Small increases approved in Gilford sewer rate fees

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

GILFORD — Town sewer users will see small increases in their quarterly rates after the selectmen approved an amendment to the sewer ordinance increasing a few rates.

A public hearing took place on June 26 on proposed amendments to the Sewer Rate fee schedule. The selectmen unanimously approved a motion to amend the water ordinance to raise some fees.

Two particular fees were increased.

Under the amended schedule, the Administrative Fee increased from $19.40 per quarter per unit to $21.72., an increase of $2.32 per quarter per unit.

The Usage rate was increased to $10.51 per 1,000 gallons from the original $8.49 per 1,000 gallons, an increase of $2.02 per 1,000 gallons.

All other sewer fees will remain the same.

According to the hearing notice, most sewer users will see an increase of around $13 to $23 per quarterly billing cycle with the passage of these increases.

All these increases were the result of increases in fees charged by the Winnepesaukee River Basin Project (WRBP). The WRBP is a sewer system operated by the NH Department of Environmental Services that serves 10 Lakes Region communities including Gilford. For more information on the sewer fees, the increase in fees, and the increase in costs visit https://www.gilfordnh.org/file/3540/public_hearing_info.sewer_fees.07-01-2024.pdf.

The hearing was open for a few seconds with no one giving any comment. The selectmen then unanimously approved the fee changes effective on July 1.

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

GILFORD — The Boston Post Cane was presented to the town's oldest resident, a 96-year-old man with a long history of town service.

The Gilford board of selectmen presented the Boston Post Cane to 96-year-old Richard Sonia at the June 26 meeting.

The Boston Post Cane is a tradition that started in 1909, when Boston Post Edwin Grozier distributed canes to the boards of selectmen of 700 towns across New England to be presented to their town's oldest resident. In recent years the town of Gilford has been seeking nominations for the cane after the practice fell dormant for a long time in the town.

Board chair Gus Benavides read a proclamation from the selectmen that shared details of Sonia's life.

Sonia was born on Aug. 12, 1927, in Clinton, Mass. He grew up in Lancaster, Mass., on his family's dairy farm and attended Lancaster High School in 1944. After high school he enlisted in the Navy and served at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi during World War II. He was honorably discharged after the war and moved to La Puente, Calif., with his wife Bernadine "Bunny" Vermette, who came from Laconia and was crowned Miss Winnepesaukee in 1945. They settled in California and raised two sons.

Sonia worked as a computer programmer his entire career and worked as a senior programmer and manager for the Smart & Final corporation in California until he retired. He was one of the first programmers in the food distribution industry.

His wife Bernadine passed away in 1992 and he moved to Gilford. He has lived in the same house at the corner of Cyrus Lane and Morrill Street since then. He married his wife Corinne in 1997 and they lived at that house until she passed away in 2020.

Sonia is a longtime community volunteer who has served on town boards and local volunteer efforts. He has served on the Planning Board and on the Historic District and Heritage Commission. He is a member of the St. Andre Bessette Parish in Laconia and has volunteered for the church and St. Vincent de Paul. He is also a member of the Knights of Columbus, serving as Grand Knight of Laconia Council 428.

Sonia is in good health and still drives. For several years he has ridden his 1928 Model A Roadster in the Old Home Day parade.

The selectmen then presented the cane and the proclamation to Sonia, who was at the meeting with members of his family.

Facts about Independence Day

One of our favorite holidays to write about is Independence Day. We all know the stories of our forefathers, John Adams, Sam Adams, George Washington, Paul Revere, James Madison, Benjamin Franklin, and Alexander Hamilton to name a few. However, the history is endless. We thought we would shine a light on aspects surrounding Independence Day that aren't commonly known.

The famous painting that depicts the signing of the Declaration of Independence isn't exactly an accurate portrayal. All of the delegates were never together at the same time in Philadelphia. The final signing took place roughly a month later on Aug. 2. The Declaration was formally dated and adopted by Congress on July 4, however Congress voted for independence on July 2.

Celebrating their new independence, soldiers along with civilians tore down a statue of King George III and melted it into bullets. In Georgia, people burnt the King in effigy and even held a faux funeral service. In Philadelphia, the King's coat of arms was burned in a bonfire. Massachusetts was the first state to recognize July 4 as a holiday in 1781.

