Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: Should I buy a new or used vehicle?

The RIGHT answer: This is a question that people have asked for years. The answer is one that is dependent on a number of factors. Some people are concerned about potential problems when buying a used car. At Place Motor we complete a 172 point inspection of our used vehicles. We make sure that our customers can feel confident they are getting a good car or truck when they do business with us. While an extended service plan can help alleviate these concerns it doesn't always do enough to make a customer happy. New Vehicles carry the factory warranty to solve these issues. Usually a defining factor is budget. Customers must consider what they can comfortably afford. Buying a used car or truck saves customers thousands of dollars as compared to a new vehicle. Sometimes when buying a used car payments can still be a problem for a customer's budget. Many banks will shorten available terms or require more money down and this can strain anyone's budget. We work with several lenders and offer certified used vehicles so in most cases we are able to help customers achieve their required budget. While new vehicles are more expensive than used, new vehicles generally have rebates or special finance rates to make them more affordable. We have seen cases where the monthly payment for a new car is very close to that of a used car. With the availability of leasing programs a new car payment could even be less than that of a used car.

Here at Place Motor our goal is to help you get the RIGHT vehicle for your needs and budget. We will spend some time with you to make sure we understand your needs, offer you affordable solutions and make sure that you get the RIGHT vehicle at the RIGHT price. Come see why at Place Motor we are the RIGHT PLACE SINCE 1923.

Dudley’s neighbor: New Boston and Quinebaug

As you travel west on today’s Route 197 through Dudley, you cross into Connecticut and enter the village of Quinebaug (part of Thompson, CT). Before Thompson became a town in 1785, the Quinebaug area and today’s Fabyan were called New Boston.

Although the Quinebaug area sat on a well-used path between Boston and Hartford, in the late 1700s, it was sparsely populated. However, in 1804 the Springfield to Providence Turnpike was chartered and built shortly thereafter, passing through Quinebaug. By 1828 an improved turnpike between Hartford and Boston was built, crossing the old Springfield to Providence Turnpike and creating the intersection still in use today: the “four corners” in Quinebaug. It was said that once up to 20 stages a day rumbled through the village. But with the arrival of the railroad in 1865, the stagecoach traffic through Quinebaug decreased.

A large old mill at New Boston had several owners over the years but due to catastrophes of various ilks, none survived for long. (One old tale said it was because when building the mill originally, the builders “had let the devil into the wheel pit”!) In 1865, George T. Murdock, manufacturer of woolen goods, opened the New Boston Manufacturing Company at the defunct New Boston mill. Mr. Murdock and his son made a success of the enterprise and over many years brought myriad social, cultural, and political improvements to New Boston. It became THE place to go in the 1870s and 1880s for concerts, dances, social events, etc. for the folks in New Boston as well as the town of Dudley and surrounds. New Boston had its own post office also serving the Quinebaug section. In July 1874, however, a new post office was opened near the so-called New Boston (train) depot located in the Quinebaug section. The name was now officially the Quinebaug, CT post office with Mr. S. E. Amidon post master. The depot was known as Quinebaug CT as well. The old New Boston post office then closed for some time owing to confusion between it and several New England towns of the same name. In 1910, a family named Rawister purchased Murdock’s old mill and renamed it Fabyan Woolen after their father in Germany. Some time after 1912 the village of New Boston became renamed Fabyan as well. The old New Boston post office did reopen in 1916 but it was now known as the Fabyan post office. New Boston had essentially disappeared. The village of Quinebaug, however, flourished in the early 1900s with the railroad, train station, post office, several taverns, several general stores, and even a little building peddling fire-works as well as the Intervale Mill of Eben S. Stevens. The village was not without some singularly spectacular occurrences, however.

In 1911 a drunken Quinebaug party-goer carrying both a single- and a double-barreled shotgun killed a man and wounded another. Electric lights were not installed into residents’ homes until 1924, and the M. T. Dartt general store was robbed three times one year.

In May 1926, a fire threatening to destroy the whole village broke out at Michael Dartt’s large 2-1/2 story general store near the four corners. When the fire was discovered, the volunteer firemen from Intervale Mill ran to the scene before Webster and Southbridge arrived but the building was, as they say, fully involved. An intense heat poured forth from the burning building and the adjacent highway in the center became so soft that traffic was detoured through fields to another road. Both Webster and Southbridge fire departments arrived and laid over 2,000 feet of hose but the Dartt store and the post office (with all the mail) were totally destroyed. Serious water and fire damage also occurred at the store and home of Peter Condos across the street. The lookout tower in Charlton thought it was a forest fire.

When no further apparatus could be sent, a bus from the Acme Bus Lines of William Haggerty rolled up with 35 more firemen; private trucks brought more men as well. By 5:30 p.m. the huge fire was out. No one had died. It was estimated $25,000 damage (in 1926 dollars) had been done.

The little village survived, Dartt’s store and the post office were rebuilt. Today Quinebaug is home to residences, a post office, a new fire and police station, several restaurants, and other businesses as well as the original St. Stephen’s Church built by Eben S. Stevens for his workers about 1883.

Nichols launches fourth year of early college high school program

DUDLEY—Nichols College has continued this fall with a program aimed at exposing high school students to college-level academics.

Nichols hosted more than 50 seniors and first-year students from Bartlett High School in Webster last month to kick-off the fourth year of the Nichols Honors Academy.

A ceremony in Daniels Auditorium — led by Nichols President Susan West Engelkemeyer, PhD; longtime Nichols benefactor and trustee Gerald Fels, new Webster Superintendent Ruthann Goguen, and Bartlett Principal Steve Knowlton — recognized the 12th graders for their achievement so far, while the newly inducted ninth graders received a hearty welcome as well as Chrome laptops to launch their Honors Academy careers.

Through this program, high school juniors and seniors are able to take college courses on the Nichols campus, while freshman and sophomores visit four times during the school year to get coaching in college readiness as well as simulating a full college day. The students are selected for the program based on their academic achievement and college ambitions.

“You’ve been selected,” Knowlton exhorted the students. “You can do it. You wouldn’t be sitting here if we didn’t think that you belonged here.”

In her remarks, Engelkemeyer singled out the seniors. “We recognize you as our pioneers,” she told them. “I hope your successful experience in the Nichols courses helps you to know, ‘I’ve got it’, when it comes to the ability to do college-level work.

Fels, who with his wife Marilyn sponsors the Honors Academy, added, “I hope the program has fulfilled your expectations and helped you decide on how to pursue a college education. Keep going at it. Keep plugging away. At some point, you’ll give back to the community.”

Massachusetts Gov. Charlie Baker has touted similar programs across the state.

“Exposing high school students to college-level material while earning credits is a worthy investment in both our students and future workforce,” Gov. Baker tweeted on Oct. 17.

During the four-hour opening event at Nichols, which also included a number of Bartlett teachers and administrators, the first-year students toured the campus and received Nichols identification cards for future visits.

The seniors — all of them college bound — focused on their college plans in a session with Nichols Vice President of Academic Affairs Mauri Pelto, PhD, and admissions counselor Tahkeya Black.

Friday’s Child

Joey is an insightful twelve-year-old boy of Caucasian descent. Joey enjoys sports and likes to play football, basketball and soccer. He also loves animals and takes special care of one of the therapy dogs, Ellen, at his current placement. Joey is a bright child who generally does well in school.

Legally freed for adoption, Joey needs an experienced two parent family that will provide a structured home with clear expectations and rules. Joey may need post adoption contact with his sister who is one year older than he is. Joey would do best in a home where he is the only child or with other children that are significantly older.

Should I rush to get my home on the market before the holidays?

Traditionally we will see a slow down in the market starting just before thanksgiving and then picking up after the new year. So the answer to the question could be yes or no. I always suggest looking at the inventory of similar homes because if there are no similar homes in your area then you may want your home to go on the market because someone relocating from another area is going to relocate regardless of what holidays come up. If your home is not on the market then you may miss out on a great opportunity. The other thing to consider is that during this timeframe you will most likely only have serious buyers because only serious buyer want to trek through snow and cold weather to look at homes. At the same time, if you are looking to buy a home as well then you may have less homes to view as many people take their home off the market in the fall and winter. I always suggest not to rush to get your home on the market as it may not show as well as it could and thus causing you to take a lower price for the home. If you decided today to move I would suggest making any necessary repairs, stage the home for pictures and then reevaluate the market when the home is ready to market to decide if it is the right time and this way you can win the beauty competition because that is what you are entering when your home goes up for sale. I was looking at an article last year posted on Realtor.com that said staged homes sell 88% faster and for 20% more money than homes that were not staged for the sale. This tells me staging is important to the sale of your home. So there is really no cut and dry answer to this question. If you meet with a Seasoned Realtor that is familiar with your market and your situation they should be able to guide in what is the best decision for you and your home.

Exploring lineage with the DAR

Kathy Kaldis, center, and other DAR members dig through the books and online sources to document a prospective member's claim to descent from a Revolutionary War patriot.

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

OXFORD – Think you’ve got a Revolutionary War ancestor? The Daughters of the American Revolution can help you prove it, and they’re seeking 250,000 new members over the next several years to celebrate the upcoming 250th anniversary of the Revolution in 2025.

To help that process, regional DAR representatives gathered in Oxford last weekend to review some basics of genealogy, some changes in what the DAR looks for as documentation, and to help a few prospective members firm up their claim to having patriots in their family lines.

Beverly Beaudette of Charlton already knows hers – Daniel Townsend, who died at Lexington in 1775. She said she got interested in genealogy when her mother told her they were “related to the Presidents Adams.” Over several years, she found out that was true by doing lots of footwork, and identified other interesting relatives going back to about 1500, including Grizzly Adams and a man whose name now graces the Piper Trail up Mt. Chocorua in New Hampshire.

“He went up the mountain to avoid the Civil War draft,” Beaudette said. “I like finding the things they tried to hide. It gives me a feeling of accomplishment.”

One ancestor, she added, “stole Indian babies and sold them on the black market.”

Beaudette is one of the 12 members of Oxford’s Gen. Ebenezer Learned Chapter, led by Helen Poirier. Poirier noted several of their group aren’t in town, but joined because of either a family connection to Oxford or because the patriot that makes them eligible was a member of Learned’s unit.

“We do need people here to do things, though,” she added.

