PMHS joins Google Cloud Partner Advantage program to help train educators in Google technology

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School recently announced that it has joined the Google Cloud Partner Advantage program as a Partner level partner for the Google Workspace for Education Service engagement model, providing Google Cloud customers the ability to train educators on the use of Google technology in the classroom and lead schools through transformative change by providing guidance in vision, learning approach, culture, and community.

As a Google Cloud partner, Prospect Mountain High School offers Google Cloud customers a team of highly qualified educators and Google for Education trainers that are available to help bring any K-12 organization’s Google implementation and productivity goals into realization.

Key features include:

- Google Workspace Apps for Education training
- Google Education Level 1 & 2 certification training for educational professionals
- Google Admin console training for IT administrators

“Becoming a Google partner marks a significant milestone in our commitment to educational technology leadership,” said Matthew Dumond, Chief Technology Officer at Prospect Mountain High School. “Our high school is now uniquely positioned to share our deep, practical knowledge of Google Workspace and Google Admin console best practices with K-12 schools. This training is vital for helping educators and administrators build modern, secure, and collaborative learning environments for the future.”

Contact mdumond@pmsau.org or visit Prospect online at www.pmsau.org.

Prospect Mountain High School is a public high school located in Alton, and is attended by students from the towns Alton and Barnstead, as well as students from surrounding communities through the school’s open enrollment program. Prospect Mountain has been in operation since 2004. It is one of the Lakes Region’s most progressive high schools and is one of three state-approved “innovation schools” in New Hampshire. The high school’s mission supports personalization through differentiated courses of study to meet students’ individual needs. Prospect Mountain High School’s Granite State Academy online program, launched in 2025, is the state’s only virtual school hosted by a public school district.

Gilford Middle School Theatre kicks off new year with “Elf Jr.”

GILFORD — Gilford Middle School Theatre is thrilled to announce its upcoming production of “Elf Jr.,” taking the stage on Jan. 28, 30, and 31 at 7 p.m., with an additional matinee performance on Jan. 31 at 2 p.m. All performances will be held at the Gilford High School Auditorium.

This spirited musical features a dynamic cast of 57 talented Gilford Middle School students in grades 5–8, bringing the beloved holiday story to life with energy, heart, and plenty of holiday cheer. The production is directed by GMS Theatre Teacher Matt Demko, with musical direction by GMS Chorus Teacher Aidan Lamont, set and technical direction by Anthony Eldridge, and costumes created by Karen Madon.

Adding to the collaborative spirit of the show, several Gilford High School Theatre students will serve as interns, supporting the production through choreography, costume assistance, character development, and scene rehearsal.

“‘Elf Jr.’ is a fun, joyful, and high-energy show with a meaningful message at its core,” says director Matt Demko. “Audiences will love keeping the holiday spirit alive a little longer with this lively and heartwarming production.”

Tickets will be available starting in early December.

Community Calendar Nov. 28–Dec. 4

In Alton Bay where the breezes play,

A craft-filled morning leads the way —

Saturday, Nov. 30, from ten until one,

The Gilman’s Holiday Fair brings seasonal fun.

Crafters and cocoa, gifts made with cheer,

A warm little start to the first week of December here.

Barnstead follows with lights aglow,

At the Town Hall Green where families go.

Sunday, Dec. 1 at five sharp bright,

The tree gets lit for the winter night.

Carols will drift with the crisp air’s bite,

A hometown gathering that feels just right.

In Gilmanton’s Corner, where snowflakes gleam,

The library hosts a winter-themed dream—

Tuesday, Dec. 3 from four to six,

A kids’ craft hour with glue, paint, and sticks.

Snowy creations and stories are told,

Perfect for little ones, busy and bold.

Gilford’s chorus lifts spirits high,

At the Community Church where voices fly.

Thursday, Dec. 4 at seven p.m.,

A rehearsal open to the public again.

Come listen in as the singers prepare,

Holiday harmonies floating through air.

New Durham’s seniors meet Monday at noon,

Sharing a potluck and songs of the season so soon.

At the Community Room with laughter and cheer,

They welcome all neighbors this time of year.

So wander, enjoy, let the week unfold—

In villages cozy and winter-cold.

From craft tables bright to tree-lighting nights,

The season begins with our small-town delights.

