hampshire. Since then NEO has worked with Lara on how to fix lines, correctly size a harness for her dogs and how to select the proper equipment she would need to compete and succeed in dogsled racing.

This included purchasing a Danler open sled, which she has used for the past four years.

Having firsthand knowledge of Lara's mushing skills reinforced their observations that she has become a force to be reckoned with, and that she has great success written in her future. She is now set to compete in the 2018 Junior Iditarod sled dog race held in Wasilla, Alaska.

In preparation for this 150-mile race, she has been diligently working and training her team of 10 Siberian huskies better known as "Team Snowspeeder." Many local companies, friends and family members have rallied to support her dream to conquer this long and challenging race.

One obstacle that she faced was that a longer race requires a bigger sled to meet race official's standards. Northern Exposure Outfitters wanted to make sure she had a safe, fun and successful race using top-quality gear available to compete and has officially sponsored Team Snowspeeder and Lara in the form of a Danler Grand Odys dog sled for the race as well as providing access to their outfitting shop for equipment needed for the race.

"She has worked very hard to get here and we hope that she has a great experience and gets to meet and make many new friends along the way. The care she provides for her dogs and her love for mushing and the amazing adventure that she is about to go on reminds me of when I raced the Junior Iditarod in 2012," said Vitello.

"This race was such an eye-opening experience and one that I still talk about to this day. She will create an unbreakable bond with her dogs on this trip and we (Northern Exposure Outfitters) wanted to help her get there."

"We are both very proud of how far she has come," said Blomgren.

"Team Snowspeeder's adventure has just begun and Northern Exposure Outfitters is behind them all the way."

Area towns receive fire safety program grants

STOW - The Baker-Polito Administration announced that 253 fire departments have been awarded public fire education grants. Two hundred-fifty fire departments will receive Student Awareness of Fire Education (S.A.F.E.) program grants to work with classroom teachers to deliver fire and life safety lessons. Of these, 238 fire departments will also receive a Senior SAFE program grant to work with older adults on fire and life safety. Three communities will receive Senior SAFE grants only.

Area towns receiving funds include Dudley receiving $3,708 for S.A.F.E. and $2,415 for Senior SAFE; Oxford receiving $3,708 for S.A.F.E. and $2,415 for

Senior SAFE; and Webster receiving $4,308 for S.A.F.E. and $2,615 for Senior SAFE;

"The S.A.F.E. Program has played an important role in educating the next generation of fire safe children for 23 years," said Governor Baker, "The program is a great example of state and local governments collaborating alongside teachers to improve the lives of young people." The average number of children dying in fires annually has dropped by 72% since the S.A.F.E. Program began.

"In its fourth year, the Senior SAFE program is supporting fire educators who deliver fire safety education to seniors who are most at risk of dying in fires in Massachusetts," said Lt. Governor Karyn Polito. "Firefighters use these funds to provide older adults general home safety education and strategies on how to be better prepared to survive a fire," she added. Fire departments partner with local senior service agencies.

State Fire Marshal Peter J. Ostroskey said, "The S.A.F.E. and Senior SAFE programs are having a great impact on the fire and life safety of our most vulnerable populations - children and elders." He added, "The fire departments being supported in these public education efforts are increasing the safety of the people in their communities."

The S.A.F.E. Program provides $1.2M through the Executive Office of the Public Safety and Security to local fire departments. The Senior SAFE program provides $600,000 in grant funds from fees paid by tobacco companies to the Fire Standard Compliant Cigarette Program to ensure their products meet the fire safety requirements to be sold in Massachusetts. The programs are administered by the state Department of Fire Services.

Kimberlee Henry is seeing similar issues, saying dealing with the graduation requirements "keeps me up at night."

"Having to choose between doing what's right, and doing what's right for me" is the core challenge, she admitted. She said a very high graduation rate makes her look good, but the real concern is whether the graduates are getting the kind of education they need for the real world, which courses need updating, etc.

Chairman Bill Spitz agreed, saying he'd rather see the rate fall somewhat if they could ensure the quality of an Oxford diploma is excellent. Anything less "is not doing a service to the town, not doing a service to those students."

Member Dan Coonan suggested (and the committee unanimously approved) creating an advisory group of committee members, parents and staff to help Henry deal with this issue. As it now stands, he said, graduation "is a long process, and a lot of students just get by."

Henry noted she's also trying to rebuild the school's Student Support Team, under which teachers and guidance counselors collaborate using behavioral and academic data to help students at risk.

"Teachers really have to own it and be invested in it, because they're the ones that have to do it 6.5 hours a day every day," she said.

Belhumeur's trying to build the same thing for her school, saying she's "confident this is going to be a good thing." Among other things, it involves setting up kids to be mentors for younger peers.

Coonan praised her efforts, describing the middle school as "a full house" of afterschool events. While the school used to be the butt of rumors that it "destroyed" kids, "You really find ways to engage those students," he said.

In other business, the committee also approved a new business office procedure manual presented by accountant Justin Ledoux.

Ledoux said the project was sparked by last year's bad audit, which found "a lack of consistency in how things were being handled," largely due to rapid turnover in recent years. Coonan noted many issues stemmed from the fact practices were often "one person's system," that was never passed on to successors, with nothing in writing.

"I don't like doing business with a handshake and a pat on the back," he said, and Forbes later agreed, adding, "That needs to change."

The Dudley Conservation Land trust celebrated the Winter Solstice on Thursday, Dec. 21 on the knoll of the beautiful and picturesque Tufts Branch Valley land.

