BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

WHITEFIELD — While the White Mountains hoop girls claimed a 60-36 victory on Friday, Jan. 23, but the first minutes of the game belonged to Winnisquam senior Caidyn Carter.

Carter entered the game needing just three points to reach the 1,000-point mark for her career and she reached the plateau with back-to-back layups in the opening minutes.

“Seeing Caidyn score her 1,000 point was an amazing achievement, as she was a big part of our run just a couple of years ago to the semis,” said coach Mark Dawalga. “Her role has really changed since then and she has never complained once.”

The Spartans outscored the Bears 16-8 in the opening quarter and then did more than that in the second quarter, winning the frame by a 19-4 advantage and took the 35-12 lead to the halftime break. White Mountains won the third quarter by a 21-10 advantage before the Bears won the fourth quarter by a 14-4 advantage for the 60-36 final score.

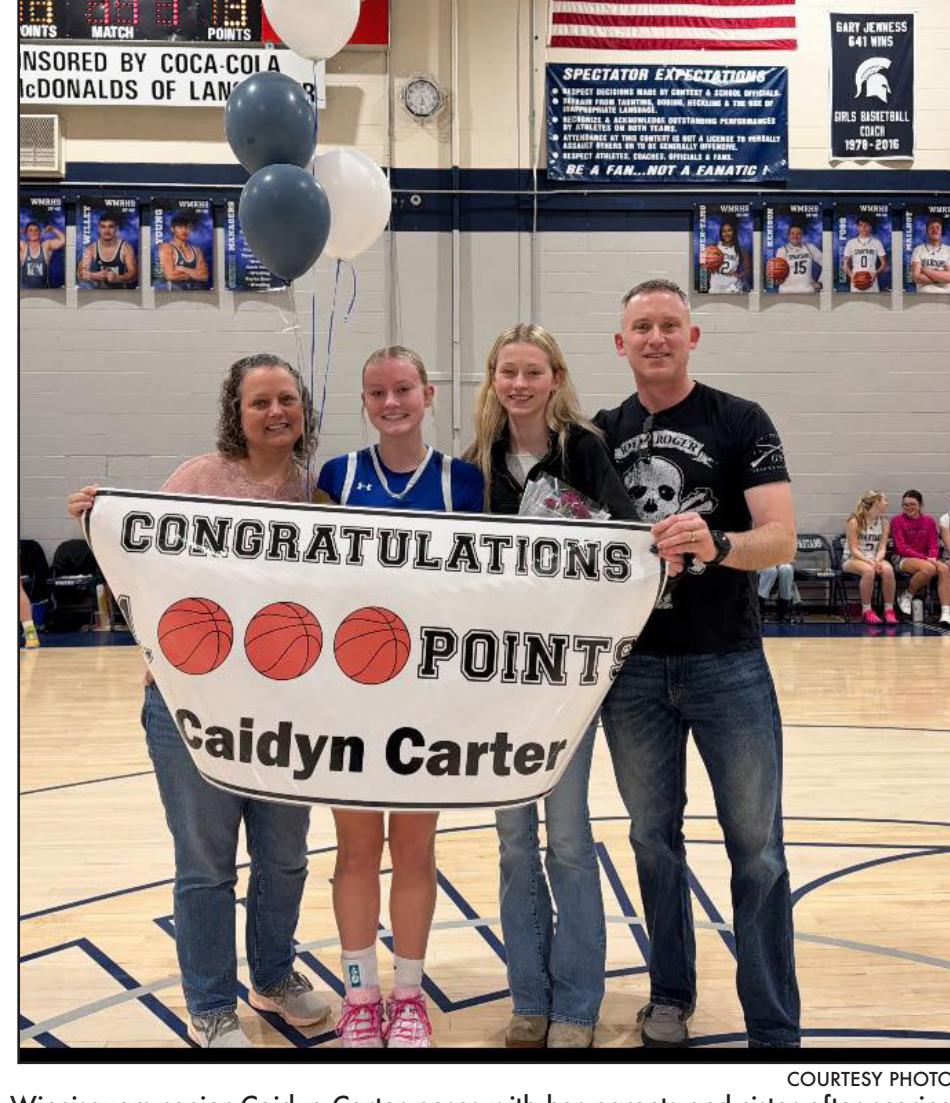

The Spartans were led by 17 points from Harper Rowe and 13 points from Laycee Ingerson while the Bears were led by 21 points, eight rebounds and five assists from Carter. Bella Soucy finished with 10 points and eight rebounds.

