WEST BROOKFIELD — The Senior Center staff is riding in style this summer thanks to a combination of monies received from a local organization and the state.

State Representative Donald Berthiaume helped secure $25,000 in state funding for the Senior Center, with approximately $12,000 used to purchase a car. Capable of seating five passengers, the vehicle is being used to transport staff members to meetings, appointments with seniors, and outreach programs.

Sue Raymond, an outreach worker with the Senior Center, utilizes the car for home visits and other programs offered through the center. The vehicle was acquired from Lamoureux Ford in East Brookfield.

"It is very comfortable and rides well. They [Lamoureux Ford] were great to work with, and we thank Donnie for all of his help," said Senior Center Director Linda MacCoy. "The seniors were so excited about this."

Solar: advisory committee, growth caps part of discussion

BY KEVIN FLANDERS

SPENCER — Residents and town officials discussed an array of solar topics during a public hearing last week.

Held at the June 19 Board of Selectmen meeting, the hearing provided residents with a chance to offer input and concerns related to the future of solar development in town. Officials presented an overview of recent solar projects launched in town, including a 2016 effort that converted lands at St. Joseph's Abbey into solar installations.

Most recently, selectmen voted 4-1 in May to waive the town's right of first refusal for a pair of parcels off McCormick Road. This decision provided the green light for a solar proposal to move forward for the parcels at 20 and 32 McCormick Road.

Before additional companies propose solar projects in Spencer, officials wanted to have a discussion with residents about their concerns. Moving forward, residents' input from the public hearing will be integrated into a comprehensive set of regulations that create a roadmap for the future.

While selectmen are eager to see the town continue to reap the financial rewards of solar development, they also understand the importance of preserving open space and farmlands.

Bus drivers up in arms over unsettled incidents

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

SPENCER — Two longtime bus drivers are asking for their routes back after being released following multiple incidents with the same Wire Village School student.

Michael Mielowski, who has bused students throughout the region for 25 years, was released from his Spencer route in March after reporting several incidents involving the student to Wire Village officials.

Mielowski took over the route late last year and continued it for the 2017-18 school year, but it didn't take long for the fifth grade student to become disruptive, he said.

Incidents with the student increased in severity throughout the year, Mielowski told the New Leader, until finally the driver began issuing bus discipline reports. One of those reports describes a March 15 incident in which the student threatened to kill another student on the bus, then threatened Mielowski's safety.

"This child presented behavioral problems from the first day this year," said Mielowski, who works for AA

Transportation and bused 60 Wire Village students as part of his Spencer route. "I brought these problems to the school's attention, but nothing was ever done. I wrote four different tickets for the same kid, and the school still didn't do anything."

Mielowski also reported the incidents to the student's mother, whom he described as repeatedly insulting him and making obscene gestures at the bus stop. In a March 19 incident report, Mielowski described the mother shouting that he was a child molester and making several other insulting comments.

On March 22, AA Transportation officials received a letter from the Spencer-East Brookfield Regional School District seeking Mielowski's removal from his route.

"It has recently come to the District's attention that one of your school bus drivers, Mr. Michael Mielowski, acted in a manner we consider unprofessional and unbecoming of a representative of this District, based on his interactions with

Local teens soar through the skies

WORCESTER — Several cadets from the Goddard Cadet Squadron, a local unit of Civil Air Patrol, recently participated in glider orientation flights. Two of those members, Cadets Dawson Durgin and Dalton Durgin of Spencer, flew in gliders, as part of Civil Air Patrol's goal of furthering aerospace education in teenagers.

Through the free flight orientation program, CAP teenage members receive training on how to safely handle a glider on the ground, how to communicate through hand signals from the glider occupants to the ground team to the tow pilot, and then how to operate the glider while it is in the air. Taking off from Hartness State Airport in North Springfield, VT, the glider is towed to an altitude of around 3500 feet before the cadet releases the tow line and begins flying the glider with commands from a certified flight instructor sitting directly behind the cadet. Once the glider goes below 1000 feet, the instructor takes the controls and lands the glider.

When asked about his soaring experience, Cadet Dalton Durgin replied, "It was a great time to be up there in the glider and be there with friends from CAP. I hope to go again sometime and I hope others from CAP will go and have as much fun as I did."

Cadets Dalton Durgin, Dawson Durgin, Sam Houle, Grayson Logan, and Tyler Sawicki each flew at least one and as many as four glider flights over a two day period. Each cadet can also take five powered orientation flights in CAP's fleet of Cessna planes, the largest fleet of Cessnas in the world.

In addition to glider flying, this summer Cadet Dawson Durgin will be attending a Powered Flight Academy in Shawnee, OK later this month, where he will do flight training and work towards his private pilot's license as part of CAP's Cadet Program that focuses on leadership, aerospace, and STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) training.

SENIOR CENTER

Berthiaume, whose district includes almost a dozen senior centers throughout the county, is constantly on the lookout for state funds that can support local projects. Sometimes the funding has to be secured in stages, but he has accessed significant monies to help defray the costs of several major projects.

"It means a lot to be able to assist local senior centers. Linda and her staff are always working hard to help seniors," Berthiaume said.

The remaining $13,000 in state funds earmarked for the Senior Center went toward improvements to the building that paved the way for an eventual generator purchase. The building is now fully wired and equipped with new infrastructure, and the town will be able to use it as a warming station where meals can be served.

Additional funding for these improvements and the new car was provided by the J. Irving England and Jane L. England Charitable Trust. Once the generator is purchased for the center, the town may also be able to utilize the building as a shelter.

For MacCoy and her staff, it's exciting for the center to receive funding from external sources like grants and state allocations. The J. Irving England and Jane L. England Charitable Trust is an annual donor to the Senior Center, providing assistance that has gotten several projects off the ground.

"They are always so supportive of us every year. It is a pleasure to work with them," MacCoy said.

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: How should I pay for my new car or truck?

The RIGHT answer: There are three ways to pay for your vehicle. They are to pay cash, finance the balance or lease the automobile. Each method has its pros and cons.

If you pay cash, you have the knowledge that you own your car outright. You could, in theory, cut back on insurance and you will not pay interest as you would with the other two methods. The downside of paying cash is that you are spending a large part of your liquid assets and potentially losing investment potential. The other thing is if your car gets totaled and you did cut back on your insurance you are out all that money.

If you finance, you will have a budgeted monthly payment and won't need to spend all your hard-earned cash. In fact, with today's low interest rate options, in some cases as low as 0%, it may make more sense to finance your car. You also have options with the financing that can help to protect the value of the car. Consider GAP protection to protect against a total loss. Ask us for more details on how this works. Of course, the downside of financing is that in most cases you will pay interest. Because today's cars are rather expensive many customers take on longer term notes increasing the interest expense and leaving them still owing money when they want to trade in for another. This leads us to leasing.

If you lease a car you usually get a lower monthly payment. You will also get GAP protection (at least with Ford Motor Credit Leases) at no charge and your term will be shorter allowing you to seamlessly get a new car in just a few years as your needs change. Downsides to leasing are the excess mileage or wear and tear concerns. Let us tailor a lease to your needs to help avoid these concerns.

At Place Motor we will discuss with you your situation and offer you your choices, so you can make the RIGHT choice for you. You'll experience why Place Motor is the RIGHT Place since 1923.

Buddy Bench a mission of kindness

Courtesy photo.

After a dedicated fundraising effort, Wales Elementary School students unveil a new buddy bench.

BY KEVIN FLANDERS
NEWS STAFF WRITER

WALES – Fifth graders at Wales Elementary School embarked on a mission to spread kindness and raise funds last year. After falling just short of their goal, the kids were supported by the kindness of the community to make their project a success.

Beginning last year, the fifth graders made signs out of donated wood, then painted them with the message: “Be Kind.” The signs were given to community members in exchange for donations to be used for the purchase of a buddy bench. Requests for signs quickly poured in and the students wound up raising about $400, though it wasn’t enough to purchase the bench.

But even though they didn’t meet their fundraising goal last year, students didn’t let it get them down for long. Despite not being able to purchase the bench, the kids took pride in knowing they had spread positivity throughout the community with their signs.

“We asked for a donation, but we stated that anyone who wanted a sign but could not donate would get one,” said WES fifth grade teacher Marion Reilly, who helped lead the project. “Our fundraising efforts were not the end-all. To get signs out in the community was more important to us than the buddy bench.”

The summer of 2017 ensued and the students moved on from their disappointment, never realizing how far their kindness had spread. Now in the sixth grade this year, the students learned that their project hadn’t been forgotten. School staff members and even a few Parks and Recreation Department members offered additional donations, which inspired the kids to resurrect their project and continue fundraising.

After the students secured an additional $100 in donations from residents, the school was finally able to purchase the buddy bench. Recently unveiled to the entire student body, the bench serves as an example of dedication and persistence to all students and staff.

“I hope the bench remains a reminder to reach out to others, include them in their play, and be kind,” added Reilly, who has taught at WES for 13 years.

As part of the bench unveiling ceremony, the sixth graders were able to lead a ribbon cutting presentation in front of the whole school.

Buddy benches are commonly placed on or near a school playground. A child who doesn’t have anyone to play with or is feeling lonely can sit on the bench, and other students are encouraged to engage that child and offer to play with him or her. With the addition of the buddy bench at WES, school officials are hoping the message of kindness continues to permeate throughout the campus.

“It is a way to include everyone, be empathetic, and lend a helping hand,” Reilly said. “There were so many great aspects of this project. The sense of purpose the kids had in making the signs was astounding. The teamwork and camaraderie the students exhibited was awesome. This is the first project in my 13 years of teaching in which the students have left behind a lasting tribute to the school through their fundraising efforts.”

BUS DRIVERS

a student and parent on March 20, 2018,” read the letter issued from Gary Suter, the district’s business administrator. “We are requesting that Mr. Mielowski be immediately dismissed from all bus routes in our District.”

Mielowski was released from his route a day later, and he hasn’t been able to secure regular work with the company for months. With most drivers maintaining their routes through the end of the school year, there are few opportunities for fill-in work.

Meanwhile, Brian Winslow took over Mielowski’s bus route on March 23, and he immediately ran into problems with the same student. Winslow, a driver with AA Transportation since 2014, wrote two disciplinary reports after additional incidents with the student.

“I gave him a bus ticket because he walked down the aisle and hit another kid in the head,” Winslow said. “Several other drivers have written tickets for kids or requested assistance, but nothing is done by the school. They don’t enforce anything.”

Winslow was informed two days after reporting the student’s behavior that he would be removed from the route.

“We got no help from the principal, the superintendent, or anyone in the district,” Winslow added.

Mielowski and Winslow reached out to district officials in an attempt to discuss the incidents involving the student, but most calls and emails were not returned, they said. When one district official finally talked with Mielowski, the individual allegedly indicated that the student’s mother had complained about Mielowski’s sexual orientation and asked that he be removed.

Mielowski said he may end up seeking legal action against the school district, but for now he remains focused on getting his job back.

“I did nothing wrong. The kids on my bus are great kids, and I just wanted to keep them safe,” said Mielowski, who has maintained a spotless bus driving record over his quarter-century career. “The school has done nothing to keep kids safe on the bus. When problems happen, they ignore the reports.”

Interim SEBRSD Superintendent Jodi Bourassa said school officials cannot comment on student discipline information because it is confidential under state and federal student records laws.

“The District does have a process for addressing complaints and incidents that occur on school buses. That process was utilized in connection with all complaints or issues brought by bus drivers,” Bourassa said. “However, since student discipline information is confidential, the bus drivers in question would not be privy to the disciplinary actions taken by the District to address the situation.”

A copy of the school district’s bus regulations obtained by the New Leader outlines a detailed system of warnings in place for first and multiple student offenses on the bus. These include suspensions from the bus, as well as parental notification by the principal. For the fourth violation, the principal is supposed to notify the superintendent to discuss a lengthier suspension or expulsion from the bus.

