Board of Health cracking down on recycling errors

KIMBERLY MASCHI
NEWS CORRESPONDENT

The Auburn Board of Health/DDIS is asking residents to Recycle Smart. Too many items are being put into the recycling bins that do not belong there. Items like plastic bags, even though they are plastic cannot go into the recycling bin. Items that can tangle up machinery like hoses and wires cannot be included in the bins. Food or liquid residue should be washed out of all containers.

Containers that are allowed are bottles, jars, cans, jugs, and tubs. Any cardboard, except pieces that are tainted with food can be placed in the recycling bin.

When in doubt there is an easy way to learn if your item can be recycled or not. Simply go to recyclesmart.org, on the very first page is the

New pharmacy opens in Auburn

KIMBERLY MASCHI
NEWS CORRESPONDENT

Auburn Pharmacy & Home Health Care opens its doors to the public last Wednesday. Owner and Pharmacist, Vrushank Patel describes what sets this new pharmacy apart from others.

"Our goal is to bring independent business back," says Patel.

The new pharmacy has non-pharmacy vitamins, medical supplies such as wheel chairs, supports, braces, compression socks, and other products at "comparative prices" says Patel.

"We also carry local products like t-shirts and sweaters for Auburn and Auburn Rockets," says Patel.

Patel states that he likes to include local business items in the pharmacy. The store currently sells greeting cards made from a company from Cape Cod. This new store sells other items that can be sold at a regular convenience store such as candy, drinks, and more.

The pharmacy accepts all insurances, Patel states that what sets this pharmacy apart from others is their multi-dose packaging, free delivery, and the free consultation and private consulting room.

"We have immunizations available like the flu shot. Many do not want to do have this done in public, we have a private room where people can have privacy," says Patel. "We also provide free consultations where we take blood pressure and check glucose. We talk to the client about their medications and work with their doctors to make recommendations."

Fundraiser is barking good time

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

SPENCER – Local pets will be joining in this year's Halloween fun, as a first-time fundraiser will provide several spooky thrills and chills.

Organized by Second Chance Animal Services, the first annual Halloween Barktacular will take place on Saturday, Oct. 27, at Camp Marshall. Set for 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., the free event will include haunted hayrides, pony rides, dog games, a group walk, a scavenger hunt, a raffle, and dog massages.

Additionally, there will be plenty of specialized events for owners to share with their pets. These include painting with pets and trick-or-treating for kids and pets. All proceeds from the event will benefit services provided by SCAS.

"We are really excited about the event. We know that kids love animals, and we thought it was a great way for them to be able to have fun and help animals at the same time," said Lindsay Doray, who manages marketing and outreach efforts for SCAS.

As if the event isn't exciting enough already for kids and families, author Jonathan Hall will stop by with Toto the Tornado Kitten from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Hall will sign his book and share Toto's harrowing story of survival during the 2011 tornado that carved a path of destruction through several area towns. Children's book author Kimberly Palmucci will also be in attendance to discuss her book, Purr-fectly Lucky, which promotes the importance of adopting shelter pets and special needs pets.

Other programs on tap include CGC certifications by 4 Paws Academy, a Halloween contest, an indoor RC race-track, and live music throughout the day. For kids, a bouncy castle and an indoor fun zone with carnival games will provide unforgettable experiences. There will also be plenty of candy handed out, so make sure to bring your trick-or-treating buckets.

Guests of all ages – even four-legged friends – are encouraged to show off their costumes at the Halloween extravaganza. To cap off the event, local radio host Adam Webster, of 98.9 Nash Icon, will drop by for a guest appearance.

For event organizers, it is exciting to have a packed schedule of activities for kids and adults alike. SCAS runs several fundraising programs each year, but officials are always looking for creative ways to energize residents and bring new families on board.

The event is also a great way to teach kids about the importance of giving back, SCAS leaders said. By getting them involved in fundraising efforts from an early age, the goal is to build a foundation for lifelong volunteerism.

"We are hoping the event will be a success so that Second Chance can continue to help more pets in need and keep programs going," Doray added.

SCAS assists over 34,000 pets each year through adoption, low-cost spay/neuter programs, and subsidized veterinary care. Thanks to funds raised throughout the year, the organization is able to offer assistance to countless low-income pet owners.

Camp Marshall is located at 92 McCormick Road. To learn more about the event, visit www.secondchanceanimals.org and follow the link from the events page.

Purloined puppy gives politico pause

Two-month-old puppy Mickey was recently stolen from a local animal shelter. Thanks to the quick work of police, he was returned safely and the suspect was arrested.

EAST BROOKFIELD – A congressional hopeful spent last week in damage control mode after her son was arrested and charged with stealing a puppy from a local animal shelter.

Alexander Lovvorn, age 19, of Grafton, was arraigned on Oct. 10 on one count of larceny. Police say he stole a two-month-old lab mix puppy named Mickey from the Second Chance Animal Shelter in town.

Lovvorn is the son of Grafton's Tracy Lovvorn, a Republican congressional candidate who is challenging Congressman Jim McGovern for his 2nd Congressional District seat.

Police arrested Lovvorn on Oct. 9 after the shelter staff reported the puppy missing. Lovvorn initially entered the shelter with a young woman, police said, and the couple expressed interest in adopting a puppy. It was later determined that the couple used false names when signing in at the front desk, shelter officials said.

After the couple was informed that all puppies on site had already been adopted, the young woman allegedly asked if she could play with them. While staff members were tending to the other dogs, police say Lovvorn and the young woman walked out of the shelter with Mickey.

After staff members spotted the puppy in the couple's car, they recorded the license plate and called police. Authorities later tracked the vehicle to Lovvorn and made the arrest.

Lovvorn was released on personal recognizance and will return to court in December. As of press time, police were still attempting to identify the female

Car Buying Tips

People ask Place: Summer is over, what should I do to get my car or truck ready for Winter?

The Right Answer: As much as we hate to think about the cold and snow, it is coming, and our vehicles must be ready. To make sure your ride is ready here are a few things to check out. Make sure your tires are ready for the slippery roads. Check them for the proper type of tire. By this I mean you want to make sure your tires are rated as all season or winter tires. These types of tires will have tread designs and compounds that work best for the conditions. All season tires are made for a variety of conditions and adapt well to most people's needs. Winter tires tend to have a more aggressive tread and will provide a bit more traction in the worst weather. Make sure the tread depths are good and there is no abnormal wear. Replace them if needed

Check your battery. There is nothing worse than your car not starting on a snowy winter morning. Most batteries need to be replaced every 4-6 years. Inspect the cooling system. The cooling system of your vehicle is like the circulation system. It must flow clean and easy to prevent damage to the engine. In New England we need a proper mix of water and anti-freeze to protect the engine. Make sure the concentration is correct and that the fluid is clean. Now is a great time to have your car prepared for the adverse conditions it will face over the coming months. Our techs can check the cranking power of your battery and determine if it is time for a new one. They can flush your cooling system and make sure it is ready for the cold. They can even help get the right tires at the right price. We can service all makes and models so make your appointments now. See why Place Motor is the Right Place since 1923.

NEWS NOTES

DESTRUCTION OF RECORDS

Massachusetts Student Record Regulation 60 CMR 23.06(3) states: "the temporary record of any student enrolled on or after the effective date of 603 CMR 23.00 shall be destroyed no later than seven years after the student transfers, graduates, or withdraws from the school system. Written notice to the eligible student and his/her parent of the appropriate date of destruction of the record and their right to receive the information in whole or part, shall be made at the time of such transfer, graduation, or withdrawal. Such notice shall be in addition to the routine information letter required by 603 CMR 23.10." Therefore, the Auburn Public Schools Special Education Department has reviewed records of students who have left the district before July 1, 2011 and will initiate the destruction of those records. Please notify the Special Education Department at 508-832-7752 by Nov. 1, 2018 to review and receive these records prior to their destruction. Rosemary Reidy, Director of Pupil Services.

"Her heart was bigger than she was" says Deanna Mills about her daughter Jenifer O'Neill, from Auburn, who passed away in March of this year. A fundraiser for the Jenifer O'Neill Family Trust was held last Saturday at the Heritage Country Club in Charlton. The event was a golf tournament where 144 golfers came to play.

"Play Golf," announced 4-year-old Channing O'Neill, son to Jenifer, and the games began. Tickets for dinner were sold as well, and Mills states that 250 people in total joined for support.

"We had raffle prizes donated from various local businesses, volunteers from Jen's Untamed Salon & Spa helped out, and many friends and family came to support the event," says Mills.

ACCURACY WATCH

The Auburn News is committed to accuracy in all its news reports. Although numerous safeguards are in place to ensure accurate reporting, mistakes can occur.

If you find a mistake, call (508) 909-4142 during normal business hours. During non-business hours, leave a message in the editor's voice mailbox. The editor will return your phone call.

Mills states the Heritage Country Club did a "phenomenal job" and the event was a "huge success".

"Jenifer touched many lives. She was always doing something for the community," says Mills.