In 1777, fireworks could be seen in the sky and the ringing of bells rang through the night in Philadelphia. Ships were decorated and lined the coast and streamers could be seen flying in celebration everywhere. The oldest annual parade takes place in Bristol, R.I.; 2020 will be the town's 235th consecutive celebration after its start in 1785.

In New England, dining on salmon became tradition. The story behind the popular cuisine, is due to the influx of salmon that summer. Along with the salmon, people had peas and turtle soup.

One common fact is that Thomas Jefferson and John Adams both died on July 4, 1826. James Monroe also died on the fourth of July in 1831. President Calvin Coolidge was born July 4, 1872.

Left out of mainstream history was the story of Crispus Attucks, the first to die in the patriot cause. Attucks was a black/ Native American patriot who was shot, and the first to fall during the 1770 Boston Massacre. Attucks was a runaway slave who was a rope maker and sailor. History says he was shot by two musket balls to the chest. In 1778, it became legal in Rhode Island for free and enslaved blacks to serve the cause, with freedom as part of their payment.

Educated by her owners, Phillis Wheatley was a well-known poet during those times. Wheatley was kidnapped in West Africa and brought to America. At the age of 20, in 1773, she became the first African American and third female to publish a book of poetry. She eventually became free. She also advocated for independence, writing in support for George Washington's Revolutionary War in her poem, "To His Excellency, General Washington." Washington, impressed by her talent invited her to a meeting.

In 1958, when Alaska and Hawaii were on deck to become states, a history teacher assigned his class to design a flag depicting the two new states. Robert Heft, 16, received a B- on the project. Unhappy with the mark, Heft sent the flag to Dwight D. Eisenhower. After the flag was chosen, Heft had his grade changed to an A.

Another fun fact is that Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration on what was referred to as a laptop. A writing desk that could fit over a person's lap.

In 1778, Washington ordered a double ration of rum for soldiers to celebrate with.

In 1776, there were roughly 2.5 million people living in America. The current population is now 325.7 million.

Wearing an American flag, whether it be on a tee-shirt, headband, towel or shorts, is in violation of the Flag Code. The code says that you are in violation if you sell, display any "article of merchandise, upon which shall have been printed, painted, attached, or otherwise placed a representation of [the flag... in order to] advertise, call attention to, decorate, mark, or distinguish the article or substance on which so placed." The code, however, is not enforceable.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN

Getting here

Some people like to live in cities. They don't mind all the traffic and hustle and bustle of it all. They thrive on the concentrated energy of so many people in close proximity. I used to be that way. I grew up in a city, and I had total familiarity with using back streets to get around traffic congestion and being able to meet with lots of friends, everywhere.

But I sequentially moved to more remote places as my life progressed to the point where I find myself now. Hidden away on a hilltop among acres upon acres of trees. The closest feel I get to being in traffic here is when there is a NASCAR race a couple towns away. You can actually hear the engines roaring miles away as good as if you were cooped up in some cushy condo with all the windows shut. Races happen a couple times a year.

City folks don't usually come out here to visit any more than I brave my way heading down to visit them. We all basically stay within our locals. Which is the way we all want it to be, apparently.

So for decades, my bluebird house hung on the side of the wood shed, available for occupation by feathered migrants. When they finally did show up, I was pleasantly surprised. Summers were highlighted by blue streaks from the fast flyers. I hope that somehow another pair will take up their summer residence here. It may just happen, there have been many young ones that headed south from this little hole in the forest.

Like us humans, birds have preference of habitats within which they wish to live. Some like to be at the edge of forests and hide in the trees while others prefer wide open spaces where they can fly around more freely.

For all those years, I was way too "in the woods" to be considered a wide-open space. I kept cutting trees out from around my house for firewood, so my clear area kept enlarging, only very slowly. At least until the adjacent property was purchased and they wanted some open land so their dogs could run. They clear cut a couple of acres.

All of a sudden, there was a pretty large open area that was quickly discovered by wildlife. The first explorers were woodchucks. They soon found their way to my vegetable garden, taking a bite out of each. Needless to say, I had always wanted to .22 growing up, and now I had reason to get one and brush up on my marksmanship skills.

It was another few years before we were discovered by the bluebird family. They returned here to raise their biannual broods for a number of years, until this year's sad mishap. So the house is once again vacant and up for rent, and pretty cheap too. I've gotten used to life without the blues. I still look out at the house every morning hoping to see some activity there. So far, nothing is happening.