Poirier, an Auburn resident and research coordinator at the historical society there, said her interest in genealogy started about 30 years ago, “but life got in the way.” When she retired from teaching four years ago, she took a summer genealogy course in Auburn and picked up the thread again. She quickly decided against trying to decipher her Italian side, because that’d require going to Italy, so she tried an Irish line and “hit a wall” within a couple of generations. She shifted to her maiden name -- Leonard -- and was able to trace that back a long way, including an Irish man who was brought to Taunton for his expertise in metalworking.

“I had no idea there was a patriot” in the family, she said. “I had no inkling we went back that far.”

“My grandfather’s niece already had DAR membership, so I just had to prove my connection to him and her,” Poirier said, noting he was in the U.S. Army unit that pursued Pancho Villa around the desert southwest in the early 1900s.

She’s referring to the fact new members can tap into existing lineages. Since others have done the work, they don’t have to provide documents going all the way back, although if they have additional information or corrections, those are always welcome.

“Through the DAR, in a round-about way, I found out things about my father and grandfather,” she said. “I wish they were still around to know. When I go clean up their gravesite, I tell them what I’ve found.”

State DAR Genealogists’ Committee chair Kathy Kaldis of Lexington said the DAR has one of the most strict documentation policies of any historical organization, so much so that the Sons and Children of the American Revolution will both accept DAR lineage certification for membership, but not vice versa.

Prospective members can claim ancestry from any of three kinds of Revolutionary-era people, male or female: actual soldiers; people who were elected to some local, state or US office in that era or otherwise had to take an oath of allegiance; and those who paid taxes or donated cash, goods or services to support the Continental cause. The ancestor could have served all eight years of the war, or just helped feed the horses for a day, she said.

“We’re really pretty lucky,” she said of the Massachusetts Chapter. “Our records go back to the Mayflower. Some states aren’t so lucky.”

While every member has to have one documented patriot, many find they have several ancestors who lived here during the key period of April 19, 1775 (Lexington & Concord) to Nov. 26, 1783

(Yorktown).

“You don’t have to have a patriot ancestor right away; we can find you one,” Irene Germano said. “If they were living here then, chances are they were not Tories and did not go to Canada. They probably at least paid a supply tax.”

A list of Massachusetts’ 39 DAR chapters is at www.massdar.org. The group is open to all women age 18+; men go to one of the SAR’s 9 chapters (see www.massar.org), and children, to the CAR’s 8 chapters (<http://massachusettscar.weebly.com>). The latter automatically graduate into either DAR or SAR when they hit age 18.

Officer Friendly meets with kids

The week of October 1st was Community Policing Week in Massachusetts. During that week, Dudley Police Chief Steve Wojnar officially kicked off the program known as “Officer Friendly” at the Mason Road School.

For those unfamiliar with this program, the Chief visits the school from time to time throughout the year having lunch and informally interacting with the students at the school. These early visits serve as a day of introduction with the first grade and kindergarten classes.

Dudley Police Chief Steven Wojnar is meeting with one of the first grade classes at Mason Road School.

He met the children, explained his job and police work in general, and provided a few safety tips.

The goal of this program is to minimize the fear and apprehension children may have about the police. Unfortunately, at a young age, many children only know police through negative experiences. By meeting with the children in a casual manner, the program tries to provide students with a positive image of police officers and an overall understanding of police work. Chief Wojnar has participated in this program for approximately 20 years and truly enjoys the time spent with the children.

The Dudley Police wish to thank Principal Robin Parmley and her staff for working with the Chief and the other officers on this and many programs at the school. They also wish to thank Superintendent Desto and all the principals from each of the Dudley schools for their assistance and dedication to promoting the various initiatives throughout the years.

The wreath placing will take place at approximately 9:45 a.m. All that wish to attend are certainly more than welcome. 125 years of education celebrated AUBURN — On a quiet Sunday afternoon, the Elks Lodge of Auburn-Webster was crowded with families and friends to celebrate over food and comradeship a significant milestone. St. Joseph School is celebrating 125 years of education this year.

Workers of Polish descent began settling in Webster as early as 1862, and it is recorded that Slater’s Mills actually recruited Polish workers, bringing five families here from New York.

Others followed. They attended St. Louis, but yearned for parish priests who spoke their language. By 1887, within a short 20 year span, the cornerstone for St. Joseph Church was laid, and the first pastor given the task of developing the parish.

Among his duties was developing a school, and he built a two story frame building on the property containing four classrooms on the first floor with a convent on the second.

He found his teaching staff in the Felician Sisters, who came to teach the first 90 children enrolled.

There were some upheavals, changes in diocesan oversight but by 1910 a three story convent was built, a church of Gothic architecture erected in 1914 and a 20 room school completed in 1925, all with brick construction. A fire unfortunately destroyed this school building, but the parish rebuilt immediately, and by 1928 more than 1100 students were enrolled.

Proud of the ties to its culture, St. Joseph continues to celebrate Polish heritage with many traditions, including as part of this program the singing of the Polish National Anthem by a small chorus of students including Elzbieta Gorek, Maya Podskarbi, Gabby Pianka and Emilia Pianka.

In this more diverse world though, the school and the church has found itself embracing even more cultural changes, and holds not only its Polish Festival, but diversity dinners and events to celebrate the cultures of its many parish families.

Students also entertained dinner guests with selections from the musical Into the Woods.

The year has included several events to commemorate the anniversary; culminating in this dinner. The 125th Anniversary Committee included: Msgr. Anthony Czarnecki, Headmaster; Michael Hackenson, Principal; Richard Skrocki, Dean of Studies; Ewa Mamro, Business Manager; Beth Boudreau, Director of Advancement; Kelly Bailey, Fine Arts Director; Sr. Jeanne Marie Akslski, Felician Sister and fourth grade teacher; Jane Baron, Parish Council; Cindi Gardner, President, St. Joseph Women’s Club; Elaine Miller, Vice President, St. Joseph Women’s Club; Sylvia Kitka, Altar Guild; Barbara Kryger, Sacred Heart Society; Genevieve Lariviere, St. Anne Society; and Betty Sabaj, Holy Rosary Sodality.

of your application essay,” Pelto counseled as he began the 75-minute workshop. “If you don’t start thinking about the essay now, it won’t be great.”

Bartlett senior Connor Brennan got that message.

“I have two ideas,” he revealed. “One of them is based on supporting a friend going through drug problems.”

The other, Brennan continued, would focus on the summer he spent in Germany with students from seven different countries.

“We were all at peace,” he recalled.

“They offer you a lot of opportunities, especially opening up the college classes,” Brennan said of the Honors Academy. “They really put kids on a head-start program to college.”

“They definitely challenge us to be leaders,” agreed fellow Bartlett senior Zoe Thomas.

Last year students from several surrounding high schools, including Bartlett, Oxford, and Shepherd Hill Regional in Dudley, took Nichols courses in international business and in principles of marketing. This fall, they can enroll in the College’s introductory political science class.

“The chance to try on college life and to think about what you’d like to do later is really wonderful,” Goguen noted. “I’ve been thrilled to learn about the program.”

Enter the season of change

November. Not quite winter, too late for fall; a biting wind one day and balmy the next, it's a month in quandary. The closest thing to November in many ways is it's opposite: March.

Changing from one major season to another is tough on Mother Nature. The actions are not swift and sure, but tentative, slow and unclear.

The sou'easter that swept through last weekend was one example, we can be grateful it didn't contain snow.

It did, however, strip the trees of remaining leaves, so the end came swiftly for leaf peepers.

Dressing oneself is a challenge too. A shivery 40 in the morning that feels like sweaters and even a jacket might give way to 70 by afternoon and the need to peel off a layer. Then, by the time the sun disappears, the temperature drops once more, and the shivers return.

We are watching closely the decisions being considered by Charlton and Dudley concerning the school district. Is it cost effective or even a good educational decision to go their separate ways? It could mean duplicating several positions, particularly administratively. And there would be a need for one town to create space for a separate high school program, another expense.

There would be expenses incurred for additional teachers for some programs, think of "specials" such as art and music; and transportation costs for separate schools (no longer reimbursed at all by the state...any of it. Independent districts get NO reimbursement for transportation at all.)

There would be new offices needing new support staff, janitorial services for separate buildings, additional costs for separate coaching staff for athletics....

We just don't see where there are ANY savings for anyone here money wise.

Pride wise. Maybe.

Frustration deflator, perhaps.

But savings? Nope. None.

So that change should not be on the horizon at all.

But we can't help but add one final note to this week's essay; it needs to be said.

Lake Char goggagoggm anch auggagoggc haubunagung amauagg. A beautiful place.

Now has a closed sign on it in big red letters.

It has become an exclusive place for only those privileged few who can afford to own property there; who can now regulate who can use the pristine waters once a food source for local people and, lest we forget, for other people from other areas such as Narragansett Bay, who came here to trade their food for the fresh fish caught here.

Out of towners indeed.

The rich history of the lake is built on it.

But with higher rates levied to anyone not a resident just to visit the beach; now restrictions to those who would visit and put vessels into the water...

Webster will be cutting off its own nose to spite its face here. What could have been a lucrative draw for tourism dollars will make the town a laughing stock of wiser places. Try putting such regulations in place on the Cape or the Vineyard; to keep out those pesky people who spend money at local establishments at any ocean fronting community.

How provincial. And how sad.

Chito: amazing job

e Editor:

On Saturday, Feb. 4, 2017, our family lost the patriarch of our family, Charles "Charlie" Chito, a vibrant man, with a zest for life and a love for his family: his wife, his children, and his grandchildren.

I write to you today, not only to pay homage to my father, but to express my thanks first, to your newspaper for publishing my father's obituary and photograph, which I was informed by our funeral director, your publication does free of charge. We are very thankful for this service you provide.

Additionally, we'd like to thank the entire parish of Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church in Webster. The funeral service was beautiful, and well attended.

Finally, we'd like to thank Richard D. Majercik, Joseph Gliniecki, and the staff of the Shaw-Majercik Funeral Home. For many years, Shaw-Majercik

Funeral Home has served the community of Webster. Serving all faiths, rich or poor, with dignity, class and care. Our father looked so at peace, and every detail of his funeral was well attended to. Although the weather was not cooperative the day of his funeral, Richard made sure our father's funeral carried on, and he and his staff endured the weather, and we laid our father to rest.

