Killingly employees trained in active shooter response

DAYVILLE — All Killingly school employees (including administrators, teachers, custodians, paraprofessionals, office staff and bus drivers) participated in a four-hour professional development seminar on Jan. 21 provided by the Connecticut State Police on responding to active shooters. This training, known as the C-RAK training or “Civilian Response to Active Shooters” provided staff with information on the history of active shooter incidents, the profiles of active shooters and how to safely respond in a school setting.

In the training, Trooper Jason St. John told staff that there is not one single blueprint for how to respond to an active shooter scenario. “The goal is to know how to respond, remain calm and look for common-sense solutions that ensure your safety and the safety of your students.”

Following the training, the state police answered questions from district employees on scenarios they may face. At the conclusion of the questions, Superintendent of Schools Mr. Steven Rioux acknowledged the sensitive nature of the topic by encouraging staff to self-assess how they felt after the training, with recognition that safeguarding and protecting children is an important and emotional topic. He also spoke to the importance of the topic. “Our procedures are always evolving,” he added, “and we invited the full district here today for this discussion because safety is a topic we approach together as a district.”

This staff training was part of a series of safety related events taking place in Killingly this month. On Jan. 16 volunteers gathered to create classroom “go-kits,” backpacks which contain emergency items that teachers and staff carry out of the building in case of an emergency.

“We were fortunate to have so many community members from Westfield Church volunteer their time to help support student safety,” said Assistant Superintendent Mr. Paul Brenton who was coordinating the event.

FOR THE VILLAGER

EASTFORD — This Saturday is the first day of February and hearts turn to love — and cupcakes! If you love to bake them, decorate them, eat them or admire them, then you will want to be in Eastford next Saturday, Feb. 8, for the town’s fourth annual Cupcake Wars. All are invited to participate or just attend. The event is expected to be a great competition with many contestants are already registered.

“There will be highly decorated and delicious cupcakes for all attendees to sample and vote for in the People’s Choice awards,” said Allison Gormley, event coordinator.

To compete, bring at least a dozen cupcakes to the baking contest on Feb. 8 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Congregational Church, 8 Church Road in Eastford. The delectable treats will be judged in two categories: (1) Recipe and (2) Display. Each competition will have two age groups: Junior (ages up to 15) and Senior (16 and up). In addition, “People’s Choice” awards will be presented after attendees taste, enjoy, and cast their votes. This year’s judges include Eastford’s First Selectman Jacqueline Dubois, School Superintendent Dr. Donna Leake, and Woodstock Academy’s Associate Head of School, Holly Singleton.

Serving up ham, beans, and good will

BY KAREN BUTERA

EAST WOODSTOCK — What better way to spend a Saturday night than to share some ham and beans with the community — with the proceeds helping to share with those in need. The East Woodstock Congregational Church held its annual Ham and Bean Supper on Jan. 25.

“We are a community based church — giving to the community. We have a food bank here. We also give to Thompson Ecumenical Empowerment Group — TEEG for their fuel program, backpacks and food program. We also donate to the Domestic Violence Shelter,” said Christine Lessig, a long-time church member.

The event ran from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and for $10, with children 10 and under free, there was ham, baked beans, coleslaw, assorted breads, pickles, ice cream and cake. Musical entertainment included Jeff Wong and Ben Gould on the guitar.

“We hold four fundraisers a year. The Ham and Bean Supper is one of them,” said Rick Price of the Society Committee, which oversees the budget.

The event has been going on for about 10 years.

“Our annual budget is about $185,000 a year and these fundraisers help to support that,” Price said.

The dinner is very popular, raising between $1,500 and $1,800. Church congregants as well as community members came out to show their support while enjoying a delicious supper at the same time. They also enjoyed the music and fellowship. Some folks came out to grab take-out.

“We usually have between 150 and 200 people that come out. Church parishioners donate the food and church volunteers cook it,” said Price.

One family donated and cooked the baked beans. Someone else donated a check to purchase the ham, while another donated the coleslaw. Desert was also baked and donated by church members.

“All of the money we make selling tickets is all profit,” Price said.

As well as the supper, the church also has a Clothing Drive Sale. For this event church members get a chance to clean out their closets. This

Putnam High Wall of Honor inductees

PUTNAM — The Putnam High School Wall of Honor Committee has released the names of the five individuals who will make up the Class of 2020. Established in 2016, The “Wall” recognition honors PHS graduates or those who have provided service to the school through demonstrated spirit, leadership, high standards of citizenship and service to the community.

This fourth class of inductees include: Ronald Coderre, class of 1959; Ira Cutler 1885; Jeffrey Jankot 1965; William Lychack 1984 and Jeffrey Macdonald 1976. Cutler is a posthumous induction.

Coderre has been involved with many aspects of the community including politics, business, health services, youth activities, sports journalism, education and especially veterans affairs. These affiliations have led to several awards at national, state and local levels. His efforts were a major factor in the establishment of the Hale YMCA in Putnam.

Cutler was the only male graduate in the class of 1885. As rare as a high school education was in that period, he used this springboard to head west and receive a degree from Michigan and a masters and law degree from Denver University. It was in the field of science that he excelled. He was selected for inclusion in Who’s Who in America and recognized as an endowed chair at the University of Denver.

Jankot was an outstanding high school golfer who received his BS degree from Boston College. He enlisted in officers training school and became First Lieutenant in the 101st Airborne Division. While in Vietnam, an enemy explosion cost him his eyesight, but not his passion for golf. In 1976, he became the champion of the National Blind Golf Association. He has continued to be an advocate for disabled veterans despite the handicap.

Macdonald developed an early interest in flying and felt that the military was the ultimate career path. He began by flying search and rescue missions on medical evacuation assignments and then taxied many of our nation’s leaders to various locations, leading to many and various military awards, including two Legion of Merit Medals. He retired as Colonel Macdonald but continues to pilot for Northwest and Delta airlines.

Lychack is an associate professor in the writing program at the University of Pittsburgh. This position as writer and teacher was achieved through a lifelong pursuit of journalism and a desire to instill in others the qualities of honesty, clarity and empathy in their writings. He has garnered numerous awards for his literary achievements from published articles to novels, of which he has written six, including the latest, Cargill Falls.

In an effort to recognize outstanding individuals who have a direct connection with Putnam High School and to keep alumni connected with the school and community, the Putnam Board of Education conceived the idea of a forum to celebrate graduate achievements and the result led to the formation of a Wall of Honor. To date, 20 past graduates have been honored and their plaques are currently displayed on a “wall” in a corridor adjacent to the gymnasium. All nominations remain on file for at least five years following submission.

Annual choices have been difficult and tough decisions have been made by the Committee over the past four years. However, those honored to date have all met the criteria for selection and all have proven themselves in their respective fields and communities. This represents a positive sign of the quality education that has been provided by Putnam High School through the years.

Members of the Wall of Honor Committee include: Nelson King, Chair; Lee Konicki, Vice Chair; Susan Johnston, Secretary; Jeanne Benoit, Treasurer; Sandra Ames, David Gaudreau, James Gothreau, Carrie Riendeau and Scott Pempek. Superintendent Dan Sullivan, Carrie Blackmar and Lauren Konicki represent the Board of Education.

Getting a little tipsy for charity

BY KAREN BUTERA
FOR THE VILLAGER

DAYVILLE — One thing to be said for the Quiet Corner — bartender-night-fundraisers are a well-supported event. If you are going to go out and eat you might as support a fundraiser where you can see friends that have the same beliefs and your dollars can go to a worthy cause all at the same time.

Killingly-Brooklyn Rotary Club held its annual Guest Bartender Night on Jan. 23 at the Golden Greek Restaurant. Multiple bartender teams raised tip money to support the local charities earmarked by the Rotary Club.

Tim Kettle of Danielson is not only a member of the Rotary Club but also Chairman of the Committee of the celebrity bartender event. They have used different venues over the years.

“We wanted to spread the wealth and was also looking for a larger venue,” Kettle said. “This is our sixth year doing this. The staff of the restaurant and celebrities make drinks and the tips go to the Rotary. The team that earns the most tips get bragging rights.”

There was an excited feel in the atmosphere. The families that came out enjoyed their meals and the drink tipers were generous. Everyone seemed to be in a festive mood.

Some of the participating guest bartender teams represented: Toy Story, Mortlake Fire Department, Team Deary, Killingly Business Association, Brooklyn Business Association and Rotary Presidents. The teams took turns tending bar and raising tips from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

There was also a raffle where various gift baskets are donated. Tickets were available for purchase and could be dropped in the basket of choice.

