Lakes Region Conservation Trust completes Mill City Park conservation project

Along the Winnepesaukee River from the Winnepesaukee River Trail

FRANKLIN — This spring the Lakes Region Conservation Trust (LRCT) completed a conservation easement and management plan to protect 17 acres of land along the Winnepesaukee River in Franklin adjacent to the new Mill City Park. This conservation easement, conveyed to LRCT by the City of Franklin, is an integral part of the Mill City Park project, which combines opportunities for recreation and enjoyment of the City’s riverfront. LRCT is proud to be able to play a role in this important downtown project and to work with the City in conserving valuable habitat and open space along the River.

Three rivers run through Franklin—the Pemigewasset and the Winnepesaukee join in the City to form the mighty Merrimack, which then makes its way toward Manchester, Lowell, and Lawrence, legendary mill cities.

Mojalaki Country Club reopens as event venue

FRANKLIN — Mojalaki Country Club opened its doors in 1920 as one of NH’s most challenging golf courses. It was designed by course architect Wayne Stiles, who also designed Nashua Country Club’s course in 1915, at the start of a 40-year career. The spacious clubhouse quickly drew events, such as weddings, retirements, proms, birthdays, and bar mitzvahs in the well-sited building with its grand view of Mt. Kearsarge to the west.

In 2019, Mojalaki Country Club came under new ownership by Franklin businessmen. Entering a new century of service to the community, it will focus on events in the newly renovated clubhouse. The previous 18-hole golf course will now be a great venue for gatherings like outdoor weddings. Foreseen is a Mojalaki-labelled wine from vineyards on the premises, catering to events ranging from corporate meetings to community fundraisers.

In late June, the first event for the new Mojalaki was the surprise retirement party for Franklin’s City Planning Director, Dick Lewis.

Co-owners Fred McAllister and Rob Pearlman commented, “It is fitting that our reopening honored Dick Lewis, who ably guided Franklin’s economic revitalization for many years.”

Mojalaki’s new owners and the City of Franklin are excited to see this premium event venue coming back into business.

Mayor Olivia Zink calls it, “A great place to enjoy a wedding or other special event with expansive views of Mt. Kearsarge.”

Mojalaki has always inspired people to gather and share life’s special moments. Each passing generation has discovered its best use, from Native American hunting grounds to family farm to 20th century golf club. Now in its second century of serving the community, Mojalaki Country Club will continue offering a unique gathering place for celebrations.

Rescue of lead poisoned loon a reminder to stop using lead fishing tackle

MOULTONBOROUGH — On June 15, biologists from the Loon Preservation Committee (LPC) rescued a lead poisoned loon from Mascoma Lake in Enfield. After a night of routine capture work during which the loon and its mate were banded and blood samples were taken, a lead test on the male loon's blood revealed dangerously elevated lead levels, and the group returned to recapture him for treatment.

The loon was transported to Wings of the Dawn Wildlife Rehabilitation, and after a radiograph revealed a lead object in its gizzard, was transported to the Tufts Wildlife Clinic in Grafton, Mass. for a procedure to remove the object.

"This was a rare instance where we were able to detect the problem early on," said Harry Vogel, Senior Biologist and Executive Director of the Loon Preservation Committee. "Normally, lead poisoned loons aren't rescued until it is too late because they don't start showing behavioral signs of lead poisoning until their lead levels are fatally high. In this case, our banding efforts allowed us to discover the problem early and take action." The loon has since had the lead object removed, and its blood lead levels are trending downward; however, it still faces an uncertain future.

"This loon has been through a lot in the last few days. Its recovery is not assured, but we are hopeful," Vogel said. This is the second case of lead poisoning in a New Hampshire loon this year. In late May, LPC biologists captured a loon on White Lake in Tamworth that had fatally high levels of lead in its blood. That loon did not survive.

Since 1989, lead poisoning resulting from tackle ingestion has accounted for 41% of loon deaths documented by the Loon Preservation Committee. It is the leading cause of adult loon mortality in the state.