Members and friends toasted the turning of the calendar to longer days and shorter nights with warming libations and a great bonfire, followed by goodies and refreshments at the Margan-Smith home at the base of the hill!

The DCLT, a private, non-profit organization is dedicated "to provide for and promote conservation, acquisition and protection of land and open space for education, passive recreation, wildlife habitat and the preservation of the rural, natural and scenic character of Dudley and area communities for current and future generations."

How do you find out?

There is a big taboo in America, actually it is alive and well in most countries, about talking about salaries and money.

Now, as we see the huge discrepancy in the Wahlberg-Williams movie star fiasco (he got $1 million, she got $1,000); we have to wonder, is the big secret so some can keep others from knowing just how big those discrepancies really are?

(And as a second caveat, Mr. Wahlberg oh so generously gave a big donation to some foundation or other as compensation for that big discrepancy; and his agent kicked in another bit as well to show good faith. Nice guys. How about paying Miss WILLIAMS that money for her hard work instead guys?)

We know, oh yes we do know, that the men Vee women thing is real. Very, very real.

And we have heard some very interesting reasons for it over the years.

Here are a few.

"He has a family to support."

This when this editor was working four part time jobs because the other half of the marriage was in school full time.

"He needs it more."

How do you know? Ever. No one can ever know the personal circumstances of home life.

"He just bought a house."

Because he could. We never had the funding on short wages.

"The job isn't the same."

Actually, the job differences meant the job this person did was more difficult, not less.

"The job is more important."

To who?

And the biggest kick yet was when a younger man was hired for the same job, at higher salary than the current one being earned. Then this person had to train said new employee.

The only reason this was discovered was because this person did the payroll. Wow.

We all have the tales. We know. But without knowing that yes, we do the same job as Bob in the next cubicle; we actually accomplish more than Joe who has the other territory; we have the same title as Dick; or maybe we even have what sounds like a more important title than Jack; the paycheck just doesn't reflect equality in numbers in the checking account.

Unless and until that piece of the picture is resolved, some of the other feelings of inequality won't be resolved either.

See, there is an unequal lord over serf thing that happens when you know your work is valued or not. And the lord does indeed lord it over the serf, the peon, the go-fer. It puts a different spin on interactions in other areas, it's easier to get pushy about other things... maybe even harassment and bullying... and all because you feel you are entitled or worth more.

It might seem trivial to those who don't have to think about it, and forcing them to think about this inequality, just as many have been forced to think about race relations, religious freedoms, political ideals and other matters are just part of where we are at this moment in time.

Clark: new work requirements

To the Editor:

The Trump administration has opened the door to having states establish work requirements for Medicaid recipients. These requirements would apply to "able-bodied" adults. Those evil folks in the administration even suggested that states might have alternatives to work like volunteering, caregiving, education, job training and even treatment for substance abuse. Obviously, demon Trump is looking to enslave a certain "able-bodied" adult segment of the population. Or, maybe he just thinks that the day of the free lunch needs to end.

In Massachusetts, "able-bodied" adults have been receiving some portion of the $16 billion in benefits that MassHealth doles out to the 1.9 million people it covers. Oh, by the way, that only happens to account for 40% of the entire state budget.

Massachusetts Health and Human Services Secretary Marylou Sudder, is reported to have said that a work requirement wasn't on her radar. One would have to wonder what is on her radar, or if it is even turned on. The politicians in Boston are all for having some "able-bodied" adults work every day in order that they might have health care coverage for themselves and their families. Still other "able-bodied" adults have apparently been given the option to avoid all that messy stuff like getting up in the morning, commuting, dealing with a demanding boss and then having to commute again. Who can blame them? Work, as anyone who has ever done any knows, can be a hassle.

The burden for those who do work is even greater. They are the worker bees who pay so that others don't have to. That's right. That $16 billion has to come from someone, and if you are a taxpayer/worker that someone is you.

If anyone thinks that 40% ($16 billion) MassHealth portion of the state budget is going to go down, you are truly living in an alternate universe. It's going up, and as long as people can get something for nothing, the sky's the limit. I recently heard a local state rep. say something to the effect that Massachusetts has become Health Plan with a state attached. That's the state we've created, and now some of us will have to pay for.

Thank you,

Yeulenski: appreciating success

To the Editor:

This is written in appreciation of the many who supported our local Webster-Dudley Salvation Army Red Kettle Campaign this holiday season.

A very special thanks to our local Webster Price Chopper for allowing us to use their location to ring the bell. We would also like to thank Take 2 Consignment, Closet Classics, Park n' Shop, Tobacco Shop, Dippin' Donuts, Elite Hair Design, Jimmy's Pizza and Nipmuc Liquors for allowing our tabletop kettles to sit on their counters! A very special thanks to the individuals from Life-Skills, Inc. who were hired to ring the bell faithfully Monday-Friday for the entire campaign, and all of the friends and volunteers who logged many hours of bell ringing in some very adverse weather conditions.

Thank you to Raimee Demars and Tiffany Krasnecky, the Webster-Dudley outreach coordinators for the Salvation Army, who were instrumental in the day-to-day oversight of the campaign.

Thank you to the Dudley Senior Center, who knit amazing warm blankets, mittens, hats and scarves for local children in need. They also collected gift cards and funds to support the purchase of Christmas presents for children. The Sturbridge BNI group provided enough presents for seven families with a level of generosity that truly embraced the holiday season!

A special thanks to everyone at Bank Hometown in Webster, for counting the kettles daily. This takes a lot of their time but they always handed us back the empty kettles while displaying a level of positivity and encouragement daily - we truly appreciate it!

