GILFORD — Performers from Gilford High School are bringing the characters, songs, and energy of the popular musical “Mamma Mia” to the stage for one last weekend.

This weekend, GHS theater will present “Mamma Mia” at the GHS auditorium for the second and final week of performances. Members of the cast have been working hard to get their performances and choreography ready for the show.

“Mamma Mia” follows the story of Sophie, who tries to find which of three men is her father before she gets married on a Greek Island. The show tells a story using the music of the popular ‘70s group ABBA.

Isabella Cottrell plays Sophie’s mother Donna, who used to play in a band and became a single mother at a young age. She fell in love with three different men, one who might be Sophie’s father.

“She’s very grounded. She likes to have fun, but she has a lot of responsibility on her shoulders,”

Proposed zoning amendments up for discussion in Alton

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

ALTON — The town’s list of draft zoning amendments includes new provisions for flexible zoning two zones, lowering the minimum number of guests for bed and breakfasts, adding a definition for junkyards, and amendments to make several ordinances more consistent with state law among others.

Alton’s Planning Board and Zoning Amendment Committee will hold a joint meeting on Nov. 21 at 6 p.m. to discuss the proposed zoning amendments for 2024. The draft proposed amendments can be found on the town website at alton.nh.gov and copies are available at the Planning Department.

Going into the Nov. 21 meeting, there are eight proposed draft amendments.

Amendment 1 would change the minimum required number of guests in the definition of a bed and breakfast. Currently, the definition of a bed and breakfast includes that a minimum of three guest rooms are available for transient use and changes that to one guest room as the minimum requirement. According to the amendment’s rationale, this change would address potential conflicts with the recently approved short term rental ordinance and allows bed and breakfasts to have less than three guests.

Amendment 2 adds a new definition for “Junk yard” to the permitted uses regulations with the definition meeting state law and changes the definitions to “Automotive and Truck Junk Motor Vehicle Dealer,” “Automotive and Truck Motor Vehicle Dealer,” and “Automotive and Truck Used Motor Vehicle Dealer” to meet the definitions as outlined in state law.

Under this amendment anything meeting the specific definition of a “Junk yard” will not be allowed in any of the town’s zoning districts. According to the rationale this change in defi-

ABA November Monthly Member Highlight: Tracings Graphics (Screen Printing, Embroidery, & Ad Specialties)

ALTON — Every month, the Alton Business Association sits down with one of our amazing ABA members to get to know them a little better! For November, we spoke with Tracy Chrisenton-Lionetta of Tracings Graphics. We ask each member the same questions, providing an opportunity for our members to highlight the important work that they do in our communities. If you're an ABA Member and would like to be considered for future Monthly Member Highlights, please reach out to us via email at info@altonbusinessassociation.com.

Q: Tell us about your business?

A: We offer screen printing, embroidery, banners and signage, ad specialty items, and graphic design services.

Q: Tell us about yourself?

A: Bill and I graduated from Alton Central School. I graduated from UNH and we started Tracings Art Gallery in 1988. We moved the business from Center Harbor to Rivers Bend in Alton in 1990. In 1991, we switched gears from the gallery and my teaching art lessons, to focus on screen printing. Bill is a veteran, volunteered with Parks and Rec, coached many sports teams over the years, and currently has a passion for fishing both competitively and volunteering to introduce the sport to youth. He also has a computer business where he builds, repairs, and educates some of his clients on safe computer practices.

Q: How did your business get started?

A: It started in 1991 after moving our art gallery/frame shop in Senter's Market, Center Harbor, NH, to Rivers Bend Professional Building and switched to screen printing. We outgrew that location and built Tracings as it stands today on Drew Hill Road in 2002.

Q: What has your relationship with the Alton Business Association done for you or your business?

A: We are still new to the ABA but love that the local businesses are coming together under its umbrella.

Q: What do you value most about this community?

A: The quality of life here.

Q: Why did you want to open your business in this community?

A: Bill and I grew up here in Alton and chose to stay to raise our own family here.

Q: What business accomplishment are you most proud of?

A: Helping our client family bring their ideas together to producing products they can be proud of.

Q: What does the future hold for you and your business?

A: Tracings has continued to grow from just myself in 1991, having Bill come in board full time shortly after starting, to five of us currently employed. We expanded into embroidery a year ago, and that too continues to grow. We are working with clients from across the country and look forward to continued growth.