“The restaurant will be selling tickets throughout the week to help us earn more,” Kettle said.

The money raised for the evening will go to a dictionary program for third graders in the Brooklyn and Killingly public school districts and also St. James School of Killingly. These third graders receive their own dictionary.

“Sometimes when we hand out scholarships we have had some of the recipients say they still have their dictionary that they received in the third grade,” said Kettle.

Throughout the year they also support other local non-profits. They support N.E. Placement Services, Sexual Assault Crisis Center, Thompson Ecumenical Empowerment Group-TEEG, and Generations.

“We usually average $3,000 per year but it is our goal to raise more with every year,” said Kettle. Back in October the club reached out to the venue and were welcomed with open arms. There is already mention of returning for next year.

shooters. In addition to safety procedures, the new go-kits contain emergency medical supplies such as SWAT-T tourniquets and ways for first responders to quickly identify and communicate with staff in the case of an emergency.

Assistant Superintendent Mr. Brenton stated that “next steps for the district include a walk-through of all schools in the district with our safety teams and the state police, as well as training for the school nurses on how to properly use the new emergency trauma-kits which have been deployed to all schools. There will also be follow up discussions with building level teams on ways in which the district can continue to support student safety.”

event benefits both the donor and the church. Members get to donate their good, clean clothing which will help with the sale. There is also a yearly art and craft sale where vendors rent a table to sell their wares. One of their most popular fundraiser event is the Fourth of July Jamboree. It is usually held on the commons in East Woodstock. It is an old fashion Fourth of July celebration where they commemorate those that have gone before them. The event wouldn’t be complete without their famous chicken barbeque along with other food as well. There is a book sale and craft sale at the Jamboree, live entertainment, games for kids and contests. Since they have a heart for the community, this event, like all the others, is open to the public.

DAYVILLE — State representatives Rick Hayes (Putnam, Thompson) and Anne Dauphinais (Killingly) were among the legislators attending United Services, Inc. annual Legislative Dinner on Jan. 23. The event provided area members of the General Assembly with an update on the successes and barriers in United Services' efforts to meet the behavioral health needs of the region. The evening meeting was hosted at United Services' new Windham Regional Health and Wellness Center in Mansfield and attended by legislators and members of the United Services Board of Directors. The agency reviewed successes in the past year, which included providing more than 103,000 units of service to more than 3,300 residents. United Services' Behavioral Health Home, Employment Services and Child Guidance Clinic were a few programs to receive statewide recognition and awards for performance in 2019. The agency has a clinic in Dayville. The agency also launched new programs in 2019, including Medication Assisted Treatment for opioid addiction treatment, now available in both the agency's Dayville and Windham area clinics. But funding inequities continue to limit access to behavioral health services in northeastern Connecticut. Of 20 state-funded mental health services provided in Connecticut, only seven are available in northeastern Connecticut, according to information provided by the Connecticut Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services and United Services President/CEO Diane L. Manning. "United Services continues to advocate for equal dollars and access to state-funded behavioral health programs across the state," said Manning. "We appreciate the members of our General Assembly delegation, who took the time out to attend our event and join us in our advocacy in Hartford." United Services board members urged the delegation to support legis-

Day Kimball clinic announces new hours

PUTNAM — Day Kimball Healthcare recently announced that its Plainfield Walk-In Clinic will observe new operating hours, effective Jan. 27. The walk-in clinic is open seven days a week and is located at Day Kimball Healthcare Center, 12 Lathrop Road, Plainfield. The clinic opened in July of 2019 and provides non-life-threatening healthcare for children and adults. The walk-in clinic's new weekday hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Hours remain the same on weekends from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on major holidays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. "Providing the best care in Northeast Connecticut means assessing how our patients use our services and refining them to better suit our patients," said Joseph Adiletta, interim president, Day Kimball Healthcare. "This adjustment to the Plainfield Walk-In Clinic's hours will allow us to accommodate more patients during a timeframe that is convenient for them." Day Kimball Healthcare's Plainfield Walk-In Clinic provides fast, convenient access to high-quality healthcare for common, non-life-threatening conditions, such as minor injuries and infections. It offers a more affordable option for basic medical services than an emergency facility. No appointment is necessary. The walk-in clinic's experienced staff of physicians, physician assistants, and nurse practitioners can treat the entire family with quality care and personal service. Patients can expect a wide-range of services available for low acuity health issues, including on-site immunizations from mumps to chickenpox, travel vaccinations, and flu shots. The walk-in clinic features six exam rooms with the advantage of adjacent laboratory and imaging services when required. Patients who have an established primary care provider within the Day Kimball Healthcare network are followed-up with by their provider after their visit to the walk-in clinic as needed. And, patients that receive treatment at the walk-in but do not have a PCP are provided with a recommendation to one of Day Kimball Medical Group's caring practitioners, extending the continuum of care beyond the walk-in visit. In the case of life threatening medical issues or situations, call 911 immediately, or report to the nearest emergency facility. Day Kimball Healthcare's Townsend Emergency Medical Center located at Day Kimball Hospital in Putnam is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. To learn more about Day Kimball Healthcare's Plainfield Walk-In Clinic visit www.day-kimball.org/walk-in.

Local students volunteer at Palmer Arboretum

WOODSTOCK — Volunteer students from Woodstock Academy and Pomfret School recently volunteered to maintain the grounds of the Palmer Arboretum in Woodstock. The Palmer Arboretum Committee recognized that the work is endless but the results are rewarding. The committee thanked the students for their efforts.

“We cannot thank enough, or truly express our sincere appreciation to the students who are willing to do community service. They come prepared to work, get dirty and do it all with a great attitude along with an overwhelming amount of enthusiasm,” said a press release submitted by Committee member Jean Rocheleau.

Recently a volunteer day was scheduled with Woodstock Academy. It began with 18 students volunteering, then the number went up to 35. The Arboretum Committee members were overjoyed. Some even arrived before the designated time, then, before we could catch our breath there was a mass of students converging upon the Arboretum to the tune of 85 plus.

The tasks at hand were quite daunting: Shoveling, transporting and spreading 10 yards of heavy chips, lugging five yards of Rip/Rap (large stones) down the hill to our drainage trench, lugging downed trees and lots of brush uphill, with a never tiring attitude.

Following this day of volunteer work the committee was grateful to have a group of 25 students from Pomfret School come to continue with the many tasks at hand at the Arboretum. Another 10 yards of mulch to be moved and spread, many trips of lugging brush from the low area at the Arboretum to the upper parking made for some pretty tired legs. Leaves were raked and disposed. Shrub beds were edged and mulched, branches from the recent wind storm were gathered, and yes lugged up the hill. The students lumbered on with enthusiasm and a great sense of accomplishment.

The politeness and willingness from these two groups of students to help out the members of the Arboretum Committee (who also volunteer their time) are to be commended. They never shy away from asking what else can we do.

Committee members were appreciative to have students who do not mind the work, but most importantly enjoy being out in nature, and realizing its importance. Both schools volunteer several times during their respective school year. The committee sent out a huge “Thank You” to each and every one of the students.

All of this was not possible without the coordinating efforts of Micaela Dangelo for organizing the students at

Pomfret School, Sara Dziedzic for coordinating at Woodstock Academy, along with the basketball and soccer coaches for their follow up with their respective teams, and Lauren Gagnon with Woodstock

Academy’s field hockey team. The committee looked forward to another year to further the beautification of the Palmer Arboretum.

Friends of Assisi pantry gets donation

Friends of Assisi in Danielson, along with the United Way mobile food pantry truck, were among organizations that recently received donations.

DANIELSON — The Friends of Assisi Food Pantry in Danielson and the Town of Pomfret Food Pantry were among a host of charities that recently received donations from the Jewett City Savings Bank Foundation. The Foundation recently awarded $13,000 in grants to support seven area food pantries. The grants were announced last week by Jewett City Savings Bank President and CEO Kevin Merchant.

“Hunger and food insecurity are serious problems that affect thousands of people in our communities – from all walks of life. We are proud to provide funding to these pantries, which makes food and supplies accessible to individuals and families in need,” said Merchant. The Foundation awarded grants of $2,500 to four food pantries. Among them were the Friends of Assisi Food Pantry in Danielson, which will use the funding to provide diapers and stock pantry shelves; Project PIN Food Pantry in Moosup will purchase food supplies as well as a conveyor belt to help unload donations; the Saint Mary Food Pantry in Jewett City; and the Preston City Congregational Church Food Pantry will purchase food and supplies to restock pantry shelves. Receiving a $1,000 grant was the United Way of Southeastern Connecticut to support the Gemma Moran United Way/Labor Food Center and Mobile Food Pantry, which comes to Jewett City once a month.