O'Neill was involved in various fundraisers for local families and she volunteered her time and skills. The Salon, now named Jen's Untamed Salon & Spa in memory of O'Neill, is newly designed. Mills and O'Neill owned the business together.

"Jen sent me a lot of ideas of how she wanted the salon to be designed," says Mills. "I made it how she would want it, I am trying to fulfill her dream. Jen's Untamed is in her honor."

The Jen O'Neill Scholarship is underway. Mills states that there is a committee, and the scholarship will be given out in 2019. It will go to a young woman going into the hairdressing field.

Treasurer's race has viable candidates

BY JERRY CARTON
STONEBRIDGE CORRESPONDENT

The candidates for state treasurer are the Democratic incumbent Deb Goldberg and Republican state Rep. Keiko Orrall of Bristol.

Goldberg, elected in 2014, says economic empowerment, economic security, and economic stability were the driving forces behind her candidacy in the first place and have been her priority over the last four years.

She said, "Government has an important role to play in improving people's lives. Whether in saving taxpayer dollars through smart debt management to ensuring high school students to learn how to avoid debt."

Goldberg said she's kept her campaign promises.

Foremost among these was the creation of a college savings plan called SeedMA for kindergarten students at no cost to taxpayers.

"Research shows a kid with a savings plan is seven times more likely to attend college," she said. Goldberg said she supports vocational and technical training to keep workers in Massachusetts.

Goldberg said she has leveraged the treasurer's office and the pension fund to fight for greater diversity on corporate boards and executive positions. She said she knows from her own private sector experience that "companies that invest in people and reflect the vibrancy of our communities are far more successful, resulting in a better economy for everyone."

For her part, Orrall, the first Asian-American elected to the state House of Representatives (2011) said she led the drive to stop Massachusetts' participation in PARRC, a national testing consortium.

Orrall adds she was instrumental "in helping to pass legislation to give small businesses certainty in tax filing deadlines by matching federal and state requirements."

She said she "worked with a bipartisan group to stop an unnecessary regulation in the medical field that would have cost city and town taxpayers millions of dollars."

Orrall said she has also worked with senior citizen advocates and legislators to "help block a measure which would have shut down a quarter of the nursing homes in the state through overregulation and disregard for the needs of the elder population."

"I am running for state treasurer because I believe voters want someone who relates to them and will bring a common sense, fiscally conservative approach to running the state's finances," is Orrall's statement.

suspect. Following her son's arrest, Tracy Lovvorn released a statement on the incident. She could not be reached for further comment.

"My youngest son, Alexander, was accused of allegedly taking a puppy from a shelter yesterday afternoon. To be clear, he was responsible for bringing the puppy to the shelter on his own accord, he loves pets, and would never intentionally hurt an animal," the statement read. "As a family, we have every confidence in the due process of law, and we will continue to love and support our son as he progresses through this process."

For the Second Chance Animal Shelter staff, the incident is saddening and disturbing. This was the first theft of an animal in the shelter's history, and staff members were stunned that the suspects didn't go through the proper channels to adopt a pet.

"It is very shocking that someone would attempt to steal a puppy in front of staff," said Second Chance Animal Services CEO Sheryl Blancato. "All of our pets are microchipped and we have security alarms as well, but we would never expect this during the day. They used false names to sign in at the desk, so we are assuming that the intention was to steal a pet when they came in. We are happy the puppy is back safe and sound."

Lovvorn attends Johnson and Wales University, where he plays on the baseball team. He recently enrolled in the Army ROTC, according to his mother's campaign website.

Second Chance officials thanked police for their investigative work to help bring Mickey home safely. Now the puppy will be given a second chance at finding the right home.

"Thank you to all the officers who helped bring this pup back so he can soon go home with his new family," read a statement from the shelter.

Bertonazzi Foundation seeking best election turnout by town

The race to determine the Senator Louis Bertonazzi Foundation 2017-18 Outstanding Citizenship Award is entering its final stage with the upcoming Nov. 6th election. The competition among the 19 area towns to identify the "Best Voting Community 2017-18" has completed the local election of 2017, the local election of 2018 and the recent September State Primary, and the winner will be announced following the inclusion of the upcoming November election results.

The percentages of registered voters who actually come out to vote in each of the four elections in all 19 towns that had been represented by Senator Bertonazzi during his legislative service will be tabulated. The town with the highest percentage of registered voters who cast ballots will be declared winner of the Outstanding Citizenship Award as "Best Voting Community 2017-18".

A check for $1,000 will be presented to that town's clerk and Board of Registrars, along with a plaque to the Board of Selectmen. In addition, a large banner will be unfurled and awarded to the townspeople whose civic spirit in turning out to vote earned the award.

As shown in the accompanying chart, the town of Douglas, with a cumulative percentage total of 20.01%, is currently leading the other 18 towns on the basis of its voting percentages in the three elections leading up to the Nov. 6th election.

The towns of Uxbridge, Millville, Mendon, Milford, Oxford, Grafton, Upton and Southbridge comprise the first tier of leading challengers.

Sutton, Auburn, Blackstone,

Westborough, Bellingham and Hopedale make up the middle tier.

To this point, the trailing towns are Webster, Charlton, Northbridge and Dudley.

Just as the rankings have shifted with each of the first three elections, the upcoming November election will have a profound effect on the final standings. Anyone can win.

Not only those who have voted faithfully over the years, but also young new voters who have recently demonstrated a strong interest in government issues, will have another reason to vote.

Hopefully, this competition will provide an additional incentive for all voters in the 19 towns to exercise their voting privilege, a privilege won and protected by the sacrifice of so many over the years.

The Senator Louis Bertonazzi Foundation Board of Directors are Dr. Carl DiGregorio, chairman; Michael Diorio, treasurer; Atty. David Bertonazzi, clerk; and members Cynthia Casey, Thomas Cullen, Gail Crimaldi, Joseph Nigro, Janice Guerriere, Julie Richards and Louis Bertonazzi, ex-officio.

The Pumpkin Harvest is in!

Fields of plump pumpkins ripening on the vine, flickering Jack O'Lanterns lighting the way for a parade of little ghosts and goblins, and a simmering pot of thick pumpkin soup — such are the simple pleasures of a New England autumn.

The humble pumpkin is rich in both nutrition and heritage. In the 17th century fairy tale, Cinderella's coach magically appeared from a large, stout pumpkin; Native Americans and early settlers revered pumpkin seeds as a medicinal sedative; and in modern times, carved triangle faces transform sugar pumpkins into annual ghoulish spooks. It should come as no surprise the harvest vegetable continues to serve as a highly anticipated autumn treat. Read on for some seasonal ways to pump up your pumpkin pleasure!

Mum's the Word: Chrysanthemum and pumpkins are two autumn delights that are even better when merged. Create a unique "urn" for your hearty mums by gutting a tall pumpkin and placing a pot of blooming mums right into the pumpkin. The contrasting colors and texture make the perfect display when perched on a front stoop or porch step.

Seedy Treat: Many Halloween traditions include gathering the seeds from a carved Jack O'Lantern to toast in a warm oven. To properly toast pumpkin seeds, remove all pulp and clean strings from the seeds. Place seeds in a bowl and stir in melted butter or olive oil and salt to coat the seeds. Spread seeds on a cookie sheet and bake in a 275° oven for about an hour or until the seeds are golden brown and crisp. Avoid overcooking as seeds can become hard and tough.

Sprout Surprise: Pumpkin seeds can even be sprouted to use on sandwiches and in salads. Pumpkin seeds are a healthy snack as they are over 30 percent protein and are high in and oil-soluble vitamins A, D, and E. To sprout area that is room temperature. Rinse the seeds in the jar at least four times a day. After a few days, you should see the seeds sprouting. Rinse them again and place the jar in the sun for a day or so until tiny leaves form. They are now ready to use as a tasty garnish or salad addition.

Frozen Pumpkins: Freezing cooked, pureed pumpkin is a favored way to preserve the taste and texture of pumpkin. Sugar or pie pumpkins are ideal candidates for freezing as the pulp is thicker and firmer. To easily prepare a pumpkin for pureeing, simply place the whole fruit in the microwave for about a minute or so to soften the skin. This will make the pumpkin much easier to peel. Cut the pumpkin in large slices, peel the skin and remove the strings and seeds. Then cut the slices into smaller pieces. Boil the pumpkin pieces until tender, then mash or process the pumpkin pulp until it forms a smooth, thick puree.

Pulverized Pumpkin: Pumpkin can also be dried, which was a favored method of the colonists. Drying pumpkin must be done carefully in order to kill all the germs that would make it spoil. Split the pumpkin in half and remove the seeds. Remove the skin and cut the fruit into thin slices. Steam for about six minutes. Spread on a tray and dry in the sun or in a solar dryer until dry and brittle. This will take about two days. If flies are a problem, cover with netting. Pumpkin needs to be dried in hot sun so that it dries quickly before it spoils. Dried pumpkin can also be made into a flour, which can be used just as you would all purpose flour in cooking and baking. To do, simply pulverize the dry pumpkin in a food processor.