School officials declined to comment on their reasons for requesting to have the drivers removed from their routes, citing potential litigation.

“One of the drivers has threatened legal action against the District, so the School District has been advised by its legal counsel not to comment on the reasons, which are unrelated to student discipline matters,” Bourassa added.

Is price or interest rate more important when buying?

According to Bankrate.com as of 06/24/2018 the interest rate on a 30 year fixed loan was 4.45%. The federal reserve rate was raised again less than 2 weeks ago and it was signaled that we will have most likely 2 more rate increases this year. This is due to our strong economy. If we look back in January the 30 year fixed rates had been below 4.0%. The difference of 0.5% in an interest rate can be drastic in your payment amount. I ran the numbers using a mortgage calculator and at 300K purchase price with 20% downpayment on a 30 year fixed loan at 4.5% the principal and interest payment is $1216.04. If you increase the purchase price to 320K with 20% down payment at a 4.0% interest rate the payment was only $1222.18 which is only $6.14 more for 20K higher price.

The point is that in a rising interest rate environment if you are getting a mortgage for your home you should not haggle over a few thousand dollars. If you do you could end up with the 3-5K you haggle over ending up costing you 20K in buying power due to the higher interest rate.

I do not see the rates decreasing any time soon and the increase in rates has not seemed to push many buyers out of the market since the economy has been thriving. If you are thinking about buying in the near future I would suggest buying now before you are priced out of the market. Every Real Estate Market is different so if you are in a declining market then the lower prices may offset the increasing rates. The majority of the towns in Worcester County are in seller's markets and pricing are not declining.

Closing cost credit For Massachusetts veterans using program

BOSTON — MassHousing announced a $2,500 closing cost credit for Massachusetts military veterans who purchase a home through the agency. The new $2,500 closing cost credit is available to Massachusetts veterans, National Guard and Reserve members, active service members, and Gold Star families who purchase a home with MassHousing's Operation Welcome Home mortgage program, a home loan program designed specifically for veterans.

"Closing costs can run into the thousands of dollars, and by helping our veterans reduce those costs, we will make homeownership more affordable for them," said MassHousing Executive Director Chrystal Kornegay. "When combined with MassHousing's existing financing options, which offer military members and Gold Star families down payment assistance and up to 100-percent financing, this new closing cost credit will give the men and women who serve our country substantially more buying power."

MassHousing is offering veterans the new $2,500 closing cost credit in addition to the agency's Operation Welcome Home mortgage product, which finances up to 97 percent of the purchase price of a single-family home or condominium. Operation Welcome Home borrowers can also use a second down payment assistance loan for three percent of the purchase price — or up to $12,000 — to receive 100 percent financing.

Veterans who purchase a two-, three-, or four-family home can receive up to 95 percent financing, and also use the 3-percent down payment assistance second loan, along with the $2,500 closing cost credit.

MassHousing will reimburse the lender for the $2,500 closing cost credit.

Operation Welcome Home loans for which the borrower makes less than a 20-percent down payment will include MassHousing's MIPlus™ mortgage insurance. MIPlus™ includes unemployment protection at no additional cost to the borrower. The benefit will cover the borrower's principal and interest payments up to $2,000 for up to six months in the event of a job loss. For a member of the Reserves or National Guard, activation or deployment overseas will make them eligible for the unemployment benefit as well.

MassHousing is not a direct originator of mortgages and instead makes home loans through 170 partner banks, mortgage lenders and credit unions across the Commonwealth. MassHousing then purchases the loans and services them from its Boston office.

MassHousing (The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency) is an independent, quasi-public agency created in 1966 and charged with providing financing for affordable housing in Massachusetts. The agency raises capital by selling bonds and lends the proceeds to low- and moderate-income homebuyers and homeowners, and to developers who build or preserve affordable and/or mixed-income rental housing. MassHousing does not use taxpayer dollars to sustain its operations, although it administers some publicly funded programs on behalf of the Commonwealth. Since its inception, MassHousing has provided more than $22 billion for affordable housing. ### Your Dental Health by Edward Larkin D.M.D.

WATCHING WHAT YOU EAT

As everyone knows, it is important to minimize consumption of sugary and processed foods in order to avoid tooth decay and unnecessary weight gain. To these ends, many people adhere to diets that impose portion control, calorie counting, keeping food journals, and other means of tracking food consumption. Unfortunately, these methods are often misleading since faulty memory, inaccurate measurements, and simple errors make tracking diets a fairly unreliable exercise. In an effort to track dietary data more reliably, scientists have developed a tiny, wireless sensor that can be attached to a tooth that can collect real-time information about a person's consumption of salt, glucose, and alcohol. This innovation may be a game-changer for collecting data on food intake.

Dentists do more than fill cavities, construct crowns, perform root canals, place implants, and make dentures. If you have questions about your diet and your teeth, or you're experiencing unusual discomfort, or if you are worried about your child's developing teeth, the answers to these concerns and others can be found at NINE WEST MAIN DENTAL. We are well-versed and up to date on today's health care matters at 9 West Main St., West Brookfield, where we offer comprehensive dental services. Please call us at 508.867.2777 for an appointment.

P.S. The tooth-mounted food sensor mentioned above is 2 millimeters square and can flexibly conform and bond to tooth surfaces. It may someday be programmed to sound alarms when sugar, salt, or other compounds are detected.

Auxiliary Scholarship winners

SOUTHRIDGE — The Harrington Auxiliary's Scholarship Committee awarded scholarships in three different categories to 10 students who are pursuing careers in a healthcare field at its fifth annual scholarship awards ceremony June 11.

Auxiliary members Pat Motyka and Mary Anne Hickey co-chair the scholarship committee. Other members include Jean Welch, Valerie Degnan, Judy Martinek and Kathy Norrgard; Barbara Avery, the Auxiliary's second vice president, served as advisor to the committee. The Grace Kirk Memorial Scholarship was given to Emily French, a graduate of Shepherd Hill Regional High School. The scholarship pays tribute to Grace Kirk, a 23-year Harrington Hospital volunteer who also served as co-chair of the scholarship committee for 17 years. Kirk passed away in 2012 and in 2014 the Auxiliary honored her memory with the presentation of the first Grace Kirk Memorial Scholarship in the amount of $1,250.

The Auxiliary also awarded five $3,000 scholarships to graduates of area high schools. Heather Fontaine, a Quaboag High School graduate, plans to study physical therapy at Springfield College. Shepherd Hill Regional High School graduate Marissa Fontaine is enrolled at the University of Massachusetts Boston with the goal of becoming a surgeon. Megan Marrier graduated from Bartlett High School and will study nursing at the University of Rhode Island. A recent graduate of Southbridge High School, Frances Garcia has been accepted into the nursing program at Anna Maria College. Also destined for nursing school is Shivani Patel, who graduated from Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School. She is enrolled in the program at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences.

The Auxiliary also awarded the Dr. Van Vooren Memorial Scholarship in honor of Dr. Robert Van Vooren, the founder of the cardiac rehabilitation program and medical director at Harrington Hospital. The award was initiated in 1991 and is given to hospital employees who have returned to school to further their educations in the health field. Each of the following students received a $1,000 scholarship.

Tim Sanchez, a patient observer at Harrington Hospital since 2017, is studying adolescent therapy at Westfield State University and has been a proactive employee.

Jillian Orsi serves in a dual

capacity — she works the switchboard and the emergency room registration at Harrington Hospital and is pursuing her degree in occupational therapy at Quinsigamond Community College.

Casey Lacaire, a 2015 graduate of David Prouty High School, is attending Anna Maria College as a nursing student.

A dietary aide at Webster Manor nursing home, Alessandra Martocci is planning to attend Quinnipiac University to study nursing.

Recent Bay Path Regional

Vocational Technical High School graduate Jillian Marrero has worked at Harrington Hospital in a variety of roles since July 2017. She hopes to become a surgeon and begins her studies at Worcester State University in the fall.

Harrington Auxiliary, established in 1932, is a non-profit organization of dedicated and impassioned volunteers whose mission is to support and enhance the excellent services provided by the Harrington HealthCare System.

Collaboration promotes communication as school works with agency

BY GUS STEEVES
STONEBRIDGE CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — If the US were Bay Path and Iran were the Mercy Center, or vice versa, the world would probably be better off.

That's because the two entities — a voke school and a social service agency — have been exchanging people for nearly 15 years with the goal of trying to better understand each other. Recently, they celebrated the end of a semester by having Mercy Center folks come to Bay Path for lunch and activities in the cosmetology, carpentry and graphic design shops.

"I was nervous because I'd never been in that type of environment," said Brooke Bowes of Dudley. "I learned to love it there by talking to them and really getting to know people — not just by what you see, but who they are as a real person."

Like the other Bay Path

students involved, Bowes is a health technology sophomore. According to one of the department's four teachers, Christine Piehl, the students spend part of the year in several places that help them learn "communication skills across the growth and development cycle," from infancy to seniority. In this case, it gives them experience with various kinds of disabilities and for the last two years has specifically given them an opportunity to practice sign language, although none of the deaf clients were able to come to Bay Path this time.

"They enjoy watching our students," Piehl said. "They seemed a little apprehensive at first, but came into themselves."

Indeed, some were quite vocal about it. One, Rafael, proudly wore the basketball pin and Hawaiian shirt he'd just received from the graphics art department.

"I like making new friends and love the art stuff," he said, noting his favorite part of the visit was "my friend right here."

He was referring to Carla Rodriguez of Southbridge, who likes the program because it "makes it easier for us to talk to different kinds of people."

"I miss them a lot. We used to go to Mercy Center, but we haven't been there in a while," she said. "It's nice to be able to have this one last goodbye."

Piehl said the students visited Mercy Center on alternating weeks earlier this year, before shifting to an adult day care setting. As she sees it, the typical student is "inexperienced and uncertain at the start, but their confidence levels improve and they embrace the setting."

At least one Bay Path graduate now works at Mercy, she added.

According to Jodi Contonio, Mercy Center has several related programs, including a day hab and a community-based day program (a sheltered workshop), for its roughly 140 clients. Some of its clients go to regular jobs, so the Bay Path students tend to interact with those who stay behind. She also noted a couple clients have relatives working at Bay Path.

"These guys just love them. They build a great relationship," she said. "These guys work a lot one-on-one with our clients. I wish they could join our clients on job sites, but they can't."

For Charlton's Samantha LePage, who said she's worked with disabled children, Mercy Center's adult population was a logical next step, but she admitted she "wasn't sure I'd like it." But she particularly likes hearing their stories and pasts. She and Bowes were having lunch with Freddy of Fitchburg, who spends most of his days in Mercy's workshop sealing envelopes, folding papers and doing similar things. He said he's been there "a long time" and particularly likes "meeting new people."

At Bay Path, he spent much of his visit in the carpentry shop, where he worked with two students to make a birdhouse, wielding the hammer himself.

Contonio said she tries to ensure everyone gets a chance to come here, and would love to have more time to see more Bay Path programs.

"I really wish we could do it more than once a year," she added.

Seeking USS Intrepid veterans

NEW YORK, NY — August 16, 2018 will mark the 75th anniversary of the commissioning of the USS Intrepid (CVS-11), the World War II-era Essex class aircraft carrier that is now home to the Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum in New York City. To mark the occasion, the Intrepid Museum is putting out a coast-to-coast "all call" for former Intrepid crew members to be reunited in a special 75th Commissioning Anniversary Celebration Weekend from Thursday, Aug. 16 to Sunday, Aug. 19 on board Intrepid.

The Museum is also accepting donations of personal artifacts and memorabilia from former crew members and their families. Each item added to the Museum's collection helps express and interpret Intrepid's stories of service, and serves to educate and inspire more than one million visitors each year.

