Community adopts proactive stance toward coronavirus

BY JASON BLEAU

DEBDLEY-CHARLTON—As the coronavirus pandemic becomes a more prevalent issue, locally the Dudley Charlton Regional School District was one of the first entities impaired by the national health emergency.

It all started Monday, March 9, when Superintendent Peter Lamarche learned of a parent in the district who was being tested for COVID-19, also known as the novel coronavirus. Lamarche released a notice to parents and citizens indicating that the parent has been given permission to send her kids to school and that, at the time of the notice, the student did not test positive.

“In the late morning, we learned of a Charlton parent who is getting tested for COVID-19,” Superintend-ent Matthew Gagner said. “We did not feel well and went to Urgent Care. Urgent Care is contacted by DOH [Department of Health]. The doctor then said that the Urgent Care doctor advised them that it was okay for them to send their students to school today at the Charlton Middle School and the Heritage School. Upon learning this, we of course made sure of any of the health practises being advertised by the CDC and other agencies on a Turn To... Coronavirus page A2.

Bay State Savings Bank donates $1,200 to Mustard Seed

WORCESTER — Bay State Savings Bank donated over $1,200 to Worcester soup kitchen Mustard Seed Catholic Worker. The organization, which offers food and shelter to local homeless, will use the funds for supplies to meet the heightened demand for food and clothing, as well as other operating costs. The funds raised were also in support of a capital campaign by Family Health Center of Worcester, an organization which trains workers to work in health care and offers assistance in need of medical care. “We are so grateful for this achievement,” said Mike Beaver, codirector of the Seeds’ Providence Street location in Worcester. “How happy we are to have the good folks at Bay State Savings Bank with us. Their help and new initiatives have been undertaken by the Catholic Worker Community to better serve the many guests who come to us for refuge.”

national scale which include 20-second hand wash- ing, avoiding large groups and keeping a six-foot buffer between individuals, an act coined “social distancing” by officials. “At this point, the state is allowing the local health boards to try and determine the best course of action. It’s a bit about in the role of public health and safety and you have to balance that proac- tive approach because if you’re not proactive and you let it get out there that’s a different ballgame and nothing happens then, it may actually make matters worse. You need to be on the side of caution,” said Gagné.

Overdose tracking and response program implemented in Worcester County

WORKSBURG — Police departments in all of Worcester County’s cities and towns will begin tracking overdoses in real-time today thanks to a new program implemented by a partnership between District Attorney Joseph D. Early Jr., the Central Massachusetts Chiefs of Police, local hospitals and medical providers, Sheriff Lew Evangelidis and recovery community partners.

Central Massachusetts Critical Incident Management System (CIMS) allows law enforcement to collect overdose data and make it available in real-time to all police departments in the county. The information is then used to help identify those with substance use disorder who are most at risk and offer treatment.

CIMS was developed by Kelley Research Associates in partnership with law enforcement and the District Attorney’s office in Plymouth County. After implementing the program in 2017, Plymouth County had a 26 percent reduction in overdose deaths in 2018. CIMS is in use or being implemented in Bristol, Essex, Middlesex and Norfolk counties, as well.

The District Attorney’s office purchased the software for $8,080 using drug forfeiture funds.

“I am proud that we are bringing the CIMS program in Worcester County,” said Early. “This program provides critical and effective insights in Plymouth and we hope to see the same success here. It is a model to partner with so many who are helping to address this deadly disease. We are stepping out of our silos to use a model proven effective in another part of our state. It is exciting.”

Central Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association President and Fitchburg Police Chief Lyn F. Martineau has worked to get all of the departments in Worcester County signed up to use the program.

“Critical Incident Management Systems have shown to make substantial gains with providing hope for those suffering with addiction,” said Chief Martineau. “Positive reductions to overdoses have been reported in Plymouth County and that same technology is soon to be a reality in Worcester County. CIMS will break down the silos and allow law enforcement to effectively and collaboratively respond.”

CIMS was developed by police for police. Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis has also agreed to partner on this program for identifying those reentering the community who may be at a high risk for overdose.

RE: Relay

at a college comes with its own complications when compared to a traditional “Relay.” I think it is a bit tougher for a college atmosphere because you have to take into consideration what everyone likes and everything else that goes on around campus. Having to adapt to it at a college community can be a little tricky. We had it on a Friday last year and realized that didn’t go as much as we thought it would last year so we decided to change it to a Saturday.

The 2020 edition of the event included an incoming class event, a raffle and a relay run. The raffle included sports-themed prizes such as jerseys and tickets to local sporting events, all-day activities, raffles and musical acts and prizes at the indoor gym of the college rather than the outdoor track. While the 2020 event didn’t garner as many participants as the 2018 event, Lowry still called it a great success that has helped contribute terms of thousands of dollars to the college.

