Staff shares history of GHS for school's 50th anniversary

GILFORD — This year marks the 50th anniversary of Gilford High School, and a long-time teacher is working on a project to document the school's history by talking to those who were there when the school opened.

Gilford High School first opened on Oct. 6, 1974, as an open-concept school. Half a century later the district is getting ready to celebrate the school's anniversary. GHS Principal Anthony Sperazzo said formal celebrations will be announced later.

In the meantime, English teacher Scott Hutchison is putting together a series of newspaper columns with different stories and facts from the school's history.

Hutchison has been talking with past teachers and students who were there when the school first opened. Hutchison himself has been teaching at GHS since 1987 and said many of the staff members there when he started were there 13 years before when the school opened.

Sperazzo said the week before, members of the administrative team met with some of the teachers who had been working at the school when it first opened in 1974. After digging into some of the history, they met with four of the original teachers we well as two students who were at the school at the time. Those original teachers shared stories and showed artifacts from the time.

Hutchison said he has been networking with retired teachers and connecting with those who can share information.

He said he wants to keep the stories more focused on the facts and not individual reminiscences.

The column will examine different parts of GHS' beginning history. One fact is that the property used to be part of the farm at the neighboring Benjamin Rowe House, which still stands across the street and is managed by the Thompson-Ames Historical Society.

One of the stories was how all the staff members former a line and moved down a piece of furniture at a time.

"Days before school opened the staff literally formed a line moving the furniture in," Sperazzo said.

Hutchison will be putting all this information in a series of columns that will run in this paper.

When first opened, GHS was an open concept school. All the space was open and there were no walls separating classrooms.

Hutchison said the open concept was still in place when he started in 1987. There were a series of five-foot tall rolling dividers that separated out different functions and Hutchison recalled teaching Home Economics in some interesting GILFORD — Students, alumni, and community members will come out to Gilford High School this weekend for Homecoming games and festivities during the school's 50th birthday.

The Homecoming games will run at GHS this Saturday, Sept. 28. With other events leading up to the day.

Principal Anthony Sperazzo said they are anticipating some larger crowds this year because of GHS' 50th anniversary. Sperazzo said this is also a good time to show off the renovations at the locker room.

Athletic Director Rick Aquilano said this is a great opportunity for alumni to come back and reconnect with the Gilford community.

"One of the rich traditions with Gilford is the community support," Aquilano said. "It's fun to see people from past teams and past years."

Acquilano said during Homecoming people tend to go from event to event on Saturday.

"It is a time of celebration; it is fun for everyone to be home," Acqui-lano said. "There's a rich tradition of kids going to each other's games."

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings, each class will come together to create Spirit Wallways, wall decorations in different themes. The Wallways will be on view Friday morning and students will vote for their favorites.

This year's Wallways theme is different popular movies. The freshmen will do theirs after "The Avengers," the sophomores will have "Finding Nemo," the ju-

Gilford girls win neighborly battle with Prospect Mountain

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

ALTON — The Gilford girls' soccer team entered last Friday's contest at Prospect Mountain having allowed just one goal all season.

The Timber Wolves knew they would have to be at their best in order to come out with a win against their neighbors.

And for the majority of the first half, the two teams were scoreless, with plenty of chances for both teams, but Gilford got a goal late in the first half and then added a second goal midway through the second to pick up the 2-0 win.

"That's the best Prospect Mountain team I've seen by far in my seven years," said Gilford coach Rob Meyers. "They had us running around, but a good game overall."

"We moved the ball really well," said Prospect coach Drew Williams. "They played really hard, that was even, a good game."

Gilford opened the chances with Anna Coapland sending a shot wide of the net and another over the top of the net. Tori Christie had a nice run up the sideline for the Timber Wolves and Prospect's Maddy Howlett had a good defensive stop on Gilford's Macy Sawyer. The Golden Eagles got the first corner of the game but could not convert, while Clara Thompson had a shot denied by Prospect keeper Maddie Miller. Ava Tibbs just missed connecting with Christie on a chance for Prospect and Olivia Noyes sent a shot on net that was stopped by Gilford's Aariah Dewar. Christie and Howlett teamed up on a chance that Dewar