Last year, the Salvation Army in Massachusetts provided over 2.2 million meals to the hungry, over 195,000 nights of shelter, 100,000 warm coats and articles of clothing for those in need and these numbers continue to grow. When I reflect on this recent campaign as the Salvation Army Unit Coordinator for Webster-Dudley, I look back at the level of generosity observed while ringing the bell by so many in the community. This year's kettle campaign resulted in over $7,500 received at the above listed locations.

On behalf of those most in need in our local area, thank you very much for your support.

Winter parking IS in effect

With our recent significant snow-fall, I wanted to take this opportunity to remind residents of the winter parking regulations. Most people are unaware of the difficulties involved in keeping the streets clear. I hope to provide everyone with a little further information.

Article ten of Dudley's By-laws contains the parking regulations. Section three, in part, deals with snow removal operations. Vehicles are not allowed to park on any town controlled way so as to interfere with snow removal operations. The Superintendent of Streets may remove or cause to be removed any vehicle interfering with this operation. For snow removal purposes, any accumulation of two inches or more can enact this provision.

This can also be enacted when it is necessary to clear storm drains, intersections, or other areas of importance. These activities can take place numerous times throughout the winter season, to clear space for future accumulations. In any of these instances, your vehicle can be towed, at the owner's expense, in order to accommodate the snow removal.

When trucks are forced to plow around vehicles, it creates ice problems and other hazards. The highway workers must return at another time to complete the operation. This situation doubles efforts and wastes time, fuel, and money.

I am encouraging all residents to voluntarily comply with these restrictions and assist the town employees with providing safe roads on which to travel. The last thing anyone wants to have is their vehicle towed or be the one responsible for an accident or injury. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated.

Recent upgrades to the traffic signal at the intersection of Routes 197 and 12 (West Main Street and Schofield Avenue) have finally taken place. Thanks to an initiative spearheaded by our Town Clerk, Ms. Ora Finn, a new traffic signal was approved at town meeting and installed. Turn arrows and a new cycling of lights will enable drivers in the area to pass through the intersection safer. This should help alleviate backups and limit crashes in the area. Please be aware of this as you pass through this location.

Thanks again for your questions and comments. Please send them to me at the Dudley Police Department, 71 West Main St., Dudley, MA 01571 or email at swojnar@dudleypolice.com.

Opinions expressed in this weekly column are those of Chief Wojnar only and unless clearly noted, do not reflect the ideas or opinions of any other organization or citizen.

Recent shift in approach to education

I would like to reflect today on the uniqueness and contribution of the faith-based education to the fabric of our society. Every year the Catholic Church designates the last week of January to Catholic Schools in order to bring attention to the very important issue of educating the whole child - his mind, body, and yes - his soul.

The most prominent feature of any faith-based school, be it Catholic, Jewish, Christian, or other, is the ability of harnessing the wisdom of time-tested religious tradition and most importantly, values. Such schools view the art and science of education within the context of the infinite horizon and help students see the "big picture" which means they address the material and spiritual dimension of each person. Faculty and administrators in those schools are especially mindful that they are forming citizens of integrity for the present community of faith. They approach the quest for knowledge with the conviction that the students and their peers are responsible individuals and in this context foster the spirit of caring and sharing.

This topic is very close and personal to me. As a Headmaster of St. Joseph School for over 20 years I have seen many factors that influenced the current state of the religious schools, be it the political, economic, social, or demographic factors.

The goal of the faith-based schools is the formation of the well-rounded students rooted in the conviction that all human beings are created in the image of God, therefore are equal and should be treated as such in the face of law. These schools do not have to bracket off questions of spirituality or morality which are the by-products of collaboration and cooperation between the administration, parents, and students thus creating a special culture permeated by Gospel values. Culture in a faith-based school is expressed in various cores of beliefs, values, traditions, and symbols which provide the meaning to the school community. It clarifies how and why things are done the way they are done. In such a school, students feel a sense of belonging, meaning, stability, self-worth, and are easily able to maintain distinction between vulgarity and duty, right or wrong.

BEYOND THE PEWS

I am not naive to think that every student attending a religious school will become a saint. But I am convinced that he or she will be equipped with tools to make worthy choices at an appropriate time. When the youngsters have the network of supporters who will encourage and cheer them along the path of values there is a lesser chance that they will fall into the traps of egoistic and hedonistic culture. Even if they go astray, deep within them, they will have many resources to find their way back to loving and merciful God. While today's society is very divided, debased, and characterized by fighting and dishonesty, the foundation based on values such as searching for the truth and mutual respect, will immunize the students in the religious schools against the modern-day cultural plagues.

It seems obvious that for most parents the education of their children is their primary focus and concern. Sometimes even more important than providing food or clothing. Pope Francis teaches that schools do not replace parents but complement them. The parents have a right and obligation to be involved in the education of their children. Fortunately, faith-based schools see parents as their main partners and valuable collaborators.

On many occasions Pope Francis emphasized that parents are of paramount importance in selecting and overseeing the education of their children. "Parents themselves enjoy the fundamental right to choose freely the kind of education accessible and of good quality - which they wish to give to their children in accordance with their convictions." (Post-Synodal Apostolic Exhortation on Love and Family). There are countries where the government provides subsidies for education of each child while giving the parents ability to designate to which school this state funds would go for the educational expenses of their child. In other words, the state ties educational money to a student and not to an institution. The arrangement of giving parents the freedom to select a school without being financially burdened creates a healthy competition among schools which drives improvements and prevents a monopoly by government-run schools. In addition, it provides the equal opportunity to all social classes who could attend any school of their choice.