To learn more about this weekend and for registration information, former crew members and their family members can visit www.intrepidmuseum.org/75 or email fcm@intrepidmuseum.org.

The homecoming weekend will feature a special ceremony marking the 75th anniversary of Intrepid's commissioning on Thursday, Aug. 16, honoring Intrepid former crew members who will reunite and share stories of their tours of duty. Throughout the weekend, the Museum will offer guided tours of the ship and behind-the-scenes curator-led tours of the Museum's collection storage facility, and a special former crew member dinner event with the United States Secretary of the Navy, Richard V. Spencer. For some former crew members, this will be the first time they have been aboard their beloved ship since the completion of their service.

Intrepid's 75th Commissioning

Anniversary Celebration Weekend is open to the public, and will feature programs and events specifically tailored for former crew members and their families, as well as opportunities for members of the public to interact with our visiting former crew members. More than 280 former crew members are currently confirmed to attend with their family members.

Now a museum and national historic landmark, the aircraft carrier Intrepid (CVS-11) was one of the most successful and stalwart ships in US history. Nicknamed "The Fighting I" by its crew, Intrepid served in the Pacific during World War II, surviving five kamikaze attacks and one torpedo strike. Intrepid later conducted submarine surveillance in the North Atlantic during the Cold War and served three tours of duty off Vietnam. It was also one of the primary recovery vessels for NASA during the Mercury and Gemini missions, and retrieved astronauts Scott Carpenter, Gus Grissom and John Young after their respective orbits and splashdowns in the Pacific.

The Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum is a non-profit, educational institution featuring the legendary aircraft carrier Intrepid, the space shuttle Enterprise, the world's fastest jets and a guided missile submarine. Through exhibitions, educational programming and the foremost collection of technologically groundbreaking aircraft and vessels, visitors of all ages and abilities are taken on an interactive journey through history to learn about American innovation and bravery.

The Intrepid Museum fulfills its mission to honor our heroes, educate the public and inspire our youth by connecting them to history through hands-on exploration while bridging the future by inspiring innovation.

Connect with us on Facebook, Twitter and YouTube, and tour the Museum virtually on Google Arts & Culture.

Around the world in a single day

EAST BROOKFIELD – Students at East Brookfield Elementary School became world travelers last week – and they didn’t even have to leave their school to do so. This year’s Field Day exercises at EBES had a global theme, with activities and games inspired by different nations. Flags of various countries were displayed at each station during the June 19 event, which included participation from several teachers and town officials.

The event requires significant planning each year, and Principal Ron Tomlin is always grateful for the hard work of teachers Christine Lavin, Vicky Zaring, Sheila Grant, and Meaghan Pope.

“Those four teachers worked tirelessly to organize this whole thing,” Tomlin said. “They did an outstanding job.”

We want to be adopted together!

Seth and Charles are brothers of Caucasian descent who are looking for a loving adoptive home together. Seth is a quiet boy with a good sense of humor who likes to tell jokes. He enjoys being around his younger siblings and his friends from school. Seth is well behaved at school, where he receives extra supports.

Charles is a quiet but occasionally excitable boy. He wants to be a novelist when he grows up. Charles enjoys school and is doing very well in class. He has a group of friends at school that he sits with at lunch. He gets along well with his brother but also likes to spend time on his own.

Legally freed for adoption, Seth and Charles want to be placed together. They will do well in a family of any constellation, with or without other children in the home.

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you’re at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-964-6273 or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have “a permanent place to call HOME.”

*Are we boring you?
 Scaring you?
 Or haven't we done our jobs?*

"According to the L.A. Times, by next year, millennials born between 1981 and 1996 are projected to outnumber baby boomers born between 1946 and 1964. But millennials are going to the polls in very small numbers. In the 2014 mid-term elections, turnout among 18-20 year-olds was 15%, which was the lowest in a national election since the voting age was changed from 21 in 1971."

As often as we tout the need to register to vote, to go to the polls, to become involved especially at the local level; that statement from the LA Times is frightening.

We can shrug and say it is indicative of the age of that demographic; that people that age don't usually become involved in politics for another 10 years or so when it hits them how important it is to them personally.

No, that is not so. At least, it hasn't been so in the past. There was no one more passionate about politics and being involved than the young people of the 1960s and '70s. The ones who marched for civil rights and women's rights and against a war. They were definitely that demographic.

And we can definitely see a move in a slightly younger generation for involvement; think of the high school age students who have made a movement on their own for civil rights and gun control in the wake of tragedies they have personally witnessed. While they are immediately advocating gun control, we imagine with more thought they will also begin paying attention to other pieces of the puzzle, and understand there is more to it. There will be really good young people entering political science classes, and social work classes, and law, and history in the next two or three years we suspect. Advocating for better mental health and intervention; advocating for education on peer mediation and anti-bullying and recognizing the symptoms of antisocial behaviors among their peers, hoping to interrupt a tragedy before it happens.

But that is the younger generation. We need to address this sorrowful state of those two to five years of young adults who are in college right now; who are NOT in political advocacy groups, not joining Young Republican Clubs or even being compromised by (gasp) the far left by tempting them with a social event.

They aren't working for candidates they believe in. They aren't registering voters. They aren't working for civil liberties.

And they aren't voting themselves. After watching a view interviews with that age groups, there was a sense some are indeed overwhelmed by the whole thing; they fear they can't make a difference so why try.

They don't know where to start. Some have no clue how it works. No one taught them how. And they fear they will make a mistake.

Some throw up their hands in disgust, not "wanting to be sucked in" to it at all.

But we need them to be "sucked in." We desperately need them to want to be part of it.

Because they are the next steps. The next ones to BE there. To be part of the system, or the new world order if it changes. And they must, they really must be part of that process.

We can't as a nation afford to have them step aside.

We may have done them all a disservice by not emphasizing the old civics curriculum many of us learned in high school. But we can't change that now. We need to find a way now to engage them where we are, and where they are.

Because if we don't, and you think our current political scene is in turmoil, wait 10 years.

Fry: changes are happening

To the Editor:
 Last month was the hottest May in U.S. history, said NOAA. It followed an unusually cold April. Worldwide, January-May 2018 was history's third warmest at Earth's land surface and fifth warmest at the sea surface, said NASA.

In more recent news, ice loss in Antarctica continues to accelerate at 12% per year, tripling in 10 years. This threatens a lot of sea level rise later this century.

Meanwhile, ever cheaper wind and solar power are replacing more coal-fired power plants.

A steadily rising price on carbon is a simple, cheap, effective way to grow the economy, slow warming, and help us go carbon-negative by 2050. Two former Senators (GOP and Dem) from Mississippi and Louisiana recently joined two former Fed chairs (plus Exxon, GM and others) in supporting the Baker-Shultz Carbon Dividends plan.

 The Massachusetts Senate's recently passed Energy Omnibus bill directs the Governor to implement a rising price on carbon: by year-end 2020 for transportation, 2021 for businesses, and 2022 for homes. Please thank your state Senator and ask your state Representative and Governor to support the Omnibus Energy Bill, to grow our economy.

Meanwhile, in the US House of Representatives, the Climate Solutions Caucus has grown to 41 GOP and 41 Dems. Please wish Congressmen McGovern and Neal luck in finding a GOP partner. We will appreciate their support for carbon pricing when it comes to the floor in DC, plus support for other three bills about climate change.

4th of July: work toward your own financial Independence Day

We're getting close to the Fourth of July, our national Independence Day. This celebration may get you thinking of the many freedoms you enjoy. But have you thought of what you might need to do to attain financial freedom?

FINANCIAL FOCUS
 JEFF BURDICK

Your first step is to define what financial independence signifies to you. For many people, it means being able to retire when they want to, and to enjoy a comfortable retirement lifestyle. So, if this is your vision as well, consider taking these steps:

Pay yourself first. If you wait until you have some extra money "lying around" before you invest for retirement, you may never get around to doing it. Instead, pay yourself first. This actually is not that hard to do, especially if you have a 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan, because your contributions are taken directly from your paycheck, before you even have the chance to spend the money. You can set up a similar arrangement with an IRA by having automatic contributions taken directly from your checking or savings account.

Invest appropriately. Your investment decisions should be guided by your time horizon, risk tolerance and retirement goals. If you deviate from these guideposts - for instance, by taking on either too much or too little risk - you may end up making decisions that aren't right for you and that may set you back as you pursue your financial independence.

Avoid financial "potholes." The road to financial liberty will always be marked with potholes you should avoid. One such pothole is debt - the higher your debt burden, the less you can invest for your retirement. It's not always easy to lower your debt load, but do the best you can to live within your means. A second pothole comes in the form of large, unexpected short-term costs, such as a major home or auto repair or a medical bill not fully covered by insurance. To avoid dipping into your long-term investments to pay for these short-term costs, try to build an emergency fund containing six months' to a year's worth of living expenses, with the money kept in a liquid, low-risk account.

Give yourself some wiggle room. If you decide that to achieve financial independence, you must retire at 62 or you must buy a vacation home by the beach, you may feel disappointed if you fall short of these goals. But if you're prepared to accept some flexibility in your plans - perhaps you can work until 65 or just rent a vacation home for the summer - you may be able to earn a different, but still acceptable, financial freedom. And by working a couple of extra years or paying less for your vacation home expenses, you may also improve your overall financial picture.

Putting these and other moves to work can help you keep moving toward your important goals. When you eventually reach your own "Financial Independence Day," it may not warrant a fireworks display - but it should certainly add some sparkle to your life.

And so it begins....

In that great time, when all the world appeared in a momentary illusion to bend at my will, when the mystery that was woman wrapped me in a warm embrace, set my mind wildly spinning and caused my voice to go silent, in that great time I began to wake in the night, wide-eyed, sweating, afraid to take too deep a breath and disturb the malevolence which hung on silent wings all about me.

IN THAT GREAT TIME
 PATRICK MOON

Slowly I would pull the damp sheet to my neck and squint into the dark where a quiet shape in the corner seemed to slink away between the sideward glance and a blink. It had no outline. It made its way about my night as if an intimate friend from another time: long forgotten, out of place, mysterious and yet complete in itself.

Like a diver at great depth, I peered into the night with a pressure on my chest. And when the half-light came and the room began to take its more familiar shape, I would toss about the bed reveling in the slip of the sheets. Wary from the fierceness of this vigilance, heart thumps receding with the shadows, I would slip into a fitful sleep and awake to the brilliant sunlight on my face.

I found solace in the fall ritual. Rubbing sleep from my eyes, I would tread barefoot to the stove, strike the wooden match to its box, and listen with satisfaction to the whump of the gas as it burst into blue flame. With the oven door open and heat erasing the damp chill, I would pad to the bathroom sink and stare into the sameness of my image. I examined each mirrored pore in detail as I shaved, wiping the froth from my cheeks with deliberate swipes of a finger. I finished at the kettle's insistent whistling.

I would sit near the small table, feet cocked on the oven door, and study the muddied swirl in my mug. The aroma was an old friend. Sometimes the steady tick of the clock on the wall began a symphony of thoughts. It was like a metronome for memories, a steady march of unbidden scenes: friends, lovers, dim success and clear failures, all part of my momentary existence.

Dammit, what was that thing in the night? The shadow would not go away. I knew that little of what counts makes it to the surface in a mind. Something unknown had entered my life and caused me to feel afraid. I didn't like that.

It was Vinnie at the gas station who gave the clue. Vinnie knew many of his customers by their nickname. When Vinnie assigned you a nickname, you were a regular. You gained access to his homespun philosophy and his quick wit, and if you didn't burden him too much with your personal problems, he had sharp incisive comments about current events.

"Hi Teach, how they treaten ya?"
 "No complaints Vinnie. I love what I do."

"They settled down after the attack?"