Also awarded was a grant of $500 to the Town of Pomfret Food Pantry to purchase food and supplies for those in need; and a $1,500 grant to the Jonnycake Center of Westerly to supplement the Emergency Children’s Food Assistance Program.

During this most recent round of funding, the Jewett City Savings Bank Foundation awarded 66 grants totaling $77,000 to 56 local organizations. With these most recent donations, the Foundation has donated more than $900,000 in grants since it was established in 2003. Among Jewett City Savings Bank offices are branches in Brooklyn and Dayville.

Duck Day nears in Eastford

FOR THE VILLAGER

EASTFORD — Everyone is invited to Eastford on Sunday, Feb. 2 at 7:30 a.m., to see if Scramble the Duck continues his 100 percent track record of accurately predicting the next six weeks of winter weather. So far, Scramble has outperformed Punxsutawney Phil whose accuracy record is only 39 percent. The event is called “Duck Day — Eastford’s Alternative to Groundhog Day.” At 7:30 sharp Scramble will walk down a red carpet and his friends Micah, Isaac and Benjamin Torcellini will look for a shadow (meaning more winter) or no shadow (meaning warm weather). It's a fun event for all ages. For more information, go to website: www.scrambletheduck.org. Scramble's story began in 2014 on a farm in Eastford, when the three young Torcellini brothers raised a duck.

“We named him Scramble because he scrambled out of his egg,” said Isaac. Then on Feb. 2, 2015, the boys were surprised when Scramble correctly predicted six weeks of winter, starting the Duck Day tradition in Eastford.

DAYVILLE — Brenda Caron is Westview Health Care Center's Employee of the Year. Caron is the 2019 recipient of the facility's most prestigious citation. Employed as a dietary aide at the health care center for over 17 years, her selection came as no surprise to her many coworkers and friends. This annual award is chosen with careful consideration by committee. It is granted to employees who embody and promote the very values and characteristics that Westview is known for: quality care, compassion and dedication — attributes that come naturally for Caron. Whether she is gifting delicious baked treats to various departments throughout the facility or bringing hand cut flowers from her garden to residents, her gentle spirit is all too apparent to those whom she encounters on a daily basis. Daughter of Arthur and Carolyn Hughes, Brenda is a lifelong resident of the Quiet Corner and currently lives in Dayville with her husband, Ron, and their Golden Retriever, Red. Aside from her aforementioned interest in baking and gardening, she revels in spending time with her great-niece, Kaydence Farner, and her great-nephew, Finn Thurlow. Hired on May 6, 2002, Caron has amazingly achieved perfect attendance for 16 of her 17 years of employment. Over the years, she has also received numerous acknowledgement letters of gratitude from residents and patients, as well as over 180 WOW cards from the facility for continuously going above and beyond her expected duties. “I'm honored to have been chosen as the Employee of the Year,” said Caron. “Every day I am surrounded by people who are fun and enjoyable to be around. I'm grateful to them and the many special residents who I have gotten to meet and befriend over the years.” “Westview's reputation is built upon the high level of care and the continual dedication of our employees. Both Brenda's performance and persona exemplify what it means to deliver compassionate health care and we are all very proud and grateful to have her on our team,” said Westview Administrator, David T. Panteleakos.

DANIELSON — EASTCONN's Quinebaug Middle College, a regional magnet high school, is currently recruiting academically motivated students who will enter grades 9-12 in the 2020-2021 school year. QMC is operated by EASTCONN as part of a partnership that includes Quinebaug Valley Community College, Brooklyn, Franklin, Killingly, Plainfield, Pomfret, Thompson, Voluntown, Windham and Woodstock. Enrollment is not limited to students who live in partner towns; students from across the region are welcome to apply. Students seeking a more independent learning environment, tailored to their academic and career goals, are welcome to apply. The application deadline is Friday, Feb. 28. For more information or to download an application, visit www.eastconn.org/qmc. QMC is located on the campus of Quinebaug Valley Community College (QVCC), at 742 Upper Maple St., Danielson. QMC offers high school students the unique middle college experience, which enables them to earn a high school degree, while also earning college credits from QVCC at no additional cost. Once enrolled at QMC, students will have access to high-tech laboratories, career and vocational resources, and other college amenities. Students who successfully complete QVCC courses have an advantage when applying to college or any post-secondary program, not only because they've earned free, transferrable college credits, but because they've demonstrated their ability to succeed in a college environment. Highly motivated students can graduate from high school with enough credits to earn an associate's degree. Areas of study at QMC include STEM (science, technology, engineering and math), liberal arts, the humanities, allied health or advanced manufacturing. To learn more, call QMC Principal Mary Kay Tshonas at (860) 932-4137, or reach her at mtshonas@eastconn.org. Aspinock Historical Society sets resolutions

PUTNAM — The Aspinock Historical Society's leadership team, headed up by the Board of Directors and many committees, has set forth a list of attainable resolutions for the New Year. AHS is looking to Putnam's history-loving community members of all ages, abilities and skills to jump in individually or with a friend or family member to become a valuable asset to keeping the town's history alive. The volunteer team members will be dubbed Pioneers, in honor of David McCullough's book "The Pioneers" featuring Manasseh and Ephraim Cutler, who started in Putnam and went on to impact U.S. history. With ongoing rehab of two historical landmarks in town; the Gertrude Chandler Warner Boxcar Children Museum and the Cady Copp House, there is much work to be done. Whether you possess skills of carpentry, landscaping, or painting, there is a need for your help. Once the physical rehabilitation work is done, dedicated and ongoing maintenance is required. Public engagement will be needed to greet guests and tell the stories. A behind the scenes project is in progress for folks that love to organize. The Aspinock House is loaded with archived items. Pictures, newspapers, clothing, footballs, and much more from Putnam's past are stored in what has been the long-term home of AHS at 206 School Street (Route 44.) With the new history-making town facility coming soon, the Aspinock House will be gone. Help is needed to sort and pack up the items for storage until the new AHS space is available. Once AHS occupies its new space, volunteer Pioneers will be needed to engage with community members. AHS is also seeking financial, public relations, programming, grant writing, research, fundraising, and storytelling skills to name a few. There is a lot of talent in Putnam, and AHS intends to allow those talents to shine. Training for volunteer Pioneers is a part of the plan, and they will work in tandem with AHS mentors. E-mail aspinockhistoricalsociety@gmail.com to step up, become a Pioneer, and celebrate Putnam's history and future. If you can't volunteer but still want to help, donations are always accepted and can be mailed to AHS, PO Box 465, Putnam, Ct. 06260. Great Uncle Arthur’s case of Scotch

The second floor of my childhood home was the first place I ever hear the word, quarantined. My brothers, who were 13 and 15 years older than me, were in high school. They had the mumps and spent about two weeks at home. I adored them and they doted on me. We read books and played endless board games and cards. Quarantined seemed like a good thing.

Later I contracted all the common childhood illnesses, that happily now can be avoided or diminished with vaccinations. Almost everyone from my generation has a scar or two from measles or chicken pox. Some have far worse. Rather than being kept away from sick children, I played with them so that I could catch the various maladies and, according to my mother’s plan, get over them. It was a strategy that many followed.

By the time I was in elementary school, Dr. Salk had developed a vaccine against polio. My brothers were exposed to the disease in high school and a classmate was paralyzed and spent her life in a wheelchair. I have a friend, just a few years older than I am, who contracted polio and experiences some of the repercussions. For years, parents were fearful that swimming pools, swamps and crowded places were the breeding grounds. Now, it too is nearly gone, although without vaccinations, it can return.

My father and grandparents lived in a large house during the flu epidemic of 1918-19. My grandparents were from Wales and hosted a steady stream of visitors. My great uncle, Arthur, had written that he was coming to visit, and planned to stay for an indefinite time. He bred English bulldogs as a career and needed a change. He turned up at the train station and no one was there to meet him. There wasn’t a car to transport him and the case of Scotch he had brought as a present. He walked to our family home, found they were sick and nursed them back to health. They were lucky. The epidemic was devastating.

Reading the “Statistics of the 1918 Epidemic for Influenza in Connecticut”, by EA Winslow and JF Rogers, DPH, Yale School of Medicine, is a sobering look at what happened. The disease was noted first in New London, where it arrived with sailors on ships and spread to Windham County in a matter of days. Soldiers from Camp Devens also brought the disease to the area. It swept across the state in one month and ultimately affected 20 to 40 percent of the population. The highest death rate was among those under 5 years of age and between 20 and 40. What could be more awful for a family or a community.