Gilford Community Church ushers in the holidays with Community Tree Lighting Service

GILFORD — Gilford Community Church (GCC) celebrates the beginning of the holiday season with their Annual Community Tree Lighting Service on Sunday, Nov. 30 at 5 p.m.

“Each year, we kick off the advent season with our tree lighting service,” said GCC

Youth Director, Amber McLane.

Members of the church and community stand around a beautiful lit tree and sing Christmas carols. Our GCC youth take part in the service, performing holiday songs and readings.

“This is a special event that is sure to spark your holiday cheer,” McLane added.

The evening concludes with refreshments, including coffee, hot chocolate, cookies, and brownies served downstairs in our Fellowship Hall.

Located in Gilford at 19 Potter Hill Rd., the Gilford Community Church (GCC) is an inclusive, open community that welcomes believers and doubters, seekers and skeptics, young and old. Viewable live on Facebook and available on YouTube, Sunday service at GCC takes place every Sunday at 10 a.m. To learn more, or virtually attend service, visit gilfordcommunitychurch.org.

The rise and quiet fall of Alton’s Old Bay Pavilion

ALTON — Long before the traffic lights and summer snack shacks, before smartphones found their way into beach bags, the shores of Alton Bay were defined by one building: the Bay Pavilion. For more than half a century, the Pavilion stood as Alton’s center of summer recreation, musical entertainment, and community gathering — a structure so prominent that early postcards rarely showed the Bay without it.

The Pavilion opened in 1884, built during the height of Winnepesaukee’s steamboat era. Alton Bay was the southernmost port on the lake, and with hundreds of passengers disembarking each week, there was a growing need for a venue that could host everything from dances to lectures. Local businessmen pooled resources to construct a broad, two-story open-air hall along the water’s edge, large enough to hold close to 1,000 people. It quickly became the signature landmark of the Bay.

According to the New Hampshire Division of Historical Resources, steamboat schedules during the 1890s were timed around Pavilion events, with the Lady of the Lake and the Mineola making special runs to handle crowds for orchestral evenings and summer balls. Newspapers of the era described the Pavilion as “one of the liveliest destinations south of The Weirs,” drawing visitors from Dover, Rochester, Farmington, and points beyond.

Source: <https://www.nh.gov/nhdhr/>

During its peak decades

— roughly 1890 to 1920 — the Pavilion hosted vaudeville acts, political rallies, high school graduations, temperance meetings, and Saturday dances that lasted well into the warm summer nights. A traveling roller-skating company set up briefly in the early 1900s, and for a few years, an indoor bowling alley occupied a corner of the structure. It was, as a 1907 issue of the Farmington News called it, “a monument to lakeside recreation.”

But as the decades moved on, Alton Bay began to change. Rail service to the Bay had ended, automobile travel increased, and new entertainment venues slowly pulled crowds in other directions. The rise of motion-picture houses in the region — particularly in Laconia and Wolfeboro — reshaped what families sought on a summer evening. By the 1930s, Pavilion attendance had thinned.

One major blow came in 1937, when a severe windstorm tore shingles from the roof and damaged the lakeside supports. The town briefly debated restoring the building, but the cost was high, and the ownership structure was complicated. Ultimately, the Pavilion’s decline continued, even as it remained a recognizable presence on the shoreline.

By the 1940s, the building had been partially closed, and in 1950 it was dismantled entirely. Few photographs remain, though the New Hampshire Historical Society holds several early images showing the ornate trim and wide porches that once overlooked the water.

Today, visitors to the Bay would scarcely know the Pavilion ever existed. The site has been rebuilt and repurposed many times, its original footprint lost to modern redevelopment and shoreline changes. Yet locals who grew up in the mid-century still recall hearing stories from grandparents about dances under lantern light, rowing across the Bay to catch an evening performance, or standing at the steamer dock watching passengers file toward the bright Pavilion doors.

Though the structure is gone, its influence remains visible in the seasonal rhythm of Alton Bay. Community events, Lakes Region concerts, and summer gatherings echo the same impulse that first inspired the Pavilion’s construction: the desire to come together along the water.

The Bay Pavilion may no longer shape the skyline, but it continues to shape memory — a reminder of the role Alton Bay played in the social and recreational life of the region, and of the long tradition of community-building along the southern shore of Winnepesaukee.