"Yeah...they seem to be through the stage of wanting to kick ass on anyone who seems different. Now comes the hard part of asking why it happened."

"You know why it happened?"

"Not fully. Most students seem to be repeating what they hear their parents say. Very few want to dig deeper. But there's no excuse for killing innocent people."

"You study the problem? The history?"

"Yeah. And I'm a little worried about the administration reaction. Some seem ready to exploit the fear. We'll punish someone, even if it's not the right one. People do stupid things when they're afraid. I'll feel successful if I can get students to ask one question: 'What is your evidence for that statement?'"

"Keep at it Teach. Don't give up. You're right: fear and ignorance are close neighbors."

"Fear and ignorance are close neighbors," he had said.

I knew enough American history to see the connection. The attack on 9/11 would change my country...and not necessarily for the better. Our reaction to the attack had the potential to pull us together or tear us apart. The key would be getting the world community to form a coalition and hunt down the perpetrators. The terrorist attack was an attack on civilization, not just on the people in New York City, or the United States. It was an attack on what we valued as human beings.

And the thing in the dark? It was no longer a puzzle. It was fear, plain and simple. Personal fear, fears about the future, fears that I might not meet the challenge of teaching, that the government might not meet the challenge of leadership... and just plain fear of the unknown.

Now all these many years later, important values are still under attack.

The enemy is still fear and ignorance.

And I want to write about it.

Bay Path grad honored for academic achievement

BY JASON BLEAU
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

SPENCER – A recent graduate of Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School is celebrating quite an achievement on the state level as a 2018 recipient of a special award from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts acknowledging his excellence as a vocational student.

The Massachusetts Vocational Association Outstanding Vocational Technical Student honor is presented to only one student per school throughout the commonwealth and Joshua MacIntosh, who recently graduated as a member of the Class of 2018 at Bay Path, was the local recipient. The son of Karen John who raised him as a single mother, MacIntosh has had to endure many limitations in his life to succeed and achieving acknowledgement on the state level for his hard work has proven to be a highlight of his high school career.

“It feels pretty awesome,” MacIntosh said. “Over the years I’ve been in my shop in high school I’ve always strived to be the best I can be and tried to keep going even when some of the tasks were difficult. I pushed myself in those classes and I think this award just reflects the hard work I’ve been putting in.”

MacIntosh’s proud mother Karen said she always taught her children to push through hardships to be the best men they can be. She acknowledged raising several young men as a single mother has not always been easy, but she’s proud to see that her young men have taken those lessons to heart.

“I’m a single parent so Josh hasn’t had it completely easy. He’s pushed himself after school, especially in high school, doing hours of homework and it’s great to see it pay off and for him to be recognized for that hard work. It’s rewarding for me and for him. It’s not always easy, but it makes me so proud of him to see how far he’s come,” Karen John said. “I’ve always taught Josh and his brother that they need to do the best at whatever they do. They need to push themselves and not just settle for being okay. I want them to push themselves to be the best they can be and taught them not to use their circumstances as an excuse for not doing well. You deal with what life has given you and push yourself to be the best you can be.”

Joshua MacIntosh said he believes these lessons from his mother played a big part in helping him become the man he is now as a state-recognized high school graduate. He pushed past struggles and the workload presented to him to reach new heights and while he may have never sight recognition for his efforts he still finds the acknowledge to be a satisfying reminder that hard works pays off.

“I’ve always put myself in higher level classes so academically I’ve always had a lot going on. It hasn’t always been easy to balance a healthy sleep, social and academic schedule with everything that was doing for homework. When I was younger my parents got divorced and my mother raised my brother and I on our own basically. It has been difficult to deal with everything else going on while trying to push myself to be the best I can be,” MacIntosh said. “The award was unexpected. I hadn’t actually heard of it until I was informed by my school counselor saying I was going to receive it. It was just something that happened through natural hard work.”

MacIntosh was the recipient of several other honors through his time at Bay Path including a Military Appreciation certificate, the Physics Senior award, Cabinetmaker Senior Achiever award and the President’s Award for Educational Excellence just to name a few. MacIntosh will join the Marines as he enters the real world fresh out of high school.

Fishing success is sketchy throughout region

.....

Surface water temperatures have reached 70 degrees on many saltwater bays in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Even with the water temperatures that high, some fishing has been slow for some, while other anglers enjoy a fishing bonanza. Last week Kurt Salvas and his two sons were treated to a fishing bonanza aboard Steve Mercure's 17 foot boat while fishing outside of the Westport River. The group caught their limit of doormat fluke and sea bass in just a few hours, with many legal size fish being released. Steve was using some of the Road Runner jigs that I had given to him last year, and were responsible for many of the fish they had caught that day.

Using a large white bucktail jig on the bottom, and a 1/8 oz. Road Runner jig a foot above had proved to be a deadly combination for this writer also over the years. The jigs are tipped with a small piece of squid. Road Runner jigs are the product of the Blakemore company. Check out all of their products at Roadrunnerlures.com. This week's picture shows a fluke and seabass caught by one of Ralph's sons. It took a few hours to clean and process all of the fish for the freezer. They were in the right place at the right time.

The fluke and seabass caught by the Salvas family.

at the canal was very good for some, and slow for others last week. The east end of the canal reportedly saw the best action on surface plugs, although other parts of the canal did pretty good also. Everyone was hoping that the full moon would send in some monster fish with the high tides.

Haddock fishing on the cape has boats going farther out to find the fish, but when they do, action is fast. Many anglers are catching some nice cod on each trip, but they need to be released because of the closure of cod on all of the Gulf of Maine for the last few years. Cod fishing in Rhode Island has taken a big hit this year, with nothing but poor reports from charter boats.

Summer has arrived, and with it comes all types of infectious diseases that can negatively affect your dog's health. One of the most contagious diseases is Parvo. A booster shot is required annually to ensure your pet is protected from this killer disease. Taking your dog to a dog park or other area that has other dogs, without them having their booster shot is using poor judgment.

Veterinarians are expensive, and if you cannot afford to take your pet to a vet, you can do the second best thing. Tractor Supply has a series of shots that can be purchased over the counter, that you can administer yourself. The vaccine is less than $11 and comes with all of the instructions on how to administer the vaccine. Other vaccines are also available at the store. Be sure to only administer a vaccine shot to a healthy dog.

Gypsy moth caterpillars are making their presence known around the valley. Some areas are being hit hard again this year, while others are barely being touched.

Ticks are also starting to be contracted by local residents, but to date they do not seem to be as bad as last year. A family member had a tick bite on her back this year and was tested for disease a few times. It came back negative every time. She became weaker and sicker every day, and she finally convinced her doctor to give her an antibiotic. She has started to get a lot better and hopefully will see a full recovery. I have found that there is no set rule among doctors on how to treat or test a patient for Lyme disease. The patient needs to basically be your own doctor. Leaving it untreated can cause serious medical problems that cannot be reversed. This writer had contracted Lyme disease two times in the last 10 years. It is nothing you want to play around with!!!

Early-inning 'jitters' leaves Leicester one game shy of winning State Title

GREATER NEW BEDFORD VOKE TECH TOPS WOLVERINES, 5-1

WORCESTER — The clock struck midnight on the Leicester High varsity softball team, the Cinderella story of the 2018 Division 2 State Tournament, as the Wolverines lost in their bid to become the school's first-ever state title team, 5-1, to Greater New Bedford Voke Tech (GNBVT), on Saturday, June 23 at Worcester State University's Rockwood Field.

Leicester, which entered the State Final having won 10 straight games, finished its very memorable season 19-7. The Wolverines' chances for a win over the Bears (22-4) were greatly affected by their defensive struggles; Leicester finished the game having committed four physical errors and about as many mental ones as well.

"We've said through this whole run in the postseason that there is only one team that's going to beat us, and that's us, and we certainly did that today," Wolverines' head coach Dave Stanick said. "In the third inning we gave them six outs. You can't do that to a good team. They're going to take advantage of it and they did.

"So, when we finally got our run across in the fourth inning we felt like the game should have been 1-1 at that point, 2-1 at worst. That's a game. That's when we started really playing, but we had put ourselves in too big of a hole. You can't start playing in the fourth inning in a game like this against a team like that."

Greater New Bedford went ahead, 1-0, in the bottom of the second inning. With two outs Leicester pitcher Kya Birtz hit the Bears' Piper Crooks. Crooks promptly stole second base and came home when GNBVT's next batter, Janice Rullan, singled to left field.

In the third inning the Bears put the game away, extending their lead to 4-0 on three hits and two costly Leicester errors.

The Wolverines scored their lone run in the top of the fourth inning, with junior co-captain Caitlin Kemp (two hits) making the score 4-1 when she smacked a leadoff single to left field and came home when junior co-captain Katelyn McKay lashed a one-out triple to the fence in left field.

Greater New Bedford added a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to account for the game's final run.

Birtz, a freshman who exhibited pinpoint control throughout Leicester's late season and postseason run, struggled with her command against the Bears.

"Kya didn't have her best stuff today, certainly. She was off a little bit, I'm not sure why," Stanick said. "She wasn't her normal sharp self, but she is a freshman and this is a big stage."

Stanick was disappointed by the loss, to be sure, but he was able to quickly put it in perspective.

"I just asked the girls if, on March 19 when we first started in the gym, they thought they would be standing here today," Stanick said. "And they all said no. And I told them, 'neither did I.' We originally said if we could get to Worcester State for the District Semifinals that would be a good season for us. So this has gone well beyond any expectations we had for the season.

"We had a great season," Stanick continued. "I'm very proud of the girls; they've done a great job all year. We've come so far as players and as individuals. Hopefully we learn a lot from this and we can get back here next year. That'd be great."

The fact that Leicester had no seniors on this year's team certainly seems to set the Wolverines up for a prolonged run of success. Against GNBVT that positive may have been a negative.

"It might have been a little bit of a liability today," Stanick acknowledged. "When you're leaning on your junior captains [Kemp, McKay, Hannah Wickson and Lydia Petit], who have done a great job all year, and they're looking for someone to help them and there is no one there to help them, that's tough.

"We might have missed a little senior leadership there, but the rest of the games in the postseason were very similar and we got through those games, so I was hoping we'd do it again," Stanick added. "We had done a great job in the postseason getting past the first- and second-inning jitters. Today we didn't. We really struggled with that."

Leicester's Katelyn McKay sends the ball into orbit, which was good for an RBI triple.

Leicester's Hannah Wickson tracks down a bunt hit her way at third base.

Leicester pitcher Kya Birtz holds the ball behind her back before winding up.

HOW THEY GOT THERE

Wolverines win extra inning affair over Greenfield, advance to State Final

Mathew S. Plamondon photos

Leicester players celebrate near the pitching circle following a 4-2 victory over Greenfield to send the Wolverines into the Division 2 State Championship game.

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

AMHERST — Leicester High third baseman Hannah Wickson corralled a slow dribbler down the third base and bulleted a throw to first base. This play finalized a gritty, 4-2, eight-inning win over Greenfield High in the Division 2 State Semifinals played Tuesday, June 19 at UMass-Amherst.

"I am just proud of the girls and how far they have come as players and young ladies," head coach Dave Stanick expressed about his team's performance throughout the playoffs, a 5-0 span through the Central Mass. Tournament and now the State bracket. "They have grown so much, it has been fun to be a part of."

Leicester, now 19-6, leaned heavily on freshman pitcher Kya Birtz for a great performance — and she delivered. Birtz started quickly, striking out five Green Wave batters in her first two innings inside the circle. Birtz ended with eight total strikeouts, allowing only two runs on just four hits. The only blemish in her performance came on one swing in the bottom of the fourth inning with Greenfield's Raegan Hickey getting ahead of a two-strike fastball, sending it over the fence to tie the game at 2-2.