Unfortunately, in the United States, this model is not favored, in part because of nativism in earlier centuries and inertia to enact positive change. The Blaine Amendment of the 19th century forbids a penny of public funding from going to non-government run educational institutions. However, the historians agree that the Blaine Amendment was

How can you improve your financial fitness this year?

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

If one of your New Year's resolutions is to get healthier, you may already be taking the necessary steps, such as improving your diet and increasing your exercise. Of course, physical fitness is important to your well-being – but, at the same time, don't forget about your financial fitness. Specifically, what can you do to ensure your investment situation is in good shape? Here are a few "healthy living" suggestions that may also apply to your investment portfolio: Build endurance – Just as exercise can help build your endurance for the demands of a long life, a vigorous investment strategy can help you work toward your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement. In practical terms, this means you will need to own some investments with the potential to provide long-term growth. These are the investments that, ideally, you can hold on to for decades and eventually reap the benefits of capital appreciation. Of course, growth-oriented investments, such as most types of stocks, will rise and fall in value over the short term, and there's no guarantee of profits, or even preserving principal. But if you choose wisely, and you've got the patience and discipline to hold on to your investments through the market's ups and downs, you may well be rewarded.

Maintain an ideal "weight" – You can help yourself stay healthy by maintaining your ideal weight. This can be challenging – as you know from the recently finished holiday season, it's easy to put on a few extra pounds. And, just as inadvertently, your portfolio can tack on some unneeded weight, too, in the form of redundant investments. Over time, you may have picked up too many similar investment vehicles, resulting in an overconcentration, or "flabbiness," that can work against you, especially when a market downturn affects the asset class in which you're overloaded. So, you might be better off liquidating some of your duplicate, or near-duplicate, investments, and using the proceeds to help broaden your investment mix.

Get proper rest – Many studies have shown that we need adequate rest to stay alert and healthy. In your life, you've probably already found that if you over-tax your body, you pay a price in your overall well-being. If you look at your investment portfolio as a living entity – which, in a way, it is, as it certainly provides life to your goals and aspirations – then you can see that it, too, can be weakened by stress. And one of the main stress factors is excessive trading. If you're constantly buying and selling investments in an attempt to boost your returns, you may rack up hefty fees, commissions and taxes – and still not really get the results you wanted. Plus, if you're frequently moving in and out of different investments, you'll find it hard to follow a unified, long-term strategy.

So, confine your trading to those moves that are really essential – and give your portfolio a rest.

To enjoy your life fully, you'll want to take care of your physical and financial health – and, as it turns out, you can make similar types of moves to help yourself in both areas.

a thinly veiled attempt by nativists to prevent ethnic and religious minorities from flourishing. Times have changed. Attitudes have shifted. New reality emerged and different cultural paradigms guide human life. Diversity of cultures is now celebrated. At its height the Blaine Amendment appeared some 38 states but it has already been rescinded by many. In the manner of distribution of justice I believe it is time for parents to have at least an option of tax credits or vouchers when selecting the best education for their children. Many parents pay into the public education system through taxes but are unable to have any of their taxes applied to their child's schooling when they choose a non-state run school. In fact, according to the annual report published by the Diocese of Worcester, the two Catholic schools in Webster saved the tax payers $4,193,085 in 2016, while all the Catholic schools in Worcester Diocese in central Massachusetts, saved the state over $88 million.

In summary, religious freedoms guarantee parents to choose the schools which best fit their set of values and faith-based schools offer a stimulating environment that nurtures all dimension of the human person. In my role as Headmaster at St. Joseph School, I noticed that in the past few years more and more parents who are not Catholic and many of whom do not identify with any particular religion, choose to make financial sacrifices to enroll their children in a Catholic school. They make investment in their child's future because they see the added value of a faith based education - they search for something more than just attaining the knowledge. The children are the spring of the family and the future of society. Any discrimination against the options for their education is destructive to the future of young generations and our country.

Winter hunting and fishing sports still excellent for those willing to brace the weather

.....
RALPH
TRUE

The recent heavy rain sure had a negative effect on ice fishing this past weekend, but other than sloppy ice fishing conditions, there was still plenty of safe ice. The cold weather after the rain hardened the ice, and fishing got back to normal. Many anglers were out ice fishing this past weekend after the heavy wind and rain. Jerry, at Jerry's Bait & Tackle in Milford, reported a brisk business on live bait and worms. Cape waters had plenty of safe ice on them last week and were producing some real nice fish. Jig fishing was great for trout at Hamblin Pond. Hamblin Pond receives a good amount of trout from the state annually and provides some great fishing year around. My brother Ken and the late Dave Parker and this writer had many enjoyable fishing trips to Hamblin pond for years.

A recent post by Toby Lapinski gave me a good laugh last week. He spoke about cod fishing at the rail of a charter boat last week during the extreme cold temperatures that had anglers having cold hands and snotsicles on their noses!! If you can handle the extreme weather conditions it is great, but this writer will wait for warmer weather. Been there & done that in my younger years.

This is the time of year that sportsmen take the time to get there gear ready for spring fishing. What better way to start than to attend the upcoming sportsman's shows, and find the latest fishing gear that is available this year, and to meet old friends. The first event will be the New England Fishing Show & Outdoor Expo in Boxboro slated to open on Jan. 26 - through 28. Doors open at 1:00 p.m. Friday, & Saturday & Sunday at 10:00 a.m.! Check out the full events at the Expo on the web site at nefishingexpo.com! There is plenty of free parking.

