Senate approves amendments for public safety and state land

BOSTON — The Massachusetts State Senate voted favorably on a $41.49 billion budget for Fiscal Year 2019, and included several amendments filed by State Senator Ryan C. Fattman (R-Sutton). The amendments included $100,000 for Douglas to purchase an emergency public safety vehicle, and evaluates state funding for Douglas State Forest.

The first amendment related to Wallum Lake and state owned land in Douglas would re-evaluate how funding is dispersed for the land in-lieu of taxes also known as PILOT funding. Revenue dedicated to Douglas has decreased even though state land ownership has increased in recent years.

The second amendment would increase the fee for out-of-state visitors to the park, and the money dedicated to the Douglas State Forest Maintenance Trust Fund. Additional highlights from the budget include $4.91 billion for the Chapter 70 education formula, the highest level ever recorded in the Senate. This funding allows for a minimum aid increase of $30 per pupil for every school district across the Commonwealth and 100% effort reduction to bring all school districts to their target local contribution.

The budget also continues to phase in the Foundation Budget Review Commission recommendations to more adequately fund school districts and ensure high quality education for all students. Those recommendations include increasing Special Education Circuit breaker reimbursement to $319.3 million in order to fully fund the state's commitment, and an additional $100 million to reimburse school districts for costs incurred when students leave to attend charter schools.

"The senate budget increases funding for critical priorities such as local aid, special education, and regional school transpiration. It's critical that the legislature is fully funding commitments made to our cities and towns," said Fattman.

Free vessel safety check offered at Manchaug Pond

MANCHAUG POND FOUNDATION AND A GREEN BAY SAIL & POWER SQUADRON VOLUNTEER HELP BOATERS STAY SAFE

MANCHAUG POND — With boating season under way, the Manchaug Pond Foundation is sponsoring a free vessel safety check for all interested boaters at the state boat ramp on Manchaug Pond, Saturday, June 9 between 9 a.m. and noon, Torrey Road in Sutton. This is a no-cost, no-risk, courtesy inspection offered to all interested boaters of all ages. All types of vessels are eligible from paddleboards and pedal boats, to sail, kayaks and canoes, to personal watercraft and power boats.

Qualified vessel examiner Jim Arpin of the Greenwich Bay Sail & Power Squadron will help you make your vessel safe and legal. Did you know a kayak, canoe, or pedal boat needs a whistle or horn? Or that any boat with a motor must be registered with the numbers displayed on the hull? Do you have life jackets for all on board? Jim will walk you through the rules and regulations for your vessel, point out both the required and recommended items to have aboard, such as fire extinguishers, life jackets, distress signals, and first aid kits, and also help provide a better understanding on the care and use of this critical equipment. If you are ever stopped by law enforcement, the vessel safety check program can help prevent citations by ensuring your boat meets federal, state and local safety equipment requirements, such as the proper display of registration numbers and documentation. The examiner will also check for any basic mechanical problems, make sure registration and documentation are current, and offer information on a variety of boating safety issues.

The VSC is performed free of charge and without any penalties or legal obligations with the intent of educating and promoting safety. If a potential problem or violation is discovered, the Examiner will give the boater options and information for correcting it. You will NOT be boarded by a law enforcement official and no citations will be given at this event. It only takes a few minutes and is for your benefit and safety. It is a great

Waldo on a jaunt

Waldo goes on walkabout: a real where's Waldo?

BY ERICA CHICK
TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENT

On Tuesday, May 22nd, the Dickinson family's peacock adventure began. Their peacock always came home to roost, but on this particular day, he decided to wander across the street.

He hasn't been home since. Geoff Dickinson joked that they should rename their small homestead "Walkabout Farm" because their animals tend to walkabout. Their donkeys, goats, chickens, and now their peacock, have all walked about and wandered away to check out their neighbors' yards. They always get their animals back, well, until now.

Their first phone call came on Thursday from Landry Lane, Uxbridge. There they met Kevin Sullivan the Animal Control Officer for Uxbridge, as well as a couple of other neighboring towns. Sullivan ultimately let the Dickinson family borrow his enormous net in hopes that they'd be able to catch the bird with it.

Their second

call came from Chamberlain Road. There, Geoff's wife, Paige Dickinson, and their two children, met a lovely woman. The peacock was hanging out in her yard and did so for a couple days. The gentleman across the street came over with a blanket to throw over the bird. It really was a neighborhood effort.

Meanwhile, on Facebook, several of comments were posted daily with peacock sightings and curiosities. Everyone was rooting for the Dickinson family to get their peacock home safely.

Each morning Paige awakens to a phone call from the Uxbridge Police Department, who have truly been kind-spirited about the whole adventure, letting her know that someone called in about the peacock and his morning wake-up calls. Try to liken it to a rooster crowing. The whole family jumps up out of bed, gets dressed, and heads over to the first sighting of the day. From then on, they've had several calls per day. Some days they've spent hours trying to capture their finicky fowl.

Unfortunately, there is little that they can do if the bird isn't in a contained area. He is able to fly, so when they get near he simply jumps up and flies out of reach. Also unfortunately, they are unable to leave all their obligations for each phone call. They hastily dropped everything one morning and left. While they were gone, three of their chickens were taken by a coyote.

On Friday, Paige was on her way to a post-partum visit in Rhode Island. Paige has been a home birth midwife for 17 years. It was 90° and had decided to go to the beach with her children afterwards. A citizen of Uxbridge asked for her number in case he was able to find or catch the bird. She had to put her family and client first and said, "Don't call me...I'm going to the beach."

They had met a lovely woman on

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: How should I pay for my new car or truck?

The RIGHT answer: There are three ways to pay for your vehicle. They are to pay cash, finance the balance or lease the automobile. Each method has its pros and cons.

If you pay cash, you have the knowledge that you own your car outright. You could, in theory, cut back on insurance and you will not pay interest as you would with the other two methods. The downside of paying cash is that you are spending a large part of your liquid assets and potentially losing investment potential. The other thing is if your car gets totaled and you did cut back on your insurance you are out all that money.

If you finance, you will have a budgeted monthly payment and won't need to spend all your hard-earned cash. In fact, with today's low interest rate options, in some cases as low as 0%, it may make more sense to finance your car. You also have options with the financing that can help to protect the value of the car. Consider GAP protection to protect against a total loss. Ask us for more details on how this works. Of course, the downside of financing is that in most cases you will pay interest. Because today's cars are rather expensive many customers take on longer term notes increasing the interest expense and leaving them still owing money when they want to trade in for another. This leads us to leasing.