Winnisquam is slated to be in action on Friday, Jan. 30, at home against Somersworth at 7 p.m. and at Raymond on Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 6:30 p.m.

The Spartans will be at home against Mascoma on Friday, Jan. 30, and at home against Berlin on Tuesday, Feb. 3, both with 6 p.m. scheduled starts.

Lecture series seeks roots of Gospel music in New England architecture

S A N B O R N T O N — July 4, 2026 marks the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In recognition of this historic milestone, the Society for American Music (SAM) is proud to announce “Sounding the Nation at 250,” a nationwide series of lectures, recitals, and exhibits celebrating the rich and diverse musical heritage of the Americas.

Timed to coincide with commemorative events surrounding the U.S. Semiquicentennial, “Sounding the Nation at 250” highlights the essential role music and the arts have played in expressing the hopes, struggles, identities, and aspirations of communities across time. The series honors the artists, musicians, and creators whose work has shaped American culture while also looking forward to a future in which the arts continue to foster creativity, connection, and shared civic life.

SAM’s goal is to sponsor one Sounding the Nation event in each U.S. state. The New Hampshire event will be held at the historic vestry of the Bay Meetinghouse (now Mountain View Church) at 322 Upper Bay Rd., Sanbornton, from 6 to 7 p.m. on Monday, June 1.

This lecture/singalong will explain the prehistory of gospel music in a regionally specific way.

Although gospel music is not typically associated with New England in the popular consciousness, the “vestry music” style popularized during the Boston revival of 1841-2 is one of the genre’s important precursors. Vestry music took its name from a form of church architecture dis-

BY DONNA RHODES

Contributing writer

FRANKLIN — With some continued cooperation from Mother Nature, the 45th Annual Webster Lake Ice Fishing Derby is scheduled to kick off over the weekend of Feb. 14 & 15, with plenty of prizes and great opportunities for ice fishing enthusiasts of all ages to win prizes and cash.

Online tickets are already for sale and lots of great sponsors have pitched in to once more help support the two-day event.

Thanks to one local donor, the organizational committee has announced that the first 100 kids, ages 15 and under, will again be able to enter the competition for free by simply registering them with the Promo Code Youth at checkout. Each child will also receive a free tip-up and those who pre-register will have the chance to win a door prize that weekend.

Additionally, the Webster Lake Ice Fishing Derby Committee is pleased to announce that Zach Bryson, owner of Bryson's 4-Wheel Auto Repair, has pitched in again this year to make the derby extra special. The young anglers who reel in a winning fish will not only take home a prize from the derby, Bryson's company has also pledged to match them.

For the older entrants, each person who pre-enters will be eligible for the chance to win door prizes as well.

People can also pay to register for the derby that weekend, but in order to be official the forms available at the headquarters must be filled out completely at the time of purchase.

There will be a 50/50 raffle ticket sale that weekend, too, along with some other special raffle prizes. The raffle is open to anglers and spectators alike but all winners must claim their prizes at the Griffin Beach headquarters during derby weekend. Food will also be available for purchase inside their tent.

As the fishing gets underway each morning, those who believe they have a prize-winning trout, pickerel or perch must bring it to the headquarters by 3:30 p.m. each day; daily winners will be announced at 4 p.m. At the request of N.H. Fish and Game, no prizes for bass will be awarded in the derby. Conservation Officers will be on hand that weekend participants are reminded to comply with all N.H. Fish and Game laws including the following: “New Hampshire laws require that any person assisting an unlicensed youth angler in any way must possess a valid N.H. fishing license.”