Then the other morning, while I was downstairs heading toward the kitchen. My eye was drawn to the dining room window when I saw a flash of red. It was a male cardinal. It stayed there hopping among some branches less than twenty feet from the window for a few moments, then took off. I had never seen a cardinal around here before. Cardinals also like lots of open space. It's looking like I finally qualify for partonization by our finicky feathered friends.

And that they are actually finding me. These birds are really not high fliers. They pretty much keep near the ground. Probably the only time they ever need to fly above the trees is during migration. Otherwise, all their needs are pretty much met and they never need to fly more than thirty feet above the ground.

How then, did they get here? Like the monster horned pout we used to catch in Turtle Pond, a hole dug in the back lands behind a construction company that was just filled by rain water. It was pretty big in the spring but greatly reduced by summer's end.

I can see the turtles walking across the land, and maybe even the frogs, but fish? It was way out in the waste lands, nowhere near any real ponds or waterways. They all just showed up. Like magic! Just like you and me.

Going out of Town

Taking in art and culture at the MFA

BY ERIN PLUMMER

The Museum of Fine Arts is rapidly becoming one of my favorite attractions in Boston. Go down any hallway and you'll find art pieces and artifacts from all over the world representing different styles, perspectives, and cultures. There is so much you can find in just one building and you can always find something new with every visit. I went back there just a few weeks ago with a whole list of different exhibits I had to see before they closed while also looking at some old favorites and marveling at the talent and history on display.

If there is one kind of place I have developed a huge appreciation for in the past few years, it's art museums. In any art museum I have gone to, I have found rooms filled with variety of creative works from various parts of the world and many different points in history. So much talent is on display from varying different techniques as well as artifacts from major historical events and periods.

One place that has become like a creative home to me is the Museum of Fire Arts in Boston. For the past few years I have found myself passing through the doors of the MFA at least a few times a year checking out different exhibits that caught my attention. If you have any kind of an art, history, or cultural interest you can find something about it at the MFA.

I first walked through its halls in senior year of high school as part of a school trip and can still locate some of the exhibits now that I first saw so long ago. I went back on a weekend in Boston about 10 years ago, but only really started appreciating its different exhibits in recent years. I went to the "Fashioned by Sargent" exhibit with some of the real-life outfits featured in John Singer Sargent's paintings. There was "Hokusai: Inspiration and Influence" featuring the works of Japanese artist Katsushika Hokusai from the 19th century, including the famous "The Great Wave off Kanagawa" print in person. There was also "Fabric of a Nation" with various quilts from around the world from traditional blankets to quilted murals and more.

The MFA also has artifacts from Boston's Revolutionary War history. John Singleton Copley's painting of Paul Revere is here along with many portraits of Revolutionary War historical figures. They also have a collection of silver pieces created by Paul Revere himself. It is so fascinating to see these pieces that were directly created by such an important figure in US History.

Costumes from the popular TV series "Squid Game" are on display with many other pieces of South Korean culture at the exhibit "Hallyu! The Korean Wave" at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Inside the newly reopened Japanese Buddhist Temple at the MFA.

If you want to see works by famous painters there are plenty of them. The MFA has a big collection of works by Claude Monet including a few paintings from the "Water Lillies" collection. You can also see works by Picasso, Rembrandt, Frida Kahlo, and so many others.

There are so many different artifacts from the ancient world here too including Egyptian sarcophagi, Greek statues, sculptures of Hindu gods and more.

The MFA recently reopened their Japanese art galleries. For a few years you could go into that section of the museum and see some hundreds year old statues being restored in a workshop surrounded with plexiglass. Now those statues are back on display.

Another lovely area of this gallery was the Japanese Buddhist Temple Room, an area in the form of a Buddhist temple with large statues and places to sit and meditate. This section has been under renovation for a few years, though it recently reopened. I made sure to walk through it a few weeks ago and was reminded how serene and beautiful this space is, it felt so great to come back to it.

The one exhibit that got me to the MFA that particular day was "Hallyu! The Korean Wave," an exhibit on South Korean history and pop culture. The first part for the exhibit shows the history of Korea from the Joseon Dynasty, Japanese occupation, to the country being divided into North and South after World War II and the subsequent Korean War. In the 1980's, South Korea experienced an economic boom that led to an explosion of culture like fashion, music, films and TV shows, cuisine, and more that swept around the world known as "Hallyu." This exhibit features outfits worn by K-pop stars, costumes from the show "Squid Game," a set piece from the Best Picture winner "Parasite," a collection of outfits inspired by the traditional hanbok, and so much more. "Hallyu! The Korean Wave" is on display until July 28.