Festival of Trees returns for Light Up Alton Dec. 6 & 7

ALTON — The Alton Business Association invites the community to celebrate the season at the Festival of Trees, part of the town’s Light Up Alton festivities. The event will take place at the Gilman Museum on:

- Saturday, Dec. 6, 11 a.m.–7 p.m.
- Sunday, Dec. 7, 11 a.m.–2 p.m., with the raffle drawing Sunday afternoon

The Festival of Trees is a fundraiser supporting the Alton Community Services Mrs. Santa Fund, helping local families during the holiday season. Local businesses and organizations display decorated trees and donate raffle items to raise funds while connecting with the community.

The town tree lighting takes place on Saturday at 5 p.m., featuring a live performance by the Prospect Mountain High School Chorus.

Additional giving opportunities include:

- The Giving Tree – Collecting nonperishable food items for Alton Community Services
- The Wishing Tree – Sponsored by Profile Bank, allowing attendees to fulfill holiday wishes for local children and families
- Hat & Mitten Tree – Sponsored by the Alton American Legion to benefit local veterans

Furniture Masters talk & book signing with Richard Oedel at Makers Mill

WOLFEBORO — Makers Mill is pleased to welcome renowned maker, writer, and mentor Richard Oedel for a special evening talk and book signing on Monday, Dec. 1, from 7–8:30 p.m. in the downstairs flexroom at 23 Bay St., Wolfeboro. This free, public event invites the community to explore the world of fine furniture making through the eyes of someone who has lived it for decades.

Oedel has been making things his entire life. For more than twenty years, he has crafted fine furniture for clients from Boston to Qatar while sharing his knowledge freely with others. His new book offers a chance for readers to see not only his journey, but also the lives and stories of fellow makers whose work is often known only through the beautifully crafted objects they create.

His talk will center on the new book and companion exhibition, “Joined Together: 30 Years of the Furniture Masters,” now on view at the Currier Museum of Art in Manchester. The book offers an inside look at the daily lives, philosophies, and creative processes of the Furniture Masters. In 1994, New Hampshire was home to a small but exceptionally skilled group of makers whose work was known mainly within studio furniture circles. With support from local leaders, they set out to preserve and carry forward the region’s centuries-long tradition of fine furniture making.

Over the next three decades, this group grew into one of the most cohesive and influential communities of makers, educators, and writers in the country—raising standards of craftsmanship, founding prison education programs, and sharing their teaching around the world. “Joined Together” tells the story of their evolution, their craft, and their impact.

Local literary treasure The Country Bookseller, represented by Jeanne Snowdon, will be onsite with copies of the book available for purchase and signing.

This event is free and open to all and will be held on Monday, Dec. 1 from 7–8:30 p.m. at Makers Mill in Wolfeboro.

Makers Mill is a non-profit makerspace and vocation hub supporting creativity, craft, and community in the Lakes Region. Located at 23 Bay St., Wolfeboro, the makerspace offers classes, workshops, studios, and opportunities for makers of all levels. Free public tours are offered every Friday at 10 a.m. and the first Saturday of each month at 10 a.m. For more information, visit www.makersmill.org or call 603-569-1500.

PETS OF THE WEEK

Meet Simi!

Simi is the total package — handsome, loyal, and full of energy! This athletic boy loves to run, jump, and show off his playful spirit, so a home that can give him plenty of exercise and adventure is a must. Whether it’s a long walk, a backyard sprint, or a good game of fetch, Simi is always ready to move.

Once his zoomies are out of the way, though, he’s all about snuggles.

True to his velcro-dog nature, Simi loves nothing more than being right by your side, soaking up all the love he can get. When he gets excited, he proudly picks up his favorite toy to show it off — and yes, he insists his harness goes around both him and his toy. Simi would prefer to be the only dog in the home without other pets- he loves to chase and hunt smaller animals for fun.

A man knows what he wants, after all!

Simi always looks dashing in his signature bandana and is ready to steal hearts (and maybe a few squeaky toys) wherever he goes. If you’re looking for a loyal best friend with energy, style, and endless affection, Simi is your guy.

Over a century of love for those without a voice.

A season for small kindnesses

As Thanksgiving passes and December settles into the Lakes Region, the weeks ahead often feel like they move a little faster. The days grow shorter, errands grow longer, and the quiet routines of our towns give way to holiday bustle. Yet this stretch between late November and early December has always been a moment of quiet clarity for communities like the ones we inhabit—a time when small gestures carry more weight than they might in any other season.