Gilford (Middle) High School turns 50 years old

GILFORD — Prior to 1974, the communities of Gilford and Gilmanton sent their high school students to Laconia High School, with the younger kids attending Gilford Elementary School and the Gilmanton School. But on Sept. 30, 1974, a new building changed everything, and Gilford Middle High School opened its doors—though, no, not many of the rooms actually had doors. Gilford Middle-High School’s architecture: born of the Open Education movement of the 1960’s and 1970’s. The up-stairs of the high school was actually a huge one-room schoolhouse of sorts: five-foot tall rolling dividers helped to define a given classroom’s allotted space. Depending on how the dividers were set up, there were roughly 12 to 14 classrooms in the Open Area. Subject teachers were given “office” space around the perimeters, with their main work desks unified in one location by department. Teachers would then go into assigned areas while teaching—no one “owned” a room. Collaboration and activity and openness were on full display. The dividers created squares and rectangles, but doors? No—an open space for entering and leaving did away with closing off the room from the rest of what some saw as a wondrous beehive of activity. Everywhere, the hum of active education could be heard. The first floor of the high school had more traditional walls and doors. Chemistry labs, Vo-Tech and home economics all involved activities and learning tools—chemicals, saws, sewing machines, etc.—that required greater safety and lockup. The new gymnasium and the auditorium proved exciting—these were large, impressive structures intended for and handling large crowds. No more gym-a-toriums, cafe-toriums, or All-Purpose rooms competing for use time. Meanwhile, in the Middle School, ceiling to floor partitions were used—though these were accordion-style dividers and could be drawn back if classes wished to combine. The cafeteria and the library were shared spaces. While the cafeteria used a staggered schedule to keep the middle schoolers and the high schoolers separate during lunch and break time, the library functioned as another gathering place for active education. The library—almost as large as the one-room academic area—took full advantage of where the school was built: with a large wall of windows facing Gunstock and the Belknap Mountain Range. Students and teachers from both the high school and the middle school mixed together at tables in the center, while students wishing for greater individual focus were afforded study corrals. If teachers wished to show audio visuals (this could not be done in the open area), they signed up for one of two conference rooms off to the sides of the library. The conference rooms contained seats and televisions/VCR’s on rolling carts. If additional space was needed for a larger group, the auditorium was designed with two lecture halls in the back; floor-to-ceiling dividers could close those areas off as well. A transitional room that could be closed off bridged the high school from the middle school, which served as the library’s magazine stacks; the room also kept boxes of paper and the school’s A.B. Dick mimeograph copiers. Today, in a world of computers and online classes and individualized learning, it might be difficult to envision the open construction ideas of the late ‘60’s and ‘70’s. Students of the Twenty-First Century, upon hearing about the Gilford Middle-High School of fifty years ago, often ask, “Did those ideas work?” This article is the first in a series; more history and answers to come.

Great Waters honors outgoing board Chair Barbara Olcott

Barbara Olcott standing with husband Emery after being recognized with a leadership award from Great Waters' board.

TUFTONBORO — A reception honoring outgoing board chair of the Great Waters Music Festival Barbara Olcott, was held recently at Quietude in Tuftonboro following the organization's annual board meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the Board voted unanimously to name Barbara as director emerita.

Olcott has a long history of involvement with the festival, starting in 1996 with a group of local residents, summer residents, and area businesses. During the early years of Great Waters, an organization dedicated to presenting and creating outstanding musical, educational, and artistic events appealing to a wide variety of tastes that enrich the cultural lives of those living in and visiting the Lakes Region of New Hampshire, Barbara served as the first Vice President of the Board. At the same time, she was charged with the responsibility of heading up a capital campaign to purchase an 800-seat acoustic tent to be located on the campus of Brewster Academy. While raising money for this very successful campaign, she also shared her in-depth knowledge of the music industry, helping to find artists to perform and opening her home as a place for them to stay when they came to perform.

After a brief hiatus from the board, Olcott returned to the organization in 2019 just in time to make the decision to go dark for one year due to the pandemic. She used the next twelve months, along with a few board members, to investigate locations for a new acoustic tent, and after much discussion with the Castle in the Clouds in 2020, a new partnership was born. Barbara currently serves on the board of the Dramatists Guild Foundation in New York City and was honored by that group in 2022 for her work in uplifting and supporting the theatre community. She is a past board member of The Bushnell Center for the Performing Arts in Hartford, Connecticut, the Hartford Stage Company, the Bald Peak Colony Club, and the Ocean Reef Club. She has been actively involved as a producer and investor of films and shows on and off Broadway.

Olcott's leadership over the past four years as Chair of the Board has been nothing short of inspiring. She has guided Great Waters with charm, dignity, knowledge, and drive. Her leadership has been instrumental in the organization's success, and her decision to continue advising, especially in the area of programming, is a testament to her dedication and inspiration to others.