If you lease a car you usually get a lower monthly payment. You will also get GAP protection (at least with Ford Motor Credit Leases) at no charge and your term will be shorter allowing you to seamlessly get a new car in just a few years as your needs change. Downsides to leasing are the excess mileage or wear and tear concerns. Let us tailor a lease to your needs to help avoid these concerns.

At Place Motor we will discuss with you your situation and offer you your choices, so you can make the RIGHT choice for you. You'll experience why Place Motor is the RIGHT Place since 1923.

Movie memorabilia is also making auction news. Over 2,000 pieces of movie memorabilia are heading to the auction block according to the Columbus Dispatch. A 1991 Harley Davidson Fat Boy motorcycle from the 1991 film “Terminator 2: Judgment Day” will also be included in the auction. worn by Johnny Weissmuller in the 1932 “Tarzan” film are also among the offerings.

The Chicago Tribune reports that the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum foundation is deaccessioning and auctioning non-Lincoln related objects to repay a loan. The museum previously secured a $23 million loan to acquire over 1,000 items from a private collection. The loan made it possible for the museum to purchase a stovepipe hat that belonged to Lincoln and the gloves that Lincoln wore when he was assassinated. A black wool dress worn by Marilyn Monroe is one of the items that will be sold by the museum. It is estimated to fetch between $40,000 and $60,000 at auction.

Richardson Street. She was kind enough to alert all of her relatives about the missing peacock, as her relatives live on Richardson Street as well. On Saturday, the Dickinsons met the Michaelsons on the north side of town. They talked while trying to catch the bird. They made a great connection and returned later for a cookout together.

“The best thing about this whole peacock situation are the people we’re meeting. We’ve met more people this past week than we have in the year and a half that we’ve lived here,” said Paige.

On Facebook, Paige posted, “If you catch him we’ll buy you dinner!”

But, she wants to note that she does not want anyone to put themselves in harm’s way.

Her oldest child ran through the woods the other day while chasing the peacock. He is now covered in poison ivy. The important thing is that people stay safe.

On Sunday, the peacock was reported by several people by Crown and Eagle. He was at a couple of homes on Rogerson Crossing, walked down the street to the Crown and Eagle parking lot, visited a few more homes, and finally roosted at the home of Alicia Courneyor. On Monday, he made his way to William Ward Street, Linwood Avenue, and then back over to the Crown and Eagle area where he roosted about 50 or so feet up in a tree.

The We Are Uniquely Uxbridge Facebook page has been buzzing with sightings, songs, poems, and memes... all about this peacock. This beautiful bird has brought a lot of positive, hilarious conversation to the group. Paige Dickinson even started a Facebook page for the bird, aptly named Waldo Peacock. For those still furrowing their brows at that one...it’s a play on “Where’s Waldo”. Many suggestions have been made regarding how to safely capture him. Hopefully he’ll make it back home soon.

Appraisal Concerns

When we put our home up for sale, we tend to worry most about marketing the home properly to get a buyer and then making sure we get through the home inspection process without having to make any large repairs or having a sale fall apart due to the needed repairs scaring off the buyer. You can take care of the marketing piece by hiring an agent with a proven track record of selling homes in your area. You can also get a pre-inspection on your home with a licensed home inspector and make all the necessary repairs that came up as to not have surprises later on. You still have one hurdle that has become a bigger concern as of late with almost every home selling above list price with multiple offers.

If you have your home in pristine condition and all these repairs were done, a buyer in our current market will be willing to pay a premium to get that perfect house. However, the bank appraiser needs to typically show homes that bracket your home as in one home is priced higher because it is superior and one is priced lower because it is inferior. You will want to ensure that you or your agent supply the appraiser with a list of all the big improvements you have made recently that will impact value, this way the appraiser can make adjustments to justify the higher market price. Not every improvement will be noted so your agent should be able to help highlight just the items that add value. You will also want to arm yourself with information about all the comparable homes in the neighborhood so you can share information about condition and setup of those homes which may not be readily available to the appraiser and what makes them inferior to your home so it makes the appraisers job easier coming up with the proper value for your home. Keep in mind you are not persuading the appraiser to come up with an inflated value for your home, but providing information that will help them come up with market value which may or may not be the price you are hoping for. This appraisal is just the appraisers professional opinion which can differ greatly from another appraisers professional opinion.

You never want to discount the importance of the appraisal process. Certain types of financing will also require the condition of the home to meet certain standards. The standards in condition these appraisers are looking at but the interpretation can be different from one appraiser to the next. I have had appraisals take 10 minutes or an hour depending on the appraiser and type of loan the buyer is getting. The longer appraisal is due to that appraiser interpretation of how thorough their inspection of the property is. Some loans require there is no peeling paint as well as all other safety concerns are required to be addressed. Most loans require flooring in all rooms and the appraiser to give an opinion on age of roof and its expected lifespan.

Some banks and loans require all utilities to be activated and working while others don't so this will be important to know before the appraiser visits the home. These are all items that are there to protect the banks investment in the home because if the buyer is putting down 3% of the purchase price then the bank is giving 97% and wants to protect their investment. If you have peeling paint, safety issues, or other condition issues it will help ensure you have no appraisal issues but it will also help sell the home quicker. I suggest having your Realtor come over and make these suggestions before you jump into the repairs to ensure you are making the repairs that will cause the appraised price to rise and raise no flags due to condition of the home.

Friday's Child

Hi! My name is Dasanee and I am a talented singer and dancer!

Dasanee is an athletic ten-year-old girl of African American descent. She is initially quiet upon first meeting her, but once Dasanee feels comfortable she warms up and can be very friendly. Dasanee has good manners and she likes to be helpful. Some of her favorite activities include listening to music, singing, dancing, swimming and going to the local arcade. She also loves to spend time outside. Dasanee is currently a fourth grade student. Through school, Dasanee is involved in Chorus, intramural sports, and she plays the trumpet.