The best way to prevent the spread of the disease or being exposed to it was quarantine. In the records are observations about an orphanage that escaped the epidemic by closing itself off completely. Imagine how difficult it must have been to keep a throng of children and staff fed, occupied and clean for an indeterminate period of time. Somehow they managed and their system worked.

Reading the report on the 1918 epidemic is remarkably comforting. The thoroughness of the recordkeeping, the input from the visiting nurses, the speed with which the military and civilian authorities tried to stem the spread of disease more than a century ago reminds me, yet again, of my belief in science, public health and the ingenuity of people.

Quarantining millions of people seems unimaginable, but it appears to be happening. We will rely on science, good sense and luck to see what happens next.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Students are being pressured at Killingly High

This Redmen controversy has gone on long enough. I’m not writing as a pro-Redhawk or pro-Redmen. I am writing as a parent of a child who was called racist, by fellow students, simply because he would not sign a petition, that was set up at a table in a hallway at KHS, to reinstate the Redhawk name. My child was not the only one to have this happen. Several parents I have spoken with said their kids experienced the same thing simply because they did not agree with signing this petition.

The teachers that allowed this should be condemned, if not terminated, for allowing this type of bullying to occur. That’s what this is, bullying. When the school was asked about the situation, they said had no idea this took place. In your own hallways, come on, be more alert to the happening in your school.

Kids and parents are afraid to speak out as pro-Redmen or pro-Redhawk simply because they are afraid to be called racist or harassed and bullied by those who oppose.

It’s time to move on as a community. We have other things we need to focus our time an energy on.

Everyone is entitled to their opinion, but nobody is entitled to bully those whom they disagree with.

DUANE J. ANDERSON
DAYVILLE

Who’s afraid of tolls?

Why is the state of Connecticut afraid of adding tolls? Just big trucks should not be able to drive through the state without help paying for road maintenance. In a recent trip to Washington D.C., we paid over 50 dollars on tolls on the round trip. Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland have six-lane highways, three for auto and three trucks and cars. The roads are in fine shape. Leaving Rt 95 out and in to Connecticut are congested and very bumpy.

We need to improve and provide for better transportation in this state over the next 30-plus years. Update the system to provide rail lines from and through the state. Would provide some good, high paying jobs (thus bringing in tax revenue). would make us more competitive with other New England states that have already beaten us to the punch. Do we need a river bridge collapse or some disaster to happen in the state to move.? This would further discourage businesses and people from moving to the Nutmeg state.

Reasons against are our state legislators would love to get their paws on toll money for other selfish purposes. Our own State Senator would love getting her hands on that money. Put in a lock box inside a vault. Do anything to make it impossible for them to dip in for whatever made-up reason(s) they can think of. Whether cars tolls should be added is still up for debate. Let us walk before then and install the start of a toll system. We along with Vermont are the only two states up and down East Coast seaboard not to have any tolls.Updated and modernized bus and rail system would only be a plus for the state.

The State should also approve and start implementing the recreational sale of marijuana. The money that Massachusetts is collecting would help the budget woes and keep those who are interested staying in the state to purchase. Massachusetts gets about $20 per hundred in tax revenue. Plus additional revenues. Not vaping. People need not to be scared about, some of your very own residents go out of state to purchase, most are good law abiding citizens, most use it for pain relief and other good reasons. It is regulated so the chance of getting bad batches is low and much less than the guy on the corner.

One more thing, tariffs, who is paying for the wall, not the Mexican government, they are also the reason so many farmers are going bankrupt in the Midwest, those are the one the Chinese were supposed to pay for. Why are so many groceries are getting very expensive? Tariffs. Do not expect the Cult leader to tell the truth. He thinks most of us are too dumb to think! God Bless and sleep well.

DAVID CASSETTARI
DANIELSON

We all have our cults

Why is it that people think it’s only our President who lies or is a hypocrite? Are they really that narrow minded to think that he’s the only politician whose ever told a lie or has been hypocritical? David Cassettari (Letters to the Editor Jan. 24) mentioned that Donald Trump’s daughter has benefited from Dad, but there is no mention of how Biden’s kid and those of Pelosi, Waters and Kerry have also benefited from their parents’ influence? I will now quote a line from an old Steppenwolf song: “you’re so narrow minded that it’s no surprise, if you fell on a pin you’d be blind in both eyes!” But to be fair, this also applies to the rest of the “No fan of Trump” cult members (wherever they may be). A past letter to the editor said that those who follow the President are a “cult,” so why not the “No fan of Trump” cult? I get it that you don’t like Donald Trump, and until the cult gets a decided leader for you to worship there’s always vermin Supreme. Anyhow, where is John A. Day Jr’s mention of Hoween Flexer using the “r” word? A recent letter to the editor called it a “mistake,” and so be it as it’s now her cross to bear. But when I mentioned just a part of the “r” word in a past Villager letter, Mr. Day (and G. Leslie Sweetnam) all but had a lynch mob at my door. And if the President had used the word, the Villager would have had to put out a special opinion edition with the backlash from the “No fan of Trump” cult. Our President is a very strong man as he’s endured the left’s wrath from day one and even before he ever came into office. If this constant harassment was the case with Ms. Flexer, she probably would have packed up and moved out of Connecticut by now. (Please let it be known that by saying this I bear no malice toward Ms. Flexer nor am I judging her character). So now we have the impeachment farce in the Senate where the democrats are crying for a fair trial. They’ll no doubt get the same fair trial that the President got from the Democratic-led house. Is it true that the opening statements from Pelosi’s hand-picked puppet managers consumed 23 hours over three days? And though I guess it’s part of the process, enough already with the same old repetitious one-sided speeches that we’ve already heard, let’s get on with it! These managers, especially Schiff, must really love to hear themselves talk, a true form of narcissism if there ever was one. Did I hear that water boarding (as a form of torture) will now be replaced with making criminals listen to continual Schiff speeches? In my opinion the only thing to come out of that would be a cure for insomnia. What is truly sickening however is how Schiff and Schumer said that they speak for the American people (yawn). They certainly do not speak for all the American people, they only speak for the “No fan of Trump” cult and them making that claim is just stupid and a lie! The Democrats in their desperation to (hopefully) sway things their way have said that they now want to call witnesses, what about calling Joe Biden who openly said he doesn’t want to testify? If he has nothing to hide then maybe he should. (Kind of like what the “No fan of Trump” cult hypocrites have said about the President?) I suppose that Brian Loffredo (Letter to the editor Jan. 24) can see the hypocrisy there? Didn’t Biden just say that he’d fire ICE agents for arresting drunk driving illegal aliens? And this is a man running for President! I wonder what Ann C. Rosebrooks (Letter to the editor, who called my comments about Biden “disgraceful”) has to say about that? Maybe she’ll just overlook it as a “mistake?” Then there is Pelosi, Schumer, Waters and Nadler who’ve been in office for way too long now who blame the President (in office for a little over three years) for the problems of this country, no hypocrisy there? When I’ve pointed out that the voting districts of Pelosi, Waters and Schiff are complete sewers it falls on deaf ears because these “do as I say, not as I do” true hypocrites are the heroes of the “No fan of Trump” cult. It’s obvious that the (sewer) fact is being ignored, probably only as a “mistake” on their parts? Now, can anybody name me one member of Congress - on both sides of the aisle - who hasn’t lied, isn’t a hypocrite, isn’t taking care of their own “base” or hasn’t helped a family member with their influence?” I’ll wait. I’m starting to wonder if there is anybody among the “No fan of Trump” cult that has an open mind? Please wake up to the fact that we are all cult members who will drink our own chosen brand of Kool-aid and “sleep well.” I’m certainly not trying to change any of your minds here, but I’d like to ask that you take the blinders off - if only for a minute - but when you do watch out for those pins! (And, I’m sure I’ll be hearing from the cult fairly soon.)

As January comes to a close, it’s important to remember what the beginning of the new year signifies; developing new goals and resolutions for a refreshing start. To you our devoted readers, this may mean downsizing or managing your financial records. An important part of managing your personal finances is keeping your financial records organized. Whether it’s a utility bill to show proof of residency or a Social Security card for wage reporting purposes, there may be times when you need to locate a financial record or document-and you’ll need to locate it relatively quickly.

By taking the time to clear out and organize your financial records, you’ll be able to find what you need exactly when you need it.

What should you keep? If you tend to keep stuff because you “might need it someday,” your desk or home office is probably overflowing with nonessential documents. One of the first steps in determining what records to keep is to ask yourself, “Why do I need to keep this?” Documents you should keep are likely to be those that are difficult to obtain, such as: tax returns, legal contracts, insurance claims, and proof of identity.