The Springfield show at the Big-E will open their doors on Friday, Feb. 23 at 1:00 p.m. & Saturday and Sunday at 10:00 a.m.! More on this show in the coming weeks.

The RISAA saltwater fishing show in Providence RI is a must attend show if you fish the saltwater. More than 16,000 saltwater anglers attend the show every year. More on this show in the coming weeks also.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club had their pheasant pen raided last week by a four legged fur bearer that killed all of the pheasant being held for a final pheasant hunt by members. 60 to be exact!! It is believed to have been a fisher cat that climbed into the pen. They are a real killing machine and will kill for the fun of it, which was evident last week at the club's pheasant pen. They are a small carnivorous animal native to North America. It is a member of the weasel family and is related to the American marten. It spends most of its time on the forest floor and rarely eats fish. It normally has its young in the spring, and will have three or four kits annually. The fisher cat has few predators other than man, who have trapped the fisher cat since the 18th century for their prized pelts. They have a delayed reproductive system that is very unique. One thing for sure, there presence is well known in the valley, and more so after last week's massacre of 60 pheasant.

The Massachusetts black bear season for 2017 had a good number of bear harvested during the three seasons. Numerous bear were harvested with shotgun this year because of the open season during the regular deer season.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club will hold its annual ice fishing derby for members this Saturday, Jan 20. The derby was canceled last week because of the heavy rain and wind. A full breakfast will be served in the morning. Bring the family down for a great day of fishing. The pond was stocked last week with some impressive rainbow and brook trout. Derby starts at 8:00 a.m. sharp. Some great prizes will also be awarded.

Tips to drive safely in snow

Hot on the heels of a major Nor'easter, it's time again to review some winter driving tips to keep safe while navigating icy, snowy roadways. When the wintry weather finds you slip sliding away this season, keep in mind these common sense strategies to up your odds of a safe trip.

And remember readers, send in your best wintertime hints — you could win dinner for two at the Publick House!

Accelerate slowly to reduce wheel spin. If starting from a standstill on slick snow or ice, start in second gear so the vehicle is less likely to spin the tires. The automatic transmissions on some vehicles have a winter mode that automatically starts in a higher gear.

Reduce your speed and drive smoothly. In slippery conditions, tires lose their grip more easily, affecting all aspects of your driving: braking, turning, and accelerating. The key is to drive as smoothly as possible, avoiding sudden actions or rapid movements of any kind. Drive as if you have a bowl of water in your lap and don't want to spill any.

Don't lock your wheels when braking. Locked wheels can make the vehicle slide or skid. If you have a vehicle without an antilock braking system (ABS), you may need to gently apply the brakes repeatedly to avoid having them lock up the wheels.

Perform one action at a time when accelerating, braking, and turning. Asking a vehicle to do two things at once — such as braking and turning, or accelerating and turning — can reduce your control. When taking a turn, for instance, slowly apply the brakes while the vehicle is going straight. When it's at the right speed to take the turn, let up on the brakes and smoothly turn the steering wheel. After you're through the turn, slowly depress the accelerator to regain your speed.

From the Archives: Thanks to reader Robert P. Beauregard of North Oxford for pointing us in the right direction when it comes to steering clear of skids. His tip from 2009 is worth remembering: "What's the best advice when a front wheel drive automobile (and that includes almost all cars on the road) goes into a skid? Most people would say to cut the front wheels in the direction of the skid and gently apply brakes. That's fine if you have a rear wheel drive vehicle. But with a front wheel drive, you steer away from the direction of the skid by accelerating the vehicle, since the drive wheels are up front. And there's no reason to tap on the brakes. This way, you'll come out of the skid."

Did you know tires are your most snow and slush. So be sure to check tire pressure regularly, especially after there has been a sharp drop in temperature.

When buying allweather or snow tires have them installed on all four wheels. This provides even traction all the way around and gives you top notch steering and stopping.

Can't replace all four? If you can only afford two snow tires, some tire experts suggest you get them mounted in the rear. Here's why: If your front tires skid, you can still maintain some control over the car by steering those wheels. But if your rear tires lose contact with the road, it's much harder to control where the car goes. For that reason, the tires with the greatest amount of traction are supposed to go on the back

Make sure you have enough tread on your tires. The drive tires must provide traction to push your vehicle over wet pavement and through snow. The steering tires must have traction to steer the vehicle. Experts say you should have at least one eighth inch of tread to plow through snow effectively.

Note: The driving advice above was culled from various sources including State Farm Insurance Agency, Consumer Reports, and Michelin Tires.

Antique musical instruments

You may not have a Stradivarius violin in your home, but there are many other musical instruments that may be valuable.

Many people collect musical instruments. Other buyers purchase quality instruments that they can play. Musical instruments are also housed in museum collections including the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C.

As with other fields of collecting, there are organizations for aficionados. The American Musical Society's mission is "to promote better understanding of all aspects of the history, design, construction, restoration, and usage of musical instruments in all cultures and from all periods." Their website states members include "collectors, historians, curators, performers, instrument makers, restorers, dealers, conservators, teachers, students, and many institutional members." The organization has meetings, a newsletter, a journal help you determine whether your instrument will only make a nice wall decoration or if you can pay off your mortgage. Age and condition are important with musical instruments, as they are with all antiques and collectibles. The materials used and the quality of the workmanship are also important to collectors. Having an instrument that was owned and played by a famous person will certainly increase value. A guitar played by John Lennon sold for $2.4 million in 2015.