Dasanee is legally freed for adoption and ready to find her forever family! Dasanee would benefit from living in a two-parent household where the parents provided her with structure and clear expectations. Dasanee hopes her future family will have pets and other children in the home. An active family would be ideal as Dasanee enjoys being active and getting out of the house frequently. Any interested family should be open to maintaining Dasanee's connections with her brother, aunt and cousin whom she visits with regularly

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

Students present at NASA student research symposium

Students from Northbridge High School teamed up with Northbridge Middle School students to perform cloud observations and research as part of the NASA GLOBE program. GLOBE, Global Learning and Observations to Benefit the Environment, is an international program that works in collaboration with U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and is supported by the National Science Foundation (NSF), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), and the Department of State. This program provides students with the opportunity to become citizen scientists and work alongside other students around the world collecting data to help supply information for environmental research. The students were led by NASA GLOBE certified teachers James

Gorman, NHS science teacher, and Christine Cote, technology integration specialist, as well as Elizabeth Wermuth, NMS STEM teacher. Outside consultant, Larisa Schelkin a NASA partner from Global STEM Classroom, provided valuable input and guidance throughout the process. Each student research team was a mix of high school students mentoring the middle school students. The research teams generated their own investigation questions and conducted field studies and research on cloud formations. Some of the topics chosen by the students were Rapid Scat and how the International Space Station uses tools to help study weather and storms; the effects of phytoplankton on clouds in the region of Antarctica; bee behavior and the effects of cloud coverage; and, causes of rare and unusual cloud formations. The collaboration culminated on May 4th and 5th when students traveled to Buffalo, New York to present their research posters at the 2018 NASA GLOBE Northeast/Mid-Atlantic (U.S.) Regional Student Research Symposium. Before a team of specialists reviewed the student work, students participated in a very productive peer review process. Besides appearing at the symposium, the students visited Niagara Falls and attended a Buffalo Bisons baseball game where they were chosen as the “lucky fans” of the game! Northbridge students participating in the symposium included: Devon Foster, Kloie Thomason, Peter Greenan, Jed Wermuth, Dylan Marra, Jenna Malone, Joseph Hehir, Nikaully Hernandez, Annalise McDonald, Aidan Roy, Jenny Wagenhoffer, and Hannah Lisak.

UHS Students of the Month

Erin: She can cheer up a whole room with her smile and sparkling personality. Compassionate, independent and eager to learn, Erin Hynes has been chosen as one of April’s students of the month. Erin has a strong work ethic; putting in hours of hard work, perseverance and determination. She strives to be the best in all her classes. Erin is always willing to help other classmates. In today’s world, it is very difficult to juggle academics, sports, extracurricular activities and family, but Erin does all of this and still maintains a positive, encouraging attitude. Erin is a member of the National Honor Society at Uxbridge High School. Erin’s interests extend beyond the classroom. Voted as captain of the field hockey team, her passion for the game and leadership skills, are highly respected by her peers, staff and administration. Whether its organizations such as Best Buddies, Camp Sunshine or ALS, she is always lending a helping hand wherever she can in order to positively impact the community around her. Erin is also a key part of the Holiday party at UHS, which families donate new toys to the Adopt an Angel program in town. Extremely eager, humble and compassionate are a few words used to describe one of our April students of the month. Holden: Holden Thiebault is always challenging himself inside the classroom. He is an ardent student and does well in challenging courses. Holden asks good questions, values

Holden Thiebault

what he learns and applies that knowledge appropriately to the classroom. The transcript Holden has built is only a snapshot to the hard work and dedication he has set forth once he stepped into UHS as a freshman. He continues to challenge himself, and is proud of how he has grown individually from a quiet, shy freshman to an outgoing energetic senior who has been able to manage all of his athletic and academic commitments. He continues to involve himself in numerous community service opportunities. Holden serves on Student Council, and plays on the baseball and basketball teams for school and helps run clinics for young children. He has volunteered his time out in the community by cleaning local parks and cemeteries, and has participated in many fundraising events.

June First... is it
summer yet?

We had the official, unofficial start of summer last weekend with the three day holiday. Many families did indeed get out into the yards, break out the grills, perhaps do a road trip (though with the price of gas those are pretty close to home...) and convince themselves yes, summer is here.

But most of the kids are still in school for a few more weeks, the result of bad days during the winter, and let's face it, the weather has not been cooperating to usher in those lazy, hazy, days.

Cold rain, temperatures dipping overnight, while we have had a day here or there that felt as if we could leave the house without a jacket; most days we grabbed something, just in case.

We actually cranked up the car heater the other night on the way home, it was that cold.

True, we suspect July and August will get those temperatures up there, but June? Meh.

But back to the gas prices.

Why?

Just...why?

What has changed in the world that has raised those costs and made them soar?

Who is controlling those barrels?

We haven't seen a reliable explanation yet. The crude is available, the refineries are working. Shipping is on time.

Is someone just gleaning a big old profit somewhere?

Is there a shortage looming no one is admitting?

We remember the '70s, and gas lines, because there really WAS a shortage. It miraculously righted itself (We say with a jaundiced prejudice, because we imagine the shortage was engineered to begin with).

And isn't it most interesting these prices rise just when Americans plan to travel? Like for summer trips?

Do these increases affect the costs associated with airline travel and what about shipping costs for the fleets of trucking companies? Aren't these costs now being passed on to consumers?

Chickens and eggs people, chickens and eggs.

See, someone decided long before now (just like the colors of furnishings and clothing and cars are decided years in advance) just when certain economic realities will happen. They don't always go as planned, but there is planning involved. And it usually involves someone, somewhere, with an eye on a better profit margin.

So do some research. And then start complaining to the right people. The local gas station isn't it; they have to charge pretty much what they are demanded to by those higher on the food chain. So go up the food chain.

Because trust us when we say, just like drug companies don't want to cure disease (that would stop the sale of drugs cold), oil companies and utilities don't want to see anything but increasing profits...ever.

Tips to grow an RX garden

For centuries plants have been grown for medicine, and in modern times "medicinal" herbs such as lavender, garlic and chamomile have long been familiar sights in a backyard plot. With the current focus on natural remedies, gardeners are seeking out the healing varieties of plants and herbs – and expanding their gardens to plant specifically to treat common maladies. Whether you want to halt a headache or boost your brain power, chances are the solution is as easy as plucking a plant from your backyard garden (or windowsill).

The following roster of remedies highlights some familiar plants and their medicinal uses.

Note: Information is offered for general interest only and should not be taken as health advice. Contact your physician before ingesting or applying any herbs or plants.

Headache

Clematis: This flower has been known to work wonders on migraine headaches. Simply chew the petals or steep them into a tea.

Feverfew: Use the leaves and flowers of this medicinal herb for teas; chew leaves to ease headache pain (including migraines). It's also been shown to provide relief for arthritis, and skin conditions.

Insomnia

Lemon Balm promotes sleep as it acts as a very mild sedative. It is also helpful in treating stress and nervous headaches. To make a fresh lemon balm tea: steep one teaspoon of fresh leaves in one cup of boiling water. Steep covered for ten minutes. Strain and enjoy.

Chamomile: A common garden herb, chamomile is a muscle relaxer that has mild sedating properties. Chamomile tea has long been used to relieve stress and promote sleep. It is also used to treat anxiety in sufferers young and old.