The other exhibit I had to see that day was "Dress Up." This exhibit includes fashion pieces from famous designers like Alexander McQueen, Oscar de la Renta, and others as well as many costume jewelry pieces. It was fashion eye candy and fascinating to see how these items were all put together.

If there's one thing that absolutely fascinates me about art galleries, it's seeing these pieces created by famous artists and designers up close. It's fun to look at all the little details these artists put into creating their works: the brushstrokes, the sculpture details, the different stitches and fabric choices, and other indicators of someone's creative process. It shows these masters were people whose skills, efforts, and techniques created this art.

Visiting galleries has also given me direct exposure to art pieces and genres I might have passed over. At one point, I didn't have much of an interest in modern art, but after seeing more of it up close and understanding the perspectives and inspiration I developed more of an interest in it. You can also see a plethora of art styles, from photo-realism to something more abstract, and recognize the talent and viewpoint that went into each one.

The MFA is also great about putting up different exhibitions with different cultural themes and shares perspectives from people of many cultures and their history. I have learned a lot from exhibits like this. One that particularly stuck with me was "Paper Stories, Layered Dreams: The Art of Ekuda Holmes."

Holmes is an artist who puts together images from pieces of colorful paper and has created pieces and books that shares a Black perspective and tells stories from her community. It was a fascinating art style with eye-opening stories and themes.

My last trip to the MFA felt like a whirlwind as there were so many exhibits I wanted to see all over the building. I know it will be a matter of time before more pop up and I am always paying attention to when they're next big events and exhibits will be. I highly recommend checking them out at least once. There is plenty for people of all ages there and there are a lot of different perspectives to savor.

The Museum of Fine Arts is located at 465 Huntington Avenue in Boston's Back Bay neighborhood and has its own stop on the T. For more information visit mfa.org.

This presentation, which is part travelog and part history, will chronicle the story of Bonnie and Clyde separating the reality from the myth! For years the public has been fascinated with the story of this Dust bowl Romeo and Juliet. However, much of what we know is mainly from the 1967 movie "Bonnie and Clyde" and more recently a highly fictionalized made for T.V. Movie shown on A&E & the History Channel. Much myth, conjecture and outright lies have grown up about the two Texas bandits but when one delves into the true story of the two lovers a much more interesting and human story emerges; much better than Hollywood was able to depict. This one-hour historical presentation will tell that story using period photographs and movies plus modern photographs and video shot by myself. I have traveled through the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and Missouri on the "Trail of Bonnie and Clyde" photographing a making video of the sites of their homes, murders, robberies, shootouts, and hideouts.

Singer-songwriter Katie Dobbins wins Best of Lakes Region Award on Latest Single “Giants”

GILFORD — On June 20, Katie Dobbins, renowned local singer-songwriter and host of the Lakes Region’s monthly Songwriter Round-Up series, received gold for Best Music Act - Solo Artist at the 2024 Best of the Lakes Region Awards.

This achievement, earned through community nomination and voting, comes on the heels of Dobbins celebrating over one year of joyful Songwriter Round-Up shows and the release of her latest single Giants. Growing up in Gilford and returning as an adult, Dobbins expresses gratitude for the community welcome and support she has been given here in her hometown area. The years away along with her deep roots in the Lakes Region have provided her a great foundation to share her message, Be You Be Brave Be Free, and bring the feeling of “home” with her wherever she goes.

“The journey of coming back to my passion for music as an adult hasn’t been easy, but it’s been so gratifying,” Dobbins reflects, continuing “it’s never too late to follow the dreams in your heart.”

This message deeply resonates through her latest single, “Giants,” an empowering anthem that encourages listeners to overcome life’s obstacles and believe in their own strength. The song draws inspiration from Katie’s personal experiences, delivering a powerful message of resilience and self-confidence.

