dudley — the Dudley Planning Board has approved a conditional use permission to the Lyons Subdivision Plan reducing the number of homes in the subdivision by 16 buildings.

Currently under construction, the Lyons Estates will be an 18 home subdivision on a road called Truman Drive which will empty onto Lyons Road. Tim Revie, owner of Dudley Lending, sent an email to Town Administrator Bill Scannell in early December saying that, in order to receive the conditional by the Planning Board, the developer must reduce the current number of buildings.

The Planning Board, however, reduced the request from almost three thousand square feet to under one thousand square feet. In order to meet this reduction, the plans of the developer must be reduced to not more than 16 lots.

In the case of the Lyons Subdivision, the developer, Revanee Building, LLC, said they would reduce the number of homes to 18 in order to avoid overdevelopment and maintain the amount of open space within the subdivision.

revie, the developer of the Lyons Subdivision, has said he will meet the Planning Board’s request for 18 homes. He said he would reduce the number of homes in the subdivision from 26 to 18 and that he would reduce the amount of open space from 10% to 5% of the overall area.

According to the Planning Board, the developer must submit a site plan showing the new location of the homes and the remaining open space.

Sherrif’s Coat Drive brings warmth to Webster

Sherrif Collins recently paid a special visit to Webster/Dudley Food Share to visit the Sheriff’s Annual Coat Drive. Then to receive the donation of brand new winter coats, warm socks and food packets made them all very happy.

his annual event takes the form of the Sheriff’s Annual Coat Drive. Then on Thursday, Dec. 3, Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis and Webster-Dudley Food Share Director A.J. Akkis, Board Member Lisa Tuttle, Staff Member Angel Santiago along with Sheriff Dudley.

“Having a main break in the wrong place could isolate that site from all sites of all areas. “he noted.

“According to Operations Manager Paul Lawson, Aquarion currently draws most of its water from the Nelson well. Some of it goes to three storage tanks – at Croce, Prove and Hill Avenue – and ultimately through 41 miles of pipe to serve 26,000 customers. Under its DEP permit, the firm can draw up to 286 million gallons per year from the aquifer, and has averaged just 21 million gallons per day last year.

One thing that has been in limbo due to Covid-19 is a class B color code hydrant on the fire department, which has limited visibility and the need for improved color coding. The hydrant is located at the Nelson Street and North Main Street intersection and is painted red.

Fire Chief Laurent McDonald said he has not yet had the chance to talk to Aquarion about this. But he is getting Fire and Environmental Protection standards “want a hydrant to be visible” with color-coding for “specific purposes” of gallons per minute.

Betty Lauer, dean for the School of Technology, and food service, have been able to develop hands-on learning modules for students to complete this important educational training.

“QCC is dedicated to providing quality education and this in-home learning module approach is a method that allows students hands-on experiences to learn and grow without leaving the comfort of their homes,” said Kerri Peters, Dean for the School of Business, Engineering & Technology. “Students in courses that ranged from science to technology to food service module, students received a ‘breadboard’ devices used to make up temporary circuitry, as well as myDAQ, a Student Data Acquisition Device. The myDAQ is an interface that includes a comprehensive set of plug-and-play, computer-based lab instruments for hands-on student learning outside-the-lab.

The myDAQ is a bit like a Swiss army knife and allows students to do a variety of problem solving and experiment within their comfort zone at home. Mr. Lauer said. In the food service programs, faculty and staff reviewed curriculum requirements and selected recipes for take-home learning modules, which demonstrated specific learning concepts and provided key academic, knowledge and hands-on food service skills. Students received non-perishable food items, small kitchen tools and instruction books to enable students to work from their homes. They were mailed to students, or students were able to pick them up at QCC at the Senior Center, where the College’s Hospitality Restaurant Management programs are housed. Students either obtained their own perishable food items or picked them up from QCC. An example of a key learning concept in food service is the importance of cleaning protocols, required under ServSafe requirements. In the food service module, students received a ‘glove’ powder that they sprinkled on a food prep surface to see how it adhered. Then, using a mini black light also provided in the take-home packet, they were able to see any particles that remained on the surface.

Additionally, during the upcoming Spring semester, manufacturing students will be taking certificate exams for Precision Measurement in Associate Professor Lee Duerden’s quality manufacturing course. The students will practice on measuring equipment they will receive in their “Metrology Tool Chest” that includes tools such as: Tape measure Rulers Steel rules Micrometers Combination sets Dial Gages Bore Gages “QCC has been lucky to expand its capability and equipment in this area,” said Professor Duerden. “This change has proved challenging, but providing hands-on learning is essential for the successful completion of this manufacturing course. It has been an incredible achievement for QCC and its faculty and staff to work collaboratively to continue hands-on learning during this pandemic,” Mr. Duerden said, adding that the tool chests will be returned upon completion of the course.

“We expect to continue using this method of learning in the future. Students have really embraced the idea of learning in their own space and many students have enrolled in this learning style environment,” Ms. Lauer said. For more information about QCC, contact Josh Martin, Director of Institutional Communications at (508) 754-7113 or jmartin@qcc.mass.edu.

QCC offers hands-on learning experience to students from the safety of their homes.

State Police loans about $300 tax deduction for engaging in lower-risk celebrations this month. The DPH guidance also provided tips for participating in in-person festivities." the guidance for in-person celebrations to 25 people maximum, and to continue to wear masks in all public venues, even outdoors. The guidance also encourages people to continue to wash their hands regularly and to stay home if feeling sick.