Littering is also a violation of state law, and every-

Local town clerks prepare for busy late-winter paperwork season

REGION — Residents in Tilton, Belmont, Northfield, and Sanbornton may not always see the work happening behind the counter at town hall, but late winter is one of the busiest times of the year for local town clerks.

As communities move toward town meeting season and the close of several annual registration cycles, clerks' offices handle a steady stream of paperwork that touches nearly every household. From licenses and voter records to vital documents and business filings, much of the administrative groundwork of local government happens quietly during this stretch of the calendar. One of the most visible tasks for residents is dog licensing. Under state law, dogs must be licensed annually, and late winter is typically when reminders begin to circulate. Clerks process renewals, issue new tags, and, when required, coordinate with animal control officers on compliance. Proof of rabies vaccination is required, and residents who miss deadlines may be subject to additional fees.

Voter checklist maintenance is another major focus this time of year. Clerks work with supervisors of the checklist to update voter rolls, process new registrations, and ensure records are accurate ahead of town meetings and elections. Address changes, party affiliation updates, and removals of inactive voters are handled according to state statute, often involving careful documentation and verification.

Late winter also brings increased demand for vital records, including birth, marriage, and death certificates. Residents frequently request certified copies for tax filings, school enrollment, passports, and legal matters. Clerks are responsible for safeguarding these records and ensuring copies are issued only to authorized individuals, following strict state guidelines.

Marriage licenses remain a year-round function, but clerks note a seasonal uptick in inquiries during the winter months as couples plan spring and summer weddings. Clerks guide applicants through residency requirements, waiting periods, and documentation, ensuring licenses are issued correctly and filed with the state.

Business-related filings add another layer to the workload. Clerks process business registrations, trade name filings, and renewals, particularly for sole proprietors and small operations based within town limits. These records help establish legal standing and are often needed for banking, insurance, and permitting purposes.

Much of this work now happens through a combination of in-person visits and online services. While some filings can be completed electronically, others require original signatures or identification presented at the clerk's office. Clerks routinely answer questions about which services are available online and which require an in-person visit.

Town officials encourage residents to check local town websites for office hours, accepted forms of payment, and documentation requirements before visiting. Hours can vary by town and may be adjusted seasonally, particularly during periods of high demand.

Though the work is largely administrative, town clerks serve as one of the most direct points of contact between residents and local government. The late-winter rush highlights how much of daily civic life depends on careful recordkeeping, attention to detail, and steady public service carried out away from the spotlight.

When Lake Winnisquam fueled a winter industry

REGION — Long before refrigeration became common in homes and businesses, winter meant opportunity along the shores of Lake Winnisquam. For much of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, the frozen surface of the lake supported a seasonal industry that played a quiet but important role in the economies of nearby communities.

Ice harvesting on Lake Winnisquam was once a regular winter sight. Crews worked long days cutting thick blocks of ice from carefully marked grids on the lake's surface. Using hand saws, ice plows, tongs, and horse-drawn equipment, workers broke the frozen lake into uniform blocks that could weigh hundreds of pounds each.

Once cut, the ice was hauled to nearby ice houses, heavily insulated structures designed to store ice well into the warmer months. Sawdust and straw were packed between layers to slow melting. From there, ice was sold locally and shipped by rail to

The work was demanding and sometimes dangerous. Crews labored in extreme cold, often before dawn, and accidents were not uncommon. A misstep near an open cut could lead to injury or worse. Despite the risks, ice harvesting was an important source of winter income for many local families at a time when other work was scarce.

The industry reached its peak in the late 1800s and early 1900s. By the 1920s and 1930s, however, technological change began to erode its importance. Mechanical refrigeration gradually replaced natural ice, first in commercial settings and eventually in private homes. Demand declined, and many ice houses fell into disuse or were dismantled.

Yet the legacy of ice harvesting remains part of the region's identity. It reflects a time when communities relied directly on the natural landscape for survival and commerce, adapting their labor to the seasons. The frozen lake that now hosts anglers and winter recreation once sustained an industry that helped carry local towns through long New Hampshire winters.