On the other hand, if you have documents and records that are easily duplicated elsewhere, such as online banking and credit-card statements, you probably do not need to keep paper copies of the same information.

How long should you keep your records? Generally, a good rule of thumb is to keep financial records and documents only as long as necessary. For example, you may want to keep ATM and credit-card receipts only temporarily, until you’ve reconciled them with your bank and/or credit-card statement. On the other hand, if a document is legal in nature and/or difficult to replace, you’ll want to keep it for a longer period or even indefinitely.

Some financial records may have more specific timetables. For example, the IRS generally recommends that taxpayers keep federal tax returns and supporting documents for a minimum of three years up to seven years after the date of filing. Certain circumstances may even warrant keeping your tax records indefinitely. Listed below are some recommendations on how long to keep specific documents: Records to keep for one year or less: bank or credit union statements, credit-card statements, utility bills, and auto and homeowner’s insurance policies.

Records to keep for more than a year: tax returns and supporting documentation, mortgage contracts, property appraisals, annual retirement and investment statements, and receipts for major purchases and home improvements.

Records to keep indefinitely: birth, death, and marriage certificates, adoption records, citizenship and military discharge papers, and your Social Security card.

Keep in mind that the above recommendations are general guidelines, and your personal circumstances may warrant keeping these documents for shorter or longer periods of time.

Out with the old, in with the new: An easy way to prevent paperwork from piling up is to remember the phrase “out with the old, in with the new.” For example, when you receive this year’s auto insurance policy, discard the one from last year. When you receive your annual investment statement, discard the monthly or quarterly statements you’ve been keeping.

Colonel Danielson’s house has quite a history

AT 300

Recently the house at the corner of Maple Street, Danielson has been in the news having suffered significant damage in a fire several years ago. It is one of the oldest homes within the Borough of Danielson. Situated across from the former mill, it was the home of Colonel William Danielson who had established a nearby iron works by 1760 on the Five Mile River and who had served during the Revolution. Aunt Judith, in her Literary Salad column in the 1905 Windham County Transcript, provides the following description of the home since she had “lately had a delightful ramble over the old house, built in 1786, as is shown by the figures cut in one of the bricks of the hearth. These bricks were made on the premises and burned in the garden near by. They are from seven to eight inches square and look as if they might serve future generations. The chimneys are immense, having fire-places with mantels reaching the ceiling, though most of them are bricked up. In one, however, was a blazing wood fire, reflected from brass andirons. In another room was one of the original open Franklin stoves, in still another a closed Franklin, giving an opportunity of comparing the successive changes in the way of heating.

“The main structure, facing the south, was built by Col. William Danielson... There were no mills, and the grounds sloped to the Quinebaug and Five Mile rivers on either side. The windows were of small glass with inside wooden shutters. The floors are of very fine wide boards, though now carpeted. The nails and hinges are all of wrought iron. Some of the material was brought from Templeton, Mass., not being procurable nearer. ...In each room there was originally a ‘summer-try’ or ‘summer-tree’ (according to the latest dictionary), which was a big timber running across the ceiling, giving the appearance of great strength as it was uncovered by plaster. The beams have been removed from some of the rooms, and the place filled with plaster...A room is shown in which old Nance, a presumed former slave, is said to have died*. In the kitchen is a cooking board at which five generations have cooked. It is a single board 27 1/2 inches wide and proportionately long and can be fastened to the wall when not in use. We also saw the cavernous brick oven, which might supply a regiment at need. There is a circular table 50 inches across, made of two boards, which when turned back discloses a fine ‘settle’ or chair. In this, with a blazing fire on the brick hearth and the great wooden circle at one’s back to prevent draughts, the height of comfort must have been attained...There is a Washington quilt which is unique. Washington is conspicuous and a trumpeter is issuing from a hall of fame and seems to be sounding his praise” (WCT 5/4/1905). *The First Federal Census of the United States in 1790 does list William Danielson as having one slave.

This week I thought I’d do some newspaper extracts to take you back in time. The year is January 1933. The following businesses are from the January 5 issue of the Windham County Transcript. “P & A is selling its tenement houses on White Row, Main and Water Streets,” the same Transcript reported. (Powdrell & Alexander: curtain manufacturers who operated the former factory on Maple Street in the 1900’s. At one point the company had six plants in Killingly from the Pineville section, to Connecticut Mills, to Danielson. They brought Danielson the title, “Curtaintown USA). Notice the different name in 1933 for St. James Row.

Have you ever driven down Morin Avenue in Danielson and seen the beautiful Tudor Revival “Gables”? The Connecticut Mills Company had erected unique mill housing for its workers and for a number of years owned them before Powdrell and Alexander acquired them. The January 26, 1933 Windham County Transcript had the following: “Notice – 100 house lots at bargain prices and 3 stucco houses, consisting of 1 single house, 1 two-apartment house, 1 three-apartment house, all equipped with electric lights and water, situated on the original Conn. Mills plot, near the Powdrell & Alexander factory. This embraces part of the old James’ farm on North Street, also a part of the old Davis farm on North Main St.”

Does anyone have any photos that could be scanned or information on Aqualand, which was south of Danielson (more towards Food-A-Rama/Michaels)? If so, please contact the Killingly Historical & Genealogical Center at 860-779-7250. Thank you.

Wanted! A loan of items that could be used in the Women’s Suffrage/Women’s History Exhibit which the Killingly Historical & Genealogical Center will open in March (Women’s History Month). Photos can be scanned and immediately returned. The exhibit will include women from towns other than Killingly. Sidetracked

Sean and I had just woken up, and decided to head out for Sunday morning breakfast, then planned to run some errands. I went to put my favorite week-end-jeans on, only to find the seat had a big rip. “When did this happen, and how long have I been unknowingly running around with a big hole in my pants?” I asked Sean. He answered over his shoulder, “I didn’t notice,” not bothering to look at the five-inch hole in the butt of my jeans. Then he put on his t-shirt with the rip in the armpit, and buttoned up his flannel with the torn pocket. No shock there. Last time I folded his laundry; I tossed out seven ripped socks and an underwear waistband (That’s all that was left of them). It doesn’t faze him to don beat up clothing. He has jean pockets that are so worn; his wallet is going to bye-bye one of these days.

I have a friend Dino who doesn’t own a single shirt with sleeves; he deliberately rips all of them off. I don’t know if it’s a

Larry the Cable Guy tribute or if he just doesn’t like sleeves. Absolutely madness I tell you! I pop a button and won’t wear the clothing until I fix it.

So, after breakfast we set out on a screws, bolts, and jeans quest. Sean has been rebuilding his 1975 Harley Davidson Shovelhead so parts are very difficult to find. We went to three different stores trying to find particular bolts he needed! We finally ended up at Runnings, where they happen to carry what he needed. “They have jeans here you can look through,” he said, before heading off into the hardware section, leaving me to wander around the ladies section. I started picking through the racks of jeans determined to replace my holy favorites, when I looked up and saw them... Seeds! I raced over to the racks of perennial and vegetable seeds, ignoring my inner voice that said, “You came here for pants not plants”. Before I knew it I had seven packs of seeds in my hand. “Well I can’t very well buy the seeds and not pick up the little greenhouse kits so I can start these babies indoors.” So I grabbed two greenhouse kits...and a new plant light. I haven’t been able to find my old one since we moved into the house four years ago. Oh and, don’t forget a bag of seed starter soil with peat moss, perlite, and vermiculite in it. After destroying my leg last year, gardening was out of the question. I could only look that the yard...and the weeds.

Arms laden with gardening supplies, I turned to leave the isle, and there was Sean standing there watching me. “Nice jeans” he said. “Well I saw the seeds and, I kind of lost control after that” I replied sheepishly. “So you can work on your indoor garden but you have no pants,” he retorted. “Maybe you can sew all the empty seed packages together and, make a pair.” So I spent the rest of Saturday in the basement, lovingly planting sixty little green children and, setting up their nursery light.... and I still have no jeans.

POSITIVELY

GARY W.

As regular readers of my column know, I’m being challenged in my life by a life-threatening health problem. A Neuroendocrine tumor is a rare affliction that is hard to diagnose by the average unexposed physician and medical facility. It is often identified with the late Apple founder and CEO, Steve Jobs, as this is the disease that took his life.

Luckily, my diagnosis was made and I’m hard at work with my insurance provider and family doctor to find the medical team/facility with expertise and experience to help me beat this affliction ... and beat it, I will.

I’ll confess, that this health crisis challenges everything I’ve written and spoke of regarding the power of optimism. Yet it is my optimism, when I clear my mind, that helps me focus on the positive outcome that I believe I will achieve. My plan isn’t to survive but to thrive.