*Please keep in mind those who have allergies to ragweed, chrysanthemums or asters, should not use chamomile.

Anxiety

Lavender: Want to relax? Plant lavender. The scent of lavender prompts calmness. Studies report that the smell of lavender triggers alpha waves in the part of the brain associated with a relaxed state.

Lemon Balm: Lemon Balm made into a tea is a relaxing tea that reduces restlessness, anxiety and irritability. And it's also used to treat anxiety that causes digestive problems.

Skullcap: Is an anti-anxiety herb with few side effects, Skullcap helps calm the "worrier" who has racing thoughts and constant fret. This herb is useful for all types of anxiety but has also been hailed as an aid for stress caused by hormonal imbalances in women.

Digestion

Dill: The dill plant, long used as a natural cure for baby colic, is an herb that's known for its ability to aid digestion. Brewing as a tea or simply chewing on several seeds after eating can help natural digestion and prevent tummy troubles. For tea, crush dill seed and add a tablespoon to a cup of boiling water.

Lemon verbena: An herbal tea aids digestion and helps calm intestinal cramps and gas pains.

Peppermint: For a tummy soothing tea, pour boiling water over freshly picked peppermint leaves and add a teaspoon of honey for flavor.

Lemon Balm: A tea made from lemon balm relieves abdominal pains and cramps.

Detoxing Agent

Cilantro: Eaten fresh (as in a salad or steamed), the tasty herb binds to toxic metals that accumulate in the organs, aiding the body in disposing of them.

Pansies: The flowers with the "faces" have been touted as a valuable detoxifying. Pansies grown without pesticides can be enjoyed in their natural state, simply washed and tossed in a salad or cold drink.

Garlic: Fresh garlic contains compounds that help flush heavy metals out of the body.

Anti-Inflammatory

Marigolds: Marigolds have anti-inflammatory properties also aid in treating minor cuts and abrasions. Marigolds are also used to soothe and heal such skin ailments as burns and acne. Simply make a poultice from the flowers and apply to the area to be treated.

Pansies: Pansies act as an anti-inflammatory. The flowers may be made into a healthful tincture or tea.

Brain Boosters

Lemon Balm: Taken as a tea, Lemon Balm is hailed as an herb that sharpens the mind and improves mental performance and memory.

Rosemary: The tasty spice herb has long been used as a remedy for age related memory loss.

Sage: Two university studies showed that those given sage performed better in a word recall test. Experiments also revealed sage can boost the same brain chemicals that decrease with Alzheimer's disease.

What should you look for in an annual financial review?

ANTONOPoulos

Given the complexities of the investment world, you might consider working with a financial professional to help you move toward your goals, such as a comfortable retirement. You'll want to establish good communication with whomever you choose, and you should meet in person at least once a year to discuss your situation. At these annual reviews, you'll want to cover a variety of topics, including these:

Your portfolio's progress – Obviously, you will want to discuss how well your investments are doing. Of course, you can follow their performance from month to month, or even day to day, by reviewing your investment statements and online information, but at your annual meeting, your financial professional can sum up the past year's results, highlight areas that have done well or lagged, and show you how closely your portfolio is tracking the results you need to achieve your long-term goals.

Your investment mix – Your mix of investments – stocks, bonds, government securities and so on – helps determine your success as an investor. But in looking at the various investments in your portfolio, you'll want to go beyond individual gains and losses to see if your overall mix is still appropriate for your needs. For example, is the ratio of stocks to bonds still suitable for your risk tolerance? Over time, and sometimes without you taking any action, this ratio can shift, as often happens when stocks appreciate so much that they now take up a larger percentage of your portfolio than you intended – with a correspondingly higher risk level. If these unexpected movements occur, your financial professional may recommend you rebalance your portfolio to align it more closely with your goals and risk tolerance.

Changes in your family situation – A lot can happen in a single year. You could have gotten married, divorced or remarried, added a child to your family or moved to a new, more expensive house – the list can go on and on. And some, if not all, of these moves could certainly involve your financial and investment pictures, so it's important to discuss them with your financial professional.

Changes in your goals – Since your last annual review, you may have decided to change some of your long-term goals. Perhaps you no longer want to retire early, or you've ruled out that vacation home. In any case, these choices may well affect your investment strategies, so it's wise to discuss them.

Changes in the investment environment – Generally speaking, it's a good idea to establish a long-term investment strategy based on your individual goals, risk tolerance and time horizon, and stick with this basic strategy regardless of the movements of the financial markets or changes in the economy. Still, this doesn't mean you should never adjust your portfolio in response to external forces. For instance, if interest rates were to rise steadily over a year's time, you might want to consider some changes to your fixed-income investments, such as bonds, whose value will be affected by rising rates. In any case, it's another thing to talk about during your annual review.

These aren't the only elements you may want to bring up in your yearly review with your financial professional – but they can prove to be quite helpful as you chart your course toward the future.

Warren delivers keynote address at QCC

Senator Elizabeth Warren delivered the keynote address to Quinsigamond Community College's largest graduating class in the college's history on Friday, May 18 at the DCU Center. Dr. Luis Pedraja awarded 1,686 degrees and certificates in his first commencement as the college's sixth president.

"We are so proud of the amazing accomplishments of our upcoming graduates," Dr. Pedraja said. "This is such a monumental time for QCC. By continuing to make in-roads within the communities we serve, we are fostering relationships that increase higher education access for all people, particularly those who have historically been under-served. Education is an economic driver and an investment in our future. It is one that will repay us two and threefold."

Today the college boasts 13,000 full and part-time day, evening and online students and over 120 associate degree and certificate career options. QCC's Center for Workforce Development and Continuing Education offers customized workforce training programs to members of the business community. More than 92 percent of QCC graduates stay in central Massachusetts upon graduating, helping to build a robust workforce within the region.

Guidance News
On Thursday, April 26th, the Holy Name Guidance Department sponsored a College Application Reader Review presentation for our Sophomore class. Kate Diamond from the University of Le Moyne and Tyler Tucky from University of Dayton were our presenters. The purpose of this event was to demonstrate to the students the process colleges use to determine an applicant's eligibility for admission to a college or university. The Admission Representatives discussed the importance of a solid academic transcript; preferably one that shows steady or upward progress in grades throughout high school, and shared with the students the importance of participation in extracurricular activities such as sports and clubs, employment and or volunteer experiences on the application. The Reps stressed the significance of writing a College Application Essay that truly reflects the student, as opposed to an event or another individual, and highlighted to our students that they should take their time completing the application, making it as thorough as possible. Lastly, the students were given the chance to review 5 mock applications with direction to "accept" 2 of the 5 students to a fictional university. Ms. Diamond and Mr. Tucky each shared which of the 2 students they would have accepted to either Le Moyne or University of Dayton and how they made that decision.