Though the sale and freshwater use of lead sinkers and lead-headed jigs weighing one ounce or less became illegal in New Hampshire in 2016, continued loon deaths from tackle ingestion indicate that tackle purchased prior to the ban may remain in use in New Hampshire.

"Our data indicates that many loons that die from lead poisoning are encountering it through active use, either by consuming a fish that has broken an anglers line and has ingested the tackle that was attached to that line, or by striking at an angler's line as it is reeled through the water," said Vogel.

Since 2018, LPC, New Hampshire Fish and Game Department (NHFG), and several local fishing retailers have teamed up to address continuing loon deaths from lead poisoning in New Hampshire by buying back lead fishing tackle known to poison loons. Those with eligible tackle—lead sinkers and lead-headed jigs weighing one ounce or less, the tackle that is most commonly ingested by loons and is banned by New Hampshire state law—can exchange it for a $10 voucher redeemable at participating tackle shops. In addition, the top two turn-ins by weight at each shop will receive prizes of $100 and $50 respectively. "We are pleased to provide this program and offer an additional incentive to anglers stepping up to do the right thing for loons and other wildlife by making the switch to non-lead alternatives like steel, tungsten, tin, bismuth, and other materials," said Vogel.

The Lead Tackle Buyback program will run year-round in 2021. In addition to the Buyback, collection receptacles have been installed at several municipal waste transfer stations throughout the state of New Hampshire. Tackle may also be disposed of at select Household Hazardous Waste collection days. For a complete list of participating retailers and other safe lead tackle disposal sites, please visit loonsafe.org. The Loon Preservation Committee (www.loon.org) works to protect loons throughout the state as part of its mission to restore and maintain a healthy population of loons in New Hampshire; to monitor the health and productivity of loon populations as sentinels of environmental quality; and to promote a greater understanding of loons and the natural world.

Moon madness

Is what ‘they’ say really true regarding the full moon? Do people actually turn into ‘lunatics?’ We’re not so sure, but science has much to offer on the topic, with the next full moon now literally on the horizon.

Some people claim that they become unexplainably moody for a few days or have trouble sleeping. Some say they experience breakouts or other aches and pains that affect the joints. Typically, when people are observed acting slightly less than normal, you will hear the phrase “it must be the full moon.”

Logically, it makes sense that because the tides are higher during the full moon phase due to the pull of gravity that our bodies which are made up of 80% water would experience some sort of side effect as well.

Studies show that tides in large lakes undergo minimal tide changes during the full moon. Tides take place twice a day in the ocean, which could mean that we would be ‘off center’ twice a day, however that isn’t the case from what we currently know according to science.

Some myths claim that the full moon can incite epileptic seizures in people, however a study in 2004 showed no such connection.

As far as bouts of psychiatric outbursts, one study in 2014 showed an increase of emergency room visits within 24 hours of the full moon however a study in 1996 showed no significant difference. The term ‘lunatic’ is derived from the word ‘Luna’ the name of the ancient Roman goddess. Aristotle and Hippocrates once implied they thought the moon was at fault for abnormal behavior.

Interesting was the study that took place in Colorado, where researchers found that the risk for pet injuries increased by 23 percent during the full moon phase. Proven is that wild animals behave differently during the full moon in that the light effects their hunting habits.

As for sleep deprivation, we all know that before modern times the moon provided light during the nighttime hours. During the full moon, the increased amount of light was said to have wreaked havoc on those with bipolar or seizure disorders. Many people say they have trouble sleeping during a full moon however no studies have indicated a scientific correlation as of yet.

As far as myths go, the claim that a full moon increases fertility and births is as old as time. The truth is that fertility methods based on moon phases have proved inconclusive, as did the effect on gravitational pull to induce labor.

February is the only month that may not experience a full moon because each full moon appears every 29.5 days. A super-moon takes place when a full moon coincides with the moon’s closest approach to earth. The last time we witnessed a super-moon was in 2015. The next one will occur in 2033. Some say that the full moon is an unlucky sign if it happens on a Sunday. Interesting to note is that the name ‘Monday’ is from the Old English word Monandæg, which means ‘moon day’. Another fact is that on March 28, the Royal Air force used the light from a full moon to attack Lubeck in Germany during WWII.