“We’ve raised just around $50,000 for the past five years. We have both teams and individuals and around a hundred people signed up this year. We had around 150 last year so the participation has been pretty consistent,” Lowry said.

The goal of Relay Against Cancer is to continue to grow in the coming years and become a larger tradition for the college and students. Upperclassmen as well as the nursing students have said they really enjoy the event and look forward to it each year.

“Relay is a great opportunity for the students to partake in a raffle including sports-themed prizes and more,” said Chief Martineau.

Early spring preparation for a beautiful summer garden

When pruning, start by removing the damaged and discarded stems of trees and roses and wear heavy duty gloves to keep your hands healthy. Always prune with a purpose.

Early spring is a good time to move perennials, annuals, or even shrubs or trees. Be sure to water the plants thoroughly and keep them well watered until they become established.

Additional grooming may be needed to manage the size and shape or improve flowering and fruit color. Waiting in the long green of seed for a great summer flowering show will give you all that and more. Prune these perennials before they set their flowers for next spring.

Early spring is also a good time to start working at age and color. If your gardening tasks were done in the fall, it will be a great time to get started on them now.

Age 13

Marissa is an energetic girl of Caucasian descent. Marissa enjoys playing tennis and running. She is a member of her school’s track team. Marissa also enjoys music. Marissa loves to have her hair and nails done. Marissa has a bright and healthy future. She has fantasies of marrying one of the top one of the school kids in Shrewsbury.

Marissa is legally free for adoption. She will thrive in a home where she is the only child. Marissa would be a good match for a family that has experience working with children in age. She will need a family that can provide her with attention and patience. Marissa shares a close relationship with her grandmother. She would be able to continue to see each other at least monthly. The best family for Marissa would be a local family that is able to visit her as a part of her visitation. We reccommend a family that lives nearby the foster home.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the legal, social and financial stability that a child needs? If you’re at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your home, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from care requires training, interest, and assessment. Parents must be able to show that they are able to help connect you and a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 1-877-627-6723 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have a "permanent place to call home."

A Time for Hope, Not Hoarding

Life as we know it is changing—least for the near future, only temporarily as the coronavirus designated COVID-19 has no cure and it must be contained. Prior to the closure of schools, restaurants, bars, and retail stores, even the most resilient of us were gathering with more than 10 people in a single room.

The next Democratic Presidential primary in March has been canceled. California Governor Newsom is now asking us to avoid more than 10 people in a single room. Could a mandatory two-week quarantine be implemented or mandated for those with symptoms? In the midst of all this uncertainty, panic is setting in. Shelves are empty, with canned goods, milk, and paper products hot commodities. Some stores have even been forced to implement a quota on how much a person can purchase.

Panic shopping is a natural response in the face of a virus, but all of these actions are things we need to step back and realize that as a result, prices growing and much-needed supplies out of reach for those of us with limited access to these necessary supplies. And there has been a creation in a situation in which medical supplies are scarce, as hospitals on the front lines of the crisis, such as the protection of health care workers and the general public. Additionally, this is a time for calmness, not crazed behavior.

This is a time for calmness, not crazed behavior. To live with the fear of panic is nothing new in our national history-attacks of Sept. 11, 2001 generated a panic, as for me, it is one of the things that made me more familiar with a commensurate feeling of being more prepared to take the steps to get through the shock and fear.

We understand the fear that underlies the ‘grab everything you can while you can’ mentality that has spread this outbreak, but overwhelming the overriding concern is the danger we must get through this is not helping anyone. This is a time for calmness.

Just one example we recently encountered is the creation of this unecessary hoarding behavior in connection with stockpiling toilet paper. In fact, we are seeing this same behavior in the grocery stores and cubicles. We may be importing this behavior onto our local grocery stores and cubicles. We are not alone in this, as all across the nation the shelves are empty, as hospitals on the front lines of the crisis are experiencing a shortage of medical supplies.

In the midst of all this uncertainty, panic is setting in. Shelves are empty, with canned goods, milk, and paper products hot commodities. Some stores have even been forced to implement a quota on how much a person can purchase.

New England Youth Tackle Football comes to Quaboag area

BY KEN POWERS

WEST BROOKFIELD — The effects of the pandemic created by the outbreak of the coronavirus are evident in fall sports, as a result, spring football is headed to town.

New England Youth Tackle Football (NEYTF), a seven-team spring league that began playing games in 2019 in Lynn, has added an eighth team, the Quaboag Panthers, who will practice and play games at Callahan/Landers Field on Lebrae Avenue.