Q: What is one piece of advice you wish you had as a new business member?

A: Be patient and know that to be successful it will take a lot of hours and hard work, but the rewards can be wonderful. The people we've met through the business over the years feel like extended family.

Q: How can people who want to learn more about you or your business get in touch with you?

A: Our Web site and Facebook pages are a great way to access additional info-www.tracingsgraphics.com Facebook: Tracings Graphics & Screenprinting. Email or stop in.

Temple B’nai Israel of Laconia remembers Kristallnacht

LACONIA — On Thursday, Nov. 9, the Lakes Region community gathered on the steps outside of Temple B’nai Israel to commemorate Kristallnacht, “The night of Broken Glass.” This is the third consecutive year that this event has been held and the first snowfall of the season did not deter people to remember the victims, denounce hatred, and stand in witness to the atrocities of the Nazi regime. NHPR reporter Olivia Richardson referred to the event as “an evening of warmth, support, and remembrance.”

TBI member Lois Kessin planned the event inviting local dignitaries and clergy to speak. Most notably, Congressman Chris Pappas and Rabbi Robin Nafshi of Temple Beth Jacob in Concord. Local dignitaries included Brian Beihl, host and producer of the American Democracy Minute Radio Report, Retired Judge Jim Carroll, Rev. Judith Wright of the Unitarian Universalist Society of Laconia, Pastor Campbell Lovett of the Congregational Church of Laconia, Steve Tucker, Superintendent of the Laconia School District, David Stam ps, Chair of the Laconia Human Relations Committee, and Ira Keltz, President of Temple B’nai Israel, standing in for Rabbi Jan Katz who could not be in attendance. TBI Member John McArthur led the attendees in singing traditional Hebrew melodies.

Kristallnacht was described as “Germany’s most bloody assault on Jews since the Middle Ages,” according to Rabbi Jan Katz. This year marks the 85th anniversary of this tragedy that was the beginning of the Nazi’s all-out persecution and slaughter of the Jews of Europe. The State of Israel was born of the tragedy of the Holocaust. Today we are faced with an unimaginable attack on Israel by Hamas which has spurred global antisemitism to heights not seen since World War II. It was hard not to connect the two events and the global reaction.

“Jewish communities everywhere are hurting deeply because of the lingering trauma of the Holocaust, because of the rise of antisemitism, because of the unimaginable suffering of our brothers and sisters in Israel, and because of the suffering of the Palestinian people. Yet, here in Laconia and the Lakes Region, we know we are not alone. You are with us, and you show us the power of empathy,” as stated by Rabbi Katz.

Brian Beihl offered his personal recollection of visiting Nuremberg in 2015: “As we walked through the streets, we began to see small brass squares embedded as small cobblestones into the pavement. Each of them is inscribed with, ‘Here Lived,’ followed by names, the address, and a short phrase in German which described the fate of those people: Internment, suicide, exile or, in most cases, deportation and murder.” He continued, “They’re called Stolpersteine, or ‘Stumbling Stones,’ and are now installed in 1,200 cities and towns across Europe and Russia. This project began in 1992, and as of June 2023, 100,000 Stumbling Stones have been installed. It’s the largest decentralized memorial in the world.”

Upon conclusion, Beihl offered this important message: “We must shatter silence by speaking out. We must shatter complacency with action. We must shatter authoritarianism by voting. We must shatter violence with peace. We must shatter hate with love.”

We Will NOT be Undersold

Worry less about gifts, more about quality time

As the holiday season approaches, many of us find ourselves caught up in the whirlwind of gift shopping, decorating, and party planning. While these festive traditions bring joy and excitement, it's essential to remember the true meaning of the holidays. This year, let us consider shifting our focus from the materialistic components of the season to something more precious: quality time spent with friends and family.

In recent years, the holiday season has become synonymous with consumerism. We are bombarded with advertisements enticing us to buy the latest gadgets, toys, and luxury items, often causing stress and financial strain. The pressure to find the perfect gift can overshadow the real essence of the holidays – the opportunity to connect with our loved ones on a deeper level.

One of the greatest gifts we can give each other during this season is our time and undivided attention. In our fast-paced lives, it's all too easy to let precious moments slip away. This holiday season, try to slow down, unplug from our screens, and fully engage with our friends and family.

Quality time is at the heart of strong and meaningful relationships. It's a chance to create cherished memories by simply just hanging out.