When there are two full moons in one month, the second one is called a ‘blue moon.’ This occurrence takes place every three years. A red moon happens when the full moon phase occurs during the same time as a lunar eclipse.

The man on the moon that we often see during a full moon, is nothing more than dark areas called basaltic plains and the lighter colored highlands of the moon’s surface. Making sense, and interesting is that between 1765 and 1813, the Lunar Society of Birmingham, England met during the full moon because the extra light made the walk home safer.

July is said to be the best month to get married because it falls between the planting and harvesting of crops. The term ‘honeymoon’ is named after the first full moon in June for this reason.

We can’t mention a full moon and not mention werewolves. Old folklore claimed that if you slept outside under a full moon on a Wednesday or a Friday you could turn into a werewolf. Perhaps the most entertaining spin on this myth, aside from the Universal Pictures’ influential 1941 classic “The Wolf Man” with Lon Chaney, Jr. is the 1985 film “Teen Wolf” starring Michael J. Fox. If you haven’t seen it, you might want to pull it from the dusty archives during the next full moon for a celebratory showing. For those with prefer straight-up horror, we also recommend “The Howling,” “Wolfen,” and of course, “An American Werewolf in London” (but make sure you’ve sent the little pups to bed first!).

STRATEGIES FOR LIVING

The gateway to Hell

BY LARRY SCOTT

Pornography, once available only in print, and then only in theaters, is now available for free on the internet. Easily accessible on all our electronic media, pornography is having a devastating impact on the moral standards of our society. For those caught up in its offering, it is indeed the gateway to hell.

The statistics are staggering. One popular site claims 33.5 billion visits in 2018 for a daily average of over 92 million visitors. Every minute saw 63,992 new visitors to the site, watching 207,405 videos through 57,750 searches. To feed the growing demand, there were 4.79 million new videos uploaded from amateurs, models, and contract partners.

Samuel Perry, in his book Addicted to Lust, writes that “data from a large probability sample of American adults surveyed in 2014 show that well over half of men and a quarter of women under age 40 seek out pornographic material monthly, and over 45 percent of men and 16 percent of women under 40 intentionally view porn in a given week.”

The reality here is that “normal” sex is no longer satisfying to our self-centered, sex-oriented society. Aberrant sex, child pornography, and sexual exploitation go with the package. And there is no end in sight. With the advent of virtual reality, one can only imagine where things are going to go from here. Pornography is, in a very real sense, the gateway to hell.

Significantly, that which is available on the internet is all an illusion. The subjects, mostly young and attractive, are performing before a camera crew, putting on an act they hope the market will find entertaining. Everything is fun and games, intimacy without shame, sex without consequences.

But life isn’t like that. Pornography is all smoke and mirrors. Love is more than a five-minute tryst. Sexual intimacy demands commitment, respect, and yes, self-discipline. Sex may attract an audience but showing pornography for what it is would devastate the industry. Who wants to look at the ravages of sexually transmitted diseases, teenage pregnancies, broken marriages, rape, and sexual abuse. What you see is not what you get. Like so much of sin’s attraction, the dream is overshadowed by reality.

In writing about this, I am aware I raise the question as to how I have become such an “expert.” I will admit that if I allowed myself the freedom, I would find it easy to indulge. But I am not into pornography, for it gives the forces of evil access to my mind. My moral stability, the pleasure of a clean conscience, and my attitude toward women, to say nothing of my spiritual experience, are all on the line. I can accept no “time out” in my walk with God.

The conflict between what the Bible terms the “flesh and the Spirit” is a never-ending battle. “Every man is tempted when he is drawn away of his own lust and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.” That’s Bible for “the gateway to hell.”

“Be not deceived,” writes the Apostle Paul, “God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.” And that is a truth every one of us needs to take to heart.

Thoughts from a mind in the middle of nowhere

By JOHN HARRIGAN

There are proper ways to approach a camp, especially when it might be occupied. I was taught to yell “Halloo the camp!” so inhabitants could make themselves presentable.