For Dobbins, the way the lyrics evolve through the course of the song reflects her own journey battling the giants in her life, culminating with the mantras “Giants are make-believe,” “Acting small just makes me good at lying,” and undertone echoes that sing out “I’m not afraid.” The song aims to serve as a source of inspiration for anyone facing self-limiting beliefs or seemingly insurmountable circumstances, and draws comparisons to Sara Bareilles’ “Brave” and Rachel Platten’s “Fight Song.” Listeners can find “Giants” on Spotify, Apple Music, Pandora and other streaming platforms.

est award for Best of the Lakes Region means a lot to me. So many incredible folks were nominated for enriching this community through their talents, and it’s such an honor to be recognized among them. It gives me encouragement to keep going and to keep fighting those giants in my mind. Following your dreams is worth it for you the individual and the people positively impacted by your pursuit along the way,” concludes Dobbins.

You can find Dobbins performing live all around the Lakes Region, other areas of New Hampshire, and throughout New England. Her monthly Songwriter Round-Up series occurs on the last Wednesday of every month at Hermit Woods Winery (Meredith). Tickets and more information can be found on her website katedobbinsmusic.com/tour.

New Hampshire native Katie Dobbins is a singer-songwriter living out her motto Be You Be Brave Be Free. Releasing several singles this past year, earning recognition at the 2023 New England Music Awards and Best of Lakes Region Awards, and hosting/performing in her successful monthly songwriter-in-the-round series at Hermit Woods Winery’s premier listening room, Katie has established herself as a powerful voice in the music industry. “Giants” is the latest addition to her impressive catalog, showcasing her commitment to empowering and inspiring her audience.

New England Vintage Boat Auction to be held July 13

WOLFEBORO — On Saturday, July 13, hundreds of people are expected to attend the New England Vintage Boat Auction both online and in person. Hosted by the New Hampshire Boat Museum (NHBM), the annual auction will feature fiberglass boats, sailboats, kayaks, canoes, memorabilia, cars, and more.

“With hundreds of people online and people coming from all over New England to attend in person, the auction is exciting and very competitive,” said Betsy Farley, who co-chairs the event.

Noting the event has “something for everyone,” Farley said some of the more remarkable items include a Barn Find boat, more than 100 years old, used for duck hunting. “We also have a hovercraft—a really fun boat that can be used on water or ice,” she said.

Featured items include a “pristine” 2011 Hacker-Craft, “impeccable” 1938 Chris-Craft Utility, “retro” 1971 Sea Ray FiberGlassic, and a classic 1965 Chevrolet Corvette convertible.

In addition to raising significant funds to support NHBM’s operations, Executive Director Martha Cummings said the event is “mission-aligned.” “One aspect of our mission is to try to keep as many boats on the water as possible and not in landfills,” she said. “The auction helps us meet this part of our mission in helping promote and refurbish the use of vintage and classic boats... Auction bidders

Boats and cars at this year’s New England Vintage Boat Auction will be displayed online and at the Nicholas J. Pernokas Recreation Park (The Nick) in Wolfeboro for the general public to view on Thursday, July 11 and Friday, July 12 from noon to 5 p.m. Live bidding begins on Saturday, July 13 at 10 a.m.

Bidder registration is free. Online bidding begins on Friday, July 5. To learn more about the auction or register as an online bidder, visit nhbm.org.

Founded in 1992 by antique and classic boating enthusiasts, NHBM offers dynamic exhibits, and engaging events and programs tailored to the diverse boating lifestyles and values of people of all ages. NHBM is sponsored in part by Belletetes, Eastern Propane & Oil, Epoxy Floor New England, Goodhue Boat Company, Kingswood Press and Design Studio, KW Coastal, Lake and Mountains, North Water Marine, and Taylor Community.

50th Antique & Classic Boat Show returns to Wolfeboro July 27

WOLFEBORO — Ahoy, maritime enthusiasts and aficionados! The shores of downtown Wolfeboro will be buzzing with excitement as the 50th Antique & Classic Boat Show, a celebration of nautical heritage and craftsmanship, prepares to make waves again. Set against the picturesque backdrop of Wolfeboro, this year's event promises to be a spectacular homage to the timeless elegance of antique and classic boats.

Organized by The New England Chapter of the Antique and Classic Boat Society, the "show" has been an annual highlight for enthusiasts and collectors alike, and this milestone 50th edition is poised to be the grandest yet. From meticulously restored wooden vessels to more modern early era fiberglass boats, attendees will have the opportunity to marvel at a diverse array of maritime treasures spanning decades of history, including such iconic names as Hacker Craft, Chris Craft, Garwood, Century, Lyman and some even more rare.