Instead of stressing over finding the most extravagant gifts, consider alternatives that emphasize experiences over possessions. Plan a family hike, a cozy movie night, or a day of volunteering together.

It is worth noting that this shift doesn't mean abandoning gift-giving altogether. Thoughtful, meaningful gifts can still play a role in the holidays, but they should complement the primary emphasis on quality time spent with loved ones.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN
Larcenous

All of a sudden there's fire in the wood stove and I'm digging out my warmer winter garb. I was at a customer's house today who had already dawned his long johns. I'm certainly leaning towards my lined pants. Right now I've got one of my quilted flannel shirts on top of my vest, which wasn't quite sufficient. It's raining outside so the humidity is making it feel colder than it really is. It'll feel warmer when it gets colder.

Well, it did get colder, and the rain went away. Two nights ago, we had our first frost and last night when I came home, I looked at the other cars parked there and there was snow on them. Talk about rapid fire. People are telling me that it's going to be a snowy cold winter. I figure only God knows, but that will be fine with me. The wood bin is full and the propane tank too.

So today, after the coldest night so far, I had to work outside next to a lake and it wasn't expected to warm up all that much. Not being very fond of being cold, I too threw on my long johns, top and bottom and added a second coat and switched to a mad bombers hat on my head. This is winter grade garb, all layered up to be adjustable.

There was a steady breeze coming in off the water all day. It wasn't till three in the afternoon that the clouds opened up letting in enough sun to allow me to jettison the outer coat and my gloves for the remaining time. Speaking of gloves, I can state here that the extensive testing that I performed this morning shows that my regular work gloves with added knit liners are definitely warmer than another pair that were advertised as being lined gloves. Just so you know.

It had been a while since the bluebird family vacated their house. I'd see them flying all around the yard and never saw them going back to the house. Last weekend, I was out doing things around the woodshed and thought that it would be a good time to clean out their house for next year. It was totally filled up to the hole. It came out as one piece and I brushed out the remaining little bits with my glove. I closed it back up, put the ladder away and considered it a job well done.

The next day as I was getting dressed, I noticed some kind of commotion going on outside the window. It was all the bluebirds. First, I saw the father fly into the house, then mom. Pretty soon there was a number of little ones in there too. The whole bunch of them inside the house at the same time, checking out the larceny perpetrated upon their former home. What a crazy scene. I'll have to go back to see if they left me a tip.

Another thing I came up with while trying to clean up things was an old canning jar from 1996. This must have been the year that the big old oak tree behind the rock pile got covered with chicken mushrooms. Looking out the kitchen window there was a small outline of orange to the tree. When checking it out, the back side of the tree was covered. There had to be twenty or even thirty pounds worth, or more. Some were so high that you couldn't reach them without a ladder and at that time, I didn't have one.

The jar is one of the old fashioned canning jars with the rubber ring that would get used for little kids game toss things. The water level has dropped to about two thirds its original level, but there is nothing funny growing in it. It looks totally edible. It is definitely well past its sell by date, which I usually don't pay much attention to, but in this case, I think I will.

With all this cold weather coming, I pulled up my onions. Maybe 30 pounds or so. Right now, they're drying in the music room. I usually dry them in the woodshed, but it's too cold nights to chance it. No more music till the onions dry out. It was my only space large enough. I'm still waiting to find the time and motivation to dig up the potatoes. I see next week their forecasting rain. Got to get them before that happens.

The Law of Averages

For many of us, a neverending stream of worries dominates our thoughts. These persistent fears disturb our peace of mind and impact our ability to enjoy life.

Will the economy crash? Are we headed for nuclear conflict? Is my partner going to leave me? Will my child be lost to addiction?

It's one worry after another, a never-ending cycle, like a hamster running on a wheel.

Yes, it's normal to worry at times, but there is a point where it can impair your physical health, causing you to be worried sick!

Imagine a universal law that can help manage these fears. If you're constantly burdened with fear and worry, keep reading because this law is so simple and easy to understand that you don't need anyone to teach you how to use it.

When fear overwhelms you, you must ask yourself, "What are the odds?"

Why, you ask? Because the law I'm talking about is called "The Law of Averages."

This principle, described by Dale Carnegie in his book "How to Stop Worrying and Start Living," is a pragmatic approach to tackling the worries that plague our minds.