Great Waters Music, a non-profit organization, is dedicated to delivering summers filled with exceptional musical performances. These performances, Concerts in Town at Brewster Academy in Wolfeboro and Concerts in the Clouds at the Castle in the Clouds in Moultonborough, aim to produce outstanding musical experiences for residents and visitors of the Lakes Region of New Hampshire. For more information on the diverse range of performances, our merit-based music related scholarship, and our Street Piano Project

Staying united after the election: A call to remember what matters most

Once the dust settles after the upcoming presidential election, it's important for all of us—no matter who we voted for—to remember that we are still neighbors, friends, and family. Elections have the power to highlight our differences, but they don't change the core of what really makes us a community. When the votes are counted and the debates subside, we must find our way back to what binds us: a shared commitment to the well-being of our families, our neighborhoods, and the place we call home.

While political divisions can feel sharp and personal, especially in today's climate, it's essential to remember that the most meaningful connections in our lives aren't determined by a vote. The person who will lend you a cup of sugar, help you shovel your driveway, or cheer for your kid's team on a chilly Saturday morning is your neighbor—not just a political identity. Whether we find ourselves celebrating or disappointed by the election's outcome, the morning after still requires us to move forward—together.

Our communities are built on cooperation and common ground, regardless of who holds office. We rely on each other in ways that go beyond politics. Schools still need teachers, businesses still need customers, and we all still need that feeling of connection with those around us. The conversations we have at the local coffee shop, at school pick-ups, or during community events are what truly shape the fabric of our daily lives. These moments, not political debates, are what sustain us.

This is not to say that the issues at stake in elections don't matter—they absolutely do. We must continue to advocate for what we believe in, speak our minds, and hold our leaders accountable. But it's also vital that we don't let the divisions of the political arena spill over into the personal relationships that hold our communities together. After all, when the election is over, we still share the same streets, parks, and grocery stores.

So, how do we move forward? First, by listening. Let's take the time to really hear one another, even when we disagree. Let's focus on finding common ground—there's often more of it than we realize. Whether it's addressing local issues, supporting a neighbor in need, or simply being kind to one another, we can all contribute to the healing and rebuilding process that follows every election.

Letters to the Editor

Vote for Harris and Walz to support democracy

To the Editor:

The best way to support the strength, security and stability of our democracy and our economy is to vote for Kamala Harris and Timothy Walz in November. As our next President and Vice President, they will unite our country, defend our Constitution and build a brighter future for all of us.

Kamala's plan for an opportunity economy focuses on lowering the cost of food, housing, healthcare, prescription drugs and childcare. The Harris-Walz administration will work to end America's housing shortage, tackle price gouging, provide new tax credits to middle-class and lower-income families and reduce the deficit. Their administration will protect Social Security, Medicare, veteran services and keep our public schools safe.

Vice President Harris is optimistic, looking forward to a future where every person has the opportunity to succeed.

She grew up in a working-class neighborhood where people valued community, faith and kindness. She knows the importance of treating others as you want to be treated. She became a prosecutor, senator and vice president of the United States because she believes everyone has a right to financial security, safety and justice.

As a second-term Governor of Minnesota, Timothy Walz is known for his common sense, decency and getting things done. He is a former high school social studies teacher and football coach. He retired as a command sergeant major after 24 years of service in the Army National Guard. He served six terms in the U.S House of Representatives and was the ranking member of the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

The Harris-Walz Administration will restore women's rights to reproductive healthcare nationally. In addition, their administration will combat climate change, strengthen border security, help small businesses and continue to build strong alliances for our national security.

Choose democracy, prosperity and security. Vote for Kamala Harris and Tim Walz. They really care about the American people and hold sacred America's fundamental principles—from the rule of law to free and fair elections and the peaceful transfer of power.

Moral character is what matters

To the Editor:

After reading the editorial "Sanity Over Chaos," which bears a strong resemblance to the silly signs littering our county's roads, a meme came to mind: "I Need Some New Conspiracy Theories. All Mine Have Come True."

The writer is obsessed with the term "conspiracy theory" since it was used five times in the short article. The author told us that "Governance requires a deep understanding of lawmaking, negotiation, and, most importantly, the ability to work across the aisle" and stressed the importance of "compromise" and "effectiveness." It should be pointed out that history is full of politicians who compromised. Neville Chamberlain compromised and came back from Berlin with a piece of paper to prove it. Effective government can be both a curse and a blessing. Stalin, Hitler, and Mao used their power effectively to murder millions of people.