Fresh Pumpkin Bisque
Here's an easy recipe for a rich pumpkin soup. For a vegetarian version, just switch vegetable broth for the chicken broth.

Ingredients: 1 medium onion, chopped; 2 stalks celery, chopped; 3 cloves garlic, chopped; 4 cups chicken (or vegetable) broth; 2 tomatoes, chopped; 2 bay leaves; ½ teaspoons nutmeg; 2 cups pumpkin purée (one medium sugar pumpkin, about four pounds, yield about 1 ½ cup purée); salt and pepper to taste; 1 cup heavy cream.

Instructions: Sauté onions, celery, and garlic in butter. Add broth, tomatoes, bay leaves and nutmeg. Cook until vegetables are very soft. Strain and reserve liquid. Purée vegetables with some liquid and strain through a sieve. Combine liquid, puréed vegetables, and pumpkin; heat. Add cream and season with salt and pepper.

accomplished her dreams and is proud of her accomplishments. In 2014 Raillo earned her degree in music education for grades Kindergarten through 12. Her instructors, Kayla Benoit, and William Palleria, also come from the former school and carry degrees as well.

The school teaches a wide array of instruments. Woodwind, brass, keyboards, string including cello and viola, and percussion including bells are all taught by the three instructors, each one having their own specialties. Raillo also teaches music theory and history of music.

Music is a way of life to Raillo, and she believes that every child can be taught how to play an instrument and can learn life lessons from music.

"If you start them young enough, they can absorb it quickly. Music works many parts of the brain," says Raillo. "Learning music can teach the child how to work through something. It can help them through real life troubles. When they are struggling they practice, and soon they work through the problem. They feel great when they work through the problem and we can get them there."

"Music introduces children to other things like math, rhythm, fractions and more without them knowing it," states Raillo.

Art and music are important and can be hard to attain.

"I wanted to make sure that what we provide can be affordable and accessible to families," says Raillo.

Children from all walks of life attend the school.

"We welcome homeschooled children. Our hours are from 9:00 am to 9:00 pm, and we have many children who are on the autism spectrum," says Raillo.

"Every single student gets a tailor-made music education. We have a great balance of patience and pushing for that next step," says Raillo.

When it comes to children who need a little more guidance and understanding Raillo states, "It all depends on the specific student. We have a non-verbal student and I needed to figure out how to communicate with him."

That student is thriving at his lessons with Raillo, and continues to make great progress. Flexible lesson plans for each individual student is what sets the Hedera School of Music apart from music classes in school orchestra settings.

"Some students just need one on one help with music. We offer private lessons for those struggling to keep up in their school band or orchestra."

Some school districts are unable to give ample attention to single students who need a bit more practice and help.

"We love to work with the schools and help the individual student catch up and thrive," says Raillo. Some children just need a little extra and that is just one of the focuses that the instructors help with.

Raillo is dedicated to her students. "My lessons are meant to be uplifting. It is okay to make a mistake, it means you are learning."

Raillo wants to keep her students engaged, "I try to instill practicing at home. We break the song down and I remind them of how far they have come."

"It is never too late to learn," says Raillo and she offers lessons to everyone of any age. There are no semesters or enrollment windows. There are no time commitments, we try to make it flexible. Local music stores have rent to own instruments for those who do not yet know with what they wish to work.

The programs are all individually designed to the student and the instructors are educated, patient, and dedicated to each and every student. Raillo currently has students from Leicester, Worcester, Oxford, Spencer, Auburn, Rochdale and more surrounding towns. Call (774) 371-0570 or email at musicdirector@leicestermusic.org.

Grave Perspective

Graveyards in our area of New England hold a special fascination for many, particularly during the changeable, tricky season of autumn. As we saw this past week, a day that's humid, near 80 degrees and feels like summer can quickly give way to a night sky of racing clouds, moonlight and a damp chill creeping across the yard, yielding perfect graveyard-at-Halloween vibes.

One season passes into the next and the plants and flowers so tenderly planted and cared for in the spring diminish and die back. Autumn colors seem to pay tribute to this loss – celebrating, rather than mourning – because after all, in six months, the cycle will begin again.

Graveyards in ANY season remind us of this same truth: life begins, ends, begins again, ends again. And with each new generation, problems arise, are struggled with, sometimes resolved, and replaced with new problems. As pessimistic as that may sound, it's also oddly comforting; there is indeed nothing new under the sun.

In our corner of the world, seasons and generations have passed into history for centuries. Those tranquil, ancient graveyards preserve the memories of residents who, like us, worried about weather and politics and the economy and their children and the future. Like us, they had great days when things just seemed to “work”. They had other days when nothing went right. But life continued on... THEY continued on.

Perhaps one lesson learned from wandering among the graves is that what connects us as people – past and present – are the things we care about. In our towns and villages, we care about local schools, our community parks and rec centers, our businesses and organizations and our neighborhoods. We care about the price of fuel, getting our seasonal decorations up, finding deals at the grocery stores and the upkeep of our properties. We care about our neighbors and co-workers, our friends and family. We care about making an impact; we also care about preserving history. We hope for change and also embrace our traditions.

The same can likely be said for the names of those in those graveyards, the many who came and went before us. Life goes on.

Practice is value added to talent

About every five years or so, my taste in radio programming changes. I have listened to every genre of music and talk radio over the years, from rap to country to rock to sports radio. Most recently I have been immersed in the world of podcasts.

A while back I was listening to some random station where they were debating whether or not people were born with talent or if talent was something that could be practiced. The debate raged on for about an hour with two very good arguments for each side.

One side of the debate said that when you are born, your talent and ability to do anything is predetermined and you have to deal with the genetic hand that you are dealt. The other side said that people can engage in a process called “deliberate practice” to achieve greatness in anything that they want. Deliberate practice was defined as practice that pushes your skill set as much as possible. The discussion became heated at times and I eventually formed my own opinion after hearing about the research done by a Swedish psychologist, Anders Ericsson.

Anders Ericsson set out on a quest in the late 1980s to search the world for people who were born with talent. Ericsson searched for many years and was not able to find one example of someone who was born with it. He studied many different athletes, musicians and artists, among other things, and found that not one of these people were born with the ability to do their particular “thing.” He did note that the size and stature of a person led to increased success in certain areas, such as taller people tend to do better in the NBA, but overall almost all of the people who he studied were products of people who had been exposed to time and opportunity.

Ericsson believed in the theory developed by Malcolm Gladwell, who said that people need “10,000 hours of deliberate practice to become world class in any field.” This commitment of time could certainly create a master of anything that the mind could fathom. As far as opportunity is concerned, Ericsson said that one's environment can also affect the ability of someone to show natural talent with something. In his work, he references that Mozart was not born a musical genius but became one because he was born into a family where creating music was the family business. Mozart had exposure to music at a very young age and was able to write his first symphony by the age of eight. An amazing accomplishment for an 8 year old, but what most people don't talk about is that it was a very average symphony at best. Mozart's dad even said that it was, “too basic with many mistakes in musical theory!” I think it was brutally honest advice to give an 8 year old, but it was a different time. Mozart grew up in an environment surrounded by music, thus he had an easier time becoming an expert in the field.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL OF

School is a place where all children are welcome and this is a place that offers both time and opportunity. It takes as little as 10 years of education to get your 10,000 hours of “deliberate practice.” We can help provide experiences for your children to help them figure out what their passions are and what their expertise will be. Regardless of personal or environmental situation, all students are gifted “time” when they are in school. The opportunities to find their passion are there, it is up to our students to utilize their time appropriately and to deliberately practice. If they do this, they will, in fact, become excellent students, and dare I say, world class citizens.

Matthew Carlson is the Assistant Principal of Auburn Middle School. ### How can you become a 'sustainable' investor?

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

Your values are important to you – and so are your investments. But you don't have to keep these two parts of your life separate if you pursue sustainable investing.

If you haven't heard of this term, you might know it by other names: socially responsible investing, values-based investing and environmental, social and governance (ESG) investing. Essentially, sustainable investing incorporates non-financial or indirect financial considerations, specifically environmental concerns (climate change, renewable energy, water scarcity), social concerns (human rights, product safety or liability) and governance issues (corporate behavior, executive compensation, lobbying and so on). As a sustainable investor, you would invest in companies that take what you'd consider a positive stance on these issues, or are at least improving in these areas, and you'd avoid businesses that fall on what you perceive as the negative side.

There are many ways to implement a sustainable investing approach that addresses your specific concerns, with varying levels of diversification and control. Some investors select individual stocks of companies they are comfortable supporting. But you might find it more affordable, and more efficient, to invest in mutual funds or exchange-traded funds (ETFs) that focus on sustainable investments.

When exploring sustainable mutual funds and ETFs, make sure you look beyond the name of the fund to assess whether its ESG approach aligns with your personal interests and goals. Also, look for these key elements:

Diversification – By definition, mutual funds that concentrate on sustainable investments might exclude entire industries, which could hurt your portfolio's performance if the excluded investments perform better than the rest of the market. For example, a fund that excludes all oil-related companies might generate poor returns during a period of rising oil prices. Therefore, you may prefer to invest in a fund that integrates environmental, social and governance considerations into the investment process without excluding specific sectors or types of companies. You can further dilute this risk by owning a wide array of sustainable funds that use different approaches or processes to invest in sustainable companies. However, while diversification can reduce the effects of volatility on your portfolio, it can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses.