Northfield's draft warrant outlines road work, police vehicles, veteran tax credit

N O R T H F I E L D — Northfield residents are getting an early look at what could appear on the 2026 town meeting ballot, as a recently posted draft warrant lays out proposed spending, capital projects, and policy changes ranging from road and bridge funding to police vehicles and a higher tax credit for disabled veterans.

The draft document, posted on the town's Web site under select board materials, includes more than two dozen warrant articles that would be finalized ahead of the annual town meeting. While the articles remain subject to revision, the draft provides insight into the priorities shaping the upcoming budget cycle.

Among the most prominent items are multiple articles tied to roads and bridges, continuing a long-standing focus on infrastructure maintenance. The draft includes proposed appropriations to fund road reconstruction projects and to add money to capital reserve funds designated for future roadway and bridge work. As written, the articles specify dollar amounts and note that funding would come through taxation if approved by voters.

Another article that could draw attention proposes increasing the service-connected permanent disabled veteran tax credit. The draft warrant lists a change that would raise the credit from $1,400 to $2,150, citing relevant sections of state law and recent legislative changes. If approved, the increase would reduce property tax bills for qualifying veterans beginning in the applicable tax year.

The draft also includes an article addressing election administration. One proposed change would alter the term length for the Supervisor of the Checklist, reducing it from six years to three years, effective with the 2027 election cycle. The article references state statute governing local election officials and notes that the change would not affect the current term.

In addition to these larger-ticket items, the draft warrant contains a range of operational articles, including proposed funding for municipal departments, capital reserve adjustments, and procedural language required under state law. As with most town meeting warrants, many articles are technical in nature but collectively shape how the town allocates resources and plans for long-term needs.

Town officials caution that the document is a draft, and residents should expect revisions as budget discussions continue and the select board finalizes the warrant.

Once finalized, the warrant articles will be printed in full and made available to voters ahead of town meeting, where each item will be debated and decided individually. Residents are encouraged to review the draft early to understand potential tax impacts and policy changes before the warrant is finalized.

Alice Hurst, 89

Alice (Blaisdell) (LaCourse) Hurst, 89, of Northfield, NH passed peacefully into the arms of her loving Savior, Jesus Christ, surrounded by loving family on January 21, 2026. She was predeceased by her parents Eva and Ellis Blaisdell, husband Robert Hurst, Sr., brothers Edwin, Melvin, David, Robert, and Roger Blaisdell, sister Mildred (Sanborn) Shaw, daughters-in-law Shelly (Palmer) LaCourse and Raven (Kelso) Blaisdell, and son-in-law Robert Dahlberg. During her childhood, both Alice and her immediate family were heavily involved in the Winnisquam Grange No. 198 in Lochmere serving as Grange Masters, Secretary, Treasurer, and juvenile officers. The Grange brought together members in a social and family-oriented environment for advancement of the agricultural lifestyle.

She graduated from Laconia High School in 1954 and spent her early life following her former husband through his military career including several American states, Germany, and Turkey. In later life, she enjoyed camping, cruising the Mississippi and Alaska, and putting about home with her husband and love of her life, Bob. She also cared for several of her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

While raising her children and grandchildren, she was very active in their lives as a Girl Scout leader and cheerleader at their many sporting events. She was a constant presence in her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren's lives.

After raising her children, she was employed at Munchkin Manor in Tilton and is remembered by numerous parents and children of the Munchkin Manor family. She was also employed by Conti-

NH Veterans Home to host community blood drive Feb. 2

TILTON — The New Hampshire Veterans Home (NHVH) will host a community blood drive with the American Red Cross on Monday, Feb. 2 from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at 139 Winter St. in Tilton. All donors will receive a $20 e-gift card to a merchant of choice from the Red Cross.

Donors can help save a life in just an hour. To make an appointment to donate blood or 'Power Red' collections, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or register online at reblood.org/3PqwToE.