The Law of Averages teaches us to analyze our fears logically and statistically.

Carnegie once said, "Ninety-nine percent of the things we worry about never occur!"

Imagine Sarah is about to board a flight for a long-awaited vacation. She should be excited, but a nagging worry clouds her: the fear of a plane crash. Each sound during takeoff and bit of turbulence inflates her anxiety.

Now, let's apply the Law of Averages to Sarah's situation. This principle suggests evaluating the likelihood of an event based on statistical probability, rather than subjective fears. So, what do the numbers say?

Plane crashes are rare, with odds of about one in 11 million. To put this into perspective, you're more likely to be struck by lightning or win a major lottery jackpot than experience a plane crash.

Knowing these stats, Sarah can see her fear doesn't match how safe flying is. Like millions before, the Law of Averages tells us that her flight is overwhelmingly likely to be safe and uneventful.

Let's consider John,

a dedicated employee at a large corporation. Recently, there have been rumors of layoffs, and John is increasingly unable to focus, plagued by the fear of being laid off.

Every meeting invite or email from his boss heightens his anxiety, and he starts imagining the worst-case scenarios.

Now, let's apply the Law of Averages to John's situation. This principle encourages us to evaluate the likelihood of an event based on statistical data and realistic assessment rather than fears and rumors.

First, John can look into the economy and his industry's stability. Are widespread layoffs happening in his field, or is it relatively stable? Next, he should consider his position within the company. Has he received positive performance reviews? Does he have unique skills or experiences that are valuable to the team?

Suppose John finds that his industry is stable and his performance has been consistently strong. In that case, the Law of Averages would suggest his chances of being laid off are relatively low. While it's not impossible, the probability doesn't warrant the level of worry he's experiencing.

This approach doesn't dismiss your fear but puts it into a rational framework. The Law of Averages is a powerful tool to counteract our exaggerated anxieties about rare events.

The Law of Averages is beautiful for its simplicity and usefulness.

It doesn't ask you to stop worrying cold turkey, which is nearly impossible. Instead, it offers a pathway to reframe your worries into something manageable. By analyzing the probabilities, we often find that many fears are less likely to materialize than we think. And even if they do, you're mentally prepared to handle them and work towards a better outcome.

"By the law of averages, it won't happen." is the phrase Carnegie said has destroyed ninety percent of his worries and made years of his life beautiful and peaceful beyond his highest expectations.

Next time you find yourself in the grip of fear, pause, breathe, and embrace the Law of Averages to transform fear into a catalyst for confidence and clarity.

Abenaki Outing Club hires first executive director

Scott Martineau on board to help club continue to grow

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

WOLFEBORO — The Abenaki Outing Club took a big step forward with the recent hiring of an executive director, giving the previously all-volunteer organization a person on the payroll to help navigate everything heading into the new winter season.

“From a volunteer organization to having someone on staff, this is an inflection point in the program’s evolution,” said Gilford’s Scott Martineau, who was hired as the Abenaki Outing Club Executive Director. “I am dedicated 100 percent of the time to running the program and growing the program.”

Martineau comes to Abenaki with a background in skiing that goes back for many years. He’s coached at McIntyre, Pat’s Peak and Gunstock and has also worked with the University of New Hampshire ski team.

“I’ve been coaching older kids for quite a while, but this opportunity came up and it brings me back to when I first started coaching at McIntyre,” Martineau noted, pointing out that the Abenaki Outing Club has now registered as an official 501c3 non-profit with the state. He praised the club’s board of directors, led by Seth Kassels for their support as well as Chuck Smith, the operations director for the Abenaki Ski Area and Pop Whalen Arena and the Friends of Abenaki for the work that the group has done in continuing to make improvements to the town-owned facility.

Martineau comes on board as the Abenaki Outing Club offers a new Nordic program for this winter on the expanded snowmaking system that will include a Nordic loop. The freestyle program, which had taken a bit of a hit during the COVID-19 pandemic, started to expand last year and is continuing in that direction again this year.

“We’re at 93 percent of our goal in terms of enrollment and we expect to exceed those enrollment goals,” Martineau said.

He also pointed out that the club had its first dryland training ever and about 50 kids turned out, which he said showed how eager everyone is for the start of the new ski season. He said Abenaki Ski Area deserves a lot of the credit for the excitement generated around the club.