Track record – As you have no doubt heard, past performance can't guarantee future results, so you may not want to over-concentrate on a fund's historical returns. Still, it might be worthwhile to compare how one fund has performed over time in comparison with similar funds or an index. Many sustainable-investing funds are newer or weren't always invested sustainably, so be sure the track record you are considering is relevant.

Here's something else to keep in mind: The universe of mutual funds is vast, and some funds may not market themselves as “sustainable,” but still include sustainable considerations in their investment selections. These funds could provide you with more options.

Finally, consider including charitable contributions in your investment strategy. In some cases, you may decide that's a better way to meet your financial and non-financial investing goals than limiting your investment choices.

By following a sustainable investing approach or incorporating charitable donations in your financial strategy, you can express your beliefs in a tangible way – while still working to achieve your long-term goals.

What the Brett Kavanaugh decision means to me

Men have gotten away with objectifying my body, violating my world, and contaminating my mind with feelings of anxiety and fear since I was a young teenager.

The first time I was sexually harassed, I was 14 years old and taking classes at Quinsigamond Community College. I was the youngest student at the school, and the man who approached me was 24 years old with tattoos all over his arms and an intense personality. After my experience with dodging his stagnant eyes and trying to ignore his explicit comments, I spent my time between classes each day hiding in the bathroom, a far corner of the cafeteria, or between the rows of books in the library, hoping that no man would see me or try to speak to me.

The first time I was sexually assaulted, I was 17 years old and a student at UMass Amherst. I was studying in the library with a boy from my macroeconomics class who I thought was my friend, but he wanted me and wouldn't take no for an answer. He grabbed me and forced himself on me so quickly that I barely had time to process what had happened. I pushed his hands away and screamed, but all he did was laugh.

My reality as a 21-year-old woman living in the United States is that I am sexually harassed almost every day and have been sexually assaulted multiple times. It is a burden I had bestowed upon me when I was born a girl, because although some men have been in this position as well, it is a fact that women in this country are much more likely to experience sexual hostility than men.

On October 6, a notification from BBC News came up on my iPhone, letting me know that by confirming Brett Kavanaugh to the Supreme Court in a 50-48 vote, my own country made the decision to not take sexual harassment and assault seriously enough. I started crying, not just for Dr. Christine Blasey Ford, Deborah Ramirez, Julie Swetnick, and the anonymous fourth accuser who spoke out against our newest Supreme Court Justice, but for Anita Hill, who accused Justice Clarence Thomas of sexual harassment in 1991, and the every single person who has found the courage to tell their story only to be dismissed.

The Supreme Court is the highest court we have in the country, supposedly made up of justices who are capable of providing the most reasonable judgement and displaying the most honorable behavior. Kavanaugh was formally accused of inexcusable conduct by four women, yet today he is sitting on the bench with the responsibility of evaluating the most law-abiding outcome of some of this country's toughest and cloudiest cases. When we allow it to become acceptable for our country to trust someone who has been accused of multiple cases of sexual misconduct to make our most important legal decisions, we are making sexual harassment and assault an acceptable part of our society and a common happening in the daily lives of American women.

MIND OF A CURIOUS GIRL

Kavanaugh's appointment to the Supreme Court means that my 14-year-old self was right to hide in the corners of the school instead of speak out, because there was no way for me to prove that a man who was a decade older than me was sexually harassing me and making me feel uncomfortable and disrespected at my own school.

It means that the boy who assaulted me at age 17 will never actually suffer consequences for his actions because too many people would say that he was just young and reckless, and even though his laugh still echoes in my mind, I can't prove that he groped me and put his hand between my legs without my consent.

It means that the man who repeatedly asked me out when I was 19 years old despite being three times my age was just exercising his freedom of speech when he wouldn't take no for an answer, stalking me at my workplace and around Harvard Square for weeks.

It means that being taken advantage of at age 20 was simply a learning experience for me, because not touching a woman when she's intoxicated seems to be an unrealistic expectation and I can't prove that he overstepped my boundaries because I was barely conscious, only remembering it enough to continue to be haunted by feelings of violation.

It means that I will have to come to terms with every sexual harassment and assault experience I have had and will have on my own, because no matter how much time I've spent telling my story, fighting against sexualization,

Opportunities abound as fall season gets underway

This is a magical time of year filled with all types of hunting and fishing opportunities for the sportsmen. The fall trout stocking program is in full gear with more than 60,000 rainbow trout and 4,000 brown trout being stocked in trout waters. Very few trout are stocked in local rivers, but they are stocked in rivers in the western part of the state. Fall trout fishing can be extremely challenging as the water temperatures change daily and their feeding habits are a lot different from the cold waters in the spring. Most trout stocked locally are in the 12 inch + class, but Cape waters also have a lot of hold over trout, as seen in last week's column.

.....

Unfortunately, very little data is available at MFW, because of the poor communication between the state and the fishing public. Because ice fishing anglers kept the pike fish success to themselves, it is no longer on the list of priorities to stock it again. Hopefully the division can be convinced to stock pike again in the near future.

The upland bird hunting season opened on Oct. 13, this year with more than 40,000 pheasant being stocked statewide. Pheasant are the number one game bird for upland bird hunters. Local clubs also stock pheasant in local covers that they raise in cooperation with MFW.

The second segment of the Massachusetts goose season opened on Oct. 9, this year under ideal conditions. More geese started to show up in local corn fields and on bodies of water just prior to opening day. Reports of the two bird limits of Canada geese being made by a few local hunters last week was good news. Hopefully hunters will catch a good flight of migrating birds after this week's cold blast. Duck hunters also reported some great shooting of wood duck and mallards on opening day. More flight birds should make duck hunting even better in the coming days and weeks.

The Salmon River in upstate New York exploded with action last week with some local anglers returning with impressive fish. This week's picture shows Steve Stefanik with an impressive king salmon for his fishing adventure last week, along with some of his fishing buddies

A second salmon from the same fishing trip.

Steven Stefanik with a nice salmon caught in upstate New York.

In September, more than 2,000 northern pike were purchased by Mass Fish & Wildlife from Vermont. The yearling pike were stocked in Lake Quinsigamond, Newton Pond and Flint Pond. Local ice fishermen often complain about pike no longer being stocked in local areas like Manchaug Pond and Webster Lake. Pike are still being caught at Manchaug Pond, although it has not been stocked for years. Despite numerous conversations with Massachusetts fish biologists about the huge success at these two ponds over the last 20 years or more, nothing has been done to ensure local pike fishing anglers they will continue to catch northern pike at these two great bodies of water.

Archery deer season opened this past Monday Oct. 15, under less than ideal conditions. The heavy foliage was still hampering the hunter's ability to spot a deer as they approached their hunting areas. That should all change as the recent frost sent many leaves to the ground. Not all areas have an abundance of acorns this year, but for the areas that do hunters should find some great opportunities to harvest some venison.

The Whitinsville Fish & Game Club will hold a porketta dinner this Saturday Oct. 20, at the club house on White Court in Douglas. The event is open to the public. For tickets call the club at 508-278-7204.

Tautog fishing has exploded with action in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island waters. Green crabs are the number one choice of bait to catch this hard fighting fish.

What does it mean to be an American?

Tell me: What does it actually mean to be an American? In the press of day-to-day events and amid the ongoing tumult of politics, we don't think about this much. Yet it's a crucial question, one that each generation in this country is called upon to answer for itself.

Despite our differences, there are some traits that I think we and our predecessors would recognize — characteristics to being an American that resonate with most of us, regardless of our age or our political beliefs. For instance, I believe the aim of our representative democracy is to enhance the liberty of free people, and to offer them the opportunity to make the most of their talents. This lies at the root of what it means to live in a representative democracy: extending respect to all and wanting every person to be aware of his or her political importance.

Perhaps the most eloquent expression of this view is the awe-inspiring Declaration of Independence, which remains a core inspiration both for our political values and our shared identity. The notion that all people are created equal, that we possess God-given inalienable rights, including to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness — these are beliefs that undergird our democracy.

They suggest that our country can — and should — be an example to the world of what a government of liberty can mean in the lives of citizens. And that we should never stop trying to make the world a better place. Bringing these values into our policies and our politics depends on all of us — another notion embedded in this country since the beginning.

Often people ask, "Where are the Jeffersons or Lincolns in this time of need?" They understand that the quality of our elected leaders makes all the difference, and that bold, decisive, thoughtful leadership is essential for our country's success. Yet while I recognize the need, ultimately our success as a nation will rest on the strength and capabilities of our citizens. The Founding Fathers spoke often of the need for citizens of virtue and talent, for people capable of governing themselves.

We do so through our political institutions, within a framework set out in our Constitution. While our system is not perfect, it has provided us with the tools to meet our challenges — and in a better fashion than any likely alternative.