If you have a violin, viola, cello or bass, you may be able to identify it by checking for the maker by looking through the f-holes. They are the slots on each side of the bridge. The labels on violins by better makers should be hand written. There should also be a date and the label might also show the city where the piece was made.

There are many types of musical instruments that can sell for five figure sums. Here are some instruments and makers to look for. Some of the most valuable pianos are made by Steinway. Shigeru Kawai pianos are also sought after by musicians and may bring similar figures. The right Verne Q. Powell flute can bring five figures, as can a Selmer saxophone. Guitars by several notable makers can also sell for five figures. Martin, Fender and Gibson are three of the top guitar makers.

We have auctioned some instruments that have brought strong auction prices. We have sold several violins that fetched prices in the high hundreds. A Hawaiian steel guitar from the mid-20th century went for $2,800. A cello by a 19th century maker in fair condition sold for over $1,300. A Rive sterling silver flute brought over $3,000. An RCA theremin brought over $6,000 and an Estonia piano reached over $8,000.

If this column motivates you to look through your musical instruments, take a second look if you see Stradivarius on the label. Odds are that you will see "copy of" before the Stradivarius name.

Our live auction takes place in Worcester on January 25th. On March 5, I'll be teaching my Evaluating your Antiques class at Bay Path Evening School. We have an estate sale scheduled for January 27 and 28 in Webster. Other sales are being planned. Keep checking www.centralmassauctions.com for details.

Reyes scores 24 in first career start to lead Southbridge past Bartlett, 82-72

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — Chris Reyes made the most of his first career start, pumping in a game-high 24 points to help lead the Southbridge

High boys' varsity basketball team past visiting Bartlett High, 82-72, on Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Pioneers' head coach Victor Colon told Reyes, a junior, as well as Jaylyn Williamson, that they would be in the starting lineup against Bartlett when they arrived at the gymnasium before the game. The duo replaced regular starters Elian Aponte and Justin Reyes.

"When coach told me I was going to start it was a big boost to my confidence. I was excited because I just love to go out there and contribute," Reyes said. "I definitely wanted to step up because I knew [Bartlett] would be playing other guys tight. Because of that I knew I had to step up."

Colon explained that Bartlett went into a box-and-one defense on the Pioneers' Jared Figueroa to begin the second quarter, after Figueroa scored five of his 19 points in the first quarter, after which Southbridge led, 20-13.

At that point Eric Miranda stepped up, hitting back-to-back 3-pointers (his third and fourth of the game) midway through the second quarter, extending the Pioneers' lead to 30-19 with two minutes left in the first half.

Bartlett then went with a triangle-and-two defense on Figueroa and Miranda. Colon went to Chris Reyes.

"At that point, during a timeout I said to Chris, 'we're going to give you the ball; go to work.' And he did. This was a breakthrough game for this guy," Colon said patting Reyes on the shoulder. "I love it."

The second half started with Southbridge (now 5-4) clinging to a 34-33 lead, but the Indians' Logan Paranto (22 points, four 3-pointers) quickly erased that, scoring on a pair of drives in the first minute of the third quarter to put Bartlett ahead, 37-34. Wilson Aybar (18 points, four 3-pointers) extended that lead to 40-34 with a 3-pointer from the top of arc with 6:24 left in the third quarter.

After Colon took a timeout to refocus his team, Miranda (15 points) dropped in his fifth 3-pointer of the night, banking the ball in from the top of the arc. Reyes, who scored 19 of his 24 points in the second half, then cut the Bartlett lead down to one, 40-39, with a layup off a feed from Figueroa with 5:39 to play. Williamson (eight points), on another crisp pass through the lane by Figueroa, scored on a layup with 4:40 left in the third to give the Pioneers a 41-40 lead.

Aybar then put Bartlett back on top, 43-41, with a 3-pointer from the left corner with 4:35 left in the quarter. Reyes tied the game, 43-43, 10 seconds later on a drive, but Aybar hit a pair of free throws on the Indians' next possession to put them ahead, 45-43. Southbridge's Adrian Perez (eight points) tied it, 45-45, with a pair of free throws, only to have Bartlett's Johnny Torres (16 points) put the Indians back on top, 47-45, with a spin move in the lane with 3:10 left in the third quarter.

Southbridge then closed the quarter on a 10-4 run to lead, 55-51, as play entered the fourth quarter. Reyes and Williamson each had four points in the Pioneers' scoring spurt.

The lead see-sawed back and forth through the first 90 seconds of the fourth quarter before Reyes put Southbridge ahead for good, 61-60, with a 3-pointer from the right side, just in front of the Pioneers' bench. Aybar's third 3 of the game pulled Bartlett to within a point, 64-63, with 5:19 to play.

Southbridge, however, scored the next nine points to take a 73-63 lead with 2:34 to go. The 9-0 run was capped by a right-side jumper by Figueroa, who was falling down when he let the shot go. Three-pointers down the stretch by Paranto and Aybar kept the Indians mathematically close, but the final outcome had been decided by then.

"It's because of our inexperience, obviously," Bartlett head coach Tony Paranto said after his team lost its fifth game in a row to fall to 2-5. "We had 32 turnovers. When you turn the ball over the runs go in their favor. We're just not ready to take care of the basketball yet."

Coach Paranto said that the high number of turnovers, and the inexperience of his team, is based on its youth.