What was conspicuously missing was any references to knowledge of and adherence to the U.S. and State Constitutions. When it comes to qualifications of office, let me point the readers to the New Hampshire Constitution:

[Art.] 6. [Morality and Piety] As morality and piety, rightly grounded on high principles, will give the best and greatest security to government...

Voters should be more concerned with the moral character of a candidate, and whether or not that candidate has an understanding of the U.S. and/or state Constitution. I prefer a constitutionalist who may believe that John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald were paid, Joe McCarthy was poisoned, and Humpy Dumpty was pushed over someone who believes in using the power of government to bankrupt our nation and state both morally and financially in the name of "compromise and effectiveness."

What goes around comes around

Contributing Writer

Something always happens toward the middle of the month when I wonder what my next article will be about. That's when the muse helps me and a subject pops in my head then computer keys begin clicking away.

Do you know why Abraham Lincoln is called honest Abe? After some searching on the internet I learned that as a young man Abe was a store clerk. He waited on customers while bundling their goods and accepted cash in return. One day he noticed that he short-changed a customer six pennies. Being a man of honesty and integrity he wanted to make things correct. The details on the internet explain, "Even though it was late and the lady lived three miles from the store Abe knew he had to make things proper. He closed up the shop and walked all the way to her house. When she opened the door, she was surprised to see him. "Abe Lincoln what are you doing here? She asked. I came to return your money." The lady was amazed. "You walked all the way just to give me six pennies? Thank You." Abe's honesty earned him the nickname "Honest Abe." And people trusted him because they knew he always did the right thing.

Something similar happened to me. A few weeks ago, I was

LETTERS FROM EDWIN

Revival

Yesterday, I took a drive and visited a friend of mine who lives on a lake. It was such a nice warm day, with the sun shining off the lakes ripples as it negotiated its dive into the horizon. It's still summer, and now that the kids have all gone back in school, and the congestion of traffic and people has once again subsided, it's become mighty nice around here again.

Every time I cook up some corn, I wonder if this will be the last of it for the season. I love this time of year. It's harvest time. All the seeds that have been planted are performing Gods miracle of multiplication. We all have so much to be thankful for.

Around supper time, I got a text informing me of another murderous attempt that really put a damper upon this wonderful day. A different batch of seeds that have been planted for the last eight years or so have sprouted. All the constant hatred that has been spread in that time has taken root, and grown, and is now producing fruit. Totally sad. Yes, it is harvest time.

Sometimes I sit around and talk to people, actually listen mostly, and there are some who applaud this. They actually laugh and make jokes about it. They must be members of this new imaginary joy society. I grew up when there was actually reason for joy in our society. There were cultural improvements happening that were for the good of all. There was music about love. There was optimism toward a better world.

What happened? Change always happens slowly outside of giant disasters, which includes wars and political upheavals. Who gets to take the credit for this? It's more than highly biased media. Traditional as well as social. It's even deeper still. Its roots go back a century.

Utopian ideas have been festering for that long. Idealized dream cultures, that when tried, always seem to crash. Just do away with what has worked for thousands of years and try something new. Why not, it's a new age. Study history, it's usually been tried before. What resulted then will most likely happen again.

Have you ever wondered why every lasting society, everywhere, seems to revere some kind of god thing? Could it be that it's ingrained into our human psyche? At least having an all powerful something to answer to for your actions in this life might moderate some crazy thoughts from being carried out.

For years, our society has been taught that we are not part of some continuing life journey, placed here with a purpose, but just an accident of random selection and therefore we're basically useless pieces of space junk and totally unaccountable for any of our actions. There are no rights or wrongs under which we should guide our life. Do what you feel is right. You are your own master. Remember, have it your way.

This totally disconnected philosophy is pervasive, and spreading. I fear that this country is doomed to more of the same and worse as we continue to squelch thoughts of God from our communal mind. I know he is waiting to welcome us back into his fold. But I also know that we are quite a stubborn bunch and resist putting up with being told what we should do, even if it would be for our betterment.

As I drove to church this morning, there were people out running and biking, doing nice things for themselves. I too used to enjoy having my Sundays free to pursue similar activities for myself. Since I've gotten more serious about my faith and my feelings toward this life, I've been drawn more toward getting together with like minded types in my community where we can sing praises and glean a little bit more understanding.