Politics as it is practiced in our country can bring despair and crushing defeat. But it can also produce splendid achievements. If you enter politics, you have to be prepared for both. I know that a lot of people view politics with disdain and disapproval, yet over the course of a long political life, I never felt the desire to escape it. Just the opposite, in fact. I knew a lot was at stake in the battles, and I embraced them.

To be sure, I pursued them at a time when it was possible to find common ground across partisan divides, and when respecting one's opponents did not bring immediate censure from donors and primary voters. The atmosphere is different now. Yet the basic need — for using the political system to resolve fundamental challenges — has not changed.

Nor has one of its most basic features: a permanent tension between the preservation and expansion of individual freedom on the one hand, and the stability and strength of the nation on the other.

Government must have enough power to protect the national interest and to be capable of addressing deep-seated problems. It must secure and enlarge personal liberties while maintaining order and stability. It must provide the national security necessary for the preservation of freedom.

These are not contradictory goals,

Recyclopeda, simply enter what it is you wish to recycle and the site will say if it can be recycled or not.

Attempting to recycle the wrong items can have consequences.

When items that do not belong in the recycling bin are added to the recycling stream it can "slow down or halt the processing of material, increase the risk of worker injury and reduces the value of recyclables," says Erica L. Lucier, solid waste reduction enforcement coordinator for Auburn at the Department of Development & Inspectional Services.

Why does everyone need to be up to date and recycle smart?

Lucier states "One contaminated recycling bin can spoil an entire truck load of recyclables causing it to end up as trash."

This affects the recycling facilities and can also have a financial cost to the town. When in doubt, leave it out.

and speaking out for the Me Too movement, men still get away with taunting me and touching me without my consent and they have since I was 14 years old.

It means that the MeToo movement has not yet made enough progress, not yet convinced enough people, and not yet changed the country enough to take a step back and take pride in its progress.

Brett Kavanaugh's appointment to the Supreme Court means that I, as a woman living in the United States, am not and will not be taken seriously enough in my own country when I tell my story or speak out against sexual assault. It means that men will continue to look up my skirt on escalators, catcall me when I pass them on the street, or grope me on public transportation, because they know they will get away with it.

After all, our newest Supreme Court Justice did.

Friday's Child

Hi! My name is Jaycob and I love to smile and give hugs!

Jaycob is a charming, engaging and likeable boy of Caucasian descent who is quick to give hugs. Those who know him best say that he has a silly side and is remarkably kind. Recently, when he was at the doctor's office he asked for extra stickers so that he could bring them back to the other children in his home. Jaycob loves playing with Matchbox cars, Pokémon, Beyblade toys and video games. Jaycob hopes one day to be a contestant on the television show Wipe-Out, where contestants have to navigate an obstacle course. He plays the video game version and believes that he could complete the course in real life if given the opportunity.

Jaycob enjoys going to school, is academically on track, and gets along well with his peers.

Legally freed for adoption, Jaycob will do best in a two-parent family. He is eager to live in a home with other children and will do best with children of a similar age or older.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

Rams remain unbeaten after topping Auburn, 35-8

NORTHBIDGE — Homecoming Weekend was an enjoyable one for the Northbridge High varsity football team, as not only did they defeat rival Auburn High 35-8, at Lasell Field on Saturday, Oct. 13, but the Rams remained undefeated in the process as they improved to 6-0. Northbridge next has an away matchup with Tantasqua Regional (4-2) at the Reservation on Friday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. The Rockets, meanwhile, slipped to an uncharacteristic 2-4. They will travel to Grafton High for a date with the Indians (4-2) on Friday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m.

Auburn's Manny Rosario avoids the pileup on the ground while carrying the ball.

Defenders Pat Horan (44) and Zach Johnson (25) of Auburn push Northbridge's ball carrier to the ground.

Auburn's Jack Laperle carries the ball away from the Northbridge defense and into open space.

Zack Roberts of Northbridge collides with Auburn defender Andrew Orawsky while carrying the ball.

Kolby Bishop of Auburn works in the trenches versus Northbridge.

Williams to honor Ronald Tarentino Charitable Fund at Great Floridian Triathlon

Courtesy photos

On Oct. 20, Leicester's B.J. Williams will compete in the Great Floridian Triathlon in honor of the memory of late Leicester and Auburn Police Officer Ronald Tarentino, Jr.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

LEICESTER — During his life, Ron Tarentino, Jr. volunteered much of his time to the Leicester community — a place where he worked and lived for several years. Since his death in May of 2016 in a line of duty shooting in Auburn, the community has given generously back to the family of their adopted son.

That tradition will continue on Saturday, Oct. 20 when town resident Bryan Joseph "B.J." Williams, an officer in the Worcester County Sheriff's Department, participates in The Great Floridian Triathlon in Clermont, Fla.

Williams, 34, will compete in honor of the memory of Tarentino as well as three other fallen Massachusetts officers — State Trooper Thomas Clardy, Sgt. Sean Gannon, a canine officer in Yarmouth, and Weymouth Sgt. Michael Chesna — as well as The Officer Ronald Tarentino, Jr. Charitable Fund.

Williams and his wife, Andrea, are neighbors of the Tarentino family, living on the same street, just a couple of houses down from the family.

"I never had the chance to actually become friends with Ron," Williams said. "The times I saw him were when he and his wife were walking or running up and down the street. He was always very friendly; he always had a smile on his face. He was always smiling and very community oriented, very friendly with people around the town. The family is still very involved in the Leicester community."

Established in 2018, The Officer Ronald Tarentino, Jr. Charitable Fund is a non-profit organization dedicated to honoring his memory by embodying Ron's character through acts of kindness, generosity and service to the greater community. Tarentino served with the Auburn Police Department for two years and he had previously served with the Leicester Police Department for seven years.

During the race Williams will be wearing a custom jersey that will show the Officer Ronald Tarentino, Jr. Charitable Fund logo and lists the names of Tarentino, Clardy, Gannon and Chesna on the front and the rest of the 129 names of fallen officers — nationwide — from 2017 on the back.

In addition, during the 26.2-mile marathon portion of the 140.6-mile test of endurance (2.4-mile swim, 112-mile bike ride, 26.2 run) Williams will carry a three-foot by five-foot Thin Blue Line flag, the flag that has come to represent fallen officers. The Thin Blue Line flag symbolizes the relationship between law enforcement and the communities they serve.

Williams said he got the idea to compete in The Great Floridian Triathlon to honor Tarentino's memory and legacy at, not surprisingly, this year's Tarentino Strong Road Race, which was held in Leicester in April.

"I've helped the past two years with the Tarentino Strong Road Race here in Leicester and at this year's race in April it [competing for Tarentino] just kind of dawned on me," Williams said. "I saw other officers there, active and retired, and individuals who graduated with Ron in his [police] academy class. Just seeing the interaction and the community support led me to a new thought.

"That thought was to find a way to honor officer Tarentino and the three other officers in Massachusetts [Clardy, Gannon and Chesna] who have died in the line of duty," Williams continued, "as well as any active, retired or fallen officer as well. It would just be a way to honor the sacrifice that officers and their families make in their careers."

In addition to honoring the four Massachusetts police officers who were killed in the line of duty at The Great Floridian Triathlon, Williams will also honor two fallen Florida police officers — Matthew Scott Baxter and Sgt. Richard Samuel Howard III of the Kissimmee Police Department.

"I did a little research and found that where I would be competing two officers had died in the line of duty, so I wanted to honor their memory as well," Williams said. "If there are towns where I'm competing that there has been a fallen officer or officers, I'll compete in the race to honor that officer or officers as well. But, if not I will be running the race to honor and support the active officers in the line of duty because being an officer myself I know what it takes."

Williams began competing in endurance races after a car accident almost ended his life in July of 2005. Prior to that, the Longmeadow native was a junior hockey player in the Boston area.

"I was ejected out of the passenger side of a truck on the Mass. Pike in Warren," Williams said. "When I woke up a couple of days later in the hospital I was told playing hockey was no longer an option for me. I was 21 years old at the time."

About six months later Williams began competing in endurance races; he has competed in 134 races since that time. This will be his eighth 140.6-mile triathlon with his best finish being 13 hours, 49 minutes.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Ski or snowboard at Wachusett Mountain

Are you interested in having a lot of fun while also helping to make the winter fly by? Any student (8 years and older), parent or teacher from any of the surrounding towns and states can ski or snowboard eight consecutive Saturday nights at Wachusett Mountain for just $150 through the Southbridge Ski Club. You drive to Wachusett Mountain on your own. The eight-week program begins on Saturday, Jan. 5 and ends Saturday, March 2. Ski or snowboard rentals as well as lessons are also available at a very reasonable cost. You may also be able to ski or snowboard for free through your health insurance coverage.

Also anyone (students or non-students) can purchase Gold, Silver and Bronze Season Passes at a lower discounted price through our Club. All eight week and season passes must be ordered through the Wachusett website by Nov. 30 for these lower discounted prices. For more information on how to order, please contact Dick Lisi at (508) 410-1332 or at lisirichard15@yahoo.com.