Fishing, late start with cold weather, on a wild roll

Fishing exploded on all fronts last week. Striper fishing has been great for most anglers in both Massachusetts & Rhode Island waters. A report from Snug Harbor of wall to wall stripers this past Memorial Day weekend was good news. Although there were many undersize fish the keepers were mixed in and getting better every day. Al reported one of the largest population of school stripers in the bay in years. Squid had moved in large numbers which has accounted for the arrival of numerous species of fish. Fluke were starting to become more abundant with an eight pounder being weighed in a couple of days before Memorial Day. Tautog fishing has also heated up in Rhode Island waters last week. A report on cod fishing was the only bad news. Fishing was very poor to say the least!!! A report from Archie's Bait & Tackle in Riverside Rhode Island also stated that schools of small stripers were everywhere, with numerous large stripers mixed in. Porgies were also in the river and should be loaded by the time you read this column. If you wanted to catch a big striper the Providence River is the place to go now!!! Also huge scup are being caught, which is unusual for the area. Mass anglers on the Cape have a similar report. This week's picture shows a female angler last year with a nice striper. Hopefully this was you with a similar fish this past week. Send along a photo to this writer at oldsalt_65 @ msn.com. Haddock fishing on the Cape has been nothing but fantastic. One local angler fishing off of a six pack charter had no problem catching his limit of haddock and many well exceed the size limit. They later moved and tried fishing for pollock but came up short. Captain John boats are also providing their anglers with limits of haddock. Freshwater anglers fishing for trout continue to catch limits of trout on numerous fishing trips. Mass Fish & Wildlife will cease most trout stocking, but some fish could be available for stocking at some locations in the state. Be sure to check them out on their website. Local anglers are starting to catch some impressive largemouth bass in local waters. All other fishing on freshwater has improved. My brother Ken and his son Mark made a trip to the Quabbin Res last week. I had not received a report prior to this week's deadline. Hope everyone had a safe and happy holiday weekend. It was all made possible by our veterans and those now in the military protecting our country. A big thank you to all.

MWCC graduates join nursing profession in traditional ceremony

GARDNER – Family and friends came together to celebrate the achievements of Mount Wachusett Community College's associate degree nursing class during a traditional pinning ceremony held May 17. "You are going to forth from here and you're going to save lives," MWCC President James Vander Hooven told the gathered graduates. The 45th graduating class was made up of 103 students enrolled in the day and evening programs and included LPNs who returned to continue their education through the college's Bridge to Nursing program. Dressed in traditional nurse uniforms, the students were welcomed into the profession by having the program's nursing pin fastened to their lapels by a family member, friend, or an alumnus of the program, or a faculty member. The pin marks where the nurses completed their studies and distinguishes them from other health care professionals. The eight-star MWCC pin is imprinted with the words "Service to Humanity and the World." As part of the ceremony, the students also took a nursing pledge that dates back to Florence Nightingale, who distinguished herself during the Crimean War by coming to the aid of sick and wounded soldiers. The graduates included: North Grosvenordale Amanda King; Ashburnham: Genevieve David and Sybil Sinclair; Baldwinville: Leanne Gauthier; Dudley: Laurie Guerin, Mikeala Kozlowski; East Templeton: Mary White; Milford: Tracy Webster; Northbridge: Kaila Chase; Phillipston: Summer Moulton; Sturbridge: Melissa Denham; Templeton: Shelby Arseneau, Jaclyn Cartee, Lindsey Hastings, Kelsey Vaillancourt; Winchendon: Ashley Garceau, Dawn Storer; Rindge: Elie LeMieux and Danica Sauvola.

MWCC students recognized for hours of volunteer service

GARDNER – On Tuesday evening, 261 students were recognized for giving back more than 125,000 hours of volunteerism efforts that Mount Wachusett Community College estimates are equivalent to a $2.5-$3 million value. "When you think about the collective impact, it's more than just a number. Imagine if all of this just stopped tomorrow," said Shelley Errington-Nicholson, director of the Senator Stephen M. Brewer Center for Civic Learning and Community Engagement, reflecting on the event. "This community would look very different if our students and their clubs weren't committed to volunteering year after year, if our faculty weren't committed to offering service learning as part of the academic experience. This is a lasting impact because, by and large, our students grow up in these cities and towns and they're going to stay here," she said. "I'm in awe of you because I know you were too busy to volunteer," President James Vander Hooven told students on May 15. "You had to go to work, or take care of your family, or study for an exam, and yet you figured out a way to carve out some time to help others." "Changing the world - even for one person or for one day - is very important and very special," said Senator Stephen Brewer. "It all starts with you." Terri Alden of Orange was awarded the Hillary Bartlett Newsome Service Learning Scholarship in memory of Hillary Bartlett's spirit of giving back to the community. Bartlett was a 2009 graduate of the Mount's Early Childhood Transfer program who passed away unexpectedly in 2017. Professor Emerita Maryann Kane of the Early Childhood Education department received the Faculty Civic Engagement Award.

"Maryann, thank you is not sufficient for your years of dedicated to service inspiring generations of new teachers," said Errington-Nicholson. Sybil Sinclair of Ashburnham was awarded the Service Learning Scholarship. The Above and Beyond Award was presented to the Student Nurses Association, which conducted a year-long awareness campaign to train students and community members in hands only CPR in addition to collecting 232 pounds of food donations for the campus food pantry. Clear Path for Veterans New England was recognized as the Community Partner of the Year for its holistic approach to helping returning vets and for offering a site for service learning students in both marketing and nursing. In addition to their volunteer efforts, some students were recognized for additional volunteer-based work. These students were Student Leaders in Civic Engagement, Laryssa Truesdale and Tammy Goodgion. Goodgion put forth the largest effort by a graduating student this year with 358 hours of service. The SOS (Serving Our Students) interns for the year Cristen Comptois, Marie Ewing, Tammy Goodgion, Elise Hamblett, Sybil Sinclair, Laryssa Truesdale, Jacob VanHillo, and Jacquelyn Vokey were also recognized. Cristen Comptois was also honored for being selected as the school's 2018 Newnan Civic Fellow award winner. The local students who were honored for their volunteer efforts were: Dudley: Laurie Guerin, Mikeala Kozlowski; Northbridge: Kaila Chase; Spencer: Linda Maher; Mary Remillard; Sturbridge: Melissa Denham; Webster: Gerrienne Owens, Erika Valentin; North Grosvenordale: Amanda King

Rams rally to beat Bartlett, put prior loss behind heading into postseason

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — On Thursday, May 24, less than 24 hours after suffering an epic collapse against Auburn High, the Northbridge High varsity baseball team exacted a measure of revenge for that loss against Bartlett High, overcoming a 5-1 deficit to defeat the Indians, 10-5.