Other than the homer, Birtz made all the right pitches and had faith in her defense to make the proper plays behind her.

"She is composed beyond her years and she does a great job," praised Stanick.

"I knew that we couldn't give up knowing that Greenfield is such an amazing team," added Birtz. "We had to play hard, hit hard and we had to make great plays. It feels amazing. I am so proud of my team and all of our supporters."

The Wolverines' defense did make the plays, including a diving catch in center field by Maddie Hippert for the first out of the eighth inning. In addition, many infielders gobbled up hard-hit grounders and followed with accurate throws to first to get Birtz out of jams.

And although offense was at a premium — the Wolverines tallied just four hits — they were able to put pressure on the Greenfield (19-3) defense and forced them into mistakes early.

Birtz started it in the top of the second inning when she laid down a perfect bunt that resulted in a wild throw to first, scoring Hannah Gallant. Birtz, now standing at third base, scored a few pitches later on a hard-hit grounder by Alexa Dufries. This gave Leicester a 2-0 lead until the Hickey homer in the fourth.

"They made a couple mistakes early where we got a couple runs and they are high school kids, so we wanted to keep the momentum and force them to make plays against us," explained Stanick. "When they started to we had to start swinging the bats."

Leicester's bats then came alive when it counted most as they recorded three of its four hits in the top of the eighth inning. Ally O'Neill's two-RBI single to left field highlighted the Wolverines' bats on the night. It was what helped secure the game for Leicester.

"All day they were playing so deep," explained Stanick. They must have gotten a scouting report that we swing the bat pretty well and we had a couple fall in front of them and the time where they move in Ally gets ahead of one and knocks it over her head and holy moly we scored two runs in the eighth."

Emotions filled the whole Leicester team as they walked off the field, as reality set in that they had secured a spot in the Division 2 State Championship game, where they are set to play Eastern Mass. representative Greater

New Bedford (21-4).

Leicester's Hannah Gallant comes up firing to first base to make the defensive play.

Leicester's Kya Birtz pitched her team to the State Championship game following another tremendous performance inside the circle.

Northbridge tops Cherry Valley in American Legion pitchers' duel

Cherry Valley's Chris Kustigian rips a base hit off his bat.

SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

LEICESTER — Harrison Mansfield's ability to throw first-pitch strikes, plus timely hitting with runners on base helped lift the Northbridge Post 343 American Legion baseball team past Cherry Valley Post 443, 3-1, on Thursday evening, June 21.

Down the stretch Mansfield was brilliant, striking out five Cherry Valley batters in his last couple innings of work. The lefty allowed one run on just four hits and totaled eight strikeouts during his complete game effort.

"He was fabulous," praised Post 343 Manager Dave Meech. "It was the first-pitch strike. We talk to all of the guys, first-pitch strikes put you in a heck of a lot better situation than if you are down 2-0 and he took advantage of it and pounded the zone."

In the top of the fourth inning Zach Roberts and JP Lucier each reached base on a hit by pitch, which allowed for two base runners and an energetic Post 343 team to capitalize.

A couple batters later Jeremy Jenoure reached on a fielder's choice and an error by Post 443 allowed the bases to be loaded with one out. After a clutch strikeout by opposing pitcher Aidan Gilman, Brian Iarussi came through, hitting an opposite field single into the gap between first and second base to score both Roberts and Lucier. This gave Northbridge a 2-0 lead in the top half of the fourth.

"We are young and we need to take advantage of the opportunities that we get," explained Meech. "As a group we need to learn how to move runners over as well as learning what to do with the bat in certain situations. They're slowly moving it as they go."

Cherry Valley didn't go down easy, however, despite the lack of base hits throughout. Ryan Sanderson opened the bottom of the fifth inning with a triple to right center that one-hopped to the fence in the deepest part of the park at Rochdale Field.

Post 443 was able to get on the board a batter later when Chris Kustigian was able to turn over on a fastball and hit a line drive to shallow left field to score Sanderson.

This was it for Cherry Valley's offense, though. "The kids just didn't hit tonight, we had been hitting the ball all week and we won four in a row, but what are you going to do," expressed Post 443 Manager Jim Stephens. "Their kid pitched good and kept us off balanced."

Gilman did give Cherry Valley a bright spot with his performance on the mound. The Quaboag Regional junior only gave up two hits in seven innings pitched. He also struck out nine Northbridge batters and allowed three unearned runs. Another highlight from Gilman was his diving catch in the fourth inning to snag an attempted bunt out of the air.

All of this was done after it appeared as if Gilman's outing would be done prematurely.

"Aidan pitched great. He developed a blister in the third inning and I thought we were going to have to take him out, but he fought through it. It was just a tough game," explained Stephens.

But in the end Northbridge grabbed the win, improving to 2-4, while Cherry Valley slid to an even 4-4. There were three keys for Post 343 in the victory, according to Meech.

"Simple, we got the first pitch strike, got the first batter out and we didn't make errors," the manager concluded.

Cherry Valley's Cam Hart takes a throw from Aidan Gilman for an out at first base.

LEICESTER JUNIOR LEAGUERS WIN DISTRICT 5 PLAYOFF CHAMPIONSHIP

The Leicester Junior League baseball team recently won the Little League District 5 Playoff Championship, its first District Title in at least a decade.

In the playoffs, Leicester beat Charlton (13-3), Grafton (17-6) and Oxford (13-3). AJ Drenzo was the winning pitcher against Charlton, Mitchel Giggey won on the mound against Grafton and Sam Witkowski earned the 'W' against Oxford. Jake Whitworth led the team in batting going 6 for 8 with three walks and Ricky Wood batted 6 for 9 with a pair of walks in the playoffs. Witkowski was lighting quick on the bases with 12 stolen bags.

The team is now set to play in the Little League All-Star Tournament. Since Leicester had just one regular season team, their championship-worthy squad is sticking together as the All-Star team.

Sturbridge posts epic comeback, only to fall in bottom of seventh inning to Main South

WORCESTER — Sturbridge American Legion Post 109's baseball game with Main South Post 341 started out as a pitcher's duel and turned into a slugfest.

Sturbridge rallied from a four-run deficit after six innings to lead by three heading into the bottom of the seventh, only to lose a heartbreaker, 9-8, at Vernon Hill Park on Thursday, June 21.

Post 109 dropped to 3-7 with the loss while Post 341 improved to 2-3 with the win.

"We need to win the games that we should win. No disrespect to them, but we should have won this game,"

Spencer Cipro of Sturbridge works through his delivery before releasing a pitch.

SPORTS ACTION!

Sturbridge manager Jim Rosseel said. "But, you've got to play seven innings. You can't allow leadoff walks and make errors. In this league mistakes like that come back to get you."

With starting pitchers Spencer Cipro (for Sturbridge) and Tim Walsh (for Main South) twirling gems, the first four innings of the game took 45 minutes to complete. In those four frames the teams combined to send 36 batters to the plate. Post 109 had two hits in the first four innings off Walsh, while Post 341 touched up Cipro for six hits. In the last three innings — which took 85 minutes to complete — the teams combined to send 39 batters to the plate.

Sturbridge grabbed a 1-0 lead in the top of the fourth inning. Tyler Stoever reached base on a fielder's choice, took second on a walk to the next batter, Curtis Koebke, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a two-out error by Main South second baseman Alex Scavone, who dropped a pop-up in the infield.

The game was tied, 1-1, when play moved into the bottom of the sixth inning. Main South loaded the bases on an infield single and a pair of walks before Ryan Prosser staked Post 341 to a 5-1 lead with a grand slam over the fence in left field on a 2-2 count.

Post 109 didn't collectively hang its head after the home run, however, scoring seven times in the top of the seventh inning to take an 8-5 lead.

Patrick Wilbur (2 for 4) got the comeback started with a leadoff double. Deven Kingman was then hit by a pitch and Colin Eliason then walked to load the bases. Wilbur scored to make it 5-2 when Darren Laprade followed with an RBI single to center field to keep the bases loaded. Kingman then scored to make it 5-3 when Mick Sullivan walked.

At this point Main South brought on reliever Josh Adams, but he struggled finding the strike zone early on, walking Dominic Brown, the first batter he faced, to score Eliason and make it 5-4. Post 109 then tied the game, 5-5, Laprade scoring when Stoever launched a sacrifice fly to right field. It was the first out of the inning.

Sturbridge went ahead, 7-5, thanks to a two-run double to center field by Koebke, which plated Sullivan and Brown. Post 109 extended its lead to 8-5, Koebke scoring on an RBI single to left field by Wilbur. The rally ended on a strikeout and a groundout.

Main South, however, staged a comeback of its own, scoring four runs in the bottom of the seventh on two hits, three walks, a fielder's choice and a Sturbridge error.

"We finally get the timely hits we've been searching for, hits with runners in scoring position. We finally get them and then we couldn't hold onto the lead," Rosseel said. "Our bats really came alive halfway through the game."

"We needed that shot in the arm," Rosseel said about his team's seventh-inning rally. "We got the leadoff double and we kept it rolling."

Despite the devastating loss, Rosseel thinks Post 109 is a team built for the long haul.

"In the beginning of the season our bats weren't awake, now they're starting to come awake. We got it. It's here. I got a good team. We're young; I only have one player aging out after this season, so this is probably going to be my team next year as well. We're 3-7, but we're going to be all right," he concluded.

Sturbridge third baseman Curtis Koebke throws the ball to first from his knees.

STURBRIDGE AMERICAN LEGION POST 109 BASEBALL NOTEBOOK

June 19

Sturbridge 7, Main South 6 — The rare walk-off strikeout in the eighth inning lifted host Post 109 to victory, their second straight and third in fourth games, to improve to 3-6.

Sturbridge's 10-hit effort was backed by Mick Sullivan (2 for 5) and Colin Eliason (2 for 4), as Sullivan, Eliason, Avery Wetherbee, Jared Langevin and Patrick Wilbur all drove in runs. Wetherbee pitched two innings of relief to earn the win.

June 21

Main South 9, Sturbridge 8 — Please read the above story on Post 109's loss to Post 341.

June 22

Northborough 5, Sturbridge 1 — Roman Krochmalnycky went the distance for Post 109, surrendering four earned runs while relinquishing seven hits, striking out two and walking three, but it wasn't enough as Post 234 earned the victory.

Sturbridge, which dropped to 3-8, had just four hits in the game. Avery Wetherbee, Deven Kingman, Nolan Kingman and Jared Langevin provided the base knocks.

June 23

North County 15, Sturbridge 9 — Both teams had 11 hits, but Post 109 couldn't keep up in the run department as they lost the first game of a doubleheader. Sturbridge led, 7-1, after four innings, but North County put up a nine-spot in the top of the fifth to put the game out of reach.

Offensively, Mick Sullivan and Jared Langevin both had three hits, while Curtis Koebke and Jonathan Reardon had two-hit games.

Sturbridge 5, North County 1 — Post 109 returned the favor to split a doubleheader with North County. Patrick Wilbur went the distance, firing a four-hitter while his defense played error-free baseball behind him.

Tyler Stoever, Curtis Koebke, Colin Eliason (two) and Jonathan Reardon had the RBI's for Sturbridge, who finished with 12 hits as they improved to 4-9.

Leominster 5, Sturbridge 2 — Post 109 played tough against Leominster, who remained undefeated at 6-0 after edging Sturbridge.

Tyler Stoever was the hard-luck loser for Post 109 after pitching six innings and allowing four earned runs on eight hits. Offensively Stoever, Patrick Wilbur, Avery Wetherbee and Nolan Kingman (RBI) had the hits for Sturbridge, whose record is now 4-10 as of press time.

David Prouty's Labaire earns spot in Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

SPENCER — Coaching high school football is not all about the wins and losses. Winning is important to be sure, but preparing boys to become men, teaching them the important life lessons is a key component of the job description, too.