Back at summer camp, there was this big tree that stood next to the lodge. Looking at it I could tell that it needed to come down. I kept telling them this. Finally, one year, they did it. Its core was totally rotted out and eaten by insects. Like the tree, this country had been blessed for a couple hundred years but is now plagued by a pestilence that's eating out its core. I constantly pray for a spiritual revival that will go far in correcting its deficiencies. I hope it's not too late to save it. What do you think?

PETS OF THE WEEK

Josie

Meet Josie!

Josie is a curious girl who enjoys being around people. While she's had success with dog companions in the past, we recommend she starts as the only four-legged pet in her next home.

Considering her energetic nature and active lifestyle, Josie would flourish in a home with older kids or adults only. And while she's a fantastic companion for humans, she may do best in a household without cats.

Baby

Meet Baby!

Baby is a lovely lady who would do best in a home where she can get some adventures. She loves to lay in the sun and hang out with her people, but she won't say no to a romp in the woods either! She'd do best in a home where she's the only animal - she deserves to be the star of the show! Come meet Baby and fall for her smile today!

Have you visited the Friends Corner lately?

ALTON — Have you visited the Friends Corner at the Gilman Library lately? There you will find seasonal décor and lovely handcrafts for sale at minimal prices, as well as new and gently used books, audios, and DVDs, for all ages and interests. Hardcover and DVDs are only a dollar and paperbacks are fifty cents. Proceeds go directly to the Friends Group, a non-profit organization. They use it to support programs and projects at the Gilman Library and to augment the library budget. The Friends also have raffles throughout the year. We are currently raffling a beautifully hand-crafted Summer-Sunset shawl, donated by a special Friend of the Gilman Library. It is crocheted in the shimmering shades of a late summer sunset, and offered together with the John Grisham book “The Exchange,” by John Grisham, advertised as “the riveting sequel” to “The Firm.” Raffle tickets are $1 each or six for $5. We like to say that these raffle tickets are “An easy way to make a small donation to benefit the Gilman Library ~ and if you win a lovely prize ~ that is a bonus!” Stop in at 100 Main St., to see the shawl and the book. Both would make lovely gifts. You can view a picture of the shawl at gilmanlibrary.org/raffles, but you really must view it in person to see how gorgeous it is.

While you are at the circulation desk, check out our Creativebug display. Creativebug is an online resource video instruction, classes, and workshops for a plethora of arts and crafts techniques. You can learn how to paint, knit, crochet, sew, screen print, and so much more. We offer free access to our online craft subscription to all library card holders. The initial subscription was purchased with the assistance of a generous contribution from another Friend of the Gilman Library, specifically designated towards the subscription purchase. We will continue to accept donations of any amount towards this popular program, as it is in danger of being dropped due to current budget constraints. To learn more about this program, visit our website at gilmanlibrary.org/creativebug or pop into the library and ask any staff member.

If you love crafting, don’t forget to join the Saturday Sit and Stich group, any Saturday morning at 10 a.m. All are welcome, any age, any skill set, professional or beginner. Come with your crochet, knitting, latch-hook, or embroidery. See you at the library!

“I taught in a closet I, taught in the weight room,” Hutchison said. “We used to have a spot in the hallway in between the middle school and the high school we called ‘the beach.’ It was and interesting time and fun transition.”

The social studies classes were originally in the library, and it was a hub for high school and middle school teachers.

Hutchison said the school’s original color palette was one common for the ‘70s as the school as first thinking of its colors and mascot. Much of the colorscape was pea green and burnt orange tones. The original auditorium curtains consisted of three panels in orange, brown, and white.

There will also be focus on some aspects of school life that might be considered odd today. One is the smoking areas where students and teachers would go out to smoke during the school day.

Technology will be another focus, and one former teacher will show a slide rule and chalk.

Hutchison said one of his favorite details about the school’s history is the success of the literature magazine, which received four national awards.

Over the years they also had an event called Stunt Night, live event featuring comedy skits that lasted for 11 years.

Over time, the middle school was built, and walls were finally added in the buildings.

niors will do their wall on “Toy Story,” and the seniors’ wall will be “Star Wars” themed.

Sperazzo said this is a great way to bring students together, especially students from Gilford and Gilmanton who are in the same school for the first time as freshmen.

On Friday, Sept. 27, this year’s inductees into the Gilford Athletic Hall of Fame will be announced at 5:30 p.m. in the gym. This year’s honorees are player Grant Workman and retired coaches Joan Forge and Dave Pinkham.