The program began practicing on Monday, March 9, but workouts were suspended after the second practice (Wednesday, March 11) due to health concerns related to the coronavirus. Practices are tentatively scheduled to resume on Monday, March 23, and a league-wide jamboree is scheduled for the end of March.

The NEYTF is open to boys and girls age 6-14. There are four divisions of competition: six-, seven- and eight-year-olds play in the 6U division, 9- and 10-year-olds play in the 8U division, 11- and 12-year-olds play in the 10U division, and 13- and 14-year-olds play in the 12U division.

The general manager of the Quaboag Panthers, who will field teams in all four divisions, is Maurice Payne, Payne is a fixture in Quaboag Youth Football circles, having been affiliated with the program since 1996. Payne is also coach of the 14U team.

“I started the Quaboag Youth Football program back in 1996,” said Payne, who grew up in Richmond, Va. “I used to surf the internet one night, and play football started the same way, too.”

“I raised the money to start the program myself,” Payne continued. “My in-line skate company in West Brookfield donated in-line skates to the program and we sold them to raise money to start the team. I ended up raising $60,000 in the first two months. Then I got skates donated to the Belchertown team. I was part of the team for six years and we raised $50,000 for our team selling the in-line skates. I got Quabbin Youth team I was a part of for six years and got skates donated to the Belchertown team. I invited me up to Lynn to talk to them about the league. We talked and he ended up inviting me to join the league.”

“Interest in the program just blew up,” Payne said. “We have close to 300 kids in the program. They’re coming from everywhere; Belchertown, North Brookfield, Warren, Spencer, Sutton, Leominster, Sturbridge, Charlton, Barre, Springfield, Chicopee, Holyoke, Belchertown, Palmer, Mendon and Worcester.”

“Parents interested in joining the program can sign up any five girls who want to play the sport of tackle football.”

There are seven teams currently in the NEYTF including three in Lynn — the Sin City Steelers, the Silverbacks and the Outlaws — as well as the Boston Devils, the Merriam Valley Rhinos, the Devils, the Ocean State (R.I.) Ducks, and the Manchester (N.H.) Wood Gang.

Payne said there are still openings for kids interested in playing on the 6U and 12U teams. Roberts said the interest was so great for the 14U and 14U teams that the league has created a waiting list for those divisions.

The cost to join the league is $28, which includes a $20 registration fee and $8 for a game jersey that the kids get to keep.

Parents interested in joining the NEYTF need to sign their son or daughter up through sportspages.org. Roberts said the league’s experience, high school, college/university attending, and a signature. Please mail to: Charlton Youth Basketball, PO Box 421, Charlton, MA 01507.

breathing, seek medical care early: Stay protected the people around you from spreading the virus if you cough or sneeze. Following good respiratory hygiene you can reduce the chances of the COVID-19 virus if the person coughing or sneezing has the disease.

Avoid touching eyes, nose and mouth. Hands touch many surfaces, and can pick up viruses that may have been deposited elsewhere on that surface. Touching your eyes, nose or mouth with contaminated hands can transfer the virus to your BBH.

Practicing respiratory hygiene: Make sure you and the people around you, follow good respiratory hygiene. This means covering your mouth and nose with your bent elbow or tissue when you cough or sneeze. Then dispose of the used tissue immediately.

Why? Droplets spread virus. By following good respiratory hygiene you protect the people around you from viruses such as cold, flu and COVID-19.

If you have fever, cough and difficulty breathing, seek medical care early: Stay home if you feel unwell. If you have a fever, cough and difficulty breathing, seek medical attention and call in advance. Follow the directions of your local health authority.

Here are a few tips to battle the common cold and the flu season:

- Vitamin C: It is well established that vitamin C has been used for generations. The "Health Benefits of Vitamin C" suggests gallic acid from orange juice can kill the viruses that cause cold and flu. The book introduces on conjugating the drops. Crush some garlic to obtain juice, and add ten parts water and mix well. Apply as you would regular nose drops.

According to a home remedy, if you place a piece of garlic on each side of the mouth between the back teeth, a cold will disappear within a day. It's worth a try!

- Some Native Americans tribes treat colds with sage and honey. To do: Boil eight to ten cups of water with two teaspoons dried, edible sage and one teaspoon dried peppermint. Steep. Strain, sweeten with honey if desired. Sip up to three cups a day.

- One of peppermint's claims to fame is that it can alleviate the chills and a fever, cough and difficulty breathing. Seek medical attention and call in advance. Follow the directions of your local health authority.