It is easy to think of the holidays in grand terms: big gatherings, big decorations, big meals. But the fabric of this region has always been strengthened by modest, steady kindnesses. A neighbor shoveling a walkway before the sun rises. A volunteer spending an evening helping to sort donations at a church pantry. A parent taking a moment to thank a bus driver or teacher before winter break begins. A stranger holding a door for someone whose hands are full of packages. None of these gestures will appear on a calendar. They will not make headlines. But they matter.

New Hampshire towns thrive on this instinct to look out for one another. It has long been true that rural communities do not run on convenience—they run on commitment. That commitment shows up every time volunteers set out folding chairs for a community supper, or firefighters gather to train on a cold evening, or library staff prepare winter reading programs that help young families stay engaged during the darker months.

Kindness, especially at this time of year, is not an abstract virtue. It is practical. It is visible. It keeps people connected at a time when isolation can feel sharper than usual. It reassures those facing a difficult year that they have not been forgotten. And it reminds all of us that community is not built only in select board meetings or annual town votes, but in the small decisions people make every day.

As December approaches, there will be plenty of hustle and plenty of noise. But there will also be countless opportunities to pause, take stock, and extend a bit of goodwill—small acts that cost little and yet ripple outward in ways we often do not see.

A season built on gratitude should not end after one holiday. In the weeks ahead, kindness will continue to be our most durable local tradition.

Meredith Village Savings Bank's Elizabeth Brothers, Mortgage Loan Officer NMLS# 69282, Tina Simpson, VP Commercial Loan Officer, and Samantha LeClair, Business Development Officer, recently presented a donation to the Belknap Special Operations Group (BSOG) in Alton. The team toured the organization's newly refurbished armored rescue vehicle and learned about their mission to protect and serve our communities during a training. BSOG was established to support law enforcement across Belknap County with a highly trained, specialized team of officers prepared to respond to high-risk situations beyond the scope of routine patrol operations. The program also enhances safety and readiness by offering classroom instruction and in-service practical training opportunities for patrol officers throughout the county.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN Hardballs

There I've done it. I've been feeling so chilled lately, that this morning I pulled open the bottom drawer of my dresser and grabbed a set of long johns. I've been teasing that idea for a week or so now, but now they ain't coming off till springtime.

It was instant comfort. The 62-degree house temperature was relatively comfortable. I lit the stove anyways. The wood in the October to November stack in the shed is so old that there's not much heat left in it. It's for times like these where you don't want to roast the place up so as to be tempted to open some windows. That's sacrilege for someone like me who put in all the work to fell, cut, split, haul, and stack all the wood into the shed, and then hauling it to the wood box in the house so it can be placed into the wood stove and finally burned.

I had to open the windows once. A new housemate took it upon himself commandeer the fireman position. When I wandered into the house after working outside all day in the cold, wearing many layers of insulative ware, I found the temperature in the house was above eighty. He jovially greeted me dressed only in his boxers, all proud of his thermal accomplishment. That was our first disagreement. He didn't live here very long.

My first job today was taking down the 12-foot skeleton and a flying witch, along with other Halloween decorations, and replacing them with Christmas ones. This required me to use my ten-foot step ladder. Working up there the temperature was much warmer than at floor level. My hat and coat came off instantly, then my vest soon after. I remained pretty warm, climbing up and down the ladder then up the stairs to put the stuff away. It figures, my first day wearing LJ's.

A couple days later was opening day for rifle season, and I joined a friend in the woods hoping to see an antlered buck of large proportions. The flannel lined pants made a showing for that one. Thinking of large proportions, the reality of proportions comes glaringly obvious when you return to winter garb.

Realizing this, the second pair of lined pants I bought thirty threes instead of my usual thirty twos. I've been wearing that size since high school. All that added under clothing expands the circumference of the surrounded, or at least tries to squeeze things into compliance.

Needless to say, all the pants I have are pretty much 32 waists. This produces some tight fitting situations at this time of year. There's a little bit of extra squeezing required in trying to get the button or clasp hooked. I usually can manage. My doctor suggested I put on more weight, as my BMI is low. I'd have to get a whole new set of outer wear. The inner stuff stretches.

So yesterday morning, I was all decked out into my Sunday best and stopped at the monthly all you can eat breakfast extravaganza beforehand. I've been very good about reducing the serving size of my meals as my physical output diminishes, but when going to an all you can eat breakfast buffet, old habits get revived. I always have been able to consume copious amounts of food stuff. So I did.