We had peace of mind knowing that Shaw-Majercik Funeral Home had served not only our family, but our parish family in the past, and was a well known funeral home with an outstanding reputation for caring and affordability.

Again, thank you to your newspaper, our parish, and the staff of the Shaw-Majercik Funeral Home for making Dad's funeral memorable.

Checklist for helping you choose a financial professional

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

For reasons likely to remain obscure, October 30 is Checklist Day. But while the origins of this observance may be a mystery, the value of checklists is clear: They help us organize our time and break large jobs into manageable steps. You can use a checklist for just about any significant endeavor – including the task of choosing a financial professional to help you achieve your important goals.

Here's what such a checklist might look like:

Find someone with the proper credentials. Make sure a prospective financial professional has the appropriate securities registrations.

Find someone who has worked with people like you. You'll want to seek out a financial professional who has experience working with people in circumstances similar to yours – that is, people of your financial status and with essentially the same goals and attitudes toward investing.

Find someone who will communicate with you regularly. During the course of your relationship with a financial professional, you will have many questions: Are my investments performing as they should? Should I change my investment mix? Am I still on track to meet my long-term goals? Plus, you will have changes in your life – new children, new jobs, new activities – that will affect your financial picture and that need to be communicated to your financial professional. Consequently, you need to be sure that whomever you work with is easy to reach and will be in regular contact with you. Many financial professionals meet with their clients at least once a year to discuss the clients' portfolios and recommend changes, as needed, and also make themselves available, through phone calls and email, for any questions or concerns their clients may have.

Find someone who will honor your preferences. Some financial professionals follow certain philosophies. For example, you might find one advisor who tends to favor aggressive investing, while another one might be more conservative. There's nothing wrong with either approach, but you'll want to be sure that your preferences take precedence in all recommendations and guidance you receive from a financial professional. And many professionals won't express any of their own preferences at all, but will instead follow a course of action based on your goals, risk tolerance and time horizon.

Find someone connected to other professionals. Your investment plans don't exist in a vacuum. Over time, you will likely need to integrate elements of your investment strategy with your tax and estate planning strategies. When this happens, you may find it advantageous to have a financial professional who can work with tax and legal professionals to help you meet all your needs in these areas.

Find someone whose compensation structure is acceptable to you. Financial professionals get paid in different ways – through fees, commissions or a combination of both. Which method is best for you, as an investor? There's no one "right" answer – but you will certainly want to understand exactly how your financial professional will get paid and how this pay structure will affect your interactions with him or her.

You may find this checklist to be useful when you interview financial professionals. Take your time and make sure you're confident about your ultimate choice. After all, you're hiring someone to help you reach your key goals, such as a comfortable retirement, so you'll want to get the right person on your side.

on their holiday purchases will be buying gifts now in preparation for the season. Many people choose to shop on-line. By doing this, they can avoid the long lines at malls and shop from the convenience of their home. This results in the home delivery of packages. With thefts of packages left on door steps prevalent during this time of the year, I wanted to provide some safety tips.

The number one goal of on-line purchasing is to receive your items in a timely manner. Packages should be delivered to your residence if you will be there or to a trusted family member, friend, or neighbor. Leaving items unattended outside your home can be risky. If the item is taken illegally, you may not be aware of this until long after the incident. The best method of insuring your delivery arrives safe is to make arrangements in advance to have these packages signed for by a person at your home or to have them left with a person you know.

It is always important to track your packages while they are in transit. Most companies provide tracking numbers and have up to date information on where your package is located. Check this process early and often. This can be done over the phone or on-line. If you experience any problems or have questions, contact the company or person who is responsible for shipping your package. Safeguarding your investment is important to make sure your holidays are happy and not frustrating.

Speaking of gifts and with the holiday season soon upon us, our department will once again be collecting Christmas gift donations for local families in need. New and unwrapped toys and clothing can be brought to the Dudley Police Department at 71 West Main Street. Of particular need in the past were gifts for children between the ages of 10-17 years old. The Dudley Police Department thanks everyone in advance for their continued generosity. We have assisted a number of local families in the past. The public will soon have a chance to view a rare Revolutionary War sword. A Leonardo da Vinci painting and valuable Star Wars toy collection will also soon be auctioned according to some recent news reports.

A rare Revolutionary War Connecticut sword will go on public display for the first time according to a Fox News article. Col. Jonathan Pettibone, of the 18th Connecticut Regiment, was born in Simsbury, CT. The silver hilt is engraved with Pettibone's name, which is rare for Revolutionary War swords. The sword also bears the hallmark of silversmith Joseph Copp, of New London, CT. The sword was donated to the Museum of the American Revolution in Philadelphia by B. Owen Williams, a descendent of Pettibone. Williams issued a statement saying, "I'm thrilled that it has survived in remarkably good condition despite my youthful exuberance and blissful ignorance to play with it surreptitiously as a boy." The sword will go on display in 2018.

Reuters reports that the last privately owned painting by Leonardo da Vinci will be hitting the auction block this month. The painting, titled "Salvator Mundi," is one of less than 20 known paintings by the renowned artist. According to Reuters, "the portrait depicts Christ in vivid blue and crimson robes holding a crystal orb."

The first recorded sale of the painting was in 1763, when it was auctioned from the collection of King Charles I. It vanished until 1900 when it was found with Christ's hair and face painted over. An American buyer purchased it in 1958 for 45 pounds from a British auction house. It was auctioned again in 2005, where the over painting was noted. It was consigned for the upcoming auction by a European private collector who had the work restored. The auction estimate is $100 million.

The York Dispatch (York County, PA)

reports that a major collection of Star Wars collectibles is currently being auctioned online. The collection is billed as "the best original trilogy vintage Kenner collection to ever come to auction."

The 700 action figures and other toys are estimated to sell for $1 million. One of the rarest pieces is a Boba Fett action figure with firing missile. While the action figures were being produced, a toy with a similar missile was found to be a choking hazard. The Boba Fett toys with the missiles never went into production. Other rare figures include

Bay Path seeking solar leases

BY GUS STEEVES
STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON – Bay Path Tech is looking at leasing dozens of acres on its campus to become one or more solar arrays.

According to Principal Cliff Cloutier, they target properties comprise about 73 acres in two larger and three smaller pieces in two main areas. The larger two, totaling 40 acres, are north of the school “near the old lagoon,” he told last week’s School Committee meeting. The rest are across Muggett Hill Road, where the plan is to “keep away from the road as much as possible and hide it in the back,” he said.

“It’s clear there’s a market for this even if we don’t use the electricity,” said Superintendent John LaFleche, who noted the school already buys solar credits from an array on Boy Scout property and doesn’t need the power. “Under the new SMART regulations, you can put 5 MW on one contiguous parcel,” so the total project could include 10 MW. But at this point it’s not clear how much of it the member towns will have to approve.

The “SMART regulations” LaFleche cited are the Solar Massachusetts Renewable Target rules, which the state filed in August and are available online at www.mass.gov/eea/docs/doer/rps-aps/225-cmr-20-draft-clean-081117.pdf. Under those rules, the state is aiming to add “1600 MW of new solar generating capacity,” with a lot more flexible rules for projects under 25 kW. Up to 25 kW, projects can get funding for 10 years; larger projects, for 20 years, and the state is requiring the distributors to “concurrently issue competitive solicitations” for proposals of 1-5 MW each totaling about 100 MW, due later this month. The state sets “ceiling prices” based on sizes; in the 1-5 MW range, it is 17 cents per kWh, with bonuses for various things, according to the draft regulations.

To qualify, all projects must start producing power after Jan. 1, 2018; they can get bonuses if they are “co-located with an energy storage system” that’s at least 65 percent efficient or if they’re serving a low-income community, among other things. There are also provisions for floating solar arrays, provided they aren’t in “natural water bodies” and “do not interfere with the continued use of the water body for its designed purposes.”

Bay Path’s project seems like it would fit under the standards for “other pervious open space,” which require the developer to leave all soils in place; use minimal quantities of concrete, asphalt and “footings and other permanent penetration;” and “avoid creating a negative impact to soil and water best management practices” including causing erosion.

LaFleche said his goal is to seek proposals in early November for a 20-year lease, but he’d like to have a solar-experienced lawyer in place to help negotiate the deal. He noted he has already talked to Southbridge and plans to modify their standard request for proposals.

“One of the more important facets of the lease” is removal and disposal of the panels, he said. “Is it hazardous waste 20 years from now? Who knows what it is 20 years from now.”

LaFleche said it could take about two years before any panels actually start producing energy.

Worcester Torathon: our legacy of Jewish values

On Saturday night, Nov. 18, at Congregation Beth Israel in Worcester, rabbis, cantors, educators, and musicians from across New England will join together in an evening of music and study. Torathon will begin with a joyous one-hour concert starting at 6 p.m.

Come join us for this meaningful and spirited concert led by Jewish singer and songwriter Ellen Allard as she set the stage for exploring this year’s Torathon theme: Our Legacy of Jewish Values.

The concert will be followed by three 50-minute sessions of 24 offerings of adult Jewish study including such topics as Jerry Lewis: the King of Comedy, Understanding the Jewish Calendar, Radical Rabbis, The Truth About Tattoos, and Common Ground: Islam and Judaism.

Some of the course descriptions follow:

Jerry Lewis: The King of Comedy, who died just a few months ago. He was also known as a philanthropist who raised millions for muscular dystrophy research. The course will include some of his famous work including one film that was never released.

Radical Rabbis: Rabbi Aviva Fellman discusses some of rabbinic texts that would be considered radical. Discussion will include the body, relationships, and other edgy topics.

Common Ground Islam and Judaism: Practices in common include a religious calendar, dietary laws, modest dress, and life cycle events. Mona Ives, Islamic educator and teacher, will lead the discussion.

The Truth About Tattoos: Rabbi Valerie Cohen leads a discussion about this controversial topic. She will show images of Jewish body art.

Israeli Dancing: Learn traditional and some not so traditional Israeli dances. Dances from the days of the first Israeli pioneers consist mainly of circle and partner dances of Eastern Europe with Arab and Yemenite influences. Maybe we’ll mix in some contemporary steps as well.