"The New Hampshire Veterans Home's vision is to be veterans' chosen home and community where caring is assured," said Commandant Kim MacKay. "We care about our veterans' wishes in what they would like to have happen in their home. The Veterans Home annual drive began when our 2023 Resident Council President, Allan Bailey, asked his New Hampshire Veterans Home Resident Council Officers, our veterans, and our staff, about holding a Blood Drive. We were honored to fulfill Allan's vision and hold our first Blood Drive in 2023."

"In addition to fulfilling Allan's wishes, there's no better feeling than knowing that your blood donation may give someone a second chance at life. To continue to help save lives, please join us," said MacKay.

Blood is a perishable product that can only come from volunteer blood donors. With someone in the U.S. needing blood every two seconds, blood products must be constantly replenished, according to the Red Cross. According to the Red Cross, donors with all blood types are needed, especially those with types O negative, A negative and B negative.

After the holidays during the cold New England winter months, the American Red Cross sees a decline in donors which can impact patient care. It's critically important that donors make an appointment to give now to help main-

Leadership Lakes Region examines regional challenges on Social Issues Day

2026 Leadership Lakes Region class members pose with Big Brother, Big Sister Program presenters at Lakes Region Community Services.

REGION — On Tuesday, Jan. 13, the 2026 Leadership Lakes Region (LLR) class engaged in Social Issues Day, an intensive program exploring the support systems shaping the Lakes Region. Organized by LLR alumni Julia O'Connor, Tabitha Gerry, Nick Trudel, and Program Director Willow Furey, the day featured site visits and expert presentations focused on veterans, youth, the elderly, and the justice system.

The program commenced at Lakes Region Community Services (LRCS) with class member Ashley Bissell, Family Support Specialist. Morning sessions addressed critical community pillars, featuring Jeff Ladieu of Camp Resilience on veteran wellness and Tim Kneuer of Big Brothers Big Sisters of NH on the challenges facing local youth.

A unique highlight included hands-on field experience through ride-along with local law enforcement. This immersive component allowed participants to witness firsthand how officers navigate complex social issues in real-time, bridging the gap between policy and front-line community interaction.

The afternoon transitioned to established care systems with a tour of the Belknap County Nursing Home led by Administrator Shelley Richardson. This was followed by a briefing at the Belknap County Department of Corrections, where Superintendent Michelle Wetherbee provided a status report on regional rehabilitation efforts.

The day concluded with a focus on compassion and protection. Katie Landry of the Lakes Region VNA discussed hospice care, while Julia O'Connor and Taylor McNeil of the Child Advocacy Center of Belknap County emphasized the partnerships required to protect local children.

“Social Issues Day is about understanding the interconnectedness of our support systems,” said the organizers. “By bringing these diverse voices together, we can better serve our vulnerable populations.”

LLR extends its gratitude to Social Issues Day sponsor Nicholas Trudel, CFP, Edward Jones Financial Advisors & Wealth Strategies of Gilford.

From Shakespeare to Shrek: Powerhouse announces captivating 2026 season

LACONIA — The curtain rises on another year of creativity and community as Powerhouse Theatre Collaborative launches its 2026 Season on Feb. 13. MVSB (Meredith Village Savings Bank) is proud to support Powerhouse as a Season Sponsor, helping bring an exciting lineup of live performances to stages across the Lakes Region.

The season opens at The Colonial Theatre in Laconia with Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," running Feb. 13-15. From there, audiences can look forward to a full year of entertainment from laugh-out-loud comedies to family favorites and holiday classics. Highlights include "The Play That Goes Wrong" at the Winnipesaukee Playhouse, "The Magician's Elephant" and "Shrek the Musical" at The Colonial Theatre, "Big Bad — The Trials & Tribulations of a Fairy Tale Wolf" at Prescott Farm, and "A Christmas Carol" to close out the year.

"We're always looking for ways to surprise and delight our audiences," said Bryan Halperin, Powerhouse Theatre Collaborative Producer. "Each season gives us the chance to collaborate with incredible local talent and bring fresh energy to the stage. The support of partners like MVSB helps us dream bigger and share the magic of live theatre with even more community members."

"Powerhouse Theatre brings so much creativity and vibrancy to our community," said Susan Dagostino, MVSB Branch