"We're starting a freshman and two sophomores. Hopefully the more they play the more experience they'll get and the number of turnovers will come down," Paranto said. "We're seven games into the season. These guys have limited varsity experience right now so it's going to take some time."

Wilson Aybar of Bartlett plays a tight defense on Southbridge's Chris Reyes.

Bartlett's Dante McClain shoots in front of Southbridge defender Chris Reyes.

Bartlett's Johnny Torres floats into the lane on Southbridge's defense.

Parmenter heats up in fourth quarter to guide Pirates' ship past Auburn

Nick Ethier photos

Oxford's Felicity Steiger handles point guard responsibilities and dribbles the ball into her team's offensive zone.

Gina Parmenter of Oxford attempts to drive on two Auburn defenders.

BY DEAN P. ST. LAURENT
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — Junior captain Gina Parmenter scored 15 of her game-high 30 points in the fourth quarter for the Oxford High girls' varsity basketball team, as they deflated Auburn High's seven-point fourth quarter lead to propel the Pirates past the Rockets, 47-38, on Wednesday, Jan. 10.

"Just tremendous," Oxford head coach Joe Pietrzak said after a speeches pause. "That is what leaders do in those situations is pick up your team and not only did she pick up our team offensively, but she also picked us up defensively as well. I thought she caused a lot of havoc in both aspects of the game."

The comeback started with a long two-pointer by sophomore Micaela Perry closely followed by a driving and-one by Parmenter and concluded by two free throws by junior Felicity Steiger to start the fourth quarter on a 7-0 run. That erased Auburn's 34-27 lead and tied the score at 34-34.

Oxford didn't look back after their early fourth quarter lead. After an Auburn free throw by junior Semran Sahota that silenced the crowd for a moment, Parmenter hit two clutch 3-pointers to stake the Pirates to a five-point lead (40-35) and full advantage of the game. Oxford never lost the lead again and concluded the fourth quarter on a 20-4 run to complete the comeback.

"I am very proud of them, especially coming off a tough game on Monday night against Uxbridge at their place," Pietrzak expressed. "We continued to battle tonight and I think the character of them really came through at the end of the game."

For much of the contest Oxford was fighting from behind and it wasn't until everything started to click defensively and on the glass that the Pirates were able to rally.

"We have been trying to work on our defensive pressure all year and I think tonight we started to do that, especially with our guards. I thought all five kids, whoever I had out there did a heck of a job," explained Pietrzak. "We also rebounded the ball with more passion than we have all year."

The Pirates, now 4-4, got to .500 and for a program that is rebuilding and doesn't roster a senior, Oxford is going in the right direction after the come from behind win.

"This is what we are looking to do here, we want continue to build this program and a night like this big for us. I am proud of them," stated Pietrzak.

Controlling the tempo and the pace for most of the game, Auburn had the edge for the first three quarters. Providing the Rockets' spark was Sahota, who was fearless on the offensive glass and provided a team-high 13 points.

Auburn was outrebounding Oxford and causing havoc with their full-court press until momentum shifted after the Pirates' fourth quarter surge.

"We stopped doing the little things," head coach Nicole LePrevost expressed after the tough loss, which dropped the Rockets' record down to 2-8.

Oxford's Erin Caissie, left, sets a pick on Auburn's Victoria Murphy to allow teammate Micaela Perry to drive into the paint.

Oxford's Chloe Davis gets inside Auburn defender Semran Sahota and shoots a layup.

Hannah Volpe of Oxford hangs onto the ball while fighting through an Auburn double-team.

Editor's Note: The accompanying photos come from Oxford High's 50-41 loss to Tantasqua Regional on Friday, Jan. 12.

OXFORD — Oxford High put together a 9-0 run late in the third quarter to take the lead and never surrendered it again as they defeated Auburn High, 56-46, in a boys' varsity basketball tilt played Wednesday, Jan. 10.

"We picked up the defensive intensity, which forced a lot of tips and deflections," explained head coach Anthony McDonald. "We have athletic guards and we turned them over in the third quarter and got layups on the other end."

Oxford trailed at the half, 24-23, but saw its defense come to fruition, which helped the team run well in transition and in turn score easy baskets. The Pirates (5-3) outscored the Rockets, 14-10, in the third and added two quick buckets in the fourth to extend the lead to seven points. From there, Oxford never lost that lead the rest of the way.

Along with their success in transition, Oxford hit five 3-pointers and had three players score in double figures.

"We are a decent 3-point shooting team so when Mr. Silva [Klaytin Silva] can catch the ball in the post we like to play inside-out to make people close out on our shooters and it worked well tonight," McDonald said.

Silva turned in a team-high 15 points and was perfect from the free throw line down the stretch, hitting four foul shots in the final minute of regulation. Guards McAddai Owusu and Eli Guivas, who caused havoc for the Rockets on the defensive end, also added significant offensive scoring by notching 14 and 11 points, respectively.

The first half was a good one for the Rockets, as they played great defense and matched the Pirates bucket for bucket. Their success was predicated on ball movement and penetrating toward the basket.

"It was more of us moving the ball, we were swinging it from one side to another and when we got stagnant we didn't look good at all, but we do get good looks when we are able to penetrate into the paint," explained head coach Andrew Niedzwiecki.

Down the stretch Auburn struggled to get easy baskets and repeat what was giving them success in the first half, but effort was never in question. Senior guard Tyler Judice never gave up, scoring 10 of his team-high 12 points in the second half.