Former David Prouty Regional football coach Neal Labaire excelled at both.

In the 27 years Labaire was the head coach of the Panthers' varsity squad — after spending eight years as an assistant at David Prouty — his teams won 134 games, enjoyed an undefeated season and went to a Central Mass. Super Bowl.

During that span Labaire, who taught sixth grade at the Maple Street School in Spencer for 30 years, also prepared hundreds of boys for the real world that awaited them.

For his tireless efforts for all those years Labaire, in April, was inducted into the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association (MHSFCA) Hall of Fame.

"I was shocked when Sandy [Ruggles, MHSFCA Hall of Fame Chairman] called in January and told me I was going to be inducted into the Hall of Fame," Labaire said. "That was something I never expected. I'm definitely humbled by it, especially when you see the coaches that are in the Hall of Fame. It was really a great moment for me and my family. It was a great night."

Ruggles said Labaire had been in consideration for the Hall of Fame since retiring in 2008. He said several factors went into Labaire's induction.

"Aside from being an excellent football coach, the impact he has had on the community where he coached for so many years and the stability he provided were big factors," Ruggles said. "Another thing that told us he was a worthy candidate was the fact that once word got out that Neal was going into the Hall, the first five calls we got requesting tickets for the event were former players."

Labaire said among his former players in attendance at his Hall of Fame induction were Ray Martinez, who came up from Virginia, and Colby Compton and Mark Pepler, who came down from Maine.

In addition to serving as an assistant and head coach at David Prouty once his playing days were over at Worcester's St. Peter's High and Worcester State College, Labaire was the treasurer for many years of the Joseph Mewhiney Chapter of the College Football Foundation and he served as a coach in the annual Shrine Game. He was also instrumental in the creation of All-Star Games between Central Mass. and Western Mass. players.

For his work with Mewhiney Chapter of the College Football Foundation, Labaire was presented one year with its Distinguished Service to Central Mass. Football Award.

The father of one of Labaire's former players, who requested anonymity said, "I sent Neal a boy and four years later he sent back a man."

Labaire taught his players as many life lessons as he did football plays.

"That was important to us. We always had the philosophy that the field was another classroom; that we were just teaching a different subject," Labaire said. "You were teaching football as well as all the other things that go along with it. We tried to teach our players how to conduct themselves in and out of the classroom."

Phil Desroches and Marc Grady both coached with Labaire for several years. Both believe Labaire was a mentor to them and both feel he is very deserving of his induction into the MHSFCA Hall of Fame.

Desroches said Labaire's work with the Mewhiney Foundation and his tireless promotion of Central Mass. football across the state were certainly factors in his induction, but it was his relationship with his players that made Labaire Hall of Fame worthy in Desroches' eyes.

"Neal cared about his kids. He did a lot for them. He was always writing letters of recommendation to get kids into schools they wanted to go to and then he would follow up with a call or visit to the coach of that school," Desroches said. "He really made it important to be a Prouty Panther. I think that meant a lot to the kids. I feel that Neal really cared about the kid as a whole, as opposed to just being a football player. You were a better kid playing for Neal."

Grady called Labaire's induction a worthy one.

"The class and dignity that he conducted himself with and the extra effort he put into his players' lives are a couple of the reasons I thought his induction into the Hall of Fame was a fitting honor," said Grady, who teaches science at David Prouty. "The way he conducted himself, the way he ran his program, the way he insisted on a level of performance and commitment from the kids. He always stressed to give your best and try your hardest. He took care of them in ways that went far beyond the game of football."

Graduated seniors shine at All-Star Football Classic

WORCESTER — Recently graduated local all-star football players were able to strap on the pads one final time, and to benefit a good cause, when the fifth annual Joseph R. Mewhiney Chapter Central Mass. All-Star Classic took part at Worcester State University's John F. Coughlin Field on Friday evening, June 15. Proceeds from the game were to benefit the Joseph R. Mewhiney Scholarship.

The game was played in a North versus South format, and 21 players throughout the Stonebridge Press coverage area were selected for the South squad.

5K race to benefit Bay State Equine Rescue

Runners and walkers of all ages are invited to take part in the sixth "Run Like the Dickens" 5K race on Sunday, July 8 at Old Sturbridge Village. The race is the year's principal fundraising event for Bay State Equine Rescue, an all-volunteer nonprofit organization that rescues and rehabilitates abused, neglected, and abandoned horses.

The course of the race offers participants a unique experience of Old Sturbridge Village, as it winds through Old Sturbridge Village. Consisting of dirt trails and paved roads this unique race will take you back in time as you run through covered bridges, beautiful scenery and 19th century living.

Prizes will be awarded to the overall firstplace male and female finishers, as well as to firstplace male and female finishers in six divisions. Entry fee for "Run Like the Dickens" is $30 until July 2 and $40 from July 3 until race day.

Participants can register online and find more information on the race and on the Rescue's work at www.BayStateRescue.org.

Bay State Equine Rescue is funded entirely by private donations and is staffed exclusively by volunteers. All proceeds from the "Run Like the Dickens" 5K will be applied to food, vet and farrier care for the 10 horses currently recovering and living at the BSER's new facility on New Braintree Road in Oakham. The facility was recently purchased with a bequest from a generous donor, and is still being improved. Sue Sheridan, a founder of BSER says, "We depend on the public to keep us going. It's a lot of work trying to keep up with the bills. The race is our biggest fundraiser of the year and is very important to keep our work with the horses going."

BSER was founded in 2002, the outgrowth of a 4H group's effort to save a horse named Rocky, who had been severely overworked and neglected. The BSER saw Rocky through surgery and rehabilitation, and eventually found him a loving home. The group has since done the same for many horses endangered by abuse or facing slaughter. Horses who cannot be placed find a permanent home at the Rescue. Part of the organization's mission is to prevent neglect and abuse through education: promoting understanding of all that a horse needs to have a full and healthy life. BSER also maintains a placement list to help people who can no longer care for their horses find fitting homes for them. It is all part of the Rescue's mission to provide horses with human advocates and help "abolish mistreatment and disrespect of horses" in Massachusetts and across the country.

June is National Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Month

Fresh fruit and vegetables from the backyard garden are a summertime treat like none other. So what's the next best thing to a homegrown crop? Try "pick your own" at area farms and look for weekly Farmers Market events to ensure the freshest picks. How to choose fabulous fruit and vegetables at an outside market or grocery store? The following tips can help you pick perfect produce!

Beans, snap:
Look for small seeds inside straight, fleshy pods. If you can see large seeds through the skin than the beans are probably too old. Avoid beans with dry-looking, rusty, wilted or damaged pods.

Broccoli, Brussels Sprouts, cauliflower:

Look for tightly compacted flower clusters on broccoli and cauliflower, and compact, uniform sprouts. Avoid wilted, yellow, or dirty heads, and avoid loose, open sprouts or those that are yellow or pale green.

Cabbage and head lettuce:
Look for firm compact heads that are heavy for their size. On leaf lettuce, choose unwilted, compact, crisp-looking compact plants.

Carrots:
Look for deep orange colored and smooth skinned roots. Avoid carrots with purple or green shoulders or pale in color, or ones with forked or crooked roots. Oversized roots usually mean they are woody. If tops are still attached on carrots, they should be fresh.

Celery:
Choose large, firm stalks with uniform stalk and a white bottom. Avoid spindly, wilted stalks.

Chard:
Look for fresh, dark green leaves with bright, tender stalks. Avoid wilted, poorly colored leaves.

Collards and kale:
Check for tender, green, full-sized leaves with tender tips; avoid wilted, tough or overly large leaves.

Corn on the cob:
Choose well-filled cobs with plump, straight rows of kernels. Avoid large, wrinkled kernels.

Cucumbers:
Pick long, slender cukes that are medium to dark green.

Peppers:
Look for firm, darkly colored fruit with uniform size, color, and number of lobes. Avoid wrinkled or shriveled ones or fruits that are sunburned (contrasting color spots).

Radishes:
Choose medium-sized, firm, crisp roots. Avoid wilted or soft roots or those with growth cracks or insect damage. Oversized roots will be pithy. Sunburned crowns are also not desirable.

Summer squash:
Choose ones that are uniform in size, color, and shape. Avoid large fruit (over mature) or ones with scarred skins, missing stems, or that are soft or wilt-

Blueberries:
Pick plump, firm, deep blue berries with their natural waxy silver coating.

Cantaloupe:
Look for a smooth shallow base; thick, coarse, corky netting that stands out from skin. Should yield slightly when pressed on non-stem end and have the slight scent of cantaloupe.

Cherries:
Should be dark in color, glossy, plump, with fresh looking stems.

Mangos:
Pick fruit that has plump, smooth, dark green skin with patches of red, yellow, or orange color; should be slightly soft.

Nectarines:
Fruit should be plump, slightly soft along "seam"; either orange-yellow or greenish between red-blushed areas depending on variety.

Oranges:
Choose firm oranges, heavy for its size; smooth-textured, with bright-looking skin.

Peaches:
Should be somewhat firm, becoming slightly soft; red with creamy, orangy ing.

Tomatoes:
Look for smooth skinned, firm fruit with uniform color. Avoid fruit with growth splits, sun scald, or overripe (soft) fruit.

Apples:
Choose firm, well-colored fruit that feels crisp.

base color.

Pears:
Look for firm fruit, just barely beginning to soften.

Bartletts: pale to rich yellow; Bosc: green to brown yellow.

Watermelon:
Should be symmetrical with bright green rind with a creamy yellow underside. Choose a watermelon that's heavy for its size.

MASCHI
KIMBERLY MASCHI

When we have kids, we want the best of everything for them. The best schools, the best friends, the best life. We don't want them to need, maybe want, but never need. We are to provide, we are to secure. We are their parents and it is our meaning to provide.

Notice how I don't say job? Nope not our job because we do not get paid and the only benefits we get are boo-boo kisses and homemade chicken soup made of play-doh. It is our meaning, it is embedded in us once we have offspring to provide them food, shelter, water, comfort and My Little Pony toys.

Okay, maybe not My Little Pony Toys, but try telling my daughter that.

When you watch your sleeping babe at night do you wonder what your wishes for them and their future would be? While one of their tiny legs is hanging at a strange angle off the bed and their hair is covering their precious face, do you brush it back and whisper your wishes for them? I know I do. I know I have plenty of wishes for my children. When I gently lift my daughters head to reposition her Trolls pillow beneath her I whisper my I love yous and I whisper my wishes for her.

To my Charlotte, I wish you kindness. That you will be kind to all and receive kindness in return. I wish you happiness in the path you choose. I wish for you to find joy and harmony in every day. I wish you knowledge, for you to learn and read and love to learn and read and never stop learning and reading. I wish you love. Not an ordinary love but all those kinds of love that can teach you through pain, obsession, sporadic intrigues and a full spectrum of feelings. I wish you to feel all and know you are loved and to trust in that love...eventually. When you're 30. I wish you strength to fight for what is right and to truly know who you are. I wish for you to live a long and fulfilled life. I wish all of these things for my daughter, for my Charlotte. I will kiss her goodnight, tuck her in tight, turn on her twinkling lights and know that tomorrow she will be another day older and that much closer to fulfilling her own wishes. I will slowly shut her door and swear that I still haven't WD40'd those hinges yet! I tip-toe into the next room, where my son Jase is gently sleeping and my wishes for him are much different.

In his turquoise room, he rests silently, covered completely from head to toe in about five blankets or more. He snuggles with his enormous Nemo plush and gently breathes. It is the only time his heart is not racing. The only time he is not screaming, or humming, or crying. When he sleeps is when I can touch his face, kiss his forehead, and whisper my wishes to him.