With the win the Rams finished the regular season 11-9 and advance to the Central Mass. Tournament for the 26th consecutive year.

On Wednesday, May 23, Northbridge was one out away from defeating Auburn, leading by three runs with two outs in the top of seventh inning. The Rockets rallied, however, to tie the game and then defeat the Rams in extra innings.

“We definitely started off pretty slow, kind of a little hangover from [Wednesday], but we came alive when it mattered,” Northbridge first-year head coach Jake Ryan said. “As long as we keep playing this way and keep the intensity up we’ll be fine. Yesterday definitely hurt, stung a little bit, but it was good to see them bounce back today. It gives us some momentum heading into the tournament.”

The Rams jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning when senior Timmy Haverty smashed a one-out triple to right field and then scored on a groundout by sophomore Jake Stuczynski.

In the bottom of the inning, however, Bartlett (5-12) scored all of its runs to take a 5-1 lead. Big hits in the inning were delivered by senior Justin Daab, who belted a three-run double, and sophomore Nate Blythe and senior Corey Harrington, who both smacked RBI singles.

Between the second and third innings Ryan lifted starting pitcher Corey Hazzard, replacing him with Stuczynski. It was just the spark the Rams were looking for, as Stuczynski pitched the rest of the way, not allowing a hit or a run while striking out four and walking three.

“Jake gave us a huge lift,” Ryan said. “He’s been good most of the year. He had a couple of tough outings earlier in the year when his arm was bothering him a little bit. I’m trying to ease him back into it. He’s great for us when he is healthy. He looked really again today, which is a great sign.”

Northbridge scored four runs in the top of the fourth inning to tie the game, 5-5. With one out junior Matt Remillard cut the deficit to three, 5-2, when he singled to left, advanced to second on a passed ball, took third on a wild pitch and then scored on another wild pitch.

With two outs Stuczynski walked and then motored to third on a single by freshman Jonathan Cray. Stuczynski and Cray both scored — to cut the Bartlett lead to 5-4 — on a triple by senior Sam Gallagher. Gallagher then scored on an RBI single by sophomore Caleb Visbeck to tie the game, 5-5.

In the top of the seventh inning it looked like the Rams would go quietly, the first two batters making quick outs. Northbridge, however, then proceeded to score five runs, the big blows being a two-run double by Haverty — to put the Rams ahead for good, 7-5 — and an RBI double by Stuczynski.

“That was huge,” Ryan said of Haverty’s seventh inning double. “That was an example of a senior captain coming up and getting a big hit in a crucial moment. We haven’t done that a lot this year; we haven’t been able to get the big hit. In that situation we definitely did. That was huge.”

Northbridge had the clutch hits in its seventh inning, game-winning rally, but the Rams were helped by four Bartlett errors and none of the runs were earned.

“You look at that game in the third and fourth inning and that’s one that we should put away,” Bartlett head coach Jon Way said. “The story of the season is we haven’t put together seven consecutive solid innings. We always have that one inning where things happened. Unfortunately it happened again; we let them right back in it. And then we didn’t make the plays down the stretch. We could have gotten out of the seventh without allowing a run.

“We got two quick outs and then we there was a routine groundball that we should have converted, but we didn’t,” Way continued. “And that’s OK. That’s high school baseball. Are you supposed to make that play? Absolutely. But you can’t expect these guys to make every single play. However, you got to make the next one. And unfortunately we didn’t do that and one error turned into two and then three, and eventually four, and the game got out of hand at the end for us.”

Some of its focus has been on improving the facility itself and it has done a great deal over the years to do so. Local businesses and members of the community have been very generous supporting these fundraising efforts.

The great organizational skills of the three amigos, DiBattista, Petrillo and Rosborough are aided by the Board of Directors of the Uxbridge Elderly Connection including Linda Roberts, Amy DiBattista, Jeanne Daley, Jack Daley, Cathy Thornton, Donna Oncay and Dot Derby. ## Morganelli launches Spartans past Douglas with late-game triple

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

UXBRIDGE — In a regular season game with a postseason feel, Uxbridge High's Aly Morganelli broke a scoreless tie in the bottom of the sixth inning with an RBI triple that helped lead the Spartans' varsity softball team past Douglas High, 2-0, on Friday, May 25 at Whitin Intermediate School.

After Sam Dumais led off the inning with her second single of the game, Morganelli, Uxbridge's senior leftfielder, jumped all over the first pitch she saw from Tigers' pitcher Maddy Fluke and drilled it into the gap in right-center, scoring Dumais with the game's first run.

"She threw me an outside fastball, which is what I guessed I would be getting because she started me off on all three of my at-bats with that pitch," Morganelli said. "When I made contact I was just hoping it would get through. I was just looking for a base hit. It felt like it was going to be a base hit when I made contact, but I didn't think it would go as far as it did."

Morganelli pushed the Spartans' lead to 2-0, scoring from third when the next batter, Ashley Dube, grounded out to Tigers' shortstop Emily Curley.

"Aly hit a shot; what a big hit that was for us. She opened it up," said Uxbridge head coach Russ Wise. "Aly just got ahead of one. She found the gap between right and center and we scored Sam on the play. Aly came up with the big hit at the right time."

Morganelli and Dumais led the Spartans with two hits each, while Morgan McCarty, Erika Dube and Melissa Silva each singled in the game.

The game's other main story — aside from Morganelli's booming triple — was the pitching of Uxbridge sophomore Syd Norberg. Norberg allowed seven hits — only one of which went for extra bases — while striking out five and walking one. She kept Douglas off balance all game with pitches that were plenty fast, but just not as fast as the Tigers are used to seeing.

"Sydney throws a little slower than what we're used to, but her ball moves well," Douglas head coach John Furno said. "She's a good pitcher. We had trouble waiting on her pitches. We were out on our front foot all game. I kept stressing patience between innings, but when you're coming into this game and facing this pitcher after playing a game against a team like Millbury, where they really fire it in there, it's tough to reset your timing."

Morganelli said she's happy to be on Norberg's team

because that means she doesn't have to face her.

"Syd is tough; she's a fighter out there, always battling," Morganelli said. "She's really good. Her fastball, even though it's slower, is pretty good and her changeup is nasty."

Douglas certainly had chances to score, leaving eight runners on base — including six in scoring position.