After arriving at church, my usual next regular function kicked in and I headed off to take care of that necessity. In performing this activity, one needs to release one's circumferential supports. When I was finished, I couldn't get the button hooked. There was just too much internal pressure for me to get that extra distance to accomplish it. Heavens! What can I do?

There are reasons why I insist on wearing a belt, and this was one of them. I just left it unbuttoned and lucky for me, even though it was pretty invisible, my vest covered up the possibility of this action ever being detected. It's hard when thirty fours are just too big and thirty threes aren't standardly stocked. Sometimes life hits you with hardballs.

I kind of skipped lunch. I defrosted a container of soup from twenty twenty and dumped it in a pan and heated it up. Holy tamoli! Was it spicy. Did I really make that?

Five years ago, everything in my life was a lot hotter.

Holiday Gift & Shopping Guide

Ideal gifts for those who love the outdoors

Many people find that the great outdoors is the perfect place to spend their days. Activities run the gamut from hunting and fishing to hiking and camping. Plenty of other interests, like birdwatching or mountain biking, also maximize time spent in the outdoors.

According to the "Outdoor Participation Trends Report" from the Outdoor Industry Association, gateway activities like hiking, camping and fishing each gained more than two million new participants over the last year. There's also been a surge in participation in such activities among seniors and youth, contributing to a more multigenerational outdoors experience. There's also been participation growth among Black and Hispanic Americans, indicating long-term momentum toward equity and inclusion.

- When it comes to holiday giving, tapping into the interests of outdoor enthusiasts is a great way to offer gifts that will be used and appreciated. Here are some ideas when making holiday shopping lists.
- First aid kit: No matter the activity, having an up-to-date and well-stocked first aid kit can be a lifesaver when spending time in the outdoors. The kit should include items like splints and bandage wraps for immobilizing ankles or limbs in the event of sprains.
 - Quality wool socks: Nothing can derail an outdoor adventure faster than wet, cold or blistered feet. Wool socks are a must because they are moisture-wicking, warm and comfortable.
 - Insulated, waterproof jacket: A high-quality

- jacket for outdoor adventures that will be efficient at trapping heat, wind-proof and water-resistant is a thoughtful gift. Patagonia is a popular brand of outerwear, but retailers like Columbia and REI also merit consideration.
- Trail shoes or sandals: Supportive, comfortable and non-slip footwear is a given when enjoying the great outdoors. Depending on the activity, there are plenty of options from boots to hikers to trail sandals to consider.
 - Waist pack: Packing light for short jaunts in the wilderness may include stocking a waist pack (also known as a fanny pack) with must-have items. They are lightweight, comfortable and spacious enough for the essentials without getting bogged down by a backpack or another bag.

- ing the great outdoors, and many activities happen during dawn and dusk when light may be at a premium. A headlamp keeps things hands-free and sheds light on surroundings or up-close tasks, like setting up fishing hooks or field dressing game.
- Satellite communi-

- cator: A satellite communicator can keep outdoors enthusiasts safe and at ease when off the grid. Certain regions have spotty cell coverage, and satellite devices will do better at sending out messages or SOS signals should something go awry.
- Hiking poles: Tele-

- scoping hiking poles are adjustable and lightweight, and offer extra support and balance when on trails.
- Outdoor enthusiasts will benefit from gifts tailored to their love of nature, wildlife and adventure.

Book reading and signing at The Country Bookseller

WOLFEBORO — Storyteller, educator, and award-winning author, Michael J. Caduto is coming to The Country Bookseller just in time for the holidays for a reading and signing from his new book Friday, Nov. 28 from 1-3 p.m.

Caduto has authored more than 20 books that have been published in numerous languages, and have sold more than 1.2 million copies worldwide.

In his latest picture book, “Enchanted Night Before Christmas,” we meet the Sherman family, who may not have much, but they care deeply for one another and extend their generosity to others. They create gingerbread cookies as holiday gifts, lovingly decorating them for family and friends. One magical Christmas Eve, while the family sleeps, an extraordinary event occurs that transforms their holiday and their lives forever.

Inspired by a genuine rural tradition from the foothills of the Green Mountains, “Enchanted Night Before Christmas” is a timeless fantasy that reminds us that the most meaningful gifts are those we share with others. It also features a delightful gingerbread spice cookie recipe from King Arthur Baking Company.