"It's truly remarkable to see how far we've come since the inaugural show fifty years ago," remarks Dennis Schauer Co-Chair with Phil Spencer. "What began as a modest gathering of enthusiasts has evolved into a beloved tradition that celebrates the craftsmanship, beauty, and legacy of antique and classic boats."

The festivities will kick off Friday eve for the skippers registration and renewal of friendships. Saturday July 27 attendees can view and explore the bustling docks featuring all the wonderful boats.

Each of these true stars of the show are a testament to the passion and dedication of its owner. Every gleaming mahogany runabout or cruiser has a story to tell, and attendees are encouraged to engage the owner about their journey to saving a nautical piece of history.

"As we commemorate fifty years of this cherished tradition, we're reminded of the enduring allure of these timeless boats," says Dennis Schauer. "They're not just boats—they're living pieces of history, each one preserving a bygone era of craftsmanship and design."

Whether you're a seasoned collector, a casual enthusiast, or simply someone who appreciates the beauty of the sea, the 50th Antique and Classic Boat Show offers something for everyone. So mark your calendars, set your course for Wolfeboro, and join us as we celebrate fifty years of maritime magnificence at this unforgettable event.

The organizers have elected to invite classic and antique cars as well. If you have a vehicle that attendees would like to see you are invited to bring it to the main gate by no later than 9 a.m.

Make-A-Wish to celebrate 14th Annual Rafting for Wishes event in Meredith Bay

MEREDITH — Make-A-Wish New Hampshire is thrilled to announce the 14th Annual Rafting for Wishes fundraising event, set to take place in Meredith Bay and on land at Hesky Park. This beloved event will span 24 hours of fun and fundraising, kicking off with an Opening Ceremony on Friday, July 19 at 3:30 p.m. and concluding with a Closing Ceremony on Saturday, July 20 at 3:30 p.m.

Rafting for Wishes is a unique fundraising event, open to the public, where teams, whether participating virtually or in Meredith, come together to support the mission of Make-A-Wish New Hampshire. Each team, comprised of one to 20 participants, is tasked with the goal of "rafting" together over the course of the event. For those participating in Meredith, this means a 24-hour journey on the water, while virtual teams have an eight-hour event at their own location.

"We are incredibly excited to bring back Rafting for Wishes for its 14th year," said Nikki Lyons Lahey, Vice President Community Outreach at Make-A-Wish New Hampshire. "This event not only raises vital funds to help grant wishes for children battling critical illnesses, but it also brings our community together in a fun and meaningful way."

This event is open to the public. There are activities all weekend for everyone to participate in right at Hesky Park. Whether you'd like to play cornhole, fireworks, a glow dance party, yoga and chair massage in the park, face-painting, live music, or other fun; there's something for the whole family to enjoy. All teams, whether virtual or participating in Meredith, are welcome and encouraged to join us for the Opening Ceremony and Closing Ceremony, where the spirit of camaraderie and support will be palpable. Our goal is to have individuals representing various businesses and groups from all over the state, raising funds and awareness for Make-A-Wish New Hampshire.

To learn more about Rafting for Wishes, register a team, and donate, please visit <https://friends.nh.wish.org/campaign/2024-rafting-for-wishes/c506278>. Together, let's make waves of hope, joy, and strength for wish kids in New Hampshire.

On the road to see a few more MLB ballparks

SPORTING CHANCE

By JOSHUA SPAULDING

Over the past few years in this space, I have chronicled my visits to Major League Baseball parks around the country. I have a long-term goal of trying to visit each of the parks and have been working in with my travel schedule whenever I can. My short-term goal is to try and visit two different stadiums each year, which has gone relatively well. Last year I got to Pittsburgh's PNC Park for a few games and had a trip to Milwaukee scheduled, though that got cancelled by a flight issue.

Heading into this season, my list included Major League ballparks in Boston, New York City (both), Baltimore, Washington D.C., Tampa, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Denver, Seattle and Houston. Obviously, my biggest gap right now is the five California parks, which will only be four after the Athletics leave Oakland.

During the spring sports season, I made a trip to Chicago for a Rob Has A Podcast Survivor event for a few days and one of the outings during the two days was a trip to see a game at Wrigley

Wrigley Field in Chicago was a big one on the bucket list of Major League Baseball parks. I checked that one out during a spring journey to Chicago for a live Survivor event.