“I jumped at this because of this hill, it’s such a fantastic place,” Martineau stated. “For U14 and under, this hill is the best.

“If you get the kids here and having fun, they’ll put the time in,” he continued. “And we have the facility to ourselves at times. We are able to get hours of training in you can’t get other places.”

He stated that the ski area is popular enough that he has other clubs looking to rent space on the hill for some of their training.

“We have great relationships with Pat’s Peak and Gunstock, so we have quite a bit of the equipment we need,” Martineau stated. “We’ve started an equipment program this year too. We’re trying to get the cost down so its affordable for anyone interested in skiing.”

The club is also doing fundraisers to help offer scholarships for kids who want to be part of the program and Martineau encouraged anyone who is interested in joining the team and wants information can visit abenakiskiteam.org.

In addition to the snowmaking being put on the Nordic loop, the area will be looking to add some additional lightning and new wheels are being installed on the rope tow.

Martineau notes that the opening day for the ski area is scheduled for Dec. 2, assuming Mother Nature cooperates with cold temperatures to ensure snowmaking.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

Do your investments match your goals?

another immediate family member.

• Saving for retirement – This is the one goal that will remain consistent throughout your working years — after all, you could spend two or even three decades in retirement, so you’ll need to accumulate as many financial resources as you can to pay for those years. Fortunately, you likely have access to several good retirement-savings vehicles. If you work for a business, you might have a 401(k) plan, which offers you the chance to put away money on a tax-deferred basis. (If you have a Roth option in your 401(k), your withdrawals can be tax free, although, unlike a traditional 401(k), your contributions won’t lower your taxable income.) If you work for a public school or a nonprofit organization, you may be able to participate in a 403(b) plan, which is quite similar to a 401(k), and the same is true if you work for a state or local government, where you might have a 457(b) plan. And even if you invest in any of these plans, you can probably also contribute to an IRA, which gives you another chance to invest on a tax-deferred basis (or tax-free basis, if you’re eligible for a Roth IRA). Try to take full advantage of whatever retirement plans are available to you.

Here’s one final point to keep in mind: While some investments and accounts are appropriate for certain goals, they may not necessarily be suitable for your individual situation — so keep all your options in mind and take the steps that are right for you.

As you go through life, you’ll have various financial goals — and to achieve them, you’ll need to invest. But just recognizing the need to invest is not as useful as matching specific types of accounts or investments with specific goals. How can you make these connections?

Let’s look at some common goals and how they could possibly be met with appropriate accounts and investments:

• Saving for a down payment on a house – When you’re saving for a down payment, you want a certain amount of money available at a certain time — so, for this goal, you won’t want to take too much risk. Consequently, you might consider investing in certificates of deposit (CDs), which will pay you regular interest payments and return your principal when the CDs mature. CDs

Gubernatorial candidate Cinde Warmington makes her case to Tri-Town Democrats

BARNSTEAD — On Nov. 6, gubernatorial candidate Cinde Warmington spoke to members of Tri-Town Democrats of Barnstead, Gilmanton and Alton at Barnstead Town Hall. The meeting was well attended, with Democrats and several Undeclared voters present. (The other Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Joyce Craig, was guest speaker at the group's October meeting.)

Warmington was elected to the Executive Council in 2020, and is the lone Democrat on the Council.

The Executive Council is a powerful governing body that meets with the governor every two weeks, advises him, and provides a check on his powers. It votes on pardons, contracts worth more than $10,000, and nominations.

As councilor, Warmington has had a front row seat at observing how state government is run and feels she has a clear picture of what needs to change in order for the people of New Hampshire to thrive. She believes that everyone deserves a shot at the future. No matter how humble their beginnings, if they work hard, they should be able to succeed. She had her shot. She worked her way through college, earned an MBA and law degree, and worked 40 years in the healthcare field. But for many young people, the American dream has slipped away. Many will never be able to buy a house; even two incomes are not enough.

New Hampshire is 60,000 units behind in affordable housing, which is much higher than in surrounding states. This crisis has led to a larger homeless population and to worker shortages.

Warmington feels strongly that the way mental health issues are currently being handled in the state is plainly inhumane and costly to New Hampshire. The state has never integrated mental healthcare into the healthcare system, into schools or into outpatient programs.

This would be a priority for her as governor.