I’ll give you an occasional and short update now and then, but this health-obstacle will not dominate my column moving forward. I’ll go into some detail today because of the overwhelming response and well-wishes from readers, friends and family since my diagnosis. Make no mistake about this ... I will die some day because of something, but it’s not going to be this.

Of all the incredibly supportive communications I’ve received, there was one short and negative response to last week’s column. The reader said: “I am a three-time cancer survivor and the premise you can will it away is insulting. It doesn’t just take your life away: it takes everything.”

I responded that she should read the column rather than just reacting to the headline. I don’t believe you can ‘will away’ cancer or really anything. My point is always that optimism gives you a better chance of overcoming obstacles because an optimistic view gives you the encourage to fight. If you pessimistically believe you cannot overcome, why would you go to the trouble of fighting?

There are more studies that I can count, verifying the powers of a positive mind in the treatment of disease. Believing in a positive outcome gives you the drive to have an increased focus on being part of the solution. With only seven hundred words available to me in this space, I won’t take the time to list or footnote the studies, but if you go to the search engine of your choice, you will see countless studies by many of the most revered institutions in the world, showing the power of optimism on successful outcomes.

Once again, I’ll say that there are some medical realities that optimism cannot overcome. And in the case of almost every illness, optimism alone will have little positive impact. The power of optimism comes into play in partnership with modern medicine. You don’t have to really do any research other than asking your doctor. Optimism will always give you greater chances for success than pessimism.

Vince Lombardi was often quoted as saying, “Fatigue makes cowards of us all.” I’ve learned over the last few weeks how true this is, as my mind works overtime with my diagnosis. When I’m rested, optimism is easy, but as fatigue sets in, my resistance to pessimism weakens. I’m finding two solutions. The first and obvious remedy is to get lots of rest. The second isn’t as easy but even more powerful and that is to quiet your mind.

Depending upon your belief system or faith, you may look at this from different points of view. I’ve heard some say that only in silence your soul or inner self will speak to you. Others say that through a quiet mind you can only create the solutions you seek. All good and I believe true. My experience in life takes me to Psalm 46:10. “Be still and know that I am God.” It is those moments where I can force all the thoughts and words that I allow into my head back out, that I hear the voice that provides direction, comfort and healing.

So enough on cancer. Next week we’ll return to my mission of helping others lead a more optimistic life. I’ll keep you posted, and prayers are appreciated, but again, I’m not focused on just surviving. I plan to overcome this and thrive.

In addition, review your files at least once a year to keep your filing system on the right track.

Finally, when you are ready to get rid of certain records and documents, don’t just throw them in the garbage. To protect sensitive information, you should invest in a good quality shredder to destroy your documents, especially if they contain Social Security numbers, account numbers, or other personal information.

Where should you keep your records?: You could go the traditional route and use a simple set of labeled folders in a file drawer. More important documents should be kept in a fire-resistant file cabinet, safe, or safe-deposit box.

If space is tight and you need to reduce clutter, you might consider electronic storage for some of your financial records.

You can save copies of online documents or scan documents and convert them to electronic form. You’ll want to keep backup copies on a portable storage device or hard drive and make sure that your computer files are secure.

You could also use a cloud storage service that encrypts your uploaded information and stores it remotely. If you use cloud storage, make sure to use a reliable company that has a good reputation and offers automatic backup and technical support.

Once you’ve found a place to keep your records, it may be helpful to organize and store them according to specific categories (e.g., banking, insurance, proof of identity), which will make it even easier to access what you might need.

Consider creating a personal document locator: Another option for organizing your financial records is to create a personal document locator, which is simply a detailed list of where you have stored your financial records. This list can be helpful whenever you are trying to locate a specific document and can also assist your loved ones in locating your financial records in the event of an emergency. Typically, a personal document locator will include the following information: personal information, personal contacts (e.g., attorney, tax preparer, financial advisor), online accounts with username and passwords, and your list of specific locations of important documents (e.g., home, office, safe).

Live well: Making sure that your financial records are properly stored and organize could help you Live Well.TM, especially, when it is time to file your taxes. Having all document in order can save you time with your tax and financial advisor when they evaluate your unique and strategic financial plan. The prayers of Christopher Columbus

According to author Phyllis Schlafly, “Christopher Columbus had a mystic belief that God intended him to sail the Atlantic Ocean in order to spread Christianity. He said his prayers several times daily. Columbus wrote what he called a Book of Prophecies, which is a compilation of passages Columbus selected from the Bible which he believed were pertinent to his mission of discovery. ... Columbus’s own writings prove that he believed that God revealed His plan for the world in the Bible, the infallible Word of God. Columbus believed that he was obeying the mission God staked out for his life when he set sail west across the Atlantic Ocean.” (The Mission and Faith of Christopher Columbus)

There are few historical events that rival the “discovery of America.” Although we know people already lived on the continent and that other people from Europe had visited it before him, the voyage of Columbus was the beginning of a sea change in the distribution of world power.

In 1492 Columbus sailed 33 continuous days into the unknown. The journey was so nerve-racking that his crew threatened mutiny toward the end of their journey. Looking back, it becomes obvious that every decision he made was crucial to the success of his expedition and the survival of his ships. George E. Nunn, a prominent geographer wrote, “It is amazing, that Christopher did not make a single false move in the entire voyage” (Nunn 43).

The sea route Columbus took seems almost providential. Over the next five

hundred years it would prove to be the best possible course for sailing west from southern Europe to North America. But Columbus gave the credit to God. He wrote, “With a hand that could be felt, the Lord opened my mind, to the fact that it would be possible to sail from here to the Indies” (West and Kling 105).

One example of what Columbus considered to be answered prayer took place on September 23, 1492. The sea had become calm. This was a problem for him since his ships were driven by the wind. Columbus chronicled in his journal that the crew began to complain. But, shortly, the sea mysteriously rose without wind, astonishing the crew. Columbus called this a divine miracle. He wrote, “the high sea was very necessary to me, [a sign] which had not appeared except in the time of the Jews when they left Egypt [and complained] against Moses, who took them out of captivity”.

From where we sit in history, we can see that the significance of Columbus discovering America was not in that the Americas would achieve world power or wealth. The significance was in that he paved the way for many to come to the new world where they could practice religion freely and eventually spread democracy, freedom and evangelical Christianity throughout the whole world. The prayers Christopher Columbus prayed worked!

Putnam girls surging toward postseason

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

DAYVILLE — Unless they meet again in the Eastern Connecticut Conference tournament this was Kayleigh Lyons last shot at backyard rival Killingly High. Lyons, Putnam High’s senior point guard extraordinaire, has been battling Killingly since her freshman season. January 22 marked her last regular season game at Killingly High — an opportunity to avenge a 55-35 loss 16 days earlier — when she was held without a bucket until the fourth quarter and limited to just five points. Perhaps Lyons was due to roar in the rematch.

“This was potentially the last time I’ll get to play them. It’s definitely something I’ll remember,” Lyons said. “I had a rough scoring game last time we played them.”

Lyons got her points and the Clippers got their revenge — she scored a game-high 16 points to lead the Clippers past Killingly 47-33. The victory on Jan. 22 will be another milestone among Putnam’s classic battles against Killingly over her four-year career as a starter. Last season — on Jan. 25 2019 — the Clippers topped Killingly 41-39 on Jillian Gray’s shot at the buzzer.

“Playing them the last four years — we’ve had our ups and downs. We’ve lost to them.

We’ve beat them. Last year we only beat them by a buzzer-beater shot,” Lyons said.

She was due to fill up the scoring column against Killingly after her five-point effort on Jan. 6.

“It was just confidence, having confidence in my team, our team being able to open me up for a jumper,” Lyons said.

Putnam’s record is 11-2 through 13 games. The Clippers were ranked No. 3 in Class S in the state through Tuesday, Jan. 28. Lyons said the win over Class MM Killingly made a statement while also avenging the 55-35 loss back on Jan. 6.

“We’re better than a 20-point loss to them. We can do anything. We can shoot. We can pass. We can defend. We’re an all-around team,” Lyons said. “It’s a huge motivator. Teams

Woodstock girls forge ahead while rebuilding

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

WOODSTOCK — This was presumed to be a rebuilding season for Woodstock Academy's girls basketball team and coach Will Fleeton knew that going in. What Fleeton wasn't planning on was the absence of a couple building blocks — with sophomore forward Aurissa Boardman and junior guard Peyton Saracina both missing several starts because of injuries. But one player's misfortune is another's opportunity — and several Centaurs stepped up — rallying from a seven-point deficit with under two minutes remaining to capture a much-needed 45-42 win over Ledyard on Jan. 23 at Alumni Fieldhouse.