Students will get together in the gym on Friday night for the Homecoming Dance at 7 p.m.

The Homecoming games themselves will take place throughout the day on Saturday at GHS.

Games will start at 11 a.m., when different GHS teams take on Kearsarge Regional High School. The Boys Varsity Soccer Team will play Kearsarge at 11 a.m. followed by the Boys Junior Varsity team at 12:30 p.m. and the Girl’s Junior Varsity Team at 1 p.m.

NOTES

walking out of Sams Club when I noticed a green object with sand and pebbles mixed on top of it. Thinking it was a green heel of a shoe I almost passed by until I realized it was a credit card. There was no doubt about it. I wiped it off, turned around, and walked back into the store. The employee who checks receipts against items in the carts asked, "Can I help you?" I explained that I found a credit card and can you please give it to customer service. He agreed and said, "This happens once in a while and I'll make sure customer service locates the owner of the card." Three weeks later, I was shopping at Market Basket. My husband, Ray, had given me his credit card and I shopped for a few things. When I reached the checkout line, I realized that the credit card was missing. I left the checkout line and retraced my steps in the store. That's certainly a big task and it took me a bit of time to make it back to the front register. I pulled out my own credit card and was able to pay for the groceries. While the clerk was checking my order, I mentioned that I lost Ray's credit card. She said, "After I ring up your order, go to customer service and let them know what happened." Because the credit card is in Ray's name, I had to go to the car and explain what happened. Then we both went to customer service. A miracle happened because an employee in the dairy department had already turned Ray's card to customer service. It was less than ten minutes from the time I discovered the card missing to the time an honest employee gave it to customer service. What a relief! Kindness is everywhere. It creates peacefulness and understanding because what goes around comes around. Vivian Lee Dion of New Durham is a writer and speaker.

Prospect volleyball puts up a fight against Plymouth

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

ALTON — With both teams entering the game with a number of younger players or players in new roles, the volleyball match between host Prospect Mountain and visiting Plymouth on Monday, Sept. 16, was bound to see some back and forth action.

And that's what happened, as the two teams battled for four sets before the Bobcats came away with a 3-1 win over the Timber Wolves, 25-18, 25-18, 16-25, 25-15.

"It's always good to come out with a win," said Plymouth coach Jonathan VanScoter. "I played with the lineup after the first game to get girls comfortable at other positions. They did OK in that second game but in the third game we struggled."

"We're learning, but we're definitely finding a groove that works for us," said first-year Prospect Mountain coach Katie Ward. "We're a very young team, with only three girls that were on varsity last year and a setter who had never touched a volleyball before and is doing a great job."

The first set started off with Prospect getting out to a 3-1 lead behind an ace from Kora MacKenzie, the aforementioned freshman setter. Plymouth battled back to go up by four thanks in part to his from Ava Wildermann, Joanna Doyle and Jolene Read before the Plymouth's Sophia Brown goes up for a hit as Prospect Mountain's Ashley Lyle goes for the block in action last Monday in Alton.

Timber Wolves fought back and got a big block at the net from Taylor Greenwood and MacKenzie and a nice top from Greenwood to pull even at nine. MacKenzie added a tip at the net, Chloe Petersen had a block and Greenwood added a hit to propel the Timber Wolves to the 12-9 lead.

Plymouth came back and got a great service run from Read, including three aces, while Camryn Superchi added a good hit, putting the Bobcats up 18-12 before MacKenzie got the Timber Wolves back on the board. Hits from Hayden Murray and Wildermann allowed the Bobcats to build the lead back up, though a Greenwood ace helped keep Prospect in it. Plymouth was able to hold on and get the 25-18 win to start things out.

Plymouth got out to the 3-1 lead in the second set, with Sophia Brown adding a nice hit before Prospect came back to cut the lead to one. Plymouth got hits from Murray and Doyle to open the lead up again, but an ace from Petersen on the other side and a hit from Mariah Arsenault allowed Prospect to again get within one point at 8-7. The Bobcats got an ace from Lizzy Davis before Prospect answered with a hit from Ashley Lyle. Brown and MacKenzie exchanged hits at the net while Doyle helped the Bobcats open the lead up with a hit for the 15-9 lead.

An ace from Hazel Bassingthwaite and another hit from Doyle allowed the Bobcats to stay in front before Greenwood got a block and a couple of hits and Petersen added an ace to cut the lead to 19-16. Superchi answered for the Bobcats with a hit and Jane Price also added a point at the net. Arsenault came back for Prospect with a nice tip and a hit before Brown had a hit and Murray added an ace to finish out the 25-18 win.