Warmington believes that public education is the bedrock of our democracy, and is concerned that the current Commissioner of Education, Frank Edelblut, is undermining public education, instead of supporting it. As governor, replacing him would be one of her top priorities, as well as restoring to our teachers the dignity and respect they deserve.

Also at the top of her list is the current assault on women's reproductive rights. Warming-ton firmly believes that women must be free to make their own healthcare decisions. She wants to protect a woman's access to abortion and to fund family planning.

In addition, she wants to address gun violence and ensure that everyone has the right to vote, the right to affordable childcare, and the right to a renewable energy future.

Every two weeks, Warmington goes toe-to-toe with Gov. Sununu. She knows how to work across the aisle. She represents 81 cities and towns and coordinates with state commissioners on a regular basis. As a result, she believes she has developed good relationships with them and feels that her transition from councilor to governor would be an easy one.

Be sure to join Tri-Town Democrats on Dec. 4 at Judy Wagner's home in Gilmanton for what promises to be a fun night of trivia, when you will be tested on your knowledge of political facts and local folklore!

Audubon announces program on Belize

MOULTONBOROUGH — On Thursday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Loon Center in Moultonborough, the Lakes Region Chapter of the New Hampshire Audubon Society will present a program on “Belize: Tropical Birds and Conservation in Action,” presented by Bob Quinn.

Belize is a wonderful destination — especially for the first-time visitor to the tropics. Almost all of the marvelous tropical creatures and plants are there — toucans, parrots, trogons, antbirds, brilliant butterflies, leaf-cutter ants, palm trees, fruit trees, gorgeous flowers, gentle breezes... plus the wonders of the Mayans and their remarkable buildings and culture. This program is focused on a large protected area — the enormous and unique Rio Bravo Conservation Area.

Sponsorships help raise awareness for an organization. For instance, those who sponsor a day of the auction are featured the entire day, with the organization logo visible to bidders and community members. The organization is also featured on air and on the digital screen that appears in the broadcast and streaming.

“The Children’s Auction would not be successful without our sponsors, and the beauty of sponsorship is that it’s a win-win for businesses. They get to raise awareness about their organizations while also helping children and families in need in our communities,” said Jennifer Kelley, executive director for the auction.

Kelley also thanked these area sponsors who have already come forward.

Hannaford is the event’s Presenting Sponsor and MB Tractor the OverBid Sponsor for the Week.

Temple B’nai Israel commemorates Kristallnacht

LACONIA — Temple B’nai Israel will commemorate Kristallnacht, also known as “The Night of Broken Glass,” on Thursday, Nov. 9, on the front steps of the temple located at 210 Court Street in Laconia, starting at 6 p.m. The Lakes Region community is invited to bear witness and partake in a program with influential community leaders and clergy from various faiths offering words of comfort and songs of hope to unite against hatred and intolerance.

Eighty-five years ago, Nov. 9, 1938, violent mobs, spurred by antisemitic exhortations from Nazi officials, destroyed hundreds of synagogues, burning or desecrating Jewish religious artifacts. Approximately 7,500 Jewish-owned businesses, homes, and schools were plundered, and 91 Jews were murdered. An additional 30,000 Jewish men were arrested and sent to concentration camps. This marked a turning point in the history of the Jewish population of Europe as the Nazi regime transitioned from antisemitic rhetoric and laws to the brutal, aggressive persecution of Jews that ultimately led to the Holocaust.

Today, antisemitism is surging globally. In the Lakes Region recurring incidences of antisemitic graffiti have escalated from park benches and library shelves to buildings and personal attacks. With the State of Israel under siege and defending itself to survive there is a renewed responsibility to remember and commemorate Kristallnacht. Temple B’nai Israel will remain vigilant, standing for righteousness and justice for all persons, ensuring that the world learns from both the distant past and recent events.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Laconia Historical & Museum Society presents “Our Local Veterans: The Revolutionary War to the Persian Gulf”

Ray Peavy, Jr. and Warren Huse discuss and review the artifacts on display in the Our Local Veterans: The Revolutionary War to the Persian Gulf exhibit at the Lakeport Freight Museum. A slideshow presentation of “Our Local Veterans: The Revolutionary War to the Persian Gulf” will be shared on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 6 p.m. in the Laconia Rotary Auditorium at the Laconia Public Library.