The Country Bookseller is located at 23A North Main St., Wolfeboro, and can be reached at (603)569-6030.

All Saints Church partners with American Red Cross to host community blood drive

WOLFEBORO — All Saints Church will host a community blood drive with the American Red Cross on Dec. 16 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 258 Main St., Wolfeboro.

For more information or to make an appointment to donate, call 603 569-3453 or sign up online at redcrossblood.org with sponsor code <<code>>.

All Saints’ Church is committed to strengthening our community and helping meet hospital and patient needs through blood donations,” said Carolyn Sundquist, Blood Program Leader. “This blood drive is our way of giving staff, colleagues and neighbors an opportunity to help save lives.”

Blood is a perishable product that can only come from volunteer blood donors. With someone in the U.S. needing blood every two seconds, blood products must be constantly replenished, according to the Red Cross.

“We urge community members to donate blood and help ensure that patients in local hospitals have a supply of blood ready and waiting before an emergency occurs. There’s no better feeling than knowing that your blood donation may give someone a second chance at life.”

According to the Red Cross, donors with all blood types are needed, especially those with types O negative, A negative and B negative.

About All Saints Church

We are an Episcopal Church whose mission is to share the love of God by welcoming and caring for people who come through our doors and going outside our doors to engage in thriving, powerful ministries that provide meaningful help to our community.

December events at Oscar Foss Memorial Library

BARNSTEAD — Good to Know Info: We are closed for staff training on the second Thursday of every month until 3 p.m. (Dec. 11). For the holidays, we are closed Wednesday, Dec. 24, and Thursday, Dec. 25, for Christmas, and Wednesday, Dec. 31, and Thursday, Jan. 1, 2026, for New Year’s!

“Pets of OFML” 2026 desk calendars will be coming to the library for $8! Proceeds from our desk calendar sales go to fund library programs. This would make a great gift for all the pet lovers in your life, and support literacy at the same time. Supplies are limited, so hurry in or call to reserve your copy today!

Oscar’s Elves are back in the house! Some of us are terrible at wrapping (and rapping), and could use some assistance. Those gifted with wrapping talent are here to help with all of your holiday wrapping needs. We will have wrapping paper, tags, bags, and ribbon. Bring in your gifts to have them wrapped while you check out what the library has to offer. The wrapping is free, but you’re more than welcome to give a donation to the library to be used to fund future programming (and maybe for training for the w-rapping-impaired). Call or email to get your own 30-minute time slot. We are available from Dec. 2 to Dec. 19, on Tuesdays from 10 a.m.-1 p.m., and Thursdays and Fridays 3:30-7 p.m.

Home School Group: Join us Fridays from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. for a mix of stories, simple science/learning activities, and a creative art/craft activity that all go along with a theme for the week. The activities are geared towards kids ages 4 and up, and younger siblings are welcome to come along. There will be an event posted ahead of time on their Facebook group (Barnstead NH Library Homeschool Group) for each weekly meet-up, so you’ll always know what to expect and if you need to bring anything.

Music and Movement Storytime, a.k.a. Little Love to Learn! Join us on Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m. for an interactive storytime filled with stories, songs, and loads of sensory play designed specifically for toddlers.

Every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. is Children’s Storytime. Visit us at the library for stories, crafts, and singing. Then experience the cozy ambience in the children’s area, which has all sorts of neat things to do. Make new friends. Set up playdates. Check out books, movies, and games, play with the trains, Legos, and puppets. Come for the learning, stay for the fun!

Start your week off with Yoga Monday! Gentle Hatha-Flow runs from 10:15-11:40 a.m., Senior/Beginner/Chair Yoga is noon to 1 p.m., and Intermediate Hatha-Flow lasts from 5:30-6:50 p.m. Classes are by donation (suggested $8). All are welcome and encouraged to attend, regardless of ability to donate.

Jamming Tuesdays at OFML: 6-8 p.m. (ages 18 and up). Do you play a string instrument? Well then, dust it off and come make music with us! On the first (Dec. 2) and third (Dec. 16) Tuesdays of the month, join us for jam nights at the library (in the meeting room). No need to be an expert—just bring your instrument and a love of music. Share a few tunes, trade chords, get feedback (if you’d like), and most of all, have fun!