I wish you kindness, that those who do not understand you will try to. I wish you kindness from stranger's stares, from all who will teach and guide you, and from the boys and girls your age. I wish you the kind of kindness that isn't pity but genuine interest and care. I wish you a voice. I wish for you to one day be able to talk to us in anyway that you feel comfortable. I wish for you to not be in pain. I wish you comfort. Comfort from your own body and mind that hurt you. I wish for things like light, sound, and textures to no longer wound you. I wish you friends. I wish you independence. I wish you safety. I wish for you not to run into a busy street, I wish for you not to walk off a steep edge, I wish you not to run away when all you want to do is see the playground you love. I wish you help when you age out of insurance. I wish you everything you love that others find strange. I wish you acceptance and more than that, I wish you inclusion, invites, holding hands, and real lasting relationships. I wish for answers for you Jase.

Somedays, when it is really hard, when I don't know how to help you, I will wish for the autism to go away. I will wish for a magical cure, but really, I just wish to know you. I just wish to be closer to you. I wish to change more and more each day to be better for you. I wish you love through the pain. I wish you happiness through the misunderstandings, I wish you acceptance through the rebuffs. Above all I wish you me for all of your life. I wish I could live for 100 years more just to make sure you live a long and beautiful life Jase.

Wishes have come true before. They wouldn't be wishes if they didn't. Don't wait for a shooting star. Don't wait for the bigger half of the turkey wishbone on Thanksgiving Day. Don't wait until the clock reads 11:11 or for a rainbow to appear. Don't save your wish for birthday candles or for you to stumble upon a well. Wish every day and work hard for those wishes every day. There's no rules when it comes to wishing. And really, why are pits in the earth and turkey butt bones what we wish on? What is more magical than your child sleeping soundly? Especially a toddler? Nothing, I tell you, nothing. I wish for all your wishes to come true, and mine.

In recent months, several residents have expressed concerns that an infusion of solar installations will detract from the town's farming identity. Others are concerned about the effects solar arrays might have on soils, which was mentioned during the public hearing.

"Residents brought a lot of their concerns and asked what our vision is for the future. We always want to have balanced growth in town and not rely on any one type of growth," said Board of Selectmen Chairman Tony Pepe.

Selectmen also discussed with residents their plan to establish a solar study committee to vet all issues and propose bylaw additions to be voted on at town meeting. These could include a potential cap on the number of commercial solar installations allowed in town, a route that has already been chosen in surrounding communities like North Brookfield.

Selectmen expected to vote on the solar study committee at their meeting this week. If formed, the committee would also weigh the financial benefits of future solar development in town against the drawbacks. The ultimate goal is to form bylaws that represent the town's collective vision for the future.

The estimated annual revenue generated from a PILOT tax agreement with the developer of the McCormick Road proposal is $100,000 per year over the course of 20-25 years. The estimated new growth revenue is between $150,000 and $160,000, with the real estate tax revenue projected to be $130,000.

The McCormick Road proposal is currently proceeding through the town's permitting stages, and there will likely be additional solar proposals for selectmen to consider elsewhere in town in the coming years.

Meanwhile, at the May 3 annual town meeting, voters overwhelmingly supported a solar project at the landfill. The vote authorized selectmen to execute a lease for 19 acres of land on the capped landfill at 17 South Spencer Road. The goal for town officials is to secure a lease with a commercial developer to install a solar facility at the site.

The lease is eligible to extend to a term of 20 years, if approved by selectmen.

6TH GRADERS

will continue going forward," Gobi told students. "Don't be afraid to try new things. Time is going to fly, and the next thing you know you'll be at your high school graduation. Enjoy every moment."

The annual EBES sendoff is always a bittersweet occasion for students, many of whom have never attended another school. Several kids first stepped into EBES as pre-K or kindergarten students, and they have made countless memories with the same class over the years. Berthiaume shared many funny experiences he enjoyed with the students during their third grade field trip to the State House, and the kids were thrilled with their Washington DC trip this year.

"A lot of you have been here for seven or eight years. You have been great role models and leaders in the building," Principal Ron Tomlin said. "This is such a close-knit community. You and your families exemplify what positive involvement means."

Guest speakers encouraged students to be dedicated in their studies, pursue their dreams, and not shy away from adversity. Next year will present a major transition for the kids with new classmates and teachers at a new school, but the EBES staff knows they are ready for the challenge.

"This is a time for you to explore what makes you unique. Each of you will find that gift and use it to make the world a better place," Boulay said. "I want to thank all of the parents and teachers for their support along the way."

The sendoff ceremony also included a speech from Student Council President Madison Ethier, reflections from teacher Christine Lavin, and a choral performance from the students. At the conclusion of the event, students proceeded through a reception line that included all of their former teachers.

Beyond the Wall Part Two

BY EMILY OWENS (AGE 13), FISKDALE, MA

I wake to the sun shining out my window. I sit up, thinking of the dream I had just escaped from. The dream at which I had been trapped beyond a wall in our back yard for two years. It had felt so real. Even when I had been trapped in a field under a large castle for those two long years in the body of a llama. I could not speak, or leave. It had always been day, never had the sky ever darkened, or plants ever die.

But now I sit on my mattress, blinking away the fogginess of my sleep. The door to my bedroom creaked open, making me jump. But it only revealed my mother, peeking in.

"Goodness, you've been sleeping nearly all day. But since it's the first day of your summer vacation, I figured I'd let you sleep in." She says kindly, sliding into the room with a grin. I try to return her grin, but I can't shake the weird feeling it is to have hands instead of hooves as I had in my frightening nightmare. I stand shakily on my two legs. My mother frowns.

"Is everything alright, Annabel?" She asks, a crease of concern forming on her features. I smile brightly at her.

"I'm fine, mother. Just go downstairs, I'll be down in a bit." I say, looking to the window as the door shuts. I hobble over, gazing down at the dark green forest. Could the wall really be there? Or was it just my dream? Some things in the dream had been true. My parents do not let me into the forest.

Taking tentative steps, I slide on a summer dress, and brush out my dark hair in the mirror. After doing so I slide down the stairs, smelling toast and eggs that make my mouth water. I'd been eating grass for two years. That was just a dream. I remind myself, sitting down at the table and gulping down mouthfuls of food, drinking a whole glass of milk. My mother chuckles.

"Goodness, you act as if you haven't eaten in years!" She says, then her smile fades, her expression turning serious. I frown at her.

"What's wrong?" I ask, setting down the toast on my plate, even though my stomach tells me to eat it. She straightens, and smiles.

"Nothing dear." She says, and turns to slide on a pair of shoes. "I'm going to the store to pick up eggs, your father is sleeping, he worked late last night. Will you be fine here alone?" She asks. I swallow my last bit of toast, and nod. She smiles oddly, and slides out the door without a word.

I rush out the back door, knowing I shouldn't do what my parents tell me not to, but I race into the woods before I can chicken out. Branches catch at my dress like monsters reaching for me. I shove them aside, following the steps I had taken in my dream. Drops of cold water from morning dew drop onto my face, and I keep running. Until it's standing just before me. Until I'm holding out my fingers to the cold wall. But it does not sink like play-dough as it had before. It stands solid, and strong. Oddly, there are pictures on the side. Of a woman, a horn atop her forehead, her hands outstretched, waves coming from her fingertips to the crowd of people before her. People that are turning to animals in the ancient looking hieroglyphs. A very deep etched X runs across the horned lady's picture. If this woman was actually here, could my dream have been more than just a dream? Even worse, was it reality?

The End

What To Do

BY DEBORAH GREGOIRE LEFEBVRE, SOUTHBRIDGE, MA

To kneel or not to kneel,
It's a decision football players made based on how they feel.

They listened to all the spiel, and for them this action is ideal.

It affects players of all teams, whether their uniforms are red, yellow or teal.

Fans have thought "Is this for real?"

The Knife Sharpening Man

BY RICHARD M. TRAUSCHKE

About once a fortnight, as regular as rain;
a bell could be heard, tinkling an odd refrain.
Down the sidewalk he'd come, on tired feet, announcing by bell, some housewife to meet.

He was bent and old, usually of foreign birth;
loose clothes, pleasant smile, and talent well the worth.

For four bits he'd sharpen knives and scissors on loan;
and chat with a client, while he would hone.

The machine that he used, hand-made, and of wood;

was of pyramid shape, and not four foot stood.
Emery wheel inside, foot treadle and belt;
with straps hoisted up to carry when knelt.

Whetting over till next time, bidding farewell;
off he would trod, and ringing his bell.

This ancient tradesman. No more can be seen in our lifetime again, with his sharpening machine.

On This 4th Of July

BY TOM VANTRE, SOUTHBRIDGE, MA

On this 4th of July, I'm proud to be an American.

I'm proud to be an American everyday.
I stand tall with respect for my country.

Thankful for my independence, with my hand over my heart.

People get up early to march in local parades.
While others show their patriotism on the sidelines.

They watch as the parades march on by.
On this 4th of July, I celebrate it with my family.

I wear my red, white, and blue with pride.
During a cookout as it should be celebrated.
A hot dog in one hand and a drink in the other.

Then a cheeseburger afterwards because I'm still hungry.

On this 4th of July, everyone puts their differences aside.

All ages, old and young, get together.
All races and religions unite for a day.
Celebrating something we're all grateful for.

We shout out loud with our hands up high.
"WE'RE AMERICANS AND PROUD OF IT!"

On this 4th of July, fire departments are standing by.

As the sun goes down, sparklers and fireworks light up the sky.

We can all agree that we will not be silenced.
The stars and stripes are flying high.

They remind me why the 4th of July is important.
Afterall.... it's our Independence Day!

TWO PARISHES STRONG

BY SUE ANGELA HEALY,
NORTH BROOKFIELD, MA

To you Father Rich – Father Don – we would just like to say

Thank you for always going our of your way
We know your parishioners you love to serve

But at times don't get the recognition that you deserve

You are both compassionate – considerate – thoughtful and kind

Individuals like you sometimes difficult to find

Going into St. Joseph's – St. John's the Baptist is like going to our own home

Feeling welcome – comfortable – never alone
Both of you up and about way before dawn

Visiting your neighborhood – the homebound, most of the day gone

First of all you will celebrate the morning mass

Sometimes you wish for two hours it will last There everyone to God their feelings they release

Hoping He will hear them and grant them peace

Taking care of everything in the parish that has to be done

You as priests in our eyes – truly number one
The bereavement committee where served are delicious food and tea

Paying respect to the deceased and their family

Traveling miles to go visit if someone is dying or ill

Not long for them to live – it is part of our Lord's will

Baptisms and weddings at church in each and every season

Just stopping inside the church where there doesn't have to be a reason

First Communions and Confirmations – children feeling tall and proud

Saying you were given that one voice so sing often and loved

Pancake breakfasts – ham and bean suppers welcome one and all

The year so quickly passing by – soon it's already fall

During the Christmas season we'll watch a pageant or a play

Reassuring all of them they will do okay
Both of these priests say mass at each others parish – almost every week

Always at the end of mass – family members you will greet

Being there for all of us in snow, sleet, or rain
In our eyes both of you should be in the Hall of Fame

Sermons are inviting and never put you to sleep

Sometimes they make you laugh and other times you weep

They will listen to your confession – there to save your soul

These two amazing priests both with a heart of gold

Both being sunshine and warmth as if the summer's sun

The chicken barbeque in September is sure to bring you fun

If you feel sad and the clouds-your joy is dim Raffle and booster club tickets are there – great prizes you can win

From our hearts – to yours – Thank you Fr.
Rich and Fr. Don

For we are forever united - "Two Parishes Strong"

Specializing in New and Used Tires
508-248-4811

Dick's Tire Barn, located at 1 Horne Homestead Road (off Route 20) in Charlton, MA is a tire sales and service business, owned and operated by Joe Green. Hours of operation are Monday-Friday 8:30 am to 5:00 pm; Saturday 8:30 am to 2:00 pm. The business is family owned and operated, and was started by Joe's stepfather, Richard Moore in 1988. Joe learned the ropes and purchased the business in 2003, and runs the business with his brother and two sons. The business began as a hobby for Joe's stepfather to earn some extra money part-time with two employees. Now Dick's Tire Barn is a full time operation with four full time employees, who are the local experts on all things about tires... from ride issues to traction to handling. Dick's Tire Barn offers tire sales and service for cars, light trucks, trailers, and lawn mowers, and they also work on Tire Pressure Monitor Systems (TPMS).