LACONIA — A slideshow presentation of “Our Local Veterans: The Revolutionary War to the Persian Gulf” will be shared on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 6 p.m. in the Laconia Rotary Auditorium at the Laconia Public Library. As part of the Laconia Historical & Museum Society’s Our Yesterday’s 2023

Presentation Series, this is a free program that the community is welcome and encouraged to attend. The possibility of one of Laconia’s own being present during Benedict Arnold’s treasonous attempt to turn-over West Point in 1780, the incredible bravery of a Lieutenant Commander refusing to give up his post during one of the worst battles of WWII, and what a local doctor saw on the front lines that made him apologize to his wife for his vehemence are only a few of the stories that will be part of the Our Local Veterans presentation. Raymond Peavy, Jr., LHMS Board member and retired Senior Chief Petty Officer, will share excerpts and stories about Laconia veterans who served in our nation’s military from the Revolutionary War onward. Ray served a combined total of 26 years with the US Marine Corps and Navy Seabees. He works tirelessly to preserve and share the history of our community’s veterans. An exhibit of the same name, consisting of military items and remembrances, is available for viewing at scheduled times until Saturday, December 9th at the historic Lakeport Freight House Museum in Lakeport Square. For a full list of exhibit viewing times, additional information about this program, or to learn more about LHMS and other upcoming events, please visit laconiahistory.com or LHMS on Facebook and Instagram.

“You learn the backside of a production too,” she said. “It’s fun to have something in your head, tell people to do it and (bring it) to life.”

Avery Hennig plays Donna’s daughter Sophie, who is getting married in Greece.

“She’s looking for her father,” Hennig said. “She’s very bubbly and fun, young, in love.”

Luc Martin plays Sam, who was with Donna 21 years ago and might be Sophie’s father.

“He finds out he was actually in love with Donna,” Martin said.

Grace Cook plays Rosie, one of Donna’s best friends and bandmates.

“She’s very much a tomboy, she’s very antsy,” Cook said. “I would say she has no filter.”

Cook said Rosie says what she thinks and also described her as dedicated to her friends.

Members of the cast said they have been enjoying the production. Cottrell said “Mamma Mia” is her favorite show.

They said they work hard and everything eventually comes together.

“Mamma Mia” will take the stage at the GHS auditorium Friday, Nov. 17, and Saturday, Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. Tickets can be purchased online at <https://www.onthestage.tickets/show/gilford-high-school/64e0cd9f41f-1c30e38740d9b/tickets>. Tickets are also available at the door.

nitions is to distinguish between the different automotive definitions that better aligns with state law.

Amendment 3 will add provisions for a Flexible Zoning Subdivision, which will be allowed in the Residential Rural Zone and Rural Zone. Under the amendment, the General Provisions section will allow the Planning Board to grant conditional use permit its for Flexible Zoning Subdivision in both these zones and which would allow for approving reduced lot sizes, frontage requirements, and setbacks as well as permit multiple dwellings. All of these must meet regulations as outlined in the proposed amendment.

“This amendment is being proposed to allow for flexibility in subdivision design to increase the diversity of the town’s housing stock, and other important resources in the community, in accordance with the Vision and Goals of the Master Plan,” read the amendment’s rationale.

The amendment would also remove the provision that two separate family dwellings can only be constructed in the Rural Zone on lots with more than 45 acres. This would allow for more flexible housing.

Amendment 4 would amend the section on Condominiums to be more in line with state law. Under the current ordinance the construction of new multifamily dwellings that would be conveyed as condos would require planning board approval and could not exceed five units per building for all multifamily structures built after 2004. Under the amendment the ordinance would permit new construction for condominium conveyance in any district with site plan and subdivision approval by the planning board, making it closer to state law.

Amendment 5 would amend the definitions for “Self Storage Facility” to allow units to be sold individually.

Amendment 6 would allow short term rentals in the Recreation Service Zone. According to the rationale voters decided on the short-term rental amendment last year. State law, however, changes to a permitted use in a zoning district with 100 or fewer properties requires that a notice of public hearing be sent to each of the property owners in the district. This amendment will fulfill that requirement for the Recreation Service Zone.

Amendment 7 would rename the definition of “Church” to “Religious Use of Land and Structures.” A state law went into effect last year that prohibits municipalities from regulating site plans or zoning for the religious use of land and structures and the name will be amended to be more consistent with the state.

Amendment 8 would repeal the article on Shoreland Protection Overlay District to remove a redundancy. The section would be repealed because state law already allows municipalities to enforce provisions of the Shoreland Water Quality Protection Act.