"Our guys are playing hard and they have been playing hard every game, we are just struggling with execution right now. It has been a few close games when we aren't getting the shots that we want and we aren't forcing the team to do what we want defensively," expressed Niedzwiecki. "We are somewhat of a young team, but I have to find a better way of getting us prepared in that sense because we are not getting the looks down the stretch when we need a basket. We just need to find a way to improve."

Moving forward, for Auburn (3-5) to have success it is about one thing.

"It is about a lot of mental toughness," Niedzwiecki emphasized. "Knowing who should get the ball where and when and when we run our sets."

Oxford's Joe Grady rises up during an attempted jump shot.

Eli Guivas of Oxford fires up an open 3-point attempt.

Algonquin trio combines to score 87 points as Tomahawks tame Shepherd Hill, 95-87

Jason O'Regan of Shepherd Hill works the baseline in an attempt to dribble past an Algonquin defender.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Better than advertised.

The Algonquin Regional boys' varsity basketball team came into its game with Shepherd Hill Regional on Friday, Jan. 12 with a 5-1 record, a mark that included impressive wins over Doherty, Shrewsbury and Marlborough, and a troika of players — Kyle Henderson, Nick Redden and Brian Duffy — all averaging at least 20 points a game.

All three not only lived up to their advance billing but exceeded it, combining to score 87 points in the Tomahawks' 95-87 win over the Rams.

Duffy, a junior, led the way, pouring in 36 points and hitting six 3-pointers while his classmate Redden added 33 points and dropped in three 3-pointers of his own. Henderson, a senior, added 18 points. Duffy scored 22 of his points in the first half while Redden scored 22 of his points in the second half.

"Their three guys got going; that was the difference in the game," said Shepherd Hill head coach Mike Byrnes, whose team fell to 5-4 overall and 1-2 in the Mid-Wach A with the loss. "We knew coming in that they had three guys averaging about 20 points a game, and we just couldn't slow them down. Coming in Duffy was the third-leading scorer of the three."

Henderson entered the game as Algonquin's leading scorer, averaging 23.1 points per game (ppg), while Redden (21.6 ppg) and Duffy (20.4 ppg) were right behind.

"We've got a bunch of very good players, we're not just Kyle," said Tomahawks' head coach Brian Doherty, whose team improved to 6-1 overall and 2-0 in league play. "We've got Brian Duffy, he's a junior and he played well, and we've got Nick Redden, another junior, and he's playing very well, too."

Doherty then said something that is sure to send chills down the spine of Algonquin's upcoming opponents.

"We're getting there; we're trying to figure things out," he said. "We're young and we're just trying to figure things out."

Doherty dismissed the notion that at 6-1, Algonquin has already figured things out.

"Not even close," he said. "The kids say to me all the time, 'we've got to get better.' And we do. We're off to a good start so we know teams are going to come at us and they do."

Shepherd Hill led early in the game, 9-5, 11-9 and 13-12, but Algonquin closed the first quarter on a 15-3 run to lead, 27-16, as play entered the second period. The Tomahawks remained ahead by double digits for almost the entire second quarter, but the Rams closed the first half with a 6-1 run to pull to within five, 47-42.

Shepherd Hill stayed within striking distance for much of the third quarter. A 3-pointer by junior Cody Adams (a team-high 22 points) pulled the Rams to within four points, 58-54, with 3:35 left in the third. Redden answered with a three-point play six seconds later to extend the lead to seven points, 61-54, however, and the Tomahawks then closed the quarter on an 8-5 run to push their lead back to 10, 69-59. Algonquin led, 72-62, after three quarters.

A 3-pointer by Shepherd Hill senior Jason O'Regan (18 points, four 3-pointers) and a free throw by Adams cut the Algonquin lead down to six, 72-66, just 28 seconds into the fourth quarter, but a Duffy drive sparked a 9-4 run and the Tomahawks were again ahead by double digits, 81-70, with 5:43 remaining.

A three-point play by Duffy on a reverse layup put Algonquin ahead, 87-66, with 3:34 to go, but that's when things got interesting. O'Regan drained back-to-back 3-pointers for the Rams on consecutive possessions and the Algonquin lead was down to five, 87-82, with 2:59 to play.

The Tomahawks, however, scored the next five points, the last three coming on a three-point play by Henderson, who was fouled driving to the basket. Henderson pumped his fist vigorously when he saw the ball drop through the hoop. He then swished the free throw and Algonquin was back up by 10, 92-82, with 32 seconds to play.

Also scoring in double figures for Shepherd Hill were Dan Cavic (20 points) and Kenny Flynn (11).

The teams meet again Tuesday, Feb. 6, in Northborough.

"We have to find a way to slow them down, or try to slow them down; at least a couple of them, by the time we see them again," said Byrnes, who knows that is easier said than done since both teams like to play up-tempo. "Our game is playing fast. We can't slow anyone down. We're not a half-court team. We scored a lot tonight, but their three guys beat us, big time."

Shepherd Hill's Cody Adams rises up for an uncontested layup.

Dan Cavic of Shepherd Hill looks for an open man to pass to as Algonquin's Zach Zides tightly defends.

In Loving Memory Of
Denis P. Desmarais
January 11, 2011 - January 11, 2018

They say there is a reason, they say that time will heal,
But neither time or nor reason, will change the way I feel.
For no one knows the heartache, that lies beneath my smile.
No one knows how many times I have broken down and cried.
I want to tell you something, so there will be no doubt
You're so wonderful to think of, but so hard to be without.
Sadly missed, never forgotten, always in our hearts...
your loving wife Jean Marie, daughter Lynn, son-in-law Joe,
their children and grandchildren