"We had some scoring opportunities, we just couldn't capitalize on those opportunities," Furno said. "We played small ball, but we just couldn't get that base hit we needed to get them home. We just didn't hit the ball today."

Douglas' best chance to score came in the top of the sixth inning.

Brynn Hurley and Fluke (who was 3 for 3) opened the sixth with singles to center and left, respectively. Norberg wriggled out of trouble, however, by getting Curley to pop out to second base, Alexa Gresian to strike out and Cassidy Dunleavy to fly out to center field.

Fluke was her usual dominant self against Uxbridge. In addition to her three singles at the plate, she only allowed seven hits when she was in the pitching circle and she struck out six and walked just one batter.

"That kid is just brilliant out there on the mound. She knows to throw inside, out, up, down; whatever it takes. She's great for us offensively as well. She got up three times and she got three hits. She's just incredible," Furno said of Fluke. "This was a tough loss to a good Uxbridge team. It was a great game, back and forth. It just wasn't our day today. Russ is a great coach and he's got a great team. Hats off to them; the better team won today.

"But we're not done," Furno said. "We've got two more regular season games and, going into the postseason, I still love our chances."

Douglas is 15-3 and, after the final two games — to take place after press time — the Tigers will embark on the Central Mass. Division 2 tournament. Uxbridge finished its regular season at 13-7 and will play its postseason softball in the Central Mass. Division 3 tournament.

The various ways going green saves consumers money

Many people adopt eco-friendly practices in an effort to protect and preserve the planet. But going green can be as good for adults’ pocketbooks as it is for the planet.

People who start making concerted efforts to go green are often surprised to learn the myriad ways they are suddenly saving money. While finances might not be the primary motivator that compels people to start living more eco-friendly lifestyles, recognizing the many ways that going green can save consumers money might be just what people need to keep them on track in their efforts to help the planet.

ON THE ROAD

Drivers who alter their driving habits can save money in various ways. Defensive driving has long been touted as the safest way to take to the road, but such an approach to driving also can be financially savvy. Drivers who do not frequently accelerate or stop suddenly can conserve fuel, saving them money at the filling station. In addition, following manufacturer-recommended maintenance guidelines can ensure all vehicle components are operating smoothly. That means the engine does not have to work as hard as it would if a vehicle was poorly maintained, thereby conserving fuel.

LIGHTING

Household lighting is another area where consumers can protect the planet and save money at the same time. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, Energy Star®-qualified LED lights consume just 20 to 25 percent of the energy used by incandescent bulbs, all the while lasting as much as 25 times longer than incandescents. That saves men and women money on their energy bills. While LED lights are more expensive to purchase than many of the alternatives, their long life expectancy means consumers can expect to see returns on that investment long before the bulbs are no longer functional.

Furnishing a home with antiques can protect the planet and may even save homeowners money.

FURNISHINGS

Another way to go green and save money is to forgo new furnishings for used furniture or antiques. Some antiques might prove more expensive than brand new items, but savvy shoppers can likely find older, less costly items for a fraction of the price of brand new furnishings. Buying used furniture or antiques reduces landfill waste and cuts back on manufacturing, packaging and transportation, each of which can take a toll on the planet. Consumers who need new furnishings for their homes also can look for products made of recycled materials, which reduces landfill waste, or items made from eco-friendly materials that grow quickly, thereby reducing the need for pesticides.

Going green is a commendable way to live and safeguard the planet. Adopting such a lifestyle also can be a great way to save money.

How drivers can make road trip season more eco-friendly

Many drivers anxiously await the arrival of spring, when they can rev their engines and enjoy the burgeoning greenescapes synonymous with the season. Though the colors of fall foliage might be more closely associated with road trips, many drivers enjoy the first few warm days of spring when they get a chance to hit the open road with their windows down for the first time in months.

Driving is not always the most eco-friendly activity. However, there are various ways to enjoy spring road trips without compromising the environment.

- Do not idle your vehicle. When engines are running but cars are not moving, this is referred to as “idling.” It’s hard to blame drivers for idling their vehicles in winter, when many motorists try to warm up their engines and their vehicles’ interiors so their morning commutes are as comfortable as possible. Idling cars might not be moving, but they are still burning fuel, meaning drivers who routinely idle their vehicles are adversely affecting fuel efficiency. It’s also important to note that idling is no longer necessary in modern vehicles. That’s because the electronic fuel injection systems in today’s cars require just a few seconds to get full oil pressure throughout the engine. Such systems were not present in older vehicles.
- Take it easy on the road. Road trips tend to be more enjoyable and are certainly safer when drivers take their time and don’t rush to their destination. And driving slowly happens to be more eco-friendly as well. According to the online automotive resource Edmunds.com, gently gaining speed is much more fuel-efficient than accelerating quickly. Always obey speed limits and avoid quickly accelerating when stoplights turn green.

- Empty the trunk. During winter, many drivers understandably carry some extra items in their trunk to account for inclement weather. Keeping ice scrapers, extra coolant or even a snow shovel in the trunk might make sense for drivers who live in regions that routinely encounter heavy snowfall. When spring arrives, drivers should remove any unnecessary items from their trunks. Such items will increase the weight of the vehicle, thereby reducing its fuel efficiency. Athletes and outdoors enthusiasts should also remove golf bags and sporting equipment from their trunks when taking trips where such items won’t be needed.
- Don’t top off at the gas pump. Many drivers, especially those on road trips who want to avoid extra tops at the filling station, top off their gas tanks when nozzles shut off automatically. Such a practice is harmful to the planet and may not be doing your vehicle any favors, either. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency notes gasoline needs some extra room in gas tanks to expand. Without that extra room, the gas may evaporate into the vehicle’s vapor collection system, adversely affecting emissions and potentially damaging the vehicle.
- Motorists can employ several simple strategies to make spring road trip season more eco-friendly.

Saving bees one hive at a time: The basics of backyard beehives

Scientists and environmentalists have been warning the public for years that honeybees are disappearing at alarming rates. Scientists were initially uncertain in regard to what was decimating bee populations. Even though no single cause is to blame, data has pointed to pesticide use and the mysterious colony collapse disorder, which is a name given to the dwindling colonies seen around the world.

National Geographic News says bees are essential because of their roles as pollinators. Agriculture industries rely on honeybees, especially managed honeybees, to keep commercial crops pollinated and productive. Estimates indicate that roughly one-third of U.S. crops rely on honeybees — accounting for more than $15 billion in crop production. Without bees, the costs of everything from blueberries to apples to broccoli would rise, as farmers would have to use a different, more expensive pollination method.