Safety first when buying toys for children this holiday season

December is a special time of year for children, millions of whom await the arrival of Santa Claus and the bounty of toys he delivers each year. When buying holiday gifts for youngsters, adults must consider safety. According to the Alliance for Children and Families, approximately 217,000 children are treated at hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries each year. Holiday shoppers are urged to stick to age-related recommendations on product packaging and avoid toys that do not contain the ATSM (American Society for Testing and Materials) label.

Holiday Gift Guide

Age-based guidelines for buying toys and gifts

The holiday season involves making holiday gift lists and checking them twice, or even more frequently to ensure that gift-givers find the best fit for recipients. While age may only be a number in certain instances, when it comes to gifting, age should be a consideration — particularly when kids are involved.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that an estimated 86,000 children treated for toy-related injuries each year are younger than five. Toy-related injuries are preventable, and prevention often comes down to choosing age-appropriate toys for kids.

Toys can be choking hazards when small toys or those with small pieces are given to children who are too young to use them safely. Kids are curious and often put items in their mouths. Choking is the fourth-leading cause of unintentional death in children under age five, indicates The Emergency Center. Falls, eye injuries, drowning, and motor accidents are leading causes of gift-related injuries. Here's how to select age-appropriate gifts.

- Read the packaging carefully. Most toys and other children's products will come with an age range recommendation. While some kids may be mature beyond their years, it's best to choose gifts that fall within the recommended range.

This is particularly the case for infants, toddlers and any child under the age of five.

- Avoid fad gifts. Children often want the latest and greatest gadgets and toys for gifts even if they are not the smartest choices for their ages. Resist the urge to buy something just to be the “cool parent or grandparent,” especially if it isn't age-appropriate. Mermaid tails became popular in recent years, and likely will see increased presence thanks to the home-viewing release of a popular live-action mermaid movie. However, they limit movement and can make swimming more difficult, potentially increasing risk of drowning.
- Provide safety gear. As children age, they may be more interested in gifts that appeal to hobbies and abilities. Scooters, bicycles, skates, and other items are popular among older children. These gifts should only be purchased for those with proven ability, and even then, accompanied with the appropriate safety gear. This can include helmets, knee pads and eye protection.
- Consider waiting before gifting certain electronics. Although children may be able to use devices safely, there are many who advocate for waiting to give young children smartphones and tablets due to the consequences of excessive screen time. The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry says children ages two to five should limit non-educational screen time to about one hour per weekday and three hours on weekend days. Children should be encouraged to pursue healthy habits that limit use of screens, so gift-givers can look for gifts that help to this end.

Gilford Community Church to host Gals' Night Out

GILFORD — On Friday, Nov. 17 at 6 p.m., Gilford Community Church (GCC) will host Gals' Night Out with music from the Bel Airs, who perform Doo Wop and Vintage Rock 'N' Roll. Men are also invited to the event, which includes a catered dinner.

"I won't be surprised if some dancing takes place," said Kathleen Merriam, who manages GCC's Gals' Night Out events.

According to Event Co-Chair Katherine Meierjurgan, Gals' Night Out was "a great way" for her to meet people when she was new to the community.

"The programs are interesting and informative, dinner is always delicious, and the company is delightful," she adds.

Gals' Night Out events also serve the interests of philanthropy, as attendees are encouraged to bring items in support of New Beginnings, the only domestic and sexual violence crisis center serving Belknap County. These items include laundry detergent, diapers sizes 4, 5 and 6, trash bags, paper towels, toilet paper, hair brushes, and hair conditioner.

Tickets for Gals' Night Out are $25 and may be purchased at the GCC administrative offices at 19 Potter Hill Rd. in Gilford. For those with questions, call (603) 524-6057.

Out events include Jan. 19, 2024 (Squam Lake Science Center), March 8, 2024 (Sheryl Faye will roleplay as Queen Elizabeth or Abigail Adams), and May 17, 2024 (The Powerchords will sing Broadway).

Located in Gilford, NH, GCC is an inclusive, open community with a broadly ecumenical spirit that welcomes people from all denominational and cultural backgrounds. Sunday service at GCC takes place at 10 a.m. at 19 Potter Hill Rd. in Gilford. To learn more about GCC, visit gilfordcommunitychurch.org.