The United Way of South Central Massachusetts's "Here's Hope For The Holidays" campaign is underway for those who haven't donated or have more to give. "It's not too late to make a donation," said United Way's Vice President of Individual Campaigns and Communications, Rachel G. Hall. "We are so excited to welcome Rachel to our team!" The campaign, which started on Dec. 1, aims to raise funds for local nonprofit organizations and to provide support to those in need during the holiday season.

The following recommendations are included in the United Way's plan:

- Limit in-person celebrations to 25 people maximum
- Tampons or cotton balls should be used if you travel
- Check symptoms before you travel
- If you or someone in your household has symptoms, do not travel
- Stay home if you are feeling sick
- Avoid crowded places
- Wash your hands regularly
- Wear masks in public settings
- Practice physical distancing
- Use virtual events instead of in-person celebrations
- Contact your local health department for guidance

The campaign is ongoing until Dec. 31, and donations can be made online at www.UnitedWay.org/Donate or by calling 1-800-282-1736.
To the Editor:

This holiday season, Friday, Dec. 25, would not be the same for many in our community who have been impacted by the global pandemic and all the restrictions that come with it.

The Dudley Police Department recently held a holiday gift drive for the Dudley Police and Fire Foundation. The goal of the drive was to purchase gift cards to give back to the community.

Chief Wojnar said that $2,000 was the highest financial amount that the department would use, but this amount could be increased if more donations were received.

The money from the gift cards will be used for the general fund, and there is no need for the department to use its own funds for gifts.

“We’re trying to do as much as we can to support the community,” Chief Wojnar said. “We’re trying to show our support for the community and make sure that the people who are trying to quit smoking or other tobacco products are helped in any way they can.”

The drive was successful, with over $2,000 worth of gift cards being donated. The department is grateful for the support of the community and looks forward to continuing to help those in need.

Sincerely,

Making SMART resolutions

With New Year’s day just around the corner, we, like many, are thinking about resolutions. And 2020 is a new year, so it is as good as any to start a new school year, but a new year is a new start, and not all of us are still in school.

More than half of all resolutions end up in failure. Many people just don’t have the time or energy to follow through with their resolutions. We all, of course, wish our resolutions were successful. However, if you can put more time and effort into your resolutions, they may have more success.

A resolution isn’t the right one for you if it’s a loss-leader. You have no returns, so you’ve wasted your time. If you have no plan, you have no guarantee of success.

The seven SMART (specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, time-bound) can be used to help facilitate your success. If you make a specific goal of losing a certain amount of weight, your goal will be easier to obtain. If you set a time limit, the faster you lose weight, the better.

We all like to see progress and to see it fast. One way is to make something measurable. If you want to see how much time you spend on Facebook’ setting to “see how much time on something, say using social media, you can make a checklist, and as you finish each one, check it off.

You can make a chart to see if you are using your time wisely. If you see you are using more time than you should, you can use the “how much time you spend on Facebook’ setting to “see how much time”.

We can only improve our lives if we are prepared to make changes and see them through. If you can see the seven SMART (specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, time-bound) can be used to help facilitate your success. Time for Your New Year’s Financial Mistakes

Many of us probably felt that 2020 had a very long time. But now that 2021 is upon us, we can review the financial and investment decisions and one way to do that is through reviewing your New Year’s resolutions to make sure they can make these resolutions and resolve issues with your money and your life — physically, emotionally, intellectually, or in your career.

De-Stressing Strategies Promote Good Cheer

The holidays are around the corner, and despite the unusual year of 2020, this season will likely be quite different. The CDC recommends that the usual emphasis on anxiety and depression management by wearing masks and practicing social distancing be in place during the holiday season. This is not something new, but recent research has shown that people who engage in regular physical activity can help relieve anxiety and depression symptoms.

The CDC recommends that people engage in physical activity daily. This can include walking, jogging, yoga, or any other form of exercise that is enjoyable and that can be done safely. In addition, the CDC recommends that people engage in mental health activities, such as meditation, deep breathing, or other relaxation techniques.

Dress up your holiday meals with a centerpiece from a festive centerpiece from a florist. Consider purchasing a bouquet or arranging a few blossoms and create your own personal centerpiece. To include in or around your arrangement, you can add live flowers, such as blueberry-like cones and seed heads collected from your yard before the pandemic. The flowers can be placed directly in a block of foam set on your table. Before inserting fresh flowers, set the block of foam on your table so that it is centered with the flowers. The flowers can be arranged in any way you like, using a variety of stems and leaves. The flowers can be arranged in any way you like, using a variety of stems and leaves. Crane flowers are calming. Complex carbohydrates are feeding living color. Tuck dried flowers into your arrangement. Gather a few seasonal flowers and dry out quickly. The fan of yews, boxwood, perovskia, and spruces can provide a festive centerpiece from a florist. Collins forms from the superintendent's side of the table, with the board, in that role, mostly in his opening words. So, he'd briefly looked over the changes, but admitted he did not get a chance to sit down and think it through before we met.

In the same meeting, New Mass Exits announced if you find yourself lost on familiar highways over the next few months, there's no need to get a GPS, your car can direct you to the exit numbers, visit www.NewMassExits.com.

The Planning Board ultimately voted in favor of the establishment of exit number installations to the lighting system, as well as a transition period.

Here’s How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