Field. Obviously, along with Fenway, this is one of the most historic parks in all of Major League Baseball and it was great to check out a game there. I was also able to walk there (it was a few miles) from my hotel, so I got to see a lot of the area around Wrigley, which was also pretty cool. The Cubs didn't win, but I did get a chance to see Xander Bogaerts, my former favorite Red Sox player, take the field for the Padres.

While in Chicago, I didn't get the chance to see the other Major League stadium there, though that is obviously not as historic and cool as Wrigley, so we'll save that for another trip in the future.

For Christmas last year I bought tickets for myself, my mother and her boyfriend, Michael, to see the Red Sox play in Toronto. Last week was the trip and I left Wolfeboro after the bakery shift on Monday afternoon and made my way to upstate New York, where my aunts and uncles live. I met my mother and Michael there, spent the night and left the next morning for Toronto.

We made our way across New York state on the Thruway, stopping a few times for various reasons until we made it to the Canadian border near Niagara Falls. We had no problem clearing customs and continued on to Toronto, getting there a little after 3 p.m. By the time we got to the hotel, we were unable to make it to the CN Tower in time for the reservations that I made. I went up to the top of the tower the last time I was in Toronto and was looking forward to doing that again, so I was bummed to miss it.

We did get to the Rogers Centre in plenty of time. I spent a little time walking around the concourse, checking out the park from different angles. The last time I was in Toronto, the Jays were not there, but I went in the team store and was able to look in from the window there to see it. I continued my tradition of buying a hat and a souvenir cup at each stadium as I visit.

The Blue Jays got out to an early lead, but the Red Sox eventually rallied and came out with a win as part of a three-game sweep of the hosts, so that was an added bonus to the trip.

We headed out of Canada the next day, again with no problems passing through customs, and made our way back to upstate New York. My mother and Michael stayed there for the night while I continued on back to Wolfeboro so I could be at work the next morning at the Yum Yum Shop.

The objective for the year, seeing two different ballparks, is complete, though future years will be a bit harder, as I've pretty much hit up all of the "nearby" stadiums. I would like to see the new Yankee Stadium, as my visit to the Evil Empire was at the old park, but other than that, the closest is either the Chicago White Sox or Atlanta. We shall see what next year brings.

Last week I made the trip north of the border to see a game at Toronto's Rogers Centre. The roof was open for the entire game.

Ducks Unlimited holds annual banquet auction in Franklin

FRANKLIN — The Daniel Webster Chapter of Ducks Unlimited held its 35th annual dinner banquet auction on Saturday, May 11, at the Franklin Lodge of Elks in Franklin. James Cropsey was Area Chairman again this year. This is a group effort from the committee consisting of Bob Mazur and Pam and Steve Saulten. Tom Rochette, CPA, the New Hampshire State Chairman and the new Regional Director, Christian Crocker attended. Mazur won the MVP award.

Nearly 4,600 local Ducks Unlimited fundraising events throughout the country last year contributed towards Ducks Unlimited's national fundraising effort of almost $319 million. Last year Ducks Unlimited achieved 84 percent efficiency, resulting in 84 cents of each dollar raised being spent on wetland acquisition or improvement, to total one million acres in 2023 alone.

Each year the United States loses some 140,000 acres of wetland habitat. Since its inception, Ducks Unlimited has raised more than one billion dollars and enhanced and restored nearly 15 and a half million habitat acres, encompassing more than 15,000 wetland projects, in an effort to reverse this destructive trend. DU's projects provide habitat for more than 600 wildlife species, including ducks, geese and endangered or threatened species like the whooping crane and bald eagle.

While Ducks Unlimited has accomplished a great deal since its founding in 1937, the rapid draining of wetlands demands that the organization continue to accelerate its work. Efforts like those of the Daniel Webster Chapter are a vital part of Ducks Unlimited's efforts. The Daniel Webster Chapter Committee raised $29,506.30, just about $800 shy of its best-ever effort. The average cost per prime acre conserved last year was $880 with a little under one waterfowl nest per acre. About 0.39 metric tons of carbon is sequestered each year on average on each acre of prime wetlands.

This year the chapter received a grant from the Bass Pro Shops and Cabela's Outdoor Fund to build and erect 40+/- mallard hen houses across New Hampshire according to Delta Waterfowl's proven design. This is the first implementation of the design in the Northeast. They need volunteers to build or adopt these hen houses. Please join the effort. Ducks Unlimited thanks everyone for their support. Please call Jim Cropsey at 603-286-9633 for more details or to assist.