- Be sure to wash your hands frequently with soap and water.
- Cover all coughs and sneezes with a tissue, then dispose of the tissue in the trash.
- Practice respiratory hygiene: Make sure you and the people around you, follow good respiratory hygiene. This means covering your mouth and nose with your bent elbow or tissue when you cough or sneeze. Then dispose of the used tissue immediately.

When it can be smart to hire a painting pro

Few things can revitalize a home more readily than a fresh coat of paint. Thanks in part to the affordability of paint and its ease of application, painting is something that even novice DIYers can typically handle. According to the market-advising guru Brendan Gaille, it is estimated that residential interior paint only lasts around three years before it needs to be updated. Exterior finishes can last around four to six years. This may seem like a short amount of time, but professionals understand that painting is something that needs to be updated to keep that to various environmental factors. As a result, many homes can likely use a fresh coat of paint in at least one room. As DIY-friendly as painting can be, when attempting to paint the interior or exterior of their homes, homeowners may learn that some painting projects are best left to the professionals. Professional painters require skill, patience, and an understanding of how various paints — including finishes for particular applications — will hold up. Novice painters may do more harm than good by drippng paint on expensive carpeting or floors or failing to recognize the signs that indicate a spot-on painting job. Professional painters have spent hours upon hours learning the ropes of what works and what does not. Painters often understand that painstaking preparatory work is crucial to getting pristine finished results. Walls and ceilings must be properly repaired and prepped before they have a base coat is applied. Professional painters also have an eye for painting over to a pro. Navigating exterior areas or tall interior walls can be challenging and may require scissor-lifts or tall ladders DIYers do not have. Risk of falls or other injuries increase with lack of experience. Painting can give a home a facelift, and often times it is smart to turn the work over to professionals to ensure the job is done just right. Painting can save money by painting their own homes, that’s not necessarily true. Professionals already have all the equipment necessary, unlike novice-who may need to make repeated and potentially costly trips to the hardware store for supplies. DIYers have to spend additional time and money fixing them. Additional time and money fixing them. DIYers have to spend additional time and money fixing them. Professionals already have all the equipment they may need to make repeated and potentially costly trips to the hardware store for supplies. DIYers also have an eye for improving efficiency. House powerwashing tips

Powerwashing the exterior of the home can be an effective way to remove grime without causing any damage. Work using a horizontal and slightly downward angle to avoid gouging wood or concrete. Powerwashing the back of the wood can cause boards to fail, instead, opt for an extension wand to avoid the upper reaches of a home.

A powerwashing a home is an effective way to remove stubborn grime and refresh the look of a home’s exterior.

How to protect wood floors from inclement weather

Wood floors are a worthwhile investment that can improve the beauty and function of just about any room in a home. Even though wood floors are durable, and new protective treatments help keep and care out of many of the things that may have damaged floors in the past, homeowners still need to prioritize protecting their hardwood floors.

Certain extremes of the year can move more harsh on wood floors and shoes. For example, seasons characterized by low moisture and precipitation, and beautiful, humid, and hot summers can be hard on wood floors. The experts at Servicemaster Clean say that during the mid-summer months, many days can damage wood floors, and Summer Bites agree wood floors can be harsh on floors.

Homeowners need not give up on hardwood if they live in an area that sees all four seasons. They just need to take a few steps to keep floors looking beautiful.

Clean up the salt. Salt that keeps sidewalks and streets clear of snow and ice inconsistently gets trapped inside a home, which could cause damage to wood floors, and, if left to sit, that salt can eventually cause expensive damage to wood. Use a detergent solution.

Control humidity indoors. Cold, dry air can be problematic, and they could lead to warping or buckling wood floors. The solution is to keep a moderate amount of humidity indoors.

Avoid excessive water to clean wood floors. This is typically a range of between 60 and 40 percent humidity, which has a key ratio of the liquid content in the wood and its moisture content. Too much water can cause the wood to swell, and, if left to sit, that water might be used by people or pets to drink, which could cause falls. Instead, opt for a detergent solution, which will not remove wood.

Instead, opt for a detergent solution, which will not remove wood.

Clean up the salt. Salt that keeps sidewalks and streets clear of snow and ice inconsistently gets trapped inside a home, which could cause damage to wood floors, and, if left to sit, that salt can eventually cause expensive damage to wood. Use a detergent solution.

Control humidity indoors. Cold, dry air can be problematic, and they could lead to warping or buckling wood floors. The solution is to keep a moderate amount of humidity indoors.

Avoid excessive water to clean wood floors. This is typically a range of between 60 and 40 percent humidity, which has a key ratio of the liquid content in the wood and its moisture content. Too much water can cause the wood to swell, and, if left to sit, that water might be used by people or pets to drink, which could cause falls. Instead, opt for a detergent solution, which will not remove wood.