Our Read the Room (new name, same club) Book Club (ages 18 and up) takes place on the first Wednesday of the month (Dec. 3), from 6-7:30 p.m., in the library. This month’s book will be “Because We Are Bad” by Lily Bailey. Next month’s book will be “Thursday Murder Club” by Richard Osman. Books are available at the library. Bring food, bring thoughts, bring a friend!

Let’s Write a Novel! Join us in the library’s meeting room for a series of structured classes on the how-to’s of writing a book. This class typically runs from 6-7:30 p.m. on the last Friday of the month, but is being changed to Friday (Dec. 12) due to the upcoming holidays. Budding writers, 16 and older, ignite your passion for storytelling, discover how to build your hero’s journey, and take your novel from concept to can-do!

On Saturday, Dec. 13, Barnstead is holding a Community Christmas Event! All you fans of Hallmark’s Holiday movies, you’ll want to check this out. There will be a cookie walk, storytelling at the library, a presentation on the origins of Christmas, and a toy drive and a tree lighting event with Parks & Rec! Details are still being hammered out, so be sure to check the OFML Web site’s community calendar or the OFML Facebook page for more information.

It’s a special Storytime with Santa on Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 10:30 a.m.! Grown-ups, if you can, please bring a wrapped new or gently used book to exchange after story time. But in case you forget we will have extras on hand.

On Thursday, Dec. 18, at 6:30 p.m., we’re doing a Holiday Paint and Sip Night (18 and up). Are you feeling anxious about the upcoming holidays? Or do you just like to paint? Whatever the reason, join us for a stress-free evening of painting, music, and mocktails!

Family Crafternoon is a family-focused event that happens every third Friday of the month (Dec. 19), at 3:30 p.m. Join us this month and make your own gingerbread house (with graham crackers)! All supplies will be provided—but they’re limited, so come early and join the fun!

jah Chorus,” Handel’s masterwork continues to resonate with audiences nearly 300 years after its premiere. This year’s concert will feature an orchestra and guest soloists from Boston’s New England Conservatory, joining Clearlakes Chorale’s dedicated local singers to bring this beloved oratorio to life.

“It has been eight years since Clearlakes Chorale last presented Messiah,” Director Andy Campbell notes, “and that feels like far too long for Wolfeboro and the surrounding towns to have been without this radiant work. Each time we return to ‘Messiah,’ I’m struck by how alive it still feels. The music itself never changes, yet it always meets us differently—reminding us of hope after quiet seasons, of light returning. As we’ve rehearsed, I’ve been moved by the sense of community this music creates—between singers, orchestra, and audience.”

“This is a truly inspired work,” says Chorale founder and past President Bruce McCracken. “Messiah has drama, excitement, inspiration—it’s all there. We believe our audience members will depart transfixed and transformed for the better.”

There is incredible lore surrounding Messiah. Scholars marvel that Handel completed the work in just 24 days, from Aug. 22 to Sept. 14, 1741. Legend has it that to this day people stand during the Hallelujah chorus of Handel’s “Messiah” because King George II was moved to do so at its London premiere in 1743. It was improper to sit when the monarch was standing, so the audience followed suit, and so began a centuries-old tradition—though the origin of this tradition remains under scrutiny and has not been definitively proven!

Concert details: There is an evening show on Saturday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m., and a matinee on Sunday, Dec. 7 at 2 p.m. Both performances take place at St. Katharine Drexel Parish, 40 Hidden Springs Rd., in Alton.

Tickets are $20, and free for children and students, making this an ideal event for families looking to enjoy the arts together. Tickets are available at Black’s Gift Shop and Bricks at the Lake in Wolfeboro, online at clearlakeschorale.org, and at the door.

“For so many people, hearing ‘Messiah’ marks the true beginning of the holiday season,” says longtime alto Laura Cooper. “Performing this music is a joy, and sharing it with our community is even more meaningful. It’s uplifting, dramatic, and deeply human—exactly the kind of beauty we all need this time of year.”

Founded in Wolfeboro more than four decades ago, Clearlakes Chorale is a nonprofit ensemble committed to making high-quality choral music accessible to all. Concert proceeds support the organization’s mission to bring live choral music to the Lakes Region and to provide local singers with an artistic home rooted in camaraderie, musicianship, and community spirit.

Soprano section leader Carrie Kinzmaier adds, “There’s nothing quite like the energy of Messiah. Singing it feels like a gift—and hearing it surrounded by neighbors and friends is a wonderful way to usher in the season.”