Songs to Mend a Broken World: This session covers music of social justice and healing from the civil rights era to the present time. Music covered includes that of Pete Seeger, Simon and Garfunkel, and Woody Guthrie. Leaders are Cantor Reef-Simpson and song leader Ian Simpson.

The Progressive Case for Israel: This is a panel discussion led by local leaders who have traveled to Israel. Topics include the LGBT community, women’s rights, and minorities.

Tickets for Torathon are $20 in advance, by Nov. 16. and $25 at the door. For high school and college students, prices are $5 in advance and $10 at the door. To view the entire evening’s program and to purchase tickets in advance go to www.JewishCentralMass.org/Torathon. Tickets are also available in Worcester, at the Worcester JCC, Jewish Federation of Central Mass., Congregation Beth Israel, and, in Westboro, Congregation B’nai Shalom.

Trick or Treaters invade Main Street Webster

Every year the Webster Police Department embraces a Halloween theme. This year it was Winnie the Pooh...and a Care Bear.

WEBSTER – It’s a Halloween tradition for the town of Webster and in 2017 the weather proved to be beautiful for the annual Main Street Trick or Treat. On Friday, Oct. 27 costumed children and parents from all across the region turned out to visit the many businesses along Webster’s Main Street corridor with business owners and employees also dressed for the yearly event. Everything from superheroes to cartoon characters, traditional monsters, and some more creative getups invaded the center of town to embrace the Halloween spirit and collect their first share of sugary treats to celebrate the holiday.

Inspired by the “Logo: Ninjago” movie, John Amaral of Webster sported the film’s Green Ninja costume.

State Representative Joe McKenna has made it a tradition to stop by the Main Street Trick or Treat in Webster.

Alexis and baby Megan of Webster pose for a photo as they make their way down Main Street in Webster.

NASCAR fan Jason Bianchi of Dudley went retro for his Halloween costume as driver Tony Stewart.

Everyone knows Hot Costumes is a good place to start for a Halloween getup. They brought Captain America to Main Street to pass out treats at their location.

Young Leo of Webster celebrated Halloween dressed as a chef.

Indians control the clock to take down Tantasqua

Jesse Torres of Bartlett carries the ball down the field with a full head of steam.

Bartlett's Romeo Soto runs into the pile versus Tantasqua.

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS STAFF WRITER

STURBRIDGE — Clinging to a two-point lead versus Tantasqua Regional, the Bartlett High varsity football team started a drive at its own 24-yard line with 5:39 to play. The Indians were looking to kill some time off the clock, which is exactly what they did. Bartlett ran 11 straight running plays, converting a pair of fourth downs in the process, to run off the entire game clock. The end result was an 8-6 victory at the Reservation on Friday, Oct. 27.

"This one's pretty sweet. They're a good football team, Tantasqua, and we were talking all week about what a great defense they are," said Bartlett head coach Dane Laboissonniere before citing the final drive. "We managed to kill the clock when we needed to. We had a couple of short fourth down conversions and we just trusted the defense in case we didn't get it."

But the Indians did get those first downs, both from Brett LeBeau on plunges up the middle. "A guy like Brett has been a starter for us since the eighth grade," Laboissonniere said of the senior. "He's the dude we rode."

The victory was even more important for Bartlett because they clinched a spot in the Central Mass. Division 8 sectional tournament. The 5-3 Indians grabbed the No. 3 seed and will play at No. 2 St. Bernard's High on Friday, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m.

"Give [the credit] to Bartlett, they came here to play," said Tantasqua head coach Jon Hargis after his team dropped to 1-7. "They had to win to get into the playoffs."

Hargis thought back to the beginning of the third quarter when the Warriors led, 6-0, and were driving deep into the Indians' territory. Instead of grabbing a two-score lead, Tantasqua's drive stalled and Bartlett became the better team from that point forward.

"We were driving in the third quarter...inside the 20...and had a holding call that pushed us to second-and-18," explained Hargis. "A fumbled snap turned it into third-and-18 and then they stopped it. Then they kind of controlled the ball."

The Indians tied the score with 9:56 to play in the fourth quarter when Jesse Torres capped an eight-play, 72-yard drive with a 27-yard scoring spurt. Torres ran up the middle and then used a spin move to bounce out to his left to open space for the TD.

Bartlett's Nate Whipple hunts down Tantasqua ball carrier Sebastian O'Leary.

Erik Kunkel of Bartlett barrels through the Tantasqua defense on a nice carry.

LeBeau punched in the two-point conversion on a rush to give Bartlett an 8-6 lead, which held up after the Indians forced two Tantasqua punts and then bled the clock out.

Laboissonniere was pleased with his team's defensive performance. "They were everywhere," he said of players like LeBeau, Nate Whipple, Dominick Algeri, Antonio

DeResta, Johnny Torres, Kyle Fafard, John Bsoumai, Eric Vazquez, Will Harding and Logan Paranto. "They really studied the game plan."

The Warriors could never muster enough offense after their second quarter touchdown, which featured quarterback Colin Eliason hitting Ryan Bonja on a pass from 3 yards out.

"I told the team that this moment will define the rest of our season," explained Hargis. "Across the board we need to ask ourselves if we're going to continue to build the program and move forward."

Hargis also had kind parting words for Bartlett as they now prepare for the playoffs.

"Bartlett's a heck of a program and I wish them the best," he concluded.

Rams rush past Groton-Dunstable and into district tournament

Shepherd Hill's Mick Sullivan employs a quarterback sneak with plenty of available running room at his disposal.

DUDLEY — The Shepherd Hill Regional varsity football team took care of business when they hosted Groton-Dunstable Regional at Carmignani Field on Friday evening, Oct. 27. The Rams ran past the Crusaders, 35-18, and improved to 6-2. With the win The Hill earned the No. 3 seed in the Central Mass. Division 3 tournament, and they will travel to No. 2 Shrewsbury High (7-1) for a semifinal tilt to be played Friday, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. The Colonials defeated the Rams in Week 1 of the season, 14-10.

Cody Adams of Shepherd Hill rips through the line for a long rushing play.

Oxford beats Panthers for fourth straight win, postseason appearance

Oxford's Bernadette Lesieur launches a shot toward David Prouty's goal.

SPENCER — A 3-1 loss to Leicester High on Oct. 11 dropped the Oxford High girls' varsity soccer team's record to 4-8-2, nearly eliminating them from postseason contention. But the Pirates have been doing nothing but winning since the defeat, rattling off three straight victories to set up a win-and-in game versus David Prouty Regional at Eugene R. Hurley Athletic Field on Friday evening, Oct. 27.

"We're playing good soccer right now. If we do have our 'A' game and my eighth graders and ninth graders play like juniors and seniors, then we're pretty good," Oxford head coach Bob Fuqua said before the regular season finale versus the Panthers.

And the Pirates did have their 'A' game, as Gina Parmenter scored twice in the game's first eight minutes to stake Oxford to a 2-0 halftime lead. The Pirates wound up with a 6-0 victory as Oxford finished 8-8-2 to accumulate 18 points, which is necessary to reach the Central Mass. Division 4 sectional tournament.

"We could make a little bit of noise," Fuqua said of his young team playing in the playoffs, which consists of one senior, six juniors, five sophomores, seven freshmen and five eighth graders.

David Prouty's season ends at 3-13-2.

"I think the season comes down to one thing: we graduated 11 kids last year," said head coach Mike Moroney.

"We ended up predominantly starting freshmen and sophomores this year."

Moroney added that the season turned into a "rebuilding year," which he was fine with.

"We've got a very young team and we're going to move forward. I'm really proud of the progress. The girls are all better players now than when they first started," he concluded.

Leicester, Padeni make a statement against Pirates, 47-27

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

LEICESTER — Youthful exuberance collided with explosive experience on Friday, Oct. 27 when the Leicester and Oxford high school varsity football teams squared off behind the high school. Explosive experience — in this case also known as Wolverines — prevailed, 47-27.

The game was a rarity in the sense that the on-field product far exceeded the pregame hype. The stakes were high, especially for Oxford, which despite entering the game undefeated, needed a win to qualify for the Central Mass. Division 7 playoffs. It was a big game for Leicester, too, as a win would make them the No. 2 seed in D7 and guarantee a home playoff game. The Wolverines are set to host No. 3 West Boylston High (6-2) on Saturday night, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m.

Both teams — even though they wouldn't admit it publicly — had been looking to and building toward the showdown for weeks. That was apparent, even to the untrained eye, in the 42-minute first quarter in which Leicester scored 33 points and the teams combined to score 46.

The game also served as a showcase for two of the best running backs in Central Mass. — if not the two best — in Leicester senior Kyle Padeni and Oxford junior Niko Murray.

The duo did not disappoint. Padeni, who called the victory a "statement win," finished with 168 yards, which included touchdown runs of 7, 18, 35 and 37 yards.

"We had to win this one to show we're the real deal," Padeni said. "We just wanted to come in, close out the regular season with a 'W' and get ready for playoffs. I say it every week, but this was the biggest game of the year for us."

Murray carried the ball 30 times, gained 204 yards and scored on runs of 43 and 72 yards. Murray, who figured in every Oxford score, also returned a kickoff 85 yards for a TD and tossed an 83-yard scoring strike to Ryan Walsh, who had gotten behind the Wolverines' defense.

"We thought going in that Niko was legit and we knew Padeni was legit. They both lived up to their advanced billing," Leicester head coach Tim Griffiths said. "Niko is awesome. To me they are the two best running backs in Central Mass."

Griffiths was asked if he could choose either Padeni or Murray to be on his team — but only one — who would it be?

"I'd take them both," Griffiths said with a laugh. "I've been telling Niko for a couple of years now — because I'm friends with the family — that if he came to Leicester it would mean free Hot Dog Annie's for the rest of his life. He hasn't taken me up on my offer, though. Apparently Gordon Cook and Carl's Oxford Diner has won out."

Padeni scored from 35 yards out on the third play of the game and Nolan Power added the first of his five extra points on the night to give Leicester a 7-0 lead just 74 seconds into the game. Oxford tied the game, 7-7, on their first play from scrimmage, a 72-yard Murray run that started on the left side and finished on the right.

Leicester (6-2) went back ahead, 14-7, with 4:46 left in the first quarter when Padeni, who was almost tackled for a loss, scored from 18 yards out. Oxford answered again, this time on the second play of the ensuing drive, Murray finding Walsh all alone behind the Leicester defense for an 83-yard pass and run touchdown. The Pirates missed the extra point, however, allowing Leicester to cling to a 14-13 lead.