Q. What sets you apart from your competitors?

A. "Experience and doing the job right. My youngest son already has six years on the job, and we average 15 years of experience. Also, we take the time to do things correctly and have very few comebacks." Joe Green, Owner/Operator

Barbara Paquette's Music Room

106 Jon Circle, Whitinsville, MA 01588 • 508-234-4679
barbarakilleenpaquette@gmail.com

The Music Room has been in business for 39 years. I have played music most of my life and wanted to share my enjoyment with others.

My Bachelor of Music Education degree is from the University of Massachusetts Amherst and my Master of Arts is from Brandeis University.

Besides teaching in my studio privately, I have taught in the public school system, private schools, marching bands, drum and bugle corps, churches, and performing arts schools. My students have ranged in age from 4 through seniors. My instruments are piano and percussion which includes marimba, drums, and timpani. I have performed extensively on these instruments in orchestras, bands, small and large ensembles, and solo.

My students have also studied with me on flute, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, violin, cello, and voice. When there are enough interested students, I create small ensembles. Presently there is a jazz band that meets once a week. We will be performing on Saturday, August 11 at 4PM at The Music Room in the backyard. This is our second annual concert. Our first was a huge success!!!

Through the years, I have learned from students that I have a reputation for being "tough yet fair". I agree with that. I enjoy my students immensely but I know they are consumers. If they are not progressing, they are not getting the product I promised.

As the years have gone by, and I have mellowed – not aged mind you – I think I am more flexible than in my younger days. Life has great demands and people's schedules are full. I would like to believe my activity is the most important. I try to accommodate people and teach according to their desires. Not everyone will be a musician. I believe my job is to get people to love music.

Since I offer a variety of instruments and finding a teacher isn't an issue, students know they can shift interest in their instruments and still continue their studies with the Music Room.

I have also offered exams through the National Guild of Piano Teachers and the Associated Board of the Royal School of Music. As a student I participated in both organizations having received outstanding grades. My students have also done exceptionally well. My students who enter the Central District auditions do well. Many are recommended to audition for All-State, and make it!

Many of my students have been Valedictorians, Eagle Scouts, National Honor Society members, and honor roll students. The focus that music learning develops can be applied to anything that one finds important. My past students are contributing members of society ranging from writers to doctors, lawyers to teachers, composers to performers, and I am enjoying teaching their children now.

Music is not age defined. You will never outgrow it. And it is never too late to start.

62 Years of Quirks

On Rt. 16 in Mendon 1954, John Quirk Sr. began a business that would become a 62-year legacy, and that legacy is still going strong.

Only two short years after opening its doors on April 17, 1956, the restaurant was one of two businesses to first obtain a liquor license in what was then considered an otherwise "dry town."

Over the years, the restaurant has undergone many additions and improvements, but the one thing that hasn't changed is the original, eclectic décor. Including a 1961 champagne cork from the restaurant's first banquet, a 1901 bicycle that Quirk's grandfather used to ride in Mendon parades, and family photos and antiques.

Several celebrities, including singer Tina Turner, the band Aerosmith, actor John Ratzenberger, actor Chuck Connors, children's show host Major Mudd, and a performing monkey named Zip have visited the restaurant. Zip wore a tuxedo and bow-tie to order a shrimp cocktail for dinner.

Quirk prides himself in the quality of the food he serves, specifically the steak and prime rib that is cut to order. The Andelman brothers, local food critics from the television show Phantom Gourmet, are regular customers and friends, he said. They have named the restaurant as one of the top five places to go for steak or prime rib.

The restaurant's regulars have been coming "since the first day," Quirk said, and others used to "come here as little kids and now bring their own children here."

After 6 decades in business, a rarity in the restaurant industry, the secret to success is hard work and a strong relationship with the community. New England Steak and Seafood stays connected by donating to Milford Regional Hospital, which it has done every year since it first opened.

"We can't give to everyone," said Quirk, "but we feel like if we give to Milford Regional, we're giving to everyone in the community."

When asked about his long-term goals, Quirk said, "We're just going to keep doing what we're doing," he said, and "hope that we make it another 10 years."

Owning a restaurant "was the biggest gamble a person could make, but sometimes it pays off."

Log on to nesteakandseafood.com for menu selections and dining information, and don't forget to follow the restaurant on Facebook for updates and specials.

"My grandparents bought the farm in 1925. Dad raised chickens for hatching eggs. He also had a hatchery with four huge incubators that each held 10,000 eggs. In the late 1960's, Ma and Dad started the Country Store (which we plan to re-open on Sundays in the fall). They also started selling animal feed.

Today, we still sell Blue Seal & Triple Crown Feeds, shavings, hay, feeders, waterers, and merchandise for your agricultural needs, including feeds for large and small farm animals, wild and caged birds, and all domestic pets including dogs, cats, rabbits, hamsters, guinea pigs, etc. We are open Thursday through Saturday from 9-5; and available Sunday through Wednesday by appointment. The Bird Store and More is a family owned and operated business dedicated to bringing the Best of Nature into Your Backyard.

Founded by Bill and Nancy in 1993 the Bird Store and More has grown and evolved over the years but our love of nature remains the same and we want to share it with you!

In 1996 we purchased the property on Cedar Street and custom built our current location, which opened in March of 1997.

In 2008 we changed our name to The Bird Store and More and together with Myrh and Alf (dove and cockatiel), affectionately known as our Bird Store Security Team we are committed to informing and entertaining you. There is a honeybee observation hive in the store and on a warm day you can usually find 2 or 3 chipmunks running through the store chasing each other. The surrounding garden is a nature sanctuary with added whimsy.

You will always find Bill, Nancy or Dezeree on hand to help you out! Got a question, problem or story to tell? Give us a call or just stop by; we can't wait to hear from you!

The visionary behind the Bird Store, Bill is our fix it guy! He's the builder, the mechanic, and the pilot, clockmaker, jeweler, and Bear Pole builder! He can make a "jig" for anything. If it's mechanical he'll fix it, or invent it, and he keeps this place running. Bill is also the builder behind our whimsical shed in the garden. When it is completed it will contain the largest cuckoo clock in New England!

Bill's wife and business partner Nancy keeps the Bird Store behind the scenes running smoothly. Nancy has also researched and written every newsletter since 1993, and credits customer questions as the inspiration for many of the articles! If there is something you want to know just ask, and maybe it will turn up in one of our newsletters.

Dezeree is the "go to girl". Dezeree runs the sales floor and is the decorating mastermind. Watch out when Dezzie's decorating or you may get turned into a display. Her upbeat personality will make your day!

We hope you stop by to enjoy a bit of nature with us. You may be surprised at what you can find in our store, it's much more than just birdseed, although our birdseed is delivered fresh each week, and fresh seed is the best seed! You can also find bird-baths, wind chimes, children's books and toys, local honey and maple syrup, bird feeders, whimsical garden statuary, puzzles, and more. That is the More in the Bird Store and More.

Wild Flour Kolaches

When high-school sweethearts Bob and Sandy moved their family to Texas from Massachusetts twenty years ago, they had no idea what the future would hold. While they enjoyed so many aspects of Texas living, part of their hearts remained in New England, with family, friends, and the change of seasons. Nevertheless, they were determined to make the best of living far away. So they took advantage of experiencing a different way of life, and in doing so, discovered a wonderful pastry called a kolache. A treat introduced to Texas by the Czech people, it has been modified over the years to include different shapes and fillings. But the basics of the kolache remain the same – a wonderful, light, slightly sweet dough that works well with both sweet and savory options.

and Sandy named the company to remind them of one of the best parts of Texas – the bluebonnets and other wildflowers that grow along so many of the highways in the springtime, coloring the area with nature's bounty.

The kolaches you will find at Wild Flour Kolaches make perfect meals any time of day, from a quick grab and go breakfast, to a take away lunch or pre-planned dinner.

Sandy developed her recipe over the years, using Bob's coworkers in Houston as willing taste-testers. An idea took shape – why not bring this idea back home? Finding no other dedicated kolache shops in all of New England, Wild Flour Kolaches was born from months of developing and testing recipes. Bob

And you can never go wrong with a sweet kolache as a mid-day treat! But the most popular kolache to date is certainly the Bacon, Egg & Cheese, with the kolache dough wrapped around a filling of Applewood smoked bacon, scrambled egg, and shredded cheddar cheese. Looking for a sweet option? The best seller there is the Hi-Ya Honey, a Danish-style pastry of kolache dough, filled with our cream cheese filling, topped with sugared pecans with brown sugar, vanilla, cinnamon and a drizzle of honey, a perfect pairing of cheesecake and pecan pie flavors. Wild Flour Kolaches are baked fresh daily, with more than 20 different options and weekly specials announced on Facebook as new flavors and fillings are introduced.

With over 41 years of experience, I have a home office in Dudley. The RE/Max Advantage office is located on Shrewsbury Street in Worcester. Being a real estate agent is more than just placing an ad in the newspaper or marketing online. I act as a counselor to my client (buyer or seller). I provide assistance in marketing, staging, inspections, negotiation, and educating them to real estate values. It is a full time job. In order to provide good service, I have a client coordinator, Vicki Bennett assisting me.

I was originally a math teacher and always had an interest in real estate. When I acquired a license I approached a local broker and began my real estate career. I am still actively involved in teaching. I do teach real estate licensing and conduct numerous real estate education classes in buying foreclosures and landlord/tenant classes in Night-life programs at Bay Path Vocational and Assabet Valley Technical School, and the Central Mass Association of Realtors.

The business has changed because of technology and the information network making it easier for buyers to obtain much of their needed information through the internet. For sellers, environmental issues and more informed consumers has made it critical that sellers get professional assistance early to sell their home. Buyers are all watching HGTV and have very specific expectations. Sellers need guidance in staging and making sure they have prepared their house for home inspections. Professionals are able to make it a more pleasurable experience for both buyers and sellers by counselling them.

The most recent achievements I have received were the Emerald Level by the Board of Realtors for Sales Level, and the 100% Club from Re/Max which recognizes sales achievements. I would say more important to me is being the recipient of the Natalie Quinlan Award for service to the Board of Realtors, serving the town of Dudley as a selectman for 6 years and serving on the Dudley Board of Assessors for 20 plus years.

COMMUNITY IS IMPORTANT... PEOPLE ARE IMPORTANT. If you need help in buying or selling I offer a hometown advantage along with regional experience. Feel free to call me to discuss your real estate options.

TIME TELLS
... and 56 Years
Is a LONG TIME!

56 years ago, a young man named E. H. Horton founded what is today the oldest and most reputable furniture institution in Webster. Ever since the birth of this store, PUBLIC CONFIDENCE has counted most! For 56 years it has been guided by the idea that with business, as with people, its most valuable asset is PUBLIC CONFIDENCE!

Time Tells ... and time has shown that the E. H. Horton Company's policy of giving its customers More for Their Money is a policy that gains PUBLIC CONFIDENCE! Without it, our large inventory, many employees, and our great building would be useless. With it, we have become a leading, vibrant, integral part of this great community.

And, as the years have rolled by, we have seen many changes occur in the steady Progress of Webster, — changes that have brought forth new ideas and new developments. We are proud to have gone along with the many new changes that have occurred as each New Year was ushered in, — changes that made for a greater and better furniture headquarters!