Today, this hallowing business seems as quaint (and rare) as boiling the tea, a custom of yesteryear whenever people met on the trail.

Who knows what thereafter went into the tea? Some customs never change.

LRMHC seeking sponsors, donations for upcoming online auction

LACONIA — Lakes Region Mental Health Center is hosting its 10th Annual Mental Health Awareness Online Auction! From Oct. 13-27, the public has the opportunity to bid on great products and services from around the Lakes Region. LRMHC is currently looking for sponsors or donations with a goal of raising more than $15,000 this year to support those in need around the Lakes Region.

Based on your sponsorship level, sponsors will receive valuable exposure on the auction's Web site, weekly email blasts to more than 700 LRMHC supporters, and on all social media platforms between now and October. This is a great way to promote your business while supporting a local community nonprofit organization.

If you would like to donate, we are accepting gift cards, products and certificates for local services to auction off. Your name or business will be listed in our annual report, and your logo will be linked to your site with recognition on your auction item. We would be happy to pick up any local items as well.

We have an ambitious goal of making this year's auction our biggest yet. The pandemic has brought many challenges to individuals, children and families, nonprofits and local businesses. But as the weight of the crisis is lifted, the longer-term impact on people's mental health is becoming more evident and as such, the demand for our services continues to increase.

Go to www.lrmhc.org/auction or contact Jaron Jenkins at jjenkins@lrmhc.org or 524-1100, ext. 219 to support us or for more information. The sponsorship deadline is Aug. 16. The donation deadline is Oct. 1.

The Lakes Region Mental Health Center, Inc. is designated by the State of New Hampshire as the community mental health center serving Belknap and southern Grafton Counties. A private, non-profit corporation, LRMHC has two campuses, in Laconia and Plymouth that serves over 4,000 children, families, adults and older adults each year. LRMHC provides Emergency Services 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, to anyone in the community experiencing a mental health crisis, regardless of their ability to pay. Additionally, LRMHC provides individual, group and family therapy; mobile crisis teams in the event a tragic event occurs that impacts a community at large, psychiatry; nursing; community support programs for people with severe and persistent mental illness; care management; community-based supports; housing; supported employment; substance use disorder treatment; and specialty services and evidence-based practices for children and their families, including trauma-focused therapy, art therapy and play therapy. Child Impact seminars are offered in Laconia and Plymouth for divorcing families.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 524-1100 or visit www.lrmhc.org. Find the Lakes Region Mental Health Center on Facebook and Instagram for updates and information.

Belmont 10-Mile Road Race set for Aug. 14

BELMONT — This past year gave a lot of people extra time to find a new hobby or to focus more on a healthier lifestyle. For some, that allowed people to take up running for the first time or to get back into an activity they enjoyed in their younger years.

In just a few short weeks, runners will have a chance to challenge themselves at the Belmont 10-Mile Road Race on Saturday, Aug. 14. The course starts and ends in the village area and winds its way through the back roads of Belmont. With a start time of 8:30 a.m., registrations open at 7:30 a.m. at Belmont Middle School on School Street.

The cost is low at $18 per participant and includes a t-shirt. Awards are distributed during a brief ceremony following the end of the race, which allows runners a chance to enjoy refreshments and take time to wind down with friends and family.

The Belmont 10-Mile Road Race is sanctioned by USA Track and Field and is professionally timed by Yankee Timing. It's a great race to do as an individual or bring running buddies from a club to enjoy together. The race is part of Old Home Day activities that will be offered throughout the day on Saturday, Aug. 14, so plan to bring the family and enjoy the day in this small Lakes Region town. If you have questions about the race, please contact Jeff Roberts at 491-0979 or Gretta Olson-Wilder at 998-7998.

Edward Jones: Financial Focus

Is Roth IRA better for young workers?

If you're in the early stages of your career, you're probably not thinking much about retirement. Nonetheless, it's never too soon to start preparing for it, as time may be your most valuable asset. So, you may want to consider retirement savings vehicles, one of which is an IRA. Depending on your income, you might have the choice between a traditional IRA and a Roth IRA. Which is better for you?