Softball pitching lessons coming to Southbridge Community Center

Softball pitching lessons will be available at the Southbridge Community Center (152 Chestnut Street) on Sunday mornings from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. They start Oct. 21 and run through Feb. 24, 2019. Team and league discounts are available for three pitchers or more. Pitchers must bring a catcher (no fee) that can be a parent, teammate, etc. Please contact Bill Rahall (wlah@yahoo.com 860-576-3440) for more details. Clark University pitching coach Steve Genese will be on hand at the lessons.

Auburn's Hynes tabbed WPI Women's Student-Athlete of the Week

WORCESTER — Shannon Hynes from the field hockey team has been tabbed as the WPI Female Student-Athlete of the Week for the week ending Sunday, Oct. 7.

The junior co-captain anchored a back line that allowed only nine shots — four on goal — in a pair of NEWMAC wins. Only one attempt made it to the keeper in a 1-0 triumph versus Clark University and three found their way through in a 6-1 victory over Wheaton College. The Engineers head into exams tied for second in the conference behind nationally ranked Babson College.

Bay Path can't keep up with Beavers in defeat

UPTON — First, the Bay Path Regional varsity football team lost its home field versus Blackstone Valley Tech on Friday, Oct. 12 when the surface was deemed unplayable. Then, the Minutemen lost the game to the Beavers, now being played at Valley Tech's home, 42-0.

After starting the season 3-1, Bay Path has since lost its last two games to drop to 3-3. They hope to get back on track during the final two regular season games — Friday, Oct. 19 versus Worcester Tech at 7 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 26 at Abby Kelley at 7 p.m.

Several members of the Coptic Church volunteered to serve kebabs, salad and various other Mediterranean delicacies.

BY GUS STEEVES
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON – Coptic Christians from across the region made their way to the Holy Virgin Mary Spiritual Vineyard last weekend for the annual Egyptian Festival, partaking of lots of Mediterranean food, soccer and other games and even pretending to be pharaohs for a while.

According to Samer Sadek, a self-described “servant” at the church, the Vineyard’s centerpiece, St Mary and Pope Kyrillos Church, is one of seven Coptic Churches in Massachusetts. It was originally a “satellite” of St Mark’s in Natick, but is now independent with about 250 families of its own. Even so, he said, it’s beginning to be too small, and the members are starting to consider building a new church.

The campus itself also has several shrines, an old-style sanctuary, a model of an early-Christian Egyptian hermit’s cave, and various other facilities for religious and social uses on more than 100 acres.

Sadek said the Coptic Church dates to the year 65 CE, when the Biblical Mark arrived in Egypt. Traditionally based in Alexandria and termed the See of St Mark, the church has been led by Pope Tawadros II since 2012.

But Copts trace their heritage much farther back than that. Their language, still used for some prayers, has existed since the days of ancient Egypt’s pharaohs, although today it’s written in the Greek alphabet with five extra letters. The sacred books often have three languages in columns on the same page – English or Arabic, Coptic, and Coptic in Arabic letters – and it’s common to hear all three languages singing hymns at the same time in some congregations, Sadek said.

According to Wikipedia, the Coptic Church is “one of the Oriental Orthodox churches (not to be confused with the Byzantine Orthodox group of churches).” The Oriental group comprises six churches: the Coptic, Syriac, Ethiopian, Eritrean, Armenian and Malankara Syrian churches, which slowly separated from Byzantine Orthodoxy starting 451 CE over various differences in theology. The Byzantine group, by contrast, includes the national churches of Greece, Russia, Romania, Bulgaria, Ukraine, Serbia and several smaller churches. “Oriental Orthodox churches are generally considered to be more conservative with regard to social issues as well more enthusiastic about ecumenical relations with non-Orthodox churches,” Wikipedia states.

According to www.worldatlas.com, the vast majority of the world’s Copts still live in Egypt (about 18 million of them, comprising 10-15 percent of the country’s population). A majority of the rest are in the US (about 1 million), with 12 other countries combining for a little over 225,000.

Sadek said many of those who left Egypt were fleeing the Muslim Brotherhood, particularly after the election of Mohammad Morsi to the presidency. Morsi was ousted by military coup in 2013, after just one year in office.

AHS receives national recognition from Special Olympics

A student with the school resource officer and the Olympic torch.

Special Olympics Massachusetts has announced that Auburn High School, a Special Olympics Unified Champion School, is receiving National Banner recognition for its efforts to provide inclusive sports and activities for students with and without disabilities. Auburn High School is receiving this honor as a result of meeting national standards of excellence in the areas of inclusion, advocacy and respect.

An award presentation took place Sept. 28 at an assembly in the Auburn High School gymnasium with the entire Auburn High community. Auburn High School is one of 10 schools in Massachusetts and 131 schools nationally to receive this distinction. They were presented with a banner to hang in their school and be included on a list of other schools around the country who have achieved this distinguished status. More than 150 schools are currently participating in Special Olympics Unified Champion Schools programming in Massachusetts, as part of more than 6,000 schools across the country engaged in the program. Special Olympics has a global goal of creating 10,000 Unified Champion Schools by 2020.

The Special Olympics Unified Champion Schools model is supported by the Office of Special Education Programs at the U.S. Department of Education. This model has been proven, through research, to be an effective and replicable means to providing students with and without disabilities the opportunity to form positive social relationships and promote a socially inclusive school climate. Key data points include:

- 84% of students regard participation in the program as a turning point in their lives.
  - 72% of involved teachers believe participation in the program has increased the confidence of students with disabilities.
  - 88% credit the program with reducing bullying and teasing in their schools.
- A Special Olympics Unified Champion School has an inclusive school climate and exudes a sense of collaboration, engagement and respect for all members of the student body and staff. A Unified Champion School receiving National Banner recognition is one that has demonstrated commitment to inclusion by meeting 10 national standards of excellence. These standards were developed by a national panel of leaders from Special Olympics and the education community.

The primary activities within these standards include: Special Olympics Unified Sports® (where students with and without disabilities train and compete as teammates), Inclusive Youth Leadership and Whole-School Engagement. National banner schools should also be able to demonstrate they are self-sustainable or have a plan in place to sustain these activities into the future.

Auburn High School values Community, Academics and Respect. Unified Sports began at Auburn High with a bocce tournament in the fall of 2015. The Unified Track team was initiated in the spring of that same school year, followed by unified basketball in the fall of 2016. Unified track is supported by the MIAA, holding District and State competitions, and student athletes receive a varsity letter. Auburn High School is comprised of 726 students, with about 60-75 students participating in at least one unified sport or activity. Those participants also hold an “R” word campaign as part of kindness week and are included in all school pep rallies.

Special Olympics Massachusetts provides year-round sports training, athletic competition and other related programming for over 12,500 athletes with intellectual disabilities across the state in nearly 300 sporting competitions each year. Through the power of sport, the Special Olympics movement transforms the lives of people with intellectual disabilities. <http://www.specialolympicsma.org>.

Rita Ann Lada, 91

WEBSTER - Rita Ann (Holewa) Lada, 91, passed away surrounded by her family on August 12, 2018 as a result of complications due to surgery. One of eleven children of Joseph and Anna (Lis) Holewa, Rita was born on February 27, 1927 in Dudley Massachusetts

Rita spent her early childhood in the village of Jerico on Dudley's east side where she loved exploring nearby ponds, picking blueberries in the woods and playing baseball with her older brothers. She attended St Joseph Elementary School and while in the fifth grade she developed rheumatic fever. Despite hearing a doctor's prognosis that she would not survive beyond 21 years of age, she became determined to live as active and full a life as possible. She went on to attend Dudley Junior High and Bartlett High School where she loved studying history and in particular reading biographies; her most admired figures were Lincoln and Ghandi.

After graduating from Bartlett High School in 1945, she moved to Boston to attend the New England School of Art. There she thrived training to become an artist and discovering the cultural benefits afforded by living in the city. She worked in Hyannis in the summer of 1946 to earn funds for a second year of art school. She acquired a life-long love of Cape Cod where she spent much time with her children in the latter years of her life. An end of summer burglary deprived her of her college savings and the ability to continue school in Boston. However, Rita's experience in Boston instilled in her the value of a college education and she vowed to provide such for any children she might have. Shortly after returning home in the fall of 1946 she met Joseph Lada Jr. of North Grosvenordale CT. They were married a year later and settled in Dudley. In 1955 they moved to Grafton and in 1958 to Webster where they lived for the remainder of their lives. Rita raised four children and would often say that they were her proudest accomplishment. After seeing all her children through college, Rita worked 25 years as a teacher's aide in Webster's elementary schools.

Because of her outgoing good nature, Rita made many friends during her life and her wise and encouraging advice was continually sought by family and friends alike. She found special joy in talking on the phone to everyone she knew. There was nothing that made her happier than the time spent with family and friends. She particularly enjoyed playing cards with her children and grandchildren. Rita was always active and like the energizer bunny never seemed to stop even when her health declined. She will be long remembered for her positive outlook, the love and devotion she showered on her family, and for her warm, generous and caring personality. She will be sorely missed.