Whether you’re a longtime fan of the oratorio or hearing it for the first time, “Messiah” promises soaring melodies, stirring choruses, and the kind of shared musical experience that brings warmth to a winter weekend. Hartwick College student-athlete earns Empire 8 Women's Soccer All-Conference Honors

ONEONTA, N.Y. — The Hartwick women's soccer program has landed three Hawks on the Empire 8 All-Conference list, the conference announced Nov. 11. First-year Ella Grupe of Freehold, N.Y., sophomore Millie Caldon of Gilmanton, and junior Trinity Irizarry of Greenwood Lake, N.Y., earned All-Conference Second Team honors.

As a rookie, Grupe notched 4 goals and 4 assists, including a game-winning goal at Keuka on Oct. 4. In addition to the All-Conference selection, Grupe was recognized as the Empire 8 Rookie of the Year for the standout debut season with the Hawks.

While Caldon put up 4 goals this season, including the lone tally in a victory over RPI on Sept. 7, as well as 2 assists. Irizarry was another incredible asset to the team this year, starting every game for the Hawks as a defender and shutting down multiple crucial scoring opportunities for opposing teams.

In addition to the All-Conference selections, the Empire 8 named senior Nicasia Santos of Flemington, N.J., as Hartwick's representative for the Empire 8 Tomorrow's Leaders Team, an honor given to those who have distinguished themselves and consistently exhibit the critical traits of an outstanding sportswoman.

About Hartwick College

Hartwick, often referred to as The Life Balance College, is a private liberal arts and sciences institution in Oneonta, N.Y. Through its distinctive FlightPath approach, Hartwick blends academic excellence, career preparation and an active campus life to help students achieve a balanced and fulfilling college experience. NHTI women's soccer falls in National Championship game

Flood, Davignon part of historic season for Lynx

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — The NHTI women's soccer capped off its historic season as national runner-up following a 3-1 loss in the National Championship against top-seeded UC-Clermont, last Monday.

The Cougars started with the majority of possession early, creating the game's first scoring opportunity when Reece Odrobina fired a shot that was saved by Lynx goalkeeper Hailey Knight. Clermont continued their offensive threats early, earning a corner kick and firing a shot that was stopped by Knight.

Despite the early opportunities, the Lynx struck first when Prospect Mountain graduate Piper Flood found the back of the net in the 19th minute. Late in the half, Clermont added more offensive pressure, earning three corner kicks while adding a trio of shots in a six-minute stretch. The Cougars got their breakthrough in the 41st minute when Kaylee Rose blasted a shot past Knight to even the score at one apiece headed into halftime.

NHTI's top ranked defense stood tall to open the second half, blocking a pair of shots within the first 10 minutes of the second 45. The Lynx offense had some opportunities of their own, but the Cougars' goalie Jordan Geis was up to the task, stopping a Flood shot in the 61st minute.

Clermont's second goal of the game came off a counterattack when Rose drove along the byline and found a cutting Alexis Taylor who scored to give Clermont its first lead of the title match. The Cougars continued to control the pace of play and 15 minutes later, Taylor delivered the knockout blow with her second goal of the game. With the win Clermont finished as national champions for the third straight season.

"Having so many upperclassmen on the roster really helped us out all year, especially this past weekend," said head coach Heidi

Crockett. "At this same tournament last year, we played nervously. This year we were much more composed, even when things got tough in the third game. To me, that speaks volumes as to how tight knit of a group this is and how much everyone respected each other. The team chemistry was huge for our success this year and it resulted in them being national finalists."

The 2025 Lynx are historic, finishing as national runner-up for the first time in program history, while notching 14 wins, second most all-time. The Lynx also featured four All-Americans and ranked top six for every team statistic, both offensively and defensively, in USCAA Division II.

"It is so surreal," said Crockett. We had just won our first game at USCAA nationals last year, the jump we made being the number two seed, going undefeated in pool play without giving up a goal and making the national championship...I am still trying to wrap my head around it. This group is so special, and the best part is that they embrace this. They worked hard to make their success happen, and I love that they will always be remembered as the team that accomplished this."

In addition to Flood, former local high school players on the team include Belmont's Darci Stone, Gilford's Leah Davignon and Kennett's Moira Irish. The team is coached by Gilmanton native Heidi Crockett.