There's no one correct answer for everyone. But the more you know about the two IRAs, the more confident you'll be when choosing one. First of all, the IRAs share some similarities. You can fund either one with many types of investments – stocks, bonds, mutual funds and so on. And the contribution limit is also the same – you can put in up to $6,000 a year. (Those older than 50 can put in an additional $1,000.) If you earn over a certain amount, though, your ability to contribute to a Roth IRA is reduced. In 2021, you can put in the full $6,000 if your modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) is less than $125,000 and you're single, or $198,000 if you're married and file jointly. The amount you can contribute gradually declines, and is eventually limited, at higher income levels. But the two IRAs differ greatly in how they are taxed. Traditional IRA contributions are typically tax-deductible (subject to income limitations), and any earnings growth is tax-deferred, with taxes due when you take withdrawals. With a Roth IRA, though, your contributions are never tax-deductible – instead, you contribute after-tax dollars. Any earnings growth is tax-free when withdrawn, provided you've had your account at least five years and you don't take withdrawals until you're at least 59½.

So, which IRA should you choose? You'll have to weigh the respective benefits of both types. But when you're young, you may have particularly compelling reasons to choose a Roth IRA. Given that you're at an early point in your career, you may be in a lower tax bracket now than you will be during retirement, making the tax-deduction of traditional IRA contributions less beneficial. So, it may make sense to contribute to a Roth IRA now and take tax-free withdrawals when you're retired. Also, a Roth IRA offers more flexibility. With a traditional IRA, you could face an early withdrawal penalty, in addition to taxes, if you take money out before you're 59½. But with a Roth, you'll face no penalty on withdrawals from the money you contributed (not your earnings), and you've already paid the taxes, so you could use the money for any purpose, such as making a down payment on a home. Nonetheless, you may still want to be cautious about tapping into your IRA for your spending needs before you retire, since IRAs are designed to provide retirement income.

If your income level permits you to select a Roth or traditional IRA, you may want to consult with your tax advisor for help in making your choice. But in any case, try to max out on your IRA contributions each year. You could spend two or three decades in retirement – and your IRA can be a valuable resource to help you enjoy those years.

Before investing in bonds, you should understand the risks involved, including credit risk and market risk. Bond investments are also subject to interest rate risk such that when interest rates rise, the prices of bonds can decrease, and the investor can lose principal value if the investment is sold prior to maturity.

Recycled Percussion takes over Lakeport Opera House Aug. 6 & 7

LACONIA — New Hampshire’s own, Recycled Percussion, is performing in their home state with two shows at 8 p.m. on Aug. 6 and 7 at the newly renovated Lakeport Opera House. This family-friendly show blends live music, comedy and raw creativity together to form an unforgettable experience with a portion of the proceeds being donated to a local charity.

“We’ve performed all over the world but we couldn’t be more excited about doing these two shows in our backyard at the Lakeport Opera House,” said Justin Spencer, Recycled Percussion founder, who grew up down the road in Loudon. “Scott [Everett] transformed this historic building into a modern yet sleek venue that is comfortable and intimate which will be the perfect venue for our show and a memorable experience for our most loyal fans who have supported us over the

Recycled Percussion, a junk rock band, is Manchester-based and originally formed in 1995 in Goffstown for a high school talent show. The percussion group creates a unique style of music using the most ordinary of objects like household blenders, shopping carts, step ladders, roller skates and power tools and turns them into an epic instrumental rock concert.

This unforgettable experience has been performed in all 50 states, in more than 35 countries, and has even broken five world records. Recycled Percussion headlined in Las Vegas for years and became a national phenomenon after finishing in third place in Season 4 of “America’s Got Talent.”

“We are so proud to have Recycled Percussion perform with us at the Opera House,” said Opera House talent director Emma Teto “Their show is truly unique and will entertain everyone from kids to grandma for a one-of-a-kind family fun night out.”

The Lakeport Opera House is located next to Recycled Percussion’s Chaos and Kindness flagship store on Union Avenue in Laconia. This store is home to memorabilia and unique products that are made to inspire people to live life with purpose and positivity, the same mission that was used to form the band.