The Wolverines pushed their lead to 20-13 on the first play of the ensuing drive, junior quarterback Dan Mero hitting senior wide receiver Billy Roberts with a 53-yard scoring strike with 3:58 left in the first quarter. Roberts said taking it to Oxford early and often was part of the plan.

"We had to come out and hit them hard so they would lay down," Roberts said. "And that's exactly what they did."

Leicester added another touchdown on the first play of its next drive, Padeni going in from 37 yards out to extend the lead to 27-13 with 2:19 left in the first. The Wolverines added to their lead on Oxford's next drive, Tyler Grebel intercepting a Joel Erickson pass and returning it 42 yards for a touchdown and a 33-13 lead as play — finally — headed into the second quarter.

Leicester pushed its lead at halftime to 40-13 on a 45-yard touchdown run by Bryce Gosselin.

Oxford made things interesting in the second half, scoring a pair of touchdowns — one in the third quarter, one in the fourth, to cut the Leicester lead down to 40-27 with 10:40 left in the game. Murray scored on the aforementioned kickoff return to start the half, and then he added a 43-yard scoring scamper on the first play of the fourth quarter.

Leicester answered Murray's fourth quarter touchdown with one of its own, an eight-yard run by Padeni with 7:15 to play to push its lead to 47-27, effectively ending the Pirates' comeback hopes.

"They're a very explosive team," Oxford head coach Jeff Clarkson said of Leicester. "Padeni was a lot better than I expected him to be. They're a good football team. We knew that coming in.

"We were a lot of little mistakes away from it being a closer game," Clarkson continued. "I would have liked to see the game end as one possession game, a one score game. But we won the second half; I was happy to see that. It was 40-13 at halftime and it ended 47-27. We needed this game; we needed a fight, a real challenge to show us where we're at."

Oxford (7-1) will host a non-playoff game on Friday, Nov. 3 versus Uxbridge High.

Bartlett's Hetherman, Bay Path team highlight local golf contingent in district competition

The local high school golf scene thrived on Tuesday, Oct. 24 when Gardner Municipal Golf Course hosted the Central Mass. Division 2 tournament. The Bartlett High team advanced to the competition for the first time in over a decade and placed eighth. The Indians' Alex Hetherman shot a masterful 71, which was second best in the 72-player field. Hetherman advanced to the Division 2 state championship at Highfields Golf and Country Club in Grafton, to be played after press time. The Bay Path Regional golf team also took part in the Central Mass. Division 2 championship, where they tied Grafton High for second place, as each teams' top four golfers totaled 320 strokes. The Indians won the tiebreaker with a better fifth score, but the Minutemen still advanced to the state final tournament as a team since the top three moved on. Additionally, Jon Sterczala will also compete for the individual title after shooting a 74, which was the third best score. Other counting scores for Bay Path included Ryan Vigeant's 81, Ben Bombard's 81, Keith Duval's 84 and Colin Allain's 85. A day prior on Monday, Oct. 23, a pair of Shepherd Hill Regional golfers competed as individuals in the Central Mass. Division 1 district tournament at Highfields. Dan Brooks shot a 79 for a 10th place finish and Sean Tully followed with an 80, good for T11. Both players narrowly missed

Gonyea’s goal helps Auburn slide past Minutemen and into district tournament

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

AUBURN — Nick Gonyea scored the game's only goal in the 17th minute of the second half and Coleman Picard made three of his 11 saves in the final three minutes as the Auburn

High boys’ varsity soccer team defeated Bay Path Regional, 1-0, on Oct. 26 at Memorial Field. With the win the Rockets improved to 8-6-3 and qualified for the Central Mass. Division 3 sectional tournament. Gonyea, a junior striker for Auburn, scored on a run upfield after the Rockets had gotten control of a loose ball at about midfield. “It was a great setup,” Gonyea said. “I got a flick-on from Parker Plona after he got a chip from Zach LaPointe.”

Once Gonyea got the ball from Plona he did the rest, splitting two defenders, making Bay Path keeper Aiden Sabitinelli commit to the right side of the net and unleashing a hard, low shot that zipped into the far corner of the goal.

“The ball felt great coming off my foot,” Gonyea said. “Once he went right I knew I had to go left and I got a nice clean shot off.”

Picard, who had played well all game, ratcheted up his effort a notch as time ticked away.

After making a save on Jalen Rojas with three minutes to play, and Joe Starr with two minutes to go, the sophomore keeper saved his best for the end. With less than a minute to play Picard made a diving save on a loose ball about eight yards out in front of the Auburn net as Bay Path senior captain August “Gus” Koebeke frantically attempted to reach the ball ahead of Picard.

“I saw it quick, came out hard and got to the ball before he could get to it; I just took it away from him. I knew I had to get to the ball first,” Picard said. “The coaches have been working with me — coach [Hans] de Klerk and coach Leo [Miranda] — about being aggressive when I’m in net. They have stressed how I need to come out and get the ball. We’ve been working on it in practice and all that practice paid off in this game.”

Auburn head coach Chris Bailey said the play of the Rockets’ defense was the prime reason his team won the game.

“Our defense as a whole was tremendous. That’s a good team and our defense probably played the best they have played all year,” he said. “Coleman did a good job; he’s an athletic kid and he’s worked with coach de Klerk quite a bit this year and his improvement has been tremendous.”

Bay Path head coach David Martinson also praised the play of Picard.

“Those were good chances and their keeper came up big,” he said. “There were some outstanding plays there. Coach Bailey does a great job with his team, so I expected it to be pretty tough. Their defense played well and they contained well, we just missed some opportunities that we needed to take care of. I thought it was a pretty even battle back and forth.”

The Minutemen, which entered the game needing two points to qualify for postseason play, fell to 7-7-2 with the loss. Bay Path then lost to the Advanced Math and Science Academy, 6-1, on Oct. 27, and Keefe Tech, 5-2, on Oct. 30 in their regular season finale to finish the year with a record of 7-9-2.

Ending the open water season with monster fish

November is tautog month in Massachusetts & Rhode Island, and this week's picture of an angler fishing on the Island Current out of Snug Harbor Marina last week with a pair of monster tautog is a good example of the fish that are out there. Some anglers wait all year for the tautog fishing to climax, providing some great fishing and eating. Crabs are the number one bait at this time of year for tautog fishing, but hooking the bait stealing bottom feeders, is not easy unless you use circle hooks. Number three circle hooks will have you hooking almost every tautog that nibbles at you bait if you do it right. Lifting the bait very slowly when a bite is felt will have the circle hook hooking the fish in their thick rubbery lips.

Anglers that have their first encounter with a tautog feel as though they have hooked bottom until the fish realizes that there is someone at the other end of the line. Using heavy action fresh water rods, with 50 pound test power pro line, and a 6 foot 40 pound leader will provide the angler with the ultimate thrill of fishing for these bottom dwellers. Tautog can grow to 18 pounds or better but the average fish is four to six pounds. The daily limit is six fish per angler on party boats, but private boats can only retain 10 fish for two anglers or more in Rhode Island waters.

Cleaning tautog is easy and unfortunately there is a lot of waste as the fish have a very large body cavity. After removing the fillets the rest of the fish can be boiled down for a good fish chowder. The fillets need to be checked for bones and removed if they are found. My favorite recipe for tautog is to cut the fillets into good size chunks and drop them into a pot of boiling water that has two tablespoons of white vinegar added. The fish needs to be fresh!! Cook for approximately two minutes or until the fish flakes using a fork. Add salt & pepper to your taste after draining the chunks, add melted butter, and you will have the taste of lobster. If you do not fish and would like to purchase some tautog for your family you will need to travel to the closest fish market on the coast, as it rarely makes it to local markets because of the high demand for this great tasting fish.

Archers are harvesting numerous deer throughout the valley, and turkey hunters also are filling their permits with numerous birds weighing in at over 20 pounds! Deer hunters are reminded not to hang their harvested deer in their garage that is attached to the house. As the body of the deer cools, numerous ticks can fall off and become a hazard for the family and pets.

Goose hunting has been very good with hunters filling their daily limits on each trip. Sightings of large flocks of Canada geese are a lot more frequent than in previous years, which is an indication that the late season will be better than last year. Once the ponds and lakes freeze up, the birds will be forced into local fields & rivers to feed. Field shooting provides the ultimate goose hunting experience as far as this writer is concerned.

The new goose hunting regulation this year, for the early season only, was a benefit to numerous hunting expeditions, which allowed hunting up to 1/2 hour after sunset. Often the geese started their evening flights after the sunset closing time.

Sea duck hunting opens Nov. 20 in Massachusetts! Hunting sea ducks can provide a lot of action for sportsmen that can handle the sometimes brutal weather conditions. Weather like this past Sunday often drives sea ducks inland providing some fast shooting. A good retrieving dog is also needed. In my younger years, sea duck hunting was a good part of my life during the winter months, but I no longer can handle the harsh hunting conditions. Some of my friends lost their lives sea duck hunting after capsizing in their boat. It is indeed a dangerous sport, but the excitement of hunting sea ducks in nasty conditions always brought you back for more.

Trout fishing had slowed a bit last week at some of the hot spots that received a fall stocking of fish. The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club opened their private pond to members after a recent fall stocking, and only three trout were caught all day. Fall trout fishing should pick up after the high water recedes back to normal.

Energy fund gearing up for winter

The Massachusetts Good Neighbor Energy Fund, a cooperative effort between the state's sponsoring energy companies and their customers to help households in temporary financial crisis pay their energy bills, announces that its 2016-17 "Give the Gift of Warmth" campaign raised $448,003 in contributions. Most importantly, the donations to the campaign provided energy assistance to 1,233 Massachusetts households in need.

"Raising close to a half million dollars for thousands in temporary crisis shows the commitment of the Fund's sponsoring energy companies and the true giving spirit of our sponsors' customers," said Patrick Murray, chairperson of the 2017-18 Good Neighbor Energy Fund campaign and customer satisfaction and regulatory compliance lead supervisor for National Grid. "Donations from other sources, including companies and foundations, also added to the community effort to 'Give the Gift of Warmth' to all our neighbors in need."