In both Boardman and Saracina's absence — junior guard Alexa Pechie (12 points) and junior forward Katlin Birlin (seven points) helped the Centaurs defeat the Colonels. Senior guard Kayla Gaudreau also tallied 12 points for Woodstock Academy. Coach Fleeton can count on Gaudreau to come through in the clutch — but he said Pechie and Birlin have taken advantage of their increased minutes and dialed up their games.

"Alexa Pechie and Katlin Birlin are juniors. They're starting. They're getting quality minutes. I've got two starters down due to injury — Peyton Saracina and Aurissa Boardman, who was our high scorer until she went out. So (Pechie and Birlin) both played quality minutes anyway but they're playing a little bit more because of those two (Saracina and Boardman) being down. So I think it's huge for them," Fleeton said.

The coach hoped Pechie and Birlin can continue the clutch play they displayed against Ledyard and use it as a springboard for the rest of this season and beyond.

"Nothing can replicate game play. They're getting quality minutes. They're playing long term, big responsibilities, and I will expect those things from them next year so this is a good start for them to get a taste of it now," Fleeton said.

Gaudreau has been money in the bank all season and she had another strong shooting effort against Ledyard.

"She's been awesome. She hit five (three-pointers) the last game, I think four the one before that one," Fleeton said. "She's definitely a volume shooter. She's going to take every open look that she gets. To be honest — do we score enough if she's not knocking down threes? — so we need to put them up."

Trailing Ledyard 40-33 with 1:40 remaining, Pechie knocked down a three-pointer to kick off a 12-2 run to close out the game and secure the win. Gaudreau followed Pechie's trey with a transition layup to pull the Centaurs within a basket — 40-38 — with 1:21 remaining. Pechie sank a pair of free throws to tie it at 40-40 with 56 seconds left. And Pechie sank a driving bucket from close range with 28 seconds remaining to give the Centaurs the lead for good at 42-40. With Woodstock clinging to a 43-42 lead, Pechie secured the win by sinking a pair of foul shots with 5.7 seconds left.

The loss dropped Ledyard's record to 2-10. Natalyah Williams led the Colonels with 12 points. The win lifted Woodstock's record 3-10. The Centaurs are next scheduled to play host to Amistad on Saturday, Feb. 1, with tipoff set for 1:30 p.m. at Alumni Fieldhouse. The win against Ledyard gave the Centaurs a much-needed morale boost that coach Fleeton hoped they could parlay into more wins down the home stretch of the season.

"I think they're high and they're believing right now so I think that adds a little spice to that," Fleeton said. "We haven't really had a close one so this was our first tight game at the end. I believe we had three straight stops that were phenomenal — three great defensive possessions — so I think this will help us in many ways to be honest."

Killingly girls focus on home stretch

VILLAGER EDITOR

DAYVILLE — Killingly High wrapped up a berth in the Class MM state tournament with a 49-35 victory over Windham High on Jan. 21 — one day later Killingly played host to Putnam High and lost 47-33. Killingly coach Gina Derosier lauded the Clippers for taking it to her team on Jan. 22 but couldn't fault her girls for a possible letdown after securing a berth in the state tournament.

"All credit in the world to Putnam. They played well. I don't think they outworked us. They just outplayed us," Derosier said. "It was a tough one for us, an emotional win last night (against Windham) and a little emotional hangover for us. That was a huge game for us."

Killingly's record is 10-3 through 13 games. Killingly defeated Putnam 55-35 back on Jan. 6 and Derosier knew the rematch might be a different story.

"They were gunning for us from the first time we played them and I think they wanted to prove that they were a better team. And I knew that they were a better team than what they played the last time. It's a credit to them. They wanted it more and it showed," Derosier said.

Killingly limited Putnam senior guard Kayleigh Lyons to just five points in the first meeting between the two teams but Lyons tallied a game-high 16 in the rematch on Jan. 22.

"That was Kayleigh's best performance against us in my tenure here, that's for sure," said Derosier, in her fourth season. "Kayleigh was lights out. She couldn't miss."

Killingly senior forward Trinity Angel scored a team-high 12 points but no other Killingly player scored in double figures. Derosier said she plans on having another chance to play Putnam High in the post-season at the Eastern Connecticut Conference tournament at Mohegan Sun Arena.

"It's not going to be the last time we're going to see each other," Derosier said. "I'm hoping to see them at Mohegan Sun. We're competitors. That's what we want."

Killingly is next scheduled to travel to Tourtelotte Memorial on Friday, Jan. 31, with tipoff set for 7 p.m. at Canty Gymnasium. Coach Derosier said now that Killingly has qualified for the state tourney it will concentrate on keeping a ranking necessary to play host to a Class MM state game. Through games played on Tuesday, Jan. 28, Killingly was ranked No. 6 in Class MM. If Killingly retains that ranking at season's end it will play host to a state game — and should it win in the first round it would also host a second-round state game. Derosier said her players are working hard to host states.

"I would love for that to happen for those girls," Derosier said. "They're pumped up for it. They're eager to play and they're eager to win."

Killingly boys driving toward postseason

DAYVILLE — For the past few years Killingly High has made a habit of waiting until the last few games of the season before making a desperate attempt to qualify for the state tournament. Last season they came up empty — falling one victory short of the required eight wins needed to guarantee a berth in the state tourney. Killingly defeated Putnam High on Jan. 22 for its sixth win and coach Jim Crabtree hoped they don't torture him again by procrastinating.

"I'm hoping to have eight wins within two weeks and then I'm looking for 12, 13, 14 wins — that's what my goal is," Crabtree said.

Perhaps Killingly High will make its coach happy and qualify for the Division IV state tourney sooner rather than later. Killingly defeated Putnam High 68-47 on Jan. 22 to lift its record to 6-5. Eight wins are required to guarantee a berth in the state tournament and Crabtree said his players are certainly capable of achieving that victory total.

Crabtree said Killingly has to win the games it is supposed to win on paper if it wants to qualify for the postseason. On paper, Crabtree said Division IV Killingly should be able to beat a smaller school in terms of student enrollment, like Division V Putnam High. Killingly led the Clippers 33-25 at halftime and outscored Putnam High 21-9 in the third quarter to take a commanding 54-34 cushion into the fourth quarter.

you've got to come out and prove it and lay the hammer down," Crabtree said. "We were happy to be up by eight (at halftime). We really didn't play that good in the beginning but the third quarter showed that they were focused and they did what they had to do."

Junior forward Colby Livingston led Putnam with 16 points. The loss against Killingly dropped Putnam High's record to 4-6. Putnam is scheduled to play host to Plainfield High on Tuesday, Feb. 4, with tipoff scheduled for 7 p.m. at Putnam High School's gymnasium.

Senior guard Shayne Bigelow led Killingly with a game high 23 points. Senior forward Ethan Preston had 14 points and 13 rebounds, and freshman forward Yianni Baribeau notched 13 points and grabbed eight rebounds for Killingly. Killingly is next scheduled to play on Friday, Jan. 31, at Plainfield High with the game set to start at 7 p.m.

Ellis Tech girls in hunt for tourney berth

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

DANIELSON — Ellis Tech's drive for a berth in the state tournament took an off ramp in a 37-29 loss to Goodwin Tech on Tuesday night but coach John Murdock said his Golden Eagles are still in the driver's seat if his team can stay focused down the home stretch.

"I told them we've got to have short term memory. No team's going to play dead for us," Murdock said. "That one hurts right now. I hope they have that chip on their shoulder. We're going to need to give our all down the stretch if we're going to be making the tourney — which I hope we do."

The loss to the Gladiators on Jan. 28 dropped Ellis Tech's record to 4-9. With seven games remaining in the regular season, Ellis Tech must win four of seven to gain the required eight victories needed to guarantee a berth in the state tourney.

Ellis Tech senior forward Kalista Lovely said a state tourney berth is still attainable. This is her last season playing high school basketball and she's focused on making the tourney but said it will take a team effort.

"Moving the ball around more and just moving in general — we're kind of stagnant right now. We're looking better than we were last year but we're kind of like standing still, not moving much," Lovely said.

Lovely expects better play down the stretch and hoped that results in a state tourney berth.

"Definitely, we just have to like work on our ball movement. And like when we don't have the ball, are off-ball movement, setting screens and stuff," Lovely said.

Lovely said one of the keys will be playing under control and staying in the moment.

"We kind of get too anxious about it and then like our team just like over-thinks everything," Lovely said.