Rita leaves four children: Charles J. Lada and his wife Stacey of Needham, Ann L. Lada of Webster, Joan E. Butterworth and her husband John Butterworth, Jr. of Auburn and Elizabeth L. Elston of Gainesville, FL as well 5 grandchildren: Margaret Lada of Aman Jordan, Navy LT Sam Lada of Washington D.C., Elizabeth Butterworth and John Butterworth III, both of New York, NY, Joseph Lada Elston of Gainesville FL, sister-in-law Theresa Lada of Webster, and many beloved nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by her husband Joseph in 2017 and their son-in-law Richard Elston as well as her sisters Charlotte (Garabedian) and Alfreda (Pepka) and brothers Henry, Chester, John, Theodore, Edwin, Walter and Leo.

The family is planning a private burial service in Orleans, MA. Donations in her name may be made to the: Webster Education Foundation, 77 Poland St., Webster, MA 01570.

A Place To Call Home...

JUST LISTED

KILLINGLY-This young Raised Ranch located in a great neighborhood is ready for new owners. Home has a relatively new roof, vinyl siding, newer hot water heater and new paint. Spacious living room opens to the dining area and good working kitchen. There are 3 bedrooms and a full bathroom on the first floor along with a back door to an oversized rear deck and private wooded backyard. The home also has a partially finished lower level living space adding an additional 300 sq. ft. of finished space just needing a heating source (previously had a pellet stove) along with a nice laundry area and a great utility storage area. $189,900

JUST LISTED

PUTNAM-Built in the mid '60's, this Ranch style home is located on 5 acre with frontage on two roads in a Residential neighborhood walking distance to downtown, schools, playgrounds and amenities. The kitchen has a generous amount of cabinets/countertops. The adjoining dining area has sliders onto an enclosed porch overlooking a very private backyard. There are 2 bedrooms and 1 bath. The basement is a walk-out with 2 garage doors for easy in and out of tools and equipment. There is also a sizeable backyard deck off this level. Yard has been well taken care of with good curb appeal. $159,900

NEW PRICE

WOODSTOCK A unique Ranch style home sitting on 1.27 AC, this 3 (possible 4th in the lower level/in-law potential) bdrm. home has 2 full baths and plenty of extra living space. Upstairs, a large eating space kitchen opens to a dining room with wide pine floors and a living room with vaulted ceilings and a newer pellet stove. The master suite features a full bath with double sinks and there are 2 additional bedrooms and a full bath on the main floor. The lower level is just about completely finished with a bar, another possibly bdrm, and a family room. The commercially zoned barn is over 3,500 sq. ft. on 2 floors of commercial space with heating system that could easily be hooked up along with plumbing for a potential bathroom. Currently heated with pellet stove. The town of Woodstock is limiting commercially zoned properties in the town so do not miss this opportunity to live and work on one property! $334,900

NEW PRICE

GRAFTON, MA-Townhouse style condominium located in Hillview Estates. Drive right into the 1 car attached garage and enter into a great mudroom with a couple steps up to the open living concept. The kitchen has stainless steel appliances, granite countertops, and plenty of working space. There is a perfect dining space large enough for an oversized table and the living room with a gas fireplace and slider to the rear deck. The second level features a potential office space, second bedroom with a full bathroom and the laundry facilities. The Silver Club BUS TRIPS for 2018 Please call Sue at 508-476-5820 for more information.

The Silver Club of the Uxbridge Senior Center has availability on the following trips:

Join the Silver Club of the Uxbridge Senior Center for a fall foliage trip and enjoy a bit of history! On Oct. 10 we will take a ride to Portland, ME and ride the narrow gauge RR there and enjoy the museum. There are very few narrow gauge railways left.

The lunch is at the Clambake Restaurant in Scarborough, ME with choices of baked haddock, baked stuffed chicken breast, or fried clam strips. We will have lunch 1st, then ride the RR in the afternoon. The track runs right along the ocean in Casco Bay! Talk about ocean view driving! There is also a very interesting museum with a couple of historic rail cars and a caboose as well as much history of the RR that we will have time to explore. Jump on the train while you have a chance! Who knows how long something from the 1800's will still be in existence? Now is your chance! Enjoy the foliage on the ride to ME, and a fun day out on a historic railroad! Leaves Whitinsville Walmart at 8AM, Westboro Stop and Shop, 32 Lyman St. 8:45AM, returns around 6:30. $64. includes the bus, the tour & museum, the meal and all gratuities. Please include name, address, phone # (cell and home) and MEAL CHOICE.

The Newport Mansions at Christmas: Wednesday, Nov. 28. $86. We will tour Marble House and the Breakers all dressed up for Christmas! If you think the mansions are magnificent by themselves, wait until you see them at Christmas! Lunch will be a choice of grilled hangar steak, lobster roll, or penne alla vodka at the restaurant At the Deck right at the wharf area. Leaves Whitinsville at 7:30, home around 5:30.

Bright Lights at Forest Park, Storrowton Village & Yankee Candle: Wednesday, Dec. 5 $76. Lunch will be at the Storrowton Tavern with a choice of baked scrod, Yankee pot roast, or vegetable compose. Take a tour of the decorated buildings of Storrowton Village during the day and a tour of the Christmas Lights at Forest Park at night. Sandwich a trip to Yankee Candle into the middle! Leaves Westboro at 8 a.m., Whitinsville at 8:45 and home around 8:30 p.m.

North Conway: 3 day trip Dec. 12-14. $469. Stay at the luxurious White Mountain Hotel and Resort and eat all your meals in their dining room overlooking the mountains. Order off the menu for breakfast, lunch and dinner. See three Christmas shows and take a guided tour of the northern valley as well as having some free time in North Conway to do some tax free Christmas shopping. Enjoy their heated (like bath-water!) outdoor pool!

Please call Sue to reserve any of these trips. (508) 476-5820

After completing his undergraduate education, Dr. Park knew that he was interested in a clinical career. He, then navigated his studies toward dentistry as he went on to pursue his Doctor of Dental Medicine degree at the prestigious Tufts University School of Dental Medicine. Dr. Park completed a general practice residency at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, where he was able to improve and polish his skills. He continues his education by taking courses around the world to keep him updated on the latest research and innovative dental techniques. Dr. Park currently has professional affiliations with the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry (AACD), American Dental Association (ADA)

After working as an associate for several dental practices, Dr. Park found that he would never quite satisfy his desire to serve patients while working under someone else. While he had access to patients, he was not able to develop the close relationships he finds deeply critical to quality dental care. This led him to open his own practice in Southbridge and the patients he's met have affirmed his decision. The people of Southbridge have developed a special place in Dr. Park's heart and he is committed to serving the community to the fullest.

When he is not in the office, Dr. Park enjoys being outdoors as much as possible. His hobbies include rock climbing, skiing, playing tennis with his colleagues, and spending time with his loved ones. He can't wait to meet you!

How to make smart choices at the buffet table

Healthy eaters can do their best to avoid the "buffet binge" at their next special occasion.

Buffet dining can be found everywhere from wedding receptions to all-inclusive resorts to cafeteria-style restaurants. Unlimited access to a wide array of foods means there's likely something for everyone to enjoy at the buffet table. But having so many foods at one's fingertips also may compel some people to overeat. Some people are tempted to get their money's worth, while others have difficulty controlling portions with so many delicious offerings beckoning. Limitless food supplies often tempt people to dine on much more than they normally would at sit-down meals. Dubbed "buffet binging," individuals may walk away from buffet lines feeling bloated.

However, there are some tricks to enjoy buffets without ending up with the post-buffet bloat. Do a sweep of the area first. Examine the buffet offerings before picking up a plate. If something looks irresistible, leave room for it by going spar-

- ingly on other foods.
- Snack before arriving. Fill up on high-fiber foods before visiting the buffet line so you'll be less likely to overdo it. If that's not possible, have a salad or broth-based soup as an appetizer. Both options are filling but not too high in calories.
- Use a small plate. Pick a small plate so you can't fill it up with more food than you need to feel satisfied. If you're still hungry after finishing your plate, you can always go back for a second helping.
- Pick some protein. If the idea is to make the meal worth it from a financial standpoint, stick to protein-rich offerings like meat, poultry and seafood. These tend to be the most expensive items on the spread.
- Choose unusual foods. When indulging in an item or two, select foods you don't regularly have access to. And don't hesitate to give signature dishes a try.
- Load up on veggies. Fill your plate with plenty of vegetables, which are filling and healthy. Just be wary of how veggies are prepared, skipping those that are coated in cream sauces or look laden with butter.
- Indulge wisely in desserts. Pick up very small pieces of dessert if you want to sample various offerings. Fill the rest of the plate with fresh fruit, which is refreshing and low in calories.
- Slow down. Eat slowly and register when you are full. This will help you eat with your stomach and not your eyes. After visiting the buffet line, sit beyond the sightline of the buffet so you're not tempted to revisit it.