Lyle got the Timber Wolves off to a good start with a block to open the third set and then MacKenzie added a service ace to push them out to a 4-0 lead. Plymouth got hits from Doyle and Sabine Halm to get back into the match, only to see Prospect answer with an ace from Lizzy Bishop and a hit from Greenwood for the 10-5 lead. Plymouth was able to cut the lead to one before Petersen had a good service run with a couple of aces and put the Timber Wolves up by a 14-9 score.

The Bobcats got a service ace from Davis before Prospect got one from Greenwood and the Timber Wolves opened the lead up to 22-14 behind another ace from MacKenzie. Prospect was able to close out the 25-16 win to force a fourth set.

Doyle had a couple of big hits and Murray added an ace as Plymouth got out to a 5-1 start in the fourth set. Doyle added a couple of service aces as well and the lead opened up to 9-3 before Prospect came charging back. Greenwood started the run with a block and Petersen added a couple of service aces, cutting the lead to 10-7. Greenwood and Arsenault had hits to cut the lead to two before a Doyle tip got Plymouth back on the board.

Prospect got an ace from Lyle before Doyle added another tip and Read had a hit to keep the Bobcats in the lead. Piper Roberst added a hit for the Bobcats, as did Read and Elliot Sutherland as they were able to close out the 25-15 win on a hit from Superchi.

"(The third game struggle) worked to our advantage, it allowed us to dig out of a hole," VanScoter said. "It was a good thing, momentum swings can be difficult to adjust to, so that should help us in the future."

"They've just got to get the stamina up," Ward noted of her young squad. "I just want them to continue to absorb the information and keep loving the game of volleyball."

The two teams will meet again on Wednesday, Oct. 2, in Plymouth for a 6 p.m. start. Prospect Mountain is also due to. Host Kennett on Friday, Sept. 26, at 6:15 p.m.

Champs open the season with four wins

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

GILFORD — The Gilford field hockey team opened the season as road warriors, hitting the road for the first three games as the Golden Eagles went to work defending their Division II state championship.

"Although it was a challenging start opening the season with three away games against three strong teams, Gilford persevered," said coach Joy Southworth. "Gilford field hockey has always been known to have strong camaraderie, which I feel is the key ingredient to success."

The second-year head coach noted that the six seniors have led the way in that department, with captains Lilly Winward and Olivia Keenan melding the team a little more every week.

The Golden eagles opened the season with a 1-0 win over Bishop Brady, then knocked off Newport by a 3-2 score. They got another 1-0 win, this time over Berlin and then defeated Brady again by a 3-1 score in the first home game of the season last Thursday.

Southworth noted that Keenan has done a great job controlling all over the field while Addy Normandin has been a key component of the Gilford defense and ninth grader Madi Breton has stepped up in her first year to help the team to its 4-0 start.

The Golden Eagles are slated to be at home today, Sept. 26, against Newport at 4 p.m. and will host St. Thomas for a 4 p.m. Homecoming contest on Saturday, Sept. 28. The Golden Eagles will be at Newfound for a 4 p.m. game on Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Major milestones completed for development of watershed management plan at Halfmoon Lake

ALTON — Last fall, the Halfmoon Lake Association (HMLA) received a Watershed Assistance Grant for Water Quality Planning (604b) from the U.S. EPA through the NH Department of Environmental Services. Since then, the Association has hired FB Environmental Associates (FBE) to develop a Watershed Management Plan (WMP) to help study the water quality and watershed of the lake to identify sources of pollution and plan a course of action ahead.

The actions we all take on land have an impact or effect on our natural world. Sometimes for the benefit, and sometimes unknowingly, for the detriment. When considering water quality, rainwater runoff from different land uses (developed, agricultural, forested) plays a large part in nutrient transport into Halfmoon Lake. To quantify this, as part of the second wave of developing the WMP FBE modeled the annual phosphorus load to Halfmoon Lake from each drainage area by land use category. We learned that although developed lands cover only 9% of the watershed, they contribute 52 percent of the total phosphorus load to the lake. Phosphorus is often the nutrient that dictates how “productive” a lake is, as this nutrient supports the growth of algae and photosynthetic organisms like aquatic plants and cyanobacteria. Such productivity can lead to shallower water clarity and may even result in the depletion of oxygen at the bottom of the lake.