Positive thinking might go a long way on solving some of the problems.

"Just focusing on the game and like what we can improve instead of focusing in on what we did wrong," Lovely said.

The Golden Eagles will have to finish games better than they did against the Gladiators if they want to make a run for the state tournament. Ellis Tech trailed Goodwin Tech 24-22 after three quarters but the Gladiators outscored the Golden Eagles 13-5 in the fourth quarter.

"Between the shots we were missing from close, and then our free throws, we were missing all those, that makes it really tough to win down the stretch," Murdoch said. "This one is a game where we needed to make our free throws and we needed to make our layups. And we missed a lot of two-footers, you're not going to win many basketball games missing those," Murdoch said.

With the win Goodwin Tech lifted its record to 7-7. Ericka Aponte and Abby Alamo each scored 11 points to lead the Gladiators. Ellis Tech's Vivianna St. Jean scored a game-high 13 points against the Gladiators and Lovely finished with seven points. The Golden Eagles (4-9) are next scheduled to play host to Cheney Tech on Friday, Jan. 31, with tipoff scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at Ellis Tech's gymnasium. Despite taking an off ramp on Tuesday night against Goodwin Tech, coach Murdock expects Ellis Tech to get back on the road to states this Friday night.

"Right now they are really stung by this loss. So I know Friday they're going to come out to play and I think you're going to see a whole different team out there," Murdock said.

Killingly makes turnaround against Lyman Memorial

THOMPSON — Tourtellotte Memorial’s youthful forwards got knocked around a bit in the first go-round against Lyman

Memorial back on Dec. 28. Perhaps the Tigers revamped roster wasn’t battle tested when it faced the Bulldogs in the last week of December when Lyman Memorial eked out a 29-25 win. But the rematch on Tuesday night was a different story and coach Carla Faucher hoped the 36-23 victory over the Bulldogs opened a new chapter for her Tigers.

“I think we controlled the boards a lot better. We’ve been struggling, letting the other team come in and get their offensive rebounds,” Faucher said. “We’ve been stressing it since day one, more so in the last two weeks. Tonight, things just clicked.”

Freshman forward Hailey Johnson and sophomore forward Zeynep Acun are among the first-year starters on the varsity who have improved over the course of the season. Johnson tallied seven points and grabbed seven rebounds against Lyman Memorial and Acun scored 10 points and hauled down 14 rebounds.

“Zeynep played phenomenal down low, was really a force, controlling the boards, holding the ball high,” Faucher said. “Things are starting to fall together. When one does something good it builds the confidence for the others. And now they’re believing and trusting in each other. And that makes the team chemistry so much better.”

The win over Lyman Memorial at Cauty Gymnasium on Jan. 28 lifted Tourtellotte’s record is 3-12. The Tigers only have five games left in the regular season but coach Faucher hoped they can finish the season on a roll. Among Tourtellotte’s opponents in the final five games are Killingly, Plainfield, and Griswold.

“Killingly’s going to be tough. I know Killingly and Plainfield are going to be very tough games. We know we can play with Griswold. I know we can play with St. Bernard. If we can continue with this confidence, play with the confidence against Killingly on Friday — win or lose — keep the confidence going, and believe in ourselves — that’s going to prepare us for the other winnable games,” Faucher said.

Senior guard Ashley Morin led the Tigers against Lyman Memorial, finishing with a game-high 15 points, with two assists and two steals.

“She really commanded the floor tonight. She really saw things and that helped the other kids,” said Faucher of Morin.

With the loss to Tourtellotte, Lyman Memorial’s record fell to 5-8. Callie Franchi led the Bulldogs with 12 points. Tourtellotte (3-12) is next scheduled to play host to Killingly High on Friday, Jan. 31, with tipoff scheduled for 7 p.m. at Tourtellotte Memorial’s Cauty Gymnasium.

better watch for us. We're ready to play. We had fun tonight."

Putnam High coach Mandi Hogan said Lyons was in control against Killingly.

"Kayleigh was a huge factor in the game. They shut her down last game and she had to work really hard for her points today. She got open just enough to make those points," Hogan said.

Putnam junior center Abby St. Martin tallied 10 points in the win over Killingly and virtually negated the effort of Killingly's leading scorer, senior forward Trinity Angel — who finished with 12 points. Coach Hogan said the Clippers did a good job of defending Angel.

"Trinity's an awesome player. She's so athletic. She's got a heck of a jumper and she can take it to the basket. We have to focus on her, try to shut her down a little bit. Swarm in the paint a little bit and then try to recover out to the guards," Hogan said.

Putnam High junior guard Alex Hutchins added nine points. Hutchins, a mid-season transfer from Putnam Science Academy, gives the Clippers another viable scorer. Putnam seems poised to finish strongly down the home stretch of the season. And when the regular season concludes coach Hogan said it's possible Putnam and Killingly could meet again in the ECC tournament.

"We might be able to see them in a rubber match down the stretch in the playoffs," Hogan said.

The Clippers are next scheduled to play host to Griswold High on Friday, Jan. 31, with tipoff scheduled for 6 p.m. at Putnam High School's gymnasium. With the win over Killingly, coach Hogan hoped the Clippers could keep the momentum going as they head toward the postseason.

"We're just checking things off the list as we go. We just take one day in practice, one day a game, we have a tough stretch coming up — next two weeks we're still on the road — we're going to play some big, big, teams. This was a great confidence boost for them. I keep telling them that the first time we played (Killingly) they just didn't have a good game. They weren't 20 points better than us," Hogan said. "They worked hard and they proved it tonight. We can hang with anyone."

Nancy D. Brown, 78

Nancy "Susie" D. Brown, 78, of Woodstock, CT passed away peacefully on Wednesday, January 22, 2020 at Westview Health Care Center in Dayville, CT succumbing to complications associated with a rare vascular disorder, Hereditary Hemorrhagic Telangiectasia (HHT) and congestive heart failure.

Nancy was born in Benton Harbor, Michigan, on 14 June 1943, and grew up in nearby St. Joseph, Michigan. A nature and wildlife lover, Nancy took the opportunity in her youth to play and explore the outdoors at Stockbridge – her family's farm and horseback riding school. Growing up around horses, she was a natural equestrian, spending time helping at the stables doing everything from teaching riding lessons to taking care of the horses. Her students, family, and friends all knew her by Susie while at Stockbridge Farm.

Nancy eventually left Michigan to attend high school at Sanford School in Hockessin, Delaware. After graduating in 1963, she pursued her passion for horseback riding, and subsequently enrolled in the Potomac Horse Center in Potomac, Maryland. She excelled and was invited to try out for the 1968 Summer Olympics Equestrian Show Jumping Team. Although she didn't go to the Olympics, she earned her Horse Mastership Certification in 1967, and became an accomplished horseback riding instructor, licensed to teach in Massachusetts, and Connecticut, where she eventually settled. Nancy taught lessons but devoted herself to taking care of her three children.

Nancy was also a life-long lover of dogs, and later in life, owned her beloved Newfoundlands, including her dear Belle, Ellie, and Sterling. She became involved in the Newfoundland Club of New England where she proudly worked with her dogs, and with the help of others, getting them certified in water rescue and draft work.

In the last ten years, Nancy's pride and joy were her two grandchildren, Nora and Liam. She enjoyed spending time with them and hosting sleepovers too.

A loving mother and grandmother, Nancy was also a friend to many. Nancy was very proud of the accomplishments of all of her children and grandchildren. She was predeceased by her mother, Caroline Witte (nee Hoffmann), father, Bradford Brown and her brother, Gordon Brown. She is survived by her daughter, Abigail C. Miller (nee Carreno), son-in-law, Rick Miller, granddaughter, Nora Miller, and grandson, Liam Miller of Spencer, MA; her son, Hunter Carreno of Woodstock, CT; and her son, Justin T. SOME CHANGES ARE HARD, BUT AT LEAST
YOUR WINDOWS EASY.

The most hassle-free home improvement project you'll ever have. You won't have to deal with a manufacturer or chase down an installer. We manage the entire process—from building to installation to the warranty—on our windows and doors.

Andersen is the window that every homeowner wants. Renewal by Andersen is the full-service replacement window division of Andersen, and our window is engineered to save you money on your energy bills and make your home more comfortable.

29,946 other Southern New England homeowners have trusted us. That means we understand the window and door problems in this area. And our installers are true craftsmen who will completely and thoroughly clean up after your upgrade is complete.

We won't try to "sell" you on vinyl. Poor-quality vinyl windows can discolor, leak and warp just a few years after they're installed, so we refuse to sell them. Our window's Fibrex® composite material is twice as strong as vinyl.