Even though backyard beehives or bee farms may not be crucial to consumer agriculture, bringing healthy colonies back to various areas is beneficial to the environment overall. The art of beekeeping has become an important endeavor, and just about anyone with some time and resources can start their own apiary.

- Start by studying bees. Interested beekeepers can begin their journey by reading all they can on beekeeping. The American Bee Journal or backyard beekeeping books and articles are great places to start. Local beekeeping associations also are invaluable resources for information on local bee species and traits.

- Know the laws. It’s important to get the go-ahead from local authorities before introducing bees into the community. By checking city or town ordinances, potential beekeepers will know how many hives are allowed and which type of property sizes are amenable and allowable.
- Get the right supplies. Research can help prospective beekeepers understand the type of equipment they will need. One can purchase this equipment, but some beekeeping organizations may be willing to lend or rent it to interested parties. Hive boxes, bottom boards, a veil, a jacket, a smoker, and a top feeder are just some of the supplies needed.
- Order bees. Bees can be acquired from other beekeeping enthusiasts or can be ordered online. The bees will need to consist of the queen, drones and worker bees. According to the resource Bees Brothers, a starter set of bees is called a “nuc.” Bee suppliers start selling in the winter for spring swarms.
- Place the hive. It’s important to set up hives away from foot traffic. In addition, face hives away from strong winds, with the ideal directions being east and south. Hives need sunshine and some shade on summer afternoons, advises BackYardHive.

With time, homeowners can become successful beekeepers and do their part to replenish much-needed bee colonies.

3 easy ways ordinary citizens can help the world's oceans every day

Superhero movies are as popular as ever. But one need not don a cape or hone a superpower to save the planet. In fact, the planet can benefit greatly if enough ordinary citizens simply take up the fight to protect the planet.

Rising carbon levels in the atmosphere have destabilized ecosystems across the globe, and the world's oceans are under attack. A 2014 report from the World Wildlife Fund noted that 39 percent of marine wildlife had disappeared in the 40 years preceding the report's release. In addition, the WWF notes that 27 percent of the world's coral reefs, which are home to one-fourth of all known marine fish species, have been lost. If the current rates of coral reef destruction continue, more than 60 percent of the reefs will be gone in the next three decades. And that depletion won't just affect scuba divers impressed by the stunning beauty of coral reefs, as the WWF notes that coral reef fisheries across the globe account for billions of dollars of revenue each year.

Saving the world's oceans and the marine life that call these oceans home may seem like a daunting task. However, ordinary citizens who may otherwise feel powerless in the face of climate change can do many things to help protect the world's oceans.

1. Cut back on energy consumption.
- Carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere are on the rise, and one source of that increase is the burning of fossil fuels to create heat and electricity. Automobiles also are responsible for the burning of fossil fuels. As carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere rise, so, too, do temperatures in the sea and sea levels. Rising sea temperatures and sea levels threaten the lives of many marine species. Men and women can reduce their daily energy consumption by taking public transportation to work, shutting lights off in their home when they leave a room and unplugging appliances when they aren't using them. Such efforts are simple, but when practiced on a wide scale by millions of men and women across the globe, their impact can be profound.
2. Stop relying on plastic.
- According to the Plastic Oceans® Foundation, more than eight million tons of plastic are dumped into the world's oceans every year, and estimates suggest that roughly 50 percent of plastic is used just once and thrown away. The dumping of plastic into the ocean poses a serious threat to both marine life and human beings. Plastic Oceans notes that 70 percent of the oxygen humans breathe is produced by marine plants, which are under attack as more and more plastic finds its way into the world's oceans. Men and women can do their part to cut back on the plastic finding its way into the oceans by relying more on reusable products, such as cloth grocery bags and reusable water bottles.

3. Get educated and spread the word.

One of the best ways to protect oceans today and in the future is to educate yourself and speak up about the problems facing marine life and their habitats. Though the problems facing the world's oceans are daunting and numerous, and threaten the way humans live their lives, they are not irreversible. Learning about these problems through organizations such as Plastic Oceans and the WWF and encouraging young people, who will be forced to confront ocean pollution and its effects in the decades to come, to follow suit can create a healthier future for humans and marine life alike.

These are just three ways ordinary citizens can take action and start reversing the damage done to the world's oceans over the last half century. More information can be found at www.wwf.panda.org and www.plasticoceans.org.

Go green when spending time outdoors this summer

The great outdoors beckons people year-round. But nature is especially enticing in summer, when warm weather compels people to leave their couches and soak up some sun.

Spending time outdoors is rewarding, and it can be even more so when men and women take steps to make their outdoor recreation as eco-friendly as possible. Whether it's choosing certain activities or taking other measures, there are various ways to go green when spending time outdoors this summer and beyond.

- Leave the car at home. Americans and Canadians consume more gasoline per capita than any people in the world. According to data from the U.S. Energy Information Administration and the United Nations, Americans consume 4.39 liters of gasoline per capita each day, while Canadians consume 3.62 liters per capita each day. In lieu of driving everywhere this summer, men and women who want to be more mindful of the environment can leave their cars home more frequently. Rather than driving the family to a nearby ice cream stand, walk or bike there instead. Run as many errands on foot or on a bicycle as possible. Walking or cycling is a great way to get some time outdoors on warm summer days, and reducing fuel consumption is an equally great way to help the planet.

- Embrace eco-friendly activities. Various activities, from organic gardening to planting trees to beach cleanups, provide a great way to get outdoors and help the planet at the same time. Men and women who grow their own vegetables can take solace knowing that the vegetables they're eating each night did not require the depletion of any natural resources to go from garden to table. Signing up for beach cleanups can prevent trash, including harmful plastics, from making its way into the world's oceans, and such cleanups provide a great excuse to go to the beach.

Outdoor enthusiasts can make their summers more rewarding by taking steps to be as eco-friendly as possible when spending time outdoors.

10 most collected items during worldwide coastal cleanup

According to Ocean Conservancy, an organization devoted to creating science-based solutions for healthy oceans and the wildlife and communities that depend on them, more than 18 million pounds of trash were collected from 112 countries during its 2016 International Coastal Cleanup. More than 13 million items, which included eight microwaves, 15 brooms, 56 toilets, and even one piano, were collected during the cleanup. The following are the 10 most collected items during the 2016 cleanup.

1. Cigarette butts: 1,863,868
2. Plastic beverage bottles: 1,578,834
3. Plastic bottle caps: 822,227
4. Food wrappers: 762,353
5. Plastic grocery bags: 520,900
6. Plastic lids: 419,380
7. Straws/stirrers: 409,087
8. Glass beverage bottles: 390,468
9. Other plastic bags: 368,655
10. Foam take-away containers: 365,584