The fund is often the last resort for families who have not qualified for federal and state assistance programs. The Salvation Army, which administers the fund, pays the energy provider directly for households whose gross income falls between 60 and 80 percent of the state's median income levels. For example, in the upcoming 2017-18 GNEF campaign year, a household size of four would need to have a total gross yearly income of between $66,115 and $88,153 to qualify.

Since its establishment in 1985, the Massachusetts Good Neighbor Energy Fund has raised over $21 million and helped more than 87,250 families in need pay a month's energy expense. For more information, visit www.magoodneighbor.org.

The Massachusetts Good Neighbor Energy Fund opened for all applicants beginning

Wednesday, Nov. 1. Households in need who meet the eligibility guidelines are encouraged to visit the Salvation Army Center nearest to their home to request assistance.

Energy customers in Massachusetts can "Give the Gift of Warmth" by using the Good Neighbor Energy Fund donation envelope found in their utility bills during the winter months or through an 'add a dollar' program offered by some companies which allows customers to increase their monthly utility bill payment by one dollar or more. Customers can also donate online by visiting www.magoodneighbor.org or simply make a check payable to "Good Neighbor Energy Fund" and send it Good Neighbor Energy Fund, c/o The Salvation Army, 25 Shawmut Road, Canton, MA 02021-1408.

I asked Frannie if there was a singular 'most memorable' time for him in Vietnam. He replied without hesitation "Mother's Day 1968" while pointing to a copy of his Bronze Star Medal award. It was clear to me that this would be one of those experiences that is hard to talk about. We moved on to other questions regarding life after the war, etc. Later, I checked out the history of the 196th Light Infantry Brigade and their whereabouts on Mother's Day, 1968.

Much has been written about the Battle of Kham Duc, a small district and home of a Special Forces Camp and a target chosen by 2nd Division, PAVN (People's Army of Vietnam). Gen. Westmoreland had ordered a buildup of forces defending the base. 'The Chargers' i.e. 196th Light Infantry Brigade got the assignment and moved into the area accompanied by Army Engineers, an Aussie Strike Force, the 13th Marine Regiment and more infantrymen from the 2nd and 23rd Division.

The Viet Cong 1st regiment had been watching their arrival at Kham Duc and decided to move on the outpost at Ngok Tavak. In the early hours of May 10 they attacked. By dawn of the next day the 11th Mobile Strike Force was evacuating and moving to Kham Duc. But the NVPA 2nd Division had already surrounded the base in spite of America 1 Division support elements having been airlifted to the village. There was no lull in the fighting all that day on May 11th. General Westmoreland ordered the evacuation of Kham Duc and on May 12th the North Vietnamese were in complete control. The Battle of Kham Duc was costly and a clear defeat of American Forces. Nine aircraft had been shot down, 13 men were killed and 92 received wounds.

Specialist 4 Francis P. Bernier USA was one of the wounded, having been hit by shrapnel in the arm and back. Fran was awarded a Bronze Star with "V" device. His citation reads in part "...even while under the attack, Specialist Bernier repeatedly adjusted his own mortar to successfully carry out the counter mortar attack. During the times when other members of the squad were carrying ammunition to the mortar position, Specialist Bernier continued to fire and adjust his mortar. His courageous actions are in keeping with highest traditions of Military Service....."

Fran was treated for his wounds and enjoyed some much needed R & R while serving out the remainder of his tour. He was separated from the Army and honorably discharged on February 14, 1969. He served four additional years as a Reservist. Specialist Bernier, came home with shrapnel in his body, a Bronze Star on his chest and a new meaning of Mother's Day. And, he had no further doubts that he possessed the courage to perform like a warrior in the face of death. He received the usual cold reception from the vocal critics of the war.

He put that all aside and concentrated on finishing his education. Fran earned an Associate Degree from Quinsigamond College and a Masters in finance from Clark University. He found steady work in his chosen field, and retired in 2010.

Fran is a patriotic American veteran, he is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and marches in parades to honor his comrades. He makes his home in Dudley, he and his wife, Cecilia, have a daughter Christina.

There is no one more qualified to lead his fellow veterans on Veterans Day, November 11th, than Specialist 4, Francis P. Bernier.

points in the education conversations within the two towns in 2017 has been cost sharing, and Charlton Town Administrator Robin Craver told selectmen at a meeting in late October that 2018 looks to be a even bigger hit on both towns.

"The funding formulas for these two towns requires vastly different contributions from the towns without acknowledging their place in a regional district. This past year's state formal requires Dudley to increase their minimum contribution to the district by $442,000 when they only have approximately $400,000 in annual revenue. Charlton, because they are closer to the target share, are required to increase to the district by $268,000," Craver said in her report. "(The school officials) are appreciative of these increases but two things accompany them. One, a corresponding decreases in support from the state or two, a rock in a hard place scenario."

The hope is that the bill, and the subsequent formation of a commission, would allow the struggles of smaller school districts like the Dudley-Charlton partnership would come to the forefront of conversations on Beacon Hill and bring to light funding challenges for those towns.

Several selectmen in Charlton spoke in favor of the bill with Selectman Rick Swensen making the strongest statement, criticizing the current wealth formula in play

"This has been haunting us for as long as I've been on this board. It's been a nightmare," Swensen said. "It has really done a huge disservice to both Dudley and Charlton. We are currently paying hundreds of dollars more for pupils that sit in the exact same classes with the exact same teachers than the residents of Dudley are."

Szafarowicz said he believes the state has tried to examine this in the past, and that Charlton learned a lot about the deeper problem when they examined their own partnership with Dudley earlier this year. "If my memory serves me correctly there was a study on the formula. I think it might be on going, but I think it's probably another attempt at figuring out what's going on with it," Szafarowicz said. "That presentation we had after the financial investigation opened our eyes a little bit to how complex it really is. I think it's a great idea to have our representatives push for this."

Selectmen said they were encouraged by the bipartisan support they perceived for the bill and voted unanimously to write a letter voicing their own support to Superintendent Desto. The most recent action on the bill recorded on the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Senate webpage shows that a hearing was scheduled to take place in July.

personal watercrafts and one to a boat. Fourteen of those were in either North Pond or Nipmuck Cove," Lynskey explained. "I believe the revenue that is coming in is not worth the safety that's being risked to the voters who are abiding by the lake violations."

Lynskey added another comment stating that his observation has been that a group of jet ski users has made North Pond a base on weekend during warmer months and they "take turns creating havoc."

Other residents along the lake seemed to share Lynskey's concerns speaking in favor of the article on the grounds that those from outside of Webster have shown a disregard for safety and little courtesy for other users of Webster action figures of Luke Skywalker, Darth Vader and Obi-Wan Kanobi with telescoping light sabers. The light sabers were easily broken and the manufacturer did away with the telescoping feature. The figure of Darth Vader figure with the telescoping light saber is rare and Obi-Wan Kanobi is even rarer. There are only a few known to exist. The starting bid is $15,000 and the auction estimate is $75,000 to $100,000. A price like that for a toy from the 1970s is truly astronomical.

We have a small estate sale in Lake.

Not everyone was on board with the new regulations however. There were concerns raised that this could discourage tourism in Webster and create a ripple effect that would negatively impact the town's businesses and other amenities. The Finance Committee also voiced possible concerns about enforcement as they were sympathetic to the cause, but didn't want the town to lose revenue from the beach and have added costs of enforcing the new regulations.

In the end the article passed with thunderous applause from those in attendance at the meeting. The new regulations in effect immediately. Whether or not the changes will create an issue for Webster or lead to improvements on the lake won't be seen until next year when Memorial Beach reopens for personal watercraft use once again.

Millbury scheduled for November 11 and 12. We have scheduled an online estate auction of a Northborough farm next month. There are several horse carriages, sleighs, tractors and farm equipment. There will be a preview at the farm on Saturday, December 9 and Sunday, December 10. Bidding ends on December 13. See www.centralmassauctions.com for details on these and other events.

Kudos to Coffee!

The humble cup of coffee.

It's a simple pleasure that baristas elevate to an art, painters depict on canvas, and philosophers have sung the praises of throughout the ages. So what's so virtuous about the every-day cup of Joe we sip every morning? Plenty, according to reliable health studies which show a steaming mug of java may go way beyond a satisfying pick-me-upper.

If your daily dose of caffeine has become nothing more than a breakfast ritual, the following coffee facts may prove to be more of an eye opener than that morning cup of coffee!

Joe Jogs Memory: If you love your coffee, you now have another excuse to drink high octane java! Here's the latest buzz on caffeine: A cup of joe can jog your memory, especially if you're over age 65, say researchers at the University of Arizona. In a study, memory performance declined significantly between morning and afternoon in seniors who didn't drink coffee or drank decaf. Those who had a cup of the high octane stuff showed no such effect.

Dodge Diabetes: According to WebMD, one to three cups of coffee per day can reduce risk for diabetes by up to nine percent. Up the cups to six or more daily and men's risk for diabetes is cut by 54%, while woman's is reduced by 30% as compared to non-coffee drinkers. While not fully confirmed yet, several studies suggest that it's the chlorgoenic acid found in coffee that help stave off Type II Diabetes, which is the non-inherited form of the disease.

Drink to Think: A ten year study by the University of Bristol revealed coffee drinkers really may be better thinkers! The report said a cup of coffee can help in the performance of tasks, requiring sustained attention. It further helped enhance a person's ability to perform these tasks, during low alertness situations such as at night or when a person has a cold.

Buzz Boost: Did you know a safe caffeine buzz can give your workout a boost? According to the American College of Sports Medicine, consuming caffeine equivalent of between two to six cups of coffee one hour prior to exercise, increased both the endurance and performance of athletes during both prolonged and short-term exercise sessions. If you drink caffeinated beverages, drinking one before your workout may help you run or walk a little farther or cycle a little longer. Studies have shown that moderate caffeine intake about 300 milligrams, the equivalent of three cups of drip coffee, may be safe in most adults. But be sure to drink plenty of water before, during and after your workout to remain adequately hydrated.

Jovial Java: Are you aware caffeine can also be an effective antidepressant? Just don't drink more than a couple of cups of coffee a day or the effect can be counterproductive.

Steam Therapy: Taken in normal doses, caffeine has shown to have several other beneficial effects: Home remedy books advise drinking a cup of hot steaming coffee to suppress an asthma attack while waiting for proper medicine to kick in. The caffeine acts on the bronchial tubes contributing to the expansion of the muscles, thus relieving the severity of the attack in some cases.