Explore new flavors over an open flame

Just about anything can be cooked over an open flame. No matter the type of grilling they're using, cooks who prepare meals over an open flame can't help but notice the distinctive flavor that's unique to grilled foods. Trying something new this grilling season can open cooks' eyes to a host of flavors they might not instantly associate with grilling. The following recipe for "Ginger Soy Chicken Breasts" from Eric Treuille and Birgit Erath's "Grilling" (DK Publishing) is one such meal that can open cooks' eyes to the many wonderful foods that can be cooked over an open flame.

GINGER SOY CHICKEN BREASTS SERVES 4

2 tablespoons grated fresh ginger
 3 garlic cloves, crushed
 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
 2 teaspoons sesame seeds
 2 teaspoons toasted sesame oil
 1 tablespoon medium dry sherry
 1/2 cup soy sauce
 4 boneless chicken breast halves, slashed (see below)
 Salt
 Black pepper
 1 recipe Cilantro Coconut Sauce (see below), optional

Combine ginger, garlic, sugar, sesame seeds, sesame oil, sherry, and soy sauce. Add chicken and toss to coat evenly. Cover and refrigerate for 30 minutes, turning once. Grill according to instructions below. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Serve hot with

CILANTRO COCONUT SAUCE (optional).

To slash chicken breasts: With a sharp knife, cut 3 parallel slashes through skin, about 14-inch deep.

Outdoor grill: Grill skin-side down on medium-hot coals until crisp, about 7 minutes. Turn and continue grilling until chicken is opaque with no trace of pink, another 5 minutes.

Indoor grill: Preheat broiler. Broil skin-side up until skin is crisp, about 7 minutes. Turn and continue cooking until chicken is opaque with no trace of pink, another 5 minutes.

CILANTRO COCONUT SAUCE MAKES 2 1/8 CUPS

- 1 handful cilantro leaves
- 1 handful fresh mint leaves
- 4 garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 green chile, seeded and chopped
- 1 avocado, peeled, halved and pitted
- 1/2 teaspoon grand cumin
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
- 1 1/2 cups coconut milk
- Salt
- Tabasco sauce

Place cilantro, mint, garlic, chile, avocado, cumin, sugar, lime juice, and coconut milk in a food processor or blender; pulse to a purée. Add salt and Tabasco sauce to taste. Cover and refrigerate for 30 minutes to allow flavors to blend. Serve chilled.

Cooks note: To avoid discoloration, store in a bowl with plastic wrap, pressing directly on the sauce to prevent contact with air.

Most popular ethnic cuisines across the country

Chinese food is one of the most popular ethnic cuisines enjoyed in both Canada and the United States.

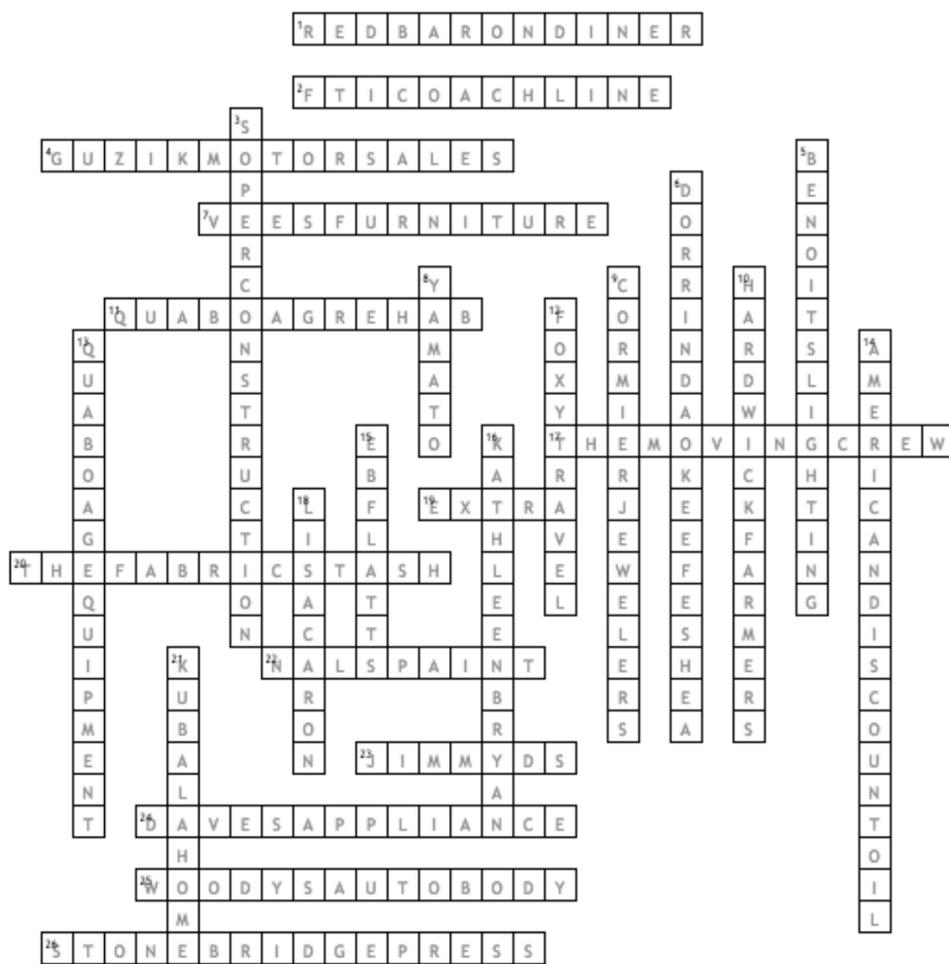

What constitutes "ethnic" food differs from person to person. Someone of Italian descent may dine regularly on garlic-infused pasta dishes, while a person from another area of the world may find such foods exotic. In the cultural melting pot of North America, various cuisines representing countries that span the globe are within arm's length for many people. According to Technomic, a Chicago-based research firm, 77 percent of Americans enjoy ethnic foods while dining out once a month. Around 38 percent order ethnic food weekly. In addition, many more people prepare ethnic cuisine at home. A growing interest in ethnic foods is fueled by young people. Technomic notes that millennials are more apt to want to try various cuisines and then incorporate them into their regular dining experiences. The National Restaurant Association found that 60 percent of people are likely to "tie their favorite ethnic food to their family history." Interest in ethnic foods tends to be highest in urban areas where restaurants and ingredients may be more readily available. When it comes to the top ethnic cuisines enjoyed throughout the states or provinces and territories, Chinese, Mexican and Italian rally for the top spots on diners' plates. While the NRA has Italian cuisine as earning top-billing, Technomic's list says that Chinese food, at 76 percent, followed by Mexican food (74 percent) and Italian (71 percent) comprise the biggest ethnic draws. Japanese or sushi comes in a distant fourth at 32 percent in the United States. The statistics portal Statista indicates that, as of January 2015, Chinese, American and Italian foods are quite popular in Canada. However, the percentage of people who cook these foods as opposed to eating them out at a restaurant varies. Chinese food is most widely enjoyed in a restaurant setting, while Italian food is frequently whipped up at home. As immigration tides change, ethnic cuisine may change with them. However, interest in experiencing ethnic dining is likely to remain consistent.

Potential benefits of a vegan diet

A nutritious diet is an integral component of a healthy lifestyle. One of the great things about eating right is there are many ways to do so. A healthy diet that works for some people might not work for others with different tastes, and it doesn't have to.

Eating right can boost immune systems and help people be more productive, and some people even tailor their healthy diets to align with their personal beliefs. One such example is veganism. Adherents to veganism do not eat or use animal products, and many do so to advocate for the ethical treatment of animals.

Regardless of why people choose vegan diets, the potential health benefits of such decisions are myriad.

- Shed excess weight: Vegan diets may help people shed excess weight. A 2015 study published in the journal Nutrition found that vegan diets may result in greater weight loss than more modest recommendations. The vegan diets used in the study did not require participants to limit their caloric intake, though many might have simply by the nature of the vegan diet, which is packed with satisfying foods full of nutrients such as fiber that can help people feel full and maintain that feeling of fullness for long periods of time.
- Improve kidney func- tion: Studies have indicated that people with diabetes who replace the meat in their diets with plant protein may reduce their risk for poor kidney function. One such study, published in the Asia Pacific Journal of Clinical Nutrition, concluded that, while more studies are necessary, substituting soy protein for animal proteins usually decreases hyperfiltration in diabetic subjects and may reduce albumin excretion as well.

- Protect against certain cancers: The World Health Organization says that roughly one-third of all instances of cancer across the globe can be prevented if people make the right lifestyle choices. That includes their choice in diets. Due to the nature of vegan diets, vegans tend to consume considerable amounts of fruits and vegetables. That's good news, as an analysis of data from the Health Survey for England found that eating seven or more portions of fresh fruits and vegetables every day can reduce a person's risk of dying from cancer by as much as 15 percent.

- Reduce risk for heart disease: Fruits, vegetables and fiber also have been linked to a lower risk of heart disease. A study from researchers in Japan found that intakes of plant-based foods, particularly fruits, were associated with reduced mortality from cardiovascular disease. Vegan diets may necessitate an adjustment period when starting out. But over time, the benefits of such diets are numerous.