The lake model is also used to forecast future water quality as the land uses in the watershed change. The investigation of this future condition, coupled with the current water quality data and a modeled “pre-people” scenario, helps us determine a realistic water quality goal for the upcoming years. Together, HMLA, FBE, and representatives from Alton, and Barnstead, agreed to set the future water quality goal to have an in-lake summertime concentration of 8.1ppb of phosphorus, and 3.0 ppb of chlorophyll-a over the next 10 years. This will be accomplished by reducing phosphorus loading to the lake by 33 percent from existing development and activities, while also mitigating phosphorus loading from future development.

Achieving this goal will require a community-wide effort. We need to reduce our stormwater runoff from rooftops, driveways, and roadways; enhance our shoreline buffers to stabilize our banks; continue to regularly pump out our septic systems every one to three years in the shoreline area; inspect older septic systems throughout the watershed; and continue to educate ourselves and our neighbors about how every one of us can work to improve the water quality of Halfmoon Lake.

Ultimately, the goal is to make Halfmoon Lake more resilient so it can withstand the pressures from development, climate change, severe storms, and warmer temperatures without causing detrimental effects on water quality.

A draft of the WMP will be presented at a public meeting later this year. To make sure you receive notice of when and where the meeting will be, please contact Nina Kelly (hmlapresident@outlook.com) or continue to check the HMLA webpage. We would love to see you there!

WOLFEBORO — The Village Players invite community members to audition for the hilarious holiday classic, “The Best Christmas Pageant Ever,” by Barbara Robinson. There are roles for several adults and plenty for kids. Auditions take place at the Village Players Theater, 51 Glendon St., Wolfeboro on Thursday, Oct. 10, and Sunday, Oct. 13, with performances scheduled for Dec. 13, 14, and 15.

The Herdmans were the worst kids in the history of the world. They smoked and cursed and burned down Fred Schumacher’s old tool shed. Things get really exciting when the Herdmans show up at Sunday school because they think they will get snacks and take over the annual Christmas Pageant. No one knows what will happen. But trust me, chaos ensues. Everyone in town is expecting the Christmas pageant to be a disaster; but the Herdmans’ unconventional performances actually bring the town together, even the grumpy church ladies, and fill every heart with the spirit of Christmas.

For auditions Thursday, Oct. 10, children should attend 6-7 p.m., and adults 7-8 p.m. For the Sunday, Oct. 13, auditions, children should come from 2 to 3 p.m., and adults 3-4 p.m. Rehearsals begin on Oct. 17, and continue Thursdays until Oct. 24 and change to Wednesdays and Thursdays on Nov. 6. Tech week is Dec. 8-12.

Please register for auditions by Oct. 8 to help keep everything organized. Registration and details are at village-players.com.

Solar tour at Unitarian Universalist Society of Laconia Sept. 29

Local UU Church Installed 8.1kW Solar Electric System, consisting of 20 “Q Cell” 405-watt panels, installed by Revision Energy.

LACONIA — Have you seen the changes atop the Unitarian Universalist church at 172 Pleasant St. in Laconia? For the last four years, the congregation has been installing energy conserving and renewable technologies. The church is hosting public solar tours on Sunday, Sept. 29 at 12:45 p.m. Their goals are to step up to the plate and reduce their emissions of greenhouse gases, and save money on energy too! What was their gameplan?

Getting to First Base: Replace fluorescent and incandescent lights with LED bulbs and fixtures. This investment paid itself off in two years and reduced use of electricity by one third.

To Second Base: Get an energy audit. Insulate, air-seal and weatherize the building to reduce the need for heating and cooling. This saved them about 25% in natural gas use the first year!

To Third Base: Over time, transition heating and cooling to air source heat pumps. The three new heat/AC pumps are quiet and efficient, powered with renewable energy from...

Grand Slam Home Run: 20 solar panels adorning the roof power most of the lighting, heating and cooling needs. The latest electricity bill was a credit! (If you don't have a sunny roof, there are other options to buy off-site solar.)

Funds were raised from the congregation and supplemented with rebates from the NHSaves program and the federal Investment Reduction Act. The church's Green Sanctuary Committee hosts educational films and nature walks, and cleans Laconia roadsides. They collected over a half-ton of soft plastic and 280 cubic feet of styrofoam at their recent community recycling event. The next collection is Sept. 28 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Please bring your soft. Then, come to the Solar Tour on Sunday, Sept. 29 at 12:45 p.m. to see for yourself!