Halt Headaches: Before you reach for a pain pill, try drinking a cup of strong coffee to combat your migraine or tension headaches. Caffeine has long been used in over the counter pain relief products because it dilates the blood vessels, helping to relieve migraine pain. In addition, coffee is a diuretic, helping to eliminate toxic substances from the body.

Diet Drink: Coffee is the perfect diet beverage! It's not only low in calories (skip the cream and sugar, please); it acts as a natural diuretic to help shed water weight. In addition, the caffeine in coffee revs up your metabolism, which helps burn calories.

Java Rx: Did you know medical data shows coffee is rich in antioxidants? In fact, a well known study from the University of Scranton proclaimed coffee America's number one source of health boosting antioxidants! Here's the scoop: The beneficial "free radical sweepers" are also found in coffee aroma after brewing. According to research carried out in Switzerland by the Lausanne-based Nestle Research Center, consuming coffee up until 20 minutes after brewing will deliver 300 phytochemicals, (antioxidants), and can stay in the human system up to one month.

Prefer your coffee sans the caffeine? You'll reap the same health rewards as decaf has the same antioxidant benefits as regular coffee!

Risks: Several studies indicate that people who drink coffee on a regular basis are up to 80% less likely to develop Parkinson's disease. According to research performed at Vanderbilt University's Institute for Coffee Studies, it's the caffeine that offers the protection. In fact, VU reported based on this evidence drugs to treat Parkinson's, containing a derivative of caffeine are currently being developed.

Want more? Additional research reveals compared to not drinking coffee, at least two large cups of coffee daily can translate to a 25% reduced risk of colon cancer, a significant drop in liver cirrhosis risk, and nearly half the risk of gallstones!

DIY Vanilla Almond Coffee Grind

Flavored gourmet ground coffee blends are a favorite of many Java fans. Skip the high-priced specialty shop offerings and make your own - at a fraction of the cost! This "recipe" comes from McCormick, the spice people.

I n g r e d i e n t s: 1 can automatic drip ground coffee; 1 bottle (1 oz) pure vanilla extract; 1 bottle (1 oz) pure almond extract.

D i r e c t i o n s: Pour coffee into a large zipper plastic bag or bowl. Add both extracts to coffee. Stir well to thoroughly blend extracts into coffee. Store coffee in plastic bag or airtight container in refrigerator or freezer until ready to use. Brew coffee as usual.

V a r i a t i o n s: Decaffeinated coffee works just as well. And don't be afraid to try your own favorite flavors!

The "Buzz" on Coffee

*Coffee is the second most traded product in the world after petroleum.

*It takes five years for a coffee tree to reach maturity. The average yield from one tree is the equivalent of one roasted pound of coffee.

*One shot of espresso uses approximately 45 coffee beans.

*The expression "a cup of Joe" was coined during WWII, when American servicemen (G.I. Joe) were identified as big coffee drinkers.

*When coffee became scarce during the Civil War, soldiers who wanted a cup of coffee had to resort to roasting and brewing sweet potato and Indian corn.

*Out on the range, cowboys brewed coffee by putting grounds into a sock, plunging it in cold water and heating it the over campfire.

*Research from the University of California found that the steam rising from a freshly brewed cup of coffee contained as many antioxidants as three fresh oranges.

*In 1657, British ads for coffee claimed that the beverage was a cure for scurvy and gout.

Maxwell House" Coffee got its name from The Maxwell House Hotel, in Nashville, TN, where it was first served in 1886.

*Teddy Roosevelt was the inspiration of the Maxwell House coffee slogan "good to the last drop." He uttered the phrase after finishing up a particularly tasty cup of coffee, and the rest is history!

lowed me through my life" and came back 10 years later, she said.

Had Staples and her progeny been executed, Wolf noted it would have changed history: she was a multiple great-grandmother of Winston Churchill.

Using Wolf as her mouth, Staples told the audience of about 50 a bit about the culture of 17th century New England to start things off.

Among other things, she noted the largely Puritan community had "strict rules ... ensuring humility. While man may be above other creatures, they're still subordinate to God." People believed very strongly in community tied together by religion, but saw threats everywhere -- in the Native Americans, in the Dutch, in Satan's persistent efforts to snatch individual souls within their own people. She said they "came to count on each other," and many days passed in which the people "cooked and sewed and gossiped. But the gossip could be cruel, and in tough times, could be dangerous."

Those tough times began in the 1640s with some of the common triggers -- disease, weird weather and bad harvests leading to community friction. The first victim came in 1647, when Alice Young's "trial and subsequent hanging brought about a time of misery," Wolf said.

Not much is known about her, but shortly afterward Lydia Gilbert faced the same charges, and her situation is far better documented.

"I had nothing to do with the events that brought me here," Wolf said in Gilbert's voice, citing her trial records.

She faced scrutiny because of the death of Henry Stiles, a man who had been her family's tenant, in an accident on the militia training ground (he was shot by Thomas Allen). Initially, nobody linked Gilbert to it, but as tensions rose, people got suspicious of the fact Gilbert had complained to friends of the fact Stiles "was late with the rent and borrowed over-much" while also writing off "death by illness and misfortune [as] a fact of life."

Over time, the neighbors began seeing strange things happen in Gilbert's presence -- "a cow dies if I walk by; a child falls ill after I watch her at the meeting house" -- and "the more I speak out against their accusations, the more they think it true."

"I'm sure I would know if I were in league with the devil," Gilbert decreed, to no avail.

Wolf, returning to Staples' voice, noted Gilbert and many other accused "witches" often shared common traits: they tended to be poor, on the fringes of society, owned land, many were widows, and "did not hold her tongue like a good woman should."

After Gilbert's execution, things quieted down for a while, until a girl died and another started having "fits" and accusing people of witchcraft, claiming one "gave suck to a dog from a teat under her arm" and other strange things.

One of them was Mercy Disborough, who might have actually lived had she not been as outspoken as Gilbert. In her case, her venting came while in custody -- the magistrates were initially willing to just let her "rot in jail" without trial, but Disborough claimed innocence, criticized the process and pledged "If I am to hang, I will not be the only innocent one."

"I have been guilty of many things, but not witchcraft," she said.

When the judges got tired of her and did bring her to trial, Disborough requested the ancient water test, by which an innocent person would supposedly sink while a witch would float because water rejects them. (Wolf later noted that's based on the concept that witches reject the water of baptism, but doesn't make sense in reality.) She floated (as humans normally do), but was trussed up so that she did so face down. Instead of letting her drown, the magistrates fished her out and hanged her.

Another of the later accused was a Dutch woman, Judith Varlet.

"In Holland, they do not believe in the foolishness of witchcraft," Wolf said in Varlet's voice. But here "people are in a panic.... They fear me because I do not follow their rules."

Among other things, Varlet ran a business, so she saw their charges as "having everything to do with being a woman with power." But that wasn't enough to escape; she needed to call on the support of one with more power -- her relative, the Dutch governor of New Amsterdam. Varlet dodged the charges and soon moved to New Amsterdam, noting "God help the woman who does not have a strong man to help her."

Mary Barnes lacked such support, even though she was married with kids. In her case, she agreed with her husband that he would not testify in her defense on the grounds that he'd probably end up facing charges himself if he did and hurt their children. (Wolf later noted one of the most common reasons for being accused was association with a previously-convicted "witch.")

"Never have I felt such terror," she said of her last hours as a prisoner in "Daniel Garret's attic." Wolf's portrayal of that time is one of confusion and uncertainty over whether she had indeed conspired with Satan, and her last words included "Keep to yourself, lest you end up like me."

In 1663, Barnes and Nathaniel and Rebecca Goldsmith were the last Connecticut witches to face execution, although witchcraft stayed on the books as a capital crime until 1750, Wolf said. One reasons it ended was the return of Governor Windsor from England, who changed the law to require two witnesses to an act of witchcraft and was fairly skeptical of such claims.

and study and prepare and be part of meetings," Ford said. "I've only been here since July. It's been a great experience and I've found the department full of some very good firefighters, paramedics, and EMTs all willing to do their part."

The first to be promoted was Jon Belanger to Deputy Chief. Belanger joined the department in 2007 and was promoted to lieutenant in 2012. The new deputy chief has numerous certifications and an associated degree in fire science. Belanger said he is excited to continue to work with a department of proven individuals on a whole new level.

"This is amazing. It's something I worked very hard for over many years. It's almost surreal. It's been a lot of hard work and it's nice to finally see that come to fruition," Belanger said. "We've got a great group of professional men and women that work for us and we'll consider to prosper and do well."

Two officers were promoted to lieutenant after serving many years with Oxford Fire & EMS in different capacities. The first was Michael Hudon who first joined the department as a teenager and has turned his interest in fire response into a career.

"I guess it's been a long time coming. I've put a lot of work and effort into it. It's a great feeling but now it's time to get to work," Hudon said. "We've got a lot of great things coming through the department. We've got a lot of new hires that are all very excited to be here. They need someone to help lead them so it's time to get started."

The second individual promoted to lieutenant was Dennis Fitzgibbons, an 11 year veteran of the department as a firefighter and paramedic. Fitzgibbons called the promotion an exciting new opportunity, but one that also brings challenges.

"I've been with the department for a while so I'm pretty excited to get the chance to lead now," Fitzgibbons said. "It was my goal from the beginning to get to this point and it's a new challenge. I kind of feel like it's my first day at work all over again. There's a whole new list of things I'm responsible for. It's exciting and nerve wracking at the same time."

Oxford Fire & EMS also added four new firefighters to the ranks to complete a special night full of pomp and circumstance for everyone involved with the department.

Rooms can serve double duty

Many homes do not have space for guest rooms, kids' play areas and home theater lounges that are possible in homes with substantial square footage. But they may not be missing out at all.

While large homes remain popular, many people are embracing the benefits of smaller residences. Small homes help homeowners save money, require less maintenance, have smaller environmental impact, and reduce the temptation to accumulate "stuff."

Owners of small homes or apartments can still enjoy the benefits of larger spaces, they just need to equip rooms to perform double duty.