Spencer and Lakeport Opera House owner, Scott Everett, have committed to donate a portion of all ticket proceeds to a local charity which will be named soon.

The Opera House is a 200-seat venue built for comfort, style and mobility. Every seat in the house has unobstructed views, cocktail service and the best sounds system for an experience unlike anything else in the area. More than $1 million was invested in the Opera House renovation which opened in June after being closed for 60 years. Originally built in 1882, this venue mixes modern design elements with historic charm for a unique cultural experience. The Opera House is once again home to live musical performances, theatre productions, comedians, magicians as well as being host to community-focused events, weddings, and private and corporate gatherings. Once a mainstay of Laconia’s Lakeport community, the Opera House is on center stage in New Hampshire’s Lakes Region.

Upcoming performances include: Frank Sinatra Tribute on July 30, Billy Joel Tribute on July 31, comedian Steve Sweeney on Aug. 5, medium Maureen Hancock on Aug. 8, An Evening of Opera on Aug. 13, a Michael Jackson Experience on Aug. 14, Rockphoria on Aug. 19, Murder Mystery on Aug. 22 and Femmes of Rock on Aug. 28.

performance is guaranteed to have the audience dancing in the aisle.

Doug Kiley, Executive Director of Great Waters, states, “It is a pleasure to host Classic Albums Live in this year’s program. If there are any Eagles fans out there, this performance of ‘Hotel California’ is not to be missed!”

While “Hotel California” contains the chart-topping hits “New Kid in Town,” “Life in the Fast Lane” and the title track, Classic Albums Live will also play well-loved Eagles classics, including “The Last Resort,” “Victim of Love,”

PETS OF THE WEEK

Gannon

Meet Gannon! This big doofus loves to play, go for walks and eat treats. He’s an inexperienced fella who needs an experienced owner to help him learn his manners! Gannon isn’t a big fan of other dogs or cats, so he’s seeking to be the only pet in his new home. Because Gannon is inexperienced with petting and handling, and he’s still learning to share his things, he will do best in a home without children. Gannon is currently being treated for a skin condition that may or may not resolve with his current treatment plan. His adopters should speak to their veterinarian, and be prepared for the possibility that Gannon will need to take medication or be on a prescription diet for the rest of his life.

If you are looking for a mature dog who needs help learning what love is really all about, then ask us about Gannon!

Zephyr

My face says it all! I am a man of mystery and adorableness, and yes that is a word. The world is a big, loud place my friend and I am not sure I am a fan of those words. Small and quiet win me any day. I think that my future home understands that. Perfect cats like myself need to have the most perfect home. I want a hideaway that consists of a warm bed and the time that I need to come out of my shell. I want attention, I just don’t know how to ask for it. I may hiss at first, but don’t let that fool you I like the pets! In the spirit of honesty, I do have a medical history that should not imply-CAT me at all, if you are interested in learning more fill out an application or inquire with the lovely adoptions team, they know exactly what I am looking for!

uides’ Show. Competitors vied to be fastest at starting a fire from scratch and getting a cup of water to boil.

At age 13 or so, I tagged along with Fish and Game biologist Karl Strong on the 44-mile Grouse Line Survey, which went by extremely jagged line from Second Lake dam to Dixville Notch.

Talking spooked the birds, so we went along quietly. For our third night, Karl said, we’d have a roof over our heads.

As we approached a camp where friends awaited, Karl, no stranger to custom, put a finger to his lips and picked up a stone and threw it down onto the tin roof, saying “That’ll get their attention,” and it did.

Supper was already on the stove. It was great to be warm and dry. The night was clear, and the only thing hitting the roof was an occasional spruce-cone.

There might be better places on a rainy day than the porch of a camp in the middle of nowhere, but I don’t know of any. Dog and book complete the scene.

Back in the planning stages, when I sketched and re-sketched the camp many times over; I always came back to a metal roof. It was all for the sound of the rain.

In town, miles away by map and mind, the same prevails. All of the farm’s buildings have metal roofs. The shop always smells of cedar, and there’s usually some there to split.