LIVING ROOM/ GUEST ROOM

Entertaining guests is easier when there's a dedicated space where visitors can feel at home. When furnishing a living room, keep the guest room in mind. A sofa that opens up to a bed or a convertible sectional can be a comfortable place for guests to lay their heads. Side tables provide guests with places to store their belongings, and an empty storage chest can house bed linens or guests' clothing.

DEN/PLAYROOM

Children tend to accumulate toys and games. And as kids grow from children to young adults, their list of must-have items — from video gaming systems to other electronics — grows along with them. Storage can make a room functional for both adults and children. Devote an entire wall to a closet or drawer system where toys can be stored out of sight when necessary. Storage ottomans can be used for extra seating while also providing somewhere for homeowners to stash stuffed animals or games for easy access. When choosing furniture, look for fabrics that are resistant to stains and modular pieces that can be moved around as necessary to create room for playing or entertaining.

BEDROOM/HOME OFFICE

In 2015, 24 percent of employed people in the United States did some or all of their work at home, says the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Bringing work home means men and women will need a space to work. In tight quarters, bedrooms may be the only available area. An armoire-style desk will blend in with the decor and can hide paperwork and electronics behind doors. Otherwise, a makeup vanity can serve the dual purpose of providing a place to get ready for a night out and a ready space to house a laptop during the day.

In smaller homes, homeowners may be forced to turn rooms into dual purpose areas.

CAPTION: A trundle sofa bed enables overnight guests to sleep comfortably right in the living room or den.

Potential indicators of roof trouble

With regard to home repairs, homeowners may be able to delay some projects until the weather permits or they find room in their budgets. But other areas, including the roof, may demand immediate action.

Few homeowners give the roofs of their homes much thought until a problem arises. But learning to recognize potential indicators of roof trouble can help homeowners prevent potentially drastic situations down the road.

- Light: Homeowners with attics in their homes can inspect the ceilings inside the attic for signs of holes or leaks. Light peering through the top of the house indicates a hole or leak, as does stains or streaks on the ceiling.

- Worn shingles: Shingles should lie flat against the roof, so any that appear to be buckling or turning up are damaged and in need of repair. A single damaged shingle does not require a full roof replacement, but inspect all the shingles nonetheless. Another indicator of shingle problems can be found when cleaning downspouts or gutters. If the gutters and downspouts contain lots of shingle granules, the roof may soon need to be replaced.

- Moss: Moss on a rooftop may give a home character, but that added character is costly. Shady areas of a roof can be susceptible to the growth of moss and fungi because moisture can be trapped in such areas. If possible, remove moss or fungi from a roof with a stiff brush or hire a professional to do the job instead. Moss may come back even after brushing it off, so homeowners should keep an eye on areas of their roofs that get little sunlight. In addition, trapped moisture can be very harmful to a roof, so it may be wise to exercise caution and have roofs with mold or fungi growths inspected.

- Age: Another indicator of roof trouble may be the age of the roof. Even if there are no visible signs of damage, homeowners whose roofs have some years under their belt may want to consider replacing them. Asphalt shingle roofs typically have life expectancies of 20 to 25 years, while roofs installed over existing layers of shingles may need to be replaced after 20 years.

Recognizing minor roof damage before it escalates into a larger problem can save homeowners substantial amounts of money.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

PETS

Foods that cats and dogs should never eat

Nutritious diets are essential to long-term pet health. Many well-intentioned pet owners feed their pets foods they believe are nutritious, only to learn that certain foods, even those deemed healthy for humans, can be quite dangerous to dogs and cats.

Cats and dogs metabolize foods and other substances differently from humans. WebMD reports that each year, there are more than 100,000 cases of pet poisoning in the United States. Many of these instances were caused by household substances that may seem perfectly harmless. Medications, cleaning products and certain foods can poison pets. Dogs tend to be at higher risk for food poisoning, particularly because they are less discriminatory with regard to food.

Before caving into the temptation to share snacks with their pets, pet owners should recognize the common foods the ASPCA and other pet welfare organizations list as the most likely to contribute to pet poisonings worldwide.

- Chocolate: Chocolate is accountable for roughly one-quarter of all toxic exposures. Chocolate contains methylxanthines, which are found in cacao seeds. When ingested by pets, methylxanthines can cause excessive thirst and urination, panting, vomiting, diarrhea, abnormal heart rhythm, and seizures. Serious cases can be fatal. Dark chocolate and baking chocolate are especially dangerous for pets.

- Grapes/raisins: Grapes, raisins, sultanas, and currants, whether raw or cooked, can cause kidney failure in dogs. Not all dogs are affected. However, these fruits should be avoided. Symptoms include lethargy, diarrhea and vomiting within 24 hours of consumption.

- Hops: Commonly used for brewing beer, hops have become a greater risk for pets now that home brewing as a hobby or side business has become popular. When ingested, hops can cause a rapid heart rate, anxiety, vomiting, and other abdominal symptoms. Essential oils and tannins in hops also can cause high fever when pets ingest them.

- Macadamia nuts: These nuts can cause depression, vomiting, tremors, and hyperthermia in dogs.

- Milk and dairy: Do not give dogs and cats milk to lap up, and avoid giving them high amounts of cheese and other dairy foods. Pets do not possess significant amounts of lactase, the enzyme that breaks down lactose in milk. Therefore, diarrhea and digestive upset is likely to occur when pets consume dairy.

- Onions/garlic: These aromatic ingredients are not a good idea for pets, particularly cats. Onions contain an ingredient called thiosulphate, which is toxic to cats and dogs. The ingestion of onions and onion-related foods can cause a condition called hemolytic anemia. This is damage to red blood cells that causes the cells circulating throughout the pet's body to burst.

- Xylitol: Keep pets away from sugarless gums and candies that contain Xylitol, which also may be used in toothpaste. The substance causes insulin to release in most species, which can lead to liver failure.

Pet owners should be aware that the foods they eat regularly may not be safe for their pets. Always consult with a veterinarian before giving pets foods commonly eaten by humans.

Recognize and relieve sources of pets' stress

Stress can affect anyone, even household pets. Although life may seem foot-loose and fancy free for companion animals, they have their share of stressors as well.

It may be hard to believe that dogs, cats, birds, and other animals can suffer from stress. But certain situations or scenarios may trigger a stressful response in pets, and pet owners should learn to recognize such stressors and do what they can to help pets avoid them.

Research indicates that stress, especially constant sources of stress, can impact pet health and well-being. A 2011 study published in the Journal of Physiology and Pharmacology found that when dogs are under stress, their bodies release an excessive amount of the fight or flight hormone norepinephrine. This can alter gut bacteria and interfere with gastrointestinal tract motility. Resulting diarrhea can compound stressful situations and exacerbate the situation.

The pet advice site Pet-Happy says that, during stressful situations, pets' blood pressure may climb, breathing may become more rapid, heart rate may increase, and the immune system can become less effective — instances that would also occur in humans. Various studies show that stress can be a contributing factor to disease.

Animals experience stress for different reasons and exhibit stress in ways that set them apart from one another and their human companions. The following is a breakdown of what may contribute to stress in birds, cats and dogs.

BIRDS

According to James Morrissey, a veterinarian at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University, birds are very good at picking up stress in people, which may contribute to their own stress. It can be challenging to determine what is causing stress in birds. However, the appearance of stress bars on feathers, the sudden onset of aggression, fearful behavior, changes in appetite, and destructive behavior can indicate that stress is present.

CATS

Cats can become stressed over situations their owners may not consider major. Loud music and noises, changes in food or litter brands, having new carpet or furniture installed, or a number of visitors in the home may be stressors, says Pam Johnson-Bennet, author and cat behavior expert. Some of the easiest stress symptoms to spot include excessive self-grooming, urine spraying, aggression, extreme vocalization, and eliminating outside of the litter box.

DOGS

The British Small Animal Veterinary Association's "Manual of Canine and Feline Behavioural Medicine" says that some of the most common dog stress triggers are novelty, housing changes, loud noises, changes in household members, and changes in schedule. Dogs may exhibit stress through appetite changes, isolation, digestive issues, lethargy, and increased sleeping.

Once stress is identified apart from any other health issues, pet owners can take steps to reduce it. Providing a security spot to which the pet can retreat, regular exercise, mental stimulation, and gradual changes to routine, diet or other things a pet has relied on can help.

A warm coat, a cozy spot to sleep and limited time spent outdoors can keep pets safe during winter.

How to keep pets safe in winter weather

The arrival of cooler temperatures sparks various changes. Chilly air and precipitation can be dangerous, especially to pets that are unaccustomed to extreme changes in temperature.

Pet owners may be well aware of the hazards of warm weather, including the threat of leaving pets in hot cars. But cold weather also has its share of risks. Heed these tips to keep pets safe and secure.

- Schedule a well visit. The American Veterinary Medical Association suggests scheduling a visit with a veterinarian to check for any medical issues. Cold weather can aggravate symptoms of certain conditions, such as arthritis. A thorough examination can shed light on potential problems.

- Keep homes humidified. Going in and out of the house and moving from cold air to dry indoor heat can affect pets' skin. Itching and flaking may result, causing pets to scratch at such areas. Maintain humidity in the home for comfort. The ASPCA also says to reduce bathing to help preserve essential oils on the skin.

- Protect paws outdoors. Pet paws are sensitive to sand, ice, snow, and chemical ice melts. Massage petroleum jelly or another protectant onto paw pads, or consider the use of pet booties.

- Keep pets indoors more often. Pets should not remain outdoors for long stretches of time in frigid temperatures, even if they are accustomed to roaming during other seasons, advises The Humane Society of the United States.

- Provide options for sleeping. Come the winter, cats and dogs may need new sleep spaces to avoid drafts and stay warm. Give them other spots they can call their own.

- Consider a sweater or vest. Some pets are more tolerant to the cold than others. However, some dogs and cats may benefit from a sweater, vest or coat designed for pets to offer a little more insulation.

- Update identification and contact information. Snow and ice can mask scent cues that help pets find their way home. Update contact information and make sure pets' collars are on tightly.

- Keep coolant and antifreeze locked away. Coolant and antifreeze are lethal to dogs and cats and should be kept out of reach. Clean up any spills from vehicles promptly.

- Provide fresh food and water. Pets may burn more calories trying to stay warm. Be sure the animal has a little extra food and plenty of water to stay sated and hydrated.

Winter weather requires pets owners to make changes so pets can remain happy and safe.