Most camps have their best sides, most often the front. The back is reserved for the flotsam and jetsam it takes to run a camp. One side is apt to feature propane tanks. The other looks out onto a pathetic little clearing in the ever-advancing fecundity of the temperate zone rain forest.

In our case, the trail approaches the camp from the front, so at the first “Halloo” anyone inside can look out the front window and see who’s coming.

“Oh sure,” the joke goes, “just in time so anybody guilty of anything can flee,” which leads to the riposte, “The door’s only wide enough for one.”

These three rivers also made Franklin a mill city. There is a stretch where water from Lake Winnepesaukee seems in a particular hurry to get to the ocean, and on this stretch many mills were built over many decades. The last of these mills closed in the 1970s and is now home to a brewery and restaurants and shops, a new future for old mills.

Mill City Park will tap the energy of that rushing water for a whitewater park, for the enjoyment of boaters and spectators, with new whitewater features and viewing areas on the shore. The same rivers that powered the mills will now power a new vision for Franklin, driven by enthusiasm for adventure and recreation.

And this is where LRCT comes in. As part of the project, the City needed to include a conservation component and needed an experienced partner to help in accomplishing that. The City owns four parcels of undeveloped river-flanked land just upstream from the new park, and it has partnered with LRCT to permanently conserve this land. In addition to being classified by the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department as highest ranked habitat in the state—undisturbed woods, habitat for wildlife—the land offers opportunities for passive recreation, and it will even preserve remnants of two of the mills that are part of Franklin’s industrial heritage.

Over the next several years, City staff and volunteers will improve the conserved land by removing debris and trying to manage invasive species, and constructing a recreational trail on the track of an historic road that once served the old mills. As conservation easement holder, LRCT is the long-term steward of the property and has oversight responsibilities and a perpetual duty to monitor the property and ensure that its conservation values are protected.

This innovative project for the City of Franklin is also a first for LRCT—LRCT’s first conserved land in Franklin and first as part of a visionary economic development initiative.

LRCT’s role in the project demonstrates, once again, that LRCT is a recognized leader in the region when it comes to land conservation and stewardship. LRCT looks forward to a fruitful partnership with the City in caring for this important riverfront land.

CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING

It's very early on Monday morning in Tokyo. I am sitting in the press tribune at Odaiba Marine Park awaiting the start of the men's triathlon. The view is stunning.

But, for a while late last week, I really wondered if I would get here.

After the multitude of paperwork checks and other tests going through the airport, I arrived in my room at 11 p.m. on Thursday night, knowing I'd have to be in a quarantine for three days and any plans I had for the first few days were not going to happen. That part I was prepared for.

However, it came to me as I sat there that I had to take COVID tests on my first days in Tokyo and I was stuck in my hotel room without access to said tests. It took me until late Friday before I was able to get ahold of someone who lined up delivery of the tests for me.

But those three days.

sitting in my hotel, leaving for 15 minutes each day to go across the street to buy some food, were interminable. I probably slept more in those three days than I did in the previous three months. While that may be an exaggeration, the problem with the quarantine was that I just didn't have anything to do. Yes, I had my script for Laughing Stock (opening at the Village Players Theater in Wolfeboro on Aug. 14) and my copy of Dan Egan's new book 30 Years in a White Haze. Both of them got some time. There was also plenty of watching Olympic coverage from the Japanese, which while hard to understand, was still interesting to watch. There is a lot of badminton and softball on television in Japan.

But, I struggled to get through the days. My hotel room is pretty small and as such, there is no place to sit besides my hard desk chair and the bed. So as soon as I got tired of the desk chair, into the bed I'd go and it wouldn't take long until I was out.

And, I will make it perfectly clear, there's still a chance that things could go south. I know I am not free and clear yet and will count every minute and every hour that I am able to be here and do what I am doing as a blessing. With all that's going wrong and still can go wrong here and around the world, there's no telling what tomorrow will bring.

For the sake of the athletes who have worked hard to get here and deserve the chance to compete with the best in the world, I hope that things go smoothly. And hopefully, I have more to write about in the coming weeks.
